Local Elks Attend State Meeting Sunday

Large Delegation Plans to Visit Hoboken Lodge

Elks from all sections of the state will journey to Hoboken on Sunday to attend the third quarterly meeting of the New Jersey State Elks' Association, which will be held at Hoboken Lodge No. 74, at 2:30 P. M.

The local contingent will consist of Harold Cavanaugh, exalted ruler, and Messrs. Jack Deeny and James Ferguson, past exalted rulers, all members of the association and many members of Belleville Lodge.

Prior to the general session the State Publicity Committee, of which Wallwin H. Masten, editor of this paper is a member, will convene at 1:30.

Murray B. Sheldon, president of the State Elks organization, in issuing the call for the meeting, announces that the safety drive committee which has been carrying on a safety educational program will submit for consideration and endorsement, Senate Bill No. 43, now in the Legislature, making it a misdemeanor for any one to "kill" tickets for motor vehicle violations.

The committee believes that "killing" of tickets is one of the most vicious practices contributing to the increasing deaths and accidents on our streets and highways; that the practice is un-American since it presupposes that only a certain class of citizens need obey the law and that it is one of the major factors which caused the deaths of 39,700 persons throughout the nation in 1937. It is, therefore, enlisting the support of every New Jersey Elks' Lodge in urging the enactment of the bill.

Other important committee matters to be submitted at this session for consideration and definite decision are: Flag Day service program; Mothers' Day program, rules and regulations for the forth-coming parade at the Grand Lodge convention in Atlantic City in July; the Grand Exalted Rulers' paid-up membership campaign; crippled children's work with particular reference to the Betty Bacharach Home and arrangements for the finals in the state ritualistic contest.

The New Jersey Elks selected Hoboken Lodge for this meeting in commemoration of its fiftieth anniversary. A special golden jubilee celebration is being arranged by the lodge officers and officials of Hoboken in honor of the occasion.

Other officers who will assist President Sheldon at the meeting are: Vice presidents John J. Albiez, Union No. 1583, Central District; Robert W. Kidd, Penns Grove No. 1358, Southern District; William E. Kennedy, West Orange No. 1590, Northwest District and James J. Breslin, Lyndhurst No. 1505, Northeast District; secretary Francis J. Eagan, Weehawken No. 1456; treasurer Charles Rosecrans, Long Branch No. 742; sergeant-at-arms August F. Greiner, Perth Amboy.

Women Interested in Local Gym Classes

Group Plans to Continue Without Vacation Let- Up This Year

Belleville women are invited to participate in the women's gym classes, which are being held each Wednesday night in the High School between 8 and 9 o'clock. Mrs. Helen O'Neil is instructor.

One-half hour is devoted to exercises and the remaining one-half hour to games and dancing. The only requirement is that all women must furnish their own gym suits and sneakers. At present about twenty-five, mostly married women, are participating.

The classes have been in operation three years, with closing periods during the summer. This year, it is planned to keep going all year around, with lessons in tennis providing the Spring interest. There will also be outdoor exercises.

Two Calls

Harry Brabban, 254 Union avenue, had cause to call police headquarters twice Saturday night.

First he phoned to say someone stole a kit of tools from his garage. Later he called to say there was a man panhandling among the houses in his section.

Whether the two calls were significant the police could not determine.

Bus Strap Breaks Nose of Woman

A freak accident in which Mrs. George Weesey, 158 Academy street, suffered a broken nose, occurred last week on a bus.

Mrs. Weesey was "hanging on" a metal strap, when the strap broke, slamming her on the nose, breaking the appendage.

At the same time on the same day, Mr. Weesey, whose car was parked on Broadway, Newark, was told that his automobile had been hit by a bus, and upon investigation he discovered that such was the case.

Mrs. Weesey is convalescing nicely.

Recorder Would Curb Drunken Driving Jail Would Be Deterrent Judge Everett Smith Declares

"Clamp down on drunken drivers with a compulsory jail sentence."

This, in the form of a state law in every drunken driving conviction, would be the most effective means of curbing the offenses, Recorder Everett B. Smith believes. For a long time he has been suspending licenses on speeding convictions, curbing reckless driving here and throwing a scare into motorists who would use Belleville's highways for speedways. Respect of law through severe penalties will stop violations, the recorder says.

"I believe in jail terms for drunken driving," he declared, "but I do not believe it is fair for the local magistrate to be forced to take the initiative."

"Other problems, such as speeding, for example, may vary in seriousness in different communities, but an intoxicated driver may be as much of a menace on a country road as on a city street."

"Further, a mandatory sentence makes no distinction between rich and poor. Because a man is able to pay a heavy fine is no reason why he should escape the more serious penalty of a jail term for an offense as serious as drunken driving."

"It is said that a mandatory jail sentence would result in greater leniency and fewer convictions, but I believe public opinion would frown on any magistrate who failed to heed the evidence in dealing with offenders. I am firmly convinced that mandatory jail sentences are the only means by which we can effectually curb the drunken driver."

State Highway Commission Suggests Removal Of Trolley Tracks in Washington Avenue

Advisability of Such Procedure Had Been Urged in Editorial in This Newspaper About Two Months Ago

Removal of trolley tracks in Washington avenue by the State Highway Commission at no expense to Belleville, through use of WPA labor, has been suggested to the Town Commission.

This follows an editorial in this newspaper some weeks ago, "Planning Belleville," in which it was pointed out that removal of the tracks with a parkway or some similar break in the middle of the avenue would not only enhance the civic appearance of the main artery through town, but act as a deterrent to reckless drivers who might be inclined to cause head-on collisions.

The Town Commission Monday night at its conference, took no action on the matter, but discussed the possibility of some type of aisle in the center of the thoroughfare. Further details will be obtained by the town from the state.

George H. Weston appealed to the commissioners Tuesday night to build a ramp in the middle of the avenue, or a parkway of about two-foot width to prevent accidents to pedestrians.

The job, according to Mr. Weston and Mayor Williams, would have to be done by the state at its expense.

Mayor Williams stated that all commissioners agreed that something should be done to alleviate the dan-

King To Announce Candidacy Tomorrow

Director of Public Affairs Will Officially Enter Commission Race

Commissioner Joseph King, director of Public Affairs, is expected to officially announce his candidacy for reelection tomorrow night at the meeting of the Joseph King Association, of which he is standard bearer.

He is a former Essex County freeholder and has long been active in civic affairs.

During the past four years Commissioner King has served the town as head of the health, welfare and building departments. He also has had direction over the Shade Tree Commission and the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

For nearly four years Commissioner King has served as building inspector without extra compensation, effecting a saving for the town of over $10,000 in this department, alone. He has inaugurated other economies and has increased efficiency in all town departments under his administration.

Perhaps Commissioner King's most difficult task has been that of handling public welfare. Early in 1936 when the full load of the relief burden was placed on the town, Commissioner King assumed responsibility of caring for those in need. Administration of relief in Belleville has been effective and efficient under his direction.

Soon after his election to the Town Commission in 1934, Commissioner King tackled the problem of eliminating dumping grounds in the Silver Lake and Valley sections which has long been a source of annoyance to Belleville residents. Within six months the dumping grounds were completely filled in and covered over with earth at his direction. He has since insisted that dumping of garbage be prohibited within the limits of the town.

Local Man Drowns In Passaic River

Joseph D. Russell Was Well- Known Here in Poli- tical Circles

Joseph D. Russell, 44, 177 Overlook avenue, was drowned in the Passaic river near the Belleville bridge Tuesday night.

Authorities are unable to determine whether he fell or he jumped from the bridge, as no one could explain how he got into the water.

Russell, who was unmarried, had been employed recently as a worker for the public building inventory project of the WPA.

He was taken out of the water by Patrolman Williams of the North Arlington police who, with E. L. Whelan, employee of the Lloyd Engineering Company, 39 Schuyler street, David Malcolm, 68 Rutgers street, both of Belleville, and Robert Vieth, 27 Fuller place, North Arlington, threw the water and dragged the body to shore.

Russell was given artificial respiration by Motorcycle Officer Irving Holly and Patrolman Anthony Gross for three-quarters of an hour in a futile effort to save Russell's life.

Fireman Ted Cyphers drove the local ambulance, which took Russell to West Hudson Hospital, where he died shortly after arriving.

Arthur Ronco of 194 Washington avenue, and William Bowler of 21 Valley street, both of Belleville, were standing near the bridge when they heard a cry for help. They saw ripples in the water, and dashed to a service station from which they called the police. Sergeant Flynn answered and sent three ambulances and three men.

Russell, unmarried, lived with two sisters, Mary C. and Kathleen R. Russell. The latter recently recovered from pneumonia at her home. Their parents both died within the last year.

A week ago he was assigned as a statistician at $90 a month on a WPA project to inventory all town equipment. When Russell reported for work, according to Fred B. Handlon, deputy director of the Department of Parks and Public Property, he learned the job of statistician had been abolished and he was to be employed as a junior clerk at $60 a month.

Russell refused to go on the project then and Monday visited the Town Hall in an endeavor to obtain a statistician's job. A former district leader he is said to have felt he was getting a run-around because of politics, but finally agreed to report as a junior clerk. He was to report Wednesday for work.

Russell for seventeen years was chief clerk at the Worthington Pump & Machine Co., Harrison. He left there about five years ago.

Jewry to Observe Purim, Feast of Lots

Marks Historic Episode in Eastern Provinces Of Syria

Purim, the Feast of Lots, will be celebrated by Jews all over the world, beginning with sun down, Wednesday and extending to sun down Thursday. Wednesday is known as the Fast of Esther, commemorating the day when the Jews of the Persian provinces of Syria fasted and prayed that they be spared the massacre planned by the ruthless Haman. Thursday will be celebrated as Purim proper.

Purim marks the historic episode in the history of the Jewish people that occurred in the Eastern provinces of Syria during the reign of Ataxerxes II, when Mordecai, a well-known Jewish merchant was held in high esteem by the court, because he prevented the killing of the King by frustrating the diabolical plot of two of the King's guards.

Haman, an officer in the King's court was jealous of Mordecai. He was not satisfied with merely venting his anger on Mordecai. He wanted to destroy all of Mordecai's people, all the Jews in the provinces. By some ruse, Haman induced the King to order the pillaging of all the Jews. Lots (purim) were drawn, and the chance fell upon the date, Fourteenth of Adar.

The Jews in all the land fasted and prayed. In Shushan, the capitol city, Mordecai, conveyed the news of the decree to his niece, Queen Esther, whose Jewish ancestry was unknown to the court. Esther invited the King and Haman to a feast, and there pleaded with her master for the lives of her people.

The King then issued a new decree giving the Jews the right to defend themselves. He removed Haman from his high office and ordered him hanged. Mordecai was installed in his place. Jewish people everywhere celebrate this event yearly, thus testing to their loyalty to the eternal truths of Judaism.

The Congregation A. A. A. will celebrate the holiday in many ways. Services will be held at the synagogue on Wednesday at the close of the Fast of Esther. The Megillah, the Biblical Book of Esther, will be read at the service which will begin at 5:15 P. M. At 7:30 in the evening, the Maccabean Boys' club will have a special Purim program at its meeting.

Services on Thursday will start promptly at 7 A. M. The Purim Seulah, the Purim Feast will be held in the homes of the individual families at night. The late service of Friday will be devoted to a discussion of the holiday by Rabbi Dohin. The religious school will hold its Purim Carnival on Sunday morning, March 20. The Sisterhood of the Congregation will have a special Purim Cultural program at its March 22 meeting. More information about these events will be published in next week's issue.

Judge Warns Of Legal Dog House

Tells Local Man He Had Better "Bark" on Alimony

"You're in the legal dog house now. I'll give you two weeks to adjust this difficulty. Bark and get out."

This was the edict laid down Tuesday to Richard Vanderhoof, Jr., Belleville, by Advisory Master Matthews, who told Vanderhoof he has two weeks in which to make some effort to catch up on alimony payments to Mrs. Edith T. Vanderhoof, 149 Summer avenue, Newark, for her support and that of their child, or be held in contempt.

The legal dog house, the judge explained, is "only a few hops from the jail."

Abraham Silverstein, counsel to Mrs. Vanderhoof, told the court Vanderhoof has paid nothing since last April despite an order to pay $5 weekly.

Boys Will Be Boys

"Boys will be boys," commented Officer Fred Singer, as he reported that three windows in the unused Belwood Park railroad station, on the Greenwood Lake branch of the Erie Railroad, were broken.

"I can remember when I was a kid and threw stones at vacated property," said Officer Singer.

Local Fingerprint Expert Tells Lions Blundering Methods Should Be Taboo

Andrew Monahan Declares that Universal Fingerprinting Means Protection to Honest American Citizens

Andrew Monahan, Belleville resident, recently addressed Belleville Lions' Club at a meeting in Forest Hill Field Club, on "Finger Printing."

Mr. Monahan declared: "Our citizen duty is plain. It lies in our power to catch now, forever, our blundering, age-old methods of identifying, not only disaster victims, but all lost, mentally affected, and injured persons, adrift in this great land of cars today."

"Every day men and women are found on the streets dead, dying, lost and unidentified. What happens to these people, you often wonder? Here is the answer:

"The taxpayers of the United States every year pay approximately $4,000,000 for the burial of 46,000 unknown dead."

Handle Many Cases.

"In New York City the missing persons bureau is now handling over 30,000 identification cases each year. Many of these missing persons have been located. On the other hand, a number of them have not been found. The detective work involved in investigating all such cases throughout the United States, the staggering cost in police effort, time and taxpayer's money, can be imagined."

"Thousands of estates of missing persons are tied up today, awaiting the return of the absent one who may be lying in Potter's field or may be lying in some public institution unidentified," he continued.

"Today the criminals are protected against an unknown grave, because their finger prints are on file in the Federal Bureau of Investigation Criminal Fingerprint file at Washington."

"You, too, can have this protection. Finger prints will be filed in the Civil Identification file. This non-criminal file is a thing distinct, and apart from the criminal file. And is never checked with the criminal file."

"A finger print is merely a signature that cannot be forged. Character, appearance and mentality may change, but not the papillary ridges of the fingers. They remain the same from birth to death. An individual's signature may change from age or failing eyesight, but his finger prints never change. So, a finger print is the only infallible means of personal identification."

What It Means.

"Universal finger printing means protection to the honest American citizen. Quick, infallible identification of all accident and catastrophe victims; restoration to relatives of lost and runaway children; identification of adults suffering from amnesia; prevention of mix-ups of babies in hospitals; reducing to a minimum, insurance frauds and false claims to estates, or family relationships, making impossible the forging of wills; protection of saving accounts (banks) and finally cheating Potter's field, all over the country, of any more unknown dead."

"There would be no unidentified dead if every one's finger prints were on file. Think of the expense taxpayers would save! $5,000,000 every year."

"Two weeks ago a report came over the radio that a fine old gentleman had walked in one of the hospitals in New York and asked, 'Who am I?' The doctors there tried to help him. They failed. Men talked to him by the hour, but it was useless. He was well bred, highly educated, could speak four languages. If this old gentleman were a criminal, instead of a good man, he would be identified by his finger prints, instead of being committed to a public institution as unknown. If he had his finger prints taken and put on file in the civil identification file at Washington, he would be identified and his relatives would be notified."

"Finger prints were used thousands of years ago by the Chinese Monarchs as a sign manual. That is, they used the imprint of the thumb as a real sign when signing important documents."

"Finger impressions are from the body and cannot be disguised, forged or altered by anybody, in any manner whatsoever, while the handwriting of a person can easily be altered or forged by any good penman."

"Finger print experts can make positive identification almost instantly without hesitation," he concluded.

The meeting was presided over by Arthur E. Mayer, president. Louis A. Noll, vice president, was in charge of arrangements.

The second feature will be "The Baroness and the Butler," starring William Powell and Annabella.

Recorder Dismisses "Dead Motor" Case

Rules There Was No Illegal Driving in Car Minus Battery

Recorder Everett B. Smith has ruled that a man behind the wheel of a moving car is not driving the car if the motor is unusable.

He dismissed charges against Michael Vitale of 3 Wood street, Newark, of operating an unlicensed motor vehicle and driving after his driver's license had been revoked.

Vitale was arrested January 25 at Belleville and Franklin avenues after a plateless car which he was steering rolled through the intersection as school children were crossing. Patrolman Gallagher, who said that Vitale failed to stop at his signal, made the arrest when a wheel dropped off the car a short distance past the intersection.

Had Been Pushed.

Investigation disclosed that a friend had been pushing the car which Vitale was "driving." There was no battery and no ignition system in the car, and it could not be operated under its own power.

Joseph D'Allenegra, attorney, represented Vitale before Smith and contended that his client could not be convicted of "operating a motor-driven vehicle" on either of the two charges.

After the hearing, D'Allenegra and the State Motor Vehicle Department submitted briefs to Smith. The Motor Vehicle Department brief, Smith said, stated that there was no precedent for a decision and offered the opinion that there was no violation.

Committee Seeks More Chest Funds

Community Appeal Ended
With $12,000 of $16,000
Quota Raised

The Welfare Federation is asking for additional contributions to the 1938 Community Chest. The annual chest drive held last November was closed with only $12,000 pledged of the $16,000 sought.

At the suggestion of the Community Service Bureau, one of the six organizations which derive support from chest funds, residents who had contributed in previous campaigns but who were not interviewed during the 1938 drive are being canvassed now by a special group of solicitors.

Community Service Bureau officials expressed dissatisfaction with their share of the chest fund, contending they could not function with the $6,830 allotted them. The bureau's quota was $9,000, but the allotments to all participating agencies were cut when the goal was not reached.

The Welfare Federation refused to permit the bureau to have an independent campaign. Federation regulations forbid separate fund drives by participating agencies. A supplemental canvass was decided upon, however, and any additional funds obtained will be shared by all participating agencies. These are the Community Service Bureau, Red Cross, Boy and Girl Scouts, Silver Lake Community House and Visiting Nurses Association.

SCENE: Living room. Nancy, waiting for her friend, Jerry to arrive and take her out for the evening, tries out on Dad an idea she's already sold to Mother.

NANCY: "Daddy... please, couldn't I have a 'phone in my own room? Really Dad, it doesn't cost much."

DAD: "What's the matter with the one down here?... all of a sudden."

NANCY: "Nothing—only I have to telephone a lot, and if I had an extension, I wouldn't bother you and mother."

DAD: "And what's the rest of the story, young lady?"

NANCY: "Oh—well—you know: Jerry's going away on his new job, and he'll be calling up, and... this 'phone's so public!"

One of our subscribers compared her daily activities with and without an extension telephone upstairs. With it she enjoyed greater privacy, felt more secure at night, and in 10 days saved more than a mile of walking in her home... the extension costs less than 3¢ a day.

The end "men" in the show were Jean Payne, Ruth Kurtz, Virginia Bunnell, Grace Rawcliffe, Isabel Smith and Mabel Hughes.

A solo and chorus presented "School Days" very adequately. The chorus included Betty Strange, Bertha Herman, Gladys Kurtz, Ann Morrow, Jean Jenkins, Irene Rawcliffe, Doris McDonald and Ruth Plu-

FROM THE PULPIT

Prepared for the Belleville News by Rev. Peter R. Deckenbach, rector Christ Episcopal Church.

It is very significant that the writer of those well known words, which are used so often for texts for sermons and even quoted by the layman, I mean "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, and today and forever," is unknown. Some say that it was Paul who wrote this letter to the Hebrews, but the phraseology and wording are so different from the other things which are attributed to the pen of St. Paul that most great theological thinkers do not give him the credit. Some one today could use the same words—for we are at a time of great change when the passing and the permanent, the transient and the eternal are being thrown together.

Life, of course, is always on the move, but during the past fifteen years it has been moving very rapidly. As you and I look out at nature, we realize that the landscape is ever changing. The rain, the wind and frost are forever cutting new shapes in the hardest stone, so that what Columbus saw when he arrived on our shores is not the same sight that we see.

And so it is that this great writer, writing at the time of greatest crisis which the Christian Church ever faced, could look through the flames in which the church and state alike were being consumed and send such a message to the Jewish race. "Don't be afraid," he said, "have faith, for though all else is changing, Christ does not change and He is the same yesterday, today and forever."

Maybe this is the message that we need about now that revolutions are raging, kingdoms ruined, fortunes shattered, and so on. We think of what is happening in Germany, Russia, Italy, Spain, China, India, and we don't dare to predict anything for the future. So, isn't it natural that some one should point us to the unchanging Christ, the Son of God? I will never leave thee nor forsake thee, that is His promise to a world of change and heartbreak, of weariness and fear.

We, poor mortals, do change. Physiology teaches us that these bodies of ours change every seven years, so that the body we have when we come into the world is not the same we leave behind us. We change far more than we are prepared to admit. We change with circumstances. We forget the days when we had nothing or when we had a great deal. We change in our attitude to those who were once very dear to us. Christ remains young while we grow old. I heard a man say that maybe Jesus died at the early age of thirty-three, in the prime of youth, that He might remain eternally young. We change in the realm of knowledge, while Christ is eternally all knowing. He knew all things before the foundation of the world and He knows all things now. We change readily in our moods and tempers.

One hour we are sunny, the next, sad. One day we are kind of fizzy, the next rather flat. One hour we are constant, the next fickle, while Christ is morally forever the same, firm and changeless, pure and spotless. Now, if all of this which I have said is true, our continual changing and His constancy, then there are two truths which come to us full of comfort and consolation and inspiration. Christ keeps pace with our growth and He will never become obsolete. Our taste in regard to foods and books and friends and many other things change, but we need never put away our Lord, for He satisfies. When I was a child I talked like a child, I thought like a child, I argued like a child, but now that I am a man, I have put away childish things.

He satisfies us in the days of childhood and youth when we know nothing of the trials of life. He satisfies in the midst of years when we have to bear the burdens and heat of the day. He satisfies in old age when heaven is in view and we stand on the brink of the river. Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end. It is really very interesting to watch a child in the Sunday School. When a little one two and a half up to four years old comes into the kindergarten class the stories of Jesus fascinate them and He becomes a living reality, weaving Himself into their enthusiasms and hopes and desires, and He seems to go along with them until the world steps in, and if there is not the right training in the home to supplement that which we can do in a half hour once a week in the church school, Jesus is pushed aside. On this Sunday just preceding the beginning of Lent, let us try to understand that Jesus is the same yesterday—yesterday when the light of ambition and adventure fairly shined in our eyes, when we built air

Train "Victim" Identifies Belleville Man's Body

A supposed dead man came to life Thursday night and gave information which enabled police to identify the body of a man killed by a train Wednesday at the Pennsylvania Station, Newark.

At first police believed the dead man was Thomas Rose of 2017 Chestnut street, New Orleans. The body was taken to Mullin's Morgue, 976 Broad street.

Later William Mullin, owner of the funeral parlor, told Acting Captain Donnelly he had received a call from a person who identified himself as Thomas Rose. The caller said the man at the morgue was a George Johnson, who worked at the Eastern Overall Supply Co., Garfield. He hung up without volunteering any more information.

A check by Donnelly revealed the man was George Johnson, 31, of 31 Bellevue avenue, this town, a route foreman for the Garfield plant. He was identified by his mother, Mrs. Mary Barnielt of 89 13th avenue.

A Little Onion and How It Helped Rose's Courtship

Rose was standing at the door one day, Of the Washington Market Food Centre; Business was dull, not a customer near, When a handsome young man did enter.

He looked at Rose, his eyes just shone, A very good looking man was he. "Young man, what do you want?" said she. "I want just one onion, young lady," said he.

"And what can you do with an onion?" said she. "I've got a bad cold in my head," said he. She gave him his onion, he paid on the spot, "I'll eat that little onion," said he—"Red hot."

He then looked at Rose, said he, said he, "I wonder if you would go out with me?" She did, she did, to Karlin's they went, Ice cream they had, his money he spent.

"And now let's get married," the young man said, But a thought came into Rose's head; "Not if you eat onions raw," she said, And the young man's face turned very red.

"Will you marry me, Rose; you look so sweet," "Yes," said Rose—"Go right across the street, To the hardware store, and get a broom, And when we're married, I'll sweep my room."

So they got a broom, it was big and tall, Said Rose—"I'll stand it in the hall; I will use the broom right on his head, If he eats little onions raw," she said.

Said Rose, "Let's go across to the Boston store," (Now I know he eats his onions raw.) They went—he bought her a handkerchief neat, Then back to Karlin's, across the street.

He bought her a bottle of perfume sweet, She put some on her ruby lips, Rose was wearing a pretty locket, The onion was still in the young man's pocket.

Rose said, "All right, your onion I'll cook," He went to the library and got a cook book— They married, Rose stands at her own front door, Now he never eats his onions raw any more.

Officers Elected by Taxpayers' Group

New Group Is Opposed to A Tax Rate of

Officers elected by the Belleville Taxpayers and Civic Association Monday night are as follows: President, Edwin R. Ackerman; vice president, Walter Debow; secretary, A. E. Chiappari; treasurer, M. C. Graham; trustees, Mrs. George F. Ward, Andrew L. Boylan and George Stewart. Ray E. Mertz was named by the nominating committee for president, but Ackerman, temporary president, was nominated from the floor and defeated Mertz in the voting.

Ackerman read this "statement of purpose":

"The Belleville Taxpayers' and Civic Association is a strictly non-partisan civic organization. Its purposes are to represent the interests of our town and its citizens as a whole; to arouse our citizens to a consciousness of their civic rights and duties; in every fair constructive way to acquire and maintain for the citizens of Belleville the full benefits of government, to secure as great a reduction in expenses and taxes as is consistent with proper government and the public welfare, and finally, to obtain honest, efficient government at the lowest possible cost."

Ackerman appointed Boylan, Debow and Joseph A. Dunn as a constitution and by-laws committee. About 150 attended the session.

Sidney C. Summerfield was the only dissenting voice at the meeting, when the question was raised of the right of the association to reprimand several newspapers that stated that the association took a conciliatory mood of the raise in the tax rate to $5.

Meeting in School No. 8, the association adopted a resolution stating that it was "opposed to a $5 tax rate," and called upon the town officials to "give Belleville the best government at the lowest possible cost."

In a "News Letter" announcing the meeting, members were asked to consider:

"Why is Belleville in 28th place in thirty-one municipalities in its ability to pay its debts?"

"Why did our debt service on municipal obligations amount to $476,227 in 1936?"

"What caused the cost of handling a poor relief case to increase from $27.11 in 1936 to $32.77 in 1937?"

"Do you want to read such headlines as these?" the letter asked: "Ward Politics Rule in Belleville. Belleville Annexed to Newark. Politics Rule in Board of Education. Zoning Against Apartment Houses Lifted. Recreation Commission Abolished."

Finds $300 Sparkler; Given $1 Reward

Twenty diners left their food and an all-night restaurant to engage in a search for a $300 engagement ring, lost by an engaged couple. The young woman discovered she had lost her engagement ring while strolling in Military park, Newark.

Patrolman Jennings equipped with a flashlight joined in the search. Twenty minutes later William Dellatore, 9 North Eighth street, Belleville, found the ring sparkling in the grass.

The young woman's fiancée gave Dellatore $1, the couple sauntered off, diners returned to their food. Jennings returned to his beat and all was calm and serene.

Posthumously Honored

The Late Miss Sullivan

A Theodore N. Vail bronze medal, highest honor in the power of the telephone industry in New Jersey to bestow, has been awarded posthumously to Miss Helen R. Sullivan, heroine of the Plaza Hotel fire in Jersey City last December 29, whose devotion to her duty as switchboard operator cost her her life.

Announcement of the award was made today by the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company regional Vail Committee of Award. When sparks from a toy train set fire to a Christmas tree in the hotel lobby, Miss Sullivan stayed at her switchboard to call for help and warn guests. She continued her efforts until her clothing caught fire and her only means of escape was through the flames. The burns she received resulted in her death January 17.

Awards of Vail medals in bronze are made annually when merited by Bell System regional committees throughout the country to men and women performing acts of outstanding public service in which the use of telephone facilities or training is involved. The acts performed by winners of bronze medals are later reviewed by a national committee of award for possible superseding awards of Vail medals in silver or gold. The medals are a memorial to the late Theodore N. Vail, Jerseyman and famous telephone pioneer, who was head of the Bell Telephone System many years.

The New Jersey regional committee also awarded honorable mention in two instances. One was to the operators at the Lakehurst telephone exchange, Mrs. Margaret Vert, her daughter, Mrs. Helen V. Adams, Mrs. Pauline R. Fucile and Miss Katherine F. Hepsley, for outstanding service at the time of the burning of the Hindenburg at Lakehurst Naval Air Station.

The operators met the emergency, requiring staying at the small switchboard many hours without rest, despite their lack of knowledge for years of the welfare of Mrs. Vert's son, Mrs. Adams' husband, Mrs. Fucile's husband and Miss Hepsley's brother, all of whom had gone to the field to help in landing the dirigible.

The other honorable mention was for George S. Raum, telephone lineman at Trenton for effective first aid rendered the daughter of one of his fellow telephone men when the child was injured at play, having an artery in her wrist severed by glass.

Before a full audience at the Hobart Avenue School, Millburn, the Little Theatre Guild, sponsored by the Recreation Commission, recently produced Eugene O'Neil's "Ile," a one-act play in the state drama tournament. Six other groups from different parts of the state competed. The tournament trophy, presented by the Newark Evening News was won by the Imps Theatre Club of Trenton, sponsored by the Recreation Division of Mercer County WPA.

The Belleville players lost first position by only a fraction of a point. The exact portrayal of characters and interpretation of the author's meaning was attested to by an audience whose complimentary reaction was one of deep interest and understanding.

The scene takes place in the "Captain's cabin on the 'Atlantic Queen,' a whaler out of Homeport two years, which had been icebound in the Bering Sea for high on a year."

The scene was opened by Arthur J. Flynn, who played the part of the steward, a grizzled sullen old seaman, and Roderick Flynn, as cabin boy. They did a fine bit of character acting in their criticism of the ship's master, Captain Keeney, played by William Chapman, who gave an outstanding performance as the hard-driving old salt, who momentarily holds in his hands the destiny of the entire crew.

Mr. Chapman is remembered for his fine work in "Big Hearted Herbert" and other guild productions. Gary Vanderbilt played well the part of the second mate, the only member on board to stand by the captain. Mrs. Keeney, the captain's wife, played by Louise Carissime, who recently replaced Beatrice Burington, on account of illness, gave an excellent character portrayal of the hysterical home sick wife. Henry Abramson, the harpioneer, led the mutiny and very dramatically took a punch on the jaw from the captain, to re-establish order on shipboard.

The play was ably directed by Joseph Distasio, one of the youngest members of the guild. The guild is quite proud of the fine showing it made for Belleville, since all the competing groups were winners of local contests to represent their communities in the state tournament.

ATTITUDES.

If you're sorry, then say so,
And acknowledge you're wrong;
Don't continue that way though,
Or be sorry too long.
Brood not over your losses,
It's a very poor plan,
So just carry your crosses,
And be brave like a man.

That mistake, and that blunder
Are now gone, in the past;
Dismiss them, keep them under,
They are not meant to last.
All your trouble, disaster,
You may use if you will,
And control them, and master,
Let them drive you up hill.

Soil that grows shrubs so prickly,
Or weed, thistle or thorn,
Will grow roses as quickly,
That perfume and adorn.
So, life's soil when we're sowing,
By the deeds that we do,
We are constantly showing,
If we're faithless, or true.

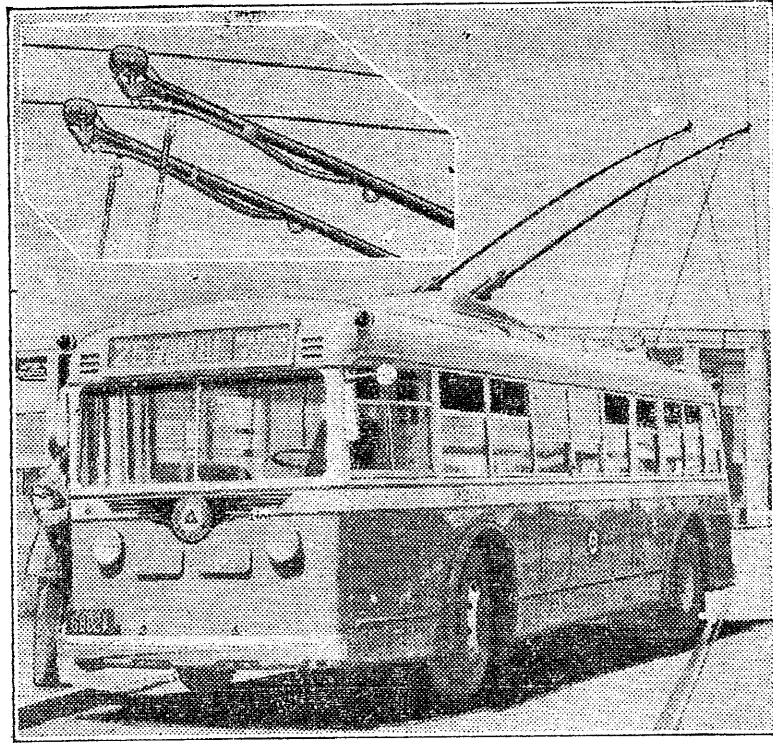

We need not hug our sorrow,
Nor yet constantly rue;
A new day dawns tomorrow,
And new deeds we may do.
Let us then cease regretting,
As we make a new start,
And past failures forgetting,
Take fresh courage and heart.

Ingenious Device, Functioning Like Shoulder Socket, Keeps Poles on Wires as All-Service Vehicle Moves to Right or Left

EVER wonder what keeps the trolley poles of an all-service vehicle on the wires as the Public Service Coordinated Transport conveyance maneuvers smoothly and silently through traffic, moves around other vehicles or pulls into the curb to pick up passengers?

An ingenious device, functioning in the same manner as the shoulder joint which makes it possible for a person to move his arm at various angles, is the answer. Technically, the device is called a "shoe."

Unlike the rigid wheel which holds a street car trolley pole in position on the wire, the "shoe" for the all-service vehicle is mounted on a universal joint, of the ball-and-socket type, at the top of the trolley pole. The shoe is three inches long and in the top is a half-round or U-shaped groove into which the trolley wire fits. The length and construction of the groove helps prevent the shoe from pulling away from the wire as the vehicle moves sideways. However, it is the universal, or ball-and-socket type, joint that enables the pole to swing to either side as the vehicle moves to the right or left. The flexibility of this joint is such that the poles will stay on the wires twelve feet either to the right or left while the vehicle swings as much as of a point in the center of the wires

Man's Tastes Found In Home Economics

Students Served Dinner to Athletic Council Members

Home economics students of Belleville High School had early practice learning man's tastes in food when they served dinner Thursday at 6 o'clock for the Athletic Council. The menu consisted of the following: Fresh fruit cup, celery and olives, broiled lamb chops, parsley potatoes, sliced tomatoes, shredded string beans, muffins, mint jelly, heart of lettuce salad with Russian dressing, strawberry short cake and coffee.

The members of the council who attended were Supervising Principal Wayne R. Farmer, High School Principal Hugh D. Kittle, School Commissioners Herbert Schmutz, Charles A. Gebhardt, Business Manager Ruel Daniels, Frank Smith, A. K. McBride, August Plenge and Recorder Everett Smith. Floyd Bragg, president of the Welfare Federation, was prevented from attending because of illness.

The color scheme for the evening was blue and yellow. The attractive blue and white china was enhanced by a centerpiece of yellow daffodils. Ingenious place-cards representing attractive waitresses were designed by students in the Art Department under the direction of Mr. Diehl.

The Home Economics girls who prepared and served the dinner were Ellen Neville, Grace Weiss, Rosemary Henzey and Margaret Sealeu.

Stamp Column

Arkansas Centennial.

The name of this state was derived from that of a tribe of American Indians who were so called by the Algonquians. The pronunciation of the name has been established by statute as Ar'kan-saw. Arkansas, popularly known as the "Bear State," formed a part of the Louisiana Purchase. The earliest French settlement was made at Arkansas Post in 1685. In early French documents the name was spelled Acanasa. A territory was organized in 1819, and admitted as a state in 1836. During the Civil War it suffered much. In January, 1861, by a vote of 27,412 to 15,826, the state decided to secede and in May the secession ordinance was passed by an almost unanimous vote. The battle of Pea-Ridge, March 6-7, 1862, a Federal victory, led to the seizure and occupation of Helena; then followed further disasters near Fayetteville, December 7, 1863, at Arkansas Post, January 11, 1863, and Little Rock, which was captured September 10, 1863. In June, 1868, the state was readmitted to the Union, but unrest followed until 1874, when a new constitution was adopted.

This special postage stamp was issued in commemoration of the centennial of Arkansas statehood. The stamp is the same size as the special delivery stamp 84-100 by 1 1/4 inches in dimension, arranged horizontally. The central design of the stamp is a view of the old state house, showing the portico of the central building and portion of the right wing, inclosed in a circular panel. At the left, partly below the central design, is a representation of the first settlement in Arkansas, the Arkansas Post, in a corresponding position at the right is pictured the present state capital. The stamp was printed by the rotary process without straight edges and was issued in sheets containing fifty stamps. The new stamp was first offered for sale at the post office in Little Rock, Ark., on June 15, 1936.

Book Review

NORTH TO THE ORIENT
By Anne Morrow Lindbergh

The Lindberghs' flight to the Orient in 1931 was made for the purpose of finding a shorter air route to the Orient. Starting from Long Island, they flew over the North Pole to Japan instead of going around the world.

In the book "North to the Orient," Anne Lindbergh tells the story of the trip in a charming manner. When you read her experiences, as a radio operator, you feel as though you were talking with her, the style is so intimate and chatty. Here is the true personality of the author. Naive, unaffected and at times almost childlike.

Did fame and honor affect the Lindberghs? They appear in this book, as always pictured, plain and quiet, yet winning the hearts of the Eskimos as well as the aristocrats.

Read "North to the Orient" if you like the Lindberghs. Read it if you are interested in flying. Read it if you want to know of some funny although very interesting happenings, the kind everyone would like to experience.

Art Students Predict Styles for Season

Student Editors Listed
Under Direction of
P. W. Diehl

Belleville high art students, under the direction of P. W. Diehl, instructor, are predicting styles for the coming season. The work is depicted in a well printed brochure.

Student editors are Marjorie Trenkler, Virginia Rose, Mildred Gannon, Jean Reed, Genevieve Holland, Frances Butler, Wanda Rogers, Charlotte Carlson, Virginia Breunich and Virginia Flannery.

"Behind the Pen" with "The Costume Designer" reads as follows:

The parade of the fashion silhouette beats continuously to the chant of feminine demand. Winter, Summer, Fall, and Spring the pages of fashion magazines are eagerly scanned by the female eye in search of the latest vogue. Every woman in the world should dress correctly, smartly, and economically; should learn the artistic way to do so, study how to select wisely and to direct dressmakers and salespeople to give her just the right lines, the right coloring, the right silhouette to most enhance her individuality and to express her personality in clothes for all occasions and fashions.

Costume design and Costume Illustration are not always looked upon as distinctly, different branches of what is termed fashion work, but in truth there is a marked difference. In the former one must consider the judging of color, and all that this includes by way of harmonies, contrasts, areas, the relation of spaces, proper proportions and the beauty and effect of line, balance and scale arrangements for the production of a design that is dignified, fanciful, frivolous, dainty, formal or subtle to express the designers conception of the purpose of the costume and its suitability to the wearer and occasion. The illustrator on the other hand, has the privilege of representing the garment after it has been designed. He must be able to render the material with his pen, pencil or brush in such a way that the actual design is not robbed of any of its charm. Of course there are many ways of doing this, according to the technique and sensitiveness or temperament of the artist as well as the different methods customary for the special use for which the design is intended. It can easily be seen how advantageous it is to any fashion artist whether designer or illustrator to have an understanding of both branches to get the best out of either for they have much in common. The designer and illustrator must have both a knowledge and keen appreciation for the beautiful lines of the human form to know what lines are important to emphasize and what to conceal in a figure which may not be perfect.

Fashion drawing is one of the few lines of work in which advancement is based almost solely on merit. The United States offers many new openings for men and women of taste and aesthetic discrimination; many are earning excellent salaries today as stylists, fashion advisors and consultants in the Field of Fashion. These people advise the manufacturer what to make; the store, what to buy; and the individual woman what to wear and how to assemble her costume in the choice of hat, shoes, bag, fur, jewelry, cosmetics and perfume.

What is the training that enables such people to succeed? For it is obvious that natural talent unaided by any training could hardly fill the bill of the great business houses of today. First training does not consist in just learning to draw and paint in the usual accepted way, it consists in becoming thoroughly grounded in the principles of governing dress and in having the eye schooled to logical sound artistic effects. It is necessary in analyzing the styles of the present to understand those of the past. Order is the law of all design. No matter how far we allow our fancy to go we should never lose sight of the principles of design; balance, rhythm and harmony. Great care must be given fundamentally to personal characteristics. The materials used for comfort or ornament can then be chosen or so treated as to neutralize individual defects, and to promote every good point. Common sense and observation show that stout people should avoid large head decorations and hats which make a person appear shorter than their real height as they enlarge the head proportions. Tall people should avoid long vertical lines such as very definite or large stripes for these lines accentuate height. Of course there are numerous other illustrations if we wished to go into detail.

Perhaps the thing that most attracts the human eye in any fashion design is the technique of color applied. It has been said that color is one of the most interesting and important elements in nature, because the eye, one of the five senses sees nothing but color. Form as we call it, is seen only because one color is placed against another and its position and contrast make a shape. And every tone of color has a separate meaning, yellow speaks a definite

INTERVIEWING OUR PUPILS

By Marie Fitzsimmons

Belleville High School Student; head of New Jersey Forensic League of Secondary Schools

Joseph Distasio, born in Newark in 1920, has made a name for himself in the eyes of the high school pupils. He attended Belleville schools and was an honor student from his sixth grade to eleventh. He started school at No. 3 and later went to No. 7. After graduating he attended Belleville High where he is now finishing his senior year.

When a freshman he took the part of "Scrooge" in Dickens' "Christmas Carol." He was on the committee for the sophomore hop and also for the junior prom. He is now vice president of the International High School Artists' Society.

After joining the Belleville Theatre Guild he coached his first play this year. He entered in the state dramatic tournament at Millburn and came in second place with Belleville, a close runner-up of Mercer County representatives, who won. Joseph missed first place by one point. He is the youngest member in the Guild and the first high school student to belong to it.

He is now the president of New Jersey Forensic League of Secondary Schools, and is considered one of the outstanding members of our Debate Club. Joseph is now an active member on the staff of the Monad for the class of '38.

Costume Design IN THE HIGH SCHOOL

Costume design is valuable from the standpoint of development and crystallizing good taste in dress. Students are led to realize that attractive and appropriate dress is an asset in getting and holding a job as well as in social life; that being well dressed is not a matter of price but of good taste in selecting and combining colors, materials and designs.

While in rendering the following designs, the professional standard is the ideal, it should be kept in mind that these people are not professional but high school students, and that costume design is only one of many phases of a generalized course in art. Stock or base figures (not life drawings) are used for costume design. Emphasis is placed on originality, appropriateness, and good taste.

Ether

During an experiment in the biology class of Norman Cotter the experimentalist who was also Mr. Cotter just about fell asleep. It is only fair to say that the experiment was with ether.

thing to those who understand it. Blue cannot say what yellow says, neither can red or violet.

One of the pleasantest features of fashion art work is the unusual sympathy and good fellowship that exists among artists which is seldom duplicated in other professions. One has the stimulation of meeting and associating with people of culture and intelligence and congeniality of taste and ambition. Of course there are disadvantages to this line as well as to others. During the busy season an artist's work demands her constant attention. Sometimes she works far into the night with back bent and yet, under all this strain, both mental and physical, her work must never let down or decrease in quality.

The salary of a fashion artist is very good; even for mediocre work the pay is very much better than in most lines and for superior work it is extraordinarily high. Not a few free lance artists make from a few thousand to ten thousand a year and some of Vogue and Harper's Bazaar artists are reported to earn fifteen or twenty thousand a year, which is of course, exceptional. In New York City ten dollars is about minimum for a simple figure and several figures a day can be managed.

Remember the great art of garment making is second only to the steel industry, and to quote Miss Florence Levy: "Drawing" is the foundation of all manufacture, whether it is the making of a tiny screw or a public building, a letter-head or a piece of brocade, "the man behind the pencil" is as important in the industrial struggle as "the man behind the gun" in military war.

Boys Organize Sound System

Joe Weiss and Bob Reid
Have Powerful
Amplifiers

Joe Weiss and Bob Reid have organized a public address system. They have powerful amplifiers and over 120 popular dance records. Several times they have used their equipment at Public School No. 5 and also at Fawcett Church.

The amplifier can be used with a microphone for announcements or for calling numbers at parties. By using both the microphone and the electrical pick-up on a phonograph, voice and music can be co-ordinated for announcements with a musical background or for dances such as the Paul Jones or the Big Apple. Most jobs only require fifty per cent of the volume it is possible to produce with the amplifiers.

Besides going out on different jobs, these boys also make their own records. They have made many records of the Charlie McCarthy-Edgar Bergen programs. They find it interesting to make these records and even more interesting to hear them played back.

The boys are on the lookout for new jobs and are anxious to please their clients.

Famous Men Who Were Printers
Mark Twain was a printer before he achieved fame as an author.

Thomas Alva Edison, electrical wizard, as a boy started the first newspaper on a train, which he printed in a baggage car.

Walt Whitman himself set type for his poem, "Leaves of Grass."

Graphic Arts Club Meets

A meeting of the graphic arts club was held Wednesday in Room 9. A report was given by a committee which had been appointed to draw up a constitution, by-laws, a platform, and a purpose; to nominate officers. The members of the committee were Dominic Russo (chairman), James Thetford, and John Newton. Another meeting is scheduled in a few weeks.

Local Students Will See Unusual Exhibits Of Mechanical Apparatus at U. of P.

Unusual mechanical apparatus, including a newly perfected equation solver, will be among the exhibits at the University of Pennsylvania tomorrow, when students from Belleville High School will be guests at the university's annual Engineering and Fine Arts Day.

The equation solver, to be publicly demonstrated on that day for the first time, was designed by Assistant Professor Irven Travis and is capable of solving a particular trigonometric equation, frequently encountered in engineering problems, in approximately one-thirtieth of the time usually required by the common method of "cut and try" calculations.

It will be one of the attractions in the Moore School of Electrical Engineering, which, with the Towne Scientific School, the Department of Chemistry, and the School of Fine Arts on the Pennsylvania campus, will be open to the visitors from 10 A. M. to 4:30 P. M., on Engineering and Fine Arts Day.

Junior Senate Hears Candy Sales Report

Profit at Basketball Games
Figured at $44.88
This Year

A meeting of the Junior Senate was held on March 1. At this meeting the committee in charge of candy sales at the basketball games, reported that a net profit of $44.88 had been made.

According to the sponsors of the class, this profit compares very favorably with that of former years and is a direct result of the excellent cooperation which the girls, who sold the candy, showed. They certainly deserve a lot of credit.

Plans were discussed for the junior prom but nothing definite was decided.

Interview with Practice Teacher

Emanuel Last Has Been Assigned To Algebra
One Classes

Emanuel Last, a new practice teacher, has been assigned to the algebra one classes of William Chapman.

In a recent interview with Mr. Last, questions asked were:

Do you think algebra is a difficult subject?

He said "personally I believe anyone who can grasp subject matter can grasp algebra. Algebra is a subject in which the fundamentals must be learned at the beginning."

Mr. Last's favorite sports are football and intramural basketball.

What Do You Think?

Question: Do you think there should be more socials in Belleville High?

Beryle Sewel: "There shouldn't be any socials other than those planned for the future and those that are planned should have more time spent on them to make them go over with a bang."

Betty Sanders: "Yes, I think there should be more socials in Belleville High, because new acquaintances can be made and they would also make the routine of studies less monotonous."

Jack Flannery: "No, I think we have enough social events during the year that should satisfy all the students. If there were more the students would not cooperate to make them successful as they have done in the past."

Betty Sharp: "In my opinion, Belleville High should have at least one big social event a month and I think that there are plenty of other fellows and girls in Belleville that share the same opinion."

We like both serious and humorous poems. Bring whatever you have to one of the editors and when you pick up a News the next Friday you may see your masterpiece on the high school page!

What do most boys do in study period the day before a test? They draw airplanes! And the girls are drawing pretty faces! Well, why not share these pictures with others? We could use a few.

If you don't take to any of these arts, at least you have opinions. Every one does!! Put these in the form of a letter and we'll print them (provided, of course, they are interesting to the majority of the students).

Sliced Apple to Show Will Division

Mrs. Mary Connolly, Before Death, Demonstrated How To Do It

Objections were overruled yesterday by Advisory Master Edward L. Stasse, who admitted the will of the late Mrs. Mary Connolly, 23 Smith street, to probate. Mrs. Connolly, who died October 19, 1937, at eighty-six, is said by her attorney, George F. Corrigan, to have sliced an apple in six parts to demonstrate to him how she wanted her will divided when she was eighty-four years old. The master declared he would uphold the soundness of the method.

The entire income of the estate she left to a son, James, until his death. After that, she decreed, five-sixths of the estate goes to another son, William, and one-sixth to a son, Thomas. A fourth son, Michael, was not mentioned, but did not contest the will.

Thomas objected to the terms of the will on charges of undue influence. Strasse ruled there were no grounds for the complaint when Attorney Corrigan testified that Mrs. Connolly used the apple to demonstrate the fractional division.

As there now are only seven more rehearsal nights before the Spring concert, all members are urged to be regular in attendance from now on. Attendance has been good, but the club is striving for "one hundred per cent."

More Chickens Killed In Valley Section

Police Theory Is That Dog Is Turned Loose in Coops

Belleville is no place for chickens. That is if the slaughter of over 100 in a few weeks in two different places can be taken as any yardstick.

Tuesday night Mrs. May M. Hauser, 284 Ralph street, informed police she had lost fifty chickens valued at $100.

About a month ago police learned that in the same section another owner of chickens awoke one morning to find fifty killed and approximately the same amount maimed to such an extent that it was necessary to kill them.

At the Hauser place, Detectives Edward Fletcher and Lee believe, after investigating, that a board had been pulled from the coop to permit a dog to reach the chickens.

Social Held by Local Art Club

Hayley Lever, Nationally Known Artist, Was Guest of Honor

Belleville Art Club held a social night Tuesday at the Recreation House. The guest of honor was Hayley Lever, nationally known artist, who has won the Academy award for his artistic endeavors in the field of painting.

The committee in charge included Mrs. Thomas Troien, Mrs. James Swan and Mrs. L. K. Moore.

Dancing, games and refreshments were enjoyed by twenty-five members and guests.

A card party is being planned to take place shortly.

To Arraign Alleged Drunken Driver

Bloomfield Man is Said To Have Crashed Into Hand-drawn Cart

Charged with drunken driving, Henry G. Aue, 20 Watchung place, Bloomfield, will be arraigned before Recorder Everett B. Smith Monday.

Anthony Luciano, of 42 Franklin street, Bloomfield, told police Aue's car crashed into a hand-drawn wagon of his on Heckel street and Aue failed to stop. At Jerald street, not far distant, the car ran over the curb, scraped the side of a house and then slowly resumed its journey. Aue was arrested by Patrolman Lang of Bloomfield in Edison street, just over the Bloomfield-Belleville line, at the request of Luciano, who was following the car on foot. Aue was turned over to Belleville police. He was examined by Dr. Herbert B. Vail and pronounced unfit to drive. He was released in $500 bond.

Polish-American Meeting

The Polish-American Democratic Club of Belleville held a card party last Sunday at 200 Mill street, after which a venison dinner was served to approximately 100 members and guests.

Among the guest speakers were Commissioner George R. Gerard, director of public safety; Angelo Dominic, Edward G. Smith, William F. Entekin, candidates for commissioner in the coming election this May and George Fitzsimmons, a member of the Essex County Democratic Committee.

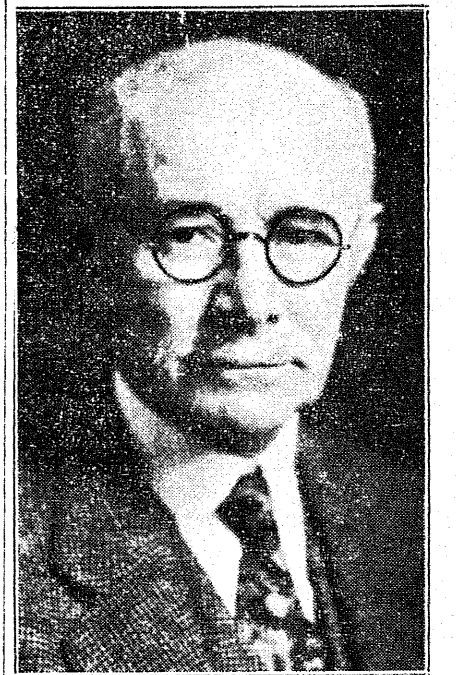

After the dinner talks, dancing and entertainment were enjoyed. The next affair of the club will be the annual dance, to be held on April 23, in the Veterans' Hall.

Ladies' Night Held By Rotary Club

Over Twenty-Five Couples Attended Affair in Field Club

Over fifty Rotarians and their wives enjoyed a ladies' night dinner followed by cards last night in the Forest Hill Field Club. Director of Public Safety George R. Gerard, Dr. George Kaden and Edward Yerg were in charge.

The group assembled at 7 o'clock. The dinner, which was progressive,

George Gerard started at 7:30 and was interspersed with entertainment and singing. Bridge was the predominant card game, playing of which got under way about 9 o'clock.

The club was addressed Wednesday noon at its regular luncheon in the same club by Audley Stephan of the State Budget Committee, who was introduced as "a career man" in government.

"If most of us realized that one-sixth of our salaries are taken from us for municipal, county, state and national budgets," he said, "we, no doubt would give more serious thinking to the purpose and procedure of making up such budgets."

He explained the avenues from which the state takes in its $170,000,000 for its budget and how it is spent. Out of the total less than $50,000,000 is used by the state to conduct its business. The balance is turned back to counties and municipalities, used for debt service, capital improvements, social security operation and various other items.

"One time I started to make a list of the various items in a state budget," he concluded. "When I reached 700 I gave it up in despair."

Next Wednesday the club will be addressed by William Albright, state treasurer.

The Cost of Advertising

Some critics say advertising costs too much. In a big meeting at Atlantic City a speaker denounced the waste in advertising and, holding aloft a page of The Saturday Evening Post, said: "I see Mr. Parlin of the Curtis Publishing Company in the audience. Mr. Parlin, will you stand and tell this assembly how much the advertiser paid for this page of advertising?" Mr. Parlin said, "I will do so gladly. The advertiser paid one-third of a cent. We furnished the paper, did the printing, paid the postage and gave our assurance of believability all for one-third of a cent." The speaker said that was not the answer he wished. Mr. Parlin replied, "Oh! you wish to know how much the advertiser paid for 3,000,000 such pages. He paid 3,000,000 times one-third of a cent."

Those who criticize the cost of advertising never reduce costs to so much per home or so much per package. It is because local advertising in The Belleville News costs so little per home and per package that it is the least expensive way to sell merchandise.

Hyde Workers Meet To Plan Campaign Headquarters Now Open Next to Capitol Theatre

Actively opening his campaign for the Commission election on May 10, Elmer S. Hyde Monday night held the second meeting of campaign workers in the Elks' Club. A previous meeting was held last week, when ground work was laid. About twenty-five committee heads were in consultation Monday.

Campaign headquarters for Mr. Hyde are now open at 360 Washington avenue, next to the Capitol Theatre.

In opening his campaign Mr. Hyde stated that he is grateful to all who have offered to assist him and he has only one pledge to make that, as he has always done, he will give his best to Belleville "because it is the town in which I live and in which I have reared my family among the finest neighbors anywhere."

rests and twenty-six motor vehicle arrests were made during February by the police department, as reported by Chief George Spatz.

An ordinance authorizing the paving of Lawrence and Alva streets, was passed on first reading Tuesday night by the Town Commission. Estimated to cost $5,498, the town will contribute $2,000 and the balance by WPA.

Playground Addition.

An addition to the playground of Public School No. 9 was provided by the commission, by the adoption of an ordinance vacating street rights in Mansion place, a "paper" street adjoining the school grounds. School officials had asked for the space. Mansion place, which was never cut through, was mapped from Main street to Stephen street north of Bellavista avenue.

The Essex County Park Commission notified the board it had adopted a policy against building swimming pools in county parks. Several petitions have been presented by associations in Belleville for a pool in the new parkway along the Passaic river.

The board voted to accept the offer of Joseph Frunzi of $800 for a 40-foot lot on Elmwood avenue. This is the assessed valuation of the property.

Corporation Counsel Lawrence E. Keenan announced he had purchased for $100 a deed for part of the Belle Chemical Co. property on Cortland street which the town foreclosed for unpaid taxes. The attorney said that Louis L. Karkus of Perth Amboy, tax title expert who conducted foreclosures for Belleville, was prepared to defend proceedings by which the town acquired title to property later sold to Charles Otto of 36 William street.

Charles Gebhardt, counsel for Otto, contends that the title is imperfect. Karkus told Keenan he was willing to accept assignment of the property at the price paid by Otto.

The board Monday night voted to accept $167.04 from Amelia Gahr, 284 Greylock parkway, and $25.94 from Halsey Vought, 38 Smallwood avenue, in full payment of their 1929 tax bills, in dispute since that time. All interest charges will be waived.

Shade Tree Appointment.

"Having long felt that the Belleville Shade Tree Commission should have a woman member, I have appointed Mrs. Willard Y. Strange of 86 Division avenue, to succeed Edward Evers, who filled the vacancy, created by the death of Samuel Yeatman in 1934. The appointment is for five years." This announcement was made at the meeting by Director of Public Affairs Joseph King.

He has been in Belleville since he was seven years old, attending Public School No. 1, Belleville High School, Class of 1925; New Jersey Law School for two years and Columbia University, College of Fine Arts.

Mr. Boyajian worked for Westinghouse, Belleville Base Plant, three years and then entered the tailoring business which was conducted by his mother, Mrs. Ponia Boyajian. He has written for the Hairenik, a newspaper devoted to interest of Armenians in this country. He also wrote poetry and short stories for several magazines.

During the twentieth anniversary of the Sinclair Oil Refining Company he wrote the technical copy for their minstrel show of the air.

His only effort at writing a scenario was sent to Universal Studios. He heard no more of the incident.

Mr. Boyajian says: "I want fair representation for the younger element in town. This group represents the majority in voting lists and should be ably represented by a young man."

He has besides his mother, two brothers, Joseph, Maplewood, and Sarkis, Arlington, Mass.

Michael A. Flynn

Twenty-nine years and six months without a complaint from a resident of this town against him is the record Michael J. Flynn made as chief of police of Belleville. He was born in Bridge street, Belleville, when there were no numbers on the houses. He attended St. Peter's Parochial School, leaving there when thirteen years old. His first job was winding bobbins in the DeWitt Wire Cloth Company. For seventeen years he was employed in the Heller Brothers Steel Mill, Newark, as a roller, when a man had to be a man to hold down a job of that type. The chief was a famous baseball player with the old Woodstocks.

In 1906, after a strike at the Heller Brothers plant, he went to the Belleville Copper Rolling Mill for only a few months.

In November of that year he was appointed a constable here with Sergeant Charles Pearl. Three months later, January, 1907, the Belleville police force was organized with Chief Flynn, Sergeant Pearl, William Swinn and Joseph Hannon. The last two now are dead.

Chief Flynn's biggest case was the breaking up of the arson ring, in Silver Lake section, when eleven convictions were obtained, but only five served sentences.

He retired as police chief July 26, 1936.

Double tragedy visited his home in 1918 when word came that his son, Michael, was killed in France and at the same time his daughter, Theresa, died at his home, 24 Van Rensselaer street.

He has besides his wife, who was Miss Mary Conroy, two sons, John J., a patrolman on the police force,

Edward G. Smith

Edward G. Smith, a citizen and taxpayer in Belleville during the last twelve years, was born of humble parents on a farm at St. Mary's, Pa., on May 10, 1894. His father died in 1899, leaving his mother with seven children who had to struggle along at tremendous odds to make a livelihood.

Edward, who was a precocious child, was the only one in the family to graduate from high school. Being conscientious, energetic and insistent he finished high school with the unique distinction of neither being absent or tardy during four years, although he was forced to walk to and from school a distance of three miles, daily. Besides his studies he helped with his share of the daily chores, morning and evening.

Upon graduation he completed a special course at Penn State College. He taught school four years at the meager salary of $40 per month. During vacation and off days, he was employed as clerk and carrier in the post office.

Then came the World War. Mr. Smith offered his services and enlisted in the U. S. Regular Army. His promotion was rapid. Within eleven months he was promoted from private to sergeant, first class. He successfully passed a rigid test for entrance to the Officers' Training Camp at Jacksonville, Fla. Had hostilities not ceased on that memorable day, November 11, 1918, Sergeant Smith, undoubtedly, would have been commissioned. His handling of men and conscientious efforts in saving government supplies gained for him the respect and confidence of every officer and enlisted man in the camp.

Mr. Smith has been conducting a successful restaurant business in Forest Hill section of Newark the last seventeen years and attributes his success to his diligent and tireless efforts and irresistible command of confidence and respect.

Mr. Smith lives with his family at 232 Ralph street. He is the proud father of three children, Edward, Jr., 14; Marilyn, two and one-half; and Richard, one. Mr. Smith will be forty-four on election day.

Belleville club members and residents may make their reservations with Miss Zita McWilliams, Mill street.

The music department will meet in the home of Miss Ruth Sullivan of Alexander avenue, Nutley, at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, March 20, for a discussion on the works of Brahms.

Miss McWilliams will be hostess to the Current Events Group at her home on Monday, March 21.

The sports-minded members of the club will have a roller skating party Tuesday evening, March 22, at Riviera park, and will also get together on Thursday, March 24, for their regular group meeting, under the chairmanship of Edward Burke, Newark.

and Joseph, a lithographer, at Sweeney Lithograph Company, and two daughters, Mrs. Everett Sooy, 21 Howard place, and Margaret, who lives at his home.

Patrick A. Waters

Seeking his fourth term on May 10, Patrick A. Waters stands out as a commissioner who has, at all times, held the welfare of Belleville and its citizens as the paramount issue in every controversy that has arisen during his incumbency.

Born sixty-two years ago on the same spot at which he now resides and from which he has never moved, his name and the name of his brother, John Waters, who served as Mayor for twelve years, has, during that period, spelled progress to the Town of Belleville.

His mother and father settled here seventy years ago in 1868 and the family has since then kept an uninterrupted residence.

Commissioner Waters has served as Director of the Department of Public Works for the twelve years he has been in office and is justly proud of his accomplishments during that period. He points with pride to the pamphlet recently published by the New Jersey Chamber of Commerce showing the per capita cost for the operation of his department as the second lowest in the State of New Jersey. This cost of $1.61 per person is a decided contrast to a neighboring municipality with a cost for similar functions of $3.05.

The commissioner has the enviable record of being employed by the Eastwood-Neely Corporation of Belleville for the past forty-five years and is now superintendent of the weaving division of this plant.

His charitable works are known from one end of the town to the other and many a desperate family have been sent back on the road to happiness by the aid which he has always so freely given.

Living in Belleville all his life, working in Belleville all his working life, and, serving Belleville conscientiously all his political life, he can be justly termed as a real Bellevillite in every sense of the word.

TROLLEY TRACKS IN "AVENUE"

The State Highway Commission, it is reported by the town officials, has offered to remove the trolley tracks in Washington avenue as a WPA project without cost to Belleville.

This is splendid. The town should accept this proposition which would be a definite step toward the improvement of the main highway through Belleville. A short while back this newspaper urged that very thing in an editorial, "Planning Belleville," outlining that a parkway or some sort of safety aisle along "the avenue" would also be an asset. Washington avenue is wide enough for years to come, as will be realized when more and more traffic finds its way along the river. An aisle would, in no way tie up traffic. It would beautify the avenue and, at the same time, prevent the ever present head-on motorists from practicing in our busiest street. The aisle would give pedestrians at least half a chance to cross "the avenue" in safety, which is not the case today.

ASPECTS OF ADVERTISING

(An editorial from the Rotarian Magazine)

Two men spent an afternoon together at golf. They were not very well acquainted, and at the clubhouse afterward one said to the other, "By the way, what is your line of business?"

"I am a minister," was the reply.

The other in great confusion apologized to the cloth for the shocking profanity he had used on the course.

"Never mind," twinkled the minister, "I'd probably swear, too, if I played as badly as you do."

That story—it's common property—may come to the minds of readers interested in the trends and problems of advertising. Perhaps some will draw an analogy between the golfer who compensates for his lame game by bad language, and the advertiser who tries to conceal his lack of anything to say for his product, by much irrelevant talk about glamour and sex appeal.

His type exists, certainly, but there is evidence that he is not the whole picture, perhaps not much more than a rough edge of it. An aspect of advertising to which the laity has given little attention is that in which the "adman" has set up checks upon his own behavior.

Back in 1911, counsel for Printers' Ink, a leading advertising magazine in the United States, drew up a statute which would make false advertising a misdemeanor. Most of the forty-eight states have adopted the Printers' Ink Model Statute as written or with slight modification.

You've heard the slogan "Truth in Advertising?" It came out of the 1912 convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World (now known as the International Advertising Association). And from the same meeting came the National Better Business Commission, whose purpose is to forward higher standards of honesty and reliability in advertising. Every large city and many a smaller one in the United States now has a Better Business Bureau—of whose services the reader probably needs no description.

Defenders of modern advertising could say much of the educational work of advertising clubs, of the courses of study which colleges and universities have instituted to teach advertising—ethical, intelligent advertising. Suffice it here to say that advertising knows, and long has known, that it must cure its own abuses, knows that there is an important difference between "playing" a good game of advertising and just "talking" one.

DON'T KILL THE GOOSE

With existing revenue sources creaking under demands of unemployment relief and other governmental burdens, it is to be hoped the State Legislature will not commit the fiscal folly of forcing a major reduction in gasoline tax receipts through enactment of pending retail gasoline price fixing legislation.

A straight gasoline tax cut, with revenues from general sources provided to meet a corresponding portion of general burdens now unjustly levied against motorists, would be worthy of support. Nothing of this sort, however, will result from the price fixing bill which will undermine the state's finances and smother motorists with unbearable new costs.

An immediate three-cent per gallon price increase will result from passage of the gasoline price fixing proposal, Assembly Bill 185. To buy as much gasoline as they did in 1937, motorists will be forced to pay an additional $20,000,000—an obvious impossibility for present family budgets. Only able to spend for gasoline the same amount as last year, if as much, motorists will buy less under the price increase. As gasoline gallonage sales decrease, state tax receipts based upon them will drop correspondingly.

Curtailed of gasoline sales will heap difficulties upon service station operators, the very group which has been misled into anticipating benefits from this vicious measure. Stations will be forced to close and resultant vacancies will bring ratable losses to municipalities, adding still further to local property tax burdens.

Gasoline costs to commercial motor vehicle transportation will be increased $8,000,000 by the bill. This, of necessity, will be passed on to the consumer, who finds himself very much on the receiving end of the bad features of this measure. A further threat to the consumer is the probability that approval of this bill will open the door to other price fixing proposals, each with their added costs to the public.

Enactment of this unsound bill, of questionable constitutionality, would benefit none and harm every one. As pointed out, it would also comprise a serious threat to the fiscal structure of both state and local governments.

Legislators must realize that to cut gasoline tax receipts without affording proportionate tax relief would merely be a case of biting the hand that feeds them. Then, too, there is the old story about the goose and the golden egg. Tax department records disclose the gasoline tax is without equal when it comes to laying the golden eggs at Trenton, but it will be a sick and less productive goose if Assembly 185 ever becomes law.

Seattle awakes!

After difficult years of stress and strain, veering way over to the left—Seattle has gone conservative and elected as Mayor, Mr. Councilman Arthur B. Langlie, who says in effect—"Let's get rid of all this nonsense and get down to brass tacks." And of labor he says that, though it has the right to organize and to bargain collectively, it does not have the right "to coerce, to terrorize or to indulge in violence." Strong words—particularly in Seattle. More power to him!

Newark, too, has its tax headaches. $5.40 is spoken of as the possible 1938 tax rate. That's higher than anything proposed for Belleville—and we can understand that well, for here there has been not the slightest suggestion of the things that Dixon and his Supreme Court investigation turned up about Newark's administration. In Belleville the strongest criticism that could be made is that of excess optimism in estimating revenues to be received. But let's be fair about that—for all such estimates had to be and were approved by State Auditor Darby, whose department acts as official auditor for our town.

We begin to wonder about the long term efficacy of the famous Chapter 60—the "Cash Budget Law." To save Belleville from certain default and possible bankruptcy a few years ago, Mayor Williams and his other colleagues saved Belleville by embracing Chapter 60. A fine job was done—Belleville was saved—and all taxpayers were saved untold dollars—and our gross debt materially reduced. But now we must begin to pay the bill. Just further proof that "You can't have your cake and eat it, too!"

There has been introduced in the Assembly in Trenton, a Bill—No. 236—which, if passed, would make compulsory a consecutive eight-hour day the maximum that all employees of hospitals could work. The Bill further goes on to limit the hours of employment of folks who work in hospitals to forty-eight in any calendar week.

This Bill deserves the thoughtful consideration of every citizen in our community for if it is passed, it will materially increase the cost of hospitalization, and whether we go to the voluntary hospitals or to public hospitals, we—the citizens—will have to pay the bill.

A great deal has been said and written about the cost of hospital care. Those who are closest to hospital management and operation appreciate that hospital charges now are higher than most people can afford to pay, and through their boards of trustees and their administrative staffs, have been constantly concentrating on an effort to reduce the cost of hospital care. In the average voluntary hospital—and a voluntary hospital is a hospital not run for profit, operated by a board of citizens and in part supported by contributions from friends, from endowments and from community chests—the average cost to the hospital for taking care of a patient is in the neighborhood of $5.50 per day. That is averaging the ward patients, semi-private patients and private patients. In that cost there is no allowance made for depreciation of hospital plant and equipment and none of the many, many items such as taxes, reserves, etc., which enter into the operation of a normal business.

Though to the uninformed that might seem a high cost, it is moderate upon analysis, for it includes not only room and board, but the expert attention of trained staff nurses and technicians and the services of the hospital staff interns and resident physician—and to the ward patients, the free services of all doctors who are members of the medical staff of the hospital.

Now, if Bill No. 236 passes, it will materially increase this cost and the only way hospitals can exist is to make that cost on to the patients or raise additional funds to operate the hospital from community chests or friends.

It is not sound thinking to place an arbitrary limit on the hours of work of hospital employees. One might just as well talk of limiting the hours of work of priests or clergy or Sisters of Charity or social workers or Salvation Army people. To be sure folks work in hospitals to make a living, but the finest hospitals are those where the whole staff is imbued with the spirit of serving one's fellow man—and it would be a shame to classify them the same as factory workers or folks engaged in production work.

If you feel that way about it, let your Belleville Assemblyman, Homer Zink, and your Essex County Senator, Lester H. Clee, know the way you feel, for certainly this Bill, if passed, would materially interfere with hospital efficiency, with the care of the sick and would greatly increase the cost of hospitalization.

Yours 'til next week.

A FINE CHOICE

No better choice for a candidate for Governor of the 182nd Rotary District could be made than Rev. Peter Ritte Deckenbach, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, a member of Belleville Club.

There is no question that Rev. Deckenbach would be chosen if he inclined toward the honor, which Rotarians in the district would bestow upon him at the annual convention in Asbury Park in June. "Pete," as the kindly rector is affectionately called by Rotarians, has no such aspirations and, any effort to select him as Governor, comes from his friends. If the rector expressed a desire to seek the office there would be no opposition, for his following in Rotary is legion. Should Rev. Deckenbach be pushed to the fore there is no question but he would agree to serve—that is his theme of life—to practice the Rotary motto, "Service Above Self." "Pete" has never yet failed to do anything asked him in the interest of Rotary and its lofty ideals and, it is felt, that if called upon to follow this added duty, he will willingly serve—even though his church duties require all of his time now—more, too, if the truth were told of this rector, who spends his every moment and effort in trying to solve the other fellow's problem, spiritually and otherwise.

New Jersey Today

New Jersey as a Bedroom.

Prepared for the Belleville News by Russell Van Nest Black, consultant-director, New Jersey State Planning Board.

It has been said that the suburbanite shuttles back and forth from a place where he would rather not live to a place where he would rather not work. In its report on Urbanism, the National Resources Committee says that what is happening is not a flight from the city, but that the urbanite is steadily being transformed into the suburbanite. This is certainly true of the 375,000 men and women in New Jersey who daily cross the Hudson river in the morning and evening on their way to or from work.

In his daily or periodical pendulum movement, of which the clock and the time schedule are symbolic, the suburban commuter exhibits the peculiar separation between working and living so characteristic of modern urban society. The bedrooms of American cities are increasingly to be found in the dormitory colonies of the suburbs. The suburbanite, who in his daily routine oscillates between his vocation involving the humdrum, high-speed, technical work of business, industry, and the professions in the heart of the metropolis, and his avocation, which may range from amateur gardening and similar pastoral activities to suburban politics, is not an exception to the urban type of personality, but is merely a variety of it.

The motives leading to this type of existence are to be sought in the urge to escape the obnoxious aspects of urban life without at the same time losing access to economic and cultural advantages. In the process, the form and the functions of the city are being revolutionized.

The growth of the ninety-six metropolitan districts recognized by the United States Census in 1930, illustrates the nature of the regional development of the urban community. Since 1900, the rate of population increase has been greater in the satellite areas surrounding the large cities than that within their limits. While the central cities in the decade 1920-30 increased 22.3 per cent, those portions of the metropolitan districts lying outside the central cities increased at about twice this rate, or nearly six times as much as the non-metropolitan part of the United States.

The central cities contain a declining proportion of the total population of the metropolitan districts, indicating that metropolitan growth is in even larger degree than formerly a suburban trend. While the movement of the last 100 years toward the centralization of population apparently continues, actually satellite cities and satellite rural areas are increasing so rapidly as to evidence a powerful dispersive force within urban regions.

In New Jersey, from 1920 to 1930, while the rate of population growth for the state as a whole was 28.1 per cent, the rate of increase in a suburban county like Bergen was 73.2 per cent, while Union showed an increase of 52.5 per cent, Monmouth 40.3 per cent, Somerset 35.7 per cent, Morris 33.6 per cent, and Middlesex 30.7 per cent.

A LITTLE SEED.

I'm a little seed, I speak, I say—Plant me in your garden gay; Watch me grow and soon I will be Laden with flowers for you and me.
—Lillian Sylvia Price, Belleville.

PIQUANT POLITICS

By MEADOR WRIGHT

NO piece of news within the past week has more political significance than the announcement of a probable $5.40 tax rate for Newark. Yet it is a curious fact that very often the most significant happenings get the least attention. The tentative increase in the average Newarker's taxes is almost exactly fifty per cent. The staggering import of such a tax is hard to comprehend, but it will be comprehended in time.

When it is, the reaction will be swift and inevitable.

Many property holders do not get returns high enough from business sites to pay this increase. To these it means bankruptcy. Home owners, ironically enough, are called upon to pay these taxes at the very time their earnings have been curtailed. It is 1932 all over again, only then many persons had reserves that have now been depleted. The situation in 1932 was met in most cases by drastic municipal budget reductions. But there has been no tendency whatsoever toward reductions this year. Payrolls in many cases have been increased, either by engaging additional employees or by annual increases of pay.

This disinclination to combat rising tax rates appears to me decidedly foolish, and I speak purely from a political viewpoint. Wages in Newark, for example, are sufficiently liberal that a fifteen per cent reduction would cause little suffering except in the very lowest brackets. Such a reduction, if it were general, would lower taxes by very nearly that percentage, for most of taxes goes to pay municipal salaries in one form or another. Certainly salary reductions would cause less hardship than such a tax increase as Newarkers are called upon to pay. It is my belief, furthermore, that they would cause less political discontent, that is, fewer adverse votes at the next election, whenever that may be.

Several times before in this column I have pointed out the deplorable financial situation into which Newark is drifting. If the tentative budget is finally approved, then my worst prediction will have come true. Bankruptcy will no longer be just around the corner. It will be present in the most literal and grimmest sense.

With such a tax rate, I do not see how Newark voters will endure the present government for another three years. If the new charter bill now before the legislature does not pass, then a city manager referendum is not unlikely. When such a movement will get under way is problematical. But it is bound to come sooner or later. When it does come, the whole political pattern of the county will very likely be altered. The election of last year should have settled Newark's troubled affairs. Actually, it settled nothing. Politically, the situation is just the same as it was at this time last year, only discontent is far deeper. Political calculations that do not take into account Newark's affairs are likely to be worthless.

What will happen? The answer to such a question is obviously difficult, for there are several turns events may take. But I will hazard this guess: None of the three commissioners re-elected last May will be in office at this time next year. Whether control will pass to a group dominated by Clean Government or to a group led by Joseph M. Byrne, Jr., is more difficult to say. But as far as Newark is concerned, political revolution is on the march.

The demand of the Treasury Department that Col. William H. Kelly resign as Collector of Internal Revenue is a curious aftermath of last year's commission election in Newark. This election did more to undermine political confidence in the leadership of the Democratic party in Essex than anything else. What will be the effect of Secretary Morgenthau's request is hard to say at this writing (Tuesday). It may be that Kelly will refuse the request. Whether one agrees with Kelly's policies or not, no one can deny his personal courage. His rise in politics dates back to the day when he boldly stalked into an East Orange political meeting presided over by the late James Nugent, and there publicly told the boss of Essex to go to hell. It may be that in the present case he will tell Morgenthau and any others back of the demand that he resign to go to the same place. Then again, he may not.

The demand, however, is certain to cause political repercussions within the Democratic party, both in Essex and throughout the state.

Present intense interest in the candidates for Congress is significant. Usually these posts have gone to men who did not want, or could not get anything else. State Senator from Essex has long been considered of more importance than Representative from either of the three Congressional districts within the county. Suddenly this feeling has changed. To my mind it signifies the belief that a second "New Deal" is about to sweep over Washington. Whatever its defects, the current New Deal is the most publicized political movement in this country. It is natural then that many Republicans would like to get ringside seats at the next one.

Sensing the importance of the Congressional elections this fall, many strategists are urging Clean Government leaders to back outstanding candidates this fall. Sentiment is general that Representative Fred A. Hartley should be returned to Washington. The other two districts, however, are open for new candidates. These strategists point out that Clean Government would acquire prestige from able candidates, and that political dissatisfaction, on the other hand, would be swift were weak candidates to be backed for the sake of immediate political expediency.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

The little business men, it seems, are unwilling to end the song and let only the memory linger on.

It's been a month now since the outspoken little men of industry tramped out on the Capital stage and awed the spectators with their unrehearsed performance, but apparently they did not go home to rest on their laurels. Secretary of Commerce Roper has the evidence. He is still getting about 200 letters a day from these "little fellows," who, during their conference in Washington last month, adopted resolutions particularly critical of many Federal policies, especially those dealing with taxation and regulation and the "antagonistic attitude toward industry."

To date, about 5,000 letters have been dropped into the Commerce Department's mail box, but apparently any analysis of the contents is to be kept an administration secret. Secretary Roper recently said 1,900 of the letters had been analyzed for the President, but declined to make the analysis public.

One significant inkling as to what the letters reveal was seen by many Washington correspondents in Mr. Roper's only comment when the analysis was sent to the White House. He said then that apparently the nation does not favor any "long-term plans for control of production, either agricultural or industrial."

When the Secretary of the Interior appeared before the House Appropriations Committee last week, he explained that a $50,000 item in his budget requirements was for a new publicity section. He jestingly said he thought it necessary because the Interior Department had not been able to make page one in the newspapers since the "blue bathroom" episode several months ago! At that time there was considerable comment about the luxurious private bath in the Secretary's newly built private office suite, which also includes a kitchen.

The committee denied the request. The House, however, reinstated the item.

For those who relish statistics: A total of about 1,176,000 words were spoken in the forty-six-day filibuster against the anti-lynching bill in the Senate; gallery employees counted 140 hours of actual debate and forty-nine roll calls, and Senator Ellender, of Louisiana, was the marathon performer, speaking against the bill for forty hours, including one stretch of six daily sessions.

The deficiency measure giving the WPA an additional $250,000,000 for operations until June 30, is worth about three million dollars per word. Less than ninety words in length, the bill is one of the shortest ever passed into the Congressional hopper.

It came too late to influence the farm bill one way or the other, but a telegram that a doctor in Iowa sent one of the Iowa Senators brought considerable laughter in the Senate cloak rooms last week. Addressed to Senator Gillette, it read: "Haven't read farm control law in its entirety, but we can't help wondering if farmer is allotted one calf and his cow has twins, whether law specifies that the officials shoot a calf, the cow, the farmer or the bull."

After showing the telegram to several of his colleagues Senator Gillette wired back: "The proper course would be to shoot the farmer's Senator."

ALL IN A WEEK:—As the public debt touched a new high of $7,632,120,451, into the Senate hopper was dropped a bill for the relief of Charles McCarthy!

FISH AND GAME

By De Allaire

Jack Frost will soon blow his last and the followers of Ike Walton will be invading their favorite streams after the elusive trout. Even now the game commission is busy filling up your favorite stream with choice specimens of trouts, the ever elusive trout.

The coastal bays and inlets will soon be dotted with the winter flounder fisherman and from then on, fishing, both fresh and salt water will be in full swing.

While I was hanging around the sportsman's hangout (Ernie Ridell's Sport Shop) the other day, Ernie gave me a little booklet that I would not want to be without. It contains the complete fishing laws for New Jersey and the location of every lake and stream in the state. The booklet also tells what streams are stocked with trout, where the streams are to be found, and finally ends up with a New Jersey tide table for the months of April through November.

Another useful bit of reading matter for the sportsman is "The Outdoor Heritage of New Jersey" written by George C. Warren, president of the New Jersey Fish and Game Commission, and Harry J. Burlington, executive secretary. The title just about covers the contents of the book. It may be acquired by writing the New Jersey Fish and Game Commission at Trenton, and costs only one dollar.

This column has been going a few weeks now. No one can write a column without the help of its readers. You readers can make this column what you want it to be, what it should be, an informal get together of fishing and hunting experiences and yarns both fantastic and truthful. So come to you fellows, send in your tall stories, your comments and criticisms and most of all your experiences by which others may benefit. This column is for your enjoyment so try and support it.

The class extends the glad hand of fellowship to all men of the town to join in Sunday morning services at Masonic Temple at 9:30 A. M.

PICKING BELL-BOY ATHLETES

By Bill Englemann

This is the first in a series of articles that will be found in this paper each week. These articles will concern present Bellboy athletes who have become well known because of their fine sportsmanship and brilliant playing. Each week I will pick one athlete and relate something about his high school life and the sports he plays.

For the first week I have chosen Bill Parmer, who was captain of the Belleville High School basketball team this year. Bill is a senior in B. H. S. and will graduate this June. The next school term Bill expects to attend Andover, Mass. After a year of school there Bill will enter Dartmouth University, where he will be a candidate for the baseball and basketball teams.

Up to date, Bill has earned four letters, two each in baseball and basketball. During his sophomore year he earned his first "B" for baseball. During his junior year he was awarded the gold basketball, which signified the most improved player on the squad. This year he was chosen captain of the basketball team. In the first game against Lyndhurst at Lyndhurst, Bill broke the high school record for the highest score made by one player in one game by piling up twenty-six points. This record was formerly held by Ray Meehan with twenty-three points. Parmer finished fourth for the highest scoring player in Essex County, with a final score of 163 points, but finished first in regard to the number of converted foul shots. He made forty-five.

Bill also excels in other activities beside those of the sports world. He is quite an actor and took part in the senior play this year. He is a very intelligent young man and ranks well among the first quarter of his class.

This year Parmer will again pitch for the Bellboys and will most likely earn his fifth and last letter. Besides the fact that he is a fine pitcher, Bill can also wield a wicked willow. This will come in very handy because the team will need all the extra base hits it can get. If you have seen this year's schedule you will understand why. Many new teams have been added and they are plenty tough.

Other Sport Topics.

Coach Frank Smith will most likely call for baseball candidates near the end of this month. Under the able guidance of Coaches Winika and Taggart, the high school indoor track team has established a fine record for itself. Bob Cook and Dan Wascoe put in very fine performances in the national indoor track meet last month. Each won fourth place in his event. Outdoor season will soon be here and it looks as if Belleville will have another fine team.

Any letters and criticisms will be greatly appreciated by this writer. Please let me know how you like this column and what you would like added to it.

BELLOWING ABOUT BELLEVILLE

By JACOB LEVINE
Class 1938, Belleville High School

Shorts.
To the fast-stepping movie goers of today, with their Robert Taylors, Ritz Brothers, Eleanor Powell, et al., the two names, Fields and Hanson, would seem as obsolete and incoherent as the sudden insertion of "Yes, We Have No Bananas" on the current song hit parade. To old timers, however, who are wont to pull up a chair, light a pipe, and fondly recall, between puffs on their "briars," the theatrical greats of a bygone era, the mere mention of these names would sound, verily, as "music to their ears."

Until I met Mrs. Fields the other day, I, for one, had never heard of Fields and Hanson, never knew that these two names were synonymous with one of the greatest black-faced comedian teams to ever trip across a stage, never dreamed that Mr. Fields was a resident of Belleville, much less a neighbor of mine, living only two blocks away.

The Fields have lived in a cozy, little home on Terrace place for over thirty years now (Mr. Fields died in 1923). Fields and his partner, Hanson, were at the height of their popularity about 1900, at which time they toured the country, and played before the regal heads of Europe. Fields, attired in derby and bonified in true minstrel fashion, was never seen on the stage without his dog. He was also adept as a musician, playing, among other instruments, the banjo, concertina, and delsama.

On numerous occasions the duo played at the old Waldman and Proctor Theatres in Newark.

If I were you I'd keep an eye focused on seventeen-year-old Caesar

Del Geurcio, up-and-coming boxer from Belleville High. The kid's got what it takes. He tips the scales at 135 pounds, and is, at present, regularly donning the gloves at the Y. M. C. A. Boxing Club. In his corner, with sponge, water, and words of encouragement and advice are his two standbys, Bob Howard and Ray McCann.

Of interest to young and old in this vicinity might be the book just out on the market: "Life Along the Passaic River," by Dr. William Carlos Williams.

It is true, sympathetic comprehension of the ways and qualities of the poor Poles, Italians, Jews, and other immigrants of the North Jersey industrial area, as told by a physician in a volume of seventeen short stories. Throughout the book there is that thread of human understanding which one can only weave by knowing and living among the immigrant element. The author seemingly knows what he is talking about, and says it in a crisp forceful manner.

Heartily recommended, not only to residents of New Jersey, but to all lovers of mankind.

Something to think about: How about Belleville organizing a baseball team this summer and entering the Essex County League?

And, incidentally, while on the subject of baseball, it is interesting to note that Johnny Crooks, who, as local fans will well remember, cavorted around the initial sack for Belleville two years ago, is now the property of the Washington Senators. This year Crooks will play first base for Chattanooga in the Southern Association.

A syndicated columnist whom I am certainly going to miss, now that he has "found that long lost gold mine in the sky," is the late O. O. McIntyre. I always got a huge kick out of his leisurely, easy-going way of writing; his casual reference to the greats of Broadway, his comments on the food of New York's ranking restaurants, his fond recollections of his boyhood days in Gallopis, and his general sizing up of the Big Town from a burgher's viewpoint.

A week before McIntyre's death there appeared in a metropolitan newspaper one of his columns in which he referred, lamentingly, to some of his friends who died, noting, in his inimitable style, some of their endearing traits. Little did he realize at the time that a week later it would be his turn to drop his pencil and join his friends in the Great Beyond.

Les Biebelberg of Hornblower avenue writes:

"I would like to see some more interviews, such as your article about a month ago with Joe Donovan. Interviews with sport luminaries who reside in Belleville, such as Joe Wagner, Vince Dundee, Freddie Polo, Albert Kelly McBride, etc., would, I think, prove very interesting."

Dear Les: Thanks for your tip. I'll be only too glad to accommodate you.

Auxiliary To Attend Several Meetings

County President Will Be Guest at Legion Chateau Monday Night

Belleville Unit, 105, American Legion Auxiliary, will attend the Defense Conference in New Brunswick High School at 8 o'clock tonight. Mrs. O. D. Oliphant, past national and department president, will preside.

Mrs. Alice Huntington, county president, will attend and after the supper will be a guest at the regular business meeting of Belleville unit at Legion Chateau, Washington avenue at 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Maude Christie, local unit president, urges all members to make an extra effort to attend this meeting to meet the county president.

"Attention is again called to the county rummage sale on April 1. Please have your donations for this sale ready to be picked up by your officers when they call about March 30," says Mrs. Christie.

N. J. C. To Present Its First Opera
'Singing College' Has Never Before Attempted Opera

NEW BRUNSWICK—Known in its early days as "The Singing College," New Jersey College for Women has added orchestra, organ and solo instrumental accompaniment to its reputation, and both individual and ensemble recitals are frequent events on the campus. However, one form of music, opera, has never been attempted, and March 17, 18 and 19 have been set as dates for the presentation of N. J. C.'s first opera, "The Magic Flute" by Mozart. The opera will be sung in English in a new translation which has never before been heard in America.

Stage direction, settings, and costumes will be under the supervision of Professor Jane Inge, head of the department of dramatic art, and the musical preparation under the direction of Oscar Lasser, assistant professor of music, who himself has appeared in this opera eighty times in the leading opera houses of Germany and Austria. Professor John Earle Newton, chairman of the fine arts committee of the college and head of the department of music, will conduct.

The principals in the cast will be undergraduates of the men's colleges of Rutgers University and of New Jersey College for Women, supplemented by a few of Mr. Lasser's private pupils. The chorus of twenty-five voices is chosen from undergraduates of the university and the orchestra of twenty-eight players selected from the university symphony orchestra, with the addition of a few professional musicians.

"The Magic Flute" will be presented at the Little Theatre, Nichol avenue and Hale street, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 and Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Tickets may be ordered by mail from the Department of Music.
