

SALARY POW-POW DATE NOT SET, MAYOR SAYS

No Promise On Increases
Made To Men, Williams
Claims

Mayor Williams said yesterday that no definite date had been set as yet for a conference of the police and firemen with the members of the town commission on possible salary adjustments. Williams said that it would be held between now and the first of the year and that the only agreement that had been made between the board and the police and fire committee was to study the present salary ordinances.

The mayor denied that any promises had been made to the men of $100 annual increase or any other amount.

"No amounts were discussed at that conference or any other to my knowledge," Williams said.

The board at a special meeting Thursday night adopted a resolution requesting the county clerk to remove the referendum question in which the police and firemen sought $300 increases from the ballot in the November election. A week before the board had passed a resolution asking County Clerk Gates to put it on the ballot.

The commission's action was mandatory following the receipt of petitions bearing nearly 4,000 signatures which had been obtained by the police and firemen. The committee representing the two branches of the public safety department conferred with the commissioners Wednesday night and said that they wished to have the referendum withdrawn.

Legal Point Raised

During the week the legal question has arisen as to the right of the town commission to withdraw the referendum since it had been instigated by the signatures of registered voters. County Clerk Gates said that he would be guided by the wishes of the town commission and would not place the question on the ballot.

In legal circles, it was said that the only way the referendum could be forced on the ballot now would be by a petition to the court by some local person who had signed the petition. It was held highly unlikely that any such action would be taken since the petition sponsors, the police and firemen, had requested that it be withdrawn.

The mayor said that the board knew when it conferred with the police and firemen that its action was not to be taken.

Everything In Readiness For $16,000 Chest Drive

Campaign Chairman Kittle Points Out That Belleville Is Seeking Less Per Capita Than Any Other Community In This Section

With one week to go before the opening of the Community Chest drive for $16,000, Campaign Manager Hugh D. Kittle, high school principal, reported that the organization of all groups is moving along smoothly. Reports from the various committee heads and division leaders were received at a meeting of the Belleville Welfare Federation held at its Washington avenue headquarters Tuesday night.

No general meeting of the 1,400 or more workers will be held before the campaign is opened next Thursday. Kittle said last night. Territories have been mapped out and each group which has promised its cooperation in the house-to-house canvassing has been assigned.

"It is worth while pointing out to the residents how our drive and the amount which we are requesting from the public compares with other communities in this vicinity," Kittle said. "We are asking for $16,000 and based on a per capita breakdown, our request is far below that of other places."

Compares Per Capita Quotas

He went on to show that Bloomfield's request of $53,900 with a population of 41,636 amounts to $1.05 per person. West Essex with $35,662 and an estimated population of 35,662 has a per capita change of $1 per person. Newark with a quota of $900,000 has a per capita quota of $2.11 per person and the Oranges with $460,000 being sought has a quota of $2.19 per person. Belleville's per capita quota with an estimated population of 28,059 is only 59 cents per person.

Kittle said that he believed it showed that the Welfare Federation and the participating organizations are making a sincere effort to make their funds stretch as far as possible and ask the public for as little money as it is possible for them to function with properly.

Of the $16,000 which is being sought, $9,000 has been earmarked by the Federation for the Community Service bureau. $2,000, Boy Scouts; $1,250, Girl Scouts; emergency fund reserve, $1,000; $900, Visiting Nurses' association; $600, Silver Lake Community house; $750, administration; $500, campaign expense.

The high school students are bent on doing their part in the campaign. This week the senior class headed by John Higgins challenged the rest of the school to compete for the greatest percentage of students who contribute to the Community Chest drive.

ABC HEAD RAPS BOARD ACTION

Driscoll Condemns Lightness
Of Penalty In Kraus
Liquor Case

State Alcoholic Beverage Control Commissioner Driscoll last week rapped the town commission for the sentence which it meted out to Max Kraus, proprietor of the Kraus Liquor Shop at 562 Union avenue, who was found guilty of having sold liquor to a minor.

"Whittling away" a 10-day "minimum" penalty imposed on the dealer to three days.

Reviewing the record of the case, which was heard by the board of commissioners several weeks ago, Driscoll noted that the board had cut three days of the penalty because the licensee had allegedly pleaded guilty. Another three days was lopped off, Driscoll noted, because the minor, although only 17, was taken off because of the licensee's previously good record.

The ABC boss also remarked that the suspension was made effective on primary day, September 21, when all liquor establishments are required to be closed until 9 p.m., so actually the penalty handed out was slightly more than two days.

"This is a curious procedure which, if followed in other cases might very well lead to disastrous results," Driscoll commented.

It may be proper to remit a portion of a sentence when a defendant pleads guilty and the municipality and the state are saved the expense and time of a hearing, but Kraus was given a hearing and nine defense witnesses testified.

The commissioner concluded that giving less than the minimum penalty is "no way to control the sale of liquor to minors." In the testimony before the town commission, based on the investigation of ABC men, it was learned that Kraus' 22-year-old son had sold the liquor to 17-year-old Frank Kriz while his father was absent from the store. Kraus was sent to purchase the liquor by John Donaldson of Greylock parkway.

Defense Head

Everett B. Smith

The defense council organized Tuesday night at town hall and elected Police Judge Everett B. Smith its chairman. It was the first meeting of the group since Mayor Williams made the appointments in mid-summer.

Martin F. Tiernan, head of Wallace & Tiernan company, was named vice-president and Arthur Clark, secretary to Mayor Williams, its secretary.

The group will meet again within the next few weeks to appoint committees and outline duties. Prior to the organization of the council, a law and order committee in charge of Police Chief Spatz and Fire Chief Reed was named by Mayor Williams last March. It drew its membership from 150 veterans who volunteered their help.

Williams said yesterday that this committee would now become a part of the defense council.

Isolantite, Inc. made an effort late yesterday afternoon to crack down on the strike at its plant and to end the mass picketing which has been going on daily there since the C.I.O. instigated walkout of employees nearly three weeks ago.

An application for an order to show cause why the C.I.O. should not be restrained from picketing and other strike methods at the Cortlandt street plant will have a hearing before Vice Chancellor John O. Bigelow in Newark tomorrow morning at 10 a.m. It is being sought by the company through their attorneys, Pitney, Hardin & Skinner of Newark.

Undersheriff Wilson H. Kierstead and six deputies from the sheriff's office arrived shortly after 3:30 yesterday afternoon to attempt to serve summonses on C.I.O. organizers and strikers named in the complaint, which contained a list of sixty-one names.

When the sheriff's men arrived mass picketing was going on under the eyes of a detail of local policemen. As soon as the word was passed about that Kierstead and his men were there to serve an injunction notice, the picket line broke up and the strikers headed for the old fire house in Stephens street where a quickly called meeting was held to decide what to do about the summonses.

Kierstead's first efforts to serve the summons on the strikers proved fruitless. For the strikers professed that they were not the persons named in the complaint. John McDonough, C.I.O. organizer for the United Electrical Radio & Machine Workers of America, did accept service from Kierstead. He told the strikers that he had called the C.I.O. attorney, Samuel Rothbard, and that he had advised the strikers to accept the summonses if they were approached by the sheriff's men.

The strikers, however, still refused at 5 p.m. to take the summonses. One woman, who had been identified by a plant worker, would not accept the summons when it was handed to her and let it fall to the ground where other strikers trampled over it. Another woman tore the papers up when given to her, while another kept insisting that she was not one of the strikers. The sheriff's deputy claimed she was.

The complaint seeks to enjoin the C.I.O., its officers, agents, servants and representatives.

What Injunction Wants
It requests that an injunction be granted to prevent the strikers from picketing, collecting or gathering on the streets or sidewalks near the premises of the Isolantite plant. It also requests that they be prevented from addressing persons working for the company, that their alleged efforts to intimidate, induce and coerce employees be halted. It also seeks to stop the strikers from parading, patrolling, loitering or picketing and further asks that they be stopped from going to the complainants' homes.

The company also seeks to halt the strikers from allegedly interfering with or hindering or obstructing its business and from boycotting or attempting to boycott the company's products. It further requests the vice chancellor to prohibit the strikers from making threats of violence or doing violence, molesting trucks or attempting to obstruct the delivery of goods, from urging employees to violate the American Federation of Labor contract which the company now holds. It also asks that the strikers be refrained from carrying banners or signs.

Undersheriff Kierstead, after he saw that it would be almost impossible to serve the strikers at their meeting place or on the picket line, made plans to serve them individually at their homes. He said it would take the better part of the night to trace some of them down.

Denies Allegation

Kenneth D. Hamilton, company vice-president, could not be reached for a statement last night on the Isolantite action. However, earlier in the week Hamilton vigorously denied for the company the allegation contained in the petition which the C.I.O. has been circulating for presentation to the town commission. The petition requested the town to reimburse "all known criminals who have been imported here by the A.F. of L. and are now on the payroll of the Isolantite company." Hamilton flatly denied

Front end appearances of all five series of new Oldsmobiles are similar and present an artistic combination of headlamps, parking lights, fenders, radiator grilles and bumpers. Contributing to the sturdy and massive front end design are Oldsmobile's exclusive "double-duty" bumpers, which also provide great added protection to the car.

That is the case. The strikers received a setback on Thursday when the National Labor Relations Board refused to call an election at the plant to determine whether the A.F. of L. or the C.I.O. should be in control of the employees. The NLRB held that the A.F. of L. contract is good. The C.I.O. is understood to have appealed to the Defense mediation board.

Yesterday was the second time within a week that the sheriff's men have been sent here. On Thursday, after an outbreak in which eight pickets were arrested by police, the sheriff's men were called and Undersheriff Kierstead and twelve deputies arrived. Deputy Police Chief Leighton requested the assistance after a conference with Public Safety Director Clark, claiming that there were not sufficient police to handle the situation. The sheriff's men continued policing the job until Monday night.

Early yesterday morning after another skirmish in which four pickets and a C.I.O. organizer were arrested, Police Captain Jamerson and five Nutley policemen arrived to give the local police a hand.

No Police Dog
There is no recognized breed known as a police dog, says an authority. What is commonly called a police dog is a German shepherd—the correct name for the big, intelligent breed of shepherd that experienced such a popularity rise after the war.

FLYING BLIND?

Foggy weather is dangerous because it reduces vision. Planes stay in airports.

Yet many workers with "foggy" vision—with faulty eyesight that dims and distorts everything they look at—earn their living at machines with moving parts. They drive cars. They cross busy streets. Danger dogs their footsteps. But they don't know it—because they think they are seeing all right. The only way of being sure that sight is right is to have it examined.

Good vision is a benefit available to all. Optical science can correct 95% of visual defects.

Good vision means safer living and happier living. . . . Work more quickly and more efficiently performed. . . . freedom from eyestrain, headaches, and fatigue. . . . greater pleasure in reading, sports, and other leisure-hour recreations.

Make sure that YOU see clearly, easily, quickly. Have your eyesight examined—NOW.

For 1942—a Beautiful New

FORD

"6" OR "8"

IN THESE UNUSUAL TIMES we invite you to inspect an unusual new car—in its beauty, its comfort, its choice of two fine 90 horsepower engines, 6 cylinders or 8.

See it and you sense at once that here is new style that will stay good for years. On a lower, wider chassis, we have designed new long, low, wide and modern lines.

Interior treatment is entirely fresh, distinctive, pleasing. The beauty of this Ford will more than hold its own in any company.

Inside, the car is big—wide across the seats, generous in knee-room, leg-room, elbow-room.

On the road this year you find the "new Ford ride" still further advanced in its softness, quietness, steadiness and all-round comfort.

At the wheel, you will find driving easier than ever. Steering, gear-shifting, action of the big and sure hydraulic brakes have all been made smoother and easier.

In quality, the car is sound to the last detail. Defense requirements have all been met without a single reduction in the basic and lasting goodness of the Ford mechanically. Some new materials have replaced old ones, usually at a greater cost to us, but in every case the new is equal to or better than the old.

If your family needs a new car, go see and drive this Ford. For what it is today and for what it will be through the years ahead, we believe that you will find in it more and better transportation for your money than you have ever found before.

Maybe, It Is Psychological

Belleville high school football followers are feeling bluer than Leo Durocher and his Dodgers. And, if that isn't pretty low, then we don't know what it is to feel blue.

Based on the first three games, the outlook for the rest of the season for the Bellboys is anything but what Roger W. Babson would call favorable. In fact, he'd probably say it was lousy if he knew that the Zebras had to meet Clifford Scott, Irvington, Hillside, Newark East Side, Kearny, South Side and Teaneck in succession.

Those games won't be any tea-party gatherings and unless they change a bit, it's likely that our boys will be dumped overboard in most of them.

Folks keep looking around for a reason to explain this sad state of affairs, and they become more burned up when they see schools around Belleville rolling up box car scores and repeated victories.

We've tried to figure it out, too. The boys we see walking up and down Washington avenue are just as healthy looking, as big and whatnot as the fellows we see in other towns. But, we keep hearing stories that they won't go out for football, or if they've been out before they won't come out this year.

We're no Thorndike, but in fishing around for a reason to explain this sad state of affairs, we've hit upon thought that Belleville's plight may be as much a psychological one as it is anything else. Would you like to keep taking a beating year after year with little or no chance to strike back and do some beating of your own?

Of course not, and neither do young football players. It's discouraging, disheartening and we imagine that some of them would rather be on the sidelines than playing with a losing team.

The point that we're trying to steer around to is that for the present it would be just as well for Belleville to admit that it's not in the class with Bloomfield, Barringer, Irvington, Kearny, et. al. and ease up on the schedule. There's no crime in that. Give the school a winning team through easing up on the opponents and we'll wager the price of the tax to a game that the difference will show not only in the players and aspirants for the team but in the student body. School boys and girls are just like everybody else. They love a winner — and they wouldn't care whether Belleville was playing Bloomfield or Delaware Heights so long as they won.

We're not trying to beat down the present team. Larry Gates has had tough luck. Some of the vets from last year were dropped out of school, others won't come out for the team and he's had to start from the bottom with one or two veterans. And on top of that, he's been asked to play one of the toughest schedules that any school team in the state has this year.

Belleville will never get back on its football feet when the players and those who might want to play see that all Saturday afternoon means to be on the short end of things. The defeatist attitude must be overcome.

If You Judge By Scores

If comparative scores mean anything the Irvington Camp-towners and our own Iron Dukes look like the cream of the North Jersey Professional Football league. Both teams are sitting on top of the heap at the moment, and if anything, the Dukes are a little higher.

Two weeks ago, our boys crushed the Bonton Panthers 31-0 while the Campers were having a tough time beating the Bloomfield White Horses 9-6. Last Sunday while the Dukes were breezing by the Tri-Boro Spartans, the White Horses and the Panthers were battling to an 0-0 tie. The Campers had a scoring harvest, too, shellacking the Elizabeth Stars in their league 30 to 9. That November league game between the Campers and the Dukes should really be something.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Moniot of Trenton were Sunday guests of Mr. Moniot's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Moniot of Bell street.

IRONMEN WALLOP TRI-BOROS 33-0

Tietze, Slavin, Cardinale, Crocco, Kucinski Star In Triumph

The Belleville Iron Dukes were as hot as the day Sunday and while a crowd of 2,000 sweltered in a 90-degree heat, the gridders pounded up and down the municipal stadium turf to win as they pleased from the Tri-Boro Spartans of Rutherford, 33-0.

George Tietze, Charlie Crocco, Chet Kucinski and Frank Cardinale were the shining satellites for the local gridders as they hung up their second straight North Jersey Professional Football league victory and remained in a tie for first place with the Irvington Camp-towners for the local leadership.

Tietze galloped 60 yards for the Dukes' second score while Crocco purred the ball 25 yards to Willie Furlong for the first six-point period. In the third period through center for 10 yards to score. Cardinale on one of the prettiest plays of the game went through center for 22 yards in the same period, while Kucinski passed to Ed Slavin for the final touchdown near the end of the game.

After a listless first quarter in which most of the play was in Tri-Boro territory, a poor kick gave the Dukes the ball on the visitors' 30. Crocco faded back and passed to the left 25 yards to Bill Furlong standing on the goal line behind Spartan defenders. Art Furlong's try for the point was made.

Tietze Gallops 60 Yards

Late in the same period Cardinale took Dabek's kick on his own 40, was trapped, turned and lateraled to Tietze who reversed his field and scampered down the left sidelines 60 yards to score standing up. John Reilly's conversion was good and the Dukes led at halftime 13-0.

Early in the third period a kick by Dabek from deep in his own territory skidded off to the side and went out on the Tri-Boro 25. Cardinale on a fake pass went five yards through right tackle, and then on a fake reverse to Crocco the former all-state speed merchant zoomed through center 20 yards for the third score. Art Furlong booted the extra point.

The Tri-Boros then opened with one of their frequent but fruitless punting flurries which was halted when Tietze intercepted on his own 40. He scampered around right end for nine yards. Another try by Crocco at center brought nothing and then on the fourth down Cardinale, looking for that extra yard, plunged through center and turned and twisted his way for 40 yards before Spartan tacklers finally brought him down on the 10-yard mark. The forward wall opened a big hole in the Spartan defense and Crocco roared through and over the goal line. Reilly's boot made the score 27-0.

Slavin Takes Pass

From deep in their own backyard the Tri-Boros started passing, with Dabek doing most of the pitching. It brought nothing and late in the fourth period Kucinski returned a kick from his own 40 to the visitors' 49. Chet then faded to the life and passed to Ed Slavin on the 20-yard mark from which point he wended his way over the goal line for the final score. Art Furlong's try for the point was not good.

Coach Joe Vollmer used plenty of substitutions throughout the game and every man on the bench saw some action. The Dukes came out of the game unscathed in contrast to the game with the Bonton Panthers when Bud Hollweg suffered a dislocation of the left knee and was hospitalized for several days. Hollweg sat in a car on the sidelines Sunday and watched his teammates in action.

Announcer Bert Leach kept the crowd informed on the World Series game with an inning-by-inning report while many folks brought along portable radios so they would not miss a moment's action in the Dodger-Yankee tussle.

Clifford Scott Won't Be Soft Touch For Zebras

East Orange Eleven Was Unbeaten Last Year; Bellboys Showed More Offensive Strength Against Bengals, Although Losing 25-0

The Belleville high school gridders won't be playing any soft touch on Saturday when they meet the Clifford Scott high school team of East Orange at Clearman field. A newcomer to the Bellboy schedule, the Clifford Scott boys are filling in an open date on the Blue and Gold grid calendar.

The East Orange eleven was unbeaten in the regular season last year and started out this campaign by beating Morristown high but then lost in a surprise upset to Summit high school.

Although they were stopped by Bloomfield on Saturday 25-0 in the worst beating the Bengals have been able to give Belleville in some years, the Bellboys displayed more offensive power at moments than they did in either the Barringer or Lyndhurst contests.

A little bit more luck against the Bloomfielders and the Bellboys might have pushed over another touchdown. Inability of passers to connect with eligible receivers proved costly, while their running attack bogged down twice within Bengal territory, once on the 13-yard stripe early in the game.

Suprise man in the Bellboy backfield was Findlay, who in the fullback's job, did well, while Grum, a new end candidate, showed up, well on the forward wall as did those two heavyweights, Flynn and Caruso.

The team which Clifford Scott will bring here will average better than 170 pounds on the line and about 160 pounds in the starting backfield.

The visitors are coached by John Picken, who led them through their unbeaten season last year. Clifford Scott is a new high school, having had a football eleven for three years.

Basketball Quintets Get Ready For New Season

Industrial Senior Circuits Ready; Church Intermediate Leagues Will Organize Monday; Games Will Be Played at High School

Recreation Director Ed Lister could be accused of rushing season or else he's just being plain foresighted and well prepared Monday afternoon when most of us were thinking about the Series or a nice cool place to sit in the shade, Ed was busy putting out the final details of the league schedule for the senior and trial recreation basketball loops.

Both circuits will play in the old gymnasium at the high school with the industrial quintets scheduled to start Monday evening, November 17, and the seniors on the following night. The church league will play on Monday evenings in the new gymnasium beginning November 17.

There will be a meeting Monday night at 8 at the recreation house of all teams interested in joining the church and intermediate leagues.

Teams which have signed for the senior league are Rosery, defending champs; Haffner's, Baldwin Brush, Royals, Belleville Elks and the Eagles. Those which will

Why Agencies Need Money From Community Chest

(This is the third of a series of brief articles about the organizations which benefit from the Community Chest drive. The purpose of these stories is to inform the public of the work which each of the beneficiaries performs.—Ed. Note.)

Silver Lake Community House

One cannot fail to realize that the community house and that for which it stands is progressively exerting a beneficial influence, not only upon the social life of the neighborhood but upon its moral life as well.

The Community house is looked upon by most of the population not as a social welfare or charitable institution, but rather as a clubhouse in which the boys and girls feel pride in membership. It is a place for them to congregate for clean and healthful recreation and their club meetings, conducted to a greater or lesser degree under parliamentary rules, instill in them a certain amount of disciplinary restraint in the daily conduct of their lives, both inside and outside of the community house.

During the past year there were 40 clubs and groups meeting in the house. Of these there were one club of older married men, two clubs of groups of ages ranging from 24 to 70 years, one with a membership of 35, the youngest group is composed of children from three to five years of age. There are two Girl Scout troops (one colored) and a troop of Boy Scouts. They conduct a circulating library, classes in woodworking, sewing and handicraft; home nursing and child hygiene; a baby clinic under the supervision of the Belleville board of health; a gymnasium, games room, billiard and ping pong tables, lounge room for the older boys and a sitting room for the older girls. Community dancing and guest nights are regular features.

A summer program is conducted on the playground. Athletic contests including softball and volleyball, hikes, tournaments, campfires and shows are some of the activities entered into. An attempt is made in the programs to give to the children of the community training, discipline and recreation so that they may enter manhood and womanhood better physically, mentally and morally.

Into the daily life stream of a population such as the Lake Harbors, flows every human emotion and directly or indirectly these emotions or their offsprings, wend their way to the community house. They come to the directors with their joys and their sorrows, with their troubles and their problems, with their deaths and their births. This one wants a doctor, that one a nurse, some need food, some clothing, this one wants a midwife for her daughter, that one has a son who has been put out of school and she wants them to intercede with the principal to get him back. They want to get on WPA, they want more relief, and so it goes. The community house stands lighthouse-like, a beacon whose rays send forth a "welcome" to one and all.

Girl Scouts

Girl Scouting goes marching on trying to keep in step as usual, although it has its ups and downs. This past year the Marine ship started on a "cruise" on Washington avenue and is being sponsored by a joint committee of the police and fire departments. They have enjoyed many trips, on their boat down the river and out to sea. This program is offered to girls of 15 years and over.

The girls of other troops have been camping at their cabin in South Mountain reservation and also the established camps at Camps O-A-Ka and Wo-Koda, bringing back records of much work accomplished in swimming, boating, handicraft and horseback riding.

The troops meet weekly at various schools and churches. Beside this, there are hikes, instruction classes in many fields of activities and trips to New York and Trenton. Belleville Girl Scouts are now planning another day in the state capitol early in November to close the annual Girl Scout week starting October 26. Each spring the rally held at the high school gym attracts crowds of parents and friends. This year the history of American folk dancing was presented. In costumes of each period producing that particular dance, the scouts acted out the historical event and followed with the dance. Girl Scouts finished work in cooking, housekeeping, sewing, electrician, hostess, first aid, troop, community and country badges. The girls assisted in work at the theatre, in several national drives, the aluminum collection, the community chest drive and sold cookies to raise some money for the Red Cross.

The Mothers' club grouped together and assisted the Scout council in many ways.

All the leaders and several council members took training under the direction of a national leader at the Women's club early in the spring. Instruction was offered in both intermediate and Brownie work.

MINOR LEAGUERS WIN TWO GAMES

Beat Vailsburgh Tigers 12-7 To Close Baseball Season

The Pittsburgh Minor leaguers closed their twelfth season on the diamond Sunday when they defeated Charlie Weber's Vailsburgh Tigers in a doubleheader played at Ollema field in Irvington. The Minors won the first 12-2 and the nightcap 7-5 to ring up their seventeenth and eighteenth wins of the season.

Bill Lister, on the hill for the winners in the opener, allowed two hits and struck out five in registering his ninth win. Jerry Zuzzo, Ed Gutman and Lister all worked the second game with Gutman getting credit for his only win of the season.

Batting guns for the Minors were Frank Lynch, Ed Halky and Henry Lubben. Lynch connected for a homer in each contest, one with the bases full, to drive in seven runs for the two games.

They Are Deserving of It

We recently read an article by a columnist who said that what this country might possibly need would be a change of leadership because of the general apathy and the state of confusion which seems to be prevalent throughout the nation. This may be a rash idea, but it starts one thinking about some of the things we are doing—or not doing. As an example of his criticism, the columnist pointed to the low morale of the army and the reluctance of young men to go into the service.

It's about time that the public in general did something to spur on these boys who are entering the army. What have we been doing about it? About all the local attention they've gotten is to get their names in the papers. Then, on the day of departure, they have been piled into a bus and shipped off to camp. Not a very appreciative gesture on the part of the town for boys who are asked to give a lot for little return.

How much more it would mean to these young men going into the army if they were given a real send-off with an official touch to it — perhaps a short parade down Washington avenue before they boarded a bus to be transported to Newark.

Recently, we witnessed such an event in a nearby community and it left an impression upon us as we observed it did upon many of the other people who stood on the curb while the army-bound young men marched past. With a band playing martial music leading the way, it was a spinetingling sight. One that won't be soon forgotten. And those young men who were bound for service could not have helped but feel that their town and its people were behind them.

We came away from that brief ceremony with the thought that something similar should be done by every draft board. Not just once, but every time a group of young men leave for the army. Why should they be shunted off into a bus for long service without some encouragement and recognition from the people for whose protection they are making a sacrifice?

It brings us to the idea that not only Belleville but every draft board should take on the additional function of fusing public spirit in similar ceremonies. It would be one way of helping to build up public spirit, the lack of which we are hearing so much about. Draft boards touch millions of lives. They can make their influence felt not only with the public but among those who are being sent into the service through giving the men a fitting send-off.

We know there's a job to be done on the public. Patriotic fervor and loyalty are not at the high pitch that they should be for these times. And one of the best ways to rouse this spirit which is now lacking and to show that we think they are doing an important job is to join in bidding the drafted men good-bye in a rousing manner — not just shipping them off without public notice of any kind.

Hartley's Speech Had Some Good Points

Some readers may not agree with Congressman Fred A. Hartley's viewpoints on the international situation or the course which this nation should pursue. However, his nation-wide radio talk of last week rang clear and loudly on several points with which we must come face to face.

The congressman dwelt on the dissension and discord heard among a number of groups and raised the question of what has caused it.

"It is because," Hartley said, "those who are formulating our foreign policy have constantly promised one thing and have done another. Step after step has been taken in the name of peace and yet, after each step was taken, we have found ourselves closer to the brink of war."

Then, farther on in his speech, the congressman got into what we believe was the real "meat" of his subject when he declared:

"The time has come for those in authority to stop kidding the public. It is high time that frankness and truth take the place of deceptive campaign oratory. It certainly must be obvious to everyone that we cannot continue along the road we are travelling without definitely heading into the war in all probability, an undeclared war. As long as we are to continue on this path, our war effort, and that is what it is at the moment, will be impaired by internal strife and discord. The facts, costs and implications of our involvement in war should be made plain to all. Our people should be fearlessly told that all the billions thus far allotted for 'lend lease' are but 'a drop in the bucket'.

"The decision of peace or war should not be left to one man, and in the interests of national unity, the decision should be made without further delay before steps have been taken that will so involve us that we cannot retrace them," he added.

"If we have a war to fight, let us fight it and not merely pay the bills," the congressman emphasized.

There was much to that speech, and to us the important feature was the congressman's attack on the policy of keeping the public in the dark about the real state of affairs and what this government's real policy is and what future course it can be expected to take. The biggest fear of many people is that President Roosevelt, through his various personally directed, committed and ordered moves, will lead us into the war through the back door.

The public does not realize and no effort has been made to make them understand the true picture — that things are more muddled than they have ever been before because no established program has been mapped out to be followed. We have been jumping from one fence to another in hit or miss fashion and it is bound to catch up with us.

Keeping Down Non-Defense Expenses

Billions of dollars have already been earmarked for defense expenditures and indications are that the President will ask for more billions during the next few weeks. That it is all out financially and otherwise for the defense of this nation and aid to the allies is a foregone conclusion, but there must be some tightening up some place or this nation will bog down in a mire from which it will never be able to recover.

Leaders throughout the country are becoming increasingly conscious of the necessity to pare down non-defense expenses. This calls for a watchfulness not only in federal expenditures, but those of states and municipalities. We have passed through a period since 1930 in which we have seen government expenditures ballooned to almost unbelievable heights. Public works programs to provide employment for thousands have been a primary factor in the rise in costs which has been witnessed, but in giving work to these people we have at the same time permitted improvements which were not vitally necessary.

Many projects, which heretofore have been blocked for one reason or another, have been dragged out of the closet and dressed up in new "vital defense" finery. With money flowing like water from the government troughs it is easy for enterprising politicians to label something as "defense" and get it approved and funds allocated for its construction. Guarding against such practices, to us seems one of the important functions that legislative representatives should perform.

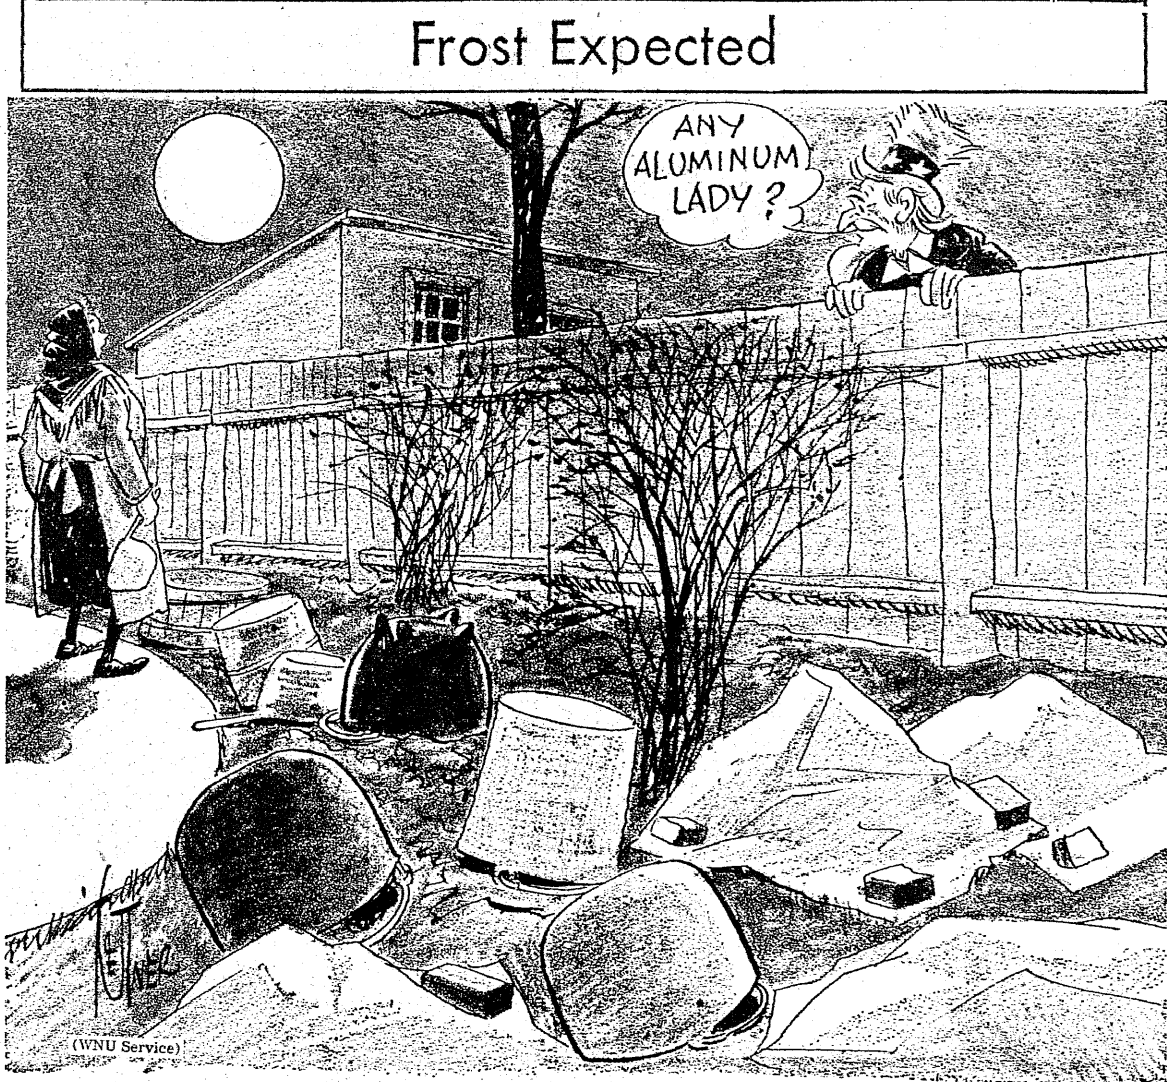

Not only should expenditures for improvements be watched, but other expenses should be carefully weighed and analyzed before putting them on the public budget. Taxpayers have had years in which their burdens have been heavy, but to put it in slang parlance, "you ain't seen nothin' yet." Taxes for the billions which are now being put out for defense materials and machinery must be paid for and it is the present taxpayer and his children who are going to pay for it. It therefore becomes the taxpayer's duty to protect his own interests by keeping an eye on what government bodies are doing and letting elected officials know his viewpoints.

Dr. Robert A. Millikan, famed physicist, says that numerous new scientific wonders are in store for us. He believes that the post-war era will produce some amazing developments in transportation, international communications, public health and other fields. In the not too distant future, he thinks we may be riding in automobiles built partly of milk, using fuel distilled partly from sweet potatoes, over roads made partly of cotton. New inventions, he believes, will be more far-sweeping in changing our lives than did the radio or the automobile.

Forty-five thousand different operations are involved in the manufacture of modern airplane engines.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, speaking in Chicago recently, gave taxpayers a hint of what is to come. Defense expenditures are "inadequate," he said, and the 1941 tax bill is a "good start" but not large enough to raise the necessary revenue, check inflation or take the profit out of war.

Odds and Ends From Other Pens

History Repeats Itself

It is always interesting to note how history repeats itself and it has frequently been stated that New Jersey, in these war-like times, is occupying a place very similar to the State's position in the Revolutionary war over 150 years ago. In those days New Jersey supplied cannon balls, wheel rims, axles, chains, bolts, rivets and camp stoves, from its iron mines, for General Washington's army. In the present emergency, New Jersey is manufacturing a large portion of airplanes, ships and other equipment for the world conflict now going on. The state is fulfilling its part in the national program of defense with skill and speed, though few people realize the extent to which the business and industrial resources of the state are being applied to the all-out effort.

The figures showing the amount of material and projects allocated to this state are almost staggering for they reach over the billion-and-a-half mark. More than 600 plants are manufacturing vital supplies and all this is said to be only the beginning. More and more is to be asked and thousands are receiving intensive training according to a well-organized plan, to supply the demand. The number of men so engaged will exceed 30,000 by February of next year, it is estimated.

Thus it seems apparent that New Jersey is destined to play a part similar to that which it played when this country was fighting for its independence, for the things made then are represented in planes and ships now being turned out at the greatest possible speed.

Provoking An Issue

Obstruction to a constitutional convention is being advocated in South Jersey counties as the one hope of retaining for the smaller counties the disproportionate representation they now enjoy in the state senate where acreage, rather than population, is the basis of representation.

Nothing could be more shortsighted. The people of the more populous counties are not now disposed to deprive the people of the less populous counties of the protection of strong representation in the senate. There is recognition of the need for balance. The people of North Jersey are concerned primarily with modernizing the antiquated structure of our state government.

If the South Jersey counties assume an attitude of obstruction, they will in effect create an issue that does not now exist. Obstruction will create a demand for representation by population in the senate. If the majority of the people are aroused over this issue, they will not long tolerate obstruction and may find a legal way of changing the basis of representation in the senate.

There is no disposition to lessen the influence of the southern counties in Trenton, but the disposition may arise and gather force if the convention proposal is foiled by the southern counties.

Building For Tomorrow

The pattern of life tomorrow is being determined by the planning and preparing which is taking place today. The children of today will be the ones who build the world of tomorrow. We must therefore prepare them today to make that tomorrow the kind in which we so firmly believe.

Parents learn a lot in the course of their lives, some of it by bitter experience, others by the easy way of precept and example. Parents want their children to avoid the pitfalls into which they fell; they want to be sure that the same mistakes are not repeated. So they strive to equip them adequately for the trials, temptations, disappointments and successes of life.

One of the most essential parts of this training is religious training and experience. To provide this is a dual responsibility of the home and of the church. The church is prepared to do its part through its services, its Sunday school, and its related activities. But it must have the full cooperation of the home. As good Americans, as good Christians, every parent should enroll their child in the church school so that the child may share in this fundamental part of our American heritage.

Government's Vast Printing Waste

Daily we are impressed, bewildered, and disgusted by the enormous volume of printed matter that comes into the office from government departments, bureaus, and agencies.

Of this 99.9 per cent goes into the waste basket, pronto, some of it not even opened. Multiply this by the number of names of newspapers and other businesses and personages on the mailing lists of these departments, bureaus, and agencies! Think of the enormous waste!

And it's a waste that could be eliminated without causing any slightest loss or disadvantage to any government department, bureau or agency.

Whatever is of value in these hand-outs comes to the newspaper through their own representatives or through the press agencies.

All the meat of the matter is published in dressed-down form.

No editor has time even to glimpse this vast burden of communiques.

If used in their original form they would fill many pages of a newspaper every day.

It's time this waste ended.

The Root Of It

The New Jersey Roadside council wants the state to set up a roadside landscape commission, independent of the state highway department. Its job would be to "proper and adequate landscaping" along the state highways.

The council's objective is commendable. New Jersey's excellent highway system offers little that is pleasing to the eye. Along many miles of its roads extend some of the worst automobile slums in the world. Putting in a few shrubs and evergreens will help in some spots, but it won't remove the eyesores.

Something more drastic is needed. That something is a state roadside zoning law, regulating the use to which property abutting on state highways may be put. Many miles of roadside are still unsightly. Now is the time to prevent their improper development.

In areas blighted by unsightly hot dog stands, vegetable shacks, blowy taverns, tar-paper gas stations and other obnoxious structures, zoning would still be useful by requiring demolition or reconstruction immediately or upon change of ownership.

Only a long-range program going to the heart of the problem can bring New Jersey's roadside standards up to the levels established in other states, where natural beauty has been preserved and man's disorder and carelessness have been curbed.

Soldier Writes Home Letter About Field Maneuvers

Private Herman Doell, whose home is at 169 Linden avenue, writes home this week about going into the field for maneuvers. Young Doell, who is a former First National bank employee, is with Company F of the 13th Infantry at Fort Jackson, S. C.

His letter written last Thursday to his mother is as follows: It just stopped raining. I'm in my tent and it's now 6:45 p.m.

We arrived here Monday morning at 9 a.m. The trip in trucks took about two hours. This is to be our base during maneuvers. We live in tents, six men to a tent, thirty tents to a company and about 400 tents in our regiment. Our beds are made of straw-filled mattress cases and are on the ground. I have a blanket and a comforter and sleep comfortably. I have an extra blanket in my field roll in reserve.

Tuesday morning bright and early we took another truck trip of about 30 miles. There we sort of rehearsed for Wednesday's activities. Tuesday night Vic and I took a walk to the highway and found a general store (which was later about bought out) and also found a large sanatorium. We went in and talked to and cheered up a lot of patients. A few other soldiers were there too. We had to be out of there at 9 p.m. (end of visitors' hours). All the patients had tuberculosis.

Wednesday we put on the works for the cameramen of newsreels and movies. Our battalion (1,500 men), judged the best trained in the regiment and our regiment best in the division,

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

by Meador Wright

The best selling book of a while back, "Quiet Flows the Don," has assumed a kind of symbolic importance for Essex Republicans.

As Hitler's armies threaten to make the Don the bloodiest and most unquiet river in the world, the coming campaign in Essex can be epitomized in the phrase, "Quiet Flows the Passaic." As the Russian river runs more turbulent, that in Essex appears more peaceful. Whether or not control of the land on the banks of the Passaic shall rest with the Republicans or be transferred to the Democrats seems of little importance; when Armageddon, itself, is being fought in the region of the Don. Which is but a long way of saying that interest in the coming election is zero, and that this minus quantity has Republican leaders worried.

By all of the conventional rules of politics the election on November 4 should be a walk-over for the Republicans, with the exception of a partial defeat in 1936 due to the Roosevelt landslide of that year, the Republicans have won every election in Essex since 1931 by a comfortable majority. They won these elections in spite of the strong Democratic trend throughout the nation and with the Democratic party in New Jersey united. Today there is no warm enthusiasm hereabouts for the New Deal and, moreover, New Jersey Democrats are in open civil war. Why, then, should the Republicans be worried?

The answer goes back to the Russian war. Voters in Essex are simply not interested in the coming election. There is too much competition from the outside world. True, lack of interest should affect the Democrats too, and probably will. But political strategists know that sudden upsets often come about during periods of abnormal crisis. The Democrats have everything to gain from confusion, and nothing to lose. As far as the election is concerned, they would like to see the Russo-German armies contending on the Hackensack meadows. But the Republicans have a great deal to lose on November 4, and this stake makes them cautious.

The Democratic split just now is three way. Edison and Hague have broken completely. Furthermore, Commissioners Byrne and Keenan are sulking in their common camp, mad both at Hague and Edison. They are mad at Hague and McMahon because of the opposition during the recent Newark election. Edison stayed out of that contest, which was all right, but with the election over he immediately conferred with McMahon and Prosecutor Wachenfelf about the County ticket and ignored Byrne and Keenan.

All this adds up to complete confusion. But what Arthur T. Varderbilt and his associates fear is that word will go out eventually from both the Hague and the Byrne-Keenan camps to back up the Essex ticket to the limit. It is four weeks until election as this is being written. Two weeks are sufficient to get the Democratic machine in motion if it is to function at all. If the professional party boys should join hands with independent voters who might possibly adopt Edison on a considerable scale, a tough fight might develop. The Republicans admit that they are worried largely about a painted devil. Their situation is a good deal like that of the late and lamented Dodgers who were leading with two out in the 9th inning. By the usual laws of chance the game had been won. But something happened at Ebbets field and they figure something might happen again.

My own guess is that the Republicans will win handily, and the campaign that is being fanned by these fears makes victory more likely than ever. My guess at this writing is that they will win by a majority of between 30,000 and 40,000. But two more weeks must elapse for me, too, before I can be reasonably sure.

of the municipal welfare department to the Municipal stadium. If the step is taken, will it not mean hardship to many relief clients? To receive the weekly stipend and commodities periodically distributed to those who can go to the relief office for them, many would have to walk a mile. How about the elderly and others unable to negotiate the distance without serious detriment to their health? Transportation facilities are poor—negligible for many. Even were there direct transportation, there would be many for whom the fare would be almost prohibitive. Winter is coming with its ice and snow. To walk a mile and then retrace the distance laden with supplies would be a real hardship to some of the neediest.

The idea of our town fathers to save money for us citizens must be commended. The way the finance department has been operating to pull Belleville out of its slough of debt is something for which we should be pleased and proud. (Perhaps too few of us realize the hours of thought and labor that have gone into the job.) But I wonder if the actual working out of this particular plan is not going to spell tribulation for many already hard hit.

FINAL SERVICES OF SUCCOS

Jewish Feast of Tabernacles To Be Held Sunday, Monday And Tuesday

Services for the final days of Succos, the Jewish Feast of Tabernacles, will be held by the Congregation Ahavas Achim at its Synagogue on Washington Avenue on Sunday evening and on Monday and Tuesday mornings at 9:30 a.m. Evening service will start at 5:15. Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin will officiate at all the services.

The day is known as "Shemini S'theres," the day of solemn assembly coming after the seven days of the holiday. According to custom, the time honored prayer for rain, "geshem," is recited at this service. Also included in the first day's service is the Yizkor memorial prayer which will be said Monday morning at 10:30. Rabbi Dobin will officiate and will preach on the topic "Life Eternal."

Tuesday is given the name Simchas Torah, or 'Rejoicing of the Law.' The ritual of this day is a matter of growth and development from the ninth to the sixteenth centuries. It serves to perpetuate the continuity of the reading of the law, the Torah. When the last lines of Deuteronomy are read, they are immediately followed by the reading of the first paragraphs of Genesis. It is customary at this happy festival to parade around the synagogue with the holy scrolls and with flags, and to indulge in happy pastimes. This is known as 'Hakofos.'

All these ceremonies will be observed at the services of the congregation. A traditional 'Simchas Torah' party will be held in the social hall for the children on Monday evening at 6:30. All parents and children are cordially invited to attend.

There's a chutney recipe, new to us, which seems particularly appropriate for this time of year. It mellows with age so make it now and bring it out in the cold weather to be served with hot roasts—or, with the cold cuts on Sunday evenings.

Banana Chutney
12 firm bananas
4 cups chopped tart apples
1 cup finely chopped onions
½ cup chopped dates
1 cup vinegar
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon ground ginger

Use all-yellow bananas. Peel and cut crosswise into one-half inch pieces. Combine with remaining ingredients. Simmer two to three hours, stirring occasionally. Pour into clean, hot jars. Seal immediately. Test for cooking time by placing a spoonful of the mixture (after the first two hours of cooking) in the refrigerator until thoroughly cold. If it is sufficiently thick when cooled it is finished.

AMERICA'S NO. 1 COWBOY

GENE AUTRY AND CHAMPION

At present there are any number of singing cowboys who never saw a cow, but Gene Autry, who will again be the guest-star at the Sixteenth Annual Championship Rodeo in Madison Square Garden, October 8 through October 26, was a sure-enough cow hand in Texas, his native state.

Driving stock from the range into a little railway station, he would sometimes have to wait hours and the rhythmic dot-and-dash of the telegraph instrument fascinated him. In no time he mastered the Morse code.

Why punch cattle on the lone prairie when the whole world was at the tip of his fingers? He became a telegrapher and was found by the late Will Rogers who advised him to go on the air or in pictures. Gene did both.

Now he is No. 1 Cowboy of the screen, the radio and the singing records with 50,000,000 kids all over the world as his fans.

Gene will have with him at the Rodeo this year his two screen horses, Champion and Champion, Jr. He will put them through their routine and during his singing number six pretty Ranch Girls and a herd of Texas Longhorn steers will assist.

The rodeo this year will have the usual western sports contests, and several new features. More than $50,000 in prize money will be contested for by more than 150 cowboys and girls. Six hundred head of wild range stock will be at the Garden.

Despite the draft, the defense program and the world at war, this year's rodeo promises to be tops.

pect street was hostess Tuesday at two tables of bridge.

RELIEF QUARTERS AT STADIUM

Town Expects To Save $1,200 Annually In Rent By Change

Public Works department men are renovating a section of the municipal stadium quarters so that it can be used as office space for the relief department. It is estimated that the saving of more than $1,200 per year will be effected by the removal of the relief office from its present quarters in Mill street to the stadium.

A two-fold purpose is being served by the plan. Not only will department expenses be cut, but janitor services will be provided for the stadium at no additional cost.

The plan to transfer the office was agreed upon at a recent conference Mayor Williams, who has charge of the stadium, had with Commissioner Waters, public works director, and Commissioner King, who handles relief.

It is estimated that the renovation work, which is being done under the supervision of Town Engineer Matthew J. Sheehan, will cost less than $1,000. Included in the expense will be the completion of the heating plant which was halted when the WPA halted its work on the stadium project.

It is expected that the work on the offices at the stadium will be completed within the next two or three weeks. John Flanagan, who is at present janitor at the Mill street relief offices at $1,100 per year, will be transferred to the stadium, and in addition to the relief offices will look after the other parts of the structure.

Location of a janitor will permit the town to open the stadium and its lavatories during the day, Mayor Williams said, so that all of its facilities will be available for the young people.

The town at present pays $1,200 annually in rent for the building which is used as the relief quarters in Mill street. It has been used as the poor office for the past six years.
