Recorder Everett B. Smith Voices Appeal for United Support of Chest

Canvassing Officially Will Start Next Friday and Continue Until November 15 for Worthy Groups

An appeal for the united support of all residents for the 1938 Community Chest was voiced today by Recorder Everett B. Smith, president of the Welfare Federation.

The annual Chest drive for $16,000 will be conducted from November 5 to 15, under the direction of Thomas R. McHale, campaign manager. Six organizations—Community Service Bureau, Visiting Nurses, Red Cross, Silver Lake Community House, Boy and Girl Scouts—depend almost entirely upon the Chest for financial support.

"Almost everyone in Belleville," said Recorder Smith, "is interested in one or more of these groups." Interest may have been stimulated by personal contact or it may be centered upon the aims and objectives of the participating agencies. The annual Chest drive affords an opportunity to give that interest a concrete expression.

Little Explanation Needed.

"The work of the Community Service Bureau, for example, needs little explanation," went on Recorder Smith. This organization goes about helping less fortunate Belleville families without ballyhoo or ostentation, assisting them to a new independence, morally as well as physically. During the first eight months of this year, the bureau has made 818 visits to Belleville homes and has given aid in 373 office interviews.

"The Visiting Nurses likewise need no introduction to anyone interested in the physical welfare of the community. This hard-working corps made 2,623 calls at Belleville homes thus far this year," Smith said. "The assistance these nurses give mothers of new babies is of inestimable value."

"The Silver Lake community house meets a genuine civic need in its neighborhood. This center provides citizenship training and recreational facilities for hundreds of children and adults in the Silver Lake section. "All who read the press must be aware of the constant alertness of the Red Cross to rush assistance to the afflicted in any corner of the globe at any time. But probably of more interest to Belleville folks is the fact that this organization is always ready to help deserving Belleville veterans or their families."

"More than 400 boys and girls are benefitted by the planned program of recreation and self-improvement afforded by the Boy and Girl Scouts in Belleville," Smith continued. "Both organizations are preparing to extend their facilities to make these opportunities for training in scoutcraft and citizenship available to many more potential scouts."

Variety of Activities.

"The variety of activities of these groups makes it entirely probable that every individual in town is affected either directly or indirectly by the several programs. Certainly all contribute a definite something to the civic betterment of the community."

"For the donor who wishes to aid just one or two of these six groups by his Chest contribution, it is possible for him to designate his favorite organization on his pledge card," Smith explained. "Unless such special designation is made, each participating agency will share proportionately in the gift."

"A corps of several hundred volunteer workers, including the campaign manager and divisional chairmen, are giving liberally of their time and effort to make the 1938 Chest campaign a success," the recorder added. "I appeal as president of the Welfare Federation to each resident in town to give as much as he may deem possible to help any one or all six of the groups which depend upon the Chest for financial support."

Then They Walked

"Officer Holly was detailed to post three and Officer Slater to post five the rest of the night to walk."

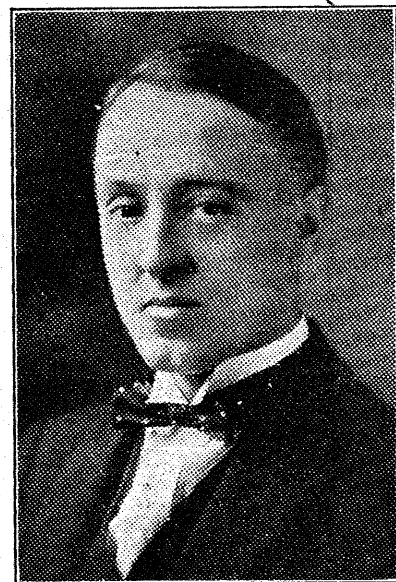

Thus ended a police blotter story, which was written to describe the fact that squad car No. 3 broke down "while standing at the corner of Fairway avenue and Belleville avenue."

The report of the condition of the car was made by Officers Christopher Dotterwisch and John J. Flynn. Officer Holly was ordered to bring his squad car to headquarters where Dotterwisch and Flynn had pushed "Elloise," their squad car, in which they had been riding.

They continued on their way in Holly's squad car while the latter was detailed "the rest of the night to walk."

Many Attend Rally For Senator Clee

Belleville Represented at Meeting in Bloomfield High School

Addressing over 500 Republicans from Belleville, Nutley and Bloomfield High School Monday night, Senator Lester H. Clee, candidate for Governor against A. Harry Moore, Democrat, in Tuesday's election, declared "bossism in New Jersey must go." He added that the state is "the victim of machine politics" and "for a generation conditions have been getting worse; the people are burdened with taxes—cost of government must be down, not up."

Senator Clee stated that the Democrats had only the choice offered by the Hudson County machine.

"A square deal for labor to meet new conditions, reorganization of the state government, revision of election laws to restore free government, elimination of politics from appointments in the judiciary" were discussed along with a change planned for the parole system to eliminate abuses. The Senator also spoke generally of the Republican platform, declaring it to be sound, adding "I consider it a promise to see that the platform is carried out, if elected. Should anyone try to tear it apart, I will take the air to tell you people who are responsible for such an act."

"They may say of me, if elected and when the term is up, that I didn't accomplish all I set out to do, but no one will ever say I failed to try to accomplish the ideals for which I stand and you are all aware of these ideals."

The local delegation was headed by Town Chairman Harry Machette, vice chairlady, Mrs. Julia Alexander, Mayor William H. Williams, Commissioners Joseph King and William D. Clark and Corporation Counsel Lawrence E. Keenan. About 100 Belleville Republicans attended, many others passing up the meeting for the Belleville-Irvington football game which was held over from Saturday, due to the rain.

Where Was the Party?

Somebody had a good time on a half a keg of beer.

The keg disappeared from a Ballentine Brewery truck while the truckmen, James Monaghan, 38 Shepherd place, Arlington, and J. Gallin, 83 Milford avenue, Newark, were delivering several kegs of beer to a tavern in William street.

Latest returns from Sergeant Pearl. Officers Jerry Lilore, James Anderson and Irving Holly, who were sent out to investigate, have it that the keg cannot be found.

Public Service Grants Right of Way To Town for All Time for Only $1

On Basis of Charge Made by Another Land Owner Corporation Would Have Been Entitled to $4,000, It Is Said

Public Service Corporation, through its vice president, John L. O'Toole, has just done Belleville a tremendous favor—in fact $4,000 worth, approximately, says Director Patrick A. Waters of the Department of Streets and Public Improvements.

Director Waters explains the situation thus: Starting at Linden avenue, continuing north through Riviera Park to the Public Service high tension power line and then east to Passaic River, Belleville is constructing a storm water sewer that will drain and relieve the area of flood conditions. Through the park section Belleville has been charged about $900, the director says, for a right of way.

"When I took up the matter with Mr. O'Toole, he was peeved at the manner in which Belleville treats the corporation," he said. "But, just to show you that Public Service does help this town he offered us for all time the right of way for $1. If he had charged pro rata, according to what we are paying the other party, it would have cost about $4,000. Public Service deserves a little credit."

Good Word.

Director of Public Safety George R. Gerard declared that Public Service had a "good word" coming from him for the co-operation given when the lights were reduced. "Technically, the corporation could have held us as per an agreement, but the company allowed us to cut down, saving thereby about $7,000 a year," he said.

A new municipal lighting contract is soon to be renewed with the corporation and, under the circumstances, and because a five-year period is more favorable than a short term contract, it seems possible that such an agreement will be made.

Fifteen licenses were issued by the Town Commission Tuesday for various purposes as follows: nine, canvassers; three, circulars; one, bagatelle; one, mercantile and one junk yard to Orizio Giangrande, 254 Belmont avenue.

Mayor Williams declared at Monday's conference the ordinance regulating the distribution of circulars "wasn't worth a tinker's dam."

Patrick A. Waters

Director Gerard had questioned the issuance of a permit to Charles W. Cullen of 181 Greylock parkway, general agent for the Hatters' Union, to distribute circulars.

The ordinance, which was adopted by a previous administration, provides for a $25 fee for persons residing outside Belleville and $1 for local residents. It may be revised.

Mr. Gerard objected to the issuance of several licenses without their first having come before the board. It had been the custom previously for the board to pass on all licenses.

The Mayor said the licenses in question had been issued by Thomas W. Fleming of the revenue and finance

Paving Assessments Less Per Foot Than Sidewalks Under Contract

Director Waters Shows Cortlandt Street and Union Avenue Paving Assessments Slightly Over $1 Per Foot

Is it possible to construct a concrete street or, for that matter an asphalt one, which is a more expensive type, for less than concrete sidewalks formerly cost per lineal foot?

Commissioner Patrick A. Waters and Town Engineer Mathew Sheehan have the answer—in the affirmative. Under contract, concrete sidewalks cost about $35 for each twenty-five feet in days gone by. Under WPA labor the engineering department got the cost down to about $9 per twenty-five feet.

And now, listen to this story down in Cortlandt street, where a nine-inch reinforced concrete pavement has been laid from Jorammon to Rutgers streets, each twenty-five feet will be assessed only $28.50, less than sidewalks, under contract. This figures out to $1.14 per lineal foot.

Board To Discuss Paving Bids Tonight

Low Bidder Tuesday Was Higher Than Ordinance Appropriation

The Town Commission will hold a special meeting tonight to discuss bids for paving Cortlandt street, which bids were submitted Tuesday night at the regular board meeting and referred to the Engineering Department for award at the next meeting. The paving is to be from Little street to Jorammon.

The discussion is due to the fact that the bids exceeded the amount estimated for the job, $23,000. La Pera-Greco Contracting Company, Newark, was the lowest of six bidders with $29,408.40. The high bid was from Standard Bithulithic Company, New York, $35,073.49.

It is understood there are several ways to proceed with the work without amending the ordinance. One is to utilize budget funds that may not be expended in the engineering department, the other, state specifications provide for "quantities more or less."

Union avenue paving from Belleville avenue to Jorammon with asphalt, more costly than concrete, will be assessed at $1.19 per foot or $29.75 for a lot with twenty-five feet frontage.

Ninety per cent state aid in Cortlandt street and the same in Union avenue through the county made the figures possible. Such pavements usually are assessed at about $8 per lineal foot and in some cases more, assessments on twenty-five feet lots ranging upwards from $200.

"The Good Is Off . . ."

Director Waters explained at an adjourned conference of the board Tuesday evening, preceding the regular board meeting that "a lot of work we do never gets out before the public. If something is off color everyone is ready to hop on you."

Mayor William H. Williams stated that "is too bad the public, generally, does not understand when we get such a project it saves the town many thousands of dollars."

"Here are two fine streets that cost practically nothing," concluded Director Waters. "I think it is a good job for the town."

School Commissioner

Fractures His Leg

Herbert C. Schmutz Fell Two Weeks Ago in His Home

School Commissioner Herbert C. Schmutz has a fractured left ankle, sustained two weeks ago when he stumbled in his home. Mr. Schmutz did not know the seriousness of his injury until a week after he had received it.

False Alarm

A false alarm was again turned in last night at about six o'clock. The number of the alarm box was 56. It is located on William street, corner of Ralph street.

Investigation disclosed that the alarm was turned on accidentally by an unknown truck turning around.

The vehicle cracked the side of the alarm box and the alarm was sounded.

Request Playground At Public School No. 9

Valley Residents Want To Keep Children Off the Streets

The Town Commission has taken under advisement a request of many people in the Valley section that the plot of town owned land north of Public School No. 9, be transferred to the Board of Education to provide a proper playground for children in that section. A paper street, of no value, is involved.

The residents pointed out in the petition that the children now are compelled to play in streets or a nearby vacant lot, which is littered with broken stone and other objects "dangerous to the safety" of the children.

Director of Public Safety George R. Gerard declared that many years ago he had made such a recommendation to the school authorities when he was superintendent of schools, "believing no school is properly set up unless children are accorded facilities for play, adjoining the school building."

A request from residents of Fairview place for a pavement there was also received. Director of Streets and Public Improvements Patrick A. Waters explained "the town has gone as far as it can in the matter. It has approved such a project and is now awaiting official action from Washington." He told a representative of the section that, because it is difficult to lay streets by penetration method in cold weather, it may be Spring before the work gets under way.

Another Petition.

The following petition was also read:

"We, the undersigned, hereby petition you to have the sidewalk opposite Jefferson street, on the southerly side of Jorammon street (starting at No. 539 Jorammon street), cleared of dirt and stones. This debris is caused by the rains washing down the banks of the vacant lot at that particular spot. It represents a public menace, as citizens are compelled to walk in the street, thereby exposing themselves to a very busy thoroughfare and its inherent dangers. During the day housewives use this section on their way to the shopping center. Many of them bring along their infants in carriages, and when this section of sidewalk is reached, find it is a physical impossibility to push these vehicles through the mass of stones and they, too, have to walk in Jorammon street. At the moment there is a laboring party working its way westerward toward this dangerous stretch of sidewalk and it is our desire that they, or the regular street laborers of the town, be ordered by your department to clear away this debris."

"Another danger spot exists at the intersection of Passaic avenue and Jorammon street at School No. 7. The correction or elimination of this danger may come under the Department of Public Safety. If this is the case we ask you to turn this petition over to the director of that department for prompt action."

"This danger spot is a very bad curve without benefit of warning signs or flashing beacons of any sort. The fact that it has long stretches of straightaway before and after it increases the danger that much more, as drivers come racing along these stretches with reckless abandon and before they know it a bad curve looms in front of them. We in this locality have been listening to the resultant scream of the brakes and many times, the ensuing crash. As yet there have been no fatal accidents and it is our desire to eliminate any possibility of such a catastrophe by having erected warning signs of the reflector type or an overhead flashing light, or both, but we do want the necessary work finished in the very near future."

It was signed by Donald Mac Pherson, Republican County Committeeman, Fourth District, Fourth Ward and over one hundred others.

Director Waters stated that "if a bank falls on a highway after every storm from private property, it is not up to the town to clean up the debris. I think that is a responsibility of the property owner. If we had to go around cleaning up all the washouts from various properties after every storm it would take us all the time just to keep Washington avenue cleared up."

His department, however, and that of Director Gerard will investigate conditions.

When Mrs. Aneta Keating of the women's and professional division of the WPA appeared before the board with several projects Monday after-

Congregation Plans 'War and Peace' Series

Recent Events in World Have Given Rise to New Effort

A novel "War and Peace Series" will be held by the Congregation Ahavas Achim Anshe, 317 Washington avenue, beginning tonight. The series will include sermons at regular Friday night services, special Armistice Day service and a session of the Belleville Institute of Public Affairs. Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin, spiritual leader of the congregation, has organized this plan.

The many recent events in Europe and in the Far East, which tend to loosen the forces of war upon our world, have given rise to a new effort on behalf of the intelligent discussion of our troubles. More and more people are demanding that the nations get together and settle their differences once and for all. It is this new ideology, which has prompted the inauguration of this "War and Peace Series."

The first event of the series will be a sermon by Rabbi Dobin at the regular Friday night service, at 8 P. M. tonight on "Is War Coming?" The second event will also be a sermon by the Rabbi at the Friday night services of November 5 on: "Has Pacifism Become Impossible?" The third part of the series will be a special Armistice Day service to be held at the synagogue on Friday night, November 12, at 9 P. M. The service is being sponsored by the North Essex Post, No. 146, of the Jewish War Veterans. Officers of the state department will be present. Rabbi Dobin will speak on "The Unknown Soldier Speaks."

The final event of the "War and Peace Series" will be the second session of the Belleville Institute of Public Affairs. This session will be held at the synagogue on Wednesday night, November 17, at 9 P. M. The topic for discussion will be: "Peace, How Can American Maintain It?" Speakers at the institute will be announced shortly.

The entire series is free to all. Suggestions and comments will be welcomed. If this series proves successful, more will follow.

N. J. C. Dean Stresses College Needs in Report

NEW BRUNSWICK.—Recognized needs of New Jersey College for Women that cannot yet be met are brought out by Dean Margaret T. Corwin in her annual report, which has just been made public. In her survey of progress during the 1936-37 college year, reported to President Robert C. Clothier of Rutgers University, Dean Corwin stressed the need of a new library and gymnasium.

"Several of our laboratories requests added equipment," Dean Corwin said, "and the physical education department works under severe handicap without an adequate gymnasium. The library collection will soon burst the walls of the classrooms in Recitation Building, where it is housed against the day when our hopes for a library building are realized."

Dean Corwin pointed out that 65 publications and research projects have been undertaken by faculty members during the past year and that the college should be in a position to actively encourage the research of its faculty. "A large group of our faculty are at a dangerous age when it would be possible for them to reach dead center in their intellectual development, unless they are given more adequate opportunity for scholarly pursuits," she said. "Further aid in meeting their library needs and temporary relief from teaching leads through sabbatical leave, in the case of those who have brought a piece of research to a point where greater concentration is clearly essential, are types of assistance that the college would like to offer its productive scholars."

Departments are showing an increased tendency to co-ordinate their work, with resulting enrichment of several curricula, Dean Corwin said. As examples she cited the lectures on modern dance given to psychology students, co-operative enterprises of the fine arts departments and the manner in which the home economics, physical education, art and sociology departments work together to operate the Jane Addams House, the settlement house laboratory of the sociology department.

Scout Troop Holds Parents' Night Here

High School Teacher Tells Of Louisville Flood

Parents' night was observed at a meeting of Boy Scout Troop 88 at Christ Episcopal parish house recently when a talk by John S. Charlton was one of the main and interesting high lights of the evening.

Mr. Charlton, an Eagle scout and teacher of printing at Belleville High School, talked on the "Work of the Boy Scouts, During the Louisville Flood." Although Mr. Charlton was hindered by the lack of motion pictures planned for the evening, his descriptions were interesting as well as realistic, telling a vivid story of the activities and operations of men, women and boy scouts, who were put to the great test, and not found wanting.

Troop 50 members were guests and captured most of the honors in competitive games.

Bert A. Bush, who has been with Troop 88 for a number of years, was appointed to the assistant scout mastership by Scoutmaster Raymond Patrick, recently. Since being in office, Mr. Bush has been making plans for the erection of a Totem Pole at Camp Mohican, a precedent established some years ago, but which has not yet been taken up by this troop.

Silver Fox Meeting.
The Silver Fox Patrol of Troop 88, met at the home of Robert Weiss, 98 Malone avenue, on Thursday evening. Stars and Extras Undergo "Tests"

It Isn't Only Newcomers Who Take Film Test

It isn't only the newcomer to films that has to take screen tests. Even the veteran actors frequently appear in thousands of feet of test film which is never shown outside the studio projection room.

There are many reasons for these tests of established cinema actors. Usually, the tests are made to determine the effect of certain changes in make-up, or to find out whether various types of wardrobes are suitable to the player's personality and role. Recently Jeanette MacDonald spent more than 40 hours making tests of her wardrobe for "The Firefly" at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Another screen actress who spent much time before the test-camera is Florence Rice. After completing "All Is Confusion," with Joe E. Brown, Miss Rice returned to M-G-M to appear opposite Robert Young in "Married Before Breakfast." Momentarily forgetting the "bugaboo" of screen tests, she decided to change the color tone of her make-up.

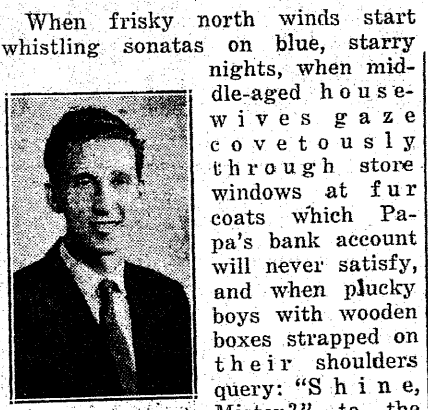

After consulting with Jack Dawn, make-up expert at the M-G-M studio, she selected a new shade. Then began the long hours of tests to determine proper lighting for her new make-up, just which camera angles photographed best, and hundreds of other details which must be on record before a new production starts.

So when Florence appeared in "Married Before Breakfast," she seems just the same to the movie-goer as she did in "The Longest Night," "Sworn Enemy" and other pictures, but this exact similarity after a make-up change could only be achieved by hours in front of the test-camera while technicians, electricians, cameramen, director and producer experimented.

It will be a long time before Florence Rice again exercises her woman's privilege to change her mind.

BELLOWING ABOUT BELLEVILLE

By JACOB LEVINE
Class 1938, Belleville High School

When frisky north winds start whistling sonatas on blue, starry nights, when middle-aged housewives gaze covetously through store windows at fur coats which Papa's bank account will never satisfy, and when plucky boys with wooden boxes strapped on their shoulders query: "Shine, Mister?" to the scurrying multitudes, it is a sure sign that King Autumn is here to stay.

The shoe-shine boys, especially, are always seen at this time of the season. You see them in the midst of a Saturday afternoon rush-hour. You see them on desolate corners where the only passers-by are small children with dirty faces and double-dip ice cream cones. You even see them in Washington avenue, in front of the First National Bank—every move you take you will bump into their unfailing, "Shine, Mister?"

And yet, nine times out of ten, you pass them by not even noticing their presence, obvious to their age-old interrogation. To you there is nothing novel or different about these "shine-em-up" lads; they are things that just exist, that are on this earth for the sole purpose of putting a brilliance on your leather when you are minus the needed energy to do it yourself. Outside of that you give him as much notice as the lamp post in Belleville avenue or the corpulent drunkard that's been barging around Clarey's as long as the building has been there.

But take it from me, mister, the shoe-shine boy is as lovable a character as the peerless guy in your story book who always pulls the trigger first. He is as big as a Vanderbilt, in his own little way. I know. While waiting for a Belleville bus in the midst of a Broad street five o'clock turmoil, I listened to the "speel" of the boot-black as his little fingers worked wonders on a 10-5 shoe. Listen to what he said.

"Yes, a fellow's got to keep himself busy nowadays, and shining shoes is right down my alley."

"Why, do you know, Mr. Hanson, that I am the champion shoe-shiner in this here state? Don't believe it, do you? Well, Mr. Fritz—you know him, he's what you might call a man-about-town—well, one day he laid me ten to one that I couldn't shine his shoes, play 'Uncle Sam Went Over the Top, Parleevo' on my harmonica and, at the same time, count every lady that came by with brown shoes—all at once, mind you. Well, it was a pretty big order to ask of any man, but I claimed I could do anything with a brush, so I took him on. And, if I must say it, I did pretty well, only for the fact, that in the second verse my hand slipped and polished his white flannels, and an old lady threatened me with an umbrella, 'cause she thought I was flirting. But Mr. Fritz slipped me a dime tip!"

"Yes, I shine shoes pretty well. Least my ma says so. She says if I could only do my algebra one-half as well as I shine 'em up, they'd send me to one of those higher institutes of learning, or somethin'."

"Yes, that's my algebra book over there in the corner. I do some homework, now and then, when there's a lull in my business. Ever do any algebra? Why, it's the craziest jumble of letters and numbers I ever seen. I've taken two years of the stuff, and I know less now than when I started."

"Now lookit, the first day I came into algebra class I was downright sure that X was the unknown—absolutely sure—and now after two years of the stuff I ain't sure if X is or Y is or Z is. Now, take this example: if a hen and a half laid a egg and a half in a day and a half, how many eggs—but, shux, you wouldn't know. Plumbing and algebra don't usually mix. And that's what I says to Mr. McCall, our algebra teacher. He teaches algebra, you see. I says, 'Mr. McCall, if a man, like myself, 'instance, wants to work on the Lackawanna when he graduates, what's all this head-splitting stuff about unknowns and square roots going to do for him.'"

"I says, 'will it learn him to regulate a big freighter? Will it learn him to shovel coal into the big engine? Will it learn him to keep the record of the Lackawanna intact? It might do Einstein and those fellows a world of good, but it can't get to first base with me.'"

"Then he turns around and says that I wouldn't even get to bat if I didn't have a good education. Fundamentals, I think it was he called it. He says we must be drilled in the fundamentals before we can take any kind of position. Algebra, he says, might sound foolish at first, but then it's a fundamental on which almost every profession is based—the foundation on which everything is built or somethin'."

"After a while I began to think he was right, so now me and the X's and the square roots go into a confab every night; 'cause I gotta get the fundamentals if I ever want to be president of the Lackawanna some day."

"How's that for a shine? Why, Mr. Hanson, wake up, you're sleeping."

Couple Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary

"A woman will vote for the best looking candidate every time," was the summation of ideas expressed by Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Faust apropos to the present political campaign for governor of the state.

"If Senator Clee looks good to me he will get my vote; if Senator Moore appeals to me, he will get my vote," says Mrs. Faust.

Mrs. Faust and her husband, Mahlon G. Faust, will celebrate Monday their fiftieth wedding anniversary quietly at their home, 218 Little street, without much "fuss" or bother.

Mrs. Faust, who was Miss Elizabeth Ann Bowden of Minerville, Pa., was married November 1, 1887 in the Riverton Methodist Episcopal Church.

Mr. Faust, who is a weaver employed by the Eastwood-Neally Company, was born in Riverton and with his wife came to Belleville thirty-two years ago. He has lived with his wife in their present home for the past fifteen years.

Because of Mrs. Faust's ill health there will be no celebration of the event.

Added Feature in High School Is

New Domestic Science Department

Miss Eleanor Allison Capably Sets Up Well Equipped Class with Many Reference Books And Facilities

A new feature of the school is the Domestic Science Department, under the capable direction of Miss Eleanor Allison.

The department has as its classroom a part of the school in which there are housed five-unit kitchens, a dining room, a washing machine, a refrigerator and irons.

Not only does the Domestic Science Department teach cooking, as is the common belief, but it also extends the knowledge of general household keeping to its students.

Miss Allison believes that she has a well equipped department. There are many reference books and the facilities on hand are of the best.

Included in the training are table manners, child care and laundering. The domestic science course is said to combine many subjects. Mathematics and science are used to a great extent in many phases of homemaking.

It is the desire of the department to sponsor a luncheon and invite many visitors in the near future.

High School Students To Be Entertained

Belleville high school students will be the guests of the Essex County Alumnae Club of New Jersey College for Women Monday evening, November 8, at the East Orange Woman's Club, 56 South Clinton street. Mrs. Vernon L. Atkinson of West Caldwell, program chairman, has announced that the program will be of interest to all girls considering the question of whether or not they should go to college, and that all are welcome to attend.

"How to Choose a College," will be the topic discussed by Dr. George P. Schmidt, chairman of the education policies committee at New Jersey College for Women and head of the history department. He will answer many of the questions in the minds of those who have not yet decided whether or not they wish to go to college and will describe various factors which must be considered in selecting a college.

Miss Vivienne Benstead of Kearny, a senior at New Jersey College for Women, will speak on "Two Hundred Miles of Laboratories," one of the distinguishing factors about New Jersey College for Women. Miss Benstead will describe the manner in which N. J. C. utilizes the factories, libraries, hospitals and art centers of nearby cities as laboratories, with the result that students are stimulated in their classroom work.

Colored motion pictures of campus life and studies will be shown and the program will be concluded with a social hour. Mrs. Atkinson has announced that all parents and teachers, as well as high school girls, are cordially invited.

New Miracles Of The Photoelectric Cell

By James D. Purdy
Director, Schools of Electrical Engineering, International Correspondence Schools

TRANSFERENCE of light impulses into electrical impulses through the medium of a photoelectric cell is the basis of a newly invented method for the transmission of color photographs over long distance telephone circuits. In a recent demonstration of the method a three-color photograph was transmitted by telephone from Chicago to New York.

The United States Bureau of Standards has developed a balloon device to determine the safe flying ceiling during foggy weather. As the balloon ascends a photoelectric cell measures the light at different levels. Varying brightness of the light causes a change in the pitch of a radio signal which the device transmits to the recorder on the ground.

A new photoelectric device is now available for measuring light reflected from a wall or other flat surface. A hollow metal sphere is brought into position with its opening against the surface to be tested. Light is directed into the sphere through a tubular arm. An electric eye accurately measures the amount of light reflected from the surface.

Senior Class Plans

"Growing Pains"

Three-Act Comedy Promises To Be a "Smash Hit"

"Growing Pains," a three-act comedy, written by Aurania Rouverol, is the play that is going to be given by the senior class this year.

The play is an interesting one and, under the capable direction of Miss Eleanor Rush and Mr. Herbert Bitterman, it promises to be a "smash hit."

This production should interest the younger element because it concerns itself with characters very much like themselves. It should afford some interest for the older generation because of the fact that it concerns characters very much like their children.

Aside from the leading role of George, the part for which two of Belleville High School's most popular boys are vying, all the parts have been assigned.

The characters are as follows: Terry MacIntyre, Wanda Rogers; Mrs. MacIntyre, Genevieve Holland; Professor MacIntyre, Robert Cook; Sophie, Peggy Luby; Mrs. Patterson, Betty Schwab; Elsie Patterson, Anna Martella; Traffic Officer, James Cozzarelli; Dutch, Fred Johnston; Brian, Bill Parmer; Omar, Leon Feldstein; Hal, Leo Culkun; Pete, Edwin Mallinson; Prudence, Muriel Somers; Patty, Isabella Smith; Jane, Claire O'Dea; Miriam, Isabelle Watson.

The teachers in charge of committees are stage lighting, Sheldon Henry and William Chapman; costumes, Linnea Andree and Regina Brennan; make up, Esther Kietzmann, Miss Brennan and P. Webster Diehl; scenery, Sheldon Henry, Mr. Diehl and Mr. Chapman; properties, Blanche McDonald and Elizabeth Kelleher.

Display Specimens In Biology Class

Bulletin Boards Have Been Decorated with Picture Studies

Mr. Norman H. Cotter, teacher of biology and other scientific studies, has compiled for his students a file dealing extensively with birds, mammals, insects and evolution. He believes that this will be of much help now and in the future.

The bulletin boards of Mr. Cotter's room are interestingly decorated with pictures concerning the studies of the classes.

The students of his classes go out on as many field trips as they possibly can. They take turns in caring for the live specimens upon which they experiment.

Book Week

Two sophomore English classes are at present carrying out projects to help increase an active interest in the approaching Book Week.

Contributions such as book plates, posters, carvings, and reports on authors' lives are a few of the many and varied projects being worked upon under the capable direction of Miss Regina Brennan.

Clubs

CHESS CLUB

Mr. Norman H. Cotter is the faculty adviser of the Chess Club. Approximately twenty-five students have turned out for it. There are many aids to help the members comprehend the game.

There is a rotary chairmanship given to each member, thus affording all the opportunity to become a chairman.

NATURE CLUB

This club was organized by Mr. Frank Spotts in order that the students could take up the phase of work in which they are interested. Exhibits were entered in the New Jersey State Fair. The club has won two out of the last three state fair contests. They also have projects extending into electricity. The club also does much taxidermy.

Belleville Honored in All-State Chorus

Two Belleville High School students, William Prophet and Milton Swenson, have, after two trials, been accepted to sing in the all-state chorus at the State Teachers' convention in Atlantic City.

Their stay at the shore will be four days. Another student, Alba Pascale, an excellent harpist, was chosen for the all-state orchestra. She is the first and only harpist ever to receive that honor.

Visual Education Principal Study

Of Science and Biology Classes

Mr. Frank Spotts Guides Pupils by Showing of Series Of Eighteen Moving Pictures

The general science and biology classes, under the guidance of Mr. Frank Spotts has, as its principle form of study, visual education. There is a series of eighteen moving pictures, one of which is shown weekly. These pictures are obtained from many of the leading concerns in the East.

After the students have seen the picture, they are questioned about it. Mr. Spotts uses a microprojector project microscopic objects and an opaque balopticon for projecting opaque objects. There are many charts and diagrams to help pupils understand the work.

ONE ACTIVITY OF THE CHEST

1. WHAT DOES THE COMMUNITY SERVICE BUREAU DO?
2. WHY DOES IT SPEND SO MUCH FOR SALARIES?
3. WHY DOES IT NEED MONEY FOR RELIEF WHEN THE TOWN IS CARING FOR THE UNEMPLOYED?

These are the questions on many tongues especially at this time of the year just before the Community Chest Drive. Directors of the Community Service Bureau and the Welfare Federation will be called upon to answer these questions many times.

1. The Bureau is in a position to do what its name implies. It offers individual consideration to all persons seeking consultation and advice with personal problems to which they cannot find a solution alone. The Bureau serves the Community in:

The Preservation of Family Life. In situations where discord and misunderstanding between parents may have led them to the point of separation it is often possible for some one who is able to understand both sides without taking sides, and who is not too intimately concerned, to help the individuals involved to understand the reasons for their difficulties.

Child Guidance. Parents and teachers come to the Bureau when children become too difficult at home or at school. Through careful study of the individual situations it is possible to discover the causes of their behavior and then comes the slow process of remedying the causes and helping these children to fit into their environment. Through care of this kind juvenile delinquency may be prevented.

Health Care. Many persons of limited means are at a loss to know how to manage when illness comes. Resources for health care within the Town and County are well known to the Bureau, where many people have come to learn where they may obtain needed care. Mental illness is particularly bewildering and when this occurs the Bureau has been prompt in assisting concerned relatives to obtain proper care.

Broken Homes. When death or desertion occur it is often followed by the breaking up of a family, or the remaining parent may be unable to meet all the responsibilities formerly shared. Advice and adjustments offered by the Bureau have proved helpful and given new courage in situations of this kind.

Child Welfare. To the Bureau come reports of neglected and abandoned children. Sometimes the reason for neglect can be remedied and home situations improved so that the children concerned will not suffer. Some times this is not possible and the only way to safeguard children is to place them in carefully investigated foster homes where they will have opportunity for normal growth and development.

Economic Adjustments. Families managing on small incomes find thoughtful consideration of their individual needs at the Bureau. Careful budgeting, nutrition advice or insurance adjustments often make it possible for families to manage better. Where the income is insufficient or there is none at all financial assistance may be given if the situation appears to be temporary in nature. If prolonged help seems necessary, families are steered for assistance to public sources.

2. The types of service offered by the Bureau require workers who have had special preparation and training in the art of helping people out of trouble. They are able because of their training and experience to approach problems brought to them with sympathy and understanding. They are able to recognize and discover resources within the family group and to help the family utilize them. They know community resources and are able to steer people who need them, but do not know how to reach them. They can help to overcome difficulties of personality and behavior. The family worker's job is largely preventive, thus saving costs which would otherwise have to be met in the future for delinquency, broken homes, institutional care, etc. It is taken for granted that special study and training are necessary for teaching, law, medicine. When it comes to dealing with human beings in danger of losing out in this world, it is not wise to employ persons skilled in the knowledge of human relations to do the work?

3. The relief funds of the Bureau are a resource for a variety of needs which cannot be supplied in any other way. In planning with families to achieve their independence certain needs become evident which cannot always be met by the Public Welfare Department which necessarily operates under definite rules and regulations. In one family the need may be for household furnishings to enable a mother to re-establish a home for her children; in another a brace or new teeth may often enable a wage earner to return to work.

Temporary assistance is given in instances where necessities such as food, fuel or shelter must be provided immediately, where it is evident that only short-time care will be required.

Relief funds are necessary for an effective child welfare program. Not infrequently it becomes necessary to place a child temporarily or permanently outside of his own home with another family carefully selected to meet the requirements of the individual child for his training and protection. Almost never are the child's own parents able to bear the entire expense of his board outside the home. It is also necessary to provide convalescent care for undernourished children who need special attention given to diet and rest, which it is impossible for them to receive in their own homes.

OK Mawriss—

From Jake Levine

Dear Jacob:
For the sake of the record, it was not in 1931 that I perspired for Dear Old Belleville High. It was in 1928, 1929 and 1930 that the sweat ran down my neck and made the shoulder-pads itch.

Ordinarily, as one-fourth estater to another, I would let the error pass unnoticed. But, being a member of that 1929 eleven, was and still is something to be proud of. On the other hand, if memory serves correctly, being a part of the 1931 team is not to be bragged about.

Ever thine,
Morris Udansky.

Coogan Explains Assessment Matter

Retraction of "Inequalities"
Story Was Recently Made

The Town Commission Monday night unanimously approved the report of Assessor John F. Coogan, Jr., on assessments for Cortlandt street and Union avenue paving jobs, sidewalks Union avenue, water laterals on Cortlandt street, various sidewalk assessments and sanitary sewer Fairview place.

The result of the report was criticism by Mayor William H. Williams, director of Revenue and Finance, of the Newark Evening News, which on October 15, said "assessment irregularities charged in Belleville," followed the next day by a retraction, which stated, "owners pleased with town's assessments."

The statement at the bottom makes the article "really no retraction," said the Mayor. "I don't know or care what the object of such stories is but it goes to show how difficult it is to get over the facts to the public."

The report of Mr. Coogan in full is as follows:

"I respectfully report that a scheduled meeting for the purpose of a hearing of property owners effected by above assessments was held in the Commission Chambers at 7:30 P. M., Thursday, October 14, 1937, at which I presided with the aid of Town Attorney Keenan, Mr. Charles Watson and Mr. Harry Higgs.

"All owners of some eight hundred parcels of property effected by said assessments were notified of the meeting by mail by Mrs. Morey, Town Clerk. Approximately twenty-five property owners were present and for the most part upon learning the amounts to be assessed to their properties for benefits received were obviously pleased and left satisfied with the assessments as read. Five or six property owners submitted questions pertaining to their individual properties. Each property on which a question was raised I personally inspected in the presence of Mr. Higgs and Mr. Watson on Friday, October 15, 1937.

"The questions and objections received are as follows, each being followed with the findings of our investigation:

"Mr. M. R. Morrow of 203 Valley street, Block 80, Lots 70 & 72, assessed $32.08 for 350.1 square feet of concrete sidewalk on Valley street. His objection that a fire hydrant was permitted to remain in the middle of sidewalk in front of his property. Investigation proved the hydrant should be removed from its present unsafe position, which matter has been properly referred to Town Engineer Sheehan.

"Mr. George Sanford, Jr., of 205 Valley street, Block 80, Lot 68, assessed $12.21 for 133.2 square feet of concrete sidewalk on Valley street, complained it was necessary for him to construct a retaining wall at the front of his property because of the topographic change necessitated in placing the sidewalk at the proper level. Investigation showed that while the retaining wall was beneficial to the property it was not strictly necessary as evidenced by the lot contiguous and to the north of Mr. Sanford's property which is of the same nature and is without a retaining wall.

"Mr. Carmine DeLuca of 32 Moore place, corner of Meacham street, Block 513, Lot 1, assessed for $35.56 for 388 square feet of concrete sidewalk on Meacham street, complained that the sidewalk laid to proper grade was below the existing surface of the dirt street and the sidewalk was covered with water at times of rain fall. This condition does exist but the fault lies in the improper grade of the dirt street and it will be necessary to establish proper grade of roadway to correct the condition and after speaking to Mr. DeLuca I determined that this was his purpose.

"Mr. Rocco DiCarso residing at 152 Milton avenue, Nutley and owner of property 60-76 Moore place, corner of Meacham street, Block 510, Lots 29 and 30, assessed $82.47 for 900 square feet of concrete sidewalk laid on Meacham street, complained that his sidewalk was not laid in a straight line with the sidewalk east of his property on Meacham street. Investigation proved that due to the fact that Meacham street is wider at his property than it is east of it, the course of the sidewalk would necessarily follow the lines of the street. He also complained that a resolution empowering Mr. Fleming to issue certain licenses to residents of the town, to persons wishing to open a new store in a business district, and for persons changing from one address to another within the town.

Philip DeMeo, 76 Heckel street, was granted a renewal of his constable's badge in the Second Ward. At the present time there are only five constables in Belleville.

Transfer Funds

The board authorized the transfer of $5,985.77 from the current account to surplus, representing overpayment in various items for which no refund is in order. This transfer will reflect a two-point drop in the tax rate. The overpayments have been made over a period of years and the law permits the transfer after a certain length of time.

Acting on recommendation of Assessor John F. Coogan, who has negotiated with Wilbur H. Baldwin, 14 William street the town will demolish a house owned by Baldwin at 12-16 Linden avenue. Baldwin has agreed the house in worthless and should be razed.

Permission was granted Guozzo Bros., to dump municipal waste in a low spot at the western end of Jerusalem street. The waste will be dry material only and must be covered at all times with earth.

The application of Miss Helen Wilkes, through her attorney, Theodore Bellet to have the zone changed at the northwest and also northeast corners of Belleville avenue and Ogden street met with favorable action of the Zone Board of Adjustment.

Elks All Set For Hallowe'en Frolic

No Dull Moments Says
William Priestman,
Chairman

"No dull moments."

This is the way William Priestman, 18 Center street, chairman of the committee in charge of the Hallowe'en Frolic to be held by Belleville Lodge of Elks, in the Elks' Home, tomorrow night, describes the affair.

Tap dancing, torch singing, and music by a well-known accordionist, are among the features promised by Mr. Priestman for the frolic.

Goblins, witches and even the banshee have promised to put in an appearance. There will be big doings in the home that night.

Besides Mr. Priestman, the committee includes Harold A. Gahr, Louis E. Noll, Andrew Kenneth, Harold Cavanaugh, Joseph McGrath, Charles Gebhardt, Thomas McNair, William Gerhart and Charles Speaker.

Music for dancing will be furnished by Howard Rausch and his orchestra.

Veterans To Install Officers Thursday

Norbert E. Bertl Will Be Made Commander of Local Post

The installation of officers elected last Thursday in the George A. Younginger Post V. of F. W., will take place Thursday, November 4.

The officers elected include Commander, Norbert E. Bertl; senior vice commander, George H. Weston, Jr.; junior vice commander, Richard Doherty; quartermaster, Ernest H. Alden and post advocate, John F. Gannon.

New License Plates

License plates for 1938 will be black with aluminum letters.

The earlier a person gets to the office of the Motor Vehicle Department is Belleville, which is at William Abramson's, 500 Washington avenue, the lower number may be had for his or her license plates. The plates may be purchased beginning Monday morning.

About 8,000 plates were sold last year by Miss Evelyn Abramson, clerk in the department, and about 10,000 are expected to be sold this year, she reports.

The office has plates for Essex, Bergen, Hudson, Passaic, Union, Morris counties and the numbers for the Essex plates ranges from 4,000 to 4,500 and from 5,300 to 5,400 and from 14,500 to 20,200.

The plates may be attached to the cars after December 15. All 1938 plates must be on by January 1.

On November 1, there are usually about fifty persons who come in for their license plates, but on December 31, there is often more than 1,000 plates sold to last minute arrivals.

which met while the commission was in session. Mr. Bellet said his client plans to erect two four-family duplex houses at the corners and asked for hurried action as "winter is approaching." The board will take the matter under advisement for possible decision at its next meeting. The change has been before the zone board since August. Mr. Bellet said that two objections had been heard from out of twenty-five nearby, one of these residing outside the 200 foot radius as prescribed by statute.

Plan Audit.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the State Department of Municipal Accounts to conduct the 1937 audit. A report is now in the hands of Mayor William H. Williams and the Department of Revenue and Finance for study on the 1936 audit, report of which will be made by the Mayor, he says, at the next meeting when he will analyze recommendations.

Henry Mason, president of the Recreation Commission appeared Tuesday evening at the adjourned conference of the board, asking that funds derived from use of the tennis courts at Clearman Field be used for upkeep of the courts. He explained his group and the Board of Education had agreed neither could afford from budgets the upkeep and the courts "are about to be destroyed."

The Mayor explained that such procedure is not permitted and the recreation commission should ask for upkeep funds in its budget requirements, adding a notation that a certain amount of revenue is anticipated from use of the courts.

It was agreed it is impossible to "earmark" any receipts. All receipts from any department must be turned in in full to the town treasurer's office.

noon at a conference, the board got into a lengthy discussion that resulted in adjournment of the meeting at 7:45 P. M., until Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, because "of other meetings" planned by members Monday night.

To Continue Sewing.

It was agreed to continue the WPA sewing and housekeeping aid projects, funds for which run out six weeks hence. Mrs. Keating assured the board the construction would be approved at Washington.

The housekeeping aid project, similar to one being started in Newark this month, has been carried on here nine months.

The board will consider several other service projects suggested by Mrs. Keating, among them establishment of a fingerprinting system in the Police Department, training household workers and an inventory of the town's physical property. The F.B.I. would supervise the fingerprinting.

Mayor William H. Williams suggested as a project construction of a huge map to show all town buildings, sewer lines, water mains and hydrants, fire and police alarm signals, grades of pavements and sidewalks, grades and other facts of interest.

Mrs. Keating said she believed such a project could be approved and agreed to take immediate action to have it drawn up.

The Mayor said the map would be similar to those used in industry, showing "physical set up of a $50,000,000 corporation, which is the complex of Belleville's worth."

Training School.

The officials were interested intensely in the establishment of a training school for women desirous of obtaining jobs as domestics.

Mrs. Keating said Belleville and Nutley could sponsor the project jointly.

She said she had been in touch with Nutley officials who approved the plan to the extent that they had promised a house to be used as the training school. Mrs. Keating said the town would contribute $5 a month for each girl or woman who enrolls for the course.

During their schooling, Mrs. Keat-

"The chapter is composed mostly of personal followers of Lester H. Clee, who have volunteered to work on Election Day, and to aid the county committee members in getting out the Republican vote. Seventy-five per cent of the members have pledged themselves to write to at least ten personal friends, urging support of their gubernatorial candidate and also to phone on Election Day at least ten of their personal friends along the same lines.

"The club is cooperating with Harry Machette, town chairman, and has placed the activities of its members on Election Day entirely at the disposal of Chairman Machette and the county committee members. All who have not joined the Youth League and who would like to participate can do so by contacting with me as chairman."

ing said, the women would receive $37.50 a month, the WPA providing the extra $32.50. After completing the course the women would be sent out to give free assistance in house work and care of children in homes where the house wife is temporarily incapacitated because of ill health.

Director Waters asked the board to approve the project. He pointed out that the town would save $35 a month on each woman who takes the course. He said it would cut the Belleville relief bill by several hundreds of dollars a month.

Lions Here Talk On Five-Cent Fare Richard Spitz Tells Of Movement Made In Irvington

The Lions Club at its last meeting heard Richard Spitz speak on his experience with the five-cent fare situation in Irvington.

Mr. Spitz said that realty values, rentals and town progress were affected by the present ten-cent fare in and out of the town, adding "Any beneficial work not only requires thought but corresponding action on the part of the people of a community to bring about municipal improvements. Not only must problems be determined through logical thinking but they must be solved through fearless and unselfish action. What communities need for their individual problems must be supplied by men who fearlessly gear public action to public thought."

He commended the work of the Belleville Lions Club and offered his full co-operation to the town in any action taken toward reducing transportation costs. Louis Noll introduced the speaker to the club membership.

At a business meeting held immediately after the induction ritual, it was decided to sponsor a county-wide membership campaign to increase the roster of the post. Many plans are being prepared to give this campaign added impetus.

The other officers of the post are: Senior Vice-Commander, Dr. Harry Chershow; junior vice commander, Mendel Meyers; chaplain, Sam Kogan; adjutant, Murray Steinhauer; quartermaster, Jack Friedlander; officer-of-the-day, Dr. Saul Goodman, and judge advocate, Edward J. Ackerman.

Dr. Goldberg Moves Into New Home

Dr. Samuel M. Goldberg is moving today from 353 Washington avenue to his new home at 345 Washington avenue, the southwest corner of Rossmore place and Washington avenue.

The office entrance will be in Rossmore place and those entering will ring a musical chime bell. The bell is an innovation in Belleville homes and does away with the harsh ringing noise of the ordinary doorbell.

The new home has sixteen rooms and is of colonial design. There will be a solarium on the second floor for the convenience of clients. The house is mainly of red brick construction and a graceful slope surrounds it.

A Winnah!

At 8 o'clock Saturday morning, Mrs. John J. Rhodes, 291 William street, said to her husband, "I'll give you a call on the phone when I get the telegram," as Mr. Rhodes left for his job as machinist at the Wallace & Tiernan Company.

She referred to the Irish Sweepstakes ticket which the couple had bought under the non de plume "Coming Over."

At 10 o'clock much to her amazement and her surprise the telegram announcing that she had won $1,000 on a non-starter, of which she had spoken jokingly about, did come. You may be sure she phoned her husband the glad news.

When asked what she would do with the money she displayed her thriftiness by saying, "John and I expect to put it away for a rainy day."

The Rhodes say they have purchased Sweepstakes tickets for the last fifteen years. Mr. Rhodes displayed a batch of tickets which they acquired in the last three years.

Although the picking of the Sweepstakes was held in Dublin, the race is to be run in New Market, England. The Rhodes are the only family in Belleville to profit by this season's Sweepstakes drawing.

GIRL SCOUT WEEK

Starting Sunday, Girl Scout Week will get under way in Belleville. There will be church services on that day to be followed by various activities all week, one of the features being a novel father and daughter dinner. In this rush-about world of ours, one sometimes wonders if enough thought is given by the male of the species to the work being accomplished by the Girl Scouts. Fathers like to think of their sons being Boy Scouts. But how about the girls? Well, dads, those of you who have daughters, who are Girl Scouts, get on your toes! Do a good turn this week, as a Boy Scout. Give the girls a great big hand and a lot of encouragement in their character and health building activities. The Girl Scouts have mother to work with them. Let's help mother in this movement and give Belleville girls the best Scout Week they have ever had.

ELECTION DAY

It is rather close to election day. In fact Tuesday is the time to pull down the mechanical gadgets on the new voting machines to select a Governor, assembly candidates, freeholders and justices of the peace. Whatever your choice may be, get out and vote. The next three years in New Jersey, the Governor will be called upon to weigh some mighty problems, not the least of which will deal with careful manipulation of finances, relief, the courts and major appointments, greater in number than in a quarter of a century. It goes without saying that most of us have our minds fixed upon one thing—good government, at any cost. The day that voters could be fooled has passed. The issues are clear cut, the needs of our state plain before our eyes. Tuesday is the time to record our views. This election is an important one to each one of us. It behooves all to vote. Conscience should be the guide, not sympathy, cut and dried lines or a confusion of the balderdash, which usually beclouds such elections. The campaign, as such, has been devoid of any great amount of mud slinging, for which all are thankful.

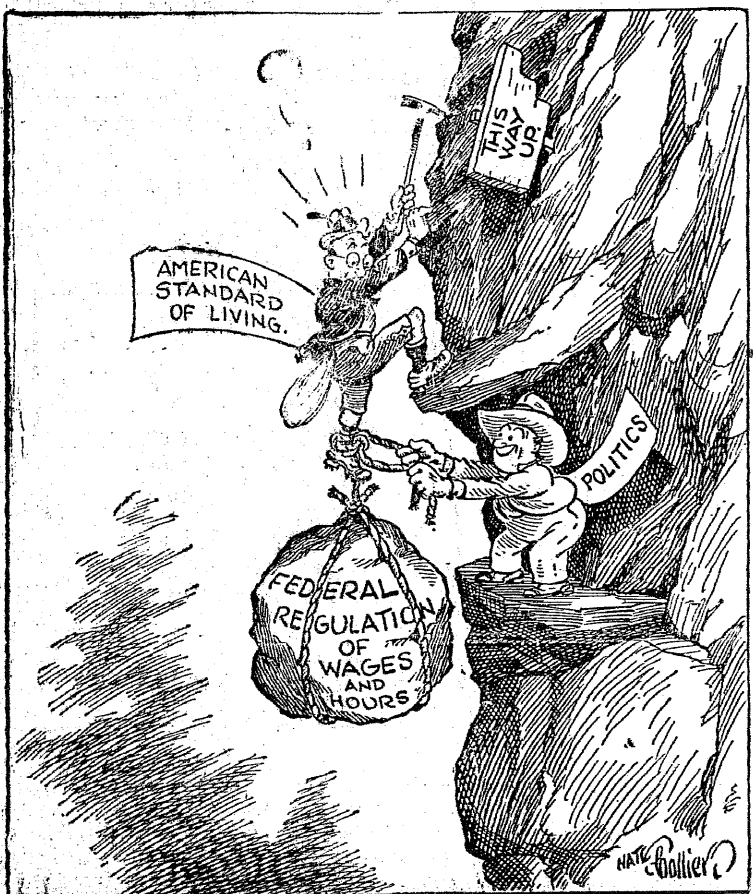

A SPLENDID IDEA

The pupils of Belleville High School today inaugurate a page in this newspaper, devoted to the development of writing for newspapers. There are many pupils, who like to write, and with proper encouragement would go far. It is hoped that this modest beginning will encourage them. The opportunity presents itself for expression of school ideas through the printed page of a newspaper. We are sure that first reports of enthusiasm, with which the plan has been accepted in the school, will bear fruit—that, perhaps, in some not too far distant time a Belleville High School graduate will carve his or her name in the newspaper or magazine hall of fame. Two high school seniors have had columns in this newspaper this year. Their articles are meritorious. The young men are Leon Feldstein and Jacob Levine. Comments on these features have reached us from many parts of the country. It is a sample of what the youth in our schools may do. More power to Belleville High School writers. Go to it with the spirit with which the football team is imbued. Set up Belleville High School, as Feldstein says, the criterion for others.

BONUS SPENDING

Many persons who believed the World War veterans would squander their bonus money foolishly have met with disappointment. The veterans did not throw away their money recklessly. The Treasury Department now reveals that $360,000,000 in bonus bonds have not yet been redeemed. The department notes that the bonds at this date are being turned into cash on an average of about $1,600,000 a week. During the week of September 18, this figure rose to $2,112,050, the increase being due, it is believed, to veterans using their bonds to get money to send their children to school and college. For the most part, the veterans have used their bonus for worthwhile purposes for themselves and their families.

HELPING THE MOUNTAIN CLIMBER

SCHOOL DAYS

THIS WEEK

By "GUARDIAN"

Pittsburgh, Pa. Thursday, October 28, 1937. Business keeps up in Pittsburgh this week—and our thoughts naturally turn to the things we have seen and heard since we left the banks of the Passaic—and the relative tranquility of our beloved Belleville.

Yesterday noon we listened to a learned discourse by Dr. L. W. Chubb, Director of Research, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. That is the same company that has a fine plant in Belleville—where Jim Whitmore, as manager, is doing his best to make more and better jobs for Belleville's citizens.

Dr. Chubb's subject was "A Look Ahead in Science"—and for an hour he drew an entrancing picture of the marvels that science has brought to us and the greater marvels that science has in store.

We do not pretend to understand all of the things that this learned scientist talked about. But perhaps you would like to share some off-hand thoughts inspired by his lecture.

Most of us know that everything in this world is made up of combinations of different elements. That there are ninety odd of these elements—and that everything—EVERYTHING—in this world of ours is made up of various combinations of these ninety elements.

And most of us know—or learned years ago, that these elements were made up of a group of very tiny molecules—and that these molecules were made up of infinitely small atoms—and that the atom was the smallest particle of matter.

But it seems that we learned but a part of the story—for the physicists have found—yes, have proven beyond question—that the atom is made up of at least two different bodies, each charged with a different type of electrical energy—and bound together with an inconceivably strong force that, if released, would give such units of energy as man heretofore has not comprehended.

These parts of the atom are known as protons and neutrons which together make up the nucleus of the atom. And when you split the atom apart, as is today being done in a score of research laboratories in this glorious land of ours—there is released energy such as man has never known or measured.

The enormous amount of energy that is bound up in the atoms of matter if released, is such that the atomic energy in one pound of coal would propel the "Queen Mary" from New York to Liverpool and back again.

Incredible? Yes—and Dr. Chubb is careful to point out that all of the researches that have been made are experimental and informative—but he is smart enough also to point out that as "mighty oaks from little acorns grow" so do epochal engineering developments come from some insignificant discovery of a student of research.

Galvani's wife called his attention to the twitching of frogs legs in the frying pan—and from that came, through the years, our understanding of electricity. And who knows but that out of these atom breaking experiments of today might in the future come sources of power and energy that at the moment the human mind can scarce conceive?

And yesterday, too, we heard an address from the National Director of Women Investors in America—and were startled to learn that 70 per cent of the capital wealth of this country is held by women—and that more and more women are coming to dominate the financial destinies of this country.

What marvelous strides women have made since the turn of the century! In 1900, it was not considered the thing to do for a married woman to work. She must await a mate who could support her.

But the World War changed that. Men went to war—and women went to work—doing everything even running trolley cars—if you remember. And after the war they stayed at work—and no small part of our present unemployment problem is due to the fact that in many fields women are now doing the work that men used to do.

And nowadays the boy friend and the girl friend, each having a job, get married and with their combined incomes support each other—and we wonder why the birth rate is declining with such startling precipitousness!

We have always maintained that man's only reason for being was to keep women happy—and we have tried to transmit that into a philosophy of living—with rather indifferent success. Women—with 70 per cent of the capital wealth—with the vote—with jobs—with clear equality with man—are on the march. If the march continues—50 years from now woman will be dominant—not man! And we say, more power to them—and may they be more successful in keeping man happy than man has been in keeping woman happy in many cases.

Pittsburgh is a steel town. Much of its success revolves about steel—and generally as goes steel—so goes Pittsburgh. And this week a fine young man—a relative "Kid"—37-year-old E. R. Stettinius, Jr., is made chairman of the board of the greatest industry in the world—The United States Steel Corporation!

What inspiration—what measure of hope is there in that for every clear thinking young man in America. The days of opportunity are gone! The days for outstanding individual success are over!

The rugged individualist is a has-been!

Never again will great estates and great wealth be created!

RUBBISH!!!

Of course young Stettinius had a grand father. A father that carved his way up to the head of the Diamond Match Company—and graduated from there to a partnership in J. P. Morgan Co.—and this young man had all of the influence and power behind him that man could have. BUT—he had the ability, the energy, the brains to come through and to measure up to his opportunity. Otherwise, no matter what his sponsorship, he could not have risen to the heights. He had what it takes! Short shift to him who preaches the doctrine that the day of opportunity is passed!

So long as the sun rises—there will be opportunity—real opportunity—for the man or woman that "has what it takes!"

Yours 'til next week,
"GUARDIAN."

Memo to School Board.

October 26, 1937.

Editor News:

As chairman of the Belleville High School Parent-Teacher Association, I am very much interested in the article published in last week's edition of the Belleville News, referring to the use of the printing department facilities in the High School by local P.T.A.'s. In this article the inference would seem to be that P.T.A. has been responsible for the school printing department "working all hours."

On behalf of the High School P.T.A., I would like to state that we have at no time asked for or used the High School printshop for any purpose whatsoever. The printed postal card notices sent out announcing the October meeting of the High School P.T.A. were the work of a NEWARK printshop and the receipted bill is enclosed herewith to support this fact.

I would also direct your attention to the fact that the October issue of the Essex County Parent-Teacher does not list School 10 among the schools in Belleville having a Parent-Teacher Association as recognized by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers Associations in Essex County for 1937-1938.

Respectfully submitted,
CHARLES R. CARSWELL,
President B.H.S. P.T.A.

Editor's Note: The article referred to was printed in this newspaper last week and in no way reflects our opinion. It was based on statements of members of the Board of Education to the editor of this paper. Blame, if any, for the statements for mention of "No. 10" should be directed to those who made the remarks.

In this case we quoted a school official, directly, and, if he had the type of association wrong it wasn't our fault. As far as we can see, from a re-reading of the article in question, there was no mention of the high school association.

Any criticism of the printing department came from the school board, itself, and any inference drawn should be in that direction. Our opinion is reflected in the editorial columns not news items. There is, however, an association at No. 10 school.

PIQUANT POLITICS

By MEADOR WRIGHT

THE gubernatorial race in New Jersey draws to a close with the Republican workers more excited than their Democratic opponents. There appears little doubt but that Senator Lester H. Clee's campaign is clicking in at least two major counties—Essex and Camden. There is still little hope for his election, even among his workers. But many of these workers really believe that Moore's majority can be held to a reasonable figure. Those close to Clee are elated at these prospects, for they mean, if borne out, that the Newark minister's certificate of nomination was not his political death warrant. In at least a limited way, Clee stirs the same enthusiasm in his followers as did James G. Blaine or Theodore Roosevelt. Listening to his oratory, they have the urge to jump up and start singing, "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

But it takes more than enthusiasm to win battles, however important that ingredient is in the make-up of an army. And to match every Achilles flushed with the frenzy of battle, there sulks a morose Ajax in a tent adorned by a political weathercock. Occasionally one of the latter group will sharpen his political sword and join the troop of charging crusaders. But many are left, and these are very likely enough to disqualify any hope that Clee himself has of being New Jersey's next governor.

As I have pointed out in this column before, however, Clee's defeat by a relatively small margin would, in effect, be a moral victory for him. He would thereby be encouraged to run again in 1940, or to seek some other important office. This is the very thing close friends of Harold G. Hoffman fear most. They would like to see Clee completely eliminated. Viewing the Clee enthusiasm from the fringes of the cheering crowds, they do not quite relish the Newark minister as a primary opponent for the present Governor in 1940. They would rather have an Emerson Richards.

Even though I admit being impressed by Clee's eloquence and apparent sincerity, I still do not see how he can win Tuesday. Essex was conceded to him by Democratic strategists from the start, although Moore's hearty reception here has caused many of them to change their minds. Camden County, likewise, has never been Moore territory. It gave its native son, David Baird, a plurality of nearly 20,000 six years ago. In 1934, Moore got a plurality of less than a thousand votes over Hamilton F. Kean, although winning the state by the same 230,000 majority, he got over Baird.

The remarkable similarity of showing that Moore made in 1934 to his campaign three years earlier is the basis for the Democratic belief in his invincibility. In 1931 he got 735,000 votes; in 1934, 785,000. In Essex the 1931 vote was 112,000; three years later it was 111,000. Due to the smaller total vote in 1931, his Essex majority that year was 33,000 compared to 22,000 over Kean. But his showings in the two elections were so similar as to suggest a definite Essex following, as well as one throughout the state. Were it not for the sober background of these figures, I might be tempted to fall in with the Clee statistical procession and predict an Essex landslide for her local candidate. But in view of them I cannot give Clee Essex by more than 20,000, and the majority may be less. Likewise I cannot see the Newark minister's total vote any larger than 100,000 short of what will be given Moore, and it may fall still further back.

Clee supporters, however, can draw solace from the predictions I made in the last gubernatorial contest. Then I predicted William L. Dill's triumph by more than 100,000 plurality, and promised to cartoon myself in a dunce cap should Harold G. Hoffman actually win. Admiring (or otherwise) readers sent me no less than five different style caps in which to pose for the drawing. If Dr. Clee is elected, I will cheerfully wear one of them again next week.

Opinions may differ as to propriety of the fees allowed Supreme Court Commissioner Dixon and his three associates in Newark city investigation, but my guess is that they practically guarantee that no convictions will ever be obtained if there are indictments. The total cost of the investigation is so staggering as to make even the allegations of graft appear small. Greed is the one unpardonable sin of public service, and Dixon and his associates must defend themselves just as surely from this charge as must Mayor Ellenstein and his colleagues of charges of malfeasance in office. Jurymen are pretty solid realists, even if they are not very long on intelligence.

Had the lawyers involved been discreet enough to have permitted Justice Parker to suggest their emoluments, the public would not have been so keen to hold them to responsibility. Eyebrows would then have been raised mainly at Parker. Their public billing was their fatal psychological error. They may be above fault, but, like Caesar's wife, they certainly are not above suspicion. Justice Parker's notation that much of the fee will go for surtaxes is scarcely pertinent. Chief Justice Hughes gets only $20,500 a year; and he pays a full federal income tax as well.

A successor to Senator Moore, assuming that he is elected Governor, is becoming the subject of more and more discussion in Democratic circles. Col. William H. Kelly was designated for the post more than a year ago, and I know of nothing that has caused a change of mind on the part of Democratic chieftains. Final decision may very well wait, however, until the trends of the voting Tuesday are properly appraised. Upsets at the polls might effect the whole New Jersey political picture. Mayor Hague's central ambition will be to win the governorship again in 1940, and both ad interim and permanent senatorial candidates must fit into that picture. A victory merely whets the political appetite for more victory.

Rising Star

Mickey Rooney, sensational new rising star of the films, who stars in "The Hoosier School Boy" starting today for two days with "Between Two Women" at Warner Bros. Lincoln Theatre.

"Stage Door" Plays At Proctor's, Newark

Now playing at RKO Proctor's Theatre, Newark, is "Stage Door" with Ginger Rogers, Katherine Hepburn and Adolphe Menjou and "There Goes the Groom," with Ann Sothern and Burgess Meredith.

Summing up in its strikingly realistic story the lives of all stage struck girls everywhere, "Stage Door" brings Katherine Hepburn and Ginger Rogers together for the first time.

The picture is based on the famous stage play by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman, which ran for nearly half a year in New York, and is said to offer the stars their finest screen opportunities to date. Most of its vividly absorbing action takes place in a theatrical boarding house where scores of eager and ambitious girls live and hope and sometimes perish while they strive for fame behind the footlights.

From every walk of life they come, rich and poor, sympathetic and selfish, but all motivated by one common dream of stage success. Their heart-throbs and heartbreaks are woven into the shimmering thematic pattern of the story. Two of the girls in particular stand out from the others—Katherine Hepburn, a wealthy debutante who seeks a stage career against her family's wishes, and Ginger Rogers, a happy-go-lucky wise-cracking youngster with no background and no money, but confident that she can succeed on her own.

Around these two and the dozens of others at the "Club" is built the drama of the story. Miss Hepburn's assurance in the power of money to gain her ends, the scheme of her family to terminate her theatrical ambitions, Adolphe Menjou's suave performance as New York's most important producer and his pursuit of Miss Rogers; Gail Patrick's secret love affair; Andrea Leeds tragic despair when Miss Hepburn gets the role for which she yearned; Lucille Ball's gold-digging and the dreams and disillusionments of them all are woven together in a gripping and memorable film that climbs to tense dramatic heights.

Constance Collier, Ralph Forbes, Franklin Pangborn, Samuel B. Hinds, Ann Miller and many others are in the fine supporting cast. Gregory La Cava, who has directed many exceptional pictures, handles this fine presentation.

The story "There Goes the Groom" concerns the efforts of Burgess Meredith to straighten out his tangled romance. He returns from Alaska, a prosperous prospector, to claim the

Beef Off the Hoof

At the close of the day's work at the rural location used for three weeks as a background for scenes in Bobby Breen's new musical starring vehicle, "Make a Wish," the company was summoned to dinner by the ringing of an immense cowbell.

"Where's the cow?" asked Comedian Henry Armetta as he entered the dining hall.

The bell-ringer never batted an eye. "We're having it for dinner," he said.

Ace Players in Hospital Drama on Lincoln Screen

Within fifty feet of each other, tragedy and gaiety were enacted on the set of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Between Two Women" which opens today at the Lincoln for a two-day showing.

In one corner of the huge sound stage cameras turned on a wrecked crane cab that swayed precariously from steel girders, a man pinioned within, in a scene similar to an actual building accident that occurred several years ago in Boston.

Partitioned from the grizzly scene, hundreds of dress extras danced dreamily to the rhythmic strains of a twenty-piece orchestra.

In the crane scene, a priest climbs a ladder to the crane cab which firemen have broken into with acetylene torches. He administers last rites of the church to the cab operator who, with an arm "smashed" under a fallen girder, is slowly "bleeding" to death.

The priest descends and Franchot Tone, portraying a surgeon, climbs up followed by Cliff Edwards as a newspaper reporter. Using Edwards' ever-present flask of whiskey as an anesthetic, Tone "amputates" the arm and saves the man's life.

Changing from his linen uniform to formal dress clothes, Tone moves with the camera over to the ballroom. Here he and his picture "bride," Virginia Bruce, dance with the crowd until he is paged for an emergency hospital call, an incident whose frequent recurrence contributes to the wrecking of the marriage of the struggling young doctor and his heiress wife.

Dr. Harry Nardini of Hollywood Hospital was engaged to teach Franchot Tone correct use of surgical instruments and Maureen O'Sullivan, who is co-featured in the film, to conduct herself properly as a nurse. Professional nurses were brought from the Hollywood Hospital to lend realism to the picture.

"Between Two Women" is based on an original story by Erich von Stroheim and was inspired by a tragic real life story.

The associate feature is the heart-rending picture "The Hoosier Schoolboy" starring Mickey Rooney.

Lothario Peeved

They were shooting a scene of RKO Radio's "Forty Naughty Girls" in which lovely Marjorie Lord snuggles close to George Shelley and rests her head on his shoulder.

"Cut," ordered Director Edward Cline.

"What, already?" Shelley complained. "Let's not make quickies out of these scenes!"

girl who has promised to wait for him, but finds her attached to someone else. Ann Sothern the girl's sister, claims Meredith. But her mother, Mary Boland, steps in and causes such a tangle that Meredith is forced to fake amnesia to escape.

The cast also includes Onslow Stevens, Louise Henry, Roger Imhoff and William Brisbane.

AMUSEMENT SECTION

At the Capitol Beginning Sunday

Warner Baxter and Joan Bennett in "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938," released through United Artists.

Bette Davis Now At the Capitol Will Play on Sunday at the Lincoln Theater

Described as more thrilling than her recent "Dangerous," which won her the Academy Award as the best actress of 1935, is the Warner Bros. melodrama which brings Bette Davis to the Capitol today and tomorrow and the Lincoln on Sunday.

It is called "That Certain Woman," and depicts the blonde star as the widow of a gangster killed in the notorious Valentine's Day massacre in Chicago. It takes Bette through many tribulations and persecutions, and shows her battling her way bravely toward peace and happiness.

It is said to be a most unusual sort of photoplay. It was both written and directed by the celebrated Edmund Goulding, who not only did both of those jobs but also composed a theme song which Miss Davis sings.

"That Certain Woman" has as its romantic hero Henry Fonda. In it also are such distinguished players as Ian Hunter, Anita Louise, Mary Phillips, Hugh O'Connell and Donald Crisp, so it might be called an all-star production.

Co-Feature.

Bringing to the screen, for the first time as a leading man, that idol of the radio-waves, Kenny Baker, a Mervyn LeRoy musical comedy called "Mr. Dodd Takes the Air" had its local premiere Wednesday at the Capitol.

Kenny proves himself to be a capable actor; he has five splendid songs to sing in the picture; he is supported by an unusually high-class cast, and the story from which "Mr. Dodd" was adapted (Clarence Budington Kelland's "The Great Crooner") is exactly fitted to his personality, and his millions of radio fans will be thrilled with the sight of the tall, good-looking young tenor as he appears on the screen.

Millions read the novel from which "Mr. Dodd" was adapted. Dodd is a country boy, an electrician, who was picked up by a broadcasting advertiser while singing at a hick strawberry festival. Kenny, of course, plays Dodd.

Before he begins work at a radio station, he has to have a throat operation. This changes the timbre of his voice, and he is fired by his first employer. But a smarter advertiser realizes that the changed voice, which has certain peculiar effects to it is more valuable, and signs Dodd at a high figure. He becomes a sensation.

He amasses a fortune. Women rave about him. But Dodd, despite the money and adulation, would rather trifle with electrical gadgets of his own invention.

He devises one—an inexpensive little thing that costs no more than 50 cents to make, but which eradicates all static from even the cheapest of radio sets. He doesn't want the money—all he wants is to be recognized as the inventor of this gadget. It's worth millions.

A couple of the women he has met since his triumph make plays for him, hoping to steal his invention. Chief villainess is blonde Gertrude Michael. Alice Brady is a goofy opera singer who merely wants to add Dodd to her large collection of husbands. But Dodd's real sweetheart, played by Jane Wyman, foils them all by secretly patenting the gadget in her own name to protect Dodd's interests.

Frank McHugh, Henry O'Neill, and John Eldredge are among the noted funmakers in the cast. There are five tuneful songs by that ace composing team of Harry Warren and Al Dubin.

Alfred E. Green directed "Mr. Dodd Takes the Air," which was adapted from the Kelland novel by William Wister Haines and Elaine Ryan. It's an altogether delightful and tuneful comedy—don't miss it!

"Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" Gay Film Stars Warner Baxter, Joan Bennett In Technicolor

Something breath-takingly new in screen entertainment comes to the Capitol Theatre on Sunday, when "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938," begins a three-day engagement here, lasting through Election Day.

In preparation for many months, and representing a staggering investment, the film offers screen audiences a preview of next year's vogues in fashions, fun, girls, music, dances and Technicolor.

Great Cast.

These gay musical stars, Warner Baxter and Joan Bennett, at the head of an imposing cast including Helen Vinson, Mischa Auer, Alan Mowbray, Jerome Cowan, Marjorie Gateson, Dorothy McWhorter, Alma Kruger, Polly Rowles, and the Walter Wanger Models—"the most photographed girls in the world"—whose beauty and shapeliness the producer has framed in style creations from three famous designers, and furs and jewels valued at $1,000,000. Omar Kiam, Helen Taylor and Irene are responsible for the closely-guarded style creations.

A Merry, Mad Tale.

Even though color marks by far its greatest advance to date in "Vogues of 1938," the producer, art director Alexander Toluboff and director Irving Cummings have subordinated it more than ever before to the entertainment approach as a whole.

The story, a merry, mad original by Samuel and Bella Spewack, authors of "Boy Meets Girl," revolves around a he-man couturier (Baxter), hereditary head of the fashionable "House of Curson" and a beautiful New York socialite (Joan Bennett) who jilts a multi-millionaire on her wedding day to become a mannequin. Contributing to the plot are Baxter's stage-struck wife (Helen Vinson), her angel-hunting manager (Jerome Cowan), the jilted millionaire (Alan Mowbray) who tries to put Baxter out of business, an impecunious Russian prince (Mischa Auer) backed by Baxter's enemies in a rival fashion house and many other fascinating characters in Manhattan's passing parade.

New Song Hits.

Woven into the story are locales that permitted art director Toluboff to indulge his flair for designing modern backgrounds. Reproduced on sound stages were the El Morocco and Cotton Clubs, the Rainbow Room in Rockefeller Center, cocktail bars and ballrooms of several swank hotels, Madison Square Garden during the Horse Show, "Fashion Row" on Fifth Avenue and New York and Boston theatres.

Several new song hits were written especially for the production, including "That Old Feeling" by Lew Brown and Sammy Fain, "Lovely One," by Frank Loesser and Manning Sherwin, and "Red Hot Heat" and "Fall Fashion Forecast" by Louis Alter and Paul F. Webster.

Bobby Breen's new musical starring vehicle "Make a Wish," the companion feature with "Vogues of 1938," brings not only the engaging boy lyrics tenor in a characteristically Bobby Breen starring role, but also the polished Basil Rathbone and Marion Claire, NBC singing star, as the adult romantic principals of the story. In the lavish scenic production are also featured such popular players as Henry Armetta, Ralph Forbes, Leon Errol, Donald Meek, Herbert Rawlinson and Leonid Kinskey.

Request Features

Capitol—"Banjo On My Knee," starring Barbara Stanwyck, Joel McCrea, with Buddy Ebsen and Walter Brennan in the supporting cast.

Together for Third Time in New Laugh Hit Show

Teaming Robert Young and Florence Rice for the third time, "Married Before Breakfast," directed by Edwin L. Marin, opens at the Lincoln Theatre Tuesday for a special showing on Election Day only.

"Married Before Breakfast" is the story of a young inventor whose bad luck changes to good when he buys a toy mechanical man. He is preparing to marry a society girl when he meets a girl who clerks in a travel agency. In attempting to help her get married, too, the young fellow tries to sell an insurance policy for her sweetheart. They become entangled with the police, are kidnapped by gangsters and unwillingly participate in a diamond robbery. Pursued by the police, the thugs plant the diamonds in the young man's pocket and escape. The boy and girl are arrested but are finally released. When the gangsters attempt to regain the diamonds the boy's valet calls the police and the thugs are caught. The boy and girl discover that the two they were to marry have become interested in other things and find that they themselves are in love with each other.

Introducing a cleverly contrived robot stooge, this frothy romantic comedy has one of the most laugh-provoking screen plays of recent years. Comical moments abound, including the rib-tickling gadgets a la Rube Goldberg which Young invents, the amusing similarity between the robot and the valet, the uproarious episode with the gangsters, the extremely funny sequences in the courtroom, and the humorous climax at the pier.

There are thrilling chases between police and gangsters, spectacular automobile crashes, and plenty of tense situations. This story goes the "eternal triangle" one better by making this a four-sided romance. There is a rapid-fire story with sparkling dialogue, plenty of laughs, a whirlwind romance, and just the right amount of drama—all the ingredients for real entertainment.

The companion picture is "Rustler's Valley," a western, with William Boyd.

For the Election Day matinee there will be a special addition to the program of five cartoons with favorite characters such as Betty Boop, Pop-eye and others. This will make a big three-unit show for the holiday matinee.

The double feature bill for Wednesday and Thursday will be "London by Night," with George Murphy and Rita Johnson and "The Big Shot," starring Guy Kibbee.

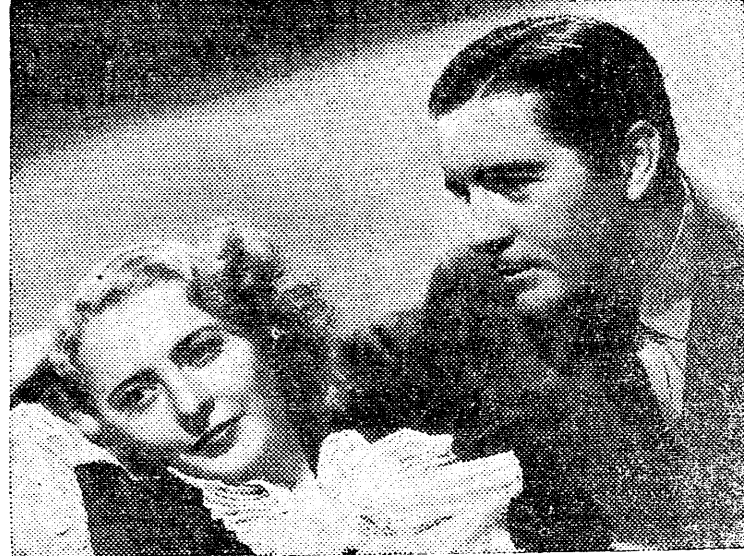

outstanding boys' singing organization of the Pacific Coast. These were among the 160 youngsters who spent several weeks "on location" for "Make a Wish."

In the story, Bobby, newly arrived at a boys' camp, forms a fast friendship with Rathbone, as a composer, who enjoys the company of the lad because he himself has missed his own boyhood. Through Bobby's letters from his young mother, Miss Claire, Rathbone becomes so interested in her that she gradually becomes the inspiration for his operetta. When she arrives at the camp accompanied by her overbearing fiancé, Forbes, friction develops between the two men, especially when Rathbone urges Miss Claire to play the leading role in his musical play. Later a serious disagreement brings about the sudden disappearance of the composer.

The last act of his operetta is almost lost before it reaches the producer, and three slightly mad amateur song writers endeavor to substitute their own music, in order to establish themselves on Broadway. The climax of the story finds rehearsals proceeding under strange circumstances, in the colorful surroundings of that mysterious area behind the scenes. It is here that a spectacular scenic investiture designed by Willy Pogany, forms the background for the performers.

"Make a Wish" was directed by Kurt Neumann, who has been in charge of the filming of all Bobby Breen pictures. Principal Productions has mounted the entire screen play on a lavish scale under the active supervision of Edward Gross. In addition to the sequences in the boys' camp and in a theatre many scenes were filmed in richly appointed homes. "Make a Wish" is an RKO Radio release.

Coming Soon to the Capitol

Barbara Stanwyck and John Boles in "Stella Dallas"—A Samuel Goldwyn Production. Released by United Artists.

Barbara Stanwyck Chosen from Among 48 Tests for 'Dallas' Will Be Seen Wednesday in Double Bill at Capitol

When Samuel Goldwyn assembled the cast for the production of "Stella Dallas," which is the attraction at the Capitol Theatre beginning Wednesday, his choice for the title role of "Stella Dallas" was only made after viewing numerous candidates for the coveted role.

Forty-eight different screen tests were made, which included actresses famous in Hollywood and New York, as well as unknowns from stock companies throughout the country.

Not only does the entire story revolve around and depend on the characterization of "Stella Dallas," but the role is one of the most difficult to play, showing the woman's breaking down as the plot unfolds.

The screen tests were made in an unusual manner, being equivalent to "shorts" in length. Goldwyn instructed Director King Vidor to test the various candidates in four different phases of the screen play. Then the film was edited into what corresponded to a regular "short" subject, and Mr. Goldwyn and his executive staff spent five hours in the projection room reviewing each different "short."

Miss Stanwyck's interpretation won her the role, and those who have seen her portrayal of the poignant and tensely dramatic theme agree that she reaches supreme heights of histrionic expression.

A baffling murder in a big Broadway theatre, colored with back-matching plots and complicated with an embarrassing wealth of suspects and motives, forms the basis of "Forty Naughty Girls," associate attraction, featuring James Gleason and Zasu Pitts in the roles of those noted detectives, Inspector Oscar Piper and Hildegarde Withers.

With the crooked press-agent of the show as the victim of the killing, which takes place backstage during the performance, the story quickly becomes involved with a dozen possible suspects, all of whom had plenty of reason to have committed the crime.

The two sleuths have their hands full trying to solve the riddle.

A second murder, and a spine-chilling search for the killer through the dim recesses of the theatre basement, add to the thrills of the RKO Radio offering, which marks Gleason's sixth portrayal of the inspector role and Miss Pitts' second playing of the Hildegarde part.

Marjorie Lord, George Shelley, Joan Woodbury, Edward Marr, Frank M. Thomas, Tom Kennedy, Alden Chase, and Alan Edwards are in the supporting cast. Edward Cline directed the picture which, like its predecessors, "The Plot Thickens" and "Murder on a Bridge Path," was produced by William Sistrom.

This double bill is showing from Wednesday through Saturday.

Prices are low; I.E.S. table lamps as little as $6.95 if you trade in an old lamp. Small carrying charge on terms. The Lenox China Lamp illustrated above is $9.75 with old lamp traded in.

wooden fence was removed from its position at the time of the improvement. Investigation proved it was necessary to remove fence as it was located on the land upon which the concrete sidewalk was to be laid, in short the fence has been on the Town street.

"Mr. Sylvester Frazer, agent for Martha A. Winans of 126 Bellevue avenue, Montclair, N. J., owner of property located at 217 Valley street, Block 80, Lot 61, assessed for $24.93 for 272 square feet of concrete sidewalk and apron questioned the correctness of the square feet of concrete laid and stated that a fair sidewalk and apron had existed. Investigation and remeasuring showed that the 272 square feet as assessed to be correct and indicated that replacement had been necessary to maintain the proper levels of the sidewalk to be uniform with the adjoining sidewalks.

"Mr. Wm. S. Morton, residing at 475 Summer avenue, Newark, N. J., owner of property at 23 Valley street, Block 73, Lot 27, assessed $12.83 for 140 square feet of concrete sidewalk. His was the only objection to the assessment, his objections were substantially the same as recited before the Board of Commissioners when the work was contemplated. His objection appears to be based upon his claim that adequate sidewalk existed at his property, that the income of his property could not afford the improvement and that the levying of this assessment was confiscatory. I directed him to put his objections in written form, same to be submitted for consideration of the Board of Commissioners. His objection, in view of the great benefit and improvement effected on Valley street, is without merit.

"In my judgment there was no objection of merit as to the basis of the cost, the method, nor the apportionment of any of the above assessments and I therefore recommend the same to be affirmed as written.

"I wish to express my appreciation for the co-operation and assistance of Mr. Keenan, Mr. Higgs and Mr. Watson in the preparation of detail of the assessments and for ably assisting me at the hearing.

"May I now direct your attention to the following News item which appeared in the City-County Edition, page 32 of the Friday, October 15, 1937 issue of the Newark Evening News:

'Assessment Irregularities

Charged in Belleville
The first hearing since abolition of the Belleville Board of Assessment Commissioners was held at Town Hall last night by John F. Coogan, Jr., tax assessor, and Town Attorney Keenan. About 20 questioned assessments for improvements to Cortlandt street and Union avenue, the sanitary sewer in Fairview place and sidewalks laid with WPA labor.

"Four made charges of inequalities concerning the sidewalk work. They were taken under advisement by Coogan."

"For the purpose of being part of the record of above assessment matters, I wish to report there was no charge of irregularities and nothing transpired at the meeting from which could be interpreted any justification for the News items as above. To the best of my knowledge there was no representative of the Newark Evening News at the meeting nor did any representative of that paper interview me regarding said meeting, also for the record I am attaching my letter of protest and a clipping of News story published in correction.

Respectfully submitted,
J. F. COOGAN, Jr.,
Tax Assessor."

"Newark News, Oct. 18, 1937

'Owners Pleased with

Town's Assessments
"Belleville property owners have expressed complete satisfaction with recent assessments for improvements done with WPA labor and state aid, Tax Assessor John F. Coogan, Jr. stated today.

"Of 800 property owners affected less than 25 appeared at an assessment hearing held by Coogan and Town Attorney Lawrence Keenan at the Town Hall Friday.

"The improvements discussed were street paving and water laterals on Cortlandt street, done with state aid; paving on Union avenue done with the aid of the county and a sanitary sewer on Fairview place and sidewalks on numerous streets constructed by WPA. The sidewalk assessment ran under $10 for a 25-foot frontage, which is between a third and a fourth of the cost of previous similar jobs done by private contract.

"There were no charges of 'irregularities' as stated erroneously in a headline in the Newark News of Friday. Coogan denied there were any charges of 'irregularities' as stated in Friday's story.

"There was not a single question or objection as to any irregularity or as to the basis, cost or apportionment of the assessments," Coogan said.

"Keenan said several property owners brought up the question of inequalities in assessments but were satisfied with Coogan's explanations of the differences."

"October 17, 1937.

Mr. Henry G. Coit,
Suburban Editor,
Newark Evening News,
Newark, New Jersey.
Dear sir:

"A News item carrying the heading 'Assessment Irregularities Charged in Belleville,' and which contains in its last paragraph 'Four made charges of inequalities concerning the sidewalk work,' appeared on page No. 32 of the County-City Edition of the Newark Evening News on Friday, October 15, 1937.

"As Tax Assessor for the Town of Belleville, the duty and responsibility for the assessment for improvement is mine.

"Having presided at the meeting, I wish to state, to the best of my knowledge, there was no representative of the Newark Evening News attending the meeting. I was not interviewed by your representative regarding the meeting. Further, I wish to state briefly but definitely there was nothing which transpired at the meeting of October 14 that would in any manner suggest a charge of irregularities.

"On the contrary, the meeting for the purpose of hearing objections to assessments for improvements of Sanitary Sewer on Fairview place, Street Paving on Union avenue, Street Paving on Cortlandt street, Water Laterals on Cortlandt street, and the assessment for Sidewalks on numerous streets in Belleville, was a most satisfactory meeting, both for the property owners who were obviously pleased with the economy reflected by the small amounts of money to be assessed against their respective properties for the benefits received, and to me in charge of the meeting, because of the co-operative attitude of the attending property owners.

"Owners of close to eight hundred (800) parcels of property affected by the improvements were advised by mail of the time, place and purpose of the meeting. Approximately twenty-five to thirty property owners attended.

"There was not a single question or objection as to any irregularity or as to the basis, cost or apportionment of the assessments.

"The impropriety of your article 'Assessment Irregularities Charged in Belleville,' is most disappointing to me as well as other officials and employees charged with responsibility attached to the duties in making the physical improvement, and in apportioning the costs to the benefited properties.

"The article definitely instills a feeling of distrust in the minds of property owners who did not attend the meeting, and in the minds of those who will be similarly assessed for like improvements at a later date.

"I therefore request that if you find my representations to you to be truthful and based upon facts, that you have a suitable correction published to clarify the improper impression created by the article in question.

"May I say that in lieu of the article that was published, a newspaper story of interest was available to disseminate information of a constructive nature as to cost of assessments to those who were not present at the meeting, but who were subject to the assessment, and to those who later will be interested in similar assessment.

Respectfully yours,
Assessor."

Leon Feldstein.

Weeks come... weeks go... and our 'Spotlight' goes with them.

A few days ago Belleville High School football team played a strong Irvington opponent and lost the game by a fairly large score. But even though our home team was unfortunate enough to lose a game, it didn't lose that spirit for which it has been so definitely characterized this season.

Every team, no matter how good it is, has off moments and the eve of the latest conflict was just that for the "Zebras."

The game was played at night and the color of the football was the same as the "Camptowner's" uniforms. That fact alone we think was the major factor to cause Belleville's defeat.

Irvington relied mainly upon brilliant deceptive plays and the great part of its success was due to the matching color of ball and uniform.

If you Irvington fans think you won a great victory just challenge the "Bellboys" to a daylight game. You might win again, but we think that it is an unlikely occurrence.

Belleville was represented by thousands of loyal inhabitants at the game. Throngs of people, who work and live together, sat side by side. Those who are competitors in the daytime, became firm friends at night and cheered for a common cause.

The school band excelled that evening. The musicians were in full regalia and presented a picture of color and spirit.

All in all everything and everybody were there except for a single item. Where was the cheering?

The cheer leaders yelled themselves hoarse but the only reward for their stouthearted attempts were a few meagre yells from the smaller brothers and sisters.

Tomorrow we play Lyndhurst. Attend the game if you possibly can, dear reader, and don't forget, "CHEER!"

What is causing the present chaotic condition of the stock market?

Is it the numerous wars throughout the world, as is the belief of one faction, or is it American capital being withheld by the foremost financial wizards of our country in an effort to put a halt to President Roosevelt's "New Deal" policies.

The opinion of one faction within our United States is this: "President Roosevelt and his administration have been too generous with this country's finances as is evidenced by the report of our nation's budget, which was given out not so long ago.

The holding back of capital in an effort to stem this spending is a beneficial measure toward preserving our nation's wealth even though another depression is an imminent result of that drastic move."

But that is only one opinion. We try to maintain an impartial view of all things we write about, therefore we do not say that the latter is either right or wrong.

Must Have Seen
New York's Rodeo.

... And one of the cat's nine lives was saved.

The yarn goes like this. Motorcycle Officer Donald Smith, was summoned to 474 Washington avenue to rescue a cat that was stuck in a three-inch space between two buildings where it had become caught after being chased by a dog.

Officer Smith found himself in a quandary as to just how to rescue the cat. He appealed to Battalion Chief William Dunleavy and Deputy Public Safety Commissioner, John Rainie at the fire house.

Then Chief Dunleavy had an idea. He rounded up all the firemen on duty and set them to twirling lariats in order to find which fireman was the most expert at that sport.

In the subsequent contest Frank Rovell, of the signal department, who happened to be in the fire house at the time, and Fireman Harry White demonstrated their skill in this respect.

The pair, with Dunleavy, Rainie and Smith, hid themselves forthwith to the scene of the mishap, armed with lariats. They ascended the building along side where the cat was wedged, reaching the roof, post haste.

It seemed a hopeless task to try to rescue the cat with lassoes and at this juncture Officer Smith offered to shoot it as it would not allow anyone to approach it, the feline using its claws viciously.

However, Fireman White by dint of much practice in dropping the lariat down the side of the building, managed to get it over the cat's head. The lasso was covered with rags so that the cat would not be choked. Mr. Rovell accomplished the feat of hooking the lasso around the cat's tail.

First pulling backward to release the animal and then pulling upward. The cat was raised to the roof and carried down the stairs in the triumphant arms of Fireman White.

Thus ended the episode that had attracted scores of people to the scene.

New Jersey Today

RURAL TAX DELINQUENCY

Prepared for the Belleville News by Russell Van Nest Black, consultant-director, New Jersey State Planning Board.

Nearly 900,000 acres of New Jersey farm and other rural lands were tax delinquent for from one to six or more years, as of January 1, 1936; according to recent studies made by the State Planning Board. This means tax delinquency, in rural lands alone of 18.9 per cent. or nearly one-fifth of the entire area of the state. Such startling facts as these bring sharply before the people of New Jersey many problems of taxation and land assessment procedures, land use, and soil conservation.

There are indications, however, that the condition found in 1936 is currently improving. One year after the original survey, in 27 South Jersey townships, selected at random, partial payments had been made on 25.12 per cent. of the land originally found delinquent, although most of these payments had been made on land delinquent for only one year.

From analysis of the incidence of rural land delinquency, four major causes appeared to predominate. The unbridled activity of high-pressure real estate operators who, in the depression years and before, sold many thousands of small farms to inexperienced urban dwellers is one of the chief causes. Large acreages of poor-soil, cut-over and scrub-forest lands are not sufficiently productive to warrant the keeping up of tax payments. The variation of local policy in tax collection matters also appears to have been a large factor since wide differences were found in the amount of delinquency in lands of similar location and soil characteristics. In some instances there was evidence of inequitable land assessments and of tax rates per farm acre.

It is obvious that much of the reason for tax delinquency is basically the problem of proper use of land. Attempts to farm lands which are suited only for recreation or forests, lands worn out by erosion and bad farming, lands of poor soil quality, all increase the incidence of tax delinquency. The human element enters to aggravate the gravity of the situation in the form of inexperience, uneconomic size of farms, and laxity in tax collection procedure.

During the depression years it was almost impossible to make any attempt to plan our land use or to make any rigid policy of tax collection. Now, however, with generally improved conditions, it should be possible to give more effective attention to land-use problems in this state.

K. of C. Deputy Tells History of Chapter

James McMahon Addresses Members of St. Mary's Council

St. Mary's Council, Knights of Columbus, heard a short history of New Jersey Chapter No. 1, given by Past State Deputy James McMahon at the regular meeting of the Council, Monday evening.

"The chapter was organized over twenty years ago to aid all deserving members of the councils comprising it who were distressed financially or otherwise, to protect the welfare of the member councils and to promote matters of Catholic interest," said Mr. McMahon.

"The original relief plan of the chapter was to pay $1 per day to members confined in wards. This amount was found to be insufficient in 1920, so it was increased to $2 per day. In 1923, the chapter found another opportunity to be of further service to its members by entering the fight against tuberculosis. After considerable discussion, it was decided to set aside forty per cent of the receipts of the Charity Ball for tuberculosis cases. In a few years this sum was exceeding the amount spent on the regular relief cases, so the percentage feature was dropped and the tuberculosis cases were taken without exception. In 1927, the chapter decided that it could further its relief work by establishing home relief whereby any member who was confined to his home could apply for relief," he continued.

"During the depression it became necessary to establish emergency relief. $2,000 was set aside to provide food, clothing, fuel and rent for any needy members.

"In 1935 the chapter established four scholarships at St. Peter's College. The scholarships are open to any Knight of Columbus, affiliated with the chapter, his son or brother.

"To carry on this relief work the chapter has held the Charity Ball each year. During good times the receipts have been such that a reserve could be set aside, at the present time this reserve is somewhat over thirty thousand dollars. It is the intention of the chapter to discontinue the Charity Ball when the reserve has been built up to a figure which will provide an income sufficient to carry on the work of the chapter.

"All members are requested to make their returns to the council collector as soon as possible," he concluded.

The clubhouse committee reported that the rooms are well patronized due mainly to the keen competition in the bowling league.

The council will hold an entertainment party on November 10.

"Gone and Done It Again" Has Our Own "Bill" Gow, Modest Mechanical Genius

Not Content to Rest on Laurels Won at Indianapolis Speedway He Operates Automotive Clinic Here

Bill Gow, Belleville inventor, has done it again!

Not content with tuning up the first and second place winners of the 1936 Indianapolis Speedway race, this modest mechanical genius has been operating an automotive clinic in a small way, hoping to prolong the useful lives of beloved jalopies, as well as to invigorate the activities of four-wheeled beasts of burden.

From the welter of ideas thus experimentally developed, Mr. Gow has emerged with one of the most rugged, accurate little tune-up instruments (for carburetion and timing, he says), that any garage or fleet-owner could imagine. We could really comprehend something of what goes on inside our motor, when he said: "This instrument tests after the explosion, and shows how to get power with economy."

"MOTUNER" is the name of this new instrument, embodying important discoveries in the field of gas analysis by the thermal conductivity method, and it promises to have important uses in highway, marine and air transport.

A Mere Trifle

Our ears pricked up at the word air transport. Fancy getting out and lifting the hood of a transport plane or bomber, while doing close to 300 miles per hour, at 20,000 feet.

Mr. Gow explained that the same basic principles applying to the efficient combustion of motor fuel in autos, trucks and pleasure boats, governs the operation of airplane motors. However, changes in altitude and consequent alteration of the density and temperature of the atmosphere, affect the fuel mixtures of motors. Carburetor adjustment in flight, to obtain maximum power and efficiency, can only be reached by some method of gas analysis, with both safety and profit, to say nothing of military effectiveness as the goals to be attained.

Complete combustion efficiency, he said, furthermore, is to be obtained only when valves and rings of the internal combustion motor are free of gum or other residue. We looked at his car, somewhat battered on the outside, but with a sweetly running motor under the hood.

Four Times Around Clock

"How far do you think this has gone?" Gow asked us.

We were astonished to learn that it had been four times around the clock—200,000 miles without ever having had the head off.

"My special NO-GUM solution," said the inventor, "did the trick."

"Would you be able to do anything for our sick oil-burner?" we presumed to ask.

"Why not? Sick oil-burners are all too common; they get bad attacks of 'consumption' as the thermometer goes down." Here is the FURNASCOPE, a new instrument of the Gow-Mac Instrument Company, which will be exhibited with the MOTUNER at the National Motor Truck show next month in Newark. It is for use on Diesel motors, oil burners, inert gas producers and the chemical industry in general.

"Goodbye! See you at Newark Centre Market, November 6-12," said Bill as he busied himself with his gadgets.

Everyman's Meeting

Everyman's Bible Class will hold its fourth meeting at Masonic Temple, Sunday at 9:30 A. M. All members and friends are invited to the "wonder lessons" presented by the leader, George Trantor. The class has enjoyed the organ music by Arthur Ackerman and this Sunday a very important announcement will be made. Men of Belleville are urged to be present.

Atlantic City to Newark on foot!

That's the average distance a group of New Jersey women found they save individually in a year, simply by using the telephone in their regular day-to-day activities. You may save even more mileage — it all depends upon how much you use your telephone.

These women—in 16 communities—measured* ten days of activity without the telephone, against ten days with it. With the telephone, they—

- saved up to 4,000 steps every day; (the average was 930 steps, enough in a year to go from Atlantic City to Newark);
- gained an average of one hour every day . . . for leisure or added accomplishment — some gained 3 hours or more.
- strengthened and renewed friendships both in and out of town.

The more you use your telephone to go places, visit, and get things done quickly, the more you help yourself to enjoy a happier, easier, more satisfying life.

Early Wild Fowl Hunting Season

TRENTON, Oct. 29—An early wild fowl hunting season in New Jersey will be among the features attracting licensed sportsmen this year to the great outdoors, the State Fish and Game Commission announced today. Starting twenty-six days earlier than last year, the open season for hunting wild ducks and geese will open November 1 and conclude on November 30.

Wild fowl hunting along the coastal bays and over tributary streams again promises to furnish plenty of thrills for the hunters as great flights of ducks and geese have been reported along the Atlantic Flyway. Many birds have already been sighted trading up and down the coastal bays and over tributary streams of New Jersey, according to reports of guides received by the State Fish and Game Commission.

New Jersey is included in the second zone by the Federal Bureau of Biological Survey, which regulates the wild fowl seasons in all states. Last year the season remained open from Thanksgiving Day to Christmas, but the earlier season was

Weight Disadvantage Finally Upsets Gallant Stand of Bellboy Eleven

Irvington's Diversified Attack Was Such That Locals Could Not Cope with It—Camptowners, A Snappy Outfit

By Fred McQuilkin
Belleville's gallant warriors went down to defeat Monday night at the hands of Irvington High School's football team, before 13,000 fans, 31-0. Belleville's team had nothing but fight left midway in the third quarter, and this was not enough against a team of Irvington's caliber. The Camptowners presented such a diversified attack that the Bellboys could not cope with it.

The strain that the locals have been playing under for the last four weeks took effect, when they were again outweighed, this time twenty-five pounds per man. The Bellboys could not possibly have kept up to the standard of play they previously had set. For the last four weeks they have been outweighed by an average of thirty pounds per man. This disadvantage in weight was due to make itself felt soon, but it came so suddenly that it took the team, Coach Smith, and the fans by surprise.

Quick Score
Irvington did not wait long to push its first score across the goal line. A pass, Mysko to Gaciona, that was good for fifteen yards, put the ball on the Belleville four-yard line. On the next play, Mysko took a lateral pass from Hiller and crossed the goal line.

Belleville braced in the second quarter and held Irvington scoreless while they threatened to score themselves. Ed Slavin recovered an Irvington fumble on the Camper's forty-eight yard stripe. Chet Kuchinski passed twenty yards to Captain Ed Doyle on the Irvington thirty marker. Doyle was tackled there immediately. After a five yard gain by Slavin the Bellboys were stopped by the Irvington forward wall.

Irvington started scoring as soon as the second half began and didn't stop until the game was over. Irvington's renowned passing combination, Mysko to Gaciona was responsible for the Camper's first score in the second half when Mysko tossed fifteen yards to Gaciona, who ran the remaining twenty yards to cross the last line.

Another Score
A few minutes later this same two scored the third touchdown for the Camptowners. Mysko passed from the Belleville twenty-five yard line to Gaciona on the fifteen, who streaked the final ten yards across the goal line.

Irvington's next score came as a result of a forty yard march by land and air, Bisset going over from the five-yard line. Ksycowski place kicked the only point after touchdown made all night, making the score 25-0 as the third quarter ended.

The final score of the night was made after Coach Matthews of Irvington replaced his second team with his first team to stop a Belleville threat by Kuchinski's passes. Mysko ran twenty yards around his right end and as he was tackled he lateraled to McGrady, who ran twenty more yards to record the final score of the night.

Lyndhurst, after beating the Rutherford High School team three weeks ago, lost to Clifton, by the score, 6-0. The line-up of the Lyndhurst and Belleville team is as follows:

Lyndhurst	Belleville
L.E. Caughlin	Doyle
L.T. Gash	A. Zuzzio
L.G. Osborne	Tesone
C. Subania	Lepre

Crusher Casey Tackles Ex-Colgate Star

Charlie Strack Will Give County Kerry Lad All He Can Handle

Steve (Crusher) Casey, No. 1 challenger for the world's wrestling title, returns to Newark's Laurel Garden on Friday night to head the weekly mat show in a one fall to a finish bout with Charlie Strack, rough and tough ex-Colgate star.

Strack will give the big County Kerry Irishman all he can handle, for he can take plenty of punishment and still come back fighting. Steve, undefeated in over 300 matches, looks on Strack as just another stepping stone to the title, but he may be fooled.

The burly ex-Colgate hero has just returned from a European tour and looks upon this match as his chance to get back into prominence on this side of the Atlantic for a triumph in this tussle would make him.

Irish Paddy Mack and Sammie Fitzpatrick Cohen are slated to meet in a one fall to a finish preliminary. Last week Mack and Cohen had a run-in outside the ring and started swapping punches, so the pair are ready to carry their feud right into the ring and a great battle should result.

Several newcomers dot the supporting card made up of three half-hour bouts. Len Macaluso, who put on a sensational battle with Danno O'Mahoney last week, will help Billy Barthus make his bow in the local ring. Hans von Blumberg, rated one of Germany's greatest athletes, takes on Mike Yanka for his first local foe. Fritz Ziegfried, who appeared here once before, returns to help Jack Singer make his initial appearance.
