The regular monthly meeting of the Girl Scout Council was held on Thursday evening at the Elks. Mrs. Stanley Gibson, Commissioner, presided. Final plans for the rally and the summer program at the cabin in South Mountain Reservation were discussed. It is planned to use the cabin for both day camping in four-day periods and troop encampments of one week during July and August.

Many of the classes are finished and all will be in time. George Hahn of the American Red Cross announced that his class of almost twenty-five girls have passed all requirements.

Election of officers followed and all were reelected to serve for 1940-1941: commissioner, Mrs. Gibson; deputy commissioners, Mrs. F. J. Ackerman and Mrs. E. E. Hyde; secretary, Mrs. George Gerard; treasurer, Mrs. L. L. Long. Mrs. Gibson will appoint committees in April.

Annual P. B. A. Dance Saturday At Elks' Club

The annual dance of the Belleville Local No. 28 of the New Jersey State Patrolmen's Benevolent Association will be held at the Tiks Club Saturday night.

Patrolman Harry Scott, who is handling the arrangements for the affair, has secured the music of John Huck and his orchestra. He has also made arrangements for the appearance of a Broadway floor show.

Set Date Tomorrow

Date for the trial of John Kelsen of 26 William street is expected to be set tomorrow. Kelsen, who is twenty-eight, was released Tuesday in $100 bail, is charged with drunken driving. He will be tried before Recorder Everett B. Smith.

The Cops' New Mouthpiece

This is what has been jolting and embarrassing motorists and pedestrians along Washington avenue during the past week. The police car with the loud speaker atop it is one of the innovations being tried by the police department to bring about better control of traffic conditions and to promote safety. Patrolman Don Smith, is shown alongside the car.

Car Put In Service Over Weekend With Ken Smith At The Mike

There has been some variance of opinion on the merits of the police car with the loud voice that has been patrolling the main streets for the past week warning motorists and pedestrians alike when they are violating traffic regulations, but the overwhelming sentiment has been favorable.

The car was put into active duty Friday night by the police. It follows in the line of safety improvements which have been outlined from time to time by Safety Director Clark and has been operated by Lieutenant Kenneth Smith. Equipped with a loud speaker mounted on the roof, it has operated mostly on Washington avenue, but has also sidled off onto Belleville and Union avenues. Comments of some Bellevilleites have been:

Mrs. J. "I heard the police car for the first time Saturday morning as I was entering a market on Washington avenue. Some one was being warned against double parking. I was very much surprised and startled by the voice and instantly thought that it was an excellent idea."

Children Are Impressed

Mrs. S. "My children came home from the movies and told me excitedly about the police car."

Camera Club Will View Metropolitan Prints

An exhibit of prints by the Metropolitan Camera Club will feature Monday night's meeting of the Belleville Camera Club. Problems of the members will also be discussed. The Camera Club exhibit at the Public Library will continue until Saturday. The public has been invited to vote on the best picture in the exhibit.

Monday Get-Together

Commissioners, Lumber Company Officials, Belwood Park Residents To Confer On Zone Dispute; Keenan Pessimistic After Bianchi Decision

An attempt will be made once again Monday night to mediate the differences between the residents of the Belwood Park section and the owners of the Bloomfield Lumber Company. The company is making an appeal from the decision of the Board of Commissioners prohibiting it from constructing a mill adjacent to a zone "A" residential area at Belleville and Smallwood avenues.

Town Attorney Keenan reported Tuesday night that there was virtually no hope of winning the case and it was merely a question of laying out another $750 to $800 in fighting a vain cause.

As a result there will be a conference between the board, officials of the company, members of the zoning board and Belwood Park residents, at the Town Hall Monday night at 7:30 to try to oil the waters.

Keenan stated that the adverse decision in the Bianchi restaurant case last week "knocked away ninety-five per cent of my props in this (the Bloomfield Lumber) case." He said that he considered the Bianchi case the stronger of the two and did not hesitate to show his surprise and disappointment at the reversal handed the town by the Supreme Court.

Owners On Both Sides

The lumber company owns the property on both sides of the Belleville-Bloomfield line south of Belleville avenue. It applied last year for a permit to construct a mill on the Belleville

Some Residents Do Not Like Its Sudden Warning

A boy of their acquaintance was about to cross Washington avenue against the red light when a voice warned him not to step off the curb. The children were very much impressed.

Mrs. T. "I was visiting in a house on Washington avenue when I first heard the police car. I thought that if I had been driving at the time I would have been so scared that I would have made a false move and probably had an accident. I cannot see that speeders and reckless people in general will pay any attention to the police car."

Mr. B. "I was riding in a bus when I heard the police car for the first time. I think it is a swell idea and should do a great deal to stop the slaughter on Washington avenue."

Mrs. H. "Two years ago when the plan was tried before I had parked my car diagonally and was shopping. I heard my license number being called and had to go out and move the car. It was most embarrassing and I will watch it this time."

Mr. P. "A little boy whom I passed on the street pointed out the police car to me and said that he had just been severely reprimanded for stepping off the curb in the middle of the block."

Thinks It Unnecessary

Mr. A. "I was crossing the street at the intersection of Washington avenue and Joralemon street the other night and, although there were no cars in sight, the police car called to me to watch the red light. I think this was unnecessary."

Mr. M. "I've seen it worked before and think it is a splendid idea if they don't overdo it. This idea works, for it embarrasses people and not their pocketbooks."

CLUB DIRECTOR STRICKEN

Glee Club Carries On With Concert Plans Despite Illness of Jacobus

The Belleville Glee Club suffered a setback in its plans for its annual spring concert to be held at School No. 10, April 17, when its director, Arthur E. Jacobus, was stricken last week with pneumonia. He was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital and is not expected to return to the club until just before the concert which, officials said Monday night, they did not expect to be postponed. Accompanist Ruth Dautels will conduct the club's rehearsals.

Among the numbers which have been recently added to the program the Kremsers' arrangement of the old Dutch "Hymn of Thanksgiving," Jerome Kern's "Ol' Man River," Bantock's "Silent Strings," Logan's "Lift Thine Eyes" and Oley Speaks "Silvia."

Mark Main, Harry Howard and James McCall represented the club at the annual dinner meeting of the North Jersey District Council of the Associated Glee Clubs of America at the Newark Athletic Club Saturday night. The meeting was followed by a memorial service to the late Mark Andrews.

MC MASTER MADE PRESIDENT OF NEREIDS

Veteran Oarsman Is Chosen
As Leader; Burnley
Is Vice-President

Andrew McMaster of 242 Washington avenue, who was elevated to the presidency of Nereid Boat Club Thursday, has been one of the outstanding oarsmen of North Jersey for more than a decade. A member of the local club for eleven years, he rose to championship status in 1936 when he rowed in the Nereid quadruple shell which copped the metropolitan title on the Harlem River. He also had a seat in the four-oared gig which simulated the feat the following year.

McMaster, who is twenty-eight, succeeds Ralph H. Smith of 357 Little street who was president for two years. Smith was named chairman of the board of trustees.

Leslie W. Burnley of 21 Conover avenue, Nutley, was elected vice-president, stepping up from his former position of captain. Secretary for the second year will be Gerard F. Rhoades of 298 Union avenue. Also named to the board of trustees were T. Russell Sargeant of 134 Adelaide street and John P. Dailey of 188 Division avenue. Sargeant is town treasurer and was named treasurer of the club and of the board of trustees. Dailey is a former president of the Board of Education and is personnel manager of Wallace & Tiernan Company.

Alfred J. Walker of 133 Joralemon street becomes captain. Dr. Brainerd F. Swain of 734 Lake street, Newark, will assist as lieutenant. J. Darrell Zink of 26 Rossmore place was re-elected lookkeeper. All three are oarsmen of note. Walker and Zink were metropolitan junior doubles kings in 1937 and Swain stroked the champion Nereid junior quad which scored at Philadelphia last July 4.

Second Visit To Market Wins Prize For Her

It was only by accident that Mrs. John Miller of 15 White terrace, Nutley, returned on Saturday night to the King Arthur Food Market in Washington avenue after completing her usual weekly marketing there the evening before. But Lady Luck smiled on her and she was just in time to be snapped by The News photographer. Her face was ringed in the group picture and she was awarded a $5 grocery order on her favorite store. Mrs. Miller formerly lived on Stephen street this town.

Watch for the photographer in one of Belleville's stores this weekend. The lucky person in the group which he snaps will receive a $5 purchase order on the store in which the picture is taken.

Commission Says 'No'

Public Utilities Board Refuses To Lift Restrictions On Garden State Line; Can't Pick Up And Discharge Passengers; Williams, Noll Plead In Vain

The Garden State bus line which plies between Belleville, Nutley and the Brookdale section of Bloomfield, is still not permitted to take on or discharge passengers within the confines of the town with the exception of one stop at the intersection of Greylock parkway and Passaic avenue. The town's appeal from the restrictions has been refused by the Public Utilities Commission.

The line was first granted permission to operate at the meeting of the Board of Commissioners March 23, 1937, and the restrictions were placed on it at that time. On July 12, 1938, the town appealed to the Utilities Commission to lift the restrictions on the grounds that the line was of no value to Belleville if it could not give the town full transportation facilities.

Public Service opposed the appeal, claiming that to grant the town the full service it desired would be to offer unwarranted competition to Public Service's Washington avenue and Union avenue lines. Said the commission, upholding Public Service's contention:

Says P. S. Was First

"Prior to the inauguration of the applicant's (Garden State) present service, the territory from Washington avenue and the Newark-Belleville city line was served by the objector's (Public Service) busses along Washington avenue and along Union avenue parallel to Washington. It is clear, therefore, that the objector, Public Service Transport, was first in the field and that its line and investments are legally entitled to be protected from prejudicial competition. The restrictions were imposed to afford such protection."

"Time and again, the Board has held and the court has sustained the principle that, where adequate service is afforded, such service should not be subjected to unfair competition."

Mayor Williams and Commissioner Noll, who has charge of transportation, appeared before the board in behalf of the town. Noll pointed out that the Garden State line would serve the Turf Bog athletic plant when it is completed, that it now could serve the high school and two grammar schools. He also brought out the fact that the local commissioners had threatened to revoke the license of the line if the desired service were not obtainable.

Williams substantiated Noll's testimony and added that property had been sold and many houses erected on Elmwood and Tremont avenues and on Adelaide, Sunset, Belmore and Myrtle streets and that that section has no bus service at the present time. He also pointed out that the town is deprived of a five per cent annual franchise tax and that the line brings no business to Belleville.

Board Not Swayed

The Utilities Board denied that the Board of Commissioners has the right to revoke the license of the bus line and was not swayed by the other arguments put forth in the town's case.

Town Is Sorry

While they admitted that there was nothing they could do, every member of the Board of Commissioners made statements of regret Tuesday night over the action of the Utilities Board. No general commitment of the board as a whole was forthcoming.

"This is a distinct loss for Belleville," said the Mayor, adding that Belleville was at the present time receiving some of the worst transportation facilities of any community in this area. "We have reasonable north and south transportation," he said, "but are sadly lacking in cross-town facilities. Present transport is entirely inadequate since the entire northwest section of town

Council Approves Track Schedule For H. S. Sprinters

The Athletic Council approved the 1940 track schedule of the high school at its meeting at School No. 8 Tuesday night. Another dual meet was added, bringing the number to five. Belleville will meet West Orange May 16 at Brookdale Park.

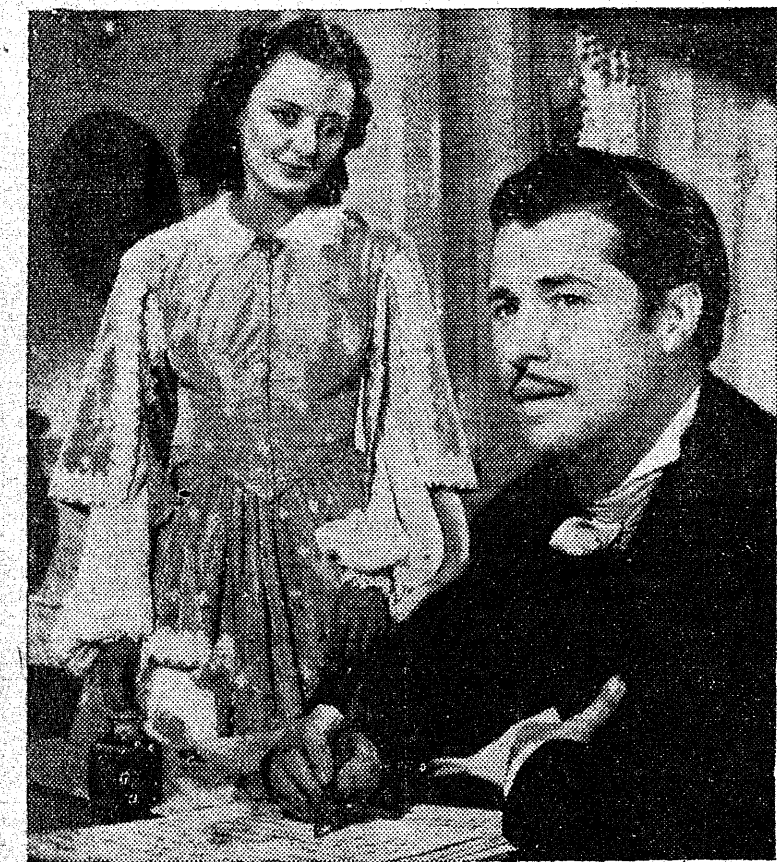

Three games have been added to the baseball schedule. Al McBride, faculty director of athletics, announced yesterday. South Side is listed for April 19 away, Harrison April 22 away, and Harrison May 14 at Clearman Field. McBride said he hoped to add two more to bring the card to sixteen games. The game with Thomas Jefferson has been cancelled because the Elizabeth school has abandoned the sport.

YOU'VE seen those armored cars pull up alongside the curb with their guards brandishing those business-like appearing guns protecting the other fellow carrying the money bag with some company's payroll. It's always quite impressive, and I doubt if the boldest kind of a crook would ever attempt to challenge them.

The reason I bring up the armored trucks with their armed guards is because of the very casual way an unprepossessing little fellow, quite alone, and quite unguarded, leisurely walked through Newark's pedestrian traffic last Monday with a $100,000 orchid diamond in his pocket.

The ten-carat stone was still quite safe in his pocket when he walked quite as nonchalantly into the lobby of the Hotel Robert Treat, and later, out of the hotel again (with the rare stone still in his pocket) without anyone knowing the difference. This, we would say, is quite a bit of nerve, as well as quite a bit of psychology to defeat the most ambitious footpad.

The little man brought the stone to the hotel to put it on display with other rare gems at the annual gathering of the Eastern Division of the American Gem Society. Its owner is Lazare Kaplan, Manhattan gem expert, who also has the distinction of having "cut" the internationally famous Junkers diamond. The little man who carried it was one of Mr. Kaplan's attendants.

Somehow or other when we heard about the little man walking jauntily along with that $100,000 diamond stuffed in his pocket, we couldn't help thinking of those armored cars with their armed guards protecting the other fellow with his little bag of money!

A dust-covered motor car with an Hawaiian license plate pulled up at the Alderney Milk Barn on Route 10 the other day. The occupants were mother, father, daughter and son. They were on their way back to the Pacific Coast, and home. They had come East last August for the Fair; when the Fair closed they had gone to Italy. Returning from the Riviera aboard the Rex they made a list of some of the places in the East they'd liked and wanted to revisit before returning to Honolulu. Metropolitan Museum of Art; Gallagher's, for steak; Rockefeller Center — and the Alderney Barn "for another glass of that Guernsey milk!" They had their Guernsey and they took two bottles of Alderney Guernsey with them for their overnight stop in Trenton. The Alderney attendant said he believed the family took the record as the Alderney Barn's customers from farthest away!

SHORT, sports' Nicest, engaged couple we know are Al Niehaus and Ruth Westerville, who will be June honeymooners. Another cute twosome making the rounds are Babs Adams and Ed Tucker, one a blond and the other a brunette. Rumor is that The Condon's gracious main dining salon is to be used for luxury scene in forthcoming film. The Creme de Menhe Frappe is fast becoming popular again — especially at Nils Bruhn's Kungs-holm. One of the more popular suburban newsmen is tall, amiable Ed Kaiser of South Orange's Record. —Adv.

Joseph King Association Hears Warden Hamma

The biggest problem of authorities has been for guidance of persons under twenty-one, not over twenty-one. This was explained at the meeting of the Joseph King Association Saturday night by Warden Hamma of the Essex County Penitentiary at Caldwell. The warden discussed the function and work of the institution. He said that the main idea was to try to interest inmates in various trades so that they might become useful citizens.

Head of the Class - and fit to be Tried!

THERE are a lot of things about this stunning 1940 Buick to claim your attention — that is, if you really want to know what's what in motorcars.

For instance, you've got to admit that its style has done a lot to brighten up and beautify the boulevards.

And, from the way folks are swinging over to Buick, it must have something value-wise that's important for you to measure.

What you hear about its quick-off-the-mark engine and the silkiness it gets from balancing after assembly certainly calls for inquiry.

So do the rave notices Buick Spring gets and the talk you hear about five-foot front seat room in the SUPER and its Foamtex cushions soft as a down puff.

But skipping this — even skipping the fact that Buick's prices are lower than some sixes — there's one thing that alone is enough to send you hot-footing to your Buick dealer.

That's the obvious fact that as Buick goes these days so goes the industry.

It set this year's pace last year — and right now it is plainly the car others will be like "some day."

So do the obvious thing. Go try out this superb traveler.

Even if you don't discover that Buick is an immediate "must," you'll decide you'll never be really happy till you have one.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Sports Before Your Eyes

by JOE DUVAL

A Slack Sports Season?

This is the slack season in the sports world but you would never guess it if you followed all the sporting events going on in Belleville. Twice a year the sports sections of the newspapers deflate like Wanaque Reservoir in winter. There is the lull at the beginning of the winter when it is too late for football and too early for basketball. When the court game is finished there is a wait until real baseball news starts to trickle in. But around these parts the spring depression is not so deep.

A lot of people didn't think Eastwood Nealley could survive the first playoff game in the Industrial loop and they were all right. Eastwood started off the season like a house afire, romped through their first eight games in easy fashion, hit a snag in their ninth, limped through their tenth, lost their eleventh and twelfth.

Sonneborn on the other hand started slowly and gathered momentum as they went along and finished only one game behind. Both won their games to get into the final playoff but Eastwood's narrow escape. That's why last night's encounter between the two had a big question mark around it all the way.

Tomorrow night's Senior playoff ought to be another humdinger. The Royals are definitely the dark horse. All the way up to the last night of the regular season nobody gave them much of a chance to ever see the playoffs except from the sidelines. Now here they are fighting it out for the championship. If they can pull it out they will be the surprise team of the year.

Bob Edelman seems to be destined to reign as recreation's No. 1 paddler until he chooses to retire. Same goes for Sid Summerfield. Edelman won the local men's singles Thursday for the year, in a row and Sid duplicated in the senior singles.

Not many new faces among the contestants. Grace Zusi came up fast in the past year and surprised many by copying the ladies' crown from the veteran campaigner Claire Flynn. Bob Fogarty pulled himself up to finalist spot in the boys' division and Ernie Reock Sr. was a newcomer to the vets' class.

If you are bored with life and are looking for something different for a change, take a jaunt to Passaic tomorrow night and watch Milt Wheeler in action. He's going to have his hands full tomorrow, what with slaughterer Francis Sabiel in them. But Wheeler, who has the best technique of anybody left in the tournament, will know how to handle him. It will be interesting to see how he does it. He has to stay away from the Waldwick boy and yet come in for solid punches whenever he can. Sabiel can hit but so can Wheeler when he gets a chance.

Baptists Almost Knocked Out Of First Place Tie With Fewsmith In Church League; Eastwoods, Sonneborn In Final Court Engagement

Italian Baptist came back with the wind Monday night to wrest what seemed to be an unredeemable decision from Reformed and remain in a tie in the Church League with Fewsmith, which had previously conquered Christ Episcopal. Reformed built up a 10-2 advantage by halftime and the Baptists appeared headed for their first defeat. They came back to mark up fourteen points while holding their opponents scoreless in the second half. Fewsmith held the deadlock by winning 16-13. Wesley trimmed Congregation A. A. A. 21-11 and St. Peter's walloped Bethany Lutheran 30-23 in the other games. No games are scheduled next Monday but the following week Fewsmith and the Baptists will lead off in the feature game which will probably settle the championship issue.

BOB EDELMAN STILL KING

Cops Men's Table Tennis Crown For Third Straight Year

Bob Edelman is still the king of the local table tennis experts. For the third time in three years he copped the men's championship at the Wallace & Tiernan recreation room Thursday night. For the second year in a row he trounced Nick Candura in the final. This year the score was 21-18, 15-21, 21-17, 21-19. He and Candura then combined to wallopp Sid Summerfield and Herman Doell in successively easier games in the men's doubles finals 22-20, 21-17, 21-9.

Edelman added a third crown a few minutes later when he paired with Grace Zusi to defeat Candura and Claire Flynn in the finals of the mixed doubles 21-19, 19-21, 21-19 in the closest match of the evening. Miss Zusi had previously beaten Miss Flynn 22-20, 21-10, 21-19 in the climax of the women's singles.

Resumption of Series With Nutley Planned; Softball's Popularity Causes Shift in Plans

MAKES FINAL Wheeler To Meet Waldwick Sluggers In Golden Gloves

A boxer who knows how to hit will face a slugger who does not know what it means to be hurt when the bell rings for the final bout for the championship of the Passaic Golden Gloves 118-pound division at Passaic High School tomorrow night.

The boxer is Milt Wheeler of 281 Ralph street who has his hands full in his semi-final bout with Bob Tolosa of Paterson Friday night, but came through to win the unanimous decision of the judges. The slugger is Francis Sabiel of Waldwick who battered a favored Steve Ogza of Passaic into helplessness in the other semi.

The Belleville lad took everything the boy from Paterson had to offer and parried his blows so that they landed on gloves or shoulders. By the last half of the second round Wheeler got the combination and staggered Tolosa with a flurry of lefts and rights which had him on the ropes at the bell. The same thing happened in the third stanza.

Interest In Baseball Lags Behind In Both Towns; Committee Tentatively Picks July 20 For The Opening

The Belleville-Nutley inter-town baseball series of two years ago will be revived this season with one important change if the plans of the committee now in the midst of making arrangements come true. The two-town battle to decide baseball supremacy two years ago was a humdinger with plenty of enthusiasm among the participants and the fans. Because of the lagging interest both here and in Nutley in baseball, the committee, after considering the question from all angles, has decided to hold a softball instead of a baseball tournament.

In Belleville, a baseball tourney would draw probably at the most three teams, while at the present time it looks as though two could be counted on from Nutley. On the other hand, it was pointed out that twelve to sixteen softball combinations could be expected to enter the event from Belleville and a like or greater number from Nutley.

The opening round of the tournament has been tentatively set for July 20, with games to be played every weekend through August 25, and a three-game series between the champions of the two towns over Labor Day weekend.

Brother,
can you spare
$3.41?

Listen...Mr. Collett tells how he bought a Big DODGE Luxury Liner...the Car that Engineers rave about...for only $341 a month more than a smaller car!†

COUPE 6-PASS. SEDAN

COME IN AND SEE THE GREATEST CAR THAT DODGE EVER BUILT!

DON'T let anyone tell you that you can't afford a big car! Just read what Mr. Ernest M. Collett, of Chicago, says: "Like a lot of people, I always thought I couldn't afford a big car. "The price of the smaller, four-door sedan I nearly bought was only $61.23 less than the big, four-door Dodge sedan, delivered in Chicago. Here's only a difference of $3.41 a month in my payments. And look how much more I got in a Dodge!

"It gives me 'big car' performance and riding comfort! On top of this, I got something no other car could possibly give me—Dodge Engineering that means real economy on gas and oil and upkeep!"

Come in today...and let us demonstrate the magnificent 1940 Dodge to you.

†Figured on basis of 18 months. ‡October, 1938, through September, 1939. Lowest figures available. And more and more engineers are buying Dodge every month. Tune in Major Bowes, Columbia Network, Thursdays, 9 to 10 P. M., E. S. T.

COMFORT ZONE
That's what we call this amazing Dodge engine, with its sensational economy that saves you money every mile.

"SCOTCH DYNAMITE!"
That's what we call this amazing Dodge engine, with its sensational economy that saves you money every mile.

NEW FULL-FLOATING RIDE!
Wheelbase is longer, wheels are moved backward, seats forward so that now all passengers ride in the buoyant "Comfort Zone" between the axles!

GOOD NEWS FOR USED-CAR BUYERS! Big demand for the 1940 Dodge has brought many trade-ins of late-model Dodges and Plymouths. These cars must be more than good or their owners wouldn't be buying the same makes again! A wonderful opportunity to save! Other popular makes and models at bargain prices.

Never Have Any Trouble

Tommy and Wally form a team which has been gaining in popularity in the entertainment field locally and throughout the county in recent months.

The reason for their success is their startling unanimity of thought — their partnership has lasted thirteen years without a serious falling out. For some ways Wally always manages to get his own way. Tommy is a dummy and Wally, who is his lord and master, is Wallace Jones of 224 Cortlandt street.

Jones comes from New Bedford, Mass., and first became interested in ventriloquism while a high school student there. By years of practice he became well-nigh perfect in the art of transferring his voice and thoughts to the lips of Tommy, the stooge.

While he has lived in Belleville only a year and a half, Jones has become active in the Sea Scout movement, currently holding down the position of first mate in the local Ship No. 303. He is employed in the Passaic Wharf of Public Service. He is studying navigation at the Maplewood Junior High School, hoping to obtain a pilot's license. Married to a Belleville girl, Jones has a four-year-old son who has fallen heir to his father's ability and is picking up the art without coaching. According to Jones, there is no such thing as throwing the voice. "It is merely an illusion," he explains, "made possible because the performer places emphasis on the motions of the dummy to distract attention from himself."

MUSICAL REVIEWS

The Bloomfield Civic Chorus made its eighteenth appearance in a spring concert Sunday afternoon at the Bloomfield High School. Composed of over one hundred men and women, robed in deep red cassocks, they made an impressive picture. Guest artists were the Tonal Art String Quartette, with John Cataldo, Belleville High graduate, as first violinist.

Three groups of Scandinavian songs comprised the chorus's offering pertinent to the day to say the least. Walter Kurkewicz, director, led the chorus through the stirring ballads with much attention to the rhythmic qualities of the compositions, although the climaxes and dramatic content were not always fully achieved. The chorus had a rich, well-balanced tone, and sang with finish. The Tonal Art String Quartette, making its debut appearance, did itself proud. All four young men are serious musicians, were well prepared for their program, and show promise. We wish them well.

OVER THE WOMAN'S DESK

by Peggy Patterson

Do you operate your home on a strict financial budget and feel that the joy is taken out of living? Or do you spend money haphazardly and continually regret it? Neither of these extremes is necessary. And both of them can be eliminated, according to those who are keeping up with the latest trends in budgets. Instead of accepting hard and fast rules from budget authorities on how to allot the various portions of your income, it is the newer and much more satisfactory way to first study your individual needs and evolve your own list of items and the percentage of income to be devoted to each.

The first step is to enlist the aid of your family and ask each member to keep a record of his expenditures for a stated interval, say a month. With this material, plus your own knowledge of household requirements you can get a clear picture of the conglomerate life of the group. Is it well rounded? Is it rich enough in the things that would mold the characters of its younger members and preserve the talents of its elders? They are many surprises in store for you. And do not think that the size of your income will alter this picture in any respect.

Keep Family In Mind

You will see expenditures that are a sheer waste. You will see items that are necessary for the temperament of members of your family that might be not so urgent for others. Are there hobbies which could be practiced at home which would draw your group closer? Provide for them and eliminate some of the money spent on outside entertainment. If your husband and children are sensitive to the beauty of their home and luxuriate in its comfort this is the place to be generous. On the other hand, if you have anyone in your charge who should participate more freely in outside diversions make allowance for club dues and cut the corners on food and general maintenance bills.

Find a new and inspiring name for your savings account and see how much easier it is to deny yourself for the things you most desire in the future — education, annuities, travel, your permanent home. In short, let the motivation for your budgeting be a hopeful, happy striving for the best things in life and not a dreary routine of saving sums which have not been dedicated to any particular purpose. No matter how many times you have to divert funds you will then find it easier to go back to your original intention.

There is a growing tendency for juvenile criminals to blame their actions on technique which they have seen perfected in the movies or read in magazines and newspapers. In many cases recently the convicted young man or girl has described in court a situation comparable to the one into which they have thrown themselves. These young people are undoubtedly ripe for careers of crime due to emotional disturbances, unfortunate environment and many other causes. They could not, however, respond with such drastic measures as robbery, hold-ups, even murder, if they were not so well versed in the approach to such crimes.

In fairness to the industries it must be admitted that the movies,

Decorating Your Home

Are you intrigued by the idea of decorating a room around a single object — a painting, rug, exceptional piece of upholstery or a precious vase? You should be, it seems to us, since it not only gives you the coveted opportunity for self-expression but often solves a nagging, difficult problem. Now it does not follow that you must first acquire an expensive oriental rug or a genuine oil painting although it is only reasonable to admit that the rich colors and skillful blending of such pieces cannot be equalled for your guide.

Suppose, instead, that you allow yourself time for browsing among the upholstery and drapery materials of your favorite store. Somewhere there you will come upon a chintz or printed linen fabric whose rich colors make you thrill to their beauty. And instantly the predominant tones will suggest themselves to you as the colors you wish to employ for a harmonious effect.

Start With Windows

This spring it may easily be one of the exquisite chintzes which will be your inspiration. Choose your favorite and start with the windows. Grey, pale blue and soft cocoa brown are the prevailing backgrounds. Interesting flower designs, neither too small and confusing nor too large and splashy, are placed in straight up and down panels on these soft, toned-down colors. Plenty of relief is provided making a clear, cool effect with no clutter. Pale blue with streaks of crimson against the gray, periwinkle blue with coral flecks against the brown — hang these full and flowing to the floor and when you have slip-covered your furniture in plain color fabrics varied to include the high shades in your draperies, you will have achieved coolness without bareness for the spring and summer. Spun rayon materials follow the chintzes in popularity and come in more formal patterns. An all over design of white fleur-de-lis on slate blue is very distinctive.

If you have been fascinated by the revival of grandmother's underwear in embroidered muslin and ruffled lawn and have yet not liked the idea of giving up your smooth silken garments, you may now indulge your taste in curtains, bed spreads, pillow casings and dressing table skirts. Curtains particularly are effective and make a refreshing change from dotted swiss. Organdy curtains with medallions of lace edging them daintily, muslin which is sheer but sturdy and looks as though it had just come from grandmother's needle and lawn with ruffles which are thickly eyelet embroidered are all being shown.

the press, the radio with their stories of intrigue do not actually make criminals — they supply the object lesson for those whose mentality is simply waiting for a representation of a crime to precipitate them into it. The fact that over eighty percent of these delinquents can be cured of all criminal tendencies by a clinical treatment proves that this percentage at least might never have entered on such careers. And in that fact lies the enormous power of these "control agents," movies, radio and the printed word.

They Carry Suggestions
If they can clinch the wavering decision of the potential criminal why should it not be in favorable direction? Unexhausted energy, unrelaxed ability are waiting their cue in the youngster who squirms on the edge of his seat at the Saturday movie or draws his chair closer to the radio drama. Scenes that may be preposterous or even vapid to adult minds are striking different chords in the young mind. They are suggesting numerous ways of overcoming the slight frustrations of childhood which often grow into large problems. And these are usually the bad ways.

How logical it seems that we should use these very mediums of entertainment as a constant, powerful force for good. Forums of young people, as well as their elders and the members of professions devoted to child guidance, have expressed a desire for more educational and beautiful moving pictures, plays and magazines. Why? Because there is no greater challenge to the eager young mind than the unknown. That which they have not yet learned is always beckoning to them. How they would welcome it as it could be presented to them in the guise of entertainment.

Who has not sat through the howls and jeers of boredom which accompany the majority of children's features at the movies? Would there be the time of inclination for these manifestations if the picture called forth some real thought and the exercise of the imagination? The ordinary wild-west or gangster picture formula that the young mind is soon free to occupy itself with the perfection of details into action and the fatal step may then be taken.

Improving The Programs

Those responsible for these monotonous forms of adolescent entertainment could be persuaded to substitute inspiring programs if they could be convinced of the willingness of youth to attend such performances. The combined forces of young and old in all walks of society are needed to accomplish this important step. Only public opinion can control this vital link in the chain of events which lead to crime. Public opinion begins with you!

Use Short Swag Draperies
In order not to overshadow these lovely curtains, short swag draperies depended from large rings are substituted for full length over curtains. Over a pair of organdy curtains, for instance, hangs one of these short drapes which does not come more than a third of the way down your window. Satin in the predominant color of your room, lined with white is an ideal arrangement. If your dressing table can be placed before such a window and wear a skirt that exactly matches the curtains you will be charmed and cheered each time you enter the room. In rooms where plain color or rugs and bed spreads are used these short draperies may be brilliant prints without overshadowing the room. Line them then in satin which matches the most important color in the room and suspend them from the big bakelite rings which are most suited, crystal clear to match your lamps, or ivory to match the woodwork.

Serve with browned link sausages, which they be inserted in the center of the apples after baking.

Lake Hiawatha Woman Suffers Injuries In Accident

Mrs. Theresa Kirkner of Lake Hiawatha suffered bruises and a sprained back when the bus in which she was riding collided with a car in Belleville avenue late Thursday afternoon. After treatment by Dr. Martin Meehan she was put on another bus for home.

According to Patrolman Demard, who investigated, John Heins, twenty-seven, of 572 Broadway, Newark, the driver of the Jersey City-Montclair bus, stated that he was driving west on Belleville avenue when a car cut in front of him, causing the collision. The other car was driven by David E. Wilson, thirty-four, of 232 Grove street, Montclair, police say.

If You Are Sewing

Wide Assortment of Designs and Weights Offered In Woolens, Plaids, Silks and Sheers; Colors Are Varied and Contrasting This Spring

Perhaps you have seen patterns for suits and dresses which appeal to you more than the ready made editions, or patterns which combine in one garment several attractive features usually found singly in the ready-to-wear frocks. If so, hasten to secure your patterns with full confidence in the superlative assortment of yard goods now on display. For those who can undertake the making of tailored suits and coats, or who are fortunate enough to have a clever tailor, there is an extremely wide assortment of checked, plain and plaid light-weight woolens. Tiny, precise designs in the conservative black and white, gray or beige backgrounds are perfect for the severe suit or reefer on which you rely for daily wear.

For sports, the plaids, about which you somehow feel safer when you view them in the piece and not made up. For you can use them with the discretion which your figure and coloring demand. By combining them with plain colors, you can make them follow closely your own taste. Irregular blocks and bars of high color will entrance you. Of course, the accent is on the light, bright shades now — yellow, lime green, pink and blue are contrasted with brown, navy and black bars and stripes. But there are also darker plaids and a full line of plain, dark woolens for formal coats. For separate skirts and tailored dresses there is a rainbow assortment of feather-light woolens in solid colors — surf aqua, dove rose, blue haze, pink mist and foam green which look quite as lovely as they sound.

Silk prints and sheers have one characteristic in common this season. Their designs are almost exclusively the small, all-over type. A dead white design on colored background, gray, slate blue, or navy, is the most popular and the designs run all the way from the "trademark" prints to the most conservative geometric figures. Small flowers are also in evidence. Gray with a red pattern is a happy choice for a dress to wear with your navy topcoat. Interesting too are the prints which combine different shades of green and chartreuse, another perfect foil for the spring navy.

Among the yard goods you will feel the lure of summer more strongly than elsewhere. For the cotton goods are frankly summery in their misty pastel shades with chalk white stripes. They are paper thin and crisp chambrays, linens, and many others. For the days when sweaters can no longer be borne on the golf course and for other active sports you can make dresses of smooth, cool sharkskin and chukkerspun also featured in smart, smart stripes and plain colors. To carry you even further into summer come the cotton laces with a soft suede-like finish in engaging shades of cafe au lait, rose beige and copper tones.

May we suggest a trio which strikes us as being tasteful and practical for semi-formal wear at this season? The floor length crepe or taffeta skirt which goes hand in hand with its filmy, frothy blouse may be topped with one of the bright new short evening wraps for a comfy and beautiful ensemble. And each one of the three is ready and willing for double duty. The long, usually black, skirt can be worn with brocade or sequin topping for more formal affairs; the filmy blouse has just as close an affinity for another shorter skirt that is suitable for afternoon wear; and the short flail, flannel or velvet wrap will grace any formal frock after your full length evening wrap is put in summer storage.

These skirts, as we have said, are usually black and while they are slim to the knees they break into flattering fullness at the hem.

To Present "Columbine" In State Little Theatre Tournament

The drama department of the Junior Women's Club, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Gardner, chairman, is holding rehearsals of the play to be presented in the twelfth annual Junior State Little Theatre Tournament during April.

The local group has chosen "Columbine," a fantasy by Colin C. Clement. There are only two parts in the play. The roles are taken by Miss Betty Messer and Miss Catherine Comesky. Miss Messer is new to Junior Little Theatre work, but Miss Comesky has taken important roles in past productions.

The costuming is under the direction of Mrs. Walter Mack, club president, and Miss Adele Giordano. Miss Doris Saleau is in charge of make-up. Miss Betty Shurts is prompter and properties are under the supervision of Miss Vivian Kilpatrick and Miss Dorothy Prime.

As usual, the tournament will be produced in several sections. Clubs from Essex County and vicinity will present their productions at Griffith's Auditorium April 5 and 6.

This Town And Transportation

The Public Utilities Commission set the town back on its heels this week with the declaration that the Garden State Line's North Newark to Brookdale line could not pick up or discharge passengers in this town. This puts Belleville in somewhat the same class as the small towns which are tabbed as "whistle stops" along railroad lines. The only difference is that even a whistle apparently won't permit people to get on or off the pint-sized bus that plies through town.

The Utilities Commission argues that the Public Service, which opposed the granting of the pick-up-discharge privilege to the Garden State concern, has priority because of the fact that their existing lines were in operation through Belleville long before the independent decided to open its service. That point is conceded but it does not necessarily follow that the Public Service is completely serving the needs of this community. The little bus traverses a route that is far from a Public Service line and also a section which is in between P.S. bus routes by several blocks.

The Garden State bus passes through territory which is still virgin land for residential development. One of the best selling points to convince either a developer or an individual buyer to invest his money in property there is transportation facilities.

Transportation can be the measuring rod between the success or failure of a suburban community as a residential haven. Backed up by an upswing in industrial building, this community is on the brink of a residential expansion program. Mediocre facilities for getting from here to Newark or New York can slow up this advancement. The limited service under which the Erie Railroad now operates through here works a hardship on those who are dependent on the line for conveying them to and from New York and Jersey City. There is dissatisfaction among many of those who travel daily to Newark on the buses because of the irregularity in good service. Between the town proper and Silver Lake is a barrier which could only be overcome by bus facilities.

A local study of the problem, showing the disadvantages and the inadequateness in present transportation, might eventually force the Utilities Commission to realize that there should be more transportation facilities here.

A Change In Public Interests

There is nothing startling about the frequent reports from the Free Public Library that there is an increasing demand for John Steinbeck's novel, "The Grapes of Wrath." In many libraries it is the first on the list and continues to lead the book selling records on many stands. Steinbeck, in a plain and frank story, in fact too frank for many, unfolds the tale of a sociological and economic condition which exists in this country. Naturally, his fictional treatment of the life and struggle of the "Okies" has pin-pricked the pride and ego of two of the states most vitally concerned — Oklahoma and California.

While squealing because the book has focused attention on a situation which they do not boast about, neither state will out-and-out deny that conditions such as Steinbeck portrays exist. Thousands are now being attracted to the Hollywood pictorial version of Steinbeck's novel. Fortunately, the cinematic treatment does not stray too far from the book.

A few years ago a book of this type would not have attracted such great public attention. Nor would the motion picture have set any box office records. This is not singularly true of "The Grapes of Wrath." Both in libraries and the movies there has been a trend on the part of the public to be interested in more intellectual and serious problems. Hollywood has outdone itself in the past year in bringing to the public films based on biographies and social and economic problems. We have always been a believer in the fact that the film industry underestimated the intelligence of the movie public. They now apparently realize that people desire to learn as well as be entertained when they spend an evening at the theatre.

While the love, married and live happily ever after tales continue to be the favorites with book readers, library records show that there has been a trend toward increased popularity of the books, both fiction and non-fiction, that verge on the more serious and involved side of life. The depression era, the increased interest in the country's economic problems which followed it and the international problems all contributed in bringing about this change.

It is not a bad one for the knowledge of the general public has undoubtedly been increased by it.

It Did Some Good, Anyway

Nature works in a strange way. Still vivid in the minds of most is the dry spell last summer which wrought untold damage in farming areas, scorched and ruined lawns and gardens and depleted many water reservoirs to such an extent that they have not yet recovered from it. But this lack of rain was not entirely negative in its results. The Essex County Mosquito Extermination Commission in its annual report for 1939 states that the mosquito annoyance during the 1939 season was almost nil.

This does not mean that the dry season was entirely responsible for this condition. Much credit should be paid to the Mosquito Commission for its painstaking, persistent campaign against the insects.

Because of the lack of rain, Commissioner Edward W. Jackson explains, the swamp areas, both salt and fresh, were practically dry and the eggs of these species lay on the mud but did not hatch. The dry season also resulted in a decrease in the number of malarial mosquitoes. Inquiry in various health departments throughout the county showed that there was only one case of malaria reported, and that of a person who had been bitten by a malarial mosquito while on a visit in a southern state.

The reduction in the annoyance caused to residents of this area is due not alone to the work of this county's forces, but to the cooperation given them by similar organizations in surrounding counties. Out-of-state residents have ribbed us plenty about the prevalence of the insects in this section, but the diligence of the Commission in its annual program is slowly but surely decreasing the potency of this ribbing. They have routed mosquitoes out of some of their favorite breeding spots by digging and cleaning ditches; draining pools and swamps; oiling ditches, sewer catch basins and other containers of stagnant water; pumping low areas and inspecting back yards and educating householders on methods of avoiding the breeding of the insects.

Equally as important has been the expansion of residential and industrial development in this area which has resulted in the reclamation of thousands of acres of swamp and marshland which was a haven for mosquitoes.

A Campaign Among Pedestrians

Belleville should take a great deal of interest in the state-wide campaign which is being inaugurated by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Magee this week. Various groups in this town are bent on some form of safety education because of the numerous accidents on Washington avenue and other sections during the first few months of this year.

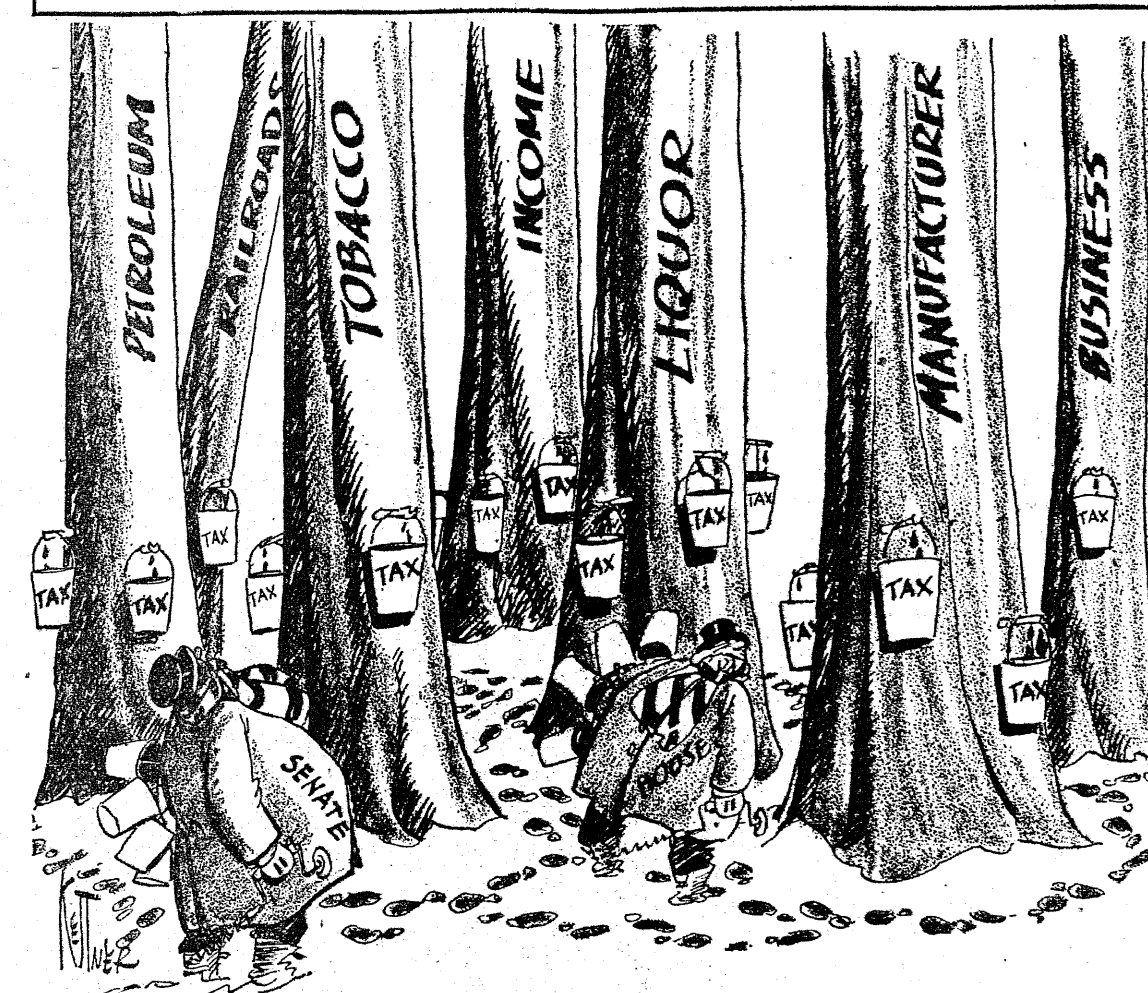

Statistics show that fifty per cent of New Jersey's traffic fatalities each year are pedestrians. Through education Commissioner Magee hopes that these fatalities will be lessened. This high figure, Magee believes, is sufficient reason for regulating pedestrian travel as provided by law. The campaign will be concentrated on the pedestrian who believes that he has been given some inalienable right to cross a street when and where he pleases without regard to the consequences. The Motor Vehicle Commissioner urges pedestrians not to regard the campaign as depriving them of any rights in favor of the motorist. But he believes that the pedestrian should be required to abide by safety regulations similar to those to which automobile drivers are subjected.

By education Magee hopes to achieve the desired results, but if not successful, disciplinary action will be taken.

Motor vehicle inspectors will concentrate in this safety drive on four dangerous practices of pedestrians. Walking on the highway with back to traffic, walking on highway where sidewalk is available for use, crossing at intersections against the red signal and failure to give way to vehicular traffic when crossing at a place other than an intersection.

Looking for More Trees to Tap

THIS BUSINESS OF GOVERNMENT

by Samuel S. Kenworthy

Executive Sec'y N. J. State League of Municipalities

From time to time I have referred to the attempt made by New Jersey railroads to have the Legislature grant them a twenty-five per cent reduction in their delinquent taxes. This would represent a savings to them of many millions of dollars. Although the unfortunate financial collapse of our railroads is cause for considerable sympathy, I find it impossible to stir up any greater compassion for these taxpayers than I have for thousands of small home owners, who, because of the heavy taxation which is being heaped on their shoulders, are faced with losing their all. Any compromise in the taxes which have been levied against the railroads would prove costly to every other owner of real property. These corporations, in common with other taxpayers, are the victims of an obsolete system of taxation. A system which makes it impossible for the owners of real property to continue to bear a disproportionate share of the cost of organized government. A system which is so deflating the value of real estate in New Jersey as to make ownership a liability rather than an asset.

To attempt to bail out of this unfortunate situation one class of these owners, and to ignore the dilemma of others is manifestly unfair. To say that one class of property owners is entitled to a compromise based on seventy-five per cent of the original levy with a waiving of interest charges and at the same time force individual owners of property to pay their arrearages in addition to interest penalties at the threat of selling their homes which, in thousands of cases represent the savings of a life time, is inequitable and unjust.

It must be kept uppermost in mind that the railroad tax revenues anticipated by municipalities and school districts have been borrowed against and actually expended so that essential services of government might be properly maintained. In addition to this second class railroad property valuations have been included in total municipal ratables and county and state taxes have been paid thereon.

Taxpayers Would Assume Burden

Those taxpayers who have, during the past few years, found it possible to pay their bills would, if this compromise is permitted, be forced to assume additional responsibilities by actually paying the difference between the amount of the original railroad levies and the compromise figure. This unquestionably would further reduce the percentage of current tax collections and would result in additional owners losing their homes through their inability to pay. This situation would undoubtedly be further aggravated through an annual reduction in railroad obligations in the future. Once this proposed adjustment is assured on the basis of a seventy-five per cent compromise, such action would serve as a future mandate upon the State Tax Commissioner to effect an annual reduction of twenty-five per cent on first and second class railroad property or each succeeding Legislature would be expected to follow the precedent which would have been established.

During these past few years, when real property taxpayers have found ownership a distinct liability because of the unfair share of the costs of government which they have been obliged to carry, the railroad corporations have not been unduly penalized. In 1932 the valuation of first and second class railroad property represented slightly more than seven and a half per cent of the total value of New Jersey real estate ratables. In 1938 this same property represented approximately the same percentage of these ratables, in fact, slightly less. In 1932 the total tax levy against first and second class railroad property represented approximately seven and a half per cent of the amount expected to be realized through these sources and those which are levied and paid locally. In 1938 the levy for first and second class railroad property represented approximately the same percentage as it did in 1932, in fact slightly less.

Same Plight As Home Owners

Apparently there has been no discrimination against the owners of this class of property and as unfortunate as the situation may be, the railroads find themselves in the same sorry plight as do other owners of real property in New Jersey today.

Railroads point to the possibility of bankruptcy in the event the State insists upon the full payment of their delinquent taxes. That, of course, would be unfortunate. But on the other hand, again may I state that they are no less fortunate than the owners of private business enterprises and industry, to say nothing of the innumerable owners of real estate who have already lost their homes.

There is no question but that the period of depression through which we have been passing has had a devastating influence on the economic problem of railroads. Certainly they are justified in the criticism which they level against the unfair competition which they have been forced to contend with during the past decade as a result of the ever-increasing number of trucking concerns which have gone into the transportation business. Millions of dollars worth of business which heretofore has gone to the railroads has gradually been absorbed by these concerns, which have virtually taken over our state highways as a right-of-way. Literally thousands of these common and contract carriers pass through our state daily without contributing to the cost of the construction of these superhighways.

In a later article I will endeavor to show the economic effect of this type of transportation on New Jersey taxpayers.

ODDS AND ENDS FROM OTHER PENS

Sledding

A decision handed down recently in Orange District Court concerning a suit for injuries in a sledding accident will be noted with interest in other suburban communities where fear that roping streets to make them safe for coasting might make municipal officials liable in case of accident.

At the hearing in Essex County where parents sought damages for two girls injured in a sledding accident, a non-suit was granted in the case of the town. It was the contention of counsel for the municipality that in setting aside a street and stationing an officer there, the municipality was engaged in a governmental function and that it was under no obligation to secure the safety of the sleigh riders. He contended that the municipality could be held liable only if it could be shown that the town had been guilty of active negligence or wrong-doing. The court agreed, but allowed actions against the patrolman and the driver of the car involved in the accident to go to the jury which found no cause for action.

It is hoped that this case will set a precedent which will make it safe for municipalities to make coasting safer for children.

If They're Unfit, They're Unfit

It is illegal for a person to operate a motor vehicle "while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, or a narcotic, or habit-producing drug."

Apparently it is not illegal to drive a car, endangering the lives and property of others, while unfit to do so from causes other than intoxication or incapacity caused by drugs.

In recent cases in this section, accusations of "drunken driving" have been dismissed by magistrates because the defendants proved they were not under the influence of liquor, but were suffering from heart disease or other ailments, which produced some of the symptoms of drunkenness and led to their arrest as drunken drivers.

The fact remains that in each instance the driver was "unfit to drive," if not from liquor, then from other cause, and he should have been prohibited from driving in the first place or subject to penalty if he did drive.

It is galling to see persons who have damaged property or injured persons escape the consequences of their heedlessness by offering the defense that they were not drunk but suffering from ailments which they knew they had and for which they had been receiving treatment.

Tavern Men Object

Tavern owners and their employees object to a proposal that they be finger-printed by the police as a precaution against the admission of undesirable characters in the business, and it appears that they are not without some justification for their protest.

Finger-printing is not a general practice. As long as it is reserved for persons accused of crime, it should not be required as a condition of doing business in a special field.

Police should, of course, have information concerning all men who engage in the liquor business. They should be in a position to check on the veracity of information given them, and they should object to the licensing of questionable characters. Police vigilance in this respect would benefit liquor dealers and tavern owners as well as the public.

Finger-printing would accomplish no purpose that could not be realized in a manner less objectionable to those engaged in the liquor business.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

by Meador Wright

Passage of the racing bill by the Senate emphasizes the weakness of the Clean Government group at Trenton. The spectacular fight led by Dr. Lester H. Clee came very near succeeding. Three years ago he obtained the gubernatorial nomination over very weak opposition. While his group never actually controlled the legislature, it had been able to influence many of its decisions. But a promising beginning ended untimely end.

Clee lost the election by only 43,000 votes while polling more than 700,000. The defeat was centered in Essex and Hudson. The former county gave Clee a majority of but 13,000, while Hudson was rolling up nearly 200,000 for its native son, the present Governor Moore.

Viewed from an impartial angle, the campaign of three years ago reflects seriously on the efficiency of the Essex reform movement. With victory within their grasp, Essex Republicans chose Hague's lieutenant for Governor rather than their own representative. The favorite alibi for this was proof that a clergyman should not participate actively in politics.

No One To Replace Clee

But with Clee out of the picture, the progress of Clean Government in Trenton has been more halting than ever. With Clee as the leader, there was at least a chance of victory. But under the present leadership, the Hague and Hoffman camps are having a Roman holiday. Trenton is back where it was in the halcyon days of Morgan F. Larson, save for a Governor with more sensitiveness and discernment.

There is plenty of evidence that Essex voters interested in reform are becoming very disillusioned with the present state of things. And also that this is seriously affecting the campaign for the nomination of Senator Hendrickson. But there is a strong suspect to the effectiveness of Harold G. Hoffman's campaign here. His immediate followers think it is going great guns. Others are not so sure. But all concede that Hendrickson is getting nowhere.

Hoffman Against A Ticket

Of course, there is the hope that Hoffman's enemies are as numerous here as his friends, and that the former will actually be encouraged to go to the polls by that activity of the latter. But this hope represents wishful thinking. If something is not done for Hendrickson, Hoffman will come relatively as close to carrying Essex as Moore did in 1937. Concerted efforts, especially in the suburbs, may be made later to marshal the vote for Hendrickson. But there is a strong suspicion that the will to victory is lacking.

If the above diagnosis is correct, Hoffman's interests would be better served by the absence of a primary contest here for county offices. Any opposition ticket would immediately be branded a Pierce R. Franklin slate. Nothing makes suburban voters set red as quickly as the thought that the Republican faction of Newark should get control of important county offices. Only this threat, in my judgment, would get suburban voters excited this year.

Hoffman's closest leaders are agreed on this point, and the question of whether to back an opposition ticket has reached the point of open warfare. Bert Lamb, superintendent of elections, is the strongest advocate of Hoffman neutrality in Essex affairs. John Howe of Newark and Mayor Kruttschnitt of Irvington favor an opposition ticket.

The matter has reached such a point that Hoffman himself, must soon make a decision. My guess is that he will rule against an opposition ticket. But even this stand would not guarantee that one will not be in the field. Such a ticket will start with a series of individual candidacies, but is likely to wind up as a concerted opposition movement.

Hoffman cannot disown such an organization group too strongly, because it is the backbone of his strength. Therefore, he hopes it will not come into being, but will be compelled to work with it if it does. Clean Government leadership, most of whom think Hendrickson will be defeated anyway, likewise prefer no primary contest as they will thereby be saved money, trouble and risk.

Composer

There must be plenty of American composers, — but what's the matter with them? Radio Guide, in closing its $200 prize contest for the best "semi-classic," advises that although over 1,000 manuscripts were submitted, only fifteen were considered outstanding and much conscientious consideration had to be given to this small number before a final selection could be made. The award then went to a blind composer, James Balfour Cantlon, of Joplin, Mo. Is there really a dearth of composers in America today, — or if good old Walt Whitman were still alive, would he say, — "I Hear America Composing?" We think not.

Postage Stamps and Music

It is interesting, perhaps, to note that in the current stamp issue series of musicians, authors, poets, etc., the following sections of the country are represented so far as the composers are concerned: Pennsylvania, Stephen Collins Foster and Ethelbert Nevin; New York, Edward MacDowell and Victor Herbert; District of Columbia, John Philip Sousa.

But where, you will ask, is the old South. It was supposed, I imagined in this connection, but the Honorable Mr. Farley (who, by the way, outside of politics, is nothing short of stupid) almost lost a trick in favor of Stephen Collins Foster.

Foster, while not a native Southerner, may surely be claimed as one of the greatest of those who held a love for the South in their hearts. "My Old Kentucky Home," "Old Folks at Home," "Old Black Joe," "Massa's in de Cold, Cold Ground," — what American does not know and love these songs?

His fame rests chiefly on his songs of the South. These beloved "plantation melodies" were intended to portray one race of people, the Negro, one section of our country, — the South. Yet through his genius, Foster succeeded in creating songs that have leapt the boundaries of space and time and express universal thoughts and emotions.

Yes, although Stephen Foster was born in Pennsylvania, he well represented the South.

Surely, Mr. Farley's limited knowledge of native American music has shown itself in a glaring light, when the name of John Philip Sousa, the creator of flashy band music, was selected by him or his advisers. When he was making up his mind, where were the names of really great native composers, such as Lowell Mason, a real American (born 1792; died 1872) who was responsible for the contention that every child had a right to receive elementary music instruction in the public schools; or John Knowles Paine, (born 1839; died 1906) of Portland, Me., who established the music curriculum in the colleges, or George W. Chadwick, (born 1854; died 1931) the stalwart American, to whose personality and musicianship we owe the giving to our native song a status comparable with other lands and times, and with whom the real artistry of American song began?

WHAT'S NEWSICAL?

Baker Makes Dough

Money is rolling in from all corners of the globe filling the coffers of Miss Bonnie Baker. . . about the sucker business. . . For some time now the public, always clamoring for something new and different, has adopted what for us is the nauseating, gushing, baby-talk singing of "Wee Bonnie Baker." Imagine grown men and women going for such drivel as the vocal renditions about a lug named "Johnny" or some guy named "Bill" or the song about being a "dummy on someone's knee." A few years back people rushed to their radio to turn off a Miss Helen Kane, famous for her "Boop-a-doop singing" . . . if it could be called singing. . . and today they rush to the radio to turn on a reasonably exact facsimile, minus the boop-a-doop gag. What's it all about? Where do we go from here? Information, please . . . the mere thought has a chilling effect. In case you're interested, Wee Bonnie and Orrin Tucker move East from Chicago Saturday, April 6 for four New York broadcasts on Columbia's "Your Hit Parade" and an engagement at the Waldorf Astoria . . . hope you like it . . . and that's what they call news.

Clinton Does Solo

Larry Clinton has achieved one of his ambitions . . . that of learning to fly. While playing in New Orleans during Mardi Gras, Larry did some private celebrating when he went out and bought his own plane and took the required beginner's course. The plane is still in New Orleans but as soon as Larry concludes his engagement at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago he plans to pick it up and fly back to New York. While on the subject of Clinton, have you heard his new gal singer? Her name is Helen Southern and he picked her up while in New Orleans. . . quite a haul for one engagement. Maybe the band business isn't so bad at that.

Hal Kemp ran into a bit of hard luck on a recent tour of the south. While Hal and the boys were giving out for some function down Nashville way a group of perverted humorists stole a complete set of new summer uniforms from the truck used by the band for transporting wardrobe, instruments and music.

Martin Gets Rival

Martin Block has a rival but there's no need for serious worry on the part of anyone. While twisting the dials for something new in musical entertainment we heard a voice somewhere in the hinterlands spilling about the famous Meadowbrook, Tommy Dorsey and Ork, etc., so we naturally waited to hear the rest. The pay-off came when the announcer informed his many listeners . . . ha, ha . . . that the program was the "Mythical Ballroom" presented by station CKGB of Timmons, Ontario. The whole show was so realistically done that for a few moments we thought that perhaps NBC was feeding the network with a "live" broadcast from Meadowbrook but excluding the local stations. However, our doubts soon changed to hysterics when we heard the "business" handed out by this small station "somewhere in Canada."

Krueger Wins

Some weeks back we went on record predicting Benny has been doing just that and while there is house band from Newark. For the past week now Benny has been doing just that an while there is a great improvement in the music originating from Benny's, it does seem as though had there been a little less politics in some quarters the band could have been just that much better. . . you know "I won't play unless my cousin can play". . . it's unfair to good musicians and usually reflects in the music. Benny should do a good job, however, as he is well grounded in music. He served as assistant conductor, to Rudy Vallee for some time,

The theme is based on the words, "And then they compelled one Simon, a Syrian, who passed by coming out of the country, the father of Alexander and Rufus, to bear His cross." Rev. Walter Lake will play the part of Simon. Others in the cast are Mrs. Carl Perkins, Miss Margie Hyde, Marcus Wagner, Donald Richmond and Miss Annette McClung.

TO ENROLL 40 FOR CCC

Hewitt Explains That It Offers Unemployed Youth An Opportunity

Welfare Director John J. Hewitt this week amplified his previous announcement that applications are now being received for positions in the CCC. The total number from Belleville who will be admitted has not yet been definitely set, he said, but he expects it to be about thirty-five or forty. The term for which applications are now being received is for six months beginning in April.

The enrollees must be a citizen between seventeen and twenty-three, unmarried, unemployed and in need of work. He must be free from conviction for crime, probation or parole. He must be agreeable to serve at least one full six-month term and to make an allotment if he has dependents. He must be physically and mentally fit and able to do vigorous work, "with stability of purpose and character, and must have a desire for work experience and self-improvement."

Hewitt pointed out that the CCC offers the youth a splendid opportunity to advance himself in education and in practical training. A boy in the corps will work a forty-hour week and his leisure time will be utilized for supplemental education and off-the-job vocational training in which more than eighty-five percent of the enrollees participate voluntarily.

Applications for enrollment are being received at the Municipal Welfare Building in Mill street just east of Union avenue.

Increase In Local Students Registered At Essex

Miss Scott, Schlichting, Wilson, and Levine are new students.

Essex is featuring a course in photography being offered in the extension division of general education by Pierre deRamer, camera expert. Remer has been all over the world with his camera, and was the first white man to photograph monastic rites in Lhasa, Tibet.

Pupils To Entertain Parents At P.T.A. Meeting

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Passaic Avenue School will meet Monday evening and will be entertained by the students.

Among the features will be a four-act play, from Mark Twain's famous story "The Prince and the Pauper" to be presented by the dramatic club under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Denison. The school orchestra, with Nan Chesley of the sixth grade at the piano, will render several selections. The girls' glee club under the leadership of Miss Ruth Robertson, will sing.

After the entertainment a classroom visitation period will be held, when parents may confer with teachers.

No One Injured

No one was injured when two cars collided almost head-on Wednesday afternoon. Patrolman Lee, who covered the accident, reported that Robert M. Kenworthy, twenty-five, of 27 Lavergne street, son of Samuel S. Kenworthy, executive secretary of the New Jersey League of Municipalities, was driving west on Belleville avenue. August Johnson, fifty-eight, of 740 Centre street, Nutley, driving east on the same street, attempted to make a left turn into Delavan avenue and the cars collided. Slight damage was done to the fenders of each car.

Quick Joy-Ride

Robert Cutler of 28 Belleville avenue called police headquarters at 6:50 Monday night to report his car had been stolen from in front of his home. At 7:20 he called back again to report that there was the car right in front of his house as big as life. He said he believed someone had just taken it for a joy-ride. Police are still looking for the joy-rider.

DOGS

by Laurence Torley

The obedience training of pure-bred dogs has, made such fast headway in the past four years that it is only a matter of time before a great percentage of the pet dogs of the nation will be given similar education. Just how rapidly this branch of sport is advancing is revealed by figures released today by The American Kennel Club, governing body of pure-bred dog activities in the United States. During 1939 there were held 107 obedience tests, which is an increase of better than fifty percent over the previous year when seventy took place.

Training classes for pure-bred show dogs made their appearance in the East, but they have now spread to all parts of America. The first tests, held in connection with some of the long-established bench shows, drew sparse entries but caught the immediate fancy of the crowds. This encouragement led to a great deal of missionary work and the establishment of many small groups of enthusiasts. Today, half the all-breed shows have obedience tests, and these sometimes draw as many spectators as the regular judging.

Aside from the competition, which is always interesting because it displays good-looking dogs in action, obedience training has a distinct advantage in making better citizens out of dogs. When they have received such training, dogs are better able to comply with the many restrictions of modern living.

Buick Dealers Showing New Convertible Models

Buick dealers in the metropolitan area will have special displays of four new convertible models in addition to a complete line of other production models, during "Open House Week," according to L. D. Horton, New York zone manager. In outlining Buick's plans for participation in the Automobile Merchants' Association-sponsored week of special showings of 1940 cars in southern New York State and parts of Connecticut and New Jersey, Horton said that the Buick dealer organization in the area had spent several days during the past week discussing plans for special displays.

The opening of the spring showing is coincidental with the announcement by Harlow H. Curtice, Buick president, of four new models in the fifty and seventy series. They consist of a convertible coupe in the Super and Roadmaster models both of which are equipped with an automatic top; and a convertible phaeton in both series.
