

Camera Glimpses Of Scouts' Weekend In Municipal Stadium

STEPPING OUT OF THE PAGES of the Boy Scout Handbook the hundred and one things that young boys learn to do were put into action by more than 200 Scouts and Cubs under the leadership of their leaders in the Camporee of the local district held over the weekend at the new Municipal Stadium.

Brightening up the Stadium's green turf with their khaki-colored tents and brightly colored troop and patrol flags, the Scouts swarmed over the big field from late Friday afternoon until mid-morning Sunday. Every phase of their program was carried out during the three-day encampment in which troops and patrols were given awards for their work.

If an emergency had arisen the Sea Scouts of Troop Ship 303 were ready for action. Fifteen-year-old Doug Sharp is shown at the key of his thirteen-and-a-half-watt portable transmitter W2NLL-2 taking a message from First Mate Marcus Wager. Several stations were "worked" from the encampment.

The moving of the colors by Scouts and Cubs from every troop was an important part of the stadium dedication ceremonies on Saturday afternoon. Boys representing each troop with their color guards participated.

While not an official part of the Camporee, the barbecuing of a 125-pound pig for the Scouters' conference on Saturday night attracted lots of attention. Slow-cooked over a fire for twenty-four hours under the supervision of John Charlton, the pig was done to a luscious brown by the time the scout officials were ready to sink their teeth into the "porker."

Belwood Park Dispute Back To The Court For Another Round

Board Heeds Property Owners; Have Lost Two Verdicts In Similar Cases

A battle-scarred veteran of Supreme Court encounters—and a K.O. victim in previous legal bouts—the Belwood Park Zone case will go back to the Court for another round.

Acting on the pleas of residents in the area, the Town Commission minus Commissioner Noll voted unanimously Tuesday night to refuse to concur in the recommendation of the Zoning Board of Adjustment that an extension of business zone for a twenty-foot strip owned by John Bianchi of Montclair at Belleville and Smallwood avenues be granted.

Immediately after the board's vote, Edward J. Abramson, counsel for Bianchi, who had pleaded with the board not to oppose the zone board's ruling, announced that he would go to the Supreme Court to seek a reversal of the Commission's ruling.

Twice in the past the town has lost battles over property in that section. In March last year the Court reversed the board's ruling on the request of Bianchi for a zone change at 729 Belleville avenue. A restaurant was then

'Do Anything' Offer of H. S. Boys, Girls

Earl Seibert, high school guidance director, has a "do anything" file at the high school which is filled with the names of more than 100 boys and girls offering to take odds and ends of work for the summer months.

Some offer to mind children, do housework, store work, mowing lawns, repairing, etc.

Townpeople who desire part or full-time workers for July and August should call Seibert at Belleville 2-4470 during the coming week.

Everyman's Bible Class Visits Montclair Sunday

Everyman's Bible Class of Belleville will visit Everyman's Bible Class of Montclair Sunday morning at the Montclair Y.M.C.A. on Park street in that city. The class opens at 9:30 and will be addressed by Dr. Frank A. Hunger, pastor of Grace Presbyterian Church of Montclair. Dr. Hunger addressed the Civic Rally conducted by the local Bible Class in April.

Members desiring to attend who have not already made arrangements to do so should get in touch with Red Army General Frank Reilly at Belleville 2-2107-R and Blue Army General Joseph Zipp at Belleville 2-5542-J.

LOCAL USO DRIVE TO START SOON; $4,500 QUOTA

Mayor To Call Civic Leaders For Meeting; Aids Those In Army

Belleville is joining in the nation-wide United Service Organization campaign to raise $10,765,000 to be used to provide recreational facilities for the men in the armed forces.

The town's quota will be $4,500. Mayor Williams said last night. He announced that within the next few days he would call upon civic leaders and representatives of various organizations to take a lead in planning for local participation in the USO campaign. The drive which has been officially scheduled to close on July 4 has already started in several nearby communities. Montclair's goal is $11,500, Bloomfield's is $6,500 and Nutley's $3,800.

Thomas E. Dewey is the drive's national chairman. In his statement on the drive Dewey said: "The Government has a broad program to relieve the monotony of the essential routine in naval bases and Army camps. But I never saw an American boy who wanted to spend his whole life in a camp. When night comes at the end of a ten or twelve hour day, he has a right to a little private life. In camp, by and large, when he wants to leave the reservation, he has no place to go and nothing to do. That is unfair. Furthermore, it is unwise."

Participating Groups

Included in the participating organizations are the Young Men's Christian Association, the National Catholic Community Service, the Salvation Army, Young Women's Christian Association, Jewish Welfare Board and the National Travelers Aid Association.

Through its 360 service units scattered throughout the country near Army and Naval posts, the USO plans a program for the men in the armed forces which will include contact with the community, religious services, counsel and guidance, clubhouse accommodations, educational and cultural services, and transient aid.

The program has been worked out in close cooperation with Federal officials. The government will provide the buildings while the money to be raised, $10,765,000 for the first year, will operate the program.

Must Be 'Damn Powerful,' Healy Tells Rotarians

Radio Commentator Says Nation Should Be So Strong That No Country Would Bother Us; Predicts Syria Will Be Another Crete For English

Australian-born Captain Tim Healy, colorful New York radio figure, yesterday bombarded Belleville Rotary Clubmen with a hail of epithets and anecdotes, as he addressed them during their noon meeting at the Forest Hill Field Club.

With "Propaganda" his announced topic, the fast-talking Captain made no attempts to define what he called "this obvious subject." Instead, he claimed "it began with Adam and Eve, when the snake sold the little woman an apple," and went on to use it as a skeleton for a general mosaic of wartime prophecies and anecdotes.

One of the original Australian Anzacs in World War I, now an American citizen, he drew on past military experience to insist "the first and worst casualty in any war is truth — and what a death it dies!" His inference was that despite denials by even statesmen as prominent as Lord Halifax, England's new ambassador to the United States, the general public is not given all the facts concerning the present war.

"Why not?" he asked. "Why hold information back? We're going to pay the bill not just today and tomorrow, but for generations to come. So we might as well know what the rotten mess is all about, so we can see why we've got to stick with it until the whole thing is cleaned up, and the world's a fit place to live in again."

Must Be "Damn Powerful"

Healy described this country as "best prepared" in the world today, but held it must "make itself so damn powerful no other nation on earth will have the nerve to mess around with it."

He lashed out vehemently against radical elements in the nation, and classified defense strikers in these groups. "They wave the red flag, but it ought to be yellow," was his assertion. "Take those dirty yellow swine in California," he spat, "naming workers of the west coast North American Aviation plant. They ran squealing back to jobs they never should have left, the minute they thought they might have to go into the army."

As the Rotarians gave him their full attention, Healy went on to score inter-racial feeling between children in American schools, calling it "useless, foolish and asinine." He blamed foreign-born parents for keeping alive European loyalties, and said the time has come for us all to realize "we've got to be just plain Americans — not Italians and Germans and Negroes and Irishmen, but Americans."

"We, none of us, owe a thing to another flag. We've got a full-time job just being faithful to the Stars and Stripes," the adventurer from "down under" said. His bitterness against those guilty of lukewarm patriotism showed when he said of one foreign family, whose children were found fighting over Italian-Ethiopian military ventures: "They came over here because they couldn't stay in their own lousy country. But they haven't the guts to shake out their skirts and be good Yankees, any better than they were good anything else."

The Captain was optimistic in his estimate of war outcome, but

BIG ENROLLMENT FROM THIS TOWN FOR SWIM WEEK

More Than 700 Expected To Register Here For Campaign

More youngsters from Belleville will be splashing about in a pool during the Learn-to-Swim campaign sponsored by the Montclair Y.M.C.A. than will be enrolled from any other community in this area.

Upwards of 700 ten-year and older boys and girls are expected to be registered for the free lessons which will be given during Learn-to-Swim Week from June 23 to 30.

The officials in charge emphasize that there will be no charge for the youngsters to take the lessons. However, they must have written parental consent and must be examined for heart condition by the school physicians prior to being permitted to enter the swim class.

Local children will take their lessons at the Montclair Swimming Pool in Grove street, Upper Montclair, and at the Silver Lake Community Pool, according to Commissioner Raymond D. Shepard of Montclair, who is the general chairman.

The Mayor's committee met at the Town Hall last week and discussed the final arrangements for the local program, which is being sponsored by the Junior Red Cross under the chairmanship of Miss Eileen Lynch. Thomas C. Gryczka, principal of School No. 9 is chairman of the school committee, and other members of the Mayor's committee are Rev. Benedetto Pascale, L. C. Gates, Wilbo Winick, Miss Isabel Abbott, Edward Lister, Miss Vivian Kilpatrick and Frank Chambers.

SPECIAL POLICE FOR W. & T. PLANT

Another Industry Receives Permission To Patrol Own Property

Wallace & Tiernan has followed the action of two other local industries in asking the permission of the town to have employees sworn in as special policemen to do duty on the property.

Director of Public Safety Clark said the company was acting in line with the amount of defense orders that it has under contract. The board gave consent for the swearing in as policemen of Robert J. Fitzpatrick, Anthony Wirth, George Huband, James Seeley, Charles H. Beresford and Harold E. Bryant.

Previously, permission had been granted to the Westinghouse Co. and the Walter Kidde Co. to have employees patrol their properties armed as special policemen. Approval given recently for the Kidde plant permits the following employees to act as special officers: Joseph E. Stevens, Patrick Dunn, Sidney H. Salmon and John W. Feeney.

Measles Take Toll In The Schools

German measles continue to take their toll among the town's school youngsters.

Some of the children in the elementary schools will be kept out of the elementary school promotion exercises because of the measles while at least one student will be missing from the high school commencement for the same reason.

Those who have the measles are quarantined for seven days and those youngsters in the family who do not have it are quarantined for nine days to check the possible further spread of the disease.

According to the Health Department records, 150 cases have been reported during the first ten days of this month.

Belleville will practically demonstrate its loyalty to Old Glory on Saturday night when the Elks-sponsored annual Flag Day parade and exercises will be held.

Thousands are expected to line Washington avenue as the marchers led by members of the local lodge of Elks swing down the Avenue to the martial rhythms of numerous bands and drum and bugle corps that will accompany the host of organizations which have promised to participate.

Past County Commander of the American Legion, Richard D. Shannon will be the parade grand marshal with Otto Breunlich as assistant grand marshal and Jack Adams as the parade adjutant.

The parade will assemble at Greylock parkway and Washington avenue at 7. The marchers will come down Washington avenue, passing the reviewing stand at the Elks Club at Van Houten place and at the Town Hall will then swing up Belleville avenue to Hornblower avenue to Van Houten avenue and back to the Elks Club where it will disband.

Town Officials March

Mayor Williams, a past exalted ruler of the local Elks, will head the group of town commissioners and other municipal officials who will be in the line of march. The high school band and the police and fire departments will also be in the parade.

Walter C. Kelly, present exalted ruler of the Elks, heads the committee which is in charge of the program.

The Flag Day exercises at the Elks will follow the parade, and the public is invited to attend. It will be held in the Elks Auditorium. Alexander F. Ormsby, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Hudson County and dean of the John Marshall Law School, will be the principal speaker. Max Schwartz, representing the Belleville Lawyers' Club, will also speak. Mayor Williams will read the Flag service.

Exalted Ruler Kelly has urged that all residents participate in the services and that in addition they display the flag.

Named Camp Assistant

Robert Weiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weiss of 98 Milnor avenue has been appointed second assistant in handicraft by John Charlton, director of the work at Camp Mohican, Boy Scout summer camp at Blairs town.

Flag Day Proclamation

WHEREAS, the 14th day of June has been declared as National Flag Day, and

WHEREAS, Belleville will join with the nation in honoring its National Flag on that day, and

WHEREAS, the Flag of our Country symbolizes the ideals and principles upon which this great nation was founded and for which the citizens of the United States have fought,

I, therefore, as Mayor of the Town of Belleville, New Jersey, call upon the people of this Town to display the National Colors between sunrise and sunset of Flag Day at their homes and places of business, and I further urge them to participate in the Flag Day exercises which have been arranged for Saturday evening, June 14th at Elks Auditorium to commemorate the National Emblem which we all hold so dear.

admitted no one could say how long it would take before an end was reached. "It's mainly a matter of food. The nation that starves first loses," he claimed. At the same time he predicted "hard going" for Britain in Syria, saying this campaign will prove another fiasco like Crete.

"A trick, a trap, a pincer movement as sure as you and I are living," the speaker rapped, blaming a shortage of planes for the predicament of Empire troops there. The present plan of "industrial assistance" was reiterated as America's best contribution to an allied victory, and combat participation was characterized as "useless, since there is no place troops could be landed in Europe."

The possibility of Japanese interference against American efforts was called "pure poppycock." Healy said he did not believe the Orientals would even attempt to move into the Dutch East Indies, and that if they did it would be merely as a trial balloon. "If they faced the United States they'd never see day again," he held. He warned, however, that spies and undercover agents are functioning everywhere.

As an aside, the Captain told of last fall's rumored attempt to land German troops in England. "It's never been in the papers, but I know for a fact there were more than 27,000 German casualties," he claimed. The description told of oil being dumped in the English Channel by the Royal Navy, then being ignited to burn the Hun sea sleds to kindling, as they made their futile efforts.

The thirty-five minute talk ended with quotations of a prayer, used in St. Louis by all school children: "Thank God we all belong to the United States."

CHOCKFUL OF DRUG ARTICLES and sundries this Reed Cut Rate Drug Store at Washington avenue and Rutgers street opened this morning for business when Mayor Williams officiated at the official ceremonies. planned for the property. This same property is now the crux of the battle plus a twenty-foot strip east of the property on which the court ruled. Bianchi now wishes to erect a gasoline station there and seeks to use the additional twenty feet which is at present in a residential zone.

Cites 1940 Court Case

The Adjustment Board at its meeting on Thursday night, citing the court decision of March, 1940, voting unanimously with three members present to recommend that the zone be changed for Bianchi's proposed gasoline station. Previous to the Bianchi Supreme Court ruling, the Court of Errors and Appeals had ruled in 1929 in the Durkin Lumber Co. case, now known as the Bloomfield Lumber Co., had a right to continue using property at 731-33 Belleville avenue for business since the section is really industrial.

In pleading that the board should not force him to go to court again on behalf of his client, Attorney Abramson remarked, "the town has already spent $2,000 in court fees to prove to the Belwood Park people that the property is not residential, but residential and industrial."

When Town Attorney Lawrence E. Keenan was asked for his opinion of the town's chances in another court battle, the lawyer remarked that the Court would be greatly influenced by the findings in the Bianchi case of last year. "I am voting against it tonight," Commissioner Waters said, "to try and preserve the section."

"I am voting against it for another reason," Commissioner Clark commented. "There is a gasoline station on the Bloomfield side, then there's a lumber yard. Another gasoline station would create a dangerous hazard and in event of a fire would wipe out the entire neighborhood."

In stating that he was opposed, Commissioner King commented pessimistically that he did not think that the town stood a chance if the case went to court, but that the residents did not want the gas station.

Let Them Open Doors

"If the application is granted," the Mayor said, "we will soon be confronted with an application for a gas station on the north side. Let us not open the doors, let them (Supreme Court) open the door."

A petition signed by twenty-five residents in the vicinity of the property in question was submitted to the board and two residents, Philip Riede of 154 Smallwood avenue and Harry Ingram, Jr. also spoke.

The board ruled that it had no power to consider the application of Robert L. Lunsford of 715 Belleville avenue for a gasoline station. Last Thursday night the Adjustment Board had rejected Lunsford's application. He was represented by Thomas Markey of Bloomfield who argued that the arguments that held in the Bianchi case also applied to the Lunsford property. Lunsford has been one of the most active opponents against Bianchi.

STADIUM SEEN AS PLAY CENTRE

Mayor Feels All Recreation Activities Could Be Centred There

With the three-day convocation of more than 200 local boys' members of the town's Scout troops, as a setting, the Municipal Stadium was officially dedicated on Saturday afternoon in a half-hour ceremony with leading public officials participating.

Visualizing it as the eventual center for all the town's recreational activities, Mayor Williams, who has charge of the stadium, said the day may come when a recreation house suitable for all indoor games and events will be erected on the stadium property. He said that it may be possible that the present Recreation House located at Jorammon street, could be placed on the market and sold. With the aid of Federal funds obtained through WPA, plus the money received from the sale of the Jorammon street property, the town could build a new recreation building without expending any additional amount of the taxpayers' money. He said that he would present his suggestion to the Town Commission at its Tuesday night meeting.

While nothing official was done at Tuesday's session, the Mayor said that he had sent to each of his fellow commissioners a letter setting forth his views on the question.

Reviews Early History

The Mayor briefly reviewed the history of the stadium project, going back ten years when he stated the majority of the Town Commission wanted to buy the seven-acre or eighteen acres of land for $140,000. He said that he had strongly opposed the purchase plan and had told the board members that it could be acquired at foreclosure price in a short while. His advice was followed, the Mayor said, and shortly thereafter the town became the owner of the land, getting it for $9,600. Only $54,000 of town funds was spent in building the stadium and grading the property for its present uses, he said.

The Mayor also praised the work that Public Works Director Waters had done in cooperation with WPA in the numerous problems that the project presented. Belleville has something which is not surpassed in any community of similar size in Essex or Hudson Counties, Carl P. Malmstrom, supervisor for the WPA in the two counties, stated. Malmstrom had general supervision of the project and praised not only the cooperation given by the local men who had been employed on the stadium construction, but also the town officials.

The stadium was accepted for the youth of the town by Star Scout Ernest Reock, who was selected to receive the keys to the structure from Mayor Williams.

Rev. O. Bell Close, pastor of Fewsmith Presbyterian Church and actively interested in recreational work, spoke and commended those who had worked to put the stadium there. He said that he had personally been "a thorn in the side of men for the conversion of the turf bog into a field. Victor Schleicher, representative of Belleville Council No. 163 of the Junior Order of United America Mechanics, presented the Mayor with an American flag which will fly from atop the stadium. Other who spoke included Arnold Sorenson, Scout Executive of Robert Treat Council, and Herbert C. Schmutz, president of the Board of Education.

Flag Day

Flag Day, on June fourteenth, should be a timely opportunity, for showing nations how we stand in matters that concern our land. "Our country first," we proudly say, with every flag that's on display. "We're ready, if need be, to die to keep it flapping here on high."

If your car is not functioning properly, don't think it has "Spring Fever." More likely, it has "Winter Cold" that won't be shaken off until it has the necessary tonic — a tune-up and change of oil at Brisk's Gulf Service, Main and Rutgers Streets. Phone Belleville 2-4514.

Lots To Smile About

SMILING HAPPILY THIS WEEK are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Puckhaber of 56 Bell street who on Monday celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. A native of Bremen, Germany, he came to this country when sixteen for a visit and has been here ever since except for a two-month visit many years ago.

Golden Wedding Is Result Of 'Visit' From Germany

Henry Puckhaber Came for Short Time and Stayed; This Week He and Wife Observed Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary; Party Held Sunday

Sixty years ago a wide-eyed German youth of sixteen stepped off a boat into New York. He was to visit relatives in New York—perhaps stay for two years.

The two years stretched into thirty years, into romance and this week into a celebration of a golden wedding anniversary.

That's the story of seventy-five-year-old Henry Puckhaber of 56 Bell street who this week with his wife Katherine celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Officially, the half-century mark of their marriage fell on Monday but they celebrated it with their children, relatives and friends on Sunday.

Residents of this town for the past eighteen years, the Puckhabers originally lived in New York. He is a native of a suburb of Bremen, Germany, while Mrs. Puckhaber was born in New York seventy-two years ago.

Mr. Puckhaber's life in this country has been interrupted only once by a visit to his native Germany. Thirty years after he first arrived in New York he returned for a two-month visit.

As a youth he started as a grocery clerk in a store operated by his uncle, John Ruther, in the Greenwich Village section of Manhattan. Finally he bought his uncle out. From his long acquaintanceship with residents in the section, he became known as the "Greenwich Village Grocer."

Was National Manager

Twenty years ago he became manager of the National Grocery Co. store in Washington avenue and did not retire until eight years ago.

Mr. Puckhaber met his present wife in the winter of 1889 at a ball and they were married in 1891 at St. Luke's Lutheran Church in New York. Mrs. Puckhaber was also christened and her two daughters were christened and married there. The couple are still members of that church. Mr. Puckhaber having served as a member of the church board and an elder for forty years.

The Puckhabers have three children, Mrs. Harry Burrucker of Grynes Hill, Staten Island, and Mrs. Frank Burger of New York, and Edward H. Puckhaber of 66 Malone avenue this town.

Thirty-five were present on Sunday at the family party. In the group were relatives and friends, some of whom were present at the couple's wedding fifty years ago. Among them was John Puckhaber of Union City, the local man's brother, who was his best man. Mrs. Puckhaber's sister-in-law, Mrs. William Blume of Bogota, put on the grosgrain silk wedding dress of ashes of roses color which the Bell street woman wore at her wedding and showed it to the guests.

Rev. William Borchers, pastor of the Bethany Lutheran Church, also attended the party which was held in the garden and was followed by a buffet supper.

The couple's oldest daughter, Mrs. Burrucker, was unable to attend because of the illness of her husband so the couple journeyed to Staten Island on Monday for a family dinner party there.

Bandettes Give Concert At Nutley High

The High School Bandettes gave a concert Friday morning at the Nutley High School. Several swing tunes played by the orchestra were well received.

Hugh Kittle was master of ceremonies. Alice Griffin sang "Yes, My Darling Daughter" and "I Could Write a Book." Bob Kimball performed a comedy dance number to the tune of "Five O'Clock Whistle."

Saints And Sinners Party Had More Appeal for Noll

For the third straight time Commissioner Noll was among the missing at Tuesday night's Commission meeting.

The commissioner was attending the Saints' and Sinners' party in New York while the rest of the board was sweating over the Belwood Park zone dispute problem.

TONGUE LASHING GIVEN BY MAYOR

Williams Shuts Up Burns On Talk About Stadium Expenditures

Edward Burns of 31 Hill street, watchdog of the Town Commission and one of the leaders of the Belleville Property Owners' Association, was verbally slapped down by Mayor Williams at Tuesday's Commission conference for his remarks concerning the Belleville Municipal Stadium and statements which appeared in newspapers about the Mayor's suggestion that a recreation house be erected there.

The blow-up came when Burns, reading a clipping from a newspaper, remarked that "the stadium is a complete failure."

"That's your opinion," snapped back the Mayor.

Burns started to explain that there would be further expenditure of the taxpayers' money when the Mayor with the slam of his hand on the desk remarked, "The pivotal point of my remarks was that no new money should be spent. I suggested that if the present recreation house could be sold at the market price, that money plus what could be received from the Federal government would pay for a new building."

Burns blurted out something about "conniving" and Williams bolted up in his chair and shouted that he took decided exception to the remarks.

"I am not going to have you coming in here and inferring that any member of this board is doing conniving," Williams said, his face flushed.

"I am going to ask the Director of Public Safety to assign a policeman to these conferences in the future and if you cannot conduct yourself like a gentleman you will be put out."

Burns again attempted to interrupt but the Mayor continued. "This question is not before the board and you are not going to take up the time of this board with your unintelligent harangues. You're not representative of the public opinion of Belleville."

The Mayor finally asked Burns to sit down and he did, leaving the meeting a few moments later.

The Woman's Desk

by PEGGY PATTERSON

Perhaps time has dulled your enthusiasm for instructing your children in the art of gardening, perhaps alluring pictures of cherubic tots presiding over neat rows of flowers leave you quite untouched — except for a memory of grass-stained small garments, grimy knees and tears when the dreams of the young gardener have not materialized.

But now is the time, if possible, to be made of sterner stuff. Vacations are about to commence for children in the age bracket when some productive occupation is necessary if the summer is not to be wasted.

More than that, if other types of vacation must be relinquished as part of the general sacrifice we are called upon to make this year, this is an excellent opportunity to turn the interest of the family more deeply into its immediate surroundings. For the child this may well mean his first realization of the significance of the land. Posters calling our attention to defense matters and patriotism, paintings, textbook illustrations — all these — invariably leave an impression of rolling fields, towering trees and pensive harvests which identifies itself in the child's mind with his native land.

This hazy panorama is not enough. Until he has handled the soil and watched it produce he has not tasted of the substantial comfort that knowledge of its sustaining properties affords the soul. This is not to say that anything more than a minute quantity of this staggering reality will take possession of the child during his early years of gardening. But it is a guarantee that he will not miss the real value, in adult life, of many deep-rooted satisfactions which are dependent on a close acquaintance with the land.

Make Him Plan It

It would have done little good to suggest or start a garden campaign while your children were still in school for divided attention will not do. However, there are many fast growing annual flowers and some vegetables which can be planted within the next few weeks and still mature before the summer has closed. Unless the child takes the steps from the first plan on paper to the harvest by himself half the charm and importance of the venture is lost.

A plot six by eight feet or slightly larger is ample and almost any back yard can spare it. Choose the sunniest possible spot and, on pencil and paper, lay out a simple design. A little path or two is necessary but let the child choose their course. Crooked ones, within bounds, hold much charm. If you can afford it, let him select an outfit of easy to handle tools. If not, improvise them from what you have but let him paint them or in some way make them personal to himself. Buy a complete plant food and help him dig it into his plot so that scanty results will be warranted off.

Then let him choose the seeds tactfully insisting that they be articles which are marked to mature within sixty-five days at the most. Vegetables such as beets, carrots, radishes and lettuce will be colorful reward for his work. There is no need to list the sturdy annual flowers which may be selected since hunting for them in a catalogue will be half the fun. Any child will enjoy that task if he is limited beforehand to early blooming varieties.

Enclosing the little garden with a low picket or wire fence, rigging up a trellis with broom handles and cords for a colorful vine of morning glories or nasturtiums, supplying a few clumps of hardy perennials which may still be transplanted for a background and buying some already-blooming edging plants like bachelors buttons or pansies are all unobtrusive ways in which you can take away the possible discouragement which a small child meets when he views the bareness of his planted garden and thinks of long days before the seeds begin to sprout.

Overcoming some of our inabilities is often wrecked by too much obvious endeavor. This thought was brought forcibly to mind when we read a condensation from a paper which on personality. The chapter discussed related to conversation and pointed out that some people who go to great trouble to prepare themselves with dinner table games, tricky quizzes or other ruses really do not succeed in starting conversation at all, but only simply succeed in drawing the attention of the gathering exclusively to themselves.

Result: less conversation than there might have been without such impetus and probably a genuine resentment for the individual by those who cannot grasp the tricks or answer the tricky questions.

Draw Out Others

There is, of course, only one real way to be an interesting conversationalist and that is to draw out the other person or people in whose society you find yourself. The author in this case refers to "stop and go signals" which made us very conscious of a lack which we share with many. The warning to "stop" often comes and if we are absorbed in what we are saying we ignore it. Often we step thereby into a chasm of boredom. And the worst sensation of all comes when we realize that we are doing the boring. There are times, too, when a group is present that it is tactful to exert the "stop" signal on someone else who may have started a discussion which is evidently distressing to someone else present.

As for the "go" signal, this is often easier than it appears. If, in introducing people for instance, you can drop even a slight hint of identity such as revealing one person's home town, educational background, avocation or occupation, you have thereby dropped a

Greatest Monthly Gain In Phones During May

Telephones in New Jersey topped the 800,000 mark in May, when continued expansion of the telephone system due to meeting needs resulting from the national defense effort combined with seasonal growth in shore and mountain resort communities to create the greatest monthly gain in telephones ever recorded in the state.

A net gain of 10,288 telephones in May raised the total in service at the end of the month to 804,807, the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company reports. The gain for the month compares with the largest previous monthly gain of approximately 8,500 in May, 1937, and the total contrasts with the "depression low" in telephone development of 601,500 reached in January, 1934.

The volume of traffic through the switchboards averaged 3,581,000 calls a day during May, the company states. 292,000 more calls daily than the statewide system handled in May, 1940.

CABIN BUILDING IS DELAYED

Three Troops Hold Up Work By Failing To Make Contributions

Three troops which have failed to send in their contributions are delaying the start of work on the Belleville District's cabin at Scout Acres.

The district committee has decided that no work would start until all troops had contributed for the cabin which will be used by Boy Scouts from the local district for overnight and weekend trips.

Ten Scouts to be selected by John Charlton will serve as ushers at the high school commencement at Clearman Field on Wednesday night. They will assist members of the high school faculty.

Members of local troops and Scouts will parade twice over the weekend. They will march in the Elk-sponsored parade on Saturday night which will start at Greylock parkway and Washington at 7 and proceed south in Washington avenue.

On Sunday afternoon they will be among the 3,500 Scouts and Scouters who are expected to march in the Newark parade to be held on Broad street.

Grace Baptist Holds Picnic For Children Saturday

Saturday will be a red letter day for the youngsters of the Grace Baptist Church Sunday School. It's the date of their annual picnic which will be held at Dale in the South Mountain Reservation.

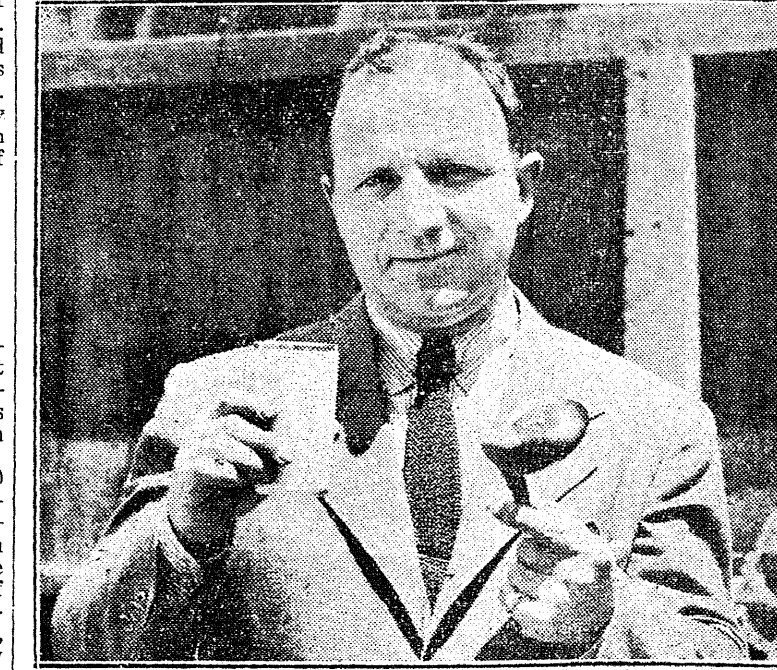

Cars will leave from the church at 10 in the morning.

Edward Chesley, Irving Russell and Percy Karrier are in charge of arrangements.

WILL FEATURE FOUR SINGERS

Helen Jepson, Edwin Eustis, Frederick Jagel and Leonard Warren To Sing

An evening of operatic music, with complete scenes from some of the best-known and best-loved operas, will be presented at the third stadium concert of the Essex County Symphony Society on Tuesday evening at the City Schools Stadium, Newark.

Leading singers from the Metropolitan Opera and concert stage will enact the scenes, giving as much of the operatic atmosphere as will be possible at an outdoor concert. Helen Jepson of the Metropolitan Opera will sing the soprano roles, and Edwin Eustis, star of concert stage, will have mezzo-soprano roles. Metropolitan Opera stars Leonard Warren and Frederick Jagel will sing the baritone and tenor parts.

Frederick Weissmann, regular conductor of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra who is noted for his operatic work, will conduct the Essex County Symphony Society Orchestra. Weissmann is well-known also for his conducting of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra at the Lewisohn Stadium concerts and for his direction of the Wagner series presented by the New York City Symphony in 1939.

The stadium concert on Tuesday will begin promptly at 8:40 opening with the introduction and ballet scene from the fourth act of "Carmen."

Operated On Wrong Man

Announcement was incorrectly made last week of the illness of Harold Snook of Belmore street. It is not Mr. Snook, but Harold Ross of 72 Perry street who is recovering from an appendectomy.

Mr. Ross is cubmaster of Boy Scout Pack No. 350 at Fawcett Church. Mr. Snook is chairman of the cub committee.

Brighton Avenue Measure 'Killed' By Board

An ordinance to improve Brighton avenue, which had had a first reading before the Town Commission several weeks ago, was "killed" by the Town Commission Tuesday night.

It would cost the town $10,000 to improve the street. Mayor Williams stated at the board's pre-meeting conference. The town owns all of the property on one side of the street and because of the non-payment of taxes by owners of property on the other side, the town will probably shortly own more of it, he explained.

The golden text is: "The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms."

Among the lesson-sermon citations is the following from the Bible: "I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress; my God; in him will I trust."

Red Cross Wants Help Of More Local Women

Chapter Cooperating With Newark Group in Its Appeal for Preparation of Abdominal Binders; Motor Corps Starts Class Monday Night

The Red Cross Chapter has issued an appeal for the help of as many women as possible. The organization has received a call for assistance from the Newark Chapter to assist in the preparation of several hundred thousand abdominal binders.

A number of suburban chapters are cooperating in the program. Mrs. George A. Kelsall of Preston street has volunteered to instruct workers in the preparation of the binders. Women interested are asked to communicate with her at Belleville 2-4486 as soon as possible. Workers who volunteer will be obliged to use their own sewing machines at home.

Mrs. Harvey Thompson, production chairman, reported that three more cases of garments and other material were packed and shipped this week to the Red Cross headquarters for distribution in the war zone. Included in the shipment were 150 knitted garments, 135 women's dresses, twenty operating gowns and seventeen layettes. Mrs. Thompson said at Monday night's meeting of the Red Cross that material is now coming in for the chapter's fifth quota.

Miss Esther Adams, vice-chairman of the production committee, stated that over 100 pounds of new wool have been distributed to workers to be used in making sweaters and socks.

Affghans Presented

Mrs. William H. Williams, chairman of Junior Red Cross, presented several affghans to the chapter, which had been made by the school children. One particularly beautiful affghan, made by the third grade students in Miss A. C. Wadley's room in School No. 8, has been placed on display in the lobby of the Capitol Theatre, on the recommendation of the members of the executive committee.

Fred L. James, instructor, reported on the work of the class in first aid and accident prevention which has just completed its prescribed course, and advised that twenty-nine certificates will be awarded to those completing and passing the course.

Miss Doris Scharfberg said that sixteen women had enrolled for the motor corps course, which will be given at Davidson and Robertson's Station beginning on Monday night, under the direction of John Robertson.

Lectures will be on Monday and Tuesday evenings, beginning at 7:30. It is hoped that many more women, who are eligible for membership in the motor corps, will register for the course, which is of ten hours' length. Full details as to requirements and qualifications may be secured by calling Miss Scharfberg at Belleville 2-1726-M.

Ferret Out The Troublemakers

Public sympathy was with the President in his action in calling troops in to break the North American Aviation strike in California. All of us are making sacrifices today and to see one group stand off and defy everybody in the land to force their demands is too much in an emergency such as now exists in this country.

Even though the national labor leaders had denounced the activities of these strikers, the rank and file of the public which does not pry into all of the facts and details assumes the blanket attitude that all labor is trying to hold up the nation. This is not so and it is unfair.

However, there is a decided Communist tint to this strike in that it has already been proven that some of the West Coast leaders of the movement have Red sympathies. The government has dawdled too long with some of these men. In fact,

Street Makes Big Difference

The Andrew Jergens plant is tucked off in one corner of the town and unless you have happened to be one of those who walked or rode through the park you have missed the beauty of this building.

The opening of the Franklin avenue extension has in the course of one short week placed the new plant on a busy thoroughfare and has made it one of the town's show places. The Jergens building in itself is a beautiful example of modern industrial architecture. But more than that, the landscaping that is being done on the property will help to make it that much more beautiful.

Belwood Park Residents Can't Protest

The residents of Belwood Park are most fortunate. Three times they have protested to the Town Commission about the encroachment of business and industry upon their neighborhood. Three times the Town Commission has sustained their complaints and the cases have gone to the Supreme Court. Twice the Court has ruled against the town and the Belwood property owners' wishes.

The decision in the third case is still to come for it is now in the process of being prepared for presentation to the Supreme Court.

No Belwood resident can point a finger at a commissioner and blame him because business has edged further into a residential area. Several thousands of dollars have already been expended in an effort to satisfy the property owners. To date the town has been unsuccessful in its efforts to stop this invasion.

The town, in acceding to the property owners' demands that the Belleville avenue zone question once more be taken to the Supreme Court, has gone against the off-the-record opinion of some attorneys based

Youth Has Responsibility

The Municipal Stadium was presented this week to the youth of Belleville. With the acceptance of the use of the facilities of this field, they should assume another obligation — to protect the stadium from vandalism and use it as they would their own property or belongings.

Recently, we visited there and learned that considerable damage had been done. Windows have been broken, the exterior walls have been marred with name scrawling and even water faucets and taps have been removed.

Such destruction of public property is a black eye to the youth of Belleville. This

Display The Flag on Saturday

Saturday will be Flag Day and following past custom, the local lodge of Elks with the cooperation of other local groups, will hold a parade to be followed by exercises in tribute to Old Glory.

The day commemorates the adoption of the flag by the Continental Congress on June 14, 1777. However, Flag Day was not officially observed until a proclamation was passed in 1916 which was approved by President Woodrow Wilson.

It is not only that people should take part in the Flag Day ceremonies but that they should show their patriotism by displaying the flag. The Stars and Stripes are symbolic of this country and that for which it stands.

it could even be said that they have coddled and protected them. Notable is the case of the California C.I.O. leader Harry Bridges.

His deportation proceedings have been in and out of courts for several years. That he is typical of the Red and radical element in labor has been proven by his statements and his activities. So long as subversive groups are permitted to operate among the laboring people without molestation there will be trouble.

Many of those in the North American strike and in others around the country are being led around by the nose by labor agitators whose efforts are not directed at speeding up the production program but at tearing it down for several purposes.

That they are permitted to operate with a free hand is decidedly wrong, especially when so many of the youth of the country are giving up jobs and a year of their lives for the protection of this country.

Those who frowned at the thought of an industry being located on the edge of a park can now rest. The beauty of Branch Brook Park has been extended to the very front door of the Jergens plant.

The opening of the Franklin avenue extension has already proven its worth. Much of the traffic from the northern part of town and from other communities which used Belleville avenue and Mt. Prospect avenue to reach Newark is now using the new road. It is an improvement that was long needed and one that represents a good investment.

on decisions given by the Court in past cases.

Belief was expressed at Tuesday night's Commission meeting that another hearing before the Supreme Court would settle the issue once and for all. But, should the Court rule in favor of the property owners we do not think that it would be settled once and for all. It will not be long before another property owner in the vicinity presents a request for changing his residential property to business.

The predicament of the Belwood Park residents is unfortunate. In itself, it is one of the town's better residential neighborhoods. Yet, bordering on it is a busy industrial and business area and snaking through the middle of the section is what has become one of this area's busiest highways.

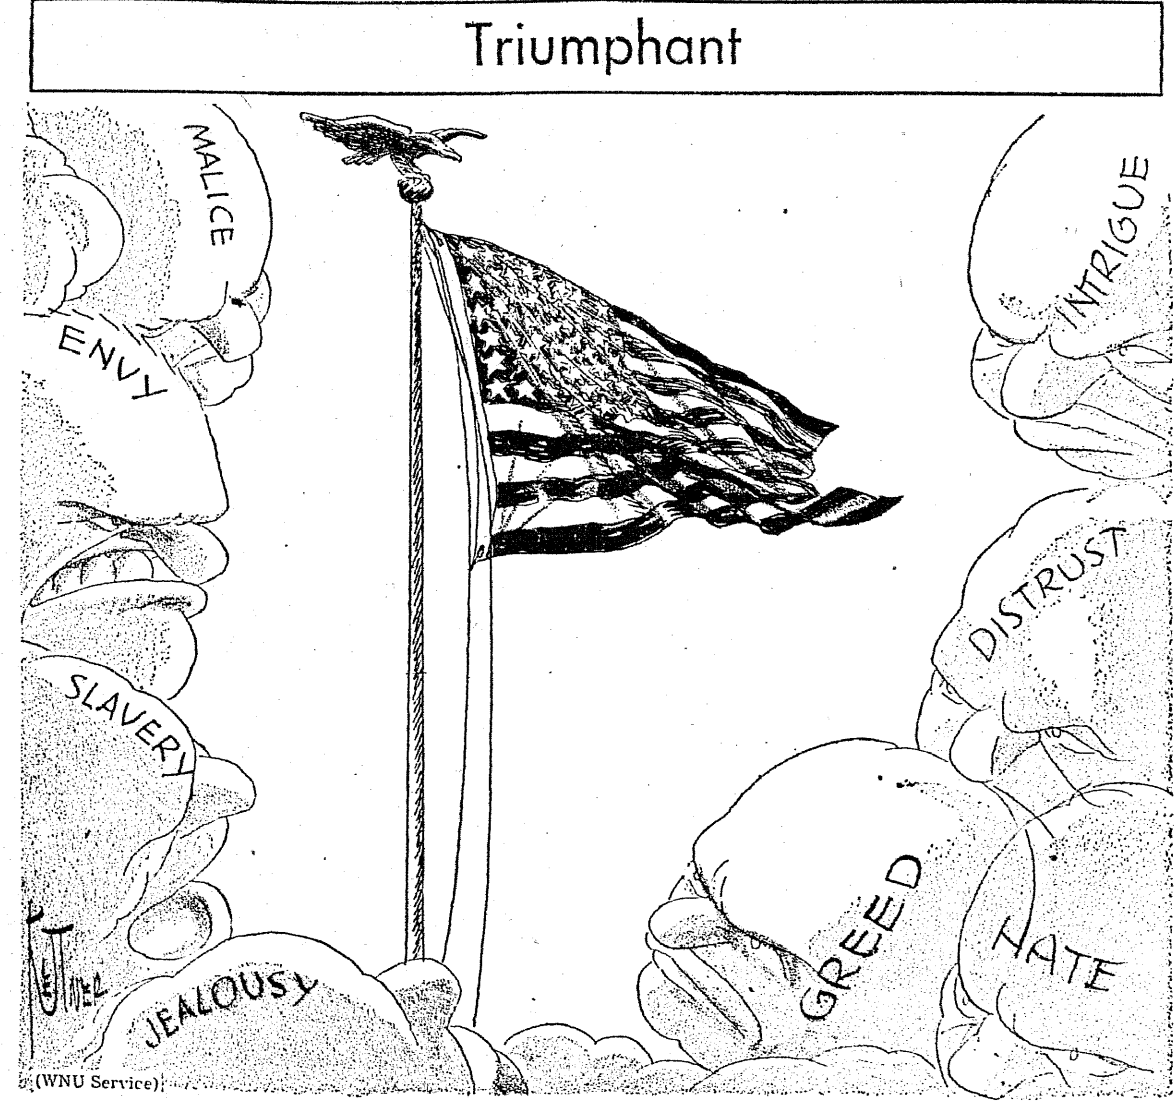

Residential property values have already suffered from the development of business and the increase in traffic with its resulting hazards. Some may hold the view that the commissioners in their action this week were only pouring good money after bad. Certainly, it cannot be claimed that they have not tried to protect the interests of the residential property owners in that vicinity.

stadium represents the expenditure of thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money — their parents' money. The town's youth owe it not only to their parents but to themselves to see that this vandalism ceases.

Belleville, as Carl P. Malmstrom of the WPA stated at the dedicatory exercises on Saturday, has one of the most beautiful athletic plants in this part of the state. What is there now may only be the beginning. The town now has a place for community and youth activities which it never had before. The young people should recognize it and respect it.

From the day that the flag was adopted by the Continental Congress it has stood for liberty. Today this nation is more determined than ever that it and the free forces that stand for freedom shall not be swallowed up by dictators craving for absolute control. We have pledged ourselves not only that the flag shall continue to wave as it has over this country, but on the seas as well.

More than ever today all of us should realize the important meaning of the flag — that it represents not only this country but all of us. That it represents liberty and freedom which has been taken away from so many people in this world.

Leon Carson Musical Silhouettes—A Commentary On Music

"There is a strange and mysterious quality to musical perception in which memory not only recalls the past, but forecasts the future."

Gluck:

The inclusion of the opera "Alceste" in the repertoire of the Metropolitan Opera this past season has brought the name of its composer Christoph Willibald Gluck into the co-called operatic limelight of New York. His was an interesting life, although parts of it appear a trifle vague insofar as biographers go. A few excerpts about him and his work may prove of interest.

No one actually knows just when Gluck was born. Tradition has it that he was born in Weidenwang, which is a little village in Bavaria, on July 2, 1714. Weidenwang is situated in lovely country not far from the classic, old city of Nuremberg.

Gluck's famous opera "Orfeo ed Euridice" was performed for the first time in 1762 in Vienna, and was the first opera to reveal Gluck's great music and dramatic reforms.

Like many other great composers, Gluck was fond of a good drink, in fact history has it that he died of a stroke, he had drunk, in direct violation of the doctor's orders, an unusual amount of liquor in the company of congenial friends.

Unlike many other composers, Gluck married Marianne Gluck, the daughter of a Viennese banker, and she brought to him a fortune that freed the master of all financial worries for the rest of his life.

Marie Antoinette, the music-loving daughter of the Empress Maria Theresa of Austria, received musical instruction when a young girl from Gluck, and after she married the French Dauphin, she did her very best to bring the great composer to Paris.

Finally in 1774, in spite of intrigue, she succeeded in having his opera "Iphigenie en Tauride" presented, with Gluck himself conducting. The work was staged magnificently and made a great sensation in the operatic world of the day and really was the beginning of many heated controversies between the adherents of Gluck and his opponents as to his ability, etc.

It was in his sixty-fifth year that Gluck in 1779 met with the final big success of his life. It was the presentation of his opera "Iphigenie en Tauride" in Paris, the work out-doing that of his great Italian rival, Niccolò Piccini. It is interesting though, to note that Gluck used German words in this manuscript, although the first performance was sung in French.

Musical Tax:

The Music Educators National Conference has gone on record against the inclusion of musical instruments in the category of luxuries for taxation purposes. It is the general consensus of opinion in musical circles that the inclusion of such articles under a tax law is something inconsistent with the American faith in education.

While all music educators are, on the other hand, still anxious to go along with and support their government in aid of a common cause, they are equally concerned with the thought that "one hundred years of progress which has resulted in the recognition of the fine arts and especially music, as among the fundamentals in the education essential to the citizens of a true democracy, be not tossed into the discard by a tax law which classifies music education with cigarette smoking and card playing."

The educators speak with special knowledge and understanding of what is involved when they contend that "musical instruments are essential implements in education and tools of our professional musicians." They cite figures that are impressive. Some 60,000 school children assembled in National School Music Competition Festivals held in ten regions this spring. These, they point out, represent more than three-quarters of a million students in the bands, orchestras and choirs of our schools who have participated in district and state preliminary festivals. "And these thousands," it is added, "are
