De Ronde Attacks Auto Inspection

Local Writer Declares 'Powers' Out to Save 'Job-Creating Measure'

"The powers that be in New Jersey have evidently decided to save their pet job-creating measure, at any cost. Thus speaks J. Alden De Ronde, commercial and industrial writer, 195 Holmes street.

"They were informed long before its passage that the so-called 'compulsory inspection' law would prove only a further expense to the motorists in our state, without increasing the margin of safety on our highways to an extent commensurate with the cost of operating such a measure."

"Those who had studied highway conditions and intelligently investigated accident causes, reported that less than five per cent of the road mishaps were caused by mechanical defects, the rest being caused, principally by reckless drivers," he adds.

"Citizens, prompted by common sense, suggested to our motor vehicle department as long as four years ago, that additional state patrolmen be put to work to curb the 'wild' drivers, but the compulsory inspection idea was advanced by certain interested parties and our higher-ups saw possibilities therein.

"The idea was enacted into law and, now, after a year and a half of muddling with it, the authorities know it will never increase safety on the highways, but conditions must be brought about for which this pet scheme can be given credit.

"So, now Mr. Mark O. Kimberling, superintendent of state police, is told to ask for two hundred additional patrolmen (at a further cost to the motorist and the taxpayers) to do the job which compulsory inspection was supposed to do.

"Certainly no normal being wishes to pay the cost of two hundred additional patrolmen who are legislated into existence to make previous legislation appear like something it isn't.

"It's like paying twice to have a job done once," concluded Mr. De Ronde.

Sit Downer

Mrs. Anna Rodeing of Maspeth, L. I., is a woman who believes in stick-to-itiveness and assiduously keeping in her mind one objective.

This was exemplified the other night when she came from Long Island to visit Mrs. Catherine Hollweg, 17 Academy street. When she arrived at the Hollweg home she found the house in darkness. She sat down on the porch at 8 P. M. and was sitting there at 1 A. M. when the Hollweg family returned. "We, we call, the height of something or other.

Old Fire Bell Finds Resting Place Of Honor in Front of Town Hall

Belleville's ancient curfew and fire bell, that hung for many years in a fifty feet high tower alongside old Eastwood Hose Company in William street, will find a resting place—a place of honor in front of the town hall.

Dear to the hearts of many firemen and old-timers in Belleville, the old bell, which summoned fire fighters in volunteer days, sounded curfew at 9 o'clock each night, as some explain, to warn children it was time to be off the streets. When and where the latter idea was originated is problematical.

At any rate, the good old bell will proudly rest in peace despite the fact that various organizations, at one time or another, had asked that the bell be donated to them. The latest applicant was St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church, Silver Lake, which wanted the bell for its new edifice. This application was rejected at a meeting of the Exempt Firemen Friday night at exempt headquarters, when it was decided to keep the bell in the possession of the exempt.

James Murray was appointed to draw up plans for a design that would result in the placing of the bell on a suitable platform in front of the municipal building.

The bell, which weighs 2,500 pounds, was installed in September, 1898, at a cost of $762.08 for the bell and $250 for the tower.

Previous to this date the fire alarm was sent in by ringing a circular hoop with a hammer, such as now exists in some villages. The hoop was in back of the Valley Hose House. In 1855, firemen were summoned by ringing of the Dutch Reformed Church bell.

The inscription on the bell reads: "Belleville Fire Department, A. D. 1855."

Valley Association Makes Appeal For Parkway Along Passaic River

Park Commission Says It Would Be Waste of Money Until State Lays Out Stakes for Route 21

Urging definite action in construction of the proposed parkway along Passaic River, the Valley Improvement Association has been advised by R. V. C. Wallace, secretary of the Essex County Park Commission, that "it would be throwing away money" to proceed until the State Highway Commission acts to lay out Route 21.

The association recently wrote Mr. Wallace demanding that work start and will now follow up with a letter to the highway department.

The Board of Education will be requested by the group to erect a flag pole on the grounds at Public School No. 9, from the second story of which now flutters a small flag, which sometimes becomes entangled in iron work.

The association last Thursday night voted to donate $5 to the Community Chest.

A letter will be written Commissioner Patrick A. Waters requesting the improvement of Terry street from Main to Stephen streets and Stephen street from Greylock parkway to Belleville avenue where, it is said, storm water often reaches a depth of two feet.

National Grain Wins In Patent Case

Standard Brands Had Charged Infringement By Local Concern

Federal Judge Fake Friday gave a decision in favor of the National Grain & Yeast Co., defendant in an action brought by Standard Brands, Inc., of New York. It was charged the local concern infringed four German patents and one American patent in the manufacture of compressed yeast.

The court held the German patents were invalid and there was no infringement on the American patent. Litigation began in 1932 and the taking of testimony was completed in 1935.

James Roosevelt, son of the President, was a court room observer on two occasions. He resigned as president of the yeast company November 1, 1935, after four months' service.

Shot Enters Home

What might have been a serious affair occurred Saturday night when some one shot a bullet through a window in the home of Charles S. Tedesco, 74 Washington avenue, narrowly missing an infant asleep in his cradle. The shot did not wake up the baby and must have come from some reveler.

1898, Board of Fire Commissioners, John W. Murray, president; James Moore, treasurer; William Young, secretary; Andrew Schaffenberg, secretary.

Do Tell

The letters on police headquarters entrance read Belleville police "h adquarters."

Some jovial soul had removed the "e" from headquarters and left the word which spelled "had-quarters" in its place. As far as we know, and our scope is broad, the police are still doing business at the old stand.

Third Ward Vote Saves Republicans; First and Fourth Swing to Moore

Second Ward Remains Republican by 208 Votes—Third Returns Two to One Tally for Clee

Belleville police, according to the blotter, still know the police patrol vehicle as the "wagon."

It is believed by most folks that the "wagon" passed out of existence with the departure of the horse but the police department evidently clings to the name "wagon" for the sake of "auld lang syne."

Jimmie Fusaro Has His Milk for Sale Those Who Would Steal It Land in Jail

James Fusaro, so the story goes—is a milk man, always on his toes. He delivers milk from door to door, and stealing bottles he does abhor. To the police he went with a tale of woe—of knavery persons who would stoop so low, as to steal bottles from a customer's porch, who must have come with a lighted torch.

For in the darkness of the morn,

A more than two to one majority in the Third Ward placed State Senator Lester H. Clee ahead of United States Senator A. Harry Moore in the total town vote Tuesday for Governor. All told, Clee polled 3,580 votes to 2,903 for Moore. Without the Third Ward the tally would have read Clee, 2,137; Moore, 2,257.

The Third Ward gave Clee 1,443 against 646 for Moore. The First Ward went to Moore, 503 to 462. The Second rang up 1,021 for Clee and 813 for Moore. In the Fourth Ward Clee polled 654 and Moore 941. This ward comprises Soho, Belleville Garden, Belwood Park and two districts in Silver Lake. Only 6,743 of the 12,674 registered voted.

Henry Young, Jr., led the Republican Assembly ticket with 3,652 votes. Olive C. Sanford was second high with 3,642 and Homer C. Zink, local man, third with 3,637. Other figures are Frank S. Hargrave, 3,621; Herbert H. Eber, 3,605; Raymond Schroeder, 3,598; Frank S. Platts, 3,597; Michael Salandra, 3,581; Ed-

Hallowe'en Slid By with Much Fun Very Little Damage Was Done

"Tonto," astride his white horse, appeared on the streets of Belleville last Saturday night when Hallowe'en was celebrated by several thousand kiddies. "Tonto," you must know, is that "Johnnie-on-the-spot" Indian who appears with the "Lone Ranger" in a hair-raising skit on a radio hook-up, at certain times during the week.

"Tonto's" appearance was reported at the fire headquarters by Motorcycle Officer Leroy Hilton, where your observer posted himself Hallowe'en night to watch the antics of the holiday-loving crowd.

About 400 pleasure-seeking youngsters went into the fire headquarters where lolly pops, candy and apples were donated by the following firemen: Chief William Dunleavy, William Flynn, Harry White, Walter Beresford and Robert Andrews.

The youngest child we saw was the petite two and one-half year old Jean McClosky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McClosky, 247 Ralph street.

In cute Dutch costumes were Jerry and Eleanor, children of Mr. and

School Board To Discuss $1,000 To Be Being in Budget Twenty Years

The Board of Education meeting will discuss preliminary plans concerning the budget for 1938. This has been President John P. Dailey's long-remembered plan to have the members to have in shape for the annual meeting early in 1938. The board spent two or three years preparing the budget, just as the job done in time for vote.

The pressure on the board will be eased slightly by the generosity of Mr. Dailey, who has earthed $1,312.59 in Belleville School Account be transferred to the "Interest Account." It is a tidy sum, but not so much as the board would like to have. The board has not set up a reserve fund since the $1,000 with interest in 1937.

Mr. Dailey recently urged members to carry proper the "low pressure" boiler school buildings, citing the case of one in Sussex County was injured, he said, but reason to believe some of the schools would not be injured if all schools have the boilers.

Teachers in the lower sets received word recently that they had been given increased pay, effective September 1. Dailey declined to state the money for the salary from unexpended the salary appropriation of 38 budget. The balance the resignations of higher paid teachers school, who were replaced by teachers receiving the money.

Radio Singer at Ladies' Day Program

John H. Scott To Appear at Everyman's Class Meeting

The Everyman's Bible class will hear one of radio's beloved personages, John H. Scott, Sunday morning, when he will conduct the singing for the Ladies' Day services sponsored by the class. The grand old man of radio will conduct the singing for this service, as well as the remaining Sundays of November.

To most people of Belleville, Mr. Scott was best known as the leader of the Happy Hour, over station WAAM. Popular among a great many radio addicts, Happy Hour, as developed and organized by Mr. Scott, was the pioneer in this type of radio program. This popularity created a great demand for this Happy Hour group throughout the metropolitan areas in personal visits to churches and organizations.

After ten years of connection with WAAM, this station surrendered its identity through the normal merging and reclassification of the broadcasting chains. From then on, Mr. Scott has appeared on all the major stations. His most recent association has been with the erection of the Gospel Tabernacle in Newark, where he conducted the song services.

Everyman's class feels especially privileged in having Mr. Scott as their song leader, and, as most of the ladies are the daytime listeners on radio, he will appear as an old friend when they attend the service at 9:30 A. M.

Tap Star in Making

Humor and pathos are combined in a story written by Miss June Skinner, an eighth grade pupil of No. 9 school, for the Whiskbroom, the school publication. The story appeared under the classification "Hobbies." An excerpt follows: "I coaxed my mother for three years before she consented to let me take tap dancing lessons, which was my one ambition. I have been taking tap lessons since September, 1936, and have loved every minute of it."

"I tap my feet under the table every meal (which greatly annoys my mother) and I even tap when sitting at my desk in school. I love dancing and hope some day I'll make my living by it."

Editor's note—Here's luck to you, June, and may your ambition be fulfilled.

Hallowe'en Dance

A Hallowe'en dance was given by the Belleville Political and Social Club, in their clubhouse, Saturday evening.

Prizes for costumes were awarded to Geraldine Iannicelli, most original; Minnie Racciopi, prettiest, and Edgar Sicoli, funniest.

BELLING ABOUT BELLEVILLE

By JACOB LEVINE

Class 1938, Belleville High School

Leave of Absence.

Look! The parade is coming—hear the drums?
Can't you hear the bugle's blare?
But I don't care if it never comes,
'Cause Daddy—he's not there.

Look! The cops are coming—see them strut!
My, how those brass buttons gleam!
Yes, there's Captain Murphy and Sarge McNutt,
And every dick with a badge, it seems.

Look! The major is coming—the all-esteemed,
And all his retinue;
From poorest scum to richest cream—
All are on review.

Look! The vets are coming—but I can't look;
I'm burning with despair—
There's a space 'tween Privates Ames and Cook,
'Cause Daddy—he's not there!

Armistice Day will knock on the door next Thursday, and some will welcome it with blaring bugles and beating drums; some will open the door all decked out in overseas' cap, leggings, polished shoes, and an army uniform odoriferous with camphor balls; some will greet this day with a solemn civilian salute; and some will not even hear it knock, being too obsessed in the Daily Bugle's account of the Japanese maneuvers around Shanghai.

But there is one fellow who hears the knock of Armistice Day on his door, but who hesitates to open it. It is not because of any lack of patriotism in his make-up—on the other hand, he would be among the first to offer his services in time of war—but were you in his shoes you would feel the same. He is the boy whose father last year was marching down the avenue in full regalia; but, who this year will parade before the "Grand Reviewing Stand," before the Commander-in-Chief of all doughboys. He is the boy whose Dad has been granted an eternal "Leave of Absence."

To this particular fellow last Armistice Day came and went in a

Many Attend Solemn Ceremonies at New Church of St. Anthony of Padua

Bishop Thomas J. Walsh Officiated Sunday at Blessing And Laying of Cornerstone in Silver Lake

A warm hearted Catholic people turned out in great numbers, not only to be present at the laying of the cornerstone of the new St. Anthony's Church, but to take an active part in the celebration and to extend a fitting welcome to His Excellency, Thomas J. Walsh, bishop of Newark, who officiated last Sunday afternoon at the blessing and laying of the cornerstone of the new church of St. Anthony of Padua, Silver Lake.

The welcome to the Bishop in Silver Lake was particularly noteworthy as an indication of the deep rooted reverence in the soul of the Italian Catholic for the episcopal character. At about 2:50 P. M. Bishop Walsh arrived at Sixth and Franklin streets. There the religious societies of St. Anthony's parish and of Holy Family parish, Nutley, led by Rev. Cataldo Alessi, rector of the Silver Lake church, and the members of the building committee for the new church, welcomed him in a body. With the boys' bands of both parishes leading, they marched in procession ahead of the Bishop, who was directly preceded by the altar boys and the clergy. The Bishop followed this front section, and behind him, the secular societies formed an extensive rear guard.

The procession continued until the Bishop arrived at the new church. There he entered the partially constructed edifice as far as that part, which will be the sanctuary. He rested at a spot near the place where the main altar will be and then immediately went through the ceremony of the blessing of the water, which from that time on is used frequently in the blessing and laying of the cornerstone of a new church. The altar boys and clergy then led the procession out through the main entrance to the site of the cornerstone.

Here took place the actual blessing and laying of the cornerstone. This was followed by the blessing of the foundations of the church. The Bishop, walking in procession, made a complete circuit of the building stopping twice at marked places to say special prayers.

Ceremony Completed.
Returning to the cornerstone the ceremony was completed with the singing of the traditional hymn, "Veni Creator Spiritus" and the recitation of two final prayers. Then the Bishop imparted to all the pontifical blessing.

The religious ceremony over, Bishop Walsh ascended the platform built facing Franklin street. Rev. Alessi introduced Rev. Dr. James F. Kelly, "resident of Seton Hall College, who blessed those assembled in English. Dr. Kelly was followed by Rev. Rocco Longo, visiting from Italy, who made a discourse in Italian. Bishop Walsh, then spoke briefly, emphasizing the need of practical Catholicism and warning against "insidious social enemies who are striving to steal from the Italian Catholic the priceless inheritance of the Faith."

On the platform with the Bishop, Father Alessi and the speakers were the clergy and the members of the building committee, of which Thomas C. D'Avella is chairman. Among the clergy present were Monsignor T. M. Donovan, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, Bloomfield; Rev. Joseph M. Kelly and Rev. John A. Nelligan, St. Peter's, Belleville; Rev. Francis P. Mestice, Rev. Joseph Di Santis, Rev. Gianetto, Rev. Viccaro, Rev. Carlo Cianci, Rev. Umberto Donati, Rev. Francis B. Fallon, Newark; Rev. Eugene J. Reilly, Newark; and the Rev. Denis A. Hayes, Clifton.

Mayor William H. Williams, and town commissioners Joseph King, William D. Clark, Patrick A. Waters, George R. Gerard, Town Engineer Matthew J. Sheehan, and Town Attorney Lawrence Keenan were among those present.

The parish societies, which were present in a body and marched in the procession, are Holy Name Society, Ladies' Society of Our Mother of

Regional Meeting Is Planned by Essex Federation of Bible Classes

Group Sees Tremendous Need of More Vital and Aggressive Christianity in Churches to Combat Crime

Realizing the tremendous need of a more vital and aggressive Christianity in churches and Bible classes of Essex County to combat the ever increasing crime and immoral wave that seems to be sweeping across the country, the Suburban Essex Federation of Men's Bible Classes has planned a series of regional meetings or rallies of Bible classes and churchmen to be held during the fall and winter months in various sections of Essex County for the purpose of awakening men to a realization of the need for Christ and the Christian gospel as the way of life.

The first of these regional meetings or rallies will be held on the evening of November 22 in Bloomfield. The Bible class of the Park Methodist Episcopal Church, that town, will be the host class, and the rally will be held in the auditorium of the church. The rally committee held its first meeting last Monday night in the home of Warren Y. Cluff, chairman, 289 Claremont avenue, Montclair. At this meeting plans were talked over to make this rally the greatest the Federation has ever held from the standpoint of real inspiration and attendance.

Local Class On Committee.
The general committee comprises Albert R. Gremse, president of the Federation, Park Avenue M. E. Church, East Orange; Robert Coffin, Everyman's Bible Class of Montclair, First M. E. Church, Montclair; Nelson Fairweather, Caldwell Fellowship Men's Bible Class, Caldwell M. E. Church; Albert S. Koehler, Westminster Men's Bible Class, Westminster Presbyterian Church, Bloomfield; William C. Sholler, vice president, First M. E. Church, Orange; Horace Winship, Men's Bible Class, Park M. E. Church, Bloomfield; John Ellsworth, Belleville Community Bible Class, Masonic Temple; J. A. White, Men's Bible Class, Verona Presbyterian Church and J. T. Thatcher, Livingston Men's Bible Class, Livingston Baptist Church.

The committee plans having a prominent preacher and Bible teacher to give the principle address. The name of the speaker and his subject will be released later.

Committees are being set up to stimulate interest among the various Bible classes of the county, and the general committee hopes to fill the auditorium to its capacity with men on the evening of November 22.

The second executive meeting of the general rally committee took place recently, at which time the program for the rally was worked out in detail.

Among other appointees, Mr. Fairweather of the Caldwell Fellowship class, was appointed chairman of the attendance committee. He hopes to begin work at once for contact men to speak to each Bible class in the county for the next three Sundays, telling them the story of the rally and its purpose.

Meeting Held by Case Committee

Community Service Bureau Group Studies Nutley Discussions

The Case committee of the Community Service Bureau Friday, held its semi-monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Herbert Vail. Four members of the Case committee are attending a series of discussions in Nutley, sponsored by the Nutley Social Service Bureau. They were enthusiastic in their reports on the first meeting with Miss Mary Brisley, who is leading the group.

Miss Christine M. Johnston, case worker, presented a family problem for discussion. The committee saw the effect on a family in which the mother has died with resultant neglect of three young children. In this particular situation, the committee learned that the children have now been committed to the care of the State Board of Children's Guardians, who will supervise them until they become twenty-one years of age. The committee were particularly interested to learn that the father, who had been regarded as neglectful, was found after physical examination, to be in extremely poor health. The present expectation is that he has only a very short time to live.

Those who were present are Mrs. Ackerman, Girl Scout Council; Mrs. W. P. Adams, board member of the Community Service Bureau; Miss Lydia Arndt, Visiting Nurse Association; Mrs. John Denike, Woman's Club; Mrs. J. W. Haworth, Mrs. Frederick Idenden, Woman's Club; Edward Lister, Recreation Commission; Mrs. Irene McCormick, American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Elmer Peterson, Colored Women's Welfare Council; Mrs. Morris Rochlin, Woman's Club; Mrs. H. Former Police Chief, Michael J. Flynn, is finding it difficult to keep people from insisting that he run for commissioner in the forthcoming election.

The Elite Club will hold an entertainment and dance at the Club Evergreen, 7 Belleville avenue, Bloomfield, Tuesday night, November 16. Four Bachelors and Jean Stewart, torch singer, will be included in the entertainment. The committee in charge includes chairman, Frank Panico and Jerry Bonavita, Michael Corbo, Michael Agolio and Leo Mattia.

Anthony Bucca, local barber, who received a sharp shooter's medal in the World War, will leave November 10 for a rabbit and pheasant hunting expedition.

Benjamin Harrison, 60 Overlook avenue, with no material at his disposal but some flag stones and a bucket of paint, has constructed a nice entrance to his home. This despite the fact Mr. Harrison is in ill health.

It is reported that Bill Parmer, son of Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. Wayne R. Parmer, will attend Dartmouth College, following his graduation from Belleville High School next June.

Eleanor Bacon-Peck who, besides teaching piano, lectures on music appreciation, has as her assistants, Adell Sutherland and Mildred Drentlau.

"The Pals," a boys club which meets near the William street firehouse, is composed of the following members: George McNally, Jack Oldham, Jerry Ferrara, Jack Rhodes, Tommy Candura, Richard Woods, Tommy Leonard and Nelson Yingling.

Two men in front of a butcher shop, "Going in?" queries the first. "Yes," says the second, I am going into the shop to put a down payment on a steak, meat sure is getting high."

Alfred Cocks, formerly of 172 De Witt avenue, and now of Chicago, is working in that city for the Crane Valve Company since last July.

Robert Whitten, B. H. S., '18, 6 Division avenue, opines that the fiscal football team of the high school has more fight in them than any team in quite some time.

Phil Haggraves, official at the Elks' Home, is a quiet chap, but he made plenty of noise rooting for Belleville's football team at the Lyndhurst game Saturday.

Nutley Dukes Win
From West Orange

Close Fought 6-0 Game
Staged at Booth
Memorial Park

The Nutley Dukes football team defeated the West Orange A. A., 6-0, in a fight-to-the-finish battle at Booth Memorial Park, Sunday.

The score came in the early part of the contest, following a poor kick by the West Orange punter, the Dukes downing the ball on the West Orange forty-yard line.

Four first downs in succession placed the Dukes on the West Orange eight-yard line, from which point Dick O'Neill of the Dukes, carried the ball on an end sweep over the last stripe to chalk up the only marker of the game.

For the rest of the half the ball see-sawed up and down the field neither side having the advantage in the subsequent punting duel.

The West Orange team downed the ball on Nutley's thirty, in the third quarter, following a fumbled punt. That was the nearest it ever came to crossing the Dukes' goal line.

Recovery of four fumbles did not help the Dukes materially, though it threatened several times.

With the McCormick twins in the line-up, the Brookdale Tigers will meet the Dukes Sunday at Booth Memorial Field.

Bell Boys Play
Kearny Tomorrow

Boys From Other Side Of River Also Outweigh
Locals

Belleville High School's football team hogged down badly during the second half of the Lyndhurst game, Saturday. We ascribe this to the injuries that the team suffered in its battle with Irvington, the previous Monday.

We sincerely hope that the Bell-boys are entirely recovered from their injuries, to put up a stiff battle against Kearny's terrors tomorrow at Kearny.

Last Saturday, Belleville's luck held out and a poor kick by the Lyndhurst punter paved the way for a touchdown.

The Blue and Gold footballers will have to get a lucky break to get ahead of the fast stepping Kearny lads.

Kearny's line outweighs Belleville about twenty-five pounds to a man, which has been the case in nearly all the games Belleville has played. Kearny has an alert backfield which should prove troublesome to the Belleville tacklers and its secondary defense. The Cardinal's have a powerful running attack in which department Belleville is sadly lacking.

Most of Belleville's points and, there have been only thirty-two thus far, have been made on lucky breaks, but we can't expect the quick-witted Kearny boys to make a faux pas in the game.

We hope we are not anticipating too much when we express the desire to see Belleville win. If the Bell-boys hope to win tomorrow's fracas the team will have to play heads-up football as they did in the first half of the season.

Laurel Garden Has Balanced Program

Ace Roughsters on Card
With Some Clever
Matmen

A nicely balanced card, containing some of the cleverest matmen in the game and in addition, several of the ace rough and tumble artists has been arranged for the weekly mat show at Laurel Garden on Friday night.

Charlie Strack, former Colgate University star, created a sensation last week by putting on a brilliant exhibition of wrestling against Steve (Crusher) Casey. Strack held the powerful Irishman even for more than a half hour and forced Steve to go nearly forty minutes, the longest it ever took him to pin an opponent in Newark, before bowing.

This week Strack takes on another Irishman, Danno O'Mahoney, former world's champion, in the headline on a card co-featuring three one fall finish bouts. A lot of the fans who saw last week's show are expecting Strack to cause an upset and topple Danno.

The second finish bout also promises fireworks. Sammie Fitzpatrick Cohen, the latest sensation among the macepads of the mat, is slated to battle Jesse James, the Greek will o' the wisp. Last week Cohen beat Paddy Mack, who depends on speed and cleverness, in one of the roughest and most entertaining matches ever seen at the Springfield avenue arena. James also depends on his speed and variety of holds and will give the Bronx Bad Boy plenty of trouble.

Len Macaluso, former Colgate American ace, draws a tough assignment in the third finish bout for he is paired with Bennie (Crusher) Feldman. The Hebrew Goliath is six feet, five inches tall and weighs 280 pounds. It will be Len's flying tackle against Bennie's "pancake landing" in this battle.

In the preliminaries, each carded for a half hour, Hans von Blumberg takes on Tony Colesano, and Jack Singer battles Angelo Caruso. Singer made his bow last week and made a hit with his villainy.

TOUCH-DOWN TACTICS

by
Raymond W. Pond
Head Football Coach

This is the sixth in a series of nine outstanding diagram plays by nine leading college coaches from Grantland Rice's Cities Service Football Guide.

THIS play resulted in the only score of the Yale-Princeton game in 1934. It is better when used on the 2nd or 3rd down in a team's own territory with large yardage to make. The pass is thrown from punt formation, and this is the way it worked.

Morton, No. 1, as a decoy, pulled the defensive left halfback toward the side line. Train, L. E., also as a decoy, pulled the defensive right halfback toward the side line.

Kelley, No. 6, went straight toward the defensive left halfback and then angled into the middle zone and caught the pass, after which he carried it 43 yards for a touchdown. The safety back, expecting a punt, could not come up fast enough to break it up.

The offensive right guard blocked the defensive left tackle, and the rest of the blocking is quite obvious from the diagram.

Camptown Pros Win
From Brown Bombers

Unscored Upon in Five
Starts They Will Play
Middletown

Behind a stubborn wall of defensive playing, the Camptown Pros disposed of the Colonial Brown Bombers of Harlem at Tri-City Stadium, Sunday, 14-0.

The Camptowns, who are unscored upon in five starts, started the scoring attack in the first canto. A bad pass from center paved the way for an early lead, 2-0, when Zoppa, with the assistance of Scott, dropped Harrier behind the goal line for a safety.

The first touchdown of the afternoon came late in the opening period, when Joe Chorborda hit center for twenty yards. The final tally came mid-way in the fourth quarter on a long march of sixty yards, after which Steve Chorborda scored from the four-yard line. Both attempts from placements were bad.

The Pros will defend its clean slate Sunday at 2:30 P. M., against the Middletown Steamrollers of New York at Tri-City.

Starting line-up:

The Win Column

Lyndhurst Golden Bears
Are Defeated by One Point

Belleville High School regained its winning form Saturday, when it defeated Lyndhurst, 7-6.

"Bud" Hollweg, Bellboy halfback, was mainly responsible for the locals' fourth victory, his long punts keeping the Golden Bears of Lyndhurst deep in their own territory most of the game. Several of his punts traveled sixty yards.

Belleville's score was made possible when Captain Ed Doyle blocked and recovered De Rensis's kick on the Lyndhurst thirty. Belleville rushed the ball to the Lyndhurst one-yard line. Here Lyndhurst held for downs and took possession of the ball. De Rensis, Lyndhurst halfback, attempted to kick from behind his goal line, but he was so badly rushed by the Bellboy forward wall that he was forced to rush his kick, which traveled exactly two yards past the line of scrimmage, to the Lyndhurst three-yard stripe.

At this point Coach Frank Smith rushed Nick Zuzzio into the game. It took Nick only two tries to put the ball across the goal line.

Chet Kuchinski, star finger of the Bellboys, passed to "Bud" Hollweg to score the point that meant victory.

"Bud" Hollweg sent a sixty-yard boot sailing through the air to set Lyndhurst back on their own 20-yard marker, near the end of the second quarter. On the first play, Russo, Lyndhurst quarterback, fumbled, Al Zuzzio recovered for the Bellboys. But this scoring chance went for naught, as four passes by Chet Kuchinski were incomplete, two of them slipping from the fingers of over anxious receivers.

In the second half Lyndhurst outplayed Belleville but was unable to tie the score when they missed the point after touchdown, an attempted pass by Margiotta to Coughlin.

Ernie DeRensis was responsible for most of Lyndhurst's gains. He gained most of the ground in the sixty-five yard touchdown march, and the Bellboys were busy the remainder of the game keeping him from scoring again for Lyndhurst.

SUCCESSFUL FIRST WEEK

The first week of our Belleville High School page has met with meteoric success judging from the numerous applicants who wish to attain a position on our staff.

That success has forced us to resort to a process of elimination, to select a permanent staff. To judge fairly, we will give the highest preference to those who worked so intently during the first week of publication. Talent and quality of work will count a great deal.

If you aren't appointed to our staff this year, don't feel slighted. It was imperative to turn you down as we did.

You still can submit drawings, photographs or literary selections, however. Put your name to them and hand them to the editor or one of the associate editors. We'll try to publish them.

HOW DO YOU LIKE THIS PAGE?

How do you like our page this week? Are there any changes that you think would give it a better appearance?

We will gladly accept all suggestions that our readers have to offer.

If you like the type of page we publish write and tell us about it. We'll appreciate it.

LEON FELDSTEIN, Editor-in-Chief.

TWO NEW FEATURES

Two new features this week are "The Interrogator" and "Know Your Teachers." The editorial staff has handled both these columns for the first week, but we want two new people to conduct them.

If you are interested, see Leon Feldstein in the library Monday at 2:50 P. M.

Back To School Night Attracted

Over 600 Parents to High School

Back-to-school Night, under the supervision of Principal H. D. Kittle, was observed at the high school last Monday night when the parents went through their children's schedules in the same manner as the pupils do. It was estimated that over 600 people were in attendance.

Many of the English teachers taught the adult pupils the fundamentals in letter-writing and the various changes that have been effected in the past few years.

Miss Eleanor Allison, the domestic science teacher, supervised a short and simple culinary experiment.

Mr. John Charlton's regular printing classes prepared grocery memorandums, upon which the parents were allowed to set the type and print their names. The latter were given as souvenirs.

Mr. Wilho Wineka and Mr. Herman Wische, the boys' gym teachers, gave the fathers and mothers a general description of their everyday class routine.

The mathematics department explained the importance of their subjects. A display of some of the students' work was posted on the bulletin boards.

The science classes conducted a variety of experiments and explanation of their various objectives were given.

Miss Alice Walters, music teacher, told the parents of many entertainments presented and of the participation by the glee clubs and soloists.

Fundamentals and importance of Latin were stressed by the teachers of that subject.

It is hoped that a similar affair will be conducted next year.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria during the luncheon periods.

Old Fashioned Spelling Bee Gives

Way To Modern Enunciation Bee

Instead of an old-fashioned spelling bee, Mr. Leonard Kachel, in his public speaking classes, held a modern enunciation bee.

Each student, in turn, went to the front of the room and at a signal began reading from a paper.

Fifty seconds was the time limit. Mr. Kachel kept score and, at the end of forty minutes, William Parmer was leading with only six mistakes. In the seventh period Betty Schwab led with only four mistakes.

Classes Branch Out

The biology, general science and senior science classes are each preparing a separate series of films relating to their subjects.

Some of the biology classes are branching out and now include taxidermy in their daily course of study.

Room 307 Goes

Stark Musical

"Foo Brothers and Sisters"

Threaten To Play at Assembly

Room 307 seems to have gone stark musical. The students sing and play musical instruments during home room periods and after school. Mr. Walker Hack, a music devotee, does all he can to encourage the students. He has even installed a public address system for them to practice with.

Several of the students have formed a comical chorus and orchestra, "The Foo Brothers and Sisters." Its members are William Parmer, the jug player; William Rame, the hose player; James Thetford, kazoo player; Heinz Oelschner and Anna Roviello, harmonica players; Wilma Plansen, ukule player, and Geoffrey Powell, manipulator of the wash board.

The aspiring musicians hope to play for a school assembly in the near future.

Awards Presented to Shorthand Students

Eleven Members of Class Have Been Given Certificates

Eleven members of Mrs. Anne Snedeker's shorthand classes received Gregg award certificates in October. These are issued by the Gregg Publishing Company to students who attain ninety-five per cent accuracy in shorthand transcription from dictation.

The names, in order of achievement, are Helen Lowenberg, Marian Ward, Jessie Adams, Mabel Hughes, Regina Stark, Helen Crivellone, Stella Corsi, Veronica McLaughlin, Vincent Sorrentino, Margaret Whiteford and Kathryn Duffy.

Complete Cast for Senior Class Play

William Engelman Chosen To Play Part of "George"

After a great many competitive tryouts, William Engelman was selected to play the role of George, a youth just emerging from adolescence in the senior class' production of "Growing Pains," by Aurania Rouverol.

Evelyn Corine, Ruth Compton and Dorothy Dunleavy have been selected as assistant directors.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Oct. 12.—Miss Doris Anna Scharfenburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Scharfenburg, 161 Cedar Hill, was recently initiated by Delta Delta Delta social sorority at Bucknell University here, where she is a member of the junior class.

Miss Scharfenburg, a graduate of Belleville High School, is enrolled in the Liberal Arts course and is majoring in English. She is affiliated with the Bucknell Mixed Chorus, Women's Glee Club and Women's Athletic Association.

Nature Club

The Nature Club has added some items to its activities. The students are going to take up photography and taxidermy. In the latter field they are going to do extensive work in the line of birds and animals.

Basketball Practice

The date of the start for basketball practice has been postponed from November 1 to about November 15, according to Coach Albert MacBride.

Excellent Crayon Drawings Portray "Canterbury Tales"

Virginia Rose, a student in one of Miss Anna Underwood's senior English classes, has portrayed fifteen characters from Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" in excellent crayon drawings as a special project.

Lois De Nari's father became interested in the work of the class and made six drawings, five in crayon and one in charcoal. All of these drawings are on exhibition in room 104.

Response Pleasing To School Editors

Several Who Did Not Make Staff May Try Again

Surprised indeed were the editors of this page upon the large turnout of people interested in joining the staff of the Belleville High School News.

The library was really crowded with those interested in writing, photography and cartooning.

The editors tried as hard as they could to give everyone an assignment. Those who were unsuccessful in obtaining a berth need not blame it on anything save fortune.

Next year a new staff will be chosen and those who are still interested, but unsuccessful in joining our page this year, will be able to try again.

Many bright colors were in pre-eminence last Friday night at the senior class Hallowe'en dance. About 300 attended.

Miss Elsie Sandford was the faculty advisor in charge of the affair. The committee of judges to decide awards was composed of H. D. Kittle, Miss Sandford, Brewster Jones, Kay MacDonald and Cecile Campbell.

Betty Schwab and Jack Weber were awarded prizes for the most original costumes. Morton Donohue was presented with a prize for the funniest outfit and Gloria Loesser received first prize for the prettiest ensemble.

Edward Mallison acted as master of ceremonies.

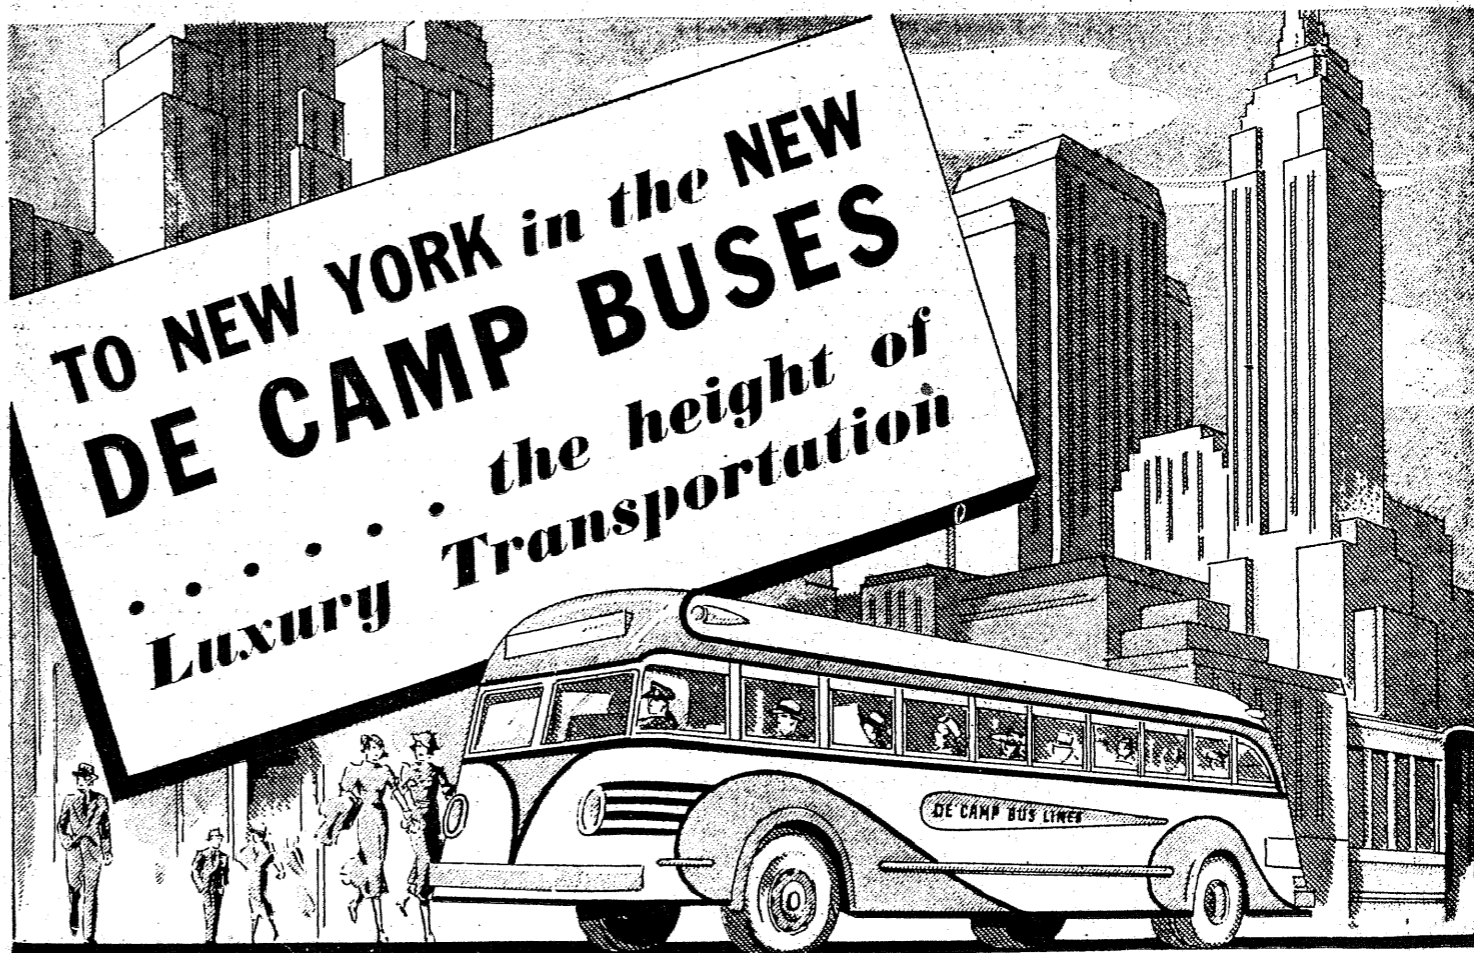

A number of faculty members were in attendance. Lonnie Farrell and his Collegians, a ten-piece band from Nutley, played. Their renditions of many popular numbers were well received.

COMMUNITY CHEST

The Belleville Community Chest starts its campaign today to raise $16,000 for the benefit of six worthy groups. The drive closes ten days from now.

Usually the drive lasts longer than the allotted time, due to delay in subscriptions by many of the townspeople and industries.

Let us all be prepared in advance to donate liberally to this noble cause, instead of waiting until the last minute in order to avoid repeated calls by canvassers who donate their time and efforts without thought of recompense.

The goal should be reached within the time limit if the townfolks will cooperate to the extent of their ability on the first call of the canvassers. Let us all put our shoulders to the wheel and push until the goal is reached.

PLANNING BELLEVILLE

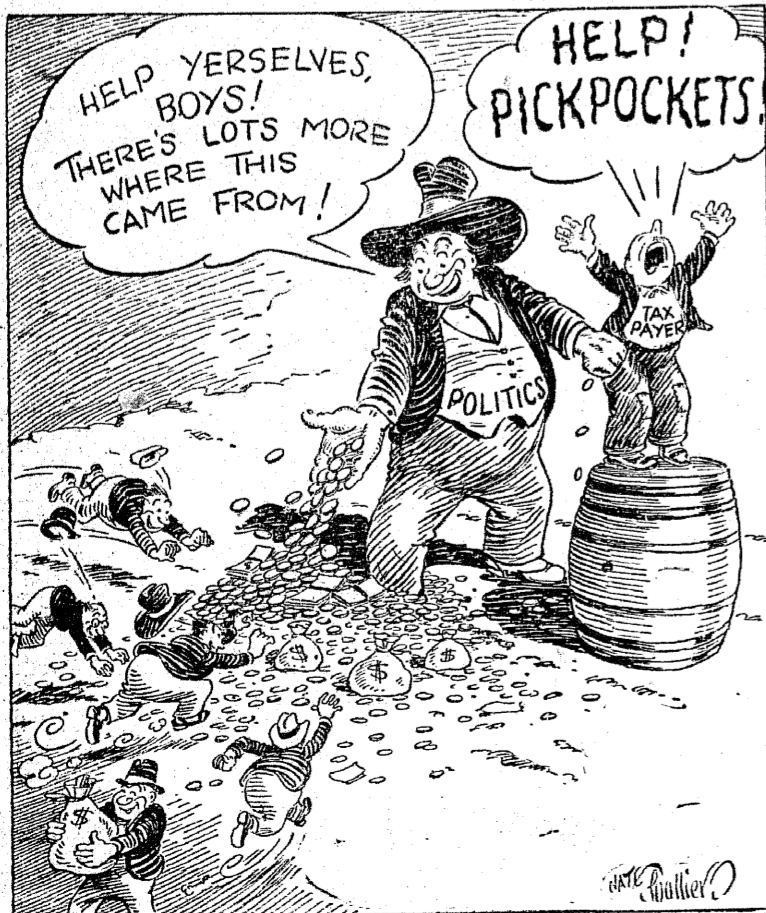

Much has been said about Belleville occupying its place in the Sun, but little actually done in the matter of comprehensive planning for location of stores and industry. In particular, does Belleville need some vision and alertness to develop a BUSINESS CENTER instead of the hit and miss, ordinary run of the mill methods that have permitted stores to locate anywhere and everywhere in town.

Industry should be a tremendous asset to Belleville if it is confined to its natural location, along the Passaic and Second Rivers and the Erie Railroad. However, in planning for industrial expansion Belleville should remember that a beautiful parkway is planned and even now under way along the rivers. Only types of industry willing to construct buildings in keeping with the surroundings should be encouraged. Belleville has something to sell industry. It is true that Main street, with its ultimate development, and also Second River Parkway will make a desirable drive through our town. What an excellent advertisement if high class, modern-constructed plants with landscaped surroundings followed the natural path of industry here as in any other town. Belleville's two main arteries north and south—Washington and Union avenues, geographically, do not permit much view of Belleville's industry. Visitors traveling through on these two highways would obtain an excellent picture of our town if high class apartment houses stretched from the Nutley line as far south at least as Greylock Parkway. It might even be a thought for Belleville to acquire a right-of-way through Riviera Park at its northern end from Washington to Union avenue for a parkway similar to Greylock, restricting all future development between the two points to a definite high class apartment section. What an ideal entrance to Belleville on both north and south arteries.

Washington avenue—at its southern end—has been developed and rightfully so for business. Union avenue at the Newark line, as well as Belleville avenue from Bloomfield should be restricted to residential or apartment development. Certain neighborhood store locations, such as at Union and Belleville avenues and Union avenue and Joralemon street could be developed. There is no more desirable apartment site than Belleville avenue opposite Belleville Park, if restricted to proper development along the lines of Park avenue, East Orange.

A business center—geographically Joralemon street is the spot—should be sponsored. All minor stores, scattered helter-skelter, as in the past, should be refused permits until a center has been established. Merchants must establish a shopping mart which will attract shoppers to their stores. They must be centralized and carry a well-stocked line of merchandise—attractively arranged to compete with our neighbors. Surely, then we can ask the townspeople to Buy in Belleville.

THE MODERN "LIBERAL"

SCHOOL DAYS

ARMISTICE DAY

Armistice Day dawns upon a world beset by doubts and troubles and imbued with a spirit far removed from the jubilation attending the coming of Peace nineteen years ago. Amid the universal rejoicing of November 11, 1918, none would have ventured to prophesy that but a little more than a decade later, in fact as far back as some five years or more ago, all would not be well. Yet war exacts a toll that it requires years to pay. And the world is still paying for the last titanic struggle. At the moment Mars is once more alert in Spain—with its Civil War—the Far East, embroiled in another bloody clash, the consequences of which no man can accurately predict. This nation, at least, should heed the lesson of the past and remain aloof. WE WISH NO MORE WAR.

In economic affairs the sunshine of hope for the future constantly grows brighter. The country is returning from the depths of depression. It has been a hard lesson but, if well learned, will redound to the greater well-being of us all. With courage undimmed America faces the future.

STATE HIGHWAY AND THE PARKWAY

The Valley Improvement Association is in receipt of notice from R. W. C. Wallace, secretary of the Essex County Park Commission, that construction of the parkway along the river would "be throwing money away" until the State Highway Department stakes out Route 24. The association will now endeavor to prod the Highway Department into action.

More power to the residents of the valley section. Money to construct the parkway has been voted and the land has been taken. If the State Highway Department is holding up the works let's find out why. This newspaper agitated in recent months that something be done about the parkway. With the valley folks putting their shoulders to the wheel maybe Belleville will get some where. How about the rest of the town giving this parkway plan assistance. Enough pressure in the right direction will bring about the parkway. Is there anyone who fails to visualize the beautiful drive along the Passaic with a parkway there? Let's go, Belleville!

We repeat: If it's parkway, let's have it!

By "GUARDIAN"

And the election is over. Moore is elected by a little over 40,000 votes more than Clee, in an election in which the discriminating independence of New Jersey voters was again outstanding. A Democrat is elected as Governor and the same people elected an overwhelming Republican Assembly and held Republican control of the Senate.

Did New Jersey go Democratic or Republican last Tuesday? That is a question that you can answer any way you like. Certainly control of the state legislative machinery was returned to the Republicans, while a very popular Democrat, running way ahead of his party, was elected to the Governorship.

That is too bad. As we have said before in this column, Harry Moore is a fine, upright individual—a safe man who will take the middle of the road position as he has tried to do on New Deal legislation since he has been in the United States Senate. If Moore has any program—and we do not recall that he had any program of any moment in his two previous terms as Governor—certainly he cannot have it adopted in 1938 with a Republican-controlled legislature to handle.

And, of course, Harry Moore is going to be a prominent candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in the early summer of 1940—that is, he is going to be if he is more independent and more outstanding as Governor than he was during his six previous years in that office—if through his appointments to the Judiciary, to the offices of County Prosecutor and to the numerous offices of moment in our state organization that will fall to him to make, he exercises sound judgment, a degree of independence of the Democratic machine and concludes to appoint men only of outstanding merit, regardless of any debt that his political party may owe to them—then he will command and merit national attention. If on the other hand, he just rides along as "one of the boys" he will become as much of a fizzle as a 1940 prospect as did Hoffman as a 1936 prospect.

We feel sorry for Lester Clee. The independent voters did not become sufficiently aroused to get out and vote in adequate strength. The Hoffman machine gave but lip service to his candidacy—his own county did not give him adequate support and still he reduced the Moore margin of victory of a quarter of a million votes which Moore enjoyed when last he appeared before our electorate, to a mere 40,000.

That seems to us to be a fine moral victory for Clee; that to us seems to indicate an increasing desire on the part of the voters of this state to get a dollar's worth of government for every dollar spent in taxes; that to us gives hope that before long the voters of New Jersey will become sufficiently aroused to reorganize our wholly inefficient state government on a business-like basis.

We are sorry to see Clee defeated. We compliment him upon the fine, vigorous, clean campaign that he waged. Fortunately he still remains in the State Senate where his inspiring leadership, honest thinking and energetic personality will be at the service of the people of the state.

And so congratulations and good luck to you, Harry Moore. May you read the writing on the wall and profit thereby. We can be greatly pleased and we can derive great satisfaction out of realizing how much more prestige you are going to bring to the Governorship of this wonderful state of ours than has existed since you went to the United States Senate.

Yours for New Jersey.

PIQUANT POLITICS

By MEADOR WRIGHT

THE most noticeable thing I can find from the election returns from Essex County is that the voting was almost exactly as might have been anticipated from a study of past election figures. The vote was neither light nor heavy, although in Newark it might very well be described by the latter adjective. Approximately 95,000 votes were cast for Clee and Moore combined, while three years ago the total Newark vote given Hoffman and Dill together, in round figures, was 83,000. This was a sizeable increase, and belies the claim heard in Newark Tuesday evening that the Democratic workers did not get out the vote. Newark Democratic majority was 22,000 in both years.

This jump of 13,000 in Newark's total vote accounts for practically all of the county's increase of from 204,000 to 218,000. Thus suburban voters came out in the same numbers as three years ago, whereas in 1934, they gave Hoffman a majority of only 16,000, this year they gave Clee a majority of 37,000. This is an impressive switch as between parties. It likewise represents an even greater shift of votes given Moore, himself, as compared with his 1934 showing against Kean.

Where then is the cause for the disappointment expressed in both headquarters Tuesday evening? Republicans were waiting that the suburbs fell down on Clee. Democrats claimed on the other hand that their workers were at fault in that Newark gave Moore a majority no greater than that given Dill three years earlier.

Neither of these complaints is entirely justified, in my judgment. The Newark Democratic workers got out 6,000 more votes than they did in 1934. That was all that could have been expected of them. The Republicans, on the other hand, produced a similar increase of voters. This can be interpreted as a tribute to Clee, who after all is a Newark citizen and has done most of his work there in recent years.

The failure of the suburban voters to turn out in larger numbers, while disappointing to Clee, personally, was little more than might have been expected. Suburban voters seldom get excited over elections. The one exception I can recall is that of 1930, when Dwight W. Morrow was the candidate. Some more efficient work among suburban voters, particularly women, might have brought Clee's majority up to 30,000. Beyond that he could not have gone.

As far as Essex is concerned, it was a case of two good men running against each other. Moore has always been popular in Essex, particularly in the suburbs. Clee's light primary vote indicated that he had a long ways to go to capture the imagination of the voters here in a way to wipe out the majority that Hudson was sure to give her native son, Moore. I pointed out before the primary that a light primary vote here very likely would indicate Senator Powell's weakness rather than Clee's strength. The primary vote was very light. But Clee's workers were carried away by the size of the majority, whereas the size of the Clee vote was the significant thing. The votes of Tuesday showed that my warning was entirely correct. In selling himself to the rest of the state, Clee failed to impress the very area that might have brought him victory, the Essex suburbs.

Even though he was defeated, however, it is impossible but to concede Clee a great moral victory. To come within 50,000 votes of defeating a man who twice has carried the state by a majority of 230,000 was an achievement of the first order. It means that Clee today is the recognized leader of his party. Should he desire to run for the Senate next year, W. Warren Barbour would have a hard time defeating him in the Republican primary.

Likewise, had he been facing any other Democratic candidate than the popular and veteran Moore, he almost certainly would have won. The public thinks in terms of victories and defeats, but in this case the 706,000 votes that Clee got in losing are more impressive than the 44,000 ballots given Moore in victory.

Whether this tremendous Clee achievement will be recognized beyond New Jersey is not certain, but politicians in this state are not likely to forget very soon. While the voting did not show that Governor Hoffman had any part in Clee's narrow defeat, the latter is likely to lose prestige because of it. Hoffman must inevitably take a party seat behind Clee when his term expires next January.

The failure of Essex to come through for Clee as had been anticipated is sure to react against W. Stanley Naughton and William H. Seely, leaders of the campaign here. Naughton will be blamed for the poor showing in the suburbs. Seely has a better alibi, as Newark did as well for her favorite son as had been expected. But the whole thing proves that new leadership is needed here, and that Clee is the one to give it. Had he assumed active leadership here two years ago he might possibly be Governor today.

Washington Snapshots

Time and regular monthly reports are convincing Washington government economists more and more that the tax on undistributed corporation income was a sad, sad mistake.

Somewhat sheepishly, many folks are now admitting that this tax must bear a great part of the responsibility for the outstanding weakness in the recovery drive—the construction industry.

The tax—often erroneously called the corporation surplus tax—was originated as a social reform measure, designed to control the policies of corporations by making them distribute their income in stock dividends so that stockholders would have to pay more taxes.

But the tax is, as economists here now belatedly see it, a tax on business expansion, on depression debts, and on building up savings for a future rainy day. The penalty tax applies to all money that is not distributed to stockholders.

Thus, if a company went into debt during the depression and is making a little money now, it must pay a penalty tax for the privilege of paying off the debt. If it wants a new plant to provide new jobs, it pays through the nose for that too. And if it wants to build up its reserves depleted by the depression, it pays a penalty for that too.

The latest discovery of these economists is that the tax has greatly handicapped the lagging construction industry. For instance, in August, the manufacturing industry employed more persons than it did at the 1929 peak. But construction, with only 1,566,000 on its payrolls, was 1,300,000 persons under its 1929 level.

The cause is that many companies are unwilling to pay the penalty tax to supply new jobs when other things make the future uncertain. And that unwillingness increases the uncertainty. It's just a vicious circle, and the economists now admit that unless proposed changes in that tax are real changes, dark days lie ahead.

Another thing that is handicapping the construction industry was typified in the experiences of a local architect-contractor. He was drawing tentative plans for a number of commercial buildings and private homes. His office was busy as a beehive, with twenty-six men employed. Suddenly, he found he was losing money. Costs of materials were rising rapidly, and labor unions were winning successive increases in wages.

Finally, this man decided the only way he could safely do business was to stipulate in his contracts that he would build for a specified sum provided the cost of materials remained the same and provided carpenters and plasterers continued to get the existing pay of $12 a day. The man for whom the building was to be built had to agree to meet any increases in these costs.

The result was that in one month, the architect-contractor found client after client refusing to accept such contracts. And since they couldn't get any other contracts anywhere else, they just gave up the idea of building. Now, the architect-contractor has cut his staff to himself, his secretary and one draftsman. He isn't making office rent.

In the SPOTLIGHT

LEON FELDSTEIN.
High School Senior.

The sun goes down to shine again tomorrow. That scene is re-enacted day after day. Our "Spotlight" undergoes an almost similar re-enactment. It shines every Friday in the Belleville News.

Next Thursday our country and many other nations throughout the world will celebrate the signing of the Armistice, which was supposed to put an end to "The War to End Wars." Yes that was the motto during the course of the World War. But of what avail is it today?

"The War to End Wars" has been the foundation for much of the martial chaos in Europe today. The defeated nations were forced to sign treaties that deprived them of all the wealth in territory and raw materials that they had accumulated over a period of a great many years.

It is for higher minds than ours to decide whether the latter was the right or wrong thing to do. We are sure, however, that forcing the Central Powers to sign unreasonably selfish documents is a direct cause of the intense world strife in affect today.

Don't think that we are pre-dictator minded because of the preceding statements. To the contrary, we are firmly against that type of one-man rule.

We argue against those unreasonable treaties because it is our firm belief that it is through them that the disease of dictators has been spread.

The conquered nations were so alarmed at their rapid financial decline that their populace voted for any one who had an idea of relieving the depressing situation.

And, thus, my children, we have dictatorships—and war.

Last Tuesday witnessed many exciting and interesting scenes. We refer to election day. That day may have been the cause for a great deal of unrest among some people. To us, however, it afforded much joy.

That joy was ours because it reminded us that we are living in one of the few remaining countries in which the populace on the whole is allowed to vote in perfect freedom and security.

When people vote in some nations they can only cast their ballots for one man, because he is the lone personage in search of office. In some other countries a man or woman is forced to vote for the favored person by the mightiest faction or they will become victims of bloodshed or some similar corruption.

In our United States, however, we can go to the polls, pick whomever we think is the better man and tell the world about it in upright, fearless tones.

Hallowe'en (if judged by the numerous pranks that used to be played years ago, for example—stealing a gate or ringing doorbells) was pretty dull last Saturday night, but in the modern reckoning it was a pretty heavy evening as was exemplified by waxed windows and chalked autos.

Boys will be boys, but isn't there a limit to pranks? Many a shiny, new vehicle was permanently defaced and men who work hard all week long had to spend an expected restful Sunday performing the task of cleaning windows.

Use your conscience and brain next time, boys. Consider the aftermath of your deed before you play any jokes on people.

Here's wishing the Belleville High School football team luck in their game against Kearny's gridiron gladiators tomorrow afternoon. Experts predict a defeat for the Bell-boys, but with the town's cooperation in attendance and cheering we're sure of winning an important game.

Don't forget now! We'll see you at Kearny tomorrow. Here's looking forward to victory.

Woman Realtor Dies At Daughter's Home

Mrs. Anna Stroud Had Conducted Business Forty-Five Years

Mrs. Anna Stroud, widow of Charles N. Stroud, died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry F. Hagerman, 60 High street.

Her ancestors settled and named what is now Stroudsburg, Pa. Mrs. Stroud, who was in the real estate business for forty-five years, conducted an office, bringing up three children while being a real estate operator.

She lived a simple life seldom attending a moving picture show and less seldom playing cards. Mrs. Stroud was actively engaged in her business up to a week before her death, in fact a man calling at the home of Mrs. Hagerman Saturday afternoon, came to transact business with Mrs. Stroud and was shocked to hear of her demise.

A ninety-year-old woman thought so much of Mrs. Stroud that she endured the hardship of making a trip to the funeral parlor, 160 Clinton avenue, Newark.

Mrs. Stroud leaves another daughter, Mrs. George L. Haines of Hillside; a son, Charles N. of East Orange, and a sister, Mrs. William T. Mackie of East Orange. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Comfort of the Park Presbyterian Church, Newark, at the funeral parlors. Burial was made in the Evergreen Cemetery.

the following poem:
"Here I stand upon the stage
Don't I cut a figure?
If the boys don't like me now
They will when I grow bigger."

Miss Marilyn Urban, 66 Malone avenue, "took the cake," as a tap dancer, although she is only five years old. She executed a number of intricate steps that would have done justice to an older girl. Miss Carol Bremer was with Miss Urban, both of whom were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Bremer, 59 Malone avenue. Miss Carol was anxious to say goodbye before she had been properly introduced.

Wedding Anniversary

presenting a yellow chrysanthemum. Green Acres orchestra played. Four years ago over 300 attended the golden wedding anniversary of the couple. The elder Mr. Hansen is eighty years old and his wife, seventy-five.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansen came to America forty-seven years ago and settled in Carlstadt, where he established a blacksmith shop. In 1899 the Hansens moved to the Woodside section of Newark. Since then they have alternately lived in that section and Belleville. They have resided at the Overlook avenue address for the past thirteen years.

Saw Valley Floods.
Mr. and Mrs. Hansen have watched Belleville and the surrounding territory grow from a village. They lived in the Valley section for a number of years and witnessed the two floods caused by the Passaic River. On each occasion, due to their home being situated on raised land, they gave shelter to friends whose homes were inundated by the flood waters.

Mr. Hansen joined the Concordia Singing Society immediately upon his arrival in this country. He is a member of the Central Schutzen Society of Carlstadt, of which only three charter members are alive today. He was also a member of the Woodside Liederkranz Singing Society and the United Singers of Newark. The former group was forced by public sentiment to disband during the World War, the majority of the members later joining the United Singers.

All Were Loyal.
"Despite the fact that they were forced to disband, the members spent a great deal of money in purchasing Liberty Bonds and were loyal to America," recalls Mr. Hansen.

Mrs. Hansen is a member of Areme Chapter Eastern Star, Belleville, and the Ladies' Aid of the German Presbyterian Church, Forest Hill. Other than this she has no interests outside her home, in which she is as active as the day she was married.

Among the sons and daughters who were present Tuesday are Mr. and Mrs. Niels Hansen and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hansen of Nutley; Mr. and Mrs. Hansen of South Orange; Mr. and Mrs. John Rohrer, Arlington; Mr. and Mrs. Percy M. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Christian P. Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Battye and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Baker.

Paul A. Block, P. W. McCoy, chief; C. W. Broadbent, assistant—Meneeny Bell Company, Troy, New York.

The bell, which was taken from the tower March 13, 1936, was rung by hand ropes until 1908, when an electric, automatic control switch was installed, which cost about $800.

A modern air horn, which cost $942.21, has replaced the bell. The horn was assembled and installed by the signal department of the town, the efficacy of which was proven last Thursday night when an alarm box was smashed setting off a continuous alarm.

By actual count 183 blasts of the horn were recorded on the ticker tape in fire headquarters. Investigation disclosed there were still seventy pounds pressure remaining in the tank, which would have permitted more blasts.

concert, the chorus was increased to forty members, under the direction of Frank Scherer.

In February, 1936, the club was guided by the following officers: Honorary president, William J. Orchard; president, James E. Walker; vice president, High J. Callery; treasurer, Samuel H. Cocks; corresponding secretary, Charles H. Charrier; librarian, William Chapman and assistant librarian, Robert DeGroat.

In the Spring of 1937, April 21, to be exact, Arthur Jacobus was chosen director and Miss Ruth Dautel as accompanist. Mr. Jacobus will conduct the coming concert.

One Vet to Another

This time the veteran won out. An appeal Saturday to police headquarters by Mrs. Elmer B. Johnson, 16 Howard place, that she was being prevented from moving her furniture by an officer, inspired Lieutenant Kenneth Smith, a World War veteran, to prompt action when Mrs. Johnson informed him that her husband was also a veteran.

Lieutenant Smith at once held a conference with John F. Coogan Jr., tax assessor, in whose department permits for moving may be obtained.

The result was that Mrs. Johnson was allowed to move her furniture to 226 Paige avenue, Lyndhurst, without further molestation or interference.

There has been passed within the past year a resolution that makes it necessary to obtain a permit in order to move.

WITH the VETS

By GEORGE H. WESTON

Private George A. Younginger Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, met at Veterans' hall last Wednesday evening. It was decided to have a closed installation of the newly elected officers to take place on Wednesday, November 17, at Veterans' hall. Past Commander John Gannon will install the new officers. Lieutenant Arthur Larson of the Younginger Naval Patrol was promoted to captain at the last meeting of the troop. Richard Booth was reported as being well on the way to recovery. He may leave St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, the end of this week.

All veterans are urged to attend the joint veterans' memorial service at the Dutch Reformed Church, Main and Rutgers street, Sunday evening. The service will start at 7:45 P. M. and all veteran organizations will attend with post colors.

Form Park Side Club

Young men of Cedar Hill (now Belleville avenue on the hill) have organized a social club, the Park Side Social Club, formed as a purely social association, the young men being between the ages of twenty and thirty years.

The officers expect to have some members of the town commission speak at a meeting to be held in the near future.

The officers of the club are president, John Luzzi; vice president, Sal Brisk; secretary, Patsy Fratella; treasurer, Anthony Zinna, and sergeant-at-arms, Frank Carangelo.

There are now thirty-two members in the club.

Three Unknowns in Same Dance School Now Three Stars in Same Picture

Eight years ago, three aspiring young dancers took tap dancing lessons in the old Gallo Theatre in New York City at the Jack Donohue-John Boyle School of Dance, in hopes that they would have successful careers.

This year the same three met at the M-G-M studios, all stars in their own names, to work in "Broadway Melody of 1938," the lavish new musical showing at the Capitol Theatre for three days beginning Sunday. And Boyle, of their former school, was there to help them figure out new routines.

The threesome consists of Eleanor Powell, Buddy Ebsen and George Murphy.

"When Eleanor Powell first arrived at our school," says Boyle, "she was pretty well disgusted with the idea of a dancing career. She had made the rounds of all the theatrical offices on Broadway, and even though she was well versed in ballet, acrobatic and ballroom dancing, they couldn't give her a job because she was unable to tap."

"Eleanor figured that she would have to take lessons for years and years before she would be able to master tap, but she did the trick in ten lessons. But it wasn't just the ten lessons. She practiced harder and longer than any of the other pupils in the school."

Buddy Ebsen also attended the school, situated on Broadway and Eighth avenue, which later became the Casino de Paro.

"Buddy was a chorus boy in the late Ziegfeld's 'Whoopee,'" explained Boyle, "and he came to the school with his sister, Vilma. Buddy had taken dancing lessons at his father's school in Orlando, Florida, but he wanted to work out some new novelty routines as he and his sister had decided to work up a specialty act."

George Murphy, who wins the coveted position of being the first person to ever team with Eleanor Powell for a dance, which he does in the new M-G-M musical, took lessons in routines from Boyle while the others were attending school but he received his instruction at the night club where he was appearing.

Covering a stage larger than any found in New York musical theatre, production was filmed on the "Your Broadway and My Broadway" number from "Broadway Melody of 1938."

Representing a futuristic New York scene, the set is said to surpass both the "Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody" and the "Battleship" numbers seen in "The Great Ziegfeld" and "Born to Dance," in size and brilliance.

More than a dozen futuristic buildings, which can be raised story by story to a height of eighty feet or lowered in the same manner by means of hydraulic pumps; hundreds of buses, automobiles and street cars, all run by electricity; and dozens of brilliant neon signs comprise the main background of the set.

A fifty-step stairway, constructed of glass, is one of the outstanding features of the set, while a series of skyscraper curtains disclose in sections the beauty and magnitude of the backgrounds.

"Annapolis Salute."

How an Annapolis midshipman is "justly arrested and refuses to protect himself for fear of involving his girl's name, leads to dramatic complications in "Annapolis Salute," RKO Radio film in which James Ellison, Marsha Hunt, Harry Carey and Van Heflin portray the leading roles, and which forms the second feature with "Broadway Melody of 1938" at the Capitol.

Ellison is cast as a naval cadet who is torn between his love for Marsha Hunt and duty to his father, a petty officer in the navy who wants his boy to finish training instead of marrying.

When the girl gallantly sacrifices her love by dismissing Ellison, the disheartened cadet leaves the grounds of the Academy without permission and goes to her home to plead with her. During his absence another girl is injured in an automobile accident and circumstances unjustly fix the blame on Ellison, who is unable to clear his name without involving his sweetheart. How he manages to regain his standing and the respect of his classmates, please his father and become reunited with the girl, are incidents which are said to provide suspense-laden action.

Christy Cabanne directed "Annapolis Salute" and in addition to the principals, the cast includes Arthur Lake, Dick Hogan, Ann Hovey and Marilyn Vernon.

1859 Musical Romance

Hammerstein-Kern Hit

The opening of "High, Wide and Handsome" next Wednesday at the Capitol Theatre marks the latest contribution to American musical drama by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II, one of the most prolific and successful writer-composer combinations of the modern stage and screen.

The Kern-Hammerstein record is plentifully studded with hits like "Wildflower," "Rose Marie," "Sunny," "Dessert Song," "Showboat," and "New Moon," all of which ran for more than a year on Broadway. "Rose Marie," which has been a motion picture since then, ran for two years in London and set a record in Paris, with a packed run of three years.

Together they have written a splendid score and book for this film. The songs include the title song, "High, Wide and Handsome," "The Folks Who Live on the Hill," "Can I Forget You?" "Allegheny All" and "The Things I Want." Kern and Hammerstein point out that the score of "High, Wide and Handsome" is a new departure in screen melody.

Hammerstein has blended two distinct elements in his screen play for "High, Wide and Handsome." The story is concerned mainly with the romance of Irene Dunne and Randolph Scott, and is set in a colorful dramatic picture of life in the roaring days of 1859, when the first American oil boom took place. These two elements so neatly interlocked present a musical romance with a plot which is strong enough to sustain the weight of a serious historical drama. The librettist took his setting of the boom period from actual historical research.

The growth of the oil industry was not an easy one; but the infant industry was beset by many established financial powers who tried to seize it from the Pennsylvania farmers to whom it rightfully belonged. The resultant struggle forms the basis of some thrilling battles on a huge scale, presenting some of the best action scenes ever shown. The love story of a hard-boiled Pennsylvania farmer (Randolph Scott) and a gay little songstress of a carnival show (Irene Dunne) is one of the most touching ones Hammerstein has written.

Oscar Hammerstein has the reputation of being international in his appeal. For five years the Drury Lane Theatre in London played nothing but Hammerstein shows. His plays have made hits likewise in France, Germany, Austria, Hungary, South Africa and Australia. At one time there were nineteen companies producing his shows simultaneously in different parts of the world.

Some of the songs for which Hammerstein is known seem destined for generations of popularity. "Love Come Back to Me," "One Alone," "Indian Love Call," "Who," "Desert Song," "Why Was I Born," "Old Man River," "Make Believe" and "When I Grow Too Old to Dream" seem to gather popularity as they age. The latter tune is one of the biggest hits of recent years.

The cast of almost 5,000 which rings Hammerstein's newest show on the screen includes Dorothy Lamour, Raymond Walburn, Elizabeth Patterson, Charles Bickford, Ben Blue, Akim Tamiroff, William Frawley and Alan Hale, Rouben Mamoulian was the director.

Broadway Mystery. Investigating a double murder on the Great White Way, Chan goes on the gayest whirl and the strangest case of his entire career in his latest picture, "Charlie Chan On Broadway," second feature with "High, Wide and Handsome" at the Capitol, making one of the finest double bills to be seen, for those who enjoy a combination of musical drama and mystery. Warner Oland is featured in the title role.

The original character, "Charlie Chan," was created by Earl Derr Biggers.

"Stage Door" Held At Proctor's, Newark

"Stage Door," with Ginger Rogers, Katherine Hepburn and Adolphe Menjou, and "There Goes the Groom," with Ann Southern and Burgess Meredith, is held over for the second week due to capacity crowds at Proctor's, Newark.

Summing up in its strikingly realistic story the lives of all stage-struck girls everywhere, "Stage Door" brings Katherine Hepburn and Ginger Rogers together for the first time.

Vulcanized Tuxedos

Believe it or not, a service station for rubberized silk tuxedos was established for the dancing beauties in "Broadway Melody of 1938," starring Robert Taylor and Eleanor Powell. Every day during production the dancers reported to be vulcanized. Every few hours they were devulcanized, too, so that they might cool off. Expert vulcanizers from a Culver City tire shop did the work, supervised by wardrobe experts. The rubberized tuxedos were used in one of the big dancing numbers. They were transparent so buttons and clips could not be used to fasten them. Hence the tire men were called in.

Belleville Hunters in North Woods

Four Belleville Rotarians were the first white people since 1917 to reside in cabins in the North Woods of Canada, abandoned in that year by twenty-three Indian families, many of whom were wiped out by an epidemic of influenza, which swept the cold northland. Those who survived the epidemic, fled farther north to Grand Bay, the land of the Eskimo.

The Rotarians experienced this on a recent two weeks' hunting trip, which actually resulted in three and one-half days' hunting, due to the fact that most of the time was spent in traveling to Hunters' Point, 300 miles north of the United States-Canada border.

The tenderfoot hunters from home, who made the trip, which on one occasion almost resulted in their deaths, are Clifford Smith, coal dealer; Edward Yerg, printing house owner; Julius Fass, tavern owner, and George Cullen, proprietor of the IXL Photo Company.

On wind-swept Lake Cassagann, far in the wilderness, the hunters became windbound in a naptha launch which was hauling three canoes, roped together and in which were three Indian guides. The predicament of the group became so precarious that knives were brought into play to slash the ropes, setting the canoes adrift. The launch made its way to shore, sans its extra load, and guides paddled for their lives to the opposite shore, where they were marooned for over a day. The situation became acute when the canoes almost capsized, loaded as they were, with duffle, game and foodstuff.

The roughness of the trip started at Ottawa, from which point a boat was taken to Mattawa. The Canadian-Pacific landed them in Kippawa. Two more boats carried them to Hunters' Point, which received its name from the first white settler, John Hunter.

Where They Fought.

"By jimminy there are still crosses on the rocks where the Indians and Whites killed each other," says Julius. The point marks the last trading post before Grand Bay is reached.

At Hunters' Point the party took up hunting in earnest, packing equipment in canoes and the outboard motor boat. Into the woods the trip continued by water and land, twenty-two portages from lake to lake being necessary each way.

Cliff brought down a 1,200-pound moose, Ed a 450-pound black bear and George, a 150-pound deer. Julius "didn't see a gosh-darned thing to shoot," but he did some fancy fishing. He caught salmon and steel trout, having the battle of his life with a northern pike, which he says must have "weighed thirty pounds, because my line is guaranteed to bring in twenty-three pounds and that son of a gun broke the line and heaved me from a rock pile."

Julius was given $1 for catching the first fish. "That's nothing," said Cliff. "I got one buck from each of the boys for the first moose."

"It was so cold the icicles hung two inches long on my fishing line," said Julius in a serious manner. "That's no fooling, either."

Girl Scout Week To Close Tomorrow With Father-Daughter Dinner Here

Former Members of Troop 1 Held Get Together With Mrs. Betty Tempest Lowry Who Came
East in Trailer

About eighty Girl Scouts attended service Sunday evening at Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church. Rev. Edgar Compton addressed the girls on "Work of Women Pioneers in the past."

Tuesday a group of eighty-three girls were guests of Public Service in "House Practical." A special demonstration of cooking was given in the home economics kitchen. Many prizes were awarded. Leaders in charge were Mrs. F. B. Manley, Mrs. Helen McNeill, Mrs. C. L. Cox, Miss Frances Place, Mrs. Sadie Ellsworth, Mrs. Georgia Peterson, Council Members, Mrs. F. J. Ackerman, Mrs. Georgia Smith, Mrs. George Gokk, and Mrs. M. T. Holden.

Wednesday afternoon a group of twenty-five girl scouts were taken through the town hall and all departments were explained. The girls were interested in the police station, the courts and keenly watched the telephone in operation.

The girl scout week closes with the Father-Daughter dinner at the high school tomorrow evening.

Get Together.

Former members of girl scouting from Troop 1 last Thursday, gathered to meet their captain, Mrs. Betty Tempest Lowry, who drove from Cleveland, Ohio, with a trailer, bringing her family along.

In their old room in Christ Church parish house, once more, they talked over old times, told what each one was now doing and hoped to become. Those present were Alene Schenck, Ellen Lynch, Ella Von Ende, Harriet Miller, Jean McClellan, Anne Roviello, Milly Roviello, Lena Roviello, Charlotte Holden, Charlotte Voorhees, Mrs. May T. Holden, director, and Mrs. F. J. Ackerman, commissioner.

Mrs. Lowry introduced her son, Tempest, and a daughter, Susan, four months old to the group. Both showed keen pleasure at being there.

The window displays were ready on last Saturday evening, six of them, all in Washington avenue. Troop No. 12 depicted the seven days of girl scout week, starting with a tiny birthday cake on the first step and ending with a ticket for the Father-Daughter dinner. This is in a barber shop near Joramemon street. Troop 2 shows the international campfire in Kaden's drug store. Troop 6 has the "Dream Cabin of a Belleville Girl Scout," at the Capitol drug store. Troop 3 also portrayed a "Dream Cabin," set in the reservation at South Orange Mountain at Roviello's Electric Shop. Troop 9 shows the international girl scouts paying tribute to Juliette Low's birthday in Kristensen's candy store. Troop 13 demonstrates the growth of girl scout troops in twenty-five years, in the restaurant near Holmes street.

Workmen Reject CIO At Copper Mills

Vote To Have Independent
Shop Union As Agent To Bargain

Despite the fact that it is said workmen in the Belleville Copper Rolling Mill voted fifty-four to twenty for an independent shop union, CIO will ignore the vote, according to William J. Carney, New Jersey CIO regional director.

The shop voted last week, with Rev. Neils Christensen of Montgomery Presbyterian Church, as impartial observer, for an independent shop union as bargaining agent rather than CIO.

Carney, charging the management "with fostering a company union," said:

"We did not ask for the election. It was a company affair. When CIO calls for an election we go to the proper authorities, the National Labor Relations Board.

"The CIO will ignore the results of the election. I will file a complaint against the company with the NLRB, charging the management sponsored a company union. At the same time I will ask for an impartial election."
