Officers Elected by Local Service Bureau

Rev. Edgar M. Compton Will Act As President For Another Year

The following officers were elected for the year at the February meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Community Service Bureau, Tuesday evening: President, Rev. Edgar M. Compton; second vice president, Mrs. W. P. Adams; secretary, Miss Mary Biller and treasurer, Dr. Morris Rochlin.

Mr. Compton appointed the following committees: Finance, Philip Detelbach, chairman, Dr. Rochlin, Dr. Ernest C. Reock and Herbert C. Schmutz; nominating, August Plenge, chairman, Halley Hickok, Dr. Reock and Dr. George Kaden; interpretation and publicity, Wayne Parmer, chairman, Mrs. Irene McCorkle, Mrs. Morris Rochlin, Mr. Hickok, Dr. Kaden, Mrs. Georgia Peterson, Walter Warrick, Elmer S. Hyde, George Weston and Thomas Delaney.

In appointing this committee, Mr. Compton stated that he felt the work of the group would be the most important project of the bureau this year, as one of the most pressing needs is to have more people understand the work.

Mrs. Irene McCorkle was appointed chairman of the Case Committee, the membership of which will continue as it has in the past year.

Mr. Compton also stated that he hoped it would be possible to develop a closer tie in with the churches during the coming year.

Mrs. Julia O. Reiner, executive secretary, reported thirty-nine applications were received during January. This is the highest number ever received in one month and is double the highest number during any month last year. She accounted for this as largely due to the fact that more people understood the services the bureau is prepared to offer. The chief problems for which people came she listed as follows:

Family disturbances and personality difficulties, eleven; need of health care, nine; employment, eight; economic need, five; school problems, two; mental retardation, one, and legal aid, one. In twenty-three cases applicants came to the bureau voluntarily, five were referred by the State Board of Children's Guardians, three each by board members and the Board of Health, one clergyman referred a case and four other individuals sent people to the agency for help.

Schmutz Is President Of School Board

Named at Organization Meeting After Gilby Declines Post

Herbert C. Schmutz, 91 Overlook avenue, was elected president of the Board of Education Monday night at an organization meeting.

Mr. Schmutz was appointed January 14, 1936, to fill the unexpired term of James J. Turner. Walter Gilby, who was elected vice-president at the meeting, was proposed as president by Mr. Schmutz, but declined, saying that pressure of business kept him out of town all day, and therefore, he could not give the time needed to fill properly the office.

The Girl Scouts of Belleville were granted permission to hold a jamboree in the old high school gymnasium, March 26.

Robert Mayer, 29 Overlook avenue, was awarded the contract, at the meeting, for the repairing of the heating system at School No. 10, at his estimate of $1,450.

They Took Nickels and Dimes - and a Life! Now They'll Spend Their Lives - Behind Bars

Ethel "Bunnie" Sohl and Genevieve "Chippie" Owens Sentenced for "Rest of Natural Lives" Behind Bars of Clinton Reformatory

Life imprisonment was the verdict Tuesday night of a jury of twelve men in Judge Daniel J. Brennan's court after they had deliberated three hours and forty-four minutes over the fate of Ethel "Bunnie" Sohl and Genevieve "Chippie" Owens.

Thus closed another chapter in the drama, in which two youthful figures took the life of William Barhorst, Totowa bus driver and in return for it will spend their lives behind bars—in Clinton Reformatory.

First it was a gas station stickup—then another—and finally murder in a bus here on December 21—for a few paltry nickels and dimes, in the aggregate about $2.10 worth, that spelled a life time in jail for "Bunnie," who is twenty, and "Chippie," eighteen.

"Bunnie," as stolid as she had remained during the eight days of the trial, except for her ashen face and apparent slight loss in weight occasioned by the ordeal, took the verdict staring at the wall behind Judge Brennan. "Chippie," who was described as a pathetic product of the neighborhood on the other side of the tracks, the girl who never had a chance by her attorney, Reginald Parnell, former Newark commissioner, crumpled in a heap into the arms of a matron. Her knees buckled as she jerked back her head and began sobbing.

"They can't. They can't." These words fell hysterically from the lips of Mrs. Diane Koval, Rutherford, "Chippie's" sister, as she was ushered from the courtroom.

Radio Patrolman Frank Strouse, "Bunnie's" father, was shaken as he left the room. Her mother was ill in bed at home under a doctor's care.

Mrs. Barhorst, who had attended each session in court, was brief in her remarks:

"I'm satisfied," she said.

Harry Specht Tells of Business Conference

"Little Fellow" Really Did a Swell Job Declares Eastwood Official

"The little business man, as a general rule, judging from the conference in Washington, is a prima donna until he becomes a big business man and therefore the small business people will never organize."

Thus spoke Harry Specht, Eastwood-Neally Corporation, at a meeting of Belleville Rotary Club at luncheon Wednesday in Forest Hill Field Club.

Mr. Specht said that he was among 100 or 150 persons who had been added to the array of small business men as "an after thought." Just why an official of a large corporation like Eastwood-Neally should be invited to sit in at the conference was explained by Mr. Specht, who said small business included any one employing up to 500 or doing a business of $1,000,000 or less per year.

"I was invited Friday, January 29, and didn't intend to go," said Mr. Specht, "but I learned a lot while there. I was amazed at the understanding between retailers and wholesalers. The lack of organization and the haste with which the conference was arranged caused the confusion of which the newspapers spoke. How-

Local Taxpayers' Group to Nominate Officers Followed by Public Meeting Monday Night

New Group Will Delve into Tax Rise Situation and Study Possibility of An Elected Board of Education

Urging taxpayers of Belleville to turn out in large numbers at a public meeting scheduled Monday night in Public School No. 8, Union avenue. Arthur E. Chiappari, secretary of a group, which held a tentative meeting Monday night in the Recreation House, announces officers will be nominated at a meeting which is scheduled tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Recreation House.

For the purpose of nomination, presidents of all existing improvement associations will be asked to attend tomorrow's meeting. It is expected the new group, which is tentatively known as Taxpayers of Belleville, will adopt then a permanent name for the organization.

About 150 residents of Greylock and Belwood Park sections attended Monday's meeting, when it was pointed out that the group should look into reasons surrounding the increase of the tax rate from 3.75 to 5.05 per $100 assessment, as was predicted for this year by Mayor William H. Williams last week. Edwin R. Ackerman, 25 Adelaide street, is chairman of the group, some prominent members of which are Henry J. Mason, president of the Recreation Commission, J. A. Dunn, W. B. Stewart and M. C. Graham.

Among other things the group plans to study whether an elected school board would not be better suited to Belleville's needs and how such procedure could be brought about, says Mr. Chiappari.

"When I heard the town anticipated selling $75,000 of property acquired by foreclosure I laughed out loud," Mr. Mason, New York real estate broker said. "Why conditions are so bad realtors would give New York back to the Indians for little more than they paid for it."

"We are looking for a fight," Mr. Dunn added.

Membership in the organization is open to all taxpayers of Belleville.

Mrs. O'Brien announced that Mrs. Olive Sanford who was expected to speak, was unable to be present, and that Mrs. Abbie Magee, vice chairman of Essex County, would be the speaker at the March 10 meeting. Mrs. Clarence Blair Mitchell, president of the Women's State Republican Club, will be guest speaker at the April meeting.

Youth Picked Up As Amnesia Victim

Boston Lad Who Was Hurt In Fall Asked "Where Am I?"

Apparently suffering from amnesia, well-dressed Donald Joseph Curran, sixteen, 74 Brooks street, Brighton, Mass., was picked up in Washington avenue by William Schemm, 45 Division avenue, when the youth asked where he was.

Schemm took the youth to police headquarters, where young Curran said that he did not remember much following a fall down the stairs at his home Sunday when his head struck a brick wall. He also told the police that his father was a patrolman in Boston. A teletype message was sent to Boston and the boy's father immediately contacted Belleville and arranged for the Travelers' Aid Bureau to take the boy home.

Receipts found in the young man's pocket indicated that he spent the nights of February 13 and 14 in the Mills hotel in New York City. Also in his pocket was a telegram which he said he intended sending home asking for money.

He was taken to the Pennsylvania railroad station in Newark by Officer John Monaghan, where a representative of the bureau took charge of the boy.

Mayor William H. Williams Saturday spoke over WAAT on "Lincoln and Education."

In part the talk follows: "On this Lincoln anniversary, I ask you to visualize with me the educational opportunities or limited opportunities available to Lincoln as a youth and by contrast mentally note the privileges available to the high school student of today to obtain a broad analysis of the usual subjects taught in high school and college and particularly through the daily press to learn of actions and conditions throughout the world within the hour or day of each development."

Valentine Party at Girl Scout Meeting

Original Play Was Given by Girls of Local Troop No. 9

A regular meeting of Troop No. 9, Girl Scouts, was held under the direction of the leader, Miss Edna Baum, Tuesday when the troop valentine box was opened and every girl received many valentines. Postmen were Catherine Broadhurst, Eleanor Roskelly, Betty Lou Turner and Gloria Hubert.

A shower of valentines was sent to Ruth Plumeau, who is in Soho Isolation Hospital, recovering from scarlet fever.

The surprise was a school play, written and given under the direction of Josephine Lutz. The play, "Miss Goulash Is Always Right," had the following enactment: Miss Goulash, teacher, Miss Lutz, pupils, Catherine Miller, Joan Nelson, Mary Lou Bodkin, Priscilla Lutz and Florence Kohn.

The costumes were original of an old time school teacher and her naughty boys and girls.

This entertainment gave every one in the entire troop more laughs than any other play so far this year.

Miss Kohn danced and Miss Miller sang.

Next week this troop will not have a meeting because of the holiday, Washington's birthday. The troop reporter is Margaret Revill.

SCOUTS AND THEIR ACTIVITIES

THE BOY SCOUT TRAIL TO CITIZENSHIP

About forty scouts assembled on the lawn of the Christ Episcopal Church Saturday at 11 A. M., for assignments at the various stop lights along Washington avenue. The purpose of this demonstration was to show by example the proper method, time and place to cross street intersections.

Before taking their posts on the various street intersections all scouts participated in a short re-dedication service of their scout oath, law and the salute and pledge of allegiance to the flag.

This demonstration was part of a national program of safety in connection with the twenty-eighth scout anniversary. Local scout activities were under the supervision of the Robert Treat Area Council. The field activities of the Belleville district were under the supervision of W. Douglas Clark, Jr., district commissioner and John S. Charlton, assistant district commissioner.

The following troop and institutional sponsors participated in the safety demonstration and other activities during anniversary week: Troop No. 4, sponsored by Wesley Methodist Church; Troop No. 50, sponsored by Fewsmith Presbyterian Church; Troop No. 86, sponsored by Grace Baptist Church; Troop No. 88, sponsored by Christ Episcopal Church; Troop No. 90, sponsored by Baptist Friendly House and Troop No. 92, sponsored by the Recreation House.

The local street demonstration was approved by Town Commissioner Gerard of the Belleville Department of Health and Safety. The scouts were supervised by members of the Belleville Police Department.

Final instructions, precautions, and other information were given the boys by Sergeant Robert Anderson of the Belleville Police Department.

The scouts are to be congratulated upon their participation in the local activities and upon being a member of the world's largest organization for boys and a brother scout to almost a million other scouts in America.

BOY SCOUTS AND SCOUTING

By John S. Charlton
Assistant District Commissioner of Belleville.

Thousands of boys are waiting to become scouts in the United States because of the lack of trained leaders and willing cooperative sponsoring institutions.

Belleville has 146 active registered scouts and thirty-five volunteer adult leaders. We now have six troops in the Belleville district of the Robert Treat Council.

The numbers of the troops and their sponsoring institutions, are as follows: Troop No. 4, Wesley Methodist Church; Troop No. 50, Fewsmith Presbyterian Church; Troop No. 86, Grace Baptist Church; Troop No. 88, Christ Episcopal Church; Troop No. 90, Baptist Friendly House (Silver Lake); Troop No. 92, Recreation House.

(Article, written for the Harrisburg Daily Reporter, Harrisburg, Illinois, in 1930.)

Boy Scouts and Scouting.

Thousands of boys are waiting to become scouts because of the lack of leaders. Real, live men, red-blooded and right-hearted men—big men—are summoned to this national service of the leadership of the nation's boys. Scouting is America's accepted program for boy development. Scout troops dot every corner of the country, and if placed a few feet apart, would stretch a living chain from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Scouting is not bound to America, for fifty-seven countries, representing a population of 1,540,000,000, or ninety-one per cent of the population of the world, have adopted the scout program.

To set forth all of the facts related to the development of the organization of the Boy Scouts of America would require an entire book. Especially is this so because from the very beginning, as it is today, the adult leaders are entirely volunteers. The needs of boys were seen by Lieutenant-General Sir Robert S. S. Baden Powell, of England, and he was the first man to organize the boys into scouts. W. D. Boyce, while traveling in England, was accosted by the English Boy Scout and treated very courteously by him. This act of kindness set Mr. Boyce to thinking and upon returning to America, he and several of the leading men of America, gathered for a conference about the scout movement.

The Boy Scouts of America was incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia, February 8, 1910, by Mr. Boyce, Edward S. Stewart and Stanley Willis. Later a federal charter was granted by congress, June 15, 1916. The President of the United States is always the honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America.

Scouting is a movement, a program, a cause, the cause of a better boyhood. Scouting is a national movement, directed to the service of American youth. It desires to cooperate with the school, church, home and other agencies for making good American citizens.

Instruction in Scouting. The three requisites of instruction in scouting are interest, self-activity and the application or use. The scout's imagination and energy must be aroused and focused on the subject to be learned. He must take part in discussions, competitions, drills and he must be able to use his knowledge and apply it practically.

The prime factor to holding a boy's interest is variety and action. Let nothing drag, keep introducing new ideas, and give him demonstrations, maps, diagrams, models, photos to look at, and games that will instruct without his being conscious of the fact.

Self-activity is to draw out what the boys know and can do, and teach each other. Give them flags, ropes, tools, materials to handle and use, and keep them busy.

To know how to do certain things without the ability to apply them is worthless to the boy. The boy must know how to tie certain kinds of knots, and how and when to use them. He should be able to locate directions by day or night, and many other useful things for boys to know.

Methods of Teaching Scouting. There are nine methods of teaching scouting. The play method or teaching by games is probably the one most used, because all boys love to play. Competition is a method of teaching scouting in which boys compete against time, against each other, between teams, etc., in which all boys like to out-do the other fellow. Dramatization is the best way of presenting first aid problems, and the use of the compass. Signaling and life saving may also be impressed vividly on the minds by realistic staging. By actual experiment in fire-building and cooking, a boy will profit much, because his very mistakes will teach him. A scout may down gleefully a soggy pancake, but an hour later he will be less enthusiastic, and the next time he will use more care in his cooking. The scout will learn much by actual observation, such as bird study and forestry. A demonstration of the subject taught by some one experienced in that particular field or subject, or by the blackboard, charts or motion picture demonstration.

Discussion among themselves will bring out and strengthen the boy's knowledge of such subjects as hiking technique. Talks by competent men, if not too long winded, are always welcomed by the scouts. When a scout desires to study thoroughly a subject he will have to refer to textbooks, for such a subject as wireless telegraphy, or that could never be taught at a meeting.

What a Boy Scout Is.

In becoming a scout, the boy promises many things. He promises he will be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent. The most important characteristic is that of honor. This is the basis of all scout virtues and is closely allied to that of self-respect. When a scout promises to do a thing on his honor, he is more bound to do it. The honor of a scout will not permit anything but the highest, the best and the noblest. The honor of a scout is a sacred thing and cannot be lightly set aside or trampled on.

Chivalry is not a virtue that had its beginning long ago and merely lived a short time. Chivalry began among the knights of old. Later the new race of men in America took up the burden of chivalry and did the best they could. Now it is up to the boys of today to do the right thing, in a gentlemanly way, for the sake of these about them.

A scout is courteous because good manners attract and please, and should be cultivated by every boy who expects to be a success and make his life interesting and useful for others.

A scout does whatever there is to do with cheerfulness. Benjamin Franklin said "money has never yet made a man happy, and there is nothing in its nature to produce happiness. One's personal enjoyment is a very small thing, but one's personal usefulness is a very important thing." To be a good scout one must remain cheerful under every circumstance, bearing forth fortune and misfortune with a smile.

A boy scout is thrifty. He does not destroy property, work faithfully, wastes nothing, and makes the best use of his opportunities. He saves his money so that he may pay his own way, be generous to those in need, and helpful to worthy subjects.

Another scout trait is that of friendliness, even to animals—not merely the thoughtfulness that eases a horse from pain of a badly fitting harness, or gives food and drink to an animal that is in need, but also keeps a boy from throwing a stone at a cat or tying a tin can to a dog's tail. If a boy does not prove his friendliness for animals, it is quite certain that he never will be really helpful to his comrades and to the men, women and children who may need his care.

Loyalty is a scout characteristic and a scout should be loyal to whom he has obligations. He should stand up courageously for the truth, for his parents and friends.

To be a good scout, a boy must learn to obey the orders of his patrol leaders, scoutmaster and scout commissioner. He must learn to obey before he is able to command. He should keep such a strong grip upon himself that he will not allow himself to do anything which is ignoble, or which will harm his life or weaken his power of endurance.

A scout must be prepared at all times to save life, help injured persons, and show home duties. He must do at least one good turn each day. He has the courage to face danger in spite of fear, and to stand up for right against wrong. He does not mind jeers or threats of enemies, and defeat does not down him. A scout keeps clean in body and thought, stands for clean speech, clean sports, clean habits, and travels with a clean crowd.

Scouts are reverent toward God. They are faithful in their religious duties, and respect the convictions of others in matters of customs and religions.

After all, scoutcraft stands for character building and citizenship. The man who works with boys is dealing with one of the most fluid and changeable and difficult problems in the world—boy nature. Therefore, he who works with boys must be resourceful and have initiative. Roosevelt said: "If you are going to do anything for the average man, you have got to begin before he is a man. The chances of success lie in working with the boy, not the man."

extent that it is really a massive tome.

Supper Climaxes Church Anniversary

Wesley Folks Last Night Concluded Celebration Marking 147 Years

A congregational supper was held last night in Wesley M. E. Church, as a part of its 147th anniversary, which started February 6, with special services carrying through until last Sunday. The church is the mother church of Methodism in this section.

Communion of the entire membership of almost 600 featured the morning service that began the anniversary program. Rev. Dr. J. Edgar Washabough, district superintendent, preached at night. The anniversary address was given the last Sunday morning by the pastor, Rev. Edgar M. Compton, who reviewed the church history. Recent gifts to the church were formally accepted and dedicated. These include an electric carillon given by Miss Alice M. Compton, daughter of the pastor, in memory of her fiancé, Emmett D. Fowler of Madison, who was organist at the Rev. Edgar M. Compton

church. Fowler was killed in an automobile accident in May. Another substantial gift to receive public recognition at that time was a $2,500 heating plant presented by the Young Woman's Auxiliary. At the close of the service, Neil Horne, a member of the congregation, made a motion picture of the departing audience.

Special music for each service was planned by the organist, Miss Mary Elizabeth Compton. A concert by Yoichi Hiraoka, xylophonist; Miss Olga Avramova, soprano, and the church organist. Other musical features of the celebration were: "Cello solos by Mrs. Durrell I. Tuttle of Montclair and numbers by the senior, junior and boys' choirs. Recorder Everett B. Smith was toastmaster at the dinner, which was followed by a social and reading of reports of the fourth quarterly conference held last week at the church.

Organized only six years after the founding of the denomination in this country, Wesley had a parish reaching from Haverstraw, N. Y. to New Brunswick, according to the records, and later established Halsey Street Methodist Episcopal Church, the oldest of the denomination in Newark.
Mainly instrumental in organizing the Belleville church were two Belleville girls, Miss Margaret Dow and Miss Mary Ann Stewart. A lineal descendant of the former, Mrs. LeRoy E. Burnell of Glen Ridge, formerly of Belleville, directs the junior choir.

The first edifice was built in 1803, on the west side of Main street south of Belleville avenue and was replaced by another on the same site. This was abandoned in 1900 for the present structure on Washington avenue at Academy street.

Rev. Thomas Morrell was the first of ninety-seven pastors to serve the church. Bishop Edmund S. James, once a Belleville school teacher, was made a local preacher while attending the old church in 1829. The present pastor assumed the charge eleven years ago. He was asked recently to serve another year. The Sunday school has an enrollment of almost 600, with an average attendance of almost 400. Adequate housing for the department is a pressing need according to the pastor. Two new groups have been organized during the present conference year.

The celebration committee comprised Mrs. W. Brand Smith, Mrs. W.
J. Wakefield, Mrs. Harry F. Brumbach and Miss Lillian Budd, stewards, and Mrs. George H. Davies, head of the Young Woman's Auxiliary; Mrs. R. Clifford Whitfield, Missionary Society, and Misses Elizabeth Preston and Louise Schenck, senior and junior Epworth leagues. Mrs.
Davies and Mrs. H. Lester Hamilton were the supper committee.

Everyman's Class

The spirited contest between the Red and Blue Armies of the Everyman's Bible Class has stimulated the attendance of the class.

This Sunday at 9:30, Rev. Peter R.
Deckenbach, Christ Episcopal Church, will be the leader of the service. The men of the class will then attend service in the Episcopal Church at their morning hour of worship, at which time, the class leader, George Trantor, will deliver the morning service.

FROM THE PULPIT

"Christian Liberty."
By Rev. O. Bell Close
Pastor Fewsmith Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Text—John 8:36—"If the Son
Therefore, Shall Make You Free,
Ye Shall be Free Indeed."

Just outside of Shanghai, the Chinese soldiers captured a Japanese general. The Japs need all their generals and appointed a commission to negotiate with a similar Chinese Commission for the return of their general. The Japanese Commission made the following offer:

"We'll give you four colonels for our general."

The Chinese declined the offer.

"Very well," said the Japs, "we'll deliver to you ten of our majors if you will return our general."

Again the offer was declined.

"What will you take for him?" said
the Japanese spokesman.

The Chinese Commission went into a huddle and after considerable deliberation, replied as follows:

"We have seriously considered your propositions and have the honor to report that the least we can accept for your general, is ten cans of condensed milk."

The war between China and Japan may be an endurance contest between milk and militarism, but down under the surface of that slaughterhouse of souls lie two conflicting conceptions of liberty. The Chinese are fighting for the liberty to live and be left alone, while the Japanese are fighting for freedom to expand their deluded dynasty until the whole world shall join them in acclaiming their Mikado as God and establish forever the supremacy of canned militarism over canned milk.

In Berlin, Martin Neumoeller, a worthy successor of Martin Luther, is in prison for preaching liberty and the larger life, but Adolf Hitler should thank God for the honor that came to him with the privilege of living on the same planet with Neu-moeller.

Throughout all Europe and Asia, only in Britain and the Netherlands is the freedom of speech and the liberty of the press guaranteed.

In our own United States, the "Land of the Free" must, more than ever, be the "Home of the Brave," if our children are to enjoy the liberty our fathers fought for and which we are "trading in" as "down payment" for a superimposed social security, which abounds in Socialism and mistakes supine senility for security.

Organize Zionist Group in Town

Mrs. Bella Rubin Starts Movement To Widen Jewish Horizon

A Zionist organization is being founded in Belleville, under the guidance of Mrs. Bella Rubin, mother of Dr. A. A. Rubin and Marcus Rubin, attorney. This group is to be affiliated with the Zionist Organization of America, headed by Dr. Stephen A.
Wise.

Thus far, with the group hardly begun, between twenty and twenty-five members have joined with Mrs.
Rubin, herself a Zionist of long standing. Many other residents have also made known their intention to become affiliated with it.

Founded in 1896 by Dr. Theodore Herzl, the organization's aims are to deepen the Jewish consciousness and to widen the Jewish horizon in an effort to re-establish a Jewish homeland in Palestine.

Mrs. Rubin extends a hearty invitation to all those interested in the cause. She expresses the wish that residents cordially welcome any of her co-workers who visit them. The organizer's address is 379 Washington avenue. The Belleville News will carry the announcement of the group's first meeting.

in the souls of men and is slain and thrown out only by the love of the living God, flooding the soul like the men are the sole hope of liberty, they are the creatures of Christian liberty.

Loving the liberty within them they will fight for freedom and fellowship with all mankind, fight with heart and hand, brain and brawn.

Let every greed-chained man, who boasts of his breed, remember, it was the publican, not the Pharisee, who found favor with God and who alone may have the larger life of liberty, here or hereafter.

Let every greed-chained man remember that the four hundred billion dollars that the war profiteers collected for the World War to almost destroyed Democracy; let them remember the words of the Galilean, which, translated into the language of Wall street read, "Make friends with money so that when it fails you, these friends will give you everlasting security."

Let the common man remember,
"If the Son, therefore, shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed."

Local Elks Distribute Safe Driving Data Is Part of Program to Pro- mote Safety on the Highways

As another step in their educational program to promote safety on the highways, Belleville Lodge B. P. O. Elks No. 1123, announced, through Exalted Ruler Harold Cavanaugh, that a pamphlet, "Bad Habits Create Accidents," was given this week to each member of the local lodge of Elks.

This pamphlet, furnished through the courtesy of the Department of Motor Vehicles, explains what constitutes safe driving habits and how careless driving affects our pocket-books. It also gives the New Jersey accident facts for the past three years.

The Elks' safety program in this state had its start in July, 1937, when Murray B. Sheldon, president of the New Jersey State Elks Association, following the announcement of a nation-wide program by Major Charles Spencer Hart, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Order of Elks, held a meeting at Elizabeth Lodge, with the safety representatives of the sixty-two lodges in New Jersey. At this meeting plans were formulated for the greatest automobile safety campaign ever attempted in this state by any organization.

One feature of this program is the distribution of "No Accident" honor cards. To every Elk who has driven an automobile for a period of six months without being involved in an accident for which he was responsible, is given a card with a silver background. When he completes a year of "No Accident" driving he will be presented with a half gold and half silver card and two years of safe driving will entitle him to a card with a full gold background.

Presentation of the cards is handled through State Chairman John G. Sauerwein and Jack Deeney, chairman of the local lodge safety committee.

Large Building Jobs Have Been Handled by Charles H. Kelly, Vice President of Shedden Co.

Local Man, Who Constructed One Residence Valued at Nine Million Dollars Instigated "Football Dinners" Here

During his twenty-eight years as vice president of the George A. Shedden Company, Charles H. Kelly, 463 Washington avenue, has built many mansions and public buildings, not the least of which was the Belleville Town Hall, completed January 1, 1913.

His biggest enterprise was a $9,000,000 home for Senator William A. Clark at Seventy-second street and Fifth avenue. This is believed to be the largest home ever constructed for one family.

Mr. Kelly was one of the organizers of football banquets in this town. With August Plenge, Henry Mason, the former principal of the High School, Charles L. Steel, Mayor William H. Williams, Harry Hardman and Arthur Martin, Mr. Kelly held the first such meeting at his home in December, 1924, to have a citizens' committee sponsor the dinner.

During the war, Mr. Kelly was $1 a year man and was the first builder to arrive in Washington at the call of the late President Woodrow Wilson in 1917. He arrived one day after war was declared.

Other houses built by Mr. Kelly included a $596,000 home for William Barstow, at Great Neck, L. I., and a house costing $250,000 for Amos Stone Mather, at Chagrin Falls, Mich.

Mr. Kelly, who is seventy years old, was born in Jersey City, in the same neighborhood that saw the births of former Governor Edward I. Edwards, Mayor Frank Hague and Governor A. Harry Moore. Mr. Kelly lived there forty-two years.

On April 17, 1893, he married Miss Mary Mearns, of Jersey City, which was the culmination of a childhood romance.

The Kellys came to Belleville in 1918, living for fourteen years in a big white house at Rutgers street and Washington avenue. They moved to their present abode, fourteen years ago.

In his youth Mr. Kelly was quite a swimmer and he proudly displayed a gold watch that he received from the father of a child who fell overboard from a ferry boat. Mr. Kelly jumped in the water and saved the child from drowning.

He is at present building a $70,000

Director Gerard Tells Of 'Lincoln, Unknown'

Sad Existence Related of Man Who "Lived Alone And Withdrawn"

Deviating from the usual Lincoln anecdotes, Director of Public Safety George R. Gerard, Saturday night discussed at a meeting of the Joseph King Association, "Lincoln, the Unknown."

The director told the life of "Honest Abe" as the sorrowful man, who lived with himself "withdrawn and alone." Mr. Gerard said: "Every one lives two lives—a public and a private one—and of the personal life of Abraham Lincoln, we know little."

"His public career is almost better known than that of every other American. I could tell you what we all know—his humble birth, lack of education before fifteen, when he first learned the alphabet and reading, thirst for books, reading by firelight, splitting rails, Mississippi boatman, storekeeper, lawyer, 'legs to reach ground,' 'Honest Abe,' Douglas debates, Black Hawk War, President, freed slaves, Gettysburg speech and shot by Booth."

"I will attempt, instead, to tell of the personal life of the man, in short, of Lincoln, the unknown, for on the whole his was a sad existence, which caused him to lead a life withdrawn and alone. His forebears, Hawks' family of poor whites, lived on that peninsula between Potomac and Rappahannock, where Masons, Carters, Fontroys, Washingtons and Lees, also lived. His grandmother was Lucy Hawks and his mother was her illegitimate daughter, Nancy, by a rich planter of the neighborhood. The family moved through Cumberland Gap into Kentucky and Nancy married Thomas Lincoln, a worthless ne'er-do-well and wanderer. Here her two children, Sarah and Abe were born."

Abe came into the world one cold Sunday morning. He was born on a bed of poles, covered with corn husks. His mother died when he was nine and only once was he ever known to speak of her.

"God, bless my mother," he said. "All that I am or ever hope to be I owe to her."

"They were so poor," continued Mr. Gerard, "his mother fastened her dress with thorns; yet, Tom bought silk suspenders on credit. Shortly after he paid $3 for an old sword."

"In 1816, when Abe was seven, Tom moved his family into the wild forests of Indiana and settled his family the first year in a three-faced camp or shed. There was no floor, door or windows. Nothing but three sides and a brush roof. Indian farmers would not maintain hogs in such a crude shelter."

"Nancy and her children slept on the ground curled among the leaves with bearskin cover. They had no butter, eggs, milk, fruit or vegetables. They lived chiefly on nuts and wild game. The nearest doctor was thirty-five miles away."

"Abe first attended school with his sister when he was fifteen. They trudged four miles through the woods and carried their studies home. They had no paper. So they wrote on a board with charcoal which, when covered with figures and letters, was scraped off with a knife."

"In all, Abe had twelve months schooling. He was a great reader of the Bible, Aesop's Fables and Weem's Washington, one of his favorite books, which he had borrowed being damaged by snow, which swept into the crude abode. The book had been placed under leaves, but that did not spare it. Abe worked three days shocking corn to earn enough to replace it. The book was then given Abe as a present."

"In 1830 the family moved to Illinois when Abe was twenty-one. The first winter he split 1,000 rails for a pair of jeans trousers, walking three miles to work. He was a store clerk for six monotonous years."

The director told of Abe's first speech and the trials and tribulations which beset him through life and his climb upward as a struggling lawyer. He detailed how Abe had met reverse in his first appearance for political office and the death of Ann Rutledge, whom he loved dearly. He was at her bedside hours before she died and almost went insane. He walked five miles to her grave each day, he stated, adding at the cemetery Lincoln said, "Here My Heart is Buried."

Lincoln had no church, said Mr. Gerard. "His religion was: 'When I do good, I feel good and when I do bad, I feel bad.'"

Mr. Gerard traced Lincoln's climb to the presidency, his famous two-minute Gettysburg address and concluded with a quotation from Isaiah, chapter 5: "Martyr in death, martyr through life, man of sorrows and acquainted with grief."

Telephone Use Gains More in '37 Than '36

Last Quarter of 1937 Was Marked by Decrease, However

Although the last quarter of the year was characterized by a marked decrease in its business, the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company recorded for the year 1937, as a whole, a larger gain in telephones and telephone use than in 1936, and slightly improved earnings, Chester I. Barnard, president, states in the company's annual report made public today.

During the year 164,965 telephones were connected and 131,242 disconnected, for a net gain of 33,723, which exceeded that of 1936 by 1,301. A total of 687,419 telephones were in use at the end of 1937, a number still approximately 10,000 below the peak reached in June, 1931.

Both local and toll telephone traffic exceeded previous years, averaging 2,792,173 calls a day compared with 2,672,580 calls daily in 1936.

Operating revenues for 1937 increased 6.26 per cent over 1936, while total operating expenses including operating taxes were up 6.36 per cent. Operating taxes of $8,444,117 took 15.4 per cent of total revenues and amounted to $9.52 for each telephone in service. Net operating income of $3,630,377 represented a return of 4.07 per cent on the physical property and working capital employed in the business, compared to a 3.94 per cent return in 1936.

"On October 1 the company completed ten years of service as a state-wide telephone organization," Mr. Barnard states. "The decade was characterized by extremes of business expansion and depression. Notwithstanding the difficulties presented to telephone operations and management by both conditions, the company throughout this period kept its pledge, recorded in the first annual report, to furnish the best possible telephone service at the least cost to users."

Service improvements in 1937 noted in the report include the extension of the average interval between troubles on subscribers' lines from 22.2 months in 1936 to 23.6 months in 1937; establishment of new centralized bureaus for locating trouble and potential trouble in several sections of the state, and extensive additions to central office and other equipment. 135,000 miles of wire in cables were added to the state-wide telephone network. Reductions are noted in charges for service resulting in annual saving to telephone users of more than $645,000.

The company employs over 12,000 people, of whom nearly two-thirds are women. The average length of service of telephone men is approximately fifteen years and of women ten years. The annual payroll in 1937 totaled over $22,000,000, an increase of 10.5 per cent over 1936. "This increase," Mr. Barnard states, "was partly due to a four per cent increase in the number of employees, but principally to increased wages paid in recognition of greater experience and capability. The accomplishments of the company, in the last year and during the decade of service now completed, are in a very real sense the collective achievement of the men and women of all ranks of the organization, more than half of whom have been in the service since the company was formed."

"Snow White and The Seven Dwarfs" At Proctor's Theater, Newark, Today

Walt Disney's First Full-Length Animated Feature in Multiplane Technicolor Vivid Picturization Of Grimm Brothers' Fantasy

Movie fans are about to have their hopes realized, for something new and enchanting, in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," the first Walt Disney animated film to be made in full feature length, in Technicolor, with dialogue, songs, dances and a complete musical score. The picture was three years in the making, its cost being estimated at $1,500,000.

The plot of "Snow White" is an adaptation of one of the most loved of the Grimm Brothers' tales. First published in the early part of the last century, this book has been translated into every civilized language. Its readers are numbered in the millions. A sterling favorite with generations of Americans, past and present, it is equally popular abroad.

Meeting "Snow White," the dainty, lovely little Princess, on the screen is the same as greeting an old friend one has not seen for years. Her adventures begin when the wicked queen, jealous of "Snow White's" budding beauty, first degrades her to the level of a scullery maid. Even then the queen's magic mirror informs the sovereign that "Snow White," though attired in rags, is still the fairest in the land.

The palace huntsman is ordered to take the Princess to the forest and kill her. But he permits her to escape. She is befriended by the pitying birds and animals and finds refuge with the Seven Dwarfs in their woodland home.

Thither comes the wicked Queen in the guise of a witch. "Snow White" eats a bewitched apple given by her, and falls into a death-like slumber. So lovely is she that the Dwarfs instead of burying their beloved little housekeeper, place her in a coffin of glass and gold by which they keep watch. The tiny chaps have already wreaked vengeance on the witch, who has fallen to destruction over a precipice. Then came the handsome Prince who loved "Snow White" when she was only a scullery maid, awakens her with a kiss, and the sweethearts leave together for their castle home.

This is only a sketchy outline of the action in the RKO Radio picture, which is studded with detail. There are laughs galore, imitable incidents too many to describe, as well as dramatic thrills, romance and pathos, while over all is the fascinatingly bizarre atmosphere of fairyland exquisitely developed in three dimensional color photography.

Song hits in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," include the dwarf's marching song, "Hi-Ho"; their washing song; the songs by Snow White, "Some Day My Prince Will Come," "With a Smile and a Song," "Whistle While You Work" and "The Wishing Well Song," and the Prince's song, "One Song." The melody of "Some Day My Prince Will Come" is the picture's theme music.

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" had its world premiere in Los Angeles during last Christmas week to a stupendous public acclaim.

Senior Activities

By Ed Mallinson

The "Senior Finale" will be held in the new gymnasium February 26. Don't get the idea that this is one of the common, ordinary dances usually held in this school. It is not. We, seniors, are planning several new innovations which will provide beauty and charm. For one thing, we shall have softly colored spotlights and floodlights instead of the harsh, glaring lights. Perhaps most important of all, we are going to have a "name" band at this dance, none other than "Bert Ross and his Warner Brothers Movie Orchestra"—yes, you are reading right, for we are positively going to have this famous orchestra at our dance, complete with singers and the Ross trio.

Imagine, if you can, dancing to this famous orchestra, under the soft red and blue lights, with the palms rustling ever so slightly, perhaps one of the singers crooning softly and romantically into the microphone! Why, if it's enough to send shivers of delight up and down your spine just to think of it, imagine what it will be like actually to be there! So, for the best time of your life, attend the seniors' "Mid-winter Frolic of 1938." It will be something that you will remember to the end of your days.

On Dean's Honor List

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Feb. 18.—Betty Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gibson, 57 Fairway avenue, Belleville, N. J., is among the eleven Wilson College freshmen who have been named to the dean's honor list for the first semester of the current college year.

Citation for the list signifies outstanding academic work throughout a semester and entitles a girl to increased class-cutting privileges. Miss Gibson prepared for Wilson at Belleville High School.

For Musicians and Musicians Only

By Al Vado

"Constant is the word for study." Any one studying a musical instrument of any kind knows that "Constant" is the word for study. By that I mean constant studying without any slackening.

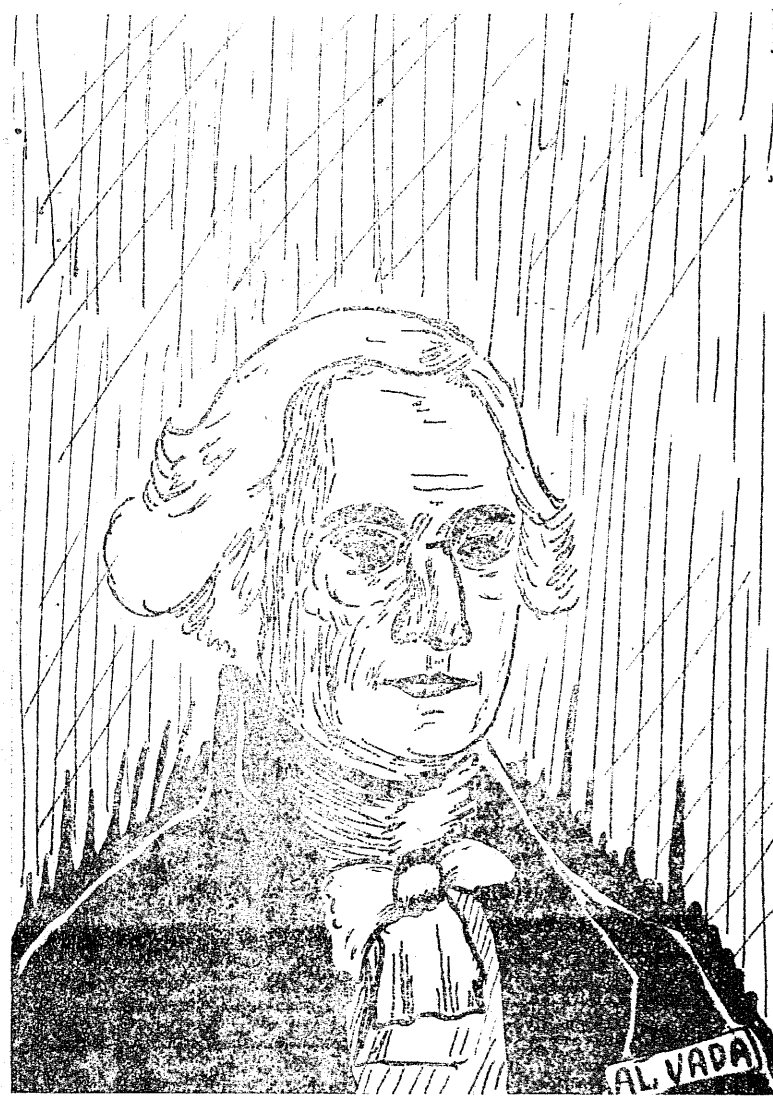

A boy of thirteen or more should practice from three to four hours daily. He should study for hour intervals and have half-hour rest periods. The first half-hour of studying should consist of scale practice and limbering-up exercises.

Having so much to do, a few weeks ago, I was unable to practice several hours daily and the other day, as I sat down to practice, I noticed my fingers seemed very stiff. It took me about two days to get my old speed and limberness back. Therefore, I stress again "Constant" is the word

$1,000,000 Endowment Drive Announced

NEWARK, Feb. 17.—A campaign for $1,000,000 early this spring, to meet the pressing capital fund and endowment needs of the University of Newark, was announced here last night by Franklin Conklin, Jr., president of the board of trustees. Dr. Frank Kingdon is the president of the university.

Mr. Conklin, who is serving as chairman of the Development Fund Campaign Committee, will have the support of an executive committee whose membership to date includes Edgar S. Banberger, Chester I. Barnard, John E. Cooney, Arthur E. Egnor, Mrs. Parker O. Griffith, Dr. Frank Kingdon, Merritt Lane, Aaron Lasser, Harrison P. Lindabury, Floyd H. Opie, George E. Potter, Henry S. Feder, Miss Louise Shubard, Hector Snyder, Milton M. Unger, Richard Weil, Jr., Miss Beatrice Winsor, and Percy S. Young. Mr. Louis Banberger is serving as honorary chairman.

In making known the trustees' plan to seek funds with which to increase the effectiveness of the university's services to the commercial, industrial, professional, social, and civic life of Newark and North Jersey, Mr. Conklin stated that the decision to extend the appeal to other communities of the state was guided by two primary factors; the scope of the university's service to the entire northern section and secondly, the fact that strengthening the University of Newark would be bolstering the higher educational facilities of New Jersey, which he said, lag far behind those of other states on the basis of population and wealth.

"It is a little known fact that more than fifty-six per cent of the university's 1,730 students come from 108 communities, other than Newark, in the northern section of New Jersey," Mr. Conklin pointed out. "Including Newark students, the total present enrollment from North Jersey exceeds ninety-eight per cent of the entire student body. It is this record not only to Newark, but to North Jersey, which leads us to hope that we may expect substantial support from citizens of adjacent communities."

Costs of the campaign which will be carried on in March and April locally and in other communities of North Jersey, have been underwritten by a gift of $25,000 made recently by the Foleyspan Brewing Company.

"Located as it is in the heart of a great industrial center which is the population center of our state, the University of Newark is helping to

His orchestra entertained at the Bloomfield "Victory Dance" and many other outstanding events the past year.

We, of the Belleville High School News, wish Harry smooth sailing. This was his favorite autograph in last March of last year.

Stamp Column

By Roderick MacDonald

Thomas Alva Edison, a celebrated American electrician and inventor, was born at Milan, Ohio, February 11, 1847. At fifteen years of age he published a weekly, known as the "Grand Trunk Herald." He did the printing in a freight car, that also served as a laboratory where he could carry on experiments. From the West Edison went to Boston, where he made several valuable inventions of stock printing and other telegraph appliances. These he sold for $40,000 which enabled him to establish a laboratory of his own.

The most used of all Edison's inventions, and the one that required the most careful research and experimenting to secure its perfection, was that of the incandescent light, which was brought out in 1879. From the incandescent lamp has grown the electric light and power industry. In 1929 he received many honors on the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the incandescent lamp. He has been honored by the United States with the issuance of a two-cent stamp, which has as the central design a picture of the original lamp with rays issuing therefrom. The stamps were issued in both flat plate and rotary sheets containing 100 stamps each, also insidewise coils of 500 and 3,000 stamps.

Music Column

"Ancient Music."

Although most of the music of the different nations has been similar through the ages there are a few exceptions. A Japanese, for instance, finds no joy from our music. To him, the tune of violins and all the instruments getting their tones is more enjoyable.

In the seventh and eighth centuries the Arabians had a great musical influence over the people. Many countries adapted their instruments, which were mainly string. We are led to believe that the bowed used in all bowed instruments came from Arabia.

The harp originated in Egypt. Although it has been changed many times it can still be traced back.

The Hebrews in Palestine were probably the first to use a choir in their temple services. A group of singers, seated on one side of the room sang or chanted a part of a psalm and a similar group answered them from the choir left. This type of singing is still used in religious services.

To accompany their music the Greeks used the lyre or harp. They did not find, however, any means of producing music. Homer, however, taught that music was one of the best arts. His poems were usually read to the accompaniment of music, usually the lyre. Even in this age music was considered a necessary art.

During ancient times Rome was a great center of art and therefore music. It played a very important part in the life of the people. Many of their instruments were borrowed from the Greeks and later they all used types from the different nations. We find that much of the religious music used in our Christian churches was written by early Italian musicians. Sacred music began around the time of the persecutions of the Christians by Nero. During the middle ages five men laid down the first principles of the science of music which have governed the use of harmony.

Weber became celebrated by inviting some one to a dance and putting the invitation to music, "Invitation to the Dance" by Weber, "God Save the King" is played in England at the close of the performance. The men stand up as they are anxious to get home.

A saxophone player was sentenced to two years in jail for obtaining money under false pretenses. He probably passed himself off for a musician.

WHAT DO YOU LIKE TO DO?

We'll bet a plugged nickel that you have some story tucked away that your teacher thought was pretty good, but never was printed. Or, perhaps you take to writing verse. We like both serious and humorous poems. Bring whatever you have to one of the editors and when you pick up a News the next Friday you may see your masterpiece on the high school page!

What do most boys do in study period the day before a test? They draw airplanes! And the girls are drawing pretty faces! Well, why not share these pictures with others? We could use a few.

If you don't take to any of these arts, at least you have opinions. Every one does!! Put these in the form of a letter and we'll print them (provided, of course, they are interesting to the majority of the students).

Come on! Turn in something, and see what a kick you get out of seeing it in print!

"Winners" Lose in Quotation Contest

Hom Ong Hong Engages in Close Tilt with "Bud"

Hollweg

A quotation contest was held recently in Miss Elinor Rushes' senior English class. After the study of each play is completed, a contest is held to determine which student has memorized the most quotations.

Two captains were chosen, Judith Hyde and Janet Moyer, who selected the following teams:

Winners' Score.
Judith Hyde	2
Henry Ford	2
Barbara Emis	11
Frances Butler	10
Regina Stark	6
Allice Giordano	5
Robert Wilkes	3
Griffith Casler	8
Charles Del Guercio	1
Michael Mosier	3
John Gaudella	1
Cannon Marulosa	1

Janet Moyer	4
Beatrice Hunter	3
Norman Walker	1
Robert Vandershoof	1
Bud Hollweg	13
Griffith Casler	1
Neuville Rizzola	5
Hom Ong Hong	12
Vincent Sorrentino	3
Fred Johnston	6
John Calkin	2
Joe Cicero	6
Fred Chabrice	1

It was a difficult task for the judges, Larry McCoy, Muriel Evers, and Paul Erlich, to determine the individual winner. After Bud Hollweg and Hom Ong Hong had given many quotations, and the judges had debated for quite a while, Bud took the honors.

The rules did not permit repetition of quotations. A total of 110 quotations were given.

Safe Blown Up In Robbery Here T. W. Harrison Declares Robbers "Blew It To Smithereens"

The safe at the automobile agency of T. W. Harrison, was, to use Mr. Harrison's own words, "blown to smithereens," by burglars who broke into the show room Sunday night, through a rear window, and escaped with $50 in cash and a car heater valued at $30.

The thieves left $700 to $800 in checks untouched, but rifled all drawers and cabinets in the place.

Mr. Harrison, whose show room is at 518 Washington avenue, reported the burglary to the police Monday morning.

Claims for Lump-Sum Payments Reach $31.68 Under Old Age Insurance Plan

Claims for lump-sum payments under the old-age insurance plan of the Social Security Act were certified during January at the rate of 942 per working day, the Social Security Board announced today. Six months ago, in August, the daily rate was 165 from which level it climbed steadily through September, October, November and December, the successive average daily rates for each month being 228, 263, 281 and 590.

During January a total of $745,691 was certified for payment to 23,538 claimants—workers who reached the age of sixty-five and the estates of workers who died. The average amount of each payment was $31.68, or almost double the average of $17.00 for all claims paid up to the end of August.

Pennsylvania with 2,929, headed the list in number of claims certified, but the greatest amount of money went to New York where $97,175 was distributed among 2,768 claimants. The state with the highest average—$39.24—was New Jersey, where 1,144 claims were certified. According to H. H. Tukey, local manager for the Social Security Board, there have been 1,186 claims forwarded for certification from the Newark office. Awards have been made upon 978 of these claims, the remainder being in process of adjudication.

The largest claim that has been certified went to an employee who reached the age of sixty-five. He received a lump-sum payment in January of $525. The largest death claim certified was for $420.

Since the government's old-age insurance plan went into effect on January 1, 1937, $2,028,207 has been certified for payment to 76,775 claimants. Each of the claims paid amounts to three and one-half per cent of the total wages paid to wage earners.

We don't need more words, we need a better use of them, a better language structure.—Stuart Chase.

THE CAMPAIGN IS ON

Apathy surrounding the candidates' announcement of entry in the municipal election which is scheduled in May, has given way to intense excitement as one after another falls into line.

Belleville has never taken its political situations any too lightly, but until last week there was a dearth of entries in the field and it appeared that all was calm and serene on the political battlefield.

Today the picture has changed. Belleville is once again showing its intense interest in civic matters and, judging from talk over the back yard fence, a grand time is in store for all who participate. Seriously, however, Belleville voters are sensible folks and while they will enjoy, no doubt, the campaign as much as the candidates, the average taxpayer wants clear cut issues and a clean fight. Belleville enjoys prestige among its neighbors and a large field of candidates will not necessarily mean dissatisfaction with the operation of municipal affairs. Rather, it will demonstrate that Belleville is on its toes civically and sincerely interested in good government. Let's have a real campaign. That is what elections are for, but let's have it conducted among neighbors as neighbors in every sense of the word.

REITERATING OUR INDEPENDENCE

The Belleville News today reiterates its independent policy. The columns of this newspaper are open to any one for comment of local, state and national interest, with the exception that no article will be printed which is libelous in nature or contains personal animus. Letters are especially welcome on local affairs. The publishers of the Belleville News are endeavoring to give the people of Belleville the finest suburban weekly in the State. May we ask the cooperation of our great family of contributors and readers to this end?

ANENT LAWYERS' RULES

How often has one heard the expression: "There are too many lawyers"? Well, it isn't as easy in New Jersey to become a lawyer, as the average layman might expect. Applicants for admission to the bar must file applications for examination three years in advance. They must also have served for a certain time as clerks to lawyers who have been members of the bar for at least five years.

To prevent lawyers from conducting what might develop into law schools in their offices, no law office, either of a single lawyer or group of lawyers, can have more than two students serving clerkships.

This makes it imperative for the prospective lawyer to establish an office connection. Evidently our State is seeing to it that strict rules govern the making of lawyers.

DISAGREEMENT

Confusion into which the conference of small business men at Washington was thrown at the outset of the "deliberations" might have been foreseen. Most of them have a plan of their own for curing the business recession and putting the country on its feet. They were selected from a vast number who proposed plans to the President.

The man with a "plan" is a stubborn fellow. He is thoroughly convinced that he alone possesses the great secret and that his scheme should be adopted forthwith. He usually has great contempt for any other fellow with a "plan."

To expect a gathering of men and women of that type, even considering the fact that among them are many not obsessed by any scheme for ending all our woes, to agree on any program is to expect the impossible.

Even the small groups could not agree among themselves. The ground work for such a conference should have been laid long in advance and representatives of different small business interests should have been carefully chosen.

THIS WEEK

By "GUARDIAN"

"With malice toward none, with charity for all" President Abraham Lincoln in his second inaugural address enunciated a philosophy of intent that could well be followed by all of the Number One Men in all of the countries of the world today. That is admirably pointed out in an editorial in the "Saturday Evening Post," dated on Lincoln's birthday. If you have not read it we recommend that you do.

Lincoln probably is the outstanding example of the opportunity that is America. From a very, very humble backwoods cabin to the White House—and to a reputation for clarity of expression—for idealistic intent—for personal probity and downright honesty that placed him at the very pinnacle of accomplishment in this land of ours.

Success—like accidents—does not just happen. It is caused to happen! And through the years Lincoln struggled to gain the education that was then—and is now—and forever will be necessary to progress—necessary for success. The result of his labors was a well read, intelligent man, able at the time of our country's greatest need, to cope with problems of the most vital importance—and to cope with them successfully.

What encouragement Lincoln must give to our youth of today—what inspiration to all of us who have faith in the future and who believe in "the progress of mankind—onward and upward forever!" He was a "rugged individualist" if ever there was one. He knew that he could not pull himself up by his own bootstraps—and that no one else could or would pull him up—but he had TO PULL HIMSELF UP by hard work and constant effort. He worked—and gained the heights.

Again we say—away with those prophets of doom and gloom who would have us believe that the day of opportunity is passed; that outstanding personal success such as was Lincoln's can never be duplicated.

ated—and that the future of the young folks of today is in the field of the drab—and the common place. We don't believe it—because we do believe that the youth of today are going to climb higher and go further along the pathway of fine accomplishment than any generation heretofore!

Suppose you needed four thousand dollars a year to run your business—and suppose some one owed you a lot of money and paid it back to you at the rate of one thousand dollars a year. Then so long as they paid you back you'd only need to raise THREE thousand dollars each year to run your business. That's simple isn't it?

Well, as we understand it: Belleville's tax situation is ALMOST as simple—in principle at least. During the past few years less money had to be raised by taxes because the back log of unpaid taxes of years before created a source of revenue to help toward the ordinary running expenses of the town.

Now, if in that business of yours the folks who owed you money paid up in full, or quit paying, or the government stepped in and said you couldn't use that money for operating expenses, then you'd have to raise FOUR thousand dollars a year instead of three.

And that's what has happened in effect in Belleville. It's not to be sure, as simple as it sounds, and there are many other things that influence the situation. Essentially, however, the main cause for the prospective material increase in taxes is because the income of the town has been reduced. With operating expenses essentially unchanged, more money must be raised by current taxes since under Chapter 60, Belleville is on a "Cash—Pay-as-you-go basis."

But at any rate we've had the benefit of LOWERED taxes during the last five years!

Yours 'til next week,
"GUARDIAN."

EXCELLENT NON-FICTION

A speaker at the recent American Library Association conference at Chicago says the libraries have been spending their money on non-fiction to such an extent they are driving their readers to the corner drug store libraries, or to the movies.

It may be that the libraries have gone along with non-fiction past the peak of demand, but certainly the demand for this kind of reading has been very strong during the past ten years. Probably in no other decade in the last two generations has the reading public turned so strongly to worth while non-fiction.

And to meet this demand it may be said a very high type of non-fiction was produced in this period. It covered a wide range of ground, philosophy, medicine, science, economics, sociology and travel. But probably the outstanding works and the most popular were biographies. Some of these will rank with the best of any previous period.

For sheer, sustained interest, not in analysis but in graphic portrayal of the life of one of America's most interesting personalities, however, none is better than one written eighty years ago, Aaron Burr, of a Newark family, by James Patton.

"FUNNY" WEATHER

The Ides of March are just around the corner, but how treacherous the weather, which, in February, misleads with the gentle breezes of April! The mild, caressing air and warm rains have destroyed the snow. The world seems alert, the landscape takes better form, but—

The old, cold north wind is just around the corner, too, waiting to strike at this false spring. Old Boreas may not strike again but the leafless trees, no doubt, straining to don their spring adornment, hear him hoarsely laughing behind it all.

PIQUANT POLITICS

By MEADOR WRIGHT

A testimonial dinner in her honor two years ago, Harold Hoffman provoked laughter when he told what was purported to be Mrs. Edith Kreutzinger's exact weight, 195 pounds. But if her weight were translated into the annoyance she is causing Clean Government political leaders, the amiable Governor's estimate would be far on the minus side. These same leaders do not wish to dignify Mrs. Kreutzinger's importance by waging any public campaign against her, but there is more concentration now on some plan to get rid of her as a member of the county board of elections than there is to dispose of the lock that separates them from the Hudson County poll books.

The same facility, however, appears to dog their footsteps in both cases. Nobody, it seems, has the right to deliver the Hudson election records—Stoebling, and Stoebling isn't in the delivering mood. Likewise, no one can displace Mrs. Kreutzinger save Democratic Governor Moore. And Moore, with all his amiability, is not likely to oblige his Clean Government opponents in Essex by changing election officers here at the same time those opponents are doing their best to turn the election machinery of his native Hudson upside down. Particularly is this true when two-thirds of all the ward and municipal chairmen of the county have endorsed Mrs. Kreutzinger's reappointment.

These endorsements, in fact, are deeply embarrassing, because they seem to amount to a practical repudiation of County Chairman Naught's leadership. Governor Moore might very well ask, "Who represents the Republican party in Essex?" No doubt, he will do this. But the answer is not as serious as the question would suggest. Clean Government leaders made the mistake of selecting as an opponent of Mrs. Kreutzinger one not nearly as popular with the rough-and-tumble Newark ward leaders—Mrs. Helen Berry of Short Hills. Likewise, Mrs. Kreutzinger had two immense advantages in getting the signatures. The first was the belief that her appointment by Moore was a practical certainty anyway, and those solicited did not wish to incur the enmity of one who could do them great harm by ordering district election officers changed. The second was the emergence of Pearce R. Franklin of Newark from semi-retirement to line up votes for Mrs. Kreutzinger.

But the affair does have significance to the extent that it points the way to one of Clean Government's ever-recurring problems—inability to control the executive committee of the Republican county committee. This same executive committee last fall forced Clean Government leaders to substitute Anthony P. Miele for Roy V. Wright on the Republican freeholder slate. By becoming recalcitrant again, it might force embarrassing changes this year, or else the expense of combating a strong opposition ticket.

Although it is subject to change as all tentative decisions are, a Clean Government primary slate has been selected. This slate includes William H. Rawson and Edgar S. Bamberger for freeholders, and Earl Holbrook, chairman of the Eighth Ward, for sheriff. The third freeholder candidate is said to come from Millburn, but this I am inclined to doubt, since such a selection would leave only one Newarker on the board of nine freeholders. Harry L. Huelsenbeck has been mentioned as a Newark candidate. Huelsenbeck and Holbrook, incidentally, were the two Newark ward chairmen who did not endorse Mrs. Kreutzinger.

Senator Lester H. Clee is said to have made his decision to move the confirmation of Louis Reilly for Commissioner of Banking and Insurance. His delay in doing so is prompted by the hope that something can be gained in return from Moore. Just what is wanted in return, I do not know. But Moore and Clee are playing a magnificent cat-and-mouse game. How it will finally end, nobody can tell.

Both men have made up their minds regarding an Orange district court judge, although there has been no announcement. Moore intends to name Joseph Lyons, while Clee plans to stand pat with William A. Calhoun, incumbent. Whenever the legislature adjourns sine die Moore can make an ad interim appointment. Such appointment, in turn, would stay in office until he would either be confirmed or a successor named.

A spring primary for this year is now a practical impossibility, so near is the time that it would have to be held. I have not heard why such a bill was not introduced earlier. As scheduled, the spring primary would be held only one week after the commission elections in several municipalities. This would involve the purchase of extra voting machines, as all those to be used in commission elections would have to be sealed in case some one should order a recount.

Primary or no primary, Orange and West Orange are getting very much excited over who shall be the new commissioners. My own belief is that Ovid C. Bianchi, Walter B. Savage, present commissioners, and Ralph Giordana cannot be defeated in Orange. How the other incumbents, Commissioners Caldwell, Condon and Drabell, all of whom are candidates, will fare is not so sure. One or two of them might go back. But the election of all three is impossible if my other guess holds good. Savage has probably lost ground, but I do not believe that he can be beaten, even if he fails to run high, as he has during the past two elections. Tentatively, I would give high place to Bianchi. Assemblyman Frank Hargraves has announced his intention of running as a colored candidate. Hargraves is recognized everywhere as a shrewd and honest leader. Twenty per cent of Orange voters are Negro, and his candidacy merits attention, even though his election is not expected.

New Jersey Today

That Country Air.

Prepared for the Belleville News by Russell Van Nest Black consultant-director, New Jersey State Planning Board.

The famed health-affording properties of the country are less a reproach to the city than they used to be. Since 1929, the urban infant mortality rate has fallen below the rural. City planners who are anxious to wipe out the slums of the cities and replace miserable make-shift dwellings with decent, sanitary housing, point out that the difference between urban and rural death rates are less than the variations within cities.

The effectiveness of urban health controls is also evidenced by lower mortality rates in cities from influenza, malaria, and dysentery. The other hand, cities have high rates for venereal diseases, tuberculosis, epidemic diseases, alcoholism, drug addiction, general paralysis, insanity, heart diseases, and cancer.

Large cities are better equipped with physicians, dentists, nurses, and with medical facilities in general than are smaller and rural communities. Municipalities spend about twice as much per capita for public health services as do counties in rural areas. Privately supported health organizations in cities offer nursing, health education, and other preventive services not readily available in rural communities.

Until the recent depression, however, there was a steady growth of county health departments staffed by full-time professional personnel. This represents an extension to rural areas of public health services which in some cases approach urban organizations in efficiency, although it must be recognized that many county health officers are inadequate, especially for maternity, infant, and pre-school hygiene services.

Cities, because of their relatively greater wealth, population, and technical and institutional resources, are better able to supply their residents with the more complex and specialized types of medical service than are rural communities. Under the present distribution of income, the vast majority of the population, both urban and rural, is incapable of meeting the financial burden of illness individually.

Certain tendencies toward the reorganization of the medical profession and of medical services are under way, however, which will make the financial burden of illness easier to bear and which, since it will make medical attention more accessible, will contribute toward the widespread assurance of good health.

Large, Appreciative Audience Attends Concert Given by Wallace and Tiernan Choral

Continues Series of Entertainments in Celebration of Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Company Which Is Being Observed This Year

Wallace and Tiernan Company held its St. Valentine's Day party last Monday at the Belleville High School, continuing the company's series of entertainments in celebration of its twenty-fifth anniversary, which is being observed this year.

Opening Monday night's program in the school auditorium, was a concert by the Wallace and Tiernan Choral Society of mixed voices, under the direction of Harold Frederic, sung before an appreciative audience of 975. There are sixty-five members of the society, which has gained wide repute in the brief history of its existence.

The vocal program consisted of "The Brownies," Léoni; "Susan Is Her Name," Sanderson; "Baycorolle," from "The Tales of Hoffman," Offenbach; "Dear Land of Home," from "Finlandia," Sibelius; "Duna," McGill, and "Landlighting," Grieg. As an encore, the chorus sang Oley Speaks' "On the Road to Mandalay."

William Risky, midway in the program, played, as a violin solo, Massenet's beautiful "Meditation" from "Thais."

After the concert the Wallace and Tiernan orchestra played for dancing in the new gymnasium.

Chairman of the committee on arrangements was Edward J. Reilly, 93

Fairway avenue, Belleville.

Many residents of Belleville participated in the entertainment in one way or another. In the roster of the chorus were found the names of Edna Baum, Mary Higgins, Florence McCarthy, Olive Bohrer, Ellen Jackson, Helen Kirkup, Madeline Stricker, Marjorie Breen, Rita and Veronica Conesky, Marie Mermet, Margaret Dingwall, George Hagetter, James Lukowiak, Myles Monaghan, Charles Williams, William McClung, Thomas Mullen, Edward Reilly and Jacob Schwartz.

John Merbler, John Connors and John Smith, also of Belleville, are members of the Wallace and Tiernan orchestra, which played for the dancing. William McGonigle was the vocalist.

Entertainment

The young people of Bethany Lutheran Church were entertained Sunday in Masonic Temple by Miss Geraldine E. Miller, violinist, of 81 Perry street.

Miss Miller's selections were "Meditation," by Nemerowski, and "Minuet in G," Beethoven.

Miss Virginia Young, a pupil of the Stratton Studios, pianist, who accompanied Miss Miller, also played "The Lost Chord," Sir Arthur Sullivan.

"Socialized Medicine—Yes or No" Proved Interesting Topic at Institute Meeting

Enthusiastic Audience Heard Three Doctors, Two of Whom Agreed in Theory, at Meeting in Local Synagogue

An enthusiastic audience greeted the fifth session of the Belleville Institute of Public Affairs held at 317 Washington avenue, Wednesday night. The topic for discussion was "Socialized Medicine—Yes or no."

The speakers who discussed the different viewpoints were Dr. Benjamin Davidson, Brooklyn physician and secretary of the Medical League for Socialized Medicine; Dr. John Huberman, senior attending gynecologist at the Newark Beth Israel Hospital, and Dr. Saul Rubinow, graduate of the University of Moscow and a student of state medicine schemes. This session, as all the others was sponsored by the Congregation A. A. A., the Sisterhood, the Progress Club of Belleville, and the Junior League.

Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin, moderator of the Institute, opened the session and introduced the chairman, Edward J. Abramson. Dr. Davidson spoke first, and he announced that he and his group are ready to follow any plan of socialized medicine which will bring about the desired results. He stated, "Health is a public function, just as public education is a public function, and therefore it must be the concern of the government."

He remarked further that his system does not destroy the privilege of patients or doctors to choose whether they want public or private medicine. "Our system," he said, "is the true system, the nearly perfect system, and the only workable one." The cost of the system will not exceed the present cost of medical care.

Dr. Huberman stated, at the outset, that socialized medicine looks grand on paper, but only results count, and results show that individualized medicine has produced a lower mortality rate than has subsidized medicine in the countries where it has been tried. He continued, "Socialized medicine does not improve medical care. It makes medical attention a part of small politics. It is wasteful because it has political supervision." He admitted, however, that the present set-up of medical attention for the indigent has to be improved.

Dr. Rubinow was the last speaker. He disagreed with both speakers in that both the systems they propounded do not meet the present need. He believes that the social aspect of the plan is justified and correct, but he does not believe that socialized medicine can work under our present political system. He advocates a form of health insurance for all the people which will take the burden from the individual and place it on the group.

After the speaking period, a most interesting discussion on all the points brought up by the speakers, took place. The next session of the Institute will take place on Wednesday night, March 30. The topic will be: "Woman's Place—at Home or in a Career."

ever, the papers did not get the real story, which concerned an orderliness of operation in the Labor auditorium.

"Everybody went to Washington with a program or resolution on how to solve the depression," he stated, adding, "and the result was that a flurry of resolutions was offered. The little butcher from Gary, Indiana, the shoemaker from Toledo, the gasoline man from Jersey and the man from Texas, all had ideas."

Mr. Specht said he expected to find the small business man attack the big one, but to the contrary the "little fellow" pointed out he "lives on big business."

"There were sixty per cent retailers, twenty wholesalers and twenty manufacturers," he stated.

"I played no part in proceedings, other than to be an interested spectator," Mr. Specht declared. "I went unwillingly and when our group left I stayed reluctantly."

"There was only a handful of 'nuts' at the conference. Most of the business men were serious and thoughtful. They really did a swell job."

veloped an understanding and logic that was simple, direct and convincing.

"With our great modern press issuing newspapers hourly, advising of new economic, political and cultural developments and with editorial comment on controversial subjects, advising all seeking knowledge, the student of today has opportunities of which Lincoln never dreamed."

"In this country freedom of press is fully recognized and this is as it should be, and no better fight can be waged than that for maintenance of a free press as all other liberties depend on it."

"In considering newspaper truth and untruth the point to make, it seems to me, concerns integrity, and intentions, and human frailty. One man makes an honest mistake but another may repeat the falsehood, either because a propagandist pays him or because the propaganda fits the views or prejudices to which he is pledged. Newspaper truth is not a question of how many angels can stand on the head of a needle, or how many are dead in a wreck or a battle, but it remains a question of the intentions of all the men and women who have to do with the presentation of news."

"I do not say that the integrity of the world press has broken down, I do insist that attacks upon it are stronger than ever in the history of newspaper printing, and although this statement becomes self-evident when it is known that ten large nations, the dictatorships of Continental Europe, no longer have a free press, and attacks are made on its integrity in the free nations, France, Britain and the United States especially."

"I urge the youth of our high schools and colleges to read several newspapers daily. Available to them are the training of writers of world wide knowledge, commentators acquainted with domestic, foreign, social and economic conditions of the past and present, many editorial columns which dare reveal the truth to their readers, and reviews of highly educational merit. Our youth should feel appreciative that such educational facilities would fill the heart of Abraham Lincoln with gratefulness."

"Constant study of a variety of newspapers, in my opinion, makes the finest supplement to a college education."

"A college career offers an opportunity to gain a vivid and informing service of the social, economic and cultural characteristics of the world in which one is living and thereby permit those who seriously appreciate the advantage of a college education to play a full part as intelligent citizens, and offers inspiration for continuing cultivation with a reverent appreciation of the ethical and spiritual values which inhere in noble living."

"Let us not deny ourselves the satisfaction of recognizing that American education, from common school to college, has faced a task unparalleled in history—and so far succeeded that education is sought by all classes for their children, while rich and poor stand side by side in their determination to open the opportunity of education to all who can profit by it. Such spirit is an asset in our democracy which may well save us from political pitfalls into which we have been looking with humiliation."

"The greatest resource of America is the untrained talent of our rising generation. To give this rising generation a full opportunity is good philosophy for a democracy."

"I am glad to express a thought in behalf of the College of Paterson, and to our youth to aid them in preparing for useful service to Christian civilization. The College of Paterson is a distinguished leader in New Jersey higher education—is near to several hundred communities, possesses high academic standards, has reasonable tuition fees, and offers an important opportunity for high school graduates in a friendly and wholesome atmosphere under the guidance of a talented staff of instructors."

To Pick Champs in County Tournament

Belleville Will Send Team Mayhap To Reach State Finals

Five of the leading amateur basketball teams in Essex County will clash for the district championship and an opportunity to represent the county in the state championship tournament finals to be held at Plainfield when they will meet on the West Side High School gymnasium in Newark on March 10 and 11, Vincent Farrell, district commissioner of the state tournament, sponsored by the New Jersey Recreation Executives' Association, announced today.

Each team is accredited as the best in the league it represents. In only two leagues has the winner been definitely announced, so close is the competition in the others.

The favored team appears to be the strong American Can quintet, champions of the Newark Industrial Recreation League. The Hilltops of the Newark Recreation League are also considered as strong contenders.

From the cities and towns in Essex County will come the teams representing the best municipal circuits in this vicinity. The battling is still hot and heavy in the six-team Belleville Senior Recreation League, with the representative team still in doubt. Another strong squad of passers could be expected from the Men's Municipal Basketball League of East Orange, Class A Division, which is made of five teams. Irvington will select its champion from the twelve teams entered in the municipal basketball league.

The eventual Essex County victor will face the stellar teams from all over New Jersey in the state finals during the week of March 20.

Union County will have seven leagues represented in its tourney, with the powerful and undefeated Standard Oil five of Elizabeth, champions of the U. C. Industrial League, as one to be beaten by any team with championship hopes. Other teams will be from two Elizabeth leagues, two Plainfield leagues, Summit, and the Linden Industrial League.

Mercer County will have its winner from four leagues. An outstanding player on the Clarksburg A. C. of the Capital City WPA League is Carl "Kelly" Paulomb, all-state guard in 1933-34. Every member of this team has seen service on some city, county, state, or national championship team. Ernie Young, giant Negro center, is star of the Bijou A. A. leaders in the Tri-Township League. Young was a member of the Trenton High School team, state champions in 1936, and will enter Temple University next fall.

Yellow Jackets Add Two Coaches To Staff

The Yellow Jackets have just obtained a coach and assistant new coach to help them in their basketball endeavors. The new coach is Jack Gibler and assistant, Bill Smith. The boys hope that these coaches will help them to win a few games. The Yellow Jackets played the Red Shield Boys of Newark and lost, 20-0, recently.

The rat trap was evidently laid by the caretaker in Glendale Cemetery, where no doggie has a right to be.

The canine had one of his feet caught in the trap. The policemen brought the dog to headquarters, where it was turned over to the Humane Society for extermination.

Predicts Crime Increase

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Jan. 26.—Judge Malcolm Hatfield today stated that courts cannot compete with the cheap dance hall, divorce mill, road house, pool room, and questionable theatre and magazine. He asserted that thousands of children will soon turn to crime if indifferent parents are not educated to their duties and responsibilities.

The judge lays down specific means for treating disobedience, dishonesty, temper tantrums and other symptoms that indicate future criminal careers, in his book "Children in Court," which is being released by the Paerbar Co. of New York City. This has been a regular feature in the Belleville News.

Judge Hatfield, whose work with youthful offenders is closely followed in parent-teacher, religious and educational circles, added that the ten million children who are not affiliated with any church can be expected to develop character and high ethical standards of morality.

Liberty Juniors Plan Reunion Dinner

Crack Football Club of Yesteryear to Gather at Valley Inn

The members of the Liberty Juniors, a football team, that played in Belleville, twenty-five years ago, will hold a reunion at Valley Inn, River road, Lyndhurst, tomorrow night.

Fireman, Harry White, who is the instigator of the meeting, will be toastmaster at the dinner, which will be part of the affair.

It is expected that about seventeen members of the squad with their wives will attend.

The Libertys held the enviable record of not having lost a game in the five seasons in which they were organized. The average age of the members of the team in 1913, its first season, was seventeen years.

The members of the squad were (on the first organized team): Charles Hauck, Lyndhurst; Elmer Johnson, Bloomfield; Harry White, Belleville; Arthur Christie, Belleville; "Red" Halley, Orange; Otto Hauck, Lyndhurst; Elmer Leighton, manager, Middle Valley; Christie Gianseruso, Nutley; Angelo Di Giacomo, Nutley; Joseph Di Giacomo, New York; James Gengarelli, Nutley; James Geary, Lyndhurst, and John Kraft, Connecticut.

New additions were Andy Kraft, Lyndhurst; William Wieman, Jersey City; William Wallace, Nutley; Jerry Ferraro, Nutley; William Johnson, Nutley, and William McKillop, Belleville.

BELLING ABOUT BELLEVILLE

By JACOB LEVINE
Class 1938, Belleville High School

A Belleville Family's Odyssey.
When the Japanese government started its "undeclared" war last year by marching brazenly into China and literally destroying everything in its path American citizens constituted a great number of those who fled before the lashing whip of Nippon. Refugees they were called, these "outsiders" who found themselves stranded in a sea of jabbering, frightened, squint-eyed faces—a much a target for Japanese guns as the Chinese themselves.

The only thing for them to do was to beat it—and beat it they did. From Mongolia, from Tientsin, from every corner of China they came—missionaries, doctors, investors, archeologists, and men of leisure, all poured into the ports west. I should have said, and Bellevillites," for, perhaps, even in this far-off, isolated mishmash there were representatives from our bustling, liv' Gotham on the Passaic.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith and children, former residents of Belmore street, were among the thousands of Americans in China when the artillery started booming. Smith had been manager of the Packard agency at the corner of Division and Washington avenues. When war clouds began to hover over the Far East he suddenly got the urge to do some flying in behalf of the Chinese cause (he had distinguished himself as an aviator for Uncle Sam during the World War), and consequently the family went to China.

Harry Smith is still flying in China, piloting around many military big-shots, even General Chiang Kai-Shek himself. As soon as the war broke out his wife and children, thirteen-year-old Frances and two younger brothers, Robert and Paul, left for the Philippines.

Frances Gorin of Union avenue, a school chum of Frances Smith, has been communicating quite regularly with her and it was through the letters received from the Smith family that the above information became known.

Harrowing, indeed, were the adventures of these Bellevillites in their fight from China. From the minute they left these shores, but say, how about letting Frances Smith tell it, even as she told it to Frances Gorin through the mail. The following letter was the first Miss Gorin received, an account of their family's travels from the very beginning.

Typhoons? We Can Take It!

Dear Frances:
So much has happened since I left. I will start at the beginning. Everything was alright till we got out of Japan, and then we ran into a typhoon. Honestly, I certainly am lucky to be able to even write to you, because in that typhoon we almost lost our lives. But it was loads of fun!

We were two days late getting into Shanghai. After we got there the war started, and on Friday the 13th, of all the unlucky days. Well, we were nearly drowned on the tender going from Shanghai to the boat. There were 400 refugees aboard, and people had to sleep on cots or on the deck, some sleeping in deck chairs.

You know, it's a lot of fun being a refugee. We have just arrived at Manila, where we are staying at the home of a rich plantation owner. I haven't got a pen or any decent paper with which to write you, but you don't mind, do you, Fran?

Each of us could bring only one suitcase aboard when we left China, so I have very few clothes, while the rest of the family is being bombed to bits. I can't even address yet, but if I can't I'll write in cave of Shanghai. I'll write to you in the name of the Pacific Corporation, and you can tell Daddy will forward it to wherever we happen to be. Write to me soon.

Love from Frances.

From Manila the Smith family traveled to Glendale, California. After having settled there Frances wrote another letter to Frances Gor-

HOW OFTEN CAN YOU KISS AND MAKE UP?

NEW husbands can understand why a wife should turn from a pleasant companion into a shrew for one whole week in every month. You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up easier before marriage than after. Beware, if you want to hold your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three or four years of life. 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Go "Smiling Through."

rin on November 17. Note the intimate salutation.

Dear Butch:
We have arrived at Glendale, California, and frankly, Butch, there's nothing much doing here. Our school has played another school in football whom they had never beaten before and had a tie score. (Writer's note: They could have stayed here in Belleville and witnessed a similar occurrence at the hands of the Bloomfield Bengals!)

Yes, I'm going to high school now. The school has six buildings, one of which is bigger than your high school. I don't have to take a language or algebra this year. And am I glad!

My father is still in China. My mother is very much afraid that Daddy will get in trouble over there. Flying generals around is a pretty risky business. Say hello to your Dad and Mother for me.

Love,
Fran.

Daddy Smith is Still Over There!
On December 6 the following letter left the post office at Glendale, California, and reached its destination on Union avenue.

Dear Butch:
I love to get your letters. I got one today while I was still in bed. Don't you worry over my school work, because I'm not. Besides, my teacher said I don't have to make it all up.

It hasn't rained here for six months. In fact, it's so warm that my Mom and I just can't believe that Christmas is just around the corner. Santa Claus will be here in a bathing suit—and a slick coat of tan!

You know, Butch, I'm getting sort of restless here. I think I will go to Africa and get you a pet lion, or would you prefer a funny, little monkey to play with? I got a letter from Betty today. Has Beatrice cut her pig-tails off yet?

Our school played Hoover High last week and won by the score of 12-0. How is Belleville's football team?
My Daddy is still in China. My Mom and we kids wish he would come home. It doesn't seem right for him to be there. Mother gets worried when she doesn't hear from him. I do hope Daddy would come home.

Love,
Fran.

And we hope, too, Frances, that your Daddy will come home shortly, and that all this terrible bloodshed in China will come to a speedy end. Belleville will welcome you and your family with open arms. You can count on that.

Economy and Efficiency Are Keynote Of Operation of Sheriff McReil's Office

Thousands of Dollars Saved County in Last Two Years

With Inauguration of Better Business

Methods, Report Shows

"November of this year terminates my office as sheriff. At the outset of my administration and prior to my having taken office, I pledged to the electorate of our great county, an efficient administration were I to be honored with the high and lofty office of sheriff. To accomplish this end has been my paramount thought," says Sheriff James A. McReil, in an interview with this paper. "I have endeavored in every respect to serve my charge faithfully, conscientiously and efficiently. Economies were inaugurated where they could be made without hampering efficiency; better business methods were instituted; definite assignments were given to each constituent, every person being held responsible for his delegated duty, resulting, as this report shall relate, with accomplishment.

"When office had been taken in November, 1935, Under-sheriff Joel P. Martin was given supervision of the business office as well as of petit jurors. He discovered that many sheriff's deeds for property sold by the sheriff had not been claimed after sale was made. He found that $50 was deposited before such sale and found, too, that the costs approximately $75. The remaining $25 was collected when the purchaser called for the deed. Many of these deeds were not claimed. The sheriff's office had approximately $1,800 outstanding in fees of this nature. Most of this money due our office has been collected and to prevent future like accruing fees, $75 was set as the amount of deposit.

"Prior to our administration, deeds were acknowledged once a week. Upon our having taken office a change was made in the acknowledgments from once a week to three times weekly. This change tended toward more expedient service in that it quickened the handling of deeds.

"A special squad was organized to serve bench warrants and civil writs, many of which had not been served for ten years. This squad is composed of court attendants and process servers in the department.

"Economies and reorganization were effected in the Essex County Jail, House of Detention, Bureau of Identification, and the Court Attendants Department. These departments are supervised by Under Sheriff Joseph Giuliano. A report purporting the savings in his divisions shall be shown hereinafter.

"Inaugurates Detective Squad.
"A detective squad was inaugurated under supervision of Under Sheriff Joseph Giuliano, composed of court attendants, whose very efficient work and accomplishments shall be manifested in this report.

"A card index system giving the history and the departmental record of each employee of the entire department, institutions included, has been installed under the supervision of Joseph Katowitz, my secretary. Time records of daily attendance are kept under his direction throughout the entire department. Employees must report in and out of business every day.

"It is my policy and always has been not to extend the special deputy sheriff's badge and courtesy card privileges. In view of past abuses of such courtesies these outstanding badges have been called in. My secretary, Joseph Katowitz, supervised the return of these badges and cards. He reports that 850 special deputy sheriff's badges and 690 courtesy and identification cards were returned and collected.

"Through the cooperation of the courts, jurors not needed on any day or remainder of the week are excused, thus effecting an approximate saving of $500 every two weeks.

"The recommendation of the judicial council that a report of the writs served be made to the court each month, has been strictly adhered to since I have taken office.

"Many savings have been effected. Although items may appear small, the aggregate amount is considerable. "It has been found that large amounts of gasoline and oil were being used prior to my having taken office. Immediately a checking system was established which resulted in the decrease in use from approximately 600 gallons to 260 gallons per month. In prior administrations mileage books (railroad mileage tickets) were used. Approximately $900 was consumed each year in the use of these mileage books for the transporting of prisoners to the various penal institutions throughout the state. The use of these books was eliminated and the transporting of prisoners is accomplished exclusively by the use of my car or prison van. Approximately 340 gallons of gasoline less is being consumed each month, in spite of the additional gasoline expenditure necessitated by the transportation of prisoners by our own vehicles, thus effecting a saving on mileage books and gasoline of approximately $940," continues Sheriff McReil.

"Laundry at the House of Detention was previously carted weekly to the Essex County Penitentiary in Caldwell. It is now done at the Essex County Jail, on the opposite side of the street from the House of Detention.

"I have not replaced vacancies as they arose unless it was essential to the respective department.

"The following vacancies have not been filled:

"In 1936, four court attendants, three of these were on maximum salary of $3,000 per year and one at $2,000 per year. Additional in 1937, two court attendants, both on maximum salaries of $3,080 per year; 1936, one guard at the Essex County Jail at a minimum salary of $1,800 per year; 1937, matron at the Essex County Jail at a minimum salary of $1,800 per year; 1936 and 1937, one clerk in the Bureau of Identification at a salary of $2,200 per year; 1936, three typists in the office at respective salaries of $1,080, $1,320, and $1,380 per year; 1937, an additional two stenographers aggregating an annual salary of $2,460 per year; one stenographer returned to her former department, annual salary of $1,320 per year; one stenographer, leave of absence from April 9, 1937, saving on salary of $1,045.

"Clerks of the Bureau of Identification do all typing of records of their bureau, which work was formerly done by the typists of our office, with no additional help nor the filling of one clerk vacancy in the Bureau of Identification. This work being eliminated from the office typist department, as well as other little changes made, justifies my not having replaced the typist vacancies," he added.

"The appropriation for the sheriff's department in 1936 was $126,000; in 1937, $123,500. Total receipts in 1936 amounted to $224,473.77 and 1937, $197,201.06. In advertising sheriff's sales in 1936 savings amounted to $26,850.98 and in 1937, $36,778.70. Juries (savings through cooperation of the courts), $12,052 in 1936 and $13,399 in 1937.

"In addition to the savings on three typist vacancies not filled last year, two stenographer vacancies by resignation, one vacancy by leave of absence, and one who was returned to her former department.

"Totalling for both years seven unfilled vacancies. A saving this year alone of $3,505," Sheriff McReil explained.

"The magnificent result, as manifested in this report, has been made possible through the unselfish effort and cooperation of my staff and of each employee in my department. Without their fealty and allegiance I could not have made my realized pledge possible.

"Deeply appreciative I am, to the people of Essex County for the opportunity they had afforded me in serving them as sheriff; for the friendship, noble effort and assistance rendered me by my associates and personnel of the Sheriff's Department toward making these two years both successful and exceedingly pleasant, I am most deeply grateful," the sheriff concluded.

Doyle-Siebert

The marriage of Miss Margaret Siebert, 36 Crooke avenue, Brooklyn, and James Doyle, 26 Ralph street, took place Sunday in the rectory of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church.

A dinner was served after the ceremony at the home of Mr. Doyle.

The best man was Robert Doyle, brother of the bridegroom, and the bridesmaid was Miss Ruth French.
