Commissioners Find There's No Need of Naming
Street for Them

The board of commissioners was asked by Peter Jannarone, president of the Jannarone Construction Co., Monday night to consider opening a new street to connect Jannarone street and Sunset avenue to provide access to the Passaic avenue section.

The matter was referred to Public Works Director Patrick A. Waters for investigation. The land involved is owned by Daniel Mellis and Public Service.

During the course of the discussion, the members of the board learned that it is unnecessary to name streets in town for them, when Town Engineer Matthew J. Sheehan asked Mr. Jannarone if he would allow the proposed street to be named Sunset avenue or would he insist upon its being called Jannarone street.

"As a compromise, call it Waters street, for Director Waters," said Commissioner Joseph King. "We already have a 'Williams' street for Mayor Williams."

"We have a King street for you," said Mr. Jannarone.

Mr. Sheehan reminded the board that there is also a Clark street, for Commissioner Clark, and a reporter recalled that Water place might do for Mr. Waters without naming a new street.

A diligent search of the town map by Mr. Sheehan resulted in the finding of a Gerald street, the nearest name that could be found to that of Commissioner Gerard.

School Board Adopts $646,456 Budget; $447,580 To Be Raised by Local Taxes

1937-38 Schedule Shows Increase of $4,617 Over Current Budget — Is Higher Than Average for Six Depression Years

The board of education adopted a 1937-38 budget of $646,456.19, an increase of $4,617.25 over the 1936-37 schedule, at a special meeting Saturday afternoon.

The total budget represented an increase of $9,056.34 over the average budget for the past six years during the recent economic depression.

The amount to be raised by local taxation within the school district has been increased from $430,670.34 to $447,580.42, representing an increase of between five and six points in the tax rate. $170,000 is anticipated as the state school allotment, while $5,000 is expected from the state for manual training expense. An anticipated surplus of $23,875.77 from the current 1936-37 budget, created by teachers' salary cuts, will be applied to the 1937-38 budget.

The sum to be raised by taxation in town is $6,515.89 greater than the average for the past six years.

The voters of the town will be asked to approve the following items at the annual election of the district to be held at the high school February 9. Current expense, $284,540.73; repairs and replacements, $30,000; manual training, $5,000, and capital outlay, $1,550, a total of $321,090.73. The amount to be spent for debt service will not be placed on the ballot, as this expenditure is mandatory and has already been approved by the voters when bond issues were authorized.

Ruel E. Daniels, district clerk, and business manager of the board, pointed out that the budget had been held down in spite of an increase of nearly 200 in enrollment at the high school during the past six years and a decrease in the state apportionment of about $30,000.

According to Mr. Daniels, the increases this year were occasioned by the necessity of appropriating funds to repair the roofs on several buildings and the reduction of the surplus from the current budget, caused by a partial restoration of salaries in January, 1936.

The board formally accepted the new high school addition from the following contractors: O. A. Peterson Co., general contractor; Breen Iron Works, iron and steel; Jaehnig & Peoples, plumbing; August Arace & Sons, heating and ventilating, and Paul H. Joehmig, electrical work.

Commission Amends Police Ordinance

Allows Appointment Of Veterans of 40
To Force

The town commission Tuesday night adopted an amendment to the police ordinance, allowing the appointment of men of 40 to the police force if they have served in the armed forces of the nation. The former ordinance set the maximum age of police appointments at 36. The amendment was introduced by Director George R. Gerard of the department of public safety.

Commenting on the amendment, Mayor William H. Williams, town finance director, suggested that the maximum age of appointees, exclusive of veterans and present chancemen, be lowered to 30, to prevent drains on the pension fund caused by the retirement of policemen after a short period of service.

Commissioner Gerard replied that the amendment was introduced to protect World War veterans who are serving as chancemen. He said he would be glad to confer with the mayor on a change of the age limit which would protect both policemen and taxpayers.

Joseph Ruvo of 35 Belmont avenue appeared before the board to complain of garbage trucks driving through Belmont avenue in the early morning hours. He declared that the noise was disturbing and that the trucks were sometimes uncovered, allowing gar-

"Food, clothing, shelter and medical attention are vitally necessary to victims of the floods," said Mr. Boylan. "Every resource of the Red Cross is being used to bring aid to these unhappy persons, but more money is urgently needed. Please do not delay your contributions. ## Newark Police Rescue Belleville Man's Horse

A horse owned by Matthew Pignato of 24 Cortlandt street, this town, was returned to him Monday afternoon, a little the worse for wear and sadly in need of a cleaning, by Newark police after it had wandered away from his yard.

The horse walked out on the mud flats near the city line in search of a drink. Losing its footing in the slippery mud, it fell and became bogged down.

The Newark emergency squad was summoned, and rescued the animal with the aid of planks, ropes and the winch on an emergency truck.

Mayors to Confer On Sewer Levies

Belleville and Nutley Call
Meeting at Yountakah
Country Club

Mayor William H. Williams of this town Monday sent telegrams to the mayors of fifteen other municipalities served by the Passaic-Valley Trunk Sewer, inviting them to a conference on increased assessments of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission this year.

The protest meeting, a joint conception of Mayor Williams and Commissioner Edgar H. Bostock of Nutley, will be held next Thursday at the Yountakah Country Club, Nutley.

The assessments objected to are one of $109,000 for damage caused to the sewer outlet when the S. S. Leviathan went aground in New York Harbor in 1924, and another of $62,500 for materials and equipment for a WPA project for the construction of sedimentation basins. They were levied in accordance with the 1937 budget of the sewerage commission, which shows an increase of $210,000 over 1936.

Mayor Williams has stated that the assessments might better be spread over several years than levied in a single year, when municipalities are faced with increasing relief costs and budgets are being increased by the new budget act.

The mayor, at a conference of the local town commission Monday evening, pointed out that many factors in the tax rate are beyond the control of the board.

He cited the sewer assessments, the county budget, board of education expense and state taxes. He announced that an increase of from sixteen to seventeen points in the local tax rate this year would be beyond the control of the board of commissioners.

Town Commission Offers Nutley $30,000 As Settlement in Trunk Sewer Controversy

Belleville Offer Made in Reply to Nutley's Demand For $35,949 for Drainage of Northwestern Section of This Town — Keenan to Negotiate

An offer of $30,000 for use of allotted capacities in two Nutley trunk sewers and purchase of a third sewer was made Tuesday night by the town commission of Belleville in an effort to settle a controversy between the two neighboring towns which has raged for many months. Town Attorney Lawrence E. Keenan was authorized to negotiate with Nutley officials in an attempt to effect a settlement.

The offer follows a conference between Belleville and Nutley officials last Saturday at the Nutley town hall. At that time Mayor Frederick H. Young and Dudley R. Shepard, superintendent of public works, of Nutley presented a bill for $35,948.59 to Mayor William H. Williams, Mr. Keenan and Town Engineer Matthew J. Sheehan, who represented Belleville.

Nutley asks $22,410.89 for allotted capacities in the trunk sewer from the Passaic Valley Trunk Sewer to Harrison street and Franklin avenue, $3,448.45 for capacities in a sewer from there to the Nutley-Bloomfield Third River Trunk Sewer, and $10,089.25 for a third section, built especially for Belleville's use, from the Nutley trunk line to the Belleville line.

Belleville must use these Nutley sewers to drain the entire northwestern section of town. Formerly this town paid for their use on a rental basis, based upon the number of families in the area, but this agreement expired last year. Mr. Sheehan has discussed the alternative plan of pumping sewage from the section to a Belleville trunk sewer, if an agreement with Nutley cannot be reached.

Nutley at one time threatened to sue Belleville when officials from this town failed to appear at conferences on the matter.

The officials failed to reach an agreement last Saturday, although Mayor Young stated that he believed a compromise could be effected.

Mr. Keenan announced this week that he would arrange a conference with Nutley, at which the compromise offer will be presented, in the near future.

Roof Tree Branch of the International Sunshine Society will meet Wednesday at 8 P. M. at 170 Washington avenue. Plans for a card party to be held later in February will be discussed.

Two Children Die In Nutley Fire

Belleville Firemen Risk Lives in Attempt to Save Pair

A sudden blaze, caused by the explosion of a kitchen range oil burner, snuffed out the lives of Haskell Black, 6, and his sister, Marilyn, 8, both colored, of 14 Memphis avenue, Nutley, just over the Belleville line, Saturday midnight. The fire departments of both Belleville and Nutley were summoned by neighbors.

Belleville firemen risked their lives by entering the blazing home in an attempt to save the children, who had been left sleeping at their home while their mother, Mrs. Mae Black, attended a dance in New York.

Fireman James Dunleavy of Belleville and Lieutenant Arthur Stroba of Nutley found the body of the boy under a day bed in the living room. A telephone with its receiver off the hook lay beside him, indicating that he had tried to summon assistance before flaming gases reached his lungs.

The girl's body was found in the bathroom, to which she had fled to escape the flames, by Battalion Chief William Cullen of Belleville. Rescue squads from both towns worked over the children for two hours before they were pronounced dead by Town Physician Robert J. Citrino of Nutley.

The mother, after returning home at 6 A. M. Sunday, told police that she had put the children to bed at 10 P. M. She had replaced the oil burner three weeks ago, when an older one sprang a leak, she said.

The children had been left in the care of their grandmother, Mrs. Eliza Washington, who lives on the first floor of the house with her brother, John W. Clark, and two sons, Albert, 16, and John, 20.

Before going to bed, she told police, she went upstairs to see if the children were all right. Both were sleeping.

Awakened by a blast at midnight, Mrs. Washington and Clark ran upstairs but were driven back by flames. Stopping only to pick up Bobby Cooper, 2, who lives with them, they fled from the house.

Damage estimated at $1,400 was done by the blaze, which gutted the

W P A to Construct Wall in Smith Street

Structure Will Divert Earth
From Property In Mill Street

Henry E. Lewis, Essex County WPA director, Wednesday reported the opening of a WPA project here for the construction of a retaining wall at the south end of Smith street, a dead end street.

A crew of twenty WPA workmen have started work excavating at a point 100 feet south of Union terrace where the wall will be built. The base of the wall will be set three feet below the surface and 192 cubic yards of earth will be excavated.

Heavy rains have been causing dirt to be washed down from the Smith street hill to the property below it for some time. A house in Mill street was damaged, according to M. J. Sheehan, town engineer, when the kitchen of the house became flooded and a diverting channel was necessitated. The new retaining wall will prevent this and stop the carrying of earth and silt from the Smith street hill to the property and vacant lots below it.

The wall will be fifty feet in length, four and one-half feet wide at the base and eighteen inches wide at the top. It will be six and one-half feet high from the ground surface and, including the three-foot base below the ground surface, will be a total of nine and one-half feet in height. The total cost of the project will be $2,164.20.

Dr. Rochlin Heads Sinking Fund Board

Named to Body by Mayor
For Unexpired Term
Of John Ray

Dr. Morris Rochlin was elected president of the sinking fund commission at a reorganization meeting of that body Tuesday night. Halley F. Hickok was re-elected secretary and Arthur Flynn, treasurer. Mayor Williams serves on the board in the dual capacity of finance director and mayor.

Dr. Rochlin was appointed to the board by the mayor that day to serve during the unexpired term of John Ray, who resigned because business keeps him out of town and he felt he could no longer attend meetings of the commission. Mr. Ray recently received a business promotion and spends much of his time in the Middle West.

"While I am happy to know Mr. Ray has progressed in his work," commented Mayor Williams, "I regret that one of our board loses the service of a man of his type. For years he has devoted a great deal of his time to the good of the community."

Announcing the appointment of Dr. Rochlin, he said, "Dr. Rochlin has contributed time and study to activities of real worth in this town. I feel he is well fitted for this post."

Dr. Rochlin, a practicing dentist, has been active in real estate development. He is treasurer of the Community Service Bureau and has assisted in charitable and civic activities.

Haunted Houses in Belleville

In Belleville there are many old houses, built in Revolutionary days or earlier. Among these, and perhaps among more modern structures, there must be some that are reputedly haunted. Does the clanking of chains disturb your slumbers? Do weird blue lights shine from the windows of the vacant house next door? Do spectral figures flit through the halls of a Colonial residence?

The Belleville News would like to know of any haunted house or any psychic phenomena reported in Belleville. Such stories enrich a town's history and should be abundant in one of the oldest settlements in the United States. Houses built in more recent days, too, may be the scenes of inexplicable occurrences and eerie happenings. Perhaps these may be points of interest in the search for haunted houses.

If you know of any such happenings in town, or have heard tales of psychic experiences or occult visitations in your neighborhood, please tell The Belleville News in order that these stories may be recorded. Address: Psychic Editor, care of The News, 501 Washington avenue.

Belleville Craftsmen's Club will be host to the convention, which will be held April 10.

Officers of the local organization are arranging the program for the conference. The morning session will start with registration at 10 A. M. and will be followed by a luncheon. The afternoon session will open at 2 P. M. A banquet will be served at 7 P. M. and will be followed by dancing and entertainment.

Wives of the delegates will be entertained in the afternoon by a card party and a tour of inspection of one of Belleville's industrial plants.

Charles M. Nutt, president of the local club, has appointed the following committee chairman, who will select their committees:

Membership and registration, John D. Boyd, George Miller and Hal W. Earl; banquet, Mr. Nutt; dance, George Walker, and entertainment, David I. Boyd.

The local club has requested all Masonic clubs in the state to notify the state director of the number of delegates and their wives who intend to attend the conference, in order that reservations may be made.

Mayor Williams and the board of commissioners will be invited to open the conference.

Newark Firm Plans New Apartment Here Would Erect Sixty-Room Building On Land Owned by Town

The Exteter Realty Co. of Newark is considering the erection of a sixty-room apartment house at Hornblower avenue and Holmes street on land owned by the town, Commissioner William D. Clark, director of public property, told the town commission Monday night.

Plans for the building have been discussed in conferences between Fred B. Handlon, Mr. Clark's aide, and officers of the realty company.

A zone change will be necessary to allow the construction, and Mayor William H. Williams suggested that if an ordinance is adopted to change the zone of the property, it specify the distance the building should be set back from the street.

The mayor pointed out that the building would increase the habitable of the town. He said that he did not believe residents of the neighborhood would object to the erection of a desirable apartment.

The board agreed that the zoning board should be asked to approve the change.

Local Concern Aids Sufferers from Flood

Wallace & Tiernan Rushes Chlorinators to Stricken Area

A truck containing sixteen emergency chlorinators to provide purified drinking water in flooded areas was sent to the Ohio valley Monday by Wallace & Tiernan Co., Inc., of Belleville to assist health authorities in stemming the spread of disease in the stricken section.

Company engineers are cooperating with state boards of health in the flooded regions in an effort to install equipment to prevent an outbreak of typhoid fever and other communicable diseases.

The equipment will be installed without charge in sections hit by the disaster, and will be returned here after the abatement of the floods.

The local concern has wide experience with emergency chlorine treatment of water, as it has furnished chlorinators for this purpose to the U. S. Army and Navy for use in tropical countries.

King Appoints Ross To Zoning Board

Contractor Will Represent Western Part of Town, Director Feels

Director Joseph King of the department of public affairs has appointed Alexander Ross of 161 Smallwood avenue, who is connected with a Jersey City contracting firm, to the board of zoning adjustment. Mr. Ross will succeed Paul D. Robinson, cartoonist, whose appointment expires February 1.

In announcing the appointment, Director King said that he felt the western part of the town should be represented on the board and that Mr. Ross's building experience would be valuable to the town.

Award Contract For Cast-Iron Pipe

R. D. Wood Co. Is Low Bidder at $6,063.75 For 3,300 Feet

R. D. Wood Co. of Philadelphia was awarded a contract for furnishing the town with 3,300 lineal feet of twelve-inch cast-iron pipe for a WPA water main in Main street at a cost of $6,063.75 by the board of commissioners Tuesday night. The Philadelphia firm was the lowest of three bidders.

Awarding the contract by resolution, the commission specified that the agreement should not become effective until an ordinance appropriating funds for the project becomes effective February 18. This step was taken to protect town officials, who would be personally liable for expenditures made without appropriation.

Town Engineer Matthew J. Sheehan said that the concern will make immediate delivery of the pipe, as the work started Wednesday. The Wood firm's factory is located in this state, enabling it to bid lower than its competitors, and giving it the advantage of making prompt deliveries, he stated.

"Lloyds of London"

At Proctor's Theater

"Lloyds of London" and "Crack-Up" have been booked as the attractions at R. K. O. Proctor's Theater, Newark, starting today. "Lloyds of London" is a special production from the Twentieth Century-Fox studio with a cast headed by Freddie Bartholomew, Madeleine Carroll, Sir Guy Standing, Tyrone Power, C. Aubrey Smith and Virginia Field. Henry King directed.

The story of the picture is essentially the story of Jonathan Blake and his career from his boyhood friendship with Horatio Nelson to the time when he, as a successful insurance underwriter, risked ruin to aid his old playmate, who had by this time become Admiral Lord Nelson. The Battle of Trafalgar, which was reproduced for the film, plays an important part as a dramatic climax in Jonathan Blake's fortunes.

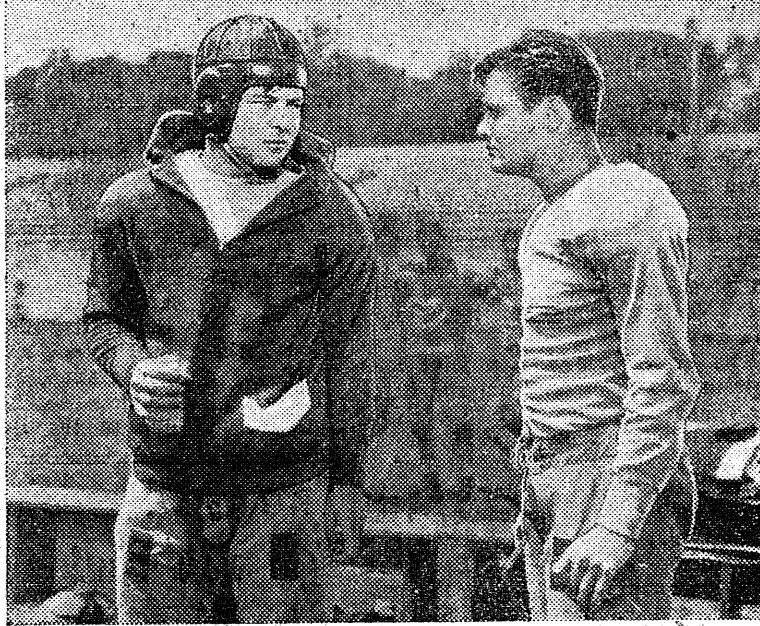

Many real historical personages come to life again in the course of the screen play. John Julius Anger-

SYNOPSIS
Green Ridge College is picked to represent the East in the Rose Bowl football game against Sierra. Ozzie Merrill, all-American fullback at Sierra and Paddy O'Reilly, second string quarterback at Green Ridge, both from the same home town, Bellport. Once they were rivals for the affections of Cheers Reynolds, Bellport belle. When Dutch Schultz, Paddy's roommate and varsity fullback at Green Ridge, writes a letter to Cheers telling her of Paddy's love as a practical joke, Paddy retaliates by informing the newspapers of Dutch's old romance with Florence Taylor, a movie star, who went to high school with Dutch. Dutch, in turn, tells them about the triangle involving Merrill, Cheers, and Paddy. The resultant publicity heightens interest in the game but causes strained relations between Paddy and Dutch.

CHAPTER VIII

THE Green Ridge team did not break practice after its victory over Erie but continued daily work-outs on the frozen home field. And

"The Irish are a little pig-headed," Paddy shouted, "but the Dutch have got 'em stopped there. On the other hand nobody can lick an Irishman when it comes to making a star-spangled fool of himself."

the long trip west to Pasadena was broken at Tucson, where the players went through several grueling sessions behind the locked gates of the University of Arizona stadium.

During all this time Paddy and Dutch refused to speak to each other. But the Irish boy's habitual good nature made it difficult for him to remain angry. Moreover he was worried about Schultz's knee, which did not seem to heal properly.

Finally he could stand it no longer. During their last workout at Arizona he stalked over to his former friend, determined to force a showdown.

"You know," he began belligerently, "the Irish are a little pig-headed—but the Dutch have got 'em stopped there." When Dutch did not reply, he rushed on: "On the other hand, nobody can lick an Irishman when it comes to making a star-spangled fool of himself. For instance, I was a little out of line with that gag about Flossie. . . ."

"Out of line!" glared Dutch. "You were over the fence."

"That's just what I'm telling you!" Paddy shouted furiously.

"Well, don't get sore about it!" The other raised his voice also. "I admit it—you're the champion!"

Paddy, who had expected his back-handed apology to receive a little better reception, was set back on his heels.

"Yeah? Who?" O'Reilly was in a fighting mood once more.

"Me," was the unexpected reply. Slowly a grin spread over Paddy's freckled face. The truce was signed. As the whistle blew calling them back to practice, the two trotted out on the field together without another word.

Donovan and Soapy, who had overheard the debate, also grinned.

"Well, did they decide which one was the biggest sap?" inquired the player.

"I think they figure it's a draw," was the coach's reply.

As he spoke the first and second teams lined up for scrimmage. As usual Dutch carried the ball. Someone tackled him low. With a yelp

"There's always women," Paddy suggested.

"Yeah—women," Dutch answered through set teeth as Doc manipulated his knee. "You were right about 'em, Irish. You shouldn't let 'em know. . . ."

"From now on, we oughta get together on something. With women—the word is Make 'em crawl. . . ."

"Right. No build up—make 'em crawl," agreed Paddy, who was suffering as much as his friend. "On the level, though, Dutchman, do you think those gals will show up at the Bowl?"

"Sure." With a wry grin. "Give a gal a chance to show off, and she'll show up all right—if she's got a new hat. . . ."

"How about it, Doc?" Soapy inquired after the leg had been bandaged.

"No Rose Bowl for Dutch."

At that news the reporters dashed for the nearest telephones, leaving the room deserted except for the four from Green Ridge.

"I was just thinkin' . . ." Soapy broke off, rubbed his chin absently, then started to whistle softly.

"About the spot we're in with Russell at fullback?" his assistant asked.

"Nope. I was just thinkin' that necessity is not only the mother of invention—it is also the granddama of smart football."

"It's tough losing Schulz right now," Soapy complained when the reporters returned half an hour later after relaying the news to their papers.

"Isn't Russell, your new fullback, the kid whose fumbles almost blew the Erie game for you?"

"Russell's a good man," the coach shrugged. "Only he'll be better next year. He needs experience."

As he spoke the door to the field opened and Doc entered. His face was long and lugubrious.

"Got some more news for you, Soapy," he grunted.

"I hope it's good. I could use it."

For answer Doc just stepped aside, revealing Russell standing in the doorway behind him. The new fullback's nose was heavily bandaged.

"Got it in scrimmage today." The assistant coach seemed to be talking as much to the reporters as to Soapy. "Didn't say anything until it swelled up like a balloon. It's busted, all right."

"Okay." The older man passed a hand over his eyes in a helpless, defeated gesture. "Take care of it, Doc."

"Who was that?" demanded a reporter as the door closed.

"That, gentlemen, was Russell," the coach answered heavily.

"Whew! Rough going," someone in the group exclaimed. "I don't want to seem pessimistic. Soapy, but if you're going to win that Rose Bowl game, you've have to be a magician."

"Yeah—you'll have to pull a rabbit out of your hat," another writer agreed.

Mournfully, Soapy held out first one sleeve, then the other.

"Nothing up y sleeve, gentlemen," he groaned. Then, taking off his hat. "And nothing in my hat."

He took another look, flicked out a bit of dandruff and added with a half-hearted grin: "That is—nothing constructive."

"The PLAINSMAN"

The Story of the Winning of the West,
Based on Cecil B. DeMille's Epic Screen Play,
Starring GARY COOPER and JEAN ARTHUR

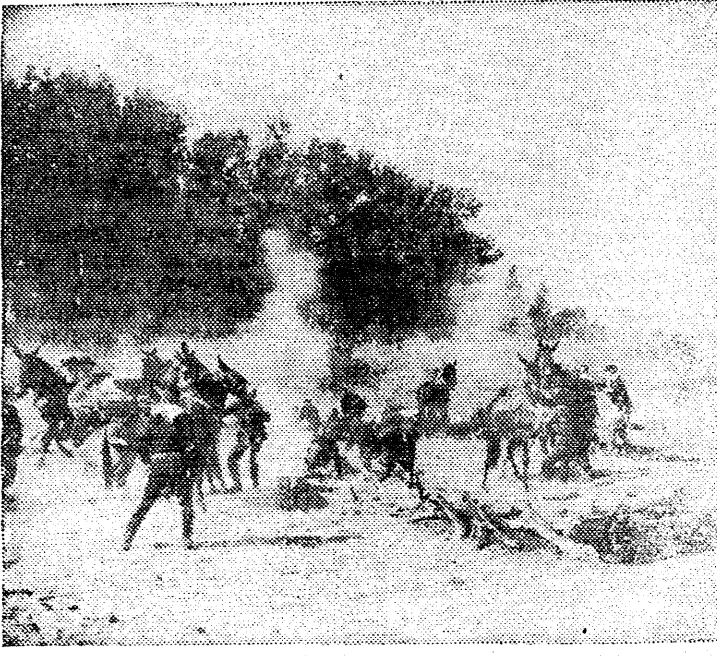

(CHAPTER THREE: Indian Torture) 1. Riding the plains, Wild Bill Hickok sights the Indian party that has captured his sweetheart, Calamity Jane. Knowing the chance he is taking, he rides up to the fierce band and tries to barter for her release. Through treachery, they take him prisoner along with Calamity. Both are brought before Yellow Hand. The ride to the Indian village is silent; Hickok knows what is in store for both of them at the chieftain's hands.

2. In Yellow Hand's teepee, Calamity Jane and Wild Bill Hickok are lashed together. The crafty chieftain tries to learn the route of the ammunition train from them, threatening them with death. Believing the end has come, both agree to remain silent at all cost—for the sake of the forty. Wild Bill, facing certain death, grudgingly admits his love to Calamity. The girl, hearing at last the words she has awaited so long, cannot help but show her feeling toward the Plainsman.

3. Yellow Hand senses the woman's emotion and his eyes narrow. She can be made to talk. He promises freedom for them both if she tells, and then orders Hickok tortured before her eyes with fire. As she sees the man she loves collapse she sobs the truth—winning freedom for him and for herself at a price that means shame; the lives of the forty men. Among those forty who may die, she knows, is Buffalo Bill—Hickok's best friend and the husband of her own new friend.

4. Armed with the secret wrung from Calamity Jane, Yellow Hand's men ambush the ammunition train on a small island. It is forty against thousands—a death sentence for the gallant band led by Hickok's best friend, Buffalo Bill. Jane and Hickok are freed, but the Plainsman, furious at his sweetheart for her weakness, will not speak to her. He sends her to Custer for aid and, unarmed, prepares to join the ambushed men. (Tomorrow: Hickok Becomes an Outlaw)

A RELIGIOUS RENAISSANCE

The Rev. O. Bell Close, D.D., pastor of Fewsmith Memorial Presbyterian Church, may be inaugurating a spiritual and religious renaissance in the community by his sponsoring of a series of religious plays, or dramatic sermons, at his church. The first of these dramas, "The House on the Sand," will be presented at the church Sunday afternoon.

Assisted by a number of players, and by a committee of forty public-spirited citizens of the community, many of whom are not affiliated with Dr. Close's church, the pastor will attempt, through these dramatic presentations, to bring the necessity of religion in daily life home to the audiences. During the Middle Ages, the "Miracle Plays" of the Church presented the essential elements of religion in a manner that could be understood by the average man. Today, with the stage and screen influencing the lives of many, Dr. Close feels that the methods of the stage may be adapted to serve religion, and is presenting the plays in an effort to intensify religious thought.

A further project, the formation of a community chorus, will be undertaken by Dr. Close and his committee after the completion of the program of religious dramas. This chorus is planned as a non-sectarian organization for the whole of Belleville, to provide genuine community spirit through the singing of the favorite airs of the members. It is hoped to make this venture as successful as the great, nationally known choruses of other cities.

CRAFTSMEN'S CONVENTION HERE

Belleville will be honored April 10 by being host to the annual state conference of the Craftsmen's Clubs of New Jersey, which are affiliated with the National League of Masonic Clubs. This honor was secured for the town through the efforts of the Belleville Craftsmen's Club and particularly through those of Frank Bangert, Jr., a past president of the local club and a state director of the organization, representing Essex, Passaic and Sussex Counties. It is reported that Union City, Atlantic City and Jersey City each sought to be host to the convention, but Mr. Bangert insisted upon Belleville's being given an opportunity to entertain the gathering.

The convention will do much to make this town's natural advantages known to the residents of the state. Delegates, returning to their home cities, will be able to tell of Belleville's industries, its fine homes, its civic services and its hospitality. The town should be grateful to the Craftsmen's Club and Mr. Bangert for their civic pride and insistence that Belleville be given recognition.

NO SPORT HERE

When they do fresh water fishing in Czechoslovakia it is done in a big way. The government owns most of Bohemia's fish ponds, and to make sure that they are well stocked the lake bottoms are fertilized, thus providing plant growth for the fish to feed upon. In the fall of each year the large ponds are drained and the live fish are distributed to the entire country. In the last draining 900 metric tons of carp, thirty tons of tench, seven tons of pike, nineteen tons of pike-perches and ten tons of other fish were so taken. All of which may seem queer to Americans, who make a sport of fresh water fishing, but it illustrates the economic difficulties of many European countries where advantage must be taken of any source of foodstuff.

JONES' CORNER

The laconic slang which the pioneers of the air lines use forms a breezy part of our modern language. But the most picturesque expression yet to date is the name "Jones' Corner" for a mathematical point in the Pacific Ocean over which the Clipper planes fly. It is Lat. 35 N. and Long. 154 W., for people who are meticulous about their navigation. It is the place where the big planes change their course to cut across the great circle route between Hawaii and San Francisco.

Some farm boy, now an air pilot, perhaps thought of this homely expression and now it serves as airfarers' language, without humor or derision.

OVERFLOWING

Sanford Bates, director of federal prisons, has called attention of Attorney General Cummings to a problem the nation will have to meet squarely in the near future. There is no one more practical or with a better knowledge of penal conditions in the country than Mr. Bates, and when he declares that our federal prisons are now over-crowded past the danger point, he knows whereof he speaks.

There is already a $2,500,000 prison building program ahead of the authorities. Now it appears that even that sum will not be able to keep pace with our over-flowing prison populations. It's not an inviting picture, but an unpleasant one, that is stark and real.

PENSIONER

The unemployed orchardist of Chelan, Wash., who is spending $200 in a month as a Townsend Plan experiment is enjoying himself to the limit. Thus far, he has paid his rent and electric bill. His wife has had a permanent wave. He has purchased a new overcoat for himself—the first, he says in years. And, meanwhile, the other citizens of Chelan are getting a thrill out of the so-called velocity money. When one of the bills comes into their hands, they pay a transaction tax of 2 per cent. Thus far they have not complained. But it is the novelty that makes the experiment interesting.

"INCHERS"

A New York writer uses an apt word for those motorists who creep up ahead of other machines at stop lights. They are "inchers," who inch their cars just a little bit ahead of the other, fellow and just over cross walks. The "inchers" do this because they want to be the first to spurt ahead as the traffic light turns green. Of course, the "incher" is a real menace for he is off to too quick a start and the pedestrian has no chance against him. A war on the "inchers" might prove a safety aid.

KNOW YOUR STATE

Prepared for The Belleville News by Russell VanNest
Black, Director-Consultant New Jersey
State Planning Board

Length of Growing Season

The staff of the New Jersey State Planning Board has prepared a map showing the ranges of the average growing seasons for the State of New Jersey. By the average growing seasons is meant the average number of days between killing frosts in the Spring and Fall. The map, which cannot fail to be of much interest and importance to those the success of whose crops depend so greatly upon the weather, will be included in the forthcoming Annual Report to the Governor and Legislature of the State Planning Board.

Surprising for a state so small and with such relatively slight differences in elevation, the variation for localities is shown to be as much as 85 days, nearly two months. Extremes are northern, Passaic County, with an average season of only 137 days, Sandy Hook with 222 days, and lower Cape May with 219 days.

Proximity to large bodies of water—the ocean, Delaware River, and bays, generally means appreciably longer season, but a peculiar exception is found in a large area of South Jersey, between the Delaware Bay and the ocean, where the length of season drops eight or ten days below that of more inland areas further north.

The average length of growing season for the entire State is 189 days with the last killing frost in the Spring falling about April 15th and the first killing frost in the fall coming about October 21st. The range of season over the principal vegetable and fruit growing sections of the State, where length of season is most important, is around 175 to 180 days.

Unfortunately those portions of the State having the longest seasons, areas closely bordering the ocean and the Delaware River and Bay, are of generally inferior soils or otherwise unsuited or unavailable to intensive cropping.

Length and uniformity of growing season, together with quality of soil and slope of the land, are large determinants in the kind of farming that may be conducted and the type of crops that may be grown, successfully, in any given locality. They are considerable factors in forecasting the future use of rural lands. Unexpected variations in length of seasons for apparently similarly located areas may become traps for the unlightened farm purchaser.

Belleville's Past

As Recorded by This Newspaper

Twenty-five Years Ago

John DeGraw was re-elected town attorney after a three-weeks' deadlock of the town council. Democratic members of the body had tied the vote, hoping to secure the appointment of a Democrat.

The Progressive Republicans of Belleville endorsed Theodore Roosevelt for the nomination for President and urged the nomination of Everett Colby as U. S. Senator.

Frederick Ritter, a Republican, was reappointed water collector. Democratic votes on the council went to John J. Westlake.

Ten Years Ago

A municipal budget of $661,683 for 1927 was adopted by the town commission. It represented an increase of $219,452 over the budget for 1926.

A. Howard Osborne died at the age of 75. He was tax collector for twenty-five years and a founder of the Free Public Library.

Boy Scout troops were formed at Grace Baptist Church, Little Zion U. A. M. E. Church, Belleville Reformed Church and the Italian Baptist Church.

FOR RELEASE—Jan. 18th

Battlefront

Dear Club Members:
MAYBE you're on the family battlefront these days. I mean maybe you're doing duty as a nurse to a cold or two in the household. I sincerely hope you've been spared. But the statisticians tell us that there are enough colds in the world so that every one may have at least one a year whether he wants it or not! If you or yours don't have them you're lucky. But if you and yours do have colds there are certain things you can do to prevent them.

Leading health authorities are agreed that proper diet plays an important role in building up resistance to colds. It is believed that vitamin A is concerned in the prevention of infections of this kind. Vitamin A is present in milk, cream, butter, cod liver oil, eggs, carrots, spinach, string beans, bananas.

Another important factor in protection is calcium. And many doctors believe that an ample supply of calcium in the diet is one of the best safeguards against colds. Milk supplies calcium.

See that your family gets plenty of milk, as a beverage and in custards, ice cream and cheese, in soups and with vegetables. Give them plenty of green vegetables and in cooking them don't drain the juices. Don't forget fresh, raw salads and fruits. Cod liver oil for the kids.

It's a lot easier to prevent a cold than to cure one.

Woman's Club NOTES

Mrs. W. George Hunt will sponsor a dessert bridge Monday at 1:30 P. M. at the club house, 51 Rossmore place. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Albert H. Borman, Mrs. Raymond E. Mertz, Mrs. Furman L. Robinson, Mrs. William T. Robinson, Mrs. T. Russell Sargeant, Mrs. Clifton Smith and Mrs. Carl K. Struble.

Pink, white and lavender snapdragons gave a festive touch to the membership tea held last Monday at the club house. The new members were presented by Mrs. William M. Engelmann, club president, and Mrs. Lloyd C. Nunn, first vice president, to a group of about 100 guests.

"Self-expression is an invaluable aid to the appreciation of music," said Mrs. William G. Lehning, music chairman of the state federation, guest speaker at this affair. She advised the members present to "Take your favorite instrument from the dust of its retirement. Never mind if the performance lacks finish, play just the same."

The club choral, with Reuel E. Lahmer of Montclair conducting, rendered a program of songs during the afternoon. Rosalind Clark Reed was at the piano.

Miss Helen Bertram of Montclair entertained with many anecdotes from her recently completed autobiography of her life as a light opera singer. Many stories were told of men and women prominent in the musical world.

A meeting of the board of directors of the club will be held February 5 at 9:30 A. M. at the club house.

Recorder Will Meet Case in Debate

Verbal Tilt Will Feature Meeting of Joseph King Association

A debate of keen interest to Essex County residents will be the feature of the Joseph King Association meeting to be held Saturday night, February 13, at the association's headquarters, 414 Washington avenue.

Everett B. Smith, police recorder and a Newark attorney, will defend the negative of the question: "Resolved: That all present municipalities in the County of Essex, New Jersey, be combined under one central government." Frederick LeRoy Case of Nutley, widely known as an international debator, will present the affirmative. There will be no decision since the King Association does not go on record on such questions. Town Attorney Lawrence E. Keenan will act as chairman of the debate.

Recorder Smith and Mr. Case each want it understood that the views they will express will be entirely for the sake of debate.

Mr. Case, who is editorial manager for The Newark Evening News in Nutley and Belleville, served four years on the varsity debating team while attending Colgate University. During that time he debated against representatives of Cambridge and Oxford in international intercollegiate competition. Mr. Smith, prominent as a police judge and lawyer, is himself no mean debator and is also in great demand as a public speaker. Mr. Keenan, who is president of the Congress of Belleville, is well-known as an authority on parliamentary law and procedure.

Telephone Drivers Set Safety Record

Average More Than 100,000 Miles Between Even Trivial Accidents

Rolling up an average of more than 100,000 miles between even trivial accidents, the men who build and maintain New Jersey's telephone system last year bettered for the seventh consecutive time their safe driving record.

Operating a fleet of 740 motor vehicles over 7,000,000 miles in all kinds of weather the telephone drivers ended the year without a single death or serious injury resulting from highway accidents in which they were involved, and the great majority of the sixty-one accidents charged against them were of a minor nature.

According to W. A. Corbitt of Chatham, New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. safety supervisor, every accident in which a telephone car or truck figures is investigated by a committee of employees from the district in which the accident occurred. These committees determine whether or not the telephone driver could have avoided the mishap, and if they find he could have done so, it is charged against the record.

Recently, Corbitt said, 687 company drivers were awarded insignia to be placed on their vehicles showing that they have driven from one to nine years or more without accident. The nine years represent the period the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. has been in existence. Nearly 90 per cent of the drivers have clear records for five years or more, and almost a third have never been charged with an accident.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP

An Appeal to the Gallery

Good sportsmanship in basketball is an element not confined within the four black lines of the playing court; it is a spirit to be developed by players and spectators alike. It is paradoxical for rooters to applaud good sportsmanship by the players, while conducting unsportsmanlike conduct on the sidelines. The steadily improving rules which are making basketball a clean, fast game on the court should be paced by a more pervasive code of ethics in the gallery. Let unsportsmanlike rooters join in oblivion the dishonest players and "hometown" officials of a past age.

One point should be emphasized in this connection; good sportsmanship does not stifle keen rivalry. Everybody wants to see his own team win, as long as it plays according to rules. Good sportsmanship goes farther than that—unrestricted by a too narrow partisanship, it appreciates good play whether by friends or by foes.

Much poor sportsmanship in the bleachers is associated with "riding" the visiting players or the officials. But use a little common sense. Visiting players and rooters are your guests, and are entitled to the same treatment you desire when your team plays on a foreign court. Remember also that officials are selected by mutual agreement of both teams; their ships must be chalked up against human imperfection rather than wilful partisanship. You may occasionally catch some errors the officials miss, but the umpire and referee on the floor are usually in better positions to see plays than are you in the stands—and they keep abreast of the ever-changing rules! Do you? If not, you are still on the fringe of the game. Get into it! Skill and good sportsmanship are both needed to maintain the enthusiasm that is making basketball a leading attraction in the world of winter games—and that applies to the bleachers as well as to the playing court.

Victory Is Fourth Of

Season for Local

Five

The Camptowners were taken over the hurdles in a swift, rough game by the Belleville High basketball five, 30 to 21, on Belleville's new court Friday night. This marks five defeats out of seven starts for the Gantz-coached boys thus far this season and was the fourth win out of six games for the home team.

Irvington opened the scoring for the evening when Pete Skurla, forward, sank the initial two pointer about fifty seconds after the starting whistle. Shortly after this score, Pete Giacoma, center, left the floor suffering from a deep gash under the right eye which required several stitches.

The score was tied twice in the first quarter. Midway in the period, Irvington evened the count at six-all and just before the end of the stanza, Jim Halperin made good on a fine throw to tie the score at eight-all. Bill Parmer sank a single-pointer to put the home team in the lead, where they remained throughout the game.

Lemke and Halperin were high scorers for the losers and Brown and Parmer for the home team. Culklin's excellent pass work was a great help to the locals.

Everyday Cooking Miracles

BY VERGE FRANCIS

Director Essex County Institute

Discovery always holds its thrill—thrill for the discoverer and thrill for those who profit from the new idea. And so it is really exciting for me to tell you all about the new-fangled way of fixing those tender delicacies of the meat school—lamb chops.

The smokeless broiler pan of the modern electric range eliminates smoking and burning when lamb chops are broiled.

There is something so handy about lamb chops; they seem always to be ready at a moment's notice, ready to be broiled to savory, golden-brown tenderness, without much attention. For this reason they have won a name for themselves as last-minute company dishes. But like the steak, with which they compete for high honors as company dish par excellence, there is one bad feature connected with this dish—the smoke and odor issue. However, now that the smokeless broiler pan of the miracle electric range has so completely overcome this handicap, lamb chops and broiled dishes head the list of company meats.

Smoking Is Eliminated

There's no longer that heavy cloud of smoke bebuggling the atmosphere and making only too well known to the guests just what the main dinner dish is to be. The broiler pan provides a secret hide-away for the drippings so that smoking and burning are eliminated. And now that you can have lamb chops, you'll like to try adding the new epicurean touch that this recipe suggests. Purchase lamb broiler. When the unit is a glowing cherry red, place the pan under the broiler. Leave the oven door slightly open during the broiling process. Turn chops once, and when broiled, arrange them on a platter. Garnish with a few sprigs of mint and serve hot, with mint jelly, to a surprised and delighted table of guests.

Bugbear Gone from Broiling

So—the bugbear has gone from the broiling process. But that is not all. The miracle electric range has other features which fit into the many roles and moods of the modern homemaker. There's the large economy Thrift Cooker, which is ideal for steaming and long-time cooking. The electric oven, with its accurate time, temperature and moisture controls, enables her to cook whole meals while she's out for the afternoon. She'll also praise her unpaid servant, the electric oven for the miracle of cold oven cooking; but even this isn't all, for miracle cookery has eliminated all double-boiler fuss and bother, through the controlled calrod surface heat units.

the association, has announced that a petition seeking a public hearing on the question of the long discussed 5-cent Belleville to Newark fare, has been placed on file with the secretary of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners and that the hearing will probably take place before that board within the next two months.

Mr. Noll, James Jordan, vice president, and Mr. Tedesco, who comprise the committee on the 5-cent fare problem, are engaged in securing the necessary data to be placed before the commission at the hearing. The committee has stated that every effort is being made to present the true state of the case to the Public Utility Commissioners but adds that the impossible is not to be expected or hoped for.

The committee feels that the time has come to settle the question, and has consequently devoted itself, and will continue to bend every effort to place before the Utility Commission the true facts which will show the discrimination made against the people of Belleville with regard to the existing fare problem, Mr. Noll stated.

The committee has received a communication from the secretary of the Public Utility Commission stating the petition and complaint of the association has been filed and that the necessary steps for a prompt hearing of the complaint will be taken immediately.

King Pledges Hearing In Shade Tree Case

Lawrence Burde Files Accusations Against Edward Evers

Director Joseph King of the department of public affairs this week pledged himself to air charges made by Lawrence Burde, a former employee of the shade tree commission, against Edward Evers, its president, at a public hearing in the near future. Burde is a brother of Nicholas Burde, who was a member of the commission for ten years. Commissioner King did not reappoint Nicholas Burde when his appointment expired last January 1.

Affidavits charging that Burde was called upon to shovel snow at Mr. Evers' home and carry wood and metal to his garage on town time were filed with Town Attorney Lawrence E. Keenan Monday by Herbert H. Fost, attorney for Burde.

Burde had previously submitted general allegations to Director King, but was told to make his charges specific. The charges were presented to Mayor Williams originally, but Burde was told to present them to Commissioner King or the shade tree commission.

Mr. Evers has denied the charges.

$23,000,000 in P. S.

Construction Budget

Expenditure of upwards of $23,000,000 for replacements, new equipment and improvements has been authorized by the approval of the 1937 construction budgets by the boards of directors of Public Service Corp. of New Jersey and subsidiary operating companies. Of this sum approximately $18,000,000 will be spent by the Electric and Gas Departments and $5,000,000 by Coordinated Transport. This is the largest Public Service budget since 1929.

Among the larger items in the construction budget of the Electric Department are the installation at Essex Generating Station, Newark, of a 50,000 kilowatt superposed turbine generator and two high pressure, high temperature boilers, also reconstruction of the switch house. There will be constructed between Essex Station and Metuchen a high tension transmission line which will give increased reliability of service. A second transmission line for the same purpose will be built between Hudson Switching Station, Jersey City, and a site in Bergen County.

At the Kearny Generating Station the outdoor high tension switching facilities will be improved.

Two million dollars will be spent for the continuance of the policy of placing electric distribution facilities underground.

Provision also is made in the budget for a new substation at Hillside, and for extension of lines, additional connections, transformers and meters and improvement of service in general.

The main item in the Gas Department's budget is an additional boiler and an extension to the boiler house at Harrison Gas Works. The increasing popularity of gas for house heating has made this additional boiler equipment necessary.

Other expenditures will provide for plant improvements, extensions of mains and other contingencies necessary to betterment of service.

Coordinated Transport has placed an order for 195 buses of the all-service type in the extension of the company's policy of substitution of buses for street cars on various lines.
