Commission Meets To Consider Bonds $35,000 Bonds Are Renewed At Local Banks At 5 Per Cent

A $35,000 issue of tax revenue bonds are to be authorized by the board of commissioners Tuesday night. The bonds are to be sold to the First National Bank and Trust Co. to renew others which mature March 2, and will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent.

Director William H. Williams of the department of revenue and finance stated that he was elated by the transaction, saying, "This is the first occasion in many months that we have been able to get a 5 per cent interest rate on our bonds. I believe that the 6 per cent interest rate for municipal bonds is breaking, and it is pleasing to discover that our local bankers are willing to cooperate in this way."

The meeting was attended by only three commissioners and three spectators. Commissioner William D. Clark had to be summoned from his home to make up a quorum. Commissioner Frank J. Carragher was ill, and Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy was in Trenton, engaged in the business of the New Jersey State League of Municipalities, of which he is executive secretary.

The issuing of $5,000 in bond certificates of $1 and $5 denominations was authorized. The certificates, which were printed last year when $12,000 were issued, will be exchanged for $10 baby bonds, paid to town and school employees in lieu of cash. Williams said that issuing the certificates, used in making change, will save the expense of printing $1 tax revenue bonds.

The meeting was adjourned until tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock when a bond transaction to furnish $38,000 cash to the school board will be acted upon. Williams stated that $38,000 bonds will be issued to the State treasurer, who will turn over $38,000 in cash to Belleville schools. The bonds are to mature in annual installments over a period of five years.

It was necessary to adjourn the regular meeting until Saturday, rather than to call a special meeting, since three board members constitute a quorum at a regular meeting, while four members must be present at a special meeting, and it is feared that only three commissioners will attend the session tomorrow.

Cafeteria Supper At Grace Baptist

The Senior World Wide Guild of Grace Baptist Church will have a cafeteria supper in the social hall on Saturday, March 3 from 5:30 to 8 o'clock. A choice of four combination menus will be given at a minimum charge of 25 cents with tea, coffee and desserts extra. No. 1 plate: 25c, baked beans, boiled ham and cole slaw. No. 2, 30 cents, hot roast beef, gravy, mashed potatoes and a vegetable. No. 3, sausage, mashed potatoes and a vegetable. No. 4, 25 cents, casserole dish of ham, spaghetti and cheese and buttered beets.

Tomato juice and bread and butter will be served with all suppers. The desserts will be apple and pumpkin pie, and pudding served with whipped cream.

Mrs. Hazel Garg is general chairman, Mrs. Elizabeth Paxton is hostess, and Mrs. Ethel Prager is cashier.

Craftsmen's Club Notes

Essex Chapter, Order of De Molay, will have its degree and drill teams put on their work at Masonic Temple, at the next meeting, March 7. All Masons are cordially invited as guests of the Craftsmen's Club. About 200 Masons are expected.

On Thursday, March 8, all members of Belleville Craftsmen's Club are requested to attend Master Mason's night at Order of Amaranth's Royal Court, No. 41, at Belleville Masonic Temple at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor L. Hart, of 112 Floyd street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Barbara Leigh Hart, on February 17. Mrs. Hart was formerly Miss Roberta Groendyke of Lyndhurst.

Officers Nominated By Junior Club Results Of Election Will Be Made Known March 13

Nomination for officers was the predominating feature of the meeting of the Junior Woman's Club on Tuesday evening. Results of the election will be announced at the next meeting March 13.

Those girls who served the club for the past year include Myra Zink, president; Alice Cornell, vice president; Margaret Haworth, secretary; and Jane Rose, treasurer.

The meeting was purely a business one and reports were given by Mrs. Stem, Estelle Powers and Vivian Kilpatrick. Mrs. Stem gave a report on the luncheon in honor of Mrs. Margaret Corbett-Ashby January 24 in the Elk's Club in Newark, and also on the Junior reception in Hackensack that evening. Miss Kilpatrick told of the success of the International Relations meeting in Arlington. Miss Powers, International Relations chairman gave a most interesting report on the Youth Conference held at Dana College on February 22. As a result of these reports the Belleville Juniors are more enthusiastic over their own International Party to be held April 24.

Formal installation of the new officers will take place on May 8 at a "Surprise Meeting."

Woman's G.O.P. Club Meets Thursday

Candidates Night Is Set For Friday, April 6

The Belleville Woman's Republican Club will meet at the Woman's Club house, 51 Rossmore place, on Thursday afternoon of next week, March 8. The president, Mrs. John F. O'Brien Jr. will preside. Routine business will be transacted. On Friday evening, April 6, candidates for town commissioner at the coming election in May who desire may have for five minutes the right of floor to make known their platforms.

The club will vote on the candidates, and the five who receive the greatest number of votes will be endorsed by the club. Hostesses for the meeting on Thursday will be Mrs. John Lanza and Mrs. Harvey W. Mumford, who will assist Mrs. Arthur A. Darvo, house chairman. The president's birthday will be celebrated by a social hour of friendly chat. There will be a meeting of the trustees of the club held at the president's home, 578 Ridge street, Newark, on the day preceding the meeting of the club. Arrangements will be made for the election of two members to the board of directors.

P-T. A. Party

The Parent-Teacher Association of the high school will hold a card party and dance on March 16. Refreshments will be served. The Hatter Orchestra will furnish music.

Town Commission Acts To Pay Hospital Bills

Payment of two bills to St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, was ordered by the board of commissioners Tuesday night. The payment will total $2,447.50, and includes treatment of Patrolman Christopher Dotterweich after an accident, $1,947.50, and a $500 donation for police emergency service in 1933.

Commissioner Frank J. Carragher startled other board members several weeks ago when he stated that $19,000 was owing the hospital. It was found that this was for services given Belleville charity cases, and that the town would not be billed for this amount by the hospital. Hospital officials, however, wished to collect the $500 annual donation of the town.

Progress Club Gives Dinner For Abromson

Former President Praised By Speakers, Receives Gift

In appreciation of the services he rendered the Progress Club as its president from 1929 to 1933, Edward J. Abromson was given a desk set at a testimonial dinner held Sunday night in the Club Evergreen. Samuel Kogan, vice president, lauded the past-president in presenting the gift.

Commissioner A. F. Minisi of Newark, described Mr. Abromson as being loyal and faithful in telling of the many cases the Belleville attorney pleaded before him in the Irvington District Court when he sat as judge there. More than 300 persons attended the dinner.

"Abromson," Minisi said, "has always been a hard but a fair fighter. Ever loyal to his clients, he has always served them faithfully and well."

Nathan H. Berger, president of the People's National Bank & Trust Co., also paid tribute to Mr. Abromson as a brother lawyer. He pointed out he was speaking in a personal vein and not political. Michael Breitkopf, assistant county prosecutor, also delivered one of the principal addresses.

Other speakers included: Dr. Benjamin A. Jacobson, president of the Progress Club; Judge Ralph A. Villani and Judge Seymour Klein, of Newark police courts and Victor Lindeman. David Sarbone acted as toastmaster.

Accepting the gift proffered him, Mr. Abromson outlined the many philanthropic endeavors carried on by the local organization. He said his parents, who attended the dinner, were far prouder than he in having the tribute paid him.

Those who served on the arrangements committee included: Mr. Kogan, Mr. Sarbone, Abram Atkins, John Berlis, Samuel Kalischman and Henry Besser.

Women To Hold Dessert-Bridge

First Fine Arts Day Was Held At Club Last Monday

The Woman's Club of Belleville, Mrs. William F. Entreklin president, will hold a dessert bridge at the club house, 51 Rossmore place, next Monday afternoon, March 5 at 1:30. Hostesses headed by Mrs. John Pole include Mrs. H. L. Hamilton, Mrs. O. T. Breunich, Mrs. I. H. Cornell and Mrs. Herbert Carson. All card games are to be played and all members and their friends are invited.

Last Monday afternoon the club held its first fine arts day under the chairmanship of Mrs. LeRoy Bunnell. Due to the inclement weather some of the artists scheduled to appear were unable to reach the club house and will be heard at a future date. Mrs. Bunnell led the community singing after which Mrs. R. Clifford Whitfield, program chairman, gave a brief talk on Henry W. Longfellow whose birthday anniversary was celebrated Tuesday. Mrs. Edgar M. Compton read "The Building of the Ship" by the poet.

Mrs. John J. Hewitt, soprano, sang two solos "The Star" by Rogers and "Mattinata" by Tosti.

Mrs. F. F. Robertson, of Nutley, guest, discussed "The Work of the Blind" and urged all members of the club to attend the luncheon and demonstration to be held at Hahn's Department Store March 12 to 17. Thursday, March 15 will be Woman's Club Day with Mrs. W. J. Vail of Nutley, Eighth District vice president, acting as chairman. Mrs. Robertson said there were twenty-eight hundred blind in New Jersey and that children over five years were sent to schools where they learned the Braille system and then they were able to continue with the regular classes and make wonderful progress. Samples of Braille were shown.

Mrs. W. D. Cornish, art chairman, held an exhibition of old and modern glass, some pieces being over 150 years old. She also gave a short talk on art and showed a few of the pictures she had painted after the recent snow storm.

Refreshments were served by members of the fine arts committee.

On Tuesday afternoon the club held a kitchen shower frolic and a real good old fashioned time was enjoyed.

Mrs. James G. Shawger, was chairman and Mrs. Edgar M. Compton arranged the games. Awards were given Mrs. Clifford Whitfield, Mrs. H. Lester Hamilton, Mrs. Frederic Dodd, Mrs. George Fralley, Mrs. Fred Packrell, Mrs. Entreklin, Mrs. Cornish, Mrs. W. Y. Strange, Mrs. Harvey Thompson, Mrs. P. A. Fort, Mrs. William Engelmann, Mrs. Norman Cooper, Mrs. Harvey Mumford, Mrs. Joseph Miller and Mrs. S. H. Bird.

The kitchen equipment is now almost complete and the club will be able to hold many luncheons and dinners in the future.

The chorus, which was organized a few years ago, and which holds the interest of so many of the club members, will broadcast over Station WNEW, on a wave length of 1,250 kilocycles this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Lucille Bethel will direct and Mildred Unfried will be the accompanist.

This chorus meets every Tuesday morning at 10, at the club house, and new members are always welcome. The group is now preparing for their fourth annual concert to be held at the high school on the evening of April 12.

Violin Recital

The pupils of John Murray, violin teacher, of 123 Bell street, will give a recital Saturday, March 3 at the studio. The following program will be given: "O Sole Mio" by E. di Capua, arranged by Louis Wheaton for first and second violins and piano, and a selection of patriotic airs; violin solo, "Barcarolle," by Offenbach. Jane Buchanan; violin solo, "Serenade," by Toselli. William Bonelli; violin solos, "Traueraria," by Schumann and Minuet in G by Beethoven. Robert Jackson; Mr. Murray will play "Musical Moments" by Schubert, and "Cavatina" by Raff.

Elizabeth Buchanan will be the accompanist.

The Belleville Little Theater Guild has selected as its next production "Counsellor At Law," written by Elmer Rice. The play will be staged at the high school auditorium April 7. The story concerns a successful lawyer who came to America as an immigrant. At the height of his career, he is faced with disbarment and the loss of his selfish, socialite wife. His single-handed solving of his problems is the topic of the play.

The cast is at present being selected, and includes to date the Misses Eleanor Glenck, Arline Cadiz, Margaret Schneider, Aletha Struble and Helen Just, Mrs. J. Everett Nestell, Mrs. Robert G. Sutherland, John Munro, Arthur Flynn, Gordon Eskra, Thomas W. Fleming, William Chapman, Russell Green, John Aggar, Russell Walker and Richard Newman.

Samuel Figurelli Enters Commission Race Feels Courageous Action Is Not

Announces That His Candidacy Will Not Be Like That Of Any Other Person—Governmental Administration Scheme, He States

SAMUEL FIGURELLI

Samuel Figurelli, local attorney who was recorder from 1924 to 1926, announced his candidacy for the town commission this week. Mr. Figurelli was a candidate for election in 1930, and finished sixth in the race. He has lived in Belleville since childhood and is a graduate of Belleville High School and New Jersey Law School.

His statement follows: "The present day is one of great emergency in government. The occasion demands courageous action backed by sincerity and determination."

"In days gone by, men have played a game and have been elected to public office and after being elected to such office have enlarged on that game all to the great detriment of the taxpayer and rentpayer alike."

"The administration of government has become a political scheme. The citizens have been compelled to hold themselves in readiness like the old volunteer firemen and rush forth at any hour, in any weather, to prevent fire; and they have gone out sometimes and put out the fire after the damage has been done."

"Politics has been commercialized and a commercialized spirit is the spirit of self-gain and not the spirit of patriotism and civic duty, of individual gain and not of community."

prosperity, or trade and did and not of principle. "There must be honesty in genuine conscience, not in independence of government can hope to achieve must live by government."

Leadership Needs "Spinelessness or haughtiness must be replaced by leadership."

"As long as we live our task is to give up in despair but it is our duty to make amends not how great the difficulties are confront us. Let us truthfully the situation and go to work at look at it with amazement as were bewildered."

"As a candidate for commission I could outline many things should not be done but the present need is to perform rather than talk about what ought or not to be done."

Need New Order "Hypocrisy must be taken out of government and truthfulness put its stead. We need a new order things to fit in with present day conditions. We must establish as you go policy and build a and not go further into debt must have economy, in fact economy by the ton. These duties are bound to certain and have no right the blame back to the put jury is enough retribution; not be complimented by honor."

"The credit of a municipality judged from its assets and liabilities and not from front page false the shielding of the truth has helped the few, never the many. Belleville must rid itself and with the right tion and leadership it can. We must not retreat, let of the rot and forward march command to march forward must given on election day. An appeal being made to the electorate at court of last resort. The decision must be based on merit and not alone. Since our pocketbooks have become depleted we are beginning think harder and not simply things as a favor to others getting to do what in the eye and best for all. With none, if we must disagree we let us do so, openly and cannot afford to mislead ourselves to shield the other."

7 Boys Admit
Robbery Series
Belleville "Tough Eggs," 9
To 15 Years Of Age
Astound Police

A story of youthful crime on a large scale, was unfolded Saturday according to the police.

Proudly admitting they were "tough eggs," sporting aliases, and with a technical knowledge of crime which has left their captors astounded, seven boys, ranging in age from 9 to 15, were arrested Friday by Detective J. J. Flynn.

Among them, the seven are said by police to have admitted more than forty robberies in Belleville in the last year. They also are reported to have implicated other boys, whose movements are being checked by police who expect to make other arrests.

Police also believe that the activities of the gang have extended into Montclair and Kearny.

More as if they were recounting stories they had read in paper novels, the boys retold the history of their many "breaks."

In one case, they told their questioners, they were entering a Belleville store by using a brace and bit to open a door. The bit being dull, they said, they broke into a hardware store nearby, stole a new bit and proceeded with their first job.

The seven boys were arraigned Tuesday before Recorder Everett Smith.

Belleville Socials

Food Market Advice

THE weather man seems to be conspiring against those of us who like fresh fish during Lent. Snow, cold and storms have affected the Atlantic seaboard and inland lakes alike, making fishing difficult or impossible. A limited variety of fish is always available and even a few days of mild weather will bring supplies up to normal. However, smoked fish, salt fish and a variety of canned fish can always be counted on.

In the absence of fish, there are plenty of fine, fresh eggs at moderate prices, and since there is a recipe book entitled, "1,000 Ways to Cook Eggs", monotony need not be feared. Dependable American or "store" cheese is cheap and cheese dishes are numerous with perhaps macaroni and cheese or Welsh rabbit heading the list of favorites. For cooking, a sharp, crumbly aged cheese is desirable though a mild cheese may be preferred for sandwiches or to eat with pie.

Vegetables scalloped with white sauce and cheese or with bread crumbs, milk and egg make substantial luncheon or dinner dishes. Examples of the first type include cabbage, cauliflower or broccoli au gratin. Of the second type are scalloped egg plant, tomatoes, squash, celery and cucumbers to name only a few.

Salads should have a place in winter and early spring menus and they will prove acceptable luncheon dishes if they are preceded by a hot soup either homemade or canned. Dried peas and beans make hearty and inexpensive soups and in addition there are vegetable soup, various cream soups, clam chowders, oyster stew, noodle soups, broths and the popular onion soup. Soup ingredients such as onions, carrots, celery, cabbage and turnips are plentiful and inexpensive. Soup meat and bones of beef are reasonable if a meat stock is desired. Soups require careful seasoning and it pays to have on hand a few bay leaves, whole black peppers, dried celery tops and parsley to help flavor them.

The quality and price of lettuce is an inducement to serve salads. Plenty of fruits, vegetables and lettuce increase the bodily resistance to colds and, if this week is an example, most of us need all the resistance we can get. So let's serve green salads with a French type dressing, vegetable salad (well-marinated) with salad dressing or mayonnaise and fruit salads with whipped cream cheese or one of the cooked fruit juice dressings. Fish salads should also be well-marinated and require a dressing well spiced with mustard and Worcestershire sauce.

Plenty of fine fruits are in market at reasonable prices, including apples, oranges, grapefruit and bananas. Strawberries are not too expensive for the average pocketbook if used sparingly.

Meat choices for the next week include, surprisingly, broilers and calves' liver at relatively low prices, and, in addition fresh hams, ribs of beef, legs of lamb, top and bottom round pot roast, and fresh or corned boneless brisket of beef. In general, beef continues to offer the best values.

Here is an appetizing menu prepared from foods which are seasonable and economical.

Tomato Juice Cocktail
Corned Beef Boiled Potatoes
Cabbage
Bread and Butter
Deep Apple Pie Coffee Cheese

Essex County Tuberculosis League Meets; Work Of Organization Shown In Report

Six Hundred Citizens Of Belleville Are Safeguarded By
Work Here; Mrs. William M. Engelmann
Discusses Activities At Luncheon

The annual report of the Belleville committee of the Essex County Tuberculosis League was presented last Thursday by Miss Elizabeth Smith, local tuberculosis nurse, at a meeting of the advisory board at the office of the chairman, Eugene M. Gavey. The report was also read at a luncheon of the league at the Newark Athletic Club last Thursday by Mrs. William M. Engelmann of Belleville. The report follows:

"A child saved from drowning by a uniformed officer who plunges into the water and drags forth the little one, will get headlines any day. More than likely the Chamber of Commerce or the Rotary Club will arrange a banquet, and amid applause, the worthy hero will receive a medal.

"Such deeds deserve medals, and yet, what shall we say for those who save many more lives by less spectacular methods?

"This is the story of the work of a tuberculosis nurse in 1933. Substitute for the water that will drown, tuberculosis germs that will surely kill. Substitute for the dashing officer, a quiet woman and the elements which call for a banquet, applause and a medal, will be missing. The report tells of home visits, of clinics, and other things that do not suggest anything spectacular. But rearrange the picture, change the wording, and the truth will come to light and we will know why a hundred and fifty citizens of Belleville coming into the clinic for the first time means safeguarding lives.

"Little Gracie lived on the very edge of a dangerous stream. No, she didn't. She only lived in a family where there was a case of tuberculosis. She saw no harm in playing by the pretty water. She even waded into it sometimes, thoughtless of the slippery stones that sloped out toward the deep current. Really, the sentence should read, 'she knew nothing of danger in sitting on her father's knee and even kissed him sometimes.' But one day when she was playing by the stream, she slipped, fell and would have been swept away had not an officer seen and rescued her. The truth is, the nurse visited the home, saw that little Gracie's health was slipping. A physician's report had informed the nurse that the father was tuberculous. Her task was one of gentle persuasion—persuading the father to go to the clinic, be examined, apply for admission to the sanatorium—persuading little Gracie to be examined and go to a preventorium so that she might be built up and strengthened before the germs obtained a stranglehold on her little body.

"This is the kind of meaning that lies behind each clinic visit, and from it comes our title, 'Safeguarding 600 Citizens.' The 150 persons examined in clinic for the first time in 1933 come out of families which, according to the average of four, total 600 persons, every one of whom is made safer by having proper protection and care offered to those who are sick with tuberculosis.

"Now let us go on with some of the prosaic figures of our report.

"1933 saw a 45 per cent increase in clinic work with 152 new cases examined. It is your nurse's opinion that this is due to the improved service available, rather than to any sudden increase in tuberculosis. People were patronizing the clinics better, that is all. Forty-seven of these were contacts, which means a person who lived in the same family group with a case of tuberculosis. These were examined for the first time. Two children were found to be positive cases and were sent to Glen Gardner. Eight children were referred to Preventoria. A total of twenty-three cases were reported by private physicians and the clinic. These were male, 13; female, 6; and children, 4. Out of this number ten cases were found in clinic; male, 4; female, 3; and children, 3.

"Additional 1933 figures: Number of clinics held, 32; number of persons examined, 399; Average number per clinic, 11.3; number of X-rays taken, 91; number of Mantoux (skin tests), 119; number of visits made by nurse, 1,473; and number of co-operative visits to State Relief and Mt. Carmel Guild for clothing, food, etc., 184.

"Here are the figures regarding patients who enter Sanatoria. The tuberculosis nurse has the responsibility of 'engineering' the application of these persons. It is her duty to see that they go when they are called. It is also her duty to keep closely in touch with discharged patients for a time at least, after they leave the Sanatorium.

Glen Gardner, male, 3; female, 1; children, 2; total, 6. Essex Mountain Sanatorium, male, 6; female, 5; children, 0; total, 11. Private sanatoria, male, 2; female, 1; children, 0; total, 3. Farmingdale Preventorium, children, 5.

"Deaths reported in 1933 were 16: Male, 10 and female 6. Ten of these were white and six colored. Four of these deaths were of persons who gave Belleville addresses but belonged to other districts.

"There were three persons who gave Sanatoria as observation cases who were found not to have tuberculosis.

"The nurse devotes three days each week to work in Belleville. There are three clinics held each month, second, third and last Mondays at the Isolation Hospital, under the direction of Dr. Byron M. Harmon of Essex Mountain Sanatorium.

"Educational talks were given at the Belleville High School. Parent-Teacher Association, and at the Women's Club, by Elizabeth F. Smith, R. N. Movies and talks given at the Lion's Club and high school by Rowan Whealdon, executive secretary of the Essex County Tuberculosis League.

"On January 28, 1933, a new Plymouth car replaced the faithful Dodge car which had been used by the nurse in Belleville and Nutley since 1929, and had seen better days before it reached us.

"On May 12, 1932, an advisory board committee was reorganized to give local direction to the tuberculosis work and to resume responsibility of the Christmas Seal Sale, so that it would be better understood in the community. Mr. Eugene M. Gavey was selected chairman. On November 23 of this year, namely 1933, the following names were added to the committee. Mrs. Edmund Rung, Mrs. William Engelmann, Rev. Joseph Kelly and Rev. Peter Deckenbach.

"In conclusion, we wish to gratefully acknowledge the assistance of the Girl Scouts for the distribution of posters throughout the town; credit is also due the Health Department, baby hygiene nurses, and physicians. Special thanks are due Dr. E. L. Smith, superintendent of the Essex County Isolation Hospital, for permission to hold the Belleville Diagnostic Clinic at his institution. The Women's Club and Sunshine Club deserve special thanks for cod liver oil given to the sick and undernourished children. Mention must be made of Christmas gifts from the Lion's and Elks' Clubs, sent to the children at Farmingdale and to the adults at Sanatoria. The Mount Carmel Guild contributed clothing. We wish to thank the clergy for their great help in talks given from their pulpits. Your nurse wishes especially to thank her committee for their helpful support and their faithful efforts to increase the Seal Sale."

St. Petersburg Visitors

By JOHN LODWICK

St. Petersburg, Fla.—March 2.—(Special)—Far from the coldest winter in recent years, local vacationists are enjoying the gayest and most brilliant of social seasons here in the summerlike weather of the tropics, attending the colorful functions at the smarter hotels, afternoon teas in palm fringed patios, beach bathing parties, and sport events everywhere within the Sunshine City.

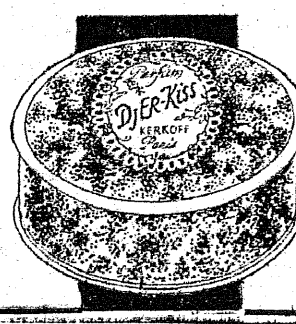

From Nutley in the south are: J. G. Lubben, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nichols, R. W. Sheffer, Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Warren, Robert B. and James E. Warren, from Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McKnight, Miss K. Hagen Miller and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Turner.

A fish dinner will be held on Friday, March 9, at the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Vreeland and Hillside avenue, under the auspices of the Trinity Aid. Dinner to be served from 6 to 8 P. M.

Figurelli Enters Commission Race

the hardest. Perpetuity in office does not produce good government. That is why our form of government has guaranteed elections to our people.

"Acts in public office should be praiseworthy and public officials should not put themselves in a position where their time is wasted either in explaining their every act or sort of apologizing for them.

"When a boy, I yearned to become a lawyer so that I might pierce through the veil of pretense and take up the side of justice and righteousness. As a practicing counselor at law I derive a fair income from my profession and can well afford to be fearless in the performance of my duties if elected a commissioner. I am no politician and do not intend to make a career of politics but have made myself a candidate because I seek to better the conditions of the town in which I have resided since childhood.

Not Tied Up

"My candidacy is absolutely not linked with the candidacy of any other person, notwithstanding rumors to the contrary. Facts may be news but rumors are simply stories concocted for a sinister purpose. We are all interested in facts but not rumors coming from behind a shield. Further, I have a tongue and mind of my own and unafraid to use them when required. I shall only be responsible in this campaign for that which comes directly from me.

"I intend to conduct my campaign in a fair and straight forward manner and I earnestly hope that if anyone has anything to say with regard to my candidacy he make his comments in a similar manner and not behind my back at the eleventh hour as was done in the last municipal campaign. Four years of time has brought much light and truth to the surface.

Will Not Shirk Duty

"If elected a commissioner I shall co-operate with my colleagues on the commission for the betterment of the common good, but on the contrary, I shall not sit back and shirk my duty when the occasion requires that I stand up and defend the rights of the people. Commissioners are assigned as directors of the various departments but being the elected representatives of all the people they have no right to stand by when they know the common interest is not being advanced in any particular department.

Miele Seeks Bus Line To Nutley Velodrome

Transit Company Asks To Cross Bridge With Passengers

A letter from Joseph Miele, promoter of the Nutley Velodrome, asking that buses of the City Service Transit Co., operating from North Newark to Lyndhurst, be permitted to cross the Avondale Bridge into Nutley to receive and discharge passengers at the Velodrome, was received by the town commission Monday night. Miele promised that Park avenue would be kept free of parked buses, stating that they could run into the Velodrome property to avoid traffic congestion.

Edward W. Fox, president of the transit company, also wrote to the board, outlining the route of the line which operates in Belleville to the Belleville Bridge, then in River road in North Arlington and Lyndhurst. The company hopes to be able to cross into Nutley to the Velodrome during the racing season.

The matter was referred to the department of public safety, of which Commissioner Francis T. Stager is director. An ordinance, passed by referendum several years ago, vests authority over bus lines in the director of public safety.

A WORD OF PRAISE

After seeing the results of the recent snow-fall, we have come to the reluctant conclusion that it is useless to attempt to threaten or cajole all property owners into cleaning the snow and ice from their sidewalks promptly. It is, however, entirely proper to praise those who have sufficient consideration for their fellow citizens to clear their walks as promptly as possible, in order that others will not be compelled to wade through masses of snow or slush, or pick a precarious way over the glistening ice.

In spite of the many instances of impassable sidewalks, there are still householders who busy themselves with shovel and broom as soon as the snow ceases to fall, making things a great deal easier for those who must travel on foot. We are pleased to see this evidence of civic spirit.

A VOTE AND ONE-HALF

A California professor has devised a way to assist the puzzled voter in a three cornered contest.

He suggests that each voter be allowed to cast a vote and one-half. He can cast his full vote for his favorite candidate. Then he can cast his half vote for the man he thinks is the next best candidate for the job. In this way the savant believes that a minority candidate, running to split the vote, can be prevented from election.

It, naturally, would be impossible for the voter to cast his vote and one-half for one candidate. In Belleville the problem—as far as our election for commissioners is concerned—would be to cast a vote and one-fifth.

A WORLD TENOR

John McCormack, the singer, is about to go to Africa for a concert tour. Starting at Capetown, he will give twenty-five concerts in the principal cities of South Africa. Thus he will add the last continent to his remarkable career, after which he will go to Ireland to celebrate his fiftieth birthday. Following that he will appear in Madison Square Garden to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of his first New York appearance. The great Irish tenor has certainly had a remarkable career, and the greatest thing about it is that he is more popular today than ever before. Though he is always known as the Irish tenor, he is really the singer of the people of the world.

GOING QUITE FAR

Some fantastic proposals have been advanced in the name of relief, and one of the most outstanding in that classification is that which would make the government the angel of Broadway to the extent of $1,000,000. The proposal, which is being prepared for presentation to Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, calls for the government to set up a revolving fund of $1,000,000 to finance theatrical productions. A percentage of the profits from successful productions would go to make up the losses on those which failed. By almost any standard of measurement, the proposal seems to be entirely outside the proper function of the government relief agencies.

WHITE HORSES

This storm like great white horses rode New Jersey skies. The wolf-pack of the gale howled hard at their heels. Curveting and bridling—racing now swiftly, now slowly—these wild albino mounts flew onward in a mad stampede. The ivory foam from their flanks etched with alabaster the unlifted fingers of the trees.

Perhaps on a June afternoon we will contemplate the verdant landscape, the dimpling sea, and will feel the caressing fingers of the breeze. Then we will forget the cold and the travail—and the power and majesty of the storm. Steadily, despite everything, June approaches.

OFFICE MANNERS

"Sir!" cried the office boy, breaking into his employer's private sanctum. "Sir!"

"What's this! What's this!" exclaimed the man behind the desk. "Where did you get your training? Who gave you permission to disturb me when I am occupied with important matters? Hereafter, young man, knock before you enter, and then, wait until I look up from my desk before you address me."

"But, sir—" "Never mind explaining," replied the employer with a philosophical air. "You must learn to remember that after a wrong has been done, an explanation is but a futile attempt to excuse your ignorance. Remember, too, that office manners are as important as table manners."

"Now then, I think I'll give you a few instructions on the subject. Step outside again, knock at the door, then turn the knob and enter—closing the door softly behind you. Come within three feet of my desk and wait until I raise my eyes from this paper. Then give me your message. Do you think you can do that?" "Yes sir," replied the boy nervously.

It took the little fellow fifteen minutes before he could get himself to execute the office manner exercise well enough to please his employer. Finally it was accomplished, and the boy stood before his boss, biting his lips, and shifting his weight from one foot to another.

"All right, now," said the executive, "what was it you came in here to tell me?"

"Well, sir," replied the boy, "a l'il while ago two men walked into the outer office. They had guns and made everybody raise their hands. They gagged and tied the whole office force, and they took all the money out of the safe. I got loose right away and ran in here to tell you, so that you could 'phone the police, but I guess it's too late now."

"Smoking habit!" cried the executive waving his arms. "Why the hell didn't you tell me all this the minutes you came in here? Why in thunder did you make me waste so much time? I ought to fire you for your lack of common sense in an emergency. I ought to—"

CHINA

No Chinese lady ever eats at the same table with her husband; he would "lose face" if he ate with a woman.... When a Chinese mother attains her fiftieth year, her children unite and buy her the greatest and most precious present she can receive—her grave-clothes.... Seventeen years is about the average marriageable age of a Chinese girl.... One of the chief reasons for divorce in China is the lack of sons. Sons mean so much, that a mother feels the Gods must be jealous of her happiness, consequently she puts an ear-ring in the ear of her boy to deceive the god and make him think he is a girl.... Of the five punishments of the Chinese criminal code directed against three thousand offenses, disobedience or neglect of parents is most severe.... Divorce is very rare in the Orient, but there are seven reasons given for divorcing a wife. The first is disobedience to father—or mother-in-law, barrenness, lewdness, leprosy, over-much talking, and stealing.... When a Chinese person dies, paper money is scattered in front of the corpse in order to pay his way into the new world. The body is often kept in the house for a few months.... Chinese people buy their coffins many years before their death.... A Chinese mother who cannot afford to bury her dead child will throw him in a "baby tower"—a small round house, situated on the outskirts of the city. The interior of this house is filled with quicklime.... A son is supposed to mourn three years for his father, during which time all occupation is to cease.... When a woman is left a widow, she often vows that she will not remarry, and she spends her life in pious acts that cause her village or her clan at her death to erect a memorial to her honor.

Wine Maxims For the Host

Choose Glasses According to the Wines

EVERY hostess has looked into her glass closet since repeal, and wrung her hands, for during the prohibition era, few gave thought to the proper glasses in which to serve "the wine of the country"—gin and gingerale. It wasn't necessary. People drank anything and they weren't particular in what they drank it. But now, it is necessary to learn in what glasses to serve the various wines that are returning to favor.

At first, the thought that each wine and each liqueur must have its own glass is pretty appalling, especially as storage space seems to have shrunk during the past generation. But a little careful planning and consideration of one's own particular problem will soon simplify matters.

The first thing the post-repeal hostess must do is to decide how much entertaining she is going to do. If she is going to have small, informal home dinners her problem is simple. If she is going in for entertaining in the grand manner the problem is more complicated.

"Notes for an Epicure" a just published contains a simplified list of glassware for ordinary home use that includes everything most likely to be needed. The list includes water goblets; four ounce wine glasses; red or dry white wines; two ounce wine glasses, for sweet wines, and liqueur glasses. Sir, now isn't it?

To be absolutely swank one must have different size glasses for white and red wines, but this is strictly necessary at home. The hostess who entertains in the order in which they are to be served, from right to left. Never have more than three glasses on the table. And serve brandy in the drawing room with dinner coffee.

Society's favorite dessert

Just unwrap a snowy-white square of "Philadelphia" Brand Cream Cheese—serve it for dessert with jam, crackers and coffee! "Philadelphia," made from sweet cream, is delicately-flavored and pure. Highly nutritious, it is splendid for children. Serve it often!

TIMELY FEATURES FOR THE HOME

MIAMI, MAGIC CITY OF FLORIDA, THROGGED WITH GREATEST CROWDS, as Better Days Come to the Nation

MIAMI, FLA.—People from every state in the nation, in summer clothes, happy and carefree, throng the streets of Miami, the beaches, the race track, the dog races, the fountains; the suburbs of Miami are filled, cars with name plates from every state fill the streets and the highways leading North, South and through the Everglades.

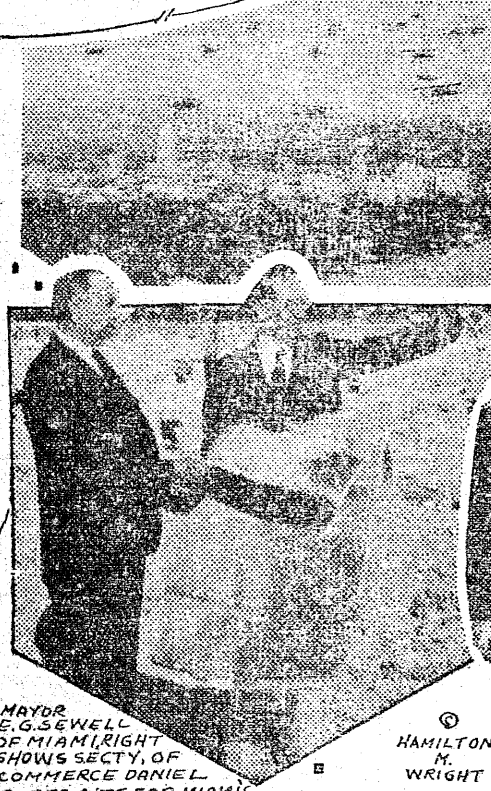

The real estate board will tell you, if you ask them, that after a careful computation, they estimate the number of visitors in Miami at more than twenty per cent in excess of the high peak of the boom days of 1924-25. The thousands of hotels and apartment houses, homes, cottages and bungalows are packed, yet they say so vast is Miami's capacity to take care of visitors that fully thirty thousand more persons could be accommodated without inconvenience.

Old residents of this city see in the crowds an omen of the returning prosperity of America. "Prosperity is at our door step," cry some. "It is already here," say others. "America after four years of travail forgets the past and takes time to enjoy the warm sun, and play."

Something for Everybody.

Although the wealthy are in Miami in numbers and the most expensive hotel suites and apartments are filled, it is the mass of people of average means who make up the crowds at Miami. The business element of the city has been careful to maintain prices at a reasonable rate, and a person shows one can live in Miami as cheaply as in any other city in the United States. In fact if you come you can live comfortably in Miami at a less cost than for similar accommodations in the North.

"People came in large numbers to Miami earlier this year than in the years preceding. In October I was doing a late November business," said H. H. Mase, veteran Miami hotel operator. "In December, I was doing January business. By the first of February, I had three times the applications that my hotel could hold, but I managed to find pleasant accommodations for everyone.

Miami's splendid come-back is due not alone to improved conditions throughout the United States but also to the determined effort made by her citizens and by lovers of the city. One of the latter is Col. H. L. Doherty, engineer, inventor and noted public utilities magnate.

Henry L. Doherty Interested.

Three years ago when Miami, even in midwinter, felt the depression which then prevailed through the country, Col. Doherty came to Miami as a winter visitor. He was captivated by the city and its possibilities to provide health and recreation for residents of the cold Northern states. He was impressed with its strategic situation on the routes of air trade with Latin America. He purchased two large hotels, one in Coral Gables and one at Miami Beach, and also equipped a fine camp for deep sea fishing at Key Largo. He connected these properties, which were units of his Florida Year Round Club, by fast transportation, and even included a fleet of autogiros to carry visitors speedily from one base to another. He instituted a special train, provided with heretofore unknown attractions, to Florida and brought down an entire party of Latin American diplomats from the North. Golf tournaments and a score of other attractions were provided. Nation-wide advertising was begun. The result was that the winter of 1933 saw large crowds in Miami. But the country was not back on its feet. Yet the ball had started rolling. And early last fall it became evident that Miami was to enjoy the greatest season in her history, that people were to come earlier in the season and remain later in the spring.

Widener Backs Racing.

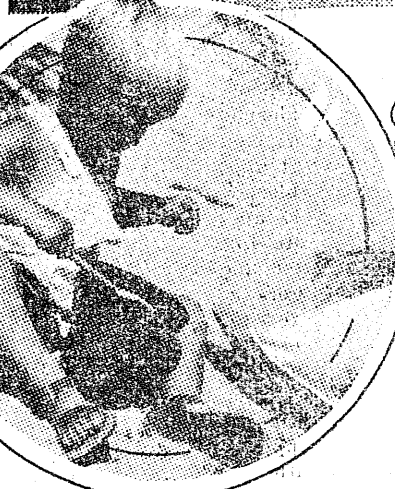

Not since the days of the late Henry M. Flagler and of Henry M. Plant had a man of great wealth from the North taken a similar interest in the development of Florida. At the same time Mr. P. A. B. Widener of Philadelphia, wealthy racing patron, became interested in the possibilities of horse racing upon an elaborate scale in Miami. Mr. Widener expended some two million dollars to perfect one of the world's most beautiful race courses at Hialeah in the suburbs of Miami. At the opening of the track this year more than twenty thousand people attended in a colorful pageant of bright summer garments.

Mayor Sewell Ardent Booster.

Meanwhile E. G. Sewell had been elected mayor of Miami. Mr. Sewell settled in Miami in 1896, when ground was first broken for the new city by the late Henry M. Flagler. He opened the first store in Miami in that year. In 1914, when Miami had a population of but 7,500 people, he passed the hat among the merchants of the city and raised three thousand dollars for advertising in the North. That year Miami had to turn away five thousand people to other Florida resorts. Mr. Sewell served as president of the chamber of commerce for many years. He also served previously as mayor of the city, and in these two capacities he raised many hundreds of thousands of dollars to advertise the city and to provide suitable entertainments and facilities for tourists. Last summer he began a new campaign which has greatly increased the prestige of Miami.

Mr. Sewell early recognized the strategic position of Miami in relation to Latin American trade. When the harbor was impassable to all but shallow sail boats he advocated the dredging of a channel to admit deep sea ships to Miami. He visited Washington many times to impress the officials with the necessity of this work and finally a deep sea channel was dredged up to the Miami waterfront.

Today large ships reach Miami from the North and the Caribbean islands and distant ports. The government recently appropriated more than three million three hundred thousand dollars to still further deepen the channel to admit ships drawing thirty feet of water, and appropriated one hundred and forty thousand dollars to enlarge the turning basin.

Now that trade by airplane via the Pan American Airways has become so important between Miami and Central and South America, Mr. Sewell has proposed that Miami establish a great permanent Pan American Exposition, where exhibits from both Latin America and the United States may serve as the basis of orders for goods to be filled by airplane or steamer.

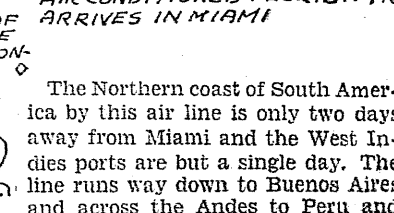

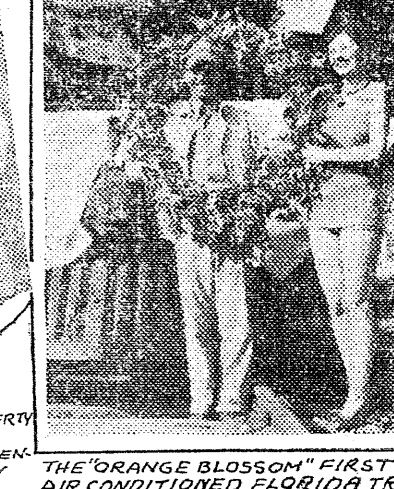

RONNEY PLAZA ON THE BEACH MEETING PLACE OF THE FAMOUS

Air Trade Builds Commerce.

More than one thousand importing houses in the United States are now doing business with Latin America through the medium of the air mail and air express from Miami. The Pan American Airways is now carrying upwards of two thousand passengers per month to and from Miami. The great air concern has more than 350 employees in Miami, where its payroll exceeds $55,000 per month. But altogether it has more than 2,000 employees, some 146 airships, and some 140 airports. It is said to have never lost a ship. Some of its largest airships carry as many as forty-four passengers. It is now completing a marine air base in Miami to cost $1,000,000, the finest in the world, with a capacity for four ships to arrive or depart at the same time.

The "Orange Blossom" First Air Conditioned Florida Train Arrives in Miami

The Northern coast of South America by this air line is only two days away from Miami and the West Indies ports are but a single day. The line runs way down to Buenos Aires and across the Andes to Peru and up the West coast. The Pan American Airways is now spending five million dollars in emergency improvements.

Naturally, since American commercial men can now visit South and Central America in a few brief days, more and more of them are actually visiting their business prospects, which is the best way to develop trade.

The Latin American Exposition proposed by Mayor Sewell will make it possible for American merchants and importers to see all the wide variety of Latin American products and place their orders accordingly.

The City of Miami has dedicated a beautiful site for the exposition upon Biscayne Bay, and by virtue of the tremendous air mail, amounting to more than two million business letters to the West Indies alone during the first two months of this year, they see increasing trade activity and a bright future for Miami.

A Winter Sports Supper

BY JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

THE BOUND winter brings exhilarating sports that whip the appetite to a keen edge. Why not invite the sleigh party or skiing meet to share your pantry shelves when the games are done. Serve a simple meal so your own pleasure in the games need not be curtailed by lengthy food preparations. With a well stocked larder of prepared foods, you can set a meal before your guests to please the palates of hungry athletes. Steaming bowls of Cream of Tomato Soup served in green with large crackers. Spanish Queen Olives and celery, grilled sandwiches, Mince-meat Drop Cookies or Cherry Pie, coffee and mints, win the hostess equal laurels with the hero of the sports.

Interesting Exhibit At Contemporary Galleries

A one man exhibit of unusual interest is on view in the Club Galleries of The Contemporary, 605 Broad street, Newark, during the month of February. The artist, George C. Gilmore of 46 Thomas street, Newark, is 81 years old and has been painting for over 45 years.

The group of thirty pictures covers the period from 1888 to the present. The earlier works showing still life arrangements are typical of the late nineteenth century style of painting, and their original frames offer an opportunity to study the methods of framing used during those years. Landscapes form the greater part of the exhibit—one of the old Morris Canal attracting particular attention. Perhaps the most effective piece of work in the showing is "Moonlight," a study in light and shadow, in which a ship rides at full sail in the path of the moon's light.

The exhibition is open to the public and can be seen daily from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.

50th Anniversary Marked By Belleville Couple

A golden wedding celebration was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. August Hageman of 75 Beech street, Belleville, at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Peters of 363 Walnut street, Nutley, Saturday night. The house was decorated with daffodils and narcissus.

Mr. and Mrs. Hageman were both born in New York, where they were married fifty years ago. Mr. Hageman, who is 74, has been employed since his marriage as a silversmith with Tiffany and Co. The couple moved to Belleville seventeen years ago. They are members of Emanuel Baptist Church, Newark.

Besides Mrs. Peters, their children are Miss Lillian Hageman of the Belleville address; Harry Hageman of 60 High street and Frank Hageman of 47 Oak street, both of Belleville; Mrs. Fred Hart of Appleton, Wis., and Mrs. Donald Cameron of Meriden, Conn. There are seven grandchildren.

News Adds Bright Feature For Women

Director Of Famous Kelvin Kitchen Writes For Us Exclusively

On another page of this edition of The News, is an announcement of a new feature for women readers. Joan Adams' column, "From the Kelvin Kitchen," has been obtained for exclusive use in this town by The News.

Joan Adams is director of the famous Kelvin Kitchen, which for more than six years, has been conducting a series of laboratory and field tests in problems pertaining to home-management.

Each week this celebrated writer of home economics material will give you valuable suggestions on subjects such as special diets, table settings, menus, recipes, food preparations, and any other problems which you care to bring to her attention.

If you wish immediate help on any matter of this sort, send the question to her in care of The News with a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Joan Adams will then send her suggestions to you personally.

In offering this column to the woman readers of The News, the publisher believes that a real contribution is being made to the community. While there are many recipe and menu services available to newspaper readers, there is no other feature which can so authoritatively cover such a large field.

Light Food for Sound Sleep, Child Sleep Prober Discovers

Dr. Laird adjusting the somnokinograph, the most sensitive sleep recording instrument yet developed. It is so delicate that it registers even such slight movements in bed as a two-inch shift of the hand. The long roll of paper shows a complete record of sleep movements during the night.

WHAT children eat for their supper has an important influence on how they sleep during the night, according to the findings of Dr. Donald A. Laird, Director of the psychological laboratories at Colgate University. A light supper in which the main dish consists of some such easily digested food as the familiar corn flakes and milk provides the best assurance of sound and restful sleep.

In arriving at his findings Dr. Laird collected sleep data from a group of eight children ranging in age from four and a half to eight years. The investigation covered a period of approximately four months. Data was collected for nights on which the children were fed the "cereal supper," for other nights on which they were given the ordinary suppers to which they were accustomed in their homes, and for still other nights on which some rather indigestible food was included in the supper. In every case the best sleep records were made on the "cereal nights."

Data on how the children slept each night was obtained through the use of a number of delicate scientific instruments which, in addition to the somnokinograph for recording sleep movements, included a thermograph to show changes in room temperatures, a chronokinometer to show the duration of sleep movements, and a kinometer to measure the total number of inches the mattress was moved by sleep disturbances during the night.

MENU SAVERS

When you've racked your brains until they just won't rack any more and chewed the point of your pencil right down to the lead trying to decide on a menu for Thursday's dinner or Tuesday's luncheon, it's time to decide on a one-dish meal. They are so satisfyingly easy to prepare and so nourishing.... regular menu savers. I make it a point to have a one-dish meal at least once a week, usually on a day when I'm going to be rushed to the last gasp right up to the minute the family gathers around the table and demands food with a capital F.

One dish meals are really one of the bright spots in any home-manager's life, for they can be prepared well in advance and stored in the refrigerator, and then popped into the oven and forgotten about while she sets the table, tosses together a crisp salad and puts the coffee on. Try one of these meals the next time the bridge club meets. You'll be able to enjoy yourself right up the last totalling of the score, and won't have one of those harassed I-really-ought-to-be-home-starting-dinner appearances.

These meals can have almost anything as a basic foundation—cheese, vegetables, meat or fish. At this time of year they should be served piping hot and accompanied by either a salad or a simple fruit dessert. You'll find them a grand way to use up leftovers, too.

CHEESE AND VEGETABLE CASSEROLE

1½ cups milk
1 cup soft bread crumbs
¾ cup melted butter
2 pimientos, chopped
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1½ tablespoon chopped onion
1½ cups grated cheese
¾ teaspoon pepper
¾ teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1 cup drained cooked or canned vegetables.

Scald the milk and pour over the bread crumbs. Add butter, pimientos, parsley, onion, grated cheese and seasoning. Then add the well-beaten eggs. Put the vegetables in a well-buttered loaf pan and pour the milk and cheese mixture over them. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees) for 1 hour. Serves 6.

MIXED GRILL

1½ lbs. round steak, ground
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 small onion, minced
6 bananas
4 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon pepper
3 tomatoes.

Combine meat, mustard, minced onion, salt and pepper. Form into flat round cakes. Peel bananas and cut washed tomatoes in halves lengthwise. Brush bananas, meat cakes and tomatoes with melted butter. Sprinkle tomatoes with salt and pepper and a little flour. Arrange meat cakes, bananas and tomato halves on a broiler rack and broil for 10-12 minutes. Turn bananas once. Serves 6.

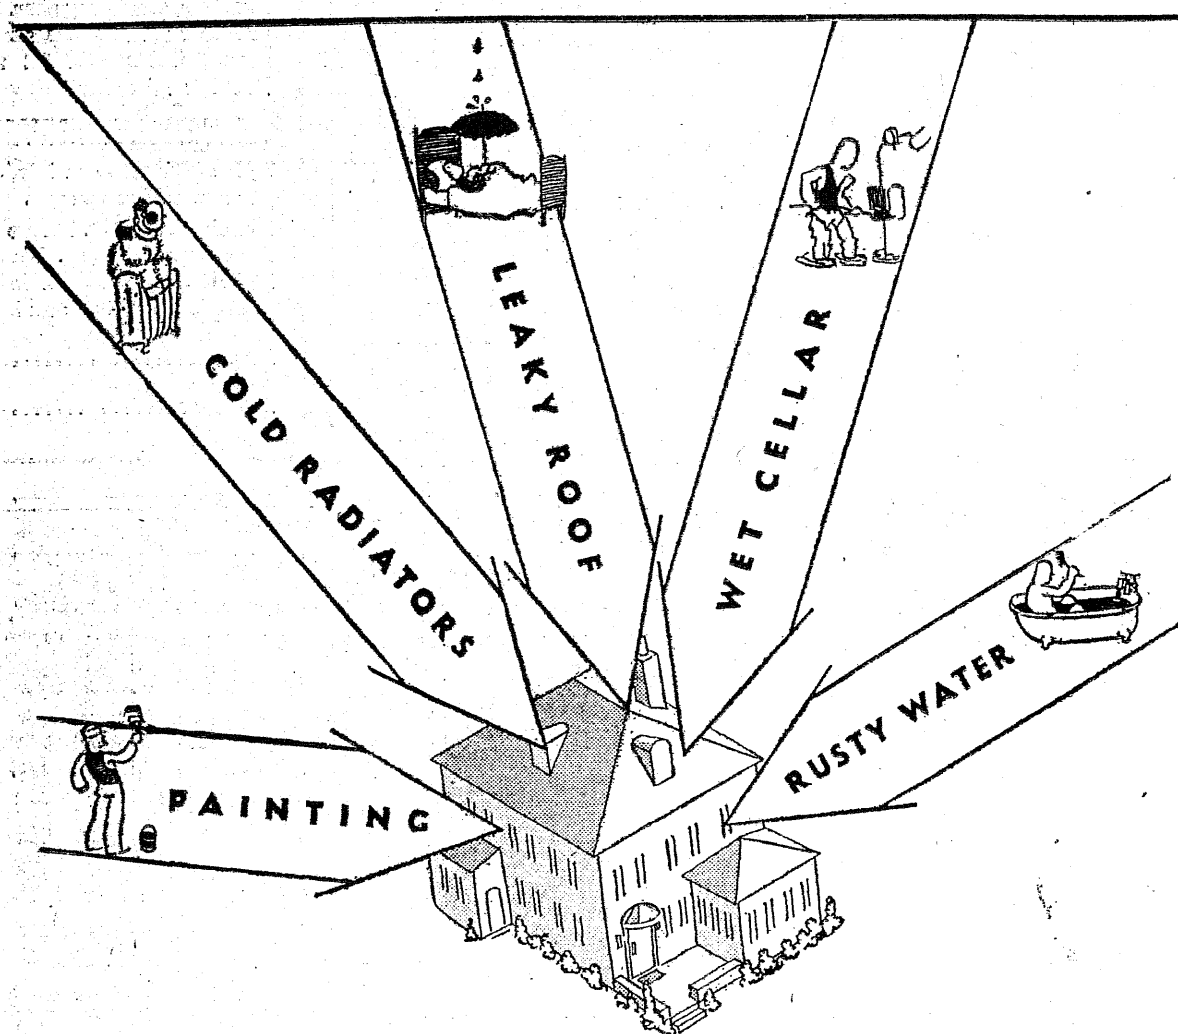

PORK PIE SUPREME

1½ lbs. shoulder pork
3 onions (small)
4 tablespoons butter
1½ cups hot water
¾ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon paprika
3 tart apples
3 tablespoons flour.

Put pork and onions through grinder. Saute for 5 minutes in butter. Add water and simmer for 10 minutes longer. Stir in flour which has been mixed to a paste with a little cold water. Add seasonings and cook 3 minutes longer. Peel apples and slice very thin. Sprinkle with sugar. Fill baking dish with alternate layers of apples and meat mixture and cover with

Sweet Potato Biscuits

Sift 1 cup flour with 3 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Cut in 3 tablespoons butter. Lightly mix in 1 cup mashed sweet potatoes and add ¼ cup milk. Roll out to ½ inch thickness on lightly floured board and cut with biscuit cutter. Place biscuits close together on top of meat mixture. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) for 40 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

The committee comprises the following: Mrs. Fred Gillespie, chairman; Mrs. Willard Strange, Mrs. William Entekin, Mrs. Norman Wilson, Mrs. H. L. Hamilton, Mrs. H. Graves, Mrs. Robert Fritts and Miss Elizabeth Preston.

The public is invited, so if you have no date for tomorrow night, drop in for a few rounds of your favorite game. You'll have a good time. Games are either progressive or pivot.

Refreshments will be served and an attractive award will be presented to the winner at each table.

The Wesley Men announced March 23 as the evening they will present their "Womanless Wedding" in the Sunday school auditorium. Keep the date in mind if you want an evening of laughs and good fun.

The organization's annual banquet will be held in April this year, and efforts are being made to make it a bigger and better event than even—and that's saying a lot.

The Every Members Canvas will begin early in March, and it is hoped that every member of Wesley will be in a position to subscribe, be it a small or large amount.

A delegation of about a dozen women from Wesley attended the Day of Prayer which was held yesterday in the Centenary M. E. Church. Mrs. Mae Leonard Woodruff of Ocean Grove was the guest speaker.

Modern Egypt Under King Fuad Has New Services And Pleasures for Tourists

CAIRO, EGYPT.—Egypt's magnificent monuments and temples, her ancient statues and beautiful art works appeal so tremendously to the whole world as to quite overshadow all her other attributes, with, of course, the very definite exception of the Nile which nothing could possibly thrust into the background.

Yet in recent years Egypt has been endowed with many modern improvements that would still make the picturesque land an attraction to tourists even if she lacked the historical gems which form her crown of attractions. The modern tempo is most fully expressed by swift transportation by rail, air, and automobile. Egypt's government railway system is truly acknowledged as one of the finest in the world and was begun by the inventor, Robert Stevenson, himself, 82 years ago. Today you ride in the most luxurious and smooth running of trains from Cairo to Jerusalem in 13 hours; it's just an overnight trip. The ride from Cairo to Luxor and the site of vanished Thebes, the greatest capital of antiquity, takes even less time. To Assuan 150 miles beyond Luxor requires three additional hours. With few exceptions the most imposing ruins in Egypt may all be viewed by a brief motor trip from one's hotel.

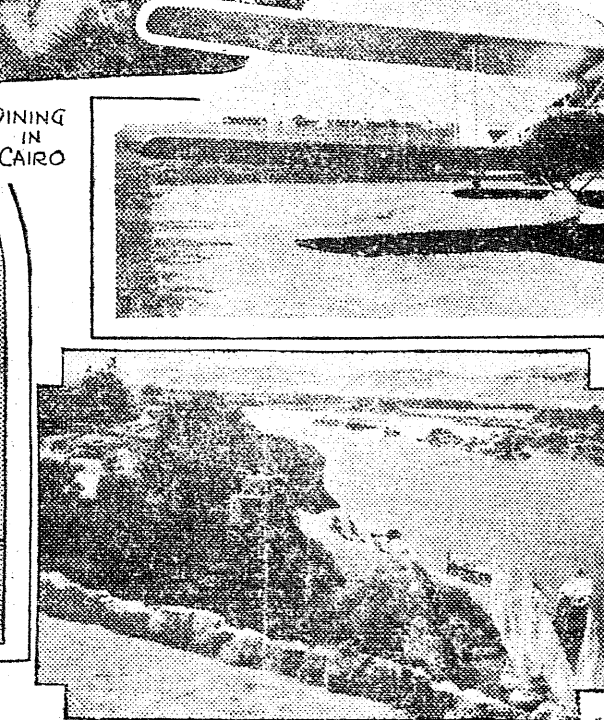

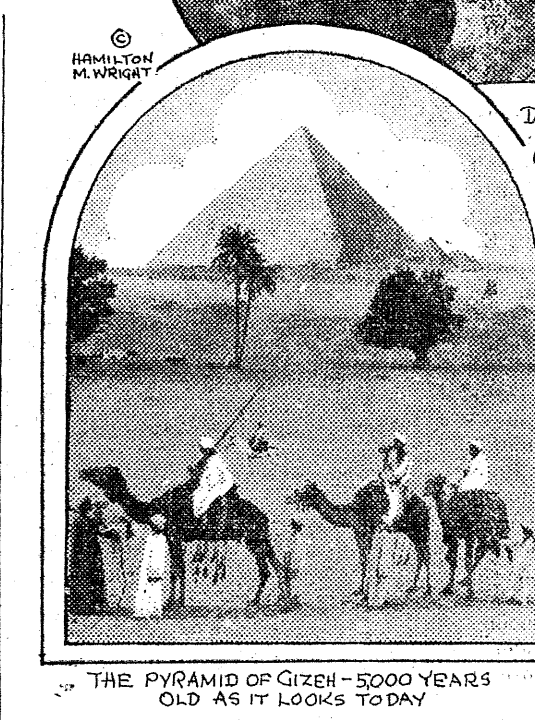

The few exceptions are reached by luxurious Nile steamers. Improved transportation does not mean less time for a study of the wonderful columns, capitals, statues and frescoes but less discomfort in reaching them.

Egypt is, of course, a land of the utmost contrasts. The trackless Sahara, millions of square miles of sand and rocks, picturesque, strange, but unfertile, comes to the very rim of the Valley of the Nile, a real paradise of cultivation, vivid green, and fecund. Cairo is the center of the largest Mohammedan urban population to be found in any city, with schools, universities, beautiful gardens, 350 miles of wonderful, broad shaded streets, more than 400 mosques some of them expressing the highest types of Islamic art, others revealing the early Christian influence.

You reach the impressive Hypostyle Hall at Karnak, the most beautiful Colonnade of the past, by automobile in twelve minutes from your modern hotel at Luxor. You can easily spend three hours at Karnak but you lose no time in reaching there. The Valley of the Kings, without a blade of grass—a real valley of death!—with its sixty or so tombs some of them illuminated by incandescent lights which reveal the beautifully colored hieroglyphics—is but 45 minutes from the luxurious oriental gardens of the Winter Palace Hotel at Luxor, including the journey to the opposite side of the Nile.

Those who have never appreciated how abundant are the ruins of the ancient Egyptian civilization are now able to see them with a maximum of convenience and at small expense. There are more than 30,000 passenger cars in Egypt of which over 60 per cent are of American manufacture. There are 4,000 miles of roads. Filling stations and garages are to be found in 156 towns and cities. There is a Royal Automobile Club to assist visitors, a motor road now runs from Egypt to Palestine while under the encouragement of his energetic and gracious majesty, King Fuad I, interesting desert motor routes have been charted to distant oases.

The Imperial Airways arrives at Heliopolis Airport, Cairo, from London via Brindisi, Italy, and hops off for Capetown, Africa, and Karachi, India. Two days after leaving Cairo for the south you are flying over a protected herd of 2,000 elephants feeding along the Upper Nile. Miss Air Works, an Egyptian Company, runs two planes each way daily between Cairo and Alexandria, and bi-weekly hops by air each way, between Cairo and Luxor. Both airlines run to Palestine, Imperial Airways continues on to Baghdad and further to Mesopotamia and India. Coming to boats, not only are there modern steamers on the Nile but Modern Cairo is modern as Paris, as respectable as Boston, and as wealthy as Detroit. You can see or buy anything in Cairo's impeccable shops. But Oriental Cairo, generally known as Old Cairo to distinguish it from the City of Modern 12-story steel and concrete flats and apartment houses, is an Arabian Nights' dream, as fascinating as sin, jewelry, and mystery. Old Cairo contains the most wonderful bazars and shops, with rugs, jewelry, perfumes, and metal work. The streets are narrow and winding and overhung with old-fashioned windows. Old Cairo, founded by the Pharaohs, was dated back to A. D. 969, that is, before the battle of Hastings. The monumental citadel was begun by the great Sultan of Egypt, Saladin, who conducted desperate battles against the Crusaders and finally was defeated and killed in battle with them. The Mohammedan Mosque was started about 1827 and finished about 20 years later.

The modern Heliopolis, fashionable suburb of Cairo, has no connection except its name, with an ancient center of learning, and not even on the same site. However, it is a wonderfully attractive suburb of about 35,000 population built right upon the Sahara desert by the late wealthy Belgian, Baron Empain. Heliopolis is the site of one of Cairo's great race courses. Besides thoroughbred horses and country breeds, as many as 1,200 Arab ponies and Arab horses are stabled nearby for the races.

The other race track is on Gezira Island, Cairo, also seat of a fine golf course, polo ground, and possessing no less than 36 tennis courts. Guests at any of Cairo's leading hotels may secure cards to the golf courses in the neighborhood of the city by application to the hotel management. The usual fee per dem is 15 piasters, viz. about 75 cents.

Flashlight His Night Guide In The Jungles Of Honduras

THREE arrows and a flashlight—and in two minutes Capt. R. Stuart Murray is at work in his "office" in the wilds of Honduras. His swivel chair is a typewriter cover, his roltop desk is a suitcase, and the illumination is by flashlight batteries.

This five-cell, giant flashlight serves not only as an indoor glow dispenser for Capt. Murray during his explorations for the National Museum of Honduras. It works as a street lighting system when he travels the Honduran jungles and rivers at night. River navigation, however, requires two flashlights to be safe.

Night trips are perilous, Capt. Murray explains, because the rivers usually are bordered with tree trunks, brush, and debris of all sorts, carried at high speed in the powerful currents. A native lookout, armed with the big light whose beam has a half-mile radius, stands

Pontiac, President And General Manager, Sees 1934 Best Year For Auto Industry One Of Best Indications For Revival Of Business Noted In Orders That Are Coming From Small Towns

PONTIAC, MICH., March 1.—Harry J. Klinger, president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Company said yesterday that in his opinion 1934 will be the best year the automobile industry has seen in four or five years.

Pontiac, Mr. Klinger stated, will make almost as many new cars this month as it did in the best month last year, and from March on production should be better than the best month last year. Production for the year should be 50 per cent ahead of 1933.

One of the best indications that the revival of business is genuine is the fact that the greatest increase in orders is coming from the small towns which generally do not start to order until later in the season. Not a few small town dealers have ordered as many cars so far this year as they did during all of last year. Apparently government subsidies to the farms and small towns are doing their work and the rural communities are staging a comeback.

How widespread are the effects of prosperity in the motor car business was pointed out by the Pontiac head from the diversity of materials that enter into the manufacture of a car and the fact that they come from all over the world. Attention also was called to employment figures which indicate that ten per cent of all the employed in the United States are engaged either directly or indirectly in some phase of the motor car business.

For every worker in an automobile factory there are eighteen people employed selling cars, mining coal, iron, copper or some other mineral for use in a motor car, or working in garages, gas and oil stations, battery shops, tire and accessory places and the like in every city, town and hamlet in the United States.

The articles and materials of which the motor car industry is the largest user comes from practically every state and a score or more of countries. This industry overshadows every other in the consumption of rubber, long staple cotton, iron, steel, glass, and without it the oil industry would be much less important than it is today.

"No wonder," said Mr. Klinger, "that steel men, and railroad men and the men in scores of businesses are so interested in the way the automobile business goes." It is noteworthy that as the motor car business has grown so has railroad traffic increased.

Coal is another basic commodity depending to a great degree on the

OUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND
Director, Physical and Health Education
New York State Department of Public Instruction

Perfect Attendance Records

I can't seem to leave this subject. Last week I wrote with a touch of realism. Behind it there is a very real feeling that we are guilty of doing the child a grave injustice. We worship at the shrine of Perfect Attendance, parents aiding and abetting. Schools compete against one another in stirring contests, and their adherents eagerly seek out the monthly standing report in the newspaper. We even apportion chool-aid money on a basis of pupil attendance.

Throughout it all the child, whom we vow to protect, is helpless. Aches, pains, coughs notwithstanding, he must go to school. And to make it attractive, we set traps with pretty bait which may be a gold star, an early dismissal, a prize, picture in the paper, or one of many others. Then we wonder how epidemics start. "Where did Johnny catch the measles?" "Right at school" is the answer altogether too frequently. We are placing Health too far down on the list of essentials. It should be "Health First, Then Knowledge."

Next week Dr. Ireland will discuss hearing.

ANENT PURCHASING BUREAU THE BIRTHDAY PRES

Editor News:

"In February 1933 I appeared at a budget hearing before the Board of Commissioners in the Belleville Town Hall and recommended that purchases of all supplies be made in group and that bids for same be advertised and given to the lowest responsible bidder.

"At the same time I said that if supplies could be purchased through the Department of Revenue and Finance of the Town Clerk's office that considerable savings could be had. At that time my recommendations were disregarded.

"A few weeks ago the Commissioner of Revenue and Finance presented an ordinance to create a central purchasing bureau. On first reading this was approved by a majority of the board. On second reading last Wednesday the ordinance was tabled by the votes of Commissioners Kenworthy, Waters and Caragher. Why was the ordinance tabled till after the May election? Was it because the commissioners knew that individual rights of placing contracts would be taken from them or is it that they are not in sympathy with any moves that will help ease the burden on the taxpayer?

"If I am elected as one of the new commissioners I promise that I will vote for the creation of this bureau."

Nutley Elks Hold Public Gathering

The broadcast on the President's birthday has probably done more to arouse the interest of citizens to the need and possibility of helping crippled children to become useful and self-supporting individuals than any effort made. It prompted Nutley Lodge of Elks to hold an open meeting to render an account of its stewardship with the aid given to carry on this work in the town.

The following program was given in Masonic Hall Wednesday at 8:30 P. M.: Organ selections, Clarence H. Hoffer; accordion solo, Wilbur Beitel; address of welcome, Mayor, W. F. Increased Attendance At Grace Sunday School

The Grace Baptist Church Sunday school attendance has increased so greatly it is necessary to have two departments. The junior department is under the supervision of Mrs. Lorena Clark; the teachers in this department are: Mrs. Irma Ryon, Miss Lois Kline, Alfred Dutton and John Stoddard. Judith Hyde will be the pianist of the junior department and Mr. Dutton, the official song leader.

The senior department is under the supervision of Irving Russell. The teachers in this department are: Mrs. Frederick Foshay, Miss Strickland, Mrs. Clark and George Karver, and the Rev. Mr. Foshay conducts an adult class, which meets when the Sunday school does. Miss Bernice Ruff will be the violinist in the senior department. Every Sunday one of the classes will arrange for the opening and closing exercises. This Sunday Mrs. Clark's class will have charge.
