AUTHENTICITY OF WOODEN SHOE IS DOUBTED

WPA Worker Unearths Possible Relic In River Bed

A child's size wooden shoe, which is almost perfect and could be 250 years old, was unearthed Friday by a WPA worker under two feet of mud on the bottom of Third River at the Belleville-Nutley line. It may be a relic of early Dutch settlements here. The wood in the shoe, which is less than seven inches long, is light and well preserved. The shoe was carefully made. The Arthur Fulbeck, of 41 Lake Street, Bloomfield, timekeeper on dredging project, spotted the shoe in mud thrown aside by another worker. He took it to Newark Museum.

Museum officials, although admitting the shoe could have been preserved since Colonial times, were skeptical of its authenticity, pointing out other ways in which it could have reached the river bottom.

The Dutch were the first settlers of New Jersey, it was said at the museum, having established themselves on the west bank of the Hudson River, opposite Manhattan, as early as 1630. Indian massacres in 1643 and 1664 destroyed these little colonies, but a permanent village was built in 1660.

The lowlands around the Second and Passaic Rivers were settled when the Dutch moved inland after New Netherlands passed to English control and serious Indian troubles ended. Original settlers in the Newark area, however, were English.

LEGION PLEASED AT TURNOUT ON ARMISTICE DAY

Commander Breunich Hopes To See Many Join Local Post

"The twentieth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice is a week past and it was encouraging to see the response of citizens of Belleville as they lined Washington avenue to cheer for the marchers in one of the largest and most colorful parades the town has ever witnessed," says Commander Otto Breunich of Belleville Post, American Legion.

"This year also marks the twentieth anniversary of the American Legion and Belleville Post urges all former service men to join. By membership veterans contribute to the strength of an organization that has had a vast influence on the history of our times. The unselfish nature of our program has directed the influence of the American Legion toward preservation of American democracy. The success of our efforts in working for the good of our nation should be a source of pride to all veterans."

"This year we celebrate one-fifth of a century of peacetime service to our nation and to our war disabled and their dependents. A mighty army of men and women who gained the privilege of association in the American Legion through active honorable service in time of war have provided this program. As we celebrate our twentieth anniversary we can derive satisfaction from the record that shows we have followed with high fidelity the ideals, the aims and the objectives we assumed in the beginning."

"The desire to extend that period of service remains our goal. The rich yield of our years of maturity lies ahead. Every Legionnaire has his part to play in a great program of service to God and Country. Our task is to use the experience of these twenty years to develop our power for good to the fullest extent."

"As we go toward our 1939 objectives it is essential that all of our Posts and Departments shall begin with a war strength footing. Early enrollment of membership develops greater capacity for American Legion service and brightens prospects for the success of our program."

"Celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the Armistice this November 11 by becoming an active member of the American Legion for 1939!"

Commander Breunich adds: "If any who read this are honorably discharged soldiers, sailors or marines, having served between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918, they are eligible to join the American Legion and may do so."

SPANISH WAR STEP TOWARD COMMUNISM

Rev. F. X. Talbot Sees Aim For World Revolution

Holy Name men from St. Peter's Church, heard Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S. J., editor-in-chief of the weekly, "America," at the Catholic Action Forum in Bloomfield on Tuesday evening, quote Lenin and cite incidents to prove that the Spanish War was a planned step in the Communist efforts at world revolution.

"Spain," he said, "is the first act in a world tragedy. What Spain has suffered we may have to suffer here in the United States." He asserted that the American public had been victimized by propaganda and falsely led to believe that the loyalists were fighting to save democracy from outside aggression. Father Talbot predicted that the Nationalists would ultimately win due to the fact that they have the support of seventy per cent of the Spanish people, trying to save their religion and culture from the aggression of a militant minority. That is why he went on, that there is agitation in this country by left wing groups to have the arms embargo lifted. He also warned his hearers of the danger of embroiling the United States in European affairs if arms are sent to Spain.

INVITES FIREMEN AND POLICE TO BLOOMFIELD

Mayor Harry E. Newell Feels Ideas Might Be Exchanged

Mayor William H. Williams will transmit to Fire Chief Alex Reid and Police Chief George Spatz an offer of Mayor Harry E. Newell, Bloomfield, making available to local firemen and policemen the facilities of the fire tower in Bloomfield and instruction in the use of gas masks.

While Belleville firemen have constructed their own tower in the rear of Washington avenue headquarters, it is believed they may accept the invitation to swap experiences with their Bloomfield brother smoke-eaters.

Music Awards

Awards to the best piano pupil in each group were made recently at a special joint meeting of the Round Table and the Junior Round Table. Miss Mildred Drentlau, director of the music clubs, awarded the 1937-38 prizes as follows: in the junior division, Alan Heath, a statuette of Chopin; and Billy Bouvier, one of Schubert; Doris Heath was the most deserving pupil in the older group, her prize being a book about the opera Lohengrin.

First in the repertoire contest was Doris Kessel, who played eight pieces from memory.

Relief Talk

F. B. Elwell, field secretary of the New Jersey State Taxpayers' Association, spoke at a meeting of the Belleville Taxpayers' and Civic Association in School 8, last night. Relief was one of the subjects discussed.

BREEZE BREEZES ALONG

Hal Breeze and his orchestra have been engaged to play at the pre-Christmas dance to be held in the Parish Hall of St. Anthony's Church on Saturday evening, December 17. Novelty tunes will be a feature.

Brother And Sister Meet At Reunion After Thirty-Eight-Year Separation

Stuart Family Comes Together At The Lennox Home

A reunion dinner Friday night of the Stuart family, formerly of Forfarshire, Scotland, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Lennox of Overlook avenue, was the culmination of a joyful meeting of a brother and sister who met after being separated for thirty-eight years. The sister is Mrs. David Young of Sioux Lookout, Saskatchewan, and the brother, Alec G. Stuart of Jacksonville, Fla. The meeting of the couple was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Lennox when they visited the Stuart's in Florida a year ago.

Miss Lillian Stuart of Jacksonville was toastmaster. Brilliant in its outline of tiny beach shells, the dining table's center represented a Florida shore dotted with bathers and rac-

Has Leading Role

Miss Grace Zusi of Montclair avenue, Newark, who will have one of the leading roles in the Belleville Little Theatre Guild's presentation of "Apron Strings" by Dorrance Davis to be held in the Belleville High School, on Saturday evening, November 19.

TEACHERS FILL OFFICERS' LIST

Miss Kathryn N. Conklin Is Named President Of Organization

In addition to Miss Kathryn N. Conklin, who was recently elected president of the Belleville Teachers' Association, as announced last week in the Belleville News, other officers are as follows: Edward Coughlin, vice-president; Miss Marie D'Alessio, treasurer; and Miss Ruth Freedman, secretary. Leo Hood represented the teachers at the New Jersey State Teachers' Convention in Atlantic City.

A few committees have been appointed and plans have been made to publish a monthly bulletin, which the president thinks would serve the purpose of keeping the teachers informed.

Miss Conklin has served the association as treasurer previously and has had experience which should make her able to carry out a progressive educational and cultural program to improve the opportunities for the school children and adults of Belleville. She was president of her class at Newark State Teachers' College and led the Newark Junior Business and Professional Women's Club during 1936 and 1937.

Miss Conklin is a member of the Bach Society of New Jersey, Forest Hill Presbyterian Choir and Counsellor of Music at Camp Kalmia, Newark Girl Scout Camp. She is a graduate of Public School Number 2 and Belleville High School. At present she is a member of the School Number 9 faculty.

Services For Giovanni Gallo

Funeral services were held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in St. Anthony's Church for Giovanni Gallo, 102 Franklin street, who died Wednesday, last week. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, North Arlington.

Mr. Gallo, who was seventy-two, was born in Padula, Italy, and came to the United States about forty years ago. He received a Ph. D. degree at Columbia University in 1904 and operated the Rex Pharmacy at the Franklin street address. Formerly of Newark he had lived in Belleville over two years.

He is survived by Mrs. Maria Gallo, a daughter, Mrs. Nicholas J. Colaninno, 115 Tappan avenue, and a sister, Assunta, in Italy.

Unnecessarily Restrictive

"In view of the resolution referred to, the type of place operated and the character of the neighborhood, I believe that condition imposed upon the license is unnecessarily restrictive. The beer garden cannot be operated after 11:30 P.M. Up to that hour the operation of the beer garden should not unduly interfere with the peace and quiet of adjoining neighbors. Restriction (b) (beer garden) will, therefore, be set aside as unreasonable."

Referring to condition (a) of the restrictions: "That all noise and all music, singing and other forms of entertainment whatsoever shall cease at 12:00 midnight, except Sunday morning when it would cease at 2:00 A.M. and not be resumed until the hour fixed by local regulations when sales of alcoholic beverages may be made again," Mr. Burnett said:

"The premises in question are located in a section of Washington avenue which formerly was residential, but which is now a mixed residential and business district, five buildings on this block being devoted to business and being devoted to business and

"APRON'S STRINGS" IS NEXT GUILD PRODUCTION

Will Be Presented At High School Tomorrow

A young man with the ideas of twenty years ago and a girl with those of tomorrow, who fall in love, are a rich source of inspiration for "Apron's Strings," the laughable play, which the Belleville Little Theatre Guild will present tomorrow evening, at 8:30 o'clock in Belleville High School.

As the play progresses it develops that Daniel Curtis was thoroughly fortified for any condition that might arise in life—at least he thought he was. He certainly had his mother's advice covering all occasions, and when one meets Daniel he's discovered to be a most impeccable person. But love seems to take a special delight in upsetting such paragons of perfection, and when Barbara Olwell comes into Daniel's life his hard and fast principles receive a terrible jolt and he almost loses her, until he decides to rid himself of his inhibitions.

Besides stirring the risibilities to the highest pitch, this hilarious comedy contains much food for reflection. It was indeed a happy thought on the part of the author to present his philosophy in comedy form.

The cast for the play will be made up of Louise Carissimi, Barbara Olwell; Grace Zusi, Mrs. Olwell; Arthur Flynn, Mr. Olwell; Gary Vanderbilt, Daniel Curtis; Jeanette Feldmann, Hester; Edna Washburn, Inez Wakefield; and Joseph Distasio, Ezra Hunniwell.

BURNETT LIFTS RESTRICTION ON BEER GARDEN

Affirms One Restriction Of Town Placed On Chateau

D. Frederick Burnett, commissioner of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission, in a decision handed down recently as regards an appeal of the Chateau Company, Inc., 170 Washington avenue, near Rutgers street, to have restrictions lifted as placed on it by the Town Commission, says that the part of the restrictions pertaining to operation of a beer garden "is unnecessarily restrictive."

Mr. Burnett says in part: "The purpose of this restriction is to confine sales to the interior of the licensed premises and forbid sales in a so-called beer garden which exists between the front line of the building and the street line." The beer garden, he says, was formerly conducted by the Chateau but was voluntarily discontinued in 1935, "apparently as a result of complaints as to noise."

"In addition to the testimony of members of the family residing in the building on the north, one witness who resides across the street testified at the hearing on appeal that, while the beer garden was in operation, she was annoyed by unnecessary noises. A resolution of the Board of Commissioners, adopted on July 24, 1934, referring to beer gardens, provides: 'That no beverages shall be disposed, nor patrons shall be permitted to use any of the aforesaid Beer Gardens after the hour of 11:30 P.M. This resolution shall not prohibit licensed premises to which the aforesaid Beer Gardens are an adjunct from operating indoors until the hours prohibited by ordinance.'"

Laurel And Hardy

William Kitchell, 496 Franklin avenue, signed a contract with a New York moving company to move a piano from that city to his home recently.

It arrived Tuesday, but the movers refused to unload it until Kitchell paid the charges of transportation.

"O.K." said Kitchell. He paid up.

The movers deposited the piano on the sidewalk and were about to depart, considering their work done, when Kitchell telephoned police of the procedure.

Patrolman Fletcher was detailed and, in his own persuasive manner, saw that Kitchell's piano reached the proper place in his home.

ELKS GIVE PARTY TO HARGREAVE

Over 150 Were Present At Affair Held Saturday

Over 150 Elks and friends attended a testimonial affair given Philip Hargreave in the club grill Saturday evening. There was an orchestra on hand to enliven the occasion. William Gerhardt and a large committee were in charge.

Officers of the lodge Monday evening attended a dinner given in honor of the Charity Ball which the Elks will give tomorrow evening in the auditorium. There will be a floor show and a ten-piece swing band.

While the Elks' Bergen County League bowling representatives have thus far failed to hit their stride, the Morris & Essex League combine is leading the league with nine wins and three losses. In this league Belleville has topped such sterling teams as Montclair A. C., Elizabeth Jr. Order, Charter Club and last year's champion club, Irvington Moose.

In defeating Irvington, Belleville scored a clean sweep, hitting a total of 1014 in the middle game.

Second Lecture

The second in the new lecture series on "Jews in Other Lands" was held Wednesday night in the auditorium of Congregation A.A. A., 317 Washington avenue. Rabbi Elias Levi, Grand Rabbi Desigee of India addressed a capacity audience.

Rabbi Levi said that Jews played a large part in the up-building of India. He cited the fact that the liberal professions in India are inviting Jews to enter into them.

Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin, who is arranging the series, announced that the next lecture will be held Wednesday night, December 14, with a representative of Iraq as the guest speaker.

Samuel J. Kogan, chairman, conducted an open forum after the lecture.

Horatio Alger Tale Never Had Better Set-up Than Local Firm

Tops In Products, Loyalty And Co-operation Spell Firm's Success

Building a business that stretches to the far corners of the earth on the fundamental purpose—betterment of living conditions for mankind at work or at home—Wallace & Tiernan Co., Inc., Tuesday climaxed its twenty-fifth anniversary with a formal dinner at the plant for prominent New York and New Jersey officials and industrialists.

From a modest shop with about 600 square feet of space at 136 Liberty street, New York, where $20 a month covered rent, power, light and gas, the company has grown until today its activities extend into every phase of daily life and to fifty-seven countries abroad.

Charles Frederick Wallace, a mechanical engineer, who had studied at the University of Michigan, and Martin Farnan Tiernan, who had taken up sanitation at Massachusetts Institute of Technology started the business—sans capital. While Mr. Wallace worked on gadgets in the New York shop, Mr. Tiernan held various outside jobs earning money to put back into the business that was destined to become world-famous in one-quarter century.

Today the Wallace & Tiernan plant stretches over acres in Belleville, a towering, five-story, modern structure, surrounded by sundry other buildings that house offices and workshops for its affiliated companies. In London an extension has been completed to Wallace & Tiernan, Ltd., and two plants are located in Canada.

Inauspicious Start

Back in 1913, one desk, one typewriter, one telephone, one chair and stool constituted the office furniture—all second hand. Two small lathes, a few bench tools—odds and ends picked up at random places and pieces—represented the shop equipment. Four employees—Messrs. Wallace and Tiernan, Joe Mancuso and "Bunk" Sarli—constituted the entire force. There was no need for costing, accounting, stockroom or shipping departments—nor stenographers, clerks, porters and others. Indirect labor was unheard of. Time clocks were unknown. Overtime was a daily sport. Expenses were limited by cash on hand.

Today five floors, extending two long blocks are occupied by offices in Belleville. In London an extension has just been finished to the Wallace & Tiernan, Ltd., where engineers, it is said, considered building upwards, downwards, sideways or round the corner to accommodate a huge staff.

In 1912 the Jersey City Water Department was considering a hypochlorite plant to purify a small stream, which emptied into the Dover river, the source of the city water supply. Some time prior statements had been made that pure chlorine gas was available in commercial form and could be used to sterilize water. Finding all reports favorable, Mr. Tiernan suggested to Superintendent Griffin of the Jersey City Water Supply, that he should install a liquid chlorine plant instead of a hypochlorite plant. Wallace & Tiernan quoted him $150 installed, and the first order for a chlorine gas plant was given. This was installed and put in operation on February 22, 1913, thus marking the beginning of production of chlorinators, later to be installed with automatic devices to introduce chlorine into water supplies, the first inquiry for which came from Stamford, Conn.

The apparatus was designed, built, installed and worked even better than had been hoped for or guaranteed.

At the onset of the World War Wallace & Tiernan sold a large number of installations for use overseas by the British Army. Many of these were installed on special trucks equipped with pumps and filters and proved a great advance over the use of chloride of lime. When the United States entered the war there was a great demand by the army for many equipments for camps and cantonments.

Diversified Interests

And from that humble plant in New York, the firm grew until today the water one drinks is protected by chlorination, made practical by Wallace & Tiernan Chlorinators.

The bread one eats is made from flour mated by the twin processes—Novadel and Agene—products of the organization, and the economic savings to the flour milling industry are translated into the reduced cost in the price of a loaf of bread. A breakfast orange is protected from decay in transit by Decca—another development of the company.

As families swim at clubs, and summer resorts and children swim in school and college pools, they are secure in the knowledge that the control of water-borne infections and prevention of bathing beach pollution is a major performance of Wallace & Tiernan chlorinators.

Another daily accomplishment of the company is the protection of shellfish breeding areas, sterilization of food processing water and often sterilization of food products themselves.

Wallace & Tiernan equipment reaches out as economic aids to industry to control bacteriological growth in paper mills, fuel conservation and elimination of disagreeable labor tasks through elimination of condenser slimes fouling in central power stations.

The textile industry has turned to the company for equipment for the control of bleaching processes.

Through the invention of battery operated flashing lighted aids and the development of nautical radio beacon synchronizing equipment, the hazards of navigation on the high seas and in coastal waters have been materially reduced.

An outstanding contribution to medical circles is the development by Wallace & Tiernan laboratories of a new disinfectant—Azochloranid—for the prevention of wound infections.

From the Wallace & Tiernan Laboratories have come major mechanical improvements in beverage dispensing systems, which make it possible for brewer and beer dispenser alike to serve the public demand for beer, a product that need no longer be exposed to the possibility of bacteriological contamination as was ever present in the past.

"It can be safely said that every Wallace & Tiernan activity has a direct bearing on the health and comfort of practically every man, woman and child in America and, in some degree, the population of fifty-seven countries abroad," says Mr. Tiernan. "No day passes but what each of us, knowingly or unknowingly, comes in contact with some activity of Wallace & Tiernan and its affiliated companies."

As a civic contribution to the town the company sponsors the Belleville News, dedicated to a progressive Belleville. Its other similar smaller activities in the interest of others are conspicuous by the lack of publicity given them and the reticence of the company officials to speak of them.

Mr. Wallace muses still in his madgen bedded office as did Thomas A. Edison, his friend, in West Orange, not far away.

HONOR LEIGHTON AT BANQUET

Detective Captain Given Revolver And Purse By Friends

About 120 attended a testimonial dinner given Thursday evening to Detective Captain Elmer Leighton of the Police Department at the Ace High Pleasure Club in Watessing avenue.

Mayor William H. Williams was toastmaster, and the speakers included Municipal Judge Everett B. Smith, Corporation Counsel Lawrence E. Keenan, Commissioners Louis A. Noll, Joseph King and Patrick A. Waters, Belleville; Chief Mason, Essex County Prosecutor's staff, and Sergeant Kenney, Newark Police. Director of Public Safety William D. Clark was unable to attend, being confined to his home with illness.

A service revolver and purse were presented to Leighton. Leighton was appointed to the police force by Public Safety Director Clark in 1927. He was made a sergeant in 1930 and shortly after promoted to a captaincy. He was retired from the department in 1935 for physical disability, but obtained reinstatement this summer. He heads the detective bureau.

Leighton's rapid promotion came largely as a reward for work in the capture of a youth and killed two men in a holdup.

Leighton also conducted an investigation which resulted in the roundup of an arson gang engaged in setting fires in the Silver Lake section. Leighton made thirteen arrests and there were eleven convictions. He also rounded up a gang of auto thieves.

STUNNING EFFECTS
W.&T. DINNER

Not A Detail Missing
For Pleasure
Of Guests

Decorations and the floral arrangements at the Wallace & Tiernan Company, Inc., silver anniversary formal dinner Tuesday evening in the company cafeteria were stunning and arranged in a manner becoming the concern.

"Everything was done to the minutest detail for the pleasure and entertainment of guests," was the general opinion of all who attended.

"Why we were even met at the door by attendants who parked our cars," said one, adding, "and, do you know there was a mechanic on hand in case any car should develop mechanical or tire trouble."

Cedar trees, ferns and silver and green festoons of Smilax predominated. Blue velvet drapes adorned the elevators. Chrysanthemums predominated as flowers with beautiful basket floral arrangements from many admirers of the two pioneer industrialists.

In keeping with the anniversary, silver decorations were carried out for the tables, seating eight. There were appropriate silver candle sticks on each table with white candles attached to which were silver ribbons in bow effect.

At just the right moment, as dinner was concluded and Mr. Tiernan took up his job of presiding, the subdued lights of the candles were augmented by brighter lighting effects.

Present to the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. Tiernan received guests in Mr. Tiernan's office. Cocktails were served guests on the third floor of the general offices where two portraits of each of the heads of the company were suspended on the walls of the reception room.

Messrs. Wallace and Tiernan will each select a portrait to adorn the walls of their respective homes while the remaining portraits will be placed in the general office building.

As a fitting touch to the splendid arrangements WOR orchestra played during the evening and Florence Wyman, WOR songstress, rendered several musical numbers.

buildings used as residences. The Town Hall is located on the south. The premises in question are located between a two-story residence on the south, and a two-story building used as a store and residence on the north.

"The members of the family residing on the second floor of the building on the north have made numerous complaints to the Belleville police over a period of years against the present license and prior licensees, because of alleged unnecessary noise. As to the majority of these complaints, police reports show that no violations were found to exist when the officers arrived, but it does not follow that the complaints were, therefore, entirely without foundation. It appears that, as a result of said complaints, the following condition was inserted in appellant's license for the fiscal year 1936-1937: 'This license is granted on condition that all musical apparatus and singing be discontinued on the licensed premises from 11:30 P.M. until legal closing time.' The same condition was imposed for the fiscal year 1937-1938. Appellant took no appeal from the condition imposed in 1936 and 1937. It should be noted that the condition imposed for the present fiscal year extends the time when music and singing may be permitted on the licensed premises by one-half hour on six days of the week and by two and one-half hours on Saturday night and Sunday morning, beyond that previously allowed," he explained.

Holds Condition Fair

"Appellant contends that the first condition is unfair because it reflects upon the management and forces some of its patrons to leave early for the purpose of visiting other taverns in Belleville which are unrestricted as to noise, music, singing and entertainment. It produced witnesses who reside in the home to the south of the licensed premises who testified that they have not been annoyed by the manner in which the premises were conducted. I have no hesitancy in believing that appellant conducts a high class place of business. The evidence clearly shows that it does. The sole question is whether the condition imposed as to conduct of appellant's place after 12 o'clock midnight on every week day is reasonable under the circumstances. In view of the close proximity of the building to the north, I cannot say that the first condition is unreasonable. Clearly, it is intended to permit the residents of said building to obtain necessary peace and quiet during the early hours of the morning. The fact that other persons in the neighborhood do not complain is immaterial. Complaints as to noise are subjective, rather than objective. What annoys one may not disturb another. The extent to which a local issuing authority may go in attempting to adjust the delicate question as to what action should be taken to protect the rights of single objecting neighbor is largely a

A distinguished list of guests numbering about 200 Tuesday night attended the formal dinner given by Charles F. Wallace and Martin F. Tiernan in the Wallace & Tiernan Co., Inc., cafeteria in celebration of the firm's silver jubilee.

Resplendent in its exquisite floral decorations the room presented a lovely setting for Belleville's outstanding social event of all times. There were dignitaries from all parts of the country and some from foreign lands.

"W&T 25 Years Ago—And Since" was the subject of talk by Judge Charles E. McMahon, who prepared the incorporation papers of the company on November 13, 1913. Mr. McMahon traced the growth of the company from "its inauspicious beginning, amid humble surroundings, a few battered chairs and a broken down lathe on the fourth floor of a building in which sunlight scarcely ever found its way" to the present modern, massive structures in Belleville, Canada, England and Germany which produce life-saving products for the world.

"I tried to find something on which to base the formation of the company," he said. "But there just wasn't much there. The old chairs, the test tubes on the shelves, the lathe—not much of importance—so I went home to think. I came back. I had it. Good-will would set Wallace & Tiernan Co., Inc., in motion."

"In those days Mr. Wallace had that same far away look in his eyes as he glanced at the bottles on the shelf that he has today. He could see in the liquids and other materials there something that no one else could see pictures that, with proper research, could be developed into life-saving products for humanity all over the world. Today the dreams have come true in substantial manner."

"Mr. Tiernan was the business man and salesman who could visualize that a world was waiting to be sold the dreams of his partner. Thus on the thirteenth day of the thirteenth year there was launched this company. When the men went to work on November 14 there was nothing different than there had been on November 12 so far as work was concerned. It was the same hard grind. Probably neither of the two men, who have built this great industry here, had any idea of expanding to such size. They were engineers experimenting with ideas that they thought might benefit mankind. The good-will was not underestimated."

The judge pointed out as he scanned the incorporation papers, which he had resurrected from a "musty file," that a clause not uncommon to most corporations established Wallace & Tiernan Co., Inc., in New York State in "perpetuity."

"The clause doesn't mean a thing," he said. "But this company is well on its way to continue as long as it wants to continue—for posterity, if you will"—and a note of sadness was apparent when he said "perhaps it will celebrate 100 years from now its centennial celebration honoring matter of discretion, and a restriction imposed upon licensed premises for the purpose of protecting the peace and quiet of a single objector will not be set aside unless it appears to be wholly unreasonable. I find that there is a reasonable basis for imposing the first condition in this case and, therefore, the action of respondent as to the first condition is affirmed."

The appeal was made by Edward J. Abramson, attorney for the Chateau.

at that time the memory of the founders."

Colonel Willard Chevalier, publisher of "Business Week" and vice-president of McGraw Hill Publishing Company, struck a note of encouragement to the youth of America when he pointed out that there lies ahead for young men and women who are willing to work and who have the mental capacity opportunity as great as has always existed in America.

Speaking on "Business Opportunities 25 Years Ago—and Today" he said: "Scientific research, a continuing and increasing supply of cheap power and salesmanship" are the three essentials that will lead to the open door of success for those who recognize the value of the tie-up.

"On my way out here tonight," he added, "I thought of just one thing in which there is opportunity. The whole field of electronics, the chemical industry, flight and aviation, in general, the sciences. You ask me to tell you where there is opportunity. The ground work for it is being laid in the research laboratories all over the country—in humble, obscure places at this very minute to build future industrial plants."

Speaking of inventive ideas and scientific research, he mused that "the person does not get far in this world who knows where he is going."

The colonel pointed out that the United States should educate coming generations to think along lines of opportunity to the individual, rather than have young folks believe avenues to success are closed and that they must accept what is offered them. He quoted the pessimistic views of a famous author, back before the turn of the century, who predicted dire business conditions such as being promulgated in some circles today.

"Just so long as we educate the youth of America in the exaltation of individual responsibility to the community and to the belief in work for self-support and self-respect, rather than the exaltation of the community responsibility to the individual, just so long will opportunity exist in as great measure today as it has in the past."

"And just as surely as we follow the trend of the times to lead American youth in thinking more of the responsibility of the community to the individual, just so long will we close the door of opportunity to them," he concluded.

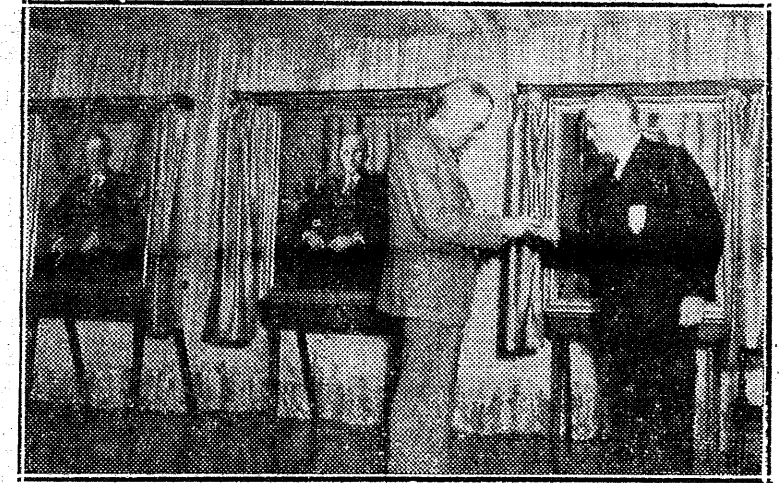

Mr. Tiernan presided and recounted the history of the firm, telling of a trip around the world during which he encountered Wallace & Tiernan Co., Inc., products in all parts of the globe, especially chlorinator apparatus to which is attributed the savings of lives of thousands of people through the purifying of water. He told of the early struggles of the company and how he and Mr. Wallace had paired off when both had found themselves out of work. They lived together in New York with other college graduates and budgeted their meager earnings to continue with their research work.

"From the very beginning," said Mr. Tiernan, "we never borrowed money and we never bought anything unless we could pay for it. 'We used the banks only to deposit our money and hoped it would be there when we went to get it,' he jokingly remarked.

Seated at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Tiernan, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Corbin, Mayor and Mrs. William H. Williams, Judge McMahon and Colonel Chevalier.

The menu consisted of grapefruit baskets, cream of mushroom, cutlets of lobster, tartar sauce, brown bread and cheese, supreme of chicken, browned potatoes in jackets, fresh peas, princess salad, french dressing, cheese straws, cream and ices, petit fours, all embellished in the twenty-five year effect, coffee and salted nuts. Among the guests were: Joseph Mancuso and Salvatore Sarli, the first two employees of the company; Dr. Charles E. North of the Consulting Sanatorium, William Brush, consulting engineer of the New York Water Supply Commission, Harry Croft, New Jersey state sanitary engineer; Reeves Newsom, president of the American Waterworks Association; Loren Wood, attorney; Ivan Olin-sky and Sidney Dickinson, both members of the National Academy of Arts and Letters; and many prominent Jersey and New York persons.

Armistice Day Program Was Feature Of The Affair

An excellent amateur show that might well have done credit to professionals was staged by Wallace & Tiernan Dramatic Club with George Haggerter acting as master of ceremonies in the main garage on Friday afternoon from 1:30 until 3 o'clock. Elwood P. Russell was chairman.

Acts were as follows: songs, "Yodeling Cowboy" and "Home on the Range," John Connors, shipping department; dance, military tap, Helen Salisbury, accompanied by William Mumford, accounting; song, "Glow Worm," Edna Baun, accounting, accompanied by Mrs. S. E. Gillies, W. & T. export sales; imitations, Jews harp, siren, Donald Duck, a dog crying, Joe Penner and a chicken, Ellen Jackson, accounting; song, Henry Olandt, engineering, accompanied by Miss D. T. Salpaugh, credit; one-act play, "The Florist Shop," Peggy Stone, export sales; song, "Thine Alone," Elizabeth Haas, accompanied by Mrs. Gillies; tap dance, Rita Killen and Margaret Phillips, credit, accompanied by band.

Song, "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody," James Lukowiak and Helen Clarkie, accounting and order, accompanied by Miss Salpaugh; saxophone solo, "Roses of Picardy," Earl Doney, repair; magician, William Henderson, secretary to Mr. Orchard; song, "Indian Love Call," Marie McLean, accounting, accompanied by Mrs. Gillies; dance, John Fagan, brazing, accompanied by band; song, "Three for Jack," John Fredericks, cost; toe dance, Sheila Arnold, accounting, accompanied by Mr. Mumford; song, "True Confession," Betty Flader, accounting, accompanied by Mr. Mumford; song and dance, Grace Zusi, order, accompanied by Adolph Kritte and band.

Song, "Can't You Hear Me Calling, Caroline," Frank Haskell, drafting, accompanied by Miss Salpaugh; Barnacle Bill, song and act, Mr. Haggerter, Dr. John Baker and Thomas Grant, followed by orchestra selections.

Awards were made to John Connors, John Fagan, Rita Killen, Margaret Phillips, James Lukowiak and Helen Clarkie for the best presentations.

The orchestra was composed of Norbert Leonard, cost; William Riskey, garage; Mr. Doney, repair; John Merbler, drilling; Arthur Campbell, engineering; and Mr. Mumford, engineering. William McGonigle, inspection, presented a skit that was extremely entertaining.

Dancing was enjoyed from 3 until 5 o'clock. Friday's program started at 9:30 a.m. with factory and offices open. From 9:45 until 10:35 Mr. Wallace and Mr. Tiernan and their department heads were at their desks. Assembly took place in the main garage at 10:45. From 10:50 until 10:58 war time remembrances in song and music were rendered by the W. & T. Glee Club, under direction of Harold Frederic. At 11 o'clock there were two minutes of silence in commemoration of Armistice Day. Taps were sounded and a song, "Soldiers' Chorus," given by the Glee Club.

Remarks were made by Mr. Tiernan and William J. Orchard, general manager, talked on "The Twenty-fifth Birthday of W.&T.—What It Means to Me—What It Means to You."

Portraits Presented
Presentation of Jubilee portraits painted by Ivan G. Olin-sky and Sydney Dickinson, National Academy artists, were made to Messrs. Wallace and Tiernan by Joseph Mancuso, the company's first employee. Responses followed from the executives who received the gifts. Mr. Tiernan then presented service pins, awards for the suggestion contest and camera club awards. Dr. John Baker, master of ceremonies led in group singing. The Glee Club entertained at various times during the program.

From 12:30 until 2:30 a buffet luncheon was served on the first floor of the south building which was artistically decorated as was the main garage building.

Also during the day there were table tennis exhibitions in the recreation room and athletic events.

There was a boxing exhibition (Continued on Page 3)

UNVEIL NATIONAL
ARTISTS' WORK
AT JUBILEE

Portraits Made Here
Cause Comment In Art Circles

Four marvelous portraits, two each of Martin F. Tiernan and two of Charles F. Wallace, have just been completed by two members of the National Academy of Artists, Ivan G. Olin-sky and Sidney Dickinson, and presented to the company heads by employees.

One portrait of each executive will be placed in the company offices. The executives in a way choose the one they like best to place in their respective homes.

The work of the artists has caused considerable comment in art circles. This believed to be the first time that two such prominent artists have worked jointly on two similar portraits. At the present time the portraits are on display in the Wallace & Tiernan reception room in the main office building. They were viewed for the first time Friday at the open house party and again Tuesday evening at the formal dinner.

"I don't know of anything that I would want more than this gift," said Mr. Wallace as he was made aware of the presentation. The same sentiment was expressed by Mr. Tiernan.

Just prior to the presentation Mr. Tiernan spoke briefly of Armistice Day. He said in part: "Not only should we think of those who gave the last full measure of devotion to their country, we should also have in our hearts a fervent prayer of Thanksgiving—that this country is a peaceful country. We are a peaceful people. The last thing this country wants is war. We should do all in our power to avoid that kind of a catastrophe, so that taps may never be sounded over an American boy again."

"To many of us there is a grave doubt that the Armistice was really an Armistice with conditions in the world as they are today. Conditions in China, Africa, Spain, South America, seem to indicate that the signing of the Armistice did not have a lasting significance." As Mr. Tiernan reviewed the early days of Wallace & Tiernan, "as partners," he recounted their first sale which netted $50.

"Wallace put it in his pocket for safe keeping and on the way home he lost it," he said.

"And, say, were we on a diet in those days. For ten cents we could get a pretty good breakfast in a place where bread and water was free. Sunday morning we slept late so we saved on one breakfast a week."

In his typical witty manner Mr. Tiernan told of the incorporation of the firm, explaining "we had a lot of papers but didn't know what to do with them so the next day we went to work" (Continued on Page 3) as usual and filed away the papers.

"I think I got my first lesson in salesmanship from our landlord," said Mr. Tiernan. "We had been installing him off for some time because business was poor and collections didn't exist, and he pleaded that he should let us continue where we were because there were no other tenants for place, anyway. The landlord agreed and eventually we paid him."

William J. Orchard stated that Wallace & Tiernan had prospered because the heads of the firm would never consent "to make anything less well than they knew how. Everything had to be the best and profits that might have accrued to the firm were discounted to maintain the policy of the best. Another cornerstone of this business has been the policy of absolute honesty and fair and square treatment of all."

He told how 1,200 employees had found happiness in their work and approximately 6,000 persons are dependent upon Wallace & Tiernan Co. for maintenance as families.

"If the number of persons whose lives are saved by one Wallace & Tiernan product—the elevator—could be assembled in one place over a period of a year they would make a city the size of Newark," he said.

Sixteen Local Youths Are Active At Newark College of Engineering

Sixteen young men from Belleville are among the students enrolled this year at the Newark College of Engineering. They are Bronislaw P. Antonik, 133 Ralph street; Joseph H. Parsons, 132 Hornblower avenue; Ernest E. Kenwell, 439 Union avenue; Harvey Mumford, 10 Oak street; Henry Cataldo, 81 Charles street; Owen B. Olson, 67 Linden avenue; A. Wellesley Earl, 75 Bell street; Geoffrey Powell, 284 Franklin avenue; George Akers, 441 Union avenue; Jack Alpaugh, 67 Bremond street; John E. Idenden, 37 Van Rensselaer street; Charles W. Ferris, 81 Bremond street; Armand L. Rechia, 63 Sanford avenue; Frederick Wellhofer, 171 New street; Wilbert Buck, 477 Franklin avenue; and Charles Russell, 115 Malone avenue.

Russell is the only senior in the group and is expected to be graduated with his class in June, when he will receive a Bachelor of Science degree in Electrical Engineering. Mumford, Earl, Akers and Rechia are also in the Electrical Engineering Department. Mumford, a junior, is editor of the Technician, the college paper, and is vice-president of Beta Alpha Theta fraternity. He was recently pledged to the Society of the Triniton, honor fraternity of the college.

Akers, a freshman, is chairman of the Rifle Club and is also a member of the Radio Club. Earl is treasurer of the sophomore class. Mumford and Earl are both members of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, while Akers and Rechia will be eligible for membership in their sophomore year.

All five electrical engineering students are graduates of Belleville High School. At the local high school, Mumford was a member of the orchestra and band. He was also a member of the Engineering Club and was graduated among the first ten in his class. Earl was vice-president of his graduating class and was active on many class committees.

Cataldo is the only student from Belleville in the Civil Engineering Department. He is in his junior year at the college and is an active member of the American Society of Civil Engineers. Cataldo was graduated from Belleville High School in 1936. He was a member of the band and orchestra.

Antonik, Kenwell, Olson, Powell, Alpaugh and Wellhofer are enrolled in the Mechanical Engineering Department. Antonik and

Jr. Catholic Daughters

It is expected that before long basketball will hold the spotlight for Juniors. The Junior Court has just purchased a basketball and practice will commence shortly.

Eleanor Holland, Patricia Kastner, Marion Silbon, Anna Higgins, Florence Rhodes, Margaret Vreeland, Margaret Hunkele and Ann Kehoe, with their counselor Mary McNulty, spent Election Day hiking to South Mountain Reserve. These girls are all members of Troop 1 and expect to all reports and despite the slightly inclement weather, they had a perfectly grand time.

Troop No. 2 is speedily completing plans for a Thanksgiving Party and Dance to be held on Friday, November 25. All Juniors are invited to this party which will be held in St. Peter's old School Building. It is requested that the girls come in farmer or farmette costume; nothing elaborate is necessary — the simpler the better.

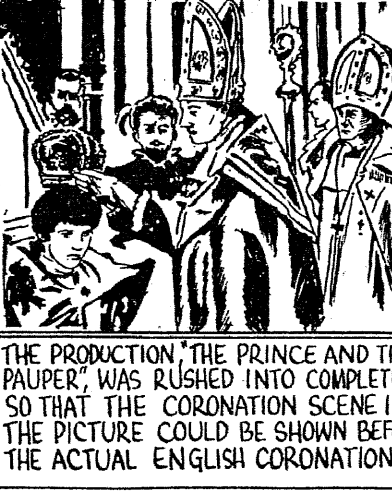

All the girls are busy engaged on Christmas gifts for their various pet charities.

Troop No. 2, Junior Catholic Daughters, held its meeting on Monday evening of this week in the home of Catherine Westlake. Plans were completed for a Thanksgiving Party and Dance to

Social Ice Melts Quickly When You Pass Home Made Candies

An effective and economical cure for bashful guests is a plate of delicious home-made candies on the parlor table. Social ice melts magically when there are sweets to munch, regardless of whether the eaters are six or sixty. You don't need a chef's skill to produce a handsome array of bonbons. Here are short cut, failure proof candy recipes that are guaranteed to honey the tongue of the most bashful beau:

- Chocolate Marshmallow Fudge
- 1 1/2 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
 - 2 cups granulated sugar
 - 1 cup water
 - 3 squares unsweetened chocolate
 - 1/2 cup finely cut marshmallows
- Mix sugar, water and sweetened condensed milk in large saucepan. Cook over medium flame to 237 degrees F. or until mixture will form firm ball when tested in cold water. Stir mixture constantly to prevent burning. Remove from fire, add chocolate cut in small pieces. Add marshmallows. Beat at once until thick and creamy. Pour into buttered pan. When cool, cut into squares.
- Magic Bonbons
- 1/2 cup sweetened condensed milk
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
 - 1 cup sifted confectioners' (XXXX) sugar
- Blend sweetened condensed milk and vanilla. Add sifted confectioners' sugar gradually and continue mixing until smooth and creamy.

To Hold Discussions On Family Life At Club

The Social Service Department of the Woman's Club is sponsoring a series of eight discussions to be held in St. Peter's Hall on Friday evening, November 25.

The girls are busily engaged making scrapbooks and dressing dolls for the youngsters in St. Anthony's Orphanage and expect to visit the Orphanage on Sunday with their Christmas gifts.

Much discussion was held regarding a card party which will be given about the middle of January. Plans are in the formative stage as yet, but it is anticipated that the Juniors of Troops 1, 3, 4 and 5 will patronize this card party, as well as all friends and well-wishers. Committees will be appointed at the first December meeting and it is expected tickets will be ready at the same time so that progress will be well under way by Christmas. The probable date is Tuesday, January 17, but this is subject to change.

Troop No. 1, held its meeting at the home of Veronica McNulty on Tuesday evening, November 15.

Plans for their forthcoming cake sale to be held in St. Peter's old School Building on Saturday morning, December 3, at 10 o'clock were discussed. This sale will be under the supervision of girls who have been Juniors for the past year, Claire Drexler, Marion Davis, Elsie Grum, Veronica McNulty and Christine Berry.

Lions Club Hears Talk On Insured B. & L. Associations

Federal Field Officer Speaks At Forest Hill Field Club

R. K. Bruhn, field representative for the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, Thursday addressed the Lions Club at a luncheon meeting in Forest Hill Field Club on the functioning of an insured building and loan association.

"An insured building and loan association plays such an important part in the social and economic life of a community, that any member of a Lions' Club, in the interest of service to his community, will be interested in hearing about what the Federal Government is doing to insure the savings of thrifty people," he said as he reviewed briefly the various legislative acts affecting the thrift and home financing industry.

He continued "As a result of the many unhappy experiences throughout our banking history, culminating in the extreme hardships of the recent depression, your Government determined to so strengthen our financial structure that our people may be protected fully against such grave losses as they have suffered in the past. To accomplish this, the Congress of the United States has established two great insurance funds. One applies to the commercial banks of the country the other two building and loan associations. The existence of these two powerful insurance corporations, created and supervised by the National Government, means that deposits in commercial banks, or in building and loan associations, which are insured, will be made whole up to $5,000 on any losses which may result from the failure of such institutions.

People Want Security
"There are few things in which people are more interested than the safety of their savings. They want, and are entitled to, a reasonable return in interest on the money they have accumulated as a result of prudence and sacrifice. More than that, however, they want to be sure that their money will not be lost."

"When Congress declared that the time had arrived when the Government should insure thrifty citizens against the loss of their savings, it was commonly said by those who opposed the plan that it was not practical.

"The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, which provides this insurance, was organized because of the necessity of affording protection for the people's savings which would go beyond the resources of individual thrift institutions no matter how sound their management or how conservative their methods. It was established in 1934 and now over 2,000,000 people who have over $2,000,000,000, deposited in over 2,000 institutions throughout the nation enjoy its advantages. The Corporation has a capital of $100,000,000 fully paid and since incorporated has earned and added to its reserves better than $16,000,000 making it a $116,000,000 institution.

The privilege of insurance through the Corporation is extended only to well managed, financially sound and economically operated thrift institutions which have met the requirements of the Corporation and which comply with its regulations. Every institution insured by the Corporation is examined at least once a year by the Corporation, while monthly and annual reports from every insured institution are likewise required. The total insurance protection which any one investor may have in a single institution is $5,000.

"The policy of the Corporation of effecting mergers and consolidations so as to give all associations located in a community an opportunity to insure the accounts of its shareholders, is one of great importance and entitled to unreserved public support.

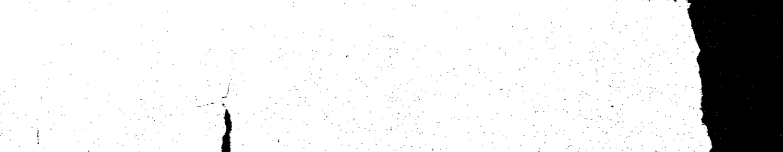

"The value of insurance, lies not alone in the protection it provides against such unhappy developments, but also in its constructive influences. It means not only safety to the savers but because of the very existence of that protection, money is made available more readily for the refinancing of mortgages, for the modernization and repair of homes and for the construction of new homes.

"Every citizen has a personal interest in whether or not thrift and home ownership are encouraged and protected. Men of prudence and intelligence everywhere realize that thrift is fore-sighted preparation for a future that is always uncertain. Throughout the ages the improvident have been exposed to scorn because they have refused to husband their resources. They have been the easy victims of circumstance. Thrift is self-control. Home ownership is one of the oldest and most satisfying of its manifestations. Thrift and home ownership belong together. Without them no local, State or National Government would long endure.

"The Corporation has insured fifty-two units in the State of New Jersey. However, as a result of nine mergers and consolidations, the actual number of insured associations is forty-two.

"Here in Belleville, the Corporation has insured one association, the North Belleville Building and Loan Association."

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1938

W. & T. SILVER ANNIVERSARY

Amid scenes of joyousness—of employees and employers, alike—Wallace & Tiernan Co., Inc., celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary starting last Friday with an open-house party for all employees and extending until Tuesday when a formal dinner was held. Belleville's largest industry, started back one-quarter century ago by Charles F. Wallace and Martin F. Tiernan, young college men, who had lost their jobs, but had vision and courage. In an humble office in New York Mr. Wallace stared at his gadgets and dreamed that one day from his laboratory would be sent forth apparatus designed to save human life—to reduce death from typhoid. Mr. Tiernan dreamed, too, of the day that he could sell to a world waiting for it the very dream that Mr. Wallace could picture in the depths of bottles that cluttered his shelves. Neither one dreamed of the large, modern buildings—of a great Wallace & Tiernan, whose influence would reach to all corners of the earth, whose plants would rise in England, Germany and Canada, with offices in all the principal cities of the United States. Neither one ever dreamed that they would develop radio beacon lights and processes for bleaching flour and preventing decay of fruit in transit and the many other fields to which the business now extends. They just hoped that some day they might sell some of their ideas. They worked hard and long hours. They struggled on a limited budget and finally they sold one of their chlorinator outfits.

Thus was started a business which has made countless hundreds of happy homes in Belleville, has given the town its largest industry. One cardinal rule set down by the two heads of the company was that they would never borrow money; that they would never purchase anything unless they had the funds to pay for it. This, with hard work, good lawyers and a little luck, says Mr. Tiernan, paved the way for success.

Individualism is dead? No one will believe it when a trip is made to this Belleville plant. There today young men are striving and succeeding, just like the Horatio Alger story plots. There today honest, conscientious employees have a chance for advancement for the firm builds its executives from the bottom rung of the ladder.

Messrs. Wallace and Tiernan came up that way. They had tough going for a while, but perseverance and "something on the ball," in a short twenty-five years, records for them a story seldom paralleled except in story books. But success finds both men as they were twenty-five years ago—happy and smiling, always willing to encourage others. Mr. Tiernan and Mr. Wallace twenty-five years ago struck up a partnership and they have never had an argument during their career together. Both enjoy the comfort of happy families. What joy they all must get as they look back over the years—years of accomplishment; years of faith in the American way of climbing the ladder to success. May the next quarter century be even more pleasant for the heads and other members of the great Wallace & Tiernan family.

The annual roll call of the American Red Cross was launched in most places last Friday. In Belleville the Community Chest provides funds for this agency. As quickly emergency arises anywhere the Red Cross can be counted upon to jump into action. Only recently hurricane and flood victims were benefited by the charitable and merciful work of the Red Cross. The public has become accustomed to having the Red Cross on the scene as soon as disaster strikes or in the event of any emergency. The Red Cross deserves all the financial help it can get at any time.

FAIR PAY AND FAIR HOURS

Employers and employees do not seem to be having any difficulty in arranging labor standards to comply with the provisions of the Wage-Hour Law, inasmuch as there are not very many practices of industry that need to be revised in order to conform with the wage-hour law. As a matter of fact the principal industries are paying at least twice as much wages as they are required and the matter of hours does not bring up disturbing problems for re-adjustment.

The object of the Administration to make a little NRA out of a wage and hour arrangement will have to wait on Congress for new appropriations. And these appropriations are not likely to be voted by "the independent Congress."

OCCUPATIONS CHANGE WITH PROGRESS

The chances of a son following in the occupational footpath of his father today are indeed slight—save in the so-called arts and professions.

Not because there is anything wrong with father's occupation or indeed that it would not be desirable to follow—but primarily because it seems to be one of the fundamentals of manufacturing that occupations change with progress.

During the lifetime of the average man and woman today the modern sciences of industrial production have given tremendous impetus to the creation of new jobs—based, of course, on new inventions and new wants.

In slightly more than a quarter of a century the following industries have come into being, to mention but the most prominent: electrical, motion picture, motor car, aviation, radio, chemical, electric refrigeration, oil burner, air conditioning and Diesel power.

These industries have not only created millions of jobs but also new kinds of jobs. Many of the jobs call for the use of new and different kinds of skill—often for specialized training. Very frequently a certain occupation was known and developed but limited to only a few, while today thousands work at occupations where previously only a score of men were employed.

General Motors, for instance, in the manufacture of motor cars alone, has kinds of work unknown thirty years ago—work that requires new skill and dexterity—work with new materials and through new processes—work through machines, primarily, which require a minimum of strength and effort to operate. And nearly as many new kinds of jobs have been created to service motor cars in the hands of owners.

What has happened in the motor car industry has happened in nearly every other industry—new and old—for even industries in existence for years have caught the tempo of the times and have created new and different jobs to manufacture new and better products—and at a minimum of physical labor due to machine servants.

With these new occupations constantly developing in this constantly changing world, youth should more and more find a more exact outlet and capitalization of their natural talents.

EXCHANGING VIEWPOINTS

Several department heads and subordinates from the Town Hall are attending today the convention of the New Jersey State League of Municipalities in Atlantic City. A detailed program has been arranged covering every phase of municipal work and the conferences will be handled capably by outstanding persons in municipal management.

If Belleville representatives pay strict attention, which it is believed they will, the town may benefit from some of the round-table discussions. Perhaps, and this is not an idle boast, either, Belleville's capable force may be able to shed some light on the problems of our neighbors. At any rate the convention should benefit all concerned, and inasmuch as it is held near at home, the cost of "getting the other fellow's viewpoint," will not be very great. Belleville officials have studied the program thoroughly and will attend only the meetings that particularly affect their respective departments.

SCHOOL DAYS

By DWIG

THIS WEEK

by "Guardian"

The views expressed in this column are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

This week in Belleville, its leading industry celebrated its Twenty-fifth Anniversary.

Wallace & Tiernan Co., Inc. have been in Belleville eighteen of their twenty-five years of existence and have become an internationally known organization whose products are used to protect the health and well being of folks all around the world.

It is estimated that six thousand people owe their economic existence to the activities of this company who happen to be the largest employers, the largest business and the largest taxpayers in our Town.

Founded twenty-five years ago this week in a little office six hundred feet square in New York City by Charles F. Wallace and Martin F. Tiernan, the pioneers of a new idea in public health engineering. That idea was chemical sterilization of drinking water. The chemical, chlorine, it was found, could be applied to drinking-water and bacterial life in the water that caused disease could be destroyed but otherwise the water would not be changed in any particular. When they started in business, twenty-eight people out of every hundred in the cities of North America were dying each year from typhoid fever. Today in the cities of North America less than two people out of every hundred thousand are dying each year from typhoid fever and similar intestinal diseases.

A conservative estimate is that if all of the lives that have been saved by the reduction in typhoid fever could be assembled together they would make a population larger than the population of the city of Newark. Certainly this is a marvelous living monument of accomplishment.

The founders of this business are the first to disclaim responsibility for all of this marvelous progress in public health engineering but those who know the field best and have analyzed all of the other accomplishments in public health administration and sanitation, are first to say that the work of Wallace & Tiernan played the leading role in making this wonderful accomplishment possible.

It's a fine thing for Belleville to have such an organization as this in its midst. Scores of homes have been built in Belleville because employees of this organization, brought from all over the country to the main office, are living here.

This organization was one of the first to start group insurance. It was the first in the State of New Jersey to make the hospital insurance plan available to its employees. It was the first industrial organization to sponsor a Boy Scout troop.

Its founders "Fred" Wallace and "Mike" Tiernan were of the first to incorporate in their industrial philosophy the thought that their employees should share in their welfare and year after year throughout every year of their existence there has been a generous distribution among their employees—because the owners wanted to share their prosperity with those who helped make their prosperity possible.

Year after year this organization and its employees have made the largest contribution to the Belleville Community Chest and its worthy of note that of all of the industrial organizations of which we have knowledge, this is the only one in twenty-five years of existence that has not been compelled because of lack of business to completely shut down their production activities.

This organization is happy to be in Belleville. We are sure that Belleville is happy to have this organization located in their midst. It is a fine illustration of the point that Mayor Williams has been trying to make for several years—that Belleville offers to industry the advantage of fine factory sites, a fine labor market, an understanding Municipal administration and a reasonable tax rate.

May Belleville have in the years to come more industries like Wallace & Tiernan.

Aunt Flo's Column

THANKSGIVING DAY is truly a day of Thanksgiving only when shared with those we love. If you have none such left, find one.

Mary G. writes: Dear Aunt Flo—When I married two years ago, my mother being a widow, my husband and I asked her to live with us. My mother has always been very independent and would not do this unless I consented to let her go out to work so that she could pay us for her room and board. I was proud and would not consent to this and so we drifted into one argument after another, until we finally became estranged. She is now boarding with strangers and goes out to work each day. So you see that is worse than if she lived with me. As the holidays draw near, I miss her more and more. She was always such a good mother and I feel as if I have been a wretch. What can I do about it?

Dear Mary: I am so glad you have written me at this season of the year because I feel we can get results much more quickly. Wouldn't it be nice for you to write your mother and ask her to spend Thanksgiving Day with you and your family? Tell her that despite all your little differences you have always loved her and that you miss her companionship. Also, that nothing would make you happier than to hear that she will come.

Judging her from the fine traits of character she displayed in the first place when she refused to accept the hospitality of your home without paying her share, I feel sure that she will again conquer any ill feeling that she may have toward you and that she will come. When she arrives please do not try to go deeply into your past differences but show her that you are grateful to be with her again and let the day be a joyful one.

You might mention that you know you have allowed false pride to govern you in the past but that you have had two years to think things over without her and that you know her way is best. And Mary dear, can't you see her way is actually the best? Have you ever known two women to manage one home in peace? Your mother had always managed her own home—you tell me she was always kind, but independent. Do you suppose she could have come into your home and have been with you all day without bossing the job in some way?

No, of course not. You like to manage your home. So you see how much better it is that your mother should have some outside interests. It tends to make you both happier. Therefore, instead of being ashamed of her ambition, give her the encouragement and praise that she deserves. Meanwhile don't lose any time in getting that Thanksgiving Day invitation on its way and I just hope that your mother will come and you will have the very grandest day that you have ever had.

AND speaking of THANKSGIVING DAY, perhaps there are some other Marys or Toms who have mothers and dads from whom they have been separated, forget the differences and get out those invitations—AND, if they have passed on, find some other mother or dad who may lack a son or daughter to invite them, for THANKSGIVING DAY is only lovely when we share it with others.

AUNT FLO.

SELECT SOLOIST FOR CONCERT

Miss Helen Harbort Will Sing At Glee Club Affair

Director Arthur E. Jacobus announced Monday night at a meeting of the Belleville Glee Club that Miss Helen Harbort, Essex Fells, would be soloist at the concert of the club, Wednesday, December 14, at School No. 10.

Miss Harbort, who is a native of Trenton, is the present soloist of the Union Congregational Church, Upper Montclair. She also was soloist at the last two concerts of the Associated Glee Clubs of Northern New Jersey.

THUMBNAIL SKETCHES

Arthur E. Jacobus lives and has his being in the realm of music. Besides being conductor and director of the Belleville club, he is an organist and choir master of Christ Episcopal Church, Orange, and is accompanist of the Glee Club of the Oranges and of Montclair. At present he is assistant music supervisor at the Clifford J. Scott High School, East Orange.

Mr. Jacobus, who lives at 275 Park avenue, Orange, was born in Newark in 1913. He studied piano at the age of nine and at fourteen studied the organ. At the latter age he became organist of the First Presbyterian Church of Manasquan. He was graduated from Asbury Park High School in 1931 and from New York University in 1936, receiving at the latter school the degree of Bachelor of Science and Music.

He studied organ and theory under Mark Andrews of Montclair.

Samuel H. Cocks, 162 Hornblower avenue, president of the club for the past four years, is an honest golfer. He admits that he never broke 100, but maintains that his best score was 101.

He is serving this year on the committee of the Community Chest drive of this town. He is a member of the choir of Christ Episcopal Church and is also a member of the Craftsman's Club.

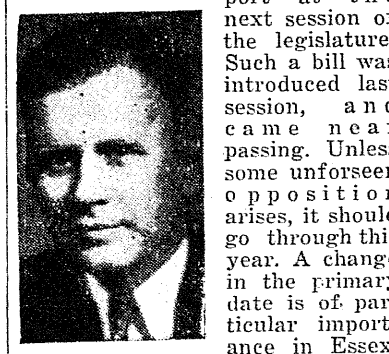

Mr. Cocks was born in the Greenville section of Jersey City, attended Public School No. 20 and Jersey City High School, which is now Dickinson High School. He also attended evening commercial courses at the 23rd Street Y. M. C. A., New York City.

He is at present employed as bookkeeper for a large brokerage concern in New York City. He came to Belleville in 1923. Harry F. C. Howard, 637 Mill street, treasurer of the club, is employed in the National Union Tube Company, which manufactures Cathode Ray tubes. He was born in Newark in 1888, but his appearance belies his age, he seeming to be closer to twenty-five than the actual half-century figure. Most of Mr. Howard's education was received in Pennsylvania. He attended

Meador Wright's PIQUANT POLITICS

The views expressed in this column are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

A law changing the primary elections from September back to May is sure to have wide support at the next session of the legislature.

Meador Wright for all signs to day point to another hard G. O. P. primary fight next year.

Despite the huge Republican majority of last Tuesday, there are few indications of harmony in Essex. The showing made by the Suburban Republican faction last September convinced many that success would be possible with a better selected slate.

Didn't Consult Miller

It is too early to ascertain accurately the trend of opinion in the two major camps, but there are some significant indications. Henry Young, Jr., is said to have appointed Undersheriffs Wilson Kierstead and Frank Miller without consulting County Chairman Percy Miller. The latter is said to resent this.

Furthermore, William H. Seely's bitter attack on Commissioner Pearce R. Franklin for the latter's alleged lack of support of Young and Homer C. Zink, indicates that appeasement is not to be a primary policy of the Clean Government faction.

The impending trial of Franklin along with other Newark officials for misconduct arising from the meadowland scandal is sure to have political repercussions, but not to the extent that would have occurred a year ago when the investigation took place. Should convictions occur and a city election be ordered, then the county picture would be materially changed.

Reviews Seely Charge

As part of the record, it may be of interest to look at the election returns in the light of Seely's charges. Barbour ran far ahead of all of his colleagues. Zink received 32,328 votes; Williamson who headed the assembly got 34,618; Henry Young, 32,351; Philip Lindeman who headed the freeholder trio was given 37,038; William H. Rawson, 34,387; Philip R. Van Dyne, 34,649.

In the suburbs, the totals for the above candidates were: Zink, 39,556; Williamson, 94,314; Young, 89,294; Lindeman, 94,039; Rawson, 93,643; Van Dyne, 93,506. These totals, too, follow a definite pattern. Only here, both Zink and Young ran 5,000 votes behind their colleagues, instead of 2,000 as in Newark. On this basis, it would seem that Seely's attack on Franklin was scarcely justified.

Family Life Problems Today

By Mrs. Julia O. Reiner
Executive Secretary
Community Service Bureau

Steady growth of family social work during the depression years is indicated in the triennial report just issued by the Family Welfare Association of America which has a membership of 225 leading family agencies in the United States and Canada, serving about 75,000 families a month.

The fact that governmental agencies have taken over the greater part of the relief load has made it possible for private agencies to improve and extend service to individuals, the report states. It was pointed out that until recent years such a large proportion of private agency resources was used in meeting emergency needs that relatively little went to betterment work. Private agencies are now putting the emphasis on helping people work out their own problems in such a way as to maintain independence and efficiency.

The trend is especially toward a type of service utilizing newer knowledge about human behavior to enable people to understand their own feelings and attitudes. An increasing number of persons are coming to family agencies for a better understanding of family difficulties. In giving this service, family agencies use about half of their funds to provide for special and emergency needs which cannot be met by governmental agencies.

Because attention is being given primarily to emotional problems, even though services take the outward form of simple and direct assistance in practical difficulties, Lower Merion School, Ardmore, and night school at Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, specializing in mechanical engineering.

Mr. Howard has been employed by the General Electric Co., the R. C. A. Company, Harrison, and the DeForest Radio Company, before securing his present position. He was born at 400 Cortland street, this town, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Howard.

Platinite, Trade Name

Platinite is a trade name for an alloy of iron, containing 46 per cent nickel. This base metal alloy is used as leads for electric light bulbs.

The M. D. Says

HEALTH QUESTION: Is anti-pneumonia serum applicable in all cases of pneumonia?

Anti-pneumonia serum is receiving much publicity, which is desirable, because it is effective in lessening the severity of certain types of pneumonia and has undoubtedly saved many lives.

There are several types of pneumonia, each of which is caused by a specific type of organism. Sera have been perfected which are very effective against certain types of pneumonia. It must be remembered that these sera are specific and therefore effective only for a particular type of pneumonia. All such sera are effective only if used early in the onset of the disease. If the pneumonia is of a type for which we have no serum it is useless to use serum at any time.

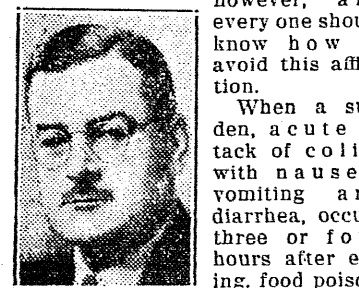

When a physician diagnoses an infection of the upper respiratory tract as pneumonia, he promptly has the case typed to determine whether the pneumonia is of a type which will be arrested by serum treatment. The type is determined by analysis of the patient's sputum. If it is a type against which a serum is effective, the physician will use serum in his treatment of the disease.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINTS

How to Avoid Food Poisoning

By Dr. James A. Tobey

IN this era of sanitation and public health, food poisoning is not a very common occurrence. It can and does happen here occasionally, however, and every one should know how to avoid this affliction.

Dr. J. A. Tobey

When a sudden, acute attack of colic, with nausea, vomiting and diarrhea, occurs three or four hours after eating, food poisoning may be suspected. Some of the times the attack is deferred for as long as twelve hours.

Most persons think of such incidents as "ptomaine" poisoning. Actually, there is no such thing. Ptoamines are chemical substances formed in a food only when it is so spoiled that no one could possibly eat it. These substances, furthermore, generally are not harmful.

Food poisoning is usually due to certain bacteria, or germs, with which a food is contaminated or infected through some one's carelessness. A food need not be tainted to cause trouble, since the offending germs may get on the freshest and purest-looking foods.

What is the remedy? Food poisoning of this type practically always can be prevented by thorough cooking of foods, and by their proper care and refrigeration afterwards. Cases of food poisoning sometimes may occur when prepared foods are exposed to insects and rodents in a warm room, instead of being protected in an ice box.

The value of thorough cooking in the sanitary protection of foods is shown by the fact that pasteurized milk and baked bread virtually never cause outbreaks or individual cases of food poisoning. Commercially canned foods now rarely cause trouble, although a can of food that is bulged should never be used. In home canning, complete sterilization of the food and its container is necessary.

Some cases of food poisoning are due to chemical adulterations of foods. Fruits and vegetables have been sprayed should be peeled, washed before cooking. Danger from this source is reduced when the diet contains plenty of milk, which counteracts the poisons.

If food poisoning occurs, medical care is desirable, as the stomach may have to be emptied. Then a bland diet of toast and milk, or other soft foods until digestive ability is restored.

PASSAIC

CHURCH OF CHRIST,
SCIENTIST
276 Main Street, Passaic.

"Soul and Body" is the Lesson-Sermon subject for Sunday, in all Christian Science Churches.

The Golden Text is: "Yea, in the way of thy judgments, O Lord, have we waited for thee; the desire of our soul is thy name, and to the remembrance of thee."

Among the Lesson-Sermon citations is the following from the Bible: "What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own?"

The Lesson-Sermon also includes this passage from the Christian Science textbook: "The material body and mind are temporal, but the real man is spiritual and eternal. The identity of the real man is not lost, but found through this explanation; for the conscious infinitude of existence and of all identity is thereby discerned and remains unchanged."

LET'S GO!

EYE OPENER! With all its extra value, this Buick sedan lists at $51 less than last year!

Easy on the eye—easy to buy—on General Motors terms!

LOOK at it! Standing still, every inch seems itching to get going. Streamlined along, as you see it here, it's the perfect picture of perfect action!

Now, just put yourself behind that wheel!

Imagine your eyes looking out over that comely, streamlined bonnet—your hand on that ready, instant-answering wheel—your foot on the gas treadle, bossing that ables of the straight-eights!

You hardly know your engine's turning, so quickly does it pour forth its power!

The big bad bumps are like a mill pond's ripples, so smoothly do giant coil springs level them for you!

You look out on the wide, wide world past narrower posts and through deeper, wider windshields and windows—up to 413 more square inches of safety plate glass let you see America first, last and all the time!

Comfort? You've never known the like, what with lower floors, and wider seats, and as much as four inches more to stretch out your legs!

Convenience? It's everywhere—from a gearshift out of knee-way to a direction signal that operates by a simple flip of a switch!

An idle dream, you say? Not a bit of it! This great car's calling pointedly to you when it so plainly invites, "Step in! Let's go!"

Though bigger, though better, though more beautiful than ever, this great Buick is actually lower in price! Lower than last year—lower by far than you'd ever think to look at it—lower even than some sixes!

So, why don't you visit the nearest Buick dealer—just to see the surprising news that's written on his price tags?

THE ONLY
Indispensable
Profession on Earth

That is a broad statement to make, of course, but you will agree that it is just about literally true. All the professions are important to the progress of the world, but Medical Science has been, and is one of the most useful and necessary to mankind.

In no boastful sense is this statement made, but with all reverence for the Doctor's privilege of being the physical "keeper of his brother." The Doctor without that deep inner sense of what he owes his profession and his patients, is most decidedly the exception that proves the rule.

Humility in the knowledge that all the problems of human health have not been solved, walks with your Doctor. Also pride in the strides that have been, and are being made, in this Scientific profession, which is so indispensable to the health and happiness of the world.

From before the cradle and throughout life, the Doctor is your counsellor, friend, health guardian and sometimes life-saver—get acquainted with your Doctor.

ADD FOUR MEMBERS TO LOCAL WOMAN'S G.O.P. CLUB

Plans Are Being Made For Club Annual Christmas Party

The Woman's Republican Club met Thursday afternoon at the Woman's Clubhouse, 51 Rossmore place. The president, Mrs. James K. Alexander presided. Four new members were welcomed, Mrs. Angelina Botto and Mrs. Grace Perry, both 217 Stephen street; Mrs. Edna E. Riepe, 84 Wilber street, and Mrs. Anton Till, 80 Bremond street.

After the business session, Mrs. John F. O'Brien, Jr., honorary president, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Marguerite Mac Donald Carpenter, president of the New Jersey Women Lawyers' Club, who discussed Civil Service. The club will have its annual Christmas luncheon and party at the December 8 meeting, at which time members are to bring canned goods and staple articles of food for two Christmas baskets to be prepared and given by the club to needy families. Each member also is requested to bring a ten-cent gift to exchange with some other member, as a feature of the party. Mrs. Arthur Mayer is chairman of the festivities.

HARTLEY TO PLAY FIREMAN CHAMP

Shuffleboard Match Will Be Played At McKinley's

There will be a shuffleboard match at 9 o'clock Monday evening at McKinley's Tavern, 850 Summer avenue, Newark, between Congressman Fred A. Hartley, Jr., and Jack Schlank, champion Newark Fire Department.

Ladies' Day At Everyman's Meeting

Ladies' Day will be observed at Everyman's Bible Class Sunday Morning at the Masonic Temple at 9:30 o'clock.

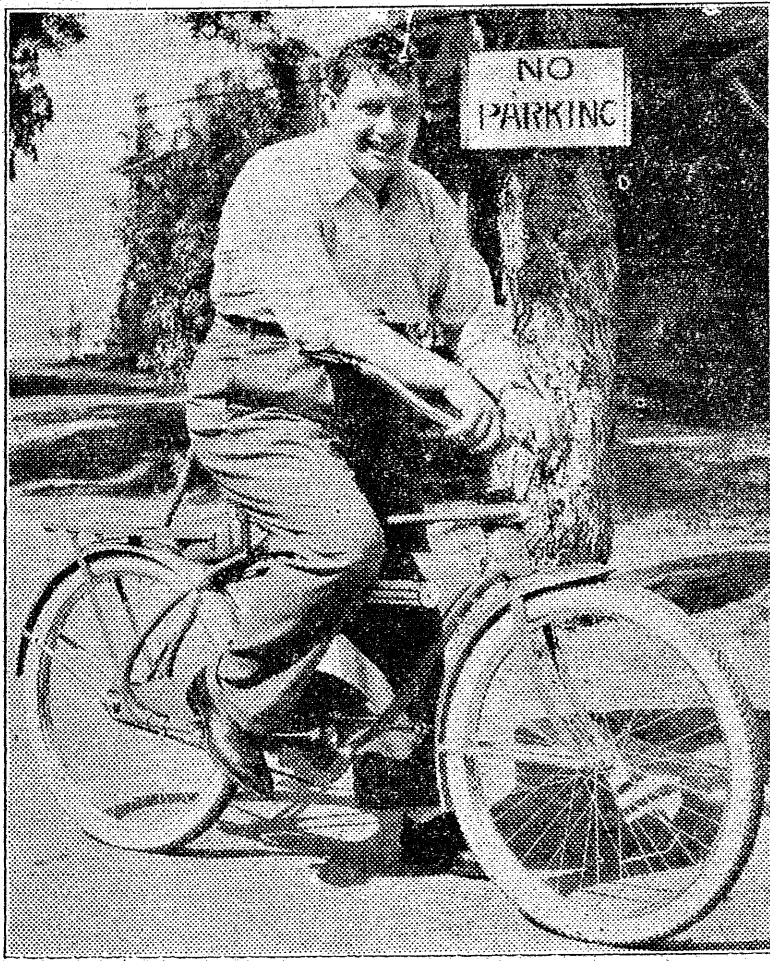

George Tranter, the speaker, has chosen for his subject "First Things First." There will be an appropriate musical program.

Christian Endeavor Notes

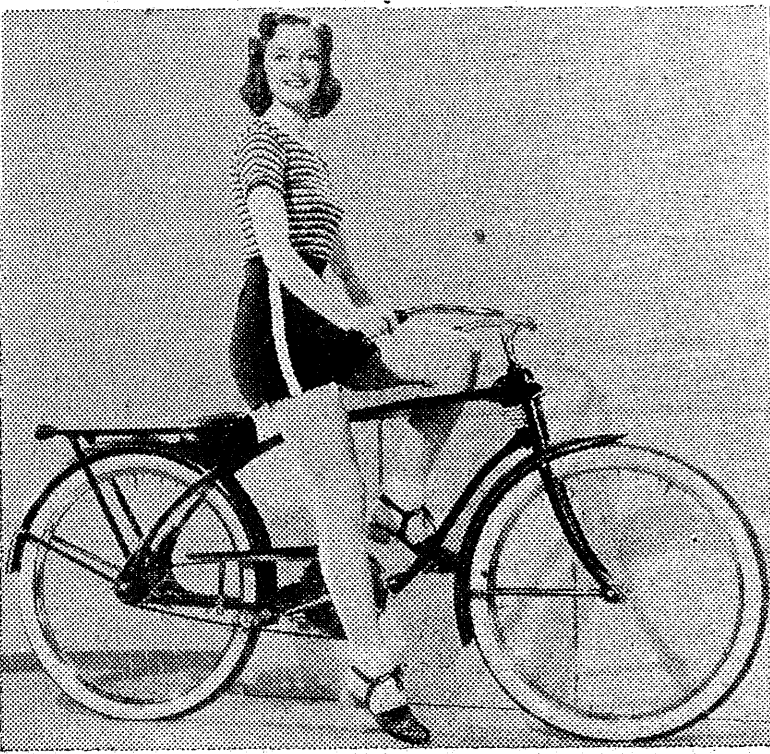

The Young Ladies' Auxiliary will conduct Christian Endeavor Society services at 7 o'clock Sunday night in the Reformed Church. The following Sunday the service will be conducted by two new members, Miss Estelle Lee, who will speak, and her twin sister, Bettie, who will preside. The following members were accepted at the last business meeting: The Misses Gloria Hubert, Verna Holly, Frances Place, Estelle Lee, Bettie Lee and Ruth Wood.

The society, the third oldest in the state, after a serious decline, is rapidly regaining its former membership and activities. In the recent crisis two teams were chosen to compete to raise membership. Robert Lee was chosen leader of one group and Edgar Bloemke, the other. Robert's team is leading five to one.

Continuous Tube Streamlined Bikes

Andy Devine, Universal Pictures star, relaxes and violates "no parking" edict with one of Sears' new streamline bikes between scenes of his new picture, "Swing that Cheer."

Perched aboard one of Sears' de luxe streamliners, Joy Hodges turns on that charm which is causing so much comment in her new Universal picture, "Service Deluxe."

Utilizing a streamlining technique as revolutionary as that which captured the automobile industry, Sears, Roebuck and Co. has this fall introduced a continuous tube streamlined bicycle. A large shipment of the new bicycles has just been received by the local Sears store, according to Manager Ed. Moos. Developed by Sears merchandise development division in conjunction with its manufacturing source the new bike is built on an entirely new construction principle, which not only increases the utility but also adds to the beauty of this two-wheeled vehicle.

In place of the conventional frame of triangular shape construction with as many as eight different bars or metal tubes fastened together in 22 joints, the new Sears bicycle employs a frame which is roughly a parallelogram composed of only two continuous parallel bars moulded and bent to this shape.

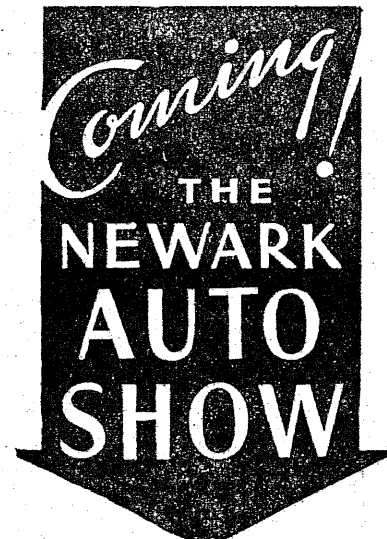

Before putting the new bicycle on the market, Sears testing laboratories subjected it to a series of rigid tests, one with actual riders, averaging 150 pounds in weight, together with a 60 pound weight suspended from the top horizontal bar.

Although it was ridden 13,000 miles over every type of road, the test bike showed absolutely no strain.

Another test was made with the "rock crusher," the standard testing apparatus for bicycles used throughout the country. Although 50 hours on this machine, which involves a series of varied stresses and strains and rough treatment, usually breaks down the average bicycle, the new streamliner withstood the ordeal for approximately 80 hours without a break.

Organize Swimming Team At Public School No. 9

Ten boys who have learned to swim "free style" in the Passaic River, in the neighborhood of School Number 9, have been organized into a group known as the "Roosevelt Avenue Swimming Team."

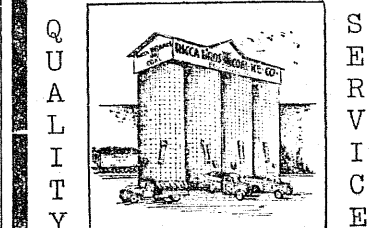

No longer do they dive from old piles driven into the river bank at a dead-end street, but use the glistening tiled pool of the Passaic Y.M.C.A.

The group is made up of seventh and eighth grade boys from the school, and meet at the "Y" twice each month on Mondays, from 4 to 5:30 p.m.

Anthony Piccolini is captain, and Thomas Gryczka, principal, is group leader.
