

SURVEY AVENUE ON METER NEED TO START SOON

Installation In Congested Area
May Come Following
Merchants' Meeting

Parking meter experts will start a three-week survey of Washington avenue shortly to prepare for the Department of Public Safety an analysis of what they feel the town's requirements would be should it be decided to install the curb coin machines, it was learned yesterday.

The possibility that the meters will be tried out shortly loomed nearer realization this week following the meeting on Tuesday night between the town commissioners and members of the Merchants' Association. It appeared likely that meters would be tried out in one or two blocks of the business area in the vicinity of Town Hall.

Less than twenty merchants attended the meeting held in the Town Hall which was presided over by Wilfred Yudin. Before hearing the views of the commissioners who met with them after the Commission meeting, the business men heard John Iglauer, an official of the Town of Montclair parking meter division, who told of the operation of the plan there and how in addition to meters Montclair had started the municipal parking areas.

Emphasizing that he had not decided to install meters or had selected the type, Commissioner Clark, who is head of the police department, stated that he has been trying to find some solution to the parking problem. "If the merchants and the public wants them," Clark stated, "we will have them."

Learned To Like Them
In his inquiries about the state where meters are installed, Clark said it was generally learned that at the outset the merchants were opposed to but like them after they had been installed and were in operation for a while.

Bernard Yudin, hardware dealer, told the merchants and commissioners that they were talking about meters before even trying a one or two-hour parking limit. Meters, he said, may be good in congested areas, but claimed that such a condition does not exist in Belleville.

Clark stated that a parking limit ordinance for Washington avenue is on the books, having been passed in 1935. However, he said his department has never had the money for the signs which would be required. The commissioner added that two policemen would have to patrol the avenue constantly to enforce the ordinance.

Parking Area Solution—Mayor
"The solution is a parking area," the Mayor said, "but what person owning property on Washington avenue will sell property reasonably enough so that a lot could be established?"

If someone would sacrifice his land at a reasonable price, he said, the town could go ahead with parking meters. Commenting on a check which he personally had made along Washington avenue, Williams claimed that it showed that between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. fifty-three percent of the cars parked along the street belonged either to merchants or their employees. A check six months later brought about the same result, he said.

Abe Atkins, of the Boston Store, agreeing with the Mayor, said that the merchants were to blame for about seventy-five percent of the parking troubles. Owner of a store at the northern end of the avenue, he said that he was not bothered by the condition, but agreed that it was quite likely that meters would be good for the avenue between Rutgers street and Belleville avenue or William street.

Commissioner King said that while he had not made a study of the question, it had been his observation that where meters have been installed they have invariably improved conditions. Director Noll said that he would not express any opinion until the matter came before the board officially, stating that as yet the matter had not been brought up by Public Safety Director Clark or any other board member.

Board Introduces Measure To Vacate Delavan Avenue

An ordinance providing for the vacation of Delavan avenue, running between Mill street and Belleville avenue through the Essex County golf course, was introduced before the Town Commission Tuesday night.

The request was made by the Essex County Park Commission, Town Engineer Matthew J. Sheehan said. The road is an unpaved street which is seldom used by motorists, it was stated.

Mayor Williams explained that it was a dead-end street and that the town would not spend any money for its improvement since the opening of the $215,000 extension of Franklin avenue from Belleville avenue to Mill street a few hundred feet west. The rest of the commissioners agreed.

Employer Rating System Explained By UCC Official

William S. Conklin, UCC Secretary, Tells Rotarians About Plan and Commission's Operation; New Rate Goes Into Effect January of Next Year

Local business men who are members of the Rotary Club learned yesterday about the employer experience rating plan which will be put into effect next year by the New Jersey Unemployment Compensation Commission. William S. Conklin, secretary and director of public relations for the state bureau, outlined the manner in which the plan will operate.

On next January 1, Conklin told the Rotarians, there will be a change in rate contributions by employers. Under the rating system, the UCC secretary explained, a good employer is one who has maintained a record of stabilizing employment and has not separated workers from their jobs, thus causing an attack on the benefit account.

The state feels, Conklin said, that since an employer has maintained a steady payroll and kept people at work, he should secure a lower rate of taxation.

"Employers should be particularly anxious to guard against a rate increase," Conklin said, "if they are going to get a low rate, they must watch the payment of UCC unemployment benefits to the workers."

The lowest rating which employers will pay is 0.9% of one percent, while the highest that any employer will be asked to pay is 3.6%.

Controversial Question
The employer experience rating, Conklin said, is the most controversial question in unemployment compensation. Employers, he explained, are asking for reduced rates, while labor on the other hand is urging the repeal of the employer experience rating provisions and suggesting that employers continue to contribute a flat 2.7% of wages payable, the Unemployment Compensation Commission is against the merit rating itself, Conklin said, but because it is a part of the law is required to enforce it.

Outlining the general purpose of the UCC, Conklin said that broadly it is engaged in recruiting labor. The cooperation of employers is needed in helping the Commission to do its work through the thirty-five offices which are maintained throughout the state. Any person with semi-skilled or skilled knowledge and experience should register at one of the offices, Conklin said. The Commission is having difficulty in placing workers in a very limited number of skilled groups in defense industries. The speaker explained to the Rotarians how the UCC differentiates in paying benefits to employees involved in labor disputes. Taking a large defense industry as an example, Conklin explained that if the Commission's investigation shows that there has been a partial or complete stoppage of work which results in the employer suffering a loss, then no benefits are paid.

TOWN TO BENEFIT UNDER DEFENSE 'REC' PROGRAM

One of Sixteen In State
Picked By War Dept.
For New Plan

Belleville was certified by the War Department this week as one of the sixteen New Jersey communities among 350 in the nation in which operation of recreation programs is viewed as important to national defense. State WPA Administrator Robert W. Allan announced in Newark that preparations are being made for a new state-wide recreation project which would provide leadership for recreational activities in military and industrial defense areas in New Jersey.

Belleville is the only municipality in Essex County which has been certified to come under the provisions of the new program, the WPA announcement stated. Other cities listed are Trenton, Camden, Clifton, Garfield, Harrison, Highland Beach, Long Beach, Metuchen, Monmouth, M. Holly, Oceanport, Passaic, Paterson, Wrightstown and Sandy Hook.

Administrator Allan said the proposed project had as its sponsor the Federal Security Agency, which is directing the program on a nation-wide basis. The plan as a whole has received the approval of government officials in Washington, individual state-wide projects being the next step toward operation.

Funds permitting the employment of 340 workers in addition to the 430 now employed by the Recreation division of the New Jersey WPA would be provided under the proposal, Allan said, making possible the inauguration of recreation programs of all types in areas where such activities would be helpful to the defense program.

Provide Leadership
"It is our plan," Allan said, "to provide leadership for recreational activities in areas where there is a concentration of defense industry or military personnel. Of course participation will not be limited to those individuals and the program will become a part of the general recreation program of the community."

Indoor and outdoor sports, handicrafts, forums, dramatics, arts and crafts, and, in military areas, entertainment programs will be sponsored, Allan said. When Commissioner Noll, director of recreation, was asked about the announcement by Allan, he stated that he had not had any official word from the WPA. He commented, however, that both he and Edward J. Lister, recreation supervisor, had worked a long time to persuade officials that Belleville warranted consideration under the expansion program planned for communities in which there is considerable defense industry activity. He said that both he and Lister had conferred with officials of the Federal Security Agency.

He said that the town has the facilities but not the money to handle such a program. "We don't need more buildings," he claimed, "but more money for equipment and more workers." He said he would arrange a conference with Allan as soon as possible to learn if any provisions are being made in the new plan for the contribution of money from sources other than the municipality which foots all of the bills for recreation.

MURRAY NAMED S. & L. COUNSEL
Newark Attorney Fills
Vacancy Caused By DeGraw's
Passing For North Belleville

Norbury C. Murray, Newark attorney and law partner of the late John DeGraw in the firm of DeGraw & Murray, has been unanimously selected as counsel for the North Belleville Savings & Loan Association to fill the unexpired term of DeGraw, who had been the association's counsel for twenty-five years. A former mayor and member of the Town Commission, DeGraw passed away suddenly on August 19.

Murray was a member of the firm of DeGraw & Murray for seventeen years. He was also a member of the former firm of Burnett, Song, Murray & Duncan for twelve years. He is a graduate of Rutgers Preparatory School, Rutgers College and New York University Law School. He has been an instructor in law for the Essex County Chapter of the American Institute of Banking for the past nineteen years and also has held a similar capacity at the Newark University School of Business Administration and its predecessor, Newark Institute of Arts and Sciences. Between the two schools, he has taught there for twenty years. Last year he served as instructor in law at the New York University School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance.

He is a member of the Essex County and State Bar Associations.

Bond Purchase Praise Given By Morgenthau

Added to the many words of commendation which have poured in since the town's announcement that it would purchase $50,000 in defense bonds now and an equal amount next January, Mayor Williams this week received a letter from Henry L. Morgenthau, Secretary of the Treasury.

In his letter to Williams, the Treasury official wrote: "Congressman Hartley has told me of the purchase of Defense Savings Bonds by the municipality of Belleville in the sum of $50,000, and the prospective purchase of a similar amount on January 1. This patriotic action on the part of your community will undoubtedly set an example not only for other cities but for our people generally, and is most gratifying."

FIRST AID DRIVE BY RED CROSS

Big Registration For Class;
Manufacturers Also Show
Their Interest

First aid work promises to be one of the important activities of the local Red Cross chapter during the fall and winter months. Mrs. Louis Noll, who was recently appointed chairman of the first aid committee, told the group at its monthly meeting in the Woman's Club on Monday night that 125 persons have registered for the standard first aid course which will open some time next week. Fred S. James will direct the series of lectures and instructions, assisted by three other qualified first aid teachers.

Mrs. Noll reported on the co-operation of several of the local manufacturers with the Red Cross program. Forty employees of the Sweeney Lithograph Co. will receive instructions at the Washington and Division avenue firehouse, while workers in the Walter Kidde and the Westinghouse Co. plants will be instructed at the factories. The course for the public will be held at the Recreation House.

Starting Monday night, an advanced first aid course will be given twice weekly, Mondays and Thursdays, in Montclair under the direction of that town's chapter. Persons interested should contact Mrs. Noll at Belleville 2-2277 about this course or the standard first aid study.

Miss Doris Scharfenburg, chairman of the newly organized motor corps, reported on the conclusion of the mechanics' course, stating that there are now six qualified members of the corps. This will be quickly increased, she pointed out, since about fifteen women who have completed the mechanics' course will be enrolled in this fall's first aid course. She also reported that the chapter had contributed $12 to the U.S.O.

Twenty-One Fined $5

Twenty-one men were fined $5 each on a gambling charge last night in police court by Judge Everett B. Smith. They were arrested last Sunday night in a Silver Lake pool room by Sergeant Pearl Detective Mallack, Patrolmen Grose, Winfield and Monaghan and Chanceman Donnelly who raided the room after Gross reported lights burning at 1:50 a.m. and a number of cars parked around the building.

Judge Smith instructed Police Chief Spatz to take steps to close the pool room.

Police-Firemen To Petition For Mandatory Pay Raise; Reply To Board's Decision

Chest Chairman

Hugh D. Kittle

COMMUNITY CHEST SEEKING $16,000

Hugh D. Kittle Drive Chairman for Campaign From October 16-26

The Belleville Welfare Federation will seek $16,000 in the annual Community Chest campaign which will be held from October 16 to 26. The board of trustees approved the budget recommended by the finance committee which was submitted at a meeting held last night at Federation headquarters in Washington avenue.

Hugh D. Kittle, high school principal, was named campaign chairman. In the absence of BWF president W. Douglas Clark, Jr., who is on vacation in Canada, vice-president Dr. George Kaden presided at the meeting.

The $16,000 figure is $1,000 less than the amount which was requested last year. However, the local chapter of the American Red Cross, which was one of the participating agencies last year, has withdrawn from the Federation. $4,000 in budget funds were earmarked for the organization last year. Of the $17,000 sought in 1940, the Community Chest campaign workers raised $15,040.

The trustees voted to divide up the $16,000 budget as follows: Visiting Nurses' Association, $900; Boy Scouts, $2,000; Girl Scouts, $1,250; Silver Lake Community House, $600; Community Service Bureau, $9,000; campaign expenses, $500; emergency reserve, $1,000; and administrative expense for the Federation, $750.

All trustees agreed last night to serve as members of the general campaign committee assisted by Kittle. In addition, two delegates from each of the cooperating agencies will serve as members.

Edward J. Abromson Named Counsel For Employees; Action Reply To Commission's Move on Tuesday

The police and firemen have decided to take their plea for a $300 pay increase in 1942 to the public. The circulation of petitions to secure sufficient signatures to place a referendum for a mandatory salary jump on the ballot in the November 4 general election is expected to start some time today.

The announcement that the employees would take this step was made at 12 o'clock last night by Edward J. Abromson, whom they have retained as their attorney. The committee representing police and firemen approached Abromson early last evening, the attorney said, shortly after they had held a meeting. A few hours later he conferred with the group and discussed the details of the case.

The joint committee's action is in effect a reply to the decision made by the Town Commission on Tuesday night when the board, with Commissioner Waters absent, unanimously voted to place a non-binding referendum on the ballot in November. Thus, the board would not be mandatorily committed to grant the pay increases should a majority of the voters favor the salary jump. The employees' action is provided for in the Walsh Act.

The move of the local police and firemen for a pay raise is not singular for there is a wave of demands being made by cops and firemen from one end of the state to the other for more money.

"The police and firemen believe," Abromson said last night, "that if they are going to the trouble of having the townspeople vote on the question, their decision should be final. They do not believe," the attorney continued, "that the fate should be left to the commissioners."

Want Binding Referendum
"They have decided to secure signatures on petitions because they want a binding referendum," he added.

Abromson emphasized that the rise in the cost of living had been one of the chief reasons which had prompted the employees to appeal to the board to put the question up to the voters. "And," he added, "the men believe that the people who are paying the bills should decide it. They will be satisfied to abide by their verdict."

How long the men would have in which to get their petitions and present them to Town Clerk Florence R. Morey for checking could not be definitely learned, but Town Attorney Lawrence P. Keenan said that he believed would be two weeks so that a Morey could check them, in the referendum with the County Clerk.

Abromson said that under the law the police and firemen would be required to have the signatures of fifteen percent of those who voted at the last general election. All persons who sign must be registered voters. 11,601 voted in the last general election, which would mean that the men would have to obtain 1,740 signatures.

Mayor Williams, stating that it was his duty as financial director to advise the board on money matters, took the initiative Tuesday night which led to the adoption of the resolution approving the placing of the non-binding referendum question on the ballot.

Williams told the board at its pre-meeting conference that he and Town Attorney Lawrence P. Keenan had uncovered legislation in the Election Act of 1937 which gave the board the right to place on the ballot a non-binding resolution, which would serve the sole purpose of gaining an expression of public sentiment and not make it mandatory for them to grant pay raises.

Business conditions may suddenly change, the finance head said, which would make it a financial hardship for the town to grant a $300 wage increase to the police and firemen.

"The minds of the police and firemen should not be so short-circuited that they should forget what has been done for them in the past," he stated.

The Mayor claimed that Belleville was one of the first to restore to the men the second half of their original pay cut several years ago. Analyzing wages paid to uniformed men here with other municipalities, he said that salaries compare favorably.

Cites Economic Conditions
Adverse economic conditions may develop by budget time next February, the Mayor said. He said a check he had made of referendum votes elsewhere showed that only fifteen to twenty-five percent of the voters had voted on the referendum.

POLICE, FIREMEN

the referendum," the Mayor continued, "it is easily conceivable that we would be compelled to put money in the budget for the pay raises, even though a comparative minority voted for it."

"I criticize no policeman or fireman for looking for more money," he emphasized.

However, he continued, the board would be obligated to go throughout the whole payroll for town and school employees and give equal raises.

"It would result in a fifty-point tax rise not only this year but in future years," Williams predicted.

Stating that he favored a non-binding referendum, Williams said that he would not urge on a pay increase if the majority of the voters wanted it. In a non-binding measure, the board would have a wide latitude, he stated.

Commissioner King pointed out the increases in other departments which come next year. He emphasized that the new refuse collection contract would cause a two-point tax rise.

Right Not Curtailed
Williams said the right of the police to go to the voters was not curtailed.

"I don't want to be misunderstood," the Mayor explained. "They (meaning the police and firemen) have a right to get petitions and the public has a right to express its opinion."

Criticizing the Walsh Act power which permits a board by ordinance to put the question of pay increases on referendum to be decided by the voters, Williams stated that it was a "nice out" for officials.

"The responsibility is up to us," he said, "and we should not duck the issue by handing it to the public."

"I think," Public Safety Director Clark commented after listening to the Mayor, "that the non-binding resolution is logical. We as a board do not know what may develop within the next year."

The phrasing of the question in the non-binding referendum which the board voted to put on the ballot states: "Do you favor an increase of $300 of police and firemen?" The referendum is submitted under Revised Statutes, Sub-title 10 of the non-binding county or municipal referendum of the Election Laws of 1937.

EMPLOYER

benefits will be paid to employees who have had labor differences with the employer. If, in the course of a strike, the relationship between employer and employee is broken by the employer, then the employee will receive benefits.

"The UCC," Conklin said, "is anxious to be fair."

Employees who voluntarily quit their jobs do not receive any money through the Commission, he stated.

Discussing the future problems that may confront the Commission, Conklin told the Rotary members that at the present time the bureau has $166,000,000 on deposit to its credit in Washington, all of which has been accumulated from the payments by employers and employees.

Benefit payments this year, because of the increase in employment have been considerably less than during 1939 and 1940.

Describing the fund as in "a healthy condition," Conklin predicted that it would end the year with $180,000,000.

Frequently, he said, the question is asked, what the UCC will do with the money.

Absorb Normal Depression
If and when a depression comes, he explained, there will be considerable attack on the UCC revenue from the unemployed seeking benefits. As the fund is now going financially, he stated that he believed it would be able to "absorb normal depression."

In such times, it would help to relieve the burden placed on both the state and municipalities in making payments to those on relief. The number would receive considerable money from the payments which they have made into the UCC fund.

Attending the meeting with the Commission secretary was James Wall, manager of the Newark office, styled by Conklin as "one of the model offices in the United States."

The speaker was introduced by Clarence Van Sickle of the Rotary Club.

Rotarian President Wilbur W. Brooks announced that the district golf tourney would be held next Tuesday at the Upper Montclair Golf Club. He will head the team of local golfing members who will compete. Trophies will be given for the best low net and best low gross scores.

A number of the local members attended a joint outing on Tuesday with the Newark Rotarians at Livingston.

A number of members have signed for the course, which will start at 8:15. All classes will last two hours.

On Tuesday night at the club's regular weekly meeting, Mrs. Louis Noll of the Red Cross chapter introduced the instructors and also presented John Ott of the Public Safety Department of the city who demonstrated with the aid of motion pictures the necessity of having a complete understanding of first aid and artificial respiration. The pictures dealt with the treatment of accidents of various kinds, burns, sprains, excess bleeding and other injuries.

The Petreans' picnic will be held on Sunday, September 21, at Springer's Grove in Springfield. Arrangements have been made for transportation by cars which will leave from in front of the old St. Peter's School at one o'clock. Members will not have to bring a picnic lunch.

Two Petrean Club girl members will be leaving during the next week that will take them away from club activities. Catherine Westlake is entering St. Joseph's Hospital in Paterson to study to be a trained nurse, while Peggy Ward, who is a nurse, will report to Fort Jackson, S. C., where she will take up her duties as a second lieutenant in the Army.

Board Forgot The Law?
Although Max Kraus's liquor store was ordered closed for three days Tuesday night by the Town Commission after he was found guilty of having permitted the sale of liquor to a minor actually the penalty is three days.

The board ordered the suspension to become effective on Tuesday morning and end Thursday midnight. Actually, it will be a two-day suspension since Tuesday is an election day and Kraus's store is an other liquor dispensary in the state will be automatically closed by law.

Independent Sheriff Candidate Pleads for Legal Lottery

Joseph Granese, independent Republican candidate for sheriff at next Tuesday's election, last night urged his workers and the public to quiz police officials on their attitude toward legalized lotteries and bingo.

Granese said that from his interviews he had gained the impression that most officials are in favor of legalized lotteries. The nature of the people is to take a chance, the former local resident said.

The candidate also contends that bingo should not be permitted to operate under the direction of individuals or organizations unless the latter are charitable groups or churches and the revenue would be going to ward their self-support.

Frank Zarro is the general chairman of Granese's campaign committee and Joseph Caruso is publicity chairman.

Local Pro Grid Eleven Opens Here Sept. 21

Belleville-Nutley Iron Dukes Will Tackle The Strong Irvington Camptowners; Many Former High School Stars in New Team's Line-up

Professional football will make its debut here on Sunday afternoon, September 21, at the Municipal Stadium when the newly formed Belleville-Nutley Iron Dukes, three deep in former local and Nutley High football stars, tackle the strong Irvington Camptowners, champions of the North Jersey Professional Football League.

Although both grid aggregations are entered in the seven-team North Jersey loop, the game will be a non-league affair. However, the Camptowners will return here again later in the season for a circuit tussle with the Dukes.

For the past two weeks the Dukes have been training twice weekly at night under the direction of Joe Vollmer, former Columbia University and Paterson Panther backfield star and for the past four years assistant to George Stanford at Nutley High.

A group of prominent men both here and in Nutley are financially backing the Dukes in the venture which would bring the first professional football eleven to town.

The Dukes are mingling in the fastest pro grid company in the state except for the Chicago-owned Newark Bears. In addition to the Camptowners and the Dukes, other eleven in the loop are the Bloomfield White Horses, the Tri-Boros of Rutherford, the Boonton Field Club and the Newark Woodwards.

To Use Single Wing

The team's practice drills are being held on Tuesday and Thursday nights. Vollmer is basing the team's offensive attack on the single wing system which has been employed so successfully at Columbia University by Coach Lou Little.

Grid fans who rooted for some of Belleville High's grid luminaries in past years will have the chance to cheer again for included in the squad line-up are a number of former Blue and Gold football stars.

Bud Hollweg, who will be remembered for his fine quarterbacking in high school days, is being groomed for a backfield starting berth. Also counted on for service are Chet Kucinski, who quarterbacked at both Belleville and St. Benedict's. He has shown some fine passing ability in practice. 200-pound Vince Sorrentino, who was pivot man at the high school for three years, is almost a certainty to start at center for the Dukes, while he will probably be accompanied by George Tietz, former Camptowner and Belleville captain two years ago, Joe Weinberg and Ray Tenpenny as companions on the line.

Cardinals To Play

Culled from the ranks of Nutley High's former football stars are three of the backfield men who two years ago placed Nutley up on the top of the football heap and hoped them to win their intersectional game in Florida. All-State Frankie Cardinale, rated as one of the speediest and best ground gaining line buckers seen in scholastic grid circles in some years, will be at the fullback's post. Walt Butchko, a blocking back for the Maroon, and Jimmie Orsini, a wingback, will also get into the line-up. Charlie Crocco, who tips the fairbanks at better than 200 and who played last year for St. Benedict's and formerly for Nutley, will also be in the backfield line-up. Crocco is an exceptional passer.

The Dukes will carry a permanent squad of twenty-two men. New uniforms have been purchased for the eleven. The complete schedule of league games to be played at the Turf Bog will be announced next week. A top-gear service has been tentatively arranged with most of the contests to be played here.

SOLDIER'S DEATH PROMPTS PROBE

Hartley Asks War Department To Investigate Death Of Lundgren

Congressman Fred A. Hartley has asked the War Department to investigate the death of twenty-one-year-old Corporal Arthur H. Lundgren, who died following an appendectomy operation at Fort Dix Hospital last Thursday.

Major General Clifford R. Powell, 44th Division commander, absolved anyone of negligence. The dead youth's mother, Mrs. Louise Lundgren of 50 Smith street, said that the youth was denied admission to the hospital for eleven days after he first complained that he was ill.

The report shows that when the youth finally entered the hospital his case was diagnosed as gastroenteritis and that two hours later it was changed to acute appendicitis. When an operation was performed, it was found that Lundgren was suffering from a ruptured appendix.

In the report, which was submitted to him, Powell said it stated that Lundgren was "one of those unusually and unfortunately cases of appendicitis masked by either signs of a minor medical condition, namely, gastroenteritis."

Born in West New York, the youth had resided in Belleville since 1924. He attended local schools and the Essex County Vocational School in Bloomfield. He enlisted in the service in September, 1940.

Military rites were conducted on Saturday afternoon from the Kieran Funeral Home at 3 p.m. Lieutenant Utter, chaplain, officiated. Interment was in Arlington (N. J.) Cemetery.

Board Finds Liquor Dealer Guilty On Sale To Minor

Whether or not a seventeen-year-old blond youth looked twenty-one or over and how often he shaved were two of the chief points around which the questioning centered at the hearing on Tuesday night against Max Kraus, Union avenue liquor dealer and delicatessen operator, who was charged by the State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control with having permitted the selling of liquor to a minor under twenty-one years of age.

The hearing was heard by four members of the Town Commission, Commissioner Waters being unable to attend. After listening to testimony in the case for more than an hour and deliberating behind closed doors for forty minutes, the board found Kraus guilty and ordered the closing of his liquor store for three days, starting at 7 next Tuesday morning and ending at midnight on Thursday.

Principal witness in the case was Frank Kriz of 132 Overlook avenue, seventeen-year-old high school student. Two ABC agents in the report of their investigation alleged that they had apprehended Kriz and a companion after they left the Kraus store early on the evening of August 4. Kriz had a bottle of liquor which he admitted, the agents said, he had purchased at the Kraus store from the twenty-three-year-old son of the proprietor. Young Edward Kraus also admitted, the agents said, that he had sold the youth the liquor, but claimed that he looked over twenty-one.

Kriz re-told the same story when he was put on the stand Tuesday night. He said that the liquor was not for himself but for Edward Donaldson of 500 Union avenue who had given him the money and asked him to make the purchase.

On cross-examination, Edward J. Abromson, counsel for Kraus, quizzed Kriz on whether or not he needed a shave.

Smiling sheepishly, Kraus said he guessed he did. Abromson also brought out that the youth had been shaving a year and that he was five feet eleven inches tall and weighed 170 pounds.

The first time he went to the store he bought the wrong liquor so Donaldson sent him back, Kriz said. John Petro, eighteen, of 298 Greylock parkway, accompanied him only on the second trip, which was when the agents apprehended him, Kriz said.

"You're mistaken often for twenty-one, aren't you?" Abromson asked.

"No," replied Kriz hesitatingly. "Well, maybe once in a while."

Kraus testified that he had been in business ten years and that he was one of the first local liquor licensees. He said he has always given orders to his employees not to sell to minors and that he would not do it himself. He also testified that there is a sign in back of the counter tacked on the front of one of the shelves which states that liquor will not be sold to minors.

The dull, backward child is often so because of defective vision. Have an eyesight examination now.

Abromson called Kriz back and had him stand up alongside of young Kraus. He asked the board members to look and see for themselves if the two boys did not look the same age.

Commissioner King asked Kriz how often he had to shave. The youth smilingly replied that if he shaved on Sunday he wouldn't have to shave until a week from

Good For Hot Luncheon

Start the school year right with attractive hot lunches when the children come home from school. Here is a tempting luncheon which also contributes much of the vitamin and mineral content necessary for vitality and efficiency in the student.

Lamb Patties with Apricot Halves
1 1/2 cups fine whole wheat bread crumbs
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1/2 cup butter
1 lb. ground lamb
1 egg
1/2 to 2 teaspoons salt
few grains pepper
sliced bacon
12 canned apricot halves

Mix bread crumbs and milk and let stand for about five minutes. Cook the onion in one tablespoon of butter over low heat, stirring occasionally. Combine the lamb, onion, bread crumb mixture, slightly beaten egg, salt and pepper and beat until well mixed. The mixture will be soft. Shape into twelve patties and wrap a slice of bacon around each. Fasten with toothpicks.

Broil on one side, turn over and place apricot halves on one side of the broiler rack. Dot the apricots with butter and continue broiling until the lamb and bacon are well cooked and apricots are lightly browned. Remove toothpicks and serve.

New Responsibility For Motorists

With the re-opening of school, the motorist has had a new responsibility placed on his shoulders. The return of thousands of children to classrooms has greatly intensified the traffic safety problem and calls for alertness and watchfulness by every automobile driver.

Although they are cautioned and lectured by both parents and teachers, and although they are given protection at many intersections by the police department, one never knows when through some youngster's mind is going to flash the desire to dart out from the curb across the street.

The State Department of Motor Vehicles has waged a persistent campaign through classroom lectures, motion pictures and pamphlets to educate children in pedestrian safety. Statistics show that it has brought results. The gains which have been recorded in reducing accidents involving children primarily are credited to safety education among the youngsters themselves. Accident records speak with no particular emphasis on the part of the motor vehicle operator.

Too often, we fear, in spite of warning signs, motorists are inclined to forget that they are nearing a school zone and that they must be ever watchful.

But as Motor Vehicle Commissioner Magee points out, the safety of the school children is not the responsibility of one group. It calls for the closest of cooperation on the part of all.

"It would seem needless," the commissioner states, "to exhort the cooperation of parents in instructing children in the rudiments of safety. Experience, however, has demonstrated that this is not the case. Many parents are remiss in their responsibility in this respect, a failing that is human but too often tragic."

One Fact Clearly Established

The conference between the commissioners and some of the merchants Tuesday night established one fact — everybody is agreed that there is a parking problem along Washington avenue, but there was a variance of opinion on the method by which it should be solved.

Some merchants argued that the congestion in their area was not sufficient to warrant the installation of parking meters. Enforcement of one- or two-hour parking limits is all that would be necessary to ease their troubles. Some agreed that the area between Rutgers and Williams streets is in need of the meters.

Mayor Williams and several others pointed out, as has been said before, that meters are not the absolute solution of the problem. Parking areas for the sections most heavily used by shoppers would be the answer.

There were several views expressed. From the comments of the business men, each section along the Avenue has its own conditions with which to deal. However, something must be done to ease the situation.

We Can't Agree With Him

Recently we read an article from the Public Utilities Fortnightly by W. M. Maupin, former member of the Nebraska State Railway Commission, in which he stated that it is the communities, not the railroads, which must get business back to the rails if branch lines are to exist. Belleville is on the Newark Branch of the Erie Railroad and through the years folks have watched it dwindle until today it is only a shadow of its former self.

Now, no passenger trains run on Sunday. Three chug into Jersey City in the early morning and return in the early evening on weekdays. Saturday the trains return in the early afternoon.

"The back-to-the-rails movement," Mr. Maupin wrote, "must begin at the grass roots. It must begin right where rail abandonment threatens the pocketbooks of those who live along the branch lines. The pocketbook is the most sensitive nerve it is possible to touch. Taxes for the support of the public schools make up the major part of the taxes collected."

Well, Mr. Maupin, the part of the taxes for the schools would be all right if the state collected them. At the moment, this point seems to be causing a lot of trouble hereabouts. Secondly, although the money from this source has been earmarked for the schools, the State Legislature year by year has been able to juggle the books so that the money usually wound up some place besides in the schools' pocketbook.

The part that interests us most is the statement that it is the community's responsibility to put lines such as the Newark Branch back on its feet. There was a day when everybody who worked in New York travelled back and forth on the Erie. In Parking meters should be given a trial in some section. Experience is the best teacher, and the survey which has been made by the Department of Public Safety in other municipalities indicates that the meters have proven their value and have been a help to the merchants. Let's give the meters a trial. Others asked Commissioner Clark to enforce the one-hour parking law, which has its drawbacks because it virtually would take at least two policemen away from any other department duty.

Any or all of these things can be tried. We think that the commissioners are just as much aware of the problem and what it means to local business as are any of the merchants. However, the several angles which the condition presents warrants experimentation and study. Whether it be done by local persons who are qualified or by an outsider, we think it would be a worth while investment for the town to make a thorough study of the problem and the ways in which it could be solved so that it would be beneficial to the merchants and still not work an undue hardship on them.

fact, the railroad undoubtedly helped to build up into suburban communities such places as Belleville. But, commuters like everyone else, are interested in service. The buses came. They increased their service while the railroad cut what they were giving their patrons.

Naturally, the public took to riding the buses. But, one line on the brink of financial collapse is now conducting a transportation experiment which from what we have heard has proven a success. That is the Susquehanna branch line, which is some sort of a second cousin to the Erie Railroad. The Susquehanna runs from Weehawken out through Bergen County to Paterson and on up to Butler.

The line has replaced its steam passenger trains with fast, less expensive one-car motor trains, which incidentally, don't make the noise that the diesel engines do along the Erie. These cars are air-conditioned, attractive looking and comfortable, smooth riding. Instead of unloading the passengers on the Weehawken waterfront, they are discharged in the meadows where an express bus picks them up and speeds them through the Lincoln Tunnel into the heart of New York.

The venture, we are told, is helping to put the line back on its feet. There is a road which, like the Newark Branch, was on the way out. But, its directors did not merely sit around and bemoan the state of affairs. They did something about it. They gave better and faster service — service that the bus lines could not beat.

No, we cannot agree with Mr. Maupin, that keeping the branch lines in business is the job of the community. If the railroads give service, they'll get the business.

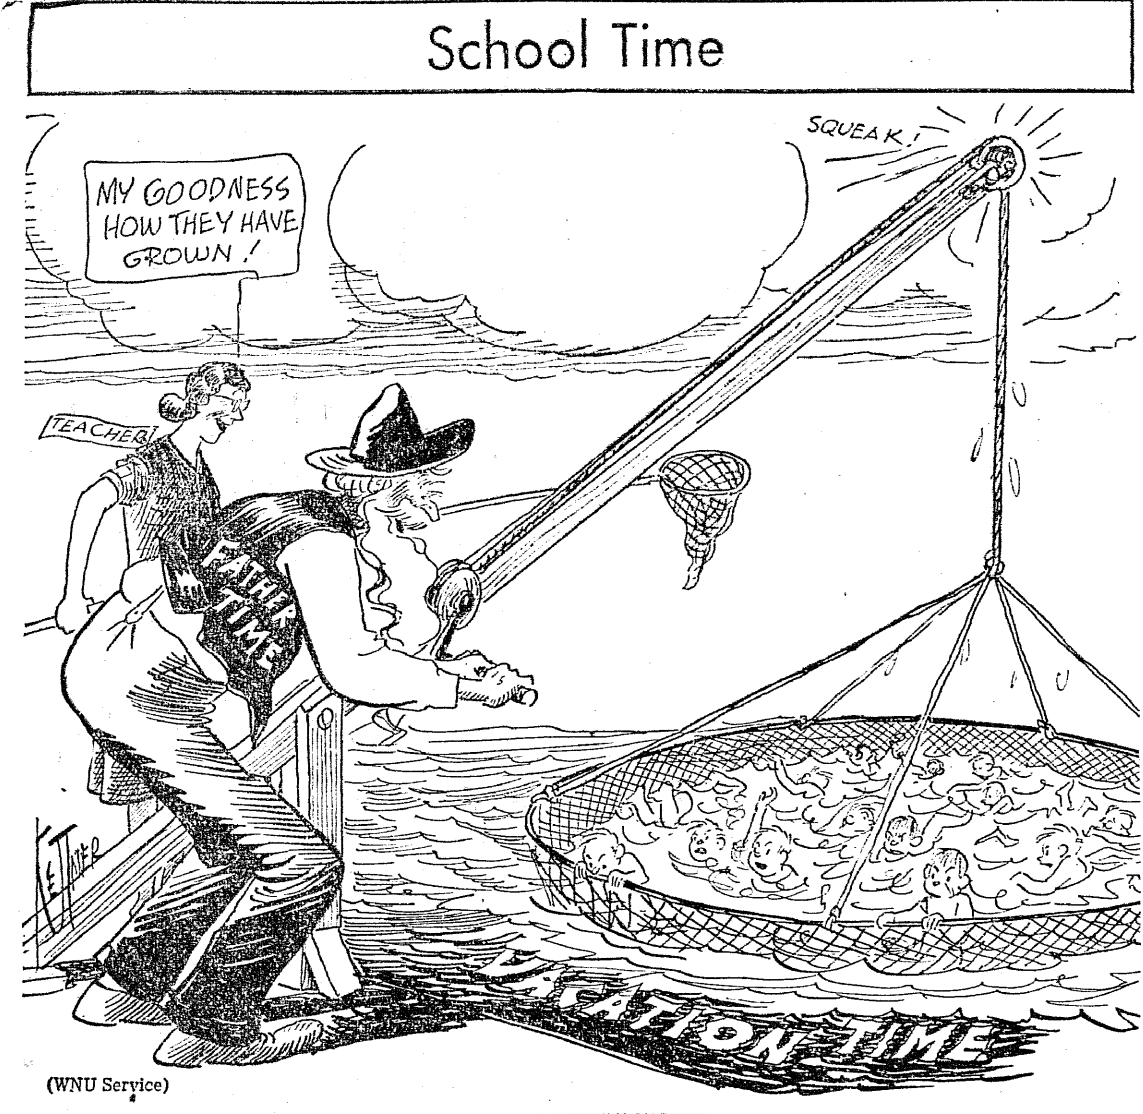

Red Cross Effort In First Aid

One of the most noteworthy of the many activities which the Red Cross conducts is its effort to interest people in taking first aid courses. None has been more active in this work in this section than the local chapter. Following the success of the course held last spring, it now announces that an even greater number will be enrolled in the classes which will start shortly.

Without any major reason to prompt instruction, first aid knowledge is valuable to almost anyone for there is no telling when it may help to save some person's life. In an effort to prepare ourselves for national defense, first aid knowledge is vitally important in the work which civilians may perform in event of an emergency.

Activities such as this are what make the Red Cross a great organization. They offer the opportunity to learn to all, and as many as possible should accept the invitation.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

by Meador Wright

The reported move to probe into the business transactions between Thomas A. Edison, Inc. and the State Highway Department suggests the apprehension over the initial investigation of the Highway Department ordered by Governor Edison. Nothing would serve better to dramatize the initial investigation than for a legislative committee to start its own private cement probe. It is obvious that if Edison had had anything to fear from an investigation, he never would have ordered it in the first place. His company has sold cement to the Highway Department, but it is extremely unlikely that these orders were obtained by subversive means.

Reports are that the second phase of the Roger Hinds investigation will turn up the real pay-dirt. This will deal with actual contracts involving a total of millions. Many of the companies and individuals who obtained these contracts have connections with present and past members of the New Jersey legislature. The huge sums involved will make the average reader sit up and take notice.

Generally it is assumed that these contracts were let to the lowest bidders, but the fact that so many of them were to friends and associates of legislators will naturally arouse suspicions of the gravest nature. Readers of this column should keep their eyes on the Hinds investigation. Unless I have been badly informed, disclosures of the most sensational nature are in prospect.

Psychological Blunder? Another prospective legislative investigation that promises to back-fire, although in a different direction, is that of the Attorney General's office. David Wilentz's motives in seeking a Chancery decision on the constitutionality of the recent railroad tax settlement are open to serious question. But from a legal viewpoint his actions appear proper.

Governor Edison, in my judgment, made a bad psychological blunder when he issued statements pointing out possible harm the civil information suit might cause. The strategy the Governor should have pursued was to have issued a short, dignified statement which questioned the motives of Mr. Wilentz, but accepting nevertheless the legality of the suit. The Governor was on faulty grounds both legal and psychological when he sought to bring public pressure on the attorney general. The Senate, if it carries out its investigation, will simply be making an ass out of itself as usual.

The repercussions that eventually may come from the Wilentz suit are likely to be different survey made by The American Kennel Club, governing body of pure-bred dog activities in the United States, is the increasing interest being taken by boys and girls in the care of their pets. Dogs always have been favorites with boys and girls, but there was a time when they would leave the feeding, washing and grooming, and the occasional medication of these pets to their parents. But through a campaign of instruction, directed through various organizations, the boys and girls are coming to look upon the care of their dogs as an interesting game, worthy of their attention.

The care of dogs may seem a small step in the direction of adult responsibility, but it is a definite movement in the right direction. The boy or girl who gives thought to the services needed by a dog forms a habit of thoughtfulness.

In the care of pet dogs, the boys and girls also are coming to have a greater idea of animal anatomy. As a consequence, many no longer are satisfied with mongrel pets. They want pure-bred dogs. And once they own pure-breds they are qualified to compete in children's handling contests and in judging contests conducted at AKC shows. Some eventually learn to train their dogs and compete in the obedience test division. But whatever field of organized dogdom they select, they finally develop themselves into the best type of citizens.

Congregation A.A.A.

317 Washington Avenue, Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin.
Regular Kabbalas Shabbos services will be held tomorrow evening at 6:30.

Sabbath morning services, 9:30; Rabbi Dobin will speak on "The Significance of Constitution Day." Mincha evening services will be held Saturday afternoon at 6:15. The time-honored Selichos services will be held Saturday night (Sunday morning) at 12:30 a.m. Rabbi Dobin will officiate. The Selichos ceremonial originated many centuries ago. It consists of the chanting of a group of individual prayers, poems and essays, written by the great rabbis and sages of former years. Part of the "Selichos" is traced back to the seventeenth century.

The word Selichos is derived from the Hebrew source "selicha," which means "forgiveness." The individual Jew is exhorted to repent and to prepare himself for the searchings of the "Yomim Noraim," the high holy days of Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur. He is reminded of these days and of their deep significance. The "Selichos" ritual serves to bring to the individual his vast responsibilities in this hour.

The Woman's Desk

by PEGGY PATTERSON

The annual Women's Exposition, which will be held next month for the eighteenth consecutive time, will be more than a display and judgment of handwork, according to preliminary announcement from the New York headquarters of the organization. The "arts and handicraft advisory committee" plans to launch a national program which is designed to focus attention on handwork from a new and larger standpoint than mere competition. These women feel that a psychological bulwark for steady nerves lies in the field of manual activity. They have even adopted a slogan, "Steady Hands—Steady Nerves."

While this seems a little drastic for a nation which is not wracked by the physical reverberations of conflict, still it indicates the wise precaution and the tremendous scope of the idea back of the movement. Modern American occupations and the demands of the modern family have not tended to make expert needlewomen, weavers, knitters or designers out of the usual homemaker; but we cannot forget that there is an un-failing army of women who have transmitted these arts from generation to generation and to them the nation owes a debt of gratitude. They have accomplished an intangible, but no less great, result. For they have passed along the will to create without which all the accessibility of materials and directions are a total loss.

Developed By Women

It is to be noted too, that in periods of duress and strain, notably during the intervals when this country has been suffering from external or internal strife, some of the finest and most enduring patterns and designs have been developed by women who were playing the favorite craft of their day.

Weaving, quilt making, needlepoint and other arts have been the mediums for these accomplishments which have proved to be far more than "self-expression." They have been, rather, an expression of the indomitable will of Americans to preserve their characteristics. These efforts have been noticeable whenever such characteristics have been threatened.

It seems, with women anyway, that war in other nations, and threats to their own homeland, cause an inward-turning of the mind, a new concentration of those re-assuring elements of life which is very healthy and which history proves has resulted in a preservation of some of this nation's most powerful contributions to the better living. It is almost as though they looked upon chaos in other parts of the world and turned with new vigor to immerse themselves in their familiar and loved surroundings and thus blot out for themselves and their families all that is ugly.

Success has unfailingly crowned their efforts. And you must have noticed that magazine after magazine has recently devoted painstaking articles to the individual methods of handwork. The exquisite and durable household items and wearable garments which have been adapted to modern use on the basis of these original patterns should be an inspiration to any woman. And the practical application which the Women's Exposition wants to further should also have a definite appeal.

They have recognized in unsettled world conditions, the harried atmosphere of business and new responsibilities of parenthood many forces which are working to undermine the quiet graciousness and charm which is any woman's right.

It is also, as we have previously suggested, one of the most essential items in a woman's paraphernalia to increase the tranquility of her home and thereby contribute mightily to the defense efforts of the nation. It is necessary to be well informed, of course, on the fast moving events which today move in narrowing circles toward our own way of life. But most women can profitably limit their intake of such news and not put undue strain on their taxed nerves. Handwork has a therapeutic value in this respect.

We might add that women who are patriotically conserving the use of their automobiles and thus limiting their diversions may well substitute some craft which will open a new world to them.

MOTORISTS WILL BE SURPRISED

P. A. Fort Home From Detroit After Preview Glimpse of New Dodge Models

Predicting that motorists will be surprised and delighted with the styling, mechanical innovations and novel design features of the newest Dodge All-Fluid Drive models, P. A. Fort of Fort Motors Co. of New Jersey at 25 Washington avenue, has returned from a meeting of Dodge dealers and their sales personnel held in Detroit.

At the gathering, officials and regional executives of Dodge presented reviews of activities during the model year just closing, and presented detailed plans for passenger cars and truck merchandising activities, especially in connection with the newest Dodge passenger cars which will have their public introduction shortly.

"A prime feature of the meeting was the dealers' preview of the new cars, factory samples of which had been specially shipped to the conference," said Fort.

"While the cars impressed all who viewed them by their eye-filling beauty, no public statement of mechanical details is authorized just yet. The full list of these details will be revealed at 'announcement time.'"

"Since my return from the Dodge dealer's meeting, many owners have asked for information regarding substitute materials. Were any used? And where? And what were they?"

"I think the point was neatly put by one of the factory engineers present at the meeting when he explained that in the few instances where the new cars do incorporate these materials, these materials are, without exception, improvements over older ones. The speaker proved how engineering progress in the automobile industry continually develops keener intellects, improves existing methods, and creates better products."
