Hartley Opens Race For Re-nomination, Slaps At Harmony Congressman Will Enter May Primary; Not A Gubernatorial Nominee; "Harmony In Ashcan"

Congressman Fred A. Hartley of Kearny, Representative from this district, announced today that he would seek re-nomination at the Republican Primaries in May, setting at rest reports that he would forsake his post in the Capitol for a political fling at the gubernatorial race. Hartley's name had been prominently mentioned as a possible G.O.P. choice for the governorship for more than a year. Admitting that he had agreed to the presentation of his name as a compromise candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in the interest of party harmony, the Congressman, without mentioning any party faction, candidly commented in his statement, "It is plainly evident by now that harmony has been thrown into the ashcan."

This is the seventh consecutive time that the Congressman was tossed his hat into the ring for the nomination for Representative from the Tenth Congressional District. On each occasion he has copped the nomination and gone on to victory in the general election, starting in 1928 when he was boosted into office after a recount vote over his Democratic opponent, Earl Moore. Hartley, who has been in public office for fifteen years, had the title of "the Baby Congressman" tagged on him when he went to Washington for the first time. He was one of the few Republican candidates in the Democratic lands in 1932 and 1936. During time he has been in Washington he has served on some of the most important Congressional committees, currently being a member of both the committees on labor and post offices. In his statement Hartley said:

"I set at rest all speculation and respect to my plans in the election, I feel it is timely to announce that I shall be a candidate for re-election to Congress. I make this statement at this time because of continued inquiries concerning the possibility of my seeking the gubernatorial nomination. "Some months ago a group of Republicans, believing that a cat-and-dog fight would seriously handicap the entire Republican ticket in this all-important 1940 election, sought to avert such a deadlock by dragging out an affair by presenting my name as a compromise candidate. I consented to the idea in the interest of harmony. "It is plainly evident by now that harmony has been thrown into the ashcan. I have no desire to add fuel to the fire. "Therefore, my constituents willing, I shall hope to return to Washington, and, in the event of the election of a Republican Congress, to an important committee chairmanship."

The Congressman's name was snubbed up as a gubernatorial possibility principally because of the line showing he made in the 1936 Presidential election when other G. O. P. candidates were snowed under. He repeated with a big majority over his Democratic opponent, Lindsay H. Rudd of Bloomfield in the 1938 campaign. Shortly afterwards political circles were buzzing with suggestions that the Kearny legislator be considered as gubernatorial contender. Many Republican leaders knew at that time that former Governor Harold C. Hoffman, now an almost certain candidate, would jump into the race. Former State Senator Lester H. Clee was more prominently mentioned than his opponent, many G. O. P. executives were hopeful of avoiding a fight between Clee and Hoffman and some suggested Hartley as the compromise choice between the two.

Boom Last February
The idea was given some impetus last February when Hartley was tendered a dinner by a large number of his friends at the Newark Athletic Club on Washington's birthday. In the months which followed the Congressman's name drifted in and out of the spotlight with no one definitely committing himself. It is no secret that some of Hartley's boosters felt that Clean Government leaders should have taken the hint and given the Congressman the signal to go ahead. The Representative had run under the Clean Government banner in 1938, something which he had not previously done. When the leaders from South Jersey and Morris County started the drive in Clean Government

SENIOR STUDENTS PRESENT PLAY

Cast of Twenty-Six In "What A Life," Starts Tomorrow Night

The senior class of the high school will present their play, "What A Life," a three-act comedy by Clifford Goldsmith, at the high school tomorrow and Saturday evenings. The former Broadway stage success with a cast of twenty-six will give tomorrow's show for the school students while the second performance will be for the adults and other outsiders. The curtain will rise at 8:15 on both nights. "What A Life" is the story of the problems of youngsters of high school age in which the author has incorporated many situations and troubles that confront youth which will be readily recognized. The play is being produced by special arrangement with Dramatists Play Service, Inc. of New York.

Miss Rush Directs
The play's director and is being assisted in the production end by a number of the members of the teaching staff. Proceeds from the show will be used by the seniors to defray some of the expenses when they graduate in June, including the expense of their class trip.

Steinbeck The Leader

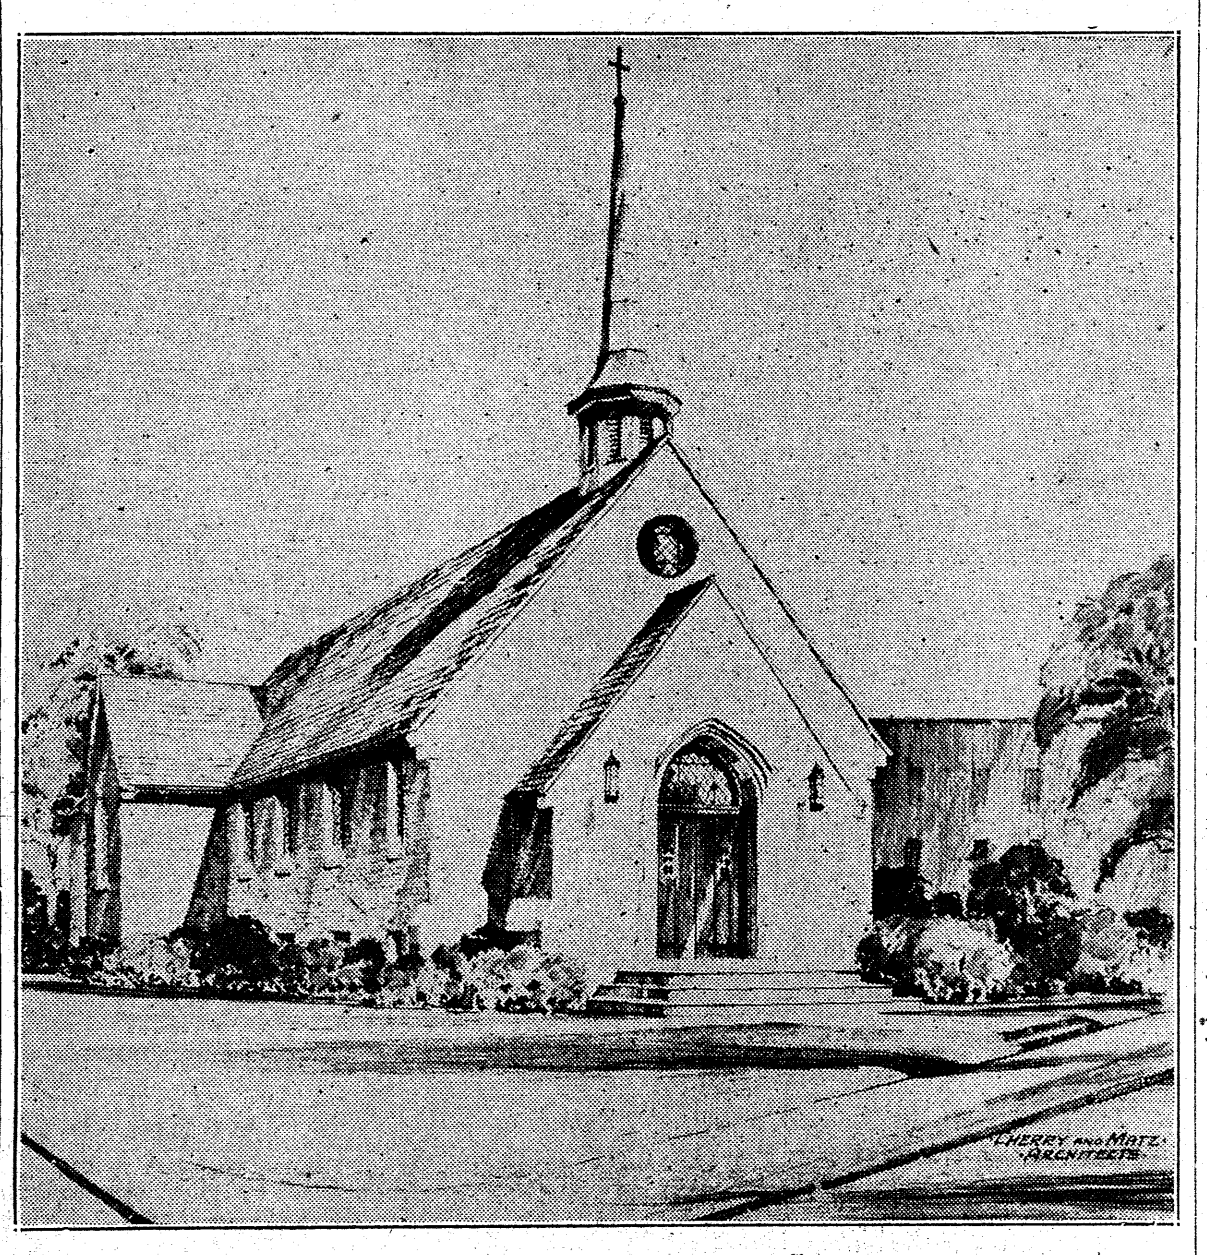

"Grapes of Wrath" Is Still No. 1 Favorite of Library Readers; Has Long Waiting List; "Nazarene" and "Kitty Foyle" Trail; Heart Throb Tales Still Draw

John Steinbeck is still the No. 1 box office author at the Public Library, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Shattuck, librarian, said yesterday. His controversial novel, "Grapes of Wrath," has a waiting list longer than that of any other book on the shelves and it may be weeks before some Bellevilleites have a chance to learn about the "Okies" and the trials of their journey across the country to California. Second in demand is "The Nazarene" by Asch, a novel based on the life of Christ and told in the narratives of three people. Pressing closely behind is Christy Morley's "Kitty Foyle," the story of the life and love of a modern girl in her twenties whom critics have called the typical American girl. Trailing by narrow margins are von Paassen's "Days of Our Years," Douglas' "Dr. Hudson's Secret Journal" and Keyes' "The Great Tradition." The tastes of Belleville readers still run to fiction, with love stories in the lead. Readers of

Want To Win $5?—Here's Your Chance

How would you shoppers like to walk into the local store in which you buy groceries or other needs this afternoon or tomorrow and buy $5 worth of merchandise and then say to the clerk, "Charge it to The Belleville News?" Well, you have the chance. It's simple. You don't have to send in any box tops, write a letter or solve a puzzle. The only thing you have to do to be eligible is patronize local merchants. Starting this week, The News will conduct a contest in which a $5 credit order good at some Belleville store will be given each week to some fortunate reader. Here's how it is done. Some time this weekend The News photographer will visit a prominent Belleville store. He will snap a picture of the crowd shopping there. This photo will be printed in next week's issue of The News with a white circle ringed around the face of one of those in the picture. If that lucky person will then come to The News' office at 328 Washington avenue, he or she will be given a $5 credit order good at the store in which the picture was taken. Do your shopping in Belleville stores this week-end and you may be the lucky one. Be sure to see next week's issue of The News for your picture.

Proposed Bethany Lutheran Church

Plan To Build $25,000 Church This Year

Bethany Evangelical Lutheran Church Congregation Votes to Build Edifice at Joralemon and New Streets; Will Be English Gothic Architecture

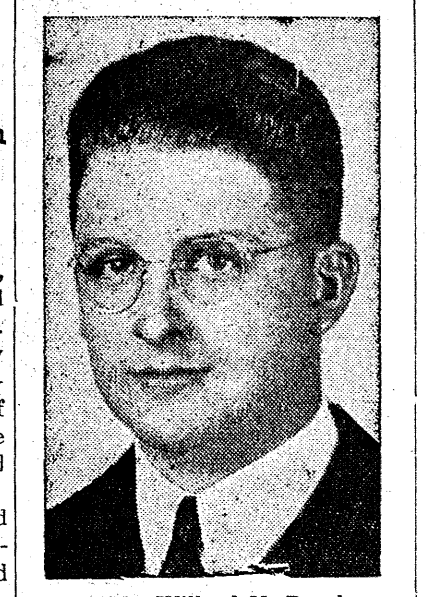

After holding services for eight years in the Masonic Temple, the congregation of Bethany Evangelical Lutheran Church has voted to construct a new church edifice at Joralemon and New streets. The decision was reached at a special congregational meeting Sunday morning. They approved the architect's plans for the $25,000 structure, actual construction of which is expected to start in the early summer to be completed this year. The building will be of red brick with white limestone trimmings and will follow a modified English Gothic type of architecture. It will be furnished in walnut and will have a seating capacity of approximately 200. There will be two floors, with the Sunday school and social hall below the church proper. The plans of the architects, Cherry and Matz of New York, call for a building thirty by seventy-three feet in size. It will be built on the 142 by 102 foot plot on the northeast corner of the intersection. It is hoped by the congregation that it can erect a parsonage beside the church at some future date. The campaign to raise funds for the new edifice will start Sunday.

Founded in 1931
The Bethany parish, which includes the entire town of Belleville, was founded October 22, 1931, by the Rev. Mr. Harry Pfunk, who was its pastor until October 15, 1938, when he was transferred to Gerretson Beach, L. I. His place was taken by the present pastor, the Rev. Mr. Willard H. Borchers, who resides at 69 Perry street. The parish, which started originally with twenty-two members and has increased to 156, has used the Masonic Temple on Joralemon street ever since its foundation. The church's Sunday school has been meeting at the Recreation House for the past five years. The congregation is under the supervision of the Board of American Missions of the United Lutheran Church in America.

MEN ARE STILL CAVEMEN

ABC Agent Says They Act That Way Under Liquor's Influence

Men are still cavemen when they are under the influence of liquor. This was one of the main points made by Morris E. Ash, senior inspector of the State Board of Alcoholic Beverage Control, at the Rotary Club meeting yesterday in the Elks Club. "The subject of his talk was 'Problems of Alcoholic Control in New Jersey.' "Ever since fermentation has been known," Ash said, "the liquor problem has been with us." Prohibition caused lawlessness loss of revenue and produced no results of value. The prevention of violation of liquor laws to a great extent is the job of local authorities, he said. There are ninety men in the field in constant inspection of tap rooms, he explained, which is only four or five to a county. The work of the State ABC is therefore limited. The speaker at next week's Rotary luncheon will be Mrs. Agnes Peabody, executive secretary of the Curie Institute for research, diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

PUBLIC MEETING ON '40 BUDGET MONDAY

Mayor Says There Won't Be a Rise; Formal Debut Wednesday

The taxpayers are invited to attend a public forum on the proposed 1940 municipal budget Monday night in Town Hall when the commissioners will answer questions and discuss the various departmental appropriations. Mayor Williams, revenue and finance director, has predicted that there will not be any rise in the tax rate which was $4.77 last year. The Mayor said he was hopeful that five or ten points might be lopped off of the final figures. The chances for a reduction rest in some instances with the State Commissioner of Local Government, Walter R. Darby, whom Williams has asked for permission to include or exclude certain items. The commissioners will hold another budget session at Town Hall tonight. This will be the third get-together they have had. The first was held last Thursday night and the second on Monday night.

Introduce It Wednesday

The budget will be formally introduced at a meeting next Wednesday night. This session was originally scheduled for Tuesday night but was changed to give the board members more opportunity to work on their figures. The Mayor said yesterday afternoon that he could not give any definite figures on the total budget because of the many items which were still question marked or on which the Board had not reached a definite decision. No comment has been made on anticipated increases in any of the departments and the budgets will not be publicly discussed until Monday night.

BELLEVILLE RANKS WELL IN STATE

State Motor Vehicle Figures Show Town Near The Bottom

Belleville is near the bottom of the list for the number of automobile accidents in which persons were injured during the first eleven months of 1939, according to the report released this week by Commissioner Magee for the State Department of Motor Vehicles. This is for the fourteen municipalities in the state in the 25,000 to 50,000 population group. Final figures for 1939 will be released by the department as soon as reports are received from all the municipalities. Clifton led the list with a total of 394 accidents in which six persons were killed and 259 were injured. At the bottom of the group is West New York with thirty-seven accidents in which twenty-five were injured. There had been 151 accidents in Belleville up until the end of November, 1939, according to the Motor Vehicle Department. Four persons were killed and seventy-two injured. In November there were ten accidents in which four were injured. The comparative figures for the municipalities in the 25,000 to 50,000 population group is as follows:

Park Board Refused Additional Money By Freeholders

Request For $75,000 Turned Down; Construction Of Sea Wall Is Important, Says Engineer

The Essex County Park Commission's project to construct a parkway and sea wall along the Passaic River bank seems doomed. The refusal of the Board of Freeholders to approve the Commission's request for $75,000 to complete the work planned for this year will probably force abandonment in July of the construction which was started three years ago. This information was furnished yesterday by J. H. Phillips, chief engineer for the Park Commission. The section which it was planned to finish this year is the

BERRY ADVOCATES 4-POINT PROGRAM

Health Officer Emphasizes Importance of Controlling Venereal Disease Cases

Health Officer Eugene T. Berry urged a four-point program for possible sufferers from venereal diseases this week. The statement was made as part of Belleville's observance of National Social Hygiene Day, which is being celebrated today all over the country. The recommendations made by Berry, were:

Early blood tests in pregnancy to make the state prenatal law effective in combating congenital syphilis. See your physician and shun non-professional diagnosis and self-treatment. Physicians should report delinquents from treatment, especially in early cases of syphilis. Periodic blood tests for detecting syphilis are encouraged.

Belleville has an arrangement with the Newark Department of Venereal Disease for treatment of poor cases. Berry urged that all those needing treatment and unable to pay for it apply to the town health department at any time. The health report for 1939 will show that sixty-seven individuals were treated for syphilis and five for gonorrhea. They received a total of 981 treatments. "We are not kidding ourselves that this is the total number of cases in a town of this size," Berry said, "and our recommendations are directed chiefly to those who have never reported. We urge them to do so immediately."

Former Commissioner Gerard Is In Newark Hospital

George Gerard of 35 Rossmore place, former town commissioner and former superintendent of schools, has been in St. Barnabas' hospital, Newark, for observation for the past week. He is expected to undergo an operation shortly.

Camera Club Will Discuss Portraits Monday

Monday night's regular meeting of the Belleville Camera Club will feature another monthly contest. The subject for the meeting, which will be held at the Recreation House, will be portraits.

More Concert Numbers

Arthur E. Jacobus, Glee Club Director, Announces Three More Songs for Spring Concert; Rendition Of "The Highwayman" To Be Highlight

Three more numbers have been added to the program which will be given at the annual spring concert of the Belleville Glee Club April 17, director Arthur E. Jacobus announced Monday night at the weekly rehearsal at Fawcett Memorial Church. Each is rated high in its particular class, he said. They are Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song," "In Silent Night" by Brahms and "Song of the Jolly Roger" by Chudleigh-Candish. The program highlight will be the work entitled "The Highwayman," the text of which was written by Alfred Noyes later being set to music by the late Mark Andrews of Montclair. Taking twenty minutes to render, it is a ballad describing the love of an innkeeper's daughter for a highwayman and how she saved him momentarily when the king's men discovered him. Written by Noyes in 1906, it was put in choral form by Andrews seven years later and first performed in May, 1914 by the Unity Chorus of Montclair. Since then "The Highwayman" has been a favorite of concertgoers throughout the world. It proved to be one of the chief boons to Andrews' fame as a composer. He was also well-known as a choral director and organist. He died suddenly last December in his home at Montclair. First Performed In '35
The Belleville Glee Club first performed "The Highwayman" at its spring concert in 1935 and it was enthusiastically received by the local audiences. Originally scored for a mixed chorus, the composition was later re-arranged for a male chorus. It still contains several soprano solos, which will be sung this year by the guest soloist, Eleanor Searle, of New York.

H. S. Students Experiment With Soil-less Planting

Nucleus Science Club Members Are Learning That Dirt Isn't Everything in Vegetable Growing; Efforts Now Proving To Be Successful

Who ever heard of a garden without any dirt? Well, the members of the Nucleus Science Club are finding out what soil-less gardening is all about under the direction of their adviser and biology teacher, Norman H. Cotter. The students have become so interested in it that they have made it one of the main activities of their club. This experimental form of gardening is the method of growing plants in solution, and sand cultures, which enables a more thorough understanding of the problems relating to plant nutrition.

Soil, the students explain, is only for support. In reality, the roots of plants in the soil are surrounded by thin films of solution. It is difficult to determine accurately the elements and the quantities that are necessary for plant life because of the constantly changing conditions of moisture, temperature, aeration and acidity of the soil solution. For this reason, it is more convenient to place the roots of the plants in direct contact with specific nutrient requirements and definite quantities to determine various effects of plant production.

Where They Got Tips

The Nucleus clubbers first became interested in this form of gardening after they had read material written by J. W. Shive, plant psychologist, and W. R. Robbins, assistant plant psychologist, at the New Jersey Department of Agriculture's Experimental Station at New Brunswick. They also gleaned further information from a lecture given by Shive at the Newark Museum.

Practice makes perfect and at first their experiments were not too successful. But they persisted in their attempts and now the various plants which they are growing are showing noticeable improvement. Most of their trouble was caused by their inability to control the temperature.

The students are quite elated over their success to date and gladly explained their experiments to a reporter who dropped in for a visit the other afternoon. Step by step they explained to him the processes through which they have gone in growing their plants without the aid of soil.

Germinating the seeds, they explained, is the first consideration. Bean, lima bean, corn, squash and flower seeds were allowed to germinate on cheesecloth, which was stretched over a pan of culture solution, thus allowing the seeds to be in direct contact with the solution and yet freely exposed to the atmosphere. When the root tips had broken through the seed coats, the plants were grown by the solution culture and the sand culture method.

How It's Done

Solution culturing consists of mechanically supporting the plants with their roots suspended in the chemical solution. A reservoir jar, syphon tubes or bandage, and an outlet jar are essential apparatus. In the sand culture method the same procedure is followed with the exception that the plants are supported in sand.

There are several formulas used. The one tried by the science students is as follows:

- 1 1/2 teaspoons monopotassium phosphate
- 4 teaspoons calcium nitrate
- 2 1/2 teaspoons magnesium sulphate
- 1/2 teaspoon ammonium sulphate

These are mixed with five gallons of water. Minute quantities of the trace elements, iron, boron, manganese and zinc must be added, and also iron solution. Then all you do is wait for the plants to grow.

circles for a candidate, Hartley did not get the tumble that some people had hoped for and anticipated. Senator Robert C. Hendrickson of Gloucester eventually got the nod. The Congressman at present sits in the middle of the boat, pledged neither to Hoffman or the Gloucester legislator.

In the election years during which the Congressman has come before Belleville voters, he has always received good majorities, except in 1936 when he was elected by a narrow margin. He was elected in 1932 by a vote of 3,668. In the 1930 campaign, he triumphed the same candidate 3,666 to 1,744. The Congressman triumphed over W. J. Harrison in 1932 by 5,405 to 3,694. He rode in ahead of William Herda Smith in 1934 3,727 to 2,999. In the last campaign two years ago he defeated Rudd 5,062 to 2,689.

Lions' Program

Parents owe their children the right of protection from venereal disease, according to Carl Daines of the State Health Department, who spoke last week at the Lions Club luncheon. Much of the misery in marriage is caused by failure of young couples to undergo pre-marital examinations, the speaker said.

Young People's Class

"Is Christ the True Messiah?" will be the subject of a talk by John S. Charlton, leader of the Young People's Bible Class of the First Methodist Church, at their meeting at 9:45 Sunday morning. Young people from high school age are invited to attend and join the class.

SALES BOOMING FOR C. S. DANCE

Harry James' Band To Make Flying Trip; Mayor 'Jitterbug' Judge

After the first week ticket sales for the dance of the Clan Stewart are good, William Hays, chairman said yesterday. The event, which is one of the first steps in revivifying the once-active organization, will be held February 16 at the Mosque Ballroom, Newark.

Harry James and his orchestra, now playing in Washington, will leave the capital February 15, make a flying trip to Newark for the affair and return to the Capital immediately. The James organization, known as one of the nation's leading swing bands, numbers twenty-one, including the three vocalists, Frank Sinatra, Jack Palmer and Fran Hiney.

Two Belleville men were added to the committee this week and will act as ticket agents for the dance. They are Robert Jackson of 28 De Witt avenue and John Jackson of 483 De Witt avenue. Robert Beggs of 41 Hornblower avenue and Henry Taylor of 79 Preston street were appointed last week to the same positions.

Mayor Williams has been listed as one of the judges of the jitterbug contest which will feature the dance. Added to the judging section were Harold G. Oliver, William Armstrong and Joseph Bush, all of Arlington.

TELEPHONE MEN GET PRAISE

Six Local Men Among Those With Spotless 10-Year Driving Records

Local men are among those receiving recognition for a new safe-driving record of 121,000 miles between accidents in more than 9,000,000 miles of operation of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company's motor vehicle fleet during the past year which is being accorded telephone drivers this month. Of seventy-six accidents charged against the operators of nearly 1,000 telephone trucks and automobiles, none involved serious personal injury, the company reports.

Nearly 400 of the telephone drivers have never been in any degree responsible for even the most minor accident in the entire dozen years the company has been in existence and the safe-driving records kept. At meetings throughout the State appropriate insignia for their motor vehicle radiators, and certificates for the drivers, are being presented.

The degree of achievement of the telephone drivers may be gauged, the company states, by the fact that the seventy-six accidents of 1939, a new low number, represents a ten per cent improvement over 1938 when eighty-five accidents occurred; and compares with 283 accidents in 1929.

Local residents among the drivers who have spotless records for ten or more years include: A. R. Leonard of 363 Greylock parkway, W. F. Martin of 13 Campbell avenue, E. B. Alger of 23 Wilson place, A. W. Weber of 193 Forest street, J. J. Manger of 553 Washington avenue and D. H. Simpson of 84 Tiona avenue.

Conducts Concert

Artur Rodzinski

Rodzinski will conduct the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra in two concerts Wednesday at the Mosque sponsored by the Griffith Foundation. The evening performance will be a tribute to Finland, during the course of which the Fifth Symphony of Jan Sibelius, Finland's greatest composer, will be played. The program also includes works by Wagner, Mozart and Weinberger. The afternoon performance will be a special children's concert, at which a group of Belleville students will be present.

Final Details For "What A Life"

The high school seniors are ready to step on the stage tomorrow night for the first of two performances of the Broadway comedy, "What A Life." Two groups of them were snapped at the high school yesterday while they were handling two of the last minute details to assure a finished production. Those in the top group are having the public address apparatus, which is used in the play, explained to them. From left to right: Edward Soale, Jacqueline Snedeker, George Fralley, Eldon Kunze, William Trier, Patricia Field, Rita Clark, Betty McCaskill, Joseph Traino, Wallace Elliot and Mildred Garland.

MUSICAL REVIEWS

The Realm of Music

The first chamber music concert of Nutley Symphony Society's current season was accomplished with aplomb last Thursday evening in the high school. The Haydn string quartet made a cheerful opening, although complete ensemble was lacking in occasional parts. Delmar Molarsky's "string quartet with voice" composition came next. Appearing as soloist in the work, Mr. Molarsky's entrance upon the stage was the signal for warm applause by an audience obviously containing many friends.

To judge any new work upon first hearing is unintelligent. Those who had heard several rehearsals, and were therefore in a position to criticize, gave favorable opinions. Debussy-like in treatment, with Chinese scale passages, especially in the "cello" parts, the quintet was nicely applauded by the bewildered listeners who had desperately tried to find something to hold to throughout the rendition. But when one remembers that some of Beethoven's most beloved compositions were received with coldness and rude demonstrations upon being presented for a first hearing, one can realize that succeeding generations will have a better chance of appreciating the new things which we today are attempting, sometimes vainly, to understand. The Moussorgsky-Pochon "Serenade" proved an appetizing bit, and people settled back to enjoy it after the strenuous mental exertion of the previous number.

The Schumann piano quintet can be treated in one of two ways. The piano can be considered as a solo instrument with the strings as an accompanying body, or the piano may be kept in the background, on a par with the other instruments. This latter form was used, rather unfortunately, as the limp tones of Simon Saldoff's piano parts were frequently lost in a welter of strings. This could have been due to the placing of the piano too near to the tone-absorbing backdrop. The quintet progressed with smooth artistry, and good ensemble, achieving the place of high point of the evening for many.

The musicale was directed by Nicos Cambourakis, who was first violinist of the quartet. Wendell Smith was second violinist, Otto Shill was violist, and Harold Bemko the 'cellist.

LETTER CARRIERS PLAN BANQUET

Postmaster Gen. Farley Will Be Principal Speaker On February 17

Branch 38 of the Newark Post Office, a member of the National Association of Letter Carriers, will hold its golden jubilee banquet Saturday evening, February 17, at the Newark Athletic Club. Postmaster General James A. Farley heads the list of speakers which will include Newark Postmaster John F. Sinnott, Governor A. Harry Moore, Representatives Fred Hartley, Kean and Vreeland, Senator W. Warren Barbour and Mayor Meyer C. El-lenstein. The association's president, Edward J. Gainer, will fly from Washington to attend.

The local branch was organized at a secret meeting by a group of seventy carriers fifty years ago. The secret session was necessary because at that time labor organizations were not permitted among Federal employees. The branch now has 450 members.

Honored guests at the banquet will be Thomas Patterson, Thomas Caffrey, Morris Fuchs, William Heeb, Thomas Shaffrey, Henry Stern and Charles Wirth. Michael Dale is chairman of the arrangement committee, assisted by Joseph Mammion, Frank Warger, Gus Young, George Berth, Joseph Dispenzieri, Charles Steele, Robert Maccai, Thomas W. Smith, Patsy Tomasulo, Francis E. Obert and William J. Hollen.

Tickets for the dinner may be obtained at the Belleville Post Office.

AMERICAN LEGION MEETS MONDAY

Social Party For Welfare Fund At Brownstone House Tomorrow Night

Belleville Post No. 105 American Legion will meet Monday evening, at 8 in the Recreation House, Garden avenue and Joram-street.

Commander William I. Labauch announces that the National Oratorical Contest conducted by the American Legion is about to begin. Two students at the High School, Harvey Fort of Forest street and Harold Valentino of Hill street are the local contestants. The sectional finals will be held at East Orange High School on Tuesday at 7. County finals will be held at Caldwell on February 9 at 7:30.

Prizes for the first, second and third places will be $25, $15 and $10. A Legion medal will be given to all three winners. Further details regarding the State finals of the National contest will be mentioned at a later date.

Party Saturday Night

The Post will hold a social party at the Brownstone House, Third avenue and Broad street, Newark, Saturday night, at 8:30. Food and refreshments will be served and music will be furnished for dancing. Proceeds will go to the child welfare fund.

Tickets may be obtained at the door or from William Konrad of 32 Garden avenue or William Kenepf of 8 Dawson street.

Sergeant Handles Report On Son's Accident

Sergeant James F. Hannan was on the desk at police headquarters Sunday afternoon when the telephone rang. It was a doctor in a routine call reporting that a Belleville boy had broken his ankle ice skating at Delawanna and had been taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, Montclair. The injured boy's name was Joseph J. Hannan, the sergeant's son. Young Hannan, who lives at 52 Union avenue, is expected to be released from the hospital this weekend.

OVER THE WOMAN'S DESK

by Peggy Patterson

The magazines and newspapers are checkfull of delightful and helpful ideas and hints for the women, while the radio program is over-burdened with spels to help the womenfolk with their task of keeping a happy home and making the family satisfied. What woman can take the time to digest all of these ideas and suggestions? Across the Woman's Desk of this newspaper come many of these articles each week. In each one of them it seems to us that there is an outstanding effort, an article which lays down fundamentals that can make life much easier and which should be stored in the brain instead of lying in the basement awaiting the arrival of the Salvation Army.

That's where this column comes in. We'd like to bring you a weekly digest of these hints and problems in the woman's world along with a few thoughts of our own on the subject.

"Not Listening"

Those whose job it is to measure the listening power of radio advertising will have to reckon in the future without a large group of women who have entered into a "Not Listening" campaign against the radio serials which have as their backbone the eternal triangle theme. Radio committees of leading women's organizations are forming in this cause and leading newspapers are starting to carry their message.

Opinions of the women interviewed range all the way from those who deplore that the better things of life are neglected as radio material, to those whose chief concern is that their children, home for lunch or playing around the house, are exposed to subject matter which is hardly fitted for their ears. Practically all are agreed that the source of the over-abundant supply of these stories lies in the mistaken belief of the male purchasing agents of scripts that this is what women want.

The majority have offered, in a general way, suggestions for supplanting the offensive skits with programs which are informative, especially those dealing with child-care, health, gardening, home decoration and related subjects.

In the writer's opinion there are a good many of these programs already available which the housewife can arrange to attend with a great deal of profit. For the moments when she simply cannot relax in the vicinity of her radio it seems that the item which would aid her in sliding through onerous duties is music, plain and unadorned. For this she would really thank the sponsor.

Perhaps before long they will begin to submit more concrete examples for replacement. This is the only language that the buyer of any type manuscript understands, and rightly so. Undoubtedly those whose job it is to maintain the "listening power" are working on the situation. In the meantime public opinion will serve its age-old purpose and spur on the best efforts of all concerned.

Books for Youngsters

The gift of gifts for all children who are past the kindergarten stage is surely a book. For here is the gift which is often the companion of many years, the solace beyond compare in illness, and the priming factor which gives the hungry young mind its impetus. With these thoughts in mind the choice of a book is not always easy.

A recent survey shows that children and adults do not see eye to eye on the subject; in fact one book which got a vote of eighty-one per cent from parents was liked by only fifteen per cent of their children. Children like fact as opposed to fantasy and, strangely enough, extravagant illustrations and gorgeous colors are laid aside for the prosy looking volume which contains the absorbing material they are after.

It is fairly safe, then, when buying to stick to the books which answer the eternal "why" question and show what makes the wheels go around.

The youngsters' sense of humor is tickled by the odd looking animals doing incongruous things which some of us might pass up as "silly." These observations have probably been made by most of us in regard to your own children. Backed by an educational survey, they take on new importance.

Spring Fashions

The choice of a spring ensemble is notably the most intriguing decision of the fashion year. The very contemplation of soft line and luscious color banishes the heavy gloom that descends on the winter wardrobe at this season. And the keynote to the whole situation lies in the suit, probably woman's most flattering and comfortable item of apparel.

Paris, through the dark haze of war, comes courageously through with new styles and having given up the military flare which the onset of the war produced, announces once more soft and feminine lines. Tweed, whipcord, bengaline and soft wools are the materials. Colors run the whole gamut from soft muted pastels to bright checks. Scarlet is frequently suggested for eye-catching contrast; and navy with heavy frosting of white accessories remains at the head of the list.

Most cheering of all, perhaps, is the news that new suits will be definitely streamlined for wear under their own matching topcoats without extremely bulky shoulders that often make one feel like an army officer or a deluxe doorman when one is pulled over the other. The skirts will remain slightly flaring, most of them being gored or cut on circular lines. Paris has mentioned the slimmer straight skirt, but that will take several seasons to establish, it is hoped, since our

Sonja Henie At Capitol

Down is Robert Cummings, but definitely not out in the romantic rivalry between him and Ray Milland for Sonja Henie in her latest picture, "Everything Happens at Night," which opens at the Capitol Theatre Sunday for three days on the same program with "Charlie McCarthy, Detective," starring Edgar Bergen and Charlie with Mortimer Snerd.

Three Non-Fiction Leaders Added At Library

Recently added to the non-fiction in the Adult Department at the Free Public Library are:

"Nothing But Danger," edited by Frank Hanighen, in which a group of world-famous correspondents tell of their experiences in the late Spanish War. Among these stories of courage and bravery, Gallagher tells of the suspense of the "death-watch" in Madrid; Lorna Wood tells of her honeymoon spent in a blockaded port, and sea captains describe the thrills of running the blockade.

"The Enjoyment of Poetry," by Max Eastman. The author of "The Enjoyment of Laughter" describes the pleasure which may be derived from different types of poetry, and tells of the art of discovering the best in poetic literature. This is a delightful book, for those who are familiar with verse, or who would like to cultivate a taste for poetry.

"In Place of Splendor," by Constancia de la Mora. The autobiography of a Spanish aristocrat describing the terrors of the revolution, and the nobility's vain effort to uphold tradition. Miss de la Mora, now in exile, still hopes for the final victory of her cause and her people.

"Vocations for girls," by Lingefelter and Kison, lists thirty-four occupations, grouping work with machines, work with the hands, work in government and private enterprise, clerical jobs and professions.

"Do you want to become a banker?" by Crook is a survey of the position and trend of banking today, describing functions of a bank and steps for training with recommendations of study courses.

"Medical occupations for girls," by Kinfelster, describes in detail each field of medicine open to women, with outlines of the necessary preparation.

"Music as a profession," by Taubman is a book for persons with musical talent and ability in regard to the kind of living they can make out of music and how best to go about it.

Vocational reading in fiction form is also available. Among the books are: Deming, "Penny Marsh, public health nurse," "Penny Marsh, supervisor of public health nurses," Boylston, "Sue Barton rural nurse, senior nurse, student nurse, visiting nurse," Grumbie, "Peggy covers the news," Bugbee, "Peggy covers Washington," Melcher, "Young Mr. Stone, book publisher," Lansing, "Sky service, air stewardess," Mallette, "No vacancies, stenography."

Mrs. Walter A. Kayser of Passaic Avenue was guest at a birthday party given in her home Saturday evening. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Coyle of Bloomfield, her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Keebler, Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Riepe, Jr., and Walter Kayser.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Peck of 199 Main street have announced the arrival of Ray, Jr., at St. Mary's Hospital, Orange, on January 16. The mother is the former Regina Butler of Harrison.

The N. M. A. Club met Friday evening at the home of Miss Ann Curcio of Magnolia street. Plans were discussed for a Leap Year dance in the near future. Those attending were the Misses Phyllis Domenick, Millie Guardabascio, Mary Hoffman, Katie Ippolito, Marie and Nettie Ippolito, Antoinette Luca, Kay Serritella and Rose Valeo.

Hiya, Gang! They say we're to sing out with a column. O. K. Here's a chance for all of us, yes, all of you, to get together, spill some dirt, sock out a chorus or two on "Swing" and have a real session — you sitting in with your comments and we'll be there with the column as a rhythm background. Tapping off at a moderate four-four tempo, here we go.

Keep your ear cocked for Raymond Scott's new band. Hear they're building him for the next sensation and his Tuesday night show is due to go commercial as soon as CBS thinks he's set.

Overheard the other day—Johnny Watson, arranger for Jan Savitt and once leader of his own band at the old Yoeng's Restaurant, is getting another crew together. Should be four-star if Johnny can devote some time to his arranging... Surprise! Jan Savitt has a different arrangement of "In The Mood." It really gets us how everyone tries to copy Miller. You know what they say about imitations... There still seems to be room for improvement in the house band at WOR. The old one was just let out because the music was a bit on the sad side.

Here's A Contest You Can Win

Is Glenn Miller tops? Are the musicians in Glenn's band as fine as the musicians in Goodman's or Dorsey's band, taken man for man? Do you agree with the crowd or do you have your own solid opinions as to who is really "King of Swing"? We have often wondered how a popularity contest would go in which there must be explanations for the choice of orchestra. Now for the best three letters of 100 words sent in each week by you telling of your choice for the No. 1 band... and why... you will receive two tickets to the CBS "Young Man With A Band" broadcast on the air every Friday night at 10:30 and featuring a name band really worth listening to. Your tickets will be reserved, which qualifies you for the big chance to make a recording on the air with the band of the evening. So, get going with those letters and let's see if Glenn Miller really is the top band. Winners will be notified in plenty of time to make plans for the show. Letters should be in this paper's office not later than Monday at 9, addressed to this column.

If you are up late enough, try to catch a shot of Duke Ellington. A chap with the name plate of Lawrence Brown, trombone soloed two choruses of "Day In, Day Out" a few nights ago and stopped the show. None of the favorites like Tommy D., Jackson T., et al. could come near this fellow. His range was unbelievable and tone, both open and muted, swell. Listen for him.

Another Martin Block poll has just ended. Did it ever occur to you that in a poll where the trend is definitely swing, the position of Sammy Kaye just doesn't jive somehow? Since when do Goodman and Kaye rate so closely? Who has a solution for Jimmy Dorsey's inability to hit the top? With terrific arrangements by Toots Camarato and Loe Lipman it sure seems as though

Jimmy should get the break he honestly deserves. Yvonne King of the gorgeous foursome and Don Mattison, third trombe, of the J. Dorsey gang, are that way plenty. We heard that Meadowbrook Frank Dailey and Tommy the Dorsey will open up a new spot in Westchester. Frank denies it will be with Tommy, but definitely plans to start one himself around April 15. A narrow squeak for Rafael Mendez, trumpet man with Carl Hoff's ork. Seems Mendez joined a band run by one Pancho Villa down Mexico way and became his leader's pride and joy—until he tried to leave. Villa no like and marched young Mendez before a firing squad and asked him, "Do you still wish to leave?" P. S. Mendez stayed. This gee, Mendez, plays a fine horn, by the way. What next? Andre Kostelanetz received a letter asking permission to name a cozy little cottage for two "Moon Love" after his hit song of the same name. The letter was from newlyweds... a bit corny, huh?

A word about the man who is really doing the most powerful sending at present. Glen Miller is one swell guy, a gentleman, straight-laced concerning alcoholics, tough at rehearsals, works his boys hard but they still think he's tops as a boss. Has been in the red for a long time and is now seeing his efforts rewarded. His ciggie "shots" are solid, sustainings the same but we wish Ray Eberle sounded half as good as Bob. While blabbing of Bob, looks like he'd be an ideal husband for one of you gals. Since he joined the Dorsey brothers back at Glen Island, he has never appeared mad at anything or anyone so say the boys who have been with him all this time. Quite a record. Bob really is a fine kid and we think his next step will be the flickers.

Wham Re Bop Boom Bam," a Teddy Wilson disc that is a solid sender with plenty of jive. By far the best arrangement out on "Wham," Columbia 35354. Jean Eldridge does some chirping, making this record a winner for the week.

Dig B. G.'s "Busy As A Bee" and "Zaggin' With Zig." What a record! Should be out tomorrow so be prepared. "Bee" is a commercial tune played a la Benny and anything commercial or otherwise played by the "King" is fine. "Zagging" is the super rhythm tune that Ziggy Elman did a while back on his own. Lend your ears for Z's trumpet work and, of course, B's clarinet. Columbia 35356. Benny Goodman's due in Jersey City Tuesday. Better get over there because word from Pee Wee Monte, Benny's headache powder (manager) told us that the band will be in the West 'til '41 at least.

Tomorrow will bring another jazz masterwork with the "Count" doing an original "Ham 'N Eggs." Better than usual Basie piano and some solid stuff by Jo Jones (drums) and Walter Page (bass). On the reverse we hear again a tune that is always welcome, "Between the Devil and the Deep Blue Sea," which really rocks and opens with "His Highness" playing some grooving piano. Columbia 35357.

James the Lunceford, the gee with four college degrees and who can get off on Shakespeare as easily as your English professor, is out with "Wham." Reverse socks with a Lunceford original, "Lunceford Special." The waxing is torrid. Vocalion 5326.

CLUB MEMBERS AT TRENTON

Woman's Club Group Watches Legislature At Work; Card Party Monday

Six members of the Women's club attended the legislative luncheon at Trenton Monday afternoon and looked in on the meetings of the Assembly and Senate in the evening. They were Mrs. Elmer S. Hyde, club president, Mrs. Arthur E. Mayer, legislative committee chairman, Mrs. John F. O'Brien Jr., Mrs. John E. De Nike, Mrs. Henry Squier and Mrs. Daniel T. O'Connor.

Another in the series of card parties will take place Monday at 1:30 at the clubhouse, 51 Rossmore place. Hostess will be Mrs. Stanley Gibson, Mrs. George A. Goeke, Mrs. Frank J. Ackerman, Mrs. Harvey B. Thompson, Mrs. James Campbell, Mrs. Howard Virtue, Mrs. Louis A. Noll and Mrs. Pearson Arrison.

The Literature Department will meet at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Mase Thursday when Mrs. Homer C. Zink will give a book review on "Blood on the Sand" by Ernest Hemingway and Mrs. Willard Y. Strange will discuss the biography and selections by the poet, Ogden Nash.

To Entertain On Birthday

Miss Olive Frances Pratt of Preston street will entertain at dinner Sunday in honor of her birthday. Guests will be Betty Leek and Ella Reese of this town and Lloyd Cerquoz, Lyle Fringer and Gilbert Fuller of the 15th Signal Service Corps at Fort Monmouth.

Recipe Hints

Give the family that hint of spring for which they are pining! Top off your most substantial dinners with one of these refreshing fruit salads instead of serving rich desserts.

Black Beauty Salad
2½ cups pitted black cherries (canned)
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup cold water
1 cup cherry liquid heated
½ cup chopped nut meats
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
Sprinkle unflavored gelatin in ¼ cup cold water and let stand for five minutes. Add to hot cherry juice and stir until dissolved. Allow to partially set. Stir in cherries and nut meats and chill until firm in molds. Serve on lettuce with tart dressing.

Fruit Salad Supreme
1 cup diced oranges
½ cup diced grapefruit
½ cup seedless white grapes
½ cup grated coconut

Marinate the bananas with the diced oranges and grapefruit for at least a half hour. Add grapes which have been cut in half and serve in lettuce cups sprinkled with moist grated coconut. Pass salad dressing which has been mixed with an equal part of whipped cream.

Send in your favorite recipe. Two free tickets will be given to each person whose recipe is accepted and printed, for the Capitol Theatre where the current attraction is "Another Thin Man" with "Cisco Kid and The Lady."

Anthony Burde Student Guide At Psychology Clinic

Anthony Burde of 570 Union avenue is one of the students in the day session selected to act as a guide at the public exhibition of the Essex Junior College collection of student-made psychological devices. The exhibit was formally opened yesterday and will run for one week.

The collection, planned by Dr. A. M. Koch, dean and head of the psychology department of the college, is designed to show the public the work done by the psychological clinic and the practical application of the student's training in psychology.

SEVEN INJURED IN CRACK-UPS

Six Hurt In Accident At Union Avenue And William Street

Six persons were injured in an accident at William street and Union avenue at 2:30 Sunday morning. The car of Henry L. Werner, forty-five, of 62 Ligham street, driving north on Union avenue, collided with that of Aaron W. Ryff, seventeen, of 303 Monroe street, Passaic, who was driving west on William street.

Frances Russak, seventeen, of 25 Carroll street, aterson, riding with Ryff, was held at St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, where all the injured were taken, for a possible fracture of the skull. Riding with Werner and also injured were:

Arthur De Furia, fourteen, of 62 Jannarone street, bruised ribs.

Frank Morelli, thirteen, of 52 Newark avenue, cut face.

Alfred Sholander, twelve, of 18 Evergreen avenue, Nutley, two stitches on head.

Joseph Sholander, eleven, same address, stitches on head.

Henry Werner, fifteen, bruises and cut back of car.

Car Turns Over

Two persons escaped injury when the car in which they were riding skidded at a curve in Main street north of Roosevelt avenue, leaped the embankment and turned over, Sunday night. Riding in the car were Joseph P. Molloy and Helen Mayer, both of Hoboken.

Two Women In Collision

Miss Dorothy R. Bowney, twenty-five, of Montclair, and Mrs. Daymo Rebol, thirty-six of Newark, suffered slight injuries Sunday afternoon when their cars collided at the intersection of Washington avenue and Rutgers street. Miss Bowney's car was turned over.

George Lewis, fifteen, of 400 Washington avenue, a freshman at the high school, suffered a fractured collarbone Thursday when he was struck by an automobile which police say was driven by Norman S. Olson, thirty-eight, of Westport, Conn. After treatment at St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, he was detained for several days for observation and released Monday. He is the son of Mrs. Ruth Lewis.

According to police, Olson was driving north on Washington avenue when young Lewis came out of the driveway of the Blue & White Garage at 648 Washington avenue and walked into the right fender of the Olson car. Olson was not held.

Michael Del Guercio of 217 Forest street was uninjured when his car collided with that of John E. Henry of 211 Second street, Newark, at Washington and James streets, Newark, Monday afternoon. Henry suffered scalp and leg lacerations. He was taken to St. Michael's Hospital for treatment.

Boy Breaks Wrist

Donald Bennett, twelve, of 46 New street, suffered a broken wrist Tuesday afternoon when he was struck by a car which police say was driven by Perry L. Dyer, sixty-two, of 468 Greylock parkway. Dyer told police that he was driving west on William street when young Bennett ran from behind a car going in the opposite direction and walked into his auto. The boy was crossing from the south side of William street to the north side. He was taken first to Dr. Barney Schaffer's office for treatment and then home by Dyer.

TELLS STUDENTS THEY'RE LUCKY

Syrian Contrasts American Life With That Found In Europe

Americans seldom realize the blessing of being able to live in a land of freedom, not in places where "not one man in a million has the freedom to turn his head this way or that without the command of a surly officer." This was the gist of the talk delivered yesterday afternoon before the high school assembly by Salom H. Syrian, who claims to have made a success of his life in America.

According to the story he lived as a poverty-stricken boy in a small village in Syria, with nothing to eat but scraps and nothing to wear but rags tied around his waist. He came to America at eighteen, ten years ago, thirsting for an education. When he finally got here he was able to set up a moderately successful shoemaking establishment.

His talk was mainly a contrast between the peace and security and advantages of America and the horror that is Europe's today, where as he put it "the finest of men are forced to dress in killers' uniforms while the contemptible war lords sit in safety in their fortified hideaways." He contrasted also the educational advantages of America compared to Europe where "children go to school hidden behind ugly gas masks to protect their lungs from the poison gas of their elders."

The high school orchestra under the baton of Mrs. Alice Wagner played John Philip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" as a prelude to the assembly.

Greylock Parents Hold Benefit For Their Milk Fund

Greylock Parent-Teachers Association conducted a social for the benefit of the Milk Fund last night at School No. 5. John Charlton of the high school faculty was chairman. Members of the association attending the Founders' Day luncheon at the Newark Athletic Club Monday were Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Hayes, Mrs. Elwood P. Russell, Mrs. Lloyd R. Reeves, Mrs. Robert Banta, Mrs. Charles A. Stewart and Mrs. Walter A. Hack.

Mrs. Hack will be in charge of the program Monday when the regular meeting of the association will be held at two o'clock and Founders' Day will be observed. Past presidents of the organization will be guests of honor.

N. CENTRAL TRIPS HIGH QUINTET

Locals Put Up Good Fight In Losing Tilt 37-34

The Blue and Gold high school courtsters putting on one of their best exhibitions of the season, dropped a tough one to the Newark Central at the local court last night 37-34. Led by the brilliant last half playing of Johnny Calicchio, the homesters staged a rally that had the rooters on their feet as they swept through the High streeters defense to ring up two-pointers with regularity.

Belleville was robbed of what might have been a chance to knot the count. Less than a minute before the game ended Tom Kelly, Central coach, who had been finding something to quibble about all evening, dashed out on the court to argue with Referee Herb Sopher. Before their gabfest ended time ran out and the contest ended.

George McNally, who scored ten points, led the first half attack of the Blue and Gold to put them in the lead 15-14 at half time. Central's big period was the third when they stowed away sixteen points to take the lead. Calicchio was a basket hawk with long and lay-up shots, swishing the nets with six of them in the second half. He split the cords for one foul shot to give him a total of thirteen markers for the night. The locals scored nine points to Central's six in the final period.

The Jayvees scored their second straight victory by defeating the Central Juniors 29-26. Billy Radomski led the way with thirteen points. The scores:

William Stephens Is Eulogized By I. O. O. F. Members

William W. Stephens, who died at his home in Tappan avenue during the past week, was eulogized in a tribute paid to him yesterday in a statement given out by H. F. Hickok, secretary of the Belleville Harmony Lodge No. 25 of I. O. O. F. Mr. Stephens had been an active member and leader in the Odd Fellows for fifty-seven years.

"The spirit of Brother Stephens," Hickok said, "still animates the activities of the lodge. Our fraternal fellowship has been greatly enriched by his many and varied contributions to the order."

BHS Meets Old Friends This Week

Sports Before Your Eyes

by JOE DUVAL

Man the Lifeboats

Torpedoed twice a week since the first of the year, the Blue and Gold dreadnaught has been reduced to the mosquito fleet. Just about able to keep afloat, raked from stem to stern with everything but the biggest fifteen-inchers, the once-proud vessel is disappearing beneath the waves. The Bellboy rosters have waited a long time for the ship to come in, but if it ever makes home port it will be a miracle.

Sent out the scouting planes on a searching party for the battered old tug last week and found it in a running hand-to-hand fight down at Hillside. It was hardly recognizable after its many shelling of recent weeks. All the superstructure and defensive armor plate had been blown away and she was leaking badly at the seams.

Seriously it is difficult to put your finger on any one thing and say, "This is what's wrong with the team." Generally speaking it may be said, taken by and large, that the high school quints does not have nor have they been taught ball sense. They look fine in practice but the old apple comes up once the whistle blows.

The brand of ball that Belleville is playing today is being criticized. The Bellboys are playing 1930 basketball in 1940 and it doesn't pay dividends, some sideliners think. Basketball today is a wide open game, but the Zebras are still playing the cautious ball of ten years ago.

Again, the Bellboys just don't know the fine points of the game. Passing is still ragged despite the fact that they are now halfway through the season. There is still no follow-up after a shot and it is cause for surprise whenever a striped jersey gets the ball off their backboard. They still give their opponents little credit for being on their toes — some of the Blue & Gold passes look as if they were designed to land in alien hands.

One of the basic causes of the present fizzle, and indeed with most of them, is that it is impossible to teach a large number of kids the fundamentals of any game after they arrive in high school. By the time they land at Washington and Holmes they should be well-grounded in elements of the various games, particularly basketball which children of any age can play.

Well, aren't they taught those things in the public school? No, Belleville is one of the few schools that has no athletic program for its lower school children. Few attempts have been made in the past to run a junior basketball league, but nobody wanted to take the trouble to do it right. Consequently today, if a kid wants to learn to play, he finds himself torn to pieces and sticks in a peach basket.

It is long past time that the recreation department and the board of education get together on this problem and give it some serious thought.

COUNTY TO HOLD ICE CARNIVAL

Skating Exhibition At Branch Brook Park Saturday Afternoon

Branch Brook Park, in Newark, will be the scene of an ice skating exhibition Saturday afternoon staged by the recreation department of the Essex County Park Commission in conjunction with members of New York skating clubs. Demonstrations of figure skating as well as free skating will take place at 3.

Ray Hunt, four times national ice skating champion, will accompany Dr. Hilda Berger of New York in an exhibition dance on skates in the feature. Added attractions will be the Misses Adeline and Peggy Pope and Miss Ann Johnston of Newark who will cut fancy figures on the ice.

Special feature for spectators will be an exhibition of speed skating under the direction of Fred E. Highton of Newark, who will stage a pursuit race. Music for skating will be furnished by a sound system.

The carnival will be held in front of the bandstand on the west side of the lake, south of the Park avenue bridge.

Flash!!—Belleville Scores A Victory,— But It's Jayvees, Not The First Stringers

Juniors Beat Pat. Central 38-19; Big Fellows Also Drop One To Hillside

The junior varsity was the toast of the high school yesterday. After a famine which embraced four successive setbacks for the two Bellboy fives, the Jayvees broke the spell with a rousing 38-19 trouncing of the Paterson Central underlings. The varsity then went out and absorbed a 38-26 licking from Central's No. 1 team. Belleville rosters could scarcely believe their eyes when they saw the Blue and Gold J. V. start fast at the beginning of the second quarter and run away from their rivals.

Bill Radomski was the big gun in the junior Zebras' attack. He looped seven field goals and a foul through the hoop for fifteen points and thereby earned himself a chance with the big boys, with whom he tallied four more points. Jack Higgins also helped in the triumph of the younger element with nine markers.

The varsity started off in usual fashion and by halftime found themselves in a 26-10 hole. A belated fourth-period rally served only to narrow the margin slightly but left the picture virtually the same. Bill Handley was the flash for the locals with ten points, the only home lad to break into double figures. In the meantime Ted Repella, Paterson's favorite son for all-state honors, was chalking up fifteen to pace the homesters.

Hillside The Boss

It was Hillside's turn to hand the Bellboys a walloping Friday night and they did it in discouraging fashion. The score was 35-21 and the final issue was never in doubt after the first five minutes.

With Ed Morris and Bob De Prospe racking up points with regularity, the Hillsiders rolled through Belleville like Sherman through Georgia. When the wreck-age had been cleared away there was nothing left to the Bellboys but their seventh straight defeat.

Mike Marotti scored all the Blue and Gold points in the first quarter and George McNally matched it in the final period. In between most of the talk was about Teddy Close who, while he was in the game, was all over the floor on defensive work and caged two of the longest shots of the evening.

The Zebras rallied briefly toward the end of the third stanza but the Hillsiders opened the fourth with three field goals within a half minute to take all the starch out of the locals.

The Jayvees likewise never had a chance. Hillside ran up an almost unsurmountable lead on their right off the bat and the

Memories Of Recent Visits Unpleasant, But There's Hope

Zebras Renew Acquaintanceship With Orange and West Orange Fives; Both Have Good Records

The Bellboys have two dates during the coming week, neither of which they are anxious to keep although both give them an opportunity for sweet revenge. Tomorrow night they will play host to West Orange which holds a 31-23 decision over them this year. Tuesday evening they will be entertained at Orange, which may turn out to be walking into the lion's den for the Tornados took them 33-21 on the local court in their previous encounter.

The locals will be gunning for some of their lost prestige when they tangle with the topnotchers from the Oranges but it will be no easy job. West Orange is rated better than average this season while Orange is one of the best.

Hopes of a possible Blue and Gold victory were raised somewhat this week with the sudden flash that Bill Radomski made into stardom. Unstopable with the Jayvees against Paterson Central Tuesday, he stepped into a varsity role as if he had been there all along. The failure of George McNally to click in recent games has been a source of worry to the Belleville board of strategy. "Casey" started out in the first four games of the year as if he were headed straight for state scoring honors, but recently his points have dwindled to almost nothing.

Other members of the team show occasional flashes of scoring ability. Jack O'Grady will be high scorer for the Blue and Gold one night, then it will be Red Handley, while the next time it will probably be Johnny Calichio. The rosters are waiting for the game when they will all click together.

Byrnes Sets Two New Highs In Manufacturers' Loop

Howard Byrnes of the Kooler-keG team set a new high individual game score and a new high series for the year in the Belleville Manufacturers' Bowling League at North Newark Bowling Academy Friday night. He opened with a 277, dropped to 172 and finished with 260 for a 718 series. Les Bannister, his teammate, clicked with 259 in the last game to give the Kooler-keG team a new high score of 1044.

Congressman Declares Himself

Congressman Fred A. Hartley has heaved his chapeau into the ring again for the Republican Congressional nomination. This should put at ease those in the political circle who believed that the Congressman would gum up the works in the G.O.P. gubernatorial battle by stepping into the ring with former Governor Harold G. Hoffman and State Senator Robert C. Hendrickson, Hartley's entrance would have virtually assured Hoffman of the nomination, some observers felt.

Hartley has been one of the best vote-getters the Republicans have had in the state for a number of years. In elections when the rest of the G.O.P. choices were running for cover to avoid the fusillade of Democratic ballots, the favorite son of Kearny weathered the storm and came through with flying colors. On this basis, when the old G.O.P. was searching through the political woods for a candidate to put up in this year's gubernatorial campaign, some of the party leaders sent up a trial balloon for the Congressman.

Either some of the upper crust couldn't see the balloon or it just never came down.

Boy Scouts' 30th Anniversary

Next week this time men and boys in this and hundreds of other communities throughout the United States will be celebrating the thirtieth anniversary of the establishment of the Boy Scout movement in America. There are more than 1,330,000 Scouts, Cubs and men who are devoting their time to this tremendous youth organization. In the thirty years during which this country has watched the movement steadily march ahead, the Boy Scouts have contributed much to helping youth and preaching "the American Way."

Their efforts have been bent toward influencing, leading and bettering the lives of millions of American boys at the ages when they most needed guidance and direction.

Every parent should be thankful that in these times with the country flooded with "isms" there is an organization which their son may join and become inculcated with the true spirit of Americanism — not a lot of fanatical, biased and untruthful rubbish. No mention can be made of the Scouts without speaking of the adults who give of their time, energies and financial support to help mold young boys into citizens who

What About The Parkway?

The Essex County Park Commission paints a dark picture for the prospect of the completion of its parkway project along the Passaic River. The Board of Freeholders has said a loud "no" to the Commission's request for $75,000 to complete the work which it had planned for this year.

The parkway would materially improve the riverfront which at present is nothing to brag about when speaking in terms of natural beauty. For years a number of folks who can remember when the waters of the old Passaic rolled between shores well coated with green grass and lined with tall trees, have been urging that the riverbank be made into the showplace that it once was.

We could suggest that the freeholders give the Park Commission the $75,000, but the county trustees would bounce right back with the remark that the people want taxes

The Town Budget Meeting

The taxpayers will get their first definite earful of the town budget Monday night when a public forum will be held. Mayor Williams has aptly referred to this session as something which is patterned after the old New England town meetings in which anyone who desired got up and spoke his piece and asked any questions that were lurking around in his mind.

That in effect is the idea of Monday night's gathering. The budget will be dissected item by item so that those who are interested will thoroughly understand how the commissioners plan to spend the taxpayers' money this year. This is far more courtesy than is shown the folks who pay the bills in many municipalities.

Hartley's name was mentioned, but was then shoved aside by the Clean Government big-wigs to whom he has been somewhat cordial. Hartley might have shown more strength in the northern part of the state where voting is heavy on the basis of his past performances than would Senator Hendrickson, and some regarded his chances as good for corraling votes in the southern counties.

It's now water over the dam. If the Congressman is to be given a shot at the job in Trenton, he will have to wait another three years. In the meantime, he has again decided to cast his lot with the lawmakers in the nation's Capitol. During the twelve years he has served this district as a representative, we think that Congressman Hartley has done his job well. We have not always agreed with his stands or policies, but we feel that he has sincerely attempted to operate in the best interests of the most. One of the things which we have always admired most in Fred has been his willingness to give of his time to almost any request, regardless of party allegiance. This is the true measure of a real representative.

will perpetuate the continuance of this nation along the pattern and design set by its founders.

In the past year, under the leadership of John P. Dailey, Belleville's scouting organizations progressed and grew. There is every reason to believe that during the coming year its march will continue under the able direction of Frank Chambers.

To the youthful members of this organization we have only one thing to say—that they remember the obligations they assume when they take the Scout oath. The public's eyes are on a Scout, and through each individual member they measure the value of the organization. Each one has a responsibility to the entire movement. Each of the Scout laws was written into the organization's code by its founders because they believed it important to the betterment of lives of young boys. To us, the most important of them all is the Twelfth Scout Law; one which not only Scouts, but all of us might apply to our lives:

"A Scout is reverent.
"He is reverent toward God. He is faithful in his religious duties, and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion."

kept down and they are determined that the county tax rate shall not be any higher than is absolutely necessary. Parks come under the category of civic luxuries in the estimation of many. But, it is worth while pointing out that thousands of dollars have already been spent on the river project. Good money has been expended on work which will go to seed if nothing more is done for another year or so.

It is for the people to decide what should be done. Do they feel that this work, which is now past the preliminary stages, should be continued? The Board of Freeholders will consider its budget for final adoption on February 10. If people feel efforts should be made to have the board change its attitude on spending money along the riverfront, they should so indicate in expressions to the trustees personally or to the town which will gladly pass them along.

The people have been offered the opportunity to ask the commissioners collectively or individually about the expenditures they propose to make or the financial policies that are to be assumed during this year. Now is the time to ask questions. Not next June. Budgets are involved with high-sounding terms and figures which, however, can be broken down so that the layman can understand what it is all about.

This is what the commissioners propose to do next week. Those who ask questions must keep in mind that much of the budget is made up of mandatory items — either set by rules established by the State Department of Local Government or obligations assumed in the past which are now coming due.

Time to Get Up

THIS BUSINESS OF GOVERNMENT

by Samuel S. Kenworthy

Executive Sec'y N. J. State League of Municipalities

Statistics on Federal, State, and local finances recently published by the United States Treasury and the Census Bureau illustrates just how big this business of government really is. In 1938 governmental disbursements were approximately $18,300,000,000. Of this amount $7,000,000,000 (or forty per cent minus) was expended by the Federal government; $3,600,000,000 (or twenty per cent) by the state governments; and $7,700,000,000 (or forty per cent plus) by the local governments. This includes both the county and municipal level. Of this $7,700,000,000 for local governments, approximately $5,000,000,000 was financed from tax revenues, $600,000,000 from non-tax revenues, $170,000,000 from federal grants to local governments, $1,400,000,000 from state grants to local governments and $600,000,000 from new borrowing.

It is estimated by the Treasury that in 1938 approximately twenty-two per cent of the national income was taken for the tax revenues of all government, nine per cent for Federal government, six per cent for State governments and seven per cent for local governments. It is interesting to note that of the state grants to local governments approximately one-half were for education, one-fourth for highways and one-fourth for relief and welfare processes.

The most important tax revenues are as follows: for the Federal government—income, corporation, liquor, and tobacco taxes; for the state government—motor fuel and vehicle taxes and sales taxes; for local governments—the property tax. What share of the total tax revenues is provided by the property tax? In the case of the Federal government, none; in the case of the states, five and one-half per cent; in the case of the local governments, ninety per cent.

Change In Two Decades

Let us take a look at the changes that have occurred in the revenue system in the last twenty years. In the Federal finances customs taxes are declining; income, corporation, and payroll taxes increasing; in state finances the property tax is declining, business, income and sales taxes are increasing, and grants from the United States are rising. The figures on federal grants to the states are revealing. In 1915 these constituted 6 per cent of all state revenues; in 1937 they constituted 14.4 per cent, or 13.9 per cent of all state revenues. In local finance the property tax shows a slight increase, special assessments a decided decline. Miscellaneous earnings, interest, licenses, and business taxes have been approximately cut in two and grants from the state and federal governments are increasing. These grants to cities over 100,000 population have increased from 3½ per cent in 1915 to 17½ per cent in 1937.

We are all, of course, interested in changes in the property tax. The assessed valuation of property subject to taxation in the United States has declined from $163,000,000,000 in 1932 to $139,000,000,000 in 1937. This is a reduction from $1,312 per capita to $1,083 per capita.

ODDS AND ENDS FROM OTHER PENS

40 Years a Priest

Archbishop Walsh has completed forty years in the vineyard of his Master and he has reason to be proud of the work he has done there. A conscientious, vigorous administrator, he has greatly extended the scope of the church's social services, developed its educational facilities and has added beauty to its religious ceremonies by directing greater attention to music.

To him has been entrusted the spiritual welfare of 1,000,000 Catholics in the province of New Jersey, a responsibility which reflects the high regard in which he is held by his ecclesiastical superiors. It is a trust to which he has remained true, with the singleminded devotion of the shepherd of tradition.

—Newark Sunday Call.

Everyone thinks the first airmail was carried by airplane, but really it was first carried by pigeons.

While the implications of the raw figures are partially offset by Federal and state grants, it is interesting to note that from 1932 to 1938 federal expenditures have increased sixty-eight per cent; state expenditures have increased one hundred per cent, or doubled; and local expenditures have increased only two per cent.

This two per cent increase is a figure upon which local officials can look with considerable pride. On the other hand I suppose some of our well-meaning taxpayers will contend that through a more economical administration local officials might very well have reduced their expenditures rather than to increase them during this period. I have no intention to defend local authorities who make no effort to keep their expenditures within the ability of their taxpayers to pay. There is no defense for a wasteful administration in the conduct of public business. On the other hand taxpayers themselves, in their all too ready willingness to criticize, should acquaint themselves with the facts.

Let us consider the $7,700,000,000 expended by local governments in the United States during the year 1938, keeping in mind that this represents disbursements for both the counties and municipalities. At first blush this appears to be a staggering sum of money and, in fact, it really is. We are told by the Princeton Survey of New Jersey Finance that New Jersey municipalities alone expend approximately $216,000,000 annually for local purposes, including schools. This also is a staggering sum of money and according to some of our critics could be materially reduced. This claim is, however, a debatable question which I will touch on in subsequent articles. For the moment I will not attempt to justify this expenditure. However, I desire to leave you a few questions which must be honestly answered by the critic before he can justify his claim of extravagance:

It's Far More Economical

I am sure no one will contradict me when I say "It is far more economical to purchase the services of government through the public purse than it is through the private pocketbook." Have you ever figured how much more economical it is for you to educate your child in the public schools than it would be if you were obliged to pay for this education in a private institution? How much more do you imagine you would pay for private police and fire protection? What would your individual bill amount to if you were forced to pay someone for removing your garbage and ashes; the maintenance, repair and lighting of the street in front of your home; the facilities of your public library, playgrounds and parks; care of shade trees; the amount which your conscience would call upon you to contribute toward the relief of the unemployed; the services of the health department; and the innumerable other activities which constitute this business of government in your own municipality?

No sound thinking person will argue that it would be more economical to pay privately for these necessary services rather than through organized government. Of course, you have a right to demand that these services be furnished as economically as possible but when you have satisfied yourself in this respect, I am sure you will be less critical of the size of your annual tax bill.

And the first airmail was made possible entirely through the use of pigeons.

For centuries pigeons have carried messages, but the first officially recognized pigeon mail service was established fifty years ago between Auckland, New Zealand, and Great Barrier Island, sixty miles north.

At that time the only means of communication between the bleak and almost inaccessible island and the mainland, was by a weekly steamer. In case of emergency of any kind, this was a bad situation.

MUSICAL SILHOUETTES

A Musical Commentary by Leon Carson

CCCXIII

"All passes, art alone endures."
—from an old book-plate

Newark Attractions

Those who desire to see and hear in person Arturo Toscanini and the National Broadcasting Company Symphony Orchestra will have that opportunity on Wednesday evening, February 21, at the Mosque Theatre in Newark. All seats are reserved and the admission ranges from one to four dollars. The scale of prices runs pretty high, it would seem!

On March 27 Marian Anderson, the celebrated but over-publicized Negro contralto appears at the Mosque in recital, with all seats reserved and seats costing from one to two and one-half dollars. An interesting feature of the Griffith series will occur on the afternoon of February 7 at the Mosque when a special symphonic program for young people will be given by the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, Artur Rodzinski conducting. Mr. Rodzinski is, by the way, a very close second, so far as musicianship and effective conducting are concerned, to the famous Toscanini. The prices run much lower for this concert, — twenty-five and fifty cents for students, and one dollar for adults. A program by the Cleveland organization and presented under Rodzinski's direction, is worth much more than that.

Applause

The subject of applause (its cause, effect, etc.) seems still to be a rather dubious one. When to applaud and when not to have become subjected to rather standardized routine amongst concert and opera goers,—but there are also many people who don't know what it is all about.

Jascha Heifetz, internationally famous violinist, recently aired his opinion on the subject to the effect that our musical audiences who applaud as a sign of enjoyment should also hiss when they are not pleased. A very brave statement for any artist to make! As to whether or not the reason for the hissing is a logical one, more or less brought out by the late John Philip Sousa's reminiscence about a concert he and his band gave in Leipzig many years ago. On the program were a number of Wagner selections, and at the start and finish of each one, a bespectacled, severe-looking old gentleman gave out prolonged and numerous hisses. During the intermission Mr. Sousa sent for the self-appointed critic and asked him what he disliked — was it the playing or the interpretation? "Neither," replied the hisser, "but I hate Wagner."

Taking everything into consideration, we don't think Mr. Heifetz's suggestion such a good one, although a little hissing once in a while would soon straighten out some very smug foreign artists now appearing before the American public.

Inducement. One sign in a Brooklyn barber shop, "Violin lessons in Groups. One free haircut with every six lessons."

Two, — not so much to do with music, but still very good, — at Tony's on West 52nd street, where musical folk occasionally drop in. A concoction compounded by that famous gentleman which he has called a "Gone with the Wind Cocktail." — "One drink and you see Rhett, — two drinks and you'll see Scarlett."

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

by Meador Wright

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

Harold G. Hoffman's fighting sensitivity to the charges that he is a "Hague Republican" is likely to have considerable influence on legislation at Trenton this spring. It has been assumed up to now that very little legislation would get through because of the hostility of two major Republican factions. But if Hoffman sets out in earnest to refute the Hague alliance charges, a different atmosphere may prevail. He will be afraid to permit any stand that smacks of Democratic cooperation. This means that his followers must work in general way with Clean Government. Such cooperation through necessity might result in a type of legislation that has been thwarted in the past.

If Hoffman's anger at the Hague charge is genuine, it would seem that Hendrickson and his Clean Government allies have hit upon a weak spot in the former Governor's armor. The latter is correct in pointing out his opponents likewise have voted with the Democrats on occasion. He may even be able to build up a mathematical case showing that they have "cooperated" more often than he has. But the point against him is that he worked with the Democrats to put over the sales tax — the most hated bit of legislation in the recent state history. The public will remember this one piece of "cooperation" long after all the others are forgotten.

May Be Buried

Hoffman's position is not unlike that of the Victorian maiden who, having been guilty of one major indiscretion, spent the remainder of her life trying to live it down — but never quite succeeded. So it may be with Hoffman. His allegations about the many times he didn't "cooperate" or that his opponent did may be subordinated in the public mind to the clear picture of the one instance when he did work with the enemy. Such an attitude would be unjust.

Italian-American voters of Montclair are excited over the candidacy of Anthony D. Appice for judge of the Montclair District Court. Delegations have visited Trenton and otherwise put pressure on Governor Moore and Senator Zink to permit James J. McMahon's recommendation to go through. They put over that, despite its large voting strength, the Italian-American in Montclair has ever held any political office of importance save that of recorder, which was held once by Henry P. Strazza.

Now, that the Democratic county chairman has recommended a member of their race they are determined that it shall go through. They are particularly angry at what they consider insinuations about Appice's standing as a lawyer. They claim that he is a man of good character and that his practice has been similar to that of most young lawyers.

These arguments, in the eyes of Italian-American voters, are unassailable and Zink must be prepared to withstand tremendous pressure if he persists in his stand to block the appointment.

It is not clear just yet how well McMahon will succeed in selecting a slate of delegates from Essex pledged to the renomination of Roosevelt. So far, only Joseph M. Byrne has turned down the request to run. Byrne objected to being grouped with Mayor Ellenstein. In this he was extremely wise, for such an alliance would hurt him in the councilman fight that will follow city manager referendum — assuming one is held.

DOGS

by Laurence Torley

The treatment of all dogs has improved greatly since the pure bred specimen has come into prominence. Before the American Kennel Club was organized in 1884, a dog was regarded almost as an inanimate piece of property. Many believed that they could acquire and discard dogs at will, and few believed that any thought had to be given to the health and quarters of dogs. Such conditions still exist, but today they are the exception rather than the rule.

Through the efforts of organized dogdom, people at large have come to place a value on their pets. They now realize that a faithful friend such as the dog must be given a measure of consideration at all times; that he cannot subsist solely on scraps from the table and that he cannot be kept in a drafty or damp kennel.

The owners of pure-bred dogs are among the most responsible of all people. Usually they have come through all the stages, starting with mongrel pets and eventually becoming breeders of pure-bred show specimens. They know that owning dogs means the keeping of regular hours for feeding and exercising and that often they must forego pleasures to take care of sick dogs.

The kennel owner's true feeling for dogs can be quickly seen on a visit to almost any large establishment, for some of the most cherished dogs will be those that no longer have any possible value as show or breeding specimens.

DR. HOFFMAN WILL SPEAK AT FORUM

Jewry Leader To Address Second Lecture Series At Synagogue

The second in a series of lecture forums by the Belleville Jewish Institute for Adult Study will take place Wednesday night in the social hall of the Congregation A. A. A. Rabbi Rubin I. Dobin is head of the Institute. The three event series is based on the general theme: "The Jewish Scene—Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow."
The Institute is sponsored by the Congregation, Sisterhood, Progress Club and other groups which meet under the guidance of the Synagogue.
Dr. Charles I. Hoffman, of Congregation Oheb Shalom, Newark, will be the speaker. Dr. Hoffman is one of the outstanding leaders of American Jewry. He is honorary president of the United Synagogue of New Jersey. Dr. Hoffman has had many of his works published and is now engaged in writing his memoirs on his long experiences with the American scene. This is one of the few outside engagements Rabbi Hoffman has accepted this year.
The lecture is free and open to all. Edward J. Abramson, president of the Congregation, will be chairman.

Services For W. W. Stephens, Eighty-year Old Resident

Services were held at the Irvine Funeral Home Monday afternoon for William W. Stephens, eighty, of 90 Tappan avenue. The Rev. Edgar Compton officiated and burial was in Bloomfield Cemetery.
Born in Newark, Stephens moved to Belleville and lived here for many years. After another brief residence in Newark, he moved back to town seven years ago. He leaves his wife Minna Evers Stephens; four sons, Clarence, William and Charles of Orange and Ellsworth of Newark; and a daughter Mrs. Emily Hague of Denville.

R. J. McGough, Long-Time Resident, Dies At Sixty-six

A solemn requiem mass will be offered at 9 this morning for Robert J. McGough, sixty-six, of 6 Division avenue, who died at his home Monday. Born in Ireland, McGough was a long-time resident of Belleville. He was a member of the Holy Name Society, the Fourth Degree of the Knights of Columbus and the Elks Club.
He leaves his widow Catherine and two sons, Robert and Matthew, of Belleville, and a sister, Mrs. John Burke of Hoboken. Interment, under the direction of the George Kiernan Funeral Home, will be in Holy Sepulcher Cemetery.

E. W. O'Keefe, Indian Fighter, Passes At Home

Edward W. O'Keefe, seventy-seven, one time Indian fighter and a veteran of the Spanish American War, died last week at his home at 51 Prospect place. He was buried Saturday from the William W. Irvine Funeral Home, with the Rev. Peter Deckenbach officiating. Interment was in the Lutheran Cemetery, Long Island.
He leaves a daughter Louise of Fort Kay, Governor's Island; two brothers, John and Daniel of the Bronx, and a granddaughter living in Boston.

Most families are delighted when mother serves hot breads—particularly biscuits. Many mothers with a keen eye for efficiency double the biscuit recipe and make enough bread for several meals.
Quick breads require a hot oven. The insulated oven of the gas range has a heat control which regulates the temperature and can hold the heat at 450 degrees.
To reheat biscuits, place them in the bun-warmer over the gas flame. They may also be freshened by heating in the oven in a heavy paper bag that has been dampened.

Isolation Hospital Death Rate Was Lowest In History

The death rate at the Essex County Isolation Hospital, Belleville and Franklin avenues, during 1939 was the lowest in the hospital's history, according to the report of Dr. Ellis Smith, superintendent and medical director. The rate was only 1.8 per cent, representing fifty-one deaths in 2,743 admissions.
Dr. Smith also bore out the statement of Health Officer Eugene T. Berry when he stated that the hospital was preparing for an anticipated measles outbreak. The disease usually runs in three-year periods, both said during the past week, and is now a year overdue. Both expect that the outbreak would arrive sometime in March.

DR. WILSON NAMED SCHOOL DENTIST

Board Re-appoints Mrs. Booth; Doctor Will Examine All Pupils

Dr. Tracie W. Wilson of 435 Washington avenue was appointed school dentist at a special meeting of the Board of Education Monday evening in the board rooms at School No. 8. Mrs. Adele H. Booth of 33 Rutgers street was named medical clerk at the same time.
The appointment of Dr. Wilson does away with the system of volunteer dentists who have carried on the school dental examinations during the past year and a half. In 1939 there were eight volunteer dentists working throughout the year at various times. Dr. Wilson will begin immediate examination in the school system. He will cover one school completely before moving on to the next. His salary was not announced.
Mrs. Booth was appointed to her position last fall, her term to last five months. The board voted Monday night to continue the job to the end of the year and approved her re-appointment. She will assist the school physicians and will keep complete medical and general health records for all students.

Be Your Own Decorator with the aid of HELEN KOUES

In considering the arrangement of a house it is important that the color scheme of one room be determined by its relationship to the rooms near it. There are two excellent floor plans which are to be found in average houses throughout the country. In one plan the small entrance hall is papered in terra cotta pink with a white motif; the woodwork is the same color as the background in the paper. The back hall and stairs are the same color as the background in the paper. The living room is decorated in a small, pastel color scheme. The living room is decorated in a small, pastel color scheme. HOUSE WITH CENTRAL HALL

This is the plan of a house in the Colonial feeling which is one of the most economical to build. It provides a good size living room with a fireplace, which in this case had walls and woodwork of a soft gray. The same color was used in the hall, and in the dining room. The curtains in the living room were a blue, green, and white. The rug was a deep solid blue; those in the dining room were of deep cherry, matching the rug. In this way the whole lower floor was in harmony, and yet had distinctly different color schemes. From a color standpoint the use of red curtains in a dining room is a very charming one. Red is an exciting color, and used in a room where if but a few hours of the day are spent it is stimulating and pleasant. In a living room it might be overpowering. The gray of the downstairs hall was carried up to the second story. The master bedroom and bath had walls painted a hyacinth blue, with plum colored bed, and draperies and bed cover of chintz in which hyacinth blue, plum, and white were predominated. The bathroom had a soft blue tile dado with a washable wallpaper of blue and white above it. Across the hall the nursery was in blue, part plain, and part a gray figured wallpaper. The bedroom on the front of the house had a green and white wallpaper, with a green rug, and bedspreads and curtains of white with green trimming.

PRAYER PROGRAM BEING ARRANGED

Women of Local Churches Cooperating in Affair For February 9

Eight local churches will send representatives to the services which will be part of the World Day of Prayer. The event will be held at the Belleville Reformed Church, Main and Rutgers streets, on Friday, February 9.

The program prepared by Muriel and Doris Lester will have as its theme "In quietness and in confidence shall be your strength." Mrs. R. C. Whitfield, chairman of the Belleville observance of the day, said this week that prayer will ascend every hour of the twenty-four on February 9, in every part of the world for mission workers. The World Day of Prayer is sponsored by the National Committee of Church Women.

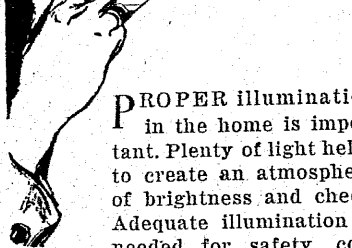

The participating churches and their representatives: Belleville Reformed Church, Mrs. John A. Struck and Mrs. Frank Wadsworth; Grace Baptist Church, Mrs. Walter Lake, Mrs. C. F. Sheeley and Mrs. G. W. Weirich; Christ Episcopal Church, Mrs. Frederick Idenden, Mrs. J. H. Edwards and Mrs. Harvey Mumford; Bethany Lutheran Church, Mrs. Willard H. Borchers, Mrs. Philip Drentlau and Mrs. H. P. PATH OF LIGHT

PROPER illumination in the home is important. Plenty of light helps to create an atmosphere of brightness and cheer. Adequate illumination is needed for safety, convenience and necessity. Use good diffused light for work, a soft shaded glow for decorative effect and colored light for novel arrangement.

Today, persons who are building or renting a house often request a series of light switches called "The Path of Light." With this system, one can go from room to room, turning on lights ahead and turning off lights behind, without retracing steps. The "Path of Light" extends from the front door, through the house, from cellar to attic, and terminates in the garage.

An illuminated house number, placed 42 to 48 inches from the ground, is a courtesy to guests. The weather-proof lighting over the front door is usually controlled by a switch inside the house. To obtain light while unlocking the door, a momentary contact switch is often placed near the house number.

Halls and all rooms should have light switches at both entrance and exit doors. It is a further convenience to have portable lamps attached to electric outlets with switch control. Noiseless switches, the color of the wall, will correspond with decorations.

Light for stairways is especially important and switches should be placed at both the top and bottom of the stairs. If the front staircase has a midway landing, it is best to install there a decorative fixture such as a wall bracket or recessed light.

For the cellar descending stairs an ordinary ceiling light may be placed near the foot (with controls at top and bottom). Houses with cellar stairs leading into a playroom can have a decorative lighted stairrail. This is done by placing under the rail tubular lights end-to-end in a suitable reflector. This fixture cannot be detected but the lighting is unusual and in keeping with the gay atmosphere.

The attic light, at least 60 watts, is usually turned on at the bottom of the ascending stairs. Light from the house to the garage is not only a convenience but also a safety measure. A garage adjacent to a house may be lighted with a single weatherproof unit carrying a 100 watt lamp with switch controls at the garage and at the back-door of the house. If the garage is a separate building, away from the house, the distance may be lighted with a specifically developed unit with a spread-beam lens that sprays the illumination over the area. Or, two floodlights placed high on either side of the garage doors will make visible the path to the house.

Truscott.
Mrs. John Kellett of Nutley, Mrs. Ward Lay, Mrs. John Charlton, Mrs. David King, Mrs. Frank Spotts and Mrs. Philip Pendleton will attend their bridge club today at the home of Mrs. Janice McKay of Nutley. The guests will be Mrs. Ada Thompson of Chicago who is visiting with the Charltons in town.
Mrs. James Shaw of Joralemon street was hostess last evening at bridge. Guests were Mrs. John Green, Mrs. William Eichorn, Mrs. Virginia Eckert, Mrs. George Bergmiller, Mrs. William McNair, Mrs. Ralph Allaire and Mrs. A. E. Peterson.

FEWSMITH YOUTH SERIES STARTS

Plan Numerous Activities For Coming Months; Harold Fox Is Speaker

A youth Buffet Supper will be held in the Recreation Room of the Fewsmith Presbyterian Church Sunday evening at 6, preceding the regular meeting of the Young People's Society. L. Howard Fox, public speaking instructor at the high school, will speak during the fellowship hour.

This is the first in a series of youth activities planned and inaugurated by a committee representing five groups of Fewsmith Young People. Arrangements have already been completed for the sponsoring dances in the Recreation Room on the Friday evenings of February 9, March 8 and March 15. The committee is also scheduling a demonstration, several Sunday evening suppers, talks by leaders and a youth center at the Annual Bazaar of the Woman's Guild on March 13 and 14.

Three goals have been set up by the young people. They hope to dedicate a bronze tablet inscribed "Fewsmith Memorial Presbyterian Church" for the church exterior; to place a new draw curtain on the stage of the recreation room; and to redecorate the interior of the church proper.

The committee, headed by Bert Rowland consists of Fred Ochser, president of the Youth Bible Class; Catherine Close, president of the Girls' Clubs; Eileen Atkinson, representing the Young People's Society; Victor Bruegman, the Boys' Clubs; Edith Atkinson, at large; and Anne Eberhard, the Teachers of the Church School.

Miss Elizabeth Hynes of Nutley Wed To Warren Matson

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Hynes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hynes of Brookline avenue, Nutley, to Warren Matson, son of Frank Matson of Carpenter street, took place Saturday afternoon at 6 at Grace Church, Nutley, with the pastor, Rev. L. Harold Hinrichs officiating. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Robert Bartholomew of this town as matron of honor, and Miss Frances Kaner of Trenton and Miss Mina Lamb of Paterson as bridesmaids. James Fitzgerald of this town acted as best man. The bride wore a gown of white tulle with a train. She wore a long veil and carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies. The matron of honor was gowned in dusty pink faille tulle and carried a bouquet of roses. The bridesmaids were dressed in periwinkle blue faille tulle and carried pink roses. The bride's mother wore a gown of royal blue crepe and a corsage of gardenias. A reception for the immediate families followed at the home of the bride's parents. After a wedding trip, the couple will reside at Cortlandt street. The bride attended Nutley High School and Vocational School. Mr. Matson attended Belleville High School and the Essex County Vocational School.

Entertains O. E. S.

Mrs. Caroline Fischer entertained Monday at dessert bridge for the benefit of Group 3 of North Star Chapter of O. E. S. of which Miss Virginia Krick of Newark is chairman. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Edna Lutz of Irvington and Miss May Belle Casler of Newark.
