PRICE FIVE CENTS

SCHOOL BUDGET BEFORE VOTERS ON FEBRUARY 14

Board Keeps Figures
Down As Low As Possible

Belleville voters will be called upon at the annual school election February 14 to approve a local tax budget of $363,112.35, made up as follows: Current expense, $223,062.35; manual training, $6,650; maintenance, $28,500; and capital outlay, $5,000.

While $363,112.35 is the total amount to be voted upon, the amount to be raised by local taxation is actually $484,000.12, debt service being figured at $120,887.77 which does not call for a vote—already having been ratified.

This is only a portion of what it takes to run the local schools, the actual budget of which is $663,236.77. The difference between what is raised locally and what it actually costs to run the schools being paid by state funds and dipping into balances.

Transfer of Balances

The voters will also be called upon to ratify the transfer of $3,000 from the current expense to the capital outlay account and $1,500 from the capital expense to the maintenance account.

In addition to these two latter amounts which will be dug up from the estimated balances from 1938-1939, $11,263.97 will be sliced from the same balances to take care of the penalty tax, deemed uncollectable.

Actually the current expense item for Belleville this year is $495,799.00, an increase of $8,521.81 over last year. Manual training, all figures included, will cost Belleville $11,550, a decrease of $2,150 from last year's total of $13,700. Maintenance stands at $30,000 each year and capital outlay at $5,000 each year. The debt service is $14,149.02 less this year than last year.

In brief the total cost of operating Belleville schools this year will be $663,236.77, an increase of $2,222.79 over last

Balances Helped Out

Use of the large estimated surplus this year against a one last year the board is able to keep the amount to be levied by taxation this year lower than last year's of $484,551.19.

Principal items of increase budget are: Teachers' salaries, $4,149.02; manual training, $2,150; fuel, $1,168; tuition to other schools, $1,000; insurance, $737.19; janitors' salaries, $490; clerk hire, $200; physical education, $100.

School Business Manager Ruel E. Daniels has been authorized to prepare ballots for the election.

Senate Relief Committee Headed By Senator Zink

Local Legislator Also Named
To Other Principal
Sub-Bodies

Senator Homer C. Zink, this town's representative in the State Legislature, was recently appointed chairman of the important Senate Emergency Relief Committee by the new Senate President Robert C. Hendricks, Gloucester, and also was made a member of the committee on appropriations, banking and insurance, elections and education, the most powerful sub-bodies in the Senate.

As chairman of the Senate Emergency Relief Committee, Senator Zink will take the lead in attempting to obtain sufficient funds to finance the $30,000,000 relief bill facing the State at the present time.

Essex Clean Government Assemblymen also fared well in committee appointments in the House, obtaining the chairmanship of eleven of the thirty-six standing committees.

STRIKE ENDS AT EASTWOOD WIRE PLANT

Eighteen Machinists
Back At Work Are
Only Ones Needed

When the Eastwood-Neally Corporation's shop whistle went on a long toot, last Thursday afternoon, it gave rise to a rumor, which spread rapidly over Belleville, that the long-drawn-out strike was at an end. What happened was that the mechanism of the whistle got out of gear and the blast could not be stopped, for several minutes.

So far as the strike was concerned, what happened in that connection, was that the wire weavers who had previously worked not to continue their recognition of the machinists' picket line by refraining from crossing it to go to work, dropped that measure of support and returned to work. Meanwhile about eighteen of the eighty-odd machinists decided they would go back to work in the machine shop. They have have done so, and the management, it is said, feels they are sufficient to carry on the work of the machine shop.

The contention of the management, it is reliably reported, in regard to the number of employees back on the job in the machine shop, is sufficient to carry on the work of that department practically ending the strike of machinists. This is borne out by a declaration of the Court of Chancery that where a sufficient number of employees are working at wages no lower than those reached by the strikers, there is no longer an official strike. The strikers were unable to show that their failure to work had prevented the operation of the machine shop which the management contends is all that is needed to carry on the work of the factory.

It Isn't The Meals,
But 5 O'clock Rising—
That's Something Else

One of the chief locations of charity in Belleville is the back door of St. Peter's Catholic Church rectory. In the annual report of Rev. Joseph M. Kelly, pastor of St. Peter's, it was disclosed this week that over 1,600 free meals were handed out to various and sundry knights of the open road during 1938.

Many memories linger in the mind of Father Kelly, but chief among them is the recollection of how the household's one-night guests used to be routed out about 5 o'clock in the morning. When the vagrant asked where he could get a breakfast around town without being picked up, the answer from some kind-hearted cop was invariably: "Go up to St. Peter's; there's always something to eat there." Father Kelly didn't mind the breakfast part, but five o'clock . . .

Eleanor Bacon-Peck Gives
Lectures In Bloomfield

The first of a series of five lectures on music will be given by Eleanor Bacon-Peck before the Music Department of the Bloomfield Woman's Club Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The subject will be "The Romance of Notation" and will be illustrated with a Sixteenth Century parchment page from a music book used by the monks in the Cathedral of Cordova, Spain. It was brought to Mrs. Peck by a friend who visited the Cathedral, which has since been destroyed by war bombs.

The talk will be followed by a question period and discussion. Mrs. Peck's lecture is of particular interest to members of the Bloomfield club because Mrs. Peck held the position of Music Chairman in that club for several years.

Local Girl Tapped
For Honorary Society

Miss Alice Helmlinger '39, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton A. Helmlinger, 24 Essex street, has been "tapped" for Mimes, New Jersey College for Women's honorary dramatic society, according to an announcement made today by Miss Ruth Dannefer '39, president.

Mimes aids the work of N. J. C.'s Little Theatre Workshop Group and election to membership is based on ability in acting or play-producing. The faculty advisor is Mrs. Jane Inge, associate professor of speech and dramatic art.

Miss Helmlinger was in the cast of the Little Theatre's last production, "The Wooden Slipper," was chairman of music for the Christmas festivities and is assistant photography editor of Quail, her class yearbook. She has been prominent in previous plays and was chairman of make-up for her class junior show.

Belleville To Celebrate Centennial of Founding

Mayor Williams Prepares Program For Local Event

Mayor William H. Williams is preparing a local program for the celebration of Belleville's centennial as a separate community among the family of Essex county towns. Just what form the celebration will take is not yet fully determined, but it is believed it will include a civic demonstration of all community activities, public and private.

The date when Belleville was officially born was February 23, 1839, when the New Jersey Legislature enacted a law separating all the territory between the present northern line of Nutley, on the north, the Passaic River, on the east, the present line of Bloomfield on the west, and what was then Gully Road, the northern boundary of Newark, on the south, from Bloomfield Township, and declaring it to be Belleville Township.

When Belleville was established in 1839, the total population of the area, including what are now Nutley, Belleville and Woodside, was scarcely more than 2,000. The whole stretch of country north and south, from the present Passaic country line, to Mt. Pleasant Cemetery, Newark, was sparsely settled, and Newark was just beginning to get its city government house in order, having been transformed into a city, in 1836.

Once "Washington"

Belleville got its name from the little community which grew around Second River, Main street, and the Passaic River, in that vicinity. It was called "Washington," up to June 26, 1797, and the name "Belleville" was adopted by residents of the neighborhood who declared, in a resolution, that "Belleville" best suited their ideas regarding the beauty of the locality.

MAY WORK OUT BASKETBALL PLAN

School Use Out
On Thursday
Evenings

The Building and Grounds Committee of the Board of Education has been authorized to work out with the Recreation Commission some plan to permit continuance of the Thursday night basketball league, which is threatened with loss of a place to play because the Adult Education classes will require use of the high school building on Thursday evenings.

This came to light Monday night at the board meeting when Recreation Director Edward Lister suggested that perhaps the board might find it possible to open the school on Friday evenings for the league, or shift the Wednesday night girls' division to Friday and transfer the Thursday league play to Wednesday.

The school authorities have held Friday open for school activities, service clubs and others who might want to utilize that night for affairs in the high school. There has been no heavy demand for use of that night, however, and it is felt that Mr. Lister's suggestion may be followed out. Chairman Charles A. Gebhardt, Jr., of the Building and Grounds Committee, will consult with High School Principal Hugh D. Kittle to see whether any high school activities are planned on Friday. The basketballers require

Seal Sale Report Is Far Below Expectations

The returns from the Christmas Seal sale conducted by the Belleville-Nutley Tuberculosis Association, Inc., total $1,025.83 to date. This amount is far below the $2,500 quota set to carry on a broader and more effective tuberculosis prevention and control program during 1939. However, many who received seals, have not contributed nor returned them which lends a note of encouragement and hope.

The association requests that persons who have not yet returned their money and seals do so as soon as possible in order that plans may be formulated for tuberculosis work according to funds available for the purpose.

Adult Education Course Draws
552 Persons As A Starter

Public speaking proved to be the most popular selection of 552 registrants for the first adult education program which will open at the high school next Thursday. There are twenty courses. Eighty-five chose the speaking course. Because of lack of interest eight proposed courses were dropped from the announced curriculum, registrations for which were taken last Wednesday and Thursday.

Classes will be held from 7:45 to 9:45 o'clock for ten successive weeks.

Folk dancing was one of the proposed courses in which there was lack of interest, and contract bridge proved interesting enough to draw fifty-six registrants.

BOARD PROCEEDS WITH PROPOSALS OF JERGENS

Passes Ordinance To Purchase Part Of Hendrick's Plot

With Charles Milton, Jersey City attorney, representing the Andrew Jergens Company, Cincinnati, sitting in, the Town Commission Tuesday night at a special meeting introduced an ordinance appropriating $29,000 for the purchase of two tracts of land on the north side of Mill street now owned by the Hendricks estate.

The tracts, in the hands of a New York bank, were negotiated for separately although the bank had said that the estate would be sold as a unit. The pharmaceutical concern which has an option on the thirty-eight acres of land, including the Belleville Copper Rolling Mills in Mill street, set forth in its proposals that it only desired land on the south side of Mill street.

The ordinance is published in full on page 5 of this issue. A resolution also was adopted committing the town to three other propositions, to complete by the end of 1939 the straightening of Mill street at the site of the present factory building, thereby eliminating the dangerous

Community Service Bureau Held Ninth Annual Meeting Wednesday

Interesting Program Given After Business At Woman's Club

The ninth annual meeting of the Community Service Bureau was held at the Woman's Club on Wednesday evening. Election of trustees for a three-year term to January, 1942, was as follows: Rev. Edgar M. Compton, Mrs. Irene P. McCormick and Wayne E. Parmer, all re-elected. New trustees elected for the same term, Miss Mary B. Cochran, Professor H. N. Cummings, Rev. Walter Lake, Harry A. Macaulay, Fred Plenge and Walter Price.

The Little Theatre Guild presented three skits, "Behind the Scenes at the Community Service Bureau," following which the staff told about the outcome of these cases.

Miss Mary S. Brisley spoke of the past and future of family agencies, remarking that although the Community Service Bureau is only nine years old, the family welfare movement is sixty years old and its growth is something peculiar to the United States. Other countries have to come here to learn about individualized treatment for troubled people.

Miss Brisley pointed out that this work can only be effective when performed by case workers who have specialized training, in a setting which is safeguarded by offering privacy to those wishing consultation. Further, she stated that these efforts would not be effective without the partnership and cooperation of board members and volunteers.

As an example of neighborliness, Miss Brisley cited the story of the Good Samaritan which has stood for 1,800 years as an example of human helpfulness. The

ZINK WOULD SEE ECONOMY IN MUNICIPALITIES

State Might Then
Act On Relief
Deficit

"When the state, counties and municipalities do everything possible and show in every way that rigid economy is being practiced, the Legislature may find a way to take care of the six to eight million dollar deficit in last year's relief estimate," declared State Senator Homer C. Zink Wednesday at a meeting of the Belleville Rotary Club in the Forest Hill Field Club.

He explained that through cooperation of those who have been labeled spenders, but "are actually lawmakers with heads on their shoulders," who are now going along with those who have urged economy in government, there is little likelihood of a building program in the State Highway Department and the "$60,000,000 tax program is out."

Governor A. Harry Moore suggests a bond issue to take care of the relief situation," said the Senator, adding, "But he is not definitely tied up to that plan, agreeing to go along with anything that is best for the State. He is not a Democrat in accord with the policies at Washington, but interested in solving New Jersey problems. It is doubtful that a bond issue will go through. It is no way to pay relief—it is a further premium for waste. Neither is it right to pile on additional taxes, although I see no way of raising the necessary funds unless this occurs. Some believe a small gross receipts tax—virtually an income tax from one-half to one per cent that will be placed on everything is the thing."

Mr. Zink outlined how the Senate lines up with fourteen out of twenty-one votes Republican and the Assembly with forty-one of the sixty votes Republican.

He went into detail as regards relief, pointing out that there should be a division between employables and unemployables, explaining that there is no reason to believe that some of those who are said to be unemployables could not thus be placed in suggested fields where they might obtain jobs.

Senator Zink told how the deficit in relief funds had worked a hardship all around—from the State down to the municipalities, "several of which, in the face of things, continue to handle relief outrageously wasting from twenty-five to fifty per cent of all funds allotted." He added that "these same municipalities that waste on relief, waste proportionately on other functions."

"Belleville, while it has a heavy relief load, has handled its part well," he said. "Not the best in the state, because East Orange holds that enviable position and several South Jersey towns have done well, but considering its

Good Samaritan knew he had a responsibility to the man who needed help. This business man took the sick man to an inn and paid someone else to care for him, and then proceeded on his journey.

"So today we do our part as individuals, but our responsibility far transcends what we can do for the particular person in need, hence agencies are set up and delegated to assume collective responsibility for individuals," she said.

Miss Brisley concluded that the future of the family agency depends on the extent to which the people in the community recognize the value of its services and thus are willing to support it.

Officers are: Rev. Mr. Compton, president; Mrs. Ninetta Adams, second vice-president; Miss Mary Biller, secretary, and Dr. Morris Rochlin, treasurer. Local Fire Department Nears Quarter Century

Oldest Auto Apparatus Was Bought Twenty-five Years Ago In July

Twenty-four Permanent Firemen And Two Score Call Men In Force

Belleville's modern fire department, which enjoys the confidence of business men, manufacturers and residents of the town, as a protective force of the first rank, will soon celebrate twenty-five years of activity, since its transformation from an old-style volunteer body, to the permanent and call department of today, with twenty-four full-time paid men, twenty-four call men and six auto apparatus, all quartered in three fire houses.

The transition of the fire-fighting units and equipment began in July, 1914, when the town bought its first automobile fire engine, a La France 500-gallon pumper, which is still in service although antiquated and not as efficient as a more up-to-date pumping engine would be. This old pumper is part of the equipment in the William street fire house. It is believed that a new automobile pumper fire engine installed in the place of this old time-worn apparatus would be a good investment for the town.

Since the establishment of commission government in Belleville, twenty-five years ago, this year, the fire department has been under the supervision of the commissioner in charge of the department of public safety. Commissioner William D. Clark is director of public safety of the present commission government and takes personal pride in the forces under his control.

When the La France automobile pumper was installed in the Town Hall, back in July, 1914, the volunteer fire company there was the Valley Hose Company No. 1. In this company, at that time, was a young volunteer fireman, Robert Alexander Reid, who was ambitious and must have sensed that he was destined to go places as a leader of Belleville firemen. The very first run of the new engine saw Fireman Reid in the driver's seat.

Away the apparatus went, at 10 a. m., July 19, in response to a telephone alarm, from the Silver Lake section. The engine reached the scene of the fire five minutes after the telephone alarm was received. Fireman Reid was appointed second lieutenant when appointed a permanent fireman, became assistant chief in February, 1923, and has been chief of the fire department since January, 1935. He was the third permanent man to be appointed, his appointment dating from August 25, 1914. His predecessors were Captain James J. Salmon, appointed July 1, 1914, and Lieutenant Joseph McCarthy, appointed August 11, 1914. Captain Salmon was killed by the auto fire engine in 1916, and Lieutenant McCarthy was pensioned some years later.

Robert A. Reid was attached to Valley Hose Company as a volunteer fireman, for two and a half years before his appointment as a permanent fireman, with the rank of second lieutenant. When he took the pumping engine out of the Town Hall on his first run, mentioned above, those who accompanied him were former Police Chief Michael Flynn, retired; Officer James Flynn, and William J. McCormack. Whenever he speaks of that run, Chief Reid is sure, proud, and it was an accomplishment, too, don't you think? Chris Reinhart was chief of the volunteer department at the time Lieutenant Reid was appointed, in 1914. Upon the death of Captain Salmon, Lieutenant Reid was appointed captain. William Gilmore was named in Captain Salmon's place, and he was succeeded by John McCoy, who became a captain and died some years later. Chief Reinhart was succeeded by Nicholas Comesky, who was appointed chief September 15, 1915. On Saturday afternoon, April 14, 1916, Captain Salmon sprang to duty, when the gong sounded

The pumper in which he took such great personal pride, moved out of the Town Hall. The captain jumped for the apparatus, missed his footing and fell in front of a rear wheel, which passed over his body. He died two days later, a martyr to his duty.

There were three volunteer fire companies in Belleville at the time the first three permanent firemen were appointed. They were Essex Hose Company, Stephen street, now the Exempt Firemen's Home; Valley Hose Company, John street, and Eastwood Hose Company, No. 2, 119 William street, where the present fire house is located. The latter two companies were organized in 1882. Copies of leases show the William street property was leased by the Eastwood Hose Company in 1890 and 1897. The Essex Hose Company's quarters were sold to the Exempt Firemen and the Valley Hose Company's house and grounds finally became the property of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for their local home.

Each of the three volunteer fire companies had on their rolls active young men, most of whom took a personal pride in turning out in response to alarms of fire. The Essex and Valley Hose Companies had twenty men each on their rolls and the Eastwood Hose Company had twenty-five members.

The town fire alarm system, up to November, 1907, consisted of a big bell in the rear of the Valley Hose house. The bell was installed on a tower in the early 1890's by the Fire Commission, which managed the affairs of the fire department, subject to the approval of the voters to expenditures. The commissioners issued a circular to the firemen establishing the signals to be sounded on the bell, to indicate the locality of a fire. These signals divided the town into districts as follows: Third, east of Washington avenue and south of Holmes street, three taps; fourth, west of Washington avenue and south of Holmes street, four taps; fifth, east of Washington avenue and north of Holmes street, five taps; sixth, west of Washington avenue and north of Holmes street, six taps. It was specified that there would be a minute or less after the bell was rung violently, before the taps were sounded.

In July, 1903, the fire commissioners increased the number of fire alarm districts to twenty-four, because of confusion and delay in promptly locating fires. In 1904, following an accident in which the pole of a fire engine was rammed through the rear of a trolley car, the fire commission forbade the firemen from further hooking onto trolley cars, with their apparatus, enroute to fires. In 1907, the firemen were considerably aroused over the inadequacy of the existing old-fashioned fire alarm, and demanded that the commissioners install a Gamewell fire alarm system in the town. This was done, in November of that year, at a cost of $4,075 and there was then no further cause for delays in the transmission of alarms to the fire department. The batteries and switchboard were originally installed in the Valley Hose house, then moved to the William street fire house.

Before the La France pumping engine was purchased by the town, in 1914, there had been for years a controversy between the proponents and opponents of such a purchase. In 1911 the proposition was placed before the voters of Belleville, and defeated at the polls. That settled it for a time, at least. But, in 1914 sentiment proved too strong for the opponents and the town not only bought the La France engine but named three permanent firemen, sounding the knell of the old volunteer department, which passed out in 1923.

When the Town Hall was built in 1914, by the town council, the American-LaFrance pumper was purchased and installed there and was named by Lieutenant Robert Reid, Lieutenant Joseph McCarthy and Captain James J. Salmon.

In 1920 a Day Elder auto hose wagon was purchased and quartered in the Essex Hose house. The LaFrance apparatus was sent to the William street fire house, which became fire headquarters in 1923, when the part paid and call of the present fire headquarters on Washington avenue, opposite Division avenue, built the fire house at 134 Franklin street, and purchased the hook and ladder truck and pumper fire engine now stationed in fire headquarters. While the headquarters was being

SAFETY FOR YOUR CHILD AGAINST DIPHTHERIA
DIPHTHERIA is now a conquered disease. Physicians know positively how to prevent and treat it, and there is no need for any child to contract it.
TOXIN ANTI-TOXIN INOCULATION IS A SAFE, SANE WAY TO PROTECT AGAINST THIS DISEASE
A serum has been perfected that will give protection against diphtheria. It is called "Toxin antitoxin," is harmless and will make the child safe from the disease.
It may be that your child has a natural immunity to diphtheria, and, if so, this can be established by a simple test, by a competent physician. This test, known to medicine as the "Schick test," consists of one hypodermic injection. If the reaction is negative, your child will be very unlikely to contract the disease. Should the reaction be positive, the child should be given "Toxin antitoxin" for protection.
In cases of diphtheria, or any indication of sore throat, the physician should be called at once.

BELLEVILLE'S FIRE FIGHTERS

A vivid and authoritative portrayal of Belleville's up-to-the-minute fire department, which is published in this issue of The News, gives the people of Belleville a true word picture of an important branch of their local government. It tells of the development, during the past quarter of a century, of an experienced force for the preservation of life and property that has won the confidence and respect of the community.

Though its predecessor, the volunteer fire department, enjoyed the support and confidence of Belleville folks, when apparatus was dragged to fires by hand, and sometimes by horses, it is realized that the motive power of today is far ahead of anything in the past, as a means of prompt response to alarms, either "still," or "bell," and few, indeed, would care to return to the old methods of their forefathers.

The telephone, the men constantly on duty, day and night, and the ever-ready motors, have cut down the annual fire loss tremendously. Then, too, the electric fire alarm system, with numerous street boxes, and the fire whistles, which summon the "call" men, do their part.

Today, the several fire trucks often make such quick response to alarms that they are able to return to their stations in much less time than it would have been possible for firemen to get out their apparatus in the old days.

No community has a more dependable safety force than the Belleville Fire Department which has established a record that compares favorably with that of any other town in the state.

THE TAX KETTLE SIMMERS

As the 1939 Legislature begins its deliberations and the State Senate and Assembly prepare to attempt solution of the state's fiscal problems, one salient fact stands out. It is this:

The people of New Jersey will not submit to new taxation, piled on top of the existing heavy load, until they are convinced that a sincere, honest and thorough effort has been made to finance all essential functions of government, including relief, out of New Jersey's present million dollar a day tax bill.

Has such an effort been made? Quite the contrary. A dark, bleak picture has been elaborately built up, with new taxes offered as the only way out. With responsible state and municipal officials deliberately encouraging organized "hunger" marches on Trenton, there is justification for the view that far more political energy and ingenuity has gone into creating this kind of a picture than into efforts to work out the state's fiscal difficulties by means of economies, diversions and re-organization of government.

The Legislature, facing no easy task, ought to bear in mind the fact that New Jersey has become hardened to this pressure for new taxes. Ever since repeal of the late sales tax, in 1935, we have heard each year that we must have new levies. But, each year, these new tax crises, some of them palpably manufactured, have passed and the state saved from additional burdens. And, remember this: Relief was continuously maintained and not a single essential function of government seriously curtailed.

Powerful forces, some of them selfish, are hard at work in this state to stampede us into new taxes. New taxes mean more money for public spending. They offer the easy way out. Much less trouble to tax than to economize, provided, of course, that the taxpayer is willing to be plucked, without too much squawking.

Those who are crying the loudest for new taxes and who are manipulating so-called relief groups, encouraging marches on the Capitol, to provide a background of confusion and disorder, should be reminded that a tremendous under-current of public resentment against new taxes is simmering in this state. It is directed principally against the three per cent gross receipts tax on retailers, tentatively suggested by the Tax Revision Commission. The consumer suspects that most of this $35,000,000 load will come out of his pocket. He's right. It will.

So, the anti-tax kettle is bubbling. It will boil over, without a doubt, when it becomes clear that new levies are to be jammed through, without being preceded by a sincere and thorough effort to cut down the cost of government and to play fair with the taxpayer.

GET THE DOCTOR

While there seems to be no alarm, as far as Belleville is concerned, health officials in this area have noted an increase in the number of pneumonia cases at the present time. Warning is sounded to the public to pay strict attention to the common cold. Many people feel they are supposed to have two or three head colds during the winter months but, of course, this is not so. Health officials have declared that the common cold frequently leads to pneumonia when it is neglected. If the cold doesn't clear up readily—the best advice is to call the doctor.

WHERE WILL THE BOYS PLAY?

Shades of "Huckleberry Finn!" Where will the boys play? Urban youngsters are forced to ask that question and the interrogation looms greater and greater as the years pass. In truth, where will the boys play? Who can correctly answer that question?

At first, such a query will appear silly, or needless. It is true that some forms of out-door activities have been provided in cities and towns where real estate is of such a character that there is no space for boys to have their fling, as Mark Twain's characters enjoyed, when the country was mostly wide open spaces.

The boys of today who live in urban territories will never be able to sing to themselves that song so familiar to folks of middle age or older: "How Dear to My Heart Are the Scenes of My Childhood. The orchard, the meadow, the sweet-smelling wildwood," etc. And Longfellow's "Barefoot boy, with cheeks of tan."

The boys of today are no different than the boys of Mark Twain's time, but they know nothing of the joys of romping in a meadow, the "old swimmin' hole," or anything like that. They must content themselves with pent up spaces, fenced in, or walled in, and too much noise is taboo.

Good-hearted, well-meaning folks are doing and have done much to help the boys obtain places in which to exercise their lungs, legs and their whole bodies, but nothing in the world can ever take the place of the "meadows, the wildwood and the old swimmin' hole."

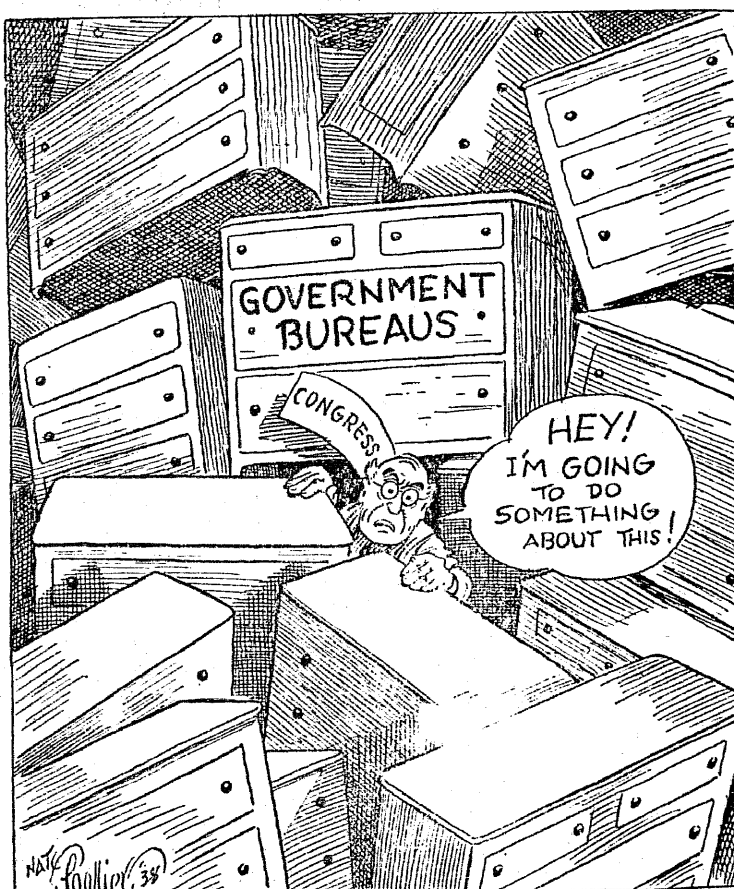

Belleville's "Whangdingers," a group of youths who have been chased from a lot where they would play outdoor basketball, are proof of this. There are not enough play centers here.

WHAT IF WPA IS CUT?

Suppose Congress reduces the WPA emergency appropriation, what effect will it have on Belleville's hopes for three municipal measures involving a total expenditure of more than $2,000,000? This is something that goes home, doesn't it? Administration spokesmen have declared that if the one hundred and fifty million dollar cut stands, it will entail a reduction of one-third of the WPA personnel, or more than one million from the WPA rolls. Viewed from the Belleville angle, this reduction of personnel may prove a serious setback to Belleville's hopes, so it is very likely that there is no little anxiety prevalent in town regarding the ultimate fate of WPA, this spring.

A cut of one-third from the WPA personnel in Essex county would be felt in Belleville where it is earnestly desired that the unemployed who are on the WPA rolls will remain there for at least another year, in which time a great deal of highly desirable construction work will have been completed. Meantime all pressure is being exerted to have the Turf Bog project forwarded to Washington from State WPA headquarters, where it is being held. Action is needed right now. Perhaps a word from Congressman Fred A. Hartley to officials in Trenton would hurry along the proposal. It is certain he will be asked to help.

TIRED OF IT

THIS WEEK

by "Guardian"

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

This week our attention is mostly directed to discussions at Washington concerning additional appropriations for relief. The President asked for $875,000,000 to carry on the work of Federal relief through the Works Progress Administration through June 30th next—the end of the Governmental fiscal year. A coalition of conservative Democrats, mostly from the South, and Republicans, reduced this request seventeen per cent or $150,000,000 and passed a relief bill for $725,000,000 and forwarded it to the Senate for action.

This week the bill is going the rounds of most controversial legislation in the Senate. Governor Lehman of New York wired an objection to the reduction and the venerable Republican Senator of Idaho, William E. Borah, backs up the Administration's request for a larger relief bill. On the other hand, we hear of proposals from Democratic Senators to cut the $725,000,000 down to $600,000,000 and read of an observation by the stalwart Virginian Senator, Carter Glass, that even $600,000,000 is too much.

Now what is it all about? The funds that were appropriated in the last Congress for the fiscal year ending next June 30th, as far as relief purposes are concerned, will be exhausted early in February and if the Government is going to continue to underwrite relief for the States, Counties and Municipalities, an additional appropriation must be made.

There has been a great deal of publicity of late about the waste in relief expenditures. There has been a great deal of agitation to place the administration of all relief in the hands of local Advisory Councils made up of men of probity, working without compensation—and not made up of politicians—in order to assure proper, intelligent expenditure of relief funds and get away from the wasteful extravagance and use of relief funds for political purposes, which have been disclosed in the last few weeks in the public press.

The soundness of such an approach seems to be beyond question even though the President is reported in the press to have said that, any bill taking power of spending relief funds away from the National Government and centralizing it in the States would be vetoed. Thinking men do not question the necessity for intelligent relief to those incapable—physically or mentally—of self support, nor do they object to temporary assistance to others in periods of stress. But thinking men do object to the building up of a large group of mendicant hand-holders who will not work and who will make no attempt to and work so long as they can stick their noses into the public trough and feed at the public expense.

To us that is the greatest problem of relief. Relief as it has been administered in the last six years is breeding a race of people who feel that the world owes them a living and that they in their turn owe the world nothing. A current story is very much to the point—

A Republican County Chairman in South Carolina is reported to have approached a colored gentleman of position, saying to him, "Mr. Sam, you have always been a Republican (you remember Lincoln freed the slaves and he was a Republican) and of course, you are going to vote the Republican ticket this election."

"No sah," replied Sam, "Ah's going to vote for Mr. Roosevelt and anything he wants and all ways for he's the greatest man what evah lived."

"Why, Sam," said the Chairman, "You don't believe Roosevelt is a greater man than George Washington."

"Yes sah," says Sam, "Ah does."

"But Sam, you can't stand there and tell me you think Roosevelt is a greater man than Abraham Lincoln who freed the slaves."

"Yes sah, Ah does."

"Well," said the Chairman, "Sam, how can you make a statement like that; how can you justify your opinion?"

"Well, sah," said Sam, "in the Bible the Lord says 'Seek and Ye shall find,'—but President Roosevelt, sah, he says, 'Sit where you are and I'll bring it to you!'"

That's the kind of philosophy that we've got to fight in this country and we can't help but believe that a drastic reduction in the amount of money made available for relief will force a lot of people who will not work, to go to work.

Another story is quite illustrative and its truth is vouched for by a neighboring business man:

Week before last he stopped in a section of Greater New York City to see a friend he had not seen for years. When he had last seen him, his friend had a comfortable job—but upon inquiry the business man found his friend had moved and he was finally located in a poor section, with his wife and three children. He learned that his friend had not been employed for three years and was on relief and said he had been unable to obtain employment of any kind. The business man was interested and went out of his way in the next few days to try and find employment for his friend. He was overjoyed when he located a job for the man at $24 a week, the man to report for work the next morning. Not being able to reach his friend on the telephone and not willing to rely on the mail for early notification, the business man again went out of his way to the little flat where his friend was living.

The business man told his friend he had a job for him, starting the next morning and his friend took out paper and pencil and started to figure. He said if he took the job he would immediately go off relief; that a certain agency of the City of New York was paying his rent, another group was furnishing him coal, another was bringing food now and then. He was getting certain relief from a Federal agency and when he added it all up, he would be worse off taking the job at $24 a week than if he stayed just where he was.

Now in all consciousness, we ask—is that the spirit that made America? Is that the spirit that motivated the colonists or the pioneers or the folks who carved this marvelous country out of the wilderness? Is that the spirit that is going to keep this country in the forefront? No, of course, it isn't!

And we believe fervently that a drastic reduction in the amount of money appropriated for relief will cause this type of individual—and we believe there are millions of them—to go to work, to find work, to make jobs for themselves and help build back the character of America to what it used to be and to what it must be if this land of ours is going to continue to lead the world.

Yours 'til next week,

Aunt Flo's Column

Aunt Flo says: The youth of today is the same as the youth of yesterday and the youth of tomorrow will not be changed. Parents keep faith with them.

Last week, because of a lack of space, I was unable to answer a letter which I received from a young man who signed himself Jimmy. I was greatly amused by what Jimmy wrote, for, with all the straightforwardness of the youth of today, he told me, at a start that he hoped I was no angel and that I was young enough to see his side of the problem.

He complained that his parents looked with disgust upon drinking, condemned smoking, felt that girls should be avoided as a plague and thought parties and dancing were unnecessary evils. I gathered from his letter, too, that his parents had forgotten all about their own youthful mistakes and were trying to impress the boy with the fact that they were white winged angels from the start.

It is too bad that parents forget so soon, for many a splendid boy and a sweet girl are sacrificed on the altars of their straight-laced rulings.

I am heartily sorry for Jimmy. He has already missed much by being reared as an only child and now, when he has reached the glorious age where life seems full of everything that is lovely his parents continue to keep him under their wing and tell him that all pleasures are forbidden.

Jimmy, I hope for the sake of your own happiness that you will be patient and tolerant with your parents until they can become a little more broadened in their views. You certainly should be enjoying the company of girls and attending parties and dances, for if you do not mingle with young people now, how are you ever going to be able to judge their good qualities from the bad? It is only by comparison that we learn good from bad and even though we sometimes suffer through the experiment, we are better for it.

I do not advocate drinking because I can see nothing to be gained from this habit—nevertheless, I do not criticize those who drink—rather, I am sorry for them. It is well to remember that none of us are perfect and perhaps the man who drinks has some good qualities that I do not possess.

Smoking certainly is not a sin if one likes to smoke and it is evident that today a great many people indulge in it. However, I am still old-fashioned enough to believe that men as a general thing do not like to see women smoke, even though they do offer them cigarettes.

However, your greatest problem as I see it is the fact that you are being deprived of the other pleasures which young people enjoy and that is indeed a pity. Wise parents permit their children to entertain their young friends at home, even if they are forced to do their reading in the kitchen for an evening or two a week, and in this way they know what their young people are doing.

I have listened myself to jazz music until my head felt as if it was spinning around, but I was wise enough to know that if I did not permit its playing in my own home my children would go where they could hear it—and that might be in a place where I would not like to have them.

I have also tried every one of the new dances with them, pretending to be a serious pupil and meanwhile I have laughed up my sleeve, so to speak, because I knew all the time that they would feel I was their pal and they could come to me with other problems beside dance steps.

The first time they took a drink they came home and sat on my bed and told me all about it. I said I was disappointed, but it was all right if they liked it. I have had no trouble in that way ever since. There are plenty of boxes about the house filled with cigarettes. They may have them if they wish, yet they do not disappear—which all leads me to have faith in the youth of today. They are no worse than the youth of yesterday. It is the parents who have forgotten how youth likes to live.

The M. D. Says

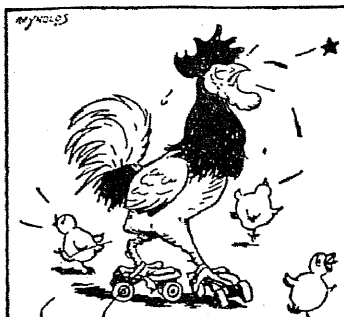

HEALTH QUESTION: Are large sections of the American people too far away from hospital facilities?

Only 1.5 per cent of the population of the United States are farther than thirty miles from a hospital. Less than two million people live more than thirty miles from a hospital. There is not a resident of New Jersey who lives more than thirty miles from a hospital.

The increase in hospital beds in the United States in the last thirty years has averaged about 25,000 beds a year. Only seventy per cent of the present available hospital beds are occupied at any one time.

PIQUANT POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

The importance politically of the trial of Newark officials now under way is so great as to dwarf other county activities. Convictions on any of the counts would be a terrifically forceful move to the city commission out of office.

This in turn would result in a special election to choose three new commissioners, or as many as those convicted. Since the trials are expected to last six weeks, there will be opportunities later to discuss the effects of various possible verdicts the jurors may bring in.

City Manager Again

Lately, there has been considerable publicity relative to a possible city manager referendum. Such discussions have taken place have been exploratory. Nothing definite will be started until the twelve good men and true render one of the most important verdicts in Jersey history. Political leaders are realists, and as such are not banking too heavily on the prospect of convictions. They remember the ballot thefts of six years ago, and remember also that no convictions were obtained then.

Such city manager considerations as has been given is based largely on the belief that acquittals are more likely than convictions. It would be pushed if public opinion in Newark should be at variance with such an outcome of the trials. If there are no convictions, the present commissioners will remain in office until May, 1941. A city manager referendum if carried would force a new election this year.

Since the legal machinery already exists for such a referendum, it is more likely than a mayor-council form of government. The greatest handicap to a city manager movement in New Jersey is the poor showing that such government has made in Trenton. The record of Cincinnati under a city manager is excellent, but Trenton is much nearer.

Furthermore, the reform element in Newark as well as in the rest of the state has its hands full to defeat the proposed race track amendment. Dr. Lester H. Clee is the propelling force behind this movement. While one would scarcely be justified in saying that he is backing the referendum to enhance his own candidacy for Governor next year, nevertheless the outcome of the referendum fight will have an important bearing on that candidacy.

Clee On Top?

If the betting referendum is defeated, Clee is almost certain to be given, and to deserve, the lion's share of credit for it. This does not mean that a defeat would automatically bar his candidacy, or that a victory would assure him the Republican nomination. But his political effectiveness will be judged to a considerable extent on the outcome.

When Clee sought the nomination two years ago, he had very little opposition. At the time of the primaries no one thought the Republican nominee had much of a chance. But by the time November came around the growing depression had clouded the Democratic party everywhere.

Present indications are that the relief problem will be solved in Trenton before many weeks more. Some form of new taxes, or else a bond issue, is inevitable. For five years now there has been continual threat of new taxes, new bonds, but the state has struggled along without either. But destiny has at last caught up with the economists. They may have a brave fight and a worthy one, but nothing could have prevented new taxes save drastic economic action. There is not the resolution such economy in New Jersey, so there will be new.

That Man Hague

Reports that Mayor Hague is behind efforts to a high water bridge over the site at Bridge street are interesting. Every effort of the board of freeholders to see bridge for the last two years has been thwarted. Business men in Newark and elsewhere are becoming angry at the delay. The crafty mayor of Jersey City may have sensed this and decided to grab the credit for doing a kind of girl scout political good deed. It is hard to say which is in the more dire need, Essex of the bridge or Hague of the popularity.

the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment; a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he." (Deuteronomy 32:3, 4.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (John 8:31, 32.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Beyond the frail promises of human beliefs, above the loosening grasp of creeds, the demonstration of Christian Mind-healing stands a revealed and practical Science. It is imperious throughout all ages as Christ's revelation of Truth, of Life, and of Love, which remains inviolate for every man to understand and to practice."
