

$90,000 Bowling Alley Hinges On Granting Of Change In Zone

Town Ratifies Sale of Washington Avenue Property for $11,000; Start Work Immediately

The ever-growing Washington avenue business section may shortly see the start of another new building—a $90,000 one-story structure, which will house a number of stores and a sixteen-alley bowling academy. Except for church alleys and those at the Elks' Club, there are none in Belleville. In the past year with bowling forging to the fore as one of the country's leading indoor sports, a number of modern bowling alleys have been erected in this vicinity. Start of construction of the new pin topping mecca will hinge on the action of the Zoning Board of Adjustment which will receive an application at its meeting tonight for a change of zone for the property in the rear of the Washington avenue frontage and also for a portion of the L-shaped lot which fronts on Overlook avenue.

The Board of Commissioners at a special meeting of the Town Commission on Tuesday night ratified the sale of the property to Elwood Casperson of Caldwell who heads the corporation which proposes to erect the building. Casperson is the proprietor of the Caldwell Bowling Academy. The property which has a 151-foot frontage on Washington avenue and is 162 feet deep with fifty-foot frontage on Overlook avenue was sold to Casperson for $11,000. The sale was on the condition that the zoning board would agree to the zone change.

For a Parking Lot

Julius Krill, who represented Casperson and his associates, said that they did not contemplate building on the Overlook avenue section but intended to use the property for a parking lot. Krill said that the concern hoped to start work on the structure early in May. Town Attorney Lawrence E. Keenan told him that it would be unlikely that the zoning board would give its decision before early next month. He explained that the board would have to notify all residents in the vicinity of a hearing on the zone change and then make their report and recommendation to the town board.

It is tentatively planned to erect four stores, two on each side of the entrance to the alleys. The building, Krill said, would be sound-proof with the alleys running north and south. Krill said that there would be no windows in the building, while Casperson said that the alleys would have a cinder bed which would tend to deaden the noise. The noise question was raised by both Commissioners King and Clark.

Want a Tavern License

In the blueprints shown to the board, which were drawn by Henry G. Greene, New York architect, provisions were made for a tavern. Mayor Williams explained that the town would not issue any additional tavern licenses and that the corporations would only hope of securing one by purchasing it from one of the present license holders. One of the present license holders explained that the tavern part would be entirely separate from the bowling alleys. He also plans to operate a lunchette and soda fountain.

The building would be constructed of brick, Krill said that it was planned to make the front most attractive with modern fronts to each of the stores which will be erected.

The property is on the west side of Washington avenue, between Little street and Overlook avenue, opposite the Herdman Motor Co.

Following the ratification of the property sale by the board, Mayor Williams commented that he felt that a bowling alley was something for which there is a place in town and expressed himself as surprised that no one had previously applied. Commissioner Noll said that several men had looked into the matter, one of them thinking about opening an alley in the old Sears, Roebuck & Co. store which now houses the Belleville Motors, Oldsmobile dealers.

WOMEN TO SING NEW COMPOSITION

Love Song By Reuel Lahmer To Be Featured On Program May 6

Reuel Lahmer of New York, director of the Woman's Club Choral Concert which will be given on May 6 in School No. 10 auditorium, devotes the major portion of his time to the direction of choral societies and to the composition of musical selections appropriate for their use. Four such compositions of his will shortly be published. "Down in the Valley" is the one which he has written for the Belleville Women's group and it will be presented by them as one of the highlights of their program. Although the music is entirely new, Lahmer has used in the lyrics of this love song some of the words of a brief American folksong of the same title. John Meade, guest artist, will be the baritone soloist with the choral in his number.

Lahmer's studies in the music departments of Stetson, Columbia and Princeton Universities and the New American School of Music have eminently fitted him for the profession he follows. His choral work, composing and teaching are supplemented by work with the Henry Street Settlement Music School in New York where he has been commissioned to write selections for the orchestra and choral departments. On Tuesday, Mr. Lahmer will direct the Choral Group of the Basking Ridge Woman's Club in recital.

Japanese Cherry Trees In Blossom April 27

Park Commission Says They Will Be in Bloom In County Park Extension If Weather Continues; Some Ceremony May Be Arranged

It will soon be cherry blossom time in Belleville. This week's warm sun has brought life to the hundreds of Japanese cherry trees ranging along the banks of the Second River in the Branch Brook Park Extension. K. V. C. Wallace, secretary of the Essex County Park Commission, made the prediction yesterday that the trees would blossom forth in their fullest by Sunday, April 27. This hinges on a continuation of present weather conditions. Should there be a sudden change back to cold weather, it is improbable that the trees will be in full bloom before the first or second week in May.

The Park Commission expects that the trees will blossom more fully this year than they have at any time in the past. There are a total of 1,800 trees which were presented to the Essex County Park Commission thirteen years ago by Mrs. Felix Fuld, sister of Louis Bamberger. They have been bred and cultivated by the horticultural department of the Park Commission under the supervision of Carl P. Witte, the director.

Only 180 trees were set out the first year but starting in 1923 the commission's workers started a wholesale planting of the trees all along the Belleville extension of the big park. The youngest trees are those along the edge of the river between Union and Washington avenues. They have not reached maturity as yet and are not expected to bloom fully this year.

Work For Police

Cherry blossom time means a week or two of heavy duty work for both the local police department and the Essex County Park forces. One Sunday while the trees were in blossom last year, police estimated that more than 25,000 cars drove through the park and that more than 100,000 people on foot or in cars saw the trees.

Mayor Williams is hopeful that some sort of a ceremony can be arranged with the park commissioners that will fittingly open the blossoming of the trees, which he expresses as being the official sign of the arrival of spring and summer in Belleville.

APPROVAL GIVEN FOR BLACKOUT

Board Willing To Have Lights Darkened During Newark Test

Permission was given by the Town Commission Tuesday night for the darkening of some of the local street lights during the "test" blackout which will be held in Newark some time early in May. Public Safety Director Clark, who recommended the approval of the plan, told the board that there is an inter-connection between some of the Public Service circuits serving the northern part of Newark and the southern section of Belleville.

Battalion Chief William Dunleavy, who investigated for the commissioner, reported that the majority of the lights are in the Silver Lake section. He said that less than one-third of the town's street lights would be affected and that the blackout would be for about fifteen minutes. He said this is less time for the streets to be darkened than during many of the electrical storms which do damage to the lighting system during the summer season.

PETREANS URGE QUICK ACTION ON BUS BILL

Catholic Organization Calls Upon Assembly Committee To Act

The Petrean Club, an organization affiliated with St. Peter's Church, passed a resolution on Tuesday night in which it urged that the parochial school bus bill be released from the Assembly committee on education so that it may be given a public hearing and acted upon by the Assembly. A copy was sent to Mrs. Olive C. Sanford of Nutley, chairman of the Assembly's education committee, and to all other members of the House.

The strongly-worded resolution stated that there is no valid reason to oppose the bill and that it should be released immediately by the committee for action. Content of some of those opposing passage of the measure which was sponsored by Senator T. Grant Scott, is that the measure is loosely-drawn. The bill was passed several weeks ago by an eighteen-to-one vote in the Senate.

The resolution was drawn up and presented by the members of the executive board of the Petrean Club. They included William J. Brady, Thomas F. Dowd, Marion E. Flanagan, Philomena Carraher, Gertrude M. Kinnealy, Grace Kaiser, G. E. Howley, Leo J. McClintock, William F. Connolly and Doris Hanly.

It stated as follows:

"Whereas, on March 10, 1941, a bill to permit boards of education to furnish transportation for pupils attending schools other than public schools, except such schools as are operated for a profit in whole or in part, was introduced to the Senate by Majority Leader Driscoll, for the president of the Senate, I. Grant Scott, which said bill is now known as 'Senate 152,' and

"Whereas, on March 10, 1941 this bill was referred by the president of the Senate to the Miscellaneous Business Committee, of which Senator Foran is chairman, and

"Whereas, on March 24, 1941 this bill was released from committee with approval, and passed the same day by the Senate, and

"Whereas, on March 31, 1941 this bill was received in the House of the Assembly, and was referred by the Speaker, Roscoe P. McClave, to the Committee on Education, which committee comprises Assemblywoman Olive Sanford, of Essex County, chairman, Assemblyman Clarence W. Beers, of Warren County, Assemblyman A. Matlack Stackhouse, of Burlington, Assemblyman Joseph W. Cowgill, of Camden County, and Assemblywoman Mattie Doremus, of Passaic County, and

"Whereas, said Education Committee has failed to report the bill out.

"Now therefore be it resolved that it is the sense of the Petrean Club of Belleville that said bill is for the best interests of not only the school children of the State of New Jersey, but also for the best interests of all citizens of our state; that there is no valid reason to oppose or block said bill; and that the same should be released by the Committee on Education immediately in order that the Assembly may take action thereon.

"Be it further resolved that copies of the within resolution be forwarded to each member of the House of Assembly so that he may be cognizant of the views of this organization."

LADY SKIPPER IS WANTED

Girl Scouts Are Interested In Learning About Sea Life

Is there a local woman who knows and loves the sea? If there is the Girl Scout organization would like to get in touch with her because they have a large group of young girls who are interested in ships and want to learn about them. Taking a page out of the book of their Sea Scout brothers, the girls are meeting each week at the fire house in Washington avenue.

Temporarily they are being drilled by Skipper Alvin Brant of the Sea Scout ship but they want a skipper who they can call their own and that's the reason the town is being combed for a woman who will help and teach them.

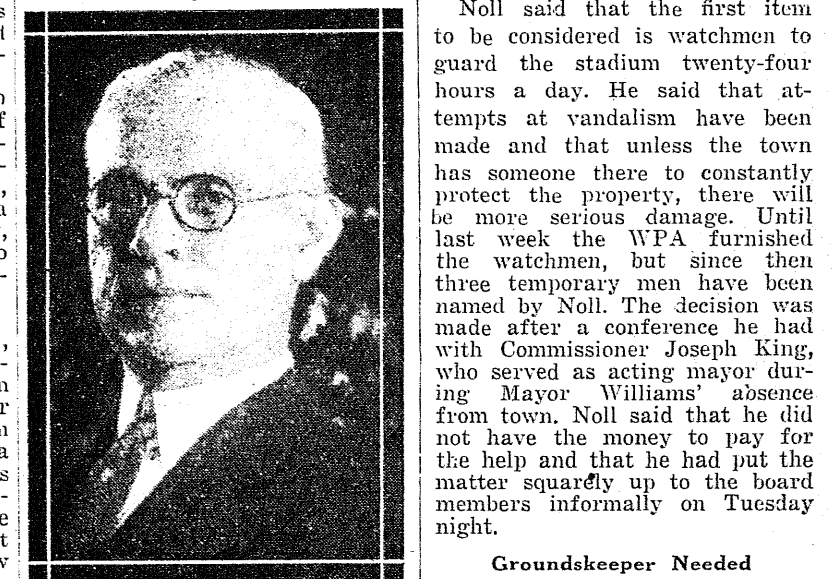

The young girls have been given use of all of the Sea Scout equipment and are under the supervision of the same committee which has sponsored the boys' program. The work is in charge of a group of police and firemen under the supervision of Fire Chief Alex Reid and Police Lieutenant Ken Smith. The committee met Monday evening to discuss plans for the girls. Also attending were Ernest Alden, Mrs. Elmer Hyde and Girl Scout Commissioner Mary T. Holden.

The members of Troop 13 under the leadership of Mrs. Holden travelled to the Girl Scout Cabin in the South Mountain Reservation on Monday and spent the day in the woods hand and laying trails. The girls had lots of fun cooking their lunch over an open fire and returned home late in the afternoon.

Stadium Maintenance Is Due For An Airing Before Town Board

Noll Is Temporarily In Charge; Says Three Watchmen Are Needed To Guard It

The Turf Bog Stadium continues to be the town's "hot potato" which nobody wants to handle. Temporarily, the stadium is in the hands of Commissioner Louis A. Noll but from his comments this week the parks and recreation director does not intend to take charge of it unless the commissioner's appropriate money for the maintenance and upkeep of the stadium. Noll indicated that he intended to put the case before the board at their meeting next Tuesday night. Since no funds were appropriated for the stadium in the budget, if the commissioners do decide to allocate some money, it will be necessary to pass an emergency appropriation.

PUPILS STUDYING ABOUT BANKING

School No. 5 Students Hear Talks And See Motion Pictures

No one will put it over on the seventh and eighth grade students in School No. 5 when it comes to money. They have been studying "Interest and Banking" under the supervision of their teacher Mrs. Aline J. Hall and they have received some first hand information on money, banking practices and counterfeit money. Right now they are busy studying "Money and Investment" but to the youngsters the most interesting part of their study to date has been the part about counterfeit money.

Two films, "Bureau of Printing and Engraving," which deals with the manufacture of paper money at the government plant in Washington, and "Know Your Money," an educational film produced to illustrate the dangers and practices of counterfeiters were loaned to the school by the Newark office of the United States Secret Service.

Both the Peoples National Bank and the First National Bank have given assistance through furnishing the class with bank forms, deposit slips, promissory notes and other forms which would give the pupils an idea how the bank functions.

Frank J. MacFadden, cashier of the Peoples Bank, talked to the classes on "Banks and What They Do." Poems, essays and stories have been written by the students to illustrate what they have learned during the course.

Look at the FORD TRUCKS ON MAIN STREET!

IN VILLAGE, town, and big city—on farms and on the highways . . . wherever you look, you see Ford Trucks at work. There are more Ford Trucks at work on the nation's hauling jobs than trucks of any other make!

There are definite reasons why. Truck owners want a truck with the power, performance and dependability that Ford Trucks deliver. They want economy that starts with low first cost and continues with low operating and low maintenance cost. In Ford Trucks they get what they want!

It's no wonder Ford Trucks are as popular on Main Street as on Broadway! And they'll add to their popularity once you try them on your job. See your Ford Dealer today.

Passaic Avenue Pupils Working Hard For Red Cross

The Junior Red Cross of the Passaic Avenue School is enthusiastic in the carrying out of work and earning money to purchase yarn for its latest project, that of making afghans. Four have been completed since March under the direction of Miss Ruth Robertson.

The first was made from odds and ends of old yarn donated by boys and girls throughout the school. Used garments were washed, ripped and the yarn made usable by stretching. Fine yarn was used by putting two or three strands together. Four experienced knitters helped the mothers and grandmothers of fifty-seven others to learn to knit.

Three members of the school's basketball team, which recently won the championship, are among the most zealous workers and two of the boy knitters are over six feet tall.

A tea dance in the school play room originally planned for pupils of grades six, seven and eight, grew into two dances with the younger children from grades one to five swelling the fund to twelve dollars.

The title of "Speediest Knitters" has been won by Nan Anderson and Norma Sorge while the honors for neatness go to Paul Hochstuhel.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Why does a Golf Ball bounce?

EVER notice that a golf ball, when you drop it, bounces higher than something hollow, like a tennis ball? Know why? It's partly because of internal pressures, which also have so much to do with Buick's extra FIREBALL power. Rubber threads inside a golf ball are packed tight, highly compressed. When flattened against a hard object they come back harder, with more push, and so the ball bounces higher. A similar thing happens inside a Buick FIREBALL straight-eight cylinder. Fuel compression pressures — which are even more important than compression ratios — are higher here than in any other standard-production automobile engine. So when the spark jumps in the tightly-packed, fuel-fat ball of gas-mixture at the top of the stroke — the Buick piston goes rushing down with more push, more shove, more power than the same amount of fuel gives up elsewhere. What that means is pretty important if you go for life and action and real competence in your cars. It's important if you're interested in thrift — for every Buick engine travels farther per gallon this year than the same-size engines did last year, while Compound Carburetion† with Buick FIREBALL design gives as much as 10% to 15% more miles per gallon. In fact, if you're buying any car this year, it's pretty important to see and drive a Buick before you're through; it's Number One in smart engineering as well as Number One in solid, rock-bottom, all-round VALUE!

Laurence Torley Talks About Dogs

Although the breeding of pure-bred dogs has made large contributions to the national welfare by creating jobs, those who hope to breed only the finest show specimens cannot hope for big profits. In fact, they often will have losses. In any of the 109 breeds recognized as pure-bred by the American Kennel Club, one breeder searching for the ultimate best seldom wants to handicap that quest by selling the good ones to wipe out deficits.

It sometimes happens, also, that a breeder will have a litter containing several puppies which give promise of developing adult quality. He may have many of these youngsters, and while he wants to retain only one, it is difficult to make a selection. Such a choice, over the most experienced is guesswork. After the dogs are matured, the choice is obvious, but by that time he has several grown specimens and no market for them. Because of that, some breeders are forced to sell grown dogs at sacrifice prices which do not cover the actual costs of breeding and raising the litter. Other kennels keep these "extras" as pets or give them away to friends and relatives.

The Actual Facts

Those outside the sport often imagine that to breed a champion one merely has to mate two champions. In actual fact, many champions are produced by sires and dams that never have been exhibited. Indeed, in "selective breeding" a breeder may count on taking several generations to produce the quality specimens that represent his ideal interpretation of the breed standard as specified by the AKC. Such a breeder, working with males and females of no show reputation, has not even a market for his puppies until he has reached his ultimate goal.

Few real dog breeders think of profits in connection with their dogs. They are content if they can break even. Incidentally, they could lose just as much money in many other ways. Dogs may not bring riches, but they offer a big return in loyalty.

Wise Action In Banning Carnival

One of the chief functions of the Town Commission is to make an effort to uphold the standards of the community. Last week the commissioners rejected an application for a carnival and we feel that they should be commended for their action. Not that the profit which may have been derived from such an affair might not have been put to a worthwhile cause for it was to be sponsored by the American Legion, but we think that carnivals are something which Belleville can well do without.

Looking back over a few years, many folks will recall the walkathon which went on for a number of months in what is now known as the Riviera Park skating rink. Outside of some unfortunate notoriety in the press and headaches for the police department, few people in Belleville derived any benefit from it unless it was personal profit. Most communities in this section have banned carnivals and their like permanently because each time they found that they were a nuisance. The carnival itself is not an unsatisfactory attraction but with every such outfit that rolls into town there seems to be a certain number of undesirables who cause trouble.

There is also a vast difference today from a good and bad circus. Some of the one-ring shows with a toothless lion and half a dozen other aged animals cannot be rightfully called circuses. Many of the circuses and carnivals are a far cry from those which used to set every youngster's heart throbbing the moment that the sign man appeared in town with his paste brush and pot to slap up the three sheets announcing the big day.

Can Be A Valuable Adjunct

Periodically the Turf Bog Stadium project is hauled out of the mothballs to be talked about and then fades completely out of the picture without anybody doing much about it. From time to time we have spoken our piece about it, always wondering if some person will ask us when we will call a halt and talk about something else. However, we ride past the big stadium several times each week and it annoys us to see such a big community project lying dormant without anybody doing much about it.

If we can judge by the talk that is going on, the stadium is about to pop out of the box again. As yet, the project is the baby of the entire Board of Commissioners and it is yet to be decided who will take charge of it. The Board of Education has still to say definitely that its various teams will use it.

Most important of the questions to be settled is how much it will cost to maintain the plant and from what source the money will be secured. Several months ago we commented that based on the experiences of other towns which have similar stadiums, the maintenance would be no small item. Public Works Director Waters had a plan which might have worked if he had the opportunity to try it out.

He proposed to erect a swimming pool and charge a small admission fee. The commissioner said he believed that the revenue from this source would not only pay for the upkeep of the pool but also for the stadium, tennis courts and other play facilities which were planned for the area.

Because of the gradual curtailment of WPA activities, Waters' plan apparently will not materialize and the town will be forced to look elsewhere for revenue to help pay for the upkeep. The answer to this is to get enough paying activities in baseball and football. A semi-pro baseball nine is anxious to use the field and it is probable that a similar arrangement could be worked with some football team. If the high school games, both baseball and football, were played there, and a percentage of the proceeds went for maintenance, this would also help matters.

The town now has the stadium. It should be an asset and not a liability. It should be the community play center not only for the recreation department but all other teams that could be fitted into the schedule. There is an investment of more than $50,000 in local funds and several hundred thousand dollars in Federal funds. It should not be permitted to go to waste or deteriorate for the lack of proper management and maintenance.

With business-like direction and a settlement of some of the petty differences over who is to control it, the Turf Bog Stadium can be a valuable adjunct to Belleville's community life.

Keeping Priority Control In Check

One of the big problems facing the government's recently formed Office of Production Management, generally known as OPM under the direction of William Knudsen, is smoothly mobilizing labor and the flow of materials to industry so that thousands of workers employed in non-defense work will not be thrown out of work. It is true that the millions being spent for defense materials and equipment for England have given new or better jobs to thousands. Defense or not, most of the country must still eat, sleep and get about.

There has been a big tie-up in many businesses because of their inability to get materials. Even among those industries working on defense orders, they have been forced to slow up because of the lack of materials and supplies with which to do the work.

The priority control system has been put into effect under which the OPM can tell who is going to get certain materials and who is not. One of the first to be hit by it has been the aluminum industry which means that the average housewife who has been accustomed to using aluminum pots and kettles in the kitchen will have to get used to using something else. Whether or not she cooks in aluminum, iron or enamel pots is not vitally important to the future of the nation, but the main point is that by the application of priority control it is possible that thousands of people will be thrown out of jobs in plants producing for civilian use only.

Industry and business are as much worried about the priority control system as they have been in the past about some of the New Deal measures. Sacrifices must be made as the part which this country is playing in the world mess becomes more important. However, the wheels that produce the livelihood for hundreds of thousands of necessities for many cannot be halted entirely because of the defense program. The rough spots which are causing the snags and the bottlenecks must be smoothed out.

The people of this nation are ready to make sacrifices but they should not make any more than are absolutely necessary.

Proof of The Value of The CCC

One of the values of the Civilian Conservation Corps was brought to light in last week's issue of The News. It was a local angle so that each of us understands it better or at least appears more interested. When it was first started, the CCC was regarded as a means of giving employment to thousands of the country's young men so that they would be taken off the streets and also provide some money for their families who were in need.

The work that has been accomplished by the CCC in various parts of the country is well known and is easily recognized by visiting one of the state or national parks in this area. But more important than any of these things is that the CCC gave young boys an opportunity to learn, helped them to "find" themselves and develop interests and abilities which would be of value to them once they stepped out into private life. The case of George Prezioso, which is one which the welfare department officials enjoy relating, is an excellent example. Here is a young man who was destined to wander aimlessly. He had the natural potentialities to make a good worker but he needed help. The CCC gave him that opportunity. George not only made a splendid record during the enlistments he served there but he has proven a credit to himself since he left there. He is now in the United States Army and undoubtedly more will be heard of his work.

If the CCC does nothing more than set young men on the right track so that they become good citizens and a credit not only to themselves but their families and their communities, it is money well spent.

Called

The Community Service Bureau From The Inside

Can young married people expect to "start fresh" when they set up housekeeping? Mrs. Julia O. Reiner of the Community Service Bureau says "no." One of the reasons why so many couples come to the Community Service Bureau office for help in solving marital difficulties is that their early experiences in their separate homes make it difficult for them to get along with each other. They bring certain emotional feelings and prejudices from their old homes into their married life.

Basing her opinion on her many years of personal experience in helping married couples find a solution to their problems and on that of other case workers on the staff of the Community Service Bureau, Mrs. Reiner declares that faulty attitudes toward married life are a major cause of separation and divorce.

Expect To Start Fresh

"Attitudes are habitual ways of looking at life experience, of sizing up people," Mrs. Reiner says. "Case workers on our staff who are in contact with young married people often find that one of the hard things about early married life is this—that young people, when they marry, hope and expect to start fresh. But they cannot wholly start fresh. They cannot, because each brings to the new home feelings or attitudes about people that are a carry-over from former relationships and old associations. The feeling toward the new home has its roots in the past—in each person's experience with his or her own mother and father, brothers and sisters."

"Take, for example, a young married woman whose experiences with men have been pleasant. 'Her father, or the man closest to her, perhaps her grandfather or an uncle, have been affectionate, generous, kind and industrious. She has reason to feel that men in general are friendly persons, and she in turn will be likely to be kind and tolerant toward her new husband. She will be inclined to see his behavior in a favorable light. She will expect that he too will do well, and if he fails will be forgiving."

"On the other hand, if the situation is reversed, and early experiences with men have been disappointing, we may see a woman who habitually looks for the worst. She is convinced that her cloud has no silver lining. Without being aware of what she is doing, by her attitudes she may even provoke her husband into unkind behavior. She has always thought of men as abusive and of herself as abused, and it is easier to carry on this pattern than to see that it is her own unconscious wish to be a martyr wife."

Independent or Helpless

"The same idea applies to a man. If he was pampered and waited upon, he may expect of his wife what he received of his mother and sisters. However, if he stood on his own feet, and had a sensible and affectionate family relationship he will probably carry over to his wife considerate and helpful attitudes."

"Either a man or a woman may have attitudes toward domination of the other that are brought ready-made to their marriage. A woman whose mother was domineering, a man whose father was 'bossy', will not be likely to tolerate a marriage with a person who is also domineering. A woman whose father was a drunkard may fear that her husband will become one, and is apt to exaggerate any tendency of his to drink and see him as inevitably on the road to ruin."

"One thing we have found is this," Mrs. Reiner said. "Attitudes of others are not changed by lectures, and not often changed by advice. Sometimes attitudes cannot be changed at all, and homes break up or are continued under a sort of an 'armed truce'. Sometimes, fortunately, we are able to help people see that their marriages are being wrecked because of difficulties which can be understood and therefore controlled. It takes time because people usually hate to admit their own faults, even to themselves, but it works often enough to make us feel that we are being of real service to the families who come to the Community Service Bureau for help," Mrs. Reiner says.

While the Community Service Bureau, 338 Washington avenue, is not a "marital relations clinic" any family from the community may talk over their difficulties with a member of the case work staff of the organization, according to Halley F. Hickok, president of the organization.

White Rabbit Attraction In Third Grade Class

The third grade class of Miss Pauline Shapiro at School No. 4 has not been the same since two of the youngsters brought a white rabbit to school. The bunny hops around the classroom where he has a box for his resting place, in one corner of the room. He is well supplied with carrots and lettuce and other odds and ends of vegetables. He had a companion "Flossie" for one day but she has since been taken home by her youthful owner.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

by Meador Wright

History is repeating itself in Newark with unusual fidelity. All that is missing are Colonel William H. Kelly and the late William H. Seely. If these two men were still leading their respective groups, a visitor would have to rub his eyes to make sure he was not back in the days of 1937. Of the Citizen's ticket of that year, Joseph M. Byrne and William M. Untermann are on the so-called Fusion ticket of this year. Charles P. McCann of the 1937 Fusion group is mentioned as a candidate on the Clean Government ticket this year. Ernest A. Reed was a candidate then but is a leader now. Anthony Giuliano is scheduled to run in the place of the late Thermistocles Mancusi-Ungaro. Clee is said to have a place on the new ticket, but pressure is still being put on him to run.

Why Byrne filled his ticket with four Democrats is a mystery that defies analysis. One Republican would have served to keep the Clean Government organization in line. It would have given his ticket a non-partisan complexion that would have added much to its strength. Four years ago Clean Government entered its Fusion ticket to head off the organization Democratic ticket entered by Kelly. This move resulted in the defeat of all members of that ticket except

Will Surely Go Back

Byrne must have known that a solid Democratic slate this year would tempt Clean Government to pursue the same strategy it followed four years ago. This in turn means that Ellenstein, Franklin and Company will go back just as surely as the sun rises. Byrne certainly doesn't want this to happen, so why then did he take the very course most likely to bring it about? There is no answer from this column.

Even if a Clean Government ticket doesn't materialize, the Fusion idea is as dead as a dodo. Byrne has a bracket, nothing more. Republicans will vote for other candidates where they vote at all. Frank Hague's name will be heard in this election as it was in 1937. Byrne's ticket will be dubbed the Hague ticket and Ellenstein can smile as broadly as he pleases. The election has been handed him on a silver platter.

Newark doesn't have the spotlight alone this year. South Orange has the first real contest in decades. Ten years ago there was the semblance of a scrap when an opposition ticket was entered against that of the Citizens' Party League, but it was defeated by some three to one. This year George D. Hofe, who got the nomination for village president, is being opposed by Spencer Miller, Jr., now a member of the Village Board of Trustees. It looks like a real scrap with the outcome very much in doubt.

Not much time remains for campaigning since the election

DAVID HOLTON'S

DAVID Holton of Terre Haute is a fellow who likes his ice cream. He will travel for miles to get a good plate of ice cream, and has done so on more than one occasion. Once, a good many years ago, while traveling up-State New York, he dropped into a little store at Chester and had a dish-ful of ice cream that made him go back there year after year, until last year when he discovered that the place had been closed. He met Mr. Holton of Terre Haute at the Alderney Milk
Barn, Route 10, Morris Plains, last Sunday. He discovered the popular Alderney refreshment center last August. Since, he has been there half a dozen times.
"This is real ice cream," he said between spoonfuls of rich Alderney vanilla. "I've told all my traveling friends about the Alderney barn, and make it a stop whenever I'm fifty miles close to it. I learned to like ice cream when I was a patient in an Indiana hospital when I was nine years old. I practically lived on it. I can still make a meal of it, and very often do." Mr. Holton likes milk, too, and Alderney Brook-lawn Guernsey particularly. "I wish the Alderney people would start a branch in Terre Haute!"
he said.

A T Pals Cabin, West Orange,
we met a champion steak-eater in Anson Kiever, a Newark, who takes his steak in double portions. He has never figured out just how much beef
he has consumed, but at the rate of six steaks a week (his average) he admits he has been a good contributor to stockyards wholesale butchers and owners of eating emporiums specializing in steaks. Of these, Pals is his favorite.

WE never tire traveling by De Camp Bus Lines because of the spaciousness of the seating arrangements, the even hot weather ventilation, and the general pleasantness of the DeCamp operators, who know most of their passengers by name, and always have a friendly word for them.
In a world that is always on the rush, it is nice to ride a modern bus line whose employees have not forgotten how to be civil.

THE Four Blues, singing and playing nightly at The Well, West Caldwell, have struck a high mark in popularity there as the growing crowds attest. These four colored entertainers have a full library of exciting specialties with their own orchestras that have made The Well one of the most popular stopping-off places on the New York-New Jersey amusement world, and Mr. Bo-wyder must be complimented for his enterprising selection of talent.

CREST Drive-In, at top South Orange avenue, South Orange, gains new friends and boosters
every week, with the Easter crowd an all-time high in attendance since the opening a few months back. Before fine foods, delightful refreshments and served by intelligent and attractive girls, the Crest is a very satisfactory stop alone or with the family.

TWIN Cedars and food are synonymous, for the chef there knows what it's all about, having served on the Queen of Bermuda and other famous travel ships, and his tid-bits have been giving great epicurean joy to Cedars patrons. Food is served at all hours of the day and night, and on Sunday the cocktail hour — with music and hot snacks, of course — has become quite an event. —Ad-

The Woman's Desk

by PEGGY PATTERSON

Although the Easter parades and the general joshings of the male sex on the subject of women's hats does not indicate it, the millinery industry is even now earnestly contriving ways of increasing sales. The trade has gone so far as to enlist the aid of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor, according to recent report. One aspect of the industry which is seldom exposed to the general public is the unstable employment afforded by it to the people engaged in the manufacture of hats. Only a few of them can be kept at work for even a portion of the year due to the great seasonal demand and the corresponding slumps. Another feature seldom considered by the purchaser is the great loss taken by the retailer when a certain type of hat is unsuccessful or when its popularity wanes quickly.

There are the serious considerations now before the greatest investors in this perishable industry. They have concluded that only by enlisting the aid of the purchaser can the market be made sufficiently stable; and they have calculated that the sale of four hats a year to business and professional women and two a year to homemakers would markedly increase the present business.

Although the manufacturers have laid out the quota of hats which they should buy they have not settled down upon them after the first year of American designing. They all refer to the "wearability" of strictly American clothes and yet choose for pictorialization and display only the most extreme conceptions.

Pocketbooks Determine

Evidently, in millinery especially, the trade is leery of making articles which might be so wearable and uniformly becoming that their life span would increase. If they would investigate and find how deep is the conviction of most women purchasers that a new dress or hat is the answer to a slump in morale, they would know that women will buy new clothes as frequently as their pocketbooks allow no matter how serviceable are the wardrobes still hanging in their closets.

In other words we feel that American designers still have a long period of exploration ahead of them before they will be able to evolve the typical costumes which will enhance the appearance of the normal woman, not the high priced model, and still have sufficient verve to create a demand which will automatically balance the merchandising trade. It is a disappointment to peruse the magazines and find that the bewitching faces of the young

'Treasure Island' Is Subject For Youngsters' Painting

Robert Louis Stevenson's immortal tale "Treasure Island" is providing the material for an art project by the sixth grade literature pupils at School No. 4.
