RAIN DAMPENS ENTHUSIASM AT VALLEY AFFAIR

Dance and Amateur Contest Go On, However, Despite Showers

The heavy rain early Saturday evening dampened the enthusiasm the valley folks had for the recreation amateur contest and block dance, which was to culminate a day's recreation, including an athletic program at Terry Street Playground. Despite weather conditions the entire program was carried through under handicaps.

About 200 were on hand at the start of the amateur contest when the first shower broke and all scooted for cover.

Through the generous cooperation of Mr. and Mrs. David Pittman and Miss Donovan, the amateur program was carried out from the Pittman's front porch. An amplifier set was rigged up there and also on the porch of Miss Donovan.

Various contestants, who had planned to take part, were not on hand when called, but among those who rendered selections the following were judged winners by the judges, Mrs. Elsie Balzer, Mr. Pittman and Mrs. Helen Mc-

ANNOUNCE NEW WORKER AT LOCAL SERVICE BUREAU

Rev. Edgar M. Compton, president of the Board of Trustees of the Community Service Bureau, reports that the agency has a new case worker, Miss Margaret Anderson. Miss Anderson replaces Miss Ruth Hartin who is on thirteen months leave of absence to study at the Smith College School of Social Work.

Miss Anderson is a graduate of the New York School of Social Work and has received her master's degree in psychology at Columbia University.

WARNING ISSUED TO DOG OWNERS

If Not Muzzled Or Leashed They Will Be Picked Up

Following report of two dogs belonging to Belleville residents being declared rabid last week and eight persons receiving Pasteur treatment, Health Officer Eugene T. Berry, declares that all dogs found at large in town without either a muzzle or leash will be destroyed, whether or not they are properly licensed.

According to Berry, a police dog owned by Arthur McCullough of 2 Copper place, bit a daughter, Gladys McCullough, 3; Edward Arthur, 11, of 11 Smallwood avenue, and John Stone, 81 Walnut street, last week, but was not reported as ill until Friday.

The dog was placed under observation and died from rabies Saturday. Meanwhile, the three victims were given treatment. Two other dogs believed to have been bitten by the dog, are being held for observation.

Five persons who handled a dog owned by Dorothy Hertz of 120 Rutgers street and being boarded at 24 Wilson place, have been given treatment following the dog's death of rabies also last week.

Robert Thompson, sixteen, 34 Maple avenue, was bitten on the right hand Sunday by a stray dog, which was shot by Patrolman Smith. The boy's wound was cauterized in St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic.

STATE AID FOR PAVING JOB

Erie Held Up Work But Law Revision Helped

State Highway Engineer James Logan has informed Belleville that through recent enactment of a law at Trenton it is possible for $18,000 of state funds to be allocated to pave Cortlandt street from Mill to Belleville avenue and from Joramdon street to Little. The total cost of the job to Belleville will be $2,000.

Town Hasn't A "Leg To Stand On" In Opposing Ricca Riding Academy

Applicant Knows His Legal Rights and Is Sure of Them

"In other words we are locking the door after the horse has been stolen—this is a horse story isn't it?"

Thus did Director of Parks and Public Property Louis A. Noll describe the one-time moot question of whether Nicholas Ricca could board horses for a riding academy at his Laverne street stable.

The question now does not seem to be so moot, at least Corporation Counsel Lawrence E. Keenan figured it wasn't after Seymour Klein, attorney for the Ricca brothers and father, got through telling the commissioners at the conference Monday afternoon that his clients "know their legal rights and are sure of them," but would rather, as they have in the past, "be good neighbors and comply with any reasonable restriction laid down by the town."

Klein reviewed the history of

St. Peter's Arranges Parish Excursion

Plans are being made by St. Peter's Church for its fourth annual parish excursion to be held at Roton Point Park, Conn., on Wednesday, August 17. Meetings of the general committee to make arrangements are held in the new school building each Thursday night. The various committees will be announced next week.

Fifteen Belleville Scouts Enjoyed Privileges At Their Camp Mohican

Local Boys Allow No Brush To Grow Under Feet

by Bob Bangert and Joe McGarrick

Scouting is one thing and camping in the outdoors is another. When the two are combined a Boy Scout has an opportunity to have some real experiences—especially when it is his first year at camp.

Fifteen Belleville Scouts have taken this opportunity at Camp Mohican, the summer vacationing center of the Robert Treat Boy Scout Council on Wildcat lake near Blairstown, and are nothing off some first hand experiences in their youthful lives. Most of this number, who are among more than 200 campers at Mohican, are first-year campers.

The Belleville Scouts are allowing no brush to grow beneath their feet. They are passing Scouting tests and attempting not only to make the best of their outdoor activities, but also to climb in their Scouting careers. They are mixing into the regular camp program, leaving their spare moments for the advancement.

Of the two troops here, Troop 333, Wallace & Tiernan Products Co., the council's first industrial-owned unit, is hitting a mark of which their leaders back home might well be proud. They will bring to a close their week stay at Mohican on Sunday afternoon. Each has nothing but praise for their camping experiences and the opportunities offered them back home at their meeting place in the plant. The Scouts of the Wallace-Tiernan troop were driven

Erie Official Wants Curb On Right-of-Way Dumping

Hints At Civil Action Unless Cooperation Is Forthcoming

Belleville is listed by H. D. Barber, general manager of the Erie Railroad, as one of eight municipalities that have used the railroad right-of-way as a "dumping ground."

In connection with this he has written Mayor William H. Williams as follows: "Last Spring the railroad removed several carloads of old cans, hot water boilers and miscellaneous junk from the right-of-way and now finds that there is practically as much refuse there as before."

"You can appreciate what the reaction would be if the Erie Railroad were to throw its scrap and refuse over the fence into the backyards of our neighbors. You can imagine also what the reaction would be if these same property owners, who are now using the right-of-way for a dumping ground, were to throw their old tin cans, discarded boilers and what-have-you into the middle of the public streets and expect the town authorities to come around and dispose of them. Without question the city authorities would take drastic steps.

Barber inferred that unless cooperation is forthcoming civil action may result to stop it or collect costs for removing the junk.

Besides Belleville, Mayors in Nutley, Newark, Glen Ridge, Paterson, Clifton, Kearny and Montclair received letters from Barber.

Some of the bad spots listed by Barber are: Just east of Grant avenue and both sides of the Walnut street and Nutley stations in Nutley; both sides of the Belleville Station and the north side of Rutgers street and Academy street, Belleville; several stretches in Newark, including south side, Second River Bridge and Verona avenue, both sides of Woodside Station and east of Riverside Station, both sides, just west of North Newark Station to Forest Hill Station; half-mile east of Harrison Station to the Newark drawbridge, both sides, Kearny, and both sides just west of the Arlington Station to West Arlington Station.

Further places were: Both sides of a stretch just west of the Glen Ridge Station to the Walnut Street Station, Montclair; west of the Montclair Station to the North Fullerton avenue crossing, south side, and west of Watchung avenue to Valley road, Montclair, both sides.

Breaking all records. This is the call police got Sunday night from Anthony Di Angelo Erie Railroad gate tender at Academy street.

Someone—it has not been determined who was responsible—was reported scaling phonograph records from an apartment house window, precariously near the gate tender's pate.

CAMP FUND IS SUBSCRIBED FOR BOYS HERE

Over $300 Raised By Committee To Help Underprivileged

Belleville Camp fund to give 100 boys a week at Recreation Camp along Second River has been over-subscribed. The quota set by the committee was $300, but approximately $322 has been pledged. It costs about $3 per week to feed a boy at camp.

Those who were on the committee are Philip Dettelbach, Recorder Everett B. Smith, Wilfred Yudin and Wallin H. Masten, editor of The News.

Donations, in addition care for twenty-five boys by Belleville Rotary Club, valued at $75, and food valued at $15 furnished by the Craftsmen's Club, follow:

$50 Belleville Lions Club.

$20 Arene Chapter, O. E. S.

$10 L. Sonneborn & Son, Rare Metals Corp., Thomson Machine Company, Beisler-Weidman, Eastwood-Neally Corp., Belleville P. B. A. No. 182, National Grain Yeast, Hanlon & Goodman, Belleville Copper Rolling Mills, Napier Hat Manufacturing Company, Thomas A. Edison, Inc., and Joseph King Association, which is also donating food.

$7 Belleville Post, American Legion.

$5 Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., Belleville Woman's Club, George A. Younginger Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Valley Improvement Association, Belleville Woman's Republican Club, Berliss Bearing Co., Progress Club, Cosgrove Wire Manufacturing Co. and Ladies' Guild, Christ Episcopal Church.

O. E. S. CARD PARTY

A card party for the benefit of Belleville Chapter, O. E. S., was last night at 8:30 P. M. at the home of Miss Lilian M. Harris of 424 Union avenue.

ON CANADIAN TRIP

John P. Dailey, personnel manager of Wallace & Tiernan Company and Thomas Walker, Mt. Vernon Die Casting Company, left Saturday for Rideau Lake, forty-five miles north of Brockville, Canada, where they will spend a week with Coach Albert K. McBride, Belleville High School, Principal Hugh D. Kittle and Larry Lommerin, treasurer of the Viking Tool Company, who started last Wednesday for the Lake. Dailey and Walker will return Sunday. They took along two outdoor motors. The men will live in a log cabin, doing their own cooking.

Differ Sanely On Bus Plans

Patrick A. Waters

Mayor William H. Williams

Mayor William H. Williams and Commissioner Patrick A. Waters, although differing on the Garden State Bus situation Tuesday used good judgment and ironed out the matter as business executives should, with clarity and vision.

Bus Line Stirs Town To Ask for Lifting Restrictions

"Give Us Nickel Fare Or Give Up Permit," Says Waters

All is not serene along the Garden State Bus line—Brookdale to North Newark route, which criss-crosses through Belleville but can only pick up and discharge passengers at one point, Passaic avenue at Chestnut street, which is actually the intersection of Greylock Parkway, out beyond the turf bog.

This came to light Tuesday evening at the Town Commission conference and later at the regular commission meeting. The board passed a resolution, which will be submitted to the Public Utilities Commission, asking that body to lift restrictions placed on the line so that local citizens may have transportation facilities along the route. This was suggested by Mayor William H. Williams, who sees in the line "an opening wedge for a five-cent fare."

On suggestion of Director of Streets and Public Improvements Patrick A. Waters, who charged the line with misrepresentation to the Public Utilities Commission in its original application for permit to operate here, the resolution carries an amendment to the effect that if the restrictions are not lifted the line be deprived of its permit.

Not Fooling Waters

"They're not fooling me," said Waters. "Already they have been told they can not pick up or discharge passengers because they are too close to existing lines. They can't give Belleville a five-cent fare and they know it. If they can let's settle this thing right now. If the restrictions are not lifted, let them give up the

False Alarm

A short circuit in the burglar alarm at the Peoples' National Bank and Trust Co. building, Washington avenue and Van Houten place Tuesday night caused quite some excitement in the neighborhood when seven members of the police force were detailed to the scene with sirens open.

Over 100 persons watched eagerly as the police entered a cellar window to find everything intact, except several windows in the basement, which evidently had been broken for some time. One of the windows was found unlatched.

First Regatta Here Sunday As Nereids Entertain Union Club

Contest Will Be Fought Bitterly Between The Old Rivals

The historic Passaic River will witness its first regatta of the year when Nereid Boat Club entertain Union Boat Club of New York at the Belleville course next Sunday, July 17.

Nereid and Union are old and bitter friendly rivals and this year's contest will be as fiercely contested as any in the past. Ten events are scheduled, with a trophy at stake for the club winning the majority of the events.

Races will begin at 1:45 P. M., and will finish at the Nereid clubhouse. All will be rowed over will be centered to a great exception of the Senior Single Shells, which will be a mile in length.

Features of the regatta will be many. Interest of the spectators will be centered to a great extent on the first race of the day, in which Homer Zink of Nereid will exhibit his skill against A. Wighton of Union. Zink leaped into the limelight at Philadelphia two weeks ago by turning in one of the finest performances of his career to win the Association Senior Singles against some of the best competition the East has to offer.

Another hotly contested event will be the Club Quads, the final event of the day. The local club will be represented in this race by Walt Nicol, Warren Everson, Andy McMaster and Bill Bennett.

Don't forget that Victor Hart, JEWELER, sells Diamonds, Watches and Jewelry on the Easy Payment Plan. 457 Washington avenue, corner Tappan avenue, Belleville, N. J.

WOMAN INJURED AS CAR JUMPS CURB HERE

Accident Follows Collision of Two Machines In The Valley

Miss Bessie Basin, twenty-four, colored, 39 A. James street, Montclair, was injured Sunday by an automobile, which jumped the curb at the south-east corner of Rutgers and Cortlandt streets, following a collision with another car.

The woman was taken by Patrolman Lukowiak and Fireman Mac Killop in the town ambulance to St. Mary's Hospital, from which she was released, after it was determined her injuries consisted of a scratched left arm and knee and leg bruises.

Miss Basin was struck by a car driven by John Matt, eighteen, 17 Valley street, which jumped the curb when it was in collision with a car being driven east in Rutgers street by William G. Donnelly, 86 McDoo avenue, Jersey City. Matt's car was being driven south in Cortlandt street. It landed also against the Overman Cushion Tire Company building, near which Miss Basin was standing.

NEED OF PROJECTS FOR WPA TOLD BY WATERS

By the middle and, at the latest end of August, Belleville will be faced with a serious problem of finding employment for almost 800 men, Director of Streets and Public Improvements Patrick A. Waters informed his colleagues Tuesday evening at a conference of the Town Commission.

He declared that 200 on the Parkway project along Second and Passaic rivers will be laid off then to make way for others who will be placed on the job from Newark, explaining that 200 may be taken care of on a project in West Orange if the town makes some provision for transportation.

"This is the third time I have issued this warning," said Waters. "It is a very serious problem. For six years the projects have been going on and most towns and cities have cleaned up all the big jobs. I don't know what we are going

RACERS HAVE BEEN TAUGHT LESSON

Recorder Relaxes Policy To Take Away Driver's License

Believing that fourteen months operation of his plan to suspend licenses of drivers given tickets for speeding has taught motorists to respect traffic laws here, Recorder Everett B. Smith has relaxed the policy.

The recorder believes that the report for the first six months of this year, showing no fatalities from automobile accidents here as against eight for the same period in 1937, shows how effective his plan has been.

"It has been a terrific headache to me," he said. "In many instances it has imposed a severe hardship on those who depend upon driving for their livelihood. Some cases are always more culpable than others. But to be really effective the penalty must be imposed on all alike."

"I do not wish this announcement to be an invitation to drivers to speed in Belleville. I shall continue to suspend the licenses of drivers whose offenses seem to warrant it."

Public Safety Director Clark has approved Smith's action. He has announced a renewed drive against speeding.

"The policy of suspending licenses made it tough on the police," Clark said, "particularly when they knew that to hand a man a ticket might be the cause of his losing his job. Our policy against speeding remains the same, however, and I am instructing the motor cycle men and squad cars to exercise renewed vigilance during the Summer."

Miss Margaret H. Kasper Is The Bride Of William H. Harris

A pretty church wedding took place Friday evening when Miss Margaret Helene Kasper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kasper of 234 Holmes street became the bride of Richard John Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Harris of 240 Holmes street in Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church. Rev. Edgar M. Compton, pastor of the church, officiated. Palms and white gladioli decorated the altar.

A gown of white lace over satin and a tulle veil hung from an Alencon lace cap was worn by the bride, who had flowers of roses and sweet peas.

The bride's only attendant, Mrs. Alexander H. Crighton of Union, wore aqua lace over satin and carried a shower bouquet of talisman roses.

The best man was Frederick H. Harris, a brother of the bridegroom, and two other brothers, Robert V. Harris, this town, and William A. Harris of Nutley, and W. Robert Ferris of East Orange, were ushers.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Compton, organist at Wesley, played and Miss Marie E. Kasper, sister of the bride, sang.

The bride is a graduate of Newark State Normal School and porarily the couple will live at 234 Holmes street. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Kasper home.

Miss Elizabeth Shannon To Wed Richard E. Quade at Wesley Church

Miss Elizabeth M. Shannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Shannon, 28 Bremond street, will be married tomorrow

Seen About Town

by Edward Taylor

George Gregory, 79 Main street, is a comparatively young man, who is making a game fight to support a family despite a physical handicap. Through the suggestion of Frank Bogart, Mr. Gregory has entered the photographing business and is now making line cuts and ships his product to such distant places as Johannesburg, the Transvaal, and Port Elizabeth, all in South Africa. He also makes life-like toys during the Christmas season. Mr. Gregory, it may be told, fell from a 100-foot crane, injuring his spine.

Miss Agnes Donlon, 166 Belleville avenue, recently drove her automobile to Haverstraw, N. Y., to attend the funeral of a friend.

Mrs. Edward Mullin and daughter Beatrice, 233 Little street, are spending two months' vacation in Bermuda.

Andrew Soelner, Floyd street, will attend the Juilliard School of Music next fall. "Junie," as he is known to his pals, plays the saxophone with adroitness and efficiency that would do credit to an older man. He is a recent graduate of Belleville High.

Arthur G. Lloyd reports that he is doing a better business at his store, 445 Washington avenue, since he took it over from a large chain store organization.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Gilchrist, 9 Van Houten place, celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary with a trip to Toms River, Saturday.

George Nestler of the Nestler Radio Service, 524 Union avenue, has become a candid camera fan and has built a dark room for himself to develop and print pictures taken by his camera.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson, 284 Union avenue, celebrated their forty-eighth wedding anniversary at their home last Wednesday.

William McGrath, son of Mrs. Sarah McGrath of Cleveland street, reports that he was manager of the softball team that won the championship of the Erie Railroad League in Cleveland. Mr. McGrath played on the auditing department team.

Karl Suchomel, 33 Malone avenue, has installed the first Ventra Home Air Conditioner to be placed in a home in Belleville. Mr. Suchomel, who is owner of a sheet metal concern, says that at present the cost of the Ventra unit makes it prohibitive to the average family.

William MacKillop, fireman, declares that, although the firemen's softball team, of which he is manager, lost to the town hall employees, 10-7, his team will make a better showing against the policemen, whom they play shortly. Fireman MacKillop believed he would put one over on the town hall team by holding a practice game the day before the big game. It required five different umpires to satisfy him before he discovered that Battalion Chief William Dunleavy was co-ruling the umpires to give decisions adverse to the firemen's team.

The youngsters in the neighborhood of Joe Stein's confectionery store, 548 Union avenue, are all agog these days over a contest, Joe is running. Joe is handing out votes with each purchase, and the children have

Dunleavy Host To Denver Police Captain

Police Captain and Mrs. James J. Pitt of Denver, Colo., are visiting Mrs. Bridget Dunleavy, their aunt, at her home, 164 Union avenue. Captain Pitt, who attended the Elks' Convention at Atlantic City was driven from there to Belleville by Fire Lieutenant Dunleavy, a son of Mrs. Dunleavy. Battalion Chief William Dunleavy is another son.

Legion Notes

Legionnaires and members of the auxiliary, who intend to participate in the national convention at Los Angeles in September and to make the trip on the department national convention special train, are advised to file their reservations immediately. Reservations must be filed with Leo E. Honore, state transportation director, 305 E. 45th street, New York City. New Jersey headquarters will be at the Clarke Hotel, Los Angeles. Room reservations for the hotel will close August 25.

Essex County American Legion posts and auxiliaries are completing plans for the twentieth annual department convention to be held at Asbury Park, September 8 to 10. Number of delegates and alternates to be allowed to posts will be based on membership figures submitted to Roland F. Cowan, department adjutant, by August 2. Resolutions for presentation to the convention must be submitted in typewritten forms and signed by August 25 to Cowan. State headquarters will be at the Monterey Hotel.

The regular monthly promenade of the Essex County Vulture 127, La Soete des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, will be held tonight at the Public Service-Essex Division American Legion rooms, 19 Main street, East Orange. Grover C. Ashby, of Montclair, is chief de gare.

Miss Cynthia J. Coppola Weds John C. Rossi At St. Peter's Church

Miss Cynthia Jeanette Coppola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coppola, 14 Columbus avenue, and John C. Rossi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rossi, 304 Belleville avenue, were married at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in St. Peter's Church by the rector, whole streets of people working for them. For instance, Jiggy Danziger, of 360 Greylock parkway, has many people on the parkway seeking votes for him. He has 15,000 votes to date. Frank Gacciome, 540 Union avenue, has 10,000, Winifred Ellsworth, 182 Adelaide street, 8,900, Betty Hirsch, 425 Greylock parkway, 7,800, Dorothy Barrett, 309 Greylock parkway, 6,000, Joe has the awards to be given to the person holding the highest number of votes in his store window.

Clement Lehman, 90 Tappan avenue, left last week on a trip through Texas, and is visiting places along the Rio Grande river.

John McEwan, 43 Belleville avenue, has a tame canary, which among other feats of daring, will perch itself on a cigarette held in Mr. McEwan's mouth, and will flick the ashes off the cigarette with its foot as neatly as Mr. McEwan could himself. The bird was imported from England by Mr. McEwan.

Tax Assessor and Mrs. John F. Coogan, of Elena place, have returned to their home after their annual vacation trip to Maine.

Fireman William Flynn spends his spare time building Adirondack chairs, four of which repose on a lawn surrounding his house at Stephens and Holmes streets. The chairs would due credit to an expert carpenter although they are built from crude lumber.

William Michelson, of Stephens street, is a man about town. Wherever there is anything doing, "Willie" is on the job. He was listing the societies he was interested in the other day, and here are some of them: The Odd Fellows, Craftsmen, Joseph King Association, Fred A. Hartley Association, Jr. Order, U. A. M., Daughters of America, of which he is past counselor, and the Valley Improvement Association.

Isadore Blacker cashier in a local cut rate market declares he can eat ten pounds of boiled potatoes, or a pound and one half of spaghetti at one sitting. We doubt it.

The four years required Medical School study is divided approximately as follows:
1st Year—The future Doctor of Medicine must master the fundamental science of the human body: such as Embryology (development of human being); Physiology (study of all organs in health); Anatomy (study of body structure in health); Histology (microscopic study).
2nd Year—Intensified form of above studies. Beginnings of study of Pathology (effect of diseases on various organs); Diagnosis (comparison of diseased organ to healthy).
3rd Year—Under trained instructors and practicing physicians, the embryonic Doctor begins to meet patients, watching actual clinical practice, diagnosis and treatment, working from nine to twelve hours a day, six days a week for thirty-six weeks.
4th Year—Continuation of third year, constant training in rational treatment based on careful examination and diagnosis. The student is required to be responsible for twenty or more prenatal cases, and attend delivery under supervision of a specialist.
After completion of these four years, he goes through stringent examinations before being allowed to graduate. Medical Schools, Medical Associations and the laws of your State all are constantly working together to prepare your Doctor to be more competent and thorough.

From THE LOCAL PULPIT

Sermon for publication in the Belleville News by Rev. Harry Pfunk, pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church.

IDEALISM

Jesus said: "Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter the kingdom of heaven."

To be grown up is both life and death. Maturity is life. The man understands his world and himself better than a child. Reason grasps the relation of things. Judgment is capable of choices. Memory helps him in life experiences. Imagination anticipates the future. The child-man, he who does not understand the relation of things to each other peoples his world with spirits, monsters, gods, devils and such things. The grown-up man sees the world in its natural processes and learns to interpret the world accordingly. Childhood sees only time and place. Man enters the larger areas of life and experience. Man is a larger life than childhood.

Maturity is death. The human body begins slowly to die after it reaches its full growth at about the age of twenty-five. Athletic games, with possible exception of golf and bowling, belong to youth. With many the mind decays with age. The spiritual capacities of man may rot with time. Imagination may lose its power. Childhood serenity and sincerity may degenerate into cynicism and disillusionment. This need not be for the mind can grow in a decaying body. Great minds have done their best work after the age of fifty.

Life demands that man must recapture something of childhood. If idealism is not to be lost the spirit of childhood must develop into maturity. We do not mean childishness, the retention of habits and thought and action characteristic of childhood. We mean childlikeness, the recapture of the simplicities and profundities of childhood. We must be converted and become like little children in order to enter the realm of God. The great complexities, the great intellectualisms, the great detailed knowledge of life spells death if the simplicity, unity and depth of childhood are not re-captured or retained in adulthood. A religion that means LIFE makes demands that defy the judgments of a sophisticated age concerned only with its own intellectual powers, but blind to the price it pays for its sophistication.

Childhood is unity and serene. Nature's harmonies have not yet been disturbed. The child is not at war with itself. The child grows, reason and freedom enter in the picture. Alternatives present themselves. With the demand to choose comes complexity. Unity in adult life must come through a central will—in religion we call it surrender to God—in Christianity we call it—surrender to Christ or the indwelling Christ. Idealism in adult life can only be realized through this unity with the mind of the universe—God.

The grown-up problem is to achieve unity amidst complexity of impulses. We must overcome the conflict between the IS and the OUGHT of life. Reason disturbs nature's harmonies without being able to reconstruct a pure harmony on a higher level. Man thus wars with himself—it is a war between our bodies and our minds. Thus adults lose the childlike innocence and sincerity. A child does not pretend. Adults are often all pretentious. A child centers its life in itself and makes no claim of being otherwise. As life unfolds the sense of responsibility to serve a larger world come along. But, with it, too, comes the desire to use the larger world to satisfy the self. Dictators are a reflection of the average unconverted man. Even though the intelligent adult realizes it must fit into the larger scheme of things, it cannot overcome the drive of the ego. This desire to dominate is often seen in the devotion of the adult to the world. Adults often pretend to be something they are not, this the infection of the element of dishonesty and insincerity. Real religion will know that it is dealing with sin—not just plain wrong doing. Moral commands do not lead to salvation. Dishonesty is not a normal state because dishonesty is general. Man cannot return to childhood. But man seeing in childhood the promise of what life ought to be has found the greatest truth in the Christian religion. God is the creator and fulfillment of life. Life must move forward to what it was at the beginning. We are not to become children—we are to retain the unspoiled faith in God and his goodness.

To repent and be converted—is to recognize our selfish impulses and with the help of God check and curb them. We must prevent the development of the life of hypocrisy. The message of Christ is not moralistic, it is religious. Jesus preaches that we cannot attain the higher life without God. What God imparts is free and must be accepted. Thus we must become as sincere and honest as a child who gives implicit trust to those it loves. If we love God, we shall find the fulfillment of life in childlike acceptance of his gifts.

A conversation between a father and a six-year old girl is reported: "Father, why was I born?" "I don't know, my child; only God knows." "Did God want me to be born?" "I think so," replied the father. "Was God born?" Impatient father, "No, God was not born." "If God was not born, why did he want me to be born?" "Now, be quiet you little busy-body." "Why don't you answer my questions, you old lazybody?" The simple questions of the little girl are perfect examples of childlike profundity. They concern themselves with two realities; the meaning of life and the relationship of a life to the world.

A literal religion seeks to preserve childlike depth by giving childlike answers to childlike questions. It corrupts religious truths into a bad science. Modern liberalism is just as corruptive by thinking it knows all the answers to the questions the child asks. Twentieth century sophistication gives scientific answers to all religious questions, believing the world was self-derived. Real religion has the wisdom of knowing the limits of human knowledge. Real religion is AWE—believing that life is something more beyond the explored regions of the world; it is HOPE—because life is not yet what it shall be; it is FEAR—because it knows the possibilities of evil. True religion believes that GOOD is basic to creation—thus it approaches life—fearfully, yet unafraid.

With the simplicity and sincerity of childhood we are allowed to meet the Lord of life and enter the realm of the eternal. We adults are not happy with mere knowledge, our dishonesty, our insincerity. We can, however, recapture the simplicity of childhood, entering into life with a faith unshaken, knowing that God the creator of life offers new stimulations daily—God is the source of what men for ages have been seeking—the fountain of youth. The hope of the world rests into eternal spirit of youth—hope, love, trust. This eternal spirit of youth is not limited by physical age. Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye cannot enter the realm of God.

No Leg

dustrious and, always paying their taxes, they now want to establish a horse riding academy. Health Officer Berry complained against it, hailing them into court for violations of the sanitary code.

"This law-abiding family, which is a credit to Belleville, has been denied a permit to board horses, there being no ordinance here to regulate riding academies and the situation has become one for the Health Department to debate. I wrote Mr. Berry twice, asking for specifications as to what my clients should do to comply with the law, and got no reply. The only conclusion we could draw was that we are being pointed out as a family to be denied anything it asks.

"There are others in Belleville, who keep horses and cattle in Belleville in greater proportions than we. All we ask is that they be made to comply with the same restrictions as imposed on us. We want to be reasonable in every respect. Of course, if making any reasonable improvements to comply with the Health Department code proves too costly, there will be no riding academy."

The board asked Keenan if the town would "have a leg to stand on" if Klein took the case to court.

"It would cost the town money," said Keenan, to fight against the academy because "seven years ago the Zoning Board made the section an industrial zone."

Keenan added that while the Riccas had technically violated the Health Code they had not violated any regulations as to keeping horses, because "no regulations have been laid down." "My clients are in a heavy industrial zone," explained Klein. "I would like to present one more argument. If you don't anticipate horses in town, why an ordinance mentioning them? Two and two are four. Where would they be located except in a heavy industrial zone?"

The board members said residents in the section were under the impression they were protected against a riding academy by the ordinance, but the attorney's view of the situation made it inadvisable to fight a losing battle. Berry was instructed to draw up "reasonable regulations" for the Riccas and it looks like the riding academy is well on its way, despite objections.

A. E. Chiappari asked the board at its regular meeting if Keenan could go to court with an attorney, who might be hired by the Belwood Park Improvement Association, to fight the case "to establish a precedent."

Mayor William H. Williams explained that if that were done each little group in various sections of town, who might have similar problems, involving precedent, would demand the same thing and Belleville would be out "thousands of dollars in legal fees."

"We hire the attorney to advise us on legal matters," said the Mayor, "and we must bank on his opinions."

"I have known lawyers to be wrong in their opinions," said Mr. Chiappari. As the matter reached conclusion Keenan informed Chiappari he would be glad to go over the ordinance, regulations and legal aspect of the case with the association attorney or Chiappari "at any time."

Health Officer Berry had made a complaint against Ricca for stabling horses at his place without a permit.

The horses have been at the stable several weeks. A month ago Ricca was ordered to take them away under a town ordinance which declared them undesirable and which also forbade the keeping of "cattle" on town premises.

When the hearing was held it developed the town ordinance was in conflict with the state law governing such questions. Also the point was raised whether or not horses were "cattle."

The commissioners dismissed the complaint and amended the ordinance to conform to the state law.

They went farther and for "cattle" substituted, as prohibited "cows, horses, mules, goats, sheep," and a number of other creatures, all of which it was declared to be unlawful to harbor in Belleville.

This, it is declared, makes Ricca's horses illegal if he stables them without a permit.

Last week Carson was inducted as a member.

Rev. Deekenbach Wednesday told members of recent trip to the San Francisco convention, which he attended as a member of the local club and Governor of the 182nd district. He told of stop-overs at Denver, San Jose and Salt Lake City and Glacier National Park, where the Blackfeet Indians initiated him as a chief in that tribe and presented him with a certificate which reads as follows: "The Blackfeet Indians welcome this man, who comes from the East Land, where the sun rises—into their circle—makes friends with the peace pipe and gives him the Blackfeet Indian name of Chief Yellow Mountain, O t'que-Yee-Stue-kee."

The certificate is signed by Chiefs Weasel Feather, Lone Wolf, Middle Caif, Eagle Caif and Wolf Talk. The same tribe recently accorded a similar honor to President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The presentation was made June 28.

Chester A. Leydecker of Union City Club was also made a chief and Peggy Schwinn, secretary of Newark Club an Indian Princess. Rev. Deekenbach was impressed by the Geyser Old Faithful and the enormous size of the trees in California, declaring that one could not only help being impressed by God's beauty in creation, but in orderliness of nature. On the return trip the local rector gave a sermon in the club car, which was attended by passengers in the fifteen-car pullman. He spoke of "The Orderliness of Nature," pointing out that "only the fool in his heart has said there is no God."

SUPPORT HOMER C. ZINK

Behind the scenes in Essex County Republican circles is much jockeying for positions on the party's ticket in the September primary, contrary to what some of "the boys" would have you believe. All this because the Clean Government forces, which overthrew the old Jesse Salmon organization, are disintegrating the way of all reform movements in politics and a new organization is coming to light. This chap wants to be senator, another feels he would make a good assemblyman, still others feel freeholders' jobs are all right—or, maybe, an undersheriff position.

With all this jockeying, Belleville has come to a place of prominence if it wants to take advantage of it. In Homer C. Zink, our own assemblyman, we have the most potential Essex candidate for the State Senate. He, with Senator Clifford Powell, cut over two million dollars from the state budget this year, attracting attention from all corners of the state. They did the job in the interest of the taxpayer regardless of how painful the pruning was to those who hold or control public jobs.

Senator Cleo has stepped out of the picture here in Essex. He would have Assemblyman Zink take over his shoes. No better man could be found. And when we said here is Belleville's chance to go somewhere in the political setup of the state, we meant just that. If Homer does the same job in the Senate, provided he gets his party's support, as he did in the assembly, higher office may beckon. Well, this may be a little far fetched. Perhaps Homer does not aspire for any higher public office. But certainly it behooves Belleville to get behind him, at least at this stage of the game, to see that those who have had their finger in the political pie in the county give Belleville a little recognition. What is wrong with a Homer Zink Boosters' Club, or a good Republican Club? Homer has done a splendid job that redounds to Belleville's credit. He accomplished this single handed without even so much as a Republican Club here. There are many who wonder why Belleville does not get its share of state and county jobs. The answer is lack of interest in organization. Lack of coordination. In fact it is lack of "umph" that every other municipality exerts when a favorite son forges to the front in politics.

Homer Zink is Belleville's own. Get behind him Republicans. He may be governor someday. Think what this would mean to Belleville.

ERIE AND BELLEVILLE

Belleville as well as other nearby places has received a letter from H. D. Barber, general manager of the Erie Railroad, intimating possible civil action unless spots along the railroad's right-of-way are kept clean of rubbish. Mr. Barber said that last year his company had cleaned up spots in Paterson, Clifton, Nutley, Newark, Montclair, Kearny, Glen Ridge and this town.

While we have no earthly use for junk and do not condone its disposal along the Erie Railroad tracks, we cannot agree with the impression that Mr. Barber has created. Newspaper stories made it appear that our town among the seven others is unsightly along the railroad tracks. This is not true to any great degree, so far as refuse is concerned. We have, however, seen debris along the tracks after automobiles have been hurled by trains at dangerous grade crossings. Mr. Barber's company should do itself proud and Belleville, as well, if it gave a little thought to grade crossings elimination which is far more important, in our estimation, than worry over a few little tin cans, or what have you, along the tracks. Another item for the Erie to take into consideration is the infernal whistle tooting through the valley. If we were to speak our mind the Erie reminds us of those who live in glass houses—they shouldn't throw stones.

NOTES OF SADNESS

Somehow or other there was a note of sadness in the news that Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Circus — long called "The Greatest Show on Earth," has folded its big "top" and gone to winter quarters in Florida.

It is especially sad when we think of the thousands of children deprived of a fleeting one-day thrill of watching the fun-making clowns, or the lion tamer or the man on the flying trapeze.

Then there must be a pretty sad outlook for the families of the 1,600 employees, who chose to blindly follow union leaders and put the circus out of business by a strike and thus put themselves out of jobs. The strike was called when the circus proposed a wage cut to avoid closing through bankruptcy. Highly skilled in their work the performers will have little to look forward to but relief, which adds sadness in still another quarter—the taxpayer.

Anyway you look at it the Public ultimately foots the bill for strikes which force closing of enterprises.

FINE PIECE OF WORK

Through enactment of a law by the Legislature which permits the State Highway Engineer to determine under modern traffic conditions whether a road is considered unimproved, Belleville will benefit in the matter of paving Cortlandt street from Mill to Belleville avenue and from Joralemon street to Little. And, further, as a result of the law, which came about because Mayor William H. Williams spent countless hours consulting various members of the Assembly and Senate and pointing out to them the benefits to their various communities, an antiquated act, which provided state funds for "unimproved roads," has been modified.

It will be recalled that the state had agreed to pave Cortlandt street as an unimproved road only to find out when the Erie Railroad objected to an assessment that the street was out of the unimproved class because it had previously been paved in part.

Straightway plans of the town to satisfy property owners, who clamored for the improvement because laying of sewers and other construction work had made the street next to impassable, went haywire. The Erie had gone to the trouble to get an opinion from the Supreme Court that state funds for the paving were taboo.

Director of Streets and Public Improvements Patrick A. Waters suggested every effort be made to get assistance from the state and Town Engineer Matthew Sheehan made several trips to Trenton with the Mayor to find out how Belleville, as well as other towns, could benefit.

"Hold your horses," advised the Mayor when some of his colleagues were pressing for action. "The machinery is moving for help."

And then, after vicissitudes aplenty, including sending of the bill to Governor A. Harry Moore for signature without first having the Senate president's signature, it finally got the Governor's stamp of approval.

As a result Belleville will get $18,000 from the state to add to $34,000 the Federal Government will spend as a WPA project. $2,000 only will be assessed as a general assessment.

Which leads up to another point, by way of digression.

There has been considerable talk about Belleville's commissioners getting an increase in salary. Here is one case where Mayor Williams saved about eight years of his salary. He earned that not only by merely doing his job, but acting like an executive in any other business would do—a little more than called for—the making of substantial dividends for the taxpayers of this town. Incidentally, the Mayor has not only helped Belleville through his foresight, but other towns in similar "unimproved road" situations.

CAREFUL, MOTORISTS!

School children, by the thousands, have left their classrooms and are pouring into the streets and avenues of Belleville and other nearby towns and Newark. Motorists should exercise extra care, and police should be on the job to protect the children against their thoughtlessness. There should be less of the idea: "Let them keep the children out of the street," and more of the obligation upon the motorist to watch out. True, parents can help by directing the children not to play in danger spots, but in the last analysis the motorist must think for the child.

BREAKING HOME TIES!

THIS WEEK

by "Guardian"

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

Enroute somewhere in Minnesota.

The headlines this week are all about Howard Hughes and his four companions and the splendid progress that he made in his $200,000 Lockheed Twin Motored Cabin Plane, in flying around the northern segment of the earth.

Though his trip is ostensibly to advertise the 1939 New York World's Fair, unquestionably a man of Hughes' past scientific attainments in the field of aviation is more interested in this flight from the standpoint of the performance of instruments, the success of blind flying and the accuracy of navigation. This gives every evidence of being a flight that will contribute much towards present knowledge and future development of aviation.

Some newspaper writers are observing that Hughes cut Lindbergh's time in half in his flight across the ocean from New York to Paris and that he bids fair to greatly reduce Wiley Post's 1933 "round-the-world record of seven days, eighteen hours and forty-nine minutes. We hope he does. Good luck—and happy landings. But Hughes would be the last man to make such comparisons, except as to indicate the progress that has been made in aviation.

Eleven years have passed since May, 1927, when "Lindy," a slim lad just turned twenty-five, took a single motored plane ALONE across the ocean to Paris and electrified the world. Modestly he said, "We did it"—giving more credit to his plane than to himself—and then conducted himself so modestly as to make him the idol of this country. He flew alone—with but a single motor—and he made it!

Eleven years of engineering development. Eleven years of aviation progress — have helped Hughes and his companions to be the first since Lindbergh to succeed in a direct flight from New York to Paris. The fact that it took eleven years — in these times of rapid progress — for the second non-stop flight between the American and the French metropolis is adequate testimony of the greatness of "Lindy's" single-handed accomplishment.

Similarly in comparing this splendid flight with Wiley Post's record, we must remember that he too, flew alone.

In this section of the country the thought is mostly about the wheat crop and the daily expected estimate of production by the Federal Crop Reporting Board. Last month the prediction was for a harvest of one billion and twenty-six million bushels which would fill all storage facilities to overflowing and leave a record-breaking surplus of four and a half hundred million bushels!

If that is what comes from planned economy—if that is the result of crop control—if that is the end point of the New Deal's "Economy of Scarcity"—is it not ample further indication of the futility of man's attempt to control the laws of nature?

And there are fears that, despite wheat shortages in different parts of the world that would permit, under normal conditions, an export of our surplus to foreign lands, governmental loans to producers, made to keep the surplus wheat off the market so as not to depress prices—will create an artificial price ABOVE the world market—and thus make export impossible because other wheat producing nations—without crop control and without price control—will get the business.

What a crazy merry-go-round!

What have you done this week to help Homer Zink to be elected Senator from Essex County next November?

November, 1938, Senator Zink from Belleville.

November, 1940, Governor Zink from Belleville.

What could help Belleville more?

Better get busy.

Yours 'til next week.

"GUARDIAN."

That's Yours and Mine

by Charles E. Potter, L. S.

SIZE OF PROPERTY

Is your property as large as you think it is?

I have before me as I write this a map that was drawn in 1889 by a land surveyor in one of the suburbs of Newark. It is of a farm that was at that time cut up into building lots and streets. These lots were not sold very rapidly. In fact, only one or two were disposed of in a period of a year.

Years went by and finally, in the early 1920's, years after the original farmer-owner and the surveyor who has divided the tract had died, the last lot was sold for building.

In 1895 two lots were sold to a Mr. A. who promptly built a fine home and a barn, for that was in the horse and buggy era.

He had a surveyor place a monument at the southeast corner of these lots, which the map shows were each 150 feet deep with a 75-foot frontage on the street.

In 1909 Mr. A. died and his widow, to raise cash, sold the property four months later to a Mr. and Mrs. C. A survey was made when the deed was drawn up. As the description called for a starting point at the junction of two streets, which were then dirt roads with boundaries difficult to locate, the surveyor worked backwards from the monument, in a manner just the reverse of that called for in the title description. In making his report, he declared that everything was in accordance with the description.

All went well until 1937, when

Mrs. C. by this time a widow, had a dispute with a neighbor about his fence, which she claimed had been placed on her property. After having been called upon to advise her, I made a study of the records relating to the property and discovered the existence of the monument placed by Mr. A.

However, starting my survey at the street intersection named in the title description, I found that in order to make the southerly line of the property hit the monument and miss Mrs. C's barn I had to give her a street frontage of 150.75 feet for her two lots, instead of the 150 feet called for in the description.

I learned that the fence was truly on her land three-quarters of a foot, since the monument, erected when the land was first divided, prevailed over all other claims. After I had reported this to Mrs. C, she notified her neighbor. He consulted his own surveyor and lawyer in regard to taking the matter to court, but was advised to move his own fence, which he did.

Thus a dispute and protracted litigation was avoided, all because Mr. A. had had the foresight to have his property monumented in 1895.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

The capital is talking about how Washington officialdom was taken by surprise by the recent business upturn. Their amazement is typified by one of the inner-circle theorists who read a newspaper headline and declared with much arm-waving that: "There must be some mistake . . . it isn't justified . . . the pump-priming hasn't started yet . . . we can't understand it."

The economic-planners are finding more and more that while they might control people, they can't control economic laws. Last year the depression slipped up on them, and before they realized its depth, they were caught denying that it was anything more than a temporary recession. Then as more and more people were forced from employment, they set out to marshal new billions for pump-priming. That was to start the new upward swing. But before the money could be spent, business began to improve of its own momentum.

How far the swing upward will go few people dare to predict. Many attribute the beginning of the climb to the adjournment of Congress, which means there can be no more disturbing "must" legislation forced on the legislators until next January, unless a special session is called. Almost all economists agree that if the "crack-down" on business and industry is withheld and instead the flow of private investment is encouraged, the basis for recovery will have been laid. Those who follow political trends, however, are fearful that the political campaigns will be used as new arenas to attack industry, with the so-called monopoly investigation being used to spotlight the attack.

PIQUANT POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

Vanderbilt Must Lead

In politics as in war it is the side which assumes the offensive that get the most attention. But the strategy of defense is none the less important because of this dearth of publicity. In Essex Republican circles it is the Jones, the Pilgrims, the McFaddens and the Franklins who have the headlines these days.

Since the strategy of the opposition is pretty well known, an analysis of conditions and prospects in the hard-pressed Clean Government camp would seem in order. With Cleo out of the picture, Arthur T. Vanderbilt looms as the unquestioned leader. The eyes of all who have profited by the four straight Clean Government victories are focused on the shaded serenity of his Short Hills home. If they are to be led forward to a fifth victory or backward in a strategic retreat, it is Vanderbilt alone who can do it.

That Vanderbilt will attempt a cautious retreat rather than a general offensive appears almost certain at this writing. The nomination of a complete slate of County, State and Congressional candidates, plus the re-election of W. Stanley Naughton or the election of another Vanderbilt lieutenant as Republican County Chairman is far too ambitious a program for this year.

Retreat Has Started

Where then will Clean Government give ground? First it has already given ground by endorsing an independent candidate for State Senator—Homer C. Zink. Second, the re-election of Naughton, or the election of another recognized Clean Government adherent as county chairman seems impossible and probably will not be attempted. Third, a clean Government endorsed trio of Congressional candidates is unlikely because none of the three outstanding contenders for these nominations, Fred A. Hartley, Albert L. Vreeland and Dallas S. Townsend would accept the Clean Government designation were it offered them.

Vanderbilt and his advisers may very well conclude that their moral position would be weakened by a "deal," and that their best chances of remaining in power lie in an appeal to the voters on matters that they feel that their record justifies such an appeal. In the matter of State Senator they are already committed to compromise. That arrangement is almost certain to stand. Sec-only, there would be no particular point in a Congressional contest in that Vanderbilt would automatically encounter opposition from the followers of the three outstanding candidates in their respective districts should he encourage others to oppose them.

Zink Will Compromise

Vanderbilt, then, can appeal to the voters only to nominate his candidates for the Assembly, the Board of Freeholders and for Sheriff. As regards candidates for the General Assembly, Zink is in a position to exert as much influence as Vanderbilt, and Zink is committed to a policy of compromise. Whatever stand the Short Hills lawyer takes regarding the Assembly slate, Zink must concur if it is to carry great weight. Thus, should Zink urge that endorsement be left to the County Committee, Vanderbilt would be almost compelled to go along. But as regards candidates for the posts of Freeholder and Sheriff, Vanderbilt is in a position to make demands, and to fight effectively if they are not met. I rather anticipate that upon this battlefield will the issue of county leadership be settled.

Vanderbilt Needs Giuliano

For Freeholder, Vanderbilt would very likely back Philip Lindeman, both to enroll his large following among Jewish voters and for the moral advantage of backing a man with a long and unblemished record of county service. William H. Rawson of Bloomfield might very well be endorsed for similar reasons. The other incumbent whose term expires, Philip Van Dyne, would very likely be replaced for one who could bring more political strength to the ticket.

For Sheriff, Vanderbilt would almost certainly endorse the candidacy of Joseph Giuliano. The two men were political allies long before the present Clean Government movement came into being. Giuliano has very strong personal organization among Italian-American voters which would be of immense advantage to Vanderbilt. The latter, on the other hand, would give suburban prestige and a following in that section to Giuliano. It would be an alliance of convenience to both parties, in that each has what the other badly needs.

Could Vanderbilt win with a strictly county ticket? My own guess is that such a coalition would be extremely powerful. Should Vanderbilt discontinue his support of Naughton and his alliance with William A. Seely, his chances of rallying Republican leaders about him would be much enhanced. A Seely alliance would probably bring him 500 votes, and lose him 5,000. Naughton would lose him an equal number while bringing him about 50. To this extent are they milestones about the astute Vanderbilt's neck.

IN NEW JERSEY

by Dr. Maurice F. Neufeld

Delinquent Lands and Public Needs. Prepared for the Belleville News by John E. Sloane, member New Jersey State Planning Board.

A survey made of tax delinquent land in the vicinity of State forests, parks, and fish and game preserves showed that in almost every public area tracts of delinquent land existed which might be added to these State lands for the benefit of the citizens as a whole. This procedure would be more desirable than the present practice of allowing tax delinquent land to remain unsold year after year because no private individual will buy it, or to revert to the municipality to lie unused in its hands.

Tax delinquent parcels of land of considerable size held by the municipality exist immediately south of Cranberry Lake State Park. Other municipally held tracts lie east of the lake. A large tract of unsold tax delinquent land spreads just north of Hacklebarney State Park. Just south of Mount Laurel State Park lies a parcel of unsold tax delinquent land. Tax delinquent land which has reverted to the municipality is located northeast of Swartswood Lake State Park. Near Voorhees State Park lie a few unsold tax delinquent parcels. Unsold tax delinquent parcels also are found in the vicinity of Washington Crossing State Park while nine parcels of unsold tax delinquent land are enclosed in High Point Park itself or lie sidering issuing new one, two and three cent stamps. They think the solid green, red and purple colors are unattractive. Shortly, these stamps may be issued in bicolours.

The WPA has found that beavers construct some type of dams more satisfactorily than the WPA man with his shovel.

immediately northwest of the park. No reck has been made to determine whether or not these unsold tax delinquent parcels have been sold since the original survey was made.

Unsold tax delinquent land exists in the vicinity of Jackson State Forest. Just north of the Lebanon State Forest lies a huge tract of tax delinquent land held by the municipality. Four parcels of land have reverted to the municipalities and are found in the forest itself, while large tracts of unsold tax delinquent lands are situated just east of Lebanon State Forest. Land which has reverted to the municipality lies partly in Penn State Forest or just west of the forest, and huge unsold parcels of tax delinquent land are to the south and east of the forest. Bass River State Forest is surrounded by delinquent land both unsold and reverted to the municipality. The same condition is true of Belleplain State Forest. Areas of possible additions also exist around the various State fish and game preserves of the State. Other large tax delinquent areas might be made the nuclei of needed future State reservations of similar character.

The chief reason why municipalities have not foreclosed tax title liens held by them is their inability to get good title to property except through the costly procedure of foreclosure in the Court of Chancery. Without clear title, it would be unwise for the State or other political subdivisions to acquire such land even should such a policy be adopted. What is needed in New Jersey in order to further the conversion of certain types of now non-productive land into socially desirable and more productive use is a legalized procedure which would simplify the conference of clear title to tax delinquent land taken over by the State, county, municipality.

The Outdoor World

by Bob Bangert

Do You Know That . . . ?

Today there are twenty times more hunters and anglers in New Jersey than there were eighty years back.

which is something we should be proud to know. It is interesting to think of the large backing these hunters and anglers have from the New Jersey State Board of Fish and Game Commissioners. Thousands upon thousands of fish stock our Jersey streams each year. Why even with the many hunters roaming through the woods, our native quail and partridge, or ruffed grouse, have been on the increase for the past ten years in their particular habitats. There are more cotton-tail rabbits and pheasants planted and more taken per square mile of territory than in any other State in the union. Also, in New Jersey, there are more game wardens and warden service than in any other state in the Union. Naturally this affords more protective help to insectivorous plants.

Another way to show our sporting pride is to know that at Hackettstown we own the largest fish hatchery in the nation.

Did You Know That . . . ?

The value of fish and game taken annually runs close to one and a half million dollars a year. That for the last five years the market value for fish and game has exceeded the total receipts from hunting and fishing licenses.

That ninety per cent of our streams are open to the public and well over fifty per cent of our hunting grounds?

That the former sportsman plan, inaugurated in 1933, has been the means of opening up to the hunters and fisherman of the state an area of approximately two hundred square miles of land and water that were formerly posted against hunting or fishing, and has given the land owner complete protection of his home, herds, flocks and outbuildings?

So let's get together and give three cheers for the New Jersey State Board of Fish and Game for a swell job.

(Ed's Note: Bob this week writes from Camp Mohican, the Boy Scout Camp, near Blairstown.)

Blotter Jottings

Patrick Alabritti, 81 Clinton street, lost $25 and some legal papers from a tin box in his home when intruders broke in one day, last week.

Columbus Hospital has reported two boys, each seven, bitten recently by dogs. The boys are Thomas Nisovaccio, 23 Heckel street bitten on the left knee and Patrick Senna, 58 Belmont avenue, bitten on left arm and back.

An Alderney Dairy Milk truck, driven by Robert Miller, 91 Lincoln place, Irvington, which was proceeding north in High street and an automobile being driven east in Holmes street by Horatio Parese, 54 Cedar Hill avenue, were in collision Wednesday morning. Mrs. Mary Parese, mother of the driver, was injured and treated by Dr. Barney Schaffer.

A coupe which was stolen Thursday night in Newark was found Friday abandoned in a dirt lane, leading to the old pumping station in Ralph street by Patrolman Gross. The machine, which was owned by William Tracey, 173 Mt. Pleasant avenue, Newark, had been stripped of battery, spare tire, front bumper and radio. A local garage man towed the machine away.

Cigars, cigarettes, candy and change were stolen and a chewing gum machine broken, police learned Saturday from John Muzicata, who conducts a stand at the north-east corner of Jorammon street and Franklin avenue. The intruders gained entrance Friday night through a window, it is said.

Patrolmen Flynn, Gallagher, Scott and Lilore went on a wild goose chase early Monday morning when a woman, whose name has not been disclosed called police that two colored boys had broken into a store at Franklin and Magnolia streets. The police could find no place entered and no boys in the neighborhood. Eleven sutures were necessary to close a wound in the right hand of William J. Tracey, forty-two, 45 Garden avenue in St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, Monday, after Tracey, it is said, by Nicholas Merola, thirty-two, 531 Jorammon street, had struck his hand against the windshield of an automobile owned by Charles D'Elia, twenty-two, 14 Columbus avenue. Patrolmen Gallagher and Flynn took Tracey to the hospital in a town car.

Clever Driving Helps Staneck To New Track Record

Belleville News Staff Writer

Roaring past the green flag, Staneck, refusing to be jockeyed out of his earned pole position, gunned his smart No. 5 Offenhauser to a quick lead and declined to be headed throughout thirty-five laps of furious driving in the feature event of Wednesday night's Velodrome Mid-Get Card.

Sorcerer his heels, Banks, driving the Elito-powered No. 1, forced Eddie all the way and as they lapped the other bunched entries looked for a moment as though he might get the break. Clever driving shook Staneck loose, however, and coming out of the huddle he streaked away to a new Velodrome track record in a fast 5:7.99 for thirty-five laps of the feature event.

Proud possessor of a shiny new Offenhauser, Ernie Gesell treated the fans to a couple of quick heart beats, one as he went into a spin while warming up and once as he spun into a quick clip from Heliker's 41 in the first qualifying heat. A double somersault did no apparent damage to either Ernie or his new mount.

Eight of the dozen and a half qualifying cars turned their lap in less than nine seconds—Staneck's 8:37 foreshadowing his determined bid for the feature prize money and a nice boost in his point standing.

ALBEY WINS RACE IN NEW YORK

Takes Two-Mile Event As Fort Johnson Feature

Clark Albey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morrell C. Albey, 44 Malone avenue, Saturday, won the two-mile bicycle race in connection with Sir William Johnson bicentennial celebration in Fort Johnson, N. Y.

Albey won by a margin of twenty-five yards over his nearest competitor in the fast time of four minutes, four-fifths seconds. Clark's award was a fifteen-inch trophy, depicting a bicycle rider mounted on a pedestal. In all, Clark has sixty-five medals and trophies, about two-thirds of which were received for his prowess on the ice-skating rinks.

Albey assembled the wheel on which he rode to victory.

SENATORS RECORD THREE WINS IN FOUR STARTS

Bisons Halt Local Club In Twilight League Game

The Belleville Senators posted three victories in four games during the past week. The Bisons Friday snapped the nine-game winning streak of the Senators in a Belleville Twilight Development League game at Capitol Field, 3-1.

On Saturday the Senators won rather easily at Belleville Park over the Harrison Ramblers, 10-5, and on Sunday defeated the West New York Risleyes, champions of Bergen County, 5-1, and the Elizabeth Question Marks, 6-5.

In the Bison game, Lefty Stark held the Senators hitless during the entire fraas and struck out thirteen batters. The Senators' lone tally was unearned. This is the first time in four years on the diamond that the Senators have been held hitless.

The Senators came to life against the Ramblers, clouting out seventeen hits. Joe Metz and Mac McGadden garnered six hits between them, while Barnett smashed out a homer with one on base. Dan Burns was on the mound for the locals and, although hit rather freely, excellent support kept him out of difficulties. Fairbanks clouted out a four-sacker for the Ramblers with two on base in the first inning. Scramala also hit a homer for the Ramblers in the ninth.

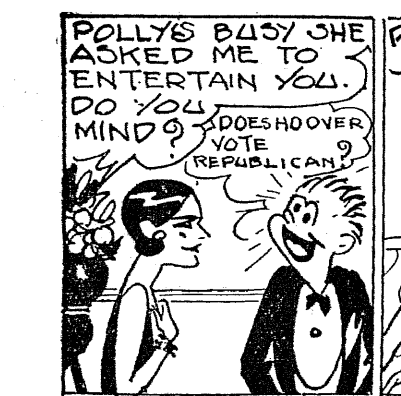

The Risleyes started off like world beaters, scoring in the second inning when Fraed walked, Henderson and Gehneke singled and Joe Metz made a miscue, accounting for first blood. In the fourth the Senators clouted out their five runs. Bernard Barnett, a pinch hitter, accounted for two of the tallies when he banged out a triple with two on the bags. George Freed hung up his second win in this game in as many starts thus far this season.

Pete Gorley started on the mound for the locals in the Elizabeth tilt and lasted until the fourth, when Barnett relieved him. Barnett, not only hurled well in this game, but clouted out three hits, two of them homers. Joe Kluck got a four-timer for the Elizabeth lads.

Tonight the Senators cross bats with the Maglio Association in a league game, the result of which will decide the winner of the first round. Tomorrow the Newark Normals will be tackled at Branch Brook Park extension at 3.30. The Somersets will be on hand Sunday afternoon at 1.30 for a game at Belleville Park to be followed at 3.30 by the Bound Brook Red Caps.

TWO PRIZE CARS

MILE-A-MINUTE MARTY

Sports Before Your Eyes

by JOE DUVAL

There is more at stake on the Passaic Sunday than a cup for the winner. A cup can be won anywhere, but Sunday's regatta between Nereid and Union Boat Clubs has a far deeper significance than merely another meeting of two old rivals.

More important than victory for either club is rowing's battle for victory over two curses feared by every boatsman. They are not peculiar to the Passaic, but the Passaic is one of the prime examples of the havoc to the sport that can be wrought by them.

One, the lesser of the two and beyond human control on a navigable river, is tide. The tide on the Passaic is strong at all times, but, because of its many tributaries, it takes but a slight rainfall to speed the tide tenfold. This is not, however, an unsurmountable obstacle.

The other evil, on the contrary, is almost a hundred per cent man-made. On the parties responsible for the pollution of the river can be laid the burden of the blame for the death of the Passaic's once-famed rowing center. Stand on the bank anywhere along the river and watch the dirt and debris, logs and old bicycle tires, leaves and empty beer cans, grass and crates float by. You will wonder how people can so completely forget the interests of their fellow-men.

We could classify pollution under three headings, natural, industrial and mischievous. Little or nothing can be done about natural pollution, which is caused by leaves, tree branches and the like falling into the streams.

Industrial pollution can and must be stopped if the Passaic is ever to be considered an important body of water among athletic circles. A great deal has been done in this regard by the state and the various communities, but that it is still going on is obvious from any point on the river bank.

But the children and childish adults who take pleasure in standing on the shore for hours on end throwing sticks, stones, cans, logs, anything they can lay their hands on, into the water, are the ones who constitute rowing's greatest menace. It is not uncommon for a delicate racing shell to hit a submerged plank or box and rip the bottom of the boat from how to stern. To stop these individuals is the duty of the police of Newark, Belleville, Nutley, Harrison, Kearny, North Arlington and every other town and village on the banks of the Passaic and every stream which enters into it.

Until this constant pollution is stopped, the Passaic will never regain its position as a center of sport and fun for all.

HERE IS ONE POINT MORE

There is another point in regard to rowing on the Passaic which has always been a bone of contention between local oarsmen and speed-boating enthusiasts. It is the matter of cutting down the latter's speed when passing a shell.

It is great sport to race at top speed along a smooth waterway. But once again sportsmanship and fair play should enter in. A thirty-pound shell carrying 160 pounds in its center, when suddenly suspended between the crests of two waves, is just as liable as not to snap in half. That has happened. And whether it does wreck the shell or not, the sudden strain on all its joints does weaken it for the next shock.

Other New Jersey inland waterways, notably Barnegat Bay, have coast guards who patrol a certain area occasionally. It does not go lightly with the speed maniac who endangers a sailboat by racing close to it. A shell is a hundred times more fragile than a sailboat, yet speed boats race past them with impunity.

The water has always been known for its courtesy. Let us hope that courtesy is not at this late date becoming twentieth-century-ized.

CARDS DEFEATED BY CASA LOMAS

Local Boys Outclub From Newark With Tierney Leading

In one of the most interesting local games this season the Cardinals were subdued Sunday, 7-6, at their home grounds at Terry Field by the Casa Lomas.

with three safeties, the Cards garnered eleven hits. Evans, on the mound for the locals, held the highly rated Casa Lomas to seven batters. The lead changed hands several times during the fray with the Lomas finally pushing the winning marker across in the ninth when they combined two hits and a walk.

The visiting team from Newark, which recently added a no-hit, no-run game to its credit, provided stiff opposition for the Cards, but a five-run rally by the Belleville team in the third inning kept them on the short end of the score until the eighth when they tied it up. Altho the Cardinals solved the deliveries of Drew, the opposing twirler, for eleven hits, he managed to set down seventeen by way of the strike out route, while Evans whiffed ten.

In the Cardinal lineup for the first time was Ray Kimball, recently acquired infielder, who besides cavorting around third base in a faultless manner, hit safely twice, and stole five bases in as many attempts. Lubanski, the hard hitting third baseman, for the victors, accounted for three of the teams seven hits.

Sunday afternoon at Terry Field the Cards will face the only team to hold them scoreless this season when they again meet the powerful Harrison Gasserts. The Gasserts, sponsored by the mayor of Harrison, is considered by many to be one of the leading semi-pro teams in Hudson County. Included in their line-up will be many regulars from the Harrison High School team, which will be remembered for the almost perfect season and exceptionally fine play in the state tournament.

EAGLES DEFEATED BY CRANFORD

Local Boys Get But One Hit At Belwood Park

The Belleville Eagles lost another ball game Sunday to the Cranford Suburbans at Belwood Park, 10-1.

The Cranford team jumped on Stockton, newcomer of Eagles, for two runs in the first and were never headed. The Eagles garnered one hit in the game, in the first inning, when Costello singled to right. The Cranford boys teed off on the Eagle twirler for ten runs and fifteen hits. Nineteen Eagles went down via the strike-out route.

Sunday morning the Eagles will cross bats with the Newark Reccos at West Side Park. In the afternoon they will clash with the Stanley Tornadoes of Irvington at Belwood Park. The score: Cranford . . . 203 010 211-10 Eagles . . . 100 000 000-1

EMERALDS LOSE THREE IN LAST FIVE STARTS

The Emerald A. C. in its last five starts over the past three week-ends found the going rather difficult and dropped three games. The Gems lost a hard fought 5-3 decision to the Agar Manufacturing Company in Whippany and another 5-3 loss to the Mountain-side Clovers in Echo Lake Park, Westfield. The Emeralds also were trimmed 14-2 by the Lyndhurst Aces at Lyndhurst. The two wins were from the Heller Bros. B. C. N. S., 8-7, Last Sunday's game with the Colonial A. C. of South Orange at Cameron field was washed out just as the game was about to get underway.

The Whippany game was featured by the combined four-hit pitching of Johnson and Palmer of the Agars and the hitting of Jim Lynch of the Emeralds, who acquired two of the four hits, one of which was a home run.

The game played in Westfield was a pitchers' battle between Blivise and Wiggins in which the Emeralds could acquire only five hits and three runs, while the Mountaineers acquired five runs and nine hits. Bill Lister, of the Emeralds, acquired three of the five hits to feature at bat.

The Emeralds sustained their only beating of the four games when they bowed 14-2 to the Lyndhurst Aces. A ten-run scoring spree in the third inning, in which the Aces laid down five safe bunts in succession, together with five hits, was the turning point of the game.

The Heller Bros. game, which the Emeralds won 6-1, was featured by the four-hit pitching of Sullivan who also struck out eleven opposing batsmen. Bill Lister, Hui Williams and Henry Lubben featured at bat for the Emeralds, the former leading the team with two hits while the latter two knocked in two runs each.

The final win was at the expense of the St. Columbus H. N.

S. in ten innings. This game was featured by the relief pitching of Walt Cody, who allowed one hit in two innings to become the winning hurler in the tenth.
