Berry Reports Many Chicken-Pox Cases

About 117 Have Been Noted Since November 1 In Belleville

About 117 cases of chicken-pox have been reported to Health Officer Eugene Berry since November 1. Twenty-one of these cases have been reported since December 1.

The greater majority of these have occurred in the Silver Lake school and the No. 8 school in Union avenue.

Health Officer Berry believes that the number of cases has reached its peak and that the total is beginning to taper off.

"Parents should be on the watch for symptoms of the disease and should call the family physician and my office at the first signs," said Mr. Berry yesterday.

The disease first appears as a red blotch or blotches along the hair-line of the head, which is succeeded by water blisters, which form scabs.

St. Peter's Dramatic Club Polishes Edges on Three-Act Play, "The Things That Count"

Large Audience Is Expected To Attend First Presentation of Season in the School Hall

Going into the final stages of rehearsal, St. Peter's Dramatic Club anticipates a large audience at its first presentation of the season, a three-act play, "The Things That Count," by Laurence Eyre, under the personal direction of Rev. Joseph M. Kelly, on Wednesday evening, December 15, in St. Peter's School hall.

Taking the leads are Miss Marie Ward and William J. Friel as Beulah Randolph and Dr. Stewart Marshall, respectively.

Others in the cast are Miss Elizabeth McMahon, as Mrs. Hemmaberry; Harry J. Sullivan, Mr. Hemmaberry; Miss Dorothy Grum, Dulcinea; James Lukowiak, Abraham; Miss Doris Tracey, Ingeborg; Miss Helen Grey, Anna; Miss Mary McCann, Mrs. Ege-ner; Miss Greta Kinnealy, Mrs. O'Donovan; Miss Ruth Dacey, Blanche O'Donovan; John Westlake, Jr., Mickey O'Donovan; Miss Marie Barnett, Frau Bundelfelder; Daniel Spillane, Jr., Signor Vanni; Miss Eleanor Barrett, Signora Vanni; Miss Margaret Gould, Elvira Vanni, and Anne Sweeney, Annette Vanni.

Mr. Eyre, the author, was thoroughly imbued with the holiday spirit when he wrote this growing play, and the Christmas tree scene in the second act takes all back to happy childhood days when hearts were gladdened by the gifts bestowed by loved ones.

The character of little Dulcinea is one of the most appealing ever seen. Her childish imagination, people's world with kings and princesses, and the manner in which she wins over her iron-willed grandmother, Mrs. Hemmaberry, is a delight to contemplate.

Junior Women Plan Talk on Syphilis

Carl Daines, State Official, Will Discuss Health Problem Here

The Public Welfare Department of the Junior Woman's Club will hold an open meeting Tuesday at 8:30 P. M., at the Woman's Club, 51 Rossmore place, where Carl Daines, supervisor of social hygiene education of the bureau of venereal disease control of the state department of health, will talk on syphilis. A member of the Visiting Nurse Association of Newark, will give a short talk on the work of the association in Belleville.

This is believed to be the first time a junior federated club has made an attempt to have a meeting of this kind and it is sincerely hoped that the public, lay and professional, will provide an audience to signify approval of this meeting. It is to be hoped, too, that action in a definite form will be the result.

At the close of the meeting Miss Estelle Powers, chairman of the department, will present Mrs. Walter Mack, who will succeed Miss Powers, as chairman.

Young Bryan was en route to Washington to spend the week-end.

School Board Expects Increase in Budget

Unexpended Balance Will Be Negligible in Computation

Tentative drawing of the school budget shows that an increase of $30,000 or more may be expected when the figures are finally submitted to the voters February 8. Board members have been studying the figures for several weeks to have the budget whipped into shape by January 1.

President John P. Dailey, two months ago, urged committees to work on appropriations for the 1938-39 school year to eliminate last minute rush. It is expected that tentative figures will be discussed when the board meets on December 20. One reason for the increase is that there will be few unexpended balances, notably in the teachers' salary account, which for the current budget, provided balances last year, when salary cuts were in effect. Restoration of cuts leaves the account sans any unexpended balance. An increase of nine points in the tax rate is predicted through the increase.

The old fire alarm bell, which has been dismounted from its perch, atop the structure in the rear of the William street firehouse, will be placed on a concrete or glazed stone pier in front of the Town Hall by Decoration Day.

Liquor Prices Here Compare with Cities'

Washington Liquor Store Offers Atmosphere of "Big Time"

Bearing the burden of competitive price slashes, the small town dealer is forced to cut his prices accordingly. The price war in New York has affected dealers all over the country and has reached Barney Miller, local liquor dealer of 477 Washington avenue. He has reduced his prices to parallel and, even undersell, those of rival dealers in Newark and New York.

But bear this in mind, Miller's shop, known as the Washington Liquor Store, is no small establishment. Mr. Miller spent $10,000 on developing and renovating his store into a first class liquor market. Mr. Miller is in close touch with current prices and conditions in the liquor trade. He is therefore well acquainted with values in the metropolitan area.

The Washington Liquor store has two valuable assistants in Freddie Evangelista and Charley Sellers, who are ready on a moment's notice to deliver any type of bottled goods to the customer's homes.

Mayor Frank Hague Attacks Penal Institutions As "Schools of Crime" at Meeting Here

Jersey City Leader Who Has "Tried To Give a Great Deal Of Attention to Problem" Says "System Is Wrong"

Penal institutions were attacked as "schools of crime" by Mayor Hague of Jersey City, speaking at a meeting of the Bloomfield Rotary Club Wednesday, at which clubs from Belleville, Nutley, Newark, East Orange, Orange, Montclair and Cedar Grove were invited to be present.

"I have tried to give a great deal of attention," the speaker said, "to this problem of crime, which is making us talked about all over the world, I became convinced that our system was wrong."

"Annually 350,000 youths are turned out of penal institutions in the nation. Society has no place for them. Business will not employ them. Where are they to go? What are they to do?"

"Examine each of these boys. What did he do? Perhaps he made a slip. Then, because he had become a 'problem,' every one tried to pass him along to some one else, until finally he entered a penal institution. There he received an education of crime, and when he got out he taught it to others."

Mayor Hague said in an investigation of penal institutions in New

Mayor Hague

Jersey he proved to his own satisfaction the trouble was with the system. He said he found that half of the inmates of the Rahway Reformatory were "graduates" of Jamesburg.

The speaker then described the functioning of the Special Service Bureau of Jersey City, which he

Effect Radio Hook-up With Newark System

One Police Car Here Is Now Operating with Receiving Set

A temporary hook-up with Newark's police radio broadcasting system was effected Monday night by Director of Public Safety George R. Gerard, who plans to give the system a month's trial here as suggested by Director Duffy of Newark.

Frederick Case, Newark Evening News reporter, 155 De Witt avenue, was the first person in Belleville to make use of the radio car. According to Chief George Spatts of the police department, Fred heard some noise that was other than natural and called headquarters. The radio car responded within two and one-half minutes after the call.

Belleville, like South Orange, Monday sent one police car to Newark, where the maintenance department installed a receiving set for the trial.

Based on population, Newark would charge Belleville $694.40 a year to use the system, but Belleville would need to equip its four cars with receiving sets. The car cost would be assumed, naturally, by Belleville.

Irvington and Essex Fells already have a tie-in with Newark. Nutley has considered its own system, but due to illness of Director Francis T. Stager, nothing has been done about it.

Hold-Up Staged At Local Gas Station

Pair With Gun Rifle Cash Register and Attendants' Money Changer

A hold-up took place yesterday morning at the Gulf gas station at Rutgers and Main streets, when two men held up Yale Freeman, 23, 5 Emerson place, Upper Montclair, an attendant, at the point of a gun, while they rifled, according to police, Freeman's money changer and the cash register of $18.

The pair walked into the gas station and asked for gas about 3:30 A. M. When Freeman got up from the chair, one of them pulled out a revolver and said, "This is a stick-up." They forced Freeman into a closet and escaped with the cash.

The radio car equipped for Belleville by Newark, arrived within a few minutes after the report of the hold-up. The car came from Belmont avenue and Franklin street in the Silver Lake section of this town, with Sergeant Charles Pearl and with Patrolman Raymond Demgard at the wheel. Responding to the telephone report, Patrolman Edward Feeney arrived at the scene in the police patrol, and Patrolmen Frank Lukowiak, Frank Christiano, Nelson Demgard and Walter Drake came in squad cars.

Dukes Hold Varsity To Scoreless Tie

Bill Docherty, Temple Star, Was in Lineup at Feuerbach Field

The Nutley Dukes held the strong Varsity Club to a 0-0 tie at Feuerbach's Field Saturday afternoon.

The game consisted of a punting duel between Walker of the Dukes and McDonald of the Varsity, with Walker having the advantage as the territory throughout the contest.

The Dukes reached the opponents' ten-yard line as Dick O'Neil ran off tackle for a gain of thirty-five yards in the second quarter. The forward passing combination of Van Demark to Walker failed to gain the needed ten yards and the Varsity took possession of the ball on downs.

All-American Bill Docherty of Temple University and all-state John McDonald played for the Varsity Club.

The Dukes line did Trojan-like work in holding the heavy Varsity Club scoreless.

Chris Cagle To Play Against Tornadoes

Former Army Star's Team To Appear at City Stadium

Chris Cagle, one of the Army's grid immortals, will be putting in his last appearance in football regalia when he leads his Chris Cagle All-stars against the Newark Tornadoes, in a benefit game Sunday, December 19, at Newark Schools stadium. The game will be sponsored by the Ralph Traurig Memorial Association, a charitable organization.

The Tornadoes, southern division titlists in the American Professional Football Association, claim the championship of the entire league. They battled to a 3-3 deadlock in their title playoff game Sunday against the White Plains Bears, northern division victors, but claim the crown on the basis of a superior season's record, which includes one early season win over the Bears.

If their claim as champions is accepted the Tornadoes will make a journey to Richmond, Va., for a New Year's Day contest with the championship team of the Dixie Pro League.

Buy neckties with what it saves

It isn't necessary to pay 50¢ or more to get quality in a necktie. Listerine Tooth Paste, made by the makers of Listerine, comes to you in a large tube at 25¢. Note how it cleans, beautifies and protects your teeth. Moreover it saves you approximately $3 a year over 50¢ neckties. Buy things you need with that saving—neckties are merely a suggestion. Belleville Is First Entry Filed for New Jersey State Basketball Tournament

Belleville's Senior Recreational Basketball League has the honor of being the first entry in the New Jersey State Basketball tournament, it was announced today by Vincent Farrell, district commissioner of the Essex County district, due to the promptness of Edward J. Lister, director of recreation for Belleville.

The league is made up of six teams, representing the best court netsters in the town, and it is expected that the winning team will go far in the state tourney. The teams from which the choice will be made are the Louis Noll Boosters, Royals, Hawks, Colonials, Eagles and Rosary.

The league winner or representative must be determined by March 6. All league winners will then meet in a series of elimination games to decide the county, and in this case also, the district champions, by March 20. The nine district winners

Stellar Attractions Have Been Booked

For Capitol Theater During the Week

"The Good Earth" and "Adventurous Blonde" Are Twin

Hits for Today and Tomorrow

"It is always fun to act although it is hard work. But the most fun is when you have to act and still not use any of the things you've learned about acting."

This enigmatic utterance of Viennese Louise Rainer is the summing up of her impression of her newest role as O-Lan, the Chinese wife of Paul Muni in "The Good Earth," which plays today and tomorrow at the Capitol theatre.

Third in the popular "Torchy Blane" series of comedy-dramas—showing Glenda Farrell as a girl reporter and Barton MacLane as a none-too-bright detective lieutenant—is "Torchy Blane, the Adventurous Blonde," which appears the same time in a twin hit. The request feature tomorrow night is Bing Crosby and Joan Bennett in "Two for Tonight."

It is infinitely easier to play the lead in a talking picture than to play the lead in a stage production, in the opinion of Katharine Hepburn, who has won laurels in both fields. Sunday to Wednesday, Miss Hepburn, Ginger Rogers and Adolphe Menjou will be co-starred in RKO Radio's "Stage Door."

"Alcatraz Island," a Warner Bros. melodrama, is to have its first local showing the same three days at the Capitol theatre.

It is said the story isn't merely one of life behind the stone walls of the Pacific-washed prison. There's plenty of action on the mainland, both before and after the protagonist—one Gat Brady, played by John Litel.

is confined for income tax evasion. Errol Flynn, the movie star, unfortunately is not familiar with the methods employed by American football players.

There was a scene in the Warner Bros. comedy-drama "The Perfect Specimen," requiring Dick Foran to tackle the tall Irish star and bring him down on a hard floor. Flynn declined the services of a double, declaring the shot should be quite simple. He didn't know or didn't remember that Foran had once played football for Princeton.

The scene started and Foran executed a perfect flying tackle, American football style. Flynn spread-eagled on the hard floor. He came up grinning but with a badly-wrenched knee.

"Next time," he remarked. "I'll investigate before playing a game I know nothing about." "The Perfect Specimen" plays at the Capitol next Thursday to Saturday.

When a well-known doctor murders his wife and plants clues to implicate his rival for her affections, he stirs up a cyclone of troubles in the police department and newspapers. John Barrymore is the doctor, and Harvey Stephens is the man he plans to take the blame for his crime, in "Night Club Scandal," which comes also Thursday to Saturday at the Capitol theatre.

Reporter Lynne Overman and Detective Charles Bickford help Louise Campbell, Stephens' sister, to clear his name. The picture was directed by Ralph Murphy.

OF WOR

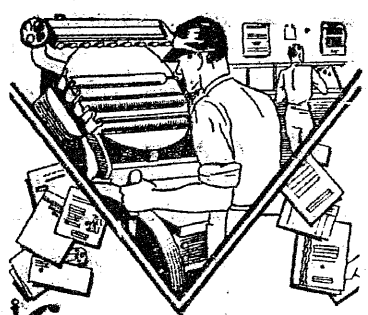

NEED NEW TALENT: This is the cry of the major stations in every city in the United States...Survey the field yourself...There are about fifteen real coast to coast headliners who are heard in your corner of the country...Of these fifteen about three are women...and women usually have the leading appeal in this world of ours...but who can tell, next year some more may be brought to the fore. It takes one year to build any personality. First his management must be set. Next his publicity must be planned. And thirdly, his audience must be built. Stations try to build talent just by giving them spots on the air. This is a foolish way to do this thing when you consider that several millions read newspapers and fan mags every day of their lives...I have watched them build stars. Hollywood, Broadway and even your own Main street...and it all boils down to the simple principal and the three steps that I mentioned before: Management, Publicity and Audience.

WHAT WE HAVE HEARD: That Pat Henry is playing RKO vaudeville...Bunny Berigan, a New York sensation, can't pull an audience out of town...The reason that a song fop is that most of them are over rated and are steals from other tunes held by the same publisher...Bill McCune goes back on WOR next week...It looks as though the public wants Gabe Heatter in the Boake Carter spot when Carter leaves the air for another sponsor...But Gabe is held to other contracts and can't accept...Eddie Duchin has changed the set-up of his band...but is popular with a lot of brass in it...Do you like Martha and Hal, we do...Dorothy Benson, of the Hollywood Hotel who has been offered numerous N.Y. posts...she will be in town shortly...Vincent Comolli is a pleasant news caster...And Stan Lomax, in the past year has built a large following...Charlie Scheiner, a Jamaica boy, is Uncle Don's new find...Broadway nite clubs are flopping...but the ones with Radio Wires in them, are carrying on.

THIS WEEK'S PERSONALITIES: We like Kate Smith and her spirit with the American Red Cross...The Good Deed Club and Camp Idea on WOR...Bob Emory's children doing an opera...The marriage of Bob Edge, the sportsman...Jee Sparks as an ad lib announcer...Sylvia Froos taking up house keeping and not singing...The song writing ability of Roy Collins...The new tune, "Now They Call It Swing"...which we hope ends all swing tunes...The antics of Henny Youngman at a recent benefit...The gas and gags of Josephine...and Ernie Holst's moosie.

WHAT MAKES RADIO: Lack of information on television...The "eight ball" mike...use of scripts written by agencies, which are plain conservative...the support and free radio shows put on by the professionals who like the publicity that goes with a knock-out show like Rudy Vallee's...and so we tread.

John J. Hewitt, Welfare Department Head, Tells of Objects of Civilian Conservation Corps

Next Enrollment for Camps Is Scheduled for January, 1938—Many Chances for Youth to Learn Trades

Enrollment for the next C.C.C. encampments will be in January, 1938, John J. Hewitt, director of the Municipal Welfare Department, states.

Inasmuch as the C.C.C. works to distinct advantage for young men, as well as the taxpayers of Belleville, a resume of activities follows:

The Civilian Conservation Corps was born of an emergency in April, 1933. Hundreds of thousands of young men were reaching work age each year with little or no prospect of finding employment. Immediate action was vital in meeting this major problem.

Fifteen Hundred Camps

The first important step came in the creation of 1,500 camps to rebuild and protect the badly depleted National and State forests, parks and lands. The President recommended and Congress authorized the establishment of the C.C.C. for this purpose. A director was immediately appointed, April 5, 1933. The Departments of War, Interior, Agriculture and Labor were directed to furnish the resources of their departments in an emergency peace-time effort to organize 250,000 unemployed young men in a drive against destruction of natural resources throughout the nation.

The Department of Labor secured the immediate cooperation of State relief and welfare agencies and sent forward a quarter of a million young men in the space of two and one-half months. The army threw open its warehouses to furnish the necessary food and clothing for the new corps, and in rapid succession built 1,500 camps. As soon as the camps were established the Departments of Agriculture and Interior put the men to work. They supervised the men, showed them what needed to be done and how to do it.

A Nation-Wide Organization. Since April, 1933, the C.C.C. has done much needed conservation work in every part of the country. Much remains to be done. The C.C.C. is continuing to do it with the same organization which was created so rapidly and so successfully in 1933. To be eligible a young man must be: A citizen of the United States, unemployed and in need of employment, of good character, between seventeen and twenty-three years of age (until twenty-fourth birthday), unmarried, out of school and physically and mentally fit and able to do vigorous work.

In order to be selected each applicant must agree to serve at least one full term of six months. He may decide at the end of that period whether he wishes to re-enroll for another term. (During the six months' enrollment period a man may be given an honorable discharge only if he has a verified opportunity for employment or other equally valid reason for leaving the Corps.) The maximum term of service is two years.

Each man who has one or more dependents must be willing to make an allotment to them of a specified part of his cash pay. He is personally provided, in addition to the allotment, with a cash allowance in camp sufficient to cover necessary personal expenses. This is in addition to the many other advantages received in camp and listed in this article, such as food, clothing, medical care, work training, educational and recreational opportunities.

Where To Inquire.

In each state the established public welfare or public assistance organization serves as the State C.C.C. Selecting Agency. The local welfare agency or office, in turn, is responsible in its community for the selection of young men to be enrolled in the C.C.C.

Unemployed young men who are interested in the many opportunities offered by the C.C.C., who believe themselves to be eligible after reading the basic requirements, and who have a desire for camp life and work experience, should make further inquiry or application at the nearest local C.C.C. selecting agency. If any difficulty is encountered in locating the proper office, the nearest public employment office will undoubtedly be glad to inform any applicant where he should go to make out application. Local newspapers also carry an-

"The Psychology of Child Upbringing" Is Topic For Third Meeting of Public Affairs Institute

Prominent Persons in Educational Field Have Signified Intention of Discussing Subject at Local Synagogue

"The Psychology of Child Upbringing" will be the topic up for discussion at the third session of the Belleville Institute of Public Affairs on Wednesday night at 9 P. M., at 317 Washington avenue.

The Institute, which is under the sponsorship of the Congregation A. A. A., Sisterhood, Progress Club, and Junior League, is one of the factors for adult education in Belleville.

Because of the prime importance of this question in modern times, a special effort has been made to obtain speakers with the necessary background and experience to discuss the problem authoritatively. The following are the speakers: Dr. Bruce Robinson, head of the Child Guidance Department of the Newark public schools; Mrs. Daisy Simons Wadsworth, supervisor of character training in the Belleville, Bloomfield and Nutley school systems, and Miss Jessie P. Condit, executive director of the Children's Aid Society, Newark.

The session will follow the usual pattern of the Institute. After the speaking period, a public discussion will take place from the floor. The suggestion box to receive topic and speaker suggestions from the audience, will be placed outside the auditorium. The Institute Committee utilizes these suggestions in planning the future sessions.

Edward J. Abramson, will act as chairman. Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin is moderator of the Institute. Admission is free to all. No one will be seated during the speaking period.

John J. Hewitt

serve the work being done and to receive a first-hand impression of camp life.

A Variety of Work.

Some of the jobs in which C.C.C. enrollees are trained include auto mechanics, bridge construction, bulldozer operation, cabin construction, carpentry, concrete construction, Diesel engine operation, drafting, jack-hammer operation, landscaping, large scale cooking, logging, office work, road and trail construction, grader operation, sawmill operation, sign painting and sign making, small dam construction, steam shovel operation, stone masonry, surveying, telephone line construction, tool sharpening, tractor operation, tree nursery work, truck driving, welding and wild life management.

More than 150 types of work are done in the C.C.C. Flood control, tree planting, and trail construction are just three examples. No man can be guaranteed that he will be sent to a camp where he can obtain a particular type of work experience. Every camp, however, has a variety of tasks to be done and offers a man valuable training in doing them.

A Chance for Promotion. Promotions of the most capable men to jobs of leaders and assistant leaders are authorized. More than twenty such promotions may be made in each full-sized camp, with corresponding increases in pay.

In C.C.C. Camps.

There are 150 to 200 young men in each camp. Men work eight hours a day, five days a week (except in emergencies).

Each man receives good food, warm clothing, healthy living quarters, medical and dental care, educational and recreational opportunities, and in addition a cash allowance is paid to all enrolled men in camp.

Men with dependents assist their families by sending home a monthly allotment check of a specified part of their pay.

COPPER AND WIRE

By LISTENER

I hear that Russia was responsible for a financial coup in the international grain marts a few months ago. Her bumper wheat crop was faced with low export prices, so she brilliantly conceived the idea of TALKING war against Italy for the latter's Spanish invasion and against Japan for encroachment of Russian territory. The Soviet grain selling agency was reopened, the propaganda machine well oiled and world speculators bid Chicago December wheat futures up to $1.12 a bushel. Russia immediately dumped part of her surplus at fancy prices, the looming wheat clouds disappeared and wheat prices reacted to 90 cents a bushel. . . . that the burdensome undistributed profits tax will be completely eliminated at the regular session of Congress and that sentiment for the imposition of a national sales tax is rapidly gaining ground. . . . that Mr. Hershey, the cocoa king, is putting one over on the New York crowd by buying his Acceras in London. . . . that heavy machinery manufacturers should be interested in the good business prospects of Argentine and Uruguay. . . . that proposals to increase our armaments are just governmental gestures to create confidence. . . . that many high governmental officials are nervous over the Japanese war situation. Gossip expects the conflict to last many years and gradually be focused on the supremacy of the Yellow Race. . . . that leading men's clothing chain store executives are seriously considering price reductions effective January 15, because October's net sales were ten and one-half per cent under October, 1936, and raw material prices have declined approximately twenty-five to thirty per cent. . . . that the stock crowd expect the stock market prices to advance from today on under the leadership of building and railroad equipment shares. . . . that President Roosevelt's Housing Program is based on a sincere desire to help find a move ahead life for the American worker. As every one knows, the President has taken labor under his protective wing, in fact, it represents his entire political strength. Despite annual predictions since 1932, that the national budget would be balanced in the ensuing fiscal period, the national deficit mounted to a new high due to the actions of a spend-crazy Congress. Therefore, it now appears that inflation is inevitable and labor is offered this hedge against the ravages of an inflated currency.

"BEGGARS BY MAIL"

The Community Service Bureau has just issued a warning against "beggars by mail," unworthy appeals for funds, particularly at this time of year.

To drive home the necessity of communicating with the bureau if residents receive such appeals an extract of an article in the December issue of Readers' Digest follow in part:

"Dear sir: I am the mother of seven children...husband has been ill and out of work for two years...baby starving...please help me...cash... God bless you."

"If you haven't in previous years received a letter phrased in such terms, there's a good chance that between now and Christmas you may. And it will almost certainly be a fraud: for at this season countless thousands of begging letters are in the mails, sent by small-time amateurs or prosperous professionals in postal panhandling. Each letter is circumstantial, couched in appealing terms, and calculated to make one go beyond his ordinary contributions to charity and send a special gift to this desperate family. In a day of impersonal benevolences the single, human call is effective.

But when you receive such a letter, there is only one thing to do—refer it to your local charity headquarters. They can tell you whether or not it is a valid appeal for aid. For the mail-order beggars are well known to social welfare authorities, who estimate that during an ordinary Christmas season 100,000 begging letters pass through the Post Office in Greater New York, 40,000 in Chicago, 25,000 in Philadelphia, and from 10,000 to 15,000 in cities like Cleveland, St. Louis, Buffalo, Los Angeles and Cincinnati.

Experience has shown conclusively that the really needy person generally does not write begging letters.

"An old lady wrote a begging letter to a service club for a Christmas basket and called to get it. A member offered to take her home in his car. 'Don't bother,' she said, 'I've got a taxi waiting.' An actress playing in a western city received a pitiful letter from a starving family and sent them a $100 bill. A few days later a reporter found the family still hungry—but the mother was wearing a new fur coat. A church women's group was moved by a begging letter to outfit nine children with clothing. The next day the "deserted" family sold a three-flat building for cash. Another outfit specialized in letters begging funds to support a day nursery. The children cared for were found to be the youngsters of the solicitors.

"Charity workers have learned to be on guard against the Christmas-basket racket, but the average citizen still falls for it. One regular client of a charity appeared in a district office with tears in her eyes, complaining that in response to her many letters she had received only seven baskets and $5 in cash, while her neighbor, who had sent out fewer appeals, had been given twelve baskets and $15. The Christmas-basketers usually peddle their baskets around the neighborhood, the average charge being a dollar each."

CHRISTMAS GIVING

The Social Service Department of the Woman's Club has taken over the work of organizing Belleville's Christmas giving. Cooperation is sought from local organizations, interested in bringing Christmas cheer and happiness to many needy families in Belleville, so that there will be the least amount of duplication of effort.

In order to alleviate this condition all are urged to send an alphabetical list of the people you wish to remember, together with a list of the gifts. Every list will be carefully checked against every other list so that duplications and overlapping may be avoided. Small lists can be cleared over the telephone. The names of families will not be given out, but you will be notified if those in whom you are interested have been selected by other organizations.

The Woman's Club has no direct contact with, and keeps no record of, the families you may turn in. The service is confidential and free. All lists are destroyed at the conclusion of the holiday giving.

Send in your list EARLY to Mrs. Morris Rochlin, Social Service Chairman, 41 Essex Street, Belleville. Telephone, Belleville 2-3716.

If you will use the club's facilities it will mean a happier Christmas for more people. Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated, the service department states, through the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Wayne R. Parmer.

SIMPLE FACTS

"Taxes, when thought out in things and results, mean an abstraction of a part of the annual product for government purposes, and cannot mean anything else. Whatever form they take in their imposition they must be borne by the consumer, that is, mainly by the working-men and fighting-men of the community. It is well that they should have this fact brought home to them, and not too much disguised by the form in which the taxes are imposed."

Thus wrote the late and great liberal Supreme Court Justice, Oliver Wendell Holmes. In these days when there is so much concern about rising prices and talk about monopolies and profits and whatnot, it is well to remember the economic fact which he so simply stated.

For about seven years now, the federal government has been borrowing money. The only way it can raise money to pay back what it borrowed is through taxes. As Justice Holmes said, it makes no difference whether your tax is levied in disguised form, it still must be paid by the consumer.

If the tax is levied directly, it becomes a direct payment to the government. If it is levied indirectly, it becomes part of the price of what the consumer buys. No matter how you state it; no matter how many ifs, ands and buts you add; no matter how you storm and rant about it, the facts are still the same—government debts are paid by taxes, and taxes are paid by the sweat of every man's brow.

SCHOOL DAYS

By DWIG

THIS WEEK

By "GUARDIAN"

It is to be regretted that only four hundred and fifty of the community leaders of suburban Essex County crowded into the meeting room on Wednesday to hear Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, propound his theories and opinions with reference to juvenile delinquency in this country. Those four hundred and fifty people were presumably the leading business and professional men in this area, for they were members of Rotary Clubs, Lions Clubs and Kiwanis Clubs, who had assembled at the invitation of the Bloomfield Rotary Club, to listen to the Chief Executive of Jersey City, who also happens to be a New Jersey member of the National Committee of the Democratic party.

Now you can think what you like about Frank Hague's political performance—you can believe, with a multitude of staunch Democrats in this state, that he is the Moses that is leading the Democratic party out of the wilderness into a perpetual garden in the valley. You can, if you choose, believe with the most rabid Clee Republicans, that all of his political works are subject to criticism as self-serving efforts—but no matter what you believe, it is questionable if you could listen to this man for forty odd minutes in his vehement declaration of opinion on the subject of juvenile delinquency, without believing that he is utterly sincere and definitely determined to do his part to correct a serious maladjustment in our social order.

Mayor Hague pointed out with succinct clarity that our Parental Homes, our home for boys at Jamesburg and our other correctional institutions are but "schools for crime"; that 350,000 boys are sent to correctional institutions in this country each year; that a similar number come out discarded of society—unemployables, shunned by all their former friends and with but little left to do but to try their hand in the many fields of crime—fields in which they have been thoroughly instructed by their fellow inmates during their average year of residence in our correctional institutions. The Czar of Jersey City quoted figures to show that an all too large percentage of the inmates of the Rahway Reformatory were graduated from the Jamesburg correctional institution. And we with many others in the audience were startled to learn that in three counties at Jamesburg are over one hundred boys only eight years of age, serving "reform" sentences.

It is Hague's idea that this business of sentencing juvenile delinquents—truant from school, boys who will not conform to discipline in the school organization, boys guilty of petty larceny or perpetrators of just plain mischievous escapades—to a correctional institution through the machinery of our Juvenile Courts, serves but to inculcate within them the spirit of crime and to educate them more and more into the ways of wrong doing. So a half a dozen years ago, he changed all that in Jersey City and issued orders to his police force that boys should not be taken to police stations and photographed and fingerprinted; that they should not be taken before courts, to be there indicted and sent up for trial (and during the period in which they are awaiting indictment and trial, be subjected to all the criminal influences that are present in the County jails)—but that, on the contrary, they should be turned over to a special Hague-created bureau in which the Judge, Jury and correctional departments are the boys' own fathers and mothers.

And the Mayor of Jersey City went on to point out that through the practical application of the homely philosophy "spare the rod and spoil the child," by the subjection of the wayward youth to parental influence and discipline—by the education of the parents in their responsibility to the boy and by the education of the boy in his responsibility to his parents, juvenile delinquency in Jersey City has been enormously reduced—and he predicted that it would soon reach the vanishing point.

Mayor Hague painted the delinquent boy as a problem child that our present system construes as being no one's responsibility. Schools pass him on to the truant officer. The truant officer passes the boy on to the Juvenile Court and the Juvenile Court passes him on to Jamesburg. Jamesburg graduates him all too frequently primed for another offense, which lands him in the Rahway Reformatory. Rahway discharges him with a furthered criminal education which often leads to subsequent incarceration in one of the County penitentiaries or state prisons—and all, according to Hague, because the boy was not straightened out in the first instance, but was instead, sentenced to one of our reform institutions which, instead of reforming him, taught him more about crime than he could learn anywhere else.

Hague says that is all wrong—and we applaud him and we share his thought that it's about time we awoke to the situation and did something about it. If the situation in Jersey City has been as vastly improved as the Mayor says it has—if a little common sense devoted to guidance of these boys before their first incarceration—if appealing to parents and placing the responsibility for the boy back in the home where basically it belongs—has produced the results in Jersey City—then why not extend the system throughout the state and after it has been proved workable in this state, why not extend it throughout the country?

Yours for boys,
"GUARDIAN."

REAL CONTENTMENT

Probably many will remember the story of the lad who followed the hard road over mountain and through forest to find the house with golden windows that he had seen at sunset from his own hill-top. When he at last reached the house, it was only just an ordinary gray and weather-beaten building, because the glow from the western sky had died, leaving the windows blank and bare. As he stood in despair he looked back across the hills and saw his own home nestling among the well-known trees. And, rosy, golden and shining the windows gleamed in the morning sun. So the boy found that true beauty, real contentment, comes only from within. It is what we do to make others happy that brings happiness into our own lives.

PIQUANT POLITICS

By MEADOR WRIGHT

INSTEAD of lessening the mystery of the Newark investigation, the twenty-seven indictments returned by the grand jury last week actually added to it. The secrecy that has surrounded the jury's actions continues as complete as ever. There have been no leaks, despite the Newark Ledger's boast that it gave its readers advance information. The Ledger merely guessed, and happened to guess right. I heard a dozen others make the same predictions, but all admitted a complete lack of definite information.

But this very secrecy invites one of the most interesting queries: Why has Assistant Attorney General Dixon been able to obtain such sweeping indictments on evidence that, to say the least, appeared fragmentary at the public hearings? The answer to this query involves a very persistent rumor that is being circulated in high political circles. The rumor is that former Commissioner Parnell has turned state's evidence, and given members of the grand jury the connecting links that the public, which heard only the formal testimony, lacked. The jury held one three and one-half hour session before which no known witnesses were called. At this time, according to the rumor, Parnell told his story.

This rumor, like a hundred others, is being disregarded were it not the only one that explains what is otherwise the most mystifying phase of the grand jury's deliberations and indictments. Dixon's appearance of supreme confidence in his case, Supplementing this is Supreme Court Justice Parker's complete lack of hesitation in backing his appointee at all stages of the investigation. A veteran like Parker is not likely to sponsor a judicial wild goose chase.

These same high political sources believe that it is Commissioner Pierce R. Franklin who is most deeply involved in the Newark scandal, with Anthony Minisi next. The conviction is general that Michael P. Duffy can not be convicted on the evidence at hand, and I have heard the belief expressed that he will come out of the trials a hero, rather than a villain. A powerful group of friends are rallying to Mayor Ellenstein's side, and this group opinion cannot be ignored in estimating the final outcome. Eyebrows have also been raised in many quarters over the unexpected indictment of Harry J. Stevens, one of the leading real estate figures in New Jersey. But on the whole, public judgment is in suspense. It will await the outcome of the trials.

That these trials will take place with the minimum of political interference is also generally conceded. No force, be it from Jersey City or elsewhere, is likely to deflect the march of justice in these cases. To this, even the defendants themselves are said to be resigned. Prosecutor Wachenfeld is said to have let it be known that his department will cooperate fully and impartially.

Withdrawal of Senator John E. Toolan as a candidate for United States Senator to succeed A. Harry Moore, leaves Col. William H. Kelly, a long favorite for the post. If Kelly is to be appointed, one snag remains to be ironed out, namely, his successor as Collector of Internal Revenue. This job is of great political importance to Mayor Hague's organization, and William H. Smathers is said to be licking his chops in anticipation that he may be the fair-haired boy to advise President Roosevelt and James A. Farley in making the selection. A Smathers selection might be expected to be about as friendly to Mayor Hague as the South Jersey collector is said to be at present. In fact, one of the main duties that will be expected of Kelly, or whom ever is selected, will be to smooth out relations between Washington and Jersey City.

For the first time in decades the Essex Assembly delegation appears likely to exert a controlling influence on legislation in Trenton. With the two nominal posts of leadership going to outsiders, to Pascoe Wilenski, the Essex group grabbed almost complete control of the committees that actually direct legislation. In the veteran Assemblyman Homer Zink of Belleville, Essex at last has a recognized leader who knows what legislation is all about. Not only has Essex the power, but there is considerable promise, always precarious, however, with assemblymen, that this power will be exerted in a way that New Jersey's assembly will not be its perpetual disgrace. The teapot tempest that has raged around the possibility that Governor Hoffman may accept the job of New Jersey's good-will ambassador at a salary of $15,000, along with the directorship of the State Unemployment Commission is just that. The former job is not expected to last any longer than this year's legislature will take to kill it, either by action or inaction. Hoffman will devote his time to the Unemployment Commission or else there will be trouble from Washington. Furthermore, Federal rules are so strict that little patronage or other political advantage can be obtained from the post. It is an important job with a good salary, but little more.

New Jersey Today

Cities and Churches.

Prepared for the Belleville News by Russell Van Nest Black, consultant-director, New Jersey State Planning Board.

The wicked city which has always been portrayed as luring into its ditches the shy country maiden and stalwart farm youth with its dens of vice, gay life, and slick ways is not so bad after all. Experts who collected statistics for the Urbanism Committee of the National Resources Board, report that for the country at large sixty per cent of urban adults are church members; as against fifty per cent of the non-urban adult population. In New Jersey, where the total church membership is given as 1,983,781, only 284,365 are rural church members, while 1,699,416 are urban church members. In relation to total population fifty per cent of the urban dwellers of New Jersey are church members, while out forty per cent of the non-urban population are so listed.

Roman Catholics comprise 53.2 per cent of all church members in New Jersey, while members of Protestant groups and Jews account for the rest. This is explained by the large percentage of urban dwellers in New Jersey. Throughout the United States, denominational distribution varies considerably according to the size of the city. Protestant church membership decreases with city size, whereas Roman Catholic and Jewish membership increase with city size. This seems to reflect the preponderant trend to the city of immigrants who belong for the most part to the latter denominations. The natives and older immigrants, whose ratio is greater in the country, belong predominantly to the Protestant groups whose church affiliation is more voluntary and tends to give them a low ratio. Moreover, farm and village people often attend church in towns and cities when no church of their denomination exists in their own communities.

Although only one-seventh of the 11,000 church edifices in United States are located in urban places larger than 2,500 in population, they represent more than half of the four billion dollars invested in church buildings. Rural churches have an average value of $19,173 and their expenditures average $4,121. The average value of urban churches, on the other hand, is placed at $74,951 and expenditures of $13,794. As in the case of motion picture theatres, the urban church tends to be imposing and accommodates relatively large congregations.

Although rural communities produce more than their proportion of the total ministers, two-thirds of the rural churches lack resident ministers. Urban ministers also have received superior training, but almost nine-tenths of all ministers have their first pastorate in a rural church.

'Phone Folks To Sing Christmas Carols

More Than 5,000 at Nearly 100 Gathering Places To Sing in Unison

Christmas Carols will be sung in unison by more than 5,000 New Jersey telephone men and women at nearly 100 gathering places throughout the state on the day before Christmas. The carols will be sent over the air into their homes to enable their families also to participate.

The telephone carol singing has become an annual custom and has an audience far larger than the telephone families themselves.

The singing will be led by a trained chorus at New Jersey Bell Telephone headquarters in Newark. Station WOR will broadcast the program between 12:45 and 1 P. M., Friday, December 24, from that point where the largest group, about 1,500 will sing. The chorus will sing a special number "A Joyous Christmas Day," by Gevaert, and "Silent Night" will be sung, as a solo, by James S. Wheaton, baritone, to a hummed accompaniment.

The number of telephone people joining in the carols will include all who can be spared from the switchboards and other key positions of the state-wide telephone system.

To Start Work on Greylock Sewer Storm Drain Will Relieve Floods in a Large Area

Construction work is expected to start Monday on the storm sewer to drain Greylock section from Linden avenue through Riviera Park to the Public Service high tension line right-of-way to the Passaic river. Director of Streets and Public Improvements Patrick A. Waters has just completed all necessary details to obtain the WPA grant of $27,029 to do the job. The forty-eight inch sewer will be forced under Washington avenue by use of hydraulic jacks, Waters declared, so as not to tie up traffic on that street.

When completed the sewer is expected to eliminate the flood conditions which practically marooned residents of that section after a heavy rain, Waters said.

Tract Development.
"In addition," Waters said, "the sewer will make possible the development of the Riviera Park tract, which has no means of drainage at present."

Magee Pleads for Careful Driving

200 More Lives Lost in State Last Ten Months Than Same Period Year Ago

With 200 more lives lost in New Jersey traffic during the first ten months of the year than in the corresponding period of 1936. Motor Vehicle Commissioner Arthur W. Magee today pleaded with drivers and pedestrians to be especially vigilant during December—usually the most hazardous month of the year.

The Commissioner reported ten months deaths at 1,031 as against 831 last year.

"We now enter," he said, "the most hazardous month of the year—December." For some reason difficult to explain, more people are killed each December than during any of the summer months when traffic volume is at its peak and when driving weather is more favorable. Yet, last December 141 lives were lost in New Jersey, 119 the year previous and 147 in December, 1935.

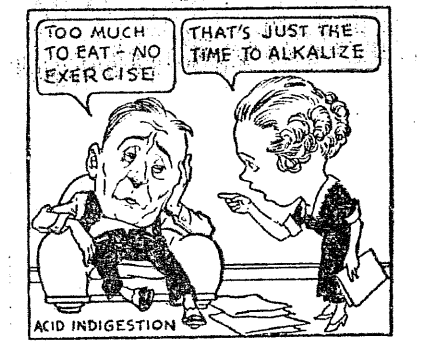

"Let me appeal therefore to every one, driver and pedestrian alike to be extra vigilant during the coming weeks. The month's death toll can be materially reduced if drivers will lessen their speeds and be prepared for sudden emergencies, and if pedestrians will make cautious use of the streets and highways."

Among the larger cities of the state, only Elizabeth and Trenton had fewer traffic deaths this year than last. Newark closed the ten months' period with twenty-one additional fatalities, Jersey City with eighteen, Camden fourteen and Paterson six.

Decreases are noted in only six counties, Cape May, Gloucester, Monmouth, Ocean, Sussex and Warren, while in Salem there was no change. In the fourteen remaining counties there were increases, Morris County having the poorest showing with a 122 per cent rise.

Following is a comparative ten months' record of traffic fatalities in the larger places, showing the numerical changes:

The Reverend.

Among the most interesting and unusual personages with whom we have come in contact, is a certain minister of the Negro race, who has a large following in his proportionately large church in a neighboring community.

In appearance our subject does not appear unusual. He is rather tall and somewhat inclined towards a greatly emaciated waistline. His head is totally hairless, except for a narrow fringe of gray fuzz about its border and, as he talked with us one day, it shone with a severe brightness, due to the fact that the rays of the sun were shining directly upon it.

He is firm in his religious beliefs and has extreme patience when attempting the conversion to his faith, of some religiously separated person.

The Reverend's dress is immaculate and conservative. A deliberately rounded white collar and a soberly colored tie add greatly to his severely scholar-like appearance.

The unusualness of the man is hidden, however, until he told us one day about the manner in which he began his ancient practice of preaching the Gospel.

Sitting quietly in the corner of a small, well-kept room, the dim light of a miniature lamp, throwing whimsical shadows across his gentle features, he spoke and told us this interesting tale: "Yes, my boy, it is really a funny thing. I never could really imagine myself a minister. It sure was queer, my becomin' one. Why it seems only yesterday when I was just a good barber, cuttin' kinky black hair and shavin' light bearded faces for a measly two bits and sometimes, when a customer was generous, a nickel tip.

"Then I remember one night when I had a strange, strange dream. One that seemed to compel me to do as it bid. It must have been the Lord sendin' an Angel to tell me to preach his heavenly Gospel. When I woke up the next mornin' my mind was made up real solid. I closed by barber shop, went into the work of spreadin' religion and here I am—the Reverend—"

"It has been a good many years since the Reverend—has been accomplishing the task of 'spreadin' religion,' and he has set behind him a superb record for reforming wicked sinners and for aiding the sinned.

It is rarely that one hears such a strangely interesting story of a man with courage and determination enough to do what the Reverend did. Here's to his preaching for many more years in the future. Both he and his faithful followers deserve it.

A Matter of Publicity.

Newspapers throughout the country carried the story of the Culbertson (bridge expert) marital split for practically the whole of last week.

A person couldn't gaze through any paper without noticing some phase of the divorce.

Radio news service carried story after story concerning the matter.

The bridge couple's divorce caused almost as much notice as a major congressional occurrence or the abdication of some mighty European monarch.

We ourselves grew intensely interested in the news and wondered greatly at the reason for such widespread publicity.

In the midst of our wonderment, we espied an item stating that Mr. Culbertson was preparing something to be put before the public eye in the near future. So we awoke to the fact that publicity plays an important part in the present world, after which we dropped the entire matter.

Bazaar reports were given by the treasurer, Mrs. Mathew Jauss reported on the luncheon and card party held last week at an East Orange food shop. Mrs. Arndt reported on the dessert card party to be held tomorrow afternoon and evening in the parish house.

A Christmas party followed and the parish house was decorated for the occasion in red and green. Tables were trimmed with poinsettias and small Christmas trees. Each member and guest received an artificial candle holder and candle containing candy. Refreshments were served. Mrs. John Treber was dressed as "Santa" and distributed small gifts to all present.

Class cooperation was displayed last night in the High School auditorium when the senior class presented its traditional annual play.

You students can display an even greater amount of class cooperation by selling tickets to your parents and older friends for tonight's performance.

The play, without a doubt, is a smash hit. The actors are talented in every sense of the word. Use that as your sales talk and you'll sell plenty of tickets.

GOING FORWARD

Belleville High School graduates who obtain some sort of recognition for a particular talent, do not lose their fame after matriculation.

Those who are known for their singing, acting, playing of musical instruments or writing, have gone out and "knocked them cold" in every sense of the phrase.

Outstanding among them is Eilen Conroy, who is at present a student at Syracuse University. We'll hear a lot about her as we have heard about other B. H. "Greats."

Senior Class Show, "Growing Pains" Reveals That Local Pupils Are Genuine Troupers

Jail Scene Stands Out Above All Others in Production Which Opened Last Night and Concludes This Evening

William Engleman, as "George," and Miss Wanda Rodgers, as "Terry," proved themselves real thespians in the senior class production, "Growing Pains," presented last night at the high school auditorium. The show will be presented again tonight.

One scene in which "George" is sent to jail because he resents the policeman's implication that his car is a pile of junk, stands out above all others in the play.

"Terry" implores the policeman, who is played by James Cozzarelli, not to send "George" to jail because, as she puts it, "you've just had your tonsils out, George."

The vamp, "Prudence," as ably played by Muriel Somers, complicates the situation and makes that platitude, "True love never runs smooth," a truism. The way she twists the males around "her little finger" is a scene to behold.

Another meritorious performance is the third act, workmanship of Robert Cook, as "Professor MacIntyre," who dominates this act with the idiosyncrasies of a pedantic professor.

"Brian," as capably played by William Palmer, notably supports "George" in his delineation of that part.

Others in the cast are Mrs. MacIntyre, Genevieve Holland; Sophie, Peggy Luby; Mrs. Patterson, Betty Schwab; Elsie Patterson, Anna Martella; Dutch, Fred Johnston; Patty, Isabel Smith; Jane, Claire O'Dea; Vivian, Isobel Watson.

Study Income Tax

Reports in Classes

Advanced Bookkeeping

Group Finds Fun in Unusual Headache

The advanced bookkeeping classes, under the direction of Samuel Blair, are completing the unit of work on income tax reports.

These taxes are of interest to all because sooner or later all people hope to make money enough to pay income taxes.

Although the income tax forms change from time to time, they are fundamentally the same.

These income tax problems are based on the average income. Some of the items studied are: Allowable deductions and how to figure the net income and the amount of tax each person has to pay.

Clubs

By IRVING BERKOWITZ

CHESS CLUB—New interest has been shown in the last few meetings. Definite plans for the future have been planned by Mr. Cotter. An exhibit board will be used in the discussion of all games.

DEBATING CLUB—An invitation to debate North Plainfield was unanimously accepted at last meeting. The debate will be held February 24, 1938, with a return engagement following in Belleville. The date of the return debate has not been set.

Initiation by-laws are being written by some of the members. A semi-circle seating system is used. This enables all to spend freely on the discussed subject. The total membership includes twenty-eight.

CAMERA CLUB—With the aid of Mr. Spotts, many fine prints have been developed. The work mostly concerns nature. There are seventy belonging to the club at present.

Dewey Decimal System

Explained for Libraries

Miss Gregoria Condon, English teacher, this week gave lectures on library work which Miss Lucy Wishart, school librarian, discussed thoroughly on Monday and Tuesday of the previous week.

Miss Condon emphasized the importance of knowing the series numbers of books in all libraries. She said most all libraries are conducted on the Dewey decimal system.

As a guide to students the following numbers were classified for general student information.

- 010-099, General works.
- 200-299, Religion.
- 300-399, Sociology.
- 500-599, Natural science.
- 600-699, Useful arts.
- 700-799, Fine arts.
- 800-899, Literature.
- 900-999, History.

Labor and Wages

The High School economics classes, under the guidance of Frank Smith, are at present engaged in discussions concerning labor and wages.

A few of the topics under labor and wages are "Theories of Wages," "Labor Organizations," "Employers' Methods of Wage Payment," "Methods Employed by Labor Organizations to Obtain Demands" and "Methods Used by Employers' Organizations to Counteract Demands of Labor."

In Charge of Club at

Mr. Albertine is a sophomore at Moravian College.

While at Belleville High School he was active in baseball, basketball and was a member of the school orchestra.

Orchestra Selections

The Belleville High School orchestra, under the guidance of Miss Alice Walters, played the following numbers last night and will play them tonight at the senior class presentation of "Growing Pains": "Finlandia," Jean Sibelius and "Three Musketeers" Rudolf Friml.

Library Has Appeal

To Many Pupils

Over 2700 Books Taken Out

During September and October

Over 2,700 books have been taken out by the high school library during the months of September and October.

The students of Belleville High have grown book conscious lately and seem to have taken a great interest in their library.

Before the new books were placed on the shelf Miss Lucy Wishart had many requests for them.

Magazines, encyclopedias and non-fiction books, as well as novels, are in popular demand.

All in all the Belleville High School educational trend has been in the direction of various books.

The Interrogator

By Alyce Lynas, Senior Class.

The Question—Should soccer be included as a major sport in Belleville High School?

ANSWERS.

Virginia Gassner—Yes! I think soccer would be a good game to have in B. H. S. It would be something new and probably would create great interest.

There should be good material for soccer among the boys in our school.

Leo Culkin—The game is an entirely too rough one for high school boys. We have a sufficient amount of sports without the inclusion of soccer.

Hetty Leek—No, I don't think soccer should be included. There are very few neighboring schools who have such teams and thus there would be very little competition.

Dave Martin—Belleville High School should adopt soccer as part of its major sports program. Kearny High School, for example, has a soccer team, as well as many other large schools.

As an added benefit it would give more boys a chance to play in high school sports.

Edward Holler—Yes, I think that soccer should be included in the high school sports program.

It would give fellows that don't play well in other sports a chance to show what they can do.

Anna Martello—Yes, I believe soccer would be a good sport to start. I think that the boys should be allowed to play it if they want to.

William Crisp—Yes, I think that any sport that is popular with the students should be included.

It promotes inter-student relations and the more sports we enter into as a student body, the better we will be known as a school.

Patricia Rose—I think that there should be soccer in B. H. S., because we haven't had any variety in sports in such a long time that it would be supported strongly by the student body.

Know Your Teachers

By Peggy Luby

Miss Eleanor A. Rush.

Miss Rush is dramatics coach and also an English teacher in the high school. She is home-room teacher of 303, one of the classes carrying the 100 per cent banking banner. That banner has been acquired for eight weeks in succession.

Miss Rush is a native of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. She attended Peabody High School in Pittsburgh and graduated from Wilmington High School. Her higher education was obtained at the Universities of Delaware and Pennsylvania.

There is one little episode in her life that is especially interesting to us. It is hard to say whether this is incidental or providential, but she seems to be Miss Freda Reeds' shadow. Miss Reed, as you remember, was our dramatic coach until this year, when Miss Rush came in her place. Once before Miss Rush replaced Miss Reed, when she joined the faculty at Hamington, New Jersey, from which school Miss Reed had just departed. Miss Rush also taught at Saint George, Delaware, and Wilmington, Delaware.

Her main ambition is to be a songwriter and to better the song lyrics of today. She has found a few of today's songs, however, which she enjoys, including "Harbor Lights" and "That Old Feeling," but she still yearns to try her hand at writing ones that are even better.

She is a collector of all antiques and enjoys mostly the gathering of first editions of rare books.

Her favorite plays are those of Shakespeare and she chooses Walter Hampden as her favorite Shakespearean actor. She also enjoys good musical comedies when she is in quest of lighter amusement.

Probably her greatest work this year has been the coaching of the senior play. She deserves a great deal of credit for all the time and energy she has put into making this play a success. She really deserves the praise of all our students and townspeople, as well, in this venture.

Miss Rush has said that she has enjoyed her work on this senior play and that we have a great deal of talent present in our senior class. She praised the cooperation which every member of the cast has displayed, and also expressed her thanks for the splendid support of the entire faculty, without which the play could never have been completed.

In regard to her opinion of our entire student body, Miss Rush stated that she thinks the play cast is representative of the cooperative attitude of the rest of the school; that the pupils, in general, are well trained and they reflect credit on our institution—Belleville High School.

Radiograms Sent Free

By RICHARD STIMSON

In an interview with a News reporter, Griffith Casler announced a free radiogram service. Any amateur radio operator (there are at least fifteen in Belleville), will transmit a message for you to any place in the United States, its possessions, or Canada. Payment to the operator is prohibited by law.

Although Griffith is the only licensed operator in Belleville High School, several other students intend to apply for licenses soon. To obtain a "Class B" license one must pass a technical examination and send and receive the international Morse code at the rate of thirteen words per minute. After one year of operation he may apply for a "Class A" license, which will permit use of the seventy-five or twenty meter voice communication, which demands expensive equipment. The only cost of a license is a twenty-five cent notary public fee.

These amateur stations have proved very helpful in times of flood, hurricane, ship disaster, and other emergencies. Their experiences often lead to improvements in radio apparatus. Griffith got his start in radio when he built a crystal receiver in 1934. In 1936, he passed his test and was licensed to transmit and assigned the call letters W2KFR. He lives at 3 Claremont place, Montclair. Once he sent a message to Chicago. After he graduates, he hopes to get a commercial license and ship aboard some vessel as a radio operator.

Prepare for Christmas Assembly

Plans for the high school Christmas assembly have been practically completed. The music and dramatics department will collaborate in the venture.

The music classes will render "Why the Chimes Rang," by E. A. McFadden. The drama department will offer a Christmas play.

The art class is constructing the scenery.

During the assembly, Santa Claus is scheduled to appear.

Parties Planned in

Domestic Science

By Mary Sullivan

Yuletide parties will be held in the domestic science classes next week.

Miss Elinor Allison, teacher of the subject, plans to have more household projects in the near future. She also intends to have her students make some candies for the approaching Yuletide season.

Girls Recreation

Girls wishing to partake in after school sport should apply to Miss Lydia Wright or Miss Margaret Leahy in the girls' gym.

Every day after school hours, a group of girls gather to play basketball under the guidance of Miss Wright.

"Oh!...an Upstairs 'phone for Mother"

A Gift of daily usefulness

It will mean so much to her...affording welcome protection at night...providing privacy for her when her teen-age daughter or son are entertaining in the living room...and, if she is like the women in 16 New Jersey communities who tried a home telephone experiment*, it will save her every week—

- up to nearly a mile of walking in her home • as many as 40 trips up and down stairs
- and up to 70,000 foot-pounds* of energy—enough to raise a ton of coal 35 feet.

Ask the Business Office about our convenient gift plan for giving telephone service or equipment to someone in your home, or even in another town or state. Do it now, and your gift will be delivered in time for Christmas.

*In this experiment these women lived without and then with an upstairs extension telephone. Kept records of all calls made and received, and the telephone used. Savings in energy, with the upstairs extension, were found by converting the savings in distance walked into foot-pounds.

COMPULSORY INSPECTION LAW

By J. ALDEN De RONDE

Although the Motor Vehicle Department of our state has frequently exposed itself to justified criticism by declaring its faith in the compulsory inspection law as a "safety" measure, we can not reconcile ourselves to the belief that the chief of that department, Mr. Arthur W. Magee, has failed to see the significance of the many reports submitted by competent authorities who have found that over 95 per cent of all automobile accidents are caused by careless or inefficient drivers.

By inference, if not otherwise, Mr. Magee admits, once every week, that defective cars are responsible for only a negligible number of automobile accidents.

In his weekly reports and admonitions to the motorists of New Jersey, (copies of which we receive) he has

Washington
Snapshots
 by JAMES PRESTON

Congress in no uncertain terms is standing up on its hind legs and demanding the right to legislate as it feels best. The reason? The business recession and the desire to avoid sitting by idle while the country is forced into another tailspin like that which followed 1929.

One factual result already evident is that the five-point program set up for the special session has been knocked a-winding. Bets now are that only one of these will be enacted and two new ones probably substituted.

The original program included farm, wage-hour, government reorganization, "little TVA" and anti-trust bills. Of all these, leaders now believe that only farm legislation has any chance of passing and even that might be put over until January.

The new planks in the program are legislation to stimulate housing and to eliminate or modify the tax on undistributed corporate income. Both of these are being put forward because Congress knows the general public wants legislation which will stimulate confidence rather than breed fear.

That is the reason, too, why wage-hour, "little TVA," anti-trust and government reorganization bills won't be pushed—they stimulate fear, not confidence.

This Washington talk about budget balancing is serious, as evidenced by the President's letter to Senator Barkley calling attention to the fact that $250,000,000 or thereabouts must be raised to finance the new farm plan and that extra taxes must be levied where more expenditures are legislated.

The budget can't be balanced and the farm plan financed too without the use of two things and probably both: (1) restoration of confidence so that business will pick up and tax collections stop their downward skid, and (2) the levying of some new taxes.

The budget balancing demands and depression fears are so strong now that more and more Congressmen are selling themselves upon the idea that a manufacturers sales tax must be resorted to. It all comes out of the same pocket, they realize, but too many business taxes defeat their own end by drying up the reservoirs.

Somebody needs to amend, not only the Federal Housing Act, but also the feeling that exists between Secretary Ickes of the Interior Department and Nathan Straus, chief of the new housing set-up.

Ickes battled Congress and finally got the new housing organization put under his control. Then Straus, whom Ickes didn't like very much, was made head of the new agency.

The feeling between the two cropped out at a recent conference at which Ickes admitted that three years ago he authorized wire-tapping to check up on his aides. Straus served notice that if his wires were tapped there would be plenty of fireworks.

warned against every thing except the driving of mechanically defective automobiles.

Never, to our knowledge, has he mentioned mechanical defect as a cause of an appreciable number of highway mishaps.

Seldom do we or any of our friends find a report in the newspapers or elsewhere of such an accident being attributed to that cause.

So the question arises as to whom is the power responsible for foisting upon us this useless and extravagant legislation.

A certain element among the automobile repairmen of our state believe they will benefit by this law, but those in that trade who prefer to obtain their business through ability and integrity, rather than through the force of law, are, we believe, in the majority.

So, we repeat, where is the power behind this law?

As we have previously stated, the coming inspections will be performed in twenty-eight stations, located at various vantage points throughout the state and a great deal of testing equipment will go into them.

To even insinuate that those who make that equipment and those who handle it as distributors (or factory representatives) had, in any way, influenced the enactment of this law, for their own gain, would be considered presumptuous—as well as libelous—but if the law has proven worthless, where it has been tried and, if our motor vehicle authorities, who will be responsible for its operation, can give it only the support of silence, and if those who are to pay a million dollars a year (or more) for its operation, can't see how they are to benefit, then what conclusion is left to the payees?

Well, if we can contribute $150,000 for a "Sell New Jersey" campaign and then pay an expert $15,000 per year to show us how to spend it, some poor, deserving souls should benefit when we, the taxpayers, kick in enough to pay for a lot of machinery which will benefit—who?

Expect Huge Crowd At St. Peter's Party

About 1,200 Attended Last Affair at School Hall

The usual weekly affair of St. Peter's Social Society will be held in the new school building Friday night. It is anticipated that the attendance will equal, if not surpass, that of a few weeks ago, when about 1,200 persons were present. An attractive feature will be that all of the awards will consist of orders for turkeys, which may be reserved for Christmas.

Mrs. Katherine Paxton is chairman of the committee on arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Walter Garvey, Mrs. Frank O'Neill, Mrs. James Salmon, Mrs. John T. Burke, Mrs. Michael McCann, Mrs. Patrick Geishen, Mrs. James Barnes, Mrs. Mary Roberts, Mrs. Harry Donnelly, Mrs. Frances Donnelly, Mrs. Joseph Donnelly, Mrs. William Herkness, Mrs. Michael Ford, Mrs. Arthur Davis, Mrs. James Mooney, Mrs. Thomas McNair, and the Misses Mary Glynn, Elizabeth Cousins, Helen Kelly, Margaret Powers and Teresa Salmon.

Miss Maude Donnelly heads the committee arranging for a Christmas social, to be held after the regular meeting next Thursday night. All members are urgently requested to attend.

BELLOWING ABOUT BELLEVILLE

By JACOB LEVINE

Class 1938, Belleville High School

A Chat With Sylvia Smith.

But here, surely, was something she had never before experienced. Why, she had always done the interviewing. She, it was, who had always popped the questions. She, who waited with pencil and pad for the answers. She, who had talked with the greats of musical and theatrical world. She, who had asked questions of doctors, plumbers, governors, actors, barbers, coffee salesmen, movie directors, G-men, senators. She, who had always been behind the guns, was now being fired at from all sides (and the smile that pervaded her countenance seemed to say that she thoroughly enjoyed it).

Of Sylvia Smith, well known journalist and present citizen of Belleville, it may truly be said that she was born with a pen in her right hand. From her earliest childhood she displayed a strong inclination for writing. She was graduated from South Side High of Newark, where she had shown faint signs of precocity, and had, on innumerable occasions, elicited gasps of approbation from her amazed teachers upon turning in an essay or short story of some type of composition.

Miss Smith then entered Columbia University and took a night course in journalism. But she was a great believer in the bewhiskered, old adage that practice makes perfect, and so, while she went to school at night, she became a cub reporter for the Newark Ledger during the day. It was her first job on any newspaper and, incidentally, is her present affiliation.

Graduating from Columbia, she accepted a position as society editor with the Hudson Dispatch, a position which she knew practically little or nothing about, and which placed her as superior to eight other reporters. Dissatisfied with society writing she thought of a new idea and told it to the editor.

"I dummed out a feature page and showed him just what I had in mind. I wanted a page generally devoted to features—human interest stories, stories that present themselves in everyday life."

Her idea clicked for a time and then Miss Smith broke with the Hudson Dispatch and moved into more familiar territory, into her own back yard, as it were. The Newark Star Eagle became her next employer, and for that paper she began to write feature stories. Then it was that she accepted the editorship of a Newark weekly paper. However, her stay in this organization was brief, and a year later she became assistant director of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's foreign publicity department. Press agent manager was her next position with a New York theatrical firm.

At this point Miss Smith tossed aside the apparel of reporter and donned the more exquisite robes of a novelist. She had pondered on many occasions the idea of a novel, and so, finally, decided to carry out her plan. One full year she spent in research; delving into characters, writing, re-writing, and at last she completed her work. A full length novel, a very serious literary effort, in fact so serious that no publisher as yet has been conciliated to the idea that it will make a hit with the trash-devouring, reading public of today. But Miss Smith feels that some day some publisher will sense the real value of the story.

Next a period of three years ensued in which the columnist was a free lance writer, contributing largely to magazines and New York newspapers. And finally after a long and diversified career as feature writer, she returned to her first love—reporting. And, as in her first attempts in the field of journalism, the Newark Ledger was her stamping ground. She has remained there ever since, now being theatre editor and the author of a daily column entitled, "Much A-do," which is in the nature of a roving assignment, having taken her as far south as Florida and as far west as California. She writes on any subject that she chooses, devoting Friday's column to hobbies and Saturday's to contributions, poetic and prose, of amateurs and the like.

How did she possibly manage to get material for a daily column? "Every columnist, generally speaking," she began again, doing a remarkable job in her first attempt at answering questions, "gets material for writing through three sources: the newspaper and magazine, the mail, and general observation. By the first mentioned—the newspaper and magazine—I keep in step with the time and gather interesting items from various publications. "The mail is an even greater source of columns. Friends and reporters constantly send in anecdotes, occurring during their vacation or on fishing trips, etc. My greatest aid, however, is my general observation. You'd be surprised how much one could see by just walking down Broad street on a Saturday afternoon. Any one can furnish material for a column. You overhear a woman complaining about the Saturday afternoon rush hour. The shoe-shine boy, the peanut vender, the man-about-town, the cop on his beat—every one has some particular characteristic in hearing about."

But how did she run her column so that she might appeal to all types of people?

That obstacle was not so easily removed. One day she would write about Sergei Rachmaninoff, probably the most celebrated pianist of the day; and that type would appeal to the more intelligent person. Next day she would receive a complaint from the taxicab driver or the bellboy that the column about Rachmaninoff was too highbrow, that it soared far above their commonplace interests.

What would she do? She had to please everybody.

The following day, riding to the office via a Broad street bus, she was suddenly startled by the clear, resonant voice of an Italian ice man. In fact, every one in the bus was so enthralled that they all peeped out to catch a glimpse of the "singing ice man." Miss Smith immediately grasped the idea, copied down the name on the truck, and when she returned to her office she at once translated her thoughts to a typewritten page.

And thus, she had satisfied the literary taste of the ordinary man on the street, too, she had let down her erudite reader who devoured Rachmaninoff and company, and the very same day a grizzly, uncouth stranger, ice tongs in hand, marched into her Ledger office and shouted:

"Mees Smeeth, you are soocha nice ladee for to geeve me—Tony, d'ice man—soocha write-up. You like-a my voice, no? All-a-right, how you like-a this? O-Sol-o-meel..."

And is everybody happy? That's what you think. A week later orchids pour in from her erudite reader, and a slightly perturbed peanut vender snorts a cold "good morning, Miss Smith," for the simple reason that her latest column dealt with the prospects of the forthcoming theatrical season and reminiscences of the theatre of yesterday.

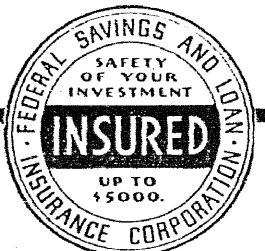

What are you going to do?

Miss Smith has always taken a keen interest in the up-and-coming amateur, who feels that he is meant for the journalistic game. Her Saturday column is the medium through which these potential authors are able to show their literary talents that would otherwise have remained dormant, tied up with a rubber band and placed in a drawer to be forgotten by every one except mother, who sees no sense in having junk lying around and tosses it out into the garbage can. In a word, it gives them a "push" it stimulates in them the needed impetus to go forward to greater accomplishments. I know. It was in Sylvia Smith's "Much A-do" column that I first saw my literary efforts on a printed page. And I'm sure that other young aspirants in the journalistic field, who have had their desires materialize in Sylvia Smith's column, feel the same way that I do.

Mayor Hague

formed seven years ago, under the directorship of Dr. Thomas Hopkins, assistant superintendent of schools.

"I requested every teacher, every member of the police department, and every person connected with the courts to attend a meeting in order to have a 'show down.' I told the teachers if a child needed correction they were paid to do it. I told the truancy department if they dragged another child from a classroom they would be discharged. I told the police department if they put a hand on a boy in Jersey City I would dismiss them the next day."

The bureau was then established. As outlined by Mayor Hague, the procedure is briefly as follows:

Police have been ordered, if it is necessary, to "arrest" a child, they shall take him immediately to the nearest store or house, making every effort to avoid any excitement or attention. They then obtain the child's name and address, call his mother, and tell her to come and take him home.

Procedure.

They then turn the child's name, together with the name of the complaining witness, over to Dr. Hopkins' office. Trained investigators look into the child's background, his mentality, and his associations. At a specified date the child, his parents, and the complainant appear before the bureau, which is located in the administration building, away from the courts and police station. After a thorough questioning and proper admonition, the child is released, under a degree of supervision deemed necessary by the bureau.

"We place the most of the responsibility on the parents," Mayor Hague explained, "we have found the father is the most effective corrective agency. We have told fathers to get a strap and take his child into the back room. That pretty often cures a boy!"

Mayor Hague delved into personal experience to illustrate his point. "I was a child before the present system came into effect," he said, "I was a truant and was expelled from at least two schools. Under the present system I would have been sent to a corrective institution. If I had do you think I would have ever become the first citizen in Jersey City, and have, at least some say, some power in the state? Instead I went to work."

Commends Committee.

The speaker commended the committee, consisting of Mayor Turner of Passaic, Dr. Hopkins, and Commissioner Ellis of the department of institutions and agencies, which has been investigating juvenile delinquency in New Jersey.

"Juvenile courts point with pride to a record of convictions as proof of their efficiency. I say they should be ashamed, for every boy they send to a penal institution they are sentencing to a life of crime. They might as well order the boy shot."

Hague said that before the Special Service Bureau was established, Jersey City sent 850 boys a year to penal institutions. Last year they sent fourteen.

"They say I am encouraging crime. I say we are curing it, by intelligence

More Awards Given Shorthand Students

Fifteen more members of Mrs. Snedeker's shorthand classes just received Certificates of Award from the Gregg Publishing Company.

Peggy Luby and Marjorie Hanlon passed the test for shorthand transcription at 100 words per minute.

Frances Armanda, Janet Moffet, Margaret Hiedeman and Jessie Adams achieved a speed of eighty words per minute.

Elsie Scaperotta, Ruth Stalter, John Brisk, Dorothy Stockton, Jeanne Schwieker, Olive Delaporte, and Catherine Macdonald passed at sixty words per minute.

Thelma Jensen, Marian Ward and Marjorie Hanlon received Complete Theory Certificates for passing a test on shorthand theory.

and hard work. Before our bureau was established 2,000 crimes were reported annually from a certain district in Jersey City. Last year only 400 crimes were reported from this district."

Hague urged his hearers to support legislation which would in time make Jersey City's plan for juvenile delinquency control, state-wide in scope.

"I am being opposed in this," he said, "the probation department is against us. They say if it is inaugurated they will lose their jobs. I'd like to tell them they will lose their jobs, if I can bring it about, because their system is no good!"

Over seventy-five were unable to be accommodated due to the overflow attendance.

THE GAY AND POPULAR "Bal Masqué" presentations have been ensembled by LENTHÉRIC in festive holiday wrapping. Included are the bath powder and face powder in charming boxes depicting madcap merrymakers at a masquerade ball; also a vanity and lipstick in either white or black enamel trimmed with a tiny masque motif. Decidedly gift-priced at $4.50.

Another "Bal Masqué" set contains the vanity and face powder only at $2.50.

Bouquet Lenthéric The Daytime Fragrance

You will feel all a-glow and a-tingle if you apply Bouquet Lenthéric generously all over the body, especially after a tub or shower. After this pervading sensation of cool freshness you will then experience the delicate, lasting fragrance that Bouquet Lenthéric bestows.

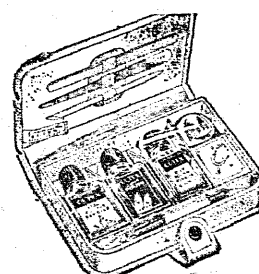

Perfume is at its most charming when it becomes a part of you—a breath of fragrance tantalizingly aloof, yet ever-present. Bouquet Lenthéric achieves this effect most successfully, and that is why it is presented in the same exquisite essences as the celebrated Lenthéric perfumes . . . Asphodèle, Miracle, Lotus d'Or, Au Fil de l'Eau, Forêt Vierge, Le Pirate, Tweed, Shanghai, Gardenia de Tahiti, and Numéro 12.
