TALKING ACROSS THE CONTINENT, or around the world, is easy today, largely because of the development of vacuum tubes for telephone use.

These tubes are placed in "repeater stations" every 50 miles or so along telephone circuits to "boost" your voice waves when they tire from travel, so that your words arrive clearly and naturally.

When you talk to Europe, South America or Australia, your voice waves are stepped up millions of times and hurled overseas by huge water-cooled amplifier tubes.

Today—thanks to continuous telephone research and development—you can send your voice to almost anyone anywhere . . . quickly, easily, cheaply.

After 7 at night and all of Sunday, reduced rates apply on calls of over 50 miles. Then you can TALK 100 miles for 35c and 400 miles for 80c (3-minute station-to-station rates within the United States).

Musical Treat Is In Store At School Spring Festival

Greylock Pupils Will Give Affair As Program For Music Week

A delightful musical treat in the form of a Spring Festival is being planned by the pupils of Greylock School for Thursday evening, May 11, at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium.

About thirty boys and girls of the Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Ruth L. Miller, are working diligently these days to whip into shape the beautiful cantata, "Spring Cometh." This outstanding production is being presented not only with choruses having the customary soprano and alto parts, but also with supplemental incidental solos. This class choral will be especially welcomed by music lovers of the community who appreciate melodic values well within the range of adolescent voice, such as this.

The fifth and sixth grades are offering an operetta, "The Forest Court," employing about seventy pupils in mixed choruses and drama packed with action. The performance is ideally suited to children of this age and their tuneful songs are colorful and catchy. Underlying the whimsical fun and merriment of the "Forest Court," with its haunting melodies, is the big idea of conservation brought to the level of child psychology. Striking simplicity is the feature of lines, music and atmosphere. Even young children will absorb the ideals as they accompany "Tommy" in his adventures.

"Tommy" Featured
"Tommy" and his friends are on a picnic playing games in the woods. "Tommy," a boy, like thousands of Tommies, muddies the spring, switches off flower tops, pulls up a baby tree and breaks branches. Someone proposes to climb a hill. "Tommy" remains and falls asleep. Fairies mischievously plot to teach him a lesson by casting a spell and showing him what harm thoughtless pranks mean to forest folk.

"Tommy" is tried in the forest court, Judge Owl presiding. He is about to be sentenced when the rabbit and the tortoise bring word of a past good deed. "Tommy" had done in saving a butterfly caught in a spider web. The butterfly proves to be "Silver Wings," messenger of the fairy queen, freed from the net of an enchanter. "Tommy" is pardoned, and the forest folk hold revels and rejoice over their new friend, "Tommy."

The operetta is being coached by Miss Helen M. McNally, in charge of music, and Miss Harriet D. Miller, supervising the drama. A committee of parents are collaborating with the teachers in the making of the costumes.

Kindergarten Band

The afternoon class of the kindergarten is coming before the public again with two selections from their colorful rhythm band of swingers. Miss Anne E. Puden, teacher, is their coach.

Mrs. Anna Forrester's and Mrs. Irva Heart's first grades very appropriately entertain with a safety play as a community project, and Mrs. Mildred Clarke's second graders present their Dutch dancers as a culmination of a unit of work. There is a variety of talented youngsters on the piano, as dancers, and in the school orchestra.

Miss Indra M. Bryant, supervisor of music in the Belleville schools, is directing the music, and Miss Helen P. Simpson, supervisor of art, the special scenery with the collaboration of Mrs. Helen C. Steeb and a group of Greylock artists.

BUDGET HEARING

Many prominent citizens and, in particular, manufacturers who spend many hours a day here and contribute a substantial portion of the town's taxes, appeared Monday evening at the Town Commission hearing on the municipal budget. The spirit of co-operation manifested itself as these well-meaning folks offered constructive thoughts to the official family which was duly grateful. The manufacturers are perhaps the best group to know "what it is all about" in the matter of taxes. Some concerns here, and, this will be no surprise to many, maintain large forces to study the tax situation from many and varied angles. The maintenance of such forces was made available gratis on Monday to the rulers of Belleville, who were highly elated that a group such as the Manufacturers' Association should attend the budget hearing, speak its mind and, yet, do it in a way that was co-operative and encouraging.

In effect, Martin F. Tiernan, president of the association, pointed out that when conditions are not up to par financially in business or home, he cuts cloth accordingly and does not invite additional expense until such time as better business warrants it. This was sage advice from a keen student of business that is worth its weight in gold to any official family, some of which are inclined to spend and spend and spend. Fortunately Belleville is not in the spending class and has heeded the warning of Mayor William H. Williams, finance director, to keep expense down to "the last dollar." This coincides with the manufacturers' attitude and met with their approval. Mr. Tiernan, as an official in Essex Fells with many years' experience in municipal affairs and matters closely allied thereto, aptly pointed out that the local officials have done a very fine job, considering the fact that actually only ten per cent of the budget is controllable by the commissioners. If anything should encourage our governing body to keep up its good work it should be the interest of the manufacturers. Some self-styled taxpayers have done a lot of talking, but to date there has been no co-operative effort from the "chronic kickers" in the matter of constructive thought or voice. On the other hand there has been considerable of the "tear down" attitude, which doesn't do Belleville any good. It is a splendid idea to have those on hand who are interested enough to oppose actions of municipal officials. Municipal officials who are conscientious and, we think Belleville has just such officials, welcome constructive opposition, but it must be constructive for the good of the town and not politically motivated propaganda. Taxpayers who showed very little concern in the budget this year should be appreciative that the manufacturers, most of them very busy men, took time out to study the budget—not only in their own behalf, but the taxpayers', as well.

The thought that Belleville might well do with a Board of Estimate for its school budget is well conceived. Taxpayers know far too little about their school expenditures which are set up by a group that takes its time in stride. How many people in Belleville know what constitutes the items in the school budget? All Belleville knows is that so much goes for current expense, manual training, etc. The sums are lumped and 100 odd voters go to the polls each year, many of them teachers, to say it is all right. The school board should print its budget in full—like the town commission—to let taxpayers know what it is all about. When we suggested this to the school authorities this year it was turned down for fear somebody might tear apart the budget. The only information given taxpayers was what this newspaper and others saw fit to print in news stories. And while on the subject the day may come when Belleville will decide an elective school board might give the taxpayers a little more say in the manipulation of their school affairs. After all, democracy means just that—that the public have a voice in its public affairs.

WHEREIN WE START SOMETHING

Last week when The Belleville News said that Washington avenue merchants are clamoring for return of full lighting we started something that may be productive of good results. Director of Public Safety William D. Clark, who has charge of the lights, is going to make a study of the matter although there is little likelihood that anything may be done this year inasmuch as the municipal budget has been set up and to put back the lights means an additional expenditure of some $6,000 or $7,000. Director Clark favors the idea and rightly so because, he, as an insurance executive, knows the value of adequate lights for better business and reduction of accidents. Belleville did right when financially embarrassed to cut out the lights. Maybe the present is not the time to put back the White Way. A survey will do a lot of good and satisfy many merchants. Once again we are glad to have brought forth a matter that is of great interest to better business and, in the long run, more taxes.

LITTLE RED SCHOOL HOUSE

There is a tradition in this country that the men and women turned out by the rural schools, or "little red schoolhouses," as they are commonly called, are well grounded in the elements of practical education.

The record of great fortunes and political careers seems to bear this out. But Professor Floyd W. Reeves of the University of Chicago brands this idea as wrong. He says consolidation of rural schools, to compete with the elaborate and expensive city educational plants, must be undertaken to provide the country-born with education sufficient to combat the city-born.

We have not noticed any superiority produced by expensive buildings and faddish curricula. The love of learning may be inspired by grand structures, but it has not been apparent in school records, yet.

Motor vehicle administrators and various trucking associations have long warred upon the practice of compelling drivers to work such long hours that they fall asleep on the job. Yet, the other day, we read that a truck driver, injured after his truck crashed against a tree, told the police that as a relief driver he had been compelled to work twenty-four hours in succession before the accident. The probers found that the accident was due to a nap which came upon him while he was at the wheel. The case should serve as a lesson to vacation drivers, who, soon to descend upon the roads, try to spend long hours at the wheel in order to get to distant points. The human equation is the most powerful of all the motor vehicle eventualities. Sleeping drivers certainly cannot steer lumbering trucks and speeding pleasure cars.

WHAT KIND OF SECURITY?

More than a dozen bills are pending in Congress to amend the Social Security Act. These amendment proposals vary. Some of them would convert the social security program into something like the "ham and eggs" scheme hatched in California. Others would put the present program on a pay-as-you-go basis and revise the present scale of payroll taxes.

A committee of the House has concluded public hearings on all these amendment ideas, and will soon make its recommendations. What the committee will recommend is, of course, not known, but it appears likely that the "ham and eggs" theory will be discarded as impractical. More important is the stand the committee will take on the pay-as-you-go proposals.

No one will oppose the intended objective of the social security program, but there is plenty of room to doubt the method by which the government is trying to reach that objective. It is collecting millions of dollars yearly from the pay envelopes of workers and spending those millions for other government expenses instead of putting them into the reserve fund which Congress intended. The reserve fund has only government I.O.U.'s in it now. It is not likely that workers reaching retirement age will be satisfied to receive their security benefits in non-negotiable I.O.U.'s.

In addition, the present program calls for an increase in the tax rate next year. That will mean more millions to be spent from the reserve fund and replaced by promissory notes. Figures have been submitted to prove that no increase in the tax rate is necessary to finance the program if it is properly operated.

Does it not seem reasonable, then, to head off this scheduled tax boost and leave those extra millions in normal circulation where they can pay real wages to more workers?

THE ROAD HOG

THIS WEEK

by "Guardian"

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

What is Chancellor Hitler going to say on Friday? That is the question in the minds of everyone this week, and the answer will be known to the world a few hours after this issue of the Belleville News is off the press.

Meanwhile the British Ambassador to Germany—in a reported effort to add a "Be Careful" from Britain to President Roosevelt's plea for a ten-year non-aggression guarantee—is given the run-around while Britain's Premier Chamberlain announces that all British young men in their twenty-first year would, because of a policy of conscription the Cabinet had determined upon, become liable for six months of military training.

These efforts, these momentous hours are all so fraught with possible destructive consequences as to overshadow all else that has gone on and is going on in these hectic days. The unfortunate close of the municipal conspiracy trial in Newark—the untimely illness of a juror—the revelation of insufficient investigation of jurors before selection—and the mounting demand for the removal of two members of the Newark City Commission, though important locally and more important insofar as they denote an awakening of public consciousness, pale into insignificance compared to the international situation.

We are inclined toward the opinion that Chancellor Hitler, after repeating with vehemence the accomplishments of the Reich under his leadership and after commenting scathingly upon the efforts of the democracies to deprive Germany of what he considers to be Germany's right, will say to the world in reply to our President's plea that, if the democracies and the world as a whole will give certain definite guarantees to Germany and Italy, Germany and Italy in turn will give the guarantees that the President has asked for.

That would be a smart move for Hitler to make; but, of course, if he makes it, it all depends upon the guarantees he asks.

As the tedious hours drag along, one thought becomes more and more impressed upon our consciousness. And that thought is that the United States MUST NOT become involved in any European war to pull anyone's chestnuts out of any fire. And we say that despite what we have written in recent weeks concerning the importance of stopping Hitler for the sake of liberty and for the benefit of our posterity.

There can be no war in our judgment—no major war—without the support of the United States to one side or the other. For neither side has the resources to continue a major conflict. We must not forget the lessons of the last war, the futility of it all, the sacrifices which were made, the tremendous losses to civilization, and the fact that twenty-five years after the last World War started the situation in the world economically and politically is far worse than it was in 1914. So much worse in fact that it is hard to say that a single objective of the last war has been maintained—if, indeed, it ever was attained.

Let us not be misled by propaganda from either side, let us keep our heads level, our judgments reserved, and our comments reserved—for if ever there was a time when the people of the United States needed to be level-headed, that time is here or just around the corner.

Yours till next week

Belleville of Stage Coach Days

This is the second of a series of seven stories compiled and written by the Federal Writers' Project of New Jersey. These stories are excerpts from the forthcoming "History of Belleville," sponsored by the Town of Belleville to commemorate its centennial.

Today Belleville commuters accept electric trolley-buses and comfortable de luxe coaches as a matter of course. But in 1839, when Belleville became a township, the only right commuting was accompanied by the clatter and rumble of stagecoaches, the jingle of harness and the crackle of the driver's whip.

In those days there was no Washington avenue, nor anything that even remotely resembled the smooth highways upon which modern motorcars glide through town. A scant half dozen roads, rutted, muddy in spring and fall, deep with drifts in winter, and unbearably dusty in summer, were the only access early Belleville had to Paterson, Bloomfield, Newark and New York. Originally these roads had been Indian trails; by 1839 they had become turnpikes. Tollgates crossed these roads at two-mile intervals, and it was said that "in cold weather, you must take your gloves off and open your purse oftener than is pleasant."

Despite these transportation difficulties Belleville was able to attract many visitors and tourists. The Passaic River then was—believe it or not!—a fresh and unspoiled stream in which fish abounded and bathers found refreshing recreation. The town became a well-known summer resort, and "Gazetteers" and guide books of a hundred years ago testified to Belleville's attractions in glowing terms. Said one of them:

This is a pleasant place of resort during the summer months, besides being one of considerable business. One of the town's "public houses" was said to be a very large and well furnished hotel, kept by Mr. Chandler, where many summer boarders may be accommodated, in this delightful retreat, far from the bustle and noise of the great neighboring city.

In fact, New Yorkers had discovered Belleville's rural charms as early as the 1790's. In 1795, the first bridge was built across the Passaic near the present Rutgers street structure. At the same time a corduroy road was laid across the spongy surface of the Hackensack meadows to Paulus Hook, as Jersey City was then called. Along this turnpike Joseph Sandford established his stage coach line to New York. His vehicles were the Concord type, having more seats on the back, front and top than on the inside. For the two-hour trip across the meadows Sandford charged fifty cents; the round trip took half a day.

Sandford soon sold his stage line to John Williams, keeper of the inn that was quaintly described as "a widely known summer resort, as well as a stopping place for the greatest respectability for travelers." This hotel was located at the corner of Main street and John street (now Belleville avenue). Williams' partner in the stage line business was John Dow, and it was one of Dow's slaves, Jacob Robinson, who, dressed in a postilion's uniform, was the proud wielder of whip and rein over four good horses.

"Jake" was permitted to work out the price which Dow had paid for him, and was then freed. He did so well for himself that several years later he was able to buy out his former master's interest in the stage line and to become Williams' partner instead. Jake continued to drive his stage, however, until he finally was succeeded by his son Francis.

Innkeeping and stage coach running must have gone well together. A second and third Belleville-New York stage line made their appearance in short succession. One of them was owned by T. P. Scaman, owner of the Mansion House at the northwest corner of Rutgers and Main streets, the other by Thomas Farrand, who kept the hotel at William and Main streets.

Competition between these lines waxed pretty lively at times and the owners used various means to attract customers. Seaman hired himself a driver named George

Barber, who was not merely a good horseman, but also quite a virtuoso on the French horn. The guests of Seaman's hostelry were awakened in the morning and in time for the departing stage by the sweet tunes the driver, perched high on his seat, was able to coax from his brazen bugle.

All three of these stage lines sanguinely promised to deliver their passengers at New York. But the stage run really ended at Paulus Hook. A ferry took the passengers across the Hudson and landed them in the vicinity of Cortlandt street.

By the time Belleville became an independent township, the heydays of the New York stage coach lines were drawing to a close. In 1833 the New Jersey Railroad Transportation Company had begun to operate between Newark and Jersey City. Horse power was the means of locomotion for the old-fashioned railroad cars that resembled—and in some cases were—stage coaches put on a different set of wheels. But a year later the first wood-burning locomotives were installed on the line. Bellevilleans en route to Newark and there make connection with the new railroad. The Belleville-New York stages ceased to run.

But the clatter of stage coaches was by no means silenced in Belleville's streets. The Newark-Paterson road had been a turnpike since the early 1800's. New stage lines followed this pike and provided the inhabitants of Belleville's main section with transportation to the north and south.

One of them was distinguished by carrying the United States mail and its owner could proudly announce this important fact in Newark Daily Advertiser:

Newark and Paterson Stage New Arrangement Commencing January 1st, 1840 U. S. MAIL LINE

A coach will leave N. Brown's Friend House, Paterson, at 8 o'clock A.M., leave Newark, Stewart's Hotel at 2 o'clock P.M.

The above coach will pass through Belleville and Acquackanonk Passaic every Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. All bundles and packages attended to with care and dispatch.

Fine, Agent and Driver All baggage at the risk of the owner thereof.

Transportation to Bloomfield "and points west" was provided via the Belleville Turnpike, still recognized today as Belleville avenue. This road began at the foot of the Rutgers street bridge, ran approximately due west, and intersected the Newark-Paterson turnpike at a point about midway between Bloomfield and "Cranetown" (Montclair).

The Newark-Pompton Turnpike (Bloomfield avenue) also served the residents of the Sun Fish Pond (Silver Lake) district of Belleville. They had but to walk across the fields to meet the Newark-Bloomfield stage coach. It came bowling along the road that then cut across the southwest corner of Belleville.

There in the vicinity of the old toll house that some old-timers may still remember, a regular stage stop was provided at Baxter's Hotel. Just at about the time that Belleville was getting ready to strike out on its own, the famous old stage line changed hands. Under a wood-cut depicting a fine coach drawn by four racing horses with the curls of a long whip hanging over them, the public was informed by "George W. Sharp, Prop., and John A. Sharp, Agent and Driver," that, "commencing Monday, November 26," the Bloomfield-Newark stage would leave Mun's Hotel at West Bloomfield "at 6 1/2 o'clock A.M., and Baxter's Hotel, East Bloomfield, at 7 o'clock A.M." The new owners also pointed with pride to the fact that "passengers by this line will arrive in Newark in season to take the steamboat to New York in the morning."

There also existed several direct stage lines from Belleville to Newark, serving mostly as "feeders" for the Newark-Jersey City railroad. Although supposedly meeting a pressing demand, these Belleville-Newark stages had frequent financial difficulties and changed hands often. One of the best known of the stage owners was "Jimmy" Riddle, whom a few old residents of Belleville still recall Jimmy's stage ran on a "pretty regular" schedule, and was started off and heralded upon arrival by a bugle fanfare.

The Newark stages took two routes. Some ran down Mill street to Main street, to the Gully road and to Newark via the old Newark-Aquackanonk road, (now Broadway). The other ran west of the Gully road and south to Newark over the "back" road. The back road began at Second River and ran over what is now Summer and Lincoln avenues, meeting the main Newark road, then as now, at Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

Adams' Hotel, at Mill and Bridge streets, was used by the passengers as a waiting station, and the Mansion House by the Main street passengers. Flanagan's stage, one of the many in the series of lines between Belleville and Newark, was famous for the stentorian tones in which its owner-driver announced that it was about to depart. Flanagan's "All-aboard" from the Adams' Hotel innyard as reported to have been audible "clear" to the other end of the town.

The stage lines had schedules suited to the seasons, and it was customary to announce changes in the public prints. In the Daily Advertiser of January 26, 1941, Thomas Mason, "grateful for past favors," announced that his new stage, "The Phoenix," was now running on "Winter arrangement" and would leave the Pavilion in Belleville at 8 A.M. and 2 P.M., respectively, "calling at Harrison's and Adams' Hotel" on its way to Newark. On the return trip The Phoenix would leave

Meador Wright's PIQUANT POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

The political repercussions of the mistrial of Newark officials in connection with the meadowland scandal are almost sure to be important, but it is a little hard at this writing to see just what direction they will take. No other outcome would have given such impetus to a change in government. But government change plans are handicapped by the fact that legislation is needed for most of them.

If sentiment in Newark were more favorable to city manager government, a change would be relatively easy. Specific legislation already exists to put city manager government into effect. But very few in Newark are sympathetic to it. It is a little hard to see why this is so. The basic feature about city manager rule is that the essential functions of government are removed one step from the will of the people. The voters elect council and the council selects a manager.

Same as Schools

This is the same plan that New Jersey's schools operate under. The superintendent of schools corresponds to the city manager and the board of education to the council. There is this difference, however: The board of education is usually selected by the mayor. This places the administrative official of the schools, the superintendent, still one more step away from the will of the people.

Under the new charter sponsored by the Broad Street Association, the city manager is selected by the Mayor. This resembles the school system plan somewhat more than it does the council manager form of government, and it might work better than the latter. But the difficulty lies in getting such a plan through the legislature.

Will Not Help Clean Government

It is a rather dismal commentary—but a true one nevertheless—that the better the plan of government proposed the less likelihood it has of passing the legislature. For it will be reasoned, and correctly, that a workable plan of government would inure more to the prestige of Clean Government than one less satisfactory. And it is a cardinal principle with the followers both of Harold G. Hoffman and those of Mayor Hague that nothing shall be done—at least not this year—that will strengthen this group in Essex. With both Democrats and the fol-

"Stewart's, Newark, at 10 o'clock A.M. and 5 o'clock P.M., calling at Tucker's and all the principal Hotels." The owner added that "slates will be kept at each place for the names and residence of his friends and others who will patronize him."

However, the old stage lines might have been able to improve their service had they done—they could not much longer hold their own against the Iron Horse. Belleville had been granted a charter for a steam railroad as early as 1836, but the scheme failed to materialize. In 1853 plans were made for another railroad, running from Bloomfield through Belleville to New York. These plans also came to naught, for Bloomfield wanted the railroad to run on the south side of Second River, while Belleville just as obstinately demanded that it run along the north side.

In 1860, finally, the Paterson and Newark Railroad was chartered. Eight years later the first locomotive with its wide smokestack steamed proudly through Belleville's Main street backyards. Yet even then another competitor had arisen for the few remaining local stage lines. Belleville avenue was opened from Mt. Pleasant Cemetery to Second River, and in 1865, horse cars made their appearance in Belleville. The horse car line was extended and the "hayburners" traveled from the Market street station of the Pennsylvania Railroad to Flanagan's Station for a fare of ten cents. Flanagan's Station stood about 100 feet from the present site of the North Newark Erie station.

Although the horse car company's charter provided that cars run to the north end of Belleville, they went only as far as Second River. Passengers going further north had to cross Second River by means of "teetery little foot bridges." Those going to Newark had to "foot it" through mud, snow, slush, rain, heat and dust, and then pay ten cents for the balance of the way on the horse cars into Newark.

Belleville's well developed steamboat facilities were pressed into service, and by running communication boats to Newark in competition with the horse cars, the company was brought to terms. For some time thereafter passengers had to change at Second River to little "jigger" horse cars which ran north on the newly constructed Washington avenue to Joramelon street for a fare of one cent. The glass box into which the fare was dropped was highly tempting to many individuals, who with skillful hand and a long wire were wont to pry the fare from the unprotected pennies.

The "Blue Line" horse cars were supplanted by electric trolleys as far as Second River in 1891, and three years later trolley service was extended into Belleville.

lowers of Hoffman opposing a bill, its chances of getting through promptly are very poor.

There is one new element in the situation that may tend to lessen any opposition from these two forces. This is the intense public feeling over the mistrial. That there was a mistrial is a product of chance. The public is mad clear through, and Hague and Hoffman may not care to risk courting this public anger by opposing, even passively, the determination of a majority of Newark citizens to have a new deal in government.

Another factor to be reckoned with is the attitude of Commissioner Joseph M. Byrne. Byrne was elected with the support of Col. William H. Kelly who at that time was close to Hague. Likewise, he has been a member of the Port of New York Authority by Hague's support. But at the same time he is not a man to permit outside influences to affect adversely his attitude toward good government.

If Byrne should favor a change of government, its chances of going through would be very much improved. Next to Arthur T. Vanderbilt, his position in Newark's affairs is more strategic than that of any other man.

Cope is Rebuffed

William C. Cope of Glen Ridge and Dr. Paul Keller of Newark do not appear to be getting very far in their efforts to persuade other county leaders to demand and Vanderbilt to accept a so-called compromise ticket in the September primaries. At a recent conference, Vanderbilt accused Cope and Keller of trying to stir up discord rather than to promote harmony. At the same time he indicated that he would stand pat on the present office holders going back. Political realists that they are, Cope and Keller knew that by this he simply meant that he would not permit them to have very much to do with selecting the next ticket.

Previously, he had told Republican Chairman Percy Miller that the latter's friendship for Harold G. Hoffman was an insurmountable barrier to Vanderbilt and Miller working together. Asked if he intended to support Clee, Vanderbilt replied that he had pledged his support to no one, but that he would be against Hoffman.

Snoop's Snoops

Seen walking the boardwalk at Atlantic City during the past week was Dr. Ernest Reock who, we understand, is attending the Dental Convention at the Ambassador Hotel. "Doc" stated it was so foggy at the shore that you couldn't see across the boardwalk.

Tom Walker, treasurer of the Mt. Vernon Die Casting Co., Mt. Vernon, N. Y., former assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Belleville, was seen in town on Saturday. From reports he is unable to find anyone in New York who can take care of the repairs on his Ford, so Tom came to Griggs & Meador (advertisers) to have the necessary work done.

Pat Tortorello, that genial singing and ever smiling letter carrier, is one of the regular baseball fans at the High School games. Of course, Pat has an attraction. His namesake and son, Pat, Jr., is the regular shortstop on the high school team.

The Belleville High School baseball team, is sporting a swell coat of tan. It's hard to understand how "Mac" was able to get this coloring during the Easter vacation, but on questioning "Mac" admitted that he spent a great deal of his time on the beach in Florida while waiting for his wife and son to get ready to come home after having spent the winter at Daytona.

Many of our prominent manufacturers and citizens who are seldom seen in or near the Town Hall were quite conspicuous at the public hearing of the budget on Monday in the Town Hall. Among those present were: Richard S. Bicknell, vice-president of Isolantite, Inc.; Wilbur Brooks, vice-president of First National Bank; Frank Chabers, vice-president of National Grain, Yeast Corp.; John P. Dailey, executive secretary of Belleville Manufacturers' Association; Philip Detelbach, plant manager, L. Sonneborn Sons, Inc.; Roy Dickinson, Al Hart; George Kimberlee, president of No. 3 School P. T. A.; Edward Lister, director of recreation; Clarence R. Lommerin, treasurer, Viking Tool & Machine Co.; James Lynch, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Education; H. Willard Sawyer, secretary of Thomson Machine Co.; David Shirk, president of Rare Metal Products Co.; Martin F. Tiernan, president of Wallace & Tiernan Co., Inc.; Nelson Webb, Eastwood - Nealley Corp.; Mr. Wilcox, Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., and Edward Yerg, president of Yerg, Inc.

That's the price, of course, delivered at Flint, Mich.—transportation, state and local taxes (if any) are additional as usual. But where else will you get a great

Dynafash straight-eight to sport you to the front at a nudge, or never-grow-less Buick Springing to cradle every fleeting mile? The answer is

THE announcement of the Sweepstakes committee that entries were still acceptable should bring quite a few more bowlers into the fold. Even before the announcement was made many legklers had almost taken it for granted and quite a few entries straggled in Sunday and Monday.

We have talked to many bowlers about the Sweepstakes during the past few weeks and it is strange the way some of them look at the affair and the reasons some give for delaying their entries or not entering at all.

The most common complaint is that "Aw, gee, I'm no good; I wouldn't have a chance against the big shots." Say that again, brother, but think when you say it. It has been loudly advertised that this is a handicap event—you will have enough pins added to your average to make you theoretically equal to anyone in the first five net averages.

Then, "It's too late in the season; I'm kinda fed up on bowling." That's the effortless guy talking. What he was thinking was, "It's too much trouble; I think I'll skip it." The poor boy is so tired another three games will probably put him in a state of nervous collapse. Quick, Jasper, the sofa.

If the boys would only stop to think that the fun they'll have, the chance that will be theirs to meet and compare notes with bowlers from other leagues and other parts of the state, would be worth the entrance fee even if they didn't win any of the prize money, there would be little hesitancy in getting into the swim.

So Stop! and Reconsider! And we'll be seeing you at the North Newark Alleys next weekend.

Rough Cuts On The Diamond
"I would seem that Frank Smith has something there. At least, his boys were the flop on the diamond before the season started. Of course, whenever a coach talks about the prospects for his team you've got to take the square root and divide by two before you throw up the towel.

The pitching staff looks good, with three or four starting hurlers, the fielding is good even though four bobbles in the South Side game may not look too nice in the box score, the catching assignment seems to be in capable hands. Of course, we can't say too much for the batting eyes. A dozen hits in two games will never set any worlds on fire, but when you realize that the Bellboys have tallied eleven runs on those twelve hits you've got to admit that Frank Smith has something there."

Away from the campus, however, the picture is not so bright. None of the local nines have shown too great promise as yet. From the Senators, Hilltops, Cobras and other of last year's standouts, nothing has been heard. In the Eagle camp the picture is pretty gloomy, the Eagles have failed to score in their first two games while 30 runs have been entered on the debit side. The Cardinals were hopeful before last weekend but the shellacking in Orange picked the bubble. The Pitt Minors were none too flashy in their official debut either.

The Triangles alone still have hopes—they haven't opened their season yet. Looks like some tall hustling has to be done if the Belleville-Nutley championship is going to stay in town.

And Then, We Have Softball
Yes, and then we have softball. That is still very much in the embryonic stage so little is to be said regarding its prospects. Yet with one exception the same apathy is there.

The exception is that of the Senior Softball League which the Recreation Commission is putting into circulation this summer. Nine teams have signed up and the schedule is all arranged. They'll get going in another week and, judging from the rosters of some of the teams, it's going to be a fight right down to the finish wire.

But what about this Junior Softball League the Rec. Comm. and the VFW are putting their heads together about? Only six teams have responded when there are at least twice that number looking for games. Some people like special invitations maybe. It might mean another trip out west for the champions.

For all that anybody knows the Belleville Manufacturers' Softball League might be as dead as Tut-Ankh-Amen. The authorities behind the circuit seemingly are trying to keep it a secret. With the season ripe they haven't even released a roster of teams much less a schedule.

The Washingtonians, a crowd of softball bugs, get together every Monday (starting next Monday) in the field next to the High School, choose up sides, play a game with the losers buying the ice cream among. Among the many celebrities in attendance are Pat Terry, Kachin, Mitch Os Vitt Marshall, Nick Di Maggio Candura, Al McNally, Kachin, Pete Durocher Lee, Abe Stengel Roberts, Joe Connie Mack Grosch, Bill Neum Simpson, Bud McCarthy Ward, and others. Tomorrow they're going to have a practice session to decide which to keep, whom to ship back to the minors. From the way they talk, everybody's welcome.

Tea Given Woman's Club Committee For "Symphonies Under The Stars"

Local Group interested in Essex Symphony Society

The Woman's Club was attractively decorated with spring flowers on Saturday afternoon for the tea which was given for the committee interested in Symphonies Under the Stars, conducted by the Essex County Symphony Society at the City Schools Stadium, Newark, during the month of June, each year.

Alexander Snellen, one of America's finest operatic and symphonic conductors will again wield the baton. This year the Symphony Society brings the finest array of soloists yet presented in these outdoor concerts. Every effort is being put forth to make these concerts most enjoyable for what will undoubtedly be the largest crowd ever assembled for a music festival in America.

Lawrence Tibbett, leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Association, will be heard on Tuesday, June 6, Joseph Hofmann, world's foremost pianist, June 13, Emanuel Feuermann, master cellist, Tuesday, June 20, and Lily

It's spring again and, should there be any lingering doubt about it, the final proof is that the circus is coming! It's due in Belleville Sunday, May 7, and will give two performances at Belleville Park, May 8, under the auspices of the Woman's Club.

A bang-up show is promised. Among the many attractions are trained elephants, lions, bears and other wild animals, monkeys, ponies, horses, dogs, together with a whole heap of clowns, acrobats, gymnasts and freaks. All will do feats and tricks that will be a thrill to see.

This is Eddy Brothers' big three-ring circus. It is one of the largest in the United States and travels on an entire caravan of motor trucks. It will be on show at Bellwood Park all through Sunday while setting up the city of tents.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY REFORMED DRAMATISTS

Group Has Chosen
"Odrecaes" As Its Name

The organization meeting of the Dramatic Club of the Reformed First Church of Belleville was held Monday evening in the church chapel. The group selected as its name, The Odrecaes Society.

Officers elected include: president, George W. Price; vice-president and coach, Mrs. Violet E. Trocin; secretary, Mrs. M. Ruth Dunkinson and treasurer, Robert F. Wolf.

Fred H. Woodward, Jr., was appointed publicity chairman. Mrs. Trocin, Mrs. Dunkinson and Mr. Wolf were selected as the play reading committee. Mr. Price, Mr. Wolf and Mr. Woodward are the committee appointed to draft a constitution.

Business meetings will be the third Monday of each month. The May meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Dunkinson, Newark. A notable performance of "Sound Your Horn" will be given May 17 in Grace Baptist Church. It will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist Church. The original cast will perform.

Local Art Student Is Winner In Poster Contest

Another triumph has been recorded for the Art Department of the High School under the supervision of P. Webster Diehl. Word has been received that Miss Genevieve Holland has been declared one of New Jersey's winners in the National World's Fair Poster Contest. Miss Holland, a last year senior, submitted the poster before her graduation from Belleville High last spring.

Features At The Capitol

Loretta Young and Warner Baxter romp through a blithe, some, blissful, catch-as-catch-can romance in "Wife, Husband and Friend" which opens at the Capitol Theatre, Belleville, Sunday for a three day showing.

The sparkling story casts Loretta as a gay, beautiful young wife and ardent husband. All is bliss until Loretta's friend and music teacher, Cesar Romero, convinces her she can and should sing. She does, to hubby Warner's dismay. Then he finds a friend in need in a beautiful opera singer, played by Binnie Barnes. Because she convinces him that he can sing—and should, if only to turn the tables on friend wife. Things get madder and madder from this point on, until the perfect marriage is almost sacrificed on the altar of music. But all ends well in one of the funniest climaxes the screen has ever shown. In the second act John Garfield has the starring role in "Blackwell's Island" a Warner Bros. picture based upon the fantastic jail scandal that shocked New Yorkers several years ago. Rosemary Lane and Stanley Fields have prominent parts.

Photographic Club

C. B. Smith, a member of the Belleville Photographic Club, proved so interesting in a discussion at a recent meeting of the group as regards the principles of photographic lighting and its best advantages in picture taking that the club members will place the principles in practical use at the next meeting at 7:30 Monday evening in the Recreation House, Jerusalem street and Garden avenue.

The club, under the sponsorship of the Recreation Commission, invites amateur, as well as professional camera enthusiasts to the meeting. All are urged to bring cameras and film.
