Rotarians Informally Talk On "What's New In Business"

Golf Tournament Planned at Forest Hill Club Course August 2

"What's New in Your Business?" is the subject of informal talks by Belleville Rotarians at luncheon in Forest Hill Field Club. The series got under way yesterday under supervision of President George Kaden who took office last week, succeeding Lawrence E. Keenan, whose term of office expired. Mr. Keenan was presented a past president's pin by William J. Sweney.

The first of the informal talks was given by Harry Specht of the Eastwood-Neely Corp. Such a plan has been followed successfully by the Newark club.

Wilbur Brooks, executive vice-president of the First National Bank, will conduct a golf tournament among members at the Field Club following the meeting on August 2.

Julius Paas is breaking records for big fish, his latest conquests being along the Jersey shore.

Ernie Wright, Sr. and Ernie, Jr., are traveling back and forth from Saranac Lake as though it was a mere jaunt. They have a summer place there.

"Dick" Carson enjoys reminiscing about the time he tried to buy some equipment for his file works up in Gorham Me. "Bill" Sweney knows Maine like a book. He summers at Bailey Island and points north and east.

W. Douglas Clark, Jr., secretary-treasurer, Clark & Hammer, Inc., 85 Academy street, has been elected to fill the classification: "Venetian Blind Manufacturing."

Last week Thomas R. McHale gave an interesting report of the Rotary convention at Cleveland and the gathering at White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia. He attended with Rev. Peter R. Deckenbach, district governor. The pair had much to do with the election of Walter Head, Montclair, as president of Rotary International.

GEBHARDT ATTENDS LIONS CONVENTION IN PITTSBURGH

Four-Day Conclave Will Come to End Tomorrow

Climaxing its greatest year of expansion, from July 1, 1938 to June 30, 1939, Lions International concludes its twenty-third annual convention in Pittsburgh, Pa., tomorrow. There has been a four-day program of business and entertainment. Registrations are the largest in Lions convention history, and attendance passed the 12,000 mark. Charles A. Gebhardt, Jr., school commissioner, who is district governor and a member of the local club attended.

In the past twelve months, under the presidency of Walter F. Dexter, state superintendent of education for California, the International Association of Lions Clubs chartered 557 new clubs and registered a net increase in membership of nearly 20,000, making it the largest service club in the United States and Canada, with nearly 3,500 clubs and 125,000 members.

The convention celebrated this year of expansion. The only comparable year in the past twenty-three years was 1927-28. Delegations to the convention arrived on special trains, by motorcade, and quite a number by airplane. The president of the Lions Club of Ponce, Puerto Rico, flew his own plane to Pittsburgh for the four-day conclave.

Special trains went from Texas, California, New York, New England, Florida and Illinois, and most of the specials carried high school bands with them to participate in the annual juvenile band contests to be conducted as part of the four-day program.

An unusual feature of the program was a "lion beauty parade" of real, live four-legged lions. The entries were youthful, not more than eight months of age, and there were eight of them, from as many sections of the country.

The "beauty parade" was conducted in conjunction with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures, and climaxed a two-month nationwide hunt by Lions Clubs for a lion cub to serve as understudy and eventually replace MGM's famous Leo. The winning cub will be signed up immediately by M-G-M, given star rating, and taken to New York for Lions Day at the World's Fair, Saturday. From there he will be flown direct to Hollywood to begin his movie career.

Victor Hart, first vice-president, chairman of the program committee, last week arranged a spontaneous solo songfest among members. Normandy D. Lauterette of the National Grain & Yeast Co. sang exceedingly well and Town Commissioner Louis A. Noll, past president of the club, was awarded first honors for the funniest song. Alan Sexton was judged the best singer.

On July 20 there will be a golf tournament at the Fernelcliff course.

Unable to persuade either the county or state to take over Main street from the Belleville Bridge to the Nutley line, local town officials are preparing to ask the Essex County Park Commission to aid in repairing damage to the street which they say is partly caused by the new parkway along the Passaic River.

According to Town Engineer Matthew Sheehan construction of the parkway altered the town's drainage system so that storm waters continually wash out parts of Main street. Sheehan said it would take $1,800 to even partially repair the street. Mayor Williams said he would ask the park commission for help.

The board has passed an amendment to the liquor ordinance to permit the granting of a new tavern license to Peter Stevenson, former part owner of the Chateau and Grill, 170 Washington avenue.

Public Safety Director William D. Clark has recommended for the second time the purchase of an Ahrens-Fox 1,000 gallon pumper for the fire department. Representatives of three manufacturers recently met with the board in a special conference. The $11,100 cost has been appropriated.

Clark also recommended a 60-foot addition be built on the rear of Fire Headquarters, Washington avenue, for a work shop. Town Engineer Sheehan was asked to prepare an estimate of the cost as a WPA project.

Says Stadium Unsafe

The concrete walls being constructed as part of the $500,000 recreation project on the turf bog were characterized last week as unsafe by Francis Carragher, son of the late former commissioner Frank J. Carragher. The stadium is being built as a WPA project.

Following heavy rains June 30 flood waters caused parts of the walls of the stands to buckle and crack and a section of the carrying wall to tilt four inches. The damage came after a catch basin backed up and a water pipe leading to the stadium broke.

Carragher said that blame should be placed on Joseph Becker, construction boss, who had differences with Carragher on a building job years ago. However, town and WPA officials said the damage could in no way be blamed on construction faults.

"I come before this board," Carragher said, "to request that Becker be taken from this job. As the father of four children who might some day want to use that field, I feel those stands are going to be a menace."

Carragher, a former building contractor, continued, "Becker was one of those who said the building we built for the Overman Cushion Tire Co. would not last a year. That was sixteen years ago and it's still as good as new."

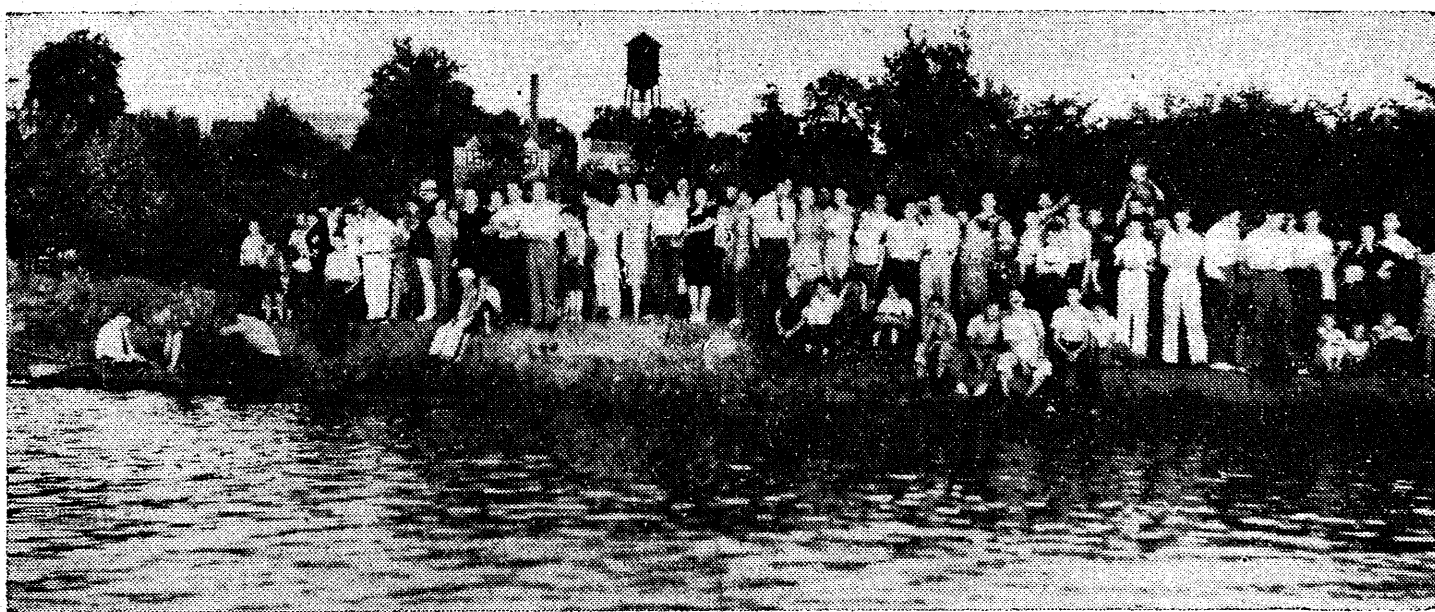

Public Works Director Waters and Town Engineer Sheehan said the damage to the walls was due to an "act of the elements," and not to faulty construction. They said competent WPA engineers had approved the construction work. They said Becker was appointed by the state WPA office and was subject to its supervision.

"You say the crumbling of the walls is due to rain," Carragher stated. "And you think it was never going to rain in Belleville? Matty Sheehan is my friend, and he may be a darn good road man or sewer man, but he couldn't build a chicken coop."

When the catch basin in the street became plugged up, they said, rain water backed up to the base of the wall and washed out ground still loose from construction. As this ground settled it burst the water pipe and this added enough water to cause the shift and cracking of the wall.

If the catch basin had not plugged up, if the pipe had not burst or if the ground had had a little longer to settle the damage would not have occurred, the WPA men said.

Scene Where Boy Was Drowned In Passaic

Crowd on the North Arlington bank of the Passaic River, opposite Holmes street at the foot of Hedden terrace watching police, firemen and civilians grapple and dive for the body of ten-year-old Thomas Pye, Newark, who was drowned Friday. The body was washed up Sunday at the foot of Nutley avenue, Nutley, over a mile away where strong tides had carried it.

SERVICES HELD TUESDAY FOR CAPT. ESSAYAN

World War Veteran Had Conducted Fishing Parties

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the House of Prayer, Newark, for Captain Martin Essayan, forty-one, 120 Floyd street, who died of a heart attack early Saturday in his home. He was captain and owner of the fishing boats, Brae Burn and Charavai, at the Newark Commercial Dock.

Captain Essayan was born in Constantinople and came to the United States in 1913. He lived in New York and Newark before coming to Belleville twelve years ago. Formerly owner of the York Food Co. in Sussex avenue, Newark, Captain Essayan retired from that business seven years ago and began to conduct fishing trips on his two boats.

Last summer he saved four persons from drowning off the Jersey shore after their boat caught fire. He had continued to be active in his work until Friday when he took a fishing party off Sea Bright aboard the Brae Burn.

During the World War, Captain Essayan served in the Navy aboard the U.S.S. Frederick and the U.S.S. President Lincoln. During his service he was one of four survivors of a torpedoed craft.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Essayan, he leaves a daughter, Alyce, Belleville; a brother, George, Newark, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Bakalian, Belleville.

Real Estate Transactions In North Newark

Sales and leases in the North Newark section are reported by Susan and Agnes Coleman, realtors. The two one-family houses at 446 and 448 Summer avenue have been sold to Nicholas Darco for Elizabeth Monteith. Herrigal & Herrigal represented the seller and Joseph Sugrue represented the buyer.

Property at 14 Romaine place, Newark, has been leased to Cornelius Bosman for Philip C. Fink through the Susan & Agnes Coleman Agency.

A thirteen-room house at 50 Broad street, has been leased to Earle Peterson for May Tortorello and 17 Wakeman avenue, Newark, leased to J. H. Ward for Martin C. Unfried through the Coleman Agency.

Belleville, N. J.

The Passaic River Sunday gave up the body of Thomas Pye, ten, 618 Mt. Prospect avenue, Newark, who was drowned Friday when he stepped into a deep hole while wading along the shore near Belleville Bridge. It is believed he stepped into a hole where a pile had held up the old bridge. He was the sixth drowning victim claimed by the treacherous stream this year.

Wading with Pye was his cousin, John Bough, sixteen, Emmetsburg, O. A large number of bathers at a beach about a quarter of a mile way rushed to the scene. The boys had started for a pool in Lyndhurst where Pye's father had told him he could swim. On the way the calm waters of the river under a hot summer sky proved too inviting and the boys at Hedden terrace, North Arlington, undressed and waded in, Thomas walking into the hole. John gave the alarm.

John was visiting the family of Gene V. Bough, a relative who lives at the same address as the Pye boy.

Was Honor Pupil

Thomas was looking forward to visiting the World's Fair next week. Last month he had completed the fifth grade at Our Lady of Good Counsel School with the highest scholastic standing in his class and was awarded a medal. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt S. Pye; two brothers, William and Roy; a half-brother, Carl, and two sisters, Jean and Joan.

Grapplers searched all day Friday, Saturday and Sunday for the body, which came to the surface Sunday afternoon and was seen by a policeman. Policemen, firemen, civilians and three men joined in an effort to find the body. Chanceman Edward Wesolowski, Nutley, discovered the body floating off Nutley avenue, over a mile from where the boy had waded in the river.

By Sunday hundreds of spectators watched the authorities' attempts to recover the body. During the afternoon Louis Hauck, Kingsland avenue, Lyndhurst, one of the three to use the diving helmet, stepped into a deep hole while feeling his way through the muddy water. The airline attached to the helmet snapped. Hauck immediately rid himself of the helmet, which was weighted to his shoulders with lead slugs weighing eighty-five pounds.

Police recovered the helmet with grappling hooks, but were unable to locate the lead slugs. The helmet cannot be used without them. Archie McCafferty, 395 Page avenue, Lyndhurst, and J. "Issie" Bitterman, 130 Johnson avenue, Newark, who, like Hauck, are employees at the Lyndhurst swimming pool, had worked with the helmet in relays for about four hours.

John told Mr. and Mrs. Pye that he turned away from Thomas for a moment and when he looked in his direction again Thomas was in difficulty in deep water. He told Thomas' parents that his playmate disappeared beneath the surface before nearby swimmers reached the spot. Neither boy could swim.

JR. ORDER PLANS BOAT RIDE TO RYE BEACH

Proceeds Will Go To Fund For Orphans

A boat ride for the benefit of orphans has been arranged by united councils of the Junior Order in Essex County for Sunday, July 30 from Center street Commercial Wharf, Newark, to Playland, Rye Beach, N. Y. The steamer "Calvert" has been chartered for the occasion and will get under way at 8:30 o'clock that morning.

Those in charge are Marting G. Schwartz, chairman; Howard Van Orden, Howard Chandler, William C. Oswald, Philip Kirschner and Fred Brown.

An excellent opportunity will be afforded those who make the trip to view the World's Fair from water in the daytime and the lights of the Fair at night. Tickets may be obtained from Mr. Schwartz, 39 Tonia avenue. Prices are listed in an advertisement in this issue of the Belleville News.

There will be music for dancing and refreshments.

HYDRANT SNAPPED WHEN STEERING GEAR BREAKS

Motorist Loses Control Machine in Accident Here

Driving an automobile west in Belleville avenue Saturday Jack Del Giudice, 24 Cook avenue, Madison, and a passenger, Thomas Pancione, 104 Oak street, Newark, were injured when the steering apparatus broke, causing Del Giudice to swerve to the curb, the machine crashing against a fire hydrant with such force that the hydrant was snapped off.

Both men were taken to St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, in the police ambulance by Patrolman Raymond Demgard and Chanceman Doran. Pancione was injured about the forehead to such an extent that six stitches were required to close the wound.

Hartley Meetings Off During the Summer

The Fred A. Hartley, Jr., Association has called off meetings during July and August. The next meeting of the group will be the third week in September.

Belleville Teachers Improve Professionally By Courses

Report Shows Forty-Three Spent Spare Time In Study

Local teachers are spending considerable time and money improving professionally, a report of the Belleville Teachers' Association states. A survey conducted by the association shows that forty-three teachers have thus used some of their spare time. "While this is a splendid response, it is only about forty percent of the actual figures based on the report. The tabulation will show both the actual report and the proper estimate of what the figures would have been if one hundred percent of us had answered the questionnaire," says the report.

	100% Estimates	40% Actual
Summer School points received	210	83
Extension points received	680	272
Miles traveled taking courses	38,000	15,000
Cost of courses	$5,000	$2,281
Other expenses fare, books, etc.	$2,400	$ 961
Hours in school and study	22,000	8,800

"Using the one hundred percent figures only we are proud to state the following facts: The teachers of Belleville have in one year completed a little over six and a half years of college work or a little more than one and two-thirds college educations. We have actually traveled more than once and half again around the world!"

"The cost of courses equals the salaries of four beginning teachers or the price of equivalent of those 'cute' little Crosley cars or 4,545 theatre tickets (if you sit in the $1.10 seats - and who doesn't?) Other expenses of fares, books, etc. would have taken a person around the world on a super-extra-special luxury cruise!"

"916 1/2 whole days have been used up with attending classes and doing assignments. Really two and a half years were devoted to study in the year now ending. These figures are ones of which every Belleville teacher may well be proud. Either each teacher is adding to our accumulated record or is a member of a group with that record; the professional status of Belleville has been materially raised this year. It may justly be said that its growth has been accomplished through the unselfish desire of teachers to do better things and their willingness to spend time and money on improving Belleville's instruction."

Memberships

Eighty-two of Belleville's teachers joined the Classroom Teachers of the Department of Elementary Education in New Jersey, the largest organization of teachers within the New Jersey State Teachers' Association. Schools joined in the following numbers: No. One, 8; No. Two, 5; No. Three, 0; No. Four, 15; No. Five, 14; No. Seven, 16; No. Eight, 16; No. Nine, 0; No. Ten, 8. Several buildings had one hundred percent and thus helped their professional organization.

Accomplishments

Publishing BTA. It is the hope of the editing staff that all teachers have found the bulletin useful. Its aim has been to keep all informed of actions of the Board of Governors.

Program of Teacher-Community relations. It is the general opinion that there is a better understanding between teachers and townspeople.

Publicity given work of BTA. The newspapers were very generous in giving space to the Belleville Teachers' Association.

Board of Education and Superintendent good will. Relations with the members of the Board of Education and Mr. Wayne R. Farmer have been more than satisfactory.

Promotion of lecture: This activity was the most unified the BTA has ever experienced. To fill the H. S. auditorium was no small task. That it was accomplished shows that about 200 teachers can work together successfully and unselfishly.

Donation of $133.14 to charity. This has helped teacher relations

Grand-Pa

School Commissioner James Lynch may well afford to puff out his chest. He is a granddad.

A daughter, Joan Sharon, was born Sunday to his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Lynch, Jr., Morris Plains. Mr. Lynch, Jr., is a school teacher in Morris Township.

Inadvertently last week in the Elks' column failure was made to note Mr. Lynch as an Elk. School Board President Herbert C. Schmutz and vice-president Charles A. Gebhardt alone were mentioned as looking after the interest of the boys and girls of Belleville. Mr. Lynch should have been included.

with the community and has shown that they are above all interested in the welfare of Belleville's children.

Increasing membership to 168. This is the highest it has ever been since the Belleville Teachers' Association has been in existence.

Affiliation with N. E. A. The BTA has joined this national organization for next year. Operations on half the dues. The BTA dues were reduced to $50 and the budget even shows a surplus!

Picnic Postponed

The picnic that was to have been held in June was postponed until the fall by Mrs. Mildred Clarke, chairman of the program committee. The pressure of various activities at this time of the year would keep too many away, and the fall date will make it possible for the new teachers to be welcomed. All will be notified at the beginning of next September of the date selected.

LOUD SPEAKERS OUT FOR A WHILE AT HIGH SCHOOL

Board to Give Matter a Little More Study

The damper has been placed on a radio in high school over a public address system for the time being, at least, it was decided Monday night by the Board of Education.

"Gosh, I'd give anything if they tune down that thing."

"Do they have to play it so loud?"

These and many other exclamations thereby will be spared teachers from high school pupils, who would rather "poke their noses" in books through the edict—or will they?

"Oh, yeah?" asks you. "Well, maybe we're wrong. In fact we know we are. But just the same there'll be no 'squeekies' for the youngsters come next fall and there will not be a radio in every room—or even a chicken in every pot—or car in every garage—for that matter."

Not that the school board doesn't think youngsters may keep up on current events or what have you through the installation of the loud speaking outfit, but it needs a little more delving into, or something.

Fact of the matter is this radio business is going through a transitory period, what with television and so on and so on, say the board members.

Land's sakes. So help us. Nobody knows what's in the air a year from now or tomorrow, fear some of the officials who gather each third Monday in the month at Public School No. 8. The whole radio setup may be shaken up.

Would Cost $4,637

Thus and so is the reason that $4,637 will not be turned into the loud speakers right now from a fund of unexpended balances that has accrued by careful manipulation of school funds.

School Commissioners James Lynch and Mrs. Homer Zink urged that the board delay action. Lynch said he feels that radio is still in its pioneering stage and that the value of the radio educational programs to the high school is problematical since it depends on the flexibility of the classes.

Mrs. Zink said she understood that vital developments in radio in the next year might change the usefulness of such a system, although an up-to-date one would eventually be desirable. Walter Gilby suggested as a cheaper plan a radio in every room, "they can be bought for $12 apiece."

Herbert C. Schmutz, board president, spoke in favor of the system but later asked that the recommendation be laid over until the other members of the board had a chance to see the system in action.

PWA Plea Advanced

The board was informed Congressman Fred A. Hartley that its application for funds for an addition to No. 3 has been placed in a preferred list awaiting funds. The project is estimated to cost approximately $8,000 with the town's share $4,000.

The board authorized payment of $1,574.11 to William H. H. former school janitor amount represents a year's pay up to June 19. Hood discharged by the board last and appealed the dismissal. State Board of Education in Hood in his contention should receive the back pay. The amount provided for pension de-

CLOVER CLUB TO MEET

The Clover Club will meet this evening in the home of Mrs. Anna J. Dillon, 85 Dow street. Members are asked to attend as business of importance will be discussed. Mrs. Kathryn Rothery is president and Mrs. Adelaide McGinty, secretary.

Kegless

There must have been a party in town Saturday.

At least, James McGrory, tavern owner, 227 William street, thinks so. Someone forced entrance to his cellar and confiscated a keg of beer.

Activities of Belleville Lodge, 1123, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks

by Brother Bill

Well, folks, we have made the first error since Hector was a pup! Last week in telling about the Elks, who are up and coming townsters, we forgot to mention that on the school board along with "Herb" Schmutz and "Charlie" Gebhardt, Jr., is James M. Lynch, who also adds his best for the kiddies of our town.

The subject of our column this week is Frank Kelly — battling Kelly — the old battler who has dropped his first decision since 1914. Who stopped him? Time, in the form of old man Rheumatics. has the once smart stepping, scintillating "Kel" groping his way along Washington avenue. Decked out in a pair of sun glasses, hat in hand, we saw him the other day.

Doubled up is no way for "Kel," no siree. It brings one back to the hey day of his career when, without any training or even taking a deep breath, he won fifty-two battles. That was way back — but why go that far back? Three of the battles stand out in Brother Bill's memory — they were classics. There was the one-round K.O. of "Ike" Harker. This fracas started on a Saturday afternoon and wound up Sunday night when Ike ran into a telegraph pole. He asked "Kel" to drive home the car. "Kel" turned to "Ike" and said: "When do you want the pole delivered?"

There was a setto with "Bill" Whitten that was a "honey," with thirty-one spectators forming a ring. The place was in an uproar as the contestants were about to square off. Kingsiders held their breath for "Kel" was doing some fancy foot work — shadow boxing, as it were. A quick K.O. was looked for when someone asked "Kel" for his "bones" to accompany a lively tune that "snuk" in from somewhere. Now those who don't know had just as well learn now that "Kel" can shake a mean pair of bones — two sort of sticks held between the fingers to accompany music. By the time he got them out of his pocket "Bill" was down at Forked River pulling up the big fish you hear about, but never see, especially the one I was promised Sunday night by the same Bill, well, Ben, if you want to call him that.

Then there was that memorable, never-to-be-forgotten battle between George Pond and "Kel." Unlike most of his battles, this one came out of a clear sky for "Kel." The pair were just about to tangle when Jay De Lon Ay — all right, Jay Delaney, to you, breaks forth with: "Hold Tight." In a flash it dawned on George that about forty years ago he had visited a dentist for some masonry. By the time George took care of removal of the crockery "Kel" was home dreaming of paint brushes and scaffolds, or was it the days that he rejected a whole carload or roomful of shells in the fuse works.

All joking aside. The boys are sorry that one so jovial and lively as "Kel" had to be overtaken in this manner. There is no doubt but that in a week or so "Kel" will again be able to cross with his left and bring up his right on old man Rheumatics' cheek.

The Elks' Tuesday night parties are just what the doctor ordered. About 350 persons attended last Tuesday's affair. Never before has the entertainment been of such high calibre. The performers just chuckle with glee and the patrons are hoarse from applauding.

Tom MacNair, vice-chairman of the Board of Governors, is official greeter. A lot has been said about Grover Whalen, but he hasn't anything on our "Tom." "Jim" Ferguson seems to it that there is nary a thing in the way of congestion at the door, directing people hither and yon. "Bill" Priestman cracks one joke after another which causes patrons to approach "Butch" Sandford to explain them. "Bill" Whitten and "Art" Mayer prepare the programs and there is never a hitch. Henry Gemeinhart, Jr., Walter Lowe, Henry Charrner and "Joe" Talbot would hard all evening taking care of all and their uncles.

Of course, good old "Doc" Martin lays out the plans and has everything in order for the rest of the boys to go right on with the show. The busist fellow at the party is Exalted Ruler Emil Kastner, who supervises activities from start to finish. All in all, fellows, the Elks are coming along nicely, and if you want to see team work just trot around some Tuesday night and watch the boys perform.

Be sure to tune in on next week's program and hear about the fishing party on Sunday, August 13. 1003ae-00.

NATIONAL RITUALISTIC WINNERS

Special to The Belleville News

ELIZABETH — The Ritualistic team of Elizabeth Lodge of Elks Wednesday won first prize and $500 in the national ritualistic contest held at the national convention in St. Louis. The team had won the state title in Belleville early this year.

To celebrate the victory, the lodge welcomed the team home Friday night with a parade through city streets and a reception at its Westfield avenue club house. The Elks' Band of forty pieces headed the procession. Delegations from Elks' clubs in neighboring communities participated.

The team is made up of Victor H. Eichorn, exalted ruler; John A. Kervick, esteemed leading knight; George R. Bock, esteemed loyal knight; F. J. Donahue, esteemed lecturing knight; Charles T. Shalleross, esquire; Charles V. Kionimus, chaplain, and Francis H. Brown, inner guard.

Teresa K. Salmon, chairman of St. Peter's excursion to Roton Point, Conn., has been observed on some of the town's back streets in a new Buick car, and in the company of Sy Symonds. But don't get alarmed. It only means that she is taking lessons in driving.

TWO bandits became so excited Friday night while holding up a railroad towerman that they permitted him to throw $3 out a window and then overlooked $30 he had in a locker.

The bandits climbed into the Erie Railroad tower at Tiffany place, near Mt. Prospect avenue, Forest Hill, after 9 p.m. Arthur Morris, 145 Wildwood terrace, Union, was alone on duty. The men demanded his money.

When Morris replied he had none, one of them punched him. Morris removed $3 he had in his pocket and tossed it out the window. It was recovered near the tracks later by radio police.

The bandits broke into Morris' locker but overlooked the money during their hurried search. Angered at their failure they beat Morris again and ran. Morris was taken to City Hospital, where he was treated for face injuries. He gave a description of the men to Detectives Kirwan and Wenkowski.

FURTHER STUDY NEEDED

The Board of Education Monday night decided to hold in abeyance its proposed plan to install a loud speaker system of broadcasting in each room in the high school.

While it is generally recognized that such systems keep pace with progress and that the installation here would keep Belleville right up with the Joneses, it is wise to hold off. Television is in the air and other radical changes, so engineers say, are contemplated in the field of radio. No great harm can come from waiting a while. Maybe when Belleville gets ready for the system the radio business will be sailing along on an even keel — at least for a few years without too many major changes. Right now is a bad time to put in the system.

ANOTHER DROWNING IN THE PASSAIC

Last Friday a North Newark youngster who could not swim waded out into the Passaic River across from Belleville and was drowned when he stepped into a hole. The lad had been given permission by his father to go to a Lyndhurst pool where bathing would have been safe for him, but, perhaps the weather and the urge of every boy to try his own wings, proved too strong and he met his death in unsafe and treacherous waters.

Time after time there have been warnings to lads who cannot swim to steer clear of not only the Passaic River but other large bodies of water. These warnings go unheeded. Parents cannot be blamed for all the trouble. Here was a case where the lad's parents sent him to a safe place, but he used his own judgment and went to another swimming hole. Perhaps the answer lies in compulsory swimming lessons for boys and girls in the schools. Even good swimmers sometimes drown, but their chances are better than the youngsters who cannot swim at all.

Here are two other suggestions that might work. It might be a good idea for some of the service organizations to form swimming clubs. No better service could be rendered any municipality than to teach youngsters to swim. Some agency has to assume a certain amount of responsibility or drownings will continue to mount. Belleville is not so large but what some sort of a river patrol might be organized among high school or other young folks who are good swimmers. Some of these lads — the conscientious ones — would like nothing better than to patrol the river during the summer. Here is a chance for the young folks to show an interest in a community project and at the same time have a good time out in the open. A little discussion along this line wouldn't hurt.

FAIR FEET

Recently we had occasion to visit the New York World's Fair and if we had our candid camera with us we would have had some pictures of feet — fancy ones and just plain feet.

Which leads us to the point. An awful hullabaloo is being made about foot trouble for visitors at the Fair. Evidently to prepare for a two or three-hour leisurely stroll around the Fair grounds and buildings most of the visitors must first be treated by a podiatrist or they will surely have to be after the trip.

Foot-trouble talk first developed during the Chicago Fair in 1933. It never was of at the St. Louis Fair in 1904 or of at the Buffalo in 1901 or at Chicago in 1892. It is easy to understand why most women have trouble in walking for several years anywhere. If the average man put on the women's shoe contraptions, he would hardly cross a room. So a leading New York foot doctor has issued a number of suggestions on what to wear and what not to wear.

But aside from the types of shoes worn it is a sad fact that neither the average man nor the average woman today can endure a good long walk such as was a delightful exercise for their parents and grandparents. Even trained athletes, football and baseball men will tire out quickly on our city streets.

This reminds us that Edward Nugent, former Nutley pugilist, a life guard at Long Beach and exponent of walking, some years ago told us that in a few years we would be a nation of folks without legs — at least, sans legs that would hold us up for any length of time because people simply don't walk since the automobile became universal. Eddie had something there. It may in fairness be said most folks can't walk on our main highways without endangering their lives. It is too bad, for walking is the best of all exercises and a walk of ten or fifteen miles through the countryside was more enjoyable than 100 miles in an automobile. We've done both and for fear we may be classed as cynical we will not say: "We know."

PROMOTING INDUSTRIAL NEW JERSEY

Rapid development of New Jersey's industrial position in recent years has brought widespread discussion of this State's many industrial advantages. Strategically situated, in the very midst of the heavily populated industrial East, New Jersey boasts of a superb system of transportation. Railways and highways that criss-cross the State provide speedy access to all parts of the country. Proximity to principal seaports gives outlet to the world's leading markets.

New Jersey has even more than physical advantages to offer prospective new industries. This State is free from many types of taxation that assail industries and individuals in most other states. Intensive opposition by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association and other civic bodies to new tax proposals that sprout up from time to time has succeeded in maintaining New Jersey's favorable tax situation.

Taxes such as the personal income tax, corporate income tax, domestic corporation franchise tax, industrial license tax on gross receipts and the sales tax, are not imposed in this State.

Naturally industrial leaders consider favorably the location of plants in a State where taxes are reasonable and just. As a vital factor in overhead costs, taxes are studied carefully by any astute industrialist who plans to establish his plant in a new area.

Despite, however, the obvious advantage of a favorable tax situation as an incentive to new industrial development, there is constant danger that new tax proposals will frustrate New Jersey's efforts to stimulate industrial expansion.

These proposals for new taxes, or "broadening the tax base" come from a number of sources. They come from special legislative commissions that recommend some form of new taxes rather than a sound plan to adjust governmental expenses to fit present sources of income. They come from individual officials who have pet plans which they offer as a "cure-all" for New Jersey's financial ills. Again, they come from individuals who seek favor from the public by promising reduction in real estate taxes, failing, however, to offer evidence that replacement taxes have permanently reduced property taxes in any state that has experimented with them.

These schemes must be rejected by taxpayers, as undesirable to all taxpayers, large or small, industrial or individual. The search for funds to provide for unemployment relief is often used as an argument to justify the creation of new taxes. This reasoning is a fallacy, because if industries are harassed with additional tax levies, reduced profits, decreased production, lower wages and layoffs are the logical consequence. Recent reports of declining relief costs in New Jersey prove how quickly employment gains dissipate the needs for unemployment relief.

It is unfortunate that the State's efforts to secure new industries is threatened by those who want to create new taxes. New Jersey spends thousands of dollars annually to advertise the State's industrial advantages, stressing freedom from oppressive state taxation, while at the same time the new tax advocates are constantly at work, trying to impose new forms of taxation which, if they were put into effect, would act to discourage prospective new industrial enterprises.

The point that is continually missed by those who claim new taxes are needed is that a vigorous campaign of economy throughout New Jersey's state and local governments would eliminate any possible excuse for new sources of revenue. There is not one department of government, state or local, that could not reduce its expenditures if it knew it had to. Economy through the control of expenditures is the only safe and sure way to tax control.

Family Life Problems Today

By Mrs. Julia O. Reiner
Executive Secretary
Community Service Bureau

"We Are Pleased To Report!"

This week we can tell a story that is almost too good to be true. It helps not only to explain our job as a family case work agency, but to speak of a new use for this column.

Last October, in this column, in an article, "Household Management," we explained how the Community Service Bureau differed from a public relief agency. We described how we were able to give more time and attention to the individual family and its problems, because our job was relatively small and because our relief policies could be flexible. We told about some of the things a trained case worker was able to give in the way of service to the Green family in restoring lost morals, in keeping a family from backsliding in very human but destructive attitudes of dependency.

Mr. Duncan, like our Mr. Green, was unemployed, and he had a family to support. After his savings had been used up, he had applied for public aid, and in November of last year he was receiving it. And then somehow, a copy of The Belleville News with our story of the Green family fell into his hands. He read it. He thought about it seriously. A few days later he made an appointment and came into our office.

He told our case worker his story. He was receiving public assistance. He felt sure that he could get a job and get "off relief," but his present allowance provided no money for carfare, and more important still, the work required in exchange for his relief check took up most of the time he might be giving to job-hunting.

He asked the case worker whether she would give him the chance that had been given to Mr. Green. The case worker, who was pretty experienced and keen at sizing people up, agreed. She arranged with the Department of Public Welfare to have Mr. Duncan excused from work for a few weeks, and she agreed to give him $5 a week to take care of carfare and lunch money.

At the end of two weeks, Mr. Duncan had found a temporary job doing repair work on trucks for a well-known trucking company. Shortly after that he obtained a steady job as a machinist's helper at $32 a week.

Our help during this time did not consist solely of $5 a week. Other—and just as important—kinds of service went with that $5. Mrs. Duncan was expecting a baby, and the case worker helped with arrangements for the confinement. Mrs. Duncan was also having a great deal of dental trouble, and so the case worker referred her to a good clinic and helped with the bills.

Why was the case worker interested in all these things, you may ask. Very simply, because she knew that all human activities are somehow related; that a man's employability depends upon more things than his actual skill at his job; that worries about teeth, about newly arriving babies, and about the thousand and one little details that make up living are part and parcel of what a man is and what he becomes. She knew those things from experience, from her training, and because by temperament and personality she was suited to her profession.

Naturally we are pleased by this story because this column played an important part in Mr. Duncan's eventual success.

And it reminds us of what we were saying only last week about those "ever-widening circles of understanding." It makes us see even more clearly than before that we want that understanding to reach not only those who support our work, but those who are in need of it.

We're counting on you to spread that understanding as widely as you can. It's important!

Had Senior Play Lead

And, of course, she had a leading part in the Senior Play at Bloomfield High School, where she was a member of the June, 1938, class. Like all high school thespians, her reaction to A. Dixie Crosby, perennial coach, is enthusiastic. "I'm mad about him! I just loved him!" she exclaimed. "He has an unusual way of teaching—lets everything go, apparently, until the last two weeks or so, then really goes to work and whips it into shape!"

Having had the acclaim of local audiences and experience in the summer theatres, Miss Sheldon could arouse very little enthusiasm for Emerson College in Boston, whence she was bound after her graduation from Bloomfield. She was all ready to depart for the New England school, however, when she made one last effort to win theatrical training. She went to the Neighborhood Playhouse and applied for a scholarship. But the results were discouraging. Since so many women

Actress

Miss Jean Sheldon

A ten weeks' engagement at the Hopalong Play House is well earned by Miss Jean Sheldon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin G. Sheldon, 10 Park avenue, Bloomfield, formerly Belleville. She will appear each week, with this stock company, in a different play produced at the Hopalong Theatre, with an important role in "Yes, My Darling Daughter." Miss Sheldon's manager is her mother. She has been studying at the Neighborhood Play House in New York for the last year.

are besieging the theatre, the school gives its awards to men only.

"But I appealed for just an even break and won the scholarship," Miss Sheldon beamed. "We have the most wonderful teachers," the student went on. "Martha Graham is our dancing teacher and Fanny Brice of England teaches diction."

The school's enrollment totals seventeen, with only three or four more women than men. At regular intervals, those who are not promising are dropped, but so far the Bloomfield girl has survived the rigors of training.

Rigorous Training

"Rigors" seems the right word to apply to the course, for it is highly strenuous. During the first year of the two-year course, much of the training is in the field of the dance. "We learn how to make love, dancing and how to kiss a man on the stage," Miss Sheldon explained. "We wondered if the latter art were so different from osculation in other settings, but the young actress asserted that it was 'just more theatrical!'"

The second year's work will be devoted to the study of various plays and actual acting. Like most students of the drama, Miss Sheldon haunts the New York theatres. She has seen almost every play now on Broadway and considers that those produced by the Group Theatre are the best. She had the opportunity to meet Morris Charnovsky, an event which thrilled her, since she is so great an admirer of the group in which he is prominent.

Among the actresses, Eva Le Gallienne is her favorite. Miss Sheldon met Miss Le Gallienne while the latter was playing "Camille" at Maplewood. "I told her that mother didn't entirely approve of my going on the stage, and a few days later mother got the nicest letter from her," Miss Sheldon said. "She's wonderful!"

The New York environment has proved pleasant in another way. "It was the most unhappy moment of my life when I was voted the most unattractive girl in the class, here at high school," Miss Sheldon recalled. "People around here thought I was either eccentric or crazy. But in New York, it's wonderful, because no matter how crazy you are, there are lots of people who are crazier. And everyone just thinks, 'O, well, she's in the theatre!'"

Miss Sheldon refuted the idea that she has any one rule which she is particularly anxious to play. Any role will satisfy her. She hopes to go into stock company and tour the country after her graduation from the Neighborhood School, then to return to Broadway. Certainly, if enthusiasm is any criterion, she should so far in her chosen profession!

Give Convention Reports

Mrs. Alicia Gannon, president, and Miss Irene Wirtz, delegate, gave reports Monday night at a regular meeting of George A. Younginger Post, V. F. W. Auxiliary in Veterans' Hall, Belleville avenue, on the recent twenty-first annual encampment in Wildwood.

After the meeting Mrs. Laura Scott, a charter member and first president of the auxiliary, was honored. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Scott is planning to return to her home in Chicago after attending the local centennial celebration. She will take in the National Encampment at Boston August 27 to September 1.

Mrs. Jennie Holly will serve as chairman of refreshments at a party which will be sponsored by the Junior Activities Committee in Veterans' Hall on July 27.

The only meeting during next month will be on August 23.

Blotter Jottings

Anthony Mustachio, forty-three, 82 Frederick street, was given a suspended sentence of thirty days in jail and placed on probation for two years Friday by Acting Recorder Gebhardt on a charge of assault and battery. John Hewitt, relief director, charged Mustachio accosted him as he left the relief offices at 250 Mill street and complained he was not receiving enough relief money. Hewitt said Mustachio receives $5 a week, but there are other sources of income for his family.

Assuming that the motoring tourist has left State Route 25 at Hightstown and proceeded east to Freehold on State Route 53, this shortest route to the coast will bring him out at Ocean Grove, since 1869 the property of the Ocean Grove Camp-Meeting Association of the Methodist-Episcopal Church; and in the vicinity of Asbury Park, Bradley Beach, and Avon-by-the-Sea. Should he, however, elect to turn South at Colliingswood Park, he can reach the coast over State Route 34, at Brille, one of the points famous for deep sea and bay fishing and where great fleet of boats for hire will be found. From this point, by following Route 4N, one comes upon Sea Girt, the summer "White House" of the Governor and scene of the annual encampment of the New Jersey National Guard. A little further along is Spring Lake, a residential resort; Belmar, widely known for the adjacent fishing grounds; and Ocean Grove. Just north of Ocean Grove is Asbury Park, the largest seaside resort of the North Jersey coast, the hotels and boarding houses of which attract more than six million persons in the warmer months of the year. A boardwalk borders the entire ocean front. Its beach is one of the most beautiful. Among the delightful spots further along is Deal Beach famed for the palatial residences of prominent families. A grand boulevard stretches along the ocean front.

Just beyond is the second largest place in this area, Long Branch, a largely patronized seaside resort developed originally in 1870. In those days they set aside a ladies-hour for bathing, when a white flag kept away from the beach all except women, girls, and certified husbands. A red flag signalled when all was clear and unmarried men and boys might enter the water. The story goes that early in the nineteenth century, a practical joker hoisted both flags at once, which prank, it is recorded, "created some awful squinting and no little confusion." Long Branch supplies all facilities for the enjoyment of the seashore. It, too, has a boardwalk.

Route 4N leads along a succession of attractive beaches including Monmouth, Low Moor, Sea Bright, Navesink and Highland to the vicinity of Atlantic Highlands and the United States Government Reservation at Sandy Hook, both of which deserve more detailed mention.

Irene Dunne At Capitol Sunday

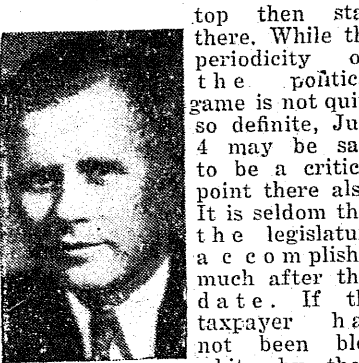

"Invitation to Happiness" co-starring Irene Dunne and Fred MacMurray and featuring Charlie Ruggles, Billy Cook, William Collier, Sr., and Marion Martin is the newly acclaimed hit "Wuthering Heights" starring Merle Oberon and Laurence Olivier with Geraldine Fitzgerald, plus "The Jones Family in Hollywood."

Meador Wright's PIQUANT POLITICS

The views expressed in this column are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

July 4 is supposed to be the turning point in the baseball season. The teams well at the top then stay there. While the periodicity of the political game is not quite so definite, July 4 may be said to be a critical point there also. It is seldom that the legislature accomplishes much after that date.

If the taxpayer has not been bled white by then, he can take it for granted that he will have a respite of at least three months. Political movements that affect the fall primary usually have come into being before the sound of firecrackers is heard. If not started by that time, they seldom show much potency in September.

The attempt to oust Clean Government last year is a good example of the way not to launch such a movement. Conferences of various groups began early enough. But actual organization did not start until well into August. This delay gave the Clean Government group a tremendous advantage. With a little more time in which to have selected a ticket and developed a district-by-district organization, the anti-Clean Government faction might have gotten a majority of the votes.

Discourage Anti Faction

With last year's precedent so vividly in the minds of Essex Republicans, I do not believe a substantial organization can be perfected at this date, even if the men who would lead the movement should decide it advisable. My hunch is that Harold G. Hoffman no less than Arthur T. Vanderbilt will be found trying to discourage an anti-Clean Government ticket. It will undoubtedly be Hoffman's strategy to see that there is a strong opposition ticket in Essex next year.

Such a ticket will not necessarily be a Hoffman ticket in the sense that the former governor will pick the candidates or dictate policies. He will be content merely that an opposition slate is in the field. Without the cumulative effect of local men seeking important county, state and na-

Few who have seen the glories that are American will need an introduction to New Jersey's 120 miles of unequalled seacoast where millions annually gather for recuperation and recreation. Its magnificent hotels, clean and beautiful beaches scrupulously regulated, and the opportunities for surf bathing and deep sea fishing are world renowned.

Assuming that the motoring tourist has left State Route 25 at Hightstown and proceeded east to Freehold on State Route 53, this shortest route to the coast will bring him out at Ocean Grove, since 1869 the property of the Ocean Grove Camp-Meeting Association of the Methodist-Episcopal Church; and in the vicinity of Asbury Park, Bradley Beach, and Avon-by-the-Sea. Route 4N leads along a succession of attractive beaches including Monmouth, Low Moor, Sea Bright, Navesink and Highland to the vicinity of Atlantic Highlands and the United States Government Reservation at Sandy Hook, both of which deserve more detailed mention.

The M. D. Says

Health Question: How Much Hay Fever is Caused by Ragweed?

A few years ago the United States Public Health Service estimated that ninety per cent of the cases of hay fever east of the Mississippi River were due to sensitivity to ragweed pollen.

Effective, local campaigns to exterminate this plant would therefore have a salutary effect on hay fever sufferers.

A bulletin of the Department of Agriculture says ragweed should be cut at least twice a year—once before it flowers, and again before more flowers develop on the low branches which appear after the first cutting.

Hay fever and other forms of allergy are also caused by individual sensitivity to pollens from plants other than ragweed including many other substances including foods, animal hair, and feathers.

Sensitivity tests given by a physician in all cases can determine the offending substance and thus permit the institution of proper relief measures.

"Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 23.
The Golden Text is: "Holy Father, keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are... Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth." (John 17:11, 17).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "O Lord, thou art my God; I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name, for thou hast done wonderful things: thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth." (Isaiah 25:1).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The spiritual reality is the scientific fact in all things. The spiritual fact, repeated in the action of man and the whole universe, is harmonious and is the ideal of Truth. Spiritual facts are not inverted; the opposite
