400 Men Attend

Holy Name Parade

In Newark Sunday

Catholic Patriots Lauded At Communion For Society

About 400 men, members of the Holy Name Society, attended the 7:30 o'clock Mass Sunday morning and received holy communion and listened to Father Kelly's sermon on the part Catholics took in all notable events. He paid tribute to Lafayette, Pulaski, Kiouski and other noted Catholics. In the wars that followed down to the world war he stressed the activities of Catholics of which he is qualified to know having served as chaplain in that memorable fray.

Washington was eulogized as a man of sterling character and Father Kelly exhorted the men of the Holy Name Society to emulate the example set them by the Father of his country.

In the afternoon the same group of men marched in the Holy Name parade with Joseph Fay's band playing. At the reviewing stand a great grand nephew of George Washington delivered the address.

MOTORIST WRITES IN

Editor of The News:

Since there is so much pre-election discussion both for and against the Eighteenth Amendment — perhaps some of the readers of your valuable paper will answer this question which keeps cropping up in my mind.

All states are endeavoring to reduce the number of automobile accidents. It measures out swift and sure punishment to drivers who undertake to operate a car after taking a few drinks. This policy is having its effect. When motorists everywhere are taught to refrain from even attempting to drive after drinking, the number of fatal motor car accidents will be greatly reduced.

What is going to happen to the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed and roadside drinking places are more in evidence than they are today? Gasoline and booze do not mix well. When a few drinks of beer make a motor car driver a menace on the highways, as the scientists declare is the case, will any one dare venture forth in an automobile unless stern duty makes it necessary?

MOTORIST.

Harold G. Hoffman,
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

The danger of brush and forest fires by carelessly tossed cigarettes from moving vehicles was stressed Saturday by Harold G. Hoffman, commissioner of motor vehicles, in a plea to motorists for observance of fire prevention week.

Officials in many States have adopted a stern attitude toward smokers who thus cause fires, in many places the penalty, upon conviction being a heavy fine and prison sentence.

"In our native State of New Jersey," said the Commissioner, "we have not given as close consideration to the possibility of brush and forest fires caused by cigarettes flung by motorists, because the wooded area of the State is not as large as in the western territory. Nevertheless it is a matter which careful motorists will keep in mind, for forest fires have caused considerable destruction in the

"Never discard a lighted cigar, cigarette, or match whether you are in an automobile or anywhere else. A wise precaution is to provide a receptacle in your car into which discarded smoking materials may be placed."

The fire loss from the careless use of matches and smoking materials in New Jersey, Commissioner Hoffman said, is above the average, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reporting a total of over $1,400,000 during the year 1930 whereas the total loss in the United States in the same period was $40,000,000.

Governor Moore has issued a proclamation designating the week of October 9 to 15 as Fire Prevention Week and requesting all citizens to give special consideration and attention to the study of preventing fires. The cooperation of all motorists is earnestly requested.

Gives a Lot for a Little

WHEN you receive your next electric bill, jot down the list of electrical appliances and the number of lamps used in your home.

Then compare the amount you pay for electric service with the total of your household expenses.

You will be amazed at how small a proportion of the whole goes for electricity and how much value is received for so little money.

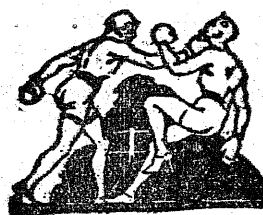

Figure if there is any other expenditure for which you get so much.

When you push the button you have at your command electricity to do your washing or your ironing; to clean your home or to light it and you have rid yourself of labor and drudgery in favor of comfort and convenience.

..This Whirl Of Sport..

BY ARTHUR BLOEMER

BOWLERS BEGIN

THAT odd, though not altogether unpleasant noise you would have been hearing these past few nights, had you been in the vicinity of any of the fairly numerous bowling alleys about town, may or may not have been to your liking.

But to many of the men, and even some of the women, in town, it was like "music from heaven."

With that rumbling sound of the big, heavy bowling ball skidding down the alleys and the subsequent crash, as it collided with the bottle-shaped wooden pins, the ancient and honorable game of ten-pins was announcing itself. It was happily making clear the hold it was going to take on many a local sports enthusiast.

Bowling, with its general and highly appealing qualities, has always been a most popular sport. This year, depression or no depression, it promises to out-do itself in laying the foundation for a bumper season.

THREE LEAGUES ALREADY STARTED

MUCH of the local pinning interest, of course, is centered in the activities of the main trio of long-established leagues.

The American Legion loop, with twelve teams again in the fold, has completed two bowling nights already. The Manufacturers' circuit, comprised of eight clubs, conducted its opener, Friday, at Ferrara's. And, finally, the Church League got under way last night at the various church alleys.

To add to this, the "veterans" of bowling in town, the Elks are entering the home stretch of their annual club championship tourney, preparatory to starting their season in the Bergen County Elks' League. Their prospects for continued success in this strong league are very bright.

Last, but not least, the Lion's Club League, made up of five three-man teams, made its bow last night at the Elks' alleys.

Surely a tempting array of bowling dishes. With such a large and diversified field, the local bowler should experience little difficulty finding an opportunity to test his skill in actual competition.

ANOTHER VICTORY

THEY came, they saw, they conquered. That quotation describes to a "T" the activities of the football sons of Belleville High down at North Plainfield, Saturday.

And we don't only allude to the 20-0 beating administered by the local ball-toters, although that was far from painful to watch.

We mean, in addition, that the delegation of Bell-boy rooters to make the trek to this rather out-of-the-way Union County town, almost outnumbered the home team supporters. That newly-organized fifty-piece band, performing better with every week, also made a decided hit with the North Plainfieldites. It moved the announcer, who gave a detailed play-by-play description of the game, via amplifiers, to remark that it was the "best high school band I have ever seen."

The game, itself, was played in an almost perfect setting. Make no mistake about it, North Plainfield need bow to no one when it comes to high school sites. The roomy, well-kept campus grounds, with the gridiron occupying the center, was a real treat for the eyes.

LOOK OUT, PASSAIC

BUT TO get back to the football game, for after all that was the main purpose of the trip.

The way that golden-jerseyed band of huskies acted down there, Saturday, just makes us say, "Look out, Passaic!" Beating the scrappy type of competition offered by the North Plainfieldites in 20-0 fashion should satisfy most everyone.

There was just one fault to be found. The inability to perfect a satisfactory defense against "that old day-vil," forward passing, cropped out game.

That was North Plainfield's only means of acquiring yardage. They made five first downs, four of them on aerials, all executed in the last half. The lone first down they could account for on line plunging, was aided by a five-yard off-side penalty imposed upon the locals.

THAT GREAT FORWARD WALL

THE IMPREGNABLE Bell-boy line was a joy to behold.

Time and again, a North Plainfield back would try to ram its center, or cut off its tackle, only to return to his huddle a sadder and wiser man.

Even several of the most ardent of the home contingent, anything but liberal in the allotting of praise to visitors, were quick to place their stamp of approval on the Blue and Gold forward wall.

Artie Leadbeater and "Fuzzy" Ryder did most of the running of the ball for the locals, and the way they did it, bodes no good for Passaic. That fifty-three yard touchdown sprint of Leadbeater's in the second quarter, to start off the Bell-boys, was a real "honey," as was Ryder's eighty-yard run after a forward pass interception.

OKAY, COACH BUCHANAN

ALTHOUGH the local grid season is still in its infancy, we can't help saying, "O. K., Coach Buchanan."

Before the advent of the new Blue and Gold mentor, there were many not exactly in accord with his appointment. After watching him in action, however, we can't see how they can avoid changing their minds.

One particular quality of his, that is a winner, is his ability to see everybody on the field, from the much-praised varsity "star" down to the lowliest "scrub." He makes it a point to try and help everyone, displaying a fairness and impartiality that you can't help admire.

He knows football, and what is more, knows how to teach it. Second-stringers are also given opportunities to play in as many games as possible. He is aware of the fact that actual competition makes football players, not "bench warming," and he is quick to "yank" a man when necessary.

In Saturday's contest, alone, at North Plainfield, something like twenty-five men got into the game for the Bell-boys.

O. K., Coach Buchanan!

Clinton Jrs. In Tie With Woodside Aces

Trojans And Lincolns Also In A Scoreless Dead-lock

The Clinton Jrs. and the Trojans, the two leading junior football eleven in town, engaged in scoreless ties in games, Sunday, at Belleville Park.

In the morning, the Clinton combine fought the Woodside Aces of Newark to a scoreless standstill. Jimmie Kennedy and Manning were the most effective of the Belleville backs.

The afternoon tilt, between the Trojans and the Lincolns of North Arlington also resulted in a 0-0 tie. Dave Shelley did the best work of the Trojan backfield quartet, while Higgins and Caruso were pillars of strength on the line.

Zampani and Romanowski marked for the Kardinals the latter making large gains through the line and Zampani playing a spectacular game on the line. Griffin and B. Bade, a brother of All-State Dave Bade, starred for the Capitols.

Capitols In Scoreless Tie With Nutley

Walker And Lonie Feature In Offensive Of Locals

The Capitol Theater football eleven battled the Nutley Cardinals to a scoreless dead-lock, Sunday afternoon, at Yontakah Park, Nutley. Andy Walker and Bob Lonie were the principal groundgainers of Coach Marty Mallack's Capitol charges, contributing much yardage with their fine ball-carrying. The Cardinal defense was air-tight, however, when scoring threatened. "Sonny" Mallack, Walker's running mate at half back, was the key-man of the Theater defensive operations.

Arnold Jerry and Bert Bade, at the tackles, and the Knab brothers, in the center, contributed yeoman work in the line.

Suggestions for Hallowe'en

BY DORIS H. TISDALE
Royal Baking Institute.

HALLOWE'EN also known as "Hallow-even," is the name popularly given to the eve or vigil of All Hallow's, or festival of All Saints, which being the first of November, Hallowe'en is the evening of the thirty-first of October. In England it is customary to crack nuts, duck for apples in a tub of fireside revelries, which are survivals of the festival of Pomona, on the first of November.

Hallowe'en is a time for merrymaking.

water, and perform other harmless of the festival of Pomona, on the first of November. The hostess looking for a Hallowe'en supper menu will be interested in this suggestion:

Ham and cider jelly loaf, creamed potatoes, buttered rolls, pumpkin tarts and dated coffee.

Here is an additional suggestion for Hallowe'en party refreshments:

Orange bread sandwiches, raisin and cream cheese filling, doughnuts and cider.

To make orange bread use peel from two seedless oranges, chopped fine. The ingredients are one-half teaspoon salt, one cup sugar, two cups water, two tablespoons shortening, melted; one egg, well beaten, three cups flour, three teaspoons cream of tartar baking powder.

Boil together orange peel, salt, sugar and one cup water to make a thin syrup, about 15 minutes. Cool; measure and add remaining water to make two and one-half cups. Add melted shortening and well beaten egg. Mix thoroughly; bake in greased loaf sandwich loaf pan in moderate oven at 350 degrees F., about one and one-fourth hours. Makes one loaf.

The Morning Cup and the Afternoon Glass

By Sarah Blackwell
Coffee Service Institute

If your day is not really started until you've had your morning cup of hot coffee, you of all people will get the keenest pleasure from the revivifying effect of a tall glass of iced coffee on a hot afternoon. When the heat of the day has reduced you to feeling like a torn rag doll and you think you'll never be the same again, just sit yourself down to drink a glass of iced coffee and see how soon you'll feel like a human being again. You'll truly be amazed for there is nothing so refreshing and invigorating in warm weather as iced coffee.

And correctly made iced coffee is really such a simple matter. Since iced any beverage is the real test of its flavor you must start with the best quality of coffee. And for you, the best coffee is the coffee you like best, no matter what it costs.

You will find by careful shopping that there are coffees on the market to suit your taste which have maintained the highest standards notwithstanding present extremely low prices. Then to get the maximum flavor from even the best quality coffee you must buy it freshly roasted and freshly and correctly ground for your method of making coffee for each measuring cup of water. For hot coffee use one rounded or two level tablespoons of coffee; for iced coffee, two rounded tablespoons or four level ones. Fill glasses about two-thirds full of cracked ice and pour the hot coffee over the ice. Sweeten with powdered sugar and serve with plain or whipped cream.

flavor and leave a bitter taste. Properly made the beverage never quite reaches the boiling point and should not cook more than 8 to 10 minutes, by any method. Careful but different measurements are equally important for the best hot and iced coffee. Since the hot coffee poured over ice is diluted, double the amount of ground coffee for each measuring cup of water. For hot coffee use one rounded or two level tablespoons of coffee; for iced coffee, two rounded tablespoons or four level ones. Fill glasses about two-thirds full of cracked ice and pour the hot coffee over the ice. Sweeten with powdered sugar and serve with plain or whipped cream.

Delicious to Drink . . . a Delight to Eat

By Sarah Blackwell
Coffee Service Institute

FOR frosty desserts with which to cajole the fickle summer appetites of your family, coffee, the nation's favorite beverage, is a highly favored flavoring. Easy to make, these desserts win all when served right from the ice-box on a hot-and-bothered day.

And fresh coffee flavoring, delightful and economical, lifts the confection it graces from that cloying too-sweet taste which is so often the bane of many hot-weather desserts.

I say "fresh coffee flavoring" advisedly for stalesness in coffee will be just as noticeable in a coffee-flavored mousse as it is in the beverage. Hence the simple rules for making good beverage coffee are equally important in the preparation of coffee for flavoring. First of all, the brand of coffee that suits your taste should be freshly roasted, freshly ground, and brewed for a very short time, not more than 8 to 10 minutes by any method—pot, percolator, or drip.

The following recipe calls for clear, strong coffee. Remember that longer cooking makes bitter coffee. For stronger flavor, use more ground coffee. Double the amount of coffee you usually use for each cup of water—and you need not feel extravagant for these days there are excellent coffees on the market for as little as twenty cents a pound.

Café Mousse
1/2 tablespoon gelatine
2 tablespoons cold water
1 1/2 cups strong coffee
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups cream, whipped
1 cup sugar

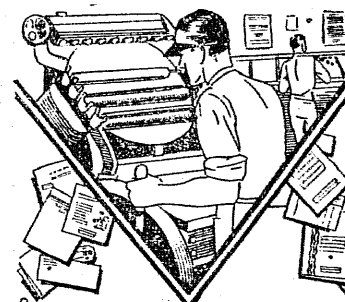

Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes. Cook coffee and sugar together until syrupy. Beat eggs slightly and pour hot syrup over them. Cook in double boiler about 5 minutes. Add gelatine and stir until dissolved. Strain and cool. Add vanilla. Fold in cream. Turn into tray of refrigerator and let stand 4 or 5 hours, stirring occasionally.

Youthful Strength

Dr. Magnus Hirschfeld, the world-known authority on Sexology and Director of the Institute for Sexual Science of Berlin, Germany, created to help the millions of men and women who have lost or are losing their vital physical power. In his 35 years of practice and research, however, he realized that the weakening of man's glands was also responsible for other troubles: High blood pressure, hardening of the Arteries, physical exhaustion after work or exercise, dizziness, depression, neurasthenia, etc.

All these troubles can be removed with Titus-Pearls. Numerous cases were treated by Dr. Hirschfeld in his Berlin Institute.

L. S. (State Official; 60 years old, married) complained of physical exhaustion, dizziness and tremors. Was easily tired. Mental powers dull and slow moving. Physical powers had been incomplete for previous 5 years. Blood pressure too high. Given 2 Titus-Pearls 2 times a day. 2 weeks later the medical report on this man was: General health better, more vigor; dizziness much less and returning of power. Treatment continued and 2 weeks later L. S. reported again, this time to say that all weariness and exhaustion had gone; he felt fresh and buoyant. His blood pressure had fallen, and at 60 years of age he had regained the physical power and virility that he had known in the prime of his life.

Start regaining your youthfulness now! To-day! In 2 weeks time you will be aware of the new, virile force within you. Send $5.00 (cash registered or money-order) for 2 weeks treatment. Write for booklet. C. O. D. Orders accepted.

A $600,000 FOOTBALL

BELLEVILLE at last, through the diligence of Commissioner William H. Williams and a citizens' committee, is starting the ball rolling to assess its sanitary sewer system into which $600,000 was dumped for construction about nineteen years ago and never paid off.

Interest on interest has heaped up through this colossal political mess until nearly the same amount as the principal has been paid out in interest. Other commissioners said they would force the issue—they started and then they stopped, dropping the job like a hot potato.

About six years ago we asked a prominent town hall cigar puffer why the assessment did not come about.

"Oh they don't dare tackle it. The people would be up in arms. It's political suicide." And thus he ranted and we stuck our tongue on our cheek with a little more determination. In nineteen years various and sundry officials have kicked this $600,000 around like a political football.

Well, the job is now under way. If the assessment hurts let's get it over with. If we only use our common sense the interest alone costs us and will continue to cost us more each year we fail to pay off the money we borrowed to construct the sewers, than will any assessment.

Let's try to get Belleville back on its feet. Paying off this $600,000 will help a lot. Let's not be penny wise and pound foolish.

When we have a toothache we don't let it ache just because it's cheaper than having the tooth pulled. Here's one sore political tooth the taxpayers should have fixed right away before it becomes abscessed.

It begins to look like the common people, the taxpayers, are going to have their town given back to them after all these years.

THROUGH THE STRATOWAY

PROF. Picard has written: "In the stratosphere there are no storms, no ice, no snow. The temperature is always uniformly between 50 and 60 degrees below zero, centigrade. The winds always blow horizontally, when they blow at all. Consequently they will not affect future travellers who, I believe, will be crossing from New York to Paris in six hours in the near future."

Powerful planes are to make the stratoway and moving through it at high rates of speed, unaffected by storms or winds, will be able to effect their passage between the continents with safety now unknown to aviators. Today this appears to be as wild a dream as any Jules Verne ever had but who will dare to say it may not some day be realized?

A NEW BUILDING SHAPE

UNTIL the adoption of the New York zoning law, the usual way to erect a high building so that all the rooms would have outside exposure was to make it in the form of a shallow U, or to make a long and narrow building and attach protruding wings to it.

The Cunard Company has recently found a new way to do it. Their new building, which has just been opened in London, is made in the form of a letter S. The scheme is so ingenious that it is remarkable that no one seems to have thought of it before.

GETTING READY

THE king of the Thanksgiving table, the turkey, is in the news a great deal lately. From the West come reports that turkeys will be extremely plentiful and cheap this year. Similar word is sent from Vermont.

At the same time, a Chicago woman proposes that turkeys be sold only in portions. She says she wishes to emancipate the public from eating turkey hash for a week after Thanksgiving. Local folks will take her suggestion lightly. Most important is the assurance that the birds will be plentiful and at a lower price.

A Tribute to the United States

Bruce Barton, author of "The Man Nobody Knows," has written this tribute to the United States for the "Parade of the States" Monday night programs of the General Motors Corporation.

YOUR grandfather can remember when buffalo roamed the prairies where now skyscrapers out the air, when ox-teams plodded weary months to cross the continent that airplanes now traverse in a day.

Men there were when he was a boy whose memories ran farther back to the very beginnings of American independence—men who had walked and talked with Washington, who knew Jefferson and Hamilton and Benjamin Franklin.

In so short a span has America grown. Grown from a handful of planters in Virginia, a boatload of Puritans in New England—valiant voyagers to an unknown land.

Here came men with an ideal. They sought to worship God according to their conscience, to stand erect and independent among their fellow men. The courthouse, the red schoolhouse, and the white-steeped church, rose simultaneously as monuments to their devotion to law, to education, and to faith.

To give their children a better opportunity than they themselves had had. This was the deep yearning of their hearts and of the resolute souls from other lands who followed them. So they conquered the forest, and opened the mines, and made the fields and prairies blossom under the magic touch of the plow.

They wrestled with Nature for the possession of her secrets. They snatched lightning from the thunder clouds; they gave the world the telephone, the electric light. They knit their continent into a neighborhood with the swift service of the locomotive, the motor car and the airplane. They sent their boys and girls by thousands to the college and the university; they opened wide their doorways to the oppressed and hopeful of all lands. Here, in this new empire, this last frontier, they sought to build a civilization better, more free, more peaceful than any that the tired old world had ever known. And what they built they consecrated with their sacrifice and blood.

Their work is far from finished. Humanity does not achieve perfection in a single season. Even in soil so sacred the weeds of inequality, of injustice and insecurity spring up to battle against the fruit of idealism and hope.

But the idealism remains. It is our noblest heritage from the past, our solemn pledge for the years to come. By our honest faith and effort, and that of our descendants, the dream of the founders must be made true. America with all her faults and problems still is the hope of the world.

"Then, too, sail on, O Ship of State!
Sail on, O Union, strong and great!
Humanity with all its fears,
With all the hopes of future years,

Items of Interest Taken From Here And There Outside Of town

The Monmouth American (Long Branch) thinks that November 8 will bring us many surprises:

"This is the straw vote poll season. And who doesn't find the figures interesting? For one thing, the papers play straight with them. They have to. Else they would lose prestige and no one would take their forecasts seriously. So the polls show facts, not always what those taking them would prefer.

"Take the Des Moines paper of Gardner Cowles, big Republican and member of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, whose poll shows Roosevelt carrying the rock-ribbed Republican state of Iowa.

"Or take the Hearst papers, which are vigorously supporting Roosevelt, but whose polls show Hoover carrying New York, New England and New Jersey—Jersey, on the basis of percentages, by some 225,000.

"And the Literary Digest poll, which puts that Republican Gibraltar, Pennsylvania, in the Roosevelt column decisively.

"Of course nothing definite can be foretold yet. But the polls leave no doubt that politics are all topsy-turvy this year."

The Independent Press (Bloomfield) presents a strong argument against war:

"Depressions, both financial and commercial, are universal periodically effecting every country in the world more or less. The enforced idleness of thousands of people and the financial distress of thousands more are conditions not particular to the United States alone. The prevailing conditions of distress and destitution are the aftermath of the savage and barbarous World War in which property was destroyed and wasted and thousands of human lives brutally sacrificed.

"There is authority in maxims and proverbs even though glibly and thoughtlessly uttered at times. Wilful waste brings woe; want is an old saw that effectively applies to the World War, which was wicked and wilful waste and retributive justice is simply fulfilling its inevitable destiny in the awful stages of want and suffering that now prevail."

The Ridgewood News calls the attention of the public to the necessity for fire precautions:

"The observance of Fire Prevention Week however is much more than an interesting contest. The annual loss of lives and property by fire continues to be appalling and an astounding proportion of this is preventable.

"Figures seem to be of little use in bringing to the public's attention the seriousness of the situation. Last year's monetary loss was almost five hundred million dollars, a staggering sum of money which does not take into account the millions the nation spends for fire apparatus, men to operate it, and complex alarm systems, to say nothing of the sprinkler system and the other forms of fire safeguards.

If the public would stop and think what half a billion dollars means in terms of unemployment and distress relief, for example, there might be some conception of the awful waste of fire."

Some people believe that they now face prosperity because they turned their backs to depression. What they really did was turn over a new leaf.

Grandma says that if Eve had done that she would have caused a calamity.

And did you know that if a writer can upset a belief by a fact he's a WRITER, but if he upsets a fact by a belief he's a darn story teller!

We suggest the following public notice: New York City under new management; creditors present your bills.

A man, asking for a divorce saved his wife a lot of embarrassment by telling the judge that a Santa Claus visited his home long before Christmas.

This particular Santa Claus never entered the house via the chimney. He had a key to the front door and used to walk right in.

Once, upon hearing another key in the door he made a fire escape exit, but poor Santa forgot his gray fella.

BUYING A CAR

By Lillian Thomas

The Buick was a beauty. The Graham-Paige was great; The Nash was neat, the Stutz a treat, Especially the "eight." The Packard was a dandy. The Chrysler was divine; I looked at it and signed because I never could be mine. I gazed upon a Peerless, A Cadillac and Cord; Then came to the conclusion that I'd better buy a Ford!

DESDEMONA HAWKINS The WHITE RAT of Hawkins Hall

By Alice Mary Kimball and Mary Alden Hopkins

THE STORY THUS FAR

Great-grandfather Hawkins, the widowed Mrs. Hawkins, and her children—Jack, fourteen; Ted, eight, and Nancy, twelve—live in old Hawkins Hall. Bert, the oldest son, a medical student, brings the family Desdemona, a white rat from his nutrition laboratory. Desdemona and her mother, Ophelia, whom Bert sent later, raise a family of eight rats.

Then Desdemona disappears. The children try to forget their sorrow by taking her ratlets to junior high school for an experiment Miss Marsh, the biology teacher, has planned. One group of rats is called the Suifty Whiskers, the other, the Pink Tails. Aunt Helen, Mrs. Hawkins' sister, is sick, and Luetie, her baby comes to live at Hawkins Hall. The doctor says Nancy will make a splendid nurse.

Desdemona returns suddenly. She has been with a family of dark rats living in the walls of the house. She describes her adventure in a letter to Falfast, her brother in Bert's college laboratory. A few days later, Falfast's reply comes. The children are reading it in class.

"In this letter I wish to report to you some interesting facts which I gathered from a professor who talked in the laboratory yesterday. He was speaking of the dietary importance of milk and leafy vegetables. You and I, dear Desdemona, do not know what it is to be without vitamins, for we have our evaporated milk regularly from the days we took it off the end of a medicine dropper. The great protective foods, he was telling Bert, are milk, fruit, and vegetables, particularly green vegetables.

"It appears that in Japan the milk supply is limited and children

"Your educated brother,

"FALFAST."

The correspondence with Falfast grew lively.

The biology class was much excited when a letter came containing vivid word-pictures of the nutrition laboratory at the university. Imagine big rooms filled with tables, and on the tables in wire cages, scores of white rat families—thousands of rats in all—a regular city of white rats.

Falfast wrote: "The rats in a cage at my right have been eating a diet devoid of vitamin D. Beside them another rat family is receiving the same diet plus evaporated milk. When the first group of rats had been eating without evaporated milk for three weeks, everyone could see that something was wrong with them. They had stopped growing although they looked plump. They did not want to move. Their hair was not sleek and smooth. Their wrist and ankle joints were too large. The same kind of skeletal changes we find in children who do not get enough vitamin D—round shoulders, big joints, bowed legs, queer shaped chests.

"If these defects are allowed to develop in human babies, they will be permanent. So if children you know have baby brothers and sisters at home and want them to have L-shaped, sound bodies, tell the youngsters they must eat eggs, milk and drink plenty of milk. A doctor in Philadelphia has found that very few babies reared on evaporated milk ever develop rickets. If you drink lots of milk, the experiment says, you won't have to worry about your bones."

do not get as much of it as they do in America. Japanese children born in California and fed on California farm products are actually larger than children of the same age in Japan. Fortunately for children in Japan, evaporated milk has been introduced into that country and its use has been spreading rapidly. When Shetland ponies are bred in America and pastured on the rich fields of the middle-western states, they grow larger with each succeeding generation. After the professor had told Bert about children and ponies, he came to something really important. He said that when white rats are raised on a diet that lacks milk and leafy vegetables the size of the rats grows less each generation. All these experiments on children and ponies, should teach people how to treat us rats.

"I can foresee the time when under good laboratory conditions a white rat may grow bigger than an elephant. Not really that big, of course, but much bigger than rats are now.

SIR TOM'S SECRET

BUSINESS men will be interested in the secret of Sir Thomas Lip-ton's tremendous success. It is left to the world in his biography, now published in England.

He wrote that he heard Prime Minister William E. Gladstone remark: "Advertising is to business what steam is to machinery—the sole propelling power. Nothing except the mint can make money without advertising."

Sir Thomas took the suggestion. His success as a business man was unquestioned.

different denominations in every nation of the world. The international society announces that there are more members, in more societies, in more churches, in more denominations, in more nations today than ever before in the history of Christian Endeavor. The International Society through the crusade with Christ in evangelism, world peace and christian citizenship program has inspired and promoted a united movement of Christian youth.

This being the fiftieth anniversary year of the local society the members of it will be very busy during the coming months so that they may make the entire year one which will never be lost in the memory of its young people. The anniversary committee held a meeting last Monday evening at 7 P. M. The meeting was called to order by the chairman, while Miss Ruth Struyk was called upon to offer an opening prayer. Miss Grace Martling was appointed secretary of the committee.

Rev. Elmo L. Bateman will conduct an "Old Fashioned Gospel Hour Rally" in the church on Friday evening, November 4. The offering is to go toward the upkeep of the Essex County C. E. Fresh Air Home. If there are any old members of the society that would send their name, address and phone number to E. W. Burden, 15 Stephen street, Belleville, no matter how long ago they belonged to the organization it would help the committee complete their plans in plenty of time.

The regular monthly business meeting of the society followed and was opened with a prayer by the president at 8:10 P. M. A "Hobo Convention" will be held under the leadership of Miss McCabe during this month. The date will be decided later. Christmas cards and vanilla and lemon extracts are to be sold by the society members during the next month.

On Saturday, November 24 the society will hold a cake sale in a store located on Washington avenue. Miss Ruth Struyk, Grace Martling, Ida Phelps and Ethel Johnston will have charge of the arrangements.

The delegation that attended the county rally last week enjoyed a great evening. The rally was opened with a song service which was conducted by Howard Waterfield, a vice president of the organization. Rev. Koeling, pastor of the Fairfield Reformed Church, was in charge of the devotional service and used as his text the fourth verse of the twelfth chapter of Romans. Miss E. Billings then favored those who attended with a number of selections on her musical saw. A Bible declamation contest followed and was won by the First Presbyterian Church of Orange. Mr. McCall was their representative and used the seventeenth chapter of John to bring him the victory. Thomas Fulton of the county union then gave a report of the counties registrations for the state convention. Mr. Farrell representing the state union then gave a pep talk to arouse the interest of those present regarding the convention. Miss Billings then offered another solo on her saw. Rev. S. V. Robinson then delivered the evening message and his topic was: "Turning from Christ in the Test." After the closing hymn the Rev. J. Garland Hammer, a former pastor of the local Reformed Church, offered the benediction.

This Sunday evening the crusade campaign will be continued and the speaker will be Angelo Capione, a former dope fiend and prisoner, who since his conversion has been connected with Evangelistic Committee of Newark.

The society will be represented at the state convention by a number of delegates. The convention started Wednesday and ends Saturday. The convention church is the First Reformed Church of Somerville.

Moving Day Brings Peak Load For P. S.

70,911 Gas And Electric Consumers Move In September

During September employees of Public Service Electric and Gas Company completed nearly 140,000 separate operations to carry out requests for changes in electric and gas service received from customers moving.

In the last four days of the month when the moving rush was at its peak, 38,010 orders were completed, 10,000 more than were handled in the corresponding four days of 1931, a period also marked by heavy moving activity.

The unusually large number of people who were changing their places of residence in the territory served by Public Service Electric and Gas Company is indicated by the fact that the orders completed during September were placed by 70,911 customers, 8,518 more than in any previous month.

Monthly Telephone Loss Decreasing

Net Earnings Show A Loss But Future Appears Hopeful

A sharp drop in telephone revenue earnings, together with a loss of most 40,000 telephones in service, during the first nine months of 1932 shown in the quarterly statement of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company made public today.

With September partly estimated, the statement shows nine-month revenues of $34,670,000, or $3,199,000 less than in the corresponding 1931 period. On the basis of the nine months showing, the company's net earnings for the year would be 4.42 per cent. on the average telephone plant in service during the year, 1.25 per cent. less than last year.

Net loss of approximately 6,800 telephones in September represents a distinct slackening in the station loss rate. During the first six months of 1932 the net station loss was 13,794. July registered a net loss of 11,148 telephones, and August net loss was 7,895 telephones.

Adventuring In The Realm Of Natural Economics

By D. de CASTRO
(Chapter Three)

When we developed complex barter and the natural conception of money from direct barter, we restricted our investigation to the exchange of surplus commodities or services, between one individual and any other individual; going one step further, in our chain of economic manifestations, we will study now the same transaction as may be applied between the individual and the community in which he lives, in other words, as applied to taxation.

Similar to direct barter, the fundamental idea of taxation is generally visualized in the picture of a wild and powerful savage, hitting another on the head, and extracting any loose change, or personal property, the latter may have in his possession. Today, taxation has become a bit more civilized, and the blow on the head has been replaced by tax sales, foreclosure proceedings and forcible eviction by the sheriff; which of the two methods is more humane or painful, is simply a matter of taste and opinion, the argument would be of little interest in this investigation; the principle of both is fundamentally the same and can be placed in the same category of behavior generally called highway robbery, with the particular head heading of "legal." Not so long ago, we used to call taxes, any thing the government could put its hands on, but more recently, we have added to that conception anything the government tries to get, thinks of getting or has just a small of.

Going back to our original illustration, we may find our shoemaker, electrician, milkman, plumber, etc., deciding to build a road for common use, working for instance each two hours daily, on that particular job; within a short time however, they realize they know nothing about road building and haven't even the right tools for such purpose; they decide therefore to mind their own business, hire a professional road builder, who can use all his time and knowledge on that job, and give him in exchange, either commodities corresponding to two hours each of his own production or the equivalent in paper money; here again, the benefit of each one comes solely through the efficiency of each in his own trade as compared with his efficiency as a road builder, and the exchange is thus again reduced to direct barter; and as the road builder, builds a road for the community, the teacher imparts knowledge to their children, the policeman protects them all, and so on.

and the community manager, no matter what his actual title may be, supervises the activities of all individuals required for the production of public comfort and wealth; when reduced to direct barter, taxation receives an entirely different meaning of what we knew it to have been before; thus:

9—Tax is that part of the income of the individual devoted to commodities or services to be used in common, by the community as a whole, in other words, public comfort and public wealth.

10—Tax can be only part of the income of the individual, the other part representing private and individual comfort and wealth without which the individual could possibly not live.

11—Tax must be levied on the income, be proportional to the total amount of individual income, levied only once on the same income.

12—Income taxation in proportion to the income and levied at the time and place of payment of the income is the only natural mode of taxation, providing the government with continuous income to meet continuous expenses.

Tolls are not true taxes; but special levies on only such individuals who benefit by the use of a particular public commodity. Within such classification come road tolls, bridge tolls, tunnel tolls, gasoline tolls (known as gasoline tax) and so on. Their use is to take care of the wear and tear of that particular commodity by this particular individual as well as maintenance costs due to the use of the commodity. Tolls are not taxes and should not be confused with taxes.

In our introduction, we have acknowledged that the purpose of natural economics is to determine the conditions, promoting human welfare, and considered as good in natural economics, only such laws, conditions, manifestations, actions, ideas and concepts, the application of which will benefit any individual and any community, any where, any time, in other words, that are universally beneficial. In the first chapter we have divided human welfare in public and private comfort, as commodity in use, wealth as surplus commodity in storage, for future use and stability as the permanence of comfort and wealth and of the means of production and preservation of comfort and wealth; we will now attempt to check up the economic policies summarized as natural conceptions 1 to 12 of this and last issue; these conceptions can be correct only if individually and collectively, they promote universally comfort, wealth and stability.

Such policies have natural consequences: by storing non perishable surplus commodities and issuing paper money for a corresponding value, until the commodities are needed, called for, and paid for with the same money which was issued against them, industry and agriculture can develop to the fullest extent, providing immediate employment to millions of people now idle, or clogging the distribution system, by proper balancing of the production of public and private comfort and wealth and through government transference of labor, permanent stability of earnings will be secured for all those seeking employment regardless of age or sex; public wealth of the community will permanently increase, general comfort and wealth will be promoted to fill particular requirements; these conditions promote the creation of new comfort and wealth, without interfering in the least with comfort and wealth already acquired; this last condition cannot be obtained when only gold and silver instead of all non perishable commodities are set arbitrarily as the basis of the monetary system.

The larger the total earnings of the community, the larger the total comfort and wealth of the same community, and the individuals forming the community, the smaller the tax rate, for a predetermined amount of taxation; the larger the total earnings through production of commodities, in proportion to the total earnings, the lower the tax rate in proportion of comfort and wealth produced, the smaller the cost of living, no matter whether the commodities or services produced are intended for private or public consumption.

It will become profitable for the government to promote production, not only as the only way of establishing prosperity, but as the only way to collect taxes; it will become profitable for the industrialist to promote efficient production, in order to increase his own earnings and reduce his tax rate; it will become profitable for the farmer to increase production through the elimination of the market speculation; it will become profitable to the worker to promote efficiency in production and distribution and therefore draw more workers into active production and help the other workers increase their efficiency, in order to reduce the tax rate, increase his own comfort and wealth, reduce the cost of living and ultimately the time and effort required for the production of his own comfort and wealth.

The permanent benefits which can be expected from such policies are numerous with the immediate end of depression and the assurance of permanent prosperity; release of money backed by commodities, and with which to purchase the commodities, reduction of taxation, of the entire amount of interest now paid on government bonds, and in dividing cost of any public improvement by number of actual life of the improvement; starting building storage facilities on a large scale; release of frozen assets; production of a steady and rational income for the government; burden of taxation lifted from real estate and industry and elimination of all vexatious taxes; storage of commodities at the centers of consumption instead of the centers of production, and corresponding improvement in the transportation system; work and employment all year around in coal mining, steel mills, silk mills and other industries instead of two hundred days a year, with overtime work, followed by slack periods; elimination of all strikes and lock-outs as entirely useless for any one; promotion of comfort and wealth for the masses, without disturbing wealth already acquired; law of supply and demand permanently under control, as the supply will always exceed the demand by a considerable margin. I must state here that the law of supply and demand is not a natural law; reduction and possible elimination of all produce speculation and money speculation; better use of labor generally and better labor all around efficiency; in the case of large agricultural over-production, provision of sufficient time to determine price per unit of produce before planting and raising, instead of after harvest; more elasticity in production, for industry and agriculture; stimulation of trade; stabilization of prices and cost of commodities; promotion of wealth through production instead of speculation; elimination of wars as utterly useless, harmful and unprofitable; elimination of much crime through work and production being more profitable and enjoyable; elimination of monetary crisis similar to the German crisis after the world war, as money would represent something tangible instead of being merely the product of the printing press; elimination of war debts and reparation debts problems, as such debts would be paid in commodities produced by the debtors and stored by the creditors for future use; elimination of all wheat, cotton and other produce crisis, storage of surplus commodities being a true asset when money is issued against them; elimination of the present local and world depression, no matter where one wants to place the blame thereof.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute, 25c at all stores. ©1931, C. M. Co. daily.

Fire plays no favorites. Many lives are lost and considerable property is ruined annually by fire--fire which could have been prevented. Fortunes are being invested to educate the people of this country to prevent fire.

The residents of Belleville owe it to themselves, their families, and the Town to learn this lesson. It is so simple that it should be unforgettable----
