

CLUB EVERGREEN MAY GIVE WAY TO APARTMENT

Frederick Bollinger Would Build $350,000 Garden
Type Structure There

A $350,000 garden type apartment house will replace the Club Evergreen, one of North Jersey's night spots, in Belleville avenue, Bloomfield just over the town line if the Federal authorities agree to guaranteeing an FHA mortgage. Application has been made by Frederick Bollinger of Bloomfield, proprietor of the Club Evergreen, for the mortgage guarantee under Title 1 of the Federal Housing Administration Act. At one time a private club, the Club Evergreen has been operated as a dining and dancing spot with up-and-down financial success since the repeal of Prohibition.

Plans for the project, which has been incorporated under the name of Evergreen Village, have been drawn by Raymond B. Platt, architect, of 50 Broad street, Bloomfield. The four buildings in the proposed plans would occupy about nineteen percent of a four and one-half acre plot. There would be seventy-two apartments with a total of 238 rooms. Plans have been made for the erection of thirty-one garages.

Sits on a Hill

The property is suited for such a project, being situated about forty feet above the elevation of Belleville avenue. It is bordered on the east by the Belleville line and on the north by the property of the Forest Hill Field Club and the entrance to club, generally known as the extension of Willet street, Bloomfield, is on the west.

Plans call for the buildings to be two stories in height. The one-story garages would be located along the local town line on the level with Belleville avenue and far below the elevation of the apartment house layout. It is planned to encircle the property with more than 1,800 feet of driveway with service entrances running off to each building. In the center of the layout would be a playground and park of two and one-half acres on which each apartment house would front.

Architect Platt has designed a building so that every room would receive direct rays of sunlight some time during the day. Most of the apartments would be a view of the New York skyline while the others would be the property of the Forest Hill Field Club.

Plans provide for forty-four three-room apartments consisting of living room, bedroom, kitchen and bath. There would be sixteen one and one-half room apartments with a dining alcove in addition to the rooms listed above. Eight four-room apartments could have two bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bath, five four proposed four and one-half room apartments with a dining alcove in addition to the rooms listed in the latter.

The buildings would be of brick and brownstone veneer of colonial design. Deck type roofs are planned for the corner apartments, while the rest of the building would have peaked slate roofs. Each building would have its own heating plant.

A part of the property is already zoned for an apartment house. The Bloomfield Town Council would have to go through the formality of rezoning the rest of the property which is provided in such cases under the State Enabling Act.

H. N. BREAKFAST ON SUNDAY

More Than 200 Expected To Attend Affair
At St. Mary's

The Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church in Nutley will hold a communion breakfast Sunday morning in the parish hall. More than 200 men are expected to attend the 8:15 mass which will precede the affair. The principal speakers will be Dr. Walter F. Robinson, Fordham University professor and principal of Roseville School in Bayonne, and Professor John T. Fitzgerald, who is currently instructing at John Marshall Law College in Jersey City and has taught at Notre Dame and Fordham.

Joseph P. Kane, Jr., is the chairman of arrangements assisted by Charles Scanlan, president of the society; William F. Cundiff, vice-president; and E. J. Long, secretary.

The society's regular meeting will be held Tuesday night in the parish hall. The speaker will be Leo-Muiron Rousseau of Nutley, advertising executive and author of numerous books on business. Rousseau is also the author of a play, "Gods for the Night," which won the national prize offered by the Hobby Guild of America in connection with the world's fair last year. He will talk before the Holy Name on "Finding Expression—A Road to Happiness." John Scrouge, public relations counsel for the safety bureau of the Great American Tea Co., will also speak.

As Valentines Once Were

The fancy looking valentine above is one of the oldest and most elaborate in the collection owned by Mrs. David I. Boyd of 16 Essex street. This and numerous others in the valuable group are on display at the Public Library. The one above is about fifty years old and is certainly different in style from those the postman will deliver next week. The passage under the picture says, "Thornless may Life's Roses be." The valentine is trimmed with red rope and the ribbons on both the top and bottom are bright red. The hand painting in the center is tinted in various colors.

Changes In Valentine Cards Shown In Collection

Mrs. David I. Boyd and Son of Essex Street Have Kept Cards Which Tell History of Valentine:
Some Are on Display at the Library

Dan Cupid will be in his glory Wednesday which, according to the calendar, is Valentine's Day. For years, the sending of heart-shaped cards and others with catchy verses vowing love and affection to sweethearts and friends has been the custom. This year will be no different for the counters are crammed with a card for every situation from the one-cent variety up. While the custom is the same, the cards have changed.

Mrs. David I. Boyd of 16 Essex street and her son, John M. Boyd, of 14 Essex street have one of the finest and oldest collections of Valentine greetings in New Jersey. The cards tell a picturesque story of the observance of this custom.

Display At Library

Valentine greetings today may be more gay and flashy, but some of the oldtimers in the Boyds' collection are more fanciful and decorative. Those who have seen a part of the collection which is on display at the Public Library have commented on the effort which must have been put into the manufacture of some of these greetings. They are truly works of art with their hand paintings, frilly lace and silk edges and ribbons.

Mrs. Boyd claims that she did not start the Valentine collecting hobby. Years ago, long before she moved to Belleville, some member of her family started to put away the cards which the family received each year. More for the sentiment attached to them than any intrinsic value, Mrs. Boyd decided to keep them. She says that some of them are more than seventy-five years old.

Mrs. Boyd, who has never counted them all, estimates that there are more than 150 Valentines in the collection.

There are all types, tracing the evolution of the Valentine to its present form. Compared to those of forty to sixty years ago, today's cards seem cold and casual. One dating back to the Civil War period is a lacy thing with a little door which opens and reveals the object of one's affections. There are many cushioned greetings made of cloth with figures and verses painted on them. There are large and small cards covered with intricate paper lace designs.

His More Modern

Young Boyd's collection is more modern but nevertheless contains Valentines not seen today. There are cards which lie flat but open up into such things as a flower-bedded coach, a blue inverted bell with doves and flowers, a flower-covered sail boat with swans in the foreground.

The Boyds moved to Belleville thirty-three years ago when Mr. Boyd accepted a position with L. Sonnegborn Sons, where he has been employed since. It was never a matter of serious collecting with them. Mrs. Boyd simply loved beautiful things which were important to them as a family.

MEETING TONIGHT AT MONTCLAIR ON HIGHWAYS

Williams Will Attend Joint Municipal Session On Roads For County

Mayor Williams will attend the meeting of the Joint Council of Municipal Planning Boards of the county in the Marlboro Inn, Montclair, tonight when they will confer with State Highway Commissioner E. Donald Sterner on highways for this section. Mayor Speers of Montclair, who has been largely responsible for bringing about the highway discussion, has asked Williams to present the resolutions before the body requesting that immediate action be taken on the completion of Route S-3 running from the Lincoln Tunnel, across the Passaic River along the Essex-Passaic county line to Montclair and out to Route 6.

A major part of the evening is also expected to be taken up with the discussion of Route 10, which is now completed from the northern part of the state to West Orange.

The municipalities and the state have been at odds on the course that Route 10 should take through the county in eventually connecting with highways to the Holland and Lincoln Tunnels. Plans for the extension of Route 21, which is Main street in this town, from the cemetery in North Newark to the Pennsylvania station may also be taken up.

"Each of these problems directly affects Belleville," Mayor Williams said last night. "We must keep an interest in them and do all in our power to see that this county gets what it deserves." The Mayor views the completion of S-3 to connect with the Lincoln Tunnel as most important. Thousands of dollars in preliminary work may be wasted, he said, unless steps are taken to complete the job. The tunnel, he stated, is also losing heavily in revenue because there is no direct link with this area.

NEED FACILITIES FOR CANCER

Mrs. Agnes Peabody, Curie Leader, Discusses Subject
At Rotary Meeting

New Jersey has a great number of surgeons who have made the surgical cure for cancer a perfected art, but the state lacks facilities for the furtherance of the fight against the great disease, Mrs. Agnes Peabody, executive secretary of the Curie Institute, told members of the Rotary Club at their luncheon yesterday.

Mrs. Peabody pointed out that there are three methods of cure for cancer—surgery, X-ray and radium treatment. After explaining each, she outlined the general plan of the Curie Institute, which has its headquarters in New York.

The institution has four branches of activity. There is the parent hospital in New York which is solely for diagnosis and research. Under this heading she developed four points, distribution of radium, experimentation and use of a super-voltage X-ray machine which is capable of voltage up to 1,000,000, the radon emanation plant and the training of men for work in the fight on cancer.

She pointed out that there are between 18,000 and 21,000 cancer patients in New Jersey alone, that the 120,000 American victims of the World War pale into insignificance when compared to the 3,150,000 who have died from cancer in the United States since the war.

The other branches of the Curie Institute include model centers in other districts, auxiliary Curie Aid societies and homes for hopeless cases.

5-Year Term

Miss Greta Kinnealy of 35 Church terrace was re-appointed a member of the Free Public Library Board last night by Commissioner Noll at the meeting of the Town Commission. Miss Kinnealy's term will expire on March 1, 1945. She was originally appointed in June, 1938, to fill the unexpired term of the late J. K. Alexander. Mr. Alexander, who had been named in 1935, was the board president.

Rudolph Zoeller of Linden avenue was named a special officer in the police department by Commissioner Clark. Zoeller, who has been a chanceman in the department, will work in one of the local industrial plants and will not receive any salary from the police department or be eligible for a pension. The title merely gives him policing authority in his job.

Town Budget Formally Introduced Last Night; $4.67 Estimated Rate; Vote Tuesday On School Needs

SCHOOL BUDGET WILL BE DOWN ONE POINT

Little Public Interest Shown In Board's Figures; Polls
Open 5 Till 9

Those voters who are interested will go to the polls on Tuesday to express their opinion on the proposed 1940-41 budget of the Board of Education which provides for a decrease of about one tax point in the amount to be raised through local taxation. The polls will be open in the high school cafeteria from 5 p.m. to 9. Herbert V. Miblon of 186 Tappan avenue is the election chairman with Mrs. Mary Blake serving as secretary. Luther E. Van Pelt and Harry C. Naylor will serve as the tellers.

The voting is expected to be light and decidedly in favor of the adoption of the budget if public interest in the proposed school expenditures up until the present can be taken as a criterion.

There has been no comment from the taxpayers since the board introduced its budget which would require the local property owners to contribute $2,998.51 less for the operation of the schools during 1940-41 than they did for the current year.

Will Vote On $363,297.85

The total budget calls for the expenditure of $662,862.76 in the fiscal year which starts July 1. Of this amount $481,001.61 will be raised through local taxation. The difference is made up through anticipated revenue from the state. The amount of the current budget on which the taxpayers will be asked to vote Tuesday is $363,297.85. The remainder of the $481,001.61 represents debt service charges falling due during the coming year which have been previously approved by the voters.

The ballot which the voters will receive will list the expenditure of $363,297.85 as follows: $333,747.85 for current expenses, $23,000 for maintenance and $6,550 for manual training.

There is an increase of $10,000 in the current expense account over this year. It has been explained that this will provide for the continuance and increase in the program of the opportunity class at School No. 8; the hiring of a teacher to teach children who are unable to attend school because of physical disability and help for Principal Gryczka in School No. 9 who must devote more time to supervision.

An increase has been made in the building maintenance appropriation to cover the cost of repairs which the board feels must be made at School No. 3 to eliminate fire hazards.

There will also appear on the ballot Tuesday a resolution asking the voters to authorize the board to transfer $10,000 from the capital outlet to the maintenance account.

Empty House

The Town Commission played to an empty house last night when the budget was introduced. The only ones on hand to hear the first official reading of the figures were the members of the official town family and reporters.

Disappointed Miss

Dorothy Hollander, High School Student, Learns That Taxpayers Aren't Much Concerned About How The Commissioners Spend People's Money

(A high school student, Miss Dorothy Hollander, stole the show at the public forum on the budget at Town Hall Tuesday night, asking more questions than the taxpayers who appeared. She was a member of the school civics class which attended the session as a part of their work. The News asked the girl to write her impressions of the meeting from a student's viewpoint.—ED. NOTE.)

There weren't many people out—not for a municipality of this size. I had been of the opinion that taxpayers naturally wanted to know where their money was going, what it was to be used for and why. The town meeting made this opinion of mine seem almost foolish. Now I think—"The taxpayers only want a low tax rate, and let God help the taxpayers that come after them."

I do not understand how and why citizens of a community can be so indifferent to the problems confronting that community. I know that the indifference of the voters is an ever increasing problem of democracy. But it can only be cured by the people.

I was surprised at the enormity of our town debt. And, from what I had known before and from what I learned at the meeting, I wholly agree with Mayor Williams' financial policy. It is sound. A town needs a good financial base. For that matter—the nation itself needs a sound, steady financial base. I do not like debt.

The mayor read the budget through carefully, explaining and commenting on it. After finishing he asked if there were any questions. Very few people had points which they thought needed clarifying. The mayor explained those points, defining each detail. The commissioners, as a whole, struck me as being most eager and willing to have the people understand each item of the proposed budget. Again—cooperation from every source—but the people.

I still find myself amazed at the lack of response from Belleville's citizens.

RECORDER SMITH FINES NINE

Eight Guilty Of Speeding; Nutley Motorist Gets Heaviest Penalty

Fines and costs totalling $93 were meted out by Recorder Everett B. Smith in police court last night to nine persons for motor vehicle violations. Eight were charged with speeding. The recorder assessed them $69 in fines and $24 in costs.

The heaviest penalty was paid by Charles Scipio, seventeen, of 17 Spatz avenue, Nutley, who was fined $25 on charges of operating a car with fictitious plates and without a driver's license. Scipio told Recorder Smith that he had a prospective buyer for a car which he had purchased for $45. He said that he did not have any plates, but his possible customer had plates from a car which he had sold. Scipio was using these when caught. He insisted that he was just trying the car out. Court Clerk was requested by Smith to furnish the Nutley police with the name of the person who had loaned Scipio the plates since that is a violation of the State Motor Vehicle regulations.

TAX COLLECTIONS, CUT IN RELIEF HELP BOARD

Anticipated Receipts Of $152,000 From Utility
Taxes Big Factor

The Town Commission last night formally introduced the proposed 1940 budget which it is estimated will whittle the tax rate down eleven points. The budget will come up for adoption by the board at a public hearing to be held Tuesday evening, February 26. Although the total budgeted municipal expenditures show an increase, better tax collections in 1939, an increase in anticipated revenue and a sizeable cut in the amount appropriated for relief have made the drop in the tax rate possible.

The total amount thought necessary to run the town during the year is $2,140,487.18 as compared with $2,030,635.83 appropriated last year. The total to be raised through local taxation is $801,774.24 compared with $875,751.18 in 1939. Anticipated revenues have gone up from $438,500 in 1939 to $616,000. The appropriation in the Public Affairs department for the local contribution to direct relief has been reduced from $65,000 to $25,000, despite the fact that $75,000 in emergency appropriations was made last year when the state did not make its payments as had been anticipated.

There are slight rises in several departmental budgets. Public Affairs has been decreased considerably, principally because of the cut in relief costs. The budget for the Public Affairs department is $83,630 as compared with $124,647 last year; Department of Public Works, $81,930 against $78,075.40 in 1939; Department of Public Safety, $215,690 in 1939, $212,860; Department of Parks and Public Property, $26,360 against $22,670 last year; and the Department of Revenue and Finance, $76,125.50 as compared with $73,545.50 last year.

Street Lighting Up

The increases and decreases in the various departmental budgets are for the most part small. Public Safety Director Clark has explained that the budget appropriation from $28,500 to $29,250. He explained that a lights would have to be placed in new streets that are under construction and also that the lights will be increased on Washington avenue where there have been accidents in the past year.

Mayor Williams' revenue and finance department shows a rise in the personal services for the collector from $11,200 to $12,800. Although the appropriation of the recreation department has been increased $1,500, no provision is made for a rise in the personal service item.

Improved tax collections, Mayor Williams explained, contributed to the lowering of the tax rate. He said that 80.8 per cent of the levy was collected, the highest percentage attained in a number of years. The reserve for uncollected taxes has been dropped from $334,635.83 to $303,927.18. Debt service charges have risen from $208,194.90 to $242,500. The appropriation for bond retirement has gone up from $50,000 to $100,000. Two reserves, $25,000 for capital improvements and $75,000 for stabilizing non-recurring receipts, did not appear in the budget last year. The improvement in the anticipated revenue column has been due largely to the $152,000 which the town expects to receive from gross receipts and franchise taxes for 1938, 1939 and 1940. There was anticipated $89,000 in 1939 but nothing was received. Other rises are anticipated in surplus non-cash appropriation from $7,000 to $76,786.80; trust surplus, $6,768.81 to $14,000; capital surplus, $6,500 to $18,000.

The revision of ratables throughout the county, the Mayor said, had worked a hardship on a number of the smaller municipalities. He said that he hoped that rise in ratables this year would compensate for the losses of approximately $700,000 in 1939, which the town suffered.

The detailed budget and the Mayor's explanatory remarks appear on Page 4.

Poll by Junior College Students Shows Belleville Against Third Term for Roosevelt; Dewey Leads Other C.O.P. Rivals; Women Back Him

Belleville is one of the eight towns in Essex County which is thumbs down on a third term for President Roosevelt, according to the poll recently completed by the Research Bureau of the Essex County Junior College. Students from the school conducted the poll through a house-to-house canvass of certain sections of each community visited. The idea of a third term for the President was rejected by a margin of almost twelve per cent with 56.22 per cent voting "nay" and 43.88 per cent declaring themselves in favor of another four years with F.D.R.

Of those voting "no" on the first question, 44.43 per cent thought that the President should be re-elected if a crisis, national or international, existed, but 55.57 per cent still voted against another term.

Lead Other Nominees Though a third term was rejected, Roosevelt still garnered more votes than all the other Democratic nominees combined. This included Garner, Hull, Mc Nutt, Farley, and others. Roosevelt won a majority with the people over thirty-five years of age, as 52.63 per cent voted for a third term, with 47.37 opposed.

Dewey ran ahead of all the other Republican candidates with 51.01 per cent in favor of his election. He achieved his greatest advantage in the suburbs where Roosevelt took a bad licking, garnering 56.70 of the votes. He also got a large female vote with 48.67 of the total. His nearest contender was Vandenberg, but he was too far behind to loom as a potential threat.

Faces Drunken Driving Charge After Cycle Accident

Charged with drunken driving, Hubert Adcock, thirty-three, of 65 Edgerton street, East Orange, will be arraigned tomorrow morning before Recorder Everett B. Smith. Adcock's car collided Saturday night with a motorcycle driven by James De Rosa, eighteen, of 106 King street, Nutley, who suffered a sprained hand, lacerations of the left knee cap and contusions of the left ankle.

Adcock's car was zig-zagging north on Union avenue, police charge, when De Rosa tried to pass. Adcock swerved at that moment, catching his rear bumper in De Rosa's motorcycle, throwing the latter to the street. De Rosa was treated at the office of Dr. Edward M. Rizzolo. Adcock was examined by Town Physician Martin M. Meehan and Dr. Anthony R. Caputo and pronounced "unfit to drive a car." Adcock was released in $200 bail to appear tomorrow. De Rosa was also given a summons to appear on the charge of operating a vehicle without a registration card.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Magee's Report on Traffic Fatalities For 1939 Shows Belleville Was Near Bottom of List With Four Deaths

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Magee followed up his release of last week on Belleville's standing in traffic accidents for the first eleven months of 1939 with a comparative report this week showing how this community ranks among the leading municipalities in the state in the number of auto deaths in 1939 against 1938. There were four traffic fatalities in Belleville in 1939, according to Magee. This is one more than was recorded in 1938.

This town is well down in the list of the municipalities which is led by Newark with sixty-six deaths reported for 1939. Hoken is the leader with only one fatal accident last year. Union City, Asbury Park and Phillipsburg each had two.

It was the second consecutive year that traffic fatalities decreased in Jersey and likewise the lowest death toll in sixteen years. Under the circumstances, Commissioner Magee hopes that New Jersey will again win the National Interstate Traffic Safety Contest, in which it carried high honors in 1938.

The last time that traffic deaths fell below the 1939 figure was in 1928 when 774 persons were killed. But in that year, the Commission points out, there were only 427,166 automobiles registered and 501,518 drivers licensed as compared with 1,034,924 cars and over 1,300,000 drivers last year. In other words, last year's death toll was comparable with the 1928 level despite the fact that there were 142 percent more automobiles in use and 159 percent more drivers on the streets and highways.

Comparison With 1938

Following is a comparative record of traffic fatalities in the leading municipalities during the past two years:

Driver Dozes At Wheel, Strikes Garage

Roosevelt Kennedy, thirty-five, colored, of 544 Mt. Prospect avenue, Newark, told police he "dozed off." Result—the Essex County Park Garage on the premises of the old Tuscarora Canoe Club had its face badly lifted and Kennedy and his wife, who was riding with him, just escaped a bath in the icy waters of the Passaic.

Kennedy was driving south on Main street early Sunday morning when he decided to take his forty winks. He picked the right spot, for there is no other building in the half-mile stretch between the Belleville Bridge and the Nerold Boat Club. He swerved across the road and hit the garage of the Park Commission's headquarters, demolishing most of the front of the structure.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Keeshan and daughter Dorothy of Lavergne street, were weekend guests of Miss Olivia Oswald of Laurence Harbor.

GUILTY OF FRAUD

Michael Pizzi Got Relief Money While He Had Job

Michael Pizzi of 182 Heckel street was recently placed on probation for three years and ordered to pay back $697.53 in relief money he is alleged to have fraudulently obtained from the Welfare Department during the fifteen months from May, 1938 to July, 1939. Common Pleas Judge Van Riper handed down the decision.

Pizzi was found guilty of charges of obtaining relief money in coal, food and cash while he and other members of his family were receiving income from other sources. According to Welfare Director John Hewitt, it was Mrs. Pizzi who came to the offices of the department at 248 Mill street to collect the money. During the time he was receiving money from the town, Pizzi was drawing $830 a workman's compensation from Schulstadt Company, Inc., of Newark, and while he was employed at Millington Company of Newark, from which he received $1,000 for an injury sustained there. Even while he was employed at Millington, Hewitt said, Pizzi stated that he was unemployed.

Pizzi's defense contended that he was ignorant of the rules and laws covering the granting of relief, but the prosecution countered with the charge that ignorance was impossible since Pizzi himself at one time had worked in the relief department.

Board Grants Tax Exemption To Veterans And Widow

Exemption from personal taxes was granted to seven veterans and a veteran's widow by the Town Commission last night. The exemptions total $166.44. Those receiving them were Clifford W. Juras of 175 Floyd street and Mrs. R. J. Flanagan of 128 De Witt avenue.

New Cub Scout Pack

Cub Scout Pack No. 350 of Fewsmith Presbyterian Church has organized a new Den with Harold F. Ross, cubmaster. Den No. 4 will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Charlton of 589 Union avenue. Mrs. Charlton will act as Den mother and Charlton as Den father. The cubs in the Den are Richard Orr, James Charlton, Anthony Iannicelli, Martin Barone and Victor Hart.

Den Chief Charles Watson of Den No. 2 and Den Chief William Memers of Den No. 1 were awarded Den Chief service pins by the Pack.

The purpose of this bill is to renew borrowing power for certain groups of municipalities.) In the event that Senate Bill 30 Substitute does not become Law, such sums as may be necessary to do certain capital improvement work will be available from the above sum. Trust Surplus, $14,000.00 has been appropriated for Budget purposes. Capital Surplus $18,000.00, has been appropriated for Budget purposes, this sum being a receipt from the State Highway Department as a contribution to Belleville towards the construction of Cortlandt Street. DELINQUENT TAXES—

1939 Anticipation Collections	$185,231.19
Cash Collection	238,564.31
1940 Anticipation Collections	175,000.00

Notwithstanding the substantial excess in collections over the anticipations for 1939, $10,231.19 less has been established as the anticipated collection for 1940. The volume of uncollected taxes has been decreasing and as this reservoir of delinquent totals decreases, the anticipated receipts must decrease.

COUNTY AND STATE TAXES—

Analysis of the gross rates of the municipalities of Essex County, analysis of the remissions of taxes and reduction of rates of municipalities of Essex County (approximately $108,000,000.00) establish a basis for estimating County taxes at $199,712.94 and State taxes at $98,925.18—an increase in the estimated County and State Taxes for 1940 of $14,789.72 over the actual State and County Taxes of 1939.

LOCAL SCHOOL TAX—

1939	$484,000.12
1940	481,001.61

PENSION FUND—

Annually your Finance Director has brought to the attention of the Board of Commissioners, Members of the Police and Fire Pension Fund and to the Citizens, the fact that our Pension Fund is established on a sound actuarial basis, a condition existing with the great majority of Pension Fund Systems throughout the State. Capital Assets of the Pension Fund as of December 31, 1939, total $56,799.75. During 1939 a deficit of $2,530.00 developed in the assets of the Pension Fund, the receipts of this fund coming from a contribution of wages from the members of the Police and Fire Departments and an equal sum as a contribution from the taxpayers through the budget and from donations from appreciative citizens services rendered by the members of the Police and Fire Department. To prevent further deficits developing in the assets of the Pension Fund, a recommendation by your Finance Director to place in budget and subsequent budgets deficits for the preceding year approved by your Board of Commissioners. While adding the sum $2,530.00 to the Budget, your Board of Commissioners believes best interest of the taxpayers is served by preventing losses in capital assets of the Pension Fund. Until such time as our Legislature places pension funds on a sound basis, our taxpayers and beneficiaries of the Pension Fund system are assured of maintaining the present position of the Pension Fund.

ONE-ACT PLAYS

Wesley M.E. Epworth League Presents Two, March 1

The Epworth League of Wesley Methodist Church will present "Footlight Attractions," featuring two one-act plays at the church hall, March 1. Named as directors this week were two former players with the old Women's Dramatic Club, which flourished in Belleville about the turn of the last decade. They are Mrs. Allan H. Crisp, and John R. Carrough.

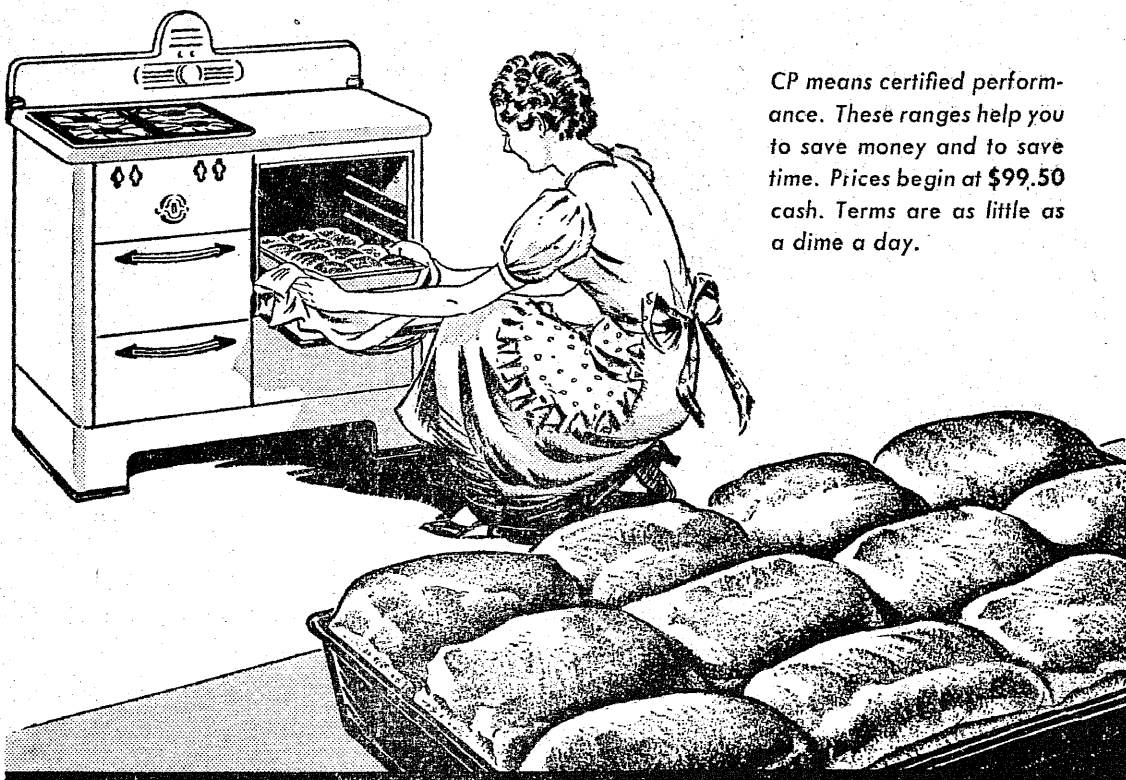

Mrs. Crisp will direct "Rooms to Let," a comical story of the parting days of college life for two grads. "Sauce for the Gossips," which will be under the tutelage of Carrough, puts two young jitterbugs in their places when their parents reverse the usual procedure by employing censure in the presence of a very special guest of their children.

NEW ORGANIZATION

Woman Forming Local Branch Of Mothers' Legion

Mrs. Viola H. Gemmell of 10 Van Rensselaer street announced this week that she is forming in Belleville a branch of the National Legion of the Mothers of America. Temporarily, she plans to use her home as headquarters for the organization.

The Legion is an association founded "to oppose the use of American troops for any purpose other than the defense of the United States against armed attack, to support a strong campaign for adequate national defense, to oppose all subversive groups whose object is the destruction of the American form of Government."

The movement serves as a medium through which the women of America may voice their opinions and indicate their stand on questions directly affecting the nation's peace and security according to Mrs. Gemmell. Meetings are held periodically for discussion and study of problems affecting the welfare of the nation.

Mrs. Gemmell said that she is contacting American Legion Auxiliaries and similar organizations in Kearny, Nutley and other communities in an effort to get the organization started. She characterized the Legion as non-religious, non-partisan and one in which no expense is involved.

Be Your Own Decorator

with the aid of HELEN KOUES

The dining-room, of all rooms in the house, should have a spirit of friendliness. It may be dignified or it may be gay, but it should be a room which is conducive to the brighter, more sparkling side of life. Here the family meets three times a day. A sunny room in the morning will do much to make breakfast a pleasanter meal. A room brightly lighted at night, with a colorful background, may make dinner a happy as well as a necessary function. Just as a living room should be a place of comfort, so the dining room should be a place of cheer. The happiest families are those which taboo all the serious, annoying topics and reserve meal times for the lighter, gayer sort of conversation.

HELEN KOUES
Director of Good Housekeeping
Studio

By reason of its definitely described use, the dining-room and the arrangement of the furniture can be varied but little, but this does not limit the choice of interesting background—in wall color and floor covering. The dining-room is in many houses the step-child of the house, where color and design have been forgotten in an altogether utilitarian arrangement, whereas everything may be chosen to give color, ease of living and charm, as well as comfort to a room, whether large or small.

When a patterned or scenic paper is used on a wall, it, in itself, gives sufficient color and pattern to the room. In Colonial rooms the woodwork, paneling and mantel, if there is one, should be white enamel paint. The fireplace facing may be of brick, old blue and white tiles, or black and white marble. In remodeling a room, an inexpensive way to obtain a nice result for the fireplace facing is to paint the facing dull black, or if an expert can be obtained to do it, give it a marbled effect. The inside of the fire opening may be of brick or cement. Should the surface not be in good condition, it may also be painted black or be whitewashed. Brass andirons, brass fender, log basket and fire tools complete this setting.

If you plan to use a decorative wallpaper, the curtains should be of a plain-colored sunfast fabric to give contrast. A solid-colored taffeta, made full length, would be a pleasant relief from the walls, with a plain Wilton rug used over the stained and waxed floor.

Dining-room furniture has usually been sold in suites, and quite logically so. But today the interest in antique furniture, which has made collectors combine pieces which harmonize but do not exactly match, has caused a reaction which is being felt by manufacturers. In consequence, fewer pieces are being included in a suite or group, and there is more variety in design.

For instance, instead of the conventional sideboard, a lowboy (with nice drawer space to hold flat silver) holds the silver tea-service, or could hold a bowl of flowers and a pair of candlesticks on its spacious top. A double-pedestal dining-table, a side table in the Sheraton feeling, and a corner cupboard, suggesting Chippendale lines, very much simplified, are attractive together. The two arm chairs and the four or six side chairs inspired by the Chippendale type are good in its simplest form. All such pieces are moderate in price and are easily procurable in the better shops.

With such a dining room, if you are lucky enough to possess old china and glass, it is right to display it in the built-in cupboard or the china cabinet. If you have to buy china or glass, get that possessing the spirit of the room, which is to be found in modern Wedgwood, ruby glass, and old china, blue and white. The latter is often quite inexpensive.

Some details of such a room which help to give it atmosphere, are Colonial brass hardware on the doors, and the use of candles instead of electric bulbs in the side lights.

Have You Heard?.....

THIS seems to be a year of new innovations of food preparation. Fruit kabob, broiled and served with meat, is one of the interesting ideas. It's new to broil vegetables and fruits and to give these familiar eatables a distinctive flavor.

With broiled lamb chops wrapped with bacon, serve a garnish of tasty fruit kabobs. Arrange on skewers alternate pieces of cherry, pineapple squares and canned apricots. Brush with melted butter and broil until fruit is lightly browned.

Also, pineapple squares with cooked sweet potato square make delicious kabobs when broiled.

Fruit served with the meat course should always be hot. Broiled apples, peaches, prunes with stones removed and filled with tart jelly, and also cherries are good.

For dessert, did you ever try grapefruit sprinkled with brown sugar and broiled?

Canned or left-over vegetables may be put in the broiler pan, brushed with butter, and put in the as range four inches from the source of heat. Above this, the rack of meat and fruit is slipped into place so that during the five-minute broiling period the juices will drip through the rack and season the vegetables.

Here are directions for broiling in your gas range a complete luncheon at one time.

- #### Broiled Vegetable Luncheon
- 4 slices American cheese
 - 4 potatoes, parboiled
 - 1 lb. string beans or 1 No. 2 can string beans
 - 1 egg plant
 - 2 large tomatoes
 - 1/2 cup melted butter
 - Salt and pepper
 - 1 cup cracker crumbs

Slice egg plant in 1/2 inch thick slices. Salt and pepper and let stand 30 minutes. Dip in melted butter and then in cracker crumbs. Put on broiler. Add potatoes cut in half and brush with melted butter. Put in broiler 5 inches from flame and broil 12 mins. Remove broiler. Turn egg plant and put a slice of cheese between 2 slices of egg plant. Turn potatoes and brush with melted butter.

Cut tomatoes in 2 thick slices and brush with melted butter. Salt and pepper. Lay string beans on tomato slices and sprinkle with buttered cracker crumbs. Return to broiler 5 inches from flame and broil 10 minutes.

A Suggested Valentine

The family will be looking for something different when they sit down to the table next Wednesday, which, in case you have forgotten, is Valentine's Day. The tempting looking dish above is suggested as one that will readily meet with the approval of every member.

Loin lamb chops just "go" on the menu of the luncheon or dinner for Valentine's Day. Try it whether you are having a party or just another meal.

The garnishes suggested in the photo are simple but appetizing. Peach halves are topped with hearts cut from canned cranberry jelly. The hot baking powder biscuits are cut in heart shape to further emphasize the Valentine motif. With the broiled lamb chops, it will make an appreciated valentine.

Greetings From Many Belleilles In Synagogue's Year Book

Greetings from Belleilles in all parts of the world will feature the year book to be published in conjunction with the sixteenth anniversary celebration of Congregation A. A. A. of Washington avenue. According to Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin, who is in charge of the celebration, greetings on the Synagogue's birthday have been received from many of the sixteen cities with the name Belleville. The messages are from the mayor of the city and from the head of the Jewish Community.

The celebration will mark the sixteenth year of the opening of the Synagogue edifice and will be observed by a series of events. The highlight will be the dance and entertainment being sponsored by the Sisterhood of the Congregation on Saturday night, March 9 in Newark.

Rabbi Dobin is being assisted by a committee from the Synagogue composed of Edward J. Abramson, Congregation president, and Dr. Benjamin A. Jacobson, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

OVER THE WOMAN'S DESK

by Peggy Patterson

Surely you seldom discard your favorite magazines without clipping and filing a few of the recipes which most appeal to you. Another feature that deserves the same treatment is the excellent pictorial "Right and Wrong" page that appears in almost every issue of the leading magazines. Every problem from the arrangement of major groups of furniture to the hanging of pictures is covered in this effortless and profitable method of instruction. A glance suffices to reveal mistakes that we ourselves have often made in placing furniture, hanging draperies, buying lamps and accessories and a dozen other items.

How often have you hung pictures about which you were not sure? If of different sizes, should you line them up at bottom or top? For lack of a place to turn quickly for the information you have hung them some way or another and let it go at that. Familiarity is such a subtle influence that the very act of living with these pictures has become long made them look all right when such may not be the case. Multiply this single item by a dozen or more about which you may have been in doubt and the first thing you know your room may be continually displacing you. This has a more profound effect on the psychology of those who use the room that we are aware.

Why not take advantage of the marvelous assistance of professional decorators? Constructive evidence being the best it might be well to compare the "right" and "wrong" carefully and then cut and file only the "right" one. Then, when you wish to change your mantel contents, hang fresh draperies, switch the position of chairs and sofa, place the piano or desk, you will not have to depend on imagination or a faulty memory, but you can go to your file and see for yourself how it will look before you waste effort in false attempts.

Do You Know?
Do you know that a mirror placed over your sofa will give depth and character to one of the longest most difficult walls in your living room? Carved shelves displaying your choicest figurines make a refreshing mantel decor. Break up the monotony of your bookcases with some pottery and watch the whole room brighten up. Do not stagger your pictures but line them up for a smooth effect. These are only a few of the constructive hints which you may file for future reference and every one of these splendid pictures will give you lots of other ideas, too.

Changes In Fashions

Gone is the golden glitter on black which has marked the winter season—in favor of white for relief in fluffy flowers, starched reverses, tiny mother of pearl buttons in geometric designs or singly. And, true to form, fashion has reversed herself and is now paying attention to neckline detail. The straight unassuming line which was only a background for a shower of gold has given way to a "shaped" neckline quite evidently intended to be adorned with jewelry. The square and V type line have the preference over the round neck and are perhaps more universally becoming.

Stores are filled with the misty checks and huge plaids with the accent on yellow, chartreuse and pale green which make it all too easy for one to feel, in imagination, the soft green turf of some southern golf course springing under one's feet. These are the sports togs which are being packed now for those who are making late southern trips and which will decorate our own golf courses in the first flush of spring. They will carry you through the skirt and sweater season as well when jackets are laid aside. Simple pull-overs and cardigans in solid pastels which match the predominating stroke in the plaids are "naturals" and plentiful.

Biggest and best news of the week in the stores, we think, is that the racks are beginning to fill up with a varied and marvelous stock of two piece dresses. Every figure should be easily fitted and flattered with the flexible line of dresses that we have seen. Boleros, the new longer jackets (usually belted), and redingotes in silks and wools are plentiful and should be bought now! The dresses in these combinations are all beautifully finished for separate wear. The sleeves are no longer skimpy affairs and the high pockets and trimmed necklines give you a perfect dress for wear without the jacket. Navy and prints with gray backgrounds predominate with here and there a rich brown that is a little "different" for spring.

Window Gardening Tips

To those whose hobby is winter window gardening—a first hand report which we cannot resist passing along. Several annual lupine plants which could not bloom through last summer's drought were lifted carefully and potted. They are now rewarding us with lovely spikes of lavender blossom above the lively green beauty of their foliage. So don't pass up the chance at the end of the summer to give a winter home to the young, healthy fledglings which are ordinarily left to freeze. It works!

Incidentally, plan to have all your house plants in one group. Scientifically, we understand, they benefit from proximity to each other; a chemical exchange in their perpetual manufacture of elements makes it agreeable to them. Also to be considered is the fact that they can be cared for in one operation. One or two pieces of sparkling glass or copper will perk up your plant window arrangement and fill in cheerfully those gaps when you have no blossoms.

The trouble is, Dorothy, that most of the people forget that phrase and let things run along until they have been hurt. They then let out screeches about persecution of the taxpayers and other remarks of similar ilk.
In most cases, it is their own indifferent, non-interested attitude which has trapped them. Instances of corruption, graft and waste of taxpayers' money which we read about in the nation's press may often be traced back to the source — lack of public interest.

If all of the taxpayers came to meetings a different story. Town officials are human Essex County, the most heavily ed and mostly heavily travelled sec-the state, is scheduled to receive the ent sum of $800,000. This seems a of proportion in comparison to the paid by Essex motorists in license fees, gasoline taxes and whatnot in the way of levies which go with every automobile.

The most important problem still to be decided is what the state intends to do with Route 10 which has been abruptly left off in the middle of the South Mountain Reservation. Every municipality in the western part of the county is interested in where and when it is going. In this section, we are more concerned about the "ifs and hows" of Route 5-3 from the Lincoln Tunnel. Completion of either one or both at present seems to be just a municipal officials' pipe dream.

The realization that one-fifteenth of the amount of money it is planned to spend in this state for highways this year is being sent to Essex County should awaken all municipal officials to the fact that if we are to receive anything this year or in the future, we must fight for it. Essex has been in the doghouse because our legislative delegates have fought for some years for what they believe was right — economy. Their efforts have not been heeded — but those who dole out the funds have made sure, since our spokesmen believed so sincerely in the theory of economy, that they have received none of the money which has been allocated for material improvements.

Regardless of that, the State has an obligation to the taxpayers and the motorists of this section which should be fulfilled on the basis of need — and not politics.

THIS BUSINESS OF GOVERNMENT

by Samuel S. Kenworthy

Executive Sec'y N. J. State League of Municipalities

Much Ado About Nothing! Again we hear the wail of the reformers clamoring for a change in the form of municipal government. This time the movement is centered in Newark and Atlantic City. Those who would seek a change desire to shift from city commission to that of the council-manager form. When will taxpayers learn how unimportant is the mere pattern of the government which furnishes the various services of local communities?

I want it distinctly understood that I am not condemning the municipal-manager system. It is perhaps just as good, but no better than any of the other fifty-seven varieties. Any form is secondary to other very important factors. Chief among these factors is the necessity for intelligent management. In other words—the governing body. It is equally as important to have capable municipal clerks, tax collectors, assessors, comptrollers, treasurers, engineers, attorneys, etc.
Without these any form of government, no matter how ideal it may seem, will fail to produce the desired results.

However, there is an economic factor just as important as the governing body and the personnel. A successful municipality must have ratables sufficiently large enough to spread the costs so as to make the individual bill reasonable enough to permit every taxpayer to do his bit. The community which is handicapped with low ratables and a large population is almost certain to flounder regardless of the form of government or the efficiency of the management.

An Axe To Grind

Let us not for a moment allow ourselves to believe that these reform movements are motivated entirely by a desire for better and more economical government. They are, more often than not, instigated by disappointed office seekers or the political party or faction which at the moment is on the outside looking in. That this is so is evidenced by the fact that the leader of the movement for the municipal-manager form in Newark has for years been active in politics and closely allied with one of the factions of the Republican Party. This interest on the part of politicians is also emphasized in the Atlantic City movement. I quote from a recent article in the Newark Evening News: "Even some politicians who would appear to lose by a change in government are swinging to the view it might be 'smart politics' and also profitable to give Atlantic City this kind of change. They think 'the organization' easily could control the seven-man council and put in its own city manager. They point out how happily the Pendergast machine of Kansas City used a similar governmental structure."

The methods pursued in an effort to change the form of government invariably are the same.
First, a careful scrutiny is made of the tax rates of those municipalities which have changed to the desired form. This study usually covers a few years prior to the change and the years which have followed. This is supposed to disclose how much more economically the community is managed under the new form than it was prior to the change. This means nothing at all. Perhaps sometime in the future taxpayers will learn how unimportant the tax rate is in a study of governmental costs. For instance, let us take municipality A, where property is assessed on the basis of seventy per cent of its supposed true value, and make a hasty comparison with municipality B, where property is assessed on the basis of ninety per cent of its true value.

In municipality A, a home valued at $10,000 is assessed for $7,000. In municipality B, a similar $10,000 home is assessed for $9,000. In municipality A, the tax rate is $4.50 with the owner obliged to pay taxes which amount to $315 annually. In municipality B, the residents are enjoying (so they believe) a much lower tax rate, namely $4.00. However, with a ninety per cent assessment, the owner of the $10,000 home is actually paying an annual tax bill of $360. In addition to this municipality B, with a ninety per cent assessment, is paying more state and county taxes than are the taxpayers in municipality A. Obviously, the $4.50 tax rate is far more beneficial than is the $4.00 rate. Under the circumstances tax rates mean little or nothing. The all-important question to the taxpayer is, "How many dollars do I have to pay through the little window in the municipal building?"

Both Successful And A Flop

The municipal-manager form of government, in common with every other type, has enjoyed considerable success in those communities where the controlling factors; namely, the governing body, personnel and ratables have been favorable. On the other hand, the experience under this form of government was just as farcical in Cleveland where it was finally abandoned, as it has been tragic in Kansas City where it still exists. New Jersey has had a somewhat varied experience.
Both Trenton and Cape May have experimented with this pattern and returned to the commission form. On the other hand, Teaneck and Clifton are outstanding examples of the effectiveness of the municipal-manager form. During the past six years the plan has been voted on and defeated in Cliffside, Fort Lee, Garfield, Westwood, Montclair, Hillside, Denville, Rutherford and Morristown on two different occasions.

Efficient municipal government is at the present time being enjoyed in many New Jersey communities that are functioning under the Village, Township, Councilmanic, Aldermanic, Municipal-Manager and Commission forms of government. In each instance this efficiency is made possible through the intelligent directorship of the governing body, the wise selection of subordinates and sufficient ratables to enable taxpayers to pay the costs of desired services. There can be no ideal form of government without these controlling factors and although we will always be faced with reform movements instigated by disgruntled groups, New Jersey taxpayers will never find their Utopia through shifting from one form to another.

ODDS AND ENDS FROM OTHER PENS

Lesson for Jersey Taxers

Widespread resistance to increased tax burdens is demonstrated in New York state, where the Governor's proposal of a $15,000,000 increase in the personal income tax to balance the budget has been buried beneath a tidal wave of protest. Public opinion is still a mighty influence.

New York's temper should be full of meaning to those New Jersey officials who like to spend other people's money.

A Plea for Wild Life

Airplanes flying low over the frozen Illinois River bottoms have been dropping paper bags of cracked corn to feed thousands of wild ducks, deprived by the unwonted cold of their natural food. The Civilian Conservation Corps has instructed its members at 1,500 camps to put out grain and other edibles for birds and wild animals. National Parks and National Forests have rangers and foresters at work caring for denizens of woods and water which may be suffering. This public example of sharing with "the least of these" may well be heeded by individuals who welcome songsters in spring and four-footed friends in summer.

Finish the Job and Go Home

There is no reason why the Legislature cannot get down to business quickly, pass the important measures vital to the people, and clean up their calendar by March 1.

If the Senate wants to dilly-dally, there is no reason why the Assembly need follow suit.
Nothing would please the voters more than to see this session of the Legislature prove itself efficient and business-like. Public business can be completed with dispatch if the ability is there.

MUSICAL SILHOUETTES

A Musical Commentary by Leon Carson

CCCIV

The world is moving in music; we must keep pace with the change.

—Theodore Thomas

Rift:

Since the death of the late Arthur Bodansky, — the foremost Wagnerian conductor in America, — a feud

has been brewing at the Metropolitan Opera House between the twenty-nine
year old Erich Leinsdorf, who is backed by Edward Johnson, and the older Wagner-
ian artists. Mr.
Leinsdorf, is absolutely right.

As you will remember, following Mr. Bodansky's passing, his youthful assistant, Mr. Leinsdorf was thrust by the management into the veteran's position of Wagnerian conductor. To be sure Leinsdorf has not had the advantage of long training and experience in Wagnerian repertoire, but on the other hand he is a positive genius, with sufficient study and Metropolitan experience already acquired to ably carry the responsibility all too suddenly placed upon his shoulders. Upon listening to the Wagner performances conducted by him this season, it is quite evident that he is entirely capable of handling anything that is put his way. In fact, many of the performances this year have been conducted in nothing short of a masterful manner. He should be retained, with the full cooperation of the management back of him.

But Lauritz Melchior, the supposedly world's greatest "Helden tenor," feels that Mr. Leinsdorf is too young and inexperienced for so great a position! There is, of course, a long story behind all this, as is usually the case. While Mr. Melchior is not only the proud possessor of a record consisting of something like 188 Siegfrieds, 163 Tristans, 138 Siegmunds, 104 Tannhausers, sixty-eight Lohengrins and fifty or more Parsifals, but also of a physique which makes it possible for him to uniquely portray the Wagnerian heroes, to those who know and understand the music, and demand of eminent singers meticulous delineation of the scores as they are written, it would seem as though Mr. Melchior had placed himself in a slightly untenable position.

On many occasions he has not exhibited an acceptable brand of singing but also a seeming disregard for the accuracies of the written notes. (After all, Metropolitan subscribers and other patrons are entitled to listen to nothing but the very best, especially from the leading artists on the roster.)

And then, too, from observation it would seem that the great Danish tenor likes, almost too well, to have "leads" thrown up to him through the medium of the conductor's baton, which Mr. Leins-dorf, for very good reasons, is not readily inclined to make a practice of, for any artist who Possibly it is all a tempest in a teapot, but whether or not the final conclusion of the present controversy takes on far-reaching proportions, the consensus of all musicians is that young Mr.
Leinsdorf has already established himself at the Metropolitan in an enviable position of conductorship.

The old order passeth, and an intensive campaign on the part of the Metropolitan Opera Association to raise $1,000,000 for the purchase of the Opera House from the holding company is now on. The intent is, naturally, to preserve opera on a grand scale for this country, and to develop the Broadway centre as a national music centre.

In the attempt to make the Opera a democratic institution and broaden its popular appeal, the public is earnestly invited to participate in contributing generously to the foregoing sum, particularly those comprising the unseen audience of the air who listen in without expense every Saturday afternoon to the weekly operatic performance broadcasts.
Your contribution, large or small, will prove of welcome assistance in this great effort to maintain on the proper plane grand opera for America.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

by Meador Wright

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

The city manager of Referendum in Newark dwarfs all other political news at this writing, and will probably hold
the limelight
for the next two weeks. Edward Penias of the Newark
Citizens' Union
is expected to ask for a two week's postponement of the date of voting. But it seems doubtful to me if the complicated machinery
for holding the election can be halted at this date. I rather expect to see the voting on February 20 as posted by City Clerk Reichenstein.

So suddenly did Reichenstein act that political leaders are still blinking to make sure that they are really awake and that the election will be held in two weeks.

It is hard at this writing to predict the outcome. On the face of the situation, it would seem that Newark voters would jump at any opportunity to get rid of a government so thoroughly discredited as the present Newark's Commission. But in a brief period of two weeks it may be impossible to organize the independent vote sufficiently to overcome the City Hall machine. This is especially so since Commissioner Murphy and his large labor following are opposing the referendum.

Watch Byrne's Moves

Commissioner Joseph M. Byrne has announced his neutrality, but it is yet to be shown whether such neutrality will be genuine.
As I pointed out before, Byrne probably took this stand in order to strengthen himself for the councilmanic election should the referendum win. This election must be held thirty days after the referendum.

My personal guess would be that Byrne will watch carefully the trend of events during the next week. If the referendum appears doomed to defeat, he probably will permit his followers to help bring it about. If it seems reasonably sure of carrying, he will stay severely aloof and will organize a slate of councilmanic candidates. Another factor is the Clean Government organization which will work hard to win the referendum. Two leaders stand out above others. They are Arthur T. Vanderbilt and Dr. Lester H. Clee. Clee has made no announcement yet but I expect to see him in the thick of the fight addressing meetings of thousands of voters during

Independent Vote Controls

The election will probably be decided by the mass of independent public opinion not controlled by any political faction. But even this independent public opinion falls into groups. First there is the huge organization of the Catholic Church, a group that doesn't take an active part in politics but is intensely interested in what it considers the welfare of Newark. Second there is a huge Jewish population, centers in the Ninth and Sixteenth wards. Part of these voters are loyal to Mayor Ellen-stein and will help him oppose the referendum.

But others, especially home owners, are apprehensive of Newark's confiscatory tax burden and would like to see a genuine new deal in the city's government. Three other large racial groups are the Italian and the Polish Americans, and the Negroes. The Negroes own little property and will be subjected to the usual forms of political pressure; and so, to a lesser extent, will be the Italians and the Poles. Numerically the largest, the Italian-Americans normally should be expected to favor the referendum since they have no representation in the present government and would expect at least two members of their race on the new Council of nine.

are back again to sit in for another session of the radio and musical alley. To the gang that sent in letters after the column's debut we say thanks and urge the rest of you to get in the groove and bang out a parochorus or two on whether or not you think Glenn Miller is tops in bands. If you disagree, who is? Send in your letters and those we think are the three best will each receive two tickets to a top radio show.

Now for the first week's winners. There were plenty of good letters, but we rated Miss Betty Walsh of 30 Oak street, Belleville as aces with her pep talk of the nation's No. 1 swing band. The other winners are Miss Frances of Maple place, Nutley, who strings along with the Miss Bette Band of 35 Sylvan street, who goes "wham" when she hears a record.

These lucky young folks will be right up in the row tomorrow night at the Columbia Playhouse when Raymond Scott and his band play the "Young Man with a Band" for the second time. Incidentally, this will be the final of the "Young Man" series which will last September. For the prize winners in the contest we will have tickets for an afternoon show featuring one of the No. 1 swing bands.

Want more of you to get in to the swing week and send in your opinions on the swing Mail or drop off your letters addressed to column at The News Office, 328 Washington street.

Have You Seen Gene?

Have you seen Krupa? We took in the opening of the Chateau and have the habit of getting there often. The joint really rocks with his "bells" and ballads, while commercial, still a pronounced lift. Get Gene to do "Pyramid" and shut your eye. Africa has been planted to the bandstand. The most terrific are the drum ensemble arrangements that help but stir you to the marrow. Don't miss a chance while you have the opportunity to see ear then.

Are you hear? Del Courtney won't hire any musicians. Seems to us he could stand a little contention is that outstanding musicians. Individualists and don't work in well for ensemble playing. That might be true but, Del, you afford to have a couple because at present music is magical. Full of tricks and wishes but nothing really happens.

Looks like Fletcher Henderson will soon pull out his own with another edition of the "Henderson" series. Must be in the blood to be in the limelight and take a licking, rather than be completely obscure yet draw a big bit of gold for sockeroo arrangements.

MUSICAL REVIEWS

The Realm of Music

tall, graceful man walked upon the stage of the Mosque Wednesday evening — Alexander Brailowsky, Russian pianist, who was to give an all-Chopin program, as the third artist in the Griffith Music Foundation's Master Piano Series. Every generation has its Chopin exponents, some doubtless taking this means of achieving undeserved distinction, but only this generation has Mr. Brailowsky. We are most fortunate, for here is a pianist of the keyboard who, above his instrument in his intense concentration, interprets the composer who essentially belongs to the pianist, since he wrote in no other musical medium.

Evenness of tone quality, delicacy, refinement, sensitiveness — all of these things Mr. Brailowsky gave us, and more, for he set into vibration the sensibilities of his listeners, then swayed them at will. It seemed good to see a great artist greet his audience with a warm smile, and approach the piano with an air of enjoyment.

Numerous Encores

Most young artists quiver and quake before giving a program, and look forward to the day when they will perform with at least some ease and lack of tension. To see an established artist face his audience with a grim, strained expression is a letdown. Mr. Brailowsky was in good spirits, and proved most generous with his encores, a group of so-called student's pieces, including some of

of some of his colleagues with their own outfits had a part in his decision. Get a load of Les Hite. Looks like another almost obscure band will see national popularity in a short time if the gang keeps up the pace they're hitting. Band is at present in the east for air time and Decca recordings.

Sunday night, WOR, 6:30 to 7:00 Bob Chester and his orchestra provide the music for the Show of the Week. Will Osborne follows one week later. "Four Flutes and a Filter Mike" and "Bassoon, Viola and Echo Mike" are the titles of two new works created by WOR's Morton Gould and his arranger, Phil Lang. Gould is preparing a series of compositions that highlight the background effects that grace an arrangement, yet are usually unheard because the natural tendency is to listen to the melody only. The series should be highly instructive to young arrangers and composers who strive to create new effects for radio.

Headaches galore. Art Whiteside, WOR studio manager in Newark, is having his fun. He's auditioning numerous bands for the house job and is recording all programs in order to have the chance to recapture some of the better sections and musicians of each outfit.

Caught an airing of Dick Stable... what a disappointment. Too much glistening up to a hiccup by the saxes, the only section of the band worth a mention. Why not get the old combo back, Dick? NBC should send a few of their good eastern announcers out to Chicago to teach the word slingers in the windy city how to do a remote aircraft without fluffing each announcement and trying to be so very funny. The boys in New York, yes, and Boston too, certainly do some fine work. Listen to Bill Abernathy and see what we mean by good announcing of remotes. Bill usually handles all NBC assignments from Meadowbrook, Donahues and The Brook in Summit.

After fourteen weeks "South of the Border" and "Scatterbrain" have been ousted from the first three of "Your Hit Parade" top ten tunes of the nation. "The Border" catie was in first place six times. "Careless" is on top of the heap currently.

Now that Jack Leonard has made up his mind and definitely left Tommy Dorsey to appear with Ray Scott's CBS Tuesday night show, Tommy has hired Ray Sinatra from Harry James' band to chirp the ditties. Anita Boyer, the lovely who has been doing the fine femme singing with the band, has left to try the flickers, which leaves room for a girl singer. Want an audition, gals,

Along Recording Row

THE RHUMBA JUMPS and I'VE GOT NO STRINGS are two good releases by the man of the drums, Gene Krupa. "Rhumba" is a jump tune with a vocal by Irene Hays. Gene does tricks making this side a good bet. "Strings" brings more Krupa drumastics, solid backing by the band and a Dave vocal. (Columbia 35365).

STEALIN' APPLS and OPUS LOCAL 302 keep B. Goodman in the bright beam. "Fletch" did both arrangements. Each record is better than the last if possible. (Columbia 35362).

PUNCH ME and TEMPTATION are two new releases out by Al Donahue. A Paula Kelly vocal on "Punch" with a fine lift backing by the band. Reverse side is the old tune done up a new way and good. Tempo is medium fast and rocks. (Vocalion 35311).

CITY NIGHT and I WALK ALONE recorded by Jack Jenney are strictly ok. The first tune, Jack's theme, features the Jenney trombone. Tune is slow and impressionistic. Reverse possesses a pleasing melody with more fine Jenney trombone and vocal by Meredith Blake. (Vocalion 35357).

All records reviewed will be released Friday, February 9.

the better known Etudes, a Nocturne, and the Minuet Waltz.

Upon the conclusion of the encores the autograph-seeking children swarmed upon the stage like a swarm of bees. Equally determined ushers herded them to a side door where they pushed and shoved in an untidy line, programs clutched in hand. Later two young women were seen in the lobby proudly displaying "Remembrance of Alexander Brailowsky" on their programs. The one flaw in the evening was that it had to end — now we're patiently waiting for Mr. Brailowsky to return.

Miss Gwendolyn Schultz of Cortlandt street was hostess last evening at a meeting of the Collegians. Present were the Misses Lucille Balzer, Irene Rogers, Eleanor Battye, Edith Frey, Lucille Gallagher, Madeleine Williams and Jane Horvath.

Exclusively YOURS by Bill Myers

ARRANGEMENTS had been made to take the picture at the Lincoln Statue outside Essex County Court House on the dot of 2:45 P. M. At exactly that time the cameraman, his camera case slung over his shoulder, and the model, who was to be featured, appeared at the statue, each coming from opposite directions. The area around the statue was otherwise deserted. The Court House in the background was void of any activity from without. You could not even see the face of a day-dreaming clerk at any of the dozens of windows. Yet, here was Newark—virtually the heart of Newark—in mid-afternoon.

THE girl slipped off her fur wrap, took off her hat, and sat nonchalantly on Lincoln's left knee. Someone handed her a half-pint of Alderney milk and a ham sandwich. She struck a delightful pose. A flash bulb went off. The girl hopped down. Someone took the milk and sandwich from her, helped her on with her coat. The whole incident was accomplished in less than two minutes. Yet, in that short time, more than a hundred persons had formed a semi-circle about the principals.

IT was a most representative crowd. It was too early for school to be out so that the curious were all adult. A uniformed driver stepped up to the photographer. "What's it all about?" he inquired. "Someone said it's going to be in 'Look'." A hatless girl, carrying a sweater she had been knitting, asked if the model was anyone "important". A youth who, to a slight degree, resembled the late Valentino, was not so much concerned about the picture as where he might land a job posing for pictures—and get paid for it.

THE half-pint bottle of Alderney, which, for the moment, had been left with the uneaten ham sandwich, at the base of the statue, had meanwhile disappeared. Then an unshaven fellow, not more than thirty, whose eyes were watery and whose voice husky from cold, said: "You didn't want this any more did you, Buddy?" He was trying to smile. As he sipped the milk through the lip-sticked straws, he was unmindful of the crowd looking at him. He was enjoying his unexpected lunch. They were not picture "props" to him.

THE crowd began to disperse. There were more questions, like "What paper will it be in?" "What's it for?" "It that girl in the movies?" Photographers are used to giving vague answers, and the questioners finally went on their way. There were a good many faces in the Court House windows now, but no police officer appeared to be interested in the picture-taking; perhaps they are too used to it around the Court House, where most of the pictures are of trials and things more sordid.

AS Clarence Crawford, the cameraman, was getting into his car, a woman with a tiny candid camera, hurried up to him. "I hope you don't mind," she said, but as you were taking that picture I snapped one, too. I do hope you don't mind."

THE girl, Miss Dorothy Faeder, said: "What ever happened to that bottle of Alderney milk? I was going to drink that!" By that time, however, the unshaven fellow, had carefully wrapped the empty bottle in the little paper bag, and had carefully dumped it into one of the city waste receptacles. Later, at the Alderney plant in Bridge Street, she drank down a creamy glassful of Alderney Guernsey from its model Brooklawn Farm. Of the picture-taking at Lincoln's statue outside the Court House, she said: "It was a lot of fun!"—Adv.

THAT DOG OF YOURS

by Laurence Torley

One hears much of the difficult time old soldiers and sailors have in adjusting themselves to the peace-time pursuits of retirement. Little thought has been given to the wartime mascots; yet they too are seldom contented. Such a story is told by Maud Turner in the current issue of the American Kennel Gazette.

Biddy was a bulldog and her master, an officer in the famous Dover Patrol, was killed in an engagement just before the end of the war. Miss Turner's father was named the dog's guardian, and Biddy came to her new home with precise directions for her future comfort and happiness. For instance, she was to be given "on the twenty-third day of April in every year of her life one half-noggin of rum and a piece of cake, by order of the Admiral Commanding, Dover Patrol."

"Miss Turner writes in part: 'I am sorry to say that no matter how desirable shore life may be regarded generally, Biddy did not take kindly to it. She missed her old associations terribly, and as the months passed her distress increased. It seemed that it might be kinder to have her peacefully pass to sleep... when in one brief moment, her whole attitude toward life changed.'

"I had her out for her usual walk, one day, when she suddenly stood stock still, listening intently. Then she set off as fast as ever her legs and mine would let her... until exhausted, I let go her lead. She disappeared like

"Spirit" is the Lesson-Sermon subject for Sunday, in all Christian Science Churches and Societies.
The Golden Text is: "God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Who hath directed the Spirit of the Lord, or being his counsellor hath taught him?"
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Spirit is not separate from God. Spirit is God. Spirit being God, there is but one Spirit, for there can be but one infinite and therefore one God."

Churches Join In Planning Brotherhood Week

Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin and Rev. Walter Lake Are Arranging Joint Program of Goodwill Events to Mark The Week From February 18 to 25

Belleville with more than one thousand other communities in the United States will join in the observance of Brotherhood Week, February 18 to 25. The National Conference of Christians and Jews, which is sponsoring the nation-wide observance, has chosen as this year's theme "The Crisis in Human Relations." Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin of Congregation A. A. A. and Rev. Walter Lake of the Grace Baptist Church are planning a series of joint goodwill events to mark the week in Belleville.

A major part of the country-wide project will be the adoption by Americans of all faiths, the Goodwill Decalogue drawn up by the National Conference. The ten resolutions follow:

I will repudiate the idea that those who disagree with me are not good Americans; I will not allow racial or religious differences to determine my vote; I will appreciate what others than my own group have done to make America great; I will try to understand the background of those of other religious loyalties; I will help to create mutual respect and trust between members of different religious and racial groups; I will cooperate heartily with those of other faiths in work for the common good; I will always protest when those of other faiths are defamed; I will not be misled by false doctrines of race or claim of superiority to others on the ground of race alone; I will apply the Golden Rule to those of all races and religions and treat them as I should like to be treated; I will pray for those of other faiths than my own and prize their prayers for myself.

Rev. Lake and Rabbi Dobin will announce the Brotherhood Week program next week.

PRAYER SERVICE TOMORROW

World Day of Prayer Program At Belleville Reformed Church

The women of the local churches will join in the observance of the World Day of Prayer tomorrow afternoon at the Belleville Reformed Church. The service will start at 2:15. Mrs. R. C. Whitfield is the chairman of arrangements. This will be the seventh year that the day has been observed in Belleville.

In 1920, the first Friday of Lent was selected for the "Day of Prayer for Missions" when church women of many denominations joined in common prayer. The program was expanded and in 1927 the first "World Day of Prayer" was held. Churches, hospitals, schools and mission groups will participate in tomorrow's program throughout the country.

A choir composed of women from the various churches will sing at the local program. Among the women taking an active leadership in tomorrow's services are Mrs. John A. Struyk of the Belleville Reformed Church, Mrs. Walter Lake of the Grace Baptist Church, Mrs. Frederick Iden of Christ Episcopal Church, Mrs. William Borchers of the Bethany Lutheran Church, Mrs. Wayne R. Farmer of Fewsmith Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Peter Johnson of Montgomery Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Edgar M. Compton of Wesley Methodist Church and Mrs. Benedetto Pascale of the Italian Baptist Church. Mrs. J. H. Edwards will be the organist and Miss Sadie Lyman, the soloist.
