Legion Game Aids In Clothing Needy Real Relief Work Done By Local American Legion

When consideration is given to the relief work accomplished by organizations in this town, thought must be given to the work that Belleville Post No. 105, American Legion, has done and is still doing.

For ten years they have been administering relief, chiefly to the families of ex-service men and to the veterans themselves. Belleville Post has assisted numerous times in having sick veterans hospitalized, assisting with payment of their rent, supplying their dependents with food and clothing, obtaining work, and in settling claims for the families.

Realizing early that the winter of 1932-1933 would be one of hardship to numerous citizens of this community, the Legion started their plans in the middle of the summer.

Arrangements were made with the athletic committee of the post to hold a benefit ball game, the proceeds of which were to be turned over to the relief committee for furthering their work. Inasmuch as the public ably supported this game it enriched the legion's relief fund by the sum of $75. It was decided that the materials purchased with this money would not only be used in helping veterans, but any needy person in the town.

The Relief Committee purchased 85 pairs of shoes, 300 suits of underwear and 400 pairs of woolen socks.

The shoes have been distributed and the underwear and socks are being distributed until such time as the supply runs out. Any person who feels need of any of these articles should advise a Legion member and he will be assisted if his case is really deserving.

Shoes have been provided for 85 people, 150 will have warm underwear, and 200 will have woolen socks. All this has been provided from the proceeds from one baseball game and some money from the Legion's treasury.

Heavy Truck Crushes Sedan In Wild Drive Disaster Narrowly Averted As Driver Tries To Stop Truck

A heavily loaded truck got out of control on Belleville avenue west of Washington avenue Wednesday afternoon and, after crashing into a concrete wall on the north side of the street, collided with a parked sedan standing in front of the filling station on the corner. A traffic light and a gasoline pump were knocked down by the vehicle on its wild ride.

The driver, Frank DePalma of Hoboken, said that the brakes failed on the truck, loaded with six and one-half tons of paper, at the top of the hill. He attempted to stop by driving into the wall, but the truck came off across the street into the gas station. The sedan, owned by Domenico Altavilla, manager of the station, was almost totally destroyed. No one was injured.

The truck is owned by the Cardinale Trucking Corporation of Hoboken and was transporting paper from a mill in Whippany. This was DePalma's first accident in 18 years.

APPOINTMENT OF FIGURELLI SOUGHT AS 1500 SIGN PETITION FOR HIM

Former Recorder Offer To Fill Vacancy Without Recompense As Board Debates On Clark's Right To Make The Appointment.

A petition signed by 1,370 persons who favor the appointment of Samuel Figurelli as recorder to fill the place left vacant by the removal of Fitzsimmons was presented to Commissioner W. D. Clark by Charles L. Rapa, a Newark attorney, Monday night. At the conference of the Board of Commissioners Tuesday afternoon, Rapa placed 120 additional signatures before the Board.

Since Clark officially removed George A. Fitzsimmons from the office of recorder last Friday night, after hearing the charges brought against him by Joseph Carragher on Thursday evening, several prominent attorneys have been proposed to fill the vacancy. Figurelli, Everett B. Smith, present acting recorder, Edward J. Abramson, Max Schwartz, Lawrence E. Keenan and Thomas D'Avella, who is backed by Angelo Domenick and other prominent Italian leaders in the Silver Lake and Greylack sections, have been named as possible successors. The commissioners must first decide, however, who has the right to select the new recorder.

When Rapa said that he had delivered his petition favoring Figurelli to Clark, Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy replied that he took it to the right person, as Clark was empowered to make the appointment. Commissioner Patrick A. Waters disagreed with this, and maintained that the power of appointing a recorder was invested in the board as a whole.

This started a lively discussion on the powers of the commissioners to make appointments in their own departments. Waters argued that the board appointed Fitzsimmons in 1926 when Clark proposed to appoint Frank Gibson. He also said that he had tried to appoint an assistant engineer in his own department recently and the board had disregarded his wishes in making the appointment.

In the opinion of many, the action of the board in granting Clark the right to remove Fitzsimmons from office places the office of recorder permanently in the department of public safety. Figurelli, who is out of town at this time, has offered to serve as recorder without pay as a service to the town. He was recorder during a previous administration. The matter of power of appointment was finally referred to Town Attorney John B.

Army Demand Unfair Says L. E. Keenan

Salvation Army Withdrew From Chest When Its Budget Was Cut

Commenting on the withdrawal of the Salvation Army from the Community Chest drive this year after its appropriation had been reduced, Lawrence E. Keenan, manager of the drive, said yesterday that he believed their demands were unfair.

"The Salvation Army as in the past submitted their budget to the budget committee of the Community Chest. They asked for an appropriation of $2,200, but the committee found upon inspection of the budget that only about $500 of this amount was to be used for relief work in Belleville. Accordingly the committee reduced their appropriation to $500, as it was felt that with the need for direct relief this year and with reduced appropriations for all participating organizations that sum was all that should be allowed."

"As it felt that it needed more money from this town to carry on its work here and in other cities, the Salvation Army withdrew from the drive in order to conduct its own campaign for the raising of funds."

Welfare Heads Plan Recreation Center

Old Belleville Hall May House Gymnasium And Social Room

A conference, with Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy, Commissioner William H. Williams, Arthur H. Jones, Deputy Commissioner of Essex County Relief and Welfare Work, and Robert A. Nebrigg, Recreation Director in town, was held at the Town Hall, Tuesday morning, for the purpose of discussing the advisability of starting a recreation center and central distribution point for state relief work in Belleville at the old Belleville Hall on Washington avenue.

Mr. Nebrigg outlines the proposed plan as follows: "This project would make it possible for the Recreation Department to give to the many men and women, who are temporarily at leisure, an opportunity to enjoy a wholesomely directed recreation program, and give the needy groups a central place to meet."

Service Bureau Aids Jobless And Needy Community Service Bureau Investigates Carefully In All Cases

The Community Service Bureau describes their relief methods:

"Since the depression there are many men traveling from place to place looking for work. Many knock at the back door asking for food; many appeal to the various churches asking for money to get to a certain city where they hope to get work."

"What is the Bureau's method in caring for these men? And how do we discriminate between the well meaning man who is jobless and hungry and the fakir who would be in the so-called 'tramp' class even when times are good?"

"A few weeks ago, a young man called at the office asking for money for transportation to Philadelphia. He was an agreeable young chap and made a good impression. He had been working in Albany but was laid off and was hitch hiking his way to Philadelphia where he had an aunt who would give him a home. We gave him food and lodging for the night. We wired our agency in Philadelphia to see the aunt and to find out if she agreed to give this man a home. He was to return to the office the next day and we would give him a ticket to Philadelphia."

"A wire stated the aunt's address was an impossible one and no one could be located by that name. The young man never returned."

"A few days later, a man in the middle forties appealed to us for assistance. He had walked from Paterson and was weary; the soles of his shoes were full of holes. He was a Czech-Slovakian and it was difficult for him to understand English."

"He came from Franklin where he had worked in the copper mines but now they had shut down. Several years ago he had worked in a foundry at Paterson and had gone there in hopes of finding work, but it, too, was closed."

"His wife and three children were in Franklin destitute. The Bureau phoned the State Unemployment Relief Administration for the name and address of their representative in Franklin. We gave the man a letter of introduction to him. After food and a night's rest, the man was returned to Franklin where he would be reunited with his family and all would be cared for."

"When a man calls at your back door asking for food or money, just remember that it will take more than

Chief Justice Denies Fitzsimmons Writ In Recorder Tangle

Director Clark Decided On Ouster Last Friday

George A. Fitzsimmons, removed as recorder by Commissioner William D. Clark, director of public safety, lost another round Saturday in his battle to retain the post, when Chief Justice Gummere denied an application for a writ to review the action.

Thomas Brunetto, Fitzsimmons' counsel, contended that Clark was without jurisdiction and the charges against Fitzsimmons were insufficient at law. John B. Brown, corporation counsel, said Clark had been empowered by the Town Commission to conduct the trial and therefore Fitzsimmons was accountable to the commissioner for his official conduct.

Brunetto said he would make a similar application before Part Two of the Supreme Court in Trenton.

Fitzsimmons, recorder since November 16, 1926, was removed from office Friday night by Director Clark. Clark found Fitzsimmons guilty on twelve counts of misconduct of office as substantiated by witnesses called by Joseph Carragher, son of Commissioner Frank J. Carragher, at a hearing before Clark Thursday night. Fitzsimmons was not present to hear the director's decision.

Clark's decision was given almost on the stroke of 9 P. M., an hour later than he had announced it would be rendered. The delay, which raised the audience filling the commission chamber to a high pitch of expectancy, was caused by the work involved in putting together in typewritten form Clark's findings on the counts which made up the charges. When this had been done it took Clark only two minutes to announce his decision. He said:

Minstrel Arranged By Knights Of Columbus
Will Be On November 2 At St. Peter's Prom Hall

Belleville Council, Knights of Columbus, will present a mixed minstrel now and dance, Wednesday evening, November 2, at St. Peter's Auditorium.

A cast has been rehearsing for his event twice a week for the past eight weeks at the home.

Many of the soloists have appeared in previous shows. In addition to these there are several, who, while not having made any appearance in St. Peter's Auditorium, yet are admired by lovers of fine music in and around Belleville and vicinity. Don Royle's dance orchestra will provide music of the night club tempo for the dancers after the performance.

The orchestra will also supply the musical accompaniment for the minstrel. An attempt has been made to get away from the ordinary routine of minstrel shows by injecting several novelty numbers, such as, tap dancing, instrumentalists and a mystery number.

The show will start promptly at 8:30 P. M., commencing approximately two hours, thereby insuring sufficient time for dancing afterward. A matinee will be given for the children on Sunday afternoon, October 30.

The committee under the chairmanship of G. E. Howley, ably assisted by Daniel Gibbons, Harry Sullivan, William Friel, Jack McDonough, and James Leonard, have put their best efforts into this show and they feel confident it will be one of the best presented in Belleville in a good many years.

Grand Knight Herkness is heading a delegation from Belleville Council to attend a Vesper Service to be given at Sacred Heart Church, Lyndhurst by the Lyndhurst Council, Knights of Columbus. He has asked that as many members as possible attend this ceremony. He has requested that those wishing to go, be at the home not later than 7:30 P. M. Sunday evening October 30.

Members of Belleville Council will no doubt recall similar services held in Belleville some time ago.

Recreation Center

gain assistance and inspiration.

With the co-operation of Commissioner Clark, it is deemed advisable to establish a physical and general recreation program for the policemen and firemen under his jurisdiction. The Recreation Commission has in its possession a wrestling mat, set of chest weights, a rowing machine, three or four different weights of medicine balls, volley balls, basket-balls, and general equipment necessary for supplying an adequate conditioning program for the firemen and policemen.

To relieve the mothers and fathers from worry and distress created by the danger imposed upon the children while playing in the streets nearby, this Recreation House could accommodate two or three hundred boys in an organized gym class and leagues of basket-ball, volley ball, etc., as well as bringing the children under adequate leadership and direction while playing.

Through the cooperation of the Women's Group, several clubs, interested individuals, and the purchase of a game room, equipped with billiards, ping-pong, etc., table games can be operated. Also a reading room, supplied with materials accumulated through donations, can be secured.

The above mentioned activities, along with many other programs, such as holiday festivals, social dances, card parties and the like, can be promoted through the occupancy of this building.

The men who sat in on this meeting were unanimously in favor of the establishment of such a relief center, knowing its recreational values and its power to contribute a social value to the community and relieve the mental depression that is coming over the general public. Yet they were not willing to recommend an increased program without the consent and good will of the public towards such a project.

Therefore, it was recommended that the Taxpayers' Association and interested organizations be informed of the movement and their opinions and advice received.

This article is published in the interests of an increased recreational service to the builders and interested people in town. Your opinion is also solicited and will be generously and happily received.

Butter Rolls Raised in Water!

THIS recipe ought to startle you a little—or else we're pretty badly mistaken. It gives a way of raising dough in water! Yes, it is really true. The dough is tied up in cheese cloth and kept in cool water until it floats on the top! Really, this method is a very clever way of achieving the constant temperature at which yeast grows best. Draft dangers are eliminated, and surprisingly, the dough doesn't become water soaked. Another point: it isn't necessary to scald evaporated milk for use in bread making. It has been sterilized. Hot water is employed to make the milk lukewarm for mixing.

Butter Rolls.
3 cups bread flour 1 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt 3 eggs
½ cup butter 1 tsp. vanilla
¼ cup evaporated milk 1 cup chopped nuts
½ cup hot water ½ cup sugar
2 cakes compressed yeast

Sift flour, then measure. To 1½ cups flour add salt and butter, combining as for pie crust. Combine milk and hot water. When lukewarm add yeast and 1 tsp. sugar, blend well, then stir into first mixture. Cover and let stand 20 minutes, then add well beaten eggs, vanilla and remaining 1½ cups flour. Stir until smooth. The dough will be stiff, but slightly sticky. Tie dough loosely in a piece of cheese cloth and drop into a pail of cool water (70-80° F.). In about an hour the dough will rise to the top of the water. Remove from pail, turn onto a plate, cut off pieces the size of an egg and roll each in a mixture of chopped nuts and ½ cup sugar. Twist into a figure 8 and place on a greased baking sheet. Let stand 5 minutes, then bake in a hot oven (425° F.) 10 to 15 minutes. Yield: 30 rolls.

These rolls are just the kind for afternoon tea or a dainty luncheon. Their color is perfect, and their taste—well, you'll see.

Therefore, it was recommended that the Taxpayers' Association and interested organizations be informed of the movement and their opinions and advice received.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

The Rev. Frederic F. Foshay of Grace Baptist Church, addressed Girl Scout Troop 7 Sunday morning on "A New Testament Christian Girl." The troop, of which Mrs. W. D. Clark, Jr., is captain, conducted the service. The responsive reading was led by Bertha Sauvan. Ruth Thatcher read the Scripture lesson and Grace Martling sang.

At night the Rev. O. Bell Close of Fewsmith Memorial Presbyterian Church addressed all troops. His subject was "An Old Testament Romance."

The services marked the beginning of the National Girl Scout Week observance. Troops 7, 9 and 10 gave parties Thursday, the day scheduled for entertaining. Mrs. Clark, Miss Edna Baun and Mrs. May Holden, local director, was in charge.

A twenty-mile hike Saturday will close the schedule for the week. South Orange Mountain Reservation will be the objective. Each of the eleven troops arranged a window display of scouting activities through the courtesy of Washington avenue merchants. A committee from the Woman's Club will judge. The exhibition is to be completed Saturday night.

Mrs. Harvey B. Thompson of the Girl Scout Council is in charge of a sewing group that meets Wednesday afternoons at the recreation house to make infants' slips and dresses. The Patrol Leaders' Association is providing the material. Garments are to be distributed by the Child Hygiene nurses.

Girl Scouts Observe Seven Service Days
300,000 Girls Will Take Part In Nationwide Programs This Week

New York, Oct. 24—Three hundred thousand American girls from ten to eighteen years of age, will participate in the national celebration of Girl Scout Week, October 25-29. Wearing the grey green uniform of their organization, they will give daily demonstrations this week of the varied features of the Girl Scout program. The observance of these "Seven Service Days" is in commemoration of the birthday of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting in this country, and usually includes that date, which is the 31st of October. This year the week closes two days before Mrs. Low's birthday, which falls on Halloween, but many troops are planning special parties for that day following activities planned for Girl Scout Week.

Saturday, Belleville Girl Scouts will hike to South Orange Mountains for Health Day. The older Girl Scouts who will make this trip will meet at North Newark, 8 A. M.

About 150 Girl Scouts, their leaders and members of the Council, attended services at the Fewsmith Presbyterian Church Sunday evening. Dr. O. Bell Close told the story of Isaac and Rebecca applying methods of that time to customs of today. The prayers were given by Jeannette Alfke, Troop 7, and Jessie Bunn, Troop 11. Bible reading, by Marjorie Lemell, Troop No. 10; Salute to Flag, led by Mrs. Clark, Troop No. 7, with Audrey Eppler, Troop No. 6, Flag bearer, Milly Roviello, Troop No. 1 and Alice Strack, Troop No. 3, as Color Guards. Ushers were Dolores Sauvan, Troop 7; Betty Gibson, Troop No. 10; Virginia Breunich, Troop No. 6, and Virginia Entekin, Troop No. 4, and the collection was taken by Jessie Ledden, Troop 3, Jent Mayer, Troop 2, Grace Martling, Troop 7, and Gladys Reyle, Troop No. 8.

Negro Spirituals were rendered by members of Troop No. 11.

Troop No. 1 in the shoe repair shop, next to Dr. Irvin's, shows how and what to cook over a camp fire without utensils.

Troop No. 2 at Kaden's Drug store, outlines the tests of each rank, displays those badges and as a large sign made with acorns dedicates this window to their founder, Mrs. Juliette Low, whose birthday is next Monday.

Troop No. 3 placed a model of Camp Carragher in the window of R. W. Brown's real estate office near Essex street.

Troop No. 4 at the Essex Pharmacy displays "International Peace through Girl Scouting." Small dolls in national dress of over twenty countries sweeping over a map of the world to the American Girl Scout. Flags of other nations, grouped with a large American flag, forms the background.

Troop No. 5 gives their idea of one good turn with a basket filled with all kinds of real food, and this to be donated to welfare work later, in the window of Eufemia's tailoring store.

Troop No. 6 shows, at the Capitol Drug Store, a picturization of the spirit of Girl Scouting leading a band of girls in boats through the waters to a troop of Girl Scouts gathered on the shore.

Troop No. 7 portrays a basket of learning, a basket filled with dolls doing scout work, from each bit a ribbon leads to the badge on the uniform that lies on a nearby chair. This is placed in the barber shop near Joramelon street.

Troop No. 8 pictures an ideal of their summer camping fun and frolic in Kristensen's candy store window.

Troop No. 9 at Gedney's Sport Shop displays with the help of large dolls grouped around the sewing machine, how they will work for their sewing badge.

Troop No. 19 gives one translation of the first law "A Girl Scout's Honor is to be Trusted," even when in the zoo, by obeying the signs "Do not feed the animals." This is attractively grouped with the gorgeous fall flowers banked around the window of the Belleville Rosery.

Troop No. 11 displays at the Washington Pharmacy the results of cooking, sewing and craftsman classes, with beads, baby clothes, and home baked bread, biscuits and pie.

Troop No. 1 met at the home of Marion Miller on Division avenue, who presided at that session, Monday evening. This Troop plans an over night camping trip in the near future. Council members, who visited that group on Monday were Mrs. Frank Ackerman, Mrs. Walter Warrick and Mrs. May T. Holden, director.

HEISLEY LETTER

Editor News:
Contemplating the fact that next year will witness another movement like that of the year 1917 to do home gardening on an extensive scale nothing would be more timely as a topic for this issue.

What often makes home gardening a disappointment is that it is undertaken hastily, when too late to prepare properly the ground for cultivation. I remember that in the spring of 1917, upon the declaration of war against the Imperial German Government, the question of food being so vital a one, many men stayed home from Church on Sundays and dug and dug, at their front lawn sods, with the result that they returned to their offices, stores and banks on Monday sore of back, with blistered hands and totally unfit for what they had to do on the main chance. Nor were their efforts rewarded by returns. A lawn grass sod turned under in April, is no fitting seed bed for even so coarse-rooted and strong growing a plant as corn. There may be some advantage in turning under sods and roughage now and for the couple of weeks yet remaining before the ground becomes a muddy paste under frost and thaw. It would better be sown to rye at once. The manure of fowls could easily be worked into the ground by spreading it loose upon the surface of the ground so that it would be turned under by the one process of digging. It would have several months to get incorporated into the soil and have its extreme heat absorbed.

The ground thus left in late October or early November, should not be disturbed too early in the spring. Time should be given both the sods to rot and the rye to grow. May first would be early enough to plant. No additional fertilization would be needed. Unless sodded or hitherto uncultivated ground be turned under now, it would be unwise to plant potatoes on it next spring. In Iceland the potatoes grow only to the size of a walnut. That was the size of the potatoes grown by the enthusiasts of the spring of 1917. It took many times the value of the potatoes sown to resod the ground. For years many of the former lawns rioted in crab grass, despite seeding and reseeding. The plan generally proved a failure. Besides artificial commercial fertilizer is best for potatoes.

If the town had some available land to offer, it would be far better for the would-be farmers than digging up front yard sods or wild corners, here or there. Possibly land already in cultivation could be procured on a considerable scale, and apportioned amongst the unemployed.

It may occur to some to try poultry raising on a moderate scale. The first warning is to look out for your neighbors and their gardens and lawns. You want to reckon on the cost of some good wire fencing; the expense of some crop and cold remedies and of FEED to keep the young stock growing. If you have chickens bear in mind that you must keep the fowl supplied with water to drink. Most persons enjoy feeding the fowls, but carrying them water is a drudgery that is irksome.

A word about fowls. Try sex linkage breeding. The royal White Leghorn hen is the first requisite to this novel procedure. Mate to her a rooster that happens to be black, or mostly black.

You will be able to tell the chick's sex in the nest as they are hatched. The little fellows that are purely white, with no black spot on the back or elsewhere, are the cockerels. The black spotted ones are the pullets.

If you want to keep all the chicks hatched, you can raise the cockerels half way up for broilers. There won't be any black pinfeathers. The Leghorn is a precocious growing chick, and for the first twelve weeks beats any other chick's growth. Some however, advocate the immediate killing of the sex-determined cockerels and the raising of the pullets only.

The white Leghorn has a unique white, which will dominate the color of the first cross, no matter what the color of the male bird. That means that the chicks will be white as their general color. The pullets, however, will grow up with a black spot or two on the back. The male bird had best be a Langshan, Black Australorp, but a Black Leghorn or a Black Minorca, or even a Black Sumatra would do.

One of the ordinary objections to raising chickens is that you must raise as many cockerels as pullets. Probably the family is not especially fond of chicken as a table meat, while each likes an egg every morning for breakfast. Treat the progeny of this cross as a product only. Don't try to breed them next year, but breed again from the old stock. There are other sex-linkage crosses such as the Black cock on Barred Rock hens, or the Light Brahma cock on Barred hens, but they are not as good as the cross of a black upon the White Leghorn, as the young roosters grow up slowly, thin and scrawny, while the pullets will not lay so early, as those from the White Leghorn hen, which are but little behind their mothers in laying, but greatly excel them in size when it comes to eating them in their third or fourth year.

Much could be said for ducks, as rapid weight developing fowl, while the eggs become much more agreeable to the palathethan upon a first use of them. This is about all the advice I can now offer—the fruit of many years of experience and observation.

FREDERICK A. HEISLEY.

REINFORCED TROUSERS

To the Editor of the News:

I write this in the hope that it will reach the eye of some manufacturer of young boys' clothing.

Please, please manufacturer, make boys' knickers with double reinforcements at the knee. When a mother buys a suit for her young boy the suit has two pairs of pants, but inside of two weeks both pairs are gone at the knees.

A suit with 20 pairs of ordinary pants would not solve the problem. A strong trouser, well reinforced, might give some satisfaction. When we suggest this to the salesmen in the stores they reply, "Oh, no, madam, our manufacturers could not make pants like that; they would not look well."

Do they look well with the patches that appear on them when a week old?

When you make boys' knickers, take a hint from mothers. Think of that garment on a young boy in the baseball season when he wears it sliding into third base. Think of it in marble time when he crushes it into a gravel path with his young knee, and above all, think of it now, in the football season, and give our boys' trousers reinforced at the knees.
MAMA.

COMMENTS ON SMITH

Editor News:

Dear Sir: Commenting on some of the statements (so-called) of Alfred E. Smith on Monday night, one might be led (if not endowed with wisdom) that beer and light wines would flow freely the day following his talk—and when one seriously realizes the more important issues of the next election, it is beyond understanding how thinking people can possibly believe it worth consideration. Again, will some one kindly inform us just how many of these admirers of the gentleman with the brown derby, will sit back, or otherwise, and drink this "beer and light wines" after years of drinking those liquors that are stranger, and put one "out of the picture" more quickly. No, light wines and beer is only an excuse and a cheap excuse—those people who demand their so-called rights, will not be willing to drink beer. "It is to laugh"—and incidentally will this return of beers and light wines be heavy enough to make them content in their desire—and will it heal and cure the hungry—the sick, the discouraged humanity that need bread—rather than a stone.

This country needs more than all else—sane, sensible humans, and the light wines and beer should be the last consideration. Give to this country those peoples who are seeking first, the deepest thought for the next generation, and the next. Let humanity first recall the greater things in life, rather than light wines and beer. A beautiful principle?—for the greatest country in the world. Give us men that are ready to sacrifice their health and lives to make our beloved America a living place for our future children.

"Seek ye first, the kingdom of God, and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you."

At the rate "light wines and beer," shouting is spoken of by a few unthinking people. It might bring even a more sickly world than we have at the present time—give us a real man again.

MARINE BIRTHDAY CAKE REQUIRES 157 CANDLES

Nearly eight score candles would be needed to decorate a birthday cake for the U. S. Marines, who have served America since November 10, 1775. The globe, eagle and anchor, worn as an emblem on the caps and collars of their uniforms, is shown above, flanked left and right by a typical marine of Revolutionary Days and a modern Soldier of the Sea.

There's a long, long trail winding back to the first birthday of the U. S. Marines, who celebrate the 157th anniversary of their Corps on November 10.

The trail harks back to the days of powdered wigs and buckled shoes, of wooden ships and iron men, of flintlocks and fighting tops. It winds its way through more than a century and a half of national events in which the soldiers of the sea have borne a gallant part.

New Jersey looms large in the early episodes of the Marines. Under the leadership of Major Samuel Nicholas, several companies of Marines were with George Washington in the Battles of Trenton and Princeton, the vital actions that helped to change the whole course of American history.

Stirring tales of hand-to-hand fighting with pirates in the Mediterranean, storming a Mexican fortress at Chapultepec, stalling Indians in our own country, battling Boxers in China, and the raising of Old Glory in scores of different lands are revealed when the pages of Marine Corps history are turned back.

In the battles of the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Mexican, Civil, Spanish and World Wars, the Marines won laurels for their corps on land or sea. Each crisis that America has faced has given the sea soldiers an opportunity to serve their country. Romance and adventure are interwoven in every episode of their history since the first Marines, authorized by the Continental Congress at Philadelphia, 'way back in 1775, embarked on a naval expedition to the Bahamas in 1776, capturing guns and ammunition from the British.

The old-time sea soldier cut a smart figure in his green coat, faced with red, his white waistcoat, buff trousers, and high leggings. Following the custom of the period, he whitened his wig with flour. He could lend a hand at reefing sails on a frigate with boarding pike and cutlasses.

A modern Marine is skilled in the use of machine guns, gas masks, radio and aviation, and is equally at home aboard ship. His dress differs widely from that worn early in the last century, but the Marine of today in his bright blue uniform with its red and gold trimmings is still a colorful figure.

The present emblem of the Corps, with its globe, eagle and anchor, is comparatively modern, and dates back to shortly after the Civil War. It indicates that Marines follow the flag wherever the American eagle flies, or naval vessels drop their anchors.

On their birthday, Marines all over the world will pause to glance back over their long record of service to the country. "Semper Fidelis," or always faithful, is the motto. It has never changed.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Karin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up."

They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

THANKS VISITING NURSES

Belleville News:

I wish to thank the visiting nurses for their kindness and the good care that I received while ill. I had been sick for some time and undergone a serious operation, but don't know what I would have done except for the visiting nurses, as the doctor would not have allowed me home from the hospital had it not been for them. I also wish to thank Mrs. F. as she was the little nurse who cared for me after coming from the hospital. I cannot thank her enough for the wonderful care and kindness she gave me. I am still on two crutches as my leg still troubles me, but I am able to get out on nice days.

When things are better and I get on my feet again, I surely will remember the Visiting Nurse Association with whatever I can give and hope things will be better in the future.

ONE WHO WAS HELPED.

SALVATION ARMY SIDE

Editor News,

Dear Sir: Please be advised that the Salvation Army in Belleville has resigned from the Belleville Welfare Federation, (generally known as the Community Chest.)

The reason for this action is that the Community Chest Budget Committee allowed but $500 for the entire year of 1932. It is impossible for our organization to function in Belleville on less than $2,200. The Salvation Army is, therefore, organizing a permanent local Advisory Board Committee and on December 1, is planning to have a campaign for funds for the year 1933.

During these times of stress the Salvation Army has a splendid opportunity for service in this community and we believe that when opportunity affords that you will join with others in helping us to maintain and increase our local efforts.

RUTH SHACKLEFORD,
Captain.

AFTER THE GAME A GRAND AND GLORIOUS TIME "WAS HAD BY ALL"

Ripe And Over-ripe Tomatoes And Eggs Flew Over Kearny Way As Nutley Celebrated Victory Saturday Night—School Flagged—"Kearny Died Bravely."

Ripe, over-ripe and not so ripe tomatoes, eggs and what have you furnished the sequel to Nutley's sweeping victory over Kearny High at football Saturday.

Some 15,000 football fans who witnessed the high school classic of the year had just about finished dinner when a parade started from Nutley to Kearny in celebration of the win. It resembled a victorious election march but—Some say an over zealous Kearny lad tossed a tomato at a Nutley car.

Over the little creek they avert Nutley did the trick, anyway—A battle of hen fruit and other fruit and vegetables got under way. Despite heavily reinforced guards some one from Nutley broke the lines and hung a large black flag over the Kearny High entrance, reading: "Kearny Died Bravely."

Maybe this added insult to injury. Far and wide went the battle. The consensus among school board members is that reports of the "riot" were exaggerated. Floyd E. Harshman, principal of Nutley High School, admitted that his car, which was among those driving through Kearny, was the target for some tomatoes, but refused to take the matter seriously.

"I went along to see that no one did any damage and aside from a lot of cheering and singing there was no disorder," he said. "I have communicated with Kearny school officials and they tell me that no damage was done."

He added that he had several Nutley students in his car who contributed to the cheering and singing. No official cognizance of the incident would be taken in Nutley, he said.

Superintendent of Schools Paul R. Radcliffe said: "I don't know anything about it, beyond what a read in the newspapers, and I believe the stories were far from accurate."

High school corridors were buzzing with whispered anecdotes and the residents who turned out to witness the spectacle. The streets around the high school were massed with automobiles and people. Forced to use strong-arm methods, the police pushed the crowds out of the streets and finally got the parade on the move, but it kept moving around the school all the time, the boys and girls screaming words of derision.

Kearny students formed a solid line around the building and prevented an attack on their alma mater. Finally the parade broke its circling movement and went out to Kearny avenue, jamming the town's main thoroughfare. They were followed by a detail of Kearny students, while the bulk of the Kearny forces remained behind to thwart a surprise attack on the school.

The reconnoitering squad was swelled by the loyal Kearny residents and especially by corner gangs who welcomed a chance to have some fun. They rushed for the stores in the immediate vicinity and bought bags of cheap eggs, juicy tomatoes and other vegetables and started a steady bombardment of the Nutley machines. Having already been armed with such weapons, the Nutley crowd returned the fire. Eggs and tomatoes began splashing all over the scenery.

Kearny avenue became a battleground for a running fight for a number of blocks. The Nutley army gradually thinned out, going in the direction of Newark, but now and then a group would return to the battle, only to be lambasted with goosy substances. The sidewalks were lined with men and women watching the events.

Face with an all-night vigil and vexed in their attempt to clear the town and restore peace, police began corralling students of both camps and gleeful snickers as some of the incidents were recalled, it was said. The incentive for the disturbance, it was learned, was fourfold.

The primary cause was Nutley's 19 to 7 victory over the unbeaten Kearny team in a game classed among the greatest ever played in Park Oval. Contributing factors were an auto parade of Kearny students Friday night through Nutley, in which the "razzberry" was generously applied to Nutley's chances of winning the game; the fact that Nutley had a grudge to settle from its defeat at Kearny's hands last year and the fact the George C. Mankey, principal of Kearny High School had been principal of Nutley High School before taking his present position.

Belleville also shared in a "razzberry" trip for its defeat Saturday at the hands of Central High.

It was reported attempts were made to whitewash the Kearny High School building and steal the goal posts on their gridiron. They were thwarted. Many automobiles from Nutley, from limousines to pieces of junk barely able to navigate, poured into the West Hudson town around 8 P. M., with boys and girls sounding sirens and screaming at the top of their lungs. They made directly for the high school in Devon street and found 200 Kearny students, who have been tipped off in advance, waiting for them.

The Kearny boys and girls littered the streets with broken bottles to make the victory march look flat. Missiles began to fill the air. Catcalls flooded the ether waves. Things got so bad that two Kearny boys ran to police headquarters, panting a warning the Nutley students were going to give the school building a coat of whitewash and tear up the football field.

Police reserves rushed to the scene. The students were augmented by all taking them to headquarters for some verbal spankings. This process also appeared as if it would last for hours. Crowds shifted to headquarters to watch the students go in and come out.

One man was reported slightly injured by an automobile, but made no report of it. No arrests were made, but the police kept up their vigilance to break up disturbances. Indications were that the invasion would last well into the night, but Kearny students were prepared to guard their alma mater until dawn if necessary.

The reason for the exuberance on the part of the Nutleyites was that Kearny beat the football team last year, 7 to 6, and kept them out of the state championship, making Nutley's victory of 19 to 7 a mighty sweet revenge.

Bell-boy Jayvees Trim Bloomfield

McQuilken (And Chicowicz) Star In 13-0 Triumph

The fast-stepping Belleville High second-string grid eleven took the Bloomfield High Jayvees in its stride, Monday afternoon, at the Clearman Field gridiron, 13-0.

An aerial attack that the Bloomfieldites could not fathom sent victory Belleville's way.

The Bell-boys opened up with their scoring antics early, tallying their first six-pointer in the initial canto. A fifty yard march down the field, featured by two twenty yard passes, Chicowicz to Cerami, and a third, good for ten yards, Chicowicz to Lee, set the stage for touchdown No. 1. McQuilken, big Blue and Gold fullback, plunged off tackle the remaining seven yards for the score. Another pass, McQuilken to Wertz, tallied the extra point.

By far the best play of the afternoon was used by the locals as the means of scoring their second touchdown. Taking the ball on their own thirty yard line, McQuilken suddenly dropped back, heaved a perfect thirty yard spiral into the waiting arms of Cerami at end, who galloped forty yards more for the tally. The net gain from this perfect play was seventy yards. Landis's place-kick try for the extra point hit the up-rights.

Bloomfield made its lone scoring threat late in the fourth quarter, gaining the ball on Belleville's fifteen yard stripe as the result of a blocked kick. They advanced the pig-skin to the Bell-boy five-yarder just before the final whistle.

Chicowicz's sterling work at his quarter-back post was one of the big features of the local team's play.

Fitzsimmons Ousted

Gentlemen: This is to advise that after due hearing of the charges against George A. Fitzsimmons as recorder of the Town of Belleville, filed on September 13, 1932, I have found him guilty of misconduct in office as alleged in all of said charges, and have this day removed him from office.

The decision was directed to the Town Commission because Clark had been authorized by resolution to conduct the hearing in lieu of the whole board, by which Fitzsimmons had been reappointed in 1930.

Applause greeted the reading. The letter and accompanying copies of Clark's findings, as prepared by Corporation Counsel John B. Brown were turned over to Town Clerk John J. Daly.

The findings of Clark filled twenty-seven pages. They included Clark's six conclusions thus:

"Complainant having made charges against the recorder is obliged to substantiate the charges. A town recorder is not a constitutional officer; but is a municipal appointee, who may be removed from office by proper municipal authority. When the right of a judge to sit is challenged and the party who challenges the jurisdiction goes to trial on the merits, as when counsel for the recorder was not satisfied to limit his objections to the question of jurisdiction, but entered objections which had to do with the merits of the case, then he waives his legal right of challenging the jurisdiction for the reason he has submitted himself to being tried by the said judge.

"Charges of misconduct in the recorder's previous term go directly to the question of his fitness to hold office. At a hearing on charges of misconduct in office it is not necessary that the charges be made under oath. The constitutionality of the motor vehicle and traffic acts I leave to proper courts to determine."

Suspended August 13
Fitzsimmons was suspended on August 13 after a cash audit of his books by the State Department of Municipal Accounts had disclosed a $2,000 shortage. Based on the findings of the audit and investigations made by himself, Joseph Carragher preferred the misconduct charges and demanded an ouster.

After numerous adjournments and postponements a departmental hearing was concluded before Commissioner Clark Thursday night, Fitzsimmons walking from the court room when his move for dismissal of the charges for lack of jurisdiction was denied by Clark. The commissioner then reserved his decision until Friday night.

The trial of Fitzsimmons carried state and county interest. It was disclosed that the recorder had made only nine payments to the county treasurer of fines collected in fifty-four months, although a state statute provides that such payments be made monthly within thirty days if collection.

Clark will make efforts to have Public Service Electric & Gas Co. consider changes in the Washington avenue street lighting system, to lower the $9,730 annual cost by agreeing not to turn the lights on until dusk during the summer and to turn half the light off after midnight.

Director Frank J. Carragher of the Department of Parks and Public Property pointed out a saving of $2,110 had been effected in the last contract by replacing 600 candlepower bulbs with 400 size. The present contract expires November 15.

A WOMAN'S COME-BACK

WITH a capital of $38, Mrs. Alice Foote Mac Dougall opened a coffee shop in New York 25 years ago. Her business grew into a $2,500,000 chain. A short time ago she was taken ill. Her business suffered and passed into receivership.

Last June Mrs. MacDougall left the hospital. She announced she would make a come-back. It has taken her exactly four months. She is now solvent. She has regained two of her important shops, one in Grand Central terminal. She has cut prices, restored the original atmosphere and her customers are swarming back. Some men, who have had business reverses, might take a lesson from Mrs. Mac Dougall's pluck and business acumen.

CARRAGHER'S RIGHT

MAYBE some day the Town Commission will wake up to the fact that Commissioner Frank J. Carragher knew what he was talking about years ago when he said Rutgers street and Belleville avenue should be closed to cross town traffic, the high speeding New York, Jersey City and other cars.

Mr. Carragher would have had Mill street widened. There is an underpass there—the Erie is elevated—no tracks to cross such as at Rutgers street and Belleville avenue. There are no steep grades at Mill street.

It is safe for such traffic.

Belleville avenue never was wide enough and it is too sharp a grade for the type of traffic it carries. The same applies to Rutgers street.

Many have been killed in these two streets by trains and helter-skelter out of town speedsters.

It's about time the streets were closed to all but local traffic. Wednesday a huge truck crashed east in Belleville avenue and wrapped its gigantic body around signs at a gasoline station and finally a passenger car stopped it in Washington avenue.

Nobody was hurt. Fortunate indeed. Everybody knows the possible fatalities that could have resulted. The picture is obvious with all the traffic on Washington avenue at that point, pedestrians as well as automobiles.

Before—as we have repeatedly said—someone else gets killed, let's do something about it. Do some people have to be hit on the head with a hammer before they can see or are they too dumb, as politicians?

FORGOTTEN MEN

THE cornerstones of two huge buildings that will add greatly to the beauty of Washington were laid recently. One will be the new postoffice, the other the exclusive home of the Supreme Court.

The exercises at both functions were impressive. There were speeches by government officials at the one and by famous lawyers at the other. But, oddly enough, in reports of the two meetings, no mention seems to have been made of the architects. When a new play is performed, there are usually calls for the author. But when a cornerstone for a new and enduring building is laid, no one ever thinks about the architect. It is curious.

SPEAK UP, SARAH!

UNLESS somebody succeeds in locating Sarah Ann, scientists are going to have a difficult time trying to obtain data on the next eclipse of the sun. The eclipse, due in 1937, will last for seven minutes, and should present a wonderful opportunity for science to study it. The trouble is that in the path of the eclipse there is only one small piece of land, the uninhabited island of Sarah Ann, out in the Pacific.

Sarah Ann, only a dot on the map, has not been sighted for the last fifteen years, and scientists are now wondering whether the island ever existed, or whether it has been submerged. Unless they find it, they will be greatly chagrined, for accurate observations must be made from land because of the precision necessary.

CURIOSITY PAYS TAXES

FORMER Governor Smith's Empire State Building in New York is by far the most valuable building in the city. It is assessed for $40,000,000. This means considerably more than a million dollars a year in real estate taxes alone. But in the case of this building a stroke of genius enables the owners to meet most of the taxes from the revenue derived from sight-seers who wish to view the city from the top of the great structure.

If it were not for this addition to the building rentals, the owners might be up against it. And, curiously enough, this big financial windfall was not contemplated when the structure was planned.

A NEW METAL

SCIENCE has never found any particular use for indium, one of the rarest of the metals, costing about 10 times as much as platinum. It is now announced from Berlin, however, that new sources in the United States and Germany have been discovered and that these may bring up the annual output to as much as 10 pounds a year.

This warning has been sufficient to excite the chemists. If they can have 10 pounds of indium a year, there is not much doubt that they can find a real use for it. The scientists nowadays can find use for almost anything, if they can only get enough of the material for experimentation.

The Monmouth American (Long Branch) comments on a current political question:

"Mr. Coolidge and the Republican leaders are sounding the cry that Mr. Hoover has saved the country from an economic and business calamity a hundredfold worse than has been experienced."

"Governor Roosevelt and his battery of orators insist, on the other hand, that Mr. Hoover is in a large degree responsible for the depression by delaying steps to mitigate it and by a policy of hesitation and vacillation and favoritism for big interests."

"Of course neither contention is susceptible of proof. Both are purely matters of opinion. Facts may be adduced in support of either to the satisfaction of those who wish to believe."

"Actually no one knows and no one can know. But politics would not be politics if that were any barrier to assertions that stir enthusiasm."

The Independent Press (Bloomfield), under the heading "Why Not Trade?" finds that a lot of effort is wasted by campaign orators.

"What is the use of a couple of hundred Republicans, usually the same Republicans at each meeting, turning out to a Republican meeting to hear the Republican candidate for Senator? And a similar group of equally faithful Democrats rallying to hear the Democratic candidate? Now if they traded speakers they might be getting somewhere but even then the speeches would sound surprisingly alike."

DESDEMONA HAWKINS

The WHITE RAT

of Hawkins Hall

By Alice Mary Kimball and Mary Alden Hopkins

THE STORY THUS FAR

Great-grandfather Hawkins, the widowed Mrs. Hawkins, and her children—Jack, fourteen; Ted, eight; and Nancy, twelve—live in old Hawkins Hall. Bert, the oldest son, a medical student, brings the family Desdemona, a white rat from his nutrition laboratory. Desdemona and her mate, Othello, whom Bert sent later, raise a family of eight rats.

Then Desdemona disappears. The children try to forget their sorrow by taking her children to junior high school for an experiment Miss Marsh, the biology teacher, has planned. One group of rats is called the Sniffy Whiskers, the other, the Pink Tails.

Aunt Helen, Mrs. Hawkins' sister, is sick, and Lucette, her baby, comes to live at Hawkins Hall. The doctor says Nancy will make a splendid nurse.

Desdemona returns suddenly. She has been with a family of dark rats living in the walls of the house. She describes her adventure in a letter to Falstaff, her brother in Bert's college laboratory. A few days later, Falstaff's reply comes. Miss Marsh's class continues to get letters from Falstaff as Jack's appetite dwindles. He teases Ted and quarrels with Nancy, and is falling at school.

—XII—

CHAPTER FIVE—Continued. Mrs. Hawkins talked the matter over with Miss Marsh and they agreed that Jack's poor health, his bad disposition and his low marks at school all came from the same source. He was not eating all the kinds of food he needed.

"Let's wait a little and have Jack see how the experiment with Desdemona's children comes out," said Miss Marsh. "I think it will open his eyes."

The experiment with the young rats had been going on for several weeks. Every few days the pupils in the biology class had weighed the rats to see if they were growing normally. Miss Marsh showed them how they could make a "picture" of the gains in weight. She took a piece of cross lined paper, and put dates at weekly intervals at the points where the vertical lines met the bottom horizontal line. On the vertical line at the extreme left she placed figures for weights ranging from 0 to 400 grams.

"Little rats weigh about 5 grams when they are born, about 40 grams when they are able to be taken away from their mother, and will grow up to 400 to 500 grams if properly fed," said Miss Marsh. "Do you know what a gram is?" she asked. In the end Miss Marsh had to tell them a gram is a unit of weight of the metric system and is about 1/30 of an ounce.

In charting gains in weight the pupils put a circle at the points of intersection of the vertical date lines with the horizontal weight lines. On February 10th, at the beginning of the experiment, each rat weighed 25 grams. The place for the circle was found by following upward on the vertical line for that date, and to the right on the 25 gram horizontal line. This was done each week for each rat. The circles were then connected with a straight line.

"These lines are called 'growth curves,'" Miss Marsh had told them as she tacked the chart on the wall where it was plainly visible to all.

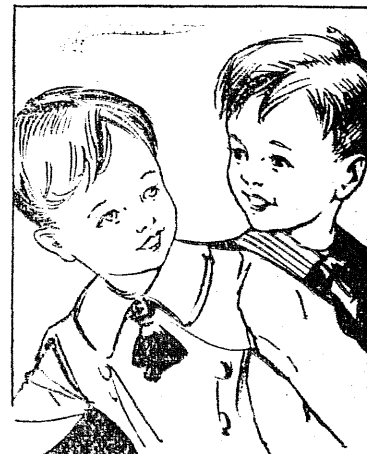

For a time Sniffy Whiskers and his brothers and sisters seemed to get on very well. They nibbled the bread and meat and potato, and their number was satisfied. Jack exulted that his theory was correct. For at the end of three weeks it was clear that the Sniffy Whiskers were in trouble. They still ate heartily, but their food did them little good. They stopped growing. Their pretty soft fur became rough and ragged. The little creatures were nervous. They were afraid when the children handled them. Finally dear Sniffy Whiskers' mate, actually his Jack's sister, went home with the gang which was getting vitamins and minerals from vegetables and evaporated milk looked like little sleek cherubs. Their eyes were shiny, their ears and noses were pink and they had no fear of the children. They snuggled down in anybody's warm hand, showing no nervousness at all.

Early in May as the children had finished charting the weights for the rats, Miss Marsh said: "I think Pink Tail's mate is going to have some little baby rats in a few weeks. She is gaining in weight and looks very plump."

One day she greeted them with eight tiny, squirming, pink babies. She was very proud and happy. "She will need more milk and more food now that she has eight babies to feed," said Miss Marsh. "I am afraid there will never be any babies at the Sniffy Whiskers house." She was looking at their growth and curves and at their scraggly hair and scrawny bodies. Jack watched and Jack learned.

He stopped protesting against lettuce and other raw vegetables. He quietly drank his milk at supper-time. One day he actually passed his plate for more chard. Something happened to Jack which he considered a miracle. He gained a pound in weight. Then another pound—and another. It wasn't fat, it was good blood, bone and muscle. The manager of the aviation field look at him approvingly and told him that if he kept on improving there would be a job for him as helper in the field during the summer vacation. When Miss Marsh wrote Bert confidentially what had happened, she said that Jack's school work was coming up so fast that he would be far above the passing mark by June.

One day when Nancy and Jack and Ted were all out in the large front yard with Lucette playing in the bright spring sunshine, Mrs. Farrell, a neighbor, came by with her twins. Mrs. Farrell stopped to compliment Nancy on Lucette's appearance. She said she should never have known that it was the same child, because she had grown so healthy and happy under Nancy's care. This remark pleased Nancy especially because she admired Mrs. Farrell. Mrs. Farrell had been brought up in China, where her parents were still missionaries. Her twins, sturdy little boys with round faces and big grins, were nick-named Ching and Chang. They begged to stop to play bean-bag with Ted. Ted seemed like a grown-up man to them and they were very proud that he would pay attention to them.

Mrs. Farrell went into the house to see Mrs. Hawkins. She asked her to take Ching and Chang to board for the summer. Mrs. Farrell wanted to go to China to visit her parents, but she thought the twins were too young to travel.

Gives Aims Of Relief Program

Local Citizens' Committee Stresses Need Of Co-operation Of Agencies

Objectives were outlined Friday night at a meeting of the Citizens' Relief Committee. They are:

To assist in the co-ordination of public and private relief, looking toward elimination of duplication of effort and funds in seeing that no citizens go unfed, unclothed or unsheltered during the period of the present emergency.

To enlist all citizens' co-operation in furnishing clothing, furniture, etc., for the Clothing Bureau, the initiative, technical details and personnel for administration for which the Manufacturers' Association of Belleville have so generously sponsored.

To provide volunteer assistance in facilitating the work of the Emergency Relief Administration.

To assist in the provision of resources for those institutions and agencies upon which Belleville depends for its social well being.

Present were Arthur H. Jones, Miss Bertha M. Kline, Charles G. Jones, Mrs. Charles Smith, Andrew Joylan, Lawrence Keenan, M. Schwartz, Miss Teresa Salmon, Daniel Gibbons, Mrs. Florence Estelle, Miss Nadine Tronolone, Theodore Wells and Jeraldo Majoran.

As one of the first steps in relief cooperation and coordination, the committee voted to assist the Community Chest Campaign Director, Mr. Keenan, in obtaining as many volunteer drive workers as possible. They attended the Chest rally at the Elks Hall Wednesday. Arthur H. Jones, Administrator of Relief for Belleville, appointed Mrs. Smith, chairman of a volunteer workers' committee to assist in the work of the Emergency Relief of the town.

She will report after conference with the Woman's Club. The formation of a complaint committee was discussed at length and held off for the time being. It was moved by Charles G. Jones and Mr. Boylan, that the committee inform all organizations doing relief work to the activity of the Emergency Relief Administration, requesting cooperation particularly in the clearance of all cases to avoid duplication of effort and waste of funds.

Mr. Jones and Mrs. Smith will report on the possible necessity of a committee to give official sanction to benefits given in the town during the winter for the unemployed. At the suggestion of Miss Kline, the committee considered the possible formation of a volunteer motor corps to facilitate the work of relief.

The committee nominated to membership, Dr. Daniel E. Kavanaugh, Mrs. C. Coryell and Edward Lister and recommended the appointment of the committee of two members of the school system of the town, to be selected by Superintendent of Schools, Wayne Farmer. Invitations to serve on the Citizens' Committee will be extended to these citizens. On motion of Mr. Boylan and Mr. Majoran, the Citizens' committee voted unanimously to go on record as supporting the two referenda to appear on the ballot November 8, whereby $20,000,000 may be made available to the Emergency Relief Administration, following the reduction by the same amount of the previously authorized $100,000,000 Highway Bond Issue.

Mr. Jones pointed out that it will be necessary to vote "Yes" to both of these referenda in order that money for relief be made available without increasing the authorized bonded indebtedness of the state.

Mr. Boylan made an appeal for workers to sew garments from the 12,000 yards of cloth made available to the Belleville Chapter by the National Headquarters. Mr. Wells is serving as secretary of the group.

The next meeting of the committee will be held Tuesday, November 15.

Miss Ruth Schultz of Trenton, Pa., has returned home after visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Steel of 51 Mertz avenue.

Mrs. Harvey W. Mumford of 10 Oak street, one of the hostesses of the women's division of the Essex-Hoover Club, attended the Essex-Hoover tea at the home of Mrs. Joseph G. Spurr, 500 Mt. Prospect avenue, Newark, Friday afternoon.

The Ladies' Guild of Christ Episcopal Church will sponsor a moving picture show November 15 and 16 at the Capitol Theatre, featuring "The Successful Calamity" and "The Phantom President." Mrs. Horace B. Winship, Mrs. Edward Nelson and Mrs. G. Willard Wharton are in charge of arrangements.

A program of vocal and instrumental music featured the first Fall meeting of the Music Study Club Wednesday at the studio of Eleanor Bacon Peck, pianist, 230 Jorammon street. Mae Livingston gave piano selections and Marion Stager, soprano, sang.

Three Belleville women comprised the committee for the card party given Wednesday night at 137 Broadway, Newark, by Goodwill Council, Loyal Ladies of the Royal Arcanum. They are Mrs. Leah Moreton, orator; Mrs. Martin Cosgrove, treasurer; and Mrs. Horace B. Winship, secretary.

Happiest Leisure Found In Cultural Hobby, Writer Says

Girl Scouting Fosters Development Of Needed Life Elements, Erskine Declares

All culture, claims Dr. John Erskine, comes ultimately through the hands and feet, and the trouble with most education hitherto has been that it tended to develop only the head.

Dr. Erskine, author, composer, professor at Columbia University and president of the Juillard School of Music, was discussing the benefit of the cultural hobbies fostered by the Girl Scouts.

"Cultural hobbies," said Dr. Erskine, "may always develop into arts, but in any case, if pursued with emphasis on competent performance, they will not only make for better leisure but for much better daily work."

"The Greeks were great," Dr. Erskine continued, "because they occupied themselves largely with the two main lines of human endeavor, the arts and agriculture in the broadest sense. They spent much time in carving and dancing, making fine use of their hands and feet. They were philosophers, too, of course, but after all philosophy is only reasoning about life and its purpose, while the arts and agriculture are life itself."

The value of the Boy and Girl Scout program lies, he believes, in the fact that consciously or unconsciously its ideal approximates to that of the Greeks as expressed by Aristotle when he said that the true aim of all education is the wise use of leisure time.

"These organizations," Dr. Erskine declared, "fill the gap that too often exists between the sterile teaching of schools and the conduct of life. They give the young people a chance to use their hands and feet and find out for themselves the cultural hobby that best expresses them. That most of their activities are conducted out of doors means that they are conducted close to the source of all existence. That has as much cultural as physical value."

Dr. Erskine made one suggestion for what he considers would be an improvement in camping programs. "Why not have them specialized," he asked, "after the manner of the two fine orchestral camps for boys and girls at Interlaken, Mich., and in Maine. They are doing magnificent work for music, and at the same time giving the children all the outdoor sports they want. The Scouts, as I understand it, do a great deal of singing, but how often do they insist on competent performance from the musician's standpoint? Suppose there was a camp that specialized in music and another in painting? Perhaps it wouldn't work. I don't know."

But as long as the Girl Scouts emphasize performance rather than theory, learn to do by doing, they are on the right road, Dr. Erskine declared.

"The composer has to depend on the operation of his craft, and what is true of music, is true of all the other arts," he concluded.

Dr. Erskine's remarks were part of a series of lectures given at the Belleville Public Library during the week of October 28 to November 3.

The lectures were given by Dr. Erskine, who is a member of the National Academy of Sciences and the National Academy of Arts.

Belleville Library News

Due to the increased demand for books during the last year, the trustees of the Belleville Public Library have been forced to change certain rules which have heretofore taken care of the public's need.

Two of the most important rules which have already gone into effect are:

All thirty-day books have been changed to fourteen-day books; all fourteen-day books, which include fiction and non-fiction, can only be renewed once.

We hope that the people of Belleville will understand the situation under which these new rules have had to be made, and will co-operate with us in the future as they have in the past, when new rules have been brought into effect.

Hallowe'en Party

A Hallowe'en party was given by Mrs. A. Sheldon of 425 Cortlandt street, Friday night for her daughters, Jean and Iolande. Guests were escorted to the garret on the third floor where a real surprise was in store for them. Vari-colored autumn leaves hung from every beam, tall corn stalks lined the walls, and the floor was strewn with hay.

As the guests filed up the dark stairway they were met by a gruesome figure dressed in white in the corner. Games were played, fortunes were told, and they danced the old Virginia Reel. Leo Hood of 194 William street gathered the boys and girls around him and, with a fire in the witches cauldron, told them ghost stories.

Mrs. Sheldon called the children down into the dining room at 8:45. The table was laid with all kinds of goodies. Decorations were in orange and black.

After refreshments had been served to the children Mrs. Sheldon entertained Mrs. Remelka, Mrs. Swenson, Mrs. Millin and her daughter Janet.

Every conceivable costume was represented, from the Puritan maid and savage Indian to the gay caballero. Miss Jean Sheldon was dressed very becomingly as a Southern belle. Miss Iolande Sheldon, as an old-fashioned girl, helped to entertain the guests.

Those present were: the Misses Alma Swenson, Lois Millin, Charlotte Donaldson, Marion and Helen Remelka, Irene Scholz, Jeanette Rhodes and Dorothy Grosch. Robert Rutan, Robert Harris, Ashley Reynolds, Larry Buckley, and Stanley Osborne.

NO. 1 HOME AND SCHOOL ASS'N.

The Home and School Association of No. 1 School will hold its second meeting of the season Tuesday, November 1, at 8 P. M.

The seventh grade under the supervision of the Misses Helen Just and Vera McGovern will present a play entitled "The Discovery."

As a speaker for the evening, the committee has been fortunate in securing Eugene Berry, who will speak on "The Importance of Anti-Toxin." Miss Millar, the school nurse, will also address the organization.

The regular monthly meeting of Wesley men was held Monday evening. Charles Steel, principal of the high school, was the speaker. He stressed the importance of a good education as a primary aid to the youth of today, in fitting them into the social order of tomorrow.

Howard Virtue reported that the next meeting would be supplemented by several reels of motion pictures of an interesting nature. Mr. Akers wishes to contact all men of the church who are interested in the formation of a bowling team next year. For the present, the plan is to form teams among the men to develop a good team to enter the church league next year. Let us hear from the bowlers.

Mr. Roraback reported progress on the variety show to be given in the Church November 3 and 4. One of the features Mr. Roraback has been able to secure is the Paramount Players, well known entertainers who have consented to make their first visit to Belleville. Mr. Bradshaw for the church activities committee reported the formation of a church ushers association. This innovation tried in some of the churches in New York, has proved a great success as a means of creating a warmer feeling of fellowship to the church goes.

Sunday evening the services in the church will be given over to a musical to be given by the Senior Choir under the direction of Mrs. Esbrand Bregmann; and the Junior Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Le Roy Edmund, assisted by Mrs. George Davies as accompanist. This Sunday ends the very successful campaign, "Crusade With Christ". Miss Lillian Johansen, known to many thousands radio listeners as the missionary from India, will deliver the evening message. Miss Johansen broadcasts over Radio Station WAAM on the Happy Hour every other Monday.

The Hobo Convention promises to be an evening that will show many outsiders the joy of attending a real Christian Endeavor social. Following you will find a list of a few of the events that have a place in the convention program. "The Hobos' Pot Luck", "The Hobos' Introduction", "The Hobos' Hike", "The Hobos' Hunt for Dinner", "The Hobos' Divide the Spoils", "The Hobos' Pack their Kits", "The Hobos' Catch a Freight", "The Hobos in the Barnyard" and still there are many other arrangements to be made before the convention program is completed.

The "Old Fashioned Gospel Hour Rally" will be held on Friday evening, November 11 instead of the fourth. Please come early and be sure to get a good seat. The "Old Fashioned Gospel Hour" is broadcast six times a week, twice over WNJ and four times over WPAP. The service at the rally will be conducted by the Rev. Samuel B. Seales, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Woodbridge, N. J., and the sermon will be delivered by the founder and director of the hour, the Rev. Elmo L. Bateman, pastor of the Peoples Church in Irvington, N. J. There will be both instrumental and vocal talent provided by artists from the radio studios.

The members of the anniversary committee wish to thank those who have sent their names, addresses and phone numbers to E. W. Burden, at 15 Stephen street. We still welcome the same from those who have been members of the society any time during the life of the organization.

William H. Farrell of Upper Montclair, was elected president of the State Christian Endeavor Union which was held recently in Somerville. Mr. Farrell has long been connected with the Essex County Union having been its president for two years. Among the many other offices he held in that union was that of superintendent of the Fresh Air Home at Roseland. Among some of the outstanding speakers at the convention were, Rev. C. Gordon Brownville of Asbury Park; Rev. Paul H. Conrad of Rutherford; Dr. William Hiram Foulkes of Newark; Rev. Floyd L. Carr of Lexington, Mass.; Dr. Charles S. Poling of Bloomfield and many other such outstanding preachers from all over the east coast.

The cake sale held last Saturday at 246 Washington avenue was a great success and the committee wishes to thank all those who cooperated with the society to make it such.

The service last Sunday evening proved to be very inspiring as the campaign "Crusading With Christ" started in its last week as an active portion of this year's program. The meeting opened with a song service after which A. Staff made an announcement concerning an evangelistic campaign which started Sunday in the Old First Presbyterian Church of Orange under the direction of the Evangelist Bob Jones. These services will continue until Nov. 15. Robert F. Wolff then read the ninety-fifth psalm. This was followed by a poem read by Everett Burden, entitled "Down and Out." Mr. Lingerman then delivered the evening message in which he warned the young people to pick companions with a clean heart and reputation and to take plenty of time in considering how one would benefit by different habits and pleasures. The theme song "For the Beauty of Jesus," was the closing hymn followed by the C. E. benediction.

Next Sunday is your last opportunity to express your appreciation of the wonderful service rendered by our special speakers during the campaign.

Trojans Go On A Scoring Spree

Sunday Afternoon

Swamp Newark Aces, 34-6 As Manning Runs Wild

The Belleville Trojan gridders enjoyed their greatest scoring spree of the season in dumping the Newark Aces, 34-6, Sunday afternoon at Belleville Park.

A come-back in the second half, when they scored all five of their touchdowns, was the feature of the Trojan play. George Manning, with a pair of touchdowns, on runs of fifty and thirty yards, and with three successful extra point kicks, was the star of the game for the Trojans.

The local boys will hook up with the Verio A. C. Sunday afternoon at Elizabeth.

Clinton Jrs. To Meet Lincolns At Park

The Clinton Juniors will clash with the Lincoln A. C. of North Arlington Sunday morning at Belleville Park, in a junior football game.

..This Whirl Of Sport..

BY ARTHUR BLOEMER

COURAGE

SOME self-appointed critics were prone to remark immediately following the Central debacle of last Saturday afternoon that certain members of the local high school grid squad lacked one of the main attributes of good football players, courage.

They go on further to mention a specific instance. They call attention to the fact that the colored flash, Laysears, should never have completed his mad seventy-yard dash down the side-lines for a touchdown in the middle of the game. In their minds, he could easily have been pushed out of bounds, if not tackled.

Well, all we can say is, we would like an opportunity to refute all of the above. In the present squad of Yellow Jackets, we believe Coach Buchanan has about as courageous and as scrappy a gang of fellows as ever trotted a pig-skin for the furtherance in a football way of their alma mater.

Let's review the situation a bit. Just how did Central score its quartet of touchdowns? By any concerted, pile-driving attack that cut the Bell-boy defense to shreds? Of course not!

Just mention two names and you have the solution to the defeat. Jakes and Laysears. This pair of colored flashes practically single-handedly were responsible for all four six-pointers. Not only that but the final three touchdowns were the direct results of as many sensationally long runs by the duo. And the other one, the first, was indirectly resultant from the same mode of advance.

Without the above-mentioned disconcerting sprints Central's presentation was that of just another team.

That's where Bell-boy grit came to the fore-front. With the ever present double threat of Jakes and Laysears hanging over their heads, like a veritable Sword of Damocles, they were still able to out-charge a massive Central forward wall, that outweighed them almost fifteen pounds to a man.

Stop to consider a moment. The majority of times the Blue and Gold ball-carrier was able to find yawning holes in the Newarkers' line, as the heavily out-weighted Belleville linemen opened holes for them. But what happened once past the line of scrimmage? Jakes, as good defensive as on the offense, would spill him before he had a chance to get started, in his role of backing up the line. And this very same thing happened time and again.

In the face of such odds, the locals were still able to avert a shut-out, by pushing across a touchdown in the final quarter, due principally to some nifty pass-catching by young Charley Terry, substitute end.

It was simply a case of stopping the combination of Laysears and Jakes and the Bell-boys were not quite equal to the task. This pair combined speed, weight and shiftiness to an ultra degree seldom seen in school-boy ranks.

And as for spunk and real honest-to-goodness courage we believe that out-weighted Bell-boy eleven of the Central game need how to no one.

FASHIONING AN AERIAL GAME?

ONE OF the features, from the local standpoint, of Saturday's tussle was the marked improvement in the aerial game of the Bell-boy crew.

With Artie Leadbeater and "Fuzzy" Ryder on the throwing end, the Bell-boys should in the future prove distinct threats in that style of attack. An eye to Nutley's trimming of Kearny, Saturday, which was accomplished through the air, and Belleville's scuffle with the Kearny Cardinal, Thanksgiving Day, might give the impression that a well-executed forward passing game will be an advantage well worth figuring on.

Irvington, tomorrow, should provide adequate opportunity to test it further.

"PABLO" STILL AT IT

AMID the dust and ruins of Lehigh's crushing defeat at the hands of mighty Pennsylvania, Saturday afternoon, once again emerged the figure of Paulie Short, probably the greatest football player to ever don the Blue and Gold of Belleville High.

The lone reminder that weak Lehigh eleven had to show it was in the game was a brilliant fifty-yard dash off-tackle by the scintillating Short for its lone touchdown. This was the best run of the day for either side.

The more capers we see Short cut with that weak Lehigh crew, the more we like to picture him in the uniform of some eleven like Colgate, Notre Dame, or Southern California. How well he could don those mole-skins and what a nationally prominent figure he would become.

PREPPING FOR NUTLEY

OUR GALLANT little second-string football eleven at the local high school secured some measure of revenge for the defeat its first-string brothers suffered at the hands of Bloomfield, by trimming our westerly neighbors' Jayvees, 13-0, Monday.

The local second-stringers regard this highly tasty triumph as merely another stepping stone in their diligent preparations for that all-important Armistice Day scrap with the Nutley second team.

Princeton Coach To Speak For Hoover

Many Princeton men of Belleville and vicinity are planning to attend the dinner in honor of William (Bill) Roper, former Tiger grid coach, to be held Friday, October 28, at the Elks Club, Newark, by the Essex for Hoover Club. Roper, a candidate for congress from Pennsylvania, has taken the stump for President Hoover and will make two speeches in Essex that evening. Fritz Crisler, present coach of the Princeton team, has been invited to attend.

Elaborate plans are being made for the reception of the man who led the Orange and Black grid teams for more than a decade. He will be met at the Pennsylvania station by a delegation which will probably include officials of the Princeton Alumni association, members of Roper-coached teams, Essex members of the Football Coaches Association, the bands and grid teams of East Orange and Irvington High Schools, officials of Newark and the suburbs and Essex for Hoover Club leaders.

After the dinner, Roper will tour the county in an automobile parade with police escort. He will make his first speech at Franklin School, East Orange, at a rally of the North End Republican Club. His second speech will be made in Irvington, at an Essex for Hoover rally. Many Princeton men, unable to attend the dinner, are expected to turn out in large numbers to hear Roper speak.

During the years Roper was coach at Princeton, he built some of the finest teams the school ever had. Resigning a few years ago, due to press of his duties as a Philadelphia councilman, he has since made a name for

Belleville To Vote On Estimate Board

Ballots This Year Take On Biggest Size
Ever

Belleville will have a referendum all its own on the largest ballots in Essex County's history which will be handed to voters November 8.

They will be thirty-seven and a half inches long and about twenty inches wide, and will contain 216 to 225 candidates.

In Belleville the local referendum relates to the adoption of a state act to establish a "thorough and efficient system of free public schools and to provide for the maintenance, support and management thereof."

Hoover and Curtis will have the choice position on the ballots by reason of the recent drawing in the office of County Clerk Scott. Next will come Roosevelt and Garner, followed by other Presidential candidates, with Thomas and Maurer, Socialists, in the last place.

The ballot's size is due to the fact that for the first time in thirty years a sheriff and a county clerk will be chosen at a Presidential election, it was said in the county clerk's office. Also, for the first time a vacancy on the board of freeholders and an unexpired term of a United States Senator will be filled in a Presidential election year. It is calculated that not for a third of a century will a sheriff and a county clerk be elected again at the same time as a President.

Referendums will be at the top of the ballots, instead of the bottom, as heretofore. The first will provide a voice on the repeal of the Hobart act, the second will have to do with the reduction of state highway bonds from $83,000,000 to $63,000,000, and the third will propose an appropriation of the $20,000,000 for state emergency unemployment relief.

The large ballots are causing considerable concern to election officials. They say the increase in names to be checked will add many hours to the work and the ballots will be so bulky that the usual number of boxes will not hold them. It is pointed out also that it will require at least five minutes for each voter to mark and cast his ballot; thus 5,000 minutes or more than eighty-three hours will be required for voting in districts with 1,000 registered voters. In order to provide for a complete casting of votes, additional booths will have to be installed, they say.

Besides the Presidential choice, there will be a vote for a sheriff, a county clerk, three coroners, four freeholders, justices of the peace, a United States Senator, twelve assemblymen, a congressman and a state senator.

Probe Being Pushed
Preliminary investigation of the eligibility of new registrants for the November election has been completed in the First and Second wards of Newark, a portion of Belleville and virtually all of Irvington, Frank Klumb, deputy superintendent of elections, announced to day.

The investigation of all the municipalities must be completed before Saturday he said.

The checkup is made in connection with the preparation of the strike-out list. Those whose names appear on that list will be denied the right to vote unless they submit proof of eligibility to the Common Pleas Court.

Bargain Prices For Next Army Tussle

William And Mary To Play
Cadets This Saturday

West Point, N. Y.—Bargain prices will prevail at Michie Stadium next Saturday when William and Mary, who defeated Navy, will meet the Army team. Major Fleming stated that all tickets would be $1.10 and that approximately 5,500 sideline seats are available for sale to the general public. These tickets may be obtained in advance from the Army Athletic Association offices here, and in New York City from the Spalding Stores, Alec Taylor's, Army and Navy Club, Western Universities Club and the West Shore Railroad. Major Fleming stated that the best seats would go to the early applicants.

The "Indians," in addition to their victory over Navy, have made an excellent record. Their only defeat was by the strong Virginia Polytechnic eleven, who have a clean record for the season. V. P. I. also beat the Georgia team. Next Saturday's game will give football fans an opportunity to judge the strength of the two service teams.

Although the Army team has just passed through two hard games, Major Sasse stated that there would be no let down in practice for the Cadet squad. He plans to give the reserves special attention this week in an effort to increase their efficiency.

CAN you figure any other expenditure for household purposes that gives you more return for your money than you receive from the FEW CENTS A DAY spent for electricity?

Consider electric lights—why run the risk of damaging eyesight for a FEW CENTS A DAY?

We repeat, Count the Cost! You can have a well lighted home, cleaned by electric cleaners, your laundry work can be done by electric washers and ironers, your food kept in electric refrigerators—all for a FEW CENTS A DAY.
