SCOUTING STILL ON AS SUMMER NEARS

No Lull In Operation As Troops Here Rise To Greater Heights

by Joe McGarrick

Some people seem to think that when summer rolls around Scouting for boys is either at a low ebb or stops operating completely. To offset this mistaken picture, officials of the Robert Treat Council in which Belleville troops have lately been rising to new and greater heights, have come forward with a statement that more and more troops plan to hold meetings throughout the summer in order that the Scouts may take advantage of organized camping privileges. The informal outdoor programs are in addition to the camping adventures directed at Camp Mohican, the council's camp near Blairstown, which opens on Saturday, July 2. The steadily increasing number (Continued on Page 3)

Students Seeking Work Reminded To Get Social Security Cards

Students and new graduates who will enter commercial and industrial employment this summer were reminded today by Harry H. Tukey, manager of the Social Security Board's field office in the Federal Building, Newark, that they will need social security account numbers.

Before beginning employment, Mr. Tukey advised, they should apply by mail, by telephone, or in person to the field office for a number. It is estimated by the Federal office of education that approximately 1,000,000 students may begin their business careers this summer, or take a job during vacation. Other persons who will need social security account numbers are students and teachers who will work in covered employment only during vacation.

North Belleville B & L Makes Plans For A Victory Dinner

John P. Dailey To Read Paper Prepared For Convention

A victory dinner will be held on Thursday at the Swiss Chalet, Rochelle Park, for the directors of the North Belleville Building & Loan Association. A committee, composed of A. A. Buckley and William Abramson, has arranged the dinner to celebrate the securing of 426 new shares in the fifty-ninth series. William D. Clark, president of the association, will be the toastmaster.

John P. Dailey, secretary, will present to the directors a paper that was presented by him at the Secretaries' Group meeting at the New Jersey Building & Loan annual convention in Atlantic City on June 4. Mr. Dailey's paper has received a considerable amount of publicity in state building and loan circles, and it will be the first time that the directors have had the opportunity to learn of its contents. This paper is entitled "The Relationship Between A Secretary and His Board of Directors."

The North Belleville Building & Loan Association, one of the few associations in New Jersey whose shares are insured up to $5,000 by the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation, has been most successful in the securing of new shares in each series that it opened. This success is attributed primarily to the Federal insurance.

Reports Car Stolen; Son Figures In Crash

John Sinclair of 927 Broadway, Newark, reported his automobile stolen Monday from a lot in Mill street near Washington avenue.

Shortly after the car was found in a minor accident at Belleville and Franklin avenues. Behind the wheel was John's son, William, sixteen, sans driver's license, for principal reason that he is too young to obtain one.

That isn't what got William into difficulties, however, Wednesday night when he appeared with his dad before Recorder Everett B. Smith. It was the fact he had taken an automobile without the owner's consent, which carries with it a mandatory fine under the Motor Vehicle Act of not less than $100.

The recorder had leeway enough to suspend sentence on the license angle, but informed Mr. Sinclair payment of the $100 would have to be made. The father said he didn't have it and was given time to make plans to raise the amount.

Boy Cuts Nose In Dive In River

Wednesday was an exceedingly warm day thought Thomas Higgins, nine, 59 Union avenue, so he hid himself to Second River at Main and Mill streets where the stream empties into the Passaic River.

The river looked deep enough for a cool dip and in plunged Tommie.

At his age Tommie couldn't be expected to know anything about the law of physics. Of consequence when his nose hit the bed of the stream something happened—to Tommie's nose.

He was attended by Dr. Barney Shaffer for a gash on his proboscis and then taken home.

WPA Pay Not Enough To Get Drunk On

A man and his wife, whose names are withheld because no complaint has been made against them, appeared in Police Court Wednesday night for allegedly creating a disturbance. Two neighbors, tenants of the same house, said the husband had been drunk and upset the peace and quiet of the neighborhood.

"Does he get drunk?" asked Recorder Everett B. Smith of the alleged noisemaker's wife.

"No, he works on WPA."

"I mean does he get drunk?" pursued the judge.

"No," the spouse replied. "He no make enough."

"Well, if he does get drunk and annoys you," said the judge, turning to the other couple, "let me know. I'll have him put out. I know his landlord."

GROUND FIRES ARE WORRY FOR LOCAL BOARD

Method Is Devised To Remedy Condition At Old Dumps

Town Engineer Matthew Sheehan, Fire Chief Alex Reid and Health Officer Eugene Berry have decided to wash with hydrant water pressure from Bloomfield and Belleville a bank of earth over a dump in the northwest section of town which has given the Fire Department innumerable "headaches" during the last year.

These officials met with the Town Commission last Thursday to discuss the situation on town owned property on which fires break out intermittently. In fact, in the year, the firemen have been called to the scene over fifty times to put out underground fires that, on each successive occasion, have been thought, extinguished. The dump, which has been abandoned for some time is near a small brook, which will be piped for 200 feet to avoid changing its course.

It is believed the bank of earth is so situated that it provides a draft for the blazes. If the water pressure method fails use of steam shovels will be resorted to. It is expected that less than $1,000 will be needed to remedy the situation, including the brook piping, the estimated cost of which is $500.

COURT PERPLEXED BY JNO. FERRARAS

Recorder Smith Calls One To Find Other Was Man Wanted

Two John Ferraras were in Police Court Wednesday night—one from Silver Lake involved in a slight accident in which a child was injured; the other, from 1 St. Mary's place, Nutley, charged with operating an automobile in Union avenue, a twenty-mile per hour zone, at sixty-two miles per hour.

"John Ferrara," peeled off Court Clerk Richard Nourse in his best stentorian tones.

And up stepped John. "You are charged with speeding sixty-two miles an hour in Union avenue," read the judge from the complaint, which had been placed in his hands. "Guilty or not guilty?"

John turned pale. "Not me, your honor," he stammered. "I was in an accident."

Diplomas Given To 378 At High School Graduation

All roads led to Clearman Field—or rather were barred by police Wednesday evening while the high school graduation program was in progress. So that speakers and the program, in general, would not be disturbed, motorists were shunted off Union avenue and New street.

An ideal evening broke for the 278 graduates who gathered for the exercises at 6:30 o'clock. Over 3,000 townspeople attended. A platform was erected in mid-field and improvised seats raised. At the time of the program Washington avenue, usually busy at that hour each evening, was deserted. A reporter counted five persons on the street between Joramelon street and Belleville avenue at 7:15.

A Cool Melon Salad Which Is
As Alluring As Its Name Implies

A molded, jellied salad is one of those things that just always has a dressed-up look. And then it is a cool sea green, garnished with pink melon balls and sprigs of tempting, flavorsome mint it's very festive, indeed. Yet no salad is easier to make, or more conveniently made, than a jellied salad. That is one part of the meal that can be prepared way ahead of time.

Frenched Pork Loin Is Treated
For Special Guests

Frenched pork loin, served with spiced red cherries, is choice for the special company dinner. We have had Frenched lamb chops and Frenched pork chops for a long time, but a Frenched pork loin roast is an innovation with roasts, and one with a real future.

Frenching means removing the meat from the ends of the rib bones so that paper frills may be placed over them after the roasting is completed. The chief advantage of this lies in added attractiveness of appearance in giving an old favorite meat cut the distinction needed for company meals.

A Frenched pork loin is cooked in exactly the same way as any other roast. The Frenching may be done at home or in the market, but usually the latter is preferred because with the sharp knives which the retailer has, this takes only a second.

To cook the roast, place it, rib side down, in an open roasting pan. When placed in this manner it is not necessary to wrap the unprotected rib ends in order to prevent them from charring, for the fat as it melts runs down and keeps them moist.

Season the roast with salt and pepper and place in a slow oven. An oven temperature of 300-350 degrees F. has been found best for roasting pork. All pork cuts should be cooked until well done to develop the delicious flavor which everyone likes, so allow about thirty minutes per pound for roasting at the temperature suggested.

No water is added during roasting, nor is a roast covered at any time during the cooking. At the low temperature best for results, there is no danger of charring nor of the fat becoming too brown. Accompaniments with a tart or spicy flavor have always been in favor for serving with roast pork. So instead of the usual apple sauce, try spiced cherries. Not only do these make a perfect flavor contrast but also add a touch of color which gives importance to the meat platter.

Tavern Stabbing

started in Verdon's Tavern, 40 Washington avenue, just before 2 o'clock Sunday morning. A bartender, it is alleged, stopped the argument after Gates is said to have struck Grunala "three or four times."

According to the police the fight was resumed when John Mc Hale, twenty-nine, 9 Agate place, Newark, who was in the tavern, knocked Grunala through the tavern door into the street. Grunala alleges that at this point Gates, McHale, Keifer and others attacked him.

As they were entering police headquarters McHale took a paring shot at Grunala with telling effect, the authorities say. The fracas attracted hundreds of passersby and resulted in several calls to headquarters for help. Officers Harry Scott and Thomas Gallagher were detailed to the scene to find that Officer Gus Fauch, who was cruising about in Newark Radio Car 81, had the men in tow. Scott saw Gates run across Washington avenue, he says, into a vacant lot. He was later taken from Verdon's by Sergeant Pearl to the doctor's. Officers Gross and Dunn were also detailed to the scene.

Recorder Everett B. Smith did not waste much time in reaching a decision in the case in court Wednesday night. He dismissed a charge of assault and battery against the colored man and a side the courtroom, appeared another man.

"I'm John Ferrara," said the new arrival. "I'm the fellow you're looking for. Guilty."

"$3 costs and your license for fifteen days," said the judge. As he discovered Ferrara also had a motorcycle license, that was revoked, too.

Judge Smith warned Ferrara and all others whose licenses would be revoked that they could only retrieve them by applying to the State Motor Vehicle Department in the State House, Trenton, after the revocation date expires.

Advising a couple to take their marital troubles to Domestic Relations Court in Newark, the judge admonished the pair when they put on an Alphonse-Gaston act.

"He was away five days," said the wife.

"No I wasn't," said the hubby. "I was back Sunday night."

"No you weren't," parried the wife, who was about to elaborate on the details when the judge interrupted.

"You have your arguments at home. Give me a chance now."

The case ended with the advice as to where the matter should be prolonged.

A colored man, whose principal shortcoming is getting drunk, appeared with his wife, who wanted her husband warned to walk the straight and narrow.

"If you get drunk or fight in the next year it is thirty days in the county jail for you," said the judge as he sent the husband on his way to return each week with a report of his activities.

counter complaint against the other combatants.

"Everybody was just drunk," said the judge, "and all were acting childish. Dignity should have accompanied the actions of at least one of the defendants. I can ascribe little veracity to any of the statements. Keifer came upon the scene, he says, while the others were fighting and told a fairly clear story. Mc Hale says he was showing the entertainer the way out of town. His was not the way to do it. He incriminates himself. All dismissed."

From THE LOCAL PULPIT

A sermon prepared for The Belleville News by Rev. Benedetto Pascale, Italian Baptist Church.

"Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty." 2 Corinthians, 3:17.

I am going to speak to you on Liberty, religious and civil Liberty. They are the same. One safeguards the other. I want to speak on this topic because of what has happened in Jersey City and in Newark, June 4, 1938, and because I believe that the mob spirit of Mayor Hague and his satellites have no conception of liberty. It might be due to their education. It might be due to the wrong Christian conception of liberty.

I find in the text of the Holy Scripture that "where the Spirit of Jesus is, there is liberty." His Spirit is the life-giving disposition and love of freedom. That not to permit freedom, not to desire liberty, even for one's enemies is the negation of Jesus Christ. Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is freedom, where He is not, there is bondage and persecution.

The Jersey City mob manifestation is the negation not only of the spirit and word of the Constitution of the United States of America, it is also the negation of the Spirit of Christ. I say the negation of the Spirit of Christ. I did not say Christianity, or religion. These terms have different meanings in different ages, and I would not, as a follower of Jesus Christ, subscribe to the Christianity of the successive centuries after Christ and the Apostles. If one would speak of Christianity, I would have to ask, "which?" There are different phases and manifestations of it.

The French jurist and writer defines liberty thus: "Liberty is 'the right to do all that the laws allow.'" Montesquieu's definition of liberty is good. The Constitution of the United States of America and its courts can safeguard individual and collective freedom. What we lack is an educated citizenry within the spirit of that Constitution.

The very mission of Jesus was to set the individual free from the bondage of sin and the law, and raise him to the divine plane of self-government and love. His very presence in the individual heart and with society secures freedom. Religious freedom!

There is much that passes for Americanism which is not what the Constitution allows. There is much that is taken to be Chris-

The Ladies Auxiliary of the West Belleville Association will hold a card party Monday evening at the Recreation House for the benefit of the Seeing Eye Fund. The public is invited to attend.

Equipment

An overcoat for days of chill,
Umbrella for the rain,
And rubbers for the icy hill;
An opiate for pain.

For the declining years of one,
Laid by, some ready cash;
For growing children, work and fun,
Precaution for the rash.

Real quiet for the jaded nerves,
For tired out bodies, rest;
And for the faithful one who serves,
Some recognition's best.

Endurance, when we're called to bear,
Strength for the upward slope;
High courage for the times we'd dare,
For darkness, rays of hope.

Faith for the tangled, misty ways,
And bravery for fear;
Encouragement for heart-sore days,
For sadness, comfort, cheer.

All virtues blending such as these,
With faith, truth, self-control,
Are the equipment qualities
Of every striving soul.

replace it with authority, but rather warned them against abuse. Paul said: "Take heed lest by any means this liberty of yours become a stumbling-block to them that are weak."

And again: "Brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion of the flesh, but by love serve one another." 1 Cor. 8:9, Gal. 5:13.

Peter says: "As free, and not using your liberty for a cloak of maliciousness, but as the servants of God." 1 Peter 2:16.

"Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty." Live by the Spirit of Christ, His Son, be guided by that Spirit, and He will produce in you liberty, love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, self-control. Gal. 5:22.

Let us not be narrow, let us not expect or attempt to reduce man or society to a totalitarian state; to one way of acting, one way of thinking. That would be a tragedy, like Procrustes' Bed. You remember the myth of that attic robber who placed all that fell in his hands on an iron bed. He would cut them if they were too long; and stretch them if they were too short. Let us have respect for other people's opinions. Let us, however, discuss with them peacefully.

"The perfect law, is the law of Liberty." James 1:25. "With freedom did Christ set us free; stand fast therefore" (Gal. 4:9) in civil and religious freedom, for "where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty."

Byrne's decision is unconstitutional. Liberty is not only limited but is on "trial" for ninety day. What a farce!

True liberty is religious liberty. Christ came to make men free. Free from sin, free from the old religious ceremonialism, false creeds, oppressive organizations and sacerdotalism, free from political tyranny. His prophetic mission per-announced by Isaiah and declared by Him in the synagogue at Nazareth was this:

"The Spirit of the Lord is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; He hath sent me to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound." Isaiah 61:1; Luke 4:18.

Here you see again that Christ's earthly ministry was a clear declaration of liberty. The religion of the New Testament and the personality of Jesus has always been and is the renewal of freedom and the basis of all free institutions. It has always been the precursor of civil and religious liberties. It stimulates production of industries and fair distributions of wealth to all.

It was the Spirit and Word of Christ that set liberators and philosophers aflame for freedom and liberation. Mazzini, Lincoln, Franklin, Jefferson.

Countries where political dogmas and philosophies are clashing such as Italy, Germany, Russia, Spain, and the mobs in this country are killing liberty. God-given liberty! "Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty."

I find daily as I talk with people that what they lack is the conception of the religion of Christ. That He is a liberty-giving Lord. His truth is the instrumentality of liberty. He says: "If you continue in my word, you shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. . . . And if the Son therefore shall make you free, you shall be free indeed." John 8:31-36.

The Apostle Paul echoes his Christian experience with these words: "For the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." Romans 8:2. He looks forward that his Christian experience of freedom becomes the experience and freedom of the whole world. He says: "All shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God." Romans 8:21.

There has been the abuse of religious and civil liberties. There will be, extremes. This must be expected. This can only be corrected not by denying liberty but by allowing it within the law and the spirit of the New Testament, and every living presence of the Spirit of Christ that secures it.

There were abuses in the New Testament Christianity, but the Apostles did not deny liberty and

SUN-BURN

The hot summer season will soon be here and the army of sun bathers will appear on the beaches and at the country resorts. A word of warning should be issued against the grave danger of overdoing the exposure of the body to the sun. The consequences of injudicious sun bathing might be extremely severe.

While speaking this week with one of the country's leading authorities on diseases of the skin, he said: "It makes me shudder while at the beaches each summer to see men, women and children indulge so recklessly in exposing their bodies to the penetrating rays of the sun. There is much good to be derived from sun bathing when taken in reason. However, like powerful medicine it must be taken judiciously. The person who overdoes it is courting very serious consequences."

"I suppose warnings on this subject are taken lightly but if the general public had any idea of the tragedies that follow reckless sun bathing they would wake up to the dangers."

"Especially foolish is the practice of young men working in the open who dispense with all covering above the waist."

This is good advice.
All who visit the beaches in the summer see hundreds of babies and small children, manifestly unaccustomed to direct exposure to the sun, being allowed to roam the beach wearing no more than a pair of trunks for hours. The delicate skins of these little ones cannot stand such a practice without a chance of injury.

Those who travel on the trains and trolleys from Coney Island or any beach near New York or New Jersey during the summer at the close of a hot day will recall the cries and wails of the sun-burned babies.

This fad of sun bathing is not practiced by natives of the South. They know the effects of the sun upon the skin.

It is agreed fresh air and sunlight are wonderful health-giving tonics, but judgment should be used where Old Sol's rays are concerned.

USE CARE WITH BICYCLES

This is the time of year that children and even grown-ups turn their thoughts to the open road and bicycling, often ignoring the presence of high-powered automobiles and trucks and sometimes the thoughtlessness and careless driving of some motorists.

"Watch the other fellow" has been the slogan of motorists for these many years. This same thought should become the byword of cyclists on the roads, especially thoroughfares such as Washington and Union avenues. Most automobile drivers are wary when they see a person riding ahead of them on a bicycle. Somehow or other many cyclists have a faculty of swerving from side to side and offer a real problem to the motorist and, incidentally, a threat upon their own lives. Since cycling on the highways is becoming more and more common, it behooves both the cyclists and drivers of automobiles to use more than ordinary caution. Particularly should the person on the wheel be careful, because the average motorist still thinks the road is for automobiles and pedestrians at marked intersections. This state of mind exists and while cyclists are correct in assuming the right to use the highways also belongs to them, they should be always on the alert. Recently a Nutley child was killed by an automobile while riding a bicycle and a Belleville rider injured.

SOUND ADVICE ON GOOD WILL

Belleville observed an extremely quiet week as regards social activities. Most of the town was interested in the school graduations, programs for which extended throughout the week.

Particularly interesting was the first outdoor commencement of the High School at Clearman Field Wednesday evening, when a special arrangement of seats midway in the field provided an ideal setting for graduation. It was our good fortune to chance by there. The streets were roped off and motorists were not allowed to pass the field. It would have been disconcerting to the speakers at the exercises. So, we walked closer to better view the affair, which attracted thousands of townspeople.

As we approached the gathering there stood an elderly man, who remarked that a few years ago his children had left High School.

"I told them," he said, "you are going out into a world torn by international and domestic strife. Learn the lesson of personal good will."

Sound advice, it seemed, as both of us were stilled by a song out in that lovely setting.

If that elderly man had been given the chance to address the graduates on that thought he might have left an impression that would profit the graduates handsomely, not only in their dealings in business or in the professions, but in their own neighborhoods and no matter where their steps may lead them. To show good will toward others is a fine trait. It always yields rich results.

TOO MUCH OF IT ALREADY!

THIS WEEK

by "Guardian"

The views expressed in this column are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

With graduation exercises in schools and colleges going on all about us, — with baccalaureate sermons and messages to graduates, it is difficult to restrain the impulse to do a little preaching of our own—even if it had been resolved that such would not be our policy.

If we did conclude to do a bit of preaching, our thoughts would run about like this:—

You who are graduating today first of all must appreciate that your education is not ended—but it is only beginning. In all of your schooling to date you have been but learning to use your brain. A good majority of all of your courses have been for the sole purpose of giving you mental stimulus and training your mind to think. Aside from their use in training your mental muscles, many of the courses that you have struggled through will be mostly forgotten in the years to come and of little practical use to you in the future—but if they have helped to teach you to think, then they have been enormously worth while. Your real education is to be had in the years ahead—education through contact with your fellowmen, — education that comes through experience, education that comes from a curious mind seeking always to know more and more to the end that you will be better able to cope with life's problems.

And just as no one has been able to do your studying for you or pass your examinations for you, no one is going to be able to do your subsequent studying for you,—no one is going to be able to make you successful in the journey through life but yourself. No one is going to lift you up through the competition of the hundreds of thousands who are graduating from schools and colleges this week, except yourself. W. E. Henley said "I am the master of my fate; I am the captain of my soul."—a whole life time of philosophy in one brief phrase.

And you want to remember that the person who gets somewhere in this life is the one who knows pretty well just where he is going,—for that gives an objective towards which to work. Don't pay any attention to the drivel you are hearing and reading these days that the day of opportunity in this country is past. Don't pay any attention to the cynics who are trying to make political ammunition out of the debating thought that the young folks of this country are graduating from educational institutions.

If you think you have troubles get an earful of the "Good Will Hour" Sunday nights. After you hear how the rest of the world is struggling for happiness you'll be able to hop into bed and forget that your water bill is unpaid.

Joe Penner makes his last radio appearance of the season Sunday, and if he's hired next year as a comedian we're in a swell position to prove that sponsors never listen in.

The Schnickelfritz band is wowing the wobbles at Paradise with their novelty stuff, but over the air they register no sale. It is funny to see a man wearing a plug with a bird's nest in the top, but to hear the music with-out benefit of a distraction is a strain.

Kay Kyser has his Musical Klass done up in caps and gowns to give the program collegiate atmosphere. The music is hot, but the rest of the hodge-podge leaves us colder than an iceman's shoulder.

tions into the WPA.—For the fellow who has what it takes and will work hard enough to bring it out and will set a definite objective for himself, there is in our judgment, more opportunity in this country today than there ever has been.

To be sure for the fellow who wants someone else to do his thinking and his work for him—and the fellow who gets in the frame of mind that the world owes him a living and that it is some one else's job to care for him and provide him with a job and with the elemental things necessary to sustain life, the immediate present does not hold much promise. Nor will the future. But for the fellow who has the "up and at 'em" complex, there is more room at the top of the ladder than there was last year or the year before or any other year.

And don't listen to all of this drivel you're hearing about the defects in our system of government and the fundamental weaknesses of democracy. If those critics of our present system and our basic form of government aren't happy here, there is plenty of room for them in other sections of the world where the immigration laws are less rigid than they are in this country.

If you listen to these demagogues who would have you believe you are graduating into a world of despair and small promise, just ask the simple question: "In which country of the world would you rather live than in the United States?"

Glory be that in this country you are not graduating into a course of compulsory military service; — you are not going through gas mask and air drills; —you do not have mobilization orders tucked away so that when the call comes you know just where to go and the quickest way to get there. Despite all of the governmental bureaucracy that has been created in this country,—despite all of the attempts at regimentation and centralization, you are still FREE to exercise your own abilities, your own efforts and your own ingenuity to make more progress toward a full, well rounded, successful life than has ever been possible before.

Economic indigestion? Yes! But human indigestion yields to recognized palliatives and so will this economic situation be overcome by hard work and intelligent forward-looking effort. Keep your chin up!

Thank God you're in America. Yours 'til next week, "GUARDIAN"

The PEOPLE'S FORUM

William Wells, Forester, Writes
About The Dutch Elm Disease

To the Editor of The News:

Recently I came across an article by the Federal Department of Agriculture on the Dutch Elm disease, which aroused my interest to a great extent.

While I have the greatest respect for the work of the experimental laboratories of the Department of Agriculture and fully realize that the country could not dispense with their work I honestly believe the department has done more harm than good in the battle to eradicate the Dutch Elm disease.

The article mentioned three new discoveries, among them that the fungus that causes the disease may remain dormant in trees. This fact is not new and has been known to the writer and department scouts since 1933. I have found many trees that showed perfect Graphium circles three and four years old with no discoloration in the current or previous season's growth. Some of these trees were in such a healthy condition that I pointed them out to some of the scouts.

In a recent report the department claims that 626,137 trees have been killed by silvicide. This statement is misleading. Not more than 20 per cent, of the trees treated with silvicide died. During the summer and fall months of 1937 large crews were kept busy cutting and burning silvicide treated trees that not only failed to die but started a new vigorous growth from the base of the trunk. Thousands of these trees are still standing, grim reminders of poor judgment in experimental work.

I have had five years experience with Dutch Elm disease work, with municipal, State and Federal departments and have also carried on experiments myself since the department does not allow employees to ask questions or seek facts about the work. Much has been learned about the disease during the past five years and I am simply expressing my own opinion when I say that the entire Graphium sanitation program should be re-organized. Entirely too much time is devoted to clear cutting.

In Memorial Park, Maplewood, July 11, 1933, a large elm was felled by Federal, State and municipal forestry agencies. The tree was the first victim of the Dutch Elm disease in this State. Several days later the Federal and State departments joined forces to eradicate the disease.

East Orange was designated as the center of infestation. Nearby municipalities were scouted for signs of the disease and an eradication program started. Since 1933 millions of healthy, vigorous elms have been cut and burned, millions of feet of valuable timber destroyed, thousands of cords of fire wood wasted while many families suffered for fuel to keep their homes warm. Property values were lowered and the natural beauty of the country marred. After five years work we are no more than 20 miles from the starting point and the disease is fast spreading over the Southern and Western States.

At the rate the department is working, New York, New Jersey and Connecticut will not be covered in the next hundred years.

Clear cutting should be practiced only in exceptional cases. Scouting, eradication of confirmed Graphium, dead and sickly trees together with the experimental laboratory work are the only means of checking or controlling the disease until some practical method of fighting the Scholytus is discovered.

POISON IVY

Editor of The News:

In many communities poison ivy has been called a health menace and where complaints are made to the town health authorities the person on whose land the ivy is growing, is compelled to remove it. In some communities there is much carelessness about poison ivy.

There are those so oblivious to human amenities that they even allow this noxious vine to grow in their front yards where it can spread to their neighbors' lawns, causing much trouble and poisoning many young children. The action of the town health authorities in ruling this weed as a health menace and as a nuisance is highly commendable.

TRAIN WRECK

Editor of The News:

The appalling gruesome death of sixty-seven or more people in the Montana railroad wreck of Monday morning prompts the question of why speed should be considered more important than human life? A cloudburst on Custer Creek a few minutes before had vastly swollen the waters of the creek. That these waters may have weakened the railroad trestle was probable. Why should not, then, the stop signal be thrown on to stop the oncoming train, carrying 151 passengers? Stop the train and investigate the soundness of the trestle afterwards. Instead the train was allowed to rush upon the trestle on guesswork that it was sound enough to bear the train across and enable it to meet its scheduled time for its run. But it was a vain hope. The engine pulling that train buried itself in the waters and silt at the bottom of the river and pulled the tender down upon it and four cars following were drawn after the tender, while passengers were submerged in the water and drowned.

The law and not the railroad officials should be the arbiter between the people and such a fate. It should require the bringing to a complete stop of a train before any bridge that it is feared has become weakened, or before any stretch of trackage that there is any fear has become weakened by water. Only a few years ago a Lackawanna night train between Buffalo and Hoboken took a tumble down the mountainside under a landslide track, with a great loss of life. Another instance of the preference of speed to safety.

Speed has almost always been preferred to safety. A Railroad engineer who had been in a collision of trains, was afterwards noted to be slowing his train and in consequence falling behind his schedule. He was transferred to running a gravetrain. As he was no longer to run at the devil-may-care rate that was desired for the maintenance of fast trains.

At all costs the time schedules are meant to be maintained and the lives of passengers are jeopardized. We want an emancipation from this purely railroad control, and instead the protection of a government rule. All told, where a question of the

Meador Wright's PIQUANT POLITICS

The views expressed in this column are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

What They Didn't Do

No sin of omission by the recent legislative session stands out as strongly as the failure to pass the constitutional amendment providing that legislative sessions be held only every second year. Such an amendment would not end the petty spite work and log rolling that now goes on, but it would help. When one legislative session follows another with only a few months intervening, scientific laws are impossible. The proposed amendment, as a matter of fact, serves to demonstrate the need for sweeping legislative reform that would be possible only with a single house. New Jersey's system of counties has become so illogical with the growth of population that nothing but the abolition of the Senate will effect permanent reform. Reforming the Assembly might serve only to perpetuate the present system whereby some ten percent of the voters of the state can veto the wishes of the other ninety.

Just a Springboard

A Senate seat has come to be looked on as a logical step to some well-paying state job. Trace the advancement of Senators to judgeships or similar positions and one is astounded at what he finds.

But so old is this, that the average citizen is unaware of its existence. Nor should individual Senators receive more than normal criticism. The game of personal gain is played by legislators all over the country. Still, in very few places does the opportunity exist for it to become so complete as in the New Jersey Senate. If Dr. Clee is looking for a forum from which to denounce the political inequities of his state, no better one could be found than his seat in the Senate, and no more appreciative audience could be sought than the million residents of Essex who are the mass victims.

The ironical part about the whole matter is that a denunciation (like this one) is utterly futile. In one way or another, the counties with small populations benefit enough from the system to prevent it being ended voluntarily. It will go on forever unless there is an uprising of the popular will that amounts to a revolution. For the Senate can and always will veto any amendment that effects its basic prerogatives.

A Hand For Lamb

The voters of the state at least can be thankful for the indirect effect of Durand's action. It ended legislative spending. Furthermore, the indirect effect of this year's economy may be greater than the direct benefits. For one of the far-reaching results of the new appropriation bill was the powers bestowed automatically on Finance Commissioner Bernard L. Lamb. When Lamb's post was created it was generally considered that little was involved other than another piece of patronage. But the industrious Lamb has built the post into a treasury watchdogship that is the most revolutionary innovation in State government in recent years. Gradually, every department in Trenton is coming under the official scrutiny of his financial inspectors. He is to New Jersey what Comptroller McCarl was to the nation for so many years. Very justly, Assemblyman Homer C. Zink of Belleville is called the father of this year's budget economies. But Lamb is their custodian, and it is through his efforts that they will be translated into lasting gains.

With political events popping in Essex faster than Fourth of July firecrackers, readers of this column may feel that they are entitled to more specific information about developments than I can give them. Clee is said to have made up his mind to seek re-election to the Senate. Zink is being importuned to head another Assembly slate. But the plans of the Belleville lawyer are less certain. His law partners are said to be urging him to retire. One thing is certain, Zink will seek no other office than Senator or Assemblyman, and he will not seek a Senate seat if Clee runs.

The greatest psychological handicap to unity is the lack of confidence in Anti-Clean Government being able to defeat Dr. Clee and this lack of confidence, in my judgment, is well justified. When the voters of the whole state almost elected Clee to the governorship only last November, it is a little too much now to ask the Republican voters of his own county to turn him out of his present senate post.

Land That's Yours and Mine

by Charles E. Potter, L. S.

Construing Descriptions

Many persons have inquired as to the methods used by surveyors to construe descriptions in resurveys when the descriptions are inconsistent, obscure in meaning or imperfect. In cases of this kind, the experienced surveyor mingles common sense with certain principles handed down by experience or based upon court decisions of the past.

The following principles are used in cases of this kind:

The description is to be construed favorably to the purchaser, unless the intent of both parties in a transaction can be ascertained. If that intent can be learned, the description will be construed accordingly.

The deed must be construed according to the conditions existing and in the light of the facts known and in the minds of the parties at the time that the deed was made.

Every requirement of a description must be met if possible. Nothing is to be rejected if all requirements are mutually consistent.

If some parts evidently are impossible and, by rejecting such parts, the remainder forms a perfect description, such impossible parts may be rejected.

A deed is to be construed so as to make it effectual rather than void.

If land is described as that owned and occupied by an individual, the actual line of occupation is a requirement or call to be met in the location.

A line described as running a definite distance to a definite known line or object will be construed as running to that object, whatever distance is required. If the known object is uncertain as to position, the written distance may be used.

The terms "northerly," "southerly," "easterly," and "westerly" are to be construed, in the absence of other information, as meaning due north, south, east and west.

When a definite quantity of land is sold and nothing appears to indicate its form—as, for instance, ten acres in the northeast corner of D's land—the land will be laid out as a square, unless this is manifestly impossible.

A description by "metes and bounds" will convey all the land within the boundaries, be it more or less than the area mentioned in the deed.

Property described as bounded by a highway extends to the center of the highway unless specifically noted otherwise. City lots are usually exceptions.

A description by metes and bounds, followed by a statement that the land described is a particular well known parcel, will be construed to convey the well known parcel though the metes and bounds do not fulfill the necessary conditions.

Gobs of talent will hie itself into the hills to vacation, and a flock of hillbilly entertainers will come down to replace them. We don't care, though. A friend told us that we can get away from it all by hiding out under a railroad trestle. Radio waves can't make the grade there.

Monday is a blue day but you can make it as gay as a pay day by listening to the "Monday Night Show." Henny Youngman will be featured, and he's as funny as Bull Montana is ugly.

WNEF forces plenty of hotcha stuff on its listeners, but of the smaller—physically, not mentally—stations, they do a good job in presenting cultural programs.

George Burns and Gracie Allen will vacation in Hawaii, if George can get Gracie to go by boat. She insists on a train.

Meredith Willson will be responsible for an innovation—as rare in radio as an American heiress without a Midvinter around her neck—when he airs a series of orchestral novelties called "Musical Caricatures." They'll be musical impressions of famous personages, and we're just dying to hear a caricaturization of Kate Smith.

A so-called minor, but strictly big league show is the "Johnny Presents" clambake. Each week they unearth a reporter or editor who has given his sheet prestige by unsnarling problems which the police couldn't solve.

You probably didn't know it either, but WHN features Charley McCarthy, too. He's not a dummy, but a man who has a 7:30 a.m. spot on the air and is called the "Early Bird."

One of our favorite spiliers, Andre Baruch, has quit CBS and sold himself down the river to the celluloids. The gals who swoon at his merest gurgling will be able to hear him doing comments on travelogues and nov-

Phil Baker has a collection of miniature accordians made of wood, ivory and soap. He ought to use the last-mentioned to wash out Beetle's mouth.

The "Four Notes," the harmonizers with Fibber McGee, aren't newcomers to the ether. They batted around Chicago five years before they hit the big-time, which they definitely are.

Morton Downey has been selected as the best dressed radio personality, but we go further and nominate him as the best wife selector. He got the loveliest of the lovely Bennett sisters.

If you think you have troubles get an earful of the "Good Will Hour" Sunday nights. After you hear how the rest of the world is struggling for happiness you'll be able to hop into bed and forget that your water bill is unpaid.

Joe Penner makes his last radio appearance of the season Sunday, and if he's hired next year as a comedian we're in a swell position to prove that sponsors never listen in.

The Schnickelfritz band is wowing the wobbles at Paradise with their novelty stuff, but over the air they register no sale. It is funny to see a man wearing a plug with a bird's nest in the top, but to hear the music without benefit of a distraction is a strain.

FANS THRILL AT MIDGET RACES

Red Redmond Pinned Beneath Doodlebug At Nutley

With a sudden roar of horror, everyone in the Velodrome was on his feet in the next to last lap of the final and feature event last Wednesday night.

After the time trials, it was certain that the night's field was one of the fastest assembled in Nutley this season. For six of the nineteen drivers had spun around the sixth-of-a-mile track in less than nine seconds.

In the spine-tingling final of thirty-five laps, it was Paul Russo all the way, but Ernie Gesell was sticking right on his tail like a leech. That was the way the crowd figured the race to finish, but they figured without fate.

Red Redmond, whose regular midget-racer was out of commission, was driving a borrowed car, and having difficulty with it all night. In the final event he was lapped and soon found himself back in the midst of the fiercest jockeying of the season.

Gesell was so close to Russo that any break on the straightaway or high on one of those all most vertical turns would give him a chance to go out in front. So Ernie threw caution to the winds and opened his car up all the way.

In the thirty-fourth lap he tried to pass Redmond on the inside but there was not quite enough room. The two cars locked and spun around for a minute. Then as the crowd gasped Red suddenly turned over and was pinned underneath the car. While Gesell safely slid off the track into the dirt right side up, the mob which poured down from the grandstands quickly righted Redmond's dinky and he climbed out unhurt except for some nasty scratches on the side of his face.

This was only one of the heart-stopping thrills that were on the boards that night. In the second qualifying heat, Naprstek, racing this year for the first time, was whizzing around the curve low on the inside when suddenly and without warning his car was poised upside down in mid-air.

It hung there for what seemed hours and then plummeted down, pinning the newcomer beneath it. Fortunately this time also the driver was not hurt.

But the smooth driving of Paul Russo was the envy of every embryo or would-be driver in the Velodrome. With seemingly very little effort he took those dangerous curves right in stride and straightened out quickly in the flat. He raced around the oval in starting time, being clocked in 8.74 seconds. This was just .06 seconds behind the time of New Brunswick's Frankie Bailey who like Redmond had a comparatively disappointing night since he was driving a strange car.

Eddie Stanek of Caldwell finished second to Russo and thus retains his lead in the season's point standing.

EAGLES IDLE DUE TO CANCELLATION

Local Club Has Found Going Rather Tough This Season

Due to a cancellation the Belleville Eagles were idle Sunday. So far this season the Eagles have met ten reverses in thirteen starts, largely due to erratic fielding.

Bracaglia, Goglia and Johnson have each registered a win this year as moundsmen, while Goglia is charged with six losses and Johnson, four. Goglia has caused fifty-six opponents to whiff the breeze, Johnson, sixty-seven, and Bracaglia, eighteen. The first named has walked eleven, Johnson, thirty-three and Bracaglia, seven. Battering averages are as follows:

	A.B.	H.	Av.
Johnson	30	15	.500
Goglia	49	19	.387
Tobia	45	15	.333
Kupinski	27	9	.333
Foster	4	1	.250
Costello	48	12	.250

Bracaglia	33	4	.121
C. Goglia	22	1	.050

The Eagles will meet the Casa Loma Club of Newark in a double header Sunday, the first game being scheduled for 1:30 P. M.

SENATORS WIN 4 OVER WEEKEND

Local Club Holds Lead In Twilight Ball League

The Belleville Senators took four games over the week-end, defeating two Belleville teams, the Triangles at Clearman Field, 4-3, and the Hilltops, 3-2, at Capitol Field. The other combines to lose were the Caldwell Penitentiary nine, 8-2, and Union Sports Club, 5-2. The last two games were played away.

Bernie Barnett hurled the Senators to victory over the Triangles, allowing five hits and striking out seven. Bernie also went to town against the Hilltops, allowing six bingles and fanning nine. Dolph Paul pitched a fine game for the Hilltops, but his twirling was not quite as masterful as Barnett's. The victory gave the Senators an early lead in the Twilight Development League. Barnett also did some fancy work with the stick, as did Mosior.

Ziggie Wienkowski was on the mound against the Pen boys, allowing five hit sand fanning eight. Kenzie Bedford and Doc Mauriello starred at bat with two hits apiece for the locals.

The game at Union was a close one until the seventh, when the Sports Club tallied a run. In the same inning the local lads came back with two runs on a single by Barnett, a triple by McCourt and a long fly to right field by Freed. The Union lads tallied again in the eighth, but the Sena-

Sports Before Your Eyes

by JOE DUVAL

With summer now officially here, the Belleville sports arena moves out of the schools and into the independent, industrial and professional athletic circles. But the season just completed did not treat the schoolboys too badly despite what seems to be comparatively poor records on paper. Sports writers always like to summarize at the end of the year, and who are we to be different?

Three thrilling performances, one in each season of the year, will long live in the memories of the local fans. Some day just sneak up behind any Bellboy rooster, or better still, behind any member of that great 1937 team, and whisper, "Remember the Bloomfield game?" and watch the sudden nostalgic gleam which springs into his eyes. He will immediately start to regale you with all sorts of stories and anecdotes about that historic day when Belleville's impregnable line and powerful backfield held the perennial champions in check and earned for themselves a soul-satisfying tie.

Well, sir, football bowed out in favor of the basketballers. We were going merrily along in a not-out-of-the-ordinary season when along comes a young fellow named Bill Parmer to jolt us out of our complacency. Darned if Bill didn't go out on the court one night and swish twenty-seven points through the basket in a single game. Bill was "hot" all season but he burned up that night.

Then it has only been a month or so since BHS's mighty pitcher, Les Dunham stood up on the mound against Thomas Jefferson High and whistled the ball past the Jeff batters so fast they could reach him for only two little bingles all afternoon. Les will probably get the call to organized baseball and, unless we miss our guess, he ought to go places.

From the Recreation Department word comes that the first round of the Junior Softball League, which closes next week, has already been won by the Penguins, who stalked through the season with all the grandeur of their namesakes. It has been an undefeated record for the Penguins so far, but some of those other clubs have fire in their eyes.

Crowhurst vs. Crowhurst: Crowhurst Beats Crowhurst

Jim Crowhurst doesn't like to talk about it, but truth will out anyway. That big speedboat grudge race finished up the wrong way—for him.

Mrs. Harry Crowhurst, Jim's sister-in-law, sprinkled the bow of his boat with spray all around the course and led him across the finish line. Jim got a little consolation out of beating the winner's husband, but Mrs. Harry is now queen of the river. We're just waiting for the next installment of this saga, because we know Jim won't give up that easily.

It used to be that the hope of being President some day was enough to warm the cockles of any boy's heart, but he gets little kick out of that inspiration now. If his folks want him to eat his spinach nowadays, they have to offer him something more: "... and some day you'll be as good as Johnny Vander Meer."

Your Belleville Recreation Camp

Dropped in to see Ed Lister and Wilfred Yudin the other day. Also strolled around to one of their pet projects, the Belleville Recreation Camp. Things are really humming around the camp and the offices of anyone connected with it. Ed has tents and cots to get ready and the camp grounds to get in shape. Will has a small item of money to collect to keep the camp going through the summer.

The Recreation Camp is established for the underprivileged and under-nourished children of the town. Youngsters between the ages of eight and thirteen (or so) are given a week at the camp in a very commendable attempt on the part of its sponsors to care for the well-being of the future citizens of Belleville.

Beginning July 11 and continuing until September 3, the Camp will pay host to between twenty-five and thirty-five children a week, with the girls arriving in July and the boys in August. It is interesting to note that this is the only camp east of the West Coast to be located within the community limits. The Belleville Recreation Camp is situated on the Third River just north of Joramelon street.

The strange thing about this camp, however, is the fact that, although it is a municipal enterprise and shared in by many, it is maintained almost entirely by the voluntary generosity of a few. Every year it is necessary to go out and see if the camp's perpetual friends will help before it can be decided whether or not there will be a camp. This year the camp fund committee includes, besides Yudin, Philip Dettelbach, Everett Smith and Wallwin Masten.

It is time, however, that Belleville, along with most other communities in the nation, realized that it is not the business of a few but the privilege and the duty of all to aid in the rehabilitation of the less fortunate. Belleville Recreation Camp is a non-profit facility for the children of Belleville and their elders should feel under some obligation to help.

tors, not to be outdone, came through with three more counters, Dan Burns, new hurler, helping to win his own game with a single which scored a pair of tallies.

McCann and Burns shared hurling honors in the Union game, allowing five scattered hits between them and forcing six batters to whiff the ozone.

The Senators will play at home tomorrow and tackle the Stanley Mudhens at Irvington, Sunday. Earlier in the season these teams played a tie game.

The Senators have acquired the services of Bill Campbell, outfielder and star hitter in Union County League; Burns, formerly of the Belleville Shamrocks; Tom Hedge, star pitcher for Easton, Pa. High School and Jack King, first baseman.

Joe Louis Used His Head

Joe Louis used his noggin to dispose of Max Schmeling in record time Wednesday night in Yankee Stadium.

It was the cardinal rule of fighting—"hit him first"—that the champ applied, reversing the procedure of the previous Louis-Schmeling fight. Joe's smack sent Max down the kids, although the German lad tried to stem the tide of inevitable defeat when he cuffed back. It was a weak attempt, just as Louis' tried vainly to stand up before when Max caught him asleep.

Sports writers will hash and rehash both fights, but three words tell the story, Joe "hit him first" and those who paid $30 for ringside ducats got exactly forty-five seconds of action.

Various celebrations took place after the fight. One entailed the trundling of a man in a wheelbarrow from Nutley to Newark line in payment of a bet that Schmeling would win. At Nutley line two automobiles trailed the wheelbarrow. By the time it reached North Newark at least fifty horn tooters had joined the procession.

GLEESON IS STAR AS LEFT FIELDER FOR THE BEARS

Gee-Gee Earned Laurels By His Consistent Ball Playing

Jimmie Gleeson, who patrols the left garden for the Newark Bears, is one of the most popular players of the league-leading nine. He hails from Kansas City, Mo., and has played for the Bruins for two years.

Jimmie's specialty is two-base blows and he led the International loop last year with forty-seven of these clouts. The Bruins will be in Syracuse for over the weekend but will return on Monday.

GRAPPLERS VIE AT WRESTLING BOWL

Every Type of Wrestling Is On The Program For Tonight

Every type of wrestling that is included in the book will be on view at the Meadowbrook Bowl, South Orange avenue tonight when the promoters present an all star novelty card of ten bouts.

Three finish bouts, as usual, top the unusual card. In the main attraction Dutch Schultz is out for revenge on Lee Yat Wing, only Chinese grappler, in an unlimited bout. Dutch lost a decision to the Chinaman last week and demanded another chance to reverse the lost, which he claims was unjust.

Curley Donchin, Jersey City battler, returns to face Vic Weber in the second finish go. Curley won last week, but has a real problem on his hands in the cleverer Weber.

Fritz Zigfried, who scored a big hit in his first showing here, gets a top bout as his reward and battles Yanka Zeleznik. Fritz has the style that makes him a big favorite here.

Henry Kulkovich tops the supporting card in a battle with John Bognar. Dr. Dropkick Murphy has another tough battle on his hands when he meets Walter Percy in the second prelim.

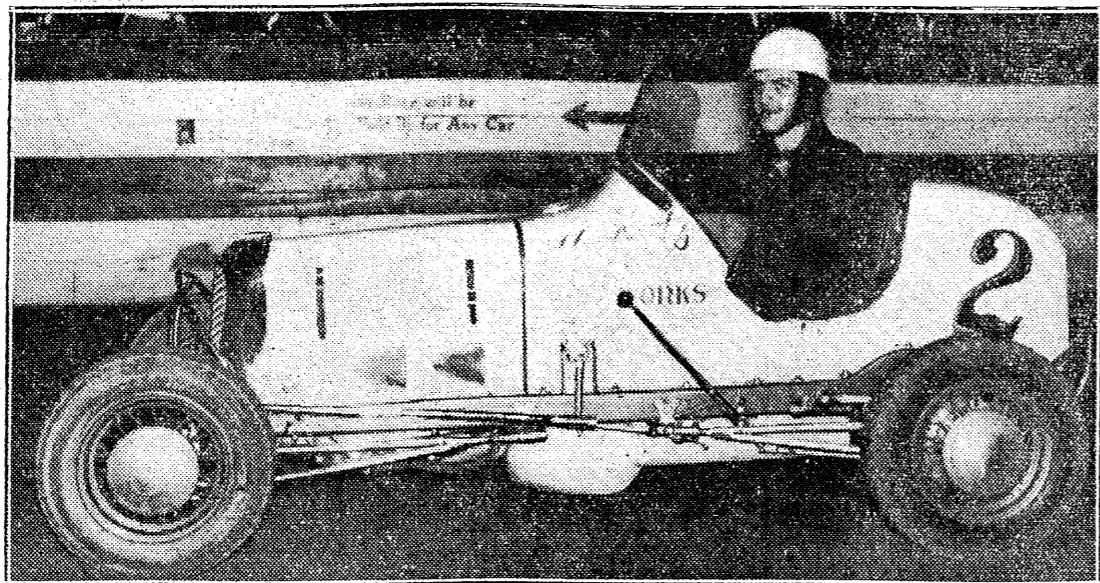

The Black Mask returns to action in hopes of starting another reign of terror among the matmen when he meets Luigi Bacigalupi. Angelo Leone, another newcomer who scored a big hit in his debut, battles Al Norcus, who always turns in a pleasing performance.

Tony Siano, ex-Fordham griddler, will think he is in another football game when he tangles with Joe Bonica, short and squat roughneck. Jim Austeri, rough and tough villain, battles Tony Martinelli in another prelim.

Bill Schindler, Only One-Legged Racing Driver In Game

Bill Schindler, the only one-legged driver in automobile racing, promises to add color to the field of the midwest racers at the Nutley Velodrome Sunday night. Schindler, who hails from Freeport, L. I., has entered the board track competition with his speedy Offenhauser. "Wild Bill" lost his leg in a racing crash up but returned to the track shortly after he got out of the hospital and is known to racing fans all over the country. Along with Tommy Hinnerich of Pennsylvania, Charley Ritter of Detroit, Ernie Gesell of Hollis, L. I., Babe Bowers and others, he will attempt to crack down on the monopoly that Paul Russo, Eddie Staneck, Frankie Offenhausser, "Wild Bill" lost his leg in a racing crash up but returned to the track shortly after he got out of the hospital and Staneck and Russo into the boards to cop the main event. Tommy and his big red car have been handicapped by a mechanical hoo-doo all season, but experts knew that as soon as Hinnerich ironed out the rough spots in his engine he would be a hard man to beat. A big list of other drivers are entered in the races that will start at 8:45, topped off by the thirty-five lap main event.

THE FRAY—by Bill Clay

Before the bout the sportswriters gave Max a chance, which is more than Louis did.

Not only did Max have to trim Joe, but he had to overcome the man with the sickle.

At 32 the schlager is an old man, but females at that age are just starting to cut their eye teeth—to hear them tell it.

When the bell rang Schmeling was as cautious as a bank clerk going into a horse race parlor.

The Bomber hit Der Mox with everything but his southern accent.

The Dutchman was as easy as blowing the head off a Coney Island beer.

Louis said that he'd put the Uhlan away in the second heat, which made him half-right.

Schmeling was knocked the way Baer was born—insensible.

Otto Petri, the bike rider, one of Schmeling's close pals should have taught the Teuton how to ride.

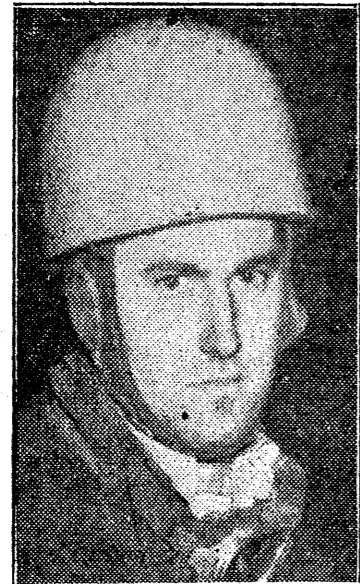

Henry Armstrong is still the best linguist to come before the mike after a bout.

Ed Thorgeron's comments were as dull as a barber college razor.

Louis' folks were sharecroppers, and the sharin' isn't bad yet.

Joe Louis wasn't the only killer in the stadium. Robert Taylor, the lady-killer had a ringside seat.

Mongolism has no particular connection with the Mongolian race. Except for the resemblance of slanting eyes, there is no connection. Mongolism is a congenital malformation usually accompanied by imbecility.

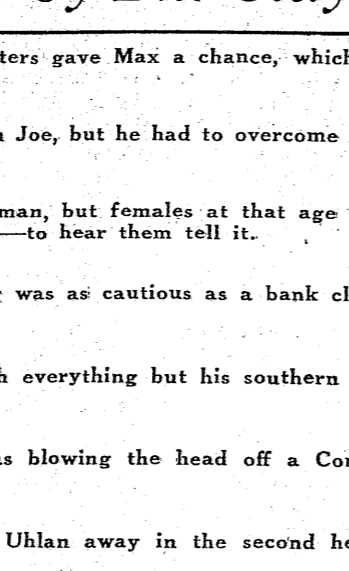

The Morning After Taking Carter's Little Liver Pills

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

CARDINALS MAKE THREE MORE WINS

Geiger All Stars Get First Setback In Lopsided Game

The Cardinals added three more teams to their ever growing list of victims when they defeated Geiger Bros. nine, 13-2; Regans 9-0, and the Newark Rams, 8-7, over the week-end. The Cards had no difficulty in handing the Geiger All Stars their initial setback on Saturday in Branch Brook Park. Jack Avazier, hurling his sixth consecutive victory, allowed but two hits and fanned fifteen batters, retiring the first six men to face him by way of the strikeout route.

The high light of the one sided fray, which provided many laughs, came in the fourth inning when catcher "Pop" Orban, chasing a foul fly, suddenly found himself sitting in the middle of the largest available mud puddle. He missed the catch. It was the same Orban and Bob Irwin who garnered the only safe hits for the losers. Gripp on the mound for the G. B. team allowed ten hits but poor support was the chief cause of his downfall, as his team mates misused on almost every play.

Sunday the Cardinals defeated the Newark Rams, who had registered sixteen wins against four losses. It was a pitcher's dual between Evans and Flynn until the overtime period when the Cards managed to combine three hits and two walks for four runs. Evans allowed the home team ten hits but kept them well scattered. He was helped out of a tight spot in the seventh when Byrnes, at short, leaped into the air and pulled down a line drive which would have proved costly as the bases were fully tenanted at that time.

Taking the lead in the second the Cards retained it until the last inning when the Rams pushed three runs across the plate to tie it up. With one down in the extra frame, Smith singled to left for his second hit of the day. F. McKay came into the game, as a pinch hitter, and singled over second while Avazier, batting for Tierney, walked to fill the sacks. Smith scored on Flynn's error but Van Dyke forced McKay at the plate for the second out. Giber then doubled to centerfield, sending three runs in but was out trying to stretch it to a triple.

Flynn, pitching a five-hit game, was the losing pitcher when errors by his team mates proved costly.

Sunday morning the Cards will play the Rutherford Seniors at Lyndhurst and will return home in the afternoon to play the Irvington Anaks at Terry Field.

MANY BOUTS AT MEADOWBROOK

Proceeds Will Be Used For Morning Club Milk Fund

Forty-two rounds of thrilling action are promised for Promoter Bill Paterson's Meadowbrook Bowl on South Orange avenue, Newark, Monday night. And Matchmaker Babe Culnan has topped the all-star program with a return battle between Freddie (Red) Cochrane of Elizabeth and Tippy Larkin, the kayo ringman from Garfield. This will be one of the three ten-rounders and the prelims are at six rounds each.

Sharing in the proceeds of this stellar attraction will be the Morning Club Legion Milk Fund of Newark, an organization of 2,500 members which has shared in boxing promotions in the past two years. Bert Lamb is the standard-bearer of the organization and Charley Rich is the general chairman. Advance reservations are heavy. Tickets can be purchased at Meadowbrook Bowl, 695 South Orange avenue.

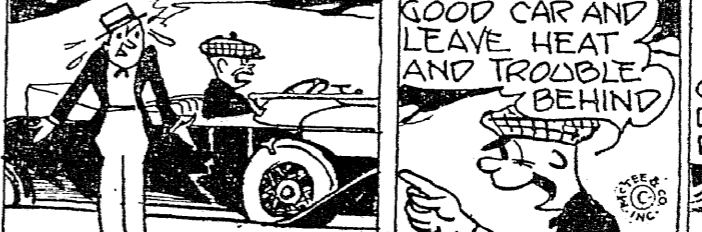

Cochrane, participant in eighty professional bouts, has found Larkin a nemesis in the past. Thrice they have met and thrice the Garfield sensation has won the decision by slight margins. In the past eight months the Elizabeth redhead has coralled eight wins in a row and, preparing at his camp in Sparta for this one, opines that: "Mr. Larkin will lose this one."

Larkin has tasted defeat in only two bouts in fifty-six. He has, however, since reversed the decisions scored early in his career by Chang Collura and Mickey Duca. Tippy's most recent victory was scored over Johnny Rohrig at Clifton.

Heavyweights will appear in the two other ten rounders. Wally Sears of Minersville, Pa., recent conqueror of Freddy Fiducia, Hilltops, will meet up with Joe Wagner of Cleveland, while Larry Lane, of Trenton will battle Chester Palutis of Seranton.

BLOOMINGDALE TRIMS TRIANGLES BY 5-3 COUNT

Fantacone Goes Seven Innings After Bad First Frame

The Belleville Triangles lost another ball game at Bloomingdale Sunday to the strong Bloomingdale A. C. by the count of 5-3. Louis Fantacone, on the hill for the Triangles, went for seven innings, but ran into difficulties in the first inning when a single and a homer gave the hometowners a two run advantage until the second frame.

The Triangles had one big inning in the second frame when three Triangles scored. At this point the Triangles enjoyed a one run margin.

Joe Negra finished the game for the Triangles, striking out four of six men to face him in the remaining innings. He also struck out five men Friday evening when the Triangles lost the opening game of the newly formed Senior League of Belleville. Joe pitched only three innings, with Ed Banta pitching better than four innings, allowing the Senators only two hits. The Triangles will meet the Belleville Bisons Monday at Capital Field. This game should prove to be the best game in this league.

IMMEDIATE PROBLEM

Prepared for The Belleville News by JOHN E. SLOANE, Member N. J. State Planning Board

Behind each sign on the public highway advertising unusual acres of good farm land, in six easy installments, practically at a give-away—and behind each alluring prospectus devised to attract the unwary—lies tax delinquency. In the Study Areas which received special consideration by the New Jersey State Planning Board, large areas of tax delinquent land were unfarmed. In numerous instances large proportions of these unfarmed lands were held by development companies or under single ownership in holdings of a hundred acres or more.

These unproductive lands represent a drain upon the resources of their owners and offer, under private ownership, an inducement to ventures which hold forth the promise of making them profitable. It should be remembered, moreover, that forty per cent of the delinquent acreage of the state is located in the pineland area of South Jersey—an area of forest and barrens.

This factor is a crucial one in considering the problem of rural tax delinquency. Farms too small in size to be operated economically or too poor in soil potentiality to be productive were other factors of importance.

The consequences of these maladjustments have been analyzed by the board and lead to but one conclusion. The use of land can no longer be left entirely to individual judgment which is based on hope rather than on knowledge, but must be guided by the experience and wisdom of the community as a whole if the people of the state are not to be engulfed by the continuing blunders of a part of their fellow-citizens.

Mistakes of the past can be corrected and avoided only by planning the use of land, making impossible the exploitation of resources and people for unsound purposes. Partial steps in this direction have been taken by a number of states, notably Wisconsin, through provisions for rural zoning. The problem in New Jersey is acute enough to warrant serious consideration of methods employed by other states in their attempt to provide a safe basis for future development.

But this is an attempt to avoid a recurrence in the future of the great financial difficulties which faced all layers of government during the depression years.

What is to be done about the immediate problem—the existence of thousands of acres of tax delinquent land with little present productive value? The New Jersey State Planning Board has sought, through its study of rural tax delinquency, to answer this question.

Seen About Town

by Edward Taylor

Fireman Carl Hundertpfund, headquarters company, told a good fish story the other night when he related that, while shark fishing, he always carried a revolver with him to shoot the sharks, as they were brought alongside the boat, instead of trying to kill them after bringing in the boat.

Frank Bangert, 143 Cedar Hill avenue, returned recently from a convention of the National Lodge of Masonic Clubs, at Philadelphia. "What a time," said Frank.

Mrs. Lois Miller declared she is an epicure at candy tasting. Her cakes, which she bakes, are highly prized.

Samuel Miller, 280 Washington avenue, and Abe Forshae, Stephens street, went fishing last Sunday and Sam was elated over the catching of a catfish.

Joseph Schwartz, 82 Little street, has planted in his garden, several unusual bushes. The most peculiar are four cherry bushes which have been developed by Professor Carl A. Hansen, University of South Dakota. Mr. Schwartz has also planted seven strawberry bushes which are a new achievement in the art of fruit gardening.

The Outdoor World

by Bob Bangert

About a year ago the government was planning on spending a great deal of money to dam many of the streams in Idaho, to save a lot of ground which had dried up. Before real plans had been completed a man came into the office of the person who had charge of this project and told him that the government was wasting money. He said that he thought the project could be worked out much cheaper and maybe just as good if beavers were used. He explained how these little fellows had the knack of building dams. The official said that his idea had possibilities and that he would give it a try. The official received 200 beavers to make the test. Well, to make a long story short, about a week ago the official got a phone call saying that the beavers had succeeded. The ground could be irrigated since the beaver dams had caused pools. So that the official has just sent 600 more beavers to continue this work. This proves that nature can always do something for some fault. All that man has to do is find it.

Flies will soon be around our heads, as before. They will keep you awake at night. They will spread diseases over our land. In short, they are Public Nuisance No. 1. One fly may breed at one time from 150 to 200 eggs in warm weather. These eggs are usually hatched in two weeks. You probably have seen the larvae of these pests on meat and manure. Figure it out. If one fly starts a chain and lays a breed of eggs and the preceding week each one of them have a breed and so forth through the season, at the end of the season from one fly there would have accumulated 64,000,000,000,000, flies. Believe it or not.

From these figures you can readily see that the more flies killed at the beginning of the season the fewer at the end of the year. Fly traps and poison, if used in the beginning of the season, will prevent a lot of these pests from getting the opportunity to start one of these chains of descendants. In order that we protect ourselves from the disease that these pests spread, we should screen all out of door lavatories, keep garbage cans covered and scald them at least two times a week in the hot summer weather. If any of you have manure heaps try to do away with them as manure breeds about ninety-five percent of all flies.

Attending were Scouts Tom Hart, George Hart, John Metzler, J. Keene, Russ Kearney and Jim Petro, Troop 392; Arthur Heyden, 386; W. Boyce, 304; Walter Garvey, 375; Jack Iden, Roy Wagner and B. Busche from 388; Fred Howland, 350; E. Rono, 333; also Dick Orr, Jimmy Charlton, F. W. James and J. S. Charlton.

LOCAL SCOUTS HAIL DANIEL C. BEARD

Troops Represented At Rally Held Saturday In Suffern, N. Y.

Nineteen Belleville Scouts and Scouters journeyed to Suffern, N. Y., last Saturday to help celebrate the eighty-eighth birthday of the National Scout Commissioner, Daniel Carter Beard. Suffern was reached after an hour's drive and, there uniformed Scouts stationed along the roads, pointed out the way to the place of assembly. Most of the group carried lunch and ate it in comfort, but the rest had a broiling hike into the village and back, reaching the field again just as the show began.

Some 2,500 Scouts from four states had gathered for the celebration and, with colors flying, paraded past the log cabin reviewing stand where, dressed in white buckskin and surrounded by the officers of the national organization, stood Dan Beard himself, saluting the colors of each division as they passed before him.

Scouts from some sections brought forward gifts, others put on a "birthday cake" stunt, still others presented a pageant representing ten great epochs in Uncle Dan's long life. Colonel Roosevelt, the principal speaker, read messages of greeting from President Roosevelt, Vice-President Garner, Governor Lehman and many others, and revealed in a graceful speech the high esteem in which he, like his father before him, had always held the author, artist and educator. After speeches by President Head of the Boy Scouts and Dr. West, the chief executive, Dan Beard rose to reply, but seemed embarrassed that all the fuss was being made over him.

After the exercises ice cream was passed around and the Scouts entrained and departed. The Belleville contingent turned homeward feeling that they had paid but inadequate tribute to a great man, a great citizen and a great American.

Attending were Scouts Tom Hart, George Hart, John Metzler, J. Keene, Russ Kearney and Jim Petro, Troop 392; Arthur Heyden, 386; W. Boyce, 304; Walter Garvey, 375; Jack Iden, Roy Wagner and B. Busche from 388; Fred Howland, 350; E. Rono, 333; also Dick Orr, Jimmy Charlton, F. W. James and J. S. Charlton.

Garden Hints

New Practices

CERTAIN old-time practices in gardening are just as good today as they were fifty or a hundred and fifty years ago. But just as surely, certain others should be put aside as experience proves them unwise and impractical.

Gardeners, for instance, should no longer follow the practice of allowing all vegetables to grow as large as possible. This may give a higher yield in pounds, but with many vegetables it destroys quality. Some, of course, like tomatoes, must be mature to be palatable; but carrots, cucumbers, beets, summer squash, radishes and other vegetables like them are more tender and tasty when hardly more than half grown.

Deep hoeing, once practiced by the majority of gardeners, is now generally frowned on as having no real purpose and being damaging to plants. Many gardeners now use the hoe only to scrape off weeds. Deeper hoeing is unnecessary, and often breaks off hidden lateral roots. Few gardeners save flower seeds nowadays as they did years ago. Fine flowers in the home garden very often are cross-pollinated by other flowers of the same species, making flowers grown from their seed inferior and untrue because of contamination of strain. Commercial seed growers devote much study and planning to prevention of cross-pollination in their crops.

The practice of planting vegetables only in the spring is likewise becoming unpopular. Gardens prove more profitable when successive plantings of favorite crops are made every two or three weeks, to keep fresh vegetables coming to the table over a period of many weeks. Numerous crops are planted even in late summer, for fall use or for storage.

More intelligent use of manure and other fertilizers is becoming prevalent as gardeners learn that limited, measured amounts often do many times the good done by unnecessarily heavy applications.

AUTO MEN FIGHT CIRCULAR PEST

Suggest Boycott of Firms That Shove Them Into Cars

Employers and employees from garages and service stations in Bergen, Essex, Middlesex, Hudson, Passaic, Morris and Union counties, at a meeting held in Kruegers Auditorium, Newark, voted to request the Motor Vehicle Department to eliminate the practice of certain repair shops from distributing circulars and other advertising matter to car owners as they enter or are waiting to enter the testing stations. If necessary, the association decided that the law authorizing the semi-annual inspection of automobiles should be amended to prohibit the distribution of advertising matter in the vicinity of the testing stations and impose a substantial fine on any garage owner who violated the law.

Those present also went on record to ask the motoring public, including passenger car and truck owners, to refrain from patronizing companies who employ such tactics to attract business.

Carl J. Wilson of Perth Amboy, who presided at the meeting, stated that the reason for the action taken was the large number of complaints received from motorists and especially truck owners, that there was a possibility that vehicles were being rejected just to give these repair shops some additional business. He criticized garage owners for not employing more ethics in the manner in which they do business and called upon the motorists to ignore repair shops advertising "we guarantee to make your car or truck pass state inspection." It was impossible, he said, for any repair shop to live up to such a statement.

A resolution was passed commending the employees of the testing stations on the efficient manner in which they have inspected vehicles and urging them to continue their impartial attitude of rejecting all vehicles that did not meet the specifications of the act, regardless of where the vehicle might have been repaired.
