Renewed Controversy Seen Over Sewer

Belleville Not Satisfied with Contract Drawn Up By Nutley

Belleville and Nutley are at loggerheads again over use of some of Nutley's trunk line sanitary sewers by this town.

A long drawn out controversy in this matter, which has to do with Belleville's sewage disposal in the western section of town in Passaic avenue locality, also at Hancock avenue, seemed settled a while back when Belleville decided to pay Nutley $32,500 in settlement of a $37,000 bill. Nutley wanted the full amount and Belleville held it should pay only $30,000 under a contract which expired in July, 1936.

With the settlement apparently effected, Nutley proceeded to draw up a new contract to be submitted to Belleville for ratification, which would grant this town use of the trunk lines in perpetuity. The contract was passed by Nutley Commission recently, but Belleville finds three changes in the document not in accord with consultations of both towns. When the settlement takes place Belleville will pay a nominal maintenance cost and charges as use of the lines increases.

It is apparent Belleville will toss back the contract into the laps of Nutley officials for revision according to the consultations.

The most important change affects the short section known as the Tremont place sewer, which was built to connect Belleville with the Third River trunk. As this section serves only Belleville it was agreed that Belleville should pay the full cost of its construction and in return be entitled to full capacity in the section.

Nutley asked $10,000 for this section, which was built by hand as a "labor-for-taxes" project. Belleville protested that it could have been built much cheaper. On contract and refused to pay more than $5,900.

Nutley agreed to the lower price, but at the time the contract was approved, Commissioner Rife refused to accept it unless Belleville's capacity in the small section was cut to fifty-nine per cent. In order to obtain his vote the change was made.

The other changes pointed out by Belleville officials were the inclusion of a clause whereby Belleville would have to pay interest after July 1, 1936, on the agreed price and the added stipulation that in the event Belleville needs to build a parallel sewer they must pay Nutley "a proportionate share" of the cost of the latter's easements.

It is understood that Belleville was prepared to pay Nutley the full amount of the $32,500 agreed upon immediately after the conclusion of the contract. Belleville is already connected to the Nutley sewers.

Lutherans To Hold Large Church Fair

Proceeds Will Be Used to Buy Property for Church

Bethany Lutheran Church will hold a church fair tomorrow in Masonic Temple. It is the largest ever attempted. Great preparations have been made to receive a large patronage.

For more than a year the women have met to make hand-made merchandise. All kinds of fancy work in large quantities are to be placed on sale. Home cooked foods, pies and cakes, candy and groceries will find a place on the tables. Christmas cards, too, will be offered.

In addition to the sale of merchandise, entertainment features of many kinds will be offered at low prices. The men will serve refreshments and conduct games. The young people will have a large assortment of toys on display and orders will be taken. Gustav Beck is chairman of a large committee conducting the fair.

Berry's Little Fishy from Glen Wild Lake Was Carried Off by a Big, Bad Snake

Eugene T. Berry said one day, "I'll take a day off to fish and play." So he grabbed his fishing pole and creel and, backed by the hope of a brand new deal, hied to Glenwild Lake to snare some fish for his wife to bake. Sitting on the wharf he baited his hook—and, with thoughts of the fishes, his wife would cook—cast his line and got a strike. He thought at least it must be a pike. He caught a fish and then another.

The second fish he placed beside its brother. In back of him the two

Cole Pupils Present Revue in Newark

Local Dancing Instructor Directs Minstrel for Passaic Church

Pupils of the Cole school of dancing were presented in a singing and dancing revue at the Hotel Douglas, Newark, last evening. The occasion was a victory dinner for Mayor Arthur H. Jones, Kearny. Local children who appeared are Billy Best, Beverly Miller, Barbara Friedlander, Barbara Beck, Mildred Hill, Joan and Annette Cupto, Jacqueline Vincent, Shirley Frisch.

Mr. Cole is directing a minstrel show for St. Clare's Church, Passaic, to be held on December 11 and 12. A number of the Cole students are to take part as specialists, on of which is Baby Anita Simpson, who can be heard every Sunday on Horn and Hardart kiddie program.

Legion Post To Show Pictures of Parade

Thomas W. Fleming Is in Charge of Open Meeting

Belleville Post, 105, American Legion, will meet Monday night at the Chateau, 170 Washington avenue. Past Commander Thomas W. Fleming, chairman of arrangements, will submit plans for an open meeting of the post, at which time motion pictures of the New York parade will be shown.

Plans for forming a Boy Scout troop, under the sponsorship of the post, will be discussed. Otto Breunlich, chairman of the membership drive in Belleville, attended the county membership meeting last Monday.

Fire in Auto

Fire in an automobile owned by R. A. Bennington, 68 Academy street, partially destroyed the car Sunday night before the firemen arrived to extinguish the blaze.

A short circuit in the wire leading to the distributor, caused the fire. The windshield was broken and much of the upholstery spoiled. The fire started under the dash board.

Organ Recital

An organ recital will be given by Roberta Bitgood, assisted by Bloomfield College and Seminary choir, in Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church at 8:30 this evening.

Clearing Teachers

Wayne R. Farmer, superintendent of schools, reports that approximately all the teachers who signed intention of attending the state teachers' convention in Atlantic City, recently, "did attend the meeting."

Mr. Farmer makes this statement because of a rumor about town hinting that many of the teachers "reneged" at going to the convention because of their prejudice for a certain candidate for president of the State Teachers' Association.

Chanukah Festival Plans Are Complete

Commemorates the Victory Of Jewish Armies Over Syrians

Final arrangements have been completed for the annual Chanukah Festival of the Religious school of Congregation A. A. A., 317 Washington avenue, to be given this Sunday afternoon, in the auditorium of the synagogue. This is the main event in the observance of the traditional Chanukah, the Festival of Dedication, commemorating the victory of the Jewish armies led by Judah Maccabee over the Syrian oppressors in the year 165 B. C.

The celebration this year will surpass those that were given in previous years. Every class in the school will be represented in the program. Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin, spiritual leader of the congregation, and head of the Religious School is in charge of the festival. The winners of the Chanukah Literary contest will be announced and prizes awarded.

After a program of plays, recitations, musical selections, and declamations, a special Chanukah service will be held in the synagogue, at which the last Chanukah candle will be kindled. Following the service, a buffet supper will be served in the vestry. Mesdames Clara Weinglass, Bessie Denner and Lillian Berkowitz are in charge of the supper arrangements. The evening will end with a program of talking pictures and shorts presented by Joseph Gruber.

Among the children participating in the festival are: Leonard Atkins, Irving Berkowitz, Phillip Katz, Charles Levine, Katherine Miller, Lenora Feinstein, Irwin Becker, Sidney Benjamin, Ned Becker, Naomi Feinstein, Israel Rosen, Doris Cohen, Raymond Thaler, Fred Bellet, Pearl Gottchalk, Annette Steinhauer, Bernice Spivak, Donald Rochlin, Shirley Houseman, Louis Zuckerman, Annette Green, Fred Dreskin, Sylvia Kraus, Barbara Hirsch, Harold Atkins, Elaine Weinglass, Rita Jacobson, Natalie Weinglass, Edward Denner, Alan Rosenberg, Irwin Metzger, Bryna Abrahams, Pearl Lempert, Alfred Cherin, Harriet Janovis, Richard Cherin.

Others on the same program are: Norma Feldstein, Henrietta Rader, Bernard Lindenbaum, Evelyn Denner, Stewart Paul, Sylvia Haft, Jerome Firtel, Rheva Holzman, Edgar Kogan, Sanford Pollack, Claire Stein, Sol Paul and Jerome Holzman.

The following teachers of the Sunday school staff coached the pupils in their parts: Miss Pearl Lindenbaum, Miss Doris Rosenblum, Miss Pearl Brown, Jack Levine, Leon Feldstein and George Rader.

Pike Is Opened In Its Entirety

Agitation To Hasten Work Was Started By This Paper

Belleville Pike, which has been closed for thirteen months, was opened in its entirety Wednesday to traffic. Two weeks ago it was pointed out in this newspaper that this would occur, barring any unfavorable weather.

The opening of the pike follows agitation started in the Belleville News three months ago, that extra men be placed on the job to hasten its completion, as thousands of dollars a day were being lost by motorists who were forced to reach Jersey City and business by way of lengthy detours.

It was on November 6, 1936, that the Pike was closed for an improvement which cost about $800,000.

The last work done on the highway was from Ridge road at Kearny avenue to Schuyler avenue, which construction was started September 27. This work included widening the roadway from thirty to thirty-six feet and was an after thought to the original plans.

Involved in the plans was the construction of two viaducts, each costing $600,000 and being 1,600 feet long over railroad crossings. Paving of the roadway from Newark-Harrison pike and widening from twenty-eight to forty feet to Schuyler avenue, cost approximately $100,000. The section leading into Kearny avenue also cost about $100,000.

The roadway winds out from the hill opposite Belleville, through the meadows and over Saw Mill Creek.

Held in Bail

Held under $1,000 bail for grand jury action on a breaking and entering charge, Anthony Gurnino, 110 Roosevelt street, confessed theft of 150 used tire tubes, seven auto batteries and two tires and wheels from a Nutley junk yard.

Gurnino was captured by Sergeant McCrea and Patrolman Baerst Wednesday morning, as he fled from a truck he had loaded with the loot from the premises of Harold Gorman, River road. A second man escaped. Police found other stolen articles cached in nearby woods. Gurnino, who said he had served a ten-month jail sentence four years ago for theft of beer coils, pleaded guilty before Recorder Young.

Woman's Club Social Service Department Plans Xmas Party for WPA Nursery School

Department, As Has Been Custom Last Few Years, Will Contribute Baskets To Many Needy Families

The Social Service Department of the Women's Club will hold its annual Christmas party for the WPA Nursery School, 17 Belleville avenue, on Tuesday, December 21, at 10:30 A. M. The young people will be made happier that day with a Christmas tree donated by the club. There will be gifts and entertainment. Refreshments will be served to the children.

This department, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Morris Rochlin, will continue its custom of the past few years by contributing baskets to many needy families. It is also acting as a clearing house in conjunction with various churches and organizations in the distribution of Christmas baskets. The clearing house was organized two years ago, to prevent duplication of giving and help the greatest number of families. The committee hopes there will be a better response this year than last.

Each year a large supply of cod liver oil is given to the town nurses for the under-privileged children in Belleville.

Nail Pierces Foot

While working around his new house at 164 Union avenue, last Sunday, James Dunleavy, fireman, stepped on a nail which pierced his foot.

Dr. E. J. Flynn gave Mr. Dunleavy injections to prevent lock jaw and ordered him to a two or three-day rest.

Seal Sale Reaches Quarter Way Mark

Mrs. William V. Irvine Reports $576 Has Been Collected Thus Far

The Belleville-Nutley Tuberculosis Association's 1938 Christmas Seal drive today reached the quarter-way mark. Mrs. William V. Irvine, treasurer, announced that $576 has been received from the sale of seals in Belleville and $554 in Nutley. Belleville's quota this year is $2,000 and Nutley's $1,800. The drive extends to January 1.

Miss Dorothea Hermann, 64 Tiona avenue, a member of the High School art classes, this week had her poster designated as the best of those drawn under the direction of P. Webster Diehl, art instructor, to aid in the drive. Her poster will be on display for the duration of the drive in the Free Public Library. Other posters drawn by members of the art classes are being displayed in stores throughout the town. The posters feature the first Christmas Seal, sold just three decades ago.

The sale of Christmas Seals has proved to be one of the most potent factors in the fight against tuberculosis. The first sale in America netted $300. Today the annual sales exceed $4,000,000, all of which is directed to the prevention and cure of tuberculosis, and the even more important task of disseminating information as to the origin and control of the disease.

The idea of an anti-tuberculosis stamp is believed to have originated with Einar Holbell, a Danish postal clerk, in 1901. Three years later Jacob Riis, New York newspaperman and social service worker, brought the idea to America, where it quickly caught on.

Investigate Accident

A hit-run accident, which the Nutley police are investigating, occurred Tuesday night on Union avenue near King street. Ralph Cafone of 42 Greylock avenue, had his car parked in front of 18 Union avenue while he visited friends. He heard a crash and found his car damaged.

Frank De Rosa of 106 King street, said a car left the scene and turned down King street into Wesley place, where the driver ran away.

Police found the car in Wesley place. It is owned by Charles Bergen of 80 Montclair avenue, Newark, who said it had been taken from in front of his home two hours before. He said he had not reported the car stolen, as he believed it had been taken by a friend.

The address of the Municipal Welfare Department is 250 Mill street and the phone numbers are Belleville 2-1776-7-8.

Schroeder Speaks On Port Newark

Tells Rotarians It Has Every Possibility of World's Greatest Port

Assemblyman Raymond Schroeder, first assistant corporation counsel, Newark, addressed Rotarians Wednesday at luncheon in the Forest Hill Field Club on "Development of Port Newark."

"The port is destined to become one of the largest in the world," Mr. Schroeder stated, after tracing the improvement of "marsh land," especially from 1907 on, in which year the Legislature passed an enabling act, permitting Newark to develop the land. Prior to that deeds for property in Newark included a phrase covering rights and title in certain meadow lands (meaning what is now Port Newark).

"The only thing that ever came out of Port Newark in those days were weeds which were dried and used as wrappers for bottles," the counsel stated.

In 1914 Mr. Schroeder stated an "inshore channel, 700 feet wide, 7,000 long and 31 deep, was laid out at a cost of $1,250,000.

"During the World War, the government developed 250 acres at the port, 113 of which were used as an army base. $50,000,000 was spent at the port by the Submarine Boat Company which employed 40,000 persons, day and night," he said.

Mr. Schroeder explained how the Mercator Corporation took over the port for the "magnificent sum of $1 million" in 1926 for an eleven-year period.

"In 1936, through the efforts of Assemblyman Homer Zink of Belleville, a law was passed permitting Newark to name an industrial board to take over responsibility of the port," Mr. Schroeder declared, adding that Newark now has a fifty-year lease on the land, which adjoins Newark Airport, "larger than any two airports in the United States and the largest in the world."

"This property is only two to three miles from Belleville," the counsel said. "You should pay a visit there to see the tremendous improvement, especially where streets have been constructed, and the 8,000-foot dock addition."

"Over 500 vessels have touched at Port Newark this year," he stated. "In the past Newark was not a port of destination, as it is today, and that retarded its development."

"This year the government will collect $4,000,000 in customs at Port Newark. Raw sugar, cork, wood pulp from Norway and many other commodities are shipped to Newark. For lumber, it is the largest port in the western hemisphere."

"It was only Newark's taxing policy that kept General Motors and Gordon Gin plant away from the port," Mr. Schroeder said, concluding the site is where "airways, highways, railways and waterways meet."

Contract Awarded Jannarone Company

Local Firm Low Among Twenty-four On State Job

Contracts for two projects in the bypass of Route 4 around Freehold, Monmouth County, were awarded Tuesday by Highway Commissioner E. Donald Sterner. Twenty-four contractors submitted estimates on the work.

The lowest for one-half mile of paving from Route 33, the Trenton-Asbury Park highway, to Toll Gate Corner, between Manalapan and Freehold, was by the Jannarone Contracting Company of Belleville at $140,171. This offer, which was accepted by Commissioner Sterner was $25,231 under the estimated costs.

Joint Meeting Has Been Arranged Here By All New Jersey Craftsman's Clubs

A joint meeting of all Craftsman's clubs of New Jersey is planned by State President Joseph Montgomery of Grantwood, who will preside at Elks auditorium tomorrow evening. Belleville Craftsman's club will be host.

President Charles Nutt will greet all craftsmen and Masons. State officers will attend. They will honor and present National President Victor Blanc of Philadelphia, Deputy National President William Mosely Brown of Washington, D. C.; National Secretary Arthur Eaton of Washington, and Arvid Swanson, chairman of the board of governors of the National League Foundation. Francis P. Polyphonic Clubs Hold Meeting

The Polyphonic Club held its November meeting on Monday night at the Stratton Studio, 325 Union avenue. To commemorate the opening of the Metropolitan season, which took place the same night, the subject chosen was Opera and Operatic composers.

Mrs. Amy Stratton told stories of the following operas: "Rigoletto," Verdi; Faust, Gounod, and "Le Prophete," Meyerbeer. "La Donna E Mobile" from "Rigoletto," Verdi, and "Soldier's Chorus," from "Faust," Gounod, were interpreted by Virginia Strauss. Virginia also played "The Coronation March" from "Le Prophete" by Meyerbeer.

Virginia Young, president, told the story of the opera "Aida," Verdi, and Beatrice Mullin talked on the life of Georges Bizet, who wrote "Carmen." "The Yellow River Boat Song" was played by Mary Lou Brabban and a duet in march style by Richard Peterson and Mrs. Stratton.

Kora Zadigian gave her interpretation of "The Camel Train" by Kerr, and Alma Goldschmidt and Mrs. Weiss.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

Thanksgiving day was the close of the football season and with it Belleville chalked up a fairly successful season.

This is the first year in a long, long time that evidence of school spirit has been so extremely pronounced. We firmly hope that next year will see the high school team a champion one. It is possible, and in our opinion, probable.

If Belleville rooters go to as many of the games as possible next year, and cheer, you'll be proud of your team's accomplishments and that team will most certainly appreciate your kind efforts.

EDUCATIONAL PRINCIPLES

One of the primary principles of education is cooperation between teacher and pupil. A student couldn't acquire knowledge, nor could a teacher impart it if the one or the other wasn't in the mood for it.

Our American educational standard—the best in the world—would dwindle so rapidly that within a short space of time the populace that enjoys the utmost in learning today, would become ignorant and illiterate.

If teachers and pupils will work harmoniously as they have done in the past, however, it will never happen and our educational system will never dwindle.

SCHOOL BANKING

Another few weeks will soon fly by and the long awaited Christmas holiday will be with us. The coming Yuletide season brings with it the imminent threat of being caught in a financially embarrassed situation. There is a way out of it, however.

Every student is familiar with class banking. Save your pennies, nickels, dimes and other change. Perhaps, you'll be able to save enough within a few weeks and Christmas will be a whole lot lighter and brighter for you.

DANCE, FOLKS, DANCE

Alyce Lynas, in her "Interrogator" column this week, broaches a subject of immense importance. The teaching of dancing was in effect a few years ago, but appeared to be unsuccessful because the boys had wallflower tendencies and clung to the darkest corners obtainable.

One hundred per cent of the answers were in accord with terpsichorean teaching, so don't forget!—If you do get dancing—dance. Don't violate a special favor to you by not participating in what you asked for in "The Interrogator."

Will Give Awards to U. of P. Invitation Best Ticket Seller To Play Cast Contest Centers Around the Senior Class Show, "Growing Pains"

Mr. Herbert Bitterman has announced that two prizes will be awarded to senior students who sell the most tickets to the senior play. This production, "Growing Pains," will be presented next Thursday and Friday in the school auditorium.

The Thursday performance will be given expressly for students. There will be no student tickets. Admission to Friday's performance may be had by purchasing tickets.

Tickets will be given as prizes for the best posters concerning the senior play.

A graph will be drawn in each senior home room to indicate ticket sales in that room.

Teachers Meet in Newark

Teachers of English, modern languages and other classical subjects from North Jersey schools met at the Hotel Douglas, Newark, yesterday.

Dr. Walter Kaulfers addressed the group on "A Social Approach to the Language Arts," a report on an orientation program at Menlo School in Palo Alto, Cal.

Belleville High School was represented by Miss Gregoria Condon, Mr. Herbert Bitterman, Miss Ethel Knox and Mr. Edward Gaspey.

Domestic Science

By MARY SULLIVAN

Miss Eleanor Allison's domestic science classes have just completed projects in housekeeping.

Fruit cakes and pies were baked before the Thanksgiving holiday.

Miss Allison has instructed her pupils to bring unironed pieces of material to class. Her purpose for that is to teach the students the principles of ironing.

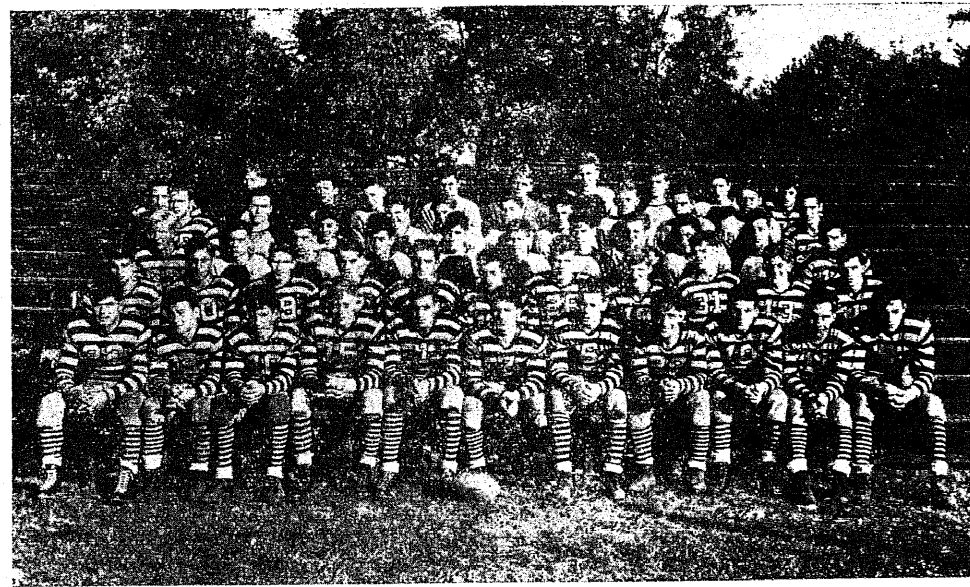

The chief project planned in domestic science classes will be the baking of Christmas cookies for the approaching yuletide season.

Book Uses

Practical demonstrations in the finding and uses of books were shown to the sophomore English classes last Monday and Tuesday.

The uses of reference books and reading lists were also shown.

Panel Discussions In Public Speaking Each Student Is Required To Give Talk on Library Subject

The public speaking classes have started work on panel discussions. Each student introduces a subject for discussion and with the aid of his classmates completes it.

Each student is required, at some time or another, to give a five-minute talk on some topic he has looked up in the library.

Mr. Leonard Kachel teaches public speaking.

The Interrogator

By ALYCE LYNAS

Question—Should the boys be taught dancing in their gym classes?

Edwin Mallinson—I believe that the boys should be taught dancing in high school, not only for school functions, but for outside affairs also. A boy who cannot dance is, in later life, practically a social outcast.

Amy Hardman—Yes, otherwise they usually never learn. It's good practice for them. The girls learn, so why shouldn't the boys? I believe one day a week should be set aside for the boys and girls to have a gym class especially for learning to dance.

Jerry Lepre—Yes, the boys of Belleville High School should learn to dance, especially the football team. They are usually the invited guests, but they come and stand around. They will need to know how to dance in their social life when they graduate. There is no time like the present.

Raymond McCann—Yes, I myself would like to learn how to dance, and think that every boy should learn how to dance. It would help the sale of tickets to most of the dances. I think boys have to learn how to dance some time and there is no time like the present.

Anna Kondreck—Yes, the boys should be taught dancing in their gym classes. Reports show that the majority of people who attend the school dances are girls and they are accompanied by other girls. When asked to buy tickets the boys say that they do not know how to dance. I believe that if the boys were taught dancing they would turn out at school dances in larger numbers and so make the profits bigger and better.

Assembly Features Glee Club-Orchestra

Principal Hugh D. Kittle Was in Charge of Gathering

Miss Alice Walters, director of the high school music department, took charge of the assembly Wednesday, November 24, at which time the glee club and orchestra were featured.

Heinz Oelschner offered a violin and a vocal solo. The orchestra played "The Three Musketeers" and the glee club sang four numbers, after which a small group of girls sang "The Rosary."

Mr. H. D. Kittle was in charge of the assembly.

Clubs

CHESS CLUB—Under Mr. Norman Cotter's management, a minor tournament has been started. Many interesting games have been played. Some of them uncovered fine chess tactics of many of the students. The tournament will continue at next meeting.

DEBATING CLUB—The debating club discussed plans of the Forensic league for the coming year.

CAMERA CLUB—A camera club was organized by Mr. Frank Spotts. It is connected largely with general science. There are about seventy members.

A great deal of work is done in the developing of films.

NATURE CLUB—Many fine animal specimens have been brought in. No definite projects have as yet been begun.

Basketball Notes

Coach A. K. MacBride expects soon to have a final squad of twenty-four players with which to represent B. H. S. This comprises only the first and second team squad.

There also will be a group of twelve boys to play on the freshman team.

Equipment has been issued to some of the aspirants for the team.

Committees Chosen

The business and advertising committees for the senior play have been chosen.

The members are as follows: Dorothy Matt, Bernice Becker, Jeanne Schweicker, Lois De Narie, Gertrude Godleski, Janet Smith, Marirose Hanlon, Edith Atkinson, Leonard Zaccane, Virginia Breunich, Leon Feldstein and Joseph Distasio.

NOTICE

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the following proposed ordinance was introduced and passed on first reading at a meeting of the Board of Commissioners of the Town of Belleville, held Tuesday evening, November 23, 1937, and further notice is hereby given that the second and third reading of said ordinance will be considered by said Board at a meeting to be held at the Town Hall, Washington Avenue and Belleville Avenue, Tuesday evening, December 14, 1937, at 8 o'clock P. M., when all objections to the passing of the same will be heard and considered.

FLORENCE R. MORLEY, Town Clerk.

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND AN ORDINANCE ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE PERTAINING TO THE SALE OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES AND REGULATION THEREOF, IN THE TOWN OF BELLEVILLE, NEW JERSEY," ADOPTED APRIL 24, 1934.

The Board of Commissioners of the Town of Belleville in the County of Essex do hereby:

Section 1. That an ordinance entitled, "AN ORDINANCE PERTAINING TO THE SALE OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES AND REGULATION THEREOF, IN THE TOWN OF BELLEVILLE, NEW JERSEY," ADOPTED APRIL 24, 1934, be amended as follows:

That "Section 6" be amended to read as follows:

Section 6. Sales of alcoholic beverages shall not be permitted by licensees here-to between the hours of 2 A. M. and 1 P. M. on Sundays, nor between the hours of 2 A. M. and 7 A. M. on Saturdays, nor between the hours of 2 A. M. and 7 A. M. on other days. All provisions devoted exclusively to the sale of alcoholic beverages shall be closed to the public during prohibited hours of sale.

Mr. Evan C. Richardson.

Mr. Richardson teaches general science and biology. He occupies room 114 in the new building.

Mr. Richardson's home is Willis, Mass. He has been teacher and athletic coach at Danilson, Conn., and at Oxford, Mass.

A great lover of outdoors and all its sports, Mr. Richardson plays golf, tennis and basketball. He likes to hike and to engage in intensive nature study.

He enjoys the radio and shows special preference to the music of Benny Goodman and his orchestra.

The commenting of Lowell Thomas and Ed Thorngren come under his list of "likes."

He is still one of the loyal adherents to the phonograph. By the use of this instrument he can hear repeatedly and, at will, his favorite recordings, especially sticking to vocals by Nelson Eddy. He favors Beethoven's symphonies.

His ideal screen productions are the "Popeye" shorts. He also enjoys the acting of Louise Rainer and Leslie Howard.

Mr. Richardson always encourages his pupils to do simple science experiments at home and to use their spare time to collect or to learn how to identify plant specimens in connection with biology. He advocates conservation as an important phase of the science class work.

Mr. Richardson likes Belleville High School and Belleville. He gives especially high praise to the members of the football squad.

Belleville High Among Thirty Schools To See Henrik Ibsen's "Ghosts" At Madison

Belleville High School is among thirty high schools in northern New Jersey who have accepted invitations to the Drew Foresters' production of Henrik Ibsen's "Ghosts," to be given this evening in the auditorium of the Madison High School.

Seven students, accompanied by H. D. Kittle, principal, will journey to Madison to see the play. Each year for the past several years the Foresters have extended similar invitations to high school students in this area. Last year they sponsored a prize essay contest in connection with their play, "The Servant in the House."

Included in the cast of "Ghosts" are Mrs. Noel E. Bensingers, as Mrs. Alving; John A. Vaughan, Oswald Alving; Norman Frederick Weiho, Pastor Manders; Mrs. James Ranck, Regina; and Wilfred Hansen, Engstrand. Professor Ralph R. Johnson, coach at Brothers College of Drew University, is in charge of the production.

U. S. History Class

Mr. Leonard Kachel's United States history classes have as their main type of study, reports on outside reading by the students.

A discussion about the American Constitution has just been completed. Current events discussions are held on an average of once a week when European and American affairs of vital interest are discussed.

Do you realize just how much your telephone saves you in steps, time and energy in everyday home and social activities?

One of a group of New Jersey women who measured* this difference—during ten days with and ten days without the telephone—found it saved her more than a mile of walking every day. About 420 miles a year!

With their telephones they saved up to 4,000 steps a day (the average was 930). They gained an average of 1 hour daily (some, more than 3 hours) for leisure and added accomplishment. All strengthened friendships in and out of town.

The more you use your telephone to go places, visit, and get things done quickly, the more you help yourself to enjoy a happier, easier, more satisfying life.

You can talk 18 miles for 15¢, 30 miles for 25¢ any time anywhere in New Jersey (station-to-station rates). Rates for calls of about 50 miles and more are reduced every night after 7 until 4 30 A.M., and all of Sunday.

*Each woman wore a pedometer, set to her step, to measure the distance walked when with and without the telephone's help. Each kept a record of all she did. Savings in energy (when using the telephone) were found by converting the steps saved into foot-pounds.

BELLOWING ABOUT BELLEVILLE

By JACOB LEVINE

Class 1938, Belleville High School

Day-by-Day Ramblings of a Bellevilleite

Monday—
 Sid (Drug Store) Kaufer is a bug for research, if I ever saw one.

I dropped in on him this morning and found him busy at work (as usual) on a concoction supposed to cure pimples and different skin eruptions. Sid is always busy on some sort of compound meant to cure this thing or that, and some day, I believe, he will startle the medical world with some new discovery, as a result of his constant "plugging away" in his little prescription room behind the store.

Only recently he set the medical world buzzing with a new theory of his. It was his contention that the teeth of one individual are entirely different from the teeth of another; therefore, just as in the case of colds, measles and other sicknesses of the body, our teeth demand separate, prescribed treatment.

Working on this supposition, Sid collaborated with Dr. Benjamin Jacobson, this town. The latter found out what ailed a particular patient's teeth and told Kaufer his discoveries. Then, the druggist devised a tooth paste, to be used only by the aforesaid patient. The results from this experiment were remarkable. His name was mentioned in "Drug Topics," a national weekly magazine. The innovation was given a detailed account in "Proof," a magazine put out by Malinecort Chemical Co., for the purpose of giving to the pharmaceutical world advancements such as this. Dean Schicks of Rutgers lauded Kaufer's experiment as "a wonderful idea."

Tuesday—
 This afternoon I dove into my overcoat and headed up Mill street in the direction of the extension of Branch Brook Park, recently beautified by the WPA.

On all sides of me, when I had crossed Union avenue and ambled up the new road, blossomed beautiful foliage. The Second River was at once an "old mill stream" as it lapped against the shore and then pushed itself along, slowly and deliberately. A few streamlined beauties glided past me on the smoothly paved road. Splendidly arched bridges spanned the river and now and then children would stop on a bridge, look meditatively over the edge, and then drop pebbles into the water below. And as I viewed this scenic spot a peculiar thought pushed itself to the fore: "WPA men do much more than just lean on their shovels. They must, because projects such as this one demand great exertion of mind and muscle. Let those who think to the contrary take a ride through this section. They will soon be convinced otherwise."

Wednesday—
 "It's Town Hall tonight!" says Fred Allen every Wednesday evening. And so it was with me tonight—but there was a difference in that it was a Belleville Town Hall night.

This evening I took in the court proceedings presided over by our honorable judge, Everett Smith. As I walked into the court the stentorian voice of Sergeant Richard Nourse rang out and a young man stepped before the judge. It developed that the defendant had been speeding on Washington avenue and was given the usual penalty, a fine of $3 and license revoked for five days.

"Next case!"

And so, in a few minutes, four or five men stepped before His Honor, pleaded guilty, and received their due rewards. However, in the course of the proceedings the clerk called an elderly man to come forward. Officer Irving Holly read the charges: Caught speeding at forty-five miles an hour on Washington avenue. Did he plead guilty or not guilty?

"Not guilty," replied the man, somewhat determinedly.

"Not guilty," repeated the judge, "what is your proof that you weren't going forty-five miles an hour."

"I know I wasn't. I've been going through Belleville for the last twenty years and haven't had any trouble at all. I couldn't have been speeding."

"Officer Holly has just said that you were speeding. Whose word shall we take? Were you looking at your speedometer?"

"No, but—"

"You weren't looking at your speedometer, then?"

"You see, I—"

"I'm sorry. You haven't any proof to the contrary. License revoked for five days; $3 fine. Next case!"

And so, since last March, Judge Smith, in his crisp, cool-as-a-cucumber way, has been putting an end to speeding in Belleville in any shape or manner. He has been laying down justice with a firm hand and rightly so.

Speeders have always hitherto evaded the law and continued their hurried ways. Now, things are different. You don't see automobiles scooting down the avenue disregarding red lights and barely missing pedestrians with the same consistency of former days. Why? Because Belleville now has a judge who considers speeding an inexcusable crime, on the same parallel with robberies and similar thefts.

Anyway, it would do other towns well to follow our example and check this wrecker of lives.

Thursday—
 This morning eleven Zebras dug their spikes into the gridiron for the last time of the current season and we were all there with our booming vocal support when the opening whistle sent the boys into action. Despite the fact that we lost our encounter with the Streaks, this team of '37 will go down in Belleville's history, if not as the best eleven, at least as the scrappiest squad to ever tread on Clearman Field. A record of four won, four lost, and one tie, is never anything to sniff at, especially when the tie happens to be with our formidable neighbor, Bloomfield.

And so another gridiron season ends—a season of unexpected victories and glorious achievements, and also, of disappointing losses. All in all, Belleville saw a team that fought its heart out in every game of the schedule—from Good Counsel to South Side—a team for which any town might be justly proud.

Friday—
 Before the roosters had yodeled their resounding cockle-doodle-dos to a sleepy Belleville community, yours truly was making his way up an almost dormant Union avenue. It was at William street when the day's novelty presented itself. And, in the person of an antiquated gentleman, whose every appearance instantly made you smile and think of purple sage and bullet-proof suits.

His get-up was hilarious. He wore a pair of boots that might have vied with Hoot Gibson in its hey-day. His pants seemed to bespeak videos and round-ups. And, dangling from his mouth, was a ludicrous corn cob pipe that danced up and down whenever he spoke and to almost scream for a bit of tobacco.

"How do you do, sir," he greeted me, flashing a set of pearly white teeth. "Sir," he said to me like you all is a man o' consequence. You see, I've come from way out in Colorado to yo' little City of Belleville and thought that...well, bein' as you 'pears to be a man o' consequences, a man o' noble bearing, and bein' as I come from such a great distance could yo' all sorta help out a 'spectable gentleman with some money fo' a cup o' coffee.

"Why, certainly," I said, thrusting my hand in my pocket.

But suddenly the Westerner's eyes seemed to twinkle. "Nevah mind, young man, I was only foolin'. Why, here in my right pocket I have enough money fo' a million cups o' coffee. Nevah mind—I was just testin' out the hospitality of yo' town o' Belleville and it's mighty, mighty fine."

And with that he bid me good day and continued lumbering his way down the street.

And it was a good thing that that he had declined the offer because, when I had thrust my hand in my pocket expecting to hear the usual jingle of coins, I didn't hear any. The fact was that I was as empty as Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard.

At any rate, the Westerner got a good impression of Belleville hospitality and that's all that counted.

P. S. Building Bright In Holiday Garb

In keeping with the holiday season Public Service has again decorated its Newark Terminal Building and other commercial office buildings in Essex County with displays brilliantly illuminated with colored lights.

The words "Season's Greetings," in script, outlined in red lights four feet high, extend across the face of the Newark Terminal Building at the third floor level. Five candles ranging from fifty feet in height down to twelve feet are situated on the left side of the center piece which is a huge garland and bell arrangement studded with lamps. The entire front of the building is framed with a gold border and there is a strip of blue lights along the second floor ledge. Four wreaths, two on either side of an illuminated star, decorate the grilled arches on the second floor.

Public Service commercial offices in Orange and Montclair are decorated with garlands and wreaths illuminated with colored lights. The windows and sales floor in both offices have also been decorated.

More than 25,000 lamps have been used this year in holiday decorations on Public Service buildings throughout the state.

Plan Testimonial for John Henry Laux

Popular Newarker Has Done Much for Essex
 Veterans

A committee of veterans is making arrangements to tender a testimonial banquet to John H. Laux, past commander of the American Legion Post 10, Newark, on Wednesday evening, February 2, at the Newark Elks' auditorium, it was announced by former Sheriff Louis E. Bachellor today.

The executive committee in charge of the affair, organized at a meeting in the Sussex armory, Newark, includes besides Captain Bachellor as general chairman, the following: Samuel Hollander, commander of American Legion Post 10, co-chairman; James Foley of the D. A. V.; treasurer; Capt. Edward A. Battle, recording secretary; Diran Kurk, publicity chairman, and W. Stanley Rees, corresponding secretary. Others on the committee are: Dr. Leonard S. Morvay, Charles L. Hoffman, John Hogan, Robert W. Graul, Harry Weisberg, Theodore Laux, Louis Freeman, Charles Rose, Michael Breitkopf and Charles Duerr.

With the view of making the testimonial a state-wide recognition of all the service that Laux has rendered the ex-servicemen's organizations and their auxiliaries, a meeting of their commanders and officers was called by Chairmen Bachellor and Hollander, for Wednesday afternoon, at the City Hall, at 4:30, when plans for the affair were furthered.

Laux, who enlisted in Company F, 312th Infantry, 78th Division, has had an unbroken and consistent record of service to the community and to the veterans at large, it was stated by Chairman Bachellor. "It was Laux who sponsored the American Legion Vigilance group to co-operate with the Newark Police Department in Crime Prevention and in the Junior Boys' Club work," he said. "To enumerate all the many constructive activities that he has sponsored would take up too much space, but among the most telling are the sponsorship of the first American Legion Board Transfusion Club; the first Sons of Legion Squadron in Newark; the first Newark Constitution Day parade; the first Newark Post 10 'Navy Night'; the formation of the Past Commanders' Club in Newark, and many others."

Mr. Laux has been employed by the Newark Evening News since 1910, beginning as an editorial messenger and now is a writer, conducting the veterans' column and other news for this paper. He is married and has two daughters.

Off the Boards

The Little Theatre Guild presentation, "Smilin' Through," was a huge success artistically and paid for itself, financially.

Miss Margaret Ackerman, who played the character of the aged Ellen, is really a pert, attractive young miss, paradoxically as it may seem.

Edward Lang, as Dr. Owen, presented a studied performance of a true elderly medico, even to the idiosyncrasies of puffing his cheeks, stroking his mustache, tinkering with his watch chain and tapping his cane.

Frank Krumenau and Henry Abramson designed and built the quaint English house that formed the background for all the scenes.

Mrs. Krumenau created the charm of an English garden through the medium of artificial flowers made by her.

Marjorie Brokaw, a former student of ballet dancing, as "Mary Clare," expressed her character with much poise and gracefulness.

The outstanding features of the play were the authentic costumes of the vintage 1860, 1912 and 1919, designed and executed by Helen Johnson of the Newark Museum.

Buses Now Operate From Overhead Wires

Driver Does Not Have to Leave Seat to Make Change Over

All-service vehicles on the Broad line of Public Service Coordinated Transport began operating from overhead wires last week on the section of the line between Glendale loop, Nutley, and the junction of Broadway and Bloomfield avenue, Newark. From that point they proceed, as heretofore, by their own engine power to Clinton avenue and Washington street where they resume operation from overhead wires to the Elmwood loop in Irvington.

Coincident with this change over there has been put into use, for the first time anywhere, a device which enables the driver of an all-service vehicle to connect the trolley poles to the overhead wires without leaving his seat. By means of this new contrivance, in the development of which Public Service Coordinated Transport engineers cooperated, and another device which pulls the poles from the wires when the driver pushes a button, the all-service vehicles can be changed automatically to and from overhead wire operation. The apparatus which puts the trolley poles back on the wires consists of two funnel-shaped aluminum nets suspended horizontally in the overhead wires.

On the Broad line these nets are located on Broadway north of Bloomfield avenue and on Clinton avenue near Washington street. As the all-service vehicles stop beneath the nets, the driver pushes a button on the panel in front of him causing an electro magnet to release the trolley poles which move upward slowly until stopped by the nets. Using engine power the driver moves the vehicle forward causing the trolley poles to slide across the nets, the tapered sides of which gradually force the poles in position to slip easily into place on the wires.

Master Masons Guests Of Areme Chapter

About 300 Attended Annual Affair in Masonic Temple

The Areme Chapter, O. E. S., No. 73, held its annual Master Masons' night, last week in the Masonic Temple. About 300 attended.

Mrs. Thomas Proven was chairman of the entertainment and program committee. The Worthy Grand Master of Belleville Lodge No. 108, F. & A. M., John Boyd, accompanied by a large delegation of members and also members of the Craftsmen Club, attended the meeting. Miss Marian Jensen, worthy matron, presided.

The principal speakers were Mrs. Emma E. Farrier of Jersey City, past grand matron and right worthy grand secretary of O. E. S., State of New Jersey. Paul Brant, well known radio and stage artist, sang several selections accompanied at the piano by Arthur Ackerman. Mrs. Bertha Porteous, worthy district deputy of 21st district, Arlington, gave a recitation, and Rev. Peter Deckenbach spoke on Thanksgiving.

Souvenirs of the evening in the form of key holders were presented to the men. Refreshments followed.

Buick Sales Soar To New High Record

Automobile Shows Are a Factor in Stimulating
 Demand

FLINT, Mich., Dec. 3.—Stimulated by automobile shows in many major cities and with the 1938 model selling program well under way, Buick sales have soared to a new all time record, it was announced today by W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager.

At the same time, output at the Buick factories in Flint and in assembly plants in Linden, N. J., and Los Angeles, was at a rate of more than 1,200 cars a day, representing an increase in original November production schedules and bringing employment and payrolls to a new high for this season. It was stated unfilled orders at the factory and in the hands of dealers were sufficient to keep the plants operating at high levels throughout the remainder of the year.

A total of 6,776 new cars were delivered at retail in the United States during the first ten days of November. Mr. Hufstader said, exceeding the best volume for this period in Buick history. It compared with 4,740 cars retailed during the first ten days of the preceding month, a gain of 2,036 units or 42.9 per cent, and with 5,048 cars in the corresponding period of November, 1936, a gain of 1,728 units or 34.2 per cent.

He added that in Wayne County (Detroit), Mich., Buick registered 348 cars during the first twelve days of the month, the third largest registration in the county and representing 11.2 per cent of total sales for this area. A similar position is being maintained in other large markets, he said.

The executive declared that emphasis is being placed by the Buick dealer organization on the resale of used cars with the result that the number of days supply on a national basis has been reduced as compared with November 1. During the first ten days of the month, a total of 8,872 used cars were retailed in the United States, bringing the total for the last thirty days to 27,408. Total used car stocks were 32,642 cars, representing a 36.9 day's supply.

Mr. Hufstader pointed out that in view of the sales vitality of the 1938 models, the dealer organization has necessarily geared to a greater used car volume. As a result, he said, management is backing dealers' efforts to accelerate the used car market so that it may parallel the heavier new car volume resulting from fall announcements and the fall automobile shows.

COPPER AND WIRE

By LISTENER

I hear, Secretary of War Woodring's recommendations that the air force of the United States of America be maintained practically on a wartime basis, appears to have been expected by some London metal brokers, as was evident by Saturday's heavy metal trading in London at higher prices. Evidently Washington's wires are also somewhat leaky. Now that the United States' armament program is being formed for another year, it appears that there might be another international scramble for metals. Europe has been persistently dumping her surplus, which was purchased at higher prices, on the theory that the United States would not increase her armaments. The twelfth annual report of the Bureau of Labor Statistics disclosing the wide range of basic pay rates throughout the country will not make favorable reading to certain labor organizations, who maintained that the standard of living was uniform throughout the nation. Incidentally, this should squash any further attempts for national wage and hour legislation on a national status. Mr. Hershey, who is the head of the Hershey Chocolate Corporation, is reported to be considerably disturbed because the natives of West Africa have stopped sending their cocoa to market in protest against current low prices. Hershey needs this African cocoa badly for blending purposes. The Social Security Board's report that about ninety-five per cent of the employers have twenty or fewer employees should certainly direct Washington's concerted action to revive the confidence of small business. Also, many trust suits will shortly be pushed over the fire. The Interstate Commerce Commission is expected to come forth and render the impending freight rate decision much sooner than expected. The grapevine also informs me it will shoot the works and grant a blanket increase between twelve and fifteen per cent. President Roosevelt's Housing Message appeared to be well received. However, uneasiness over jobs, reduced consumer purchasing power, mounting food costs, etc., must necessarily be offset by paying lower rents and not assuming charges such as accompany the building and buying of a house.

COMPULSORY INSPECTION LAW AS IT AFFECTS BELLEVILLE

By J. ALDEN De RONDE

J. ALDEN De RONDE

Let's take Belleville as an example. How many of the automobile accidents happening here are caused by mechanically defective cars?

How many result from carelessness?

Judging from reports released by our police recorder, the mishaps attributable to mechanical defects are so few that they do not warrant any mention, whereas wilderness on the part of those driving in our town comes in for considerable comment.

Belleville is an average community in this respect and the report is similar to those issued by the authorities of other New Jersey cities and towns.

The citizens of Belleville will be called upon, under the compulsory inspection law, to pay their proportionate cost of the operating expense of that law so that a negligible increase in highway safety may be attained, but will the compulsory inspection of a person's automobile prevent that person from speeding through our main streets, running past stop signs, driving on the left side of the road?

Such infractions may be noted any day by any one caring to spend a half hour cruising on Washington, Union or De Witt avenues.

And we challenge any one to prove that three wrecks out of every one hundred occurring in Belleville—an average community—is attributable to mechanical defect.

Our civic leaders have done a good job in reducing our taxes to a level below that of many towns and cities in the state, the administration of most of our local government activities has been in capable hands and our citizens, like those of many other communities, can not look with favor upon any proposals which must tend to offset these advantages by increasing our living costs while they produce no benefits.

Our local officials can solve our traffic problems with proper public support.

Belleville contributed its share to a highway fund of nine million dollars and we don't relish the idea of kicking in again until some of that fund is used for highway "safety"—in Belleville and elsewhere in the state.

102nd Cavalry Lists Six Local Youths

Six Belleville young men are members of 102nd Cavalry, better known as the Essex Troop, which meets in the Roseville avenue armory.

They are Sergeant Edgar King who is a member of the band; Charles Charrier of headquarters troop; Private Joseph Preister, machine gun troop, and from B troop, Privates Jack Donohue, Jack Anderson and Edmund Rung.

Attended Army-Navy Game

Commissioner and Mrs. Joseph King and son, Robert, 28 Malone avenue, attended the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia, Saturday. Frank Bangert, 143 Cedar Hill avenue, and John Woodcock, 238 Little street, also attended the game.

Director Gerard To Make Report To Board On Cost of Two-Way Radio Police System

Reardon Undecided On Time Of Visit Here Utilities Commission Looks Over Greylock Park- way Section

"I cannot tell you when I expect to make the trip," So stated Frank J. Reardon, Public Utilities Commissioner, as regards his proposed ride through Greylock parkway, west of Belmont street to Passaic avenue, in connection with the request of the Garden State Bus Lines to allow their route to pass along that street.

Mr. Reardon declined to accept photographs of the street at a hearing of the Public Utilities Commission Tuesday, and said he would drive over the street in his own car.

Garden State Lines, operating a bus line between Nutley and Journal Square, Jersey City, is seeking approval from the Commission of an application to use ten buses. The line would start at Watchung avenue and Broad street, Bloomsfield, proceeding to West Passaic avenue and High street, Nutley; Franklin avenue, Chestnut street, Passaic avenue to Belleville, over the much discussed road, Greylock parkway, to Linden avenue, Division avenue, Hornblower avenue, Belleville avenue, Washington avenue to the Newark line. Public Service, Coordinated Transport and the Trackless Transit are opposing the application.

Reardon's determination to investigate the parkway came after he had heard it described as "two ruts in the road," "a cow pasture" and "no man's land, wherein no vehicle or man is safe." These words were applied by witnesses for Public Service and Trackless Transit, who are opposing the line because of its proximity to their lines in Belleville and Nutley.

Even George S. Cassidy, traffic expert for the Garden State Lines, admitted it was no "pool table," but asserted "a few loads of ashes" applied in vital spots would make it entirely serviceable as a thoroughfare.

The Brookdale section of Bloomfield, where the line would start, houses 1,154 commuters and a census of the section, to ascertain riding habits of residents, showed only three unemployed persons in the district.

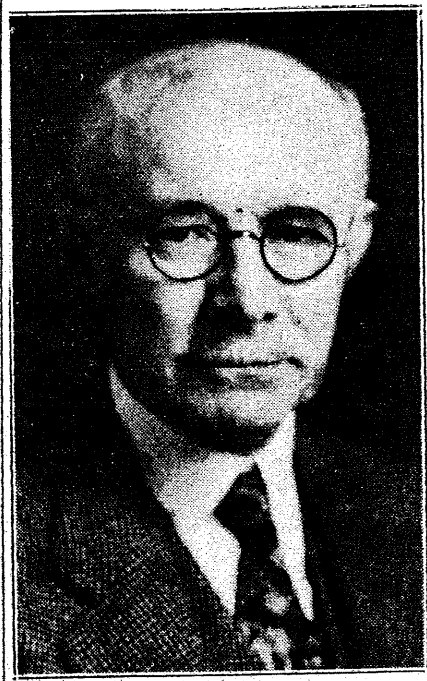

Minor restrictions against taking on passengers in districts, where the proposed new line paralleled closely Trackless Transit or Public Service bus lines, would be accepted, Mr. Cassidy said.

Mr. Cassidy said small type de luxe buses, seating twenty-one, would be used until traffic increases, when larger vehicles would be put in service. The fare from Brookdale to the Newark line would be five cents. The headway, he said, would be fifteen minutes in the morning and evening rush hours and thirty minutes at other periods.

Charles S. Straw, attorney, represented the Public Service and W. Eugene Tunton appeared for the Trackless Transit.

to this town. The next meeting of the Town Commission will be held December 14.

Interest in a police radio system for Belleville was started last week by Mayor Williams, who suggested the town accept an invitation of Safety Director Duffy of Newark to make a test in Newark's one-way system. That city will lend Belleville apparatus for the trial. The offer from Newark was accepted.

Director Gerard said he wished also to test the Bloomfield two-way system, and that police officials of that town had agreed to the test. In answer to Mayor Williams' criticism of Mr. Gerard for the latter's failure to act on suggestions that he had made from time to time, Mr. Gerard replied today that he had given no thought to a police radio system in Belleville, as there was no provision for it in the town budget.

ACTION AND INACTION—Some of the nineteen bombing planes, originally destined for the Chinese army, which were unloaded from the steamer Wichita, following President Roosevelt's ban on war materials to the Sino-Japanese war zone.

Japanese bombers loose bombs on a railway bridge of the Hongkong - Hankow railway to interrupt the transport of Chinese arms and munitions.

OUT OF DOORS VISUAL EDUCATION CLASS—Visual education for teaching simplified writing is demonstrated at an outdoor class in Pasadena, Calif., conducted by the Educational Research Association.

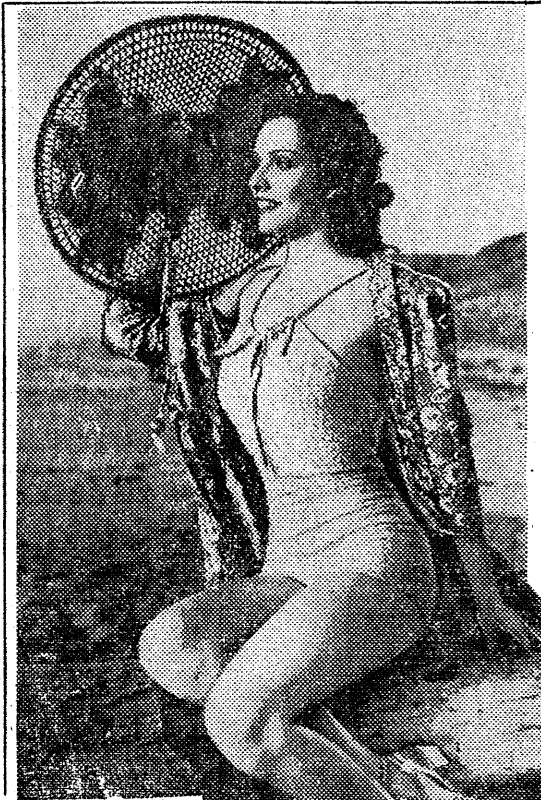

BOY PRODIGY—Alexander Hull, Jr. of Corvallis, Ore., (shown here with his father), learned to read and write the multiplication tables when he was 4, and now, barely 9 years old, he is a freshman in high school.

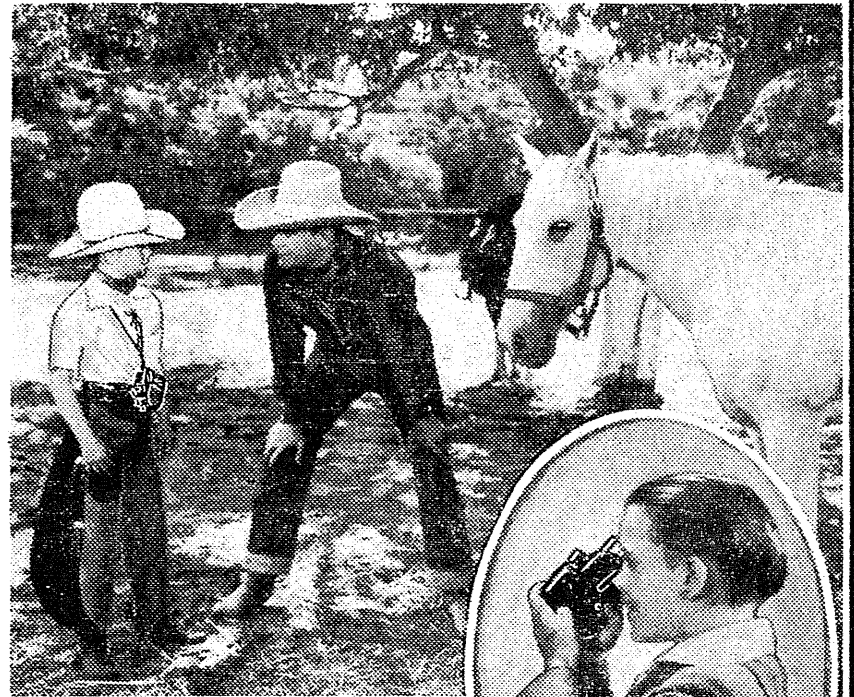

MILADY'S EVENING ATTIRE—The Opera season beholds these creations.

(1) This beautiful wrap of white Russian ermine worn over a white gown of chiffon and heavy crepe. (2) Black net, black lace and cellophane thread embroidery adorn this gown for the dance. (3) Dull white crepe gown with an all-over design of bugle beads and rhinestones. (4) Bustle type gown of black and gold silk brocade. Gold kid leaves trim the décolletage. (5) An ensemble of metal cloth and velvet. The classical gown is gold lame. The hooded coat is the color of dregs of wine with rich olive green.

FILM DISCOVERY—Margaret Tallichet, Hollywood's beautiful "Cinderella girl" who will play the part of Scarlett O'Hara's sister in "Gone With The Wind."

In the big scene, Buck Jones attempts to stop a bank robbery when Dickie Jones waiting in ambush, photographs the holdup with his UniveX Camera, thereby identifying the real robbers.

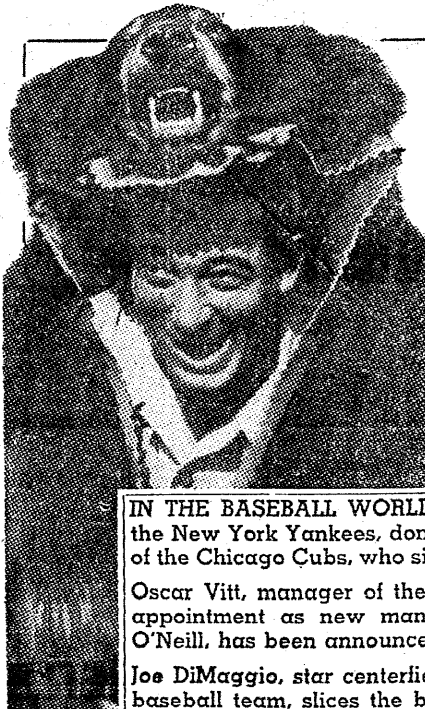

WINS NOMINATION—Tom M. Girdler, Chairman of the Republic Steel Corporation, has been nominated for TIME's selection as 1937 "Man of the Year." Girdler qualifies for this selection, the nomination states, "by reason of his stand for right over might" during the independent steel strike last summer. Failure of that strike is credited with having made possible peace negotiations between the CIO and the American Federation of Labor.

EVERYTHING BY TWOS—Los Angeles, Calif.—Louise (left) and Lois Coats, 23-year-old twin sisters, who were granted an annulment of their marriage to twins Hubert O. and Herbert M. Sharpe, recently, so that they might resume marital status with their first twin husbands, Ray Alvin and Roy Calvin Sebring.

WHEN BABY GOES TRAVELING—Whether seeing the world from an airplane, trailer, train or steamship, baby follows diet routine. Nowadays mothers can feed traveling babies the same cooked, strained, ready-to-serve fruits, vegetables, and cereals that they have at home. "Undisturbed diet routine is essential for happy babies," claims Dr. Angelo Patri, famous educator, whose articles on the care of children are broadcast on Columbia's "Heinz Magazine of the Air."

IN THE BASEBALL WORLD—Tony Lazzeri, formerly star second baseman of the New York Yankees, dons this bear skin to prove that he is really a member of the Chicago Cubs, who signed him as a player and coach.

Oscar Vitt, manager of the Newark Club of the International League, whose appointment as new manager of the Cleveland Indians, replacing Steve O'Neill, has been announced by Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Baseball Club. Joe DiMaggio, star centerfielder for the New York Yankees, world's champion baseball team, slices the bread in the kitchen of his new restaurant.

GLASS DRESSES FOR WINTER!—Luli Deste, motion picture actress, in a dress made of spun glass fabric said to be warmer than wool, since glass is a poor conductor of cold.

In the personality of every individual is a great reservoir of unused power.—Norman Vincent Peale.

ABSOLUTELY INDEPENDENT

This is an independent newspaper. Its columns are open to any one for anything of interest to the citizens of Belleville. As a paper we have taken no position with reference to politics or political parties or political office insofar as Belleville is concerned and we have no intention at the moment of taking any position with reference thereto. Though various political positions may be taken in our three featured columns: "Washington Snapshots," "Piquant Politics" and "This Week," they are, in all cases, the views of the individual writers and are not to be taken as the views of this newspaper. Through the medium of letters to the Editor, any citizen of Belleville is welcome to express his views if he cares to do so.

WALLWIN H. MASTEN, Editor.

REGRETTABLE OCCURRENCE

Belleville had taken its place in the Sun as one of the few municipalities in New Jersey that operated in a sane, sensible, dignified manner—that is, until last Tuesday's meeting of the Town Commission, when an harmonious administration received a severe set-back, because of a matter that should have been settled in conference.

There has been much talk about Belleville "keeping off the front pages" of out of town newspapers, as regards unfavorable publicity. Before the unfortunate personalities flew last Tuesday, one Newark paper had already been "tipped off" that there would be "fireworks." In glaring headlines Belleville was held up as a place which stretches open arms to hoodlums, crooks or what not—because it has no police radio system.

Well, at least, that was the impression many persons here gleaned from the premature burst of publicity. Resentment which followed was justified. There are many taxpayers in this town who abhor circus scenes such as marked the operation of the previous administration, which went by the boards in 1934. When that happy year rolled around Belleville got off to a new start. Things changed. The town was accorded the right type of publicity. And then, last Tuesday, out of a clear sky, pent up personal vituperativeness broke forth. There were personalities that, with sober reflection, should not have been made public. Back of the situation much might be said as to why it occurred, what caused the strained feeling.

However, Belleville does not want to degenerate into the cheap shoddiness of the past. Our taxpayers want harmony in the official family. Nobody wants political maneuvering for the personal glorification of any individual. What difference does it make who did what or why as long as Belleville goes places? Team work will do the trick, not concern over some individual getting or being denied credit for what is done.

Four years' good work can easily be upset by a few minutes of careless talk, which doesn't amount to a row of beans. If Belleville needs a radio hook-up for its police cars, let's get it in the right way without a lot of balderdash. Who cares which nimble mind conceived the "ticket killing" ban? Recorder Everett B. Smith is certainly doing a swell job with the assignment. After all, it is results that count and everybody in Belleville is proud of the town's recorder. When a Belleville policeman marches by he looks the part—gentleman, efficient and snappy. Any one who casts aspersions, directly or indirectly, on this fine body of men or the operation of their department, is treading on ticklish ground. As the recorder, the police are doing a great job.

It may be the weather or proximity to an election that caused the flurry. Whatever, let's forget it. What's underneath should be kept there. Shake hands. Back to work. A good job has been done up to now. Keep sober thoughts for the public—a tight lip is best where officials and personalities are concerned.

BELLS WERE TOLLING

Bells were ringing here Saturday afternoon in fire headquarters. The occasion proved to be another false alarm. Over in Bloomfield at the same time bells were tolling in a church for Fire Chief Heath, whose funeral was taking place.

And therein is contained an object lesson for the person or persons who sent in the Belleville alarm. Church bells could have been tolling here for a Belleville fireman if the situation, which caused Chief Heath to die, had applied here. He was directing the turning of a truck, which had answered a false alarm when he was struck and fatally injured by an automobile.

If this editorial reaches those who send in false alarms, please let the lesson sink in. Belleville firemen take their lives in their hands, as do other firemen, when they climb aboard the apparatus to answer any alarm.

ELKS MEMORIAL

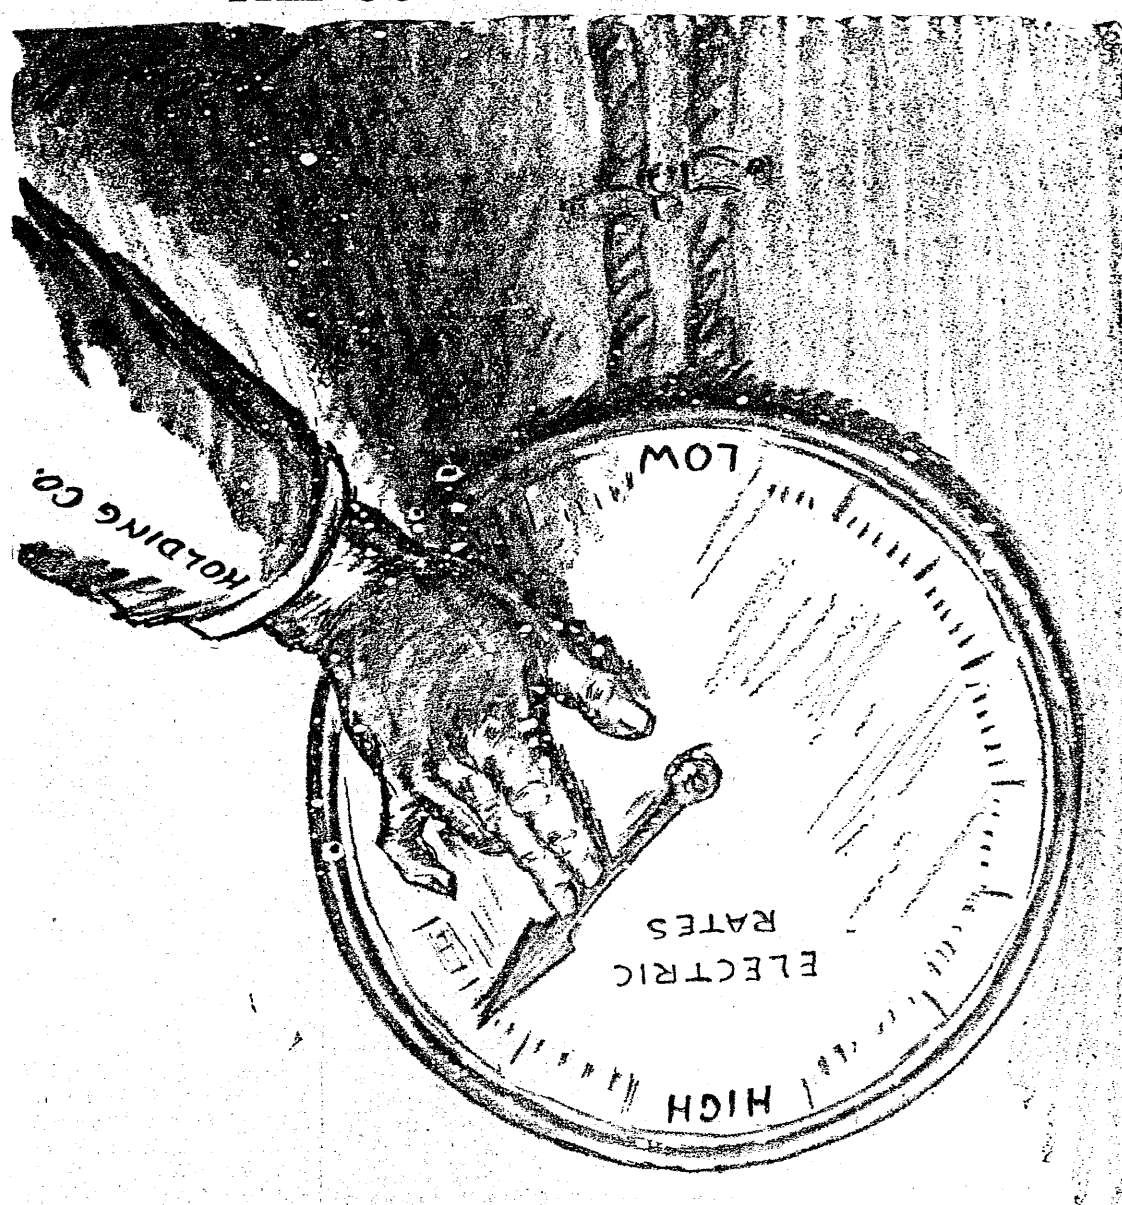

It is particularly fitting that this holiday season of kindness and good cheer be chosen for the Memorial Services of the Elks Lodges in this district, and we hope that every member and friends of the fraternal organization make a point of attending the service, which will be conducted by Belleville Lodge this Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Christmas and Thanksgiving are two days in the year, which are dedicated to the scriptural principles that "it is more blessed to give than to receive" and that "brotherly love is more to be lauded than gold." These are the ideas which have made the Elks organization what it is today, the ideas which each chapter attempts to instill into the working world of each of its members.

No one is less apt to be sentimental about life and charity than a member of the Elks, but sticky sentimentality has nothing whatever to do with the force which will bring the members together on Sunday in tribute to the memory of those with whom they have worked and played in the past and whom they will never see again.

For a brief hour it is the purpose of the lodges to dwell upon the work and the friendship of these men. "They have passed through the valley of shadows into the sunlight of eternal morning and the places that have known them shall know them no more. But upon our tablets of love and memory, their names shall endure forever."

THE CONTROLLING HAND!

THIS WEEK

By "GUARDIAN"

This week and up through Christmas we are all asked to buy those little tokens of neighborly interest, known as Tuberculosis Christmas Seals. No worthier object could demand our attention for, as a result of the funds raised throughout the country, there has been a decided reduction in deaths due to tuberculosis. But there still remains a great deal to be done.

The Tuberculosis Christmas Seal idea was organized in Denmark by a postal clerk in 1904. The idea was first brought to America in 1907, by Emily Bissell of Wilmington, Delaware, and the first sale, the funds from which were to be used for a tuberculosis pavilion for children in Delaware, netted $3,000. In 1908 the American Red Cross undertook a nationwide sale (with the American Red Cross emblem on the seal) and raised a total of $135,000. The Tuberculosis Association became general agents of the American Red Cross a few years later and assumed responsibility for the necessary organization and sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals and financial arrangements between National, State and Local Associations. In 1920, the American Red Cross withdrew from the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal activities and the National Tuberculosis Association conducted the sale alone.

As a result of the public interest aroused through the sale of these little emblems, great progress has been made in conquering this disease, which has been spoken of as the "white plague." Through intensive educational work public opinion has been aroused to the need for institutions for the care of tuberculosis and has resulted in health laws being passed and enforced to hinder the transmission of the disease. The funds have been used for free clinics, nursing service, preventoria, tuberculin tests, X-ray, rehabilitation and for other important work, such as medical and social research. Printed matter is distributed in schools, homes and factories.

From the sale of these Seals, the New Jersey State Tuberculosis League was started in 1906 and re-organized in 1913. The Essex County Tuberculosis League was started in 1929, and its share of revenue from the sale of Seals in 1936, was $44,223.

In Belleville this year the sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals is under the direction of a special committee, of which Rev. Peter R. Deckenbach is chairman, and they are seeking to raise $2,000, which will be used for local tuberculosis prevention work in Belleville. There is still much to be done, for though there has been very gratifying progress made towards conquering tuberculosis, there were 561 deaths in Essex County in the year 1936, from this disease and ten of them were in Belleville.

Only through the continuance of active, vigorous tuberculosis prevention work can further strides towards elimination of this scourge be made. So when you buy a Christmas Seal and put it on the back of a letter or on a Christmas card of greeting or on a Christmas gift, you are not only showing to your friends that you have a desire to fulfill your responsibility to aid your fellowmen, but you are making a definite contribution towards a most worthy cause.

The President is entirely right when he says, in connection with his contemplated drive for new housing to be financed by private capital to the extent of billions of dollars, that the increasingly high cost of materials and particularly of labor, caused an encouraging building boom to slow up early this year. He is right, too, in calling upon the producers of building materials and in calling upon labor to reduce their charges so that building in large volume might begin.

The situation in the building trades in Essex County has been far from a happy one. In one building operation that has been in progress in this neighborhood for a year, there have been over a dozen tieups or strikes, practically all of them jurisdictional difficulties between different trade unions. These resulted in a cessation of work not only for the unions involved, but for all other unions, just because the members of the respective unions could not settle their own differences of opinion. Mind you, in these jurisdictional strikes neither the General Contractor nor the owner has anything to do about it—the union difficulties are not with either of them. The Laborers' union thinks that some of the things that the carpenters are doing should be done by the laborers. The Carpenters' insist that some of the things the laborers are doing should be done by the carpenters, etc., etc. and so they both go on strike and refuse to work until the jurisdictional dispute has been settled.

And then throughout this section the wage rates that are being paid in the building trades are so high as to make the cost of building almost prohibitive. It's not what a man earns per hour, or per day, or per week that counts—it's what he makes in a year. Would not these artisans be very, very much better off—would they not, in the long run, earn much more money on a yearly basis, if their hourly rate of compensation was reduced to a point where people could afford to build—and build in sufficient volume so that year-round employment would be available instead of occasional peaks of employment followed by long valleys of unemployment?

It's a big problem—a very difficult one to settle. But the fact that it has been brought out into the open by the President and is now being given consideration by both capital and labor, is encouraging.

Yours 'til next week,
"GUARDIAN."

SPEAKING OF WEATHER

Busy at this time of the year are amateur weather prophets. As is usual they may be divided roughly into two schools—those predicting "a long, hard winter" and those who see nothing but one that will be "mild and open." Snow before Thanksgiving was used by both sides in support of contradictory forecasts.

We had a little flurry of snow recently, but there has been no apparent rush of skiing enthusiasts or advertisements of snow trains. And, to date, we have not seen youngsters bringing forth their skates or sleds. We haven't yet perfected official long distance weather forecasting, however, and one little flurry does not make a winter.

PIQUANT POLITICS

By MEADOR WRIGHT

WHILE it has not received much attention as yet, the proposed city charter for Newark will bear watching. As announced last week by LeRoy M. Hanlon, the new charter would provide for two key city officials, a mayor and a president of a board of directors, both elected at large. Each of six election districts would elect two directors. Mayor, president and directors would all serve for four years. Legislation for such a charter, according to the announcement, will be introduced early next year.

Since Newark's government is now so firmly in the grip of politics, it is well to consider the role politics might play under the proposed new charter. Outstanding feature of the plan is the enormous power that would be lodged in the hands of a mayor. He would appoint the executive heads of five major departments of government, the appointments to be subject to the approval of the board of directors. Likewise he would appoint, upon the recommendation of these department heads, all other employees. Non-department officials and employees would also be appointed by the mayor.

In many respects such a government would resemble that of East Orange. That it would work as well in Newark as it does with her suburban neighbor is very much to be doubted. And politics is far from absent, even in East Orange. All would depend upon who would be elected mayor and how inclined the board of directors would be to work with him. The ward system in East Orange has not produced a very high grade of councilman there. That similar districts in Newark would elect men even as good may be subject to considerable doubt. The office of mayor would be the prize political plum. Who would fill it?

This suggestion brings us to the personnel of the Fusion Committee of Newark. Martin L. Cox is listed as president. Other officers are Mr. Hanlon, Mrs. Gustave W. Gehin, Charles P. Taylor, Samuel R. Blaine and John C. Feil. Most of these were active for the Fusion Ticket in the commission election last May. But the real leaders of the Fusion Ticket, William H. Seely, Henry Young, Jr., Ernest A. Reed, Arthur T. Vanderbilt, et cetera, are not included. Will this group get behind the movement at the proper time? The implication is that they will.

The impending trials of Newark officials reported, indicated by the present grand jury, would form a perfect psychological background for a change in Newark's form of government. Clean government strategists are not likely to overlook this opportunity. Hence, Newark's affairs loom as important in the Essex political picture as they did last year.

Readers of this column can be prepared for some far-reaching plan by Mr. Seely and his associates to get control of the city government. Despite the poor showing they made last year in the number of ballots received, the Fusion Ticket actually came out of the three-cornered fight less discredited than their opponents. Rightly or wrongly, the Democratic organization was tagged with the name of Hague. The grand jury indictments will very likely ruin the organizations of the commissioners who were re-elected. The personal followings of Joseph M. Byrne and Vincent J. Murphy, however, might develop into strong Fusion opposition. It is too early to discern political alignments accurately.

Possibly that a new government with a man like Dr. Lester H. Clee at its head, however, is not too remote to be considered. Given the opportunity to vote for a mayor of the Clee type, my guess is that Newark taxpayers would very likely elect him. Gradually it is dawning on Newark citizens how corrupt and politics-ridden their government has been. If the present so-called "recession" continues until spring, Newark will be all but bankrupt. Every indication points to a major crisis next year. Such a crisis would provide a springboard for Mr. Seely to take a dive for power in the grand fashion. The Newark front is the key to the whole Essex political picture.

The ballot investigation in Hudson County continues to be the main source of political conversation there. Whether the Clee-Seely group actually has some evidence of fraud up its sleeve, or whether it is indulging in a colossal game of bluff remains to be seen. Most observers believe the latter. Evidently the alleged similarity of handwriting of many of the signatures on the poll books is to be the line of investigation pushed. My guess that paydirt will not be reached, but one can never be sure in politics.

Here and there in the county Nicholas Joya is scheduled to succeed Anthony P. Miele on the East Orange city council. Freeholder Ralph DeCamp will be re-elected director of the board and Freeholder Gray will be made chairman of the powerful Road Committee. Names mentioned for 11th District Republican Congressional nomination include Peter A. Smith, Albert L. Vreeland, Peter A. Cavicchia and several others. Re-election of Paul Williams as next year's assembly clerk appears doubtful. Col. William H. Kelly is still the best bet to succeed Moore in the United States Senate.

New Jersey Today

Town and Country

Prepared for the Belleville News by Russel Van Nest Black, Consultant-director, New Jersey State Planning Board.

In view of the great metropolitan centers in New Jersey, it is interesting to note that cities in the United States no longer maintain a birth rate sufficient to reproduce themselves and must recruit from the country. The time may come when the American city will offer prizes for large families and bonuses for the return of those who sought pleasant home surroundings outside. Of course, a better way to encourage a higher urban birth rate would be to improve urban living conditions by bringing to the city some of the spaciousness, light, air, moderate rentals and low living costs, general conveniences, and human comfort in rural areas. All technical resources to effect these desirable ends are available and wait to be applied. The city can perhaps go a long way in meeting the threat of a declining birth rate through intelligent city planning.

The city also has a vital interest in the welfare of the people in the rural areas as influenced by social and economic conditions. As put by the National Resources Committee in commenting upon the report of its Urbanism Committee, the conditions of rural life today are the preconditions of urban living tomorrow.

Low standards of rural life are of concern not merely to our agricultural regions, but to our cities as well and the nation as a whole. The shift in the nation's status from a predominantly rural to an urban people, has been so swift as to be without precedent in the history of the world. The nation's urban population has risen from only three per cent of the total in 1790, to fifty-six per cent in 1930. The family has grown smaller and the older-age group larger.

An unprecedented mobility arising from the harnessing of steam, electricity, and the internal-combustion engine is responsible for this phenomenal urban development. Swifter forms of transportation have further led to suburban migration and caused the emergence of metropolitan districts instead of individual cities as the actual areas of urban life. In 1930 almost one-half of the nation's population—that is, 54,753,000 persons or forty-five per cent of the total—resided in the ninety-six metropolitan districts with at least 100,000 inhabitants each. These ninety-six metropolitan districts contain within their large central cities 37,314,000 urbanites; while 17,000,000 of our people have become suburbanites.

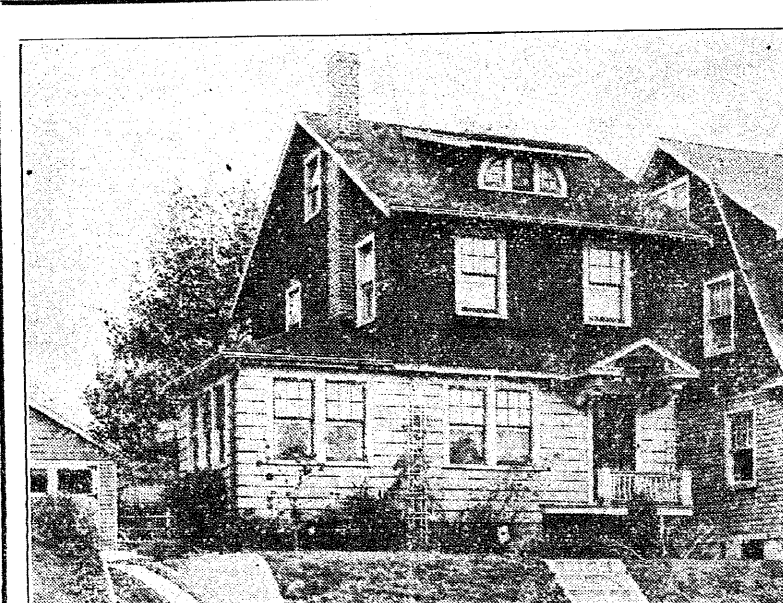

The highest rate of population growth in New Jersey from 1890 to 1930 has been for municipalities in the metropolitan areas amounting in instances to phenomenal proportions. At the same time, practically all communities have maintained a fair rate of population increase though there has been some loss of population in the least productive agricultural areas of North Jersey. Trends and present circumstances indicate that New Jersey is likely to continue to grow at a rate faster than that for most other sections of the country because of favored location and other inherent conditions and circumstances.

Catholic Juniors

The Catholic Juniors of Group No. 1 held their first meeting at the home of Marie Jones, 810 Broadway, Newark, Monday night. The entire group attended as well as the girls' counselor, Miss Mary Grimley. Many interesting plans were made for the Christmas season.

The initial discussion was basketball. The girls want to get started and are confident they will be in a position to meet some competition from any of the visiting Junior Courts.

Serrittellas on Wedding Trip

An afternoon wedding ceremony took place Sunday in Sacred Heart Church, Park avenue, Newark, uniting in marriage Miss Josephine Marie Giuliano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Giuliano, 243 Clifton avenue, Newark, and John Joseph Serrittella, son of Mrs. Vitella Serrittella, 46 Magnolia street, Silver Lake. Rev. Thomas Barrett officiated. A reception for 200 guests followed in the Robin Hood Inn, Montclair.

The bride wore a gown of ivory velvet with pearl trim with a long train and a tulle veil over a Juliet cap. Her flowers were lilies of the valley and orchids.

Miss Mary Grande, Newark, maid of honor, was attended in green moire with sequin trim and carried chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids, the Misses Ann Giuliano, sister of the bride, and Miss Vita Serrittella, of Silver Lake, niece of the groom, wore rust moire in similar style, and carried arm bouquets of chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Giuliano was attired in black velvet with gardenias. Mrs. Serrittella wore black flat crepe with lace yoke and gardenias.

Best man was Carl Juliano of Silver Lake, and ushers, Anthony J. and Michael Giuliano, brother and cousin, respectively, of the bride, Newark; George Caponegro, Newark, cousin of the groom and Anthony Ditri, Bloomfield, nephew of the groom.

After a three weeks' motor trip to Miami, Florida, the couple will reside at 46 Magnolia street.

Luncheon-Bridge at Synagogue

The Sisterhood of Congregation A. A. A. will hold a luncheon-bridge in the Synagogue Wednesday afternoon at 1 P. M. A feature will be the presentation of a series of films depicting the traditional observance of many Jewish holidays.

A very interesting afternoon has been planned. Everybody is invited to attend. The proceeds of this event will be given over to the charitable and educational functions of the Sisterhood.

Students To Be Presented in Recitals

The Eleanor Bacon-Peck studios will present two groups of students in recital at Greylock school auditorium, juniors on Tuesday evening and seniors Wednesday evening, at eight o'clock, both nights.

Pupils of the assistant teachers, Adell Peck Sutherland and Mildred Drentlau, will also appear on the first program. Those taking part Tuesday evening are William Bouvier, Barbara Mills, Paul Deckenbach, Ruth Rudge, Doris Heath, Doris Kissel, Donna Feurstein, May Milward, Volmer Hansen, Bernice Van Sickle, Patricia Plumer, Jane Littlewood, Lillian Porto, Dorothy Cataldo, and Bertha Hermann. Miss Van Sickle and Miss Hansen will play a two-piano composition besides solos.

Wednesday evening's program will be opened by Dorothy Banks, followed by Louis Kreismer and Isabelle Armstrong. Wilson Harris, baritone, a guest artist, will sing a group of Russian songs. His accompanist is Janet Stewart Millen. Robert Banta will play a group of solos, as well as two duo-piano pieces with Isabelle Armstrong. On the second half of the program Margaret Steinmetz, Donald Gauss, Elizabeth Sharp, Mildred Drentlau and Adell Sutherland will play solos. Maxine Mills, cellist, also a guest artist, and Eleanor Bacon-Peck will play the Strauss M major Sonata, op. 6. Helen McNair and Adell Sutherland will end the program with a two-piano Prelude and Fugue of Bach.

Students from the studios not appearing on these programs are preparing for recitals to be given in the spring.

The Master Class of the Eleanor Bacon-Peck studios met last night at 8 o'clock. The topic for study was "Chopin, the Man and the Composer." Several of the preludes, waltzes, nocturnes, and etudes, and a ballade from his works were played by Lucile Farishian, Elizabeth Sharp, Mildred Drentlau, Helen McNair, Adell Sutherland and Donald Gauss.

Belleville Woman's Republican Club Plans Annual Luncheon and Christmas Party

The annual luncheon and Christmas party of the Belleville Woman's Republican Club will be held at the Woman's Club House, 51 Rossmore place, Thursday at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. Emily J. Mayer, ways and means' chairman, will be in charge, with the president, Mrs. John F. O'Brien, Jr., presiding. Each member is requested to bring some article of food, canned goods, or other staple for the Christmas basket, and a gift for exchange with some one present.

Blue, Indeed

Leo Matt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matt, 17 Valley street, saved his pennies for a long time and finally accumulated enough money to purchase a blue bicycle.

Leo is very blue. Saturday, Leo parked his bicycle in front of a store at Academy and Cortland streets. Now it is gone. Some miscreant took the bicycle and failed to return it.

Case Committee Members Are Attending New Jersey Conference of Social Work

Plans Discussed for Christmas Giving by Group from Community Service Bureau Meeting at Home Of Mrs. Herbert Vail

The Case Committee of the Community Service Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Herbert Vail Friday to discuss plans for attending the New Jersey Conference of Social Work which is now being held at Asbury Park. The conference concludes tomorrow. Those who are attending are Mrs. Morris Rochlin, Mrs. Lester McCorkle, Mrs. Elmer Peterson and Miss Estelle Powers.

The committee discussed plans for Christmas clearing. Last year this service was offered by the Social Service Department of the Woman's Club and Mrs. Rochlin, chairman of that committee, reported that they are planning to continue this year.

Last December letters were sent out to seventy-five organizations known to give at Christmas time. There was less than twenty per cent response to these letters. Organizations seemed to feel that families known to them would not be known to anybody else, it was pointed out. The fallacy of this was illustrated by an old Community Service Bureau record, in which a woman reported she had received baskets from three different sources and toys from another. It was shown how money can be spread much further when agencies and organizations are sure there is no duplication. The committee hopes that the response in Christmas clearings will be much greater this season.

Mrs. Rochlin presented to the committee the Nine Golden Rules for Christmas Giving, published by the Family Welfare Association of America, as follows:

- (1) That a family which cannot provide its own Christmas has showed an inability to perform one of the normal functions of family life and therefore has revealed an important problem of adjustment.
- (2) That it is the duty of social workers to see that when Christmas is provided by outside sources for families where need exists, it is provided in as normal a manner as possible.
- (3) That the parents should have the natural function of selecting the gifts and planning for the home.
- (4) That it is important to help the parents play the role of Santa Claus. As a rule gifts for children should be given through the parents. This gives the mother and father the pleasure, which mothers and fathers in other families have, of providing the Christmas joy. Children should receive their gifts from the parents and not from strangers, thus tying tighter the family bonds. The mother and father also should be encouraged to plan with the children for gifts, however inexpensive, that they may give to each other and to their parents.
- (5) That this may often be achieved by substituting money and credit for the giving of specific articles or Christmas baskets.
- (6) That it is good training for the mother to shop around for the various gifts. This shopping is a natural and thrilling experience, much more so than if the gifts had been provided without any effort on the part of the members of the family.
- (7) That Christmas is no time to make temporary acquaintances by means of Christmas gifts; and that, therefore, no name or addresses should be given to prospective donors. (In the case of those who wish to give personal service, and act as friendly visitors, the introduction to the family should be accomplished far enough in advance of Christmas so that the above principles would still hold good.)
- (8) That we realize that there may be opposition to these plans on the part of the recipients, but that this attitude reflects a breakdown of the family morale for which we are partially responsible.
- (9) That the receiving of Christmas gifts has become habitual on the part of these families and has not been recognized by them as one type of dependency. In other words, they may have become so inured to the situation that they do not realize its effect upon themselves. This condition is not a healthy one and it can be removed only by controlling and redirecting Christmas giving.
- (10) That public campaigning for funds for Christmas giving should not be carried on, as such appeals may intensify the problem by creating an undue interest in this particular type of benevolence.

other hand, we shall be able fully to utilize the spontaneous Christmas spirit of kindness in the manner outlined above.

A great deal of discussion on these points followed and the Case Committee went on record unanimously as sponsoring gifts of money rather than baskets to families, thus enabling them to plan their own Christmas.

Mrs. Reiner, executive secretary, read a letter from a man who had been given a check last Christmas. It was the first cash he had had in a year. Other examples were cited showing how families had enjoyed their own holidays with funds given them.

Mrs. Reiner reported that the Community Service Bureau had no special funds for Christmas giving, but that a number of organizations and individuals send special contributions to the bureau at Christmas time for this particular purpose.

Bridal Plans

Miss Laura Resciniti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Resciniti, has chosen January 16 for her marriage to Nicholas R. Alessandro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Alessandro, the Bronx.

The ceremony will be performed at 4:30 o'clock in St. Peter's Church.

Miss Mary LiPari, Passaic, will be maid-of-honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Marie Alessandro, sister of the bridegroom-elect, Miss Nancy Camoroto, Newark and Miss Theresa Alexander, Bloomfield.

Anthony Alessandro, brother of the groom-elect will be best man. Michael Alessandro, another brother, Emilio Resciniti of Newark, cousin of the bride-elect, and her brother, Americo Resciniti, will be ushers.

Miss Resciniti is a graduate of Belleville High School. Mr. Alessandro was graduated from Fordham University School of Law.

Miss Marion Kraemer Engaged

Miss Marion Kraemer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kraemer of Minker place, announced the engagement of their daughter, Marion, and Chester H. Smith of Newark, on Thanksgiving Day. Miss Kraemer attended Barringer High School.

Tree Planting

Through the suggestion of Commissioner Joseph King and Edward Evers, president of the Shade Tree Commission, town forester William Fabian, has growing in the town property in Tappan avenue, 110 trees.

Among the trees are such varieties as maples, sycamores, oak, black oak and even sassafras. The cost of planting these trees, including WPA labor, was $101, while the cost to the town for such trees, if bought on the outside, would be $385, thereby effecting a saving of $284.

The size of the plot is 40 x 120 and the men responsible for the planting of the trees besides Mr. Fabian are Charles Freets and the WPA workers, Ralph Marcia and Patsy Spero.

Injured by Auto

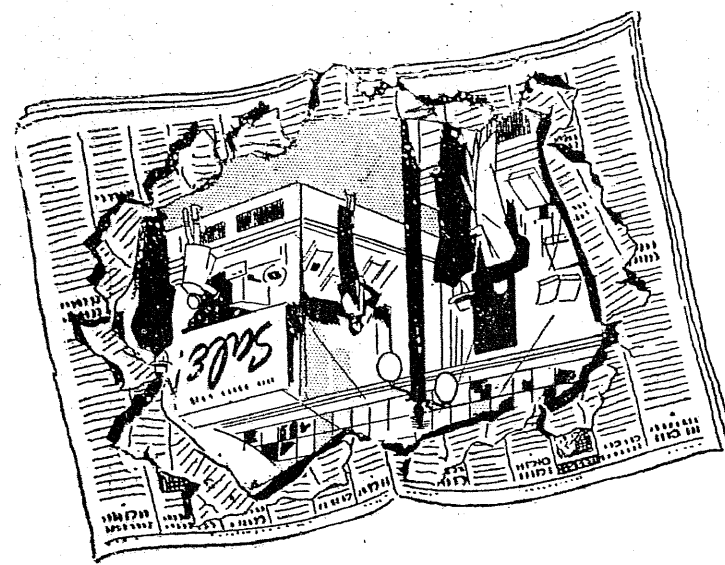

Daisy Hansen, 40, of 230 New street, was taken to St. Michael's Hospital Tuesday night after being struck in front of 175 Grafton avenue, by a car driven by Ralph Uguro, 61 Belmont avenue. Physicians said she received a possible fracture of the nose and leg and arm bruises.

The Right Church, But—

A young Nutley couple took the family car Tuesday night and drove to Newark, where they stopped at a Broadway tavern. The car was black in color. When they came out of the place they climbed into a car, found the keys in it, drove home and put the car in the garage.

Wednesday morning it was discovered they had a red colored car which had been reported stolen by Alphonse Caputo, 23 Clinton street, Belleville, at 4 A. M. Caputo went to Nutley and got his car and the entire party went to the tavern, where they found the black car still parked.

ROBITUARY

Mrs. Anna Lee McCue

A Requiem Mass was offered Monday for Mrs. Anna Lee McCue, 373 De Graw street, Brooklyn, formerly of this town, in St. Agnes Church, Brooklyn. Mrs. McCue died last Thursday, following an operation in a Brooklyn hospital. Burial was made in that city.

Besides her husband, Mrs. McCue leaves four daughters, ranging in age from two to eight years, three brothers, Frank Lee, this town; Joseph, Rahway; Arthur, Millburn; a stepmother, Mrs. Josephine Lee, and three sisters, Rose, Belleville; Margaret, Nutley, and Agnes of Newark. Another brother, Robert, died last spring.

Mrs. McCue lived twenty-six years in Belleville and was graduated from the commercial school of St. Peter's Catholic Church.

Mrs. Ralph G. Smith

Mrs. Carolyn Y. Smith, 46, wife of Ralph G. Smith of 100 Rossmore place, died Sunday after a long illness. Mrs. Smith was born in Farandville, Pa. She had lived seven years in Belleville and prior to that in Lyndhurst, East Orange and Newark.

Mrs. Smith also leaves four daughters, Adelina, Dorothy, Isabel and Carolyn; her mother, Mrs. W. T. Young of Lock Haven, Pa., and a sister, Mrs. W. S. Boyer of Lock Haven.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the home. Rev. Edgar Compton, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, of which Mrs. Smith was a member, officiated. Burial was Wednesday at Lock Haven.

The Square clubs of Pennsylvania are similar to the Craftsmen clubs of New Jersey.

Why doesn't Belleville Recreational Board change its annual budget so that a larger amount of money than is allotted it could be actually used in the furthering of activities among the children of the town?

As it now stands, salaries for employees takes up a great percentage of the Recreational Board's budget. With more money for actual activity a great many young people could obtain the proper environment necessary to promote an honest, open life.

We don't approve of discharging any recreational employees, if their jobs are of use. A more plausible solution for getting a greater amount of money for actual competition, might, perhaps, be found in the granting of a larger stipend to the Belleville Recreational Board.

How much longer can the turmoil and suffering endured through the course of the Sino-Japanese conflict last? Human beings are being killed in numbers proportionate to the fly mortalities at the end of the summer, and those who survive the slaughter are left to the unkind moments of hunger, disease and torturous hours of waiting, praying or

Library News

Thanksgiving was the theme for last week's display in the juvenile room, with decorative crepe paper, sheaves of natural wheat, and pictures of the Mayflower and the Pilgrims, making the exhibit very attractive to grownups and youngsters. Books in the group included the works of well known writers in celebration of Thanksgiving day.

Most popular among the new books in the adult department this week are:

Citadel—Cronin.
Conversation at Midnight—Millay.
How to Win Friends and Influence People—Carnegie.
Northwest Passage—Roberts.
Orchids on Your Budget—Hillis.
Victoria Four—thirty—Roberts.

In the SPOTLIGHT

Leon Feldstein.

Senior, Belleville High School.

Due to unfortunate circumstances we were absent last week, but you have our promise that it never again will happen. With that oath we are here again, in the Spotlight.

Christmas' rapid approach became clearly evident Monday, when we heard a couple of youngsters arguing as to the existence or non-existence of that legendary old fellow, Santa Claus.

The conversation became more and more heated with every word that was spoken until, in time, it turned into a debate.

The argument went something like this: "G'wan there ain't no Sandy Claws. It's only yer father who puts whiskers on himself and goes around putting stuff in yer stockings and presents under the Christmas tree."

"Only babies believe in that guy, but people with brains know that there's nobody like him."

But his audience of one remained firmly unconvinced and answered back in these self reliant words that clearly denoted utter disgust in such an uncouth and faithless individual: "Yah! there is so a Santa Claus. The whole trouble with you is you're dumb. If babies know there's one and you don't then you ain't even got as much brains as a baby. I say that everybody who's got sense believes in Santa Claus. Why he's coming down here in his airplane. You'll see him coming down from the North Pole with his reindeer and all, the night after tomorrow."

And, sure enough, that prophecy was fulfilled a couple of nights later, when Santa, attired in full holiday regalia and drawn by his usual cortege of reindeer, flew across the sky to the amazement of parents and to the utter delight of the kiddies.

If anyone's interested, may we now make it known that our belief is firmly towards the jolly jowled gent's existence, and—ahem—if we—get any gifts, we—er—will surely be thankful to dear old Santa. As Ben Bernie would put it, "Yowsah."

Within a short space of time, the compulsory auto inspection law will go into effect. Automobile mechanics and supply stores will find a busy season in store for them, because calls will rapidly be sent for adjustments, repairs, new brakes, new horns, new lights and a thousand and one other items or more.

Many men, now unemployed, will find themselves fortunate possessors of a job in the capacity of vehicular inspectors or some other type of employment connected with the inspection law.

All in all, the wheels of prosperity will be speeded up, but will the primary reason for the inspection be accomplished? Will a halt be called to the reckless so greatly existent upon the roads?

Our opinion is given in a monosyllabic word, definite in every sense. No. Give a reckless driver any car, with brakes or without, with all improvements or just a common, ordinary "Flivver," he'll still get into the same amount of accidents no matter the condition of his vehicle.

We had a few spare idle hours to spend last week, so we stepped into a nearby movie house and saw a picture that we think offers an ideal solution to check the disastrous direction in which the world seems to be headed this present day.

That picture is "Lost Horizon."

A world where everything was always serene was the story's central locale. It was a land where men were always brothers and money was worthless for anything except, perhaps, ornamentation.

Life was prolonged a great many years more than that which measures our span. Health was the only bodily condition that existed. Sickness was unknown.

There was no political strife for the simple reason that there were no politicians. There was no war because of the brotherly attitude between men.

'Twas only a legendary story, but we surely would enjoy life in such a place if it existed. Imagine living a couple of centuries or longer in an environment of stark serenity. Worry is void, due to uselessness of money and joy is a common condition.

Members of Grace Baptist Church will hold a reception in honor of their newly engaged pastor, Rev. Walter Lake, and Mrs. Lake at 8 o'clock this evening. Drs. Charles E. Goodall and William Booth of the Baptist Convention, Newark, will give short addresses.

A musical program has been arranged by Miss Elsie Dross, organist, and Mrs. H. C. Winkelman, chairman of the music committee, as follows: "The Old Refrain," choir, by Fritz Kreisler; piano solos, Halley Hickok and Mrs. Edwin Chesley; vocal solo, Mrs. Charles Buckley; vocal duet, Mrs. Gustav Klauing and Mrs. Buckley and a vocal solo, Mrs. Winkelman.

An invitation has been extended to the Belleville ministers and their wives to attend. Mrs. George Weirich is chairman of arrangements, assisted by Miss Dross, who is church clerk.

Rev. Lake, who was former pastor of the George's Road Baptist Church of Maple Mead, near New Brunswick, moved into the parsonage at 171 Overlook avenue, Tuesday.

The house was recently renovated by the young men of the "congregation of the church. They did all the papering, painting and shellacking.

Rev. Lake will preach his first sermon here on Sunday. All members and friends of the church are cordially invited to attend.

During his last sermon as pastor of the Grace Baptist Church, Rev. Samuel Millar, 124 Forest street, expressed his regret Sunday, for having to leave the pastorate. He agreed that the change to a new minister was the best, as the new pastor, Rev. Lake, was a much younger man and full of the spirit and enthusiasm of youth.

Rev. Millar has been substituting as pastor of the church for the past few months due to the resignation of Rev. Frederick Poshay.

In his sermon, Rev. Millar addressed the junior members of the church and counseled them "to watch their words, actions, thoughts, companions and habits."

As part of the regular sermon he read the following quotation from the Scripture: "...And they came to Jericho... and as He went out of Jericho with his disciples, a great number of people followed and among them Bartimaeus, the blind son of Timeaeus, who sat by the highway side begging and when he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth he began to cry out, and say, 'Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy on me.'"

"And many charged him that he should hold his peace, but he cried the more a great deal, 'Thou son of David have mercy on me.'"

"And Jesus stood still and commanded him to be called. And they called the blind man, saying unto him, 'Be of good comfort, rise, He calleth thee.' And he, casting away his garments, rose and came to Jesus."

"And Jesus answered and said unto him, 'What wilt thou that I should do unto thee?' The blind man said unto Him, 'Lord, that I might receive my sight.'"

"And Jesus said unto him, 'Go thy way, thy faith has made thee whole.' And immediately he received his sight and followed in the way."

Rev. Millar used this reading to emphasize his theme, "Jesus loves everyone, rich and poor alike—all mankind receives his blessing."

Novena Being Held

At St. Peter's Church

Services Are Being Conducted by Father Young

Of Boston

The Novena to Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal, which is being held in St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church this week, will end Tuesday night, next week.

Father Young of Boston, who spent four years in Panama, Canal Zone, and who is a member of the Vincentian Order, is conducting the services.

Overflow crowds have been attending each service this week and each supplicant receives the Medal of the Immaculate Conception called the Miraculous Medal. The vision of Our Lady was revealed to the humble daughter of St. Vincent de Paul, Blessed Catherine Labouré, her figure appearing on each medal.

South End Meeting

The South End Improvement Association will hold a meeting and card party at headquarters, 248 Mill street, Tuesday evening.

hoping.

Japan, in all probability, hopes to gain territory. But what good is newly acquired land if there is no one left to till and plow its war-torn soil or dig in its ore-laden mines?

This is just one of many examples of the foolishness and uselessness of warfare. True the winning side will receive some reward for its struggles, but it is worth the destruction of thousands of human lives for land or gold?

Riches can always be acquired, if desired. But did any one ever hear of life being restored to a deceased person except, perhaps, in a myth.

Theater Guild Fortunate in Having Director As Experienced As Mrs. Richard A. Newman

Local Woman Had Charge of Danbury State Teachers' College Assembly and Acted As Teaching Principal at Stratford

Mrs. Richard A. Newman, 85 Malone avenue, coach of the Little Theatre Guild presentation, "Smilin' Through," has had much experience as director of Christ Episcopal Church productions, as chairman of the assembly in Danbury State Teachers' College, P. T. A. programs and as teaching principal, at Stratford, Conn.

She coached the Christmas story, "The Bird's Christmas Carol," with children and adults at Christ Episcopal Church and also coached "The Cajun," the Little Theatre Guild effort.

Mrs. Newman has spent much of her time in nature study, both in college and as a teacher of that subject at Stratford. In regard to this subject she said, "One of the most interesting and unusual problems of supervision of nature study was in the field of mentally deficient (in which she was in charge). It was necessary to overcome their instinct for torturing and killing."

"This was done by giving them emotional experiences such as hand feeding of catbirds at Bird Sanctuary in Fairfield, Conn., and developing a respect for natural specimens, such as poisonous snakes. They would think of mean things to do such as hanging snakes in bottles from trees."

"They had many varied experiences in field study, they could describe fish, seashore objects, birds and animals. My class was very eager to narrate their experiences."

"Children naturally want to catch a bird and tame it. What a grand feeling it was to watch the changing expressions in their faces as they held out their handfuls of raisins for wild birds."

"One group was especially good at collecting caterpillars or moths and butterflies. Sometimes the caterpillars escaped from the insect cages and spun a cocoon or chrysalis under seats and desks of the children. It was amazing how careful they were not to disturb them so they would emerge in spring."

Mrs. Newman has studied nature subjects under many professors of that subject. Among them are Dr. Albert H. Wright, Cornell; Dr. Clyde Fisher, Hayden Planetarium in New York City; Dr. Arthur Allen, director of the magazine "Bird Lore," and Dr. Russell F. Lund, Yale, educational advisor of the Department of Forestry of Connecticut.

She graduated from Fairfield High School, when only fifteen years old and from a three-year course in college when eighteen. Her meeting and subsequent marriage to Mr. Newman followed a summer romance, the latter taking place July, 1933.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Newman was Miss Elsie Margaret Brown, of Fairfield, Conn.

Special Meeting Held

By Progressive Judeans

The Progressive Judeans of Belleville held a special meeting Monday evening in the synagogue of Congregation A. A. A.

Miss Jean Gasminsky, vice president of the organization, took charge of the assemblage.

Plans for a party were introduced but were postponed until a future date when the affair should have more chance for success.

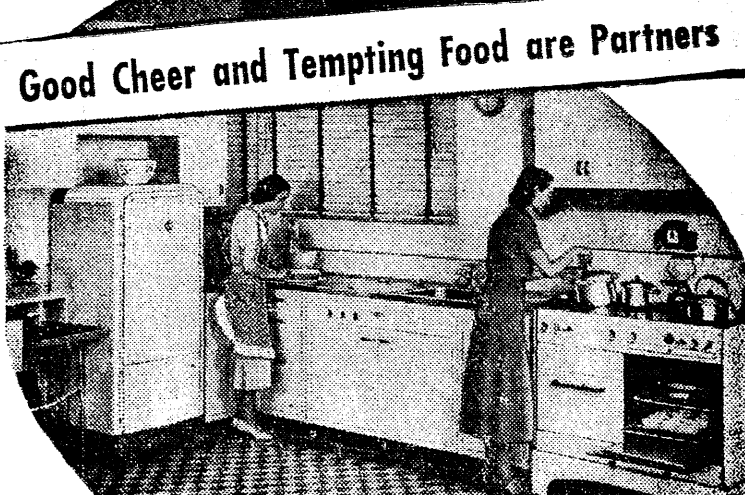

Members will meet at the railroad bridge in North Newark at 6 o'clock Sunday, to go as a group, to a Chanukah party sponsored by an affiliate organization in Glen Ridge.

Two new members, Abraham Haber and Jerry Markowitz, were voted into the club.

The next regular meeting of the Young Judeans will be held Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock.

While the Turkey Was Cooking—

By JACOB LEVINE, B. H. S.

Twenty-two pigskin specialists were grappling in a muddy Clearman field last Thursday morning before a capacity crowd of frenzied spectators, clamoring for touchdowns. There were Zebras, Streaks, and our fair-feathered friend home in the oven.

As soon as the initial whistle was blown, there was a question in everyone's mind, not as to which was the better football aggregation, but which was the better mud-pie maker. As the game progressed, South Side did the making; Belleville the eating.

Jack Daly, captain of Manhattan, and Frank Stellatella, regular, of the undefeated Lafayette eleven, both former Belleville High players, took in the game from the sidelines. Both, incidentally (and while carving is in season) are carving sizeable portions of football fame at their respective colleges.

Snug in a big overcoat was a more recent alumnus of Belleville High, in the person of Horace "Bus" Gausphol, who did yeoman work the past season at the end-post of a sterling Georgetown freshman eleven.

"Bus" had rosy hopes for next year's edition of the Hoyas, and one of the rosiest of his anticipations was a trip to the Rose Bowl. Here's hoping, Buster!

Joe Sadofsky proved himself to be a constant thorn-in-the-side to Belleville all morning long, but his last quarter snatch of Marvin Geller's pass put the damper on everything—including our appetites.

For some reason or other Vic Tesone, Belleville guard, seemed to be playing a rip snorting, do-or-die game against the Newarkers. On one occasion a South Sider was about to run back a kick when the referee blew his whistle. Vic, however, having no faith in whistles, tackled the player, just as a preventive measure. It brought a loud guffaw from the crowd.

The first three quarters of the game was like a typical session in the Senate. A lot of hickering back and forth, but no real action.

A "wise-guy" South Side fan summed up the causes for Belleville's downfall, after its meteoric start at the beginning of the season, not in detailed gridiron terminology, but in a brief, ironical statement. He praised our cocky, little eleven, but attributed its downfall to one particular Belleville cheer, which goes something like this: Fight—fight—fight—fight... He claimed Bloomfield took the first fight out of us, Bayonne, the second; West Side, the third, and Irvington, the last.

I had a notion to hang him up on the goal post, but all I could say was "Nuts!"

Ed Slavin gave us a noble exhibition of ball totting throughout the morning—but after all, a fellow's got to have a leg to stand on.

Izzy Malekoff, South Side's co-captain and fullback, had a different formula for football victories. Between halves every player on the varsity kissed a small Hebrew scroll, known as a Mezuzah, which Izzy wore under his uniform. It seemed to turn the trick alright.

What, with Jerry Lepre, Bellboy center and a South Sider, both wearing masks, and the field in no shape for a football game, it would have been no unusual sight to see both elevens forget their original purpose for meeting and engage in a good old fashioned game of cops and robbers.

After the game each team went into a huddle and let out a cheer for their opponents. Which was a fine, sportsmanlike way to end a cleanly played game.

Tornadoes Schedule Most Important Game

White Plains Bears Will Appear Sunday at City Stadium

The Newark Tornadoes have their most important game of the season scheduled for this Sunday afternoon at the Newark schools stadium. They will play the White Plains Bears for the American Association Championship and the right to meet the winners of the Dixie Pro Football League on New Year's Day in the Legion Bowl at Richmond, Va.

With so much at stake the game is bound to be one of the best league frays of the season. The Tornadoes have just finished the season with the best record in the history of the squad, losing only one game in twelve starts.

They scored more points than any other team in the loop to finish on top in the Southern Division. A loss in this game would mean that all their efforts in previous games were wasted. In order to have the team in top form for the championship tilt, Coach Mike Stramiello is holding practice sessions every night this week.

With the records of the past season available it is easy to see why the Newark team won so often. George Choborda is the leading scorer in the league; Rudy Choborda gained more ground than any other man in the circuit; Ed Smith was tops in both passing and kicking and Joe Demyanovich is second in field goals by one to Harry Deming.

The Bears also are coming with a fine record. They won the last four games they played and are also practicing every night this week. Ozzie Simmons and Joe Mandell finished second and third respectively for ground gained and Tony Forfalla is rated as one of the leagues best pass receivers.

Newark will most probably start Leo Paguin and Peeches Heenan in the wing positions; Ray Illovit and Ed Marinowski, tackles; Burst Ventola and Obie Tad, guards, and Ray Otowski, center. The backfield will consist of Joe Demyanovich, quarterback; Rudy Choborda, left half; George Burgwin, right half and Ed Smith, fullback.

Priests for the game will be at the same popular scale. Tickets are at sale at the stadium box office.

Soccer Flash

To any players or persons interested in forming an amateur soccer team to represent Belleville in the Inter-city Soccer League, playing Saturday afternoons, this is addressed.

This is one of the finest and healthiest outdoor sports and any young man interested would find it to his advantage to notify at once, Tom G. Lynas, Jr., 36 Oak street, or telephone Belleville 2-4339J, or James C. Fraser, 261 De Witt avenue.

This is the only major sport not represented officially in Belleville.

Nutley Dukes Defeat Tigers by 6-0 Score

Annual Turkey Day Game Was Played at Park Oval

The Nutley Dukes triumphed Thanksgiving day over the Nutley Tigers, 6-0, in a football game to decide the championship of Nutley. The Dukes also defeated the Tigers a year ago.

Dick O'Neill was the hero of the fracas, along with Andy Walker. It was the alert Walker who caught Daniel's kick in mid air in the second quarter and raced to the Tiger's eight-yard line, from which point O'Neill took the ball on a spinner play, off right tackle, for a score. Speciale's kick missed the uprights by inches.

In the same quarter the Dukes reached the Tiger's ten-yard line only to be stopped by the blowing of the whistle for the first half.

Daniels of the Tigers, who was all-state last year, did some excellent punting for that team.

The game ended with the Dukes on the Tiger's fifteen-yard line, following a twenty-yard end run by O'Neill and a ten-yard pass from Van Demark to Chichowicz.

Belleville Mourns for Martin Journey

Popular Cyclist Who Died In Australia Well Known Here

Belleville friends of Martin Journey, twenty-four-year-old Nutley bicyclist rider, deeply mourn his passing in Australia, caused by dilated heart, for which he had been receiving treatments eight days.

A High Mass of Requiem was offered Tuesday at 10 A. M., in St. Mary's Church, Nutley. Burial was made in Australia. Efforts to have the body brought to this country for burial were blocked by an infantile paralysis quarantine in Australia, according to a cable received Monday.

The bicycle rider, well known locally for his activities at Nutley velodrome, where he rode as an amateur several years and last year as a professional, went to Australia under contract last September.

Journey was born in Nutley and lived there all his life, attending Nutley High School. Bicycle riding was his greatest interest, his father, Michael Journey, having been a noted rider. He leaves his parents and six sisters, Mrs. Jack Fennel and Mrs. Joseph Stoller of Passaic, Mrs. Michael Kolaba of Little Ferry, Mrs. Henry Roeloff of Belleville and Mrs. Raymond Solinger and Miss Elizabeth Journey of Nutley.

Ronald Colman Comes to Capitol Theater In Selznick's "Prisoner of Zenda"

Ronald Coleman comes to the Capitol theatre today and tomorrow in David O. Selznick's production of "The Prisoner of Zenda," the famous Anthony Hope romance of love and intrigue in the royal courts of Europe.

Madeleine Carroll and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., head the imposing supporting cast, which includes Mary Astor, C. Aubrey Smith, Raymond Massey, David Niven and others.

Colman plays a dual role in this colorful tale, appearing both as the adventurous Rudolf Rassendyll and as King Rudolf V, the monarch he impersonates.

Miss Carroll appears opposite Colman as the lovely Princess Flavia, while young Fairbanks is cast as the dashing Rupert of Hentzau.

"Hold 'Em Navy," the new football film featuring Lew Ayres, Mary Carlisle and John Howard, was photographed by Henry Sharp, A. S. C. The film, which is set in Annapolis, includes Benny Baker and Elizabeth Patterson in the cast, and was directed by Kurt Neumann. It appears also today and tomorrow.

The request feature tomorrow is Gary Cooper in "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town."

Luise Rainer and Spencer Tracy are teamed for the first time on the screen in "Big City," new M-G-M hit which comes to the Capitol theatre for a three-day showing, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

With the triumphant Gladys George of "Valiant is the Word for Carrie" fame in the title role and with John Beal, Warren William, Reginald Owen and William Henry heading an outstanding supporting cast, M-G-M's newest stellar offering, "Madame X," appears the same time, time.

"Nationalizing" international accents was one of the odd problems of a dramatic coach in the filming of "The Good Earth," which opens a four-day engagement at the Capitol, starting Wednesday to Saturday. Oliver Hissel, former director of the Dallas Little Theatre, and now in charge of dialogue and dramatic coaching at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, accomplished the task of making uniform a dozen different accents among principals, Chinese and others in the filmization of Pearl S. Buck's novel, which was adapted for the stage by Owen Davis and Donald Davis.

Some Form(s)

A call from 401 Union avenue to police headquarters Saturday, informed the police that some boys were taking away a "form," in fact several "forms."

Sergeant Bob Anderson and Patrolman Jerry Liori were "informed" of the condition and went post haste to the scene of the depredations in their best "form."

It was obvious when they arrived that the "form or forms" were not in their "former" resting place where they had been "formerly" but that the "form or forms" were somewhere else.

Search revealed the "forms" in a vacant lot which was no place for "forms," big "forms" or little "forms," so "Bob" and "Jerry" took the "forms" to their "former" abode—from the scene of a newly laid sidewalk in front of the Union avenue address.

Washington Snapshots by JAMES PRESTON

The decision of Congressional committees to proceed with a farm bill wasn't a "victory" for anybody. It was just another case of men having to choose between what they believed to be the devil and the deep blue sea.

The key to the farm bill fight, in essence, is whether a federal bureau shall (1) be empowered to order farmers to grow certain crops and fine them if they don't or (2) simply be authorized to pay them premiums—called "benefits" by some and "bribes" by others—if they raise what they are told to raise.

Most opposition to either or both these plans has come from members representing agricultural districts. The South is largely agricultural. Hence most opposition to either plan has come from the South.

Coincidental with the decision in Washington to proceed with the farm program, the National Grange announced its 1938 "platform for agriculture" and promptly dispatched copies to every member of Congress.

The Grange's platform is about the most constructive criticism yet heard on the farm program proposal and should prove valuable study material for those who undertake to formulate farm legislation. This is particularly true since a proclamation by the Grange is about the closest thing available in the way of an expression of attitude from the real grass roots.

Twelve planks make up the Grange document and No. 2 on the list reads: "There must be no legislation enacted which would result in either immediate or eventual regimentation of the American farmer."

Another Grange demand reads: "Balance the budget; insist upon economy and efficiency in local, state and federal government; eliminate and avoid duplication of public services; protect the taxpayer, and keep in mind that for everything asked of government the taxpayer must pay the bill."

Observers who watch Congress closely know that applause given to speakers in the House of Representatives is much more likely to indicate the real feeling of House members than are their public statements. The reason, of course, is that the applause may be anonymous but statements cannot.

And still another: "Foster co-operation and good-will between government, labor, industry and agriculture; create confidence so that recovery may go forward and the wheels of business may turn faster, more people may be employed and more consuming power created."

There's a point of questionable logic in the announced desires of some of the Congressional block to relieve business of the undistributed net income tax—for the little fellow only.

The plan, apparently, is to lift the tax from the small employer but to keep the shackles on the large ones. They admit that the tax is hurting business, as shown by the decreasing employment. The logic, therefore, seems to be that a man with a Hence, it attracted more than passing interest when Representative Dies, a Texas Democrat, was interrupted sixteen times by applause and cheering during a thirty-minute speech. The keynote of his speech was this:

"The only member of Congress who is worth a thinker's dam to the country and to his people is one who can say what he thinks and vote his honest convictions."

Dies was explaining his opposition to the tax and hour bill.

To Present "Na Santarella," Italian Comedy in High School on December 15

WPA Federal Theater Group of Twenty Professional Italian Players Will Appear in Political And Social Club Presentation

"Na Santarella," an Italian three-act comedy by Edwardo Scarpetta, will be presented by a WPA Federal Theatre group of twenty professional Italian players in Belleville high school on Wednesday, December 15, at 8 P. M., under the auspices of Belleville Political and Social Club Inc., of 282 Belleville avenue.

Scene in Italian Comedy

"Na Santarella" revolves around a clever, vivacious young woman, Nannina Fiorelli, who is studying at a convent near Naples. Nannina's cheerful compliance with all its rules have endeared her to the Mother Superior, who calls her by the affectionate title of "Na Santarella" (Little Saint).

The talented Nannina excels in her musical studies and soon becomes the protégé of Felice, her elderly music teacher. She discovers by accident that Felice has written an operetta, which is to be produced at the "Teatro Fondo," Naples, and coaxes him to take her on the opening night.

In the meantime, Nannina's uncle has planned for her to marry an army officer. At the theatre, Nannina meets him, although neither is aware that the other is included in the uncle's plans. The laughable situations that follow can be depended upon to furnish the audience with an evening of fine entertainment.

Incidental music is provided by a Federal theatre orchestra of fourteen professional musicians. Several musical and vocal selections will precede the performance.

The membership has been divided in four teams, each headed by a captain. The teams are north, John C.

Siefanelli; south, Nicholas J. Colaninno; east, Edgar Scicoli and west, Andrew F. Colaninno. The north team is in the lead. This contest has so stimulated the sale of tickets that the committee is already satisfied that this affair will be a success. The Italian-Americans of the town are urged to attend this unusual attraction because it may be many years before they will receive another opportunity to enjoy a show of similar quality.

Arrangements for the entertainment are in charge of Samuel Figuerelli, honorary chairman; Mr. Colaninno, chairman; Joseph Pacente, secretary; Joseph Natale treasurer; Harry Citarella, Mr. Colaninno, Vito De Feo, Angelo De Stefano, John Ferro, Igino Gregori, Alexander F. Nucci, Mr. Scicoli and Mr. Steffanelli.

DIAL WELL WITH BILL TREADWELL

MR. FAN: He sits by the radio and finds that the better products have the better programs, but when he goes to the store he fails to ask for the sponsors product and accepts a substitute, of an inferior type... But the sponsor really doesn't care, he is building good-will and eventually will convert the buyer to his side of the fence.

MR. ARTISTE: I spell this with an "E" to denote his ego... No performer, however humble, can exist without a super attitude... called in some circles a complex... He likes publicity, and he gets it... he likes to be looked at, and wears trick shirts and ties to make sure they see him coming... he is a real trouper.

MR. MIKE: Gives the general public more fright than Madison Square Garden full of people... He is small, funny shaped, and cannot stand to be pushed around... the smaller stations think more of him, and their officials guard him like a one hundred pound note... but he is really harmless, and sooner or later the school kids will be taught mike technique, which will prove its worth.

MR. GOSSIP: He tells us that Bill McCune, Bunny Berrigan, and Horace Heidt have made the most progress and all the colleges want them for their PROMS... He states that Martha and Hal, a new duo, will surpass all other duo's within a year's time... Gabriel Heatter has signed for another year with the same sponsor and if you hear this before, think this one over: Gabe has firmer contracts than any other radio personality... Vaughn DeLeath is having a new program written around her and in a short time will dash out front with variety that is classy... The Vintage, where the radio row gang dine in the beeg cety, has Sam Rich, an ole timer at its helm... hats off, Sam... Uncle Don has organized a Jr. Press Club and will hold a Press Conference in December... Two new comers to the musical fore are Vincent Laydell, with Bill McCune's band and Pat Henry, of Radio City... Stan Jones, the sports caster, did a nice job of the two games this season... Ray Keating has broken all records on the air for his present boss at Murray's... most weeks he does thirteen broadcasts... Rudy Vallee will click on Broadway.

MR. TRUTH: Next summer will find new shows to beat the present set-ups... the sponsors realize that id's air has an audience and for this reason will build their shows accordingly... Funny thing, most of the present shows do not lose money for their sponsors, but lose it for the publicity that they attempt... the M-G-M tie-up loses seven thousand a week... but the picture company can mark it off its taxes... and they really are high in Calif... Why doesn't some one air the metropolitan colleges... they have choice talent... no one really cares what is happening in the smaller out of town places... and so we tread on.

Legion Post Plans Commanders' Night

County-Wide Affair Will Be Held in Mosque Theater

Essex County American Legion posts have been invited to attend the "Past Commanders' Night" celebration of Newark Post 10, Tuesday night, at the Mosque. All past commanders of Newark post will be honored at this meeting. Those who served in that office in the past at any time, including posts which amalgamated with the present post, have been requested to attend this meeting. Past Commander John H. Laux will speak on "Newark Post 10, American Legion Past Commanders' Club." County Commander William J. Doyle will also speak.

Frank V. Lanzara, general chairman, will be assisted by Niles G. Bergenholz, Perry E. Belfatto, T. Hubert MacCauley, Arthur K. Young, Robert W. Graul, Laux, Thomas J. Dungan, August Young and William Stanley Rees.

THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE

About every place I go, people are wonderin' about what is goin' on with business and prices, and they are sorta up a tree and confused. And the folks down there on the Potomac, they are kinda up to their neck explainin' why everything is not grand and rosy like they said it would be.

And right along we been told that another law or two would fix everything up sweet and pretty, and the rivers would run up hill or sideways or whichever way the law says for 'em to run.

But right recent, everybody seems to be sorta gettin' woke up at about the same time, and we are like Rip Van Winkle—the powder was wet and his pants was ragged—and we been dreamin', but not gettin' any place.

And now, if we will take a couple stretches, and a hitch in our belt and get over our ideas that somebody is gonna feed us, and look after us every minute, and we go to work, maybe our nap did us some good, after all.

Yours with the low down,
 JO SERRA.

Blind Men's Club Plans Annual Minstrel-Benefit

The New Jersey Blind Men's Club will stage its twenty-seventh annual minstrel-benefit on Saturday evening, December 11, at Fuld Hall, Newark. The minstrel is written, directed and acted in by the blind men of the state, and proceeds are used to give free vacations to the blind at the summer home maintained by the association at Leonardo.

Following the performance, which will have a cast of fifty, and a chorus of sighted boys and girls, the rest of the evening will be given over to dancing. About 1,000 friends are expected. William J. Adickes, field secretary of the New Jersey Commission for the Blind with state offices at 1060 Broad street, Newark, is in charge of arrangements and is the business manager of the club.

Other officers of the club, who are all blind, are: Michael Laciopa, of Newark, president; Carl Pirrups Hvarre, of Arlington, blind law student of the University of Newark, treasurer; Alfred A. Whalen, Newark; Richard E. Ober, Caldwell, and Arthur Voorhees of Upper Montclair, vice-presidents; Edward Gruning of Jersey City, Charles Knupfer of Irvington, and George Burck of Newark, trustees.

Musical arrangements and the staging of the affair was under the direct supervision of Alfred Whalen, well known as a blind entertainer, musician and piano tuner, who will also wield the baton for the orchestra.

The summer vacation home at Leonardo, maintained by the club, was built seven years ago through the efforts of the club and friends. It is called Camp Happiness, because of the recreation, rest and encouragement the camp affords to over 200 guests each season, without costing them a single penny. Governor-elect A. Harry Moore, Governor Harold G. Hoffman, Commissioner William J. Ellis, and a citizen's committee of one hundred are acting as honorary patrons for the benefit, according to Secretary Adickes, and it is hoped that sufficient funds will be realized as a result of the entertainment to finance next year's vacations and welfare program. All those interested in the activities of the blind are requested to get in touch with Mr. Adickes at 1060 Broad street, Newark.

James Cavanaugh, a blind man of 32 Schalk street, Newark, after his stay at Camp Happiness, wrote that he received the greatest peace with the world and feeling that I thought I could never feel again. "I was sad and despondent," he wrote, "but after a day or two, I was a changed man." He urged the sighted to go and see for themselves just what Camp Happiness can mean to a discouraged, sightless person.

Local Youths Form

Lucky Seven Band

A group of Belleville High School boys have banded together under the direction of Oscar Werner, to form a dance orchestra of the better class. All the members played in the high school orchestra at one time or another.

The group call themselves "The Lucky Seven." The orchestra is composed of the following players, all of whom are pupils of Mr. Werner: Harry White, pianist; Norman Thompson, trumpet; Andrew Soellner, tenor saxophone; William Engelmann, first alto saxophone; Jack Schmutz, third alto saxophone and John Alpaugh, drums.

Mr. Werner plays all instruments.

Northern Division Conference Held in Newark By New Jersey American Legion Auxiliary

Meeting Was Held for Purpose of Instructing Auxiliary Members in Various Phases of National Organization Plans

The northern division conference of the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of New Jersey, was held at the Clinton Avenue Presbyterian Church, Clinton avenue and South Sixteenth street, Newark, Saturday afternoon. Mrs. August Braun, of Irvington Department, second vice president, conducted the meeting and Mrs. Elmer Buechle, president of Irvington Unit, served as secretary. The conference was held for the purpose of instructing auxiliary members in the various phases of the programs of the American Legion Auxiliary, as set down by the national organization.

Bergen, Hudson, Essex, Passaic, Morris, Sussex and Warren counties comprise the northern division of the state. The department auxiliary president, Mrs. Russell B. Howell, of Highland Park, who has just returned from the presidents' and secretaries' conference in Indianapolis, national headquarters, gave a brief outline of that meeting.

Mrs. Leo Colton, Hudson County, chairman of the finance committee and Mrs. William E. Guthrie, Bergen, chairman of the policy committee, both past department presidents; Mrs. Charles Hoffman, Ocean, chairman of Americanism and department third vice president; Mrs. George Bennet, Mercer, treasurer; Mrs. Elwood T. Carmichael, Union, historian; Mrs. Harry Hughes, Ocean, chaplain; Mrs. Arthur King, Somerset, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Hannah Hoffman, Bergen County, national historian of the Eight and Forty, attended Saturday's meeting with the following chairmen of standing committees: Community service, Mrs. John K. Watson, Monmouth; auxiliary friend, Mrs. Alice Mooney, Passaic; junior activities, Mrs. Irene Kraft, Morris; legislative, Mrs. Jean Conroy, Hudson; membership, Mrs. Gertrude Taylor, Bergen; national news, Mrs. R. Graham Huntington, Essex; publicity, Mrs. G. A. Freda, Mercer; rehabilitation, Mrs. Elwood T. Carmichael, Union; Mrs. Elizabeth Baker and Mrs. George Apgar, presidents of Salem and Somerset counties, respectively.

Mrs. Braun announced that Miss Emma Puschner, national director of Child Welfare, American Legion and auxiliary, will hold the Area "B" Child Welfare Conference in Newark, Friday and Saturday, January 14 and 15, 1938, and a state-wide rally on Sunday, January 16, 1938. Area "B" of the national organization comprises the following states: Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia. Miss Puschner, National Adjutant Frank E. Samuel and other representatives from national headquarters will attend this conference. Mrs. Braun and Mr. Franklin M. Ritchie, Highland Park, chairman of the Legion Welfare Committee, will co-operate in this joint program. Mrs. Taylor announced that the auxiliary is leading the legion in its membership and that to date, in spite of the fact that the new auxiliary year has just begun, the auxiliary has a paid-up membership in the department of 5,347 which is fifty-nine per cent of the quota for New Jersey. Four new units have been organized.

Mrs. Carmichael spoke on her program for the care of the disabled veterans hospitalized throughout the state and requested each member to do her part in assisting these sick ex-soldiers in making life a more happy one and to remember them especially at Christmas time. Mrs. Conroy urged all members to get behind the legion to support the legion legislation, protection by the government of widows and dependent children of deceased veterans; universal service and national defense.

Mrs. Hoffman asked that a great deal of time and thought be given to this part of auxiliary work stressing the programs of adult education, youth activities and to help to destroy every "ism" that is undermining our country today.

Mrs. Howell announced that the National Defense Conference will be held in Washington, D. C., January 25, 26 and 27, and immediately following the National Rehabilitation Conference will take place January 28, 29 and 30, 1938.

After the meeting adjourned, Mrs. Alice Huntington and her staff of Essex officers acted as hostesses and served refreshments. Approximately 130 chairmen and members attended this meeting.

Warning Issued For Diphtheria

Hospital Head and Health Officer E. T. Berry Urge Immunization

A warning to have children immunized against diphtheria has just been issued by Dr. Ellis L. Smith, superintendent of the Essex County Hospital for Contagious Diseases in Soho section and Health Officer Eugene T. Berry.

Dr. Ellis declares three deaths out of seven cases in the county in the last three months prompts the warning.

"Although the number of cases is exceedingly small in comparison with the total of years ago when it was not unusual to have as many as 1,500 in a year," said Dr. Smith, "the mortality rate is exceptionally high. The type of diphtheria we have been getting recently is exceedingly virulent. I feel that those cases could have been forestalled by proper immunization."

"We haven't had a case of diphtheria in Belleville since January, 1935, however, some cases have recently been reported from other municipalities in the county. This means there is a possibility of cases turning up in our town unless parents have their children immunized by injection against this disease," says Health Officer E. T. Berry.

"All children nine months and over, who have not previously been immunized, should be immediately, so they will attain immunity during the present winter when diphtheria is more prevalent.

"Due to the high percentage of older children who have been immunized, a large number of these will be carriers of this disease and spread to those who have not been immunized."

From 1928 to 1932, the Belleville Department of Health immunized approximately 4,000 children and not one case has been reported from that group.

"Parents who wish their children immunized may call any local physician for an appointment and he will gladly do this work for $1 per child," the health officer explains.

Dr. Smith said there were only three cases of diphtheria in the Isolation Hospital and no deaths in 1936. Commenting on other diseases prevalent among children, Dr. Smith said that the chances are measles will not be as prevalent this winter as was the case last year.

"It will probably be an off year for measles," he said. "Scarlet fever will probably hold its own in the number of cases, but we don't believe there will be as many cases as there were during the winter of 1935-1936, when hundreds were reported in the county."

There are no cases of infantile paralysis at the Isolation Hospital at present, Dr. Smith said. Commenting on that disease, he said that the anxiety of parents in any particular neighborhood where a case of infantile paralysis is reported is out of all proportion to the occurrence and mortality of the disease.

"The normal occurrence of the disease in Essex county," he said, "is about ten cases out of every 100,000 population. So far this year we have had twenty-six cases at the hospital. Only two died."

"Although the medical world does not know as much about the disease as it will eventually, new methods of diagnosis and treatment have resulted in a fewer number of cases of total disability than was the case only a few years ago."

For a number of years there has been a respirator or "iron lung," so-called, at the Isolation Hospital. That machine has saved a number of lives. Dr. Smith said that he has on hand money enough to buy another respirator, but has not done so because the expenditure would not have been justified. He has made arrangements with a manufacturing concern for immediate delivery of a new machine in case of emergency.

The year 1935 was not so good as far as infantile paralysis cases were concerned. There were ninety-eight cases at Isolation Hospital and five deaths. In New York City, that year there were 2,054 cases. Referring to a study of 686 cases at the Willard Parker Hospital in New York that year, Dr. Smith said that seventy-five per cent of them were children under ten and 33.6 per cent were children under five years of age. The mortality rate as it concerned those cases was 2.6 per cent, and sixty-five per cent of the 686 cases resulted in partial paralysis.

The Willard Parker study based on the cases there in 1935 reveals, Dr. Smith said, that thirty-six of the 686 cases came from seventeen families. In that same year, he said, there were fourteen cases in Essex county which came from seven families and one case wherein a child outside of the family had played with a child who was taken to the hospital shortly thereafter.

"This seems to indicate," said Dr. Smith, "that parents should not become too greatly alarmed if a case of infantile paralysis is reported in the neighborhood. Unless their own children have been in constant contact with the patient during the acuteness of the disease it is not likely that they will contract it."

Boys Win Out

An argument among neighbors arose Saturday, over the permission granted to boys to play football in a vacant lot in Essex street.

Mrs. William Lindsay, Jr., 33 Essex street, complained to the police that the boys were annoying and asked that they be ordered to leave.

Patrolman Raymond "Square" Demgard assigned to the case investigated. He discovered that Mrs. Mary E. Mertz, 30 Essex street, had given the boys permission to play in the lot, which is owned by her.

To: Mrs. Elizabeth Ignatz, No. 129-545.
 By virtue of an Order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the 31st day of November, 1937, in a cause wherein the Home Owners' Loan Corporation is complainant, and Andrew Ignatz, et al., are defendants, you are required to appear and answer the bill of said complainant on or before the 10th day of January next, or said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose the mortgage executed by Andrew Ignatz to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, dated June 19, 1935, acknowledged June 19, 1935, and recorded June 19, 1935, in the office of the Register of Essex County in Book 2-81 of Mortgages for said County on pages 271-272. Said mortgage covers premises in the Town of Belleville, County of Essex and State of New Jersey, commonly known as 78 Wilbur street.

And you, Mrs. Elizabeth Ignatz, are made a defendant because you are the wife of Andrew Ignatz, the owner of the premises, at one time the mortgage referred to in the Bill of Complaint was given to complainant, and as such you may have a lower interest in the said mortgaged premises.
