

GERARD MATTER WHITENASHED

TAX RATE TO REMAIN AT 3.80 IN 1937 MUNICIPAL BUDGET

Departmental Appropriations Slashed to Prevent Rise
In Taxes—Increased Ratables Neutralize
$10,000 Addition to Local Levy

The tax rate for 1937 will remain at $3.80 per $100 valuation, the same as it was in 1936, despite increases in school costs and state and county taxes, Mayor William H. Williams, town finance director, announced Tuesday night in introducing the 1937 municipal budget, which was adopted by the board of commissioners.

The proposed expenditures were kept down by a decrease in departmental appropriations and municipal expenses amounting to $88,000 under 1936. This was effected by a $10,000 decrease in department expenditures, largely in maintenance items, much equipment having been replaced in 1936, and a reduction in debt service and miscellaneous expenses.

Of a total budget of $2,152,035, as compared with $2,580,526 for 1936, $1,140,800 is to be raised by local property taxes in 1937, as against $1,130,526 in 1936. The $10,000 increase will be neutralized by an increase of $400,000 in ratables, brought about by industrial expansion and some building, Mr. Williams said.

The tax levy is divided as follows: State school tax (estimated), $34,700; state soldiers' bonus tax, $5,300; county tax, $156,216, an increase of $12,000 over 1936; district school tax,

RED CROSS CHAPTER REQUIRES MONEY AND CLOTHING FOR FLOOD

$1,993 Raised Here in Drive for Funds—National Organization Is Caring for 1,000,000 Persons
Made Homeless by Disaster

Belleville Chapter of the American Red Cross, of which Andrew L. Boylan is chairman, this week renewed its appeal for contributions of money and clothing to aid flood victims in the Middle West.

Mr. Boylan announced that $1,993 in cash, as well as quantities of clothing and bedding, were received up to Wednesday night, but added donations are necessary, since the Red Cross is now caring for more than 1,000,000 refugees and additional numbers of persons are expected to be made homeless by the floods, now sweeping down the Mississippi valley.

William J. Horgan has been appointed publicity director of the local drive and has announced that contributions of money may be taken to Mr. Boylan's office at 228 Washington avenue or to either of the town's banks.

Donations of clothing and bedding will be called for by the shade tree department truck after afternoon if the town hall, the office of Commissioner Joseph King or the home of Edward Evers, president, is notified. Employees of the shade tree department are donating their own time to the cause.

Many local organizations have held or will hold benefits for the flood relief fund.

Contributions to Wednesday night follow:

Single Session Plan at High School May Be Launched Monday, Principal Says

Opening of Cafeteria Delayed by Floods in Middle West—Twelve Classrooms in Addition
Now in Use by Pupils

A single session plan, in which all pupils will attend school all day, will be inaugurated at Belleville High School Monday morning, Hugh D. Kittle, principal, expects. The single session will replace the double sessions in effect for several years due to overcrowding of the original building. At present, members of the upper classes receive instruction in the mornings and freshmen attend in the afternoons.

Under the new plan, all pupils will go to classes at 8:30 A. M. and will be released at 3 P. M.

The single session plan has been delayed by failure of contractors to deliver equipment for the cafeteria in the new addition, dedicated last Friday night. According to Mr. Kittle, a dough mixer, essential for the kitchen, has been delayed by the floods in the Middle West.

About 680 pupils will go to their homes for luncheon, and will be released for an hour, Mr. Kittle said. The remainder, 800 pupils, will use the cafeteria in two shifts of 400. Pupils not eating will be accommodated in study halls during the luncheon period.

McEvoy Family Stricken By Triple Tragedy

Misfortune struck thrice last week in the family of John J. McEvoy, custodian of the Recreation House.

Mrs. McEvoy, for eight years hostess at the local recreation center, was stricken suddenly at her home January 27. She was rushed to St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, in the town ambulance, but died immediately after her admission to the hospital.

Upon learning of his wife's death, Mr. McEvoy collapsed and is now undergoing treatment for a nervous disorder.

Meanwhile the couple's only daughter, Frances, 11, whose serious illness had contributed to her mother's anxiety, grew steadily worse. Last Friday she was removed to St. Mary's Hospital, suffering from pneumonia.

Renee Renard of New York, a former dancer at the Club El Cazar, was awarded $1,500 damages from George Johnson, 33, of 20 Tiona avenue, this town, a roofing salesman, by a jury in Circuit Judge Joseph L. Smith's court last week.

The night club entertainer asked $100,000 for physical damages and $100,000 for slander, charging that Johnson beat and kicked her and tore her hair in a car parked near the county isolation hospital November 26, 1935. She also alleged that Johnson slandered her character. The latter suit was dismissed by the court.

Johnson, although he did not contest the suit, filed a reply to the allegations through his attorney, denying all counts.

Mrs. Edward A. Blossom of 50 Floyd street has received word from relatives in Louisville, Ky., recently stricken by floods which swept the Ohio River valley, that they have sought refuge from rising waters in the City Hospital of that place.

William Francisco, Miss Bertie Francisco, Mrs. Annie Robertson and Mrs. Margaret Anderson, brother and sisters of Mrs. Blossom, and Mrs. Anderson's young daughter, were forced to leave their home last week and move to the hospital, at which Mrs. Robertson is head nurse.

All escaped injury, although they feared their home and household furnishings had been seriously damaged, they wrote.

PARMER DISCUSSES HOME WORK ASSIGNMENTS IN THE SCHOOLS

Educator Favors Individual Projects, Rather Than Routine Tasks, for Pupils—Growth and Adjustment opinion in respect to home work assignments, varying all the way from a program which claims to state the exact amount of home work to be assigned by each teacher in each grade and in each subject, to a program which assigns no home work at all.

"A set program of home work for any group or class of children would presuppose, in the first place, that all of the children in any one class group are of the same ability—the same intelligence, the same interests, the same physical health, the same habits of industry, the same maturity. Quite to the contrary, there is a very wide range of difference even in the most carefully selected group. There are wide differences, I need not remind parents, even in the same family between offspring of the same parents. We are assured by our science experts that, even if our earth's population of about 2,000,000,000 people were multiplied scores of times, no two of them could be found alike, not even to the extent of having the same fingerprints. Certainly they would likely be much less alike from the standpoint of their many sided personalities.

Many Looked Tuesday For Town Fireworks

Mayor's Committee Clears Director Gerard,
Despite Charges Published by Newspaper
Cops Take Blame for Alleged Failure to Prosecute
Motorist Whose Car Injured Patrolman;
No Intercession in Court, Says Mayor

"It's all over, Sweetheart, now." This line from a popular song might apply to the whitewash brush plastered over the charges of alleged ticket "killing" against George R. Gerard, director of public safety. Recently Gerard took two columns in this newspaper to tell the people what a "jilly white" department he has. He said no tickets had been "killed" during the past year.

Came the morrow and two Newark newspapers. One commended him editorially and the other smacked him with more than two columns, saying in effect he was "all wet."

Over the wires from here to Singapore Belleville's name was broadcast in the biggest joke of the year. Its fair flower had faded when the storm clouds appeared.

Mayor Williams informed the newspapers that he would investigate—after his untiring efforts to get Belleville back into its place in the sun. Well, it seems an eclipse was due. Gerard was on the pan.

But, lo and behold, there arrived on the scene former Assemblyman Homer C. Zink and Philip Dettelbach, who gave Gerard a pat on the back after which, it is said, the boys figuratively kissed and made up. Gerard was absolved of all blame.

Declaring that "no basis has been established for the severe criticism extended to Gerard," Mayor Williams, in a lengthy report, Tuesday night exonerated his colleague of charges of ticket "killing," intercession in behalf of defendants in police court and "reduced rates" for traffic violators. The accusations were published in a Newark newspaper after Director Gerard boasted, in a public statement, that tickets are not "killed" in Belleville.

The mayor announced he was aided in his investigation by a committee composed of former Assemblyman Homer C. Zink and former Town Commissioner Philip Dettelbach, both of whom are members of the Civic League.

Charles Tedesco, Attorney,
Reports on Fight For 5-Cent Fare

Fifteen new members were admitted to the South End Improvement Association at its regular meeting Tuesday night at 218 Mill street. The new members were addressed by the president, James Ward.

Charles B. Tedesco, attorney for the association, reported on the 5-cent fare problem, now awaiting a hearing before the Board of Public Utility Commissioners. He urged a concerted effort by the entire membership and all the citizens of Belleville to place the matter before the commissioners in the proper light.

A committee to arrange a celebration of the first anniversary of the organization will be appointed at the next meeting February 23. Commis-

Two policemen, one of whom was severely injured in an accident last December 24, received the blame for failing to prosecute a motorist involved, Edward J. Reilly of 9 Fairway avenue. Mr. Reilly was charged with passing a red traffic light and knocking Patrolman Donald Smith from his motorcycle.

Mr. Smith, confined after the accident to his home for nineteen days, was censured for failure to sign a complaint against Mr. Reilly. His superior, Lieutenant Richard Nourse, was likewise censured for failing to insist that the officer sign a complaint against the motorist.

Mr. Gerard was held in check by the mayor, although he admitted visiting Officer Smith at his home, but denied requesting him not to press charges.

Police Court Intercession
Alleged to have interceded in behalf of a defendant in police court in a health case, Commissioner Gerard was likewise cleared.

The allegation was made that the director had spoken in favor of clemency for Andrew J. Maglio, dairyman, who later received suspended sentences, while Andrew Benenato, another dairyman, was fined $50 on similar charges.

The investigating committee reported that Maglio's case had been postponed at the time of the first hearing to allow testimony from a state inspector at a later date. Later he was convicted and fined, but the fines were suspended when he collapsed in the court room.

In the Benenato case, according to the committee, the defendant pleaded non vult and appeared with his attorney. Mr. Gerard did not appear in the court room at his hearing.

The public safety director admitted speaking to Maglio in the court room, but denied intercession with Recorder Everett B. Smith in his behalf.

Allegations of "cut rates" for certain traffic violators were dismissed with the statement that parking violators are permitted to pay $1 fines to the court clerk, Lieutenant Nourse, rather than appear in court. The fine has been reduced from $2 since tickets, on which the penalty is listed, were issued, it was reported.

The Nutley board of commissioners Tuesday night rejected Belleville's offer of $30,000 for capacities in three Nutley trunk sewers. Mayor Frederick H. Young indicated, however, that an agreement might be reached at a figure about $2,000 higher.

Nutley's original bill to Belleville was for $35,919. Town Attorney Lawrence E. Keenan of this town has been authorized to conduct negotiations with Nutley officials.

Supervising Principal Parmer Discusses Home Work Assignments in Public Schools

they trained in the handling of children in study periods. They can hardly be expected to be qualified in these respects. Not knowing what they may do or should not do for children in the preparation of their home work, they are more likely to be a hindrance than a help to the child. Most parents are not familiar with the change in methods of teaching that has taken place since their school days.

"For example, children in learning to read are taught not to point to each word as they read and also to avoid lip reading because of the 'slowing up' that such practice causes. Every primary teacher has experienced the interference from the home in this respect where parents attempt to help children get on in their reading. There have been cases where parents have actually done the home work for their children. It is needless to say that what was meant to be assistance in such cases actually became a hindrance.

"The homes do not alike provide satisfactory study places and conditions for their children. There is a wide range of conditions here—from the comforts of a private study to the situation where the entire family live in a single room. In some of the poorer homes that room may even need to be the kitchen.

"One can understand how such conditions make study impossible. The radio in most any home can not be expected to contribute to a study situation. Yet it would seem right that the other members of the family should have the privilege of the radio programs. Then, too, certain radio programs may be justly considered an important part of a child's educational program—in fact his 'home work' program.

"Finally, if the study of subject matter, as facts from books, were the major objective of the education program and the mere acquiring of information were not perhaps the lowest and most inadequate of all present conceptions of education, there would be more justification in an extensive fixed uniform home work assignment.

"A few definitions of education may serve to point out that to the contrary education means growth, adjustment, development of creative etc.

"T. R. Roosevelt—'Education is the art of human adjustment; doing the right thing at the right time.'

"Blaisdell—'Education is gleaned from men and books and laboratories, from field and forest and whispering wind; but it is more; it is learning, promptness and thoughtfulness, kindness, and helpfulness, and every form of purity; it is the mastering of mind and spirit, appetite and passion, thought and word and glance; it is knowing that nothing but service brings worthy living, that selfishness means sin, that courage lies in being right. Education is the implanting of good habits, the acquirement of efficiency, and the development of a twenty-four carat character.'

"A prize winning definition published in The Forum reads as follows: 'Education is the knowledge, acquired through systematic and harmonious cultivation of one's natural powers, which gives one the ability to adjust himself satisfactorily to his physical and intellectual environments.'

"There is little mentioned of books in these definitions and nothing said of schools. Growth and adjustment seem best to indicate the aim and method of education as we think of it today. Information, training, and learning are included in this growth but it is much larger than any of these. When you think of education as learning you are failing to recognize the significance of physical growth for instance. Is not the discovery and development of creative ability or capacity far more important than the mere acquisition of information?

"Should not the emphasis in a greater degree be upon attitudes, habits, creative talents, self-control, and such other goals as develop the whole personality?

"What then shall be our conclusions in respect to home work assignments? 'Education is not shop work which may be confined to the school room and the schedule of the school room, but is a process of growth and training that should effect the entire time and life of every pupil. The home and every other constructive social institution must contribute to this growth.

"I believe also that young people should be given jobs to do for which they are personally responsible. Pupils must learn to study effectively without the constant close supervision of teachers. There is such a thing as 'soft pedagogy.' There are many possibilities through home study to promote self-advancement. In my judgment it is a matter of the kind of assignment, the amount of the assignment and to whom the assignment should be made. Briefly I offer the following suggestions:

"1. Home work of the proper nature may be assigned to all grades but little or no routine work below the fifth grade.

"2. A reasonable amount of drill work in fundamentals which has been made clear to the pupil but will be made more effective by carrying it a bit further—no need of further help from teacher or parent.

"3. Assignment of Reports to capable pupils in the cultivation of independent research—the nature and extent of the work to depend upon the individual ability of the pupil—such encouragement should go out to all pupils.

"4. Supplementary reading fully within the comprehension of the pupil—no need here for teacher or parent assistance.

"Such reading can be motivated and made more effective by teacher attention and checking. The presenting of lists of worthwhile books in the direction of choice of books should not be overlooked. Parents may add interest, if they are capable, by hearing their children tell the story or talk about it. School, home and public library may contribute material.

"5. Contributions to school projects may safely become 'out of school work.'

"For example: Groups of children from certain of our grades have gone out collecting a great variety of stones and rock formation which they have classified and mounted with the greatest of interest. An interested teacher can instigate such valuable home work without even making an assignment.

"Excursions to points of interest in both cities and country over weekends may make wholesome out of school contributions.

"This contributing to project work may be carried by the Kindergarten on up through the grades. School in extending such challenges to boys and girls becomes life to them and not a mere institution.

"There are excellent opportunities to extend the process of educational growth beyond the school room and make such work count strongly in the promotion of self-responsibility and personal initiative and in so doing probably direct the interest of the child away from less desirable engagements. I insist it should be as individual as such a program can be made under existing circumstances.

"Such a program naturally calls for a close cooperation between teachers in the same school and between parents and teachers. It is highly essential that the child's interest and home conditions be taken into consideration in home work assignments."

Sam Kenworthy Again Becomes Reporter; Chooses to Represent Defunct Newspaper

Sammy Sampson Kenworthy, glorified super lobbyist for the New Jersey State League of Municipalities at Six Grand per, attempted to return to his former profession of newspaper reporter on the floor of the House at Trenton Monday night, we hear, but was ushered from the floor when it became apparent his interest was not in reporting. The former mayor was once a sports writer on a Denver, Colo., paper.

Sammy attempted to use a press courtesy pass issued him by the defunct Belleville Times, once his personal puff sheet, when he was mayor of Belleville several years ago. Hizoner failed to remember that The Times passed out of the Belleville picture at about the same time that he did, being absorbed by The News in 1925.

In past years Sammy, who goes by the official title of executive secretary to the league, has had free access to the floor and the ears of the assemblymen, but Speaker Walker has barred all but bona fide newspapermen from the floor.

Perhaps the former mayor will get a press pass from a newspaper still in existence before again essaying a venture into the lions' den.

Tax Rate to Remain at 3.80, Mayor Declares In Introducing 1937 Municipal Budget

$447,580, and local purpose tax, $447,003.

The sum of the local school and town taxes, $894,593, compares with a sum of $896,143 last year, which included $259,506 to cover a deficiency caused by the school board's adoption of a Bradley Act budget in 1933. This sum had been neutralized by cutting the local purpose tax to $205,967, made possible by the application of surplus funds.

Departmental Appropriations The appropriation of the department of public affairs, of which Joseph King is director, is cut from $79,850 in 1936 to $75,550, largely through a reduction in anticipated costs of relief.

The budget of the public works department, headed by Patrick A. Waters, is cut from $44,405 to $43,505, through abolishing an item of $1,000 for street signs.

Anticipated expenditures of George R. Gerard's department of public safety are cut from $203,844 to $189,660, brought about by a decrease of $8,000 in the cost of street lighting and $1,000 in recreation. Police department maintenance is cut from $6,000 to $3,000, and allocations for election expenses and ambulance service are slashed.

A slight rise is shown in the budget of the department of public property, of which William D. Clark is director, from $21,247 to $22,800. While public library expense is cut from $13,000 to $12,000, a new item of $1,000 for maintenance of town owned property is included, as well as the salary of a real estate agent.

The allotment of the department of revenue and finance, headed by the mayor, is cut from $81,506 to $80,172, largely by a reduction in office expenses.

Commenting on departmental cuts, Mayor Williams said that it was his belief that the library and the recreation commission could provide satisfactory service if their appropriations were cut $1,000 each. He pointed out, in discussing a drop of from $33,000 to $25,000 in street lighting, that the town could afford to spend no more than the latter sum, especially since it is paying for the lighting of state and county highways.

Non-departmental Items Principal changes in non-departmental items include an increase of $5,000 for maintenance of the Passaic Valley Sewer, which the mayor said, was beyond the local board's control. Expense for property foreclosure is cut from $25,000 to $7,500 and an item of $500 for baby bond expense is eliminated.

A new equipment allotment is cut from $5,000 to $750, a new bookkeeping machine having been purchased last year. Debt service is about $37,000 less this year, and items covering previous overexpenditures are cut about $46,000. The mayor pointed out that an item of $7,500 for deficiency in funds is the final payment on a sum lost by the defalcations of a town official in 1926.

New items of $11,000 for poor department emergency expense and $63,089 for WPA expense are included this year. Water department appropriations are increased $4,000.

Reserve for uncollected taxes, required by Chapter 60, Laws of 1935, is cut from $452,123 to $342,236. This appropriation, amounting to nearly one-third of the total local expenditures, is required to keep the municipality operating on a cash basis.

Mayor Williams pointed out that, through mandatory allotments, the local board of commissioners may control only 18 per cent of the total budget. Asking less legislative interference in municipal affairs, he said:

"The past several legislatures, with the exception of a small group of legislators, have shown a general disregard for the interests of the taxpayers."

"It is high time the taxpayers of the state gave local officials the authority to handle municipal expense. Mandatory laws affecting municipal expenses have played a definite part in the economic distress affecting municipalities."

"The PLAINSMAN"

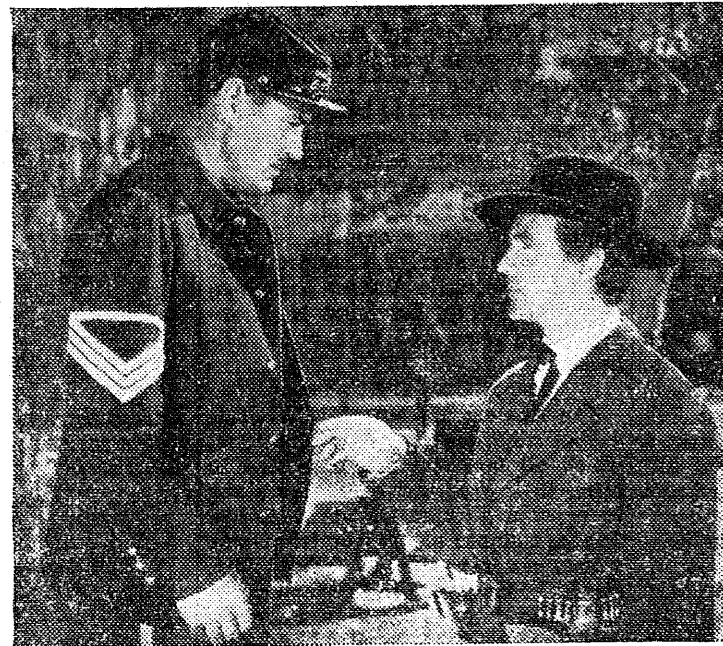

The Story of the Winning of the West, Based on Cecil B. DeMille's Epic Screen Play, Starring GARY COOPER and JEAN ARTHUR

(CHAPTER FOUR: Hickok Becomes an Outlaw) 1. After leaving Calamity Jane, Wild Bill Hickok leaps, unarmed, on an Indian horse. He kills him and with his weapons kills a second, taking the horses of the two, he makes a wild dash through Indian fire to the besieged band. He arrives after both horses have fallen under Indian bullets. Without a word he takes his position in the line of fire with Cody.

2. The siege continues eight days; one by one the tiny band is killed off, until only eight of the original forty survive. Hickok, fighting shoulder to shoulder with them, has learned, meanwhile, that John Lattimer, a trader, is smuggling repeating guns to the Indian tribes. He vows he will kill Lattimer. When Custer's famed Seventh comes to the rescue of the band, he sets out alone after Lattimer.

3. Hickok trails Lattimer to Hays City, but the smuggler has been tipped off by one of his satellites. Afraid to meet Hickok face to face, he bribes three soldiers to kill him, promising them gold land for the deed. One of the trio insults the Plainsman outside Lattimer's place. Hickok orders him to remove his coat and shoot it out. As he waits, a second soldier shoots the Plainsman from behind.

4. Whirling as he falls, Wild Bill Hickok draws his six-gun and fires three times. All three of the traitorous soldiers slump in death. Hickok, through protecting himself, has become an outlaw sought by the United States government; a man who will be shot on sight by any soldier of the region. Careless of his own danger, however, he takes to the woods in pursuit of Lattimer. (Tomorrow: Captive and Captor)

Mayor Williams' Report to Town Commission Concerning Criticism of Director G. R. Gerard

TO THE GENTLEMEN OF THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

Appreciating that the criticism in the public press of the methods of the Department of Public Safety and certain procedure relative to traffic control and criticism on Court cases warranted my attention so that misunderstanding might be clarified or improper situations adjusted, I requested written statements from Traffic Officer Donald Smith, Lieutenant R. N. Nourse of the Department of Public Safety and Recorder Everett Smith.

I investigated the records of the Police Department and the Recorder's Court and have held three conferences with the above gentlemen with Director of Public Safety Gerard and a committee of citizens at which conferences, Sunday, Monday and today, we discussed in detail the E. J. Reilly—Traffic Officer Smith accident case, the Maglio and Bennanatto Milk Code Violation cases and recommendations which I believe will eliminate necessity of criticism in the future.

Bennanatto Case
Records and investigation indicate that Health Officer Berry repeatedly warned Mr. Bennanatto, a dairy operator owning about twenty cows (instead of one cow as inferred in one public statement) to correct certain conditions at his dairy. Failing to heed warnings, ten charges were filed against Mr. Bennanatto, one of which was withdrawn. Charges of Mr. Berry were substantiated by State Inspector. Mr. Bennanatto was defended by an attorney and pleaded non-vult to all charges. Recorder Smith fined Mr. Bennanatto $10.00 on each of three (3) charges and suspended sentence on the other six (6) charges.

Maglio Case
Records and investigation indicate Mr. Maglio was charged by Health Officer Berry with three (3) milk code violations. This was the first complaint against the defendant. He was without an attorney and pleaded "not guilty" to all charges. During the questioning of the defendant, Public Safety Director, George R. Gerard, entered the Court room and requested permission of Recorder Smith to express a word. Director Gerard stated he knew Mr. Maglio for many years as a good type citizen. Recorder Smith advised Director Gerard that Mr. Maglio had promised Health Officer Berry that certain dairy conditions would be improved within a prescribed period and had failed to keep his promise. Director Gerard stated he did not know Mr. Maglio had failed to maintain his promises to Health Officer Berry and withdrew from the Court Room.

The case proceeded, Recorder Smith taking the testimony of Health Officer Berry, and then laid the case over for three (3) days to have the State Inspector appear. At the next Court hearing, State Inspector substantiated testimony of Mr. Berry. Recorder Smith found Mr. Maglio "guilty", on two charges, fining him $10.00 on each charge and dismissing one (1) charge. Mr. Maglio, who is a cripple, became hysterical, requiring several persons to calm him. Recorder Smith suspended the fines, stating he believed the defendant had suffered sufficiently, and while without an attorney had appeared very sincere in his defense.

I do not believe Recorder Smith was influenced in the slightest degree by the comments of Director Gerard on the previous Court day, and I feel our Recorder exhibited a fine sense of justice in appreciating the position of a highly nervous cripple who took his punishment so severely.

No comparison exists between the two (2) cases—Bennanatto was repeatedly warned, was defended by an attorney and pleaded non-vult, (equivalent to admission of guilt) to nine (9) charges, whereas Maglio had failed on one warning, came to Court without an attorney, had pleaded "not guilty" to all charges. The disposition by Recorder Smith of these two cases, in my opinion, is very commendable.

E. J. Reilly Traffic Case
Records and investigation indicate that at 10:00 A. M. December 25, 1936, a collision occurred at the intersection of Washington Avenue and Rutgers Street between an auto driven by E. J. Reilly of 92 Fairway Avenue, Belleville, and the motorcycle driven by Traffic Officer Donald Smith. Officer Smith states two sedans were at his left, facing South on Washington Avenue, that the light for him to proceed was green, that he believes Mr. Reilly came through a red light at a speed of 35 miles an hour, that Officer Smith, turned his motorcycle slightly to the right and the Reilly car proceeded West on Rutgers Street over 100 feet. Mr. Reilly returned to the scene of the accident, Officer Smith issued a ticket covering violation of passing through a red light, Mr. Reilly going to Police Station with Officer Smith.

Entry was made on the Police blotter covering the accident, and medical treatment required by Officer Smith and covering damages to the motorcycle. Date for hearing was set for December 30th. Mr. Reilly was at Court, Officer Smith was home. Case was set over to January 6th. No further action on this case occurred.

Last Saturday I discussed this case and other subjects of the Public Safety Department with Director Gerard. We made an appointment to continue in conference. At 11:00 A. M. Sunday, with Mr. Homer Zink and Mr. Philip Dettelbach of the Civic League being invited to join us, I requested written reports be submitted to me by Traffic Officer Smith, Lieutenant R. N. Nourse and Recorder Everett Smith and that the Police blotter be submitted. Detailed statements and blotter were received. Conference was continued Monday at 2:00 P. M. with Public Safety Director Gerard, Officer Smith, Lieutenant R. N. Nourse, with Mr. Homer Zink, Mr. Philip Dettelbach and myself present. All records were studied in detail and all phases of this case and other matters were discussed.

Officer Smith states he decided not to sign a complaint as he was considering civil suit, he engaged an attorney when Mr. Reilly failed to discuss settlement of hospital costs, he states his attorney did not advise him to sign a complaint and states that he did not want to prosecute Mr. Reilly. Officer Smith returned to duty January 18th. Lieutenant Nourse left duty due to illness on January 20th. Town Counsel advises me prosecution of case cannot be followed as complaint must be made within 30 days of accident. Officer Smith states no one asked him not to sign a complaint, and no one asked him not to prosecute. He admits he failed to do his duty in not signing the complaint.

Lieutenant Nourse states on this case Mr. Reilly appeared December 30th and Officer Smith was home ill. Case was again called January 6th. Mr. Reilly being present and Officer Smith still being home under medical care, he (Lieutenant Nourse) further states, on return of Officer Smith to duty, January 18th he brought to the attention of Officer Smith the necessity of signing complaint. Officer Smith refused to sign. Apparently the matter died at this point. Lieutenant Nourse states he should have brought this matter to the attention of his superiors.

Recorder Everett Smith states no signed complaint was placed before him covering traffic violations by Mr. Reilly. This statement is fully substantiated. In my opinion, no criticism can be directed towards Recorder Smith. I must assume on repeated statements of Officer Smith that he assumed an extremely unusual sense of fairness towards a driver who injured him and damaged municipal property and towards one he definitely states came through a red light. Lieutenant Nourse now recognizes he should have further pursued this case.

Director Gerard positively asserts he did not discuss the case with Officer Smith, that he did not request him not to press a complaint against Mr. Reilly, that he never met Mr. Reilly until December 25th, the date of the accident.

The Town Counsel having advised me legal action for traffic violation cannot be taken because of expiration of 30 day period as specified by Law, and all records and statements received by me indicating the failure of the Police Department to properly function in this case, it is my opinion that the responsibility must be charged to Officer Smith becoming lenient and to Lieutenant Nourse in not insisting on Officer Smith signing a complaint. Officer Smith's being ill at home should not have been a technical "cut" for Mr. Reilly. The signing of complaints can be done by Police-men in homes or hospitals, and I recommend that this procedure be followed hereafter, and Chief of Police should be advised if any Officer refuses to sign a complaint.

No basis has been established for the severe criticism extended to Public Safety Director Gerard. He has relied on subordinates to follow out definite policies and states he is gratified with the results of a thorough and impartial check up of departmental details.

Records indicate only two other cases exist where Officers failed to appear as complainants after issuing tickets—Officer Raymond Demgard issued a ticket to a citizen of Newark for passing a red light, the offender appeared on the proper date, and Officer Demgard failed to appear. Recorder Smith detained the offender two and one half hours in Court and remarked "When Policemen give out tickets, I expect them here to prosecute the case, this man has waited two and one half hours and is leaving tomorrow on a business trip and it is unfair to not let him present his case." Lieutenant Nourse was instructed by Recorder Smith to advise the Policemen he would not countenance Policemen refusing to appear as complainants. Order to that effect was posted on Station Bulletin Board.

Only one other case can be ascertained with non-appearance of an Officer and in this case, the complaint was signed by a private citizen, after a ticket was issued by Officer James Lee. The citizen refused to prosecute, so no criticism can be made of Officer Lee.

Procedure on Fines
Several years ago a penalty of $2.00 was established for three types of parking violations and so printed on the face of the tickets, payable during office hours of the Court Clerk. To curtail efforts to "kill" tickets and to conserve time of the Court, Court Clerk Lieutenant Nourse advises me the method of accepting $1.00 was established over five years ago on above parking violations, namely:

1. Parking in prohibited zone.
2. Parking improperly.
3. Parking without lights.

Recommendation to reprint tickets "stating" $1.00 payable during business hours of Court Clerk is approved.

Motorcycle Repairs
On the completion of repairs and receipt of repair bill, Lieutenant Nourse will place bill in hands of Town Counsel for collection, the usual procedure.

On completion of my budget work, Town Counsel Keenan, Recorder Smith, Director Gerard, Messrs. Dettelbach and Zink will discuss with me the rules, regulations and ordinances of Police Department for any betterments that may be possible of development.

I have endeavored to cover every phase of above cases and extend thanks to Messrs. Dettelbach and Zink, members of the Belleville Civic League, for their impartial study.

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIAM H. WILLIAMS
Mayor

Little Theater Guild Views Morality Play

The Belleville Little Theater Guild held its regular monthly meeting at the Recreation House Tuesday evening. One of the features of the meeting was an excerpt of John L. Balderston's one-act play entitled, "A Morality Play For The Leisured Class," presented by two of the guild members, Gary Vanderbilt and Joseph Distacko. The play is an enactment of the author's idea of life in the hereafter and is of dramatic value, having been given recently in a radio sketch by the well known actor, Leslie Howard.

Plans were discussed for the annual Spring production of the guild, the name and director of which will be announced in the near future.

Miss Selena B. Ward

Funeral services for Miss Selena B. Ward, 85, a native of Belleville, were held Wednesday morning at her home at 311 Park street, Montclair.

Miss Ward died suddenly Monday at the Montclair address, where she had been living three months. She lived most of her life in Nutley and was a resident of Avondale before that section became a part of Nutley. Her father, the late Samuel Ward, was a justice of the peace in Avondale.

Belle, Spot's Daughter, Becomes Mascot Of Fireboat John J. Harvey In New York

Although Spot, Dalmatian mascot of the Belleville fire department, is dead, the tradition of the canine family is being maintained by his daughter, Belle, who this week became a member of the New York fire department.

Belle has already achieved a distinction in advance of that of her late sire, having become a sea-going fire dog. Her former master, Fireman William "Becky" Gilchrist, turned her over to Captain Martin Heinzmann of the Fireboat John J. Harvey, docked at the Battery, early this week.

Raised from puppyhood by Gilchrist, Belle is a pure-blooded Dalmatian, sometimes called a coach dog. The Dalmatian is the traditional mascot of the fire laddies, and Captain Heinzmann will train Belle in the high aims and ideals of a proper fireman's companion.

Belle will also be given an opportunity to enter the show ring, and may bring glory to her native Belleville by taking a blue ribbon in the Dalmatian class at the Madison Square Garden show next year.

Spot is still mourned at fire headquarters in Washington avenue, where he spent the greater part of his life. A bronze fireman's badge rests atop the tiny grave in the back of the fire house and, although Spot departed this life after an auto accident two years ago, the grass-grown mound is often wreathed with flowers.

WHITEWASHED?

Tossing back the blame for this ticket killing business at the police after George R. Gerard, director of Public Safety, had become the object of criticism, appears to be an out and out whitewash. Why such a thick coat of veneer? Even if the police are to blame—which we doubt—Gerard is still holding the bag. He is the head of that department. If he knew complaints were not made why didn't he remedy the situation? It's worse if he didn't know these reported conditions.

If subordinates erred, why doesn't Gerard bring charges against them? Our guess is he WON'T because he CAN'T. One thing he could do, though is to check up on a private police wire to a Belleville plant. There are many other things that could be aired if the boys desired to. It's nothing more than the same old ballyhoo, dressed in another cloak and dished out by the same "old maestros."

MEN WANTED

The Boy Scouts of America will celebrate the twenty-seventh anniversary of the founding of their organization next week. The value of scout training to the boy and the community is so generally recognized as to obviate comment. Today one boy out of every four of scout age in the United States is a Boy Scout. In Belleville, however, but one such boy out of eight is a scout.

We hold no brief for the Boy Scouts as opposed to other youth organizations, and if this condition were merely an indication that our youth is being adequately served in other ways the comparison would not be justified. The concern of our officials and citizenry over the so called youth problem is, however, an indication that this is not the case.

The attitude of the Belleville District Scouters Organization is that there is no "youth" problem so far as boys are concerned. One of its members recently emphasized this as follows: "Most boys are anxious to become scouts if an active troop is available, and readily respond to scout training. The problem is an adult one—lack of adequate leadership."

The criticism is sometimes expressed that the service rendered Belleville by the Boy Scout organization does not justify our Community Chest appropriation for this purpose. The fact is that we spend this money for something very much worth while which, however, we neglect to use. If but twenty men, interested in the so called youth problem, would take advantage of the instruction in youth guidance furnished by Scout Headquarters, and devote a part of their leisure time to its application, the cliché "juvenile delinquency" would soon be heard much less frequently.

Be this as it may, a greater interest in the Boy Scout organization, so generally recognized as a power for good throughout the entire civilized world, could hardly fail to have a favorable effect upon the future welfare of our town.

WISE MOVE

Four major commercial airlines in California have agreed upon a curtailment of flying operations out of the Los Angeles area during stormy weather in a conference that followed two crashes which cost the lives of seventeen persons within a month. It is a wise move.

Despite the tremendous progress we have made in developing the airplane, the industry is still in its infancy. The great transports of today are marvels in safety and efficient control under favorable weather conditions and we have gone a long way toward off-setting the tremendous obstacles created by snow and fog. But the tragedies that have come in bad weather give ample proof, if any is needed, that science still has many problems to solve before bad weather flying is safe.

CALIFORNIA'S GOLD

Just eighty-nine years ago gold nuggets were found in California by a white man. Since that day its yield is estimated to be more than $2,000,000,000. How much more remains to be mined no one knows. The state's mineralogist believes that we have mined only half the golden treasure. There are those who believe his estimate far too conservative.

In 1935 when $31,097,850 in gold was taken from the earth a record of seventy-three years was beaten. Nature was most bountiful in her gifts to the North American continent and particularly to what is now the United States. There is no reason to believe that even in the most populous sections that we have even begun to exhaust her bounty.

SAVING TIME

Tourists and travellers will be grateful to the federal authorities for the elimination of the halt of incoming liners at quarantine. Probably the longest part of any trip home comes in those hours immediately preceding the docking of a vessel.

The stop at quarantine was always an aggravating factor to everyone. Now that it has been made possible, in the change of federal regulations to have the ship's surgeon report on the health of passengers aboard, there will be not only an economy in time but less wear and tear on the nerves of passengers anxious to be landed.

WEIRD SPEED

A young motion picture producer, who has a penchant for flying, has just zoomed through the skies at the terrific speed of 332 miles an hour, to set up a new transcontinental speed record from Los Angeles to Newark. He covered the 2,490 miles in 7 hours, 29 minutes, 27 seconds, breaking his previous record of 9 hours, 25 minutes, 10 seconds. It might have been expected that some veteran pilot who devotes his entire time to aviation would have established the new record, but the young producer is an enthusiastic flier with plenty of experience. The average man is dazzled by the weird speed of 332 miles an hour.

SHREWD

The Los Angeles police have developed a great scheme for dealing with accident cases where an alleged drunken driver is concerned. They haul the driver in for examination at once and take a sound track of his examination as well as pictures of him.

In court the judge and the jury may view and hear the whole examination. There is no chance for denials; the record is clear. The defendant's appearance, as well as his words, tell the story of his condition.

Such an idea calls for a lot of extra work. But it serves to aid the jury more than the verbal testimony of eye witnesses as to the defendant's sobriety.

KNOW YOUR STATE

Prepared for The Belleville News by Russell VanNest
Black, Director-Consultant New Jersey
State Planning Board

As the Birds See Us
A huge map of New Jersey showing every physical feature and what man has put upon it, individual farms, houses, barns and perhaps, the path leading to the old "swimmin' hole", is the latest addition to the working equipment of the New Jersey State Planning Board. The map, a product of aerial photography, reflects its objects at a scale of 1 inch to 1,000 feet. It was made in 260 sections, 29 inches by 38 inches, representing 4,500 separate photographs all taken at an elevation of approximately 10,000 feet. For particular purposes copies may be made ranging in size from a scale of 1 inch to 200 feet to a scale of 1 inch to 2,000 feet.

In the past ten years planners and other engineering agencies have come to depend largely upon aerial maps for state and regional planning. They indicate at a glance the exact location and their relation to each other of cities, towns and villages, streets, railroads, airports, streams, forests and marsh lands. On the State Planning Board map the expert eye may detect abandoned farm lands, mountain trails, even the kind of crops that were being grown on farms when the pictures were made.

Another value of an air map is that it shows physical conditions over wide areas as of a given date. In this sense it is a sort of census of land use and development. In order to keep this information up to date, maps should be made periodically as is the federal census of population, possibly every ten years. Nothing else will show so well the trends in urban and industrial growth and the progress or regress in farm occupancy and use over a long period.

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration demonstrated the degree of error in aerial maps when 1,640 acres were measured from photographs and later surveyed with tape and transit. When the figures were compared, it was found that those taken from the air photographs were less than 3-10 of 1 per cent in error.

Often in making ground surveys where the land is wild, the distances and directions of boundaries are sketched in from "estimates" because of land features which make the surveys next to impossible. Since the air maps prove to be accurate, such "estimating" is no longer required, and too, the cost of the use of the air maps is considerably less.

Voice of the People

Homer Zink Favors
Hyde's Candidacy
Former Assemblyman Believes On Right Platform
He Merits Support

Editor of The News:

The recent little battle over traffic tickets is a sure sign there will be a Commission election soon. Presumably some careless candidate is sniping at the Director of Public Safety, just as a stupid candidate went gunning for Mayor Williams three years ago. Remember how the gun backfired and kicked one of the old Commissioners clear out of the Town Hall?

Be that as it may, we'll soon be in the midst of another campaign, with dozens of candidates presenting themselves for approval. One of those candidates will probably be Elmer Hyde, on whose behalf I really want to say a word.

In 1934, I voted for him, although I resented the fact that he was a candidate for Commissioner while Chairman of the Belleville Republican County Committee. I always thought and still think the Town Chairman should not become involved in the Commission fight.

If Elmer Hyde becomes a Commission candidate in 1938, running on the right platform and conducting a quiet campaign, he will merit the backing of people really interested in Belleville's welfare. I, for one, will support him under those circumstances, expecting him to be a conscientious, business-like, wide-awake Commissioner.

Yours truly,
HOMER C. ZINK.

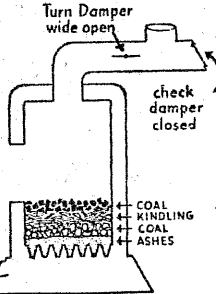

Home Heating Hints

by JOHN BARCLAY, Heating Expert

Building Furnace Fire
Is Easy Operation
When You Follow Few Simple Rules

It's really no trick to build a good furnace fire quickly and easily.

Leave a layer of ashes about two inches deep spread on the grate. Spread about two inches of coal over this layer of ashes. Over the coal, place a generous layer of kindling—newspapers and light, dry wood. The Turn Dampers in the smoke pipe and the Ashpit Damper should be open wide. If the Ashpit Damper on your furnace is in back, open it and also the Ashpit Door in front. This assures maximum draft and quick ignition.

When the kindling is burning well, add fresh coal gradually. In this way you get a deep fire in little time—the kindling burning the coal beneath it, and the fire, in turn, igniting the coal above it. From time to time, add additional fuel until you have a solid, deep fire. When this is done, check your dampers and close the Ashpit Door.

Should the kindling while igniting smoke a bit through the furnace door crevices, it is due to the chimney being cold and not providing enough draft to carry off the smoke. This is easily overcome by wadding a bit of newspaper, lighting it, and inserting it into the Check Damper. This heats the air, creating a draft in the flue pipe and chimney and carries the smoke away.

I'M GONNA GO BACK

By W. H. Moulton

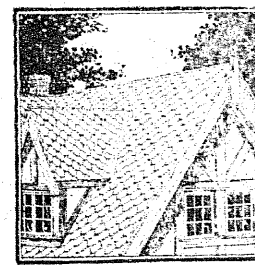

I'm gonna go back to the old Texas shack,
The wide open spaces are calling me.
The rude honest life and its stirring strife,
Bring back memories of the days so free.

I love to roam o'er the prairie alone,
Where wild nature shines gay in the sun,
The clear blue sky in the heavens so high,
Keep a-whispering and telling me come.

Oh, I'm gonna go back to that old prairie shack,
To the home I've had pleasure and pain,
I'll brave the burning sand for I love this open land,
So I'm gonna go back, back again.

It's not so strange my love for the range,
And the cattle and doggies that stray,
And my old horse Sal who was always my pal,
In the dear prairie days passed away.

I'm dreaming dreams of my boyhood,
Of that old place in memory's throne,
My thoughts linger on as I hum that sweet song,
Be it ever so humble there's no place like home.

Maybe Not Crazy, But a Little Strange

Travelers Ins. Co. Safety Service.

This illustration may be a slight bit over done, because "our fellow human beings" may not be quite as crazy as the artist has pictured them in the above. But at least by the way the artist spells out "human beings," the inference is that he regards a good many drivers and pedestrians as "cock-eyed." If sometimes drivers and pedestrians could see themselves as others see them, many would be in for some great surprises. This would be especially so when drivers do those little things which tell the wide world the kind of persons they are.

Oh wad some power the giftie gie us
To see oursel's as others see us!
It wad frae monie a blunder free us,
And foolish notion.

It's a good notion for drivers to look at themselves in the looking glass once in a while to try to figure out just how they may appear to their fellow men when they drive as though they had the only car registered and no such person as a pedestrian ever existed.

Teachers Score

False Economy

Point Out That Failure To Educate Children Is Irreparable

In an open letter to the citizens of Belleville, public school teachers, organized to secure better compensation for their services, point out that false economy in education may irreparably damage the lives and futures of local children. Their message follows:

An Open Letter to the Citizens of Belleville

Much is being said about the economy of residence in Belleville as a result of the low tax rate, etc.

Does economy necessarily mean low cost price or is it the ratio between money expended and value received?

No one would establish a residence in a hotel only because the rates were minimum.

No one would buy a suit simply because it was the cheapest he could find.

No one would buy a car, regardless of performance, simply because it was the cheapest on the market.

No one would buy a piano, regardless of tone, because it was cheap.

Certainly low price is desirable only in so far as it carries value with it.

A school system is a definite index to the quality of life in a town. Is there any sound reason to believe that merely inducing a low tax rate is going to induce desirable citizens into a town where their children are going to be trained by teachers righteously dissatisfied by inadequate salaries?

The fact that salaries are inadequate in Belleville is shown by the report of the State Department of Education for 1935-36. This report shows that Belleville is not only penny-pinching in the amount of text books and supplies furnished to students but in teachers' salaries as well. Do you feel that your boy or girl is less deserving of an opportunity to develop to his full capacity than are the students in other districts in Essex County?

If a street is unrepaired it may cause inconvenience. If a house is unpainted it may hurt your pride, but at a later date it is possible to remedy these conditions. However, if your boy or girl fails to secure the type of education that will fit him for successful living there is no chance to remedy that deficiency.

A few short years of a child's life are allotted to such training. After these years are gone who can turn back the hands of time and give him youth again? Whatever has been accomplished for good or ill must stand for all time.

Yet, in the face of these facts, Belleville is willing to give less to secure educational training than any other school district in Essex County. Belleville spends $1.09 against Caldwell Township's $2.81, Roseland's $2.22, and Cedar Grove's $2.94 per pupil for text books. A similar situation obtains in regard to other supplies. Belleville ranking at the bottom of the list.

While the per pupil cost of teachers' salaries in Belleville is $7.62 lower than Caldwell Township, the next lowest, Belleville's per pupil cost for salaries is approximately $15 below that of Nutley. This means that if Belleville paid its teachers even as much as Nutley, on the same per pupil cost basis, the teachers would then receive approximately $88,500 more than at present. Are you proud that the town is willing to do so little for your children?

Economies have been made in Belleville, but there comes a time when cheapness ceases to be economy. Is it economy to pay grade teachers as low as $21.15 per week, and high school teachers as low as $31.75 per week? Do you want your child going to schools having the lowest per pupil cost of text books and supplies, plus the lowest paid teachers in Essex County? Are you willing to gamble your child's chances of future success against a few points in a low tax rate? These questions are yours to answer to your own satisfaction.

Chairman Finance Committee and President of The Teachers Association.

Frost, Mrs. Dellatore was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, in a police car by Patrolman Anderson. The car which injured the woman was driven by John Ratti of 386 Essex avenue, Bloomfield.

Basketball Games At

High School

The Faculty Men's Club of Belleville High School raised $140 for the Red Cross flood relief fund by benefit basketball games at the high school gymnasium last Saturday night. The proceeds were turned over to Andrew L. Boylan, chairman of the local Red Cross chapter, this week.

More than 600 spectators were present at the games. The club team was divided into two parts, one of which met the Lyndhurst High School faculty while the other clashed with a team composed of employees of the First National Bank. Lyndhurst bowed to the teachers while the bankers were victorious.

Benenato pleaded non vult to nine charges, but the court, after imposing fines of $10 on each charge, suspended sentence on six counts. Daly Tells Lions Of College Football Club Hears Discussion Of Plane Safety By Air Line Representative

The Belleville Lions Club learned of college football, as seen by the players, and of the safety of commercial aviation when addressed by John J. Daly, Jr., of Belleville, captain of the Manhattan College grid eleven, and P. J. Bickley, a representative of Transcontinental & Western Airways, last week.

Mr. Daly, a former Belleville High School gridiron luminary, told the gathering that present day football is changed from that played in the old days, when "beef and brawn" were essential to victory, while today strategy and unexpected plays are the major factors. The forward pass, laterals, reverse plays, fast motion and speed are among the factors leading to a team's success, he said.

In reply to questions, Mr. Daly said that football's principal value in education was its teaching of sportsmanship and fair play. He declared that players and coaches are not in favor of the Dickinson or comparative system of scoring in rating teams at the close of the season.

According to Mr. Daly, most players, including himself, feel that scholarships should be provided for college football players, in view of the financial rewards a successful team brings their institutions.

The Manhattan captain declared that Louisiana State College provided the most outstanding team he eleven had met, stating that the Southerners played clean football and chose the right plays at the right time. Tinsley, Louisiana left end, was the best player he had competed against, he added.

Mr. Bickley told club members that, despite unfavorable publicity, aviation is the safest means of transportation, citing figures to show that only thirty-five persons of 1,200,000 passengers lost their lives in strictly commercial flying last year.

He told of modern instruments used in aerial navigation, including radio beams, blind flying instruments, gyrocompasses and artificial horizons.

According to Mr. Bickley, all pilots are required to have a knowledge of meteorology and radio weather reports are sent planes every thirty minutes. First pilots must have 8,000 flying hours to their credit and second pilots, 4,000, he said, adding that they are required to be physically fit and pass an examination every month.

"Uncle Buddy" Recovers Lost Cigarette Case

MISSING TWO WEEKS AT CHRISTMAS TIME—"BOSS" PADEREWSKI WOULD BE UPSET

Says John Rhoades, His Pullman Porter

UNCLE BUDDY'S got his silver cigarette case back! So all's well in the fourth floor apartment at 215 West 135th Street, New York City, and he can look his autographed picture of the "Boss" in the eye again!

Ignace Jan Paderewski, world's foremost pianist and eminent statesman, is just plain "Boss" to "Uncle Buddy" John Rhoades, who travelled for twelve years as porter and chief factotum on the private car which was home to the great Pole during his concert tours. It was "Uncle Buddy" who received $500 every week from the "Boss" for food and current expenses and accounted to the last penny every Friday night. It was Uncle Buddy who saw that tea and cake were ready for Paderewski's noontime breakfasts and juicy steaks hot on the platter for the dinners he ate at midnight after a concert. It was Uncle Buddy who placed the Boss when he came to do it—served a too hot plate and Paderewski retired to his stateroom in rage and hurt feelings. John hurried right in to tape up the scorched fingers, for when the Boss wouldn't eat, nobody could eat. It was Uncle Buddy who sat up all night, watching over the body, the time Mme. Paderewski's pet dog died in Chicago. It was the same day President Harding died and Uncle Buddy has always tied those two important dates together.

Up in his Harlem apartment Uncle Buddy has the trinkets the Boss and Mme. Paderewski gave him. The amethyst ring, the octagonal watch, and the hammy silver cigarette case from Tiffany's. That's the best of all. For two weeks, right at Christmas time too, to make it worse, the cigarette case was missing.

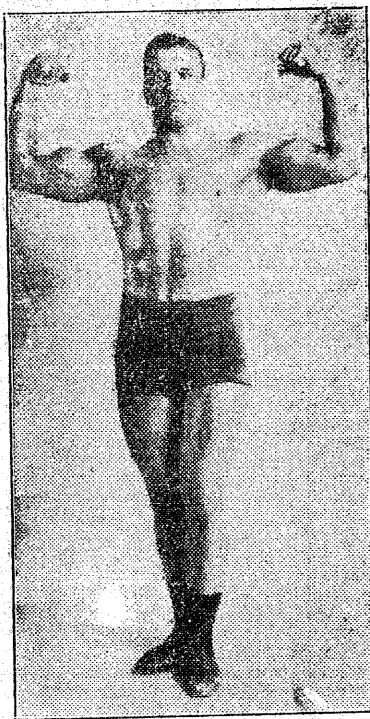

It seems that Uncle Buddy went to a dance. There was a lot of holly and tinsel and good cheer at the dance. And like any Georgia gentleman who likes to be a good fellow and pay the ladies a few gallantries, Uncle Buddy was passing out cigarettes freely from his silver cigarette case. So freely he just passed out the case itself.

Two weeks went by. The case had not been returned. Uncle Buddy was thinking of advertising in the Harlem paper—maybe even in the white folk's New York

Kampfer to Battle Gino Garibaldi Italian-German Mat Bout Will Climax Show At Laurel Garden

Gino Garibaldi, leading Italian mat star, will attempt to add another victim to his string of wins when he takes on Hans Kampfer, strong German matador, in the final match at Laurel Garden, Newark, Tuesday night.

Ginc increased his list of victims last week when he downed Rudy Dusek, his arch rival. In taking on the huge Teuton, Gino might find stiffer competition. In disposing of Al Sparks last week, Hans showed that he and his "bearhug" demand respect from other headliners.

Two mat favorites will be seen battling for a chance to earn a return match with Ernie Dusek in the semifinal. Mike Mazurki, elongated New Yorker, and Matros Khilenko, clever Russian, are the two in question.

Bill Sledge, the ranger from the Lone Star State, will meet Abe Goldberg, New York Hebrew, in the third set. Irish Jack Donovan, popular Bostonian, will make his first showing in many weeks when he tackles a tough foe in George McLeod of Iowa, in the second set. Tommy Nian, pint sized matador from Australia, will appear in the curtain raiser with Harry Finkelstein of Texas.

A dependable scoring punch—the answer to every coach's prayer—is possible without a vast assortment of plays. As a matter of fact, the team with a few simple plays skillfully selected and executed is more effective than one with a complicated array in which quality has been sacrificed for quantity. A team thoroughly grounded in the fundamentals, that knows a few good set-plays, needs just two vital watch-words to govern their use: decision and precision.

Decision: selecting the right play the moment it is needed. The player who calls the signals must be trained to size up instantly his opponents' weakness. But he must be clever enough to play through that weakness only when it is essential to score, and not so frequently as to point out the gap to the opponents. The field general must also be able to discover why a certain set-play fails, and to correct the fault before it does irreparable damage. If the correction proves impossible, he must avoid that play. He must direct his men to capitalize on each and every opportunity provided by the opponents.

Precision: perfect timing by every member of the team. Tip-off plays are useless without control of the tap both at center and on held balls, and when the guards and forwards do not know how to convert an advantage into a score. First of all, be sure no one will point the plays; make all the set-ups appear similar, at the start. Then be certain every player knows every position of every play, down to the ground. For out-of-bounds set-plays the ability of every man to jump into any of the five positions is particularly essential. Each man, for instance, should be able to fake a cut for a pass, thereby drawing an opponent out of position and shaking a team mate into the open. To begin with, walk your men through the various set-plays, until understanding and confidence gradually increase the speed. Work it up to a whirlwind attack; but don't let it get careless!

Hank Barber Signs For Joe Dusek Go Gino Garibaldi Paired With Joe Cox at Columbia Park Arena

Hank Barber, former star footballer for Dartmouth College, will be seen in action in the feature one fall, ninety minute time limit test at Ralph Mondt's Columbia Park, North Bergen, tonight. Opposed to him will be Joe Dusek, youngest of the Riot Squad, who was the victim of poor officiating at last week's feature against Danno O'Mahoney.

A special added attraction, listed for 10 minutes, will present the Italian champion, Gino Garibaldi, and Joe Cox, Kansas City Krasher. The other half hour bouts will bring together Hans Kampfer and Ernie Powers; Lieutenant Bill Sledge and Al Sparks; and Babe Caddock and Pete Peterson.

Sign Foreign Stars For Six-Day Whirl Guerra, DeNef, Pynenburg, Loncke, Slaats, and Al- varo Georgetti to Ride

John M. Chapman, manager of the New York six-day bicycle race which opens at Madison Square Garden, February 28, has been successful in his quest for talent in foreign countries. To date he has signed six alien pedal pushers, all with excellent six-day records.

The sextet are: Leno Guerra, five times Italian road champion and former world's road titleholder; Roger De Nef and Emile Loncke, two of Belgium's outstanding riders; Jean Pynenburg and Henry Slaats, Hollanders, and Alvaro Georgetti of Italy.

Everyone of the above mentioned stars excepting Slaats, have competed in America before, so the Garden saucer will not be new to them. Pynenburg displayed the best form in his American showing, winning a Chicago race, and was well up with the leaders when illness forced him out of the recent New York grind.

Slaats, whose name will be good for the boys in the gallery, is only a youngster, but has a remarkable six-day record, having won three races and finished second, third and fourth in three others.

Alvaro Georgetti needs no introduction to the fans. He is a youngster and besides being able to plug a bike hard, can sprint and take it.
An amateur team race with all of the leading cyclists from New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York will precede the six-day derby. The race will be similar to the last hour of a six-day derby with a sprint every mile for points. Among the clubs who have sent in entries are: Bay View Wheelmen, Alpine Wheelmen, Triangle Club and North Hudson Wheelmen, all of New Jersey; Century Road Club, Acme Wheelmen and Union Sportiva Italian, all of New York, and the Philadelphia Wheelmen of Pennsylvania.

SYNOPSIS

Green Ridge College is picked to represent the East in the Rose Bowl football game against Sierra. Oddie Merrill, Sierra fullback star, heads from Belport, which is the home town of Paddy O'Riley. Green Ridge second string quarterback, The two were once rivals for the affections of Cheers Reynolds, Belport belle. Dutch Schultz, Green Ridge varsity fullback, plays a practical joke by writing Cheers a letter telling her of Paddy's devotion. In retaliation, Paddy informs the college press agent of Dutch's old high school romance with Florence Taylor, now a movie star. Dutch, in turn, tells them of the triangle involving Merrill, Cheers, and Paddy. The romances receive national attention and heighten interest in the game but cause Paddy and Dutch to come to blows. Dutch hurts his leg in practice. His substitute, Russell, also receives a broken nose. This causes Coach Soapy Moreland of Green Ridge to worry about his inclusion for the bowl game.

CHAPTER IX

Dutch was resting his game leg while he sat on the porch of a Pasadena hotel and compared notes with Donovan, his husky teammate. "What are you going to order for your first meal when you break training?" the former inquired dreamily. "Chocolate pie a la mode, chocolate pie a la mode—chocolate pie a la mode—and a blonde," sighed Donovan.

"Nice talk! Nice talk!" Dutch opened his eyes to give his friend a disgusted look, then sat up with a jerk. On the porch before him stood Cheers Reynolds.

"Well! Well!" He hobbled to his feet. "If it ain't the woman of moods! And what are you doing so far from home, if I may ask?"

"I robbed the till at the Sweetery to get money for the trip," she smiled a bit shyly. Then: "Well, are you going to tell me where he is?"

"You mean Paddy? He's in Room 406. Knock twice and say Al sent you." As Cheers nodded and started away he added suddenly: "How about giving him a message? Just tell him the word is 'Crawl'."

"That's silly." She was impatient to get away.

"Sure. But you tell him anyway."

As the girl hurried into the hotel Soapy passed her as he came out.

"Who was that?" he asked Dutch.

"Don't you know?" was the surprised retort. "That's Cheers Reynolds—O'Riley's reason for living!"

"Ummmm!" The coach nodded thoughtfully. "Nice looking little girl." He turned on his heel and re-entered the hotel.

Paddy was studying Oscar, the Green Ridge mascot, with great satisfaction when a knock sounded on his door.

"Come in," he yelled without looking up.

Cheers entered, then rapped twice or the open door.

"All right! All right." Paddy groaned as he touched up one of the many scores on the toy donkey's flank. "Knock—knock—who's there?"

"Clarify," she answered in a deep bass.

"All right again! Clarify who?"

"Clarify come in." Cheers finished in her normal voice.

Paddy jumped up at this and faced her, hardly believing his eyes.

"It's a lie!" he whispered. "That is, unless I've died and gone to heaven!"

"Then you're really glad to see me?"

"Am I glad to see you?" He sprang forward and took both of her hands in his. "Am I glad! Say!"

"What's this?" Cheers inquired, pointing at the deserted Oscar.

"Just a bust of Schultz."

"It does kind of look like August," she agreed thoughtfully. "Oh, say, he asked me to give you a message. Something about crawl being the word."

"What?" Paddy gasped as though he had been splashed with cold water.

"'Crawl' is the word was what he said. I didn't think it made sense either."

"Oh yes, it makes sense all right," O'Riley suddenly had become stiff and distant. As Cheers looked at him in complete surprise he rushed on: "Now, let's get something straight. The last time I saw you—there was a battle. So what did you come way out here for?" He folded his arms majestically and concluded: "If you came to say you're sorry—I'm listening."

"Maybe that is why I came." She was stunned by his complete change of front. "But..."

"You know darned well it is." He was gaining assurance.

"Don't be too sure!" she flared up. "Maybe I came to watch Sierra knock Green Ridge's ears down!"

"No you didn't!" Paddy was still exuding confidence. "Remember you're talking to the O'Riley now..."

For a moment she merely stared at this grin, hard-to-get person before her. Then she capitulated.

Moving closer to him, she began softly: "Aw, Paddy—when I get mad I get all mixed up and say the craziest things—Be nice—Gee—they allow a dog three bites. Don't you think you ought to allow a girl three mistakes?"

His determination to make her crawl rapidly weakening, Paddy looked down at the girl tenderly.

When he put a hand under her chin and tilted her face up to him.

"Remember," he said quietly, "I told you if I ever had anything to say to you, I'd say it! I've got something to say now..."

He looked at her through his binoculars, then went on in a slightly louder tone:

"There seems to be a slight change in the lineup—Russell—number 32—started at fullback for Green Ridge instead of Duncan. There goes the kick. Russell caught it. He's wearing a nose-guard helmet to protect that broken nose of his. He's off down the field. Now he's tackled by Sierra's number 12. He's down after making a fifteen yard gain!"

On the next play Russell fumbled, then recovered in his characteristic manner.

"Now you see?" Cheers exclaimed to her sister. "If they had Paddy in there!" She gritted her teeth and added: "That dumb lunk of a coach!"

On the third play Russell fumbled once more and Green Ridge took time out for a huddle.

"I was afraid of that," the commentator remarked cheerfully.

"Russell's young, inexperienced. It's asking a lot to expect him to meet this veteran Sierra team. It was Russell, you remember, who almost lost the Erie game for Green Ridge."

"Well! Well!" Dutch exclaimed. "If it ain't the woman of moods! And what are you doing so far away from home, may I ask?"

"Yes, Paddy?" Almost in his arms now, she waited with bated breath.

"All right, O'Riley!" Soapy's voice cut through the love scene like a knife. "Turn in your suit!" As the youngsters stared at him uncomprehendingly he nodded toward the open door. "You'd better get out of here, little girl," he told Cheers.

"You can't talk to Cheers that way!" flamed Paddy.

"I haven't got time to talk to her at all," was the flippant reply. "You're through, O'Riley."

"You can't take Paddy off the team!" wailed the girl.

"Outside!" He pointed to the door and waited until she had gone.

"I can take it, Coach," exclaimed Paddy when they were alone. "But you've got to listen about Miss Reynolds."

"If you're smart, you'll forget about it," was the quiet reply.

On the day of the big game Cheers and Susie found themselves perched high in the Rose Bowl close to a box where some radio announcer was describing the colorful crowd, the parading bands and, of course, the wonderful California climate.

"Too bad neither Schultz nor O'Riley is going to meet Oddie Merrill today," the commentator chattered with his unseen audience.

"Schultz is laid up with a recurrence of the knee injury he received in the Erie game. The fans are buzzing with a thousand theories as to why O'Riley is out of the lineup, although it is pretty well known that a girl was mixed up in the mess..."

Another development in the much publicized Rose Bowl quadrangle by the way... Now the teams are on the field. Sierra, in the white jerseys, is about to kick off to Green Ridge...

The announcer paused, studied the play carefully through his binoculars, then went on in a slightly louder tone:

"Outside!" He pointed to the door and waited until she had gone.

"I can take it, Coach," exclaimed Paddy when they were alone. "But you've got to listen about Miss Reynolds."

"If you're smart, you'll forget about it," was the quiet reply.

On the day of the big game Cheers and Susie found themselves perched high in the Rose Bowl close to a box where some radio announcer was describing the colorful crowd, the parading bands and, of course, the wonderful California climate.

"Too bad neither Schultz nor O'Riley is going to meet Oddie Merrill today," the commentator chattered with his unseen audience.

"Schultz is laid up with a recurrence of the knee injury he received in the Erie game. The fans are buzzing with a thousand theories as to why O'Riley is out of the lineup, although it is pretty well known that a girl was mixed up in the mess..."

Another development in the much publicized Rose Bowl quadrangle by the way... Now the teams are on the field. Sierra, in the white jerseys, is about to kick off to Green Ridge...

Both Sides in Court In Crowhurst Strike

Leather Concern Seeks to Restrain Strikers From Picketing Plant

A. J. Crowhurst, Inc., at whose plant in Mill street a strike has been in progress for several weeks, Tuesday filed an action seeking an injunction against strikers. The concern would have strikers barred from picketing the plant or molesting men at work in the factory. Local 27, Tannery Workers' Union, has been given until next Tuesday by Vice Chancellor Bigelow to show cause why the injunction should not be granted.

The union applied Monday for a temporary injunction against the Crowhurst concern, charging that the company caused a lockout January 6 in an effort to break a working agreement made with employees last September. Vice Chancellor Bigelow refused to grant the temporary injunction, as requested by Isserman & Isserman, counsel for the union, and ordered the concern to show cause next Tuesday why the application should not be granted.

The union's attorneys seek to restrain the Crowhurst corporation from employing new men at the factory until union men at the plant before January 6 are given employment.

A closed shop at the local plant is demanded by strikers. The union charges that the agreement, made September 2 after a strike, established a forty-hour week with time and one-third for overtime.

Workers in the beam house were forced to work six days a week to provide material for other workers, who were employed five days a week, it is charged. The concern refused to pay overtime for the extra day, the union men declare.

Violence occurred last Friday when a free-for-all took place outside the plant. Seven strikers, Joseph Costa, 32, of 41 Cedar Hill avenue, George O'Neill, 35, of 27 Bayard street, Fred Perkins, 21, of 81 Holmes street and James Cherry, 19, of 47 William street, all of Belleville; Thomas Arnold, 33, and Anthony Nardillo, 23, of 23 and 25 West Orange, were arrested.

Hearing of charges against them was postponed until Monday by Recorder Everett B. Smith after their attorney, Morris Isserman, asked time to prepare countercomplaints against unidentified guards, whom he charged with instigating the rioting.

A group of strikers from the Seton Leather Co. in Verona avenue, Newark, where there is also a strike in progress, were attacked by five strikebreakers armed with baseball bats and lengths of pipe at Washington avenue and Mill street, this town, Monday. The strikebreakers were routed after a pitched battle.

Finest Equipment For Capitol Theater

Weshner Announces New Instruments on Third Anniversary Here

Ben Weshner, manager of the Warner Brothers Capitol Theater here, will celebrate the third anniversary of his taking charge of the local playhouse next Wednesday.

In announcing his anniversary, Mr. Weshner also announced that new High Fidelity R. C. A. sound equipment, the finest obtainable, would be installed at the Capitol within the next three or four weeks.

The new equipment will be identical with that now in use at the Radio City Music Hall in New York City, and is the most up-to-date on the market today. With its installation, patrons of the Capitol will be insured of enjoyment as great as that of patrons of the largest and finest theaters in the United States.

"With the installation of this modern equipment," said Mr. Weshner, "audiences at the Capitol will find new beauty in the music and a more natural tone in the voices of the screen players."

Before coming to the Capitol, Mr. Weshner was manager of a number of Warner theaters in various cities of the state. Since assuming the management here, he has improved the sound equipment two times and has made numerous other improvements in the theater.

The civics committee, of which Mrs. Catherine Ferguson of 28 Bell street is chairman, is pressing the campaign for a 5-cent fare between Belleville and Newark. Petitions were recently circulated, and the committee has requested that all holders of the petitions return them to the organization before next Wednesday.

The petitions may be returned to Mrs. Harvey W. Mumford, 10 Oak street; Mrs. Emily Sundheimer, 243 Ralph street; Mrs. Ruth Fredericks, 35 Montgomery place, or Mrs. Ferguson.

Mrs. O'Brien attended a meeting and luncheon of the Essex County Council of Presidents of Women's Republican Organizations Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Augustus W. Gehin, 483 Parker street, Newark. Plans for the gubernatorial election next November were discussed.

Know Your Language

By C. L. Bushnell School of English, International Correspondence Schools

SOME writers have a tendency to make too frequent use of the comma, but how important the comma can be is illustrated by a document discovered a few years ago in Spain, which seemed to show that Sir Walter Raleigh was not, as is generally supposed, the first to introduce tobacco to Europe.

The document was a will drawn in the year 1523, more than half a century before Sir Walter smoked his first pipe. The testator named as one of his heirs a man seemingly described as "Antonio, tobacco merchant of Lisbon." Closer examination of the will, however, convinced scholars that the proper reading was "Antonio Tobasso, merchant of Lisbon." Thus the placing of a comma threatened to deprive Raleigh of his fame as the patron saint of tobacco.
