

Williams Makes Plea For More Police

Mayor Says Present Force Can't Handle The Traffic Flow;
Favors Job Exams

There is a definite need for a larger police force and applicants for positions in the police and fire departments should be chosen solely on the merits of an examination, not left to personal appointment. These were the most important recommendations made by Mayor Williams in a memorandum to Commissioner Clark Tuesday night. The mayor pointed out that the Belleville police force now numbers thirty-five men who work in three shifts. This number includes the officers and leaves about twelve men available for duty at any given time. Ten of these are necessary to protect school crossings, one for the desk and another for police station duty. "Police are demanded all over town and the result is that areas distant from schools must suffer," the mayor said.

Belleville is situated at one of the crossroads in the county, being cut by four east-west and four north-south main arteries of traffic flow. Ten of the town's eleven schools lie on or very near these main thoroughfares, the mayor stressed, making the hiring of marshals for these locations inadvisable at the present time. "What is needed is more police," he said.

Motorists Hell Bent

The mayor stated that he had made several surveys of traffic at various times of the morning, afternoon and evening. "Traffic is orderly in the neighboring towns where there is a man on a motorcycle or in uniform on the corners," he said, "but as soon as the motorists hit the Belleville boundary and know that they will see no police all the way through the town except at school crossings, they go hell bent for election and it's every man for himself. This is the condition we must curb, and we can view it only by having police in plain view and by slipping severe penalties — heavy fines and revocation of licenses — on traffic violators. Then we would clean up this unfortunate condition in ten days."

Examinations for appointment to the forces would eliminate the pressure brought on commissioners by political groups to name "friends" to the vacancies, he continued, adding that examination should be the only basis for promotion. He recommended abandonment of the "right to seniority" in making promotions, stating that he realized that his recommendations were "not politically orthodox." He also made a plea for expression of public opinion at the board meetings.

No action on the recommendations was taken, but Commissioner Clark said that he would study the memorandum carefully before taking further action.

HAVE A HOBBY?

If Not, The Library
May Help You

What's your hobby? There are books on every subject under the sun, and those on hobbies, displayed in the adult department of the Free Public Library this week offer an interesting variety, according to Mrs. Elizabeth A. Shattuck, chief librarian.

For those who have no special activity, and who are searching for something with which to occupy their spare time, "Hobbies for Everybody," by Leupland, is an introduction, by famous people from all walks of life, describe their pet hobbies, how they came to be interested in them and the pleasure they derive from them.

The display includes the following books: Leathercraft for amateurs, Bang; Handcraft pottery, Wren; Art metalwork, Payne; Miniature photography, Simon; Amateur rod making, Frazer; and Craftwork, Cave.

"No Arms, No Armour"
New to the rental collection is the book "No arms, no armour," by Robert Henriques, the story of Tubby Windrush of the British army, horseman and polo player. This book discusses some enlightening things about the British army and military staff.

In the seven-day collection is "Strife before dawn," by Mary Schumann, historical novel of America before it was a nation, of the years between 1764 and 1782, when the pioneers traveled westward from Pennsylvania to Port Detroit. Woven through encounters between settlers and Indians, is the story of a man who is torn between love for two women, and the important part each plays in his life.

Mrs. David I. Boyd's collection of old-fashioned Easter cards is on display in the reference department this week.

More Fiction

Seven-day collection books are: "Curtain going up, Kerry," by young Lawrence; "That which is hidden," Hichens; "Happy harvest, Farnol," Let the people sing, Priestley; "The man the devil didn't want," Wren; "Murder on parade," Wells; "Silver death," Gibbs.

Added to the non-fiction department are Living tradition — change and America, Strunsky; Lincoln battalion, Rolfe; Dictatorship, its history and theory, Gohlan.

H. S. Art Students At Work

Art Instructor's Work-As-You-Please Policy Is Showing Good Results

The regularity with which students and graduates of the high school classes in drawing and painting win honors in competition and in industrial work is a source of constant talk in art circles. But it is no surprise to the hundreds of students who have molded themselves under the guidance of P. Webster Diehl, who has been art instructor at the high school for many years.

"Molded themselves" is the proper term to use surprising though it may seem. For Diehl's methods of handling budding artists is slightly revolutionary when compared to the old systems of teaching the principles of art. He has broken with the old school and has evolved for himself a new system which has made Belleville's art class the envy of the nation and has taken young local artists up the ladder in short order.

Diehl, who lives at 254 Joramom street, looks on the majority of schools as being one of two kinds, those in which the students are drilled in the basic principles of art until they have become merely carbon copies of their teacher and lack originality, and those in which students of all ages are permitted to let their desire for self-expression run riot without any real training in the fundamentals. Some of these schools harp on the esthetic side of art, others on the purely practical aspect.

Pupils On Their Own

Diehl's method is to combine all the sides of art into one course and let the pupil do most of his own training. Diehl himself acting more as a guide than a tutor. He tries to teach the basic principles and at the same time leave the student free to work out his own ideas. He strives to impart a knowledge of both the esthetic and the practical side of art. Instead of pounding perspective into the students, then graduating them to color, then on to still life and further to the fuller development of the subject, Diehl makes his course interesting to both the intense and the casual student by letting them dabble to their hearts' content in any phase they choose. He combines color and perspective teaching right in with instruction in still life, landscapes and commercial drawing. He has learned the secret of keeping the student interested so that the latter teaches himself.

There are 147 students at the high school taking the four-year elective this year. The law of averages will make one or two of them winners. Among the well-known recent graduates of the course are:

Harriet Mellion of 70 Overlook avenue who is a free lance advertising artist.

Virginia Rose of 30 Rossmore place, a textile designer for a manufacturer of dress goods.

Lawrence and Leonard Willette of 135 Stephen street, artists in embossing plants.

Doris Davis and Virginia Flannery are continuing their studies at Pratt Institute.

Genevieve Holland of 176 De Witt avenue who, in competition with four hundred candidates, won a scholarship at the American School of Design in New York and who will be featured in one of the early issues of a national picture magazine in its article on the school. She won the district award in the New York World's Fair poster competition last year.

Public Service Lowers Rates On No. 112 Express Line

The bus service rates from Belleville to the Pennsylvania Station, Newark and return, on Route No. 112 were reduced, effective March 1, officials of Public Service have announced. The bus traverses Union avenue on its way through the town. The line operates thirty-nine northbound and forty-two southbound buses each weekday.

VanSickle Named To Masons' Executive Committee

Clarence D. Van Sickle of 31 Preston street was named last week to the executive committee of the Essex County Past Masters' Masonic Association, William Matheson, new president of the association, announced Tuesday. Van Sickle, who is deputy of District No. 108, will also serve on the ticket committee. Hal W. Earl of 75 Bell street was named to the refreshment committee.

Russo received honorable mention awards in a nationwide advertising poster competition held in Chicago last year. These were the only such awards coming to any high school in New Jersey. Leonard Willette won seven awards in the National Scholastic Art competition of 1939 in a field with more than 10,000 entries from art schools, trade schools and large city high schools. Willette won first prize in fine line ink drawing with a Philadelphia student and New Yorker third. Indications are that Willette will become a protege of E. Simms Campbell, who said recently of the Belleville boy, "Of all the young hopefuls who have sought my criticism, Leonard's work is the best I have seen."

Diehl is ready to publish a new book on art instruction in public schools which he has written in collaboration with Russell Post of Clifton.

Elks Abandon Plans for Tally; Prosecutor Frowned On It; Big Crowd Disappointed

HOFFMAN GROUP WILL NOT SEEK TOWN CONTROL

Have Work Cut Out For Them In Overcoming
C. G. Majorities

Commissioner Noll, campaign manager for the Hoffman-for-Governor movement launched here last week, denied last night that the newly formed organization with Elmer Hyde and himself as the leaders will seek to gain control of the local county committee. Noll said that the Hoffman-for-Governor Club would not sponsor any candidates for county committee posts. The present town leader is Henry "Stoney" Machette, who is loyal to the Clean Government group.

Noll said the purposes of the club is to roll up as big a majority as possible for Hoffman. There will be a rally and pep meeting for workers Monday night in the Elks' Club. It is planned to hold weekly sessions on Monday nights from now until election.

An announcement of some sort can be looked for shortly from the Clean Government organization which is pledged to State Senator Robert C. Hendrickson for the gubernatorial nomination. It is reported that the campaign will be conducted by the present G.O.P. organization without the formation of any additional clubs.

Must Overcome Majorities

The Hoffman forces are faced with the task of overcoming the big majorities that have been rolled up here in recent years for the Clean Government group. When reminded of these figures, the Hoffmanites point out that there has been no powerful or organized opposition to Clean Government rule for several years. When Hoffman sought the gubernatorial nomination in 1934, he was not first in favor with local voters. Joseph Wolber, supported by Republicans in the northern part of the state, polled 1,502 to Hoffman's 1,138, while Judge Robert Carey of Jersey City had 646 and Richards trailed with 154. In the 1936 Primary, Hoffman was a candidate for the post of state delegate to the Republican national convention. The late Franklin W. Fort opposed him as an independent candidate. Although losing out in the state, Fort polled 1,520 votes here to 829 for Hoffman. The others who were on the ticket with Hoffman, Edward Duffield, Mrs. Edna B. Conklin and Former Senator Walter Edge, had almost twice as many votes as the former governor.

The regular Republican organization made its last strong stand in 1935 when they placed a full ticket in the field for county and state offices at the primary. The Clean Government ticket led by Rev. Lester H. Clee for state Senator outvoted the other slate by better than four to one. In the 1937 primaries, Clee defeated former State Senator Clifford Powell, who was friendly to Hoffman, 1,941 to 439 in Belleville for the gubernatorial nomination.

Another organization move, but milder than that in 1935, was made in 1938 when a ticket was placed in the field by the Suburban Republican Group which had the support of some of the Newark politicians. Senator Homer C. Zink topped the Clean Government slate. Locally, he trimmed the opposition candidate William Clark of Maplewood, 1,500 to 578.

Tuesday Night's First Game Called Off After Tip; To Watch Action In Irvington

The Belleville Elks abandoned plans this week for conducting a weekly series of the new game, Tally, which had been devised as a substitute for Bingo which was banned in Essex County late last year by the order of County Prosecutor Wachenfeld. The first program of Tally scheduled for the Elks Club Tuesday night was called off, disappointing several hundred former Bingo enthusiasts who had come out to see what Tally was like. The Elks learned that the prosecutor's office frowned on the new game, feeling that there was little difference between it and Bingo.

CLARK ELECTED FEDERATION CHAIRMAN

Commissioner's Son Succeeds
Floyd F. Bragg As Head of Group

Trustees of the Welfare Federation of Belleville Tuesday night elected W. Douglas Clark, Jr., of 178 Floyd street, president. Clark succeeds Floyd F. Bragg, who has served for the past two years. Dr. George A. Aaden of 235 Malone avenue was elected vice-president; Joseph F. Howley of Newark, junior executive of the First National Bank of Belleville was named treasurer, and Mrs. Lester E. McKorkle of 134 Forest street was re-elected executive and corresponding secretary. The elections took place at the Federation offices at 338 Washington avenue.

Clark is the son of Commissioner Clark. He was born in Newark in 1901 and has lived in Belleville since 1903. He attended local schools and has been actively interested in the Boy Scout movement for the past nineteen years, serving as scoutmaster, troop committeeman, assistant commissioner and is now commissioner of the Belleville District Committee of the Robert Treat Boy Scout Council. He is also treasurer of Clark & Hammer, Inc., of 87 Academy street.

He is married, a member of Grace Baptist Church, Belleville Lodge No. 108, F. & A. M., Rotary Club and a charter member of the Belleville Rod and Gun Club. In the 1939-40 Community Chest campaign Clark served as captain of District 8 in the household division, which district team raised the largest amount of funds in the canvass. Trustees who served on the nominating committee were Herbert C. Schmutz, chairman, Philip Dettelbach, Wayne R. Parmer, Everett B. Smith and Alvah A. Buckley.

Both Joseph McGrath, who is chairman of the board of governors for the Elks, and Arthur L. Mayer, who represented the organization in the county-wide fight for the return of bingo, insisted that nothing further would be done on trying to operate the game until after they learn what happens in Irvington.

Early Bingo Sponsors

The Elks were one of the first organizations in this area to sponsor weekly Bingo programs. They saw many hundreds of dollars week from all sections of Northern Jersey. Mayor represented the Elks on the committee headed by Richard Spitz, Newark lawyer, who led the fight for the return of Bingo or a similar substitute.

All of these folks were eager to claim the $5 purchase order when this picture was snapped last Saturday by The News' photographer in the King Arthur Market in Washington avenue near Overlook avenue. But the woman on the left, whose face is ringed, will be the lucky one if she will come to The News office at 328 Washington avenue and identify herself.

RATABLE DROP WON'T AFFECT TOWN BUDGET

Mayor Says Provision Was Made For Anticipated
Cut Elsewhere

The recent reductions in assessments on the part of Newark and Montclair, which has thrown some confusion in the ranks of the other municipalities of Essex County, will not affect the 1940 local budget, Mayor Williams claimed at the conference of the Board of Commissioners Tuesday night.

Provision had been made in the budget for an estimated drop of $103,000,000 throughout the county. Newark reduced its assessments $90,000,000 while Montclair came down $8,000,000. The result of this action was to cause the resultant heavier burden of county expenses to be met by the remaining communities. Williams had placed the figure in the new budget, explaining that it was only an estimate and that no final figure would be known for some time. Therefore, he said, the reduction will not change Belleville's budget whatever.

Final approval of the budget was held up another week because it has not yet returned with state O.K. The board will meet again Tuesday.

STORM DAMAGE WAS SLIGHT

Only One Tree Fell And
One Person Was Slightly Injured

This town suffered little more than inconvenience in Monday's storm. Compared to other municipalities in North Jersey, local damage was very slight. Only one tree was downed despite the strong winds and heavy ice formations, according to William Fabian, forester with the Shade Tree Commission.

One injury due to slippery sidewalks was recorded. Anofio Natale, seventy-nine, of 92, Greylock avenue, fell on the ice at Greylock avenue and Stephen street, and was taken to St. Mary's Hospital to be treated for bruises.

Branches were torn from many trees, the swamp maples and elms suffering heaviest damage, according to Fabian. Police were called five times to care for fallen wires and three times for broken branches lying in streets and sidewalks.

Motorist gets Seventeen Minute Service On Stolen Car

Stolen cars do not remain stolen in some cases. It took James La Morgese of 16 Payette avenue, Irvington, just seventeen minutes to get his back Monday night.

La Morgese called police headquarters at 9:28 to report that his truck had been stolen from in front of the Bart Laboratories building in Main street just north of the Rutgers Street Bridge. A teletype alarm was sent out immediately. At 9:45 La Morgese called again to say that he had been notified that the Newark police had picked the car up at River road and Grafton avenue, Newark. The thief was not apprehended.

Mrs. Charles Carswell Is Winner In $5 Photo Contest

Mrs. Charles Carswell of 378 DeWitt avenue, a regular shopper at the Mutual Self-Service market on Union avenue, was the winner of last week's photo contest and received an order for $5 worth of groceries. Mrs. Carswell, who habitually shops on Friday, was out of town that day and was fortunate enough to be at the market on Saturday when The News' photographer called.

Sometime this weekend the photographer will stop at one of Belleville's stores and snap a group picture. The person whose face is encircled when the picture is published next Thursday will receive a $5 purchase order on that store.

The Realm of Music

The Nutley Symphony Society did its itself proud last Thursday evening in Nutley High School, in a program designed to reach those whose contact with music has been neither long nor deep. Opening with a tuneful Gluck, "Overture," and continuing with a Mozart "Symphony" which contained many delightful melodies, the music immediately brought to the fancy of the audience. High point of the evening came when a chorus, drafted from the chorals and choirs of Nutley, and assembled especially for the program, took its place in the orchestra pit; and Mr. William Oscar, conductor, warily ascended a wobbly podium.

Grieg's spirited "Landskinner" was the offering. This was given all the necessary dash and verve. Next came Brahms' ominous "Song of Fate," wherein the well-controlled dynamics of the group showed off to good advantage, and the technical difficulties of the song were easily accomplished. Followed them the lulling "Greeting to Spring," Strauss' "Blue Danube" in chorale arrangement. This was sung in a true romance style and was warmly appreciated by the good sized audience.

The gay gowns of the women against the background of trim evening clothes worn by the men undoubtedly added to the charm of the singing for many. Tchaikowsky's "Marche Slav" completed the program. Unfortunately it was an off night for the chorus, and they seemed weak at best, and several passages were marred by queer blasts. However we're told that they're a difficult instrument to play, and they just will be temperamental at times.

The February issue of the Essex County telephone directory now put into its appearance in homes and offices is a thicker volume by some dozen pages in the white-telephone section, with a corresponding increase in the size of the yellow-page classified business section, reflecting in part an upturn in telephones in use in the county since last May when the old book was issued.

The New Jersey Bell Telephone Company reports approximately 12,000 new listings in a total of about 150,000 in the white pages, and five times as many changes all told including the new listings. The new directory runs to

by Peggy Patterson

All the news from the world of child psychology seems to be cheering of late. Only recently we mentioned to you the rising trend of hope for the effects of corrective environment. And now comes more comfort in the report that the child who indulges in fanciful make-believe is not only "queer" but is definitely enriching his life. Suppose he invents an imaginary companion, boy or girl or animal (in one case it was a monkey)? He is simply filling a need in his life for one element that may be missing through no fault of yours or his. He needs a particular friend to whom he can talk unrestrainedly; he needs someone of whom he is not in awe that he may exert his sense of power and perhaps for the first time try out his wings in gaining the mastery of self and others which will be so essential to him in adult life. And in whom can he find a more fitting subject than in his little shadow friend who can never deflate his ego at the vital moment when he most needs assurance?

Perhaps he is an only child who longs for an inseparable companion; for there are experiences in childhood which are utterly inaccessible without a companion. Even a child who has numerous brothers and sisters may long for an animal friend which it is not possible for him to have. And so he adopts a phantom pet who is constantly by his side. This child weathers many a blow to his spirit and does not register it outwardly and peevishly, but often instead leans securely on the comfort of the companion, whom he alone can see, and carries it off bravely.

As fanciful as this may seem to you, it is plain enough and serious enough to authorities on child care so that they have conducted thorough investigations on the subject of "make-believe." Their cheering report is that in practically every case where a child resorts to this sort of thing he fulfills a temporary need of his life and when that need has passed, either due to his increase in age or a change in environment, he casts his fancy aside and goes unharmed into the next phase of his existence. One thing he has accomplished — he has left no barren wastes in his childhood to haunt his later years.

Our Pet Peeves

How often have you blushing admitted to yourself that something you once disliked intensely is now one of your favorite preoccupations? Never be afraid of this admission. It is good for the soul. One magazine contributor goes so far as to write an article on this subject and to give the admirable suggestion that we try a thing at least three times before pronouncing the fatal dictum, "I hate..." or "I never..." Everything from caviar to sports broadcasts may come in the list of your dislikes.

Do you distrust a short story when you are in need of diversion and feel that nothing short of a novel will tide you through a wearisome period? Do you always switch the swing music off the radio before the second bar? Are you positive that walking alone will not open up a new field of enchantment to you? Do you really know what sparkling ruby nail polish will do for your most uninteresting costume? And so on, quite endlessly down the list.

Only you know your pet peeves. But there is one thing we know about them. They are practically all things which you have never conscientiously tried more than once. That is exactly what makes them odious to you. You are not acquainted with them; and many of them are things which you simply can't afford to miss.

Elsewhere on this page you may read from week to week an expose of the current fashions, item by item. But there is something which is even more important to the woman who would be well dressed than a smattering of information on the latest trends.

At no other season, perhaps, are our leading magazines so crammed with advice on how to best achieve that finished look we so ardently desire. And the first commandment is: "Know yourself." So lay aside for a moment the dazzling array of impressions which you have already carried away from the shops and take stock once more of your own outstanding characteristics of physical appearance and personality. These must eventually be so enhanced and accented by your ensembles that one who meets you thinks only of "you" and not of the smart "things" which may be depended from your person much as they are from a display counter.

Having a firm grip on your requirements you may easily acquire startling results even on a limited budget, according to the experts. You will first accept your own limitations and never form a desire for any article of clothing which is unbecoming to you. Also you will never buy any garment that is not geared to your own calling.

If your wardrobe is not over-ambitious you have the comfort of knowing that you will never be dressed unsuitably or in-poor taste. With these principles in mind begin to shop, without buying. Do not succumb to your first choice. It is very likely that a few visits to the stores at intervals of some days will bring to light something which you like much better.

When you are actually ready to make your decision, buy the very best quality that your budget permits; and then stop buying. Begin wearing and enjoying your flattering clothes with never a backward thought to something that might have been a better buy. Do not long so for variety that you will choose something with the wrong lines. You may be very anxious to discard the particular type of coat you have been wearing. But better stick to that cut which is best for you than to spoil the effect with something which is utterly new but hard on your figure.

Stick to the color that does the most for your complexion, tone and eyes. Departure from it for the sake of trying something new may spoil your confidence in your appearance for months. Harmonize all minor items to your favorite color and depend on accessories for highlights. Give the latter as generous a spot in your budget as possible. One truly fine bag, hat, clip or pair of gloves will add zest to half a dozen costumes; while half a dozen poorly made accessories will reduce the handsome suit or dress to a nonentity.

This advice is perennial. Rest assured that perennial application of it will pay big dividends.

Carmen Willette Gets Honor For Prize Essay

Miss Carmen Willette, daughter of Lieutenant and Mrs. Lawrence Willette of 137 Stephen street had the honor of receiving a special prize, equal to the first prize, offered by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt for the best essay written by a high school student on the subject, "The Conditions of Sharecroppers in America."

Although Miss Willette's essay could have been rejected, because the rules of the contest specified New York students, and ran beyond the five hundred word limit, the judges felt that it was too outstanding to be barred and the special award was voted.

The essay was included in the booklets published for sale by The Educators' Committee. Miss Willette and her parents were guests of the Committee at the National Sharecroppers' Week Dinner held at the Commodore Hotel, New York City, Tuesday, where the prizes were awarded by Mrs. Roosevelt.

Storm Forces Dover To Cancel Debate With High School

Sports Before Your Eyes

by JOE DUVAL

It looked like this was the time to get the baseball team under way in the hopes that the high school team might be ready to open the season in another month or so in some kind of top shape, but it is not to be. Baseball at the high school has to wait another month. Now, when other high schools are beginning to work the winter's kinks out of the muscles of their batmen, at least, Belleville is tied up in a knot of red tape — not an unusual situation.

It appears that there is an intramural basketball tournament at the high school, getting in on the wrong end of the court season. There is also a grammar school tournament. Both are fine in their own season. Then there are half a dozen girls playing badminton in the other gym. So, intramural and grammar school basketball and badminton for the few being vastly more important than varsity baseball, the latter must stay in the wings until Easter, or at least until warm weather comes along, thereby setting up the alibi perfect if the diamond season is a washout.

Of course, the boys' gym is free Monday and Tuesday and those days were graciously offered to the baseballers. But the idea was so ridiculous — practicing two days and laying off for five — that the offer was turned down. Reasons for the rejection were two: it would be of no value and it would be dangerous, for after a five-day rest many boys would probably throw their arms up when they did get back on the job.

Milt Wheeler now knows what it is to sacrifice pleasure for the sake of art. A week before Friday's fight in the Passaic Golden Gloves he was superavordupoised to the extent of nine pounds and had visions of having to go into a strange class where he was sure he would not feel at all at home. So out the window went tar, water and such amenities of life and also out the window went enough weight to bring him down to his own level.

Strangely enough, interest in the next football coach for the high school has not died down. People are still asking "Who's he going to be?" and arching eyebrows at the seeming inactivity on this important question. Dissatisfaction is mounting in some quarters that those charged with the responsibility of naming him have made no show of taking Mr. Citizen into their confidence in the slightest degree but, to quote one man who is not prone to take issue on matters like this, "seem to be doing their best to settle the matter under cover."

One big disadvantage which will be Belleville's is that all the coaches who have made application for the job are not going to lead indefinitely for an answer. They have their own skins to think of and if, while they are waiting for some word from Belleville and see no prospect of an early answer, their own school offers a new contract, they are going to sign it while the signing's good. It is heard that an audible protest to the Board of Education is being considered. This is a far step from the approved Belleville method of getting hot under the collar in someone's living room and not having the temerity to say the same things publicly where they might do some good. We doubt that this threat will ever move outside the front door. But the board should make some announcement, if for no other reason than to quench, for the time being at least, some of the criticism that is being levelled.

Once again, for the second year in a row, it was Belleville vs. Belleville in the first round of the state recreation tournament. Of course, the score book said "Belleville vs. Bloomfield," but that was only a subterfuge. And for the second year in a row it was Belleville-Bloomfield which beat Belleville.

Last year there were three Belleville men playing with the Bloomfield team and they whipped through the cords for sixteen points (we were beaten by one point 22-21). This year there was one localite on the Bengal vice but he did more damage than the three of them last year. Nineteen points he scored and we were beaten by nine. Some day Belleville will have the good fortune not to have to play itself and will probably get on to the second round.

Chicks Will Organize Softball Team

Announcement was made this week that the Chickene A. C. would shortly open a clubhouse in the vicinity of Greylock parkway and Union avenue. The Chicks, sponsored by the Chickene Funeral Home of Kearny but numbering a hundred percent Belleville membership, will form a softball team to compete on local diamonds this summer. The club will not confine its activities to softball. Its court life, playing all independent games, seven out of ten during the past winter. The best known member, Mike Schiavo of 24 Emmet street, took his first four bouts in the Golden Gloves in Madison Square Garden only to lose in the semi of the 135-pound class last week. The other members include: Arthur, Frederick and Otto De Furio, Caesar and Nicholas Del Guercio, Nicolas Lombardi, Carmen Cafone, Caesar and Anthony Casale, John and Joseph Prunzi, Nicholas Baccari, Nicholas Baccari, John Sallio, Vito De France, John Spazzano and Daniel Del Tufo.

Senior Softballers To Organize Tomorrow Night

The Senior Softballers League will be organized at a meeting tomorrow night. Edward J. Lister, Recreation director, announced this week. Plans for the coming season will be discussed by the managers of all teams expecting to join the circuit.

PENGUINS SNARE 'INT' CROWN

Tigers Lose 34-27; Codomo Five Wallops Eastwood Quintet 33-28

Superb teamwork by the Penguins and a tough break for the Tigers won the Intermediate Basketball League championship for the former last week. The Penguins, first round winners, put a team on the floor which split up the scoring so well that all nine men they used broke into the scoring column for at least two points, enabling the Icebirds to top the playoff 34-27.

A scheduling break weakened the Tigers, undefeated second round kings, and by it they lost some of their effectiveness. Triano, Wheeler and White, a trio which has averaged more than eight points per game among them during the season, also played with the Wilmonts in his Bloomfield Intermediate League. As luck would have it, playoffs were scheduled for both towns for the same night and the three boys had played one championship game in Bloomfield before the furs in Belleville.

The all-conquering Codomo five of Nutley shellacked Industrial king Eastwood Nealley for the second time this year in the preliminary game. The score was 33-28.

RAUB IS VICTOR ON ROLLERS

Tops Casey, Muller, Willie In Belleville B. C. Roller Race

Al Raub took the prize donated by Judge McEnroe when the Belleville Bicycle Club raced on rollers at the hall of the Sons of Union Veterans, Newark, Monday. Raub topped Red Casey in the final, having previously beaten Bud Willie and Paul Muller. Casey lost to Muller in the heat but qualified as fastest loser.

The sensation was the tremendous defeat Muller suffered at Raub's hands in the semifinals. Paul was giving a good account of himself during the first five laps and, when he found himself losing ground in spite of his efforts, promptly retired with two laps to go.

Later Muller and Ray Bryan took a flying start time trial at a half mile distance. Muller was clocked in 33 1/5 seconds while Bryan was one second slower. Two special matches, one for the "championship" of the Prudential Insurance Company, the other for the honors of the 113th Infantry, Company A, were also staged.

Wheeler Moves Ahead

Nineteen-Year-Old Ralph Street Youth Pounding Way Toward Crown in 118-Pound Class of Passaic Golden Gloves Tourney; Fights Again Tomorrow

A little fellow with dynamite in his fists, Milton "Bud" Wheeler battered Frank Kassay of Newark into submission in three rounds Friday night to pass the quarter-final hurdle in his quest of the Passaic Golden Gloves 118-pound crown. Wheeler, who is nineteen and lives at 281 Ralph street, had it over the Newark A. C. champion all the way and received the unanimous decision of the officials.

The next opponent for the Belleville boy is not known. He and two others still remain in the running for the crown. Before tomorrow night's engagement they will draw to see who fights and who draws a bye. The others in the next few weeks together with a couple of track dates.

As far as McBride knows, baseball games will be played at Clearman Field again since no announcement has been made as to when the Turf Bog field will be in shape for playing. All the track meets thus far listed are to be run on fields away from home.

The baseballers will open their season April 30 and will continue until June 7. Some of the leading schoolboys nine are slated to visit Belleville including Hillsdale, Newark Central, Clifton, Bloomfield, Irvington and Barringer. No newcomers to the Blue and Gold schedule have been signed yet.

Two years ago he was a heavy enough to enter the Jersey City Amory where, at a weight of 105 pounds, he took the championship. Last year he whizzed through the early rounds of the 118-pound class in the Passaic Golden Gloves, only to stumble in the finals, where he lost the decision to Dave Searls who was voted the outstanding fisticuff of the tourney. Friday night was the first start he had made this year. He is managed by another high schooler, Bill "Red" Smith of 353 Stephen street.

Wheeler's younger brother George, fourteen, is also making a name for himself among the simon pures. He was finalist last year in the 95-pound Junior Gloves at Passaic but will not fight this year until spring.

Codomo's Finally Trimmed By One-Point Margin Tuesday Night

The Fewsmith Miners broke the spell the Codomo five, Nutley champions, has held over Belleville teams when they staved off a terrific last-ditch rally to come out on top 28-27 Tuesday night at the high school. The Belleville boys built up their winning margin in the first half and managed to hold it to the end. The scores: Miners G F P Codomo G F P

Exclusively YOURS

THERE was a raw bite in the air that chilled you to the bone. Motoring was hazardous on the glassy highways. The freezing rain was forming a coating of ice on the trees, the telegraph poles and the wires were coming to hang heavily with their burdens. The countryside was slowly being transformed into a winter fairland.

At the junction of Routes Nos. 10 and 202 in Morris Plains a wrecker was towing a 1940 sedan that had stalled; its former occupants sitting on the driver's seat of the wrecker with rather hopeless expressions. A wire snapped somewhere, and its live end dangled in the snow and wet spluttered weird colored fire. It was drab, indeed, with the evergreen bent double and huge tree branches littering the road-side. Perhaps it would be well to drop in for a cup of hot chocolate. To the left was the Alderney Milk Barn, warm lights beckoning a welcome to weary travelers.

Apparently the idea was not too original for, despite the desolate day it was, people were abroad and the huge oval barn was lined with motorists who also had found the barn a haven from the storm. A glance around the counter brought the most amazing disclosure. On the counter before us was the only hot chocolate there. Everyone had large plates of ice cream before them.

Our attendant said it was not unusual. A little more than two weeks before — it was on a Wednesday night, he said — there had been a driving snowstorm that caused pedestrians to lean to against the wind in order to negotiate any progress at all, and yet it was huge plates of Alderney cream that they ordered at the barn.

As we sat sipping our chocolate we heard the sleet beat against the windows; across the way the linemen were fingering the sputtering wire, and more people were arriving at the Alderney barn in their cars. Some took double-decker cones, and as the door opened you could hear the doleful crackling of tree branches covered in inch-thick natural coplane.

Ironic enough was the arrival of the chief engineer of a nearby plant. He had been working for hours on the plant's heating apparatus, affected by the storm. He was still overheated, and a little weary looking, we thought. And he, much to our surprise, and no doubt the attendant's, too, desired only a cup of hot chocolate.

The Alderney attendant came over to tell us that the gentleman at the far corner on the other side had just ordered a second helping of Alderney black cherry ice cream. "He told me he didn't care if he remained chilled for a week," the attendant said.
