Zoning Board Grants Gas Station Permits Building and Loan Groups And School Board Protest Action

Renato Giordano of 145 Washington avenue was given permission to erect a gasoline station at Garden avenue and Dawson street. The loan associations held that an establishment of this type would depreciate property values in the neighborhood.

A permit for the construction of a station at Jersalem street and Passaic avenue was granted Joseph Covino of 24 Newark avenue, Nutley. Our Poets Corner

Welcome Spring

By W. H. MOULTON

Once more we welcome gentle Spring, As the cold winds of winter pass, While all nature comes to life again, In potent charm and loveliness.

Enchanting visions will greet the eye In valley and mountain glen, So joyously we welcome you, dear Spring With kindly thoughts again.

In the garden just at twilight, As the twinkling stars shine down, Could they behold anything more lovely Than Springtime's festive crown?

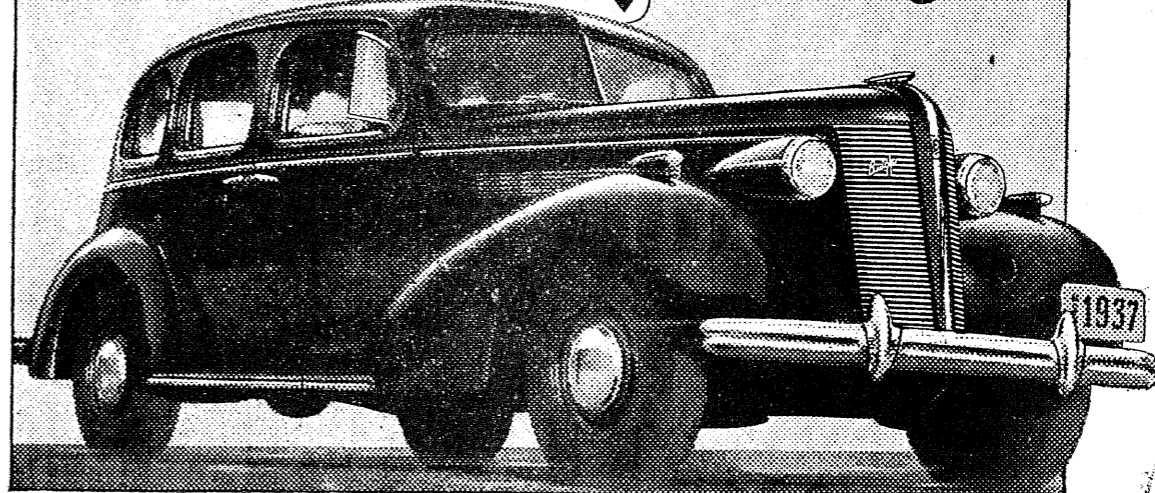

Give thanks to the spirit of Spring-time

And to the new born flowers we view, May they inspire with their beauty To make life more pleasant and true.

CIVIL SERVICE

In the January 15, 1937 issue of The Belleville News was published a statement issued by Mayor William H. Williams to the Board of Commissioners advocating the adoption of Civil Service in the town.

His statement under date of January 11 was a comprehensive summary of the advantages to Belleville taxpayers in establishing the merit system for Town Employees.

It is singular that the views of our Mayor-Finance Director are carried forward in the editorial comments of the Newark Evening News under a later date of March 31 when that paper comments on the findings of The Princeton Survey Committee as follows:

CIVIL SERVICE

(From The Newark Evening News, March 31.)

"The Princeton Survey Committee has been studying 'the thorny question of personnel' in local governments and finds that 60 per cent of all public employees in the state are under no system of administrative control. Which is to say that most of them are under political control. For the report directs attention again to the fact that civil service prevails in only twenty-two of 585 municipalities and in nine of the twenty-one counties.

"It seems strange that civil service has not been adopted more widely by local governments. As the Princeton report said: 'The law never works perfectly; it never works evenly; some times it does not seem to work at all. But the adoption of civil service always marks a step toward better government.' The public pays $117,000,000 a year to 125,000 employees of local governments. Public employees are entitled to the protection conferred by civil service and similarly the public interest should be protected through the selection of employees who can do a little efficient work for the taxpayer as well as the ticket.

"The committee recommends extension and overhauling of the law, which it finds is 'practical and workable.' There are obvious weaknesses in the system. But no system is any better than the men who run it."

In a similar manner the editorial page of the Newark Sunday Call in its issue of April 4 lends its endorsement as follows:

NOT ALL DRONES

(From the Sunday Call, April 4)

"Strengthening and extension of the civil service system in municipal government is among the important suggestions of the Princeton Survey for improving the personnel of local government in New Jersey. Of 585 local governments in this state only 22 operate under civil service.

"From their contacts with surly and discourteous civil service employees, many citizens will doubt that the merit system is as effective in improving municipal service standards as the Princeton Survey believes. The fact is that despite the impression created by the bad manners and laziness of a few, the majority of public employees are as energetic and conscientious as their superiors require them to be. They are not much different from workers in private business.

"The most impressive fact uncovered by the Princeton Survey is the size of the army of devoted officials who serve a more or less grateful public without compensation. Of the 125,185 persons engaged in local government service in New Jersey, 38,860, nearly a third of the total, are unpaid."

To the citizen interested in good government, rather than who comprises the personnel, this trend must be reassuring. Civil Service is destined to become the rule rather than the exception in local governments.

In the past several years taxpayers of Belleville have seen many of Mayor Williams recommendations after adoption become important principles in the successful conduct of our municipality. We are pleased but not surprised to find Mayor Williams thinking ahead of those who are striving for the correction of ills in Governmental affairs and continuing his efforts to place Belleville in the forefront of progressive activity.

We urge our readers to carefully re-read the Newark Evening News and Sunday Call editorials on Civil Service.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

This seems an odd time of the year for staging a Christmas party, but that is what the post office clerks at Concord, N. H., are planning. Their Christmas party will be held early in April. Santa will be present; there will be a tree and all the fixins. The reason for the delayed party is that the mailmen have not had time in the last three months for their observance. They were deluged with Christmas mail. Then came the Social Security mail. Come to think of it, the postmen, not alone in Concord but throughout the nation, have been kept very much on the jump. And, so far as the public has heard, there hasn't been a whimper of complaint. That is quite a tribute to the mailmen.

THE CONVENTION TOWN

Belleville is fast gaining its place in the Sun.

Tomorrow the New Jersey groups of the National League of Masonic Clubs meet in Belleville for the annual convention of the league. This is an honor, which a few years ago would not have been bestowed upon our fair town because we were then just a little pin head on the map.

Today it is different. Belleville has tooted its own horn. Whether some agree or not doesn't matter so much as the fact that we are going ahead and nothing is going to stop us.

We greet the Masons here today and hope their stay with us will be a pleasant one. We are proud of our town and perhaps some of these visitors will be so impressed that they will come later to join our happy family.

On top of this Masonic convention comes the announcement that the American Legion County convention will be held here in June. Again Belleville is honored. The Legionnaires and families will be greeted with the same hospitality which greets the Craftsmen. Truly Belleville is stepping forward. Atlantic City claimed the Masons and other such prominent places before. Now it's Belleville!

What's wrong with the slogan—Belleville the convention town. The publicity is constructive and conducive to further progress. Other organizations are bound to bring conventions here. Let's make this town the outstanding one in the East. It lies within our grasp if we follow the wisdom and vision of those who would help us grow. Perhaps the stick in the woods days are passing.

HONOR TO THE BOY IN BLUE

Taps have sounded for John J. Barrett.

Sunday he passed on, Belleville's last "Boy in Blue."

About three-quarters of a century ago he answered the call to Union arms when he was eighteen. He served his Flag well and returned home after the war to serve further his country as an American and splendid citizen. John J. Barrett has left us but he will not be forsaken. His open, frank face spoke of his sincerity. He was a real soldier in private and public life who loved his fellow men.

John's heart was with the veterans. He never missed a Memorial day parade or service. He knew full well what Memorial day represents and with all the fervor he could muster he honored his departed comrades. With John they had passed on but were not forgotten. And so each Memorial Day he trod as long as he could to cemeteries to honor those who long since had passed on. Thus as we write today John shall not be forgotten. Perhaps, these writings, humble as they are, from one of his comrades of another war may find a place among his memorials, for many there are certain to be.

Night and snow and the sentry stood
Huddle-bent in the starless wood,
Thinking grim as a sentry will
Folks awaiting over yonder hill.
Sparkling fires and lamp-lit halls.
Laughter ringing from sheltered walls.
They had wine and food to eat
He was tired with bleeding feet.

As a veteran we wonder if this verse which bears repeating ever entered John's mind as he stood sentry?

EARNED HER REST

There must be an upsurge of gratitude in the breasts of untold millions to read every so often of the simple, mostly retired life of Carrie Jacobs Bond. This is the woman who vocalized the essential sweetness of religious feeling as it hasn't been done in perhaps a thousand hymn books. Her songs, "Just A-Wearying for You," "End of a Perfect Day," "I Love You Truly," answer a cry of infinite yearning in the human heart.

Of course, tragedy struck her personal life again and again, for her simple songs have the softening scent of crushed flowers. Her home is in Hollywood, and she lives amidst the beatitudes of her garden while busy people very near her are turning out music by the bale and know more of its technique than she will ever know. But what she has done, and they can't do, is make articulate in song the mysterious springs of emotion which unite the humblest human soul to eternity.

Tax Delinquency in New Jersey

Further evidence that New Jersey is emerging from the depression is afforded by surveys of rural delinquency by the municipal service department of Dunn & Bradstreet. Despite marked improvements, however, the surveys reveal alarming conditions.

On January 1, 1936, rural lands delinquent from 1929 to 1934, inclusive, amounted to 18.51 per cent, or nearly one-fifth of the entire area of the state. Delinquency by rural and semi-rural counties ranged from 8.84 per cent of the total area to 35.79 per cent. Delinquency by rural townships ranged from zero to 72.74 per cent. Both the low and the high townships were widely scattered among the rural counties.

A sample check made recently in more than a score of South Jersey townships showed that conditions are now improving. It was found that taxes had been paid in full during 1936 upon 18.37 per cent of the land found delinquent at the time of the original survey. Partial payment was made upon 25.12 per cent of the land originally found delinquent. By far the largest payments were for land delinquent for only one year.

While the survey admittedly covered an abnormal period, it has proved extremely valuable in bringing to light the kind of property and the kind of location least able to stand up under the strain of adverse economic conditions.

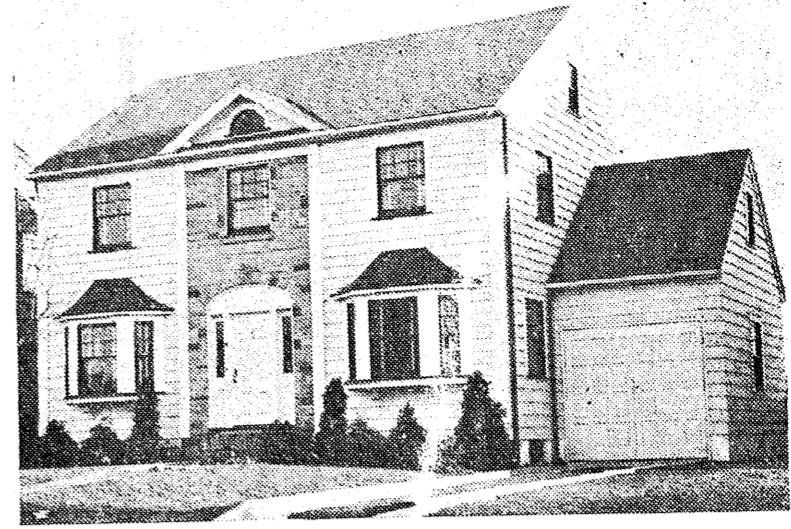

The municipal service department of Dunn & Bradstreet conducted a survey of tax delinquency in cities of over 50,000 throughout the United States. This survey included thirteen municipalities in New Jersey. General property tax collections, it is known, began to decline in the late twenties and then dropped rapidly through 1933.

There were many reasons for such delinquency. The administration of the general property tax had been inefficient in many sections of the country. Assessing was handled ineptly, collection methods were haphazard, and means of enforcement were inadequate. Furthermore, real estate speculation had carried assessed valuations so high that the tax base in many cities was top-heavy and tax paying ability on much unimproved property rested merely on the hopes of the future.

Many of these conditions held true for New Jersey. A contributing or dominating factor in improved tax payments within recent years in New Jersey was the institution of quarterly payments and more regular tax sales.

The depth of tax delinquency for cities of over 50,000 was reached in 1933 and in the three years since that time the year-end delinquency on the current tax levy showed a marked fall in the average city. Throughout the United States in 1931 the mean delinquency rose to 14.6 per cent, while in 1932 it rose to 19.59 per cent. In 1933 tax delinquency reached a peak of 26.35 per cent. In New Jersey in 1933 the thirteen cities of over 50,000 had an average delinquency of 42.52 per cent. By 1936 this had fallen to 28.56 per cent.

An Egyptian Fable

"But if the critics it displease
That brutes should talk, and even trees,
Let them remember I but jest,
And teach the truth in fiction
drest—"
AESOP.

Over against Luxor, during the reign of Amenophis III, the Egyptian Pharaoh who founded that city, once lived a man whose name was Egro-eg Dran-reb-Wahs. (We feel at liberty to choose our own spelling and variation of this name, inasmuch as the Egyptologists themselves, have ever been at loggerheads over the spelling of Egyptian names; thus, it is not uncommon to find, for example, the name Thethmosis spelled Thothmosis, Tahutmes, Thutmose, or Tethmosis. Then too, our choice, if read in sequence and inversion, will be found to be an Irish synonym of the French word "fanfaronnade.") But to continue. This man was very old, a writer of plays, and possessed of a ready wit. Sometimes, when he appeared in the market-place (he came to buy dried mackerel), the people would gather about him and press him with many questions. (for many thought him a Seer) Whereupon, he would part his snow-white whiskers, and, with a merry twinkle in his eye, shout violently through his thick beard the interjection, "Boo!" Now this of course, frightened the multitude into a little; but they, believing it a divine revelation, had it immediately written down by the priests and scribes on papyrus, and the word of the Seer was sent by camel caravan to Karnak, Gizeh, Nippur, Nineveh, and all the country round about.

Egro-eg Dran-reb-Wahs was also a great favorite of the Pharaoh, and had written many plays for him. Indeed, nowhere, from the Aegean Sea to the Sixth Cataract, or from Beersheba to Dan, could be found anyone to excel him in the writing of long prefaces; for he believed the play itself was unimportant, and therefore devoted his entire life to preface writing. So long were they, that they even exceeded by many millions of words the whole of The Book of the Dead. These were copied in hieratic script by the priests and scribes and placed within the temple in huge archives marked "Ponderous Prologues."

This Egro-eg Dran-reb-Wahs was a great traveller. He journeyed into all parts of the world; and enjoyed the reputation of being both preceptor and critic of the customs and morals of the peoples he visited. Those living under kingly rule he would have found under priestly rule, and those whom he found living under priestly rule he would have found under kingly rule. Thus proving his mind was not, as our modern psychologists are wont to say, "in a state of arrested development."

A truly great man indeed, was Egro-eg Dran-reb-Wahs, and the Egyptians justly proud of him; for where, in the whole world can be found a playwright who has erected to himself such a colossal monument of paper, as those prefaces at Gizeh, which the traveller can see even today.

The BUSINESS LETTER

By MARTIN COOK

The President's announcement, made on Friday, last, of a change in policy in government spending from durable to consumers goods was, undoubtedly, the leading item of news affecting the world of business.

Its immediate effect was to cause a sharp decline in the security markets, especially in the durable goods section. On second thought, however, a better feeling prevailed and most classes of securities recovered some, if not all, of the losses.

The commodity markets have been quite active at higher prices, especially the cereals, and many are now selling at the highest prices in years. A hasty check of the industries affected indicated that with one or two exceptions they were not dependent, to any appreciable extent, on government orders. Steel men say that outside of the Army and Navy not more than 1 per cent of their orders go to the government.

Concerns producing consumers goods should benefit by the change. The outlook for the immediate future for industry and trade, according to the Standard Statistics Co. is bright.

A few of the prominent trades summarized by them follow:

Automobiles—Production restricted by strikes but their settlement should make for a good gain in output.

Electrical Equipment—Orders exceeding shipments. Substantial backlog of orders forecasts best year since 1929.

Machinery—Forward buying, despite high prices, insure an active business for several months.

Railroads—Freight traffic should be well maintained but gains over 1936 will be narrow this month.

Railroad Equipment—Orders for all types of equipment have been placed. Indications point to still heavier orders this month.

Retail Trade—Despite the unseasonable Easter weather March sales were 10 to 12 per cent higher than last year.

Steel—Back logs of orders are still very large and all indications point to continued heavy operations.

Utilities—Operating results continue to be satisfactory, with output running substantially above a year ago.

Telephone companies continue reporting gains in installations. The effect of the increased business, as a result of the gains, should soon be evident.

Beneath the grist of favorable news, that is being published, a note of caution is apparent. The possibility that the present upward movement might develop into an uncontrollable boom followed by a drastic setback is feared by many observers.

Politics are as mixed as ever. The Supreme Court fight, alone, is pregnant with possibilities, while the discussion, in the Senate, on the sit-down strike is not conducive to an early settlement. In fact the threat held over business, by labor, is one of the most important questions to be settled.

Editor's Note: Questions pertaining to investments and securities addressed to Martin Cook in care of this paper will be answered promptly.

Belleville's Past

As Recorded by This Newspaper

Twenty-five Years Ago

The town council debated the granting of a license to an additional saloon in town. The permit was sought by James E. Carragher, brother of Councilman Frank J. Carragher.

Following the death from smallpox of a workman employed at the county isolation hospital, Police Chief Michael J. Flynn and Chancery Walter Drake were stationed on the grounds to prevent outsiders entering the institution.

Belleville's first building code was adopted by the town council.

Ten Years Ago

Commissioner Edward Nelson announced that the tax rate for 1927 would be 4.28.

Commissioner Frank J. Carragher applied to Chief Justice Gun more for a writ to prevent other members of the town commission from removing the department of public works from his control.

Congressman Hartley Broadcasts On Presidents' Plan For Court

Declares Plan Warrants Calm Consideration Of Every American Citizen— Over W.O.R.

"The President's proposal to reform the U. S. Supreme Court warrants the calm consideration of every American citizen. To oppose it on partisan grounds is just as foolhardy as to endorse it on the out-moded idea that 'The king can do no wrong.'"

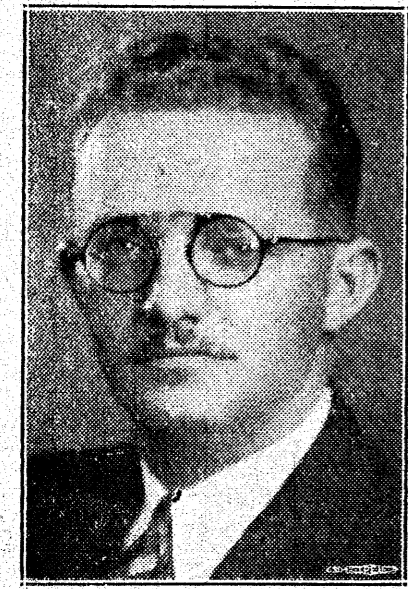

"It is suggested that an additional Judge shall be appointed to the Court whenever a Judge reaches the age of 70 and fails to resign or retire. The immediate effect would be that six additional Justices would be appointed to the Supreme Court and twenty-five Judges to the lower Courts if the present incumbents do not resign. The real objective of the President's plan was camouflaged when first presented, but under the X-Ray of fact it became easily discernable.

"We were told by the Attorney

General, 'In our Federal Courts the Law's delay has been intolerable.' Yet by the Attorney General's own official report the Supreme Court's calendar is current and has been for the past eight years.

"If congestion exists in some of the lower Courts, then, 'Why haven't those who would streamline the Courts, filled the nine vacancies which have existed for these many months?'

"The proponents further inferred that conservatism begins at 70. What has age to do with the trend of Judicial opinion? The greatest living liberal is the oldest member of the Supreme Court, Mr. Justice Brandeis, 80 years old and going strong. There is not a man in America today, young or old enough to take his place. Age is no barrier to progress nor is youth its salvation. And yet on the ways of such subterfuge was this Court Reform launched.

FRED A. HARTLEY, JR.

"Stripped of its mask the proposal was recognized as a bold attempt to pack the Supreme Court with members whose decisions will be made in the code of the Administration. What a mockery of Justice. What a mockery of Liberalism. How any true liberal would want to destroy the constitutional guaranties and the security of the Supreme Court, I cannot understand.

"The Constitution of the United States when it was adopted was looked upon as political liberalism, the like of which had never been seen in the history of the world.

"Real liberalism means, progress under Law, and under the Constitution; real liberalism means security to individuals of their rights against the power of Government. But these so-called liberals want to confer more power in the Government. That means more power over the individual and the lessening of his rights and liberties.

"As a member of the labor Committee of Congress during the years I have had the honor to serve in that body I have always voted for those measures which were regarded as liberal. But I am a liberal under the Constitution. I am a liberal under my oath to live under American Institutions until we change them as American Institutions require.

"One hundred and fifty years ago the founders of this Republic fought the Revolution to escape the very condition now offered in the name Judicial reform. The Declaration of Independence referring to King George, our last autocrat, states, as one of the basic reasons for the fight for Independence, 'He has made the Judges dependent upon his will alone for their tenure of office.'

"In this land of liberty do we want justice interpreted by puppets personified? We are told that the ends sought justify the means.

"The picture of poverty, sweatshops, unemployment, long hours, back-breaking work, child labor, ill health, inadequate housing, poor crops, drought, flood, the dust-bowl, strikers, industrial confusion, one-third of the Nation ill-housed, ill-clad, ill-nourished, was graphically painted; not by enemies of the Administration, but by the President of the United States himself at a hundred dollar per plate victory dinner in Washington. And all this, it is implied, because six men are over 70 years of age.

"After four years of unlimited authority over the Congress, the President finds a crisis even more grave than at the start of his Administration. And only last November he lead his followers in the singing of, 'Happy days are Here Again.' Now, it is a different tune. The victims of the flood and dust-bowl areas are told is the strategy of the right, of permanence, of real and orderly reform. I want to see the maladjustment of our social and economic system corrected and just as quickly as possible but I want to do this in a manner that will not destroy that fortress of our liberty, the Supreme Court.

"Let me say here, I do not pretend that I have always agreed with the decisions of the Court. I have not. I believe the Court has made mistakes. Do you know anybody that has not? Congress makes mistakes; Presidents of the United States have made mistakes. It is true that decisions of the Court have at times seemed temporarily to thwart the will of the people, but in the final analysis those decisions have made for a steady Government, a Government of Laws and not of men. Shall we, in a moment of exasperation, because of a few decisions that do not suit us, destroy a great instrument that has been the glory of American Jurisprudence and the glory of American life. Shall we, in a moment of petulance do that which in years to come may rise up to damn and condemn us?

"For 150 years it has been an impartial, independent tribunal, not terrified by threats, not brought and not prejudiced by money. A Court that acts without the hope of reward and without fear of reprisal; a Court that has for its only guidance its own wisdom, its own integrity, its own convictions of its duty to the Constitution and the Law.

"A Court that neither can hear the loud course howl of the mob or the commanding voice of a master. A Court established by the people in their Constitution. Before that kind of a Court I am willing to be tried. A tribunal to which you and I as citizens however weak, however humble, however obscure, may appeal and ask the protection of the inalienable rights of an American Citizen. Woe to the impious hand which would shake this sacred and precious column of our National edifice. As for myself, I would prefer political extinction to the disgrace of voting to destroy either the independence or the integrity of the Supreme Court of our beloved land."

"Most thinking people agree that there is a need for certain social and labor reforms in the interest of the masses of the people if our Government is to survive.

The point of disagreement in this controversy is not between those who want these reforms and those who do not. The issue is on the method of reform and whether that reform will be a sham or of real and permanent character. And if speed is desired why should we not follow the suggestion of that outstanding liberal and friend of labor, Senator Burton Wheeler of Montana. Senator Wheeler proposes that in the event the Supreme Court declares an Act of Congress unconstitutional, that after an intervening election if the Congress passed the Act by a two-thirds majority it would then become a valid law. In other words, Congress would have the right to over-ride the veto of the Court as it now may over-ride the veto of the President.

This was originally suggested by Madison and later favored by the late Robert LaFollette, by Theodore Roosevelt and other great liberals down thru the years.

"Its purpose is to place the political power of Government in the hands of the people. Furthermore it is my opinion that it would greatly elevate the standard of political campaigns which in many Congressional Districts are little more than popularity contests.

is the strategy of the right, of permanence, of real and orderly reform. I want to see the maladjustment of our social and economic system corrected and just as quickly as possible but I want to do this in a manner that will not destroy that fortress of our liberty, the Supreme Court.

"Let me say here, I do not pretend that I have always agreed with the decisions of the Court. I have not. I believe the Court has made mistakes. Do you know anybody that has not? Congress makes mistakes; Presidents of the United States have made mistakes. It is true that decisions of the Court have at times seemed temporarily to thwart the will of the people, but in the final analysis those decisions have made for a steady Government, a Government of Laws and not of men. Shall we, in a moment of exasperation, because of a few decisions that do not suit us, destroy a great instrument that has been the glory of American Jurisprudence and the glory of American life. Shall we, in a moment of petulance do that which in years to come may rise up to damn and condemn us?

"For 150 years it has been an impartial, independent tribunal, not terrified by threats, not brought and not prejudiced by money. A Court that acts without the hope of reward and without fear of reprisal; a Court that has for its only guidance its own wisdom, its own integrity, its own convictions of its duty to the Constitution and the Law.

"A Court that neither can hear the loud course howl of the mob or the commanding voice of a master. A Court established by the people in their Constitution. Before that kind of a Court I am willing to be tried. A tribunal to which you and I as citizens however weak, however humble, however obscure, may appeal and ask the protection of the inalienable rights of an American Citizen. Woe to the impious hand which would shake this sacred and precious column of our National edifice. Good Health and a Long Life

Our good Elk and Past Exalted Ruler Edward Mathes, who serves so splendidly with the trustees and Mrs. Mathes were felicitated Sunday on the occasion of their fifty-third wedding anniversary. Just think of it! Fifty three years of happiness together, sharing each others joy. It is the wish of the officers, other officials and right on down to the very last Elk that Ed and Mrs. Mathes will enjoy many more such anniversaries when their children and relatives will gather around the hearth-side to greet them. Congratulations to both from us all.

Ed's motto from which we might all take heed is:

A good thing to remember,
And a better thing to do,
Is work with the construction gang,
Not with the wreckin' crew.

And to those of us who know Ed and love him for his sage advice we write here his philosophy:

"My doctern is to lay aside contentions, and be satisfied; Jest do your best and praise er blame that follers that, counts jest the same. I've aillus noticed grate success is mixed with troubles, more or less, and it's the man who does the best that gits more kicks than all the rest."

Commission Expected To Allow Apartment

Zoning Board Approves Erection of $550,000 Building

The town commission, when it meets Tuesday night, is expected to introduce an ordinance changing the zone of property on the south-east corner of Union and Overlook avenues to Class C residential to allow the erection of a $550,000 apartment house by the Max Brav Realty Co. of New York. The zone change was approved by the zoning board last week.

The property on which the proposed building would be erected is owned by the town and by Police Lieutenant Richard Nourse. Commissioner William D. Clark, director of public property, whose department arranged the sale, appeared before the zoning board to request the change. The town's share of the land is to be sold at a public sale tomorrow morning.

It is reported that negotiations with the FHA for a construction loan have been completed, and construction is expected to start before May 1.

"The town owns, through foreclosure of tax title liens, upward of $1,000,000 worth of property," Mr. Clark told the zoning board. "On this property we are owed some $700,000 in delinquent taxes, assessments, interest and costs."

"My department has interested itself in attempting to dispose of some of this property. At the same time we are interested in attracting the proper kind of building to Belleville. In my opinion this proposed apartment building is one of the finest projects ever to come to our town."

There were no objections to the change from residents of the neighborhood.

Remove Bullet From Lad's Arm

Local Boy Was Injured
Saturday While Fishing

Doctors Tuesday operated on Russell Reynolds, 11, of 298 Greylock parkway and removed a .22 calibre rifle bullet from his right shoulder.

The boy was hit with the bullet late Saturday afternoon while he and two other boys were fishing in the Passaic River at the rear of the home of Mrs. Wilhelmina Steimmeyer at 42 River road, Nutley.

Two youths, grandsons of Mrs. Steimmeyer, were arrested by local police in connection with the shooting. They were turned over to Nutley police, to whom they admitted they were practicing in the same yard at about the time the Reynolds' boy was hit.

The elder of the pair, Charles Neimeyer, 19, of 80 Race street, Nutley, was reported by police having admitted firing the shot which struck the boy. With him was his brother, Theodore, 17. Both were arraigned Wednesday before Recorder Charles Young in Nutley Police Court on a charge of using firearms in violation of a town ordinance.

The Reynolds boy was rushed to St. Mary's Hospital by Belleville police, and the first X-ray taken to locate the bullet was unsuccessful. An X-ray taken Monday located the slug in the right shoulder.

Bears Are Ready For League Debut

Ossie Vitt Says Team Is In A Healthy
Condition

SEBRING, FLA.—With the Spring training season in Florida just about over, Manager Oscar Vitt is satisfied his Newark Bears will go to the post for the International League race in a healthy condition. While there may be some changes between now and the time the curtain rises at Ruppert Stadium, Newark, Thursday, April 22, the strength of the team will not be weakened. Unlike most managers, Vitt, has plenty of excellent material. He has so many good ball players, his chief worry now is to pick the right men for the various positions for the grueling race.

The training camp session uncovered three exceptional finds. They are infielders Joe Gordon and Frank Kelleher and outfielder Charles Keller. Gordon is at second base and experts regard him as a positive find. Kelleher, due to his powerful batting and fine fielding is giving May plenty of competition for the third base job. Keller, fresh from the campus of the University of Maryland has just about clinched the post in right field. He is fast, a good arm and can hit. Then Vitt also has infielder Mike Witek to think about and the little fellow is putting up a great battle to displace Gordon. The outfield looks as if it may start with Bob Seeds, Jack Glynn, the Franklin, N. J., youth and Keller.

Then there is Ed Longacre from Swedesboro and Jimmy Gleeson, recently obtained from the Kansas City Blues who are seeking outfield jobs and both are capable of coming through. They will have ample time within the next few weeks to demonstrate their ability.

The return of Pitcher Vito Tamulis from the Yankees has given the Bears an experienced southpaw and a capable performer. Around him and Al Piechota, Vitt will mold his pitching staff, from Pete Naktens, Marius Russo, Bill Yocke, Joe Beggs, Hiram Bithorn, Norman Branch and Atley Donald. A couple of them are certain to stick. Willard Hershberger will be the first string catcher and Bill Holm due to his hitting ability may be the understudy, although Buddy Rosar continues to show steady improvement and may grab the second string receiver's job.

The Bears break camp here Saturday and start their homeward trek. They will make their first stop, Sunday at Macon and on Monday will go to Augusta, and double back to Macon for a game Tuesday. The next three days they will be at Spartanburg, N. C., for games with the Birmingham Club, another Yankee farm team. The New York Yankees will also stop at Spartanburg. Then Vitt may receive some additional help from the World champions. What players, if any, might be shifted to the Bears is still a secret. The Bears will end their training season Friday April 9, by playing the Toronto Maple Leafs at Haines City. Then the next day the trip, via way stations to Newark and Ruppert Stadium begins. Outfielder Ernie Koy and Catcher Bill Baker have been optioned to Oakland.

Co-Eds Play

Perry Makes Stab To Overtake Vines

World's Pro Championship
Rests Between This Pair

Now that the question of Bill Tilden has been answered Fred Perry, three times world's amateur champion and product of English courts, today was preparing a desperate attempt to overtake Ellsworth Vines in their current barnstorming tour from which is to emerge the world's pro tennis champion.

Essex County, because of its preponderance of tennis enthusiasts, was selected for the troupe's second New Jersey appearance. They will clash at the Orange Armory on Friday evening, April 16.

The bouncing Briton, greatest player England has ever sent to these shores, disposed of Tilden, his boyhood idol with a facility that amazed even Perry—but the younger Vines is proving a more doughty opponent. Their transcontinental series is tied at 19 matches each, Perry having won a smashing victory over Vines at Milwaukee this week.

The troupe also includes Bruce Barnes and George Lott, Jr., long-ranking favorites with American net fans. They will stage a singles match in addition to the Perry-Vines feature at the Orange show. They also are to oppose their "big-name" partners in a doubles contest.

Orange Post, 190 American Legion, of which William F. Leimer is chairman are sponsoring the show. Tickets can be obtained at Bamberger's in Newark, Certainly Shop, Orange and Jacobs Sport Shop, Montclair.

Hanlys Have Program But What Is It?

Publicity Says "Great Treat
In Store" But Still
"Work on Card"

Providing their plans go through, the Hanlys have a great treat in store for the wrestling fans in this area next Tuesday night when they will again present their weekly mat program at Laurel Garden, reads a release from the burping academy.

While they are still working on the program, the brother promoters who hold sway at the old but historic arena did manage to sign the main event and it will bring together two bitter rivals in Cliff Olsen, the ex-heavyweight ruler and Chief Little Wolf, the red skin scrapper from Colorado. Olsen is being brought back because of his hectic battle with Stanley Pinto to last week and this time he faces an opponent who is just as equally if not tougher than himself. The copper skin warrior has been setting a fast pace since his return from the west coast two months and on the strength of that record, the Hanlys paired him with Olsen, because they are convinced that the Injun is back in his old time form and will give the Swede Terror all the opposition he would care to entertain in one evening.

The Hanlys are still dicker with some of the bone busters and while they have yet to hear from them, they did however say, that Bill Sledge and Jim Kondyis, two of the last week's performers will probably be brought back along with Ed Meske of Ohio and Nick Campofreda. However, only the windup is a fact and they hope to have the entire bill completed by the end of the week. Five bouts which is their usual presentation, will again grace the entire card.

To Award Basketballs At Recreation Center

All-Star Talkie Will Be Presented On Baseball

Gold basketballs will be presented to the Fraternity Five, winners in the Senior League, and to the Cardinal Juniors, winners in the Junior circuit, at a sports site to be held at the Recreation Center, Belleville Avenue, Thursday evening, April 15. Silver basketballs will also be presented to the Eagles, who finished second in the senior loop, and the Aces, runner up in the Junior league.

The all-star talkie, "Heads up Baseball," the official talking picture of the American League, directed by George Moriarty and scored by Ted Husing, the ace sports announcer will be shown. The film shows the American League stars in action—pitching, catching, batting, fielding, and base running. It also shows the exciting moments of the New York Yankees—New York Giants World Series game. This is the most complete picture of "inside baseball" ever filmed.

Athletic Council Releases Its Report On Finances On School Major Sports

It Is Interesting to Note That Belleville School
Teams Are Self-Sustaining—436 Gate
Crashers Included

Ruel E. Daniels, business manager of the schools, has just released a report for the General Athletic Council showing the financial statement from July 1, last year, until March 9, this year. While many municipalities find their school athletics subsidized, this is not the case in Belleville, where the program is self-sustaining.

Football and basketball, it appears, carry the four major sports in school, including the two mentioned and track and baseball. It is surprising to learn that 436 free tickets are issued for football games. Sitting in the stands or sidelines at all games are 187 Junior Patrol members, 106 in the band, thirty-eight candy sellers, thirty freshmen footballers and seventy-five newspapermen and complimentary ticket holders. The state board requires three officials for each football game at $15 each and it costs $44 to outfit one football player. At times there are 72 outfitted. Awards for 300 cost considerable. This includes sweaters at $9.50 each, gold footballs, $3.50 each and letters, seventy-five cents. Football last year, despite the fact the Bloomfield game was played away made up a $600 deficit in track and baseball. Contrary to other towns Belleville fans support basketball magnificently. The detailed statement follows:

"Spook Show" at The

Capitol on Saturday

Hundreds of Capitol Theater patrons are due for a shocking rise in blood pressure Saturday when they see the startling performance at midnight of Jaclar and his spook show. And just to put the finishing touches on this ghost party, Manager Weshner of the Capitol has announced that he will present a special pre-release of the side-splitting mystery comedy "One Frightened Night" with Wallace Ford and Mary Carlisle, in addition to the complete 45 minute stage performance of Jaclar.

ghosts, bats, skulls, balls of fire, spinning violins and eerie spiders are only a single part of the "flesh" show to be given. Modern magic in its most mystic form, and actual reproductions of famous spiritualistic seances under full stage lights as well as baffling escapes from apparently fool proof cabinets presented for the first time since the late Harry Houdini left the stage. To round out the bill there will be a special mentalist performance with one of America's psychics answering the most personal and intimate questions written by the patrons that evening.

Proctor's Books "The Soldier and the Lady"

Tremendous Hollywood Super Spectacle

One of the greatest adventure stories of all time comes to the screen with the release of "The Soldier and the Lady," at Proctor's Theater Newark, on April 16th, a stirring tale of the adventures and romances of an imperial Russian courier during an epic journey into Siberia on a secret mission of war and intrigue.

The Jules Verne novel, "Michael Strogoff," from which the melodrama has been adapted, was published in Paris in 1871. Since, it has been translated into almost every modern language and has sold into millions of copies. In addition, it was adapted into play form in 1880, and for years it has been a prime favorite with stock and traveling theatrical companies. In 1916, it was made into a silent film, and last year French and German versions were made by Joseph N. Ermoloff, noted continental producer. In acquiring the rights to produce a Hollywood version, RKO Radio Pictures contracted Ermoloff to act as production assistant to Pandro S. Berman, producer of "The Soldier and the Lady."

The locale of the picture is St. Petersburg (now Leningrad) along the 2,500 mile route from that city to Irkutsk in Siberia, the camp of the Tartar rebels, and the cities of Nijni-Novgorod and Omsk. Despite its spectacular scenes of the battles between Apfel, George Nicholls, Jr. directed the Pandro S. Berman production from Anthony Veiller and Mortimer Offner's scenario.

Outstanding scenes in "The Soldier and the Lady," include the destruction of a Russian village by the Tartars; Strogoff's battle to the death with an enraged bear; the massacre of the passengers on a river barge; the Tartar revels in Ogoroff's headquarters at which the chieftain orders Strogoff blinded; the great conflict between the opposing armies on the Siberian plains and the decoration of Strogoff by the Tsar in the audience chamber of the imperial palace.

The spectacular battle scenes utilize 10,000 picked troops. Ten cameramen filmed the thrilling maneuvers and combat scenes.

'Seventh Heaven' At Proctors, Newark

Simone Simon, James Stewart
art Star in Tender Romance of War Era

The tenderest romance of our time lives again on the screen when "Seventh Heaven," the Twentieth Century-Fox production of Austin Strong's immortal love story, opens Thursday at Proctor's RKO Theater with Simone Simon and James Stewart in the starring roles.

As the little street waif, Diane is Simone Simon. Opposite her is James Stewart—tall, laughing, gray-eyed—as Chico of the valiant spirit and the shy, yearning love.

Montmartre, most colorful and exciting of all sections of Paris, serves as the background for "Seventh Heaven," a background rich in picturesque settings and characters. There, in 1914, Chico spends his days working in the huge, subterranean Paris sewer.

Unfortunately for Chico's belief in God, neither of his requests to Heaven have been granted. He has not been made a street-washer, so that he could breathe the clear air of the streets above, and he has not been sent an intelligent, fine wife.

Chico saves Diane from being beaten to death by the owner of the notorious "Hole in the Sock" cafe, who has reared her from childhood. When gendarmes start to arrest Diane for throwing wine in the face of a customer who annoyed her, Chico saves her by posing as her husband. The gendarmes take his name and address, promising to check up on them from time to time.

Melville Baker wrote the screen play, in which appear such prominent featured players as Jean Hersholt, Gregory Ratoff, Gale Sondergaard, J. Edward Bromberg, John Qualen, Victor Kilian, Thomas Beck, Sig Ruman and Mady Christians.

As companion feature, "They Wanted to Marry," with Gordon Jones and Betty Furness in the leading roles, is offered.

"ONCE A DOCTOR"

the Russian armies and the Tartar tribesmen, the siege of Irkutsk, the burning of the lake of oil and the pagan revels of the Mongolian hordes, the powerful theme of courage and sacrifice dominates the production.

Anton Walbrook, star of both stage and screen, was brought to Hollywood to make his American film debut in the hero role. The actor, definitely revealed as the year's greatest discovery as a virile romantic marvel, has appeared in 250 successful stage plays. In keeping with the importance of the production, RKO Radio assembled a cast of players of recognized ability. Elizabeth Allan, piquant English miss who scored marked success as Katharine Hepburn's sister in "A Woman Rebels," is cast in the role of Nadia, a Russian girl Strogoff befriends en route to Irkutsk from St. Petersburg, and who shares his danger, adventure and love. Akim Tamiroff, talented Russian actor, who gained fame as the General in "The General Died at Dawn," plays the role of Ogoroff, the Tartar chieftain who foments the Siberian rebellion.

Margot Grahame, who has been seen in "The Informer," "The Three Musketeers," and "The Arizona," plays the role of Zangare, a glamorous spy who gives her life to aid Strogoff. Fay Bainter, Broadway stage star, who will also be seen in the Hepburn-Franck-Tone co-starrer, "Quality Street," portrays the courier's emotional mother. Eric Blore has the role of a British newspaper correspondent.

The balance of the important cast includes Paul Guilfoyle, Paul Harvey, William Stack, Edward Brophy, Frank M. Thomas, Doris Lloyd, Michael Visaroff, Francis MacDonald and Oscar
