

MORE THAN 200 ARE CAMPAIGNING FOR RED CROSS

Officials Explain That Half of Membership Dollar Is Used Locally

Throughout town Red Cross workers are going from door to door seeking memberships from residents in a drive to reach the goal of 4,500 members for the local chapter. Under the leadership of Roll Call Chairman Daniel Spillane, more than 200 workers are now campaigning in the hope of reaching the 4,500 mark by the end of the drive on November 30.

A meeting at which final instructions were given to captains and workers was held in the Elks' club Monday night. Frank Chambers, chapter president, and Spillane were the principal speakers.

Red Cross officials explained this week that not all of the Red Cross dollar contributed in individual memberships goes to Washington. Half of it remains here to be used by the local chapter in the work it carries on throughout the year. Funds are used in its production committee work, home service and temporary aid to veterans and those needing temporary relief who can not at the moment be aided by the relief department or the Community Service bureau. In addition some funds must be used for administrative expenses including the cost of maintaining a headquarters at the Woman's club in Rossmore place which is weekly used by the various branches of the organization in their work.

Are Helping Army

An important part of the work of the home service committee has been carried on recently by Fred Evans, principal of School No. 10. Red Cross throughout the country is cooperating with the army in investigating families to learn if conditions warrant the release of soldiers from the service to help support the family. Recently, Evans has been investigating as many as 20 cases per month. John Hewitt, welfare director, was placed on the executive committee since many of the cases which Evans is called upon to check have already been thoroughly investigated by the relief staff. In such cases, they are referred to Hewitt for a report.

Local people having relatives or friends abroad in the war zone, about whom they are concerned and can not receive any sign inquiry and information service which is conducted by the vice which is conducted by the chapter. Without any charge to them, the Red Cross through its national headquarters will send a cablegram of 25 words or less to a foreign country to seek information, an ad cable of similar length will come back explaining the situation where the person has been discovered.

This is the first time in a number of years that the local organization has conducted an independent roll call. In the past, the Red Cross has shared in the Community Chest but this year pulled out of the organizations participating. It was originally asked to work for 3,000 memberships, but the increased demands which are being made upon the Red Cross for service forced national headquarters to ask the town to make an effort to get 4,500 members.

Keeping Up Attendance Even Though Walking

Students in the Silver Lake and Soho sections aren't playing hooky from school just because they have to walk to the high school each day instead of riding buses. High school Principal Hugh D. Kittle reported yesterday that attendance had been above normal since he suspended the bus service last week for pupils residing in those two sections.

Damage which had been done to one of the buses forced the action, although it was understood that school officials have been troubled with the condition numerous times in the past.

As Belleville Observed Armistice Day

Big Turnout On Tuesday For Armistice Day Parade

Annual Event Draws Many Entries As Thousands Watch Drum Corps and Marchers; Military Men Do Judging For Prize Awards

For more than an hour Tuesday night Washington avenue was a continuous stream of marching drum corps, veterans' units and other patriotic organizations as this town observed Armistice day with its annual parade. From the time that white-capped Police Chief George Spatz gave the signal for police department marchers to start off from Greylock parkway and head south down flag-bedecked Washington avenue until the blare of the bugles and the beat of the drums of the last drum and bugle corps had died away, an estimated crowd of 10,000 stood and watched along the mile-long route.

It was a cold, chilly night and maybe it was this that kept down the number of scantily-clad drum majorettes, a usual fixture strutting before blaring drum corps. When one of the few did come along, the crowd gave them a rousing cheer.

Rienzi Corps Wins

Once again the red and white uniformed Rienzi corps of Ridgefield park and its marching unit took first place.

In front of the town hall the units passed in review before the keen eyes of a group of six military judges who rated them for the prizes offered by the Armistice day committee. Heading the judges was Col. Theodore C. Voelter of this town. Others were Lieut. Col. Joseph E. Mirandon, Major Francis E. Devine, Capt. James F. Cooper, Lieut. William Acker and Lieut. Norman Hancock.

The corps were judged for general appearance, general effect, cadence, bugling and drumming. The march was delayed for about a half hour. When it finally got under way it was headed by a police escort of two motorcycles followed by the police department, the members of the town commission and the high school band.

Others in addition to those already mentioned marching included the American Red Cross, Belleville Girl Scouts, St. Ann's drum and bugle corps of Newark, Belleville Boy and Sea Scouts and Cubs, American National Cadets of Plainfield, St. Patrick's drum and bugle corps of Newark, Henry Vreeland Junior corps, Ironbound drum and bugle corps, Bloomfield Junior American Legion, Our Lady of the Valley of Orange, Pavlick Koster Jr. V.F.W. of Wallington, Holy Family drum and bugle corps of Nutley, H. G. Barringer post of Lyndhurst, St. Mary's drum and bugle corps of Nutley, Connecticut Farms American Legion corps of Union, Crawford Crews post, DIAMONDS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, at prices always in line with the quality of the merchandise offered. The finishing touches are being put on the real estate and insurance office which John F. Coogan Jr., former tax assessor, plans to open within a few days at 136 Washington avenue, an earshot from the town hall where he was employed for 11 years until he resigned his position on November 1.

In the real estate business for the past 22 years, Coogan, who is a long-time Belleville resident, plans to specialize in tax appraisal work and representing applicants for mortgage loans including FHA financing, in addition to the general insurance and real estate practice.

A graduate of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, Coogan has had wide experience in tax appraisal work. Prior to his appointment as tax assessor and deputy commissioner of revenue and finance, he was the head of the real estate firm of John F. Coogan & Company.

During his time at town hall he was active in establishing the listing of town-owned property to be sold for building purposes. He also had direct supervision of tax foreclosure proceedings which resulted in the town acquiring properties that are now being sold or are available for sale.

Associated with Coogan will be Elmer E. Bennington of 658 Belleville avenue, a long-time local resident. He operated a meat market in Montclair for a number of years and was also manager of a Wagner market for seven years.

Coogan hopes to be ready to open his office on Saturday although he is carrying on his business at the present time. The former assessor made his first appearance before the town commission in a private capacity Tuesday night when he represented Janet Uchan in her $2,500 bid for town-owned property at 41 Joramelon street.

Mayor Williams in moving for it to be put up at public sale remarked that he thought the price was a bit low. Coogan injected the remark that it was a cash and not a term offer.

HEARING NOV. 25 ON PAY, LIQUOR AMENDMENTS

Board Favors $100 Salary For Cops, Firemen; Liquor Men Want Earlier Opening

Two important ordinances have a hearing before the town commission on Tuesday night, November 25, in which there will be considerable public interest introduced at Tuesday's meeting.

An amendment to the police and fire department salaries ordinances which would permit the granting of $100 salary boosts to the 62 members of the two departments to go into effect on January 1 of next year.

On petition of a number of liquor dealers an amendment to the liquor ordinance was introduced which would permit the taverns and package stores to open at 12 noon on Sundays instead of 1 p.m.

The board members were unanimous in voting for the two measures on introduction. Following the conference between the police and fire committee and four of the board members last week, the commissioners met briefly before Tuesday's meeting and agreed the $100 pay increase, it was reported.

Although ever since the police and firemen had agreed to withdraw their referendum petition for a $300 raise, it had been rumored that they would be given a $100 increase next year, it was denied by town commission members that any promise had been made.

The decision of the board to recommend the $100 increase came one week after 23 municipalities had voted down proposals for increases for police and firemen ranging from $200 to $500.

Only 3% Rise In Total

Mayor Williams explained that the proposed increase would actually mean a jump of about three percent in the total payroll of the two departments. Retirement will cut $4,975 while replacements, including promotions will be $3,500. A saving of $1,400 means that $2,100 in increases will add $4,725 to the total.

If the amended ordinance passed the salaries for men in the two departments will be as follows:

Police—Chief, $3,600; deputy chief, $3,500; captain, $3,100; sergeant, $2,700; lieutenant, $3,000; sergeant, $2,700 to $2,900; patrolman, $1,900 to $2,600.

Fire—Chief, $3,400 to $3,500; deputy chief, $3,200 to $3,300; station chief, $3,000 to $3,100; lieutenant, $2,700 to $2,900; fireman, $1,900 to $2,600.

Edward J. Abramson represented the liquor dealers in their plea arguing that the opening of taverns and liquor stores in Newark at noon on Sundays has resulted in business losses for local men who are forced to open an hour later.

Commissioner Waters was the most outspoken of all of the board members in favor of the amendment. He said the ordinance, he said, "just flock over to line into Newark at noon time Sundays."

Forum Debater

Sinclair Lewis

"It can't happen here," asserts Sinclair Lewis, while Lewis Browne counters that fascist rule can invade America. Their debate, which is the second event in the Town Hall of Essex County series sponsored by the Griffith Music foundation, will take place Monday evening at the Mosque theatre, Newark. Houston Peterson, director of the Cooper Union forum, will serve as moderator.

Sinclair Lewis, a literary giant of contemporary America, is known for his clear and penetrating vision of the post-war boom years, his caustic witty comments on current problems and forthright analysis of issues before the people of this country. "Main Street," his first important novel which in 1920 was the center of a bitter controversy, "Babbitt," "Arrowsmith," "Dodsworth," and other early works were so successful in English and translation that they won for Sinclair Lewis in 1930 the honor of being the first American ever to receive the Nobel Prize for Literature.

London-born Dr. Lewis Browne came to America as a boy, studied at the University of Cincinnati and the Hebrew Union college, and after graduation became rabbi of the Temple Israel in Waterbury, Conn. He resigned this post after a spirited defense of free speech had led to disagreement, and moved into a deserted farmhouse where he wrote against a dwindling pocketbook to complete his history of the Jews called "Stranger Than Fiction." In the Orient he collected first-hand information on Eastern religions for his book "This Believing World" which has been ever since the most popular of all studies of comparative religion. His other books include "The Graphic Bible," "All Things Are Possible," "Oh Say Can You See the Old Old Cross" and two biographies, "Blessed Spinoza" and "That Man Heine."

Another?

Why can't they let the "Star Spangled Banner" alone? It may not be a great musical composition from the vocal standpoint, but we notice that it has stood the wear and tear of time for all that. In its present form it has become a symbol of Americanism: let it remain so.

And now comes along the well-known Igor Stravinsky with a new setting of the Star Spangled Banner for use as a sacred chorale. Its publishers very graciously inform the public that the right to perform the version of the national anthem has been extended to all radio networks and symphony orchestras with no restrictions and no fees. Very generous, but after all why another version of something that is nationally patriotic, and well serves the purpose.

Is It Impossible?

Serge Koussevitsky, eminent conductor of the Boston Symphony, firmly believes that all symphony concerts should be brought to the public at the same popular prices of admission as charged by the low-price picture theatres. He has gone on record as saying that the former way of supporting this type of music through guarantee funds is on the wane and should be definitely ended, although the wealthy art patrons have done good work in their time. Also, Mr. Koussevitsky feels that the people at large would appreciate and patronize such an opportunity. He, of course, bases his conviction on his personal experience with the Berkshire Festival on the grounds of the Tanglewood estate, where there has been average audiences of 9,000, the low admission (on the grounds) prices more than paying for the cost of the performances.

"As long ago as 1909," Mr. Koussevitsky states, "I gave concerts in Moscow and St. Petersburg at which we charged only fifteen cents for tickets. The hall was packed with workers and poor young students. I have never enjoyed any concerts as I did those. The response was electrical."

Someone asked the famous leader of the Boston orchestra: "Would you include the Boston Symphony orchestra in such price-lowering?" The reply was: "Certainly, and I wish that it could be the first of the major orchestras to set the example."

Let's Watch!

A Latin-American theme has been chosen by the composer, Nicolo Bereozski as the subject of his new opera to be offered in English next spring by the National Orchestral association under Leon Barzin.

Two of the Puccini triptych which were given their world premiere at the Metropolitan Opera house in 1918—Gianni Schicchi and Saur Angelica, will be repeated this season.

Recipe Column

Few people will want to overlook the essence of American tradition in their holiday preparations this year. Thanksgiving menus, it seems to us, should embody the spirit which produced the feast instead of featuring too many innovations. One of the items which fits the day, and tides over the festivities if any of its spiciness remains, is fruit cake. Since it should be ripened for several weeks now is an excellent time to make it.

Dark Fruit Cake
1 1/2 pound citron, cut fine
1 pound raisins, chopped
1 pound currents
2 cups chopped nuts
4 cups sifted flour
1/2 pound butter
1 cup sugar
5 eggs
1/2 cup cider
1/2 cup tart jelly
1/2 cup sour cream
1 cup molasses
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
Prepare the fruit and nuts carefully.

One of Smallest States

With an area of only 38 square miles, San Marino is one of the smallest states in the world and in many ways the most unique, says the Washington Post. Although an independent republic, Italian influence is strong. The government nominally consists of a grand council of 60 members, one-third of whom are elected every two years. Two members of the council are chosen every six months to act as regents, these being the executives of the republic. Legend has it that the republic was founded in the Fourth century by St. Marinus of Dalmatia.

SYNAGOGUE DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

Herman B. Wische Heading
Campaign To Enroll
All Families

The membership drive sponsored by Congregation Ahavas Achim of Belleville to enroll every unaffiliated family in the community will start officially on Monday, according to an announcement by Herman B. Wische, chairman. The drive is being undertaken following a recent "Loyalty Days" announcement by religious leaders of the nation asking for a special effort to enroll every citizen in a church or synagogue.

Wische explained that membership brochures have been sent to every interested party and that members of his committee will visit personally with every head of a family, inviting him to join.

Rabbi Dobin, spiritual leader of the synagogue, and Edward J. Abramson, president, are acting in an advisory capacity. Two teams have been appointed by the chairman and they will divide the work between themselves. Dr. B. A. Jacobson, captain, will have the following on his team: Abe Atkins, Harry Fellman, Irving Garson, William Abramson, Murray and Jack Steinhauer, Sam Lindenbaum, Jack Orinsky, Louis Haft and Dave Biebelberg. Samuel J. Kogan, captain, will lead Dr. Morris Rochlin, Morris Berkowitz, George Cherin, Morris Gottschalk, Martin Kabot, Bernard Holzman, Herman Kessner, Harry Roth, Mike Smith and Neil Holzman.

The headquarters of the campaign will be at the synagogue, 317 Washington avenue.

New Leader

Miss Pearl Lindenbaum

Miss Pearl Lindenbaum of Cortlandt street has been selected to lead the Young Judaea Girls' club group which meets at Congregation Ahavas Achim. Miss Lindenbaum, who is a well-known pianist in this area, and who has had experience in leading young girls' groups, will conduct a program of activity under the supervision of Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin, spiritual leader of the congregation.

The Young Judaea Girls meet at the synagogue center every Wednesday afternoon at 4. All girls 12 years of age and older are invited to join.

A daughter, Phyllis Adrienne, was born to Mr. and Mrs. David Pollach of Union on Friday, November 7. Mrs. Pollach was the former Miss Nettie Haber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haber of Cedar Hill avenue.

The Woman's Desk

by PEGGY PATTERSON

A new standard of perfection will be reached in the creation of toys for the growing child if the programs are carried out which have been suggested by leading educators and parents' organizations. The American toy, we are told, has already reached a high degree of durability and artistic perfection. Perhaps more valuable is its ability to satisfy the needs of its little owner—for a toy is often of far more value to a child in his mental and emotional life than an adult is aware.

Proof of this, we think, can easily be detected in the way a child adapts his playthings to the needs of the moment, while a doll seems to be the logical representation of companionship and is expected to take the place of a real person, it is often a ship, a little auto or an airplane which he snuggles under his pillow or leaves on his bedside table at night. It seems as though he is loath to relinquish the train of thought which this companion of his active play has generated. He wants it to greet his eyes when he opens them to a new day.

Undoubtedly this train of thought, often involving extensive make-believe, has absorbed him, satisfied him beyond all others. It may represent a deep seated proclivity for an occupation or a talent which he is destined to make a career in later life.

If the toy, therefore, can wield much influence it should be carefully chosen. It can be selected for many other purposes too. The rudiments of building, merchandising, traffic operation, train manipulation, homemaking and infant care are all represented in the familiar toys of childhood.

The pattern of indoor life and association with animals is set up very early in life through the artificial miniatures supplied by the ever inventive toymaker. For later years there are more complicated arrangements which allow the first mild forms of mechanical and chemical experimentation.

We approach the season when toys come in for a major portion of our thoughts if we contemplate buying children's Christmas gifts. It seems a logical time to select those toys which will give our children more pleasurable knowledge of the ways of life which we cherish instead of the bizarre and foreign implements of war or life on mythical planets. Normal standards of life can be safeguarded for the very young who, even if their morale is not at stake, are profoundly influenced by their own occupations and those of their parents.

And, speaking of Christmas, let's think about it briefly from an adult standpoint, too. We might as well put into practice the "look-ahead" attitude which is reaching a new high as we rapidly adjust ourselves to a world where a thing is no sooner prognosticated than it has happened. The more actual buying and concrete planning we can do now toward our Christmas festivities the better off we will be.

Above all things we should strive to achieve a new satisfaction out of Christmas. We should plan as intensely as need be so that the conclusion of the holidays will leave us with no regrets. Disappointments and frustrations are rampant due to world conditions and it seems to us that the biggest Christmas contribution we can make to our family is a new emphasis on the perfect religious and home celebrations of Christmas.

If yours is a family which has lately tired of the customary method of celebrating start thinking right now toward a variation which will enrich the whole program of our holiday. A religious observance, a glowing tree, the traditional festive meal, exchange of gifts and neighborhood calls not even one of these can afford to be sacrificed. But perhaps if you will vary their order, plan a new decoration or menu every year you will find new zest in the proceedings.

The main element and the most important one is perhaps the easiest one with which to deal—simply, people. If you can possibly add to your family circle those who lack such surroundings you will find the never-failing magic at work which increases your enjoyment in proportion to the joy of the newcomer. If you are usually in the position of hosts try being guests for a change and gratify the desire of those who may wish to entertain you. The conscious planning which is your contribution to a successful holiday for those within your reach is probably the richest Christmas gift you will make.

As to national gifts, they should be rich in appropriateness and the expression of true thoughtfulness instead of merchandise value. This is no year in which to say, "well, we must give John an expensive gift because of his social standing." Nor is it a time to give in to that fallacy that "Mary has simply everything." There is nothing left to select for her except something unusual and costly."

People whom you can place in those categories should really take a place on your list where they would receive a more or less impersonal and inexpensive gift. For those whose tastes and needs are of intimate concern to you spare no trouble to make their gifts fulfill their fondest hopes. Let the thought behind the gift outweigh the financial outlay. Even, where possible, let your own handwork testify to your gift-giving tendencies. Concentrating on these ideals and setting aside all the artificialities which tend to commercialize it will be possible to bring out all the precious qualities of the feast which should be durable enough to reflect in our lives for the remainder of the year.

"No telling how long I may drive my next car—so I changed to Pontiac"

GENERAL MOTORS' MASTERPIECE

THE FINE CAR WITH THE LOW PRICE

The ideal combination of Proved and Improved Features

- Triple-Cushioned Ride—even further improved—still yours in 1942.
- New Bodies by Fisher provide the same strength and quality for which they have long been famous.
- Vital engine parts are unchanged for 1942 except for an improved oil cleaner.
- AVAILABLE AS A SIX OR AN EIGHT IN ANY MODEL.
- Your present car may cover part or perhaps all of the down payment on a 1942 Pontiac. The balance may be paid in monthly installments.

Proud To Be Doing Our Part

Pontiac is doing its part for National Defense by building a new type of rapid-fire cannon for the United States Navy. Two complete plants have been devoted to the exclusive manufacture of these cannon. Thousands of skilled craftsmen have been trained to operate the highly technical machines. Over two hundred sub-contracts have been awarded in order to get necessary materials in the shortest possible time. This means building fewer cars—but Pontiac places defense work ahead of everything else.

Principal Did The Right Thing

High School Principal Hugh D. Kittle is currently unpopular with some of his student body, but that is their own fault and Mr. Kittle should be commended for the stand that he has taken in dealing with a situation that has been a problem in the school for a number of years.

The bus service for pupils residing in the Silver Lake and Soho sections has been suspended because of the damage which has been done in buses by those riding them. This is not new. Over a period of years school officials have warned and threatened students that they would be forced to walk if damaging bus property did not stop.

Apparently, warnings were not enough for the practice, has continued and some of the young people have grown even more bold. It is unfortunate that there must be a black mark on the school for the actions of a small minority. It is no credit to any school to have its name splashed over the newspapers because its student body does not know how to behave and does not know how to respect property of other people.

Teachers Propose A Bonus Plan

The New Jersey State Teachers' association in its convention at Atlantic city this week sought to get around the frequent complaint of public officials that once raises are given, it's a hard task to cut them. In other words, they can always go up, but never come down.

Like most other folks, teachers are worrying about their economic position in the present cost of living. While few of them as groups have done anything openly, they are talking and thinking about what school boards will do for them in the way of salaries.

The teachers' association proposed that the state legislature pass legislation which

Despite the pleas of public officials, the effort to provide more play and recreational facilities for them, a certain element in town has become increasingly destructive. Public property has repeatedly suffered losses and it has been indirectly out of the pockets of the parents of these very culprits that the cost of repairing the damage has been paid.

As in the case of the students who had no part in damaging the buses, it is not right to condemn all young people for what a certain group does. Talking apparently does no good. The only language they understand is something similar to that which the high school principal has used in making an effort to end the destruction of the bus company's property.

It is getting colder. The days are not as nice as they were. Maybe, walking long distances to school for a while will teach some of them a lesson. After all, it isn't likely to harm them for some of us walked a lot farther than that to school when there were no such modern conveniences as school buses.

would permit boards of education to give bonuses during the present period but still not commit them to any permanent increase for the employees.

As far as the public is concerned, it is one of the best suggestions that has been made by a group of public employees along this line.

Locally, the town commission has taken a step. It has voted in preliminary hearing to grant the police and firemen a $100 increase to go into effect next January. Naturally, the teachers will look to the board of education for some action similar to that which the town commission is apparently ready to take in the case of the police and firemen.

Making Traffic Regulations Uniform

All motorists should be interested in the effort which is being made by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Magee to work out a plan for uniform traffic regulations in this county. Conferences have been held between Mr. Magee and public safety directors and police officials of a number of municipalities in this section in the hope of reaching an agreement on some program.

Uniform motor vehicle restrictions in all municipalities is something which has long been neglected. The motorist has suffered by it and has in many cases been the victim of breaking municipal laws because the enforcement there was different from that to which he had generally accepted as customary.

Officials Hearing More About Defense

The annual convention of the New Jersey State League of Municipalities opens in Atlantic City today and before it closes tomorrow night, municipal officials will have heard plenty about defense for that is the general theme of this year's conclave.

Government officials are becoming increasingly aware of the fact that there is just as much work to be done in awakening municipal leaders to the dangers of unpreparedness as there is in making the public realize the seriousness of the situation.

In the current issue of the New Jersey Municipalities magazine, Audley H. F. Stephan, chairman of the New Jersey State Defense council, wrote about the present state of civilian defense in Jersey and the problems which face us.

"While the threat of invasion is not imminent," Stephan writes, "I could prove that it would be possible for Herr Hitler to stage a nuisance raid on this country. And if he did, Jersey would most likely be the center of attack because of our arsenals in North and South Jersey. Small airplanes brought over in submarines could accomplish this in a night raid.

"But we do not need to consider this possibility. There is the probability of such destructive action right now through sabotage. We are old enough to remember that we had such sabotage in 1916-17, even before we entered the first World War.

"The German spy system then can not compare with that of today. The only reason we haven't had a wave of sabotage so far is because we are guarding ourselves better and Berlin has not ordered her fifth column into action.

"We must see that this fifth column does not go into action. We must be so prepared that it will be impossible for the saboteur to do any harm in your city or town. Since no one knows your city and its vulnerable spots better than you and your citizens, we look to each community to guard itself — to become a self-contained unit of defense, working with the state council and the military for the defense of all should in the need of such cooperation be necessary in the not too distant future."

Promoting The Sale of Defense Bonds

Organizing in a number of municipalities, including our own, at the present time is an educational program which is being directed by the federal government. It is to promote the sale of defense savings bonds and stamps. The national defense program has cost billions and it will cost more. It will not be paid for by taxation alone, and it can be greatly helped by the public investing their savings in government bonds and stamps.

Two purposes can be served by purchasing bonds. It is patriotic, helps the government, and it is an easy way to save, bringing a good return, to guard against the time when the boom period is at an end. None of us want to go through what many did at the start of the last depression because we were not farsighted enough to see that there must be an end to the rainbow some day.

By saving and planning, we may possibly be able to avoid that pitfall and the purchase of defense savings bonds is a good way to do it.

The government does not want inflation. It is proving to be a hard job to stop it, but the less money those who are making the best salaries today have to spend, the less likelihood there is that there will be inflation. The defense savings administrators are urging these people who are earning more money to invest in the U. S. bonds.

The program which will soon get under way in Belleville is not a drive. It has no set goal. No one will be peddling bonds from door to door. It is an educational campaign so that people will better understand what defense bonds and stamps are all about and why it is patriotic and profitable for them to buy them.

Christmas Shopping

Although Christmas is a month and a half away, it would be a good idea to shop early and avoid the rush. This is always a good idea, but this year war conditions make such a procedure almost compulsory if disappointment is to be avoided. This Christmas there is certain to be the heaviest buying rush since 1929, if indeed it does not cutstrip that year by a considerable margin.

Store shelves are still overflowing in most lines and in some cases warehouses are bulging with the stocks to handle the Yule trade. Inventories throughout the United States range from 23 to 55 per cent higher than last year, with the average about 35 per cent higher. Buyers anticipated a 20 per cent increase in Christmas buying as a minimum and prepared for it.

Not only have stocks in luxury lines been built up but extensive preparations have been made in staple Christmas items such as men's and women's apparel. Raw material shortages may affect the toy supply to some extent but this year's toy sales are expected to exceed last year's total of $240,000,000. Few foreign toys are available but in recent years America's dependence upon toy imports has become negligible.

Prices this Christmas will be higher and in the case of luxury goods there will be a new 10 per cent tax also.

Bye Bye "Juke" Boxes

The Office of Production management is ordering the nation's jukeboxes to make a sacrifice for national defense, but the swing addicts don't know it yet.

The OPM is cracking down on manufacturers of "juke" boxes, which are largely responsible for turning thousands of restaurants patronized by juveniles into jive and rug-cutting establishments. The OPM figured that the nickel-a-shot record players consume vast quantities of metals which can and should be diverted to the manufacture of something lethal. They refuse to comment on snide allegations that jukeboxing is deadly in itself.

This isn't all, either. Drugstore cowboys who spend their time and money on pinball machines must find another way of amusing themselves after the current supply wears out. Together with slot machines and apparatus used to vend candy and cigarettes, the pinball games will be banned to save metal. The government theory is that smokes and sweets can be sold over the counter and that pinball machines are something the nation can forego in an all-out defense effort.

One manufacturer of "juke" boxes pleaded vainly that his product contributed to national defense by making patriotic tunes available to the public. The OPM listened frigidly and then readied an order which will cut production of the machines by 70 per cent for November and December. Another 15 per cent slash will be applied in January, and by April no more of the machines, which consume the major share of the output of the phonograph record industry, will be permitted.

The pinball machine makers will not fare even that well. Their product will cease rolling out of factories by the first of the year.

Pension Commission Meets

A meeting of the Police and Firemen's Pension Fund commission was held last week. A balance of $54,269.64 was reported. A contribution of $5 was received from Charles Unfried. Mrs. John McCoy who died November 1 was receiving $1,000 yearly as pension as fireman's widow. Further payments cease.

To Speak At Trenton

Eleanor Bacon-Peck, lecturer on musical subjects, spoke at the annual formal dinner of the Music Teachers' association of Trenton, Tuesday evening at the Trenton Conservatory of Music.

of 1941 over the same period last year, while in Monmouth county the increase was 48 percent. Since last January 665 persons have lost their lives in the state as the result of traffic accidents and in Monmouth county 42 fatalities have been reported.

Dozens of factors contribute to automobile accidents and many of them are so completely involved in the human element that it may be hopeless to attempt completely to correct them. But there are other factors, such as violation of traffic laws written to curtail accidents, that could be corrected were there anything approaching a sincere attempt to do so. Yet it is amazing that in the face of an appalling casualty toll the law enforcement agencies as a general rule make only a half-hearted effort at enforcing traffic laws and citizens jeopardize their lives every time they use the streets by failing to demand that these laws be enforced.

As a sample of the laxity with which safety laws are regarded consider the prevalence of the practice of ticket killing. The point has been reached in many municipalities where virtually anyone who has a friend who has a friend can violate the law with assurance that the case against him will be "killed" if he is arrested. In fact, policemen are known in many instances to fail to arrest offenders because they are convinced that the ticket will be killed. And even the most conscientious police officer is certain to become discouraged when he moves against violations of the traffic laws only to find vote-hungry politicians killing tickets and trying to be good fellows at the expense of public safety.

Ticket killing, incidentally, is but a sample of the obstructions that confront those who recognize that while enforcing the law will not eliminate accidents it will considerably reduce the accident toll. Yet citizens who may pay for it with their lives the next time they cross a street or ride in an automobile sit idly by while politically minded officials buy votes with lives.

The Eternal War

In the laboratories and hospitals of America, doctors and scientists are engaged in a never-ending war. That war is against disease, illness, death. The battle is being fought for you.

All of us are familiar with some of the victories that have been won. Typhoid, scarlet fever, yellow fever, rabies—a long list of such once-great scourges as these have been defeated and shorn of their terror. But the war must go on. For there are other enemies, still powerful, which must be beaten.

The medical men are rarely given medals. Their names rarely appear in the headlines. For the most part, the financial rewards are small. Theirs, basically, is the least selfish of callings. They know disappointment and heartbreak. They see the work of years go for nothing. But they have no time for regret. They can't give up. A thousand experiments may seem in vain—and the thousandth-and-first may bring success with it. Twenty years of labor may have seemed in vain, but the work done tomorrow may open the door to a vital new discovery. That is the kind of thinking, the kind of spirit, that drives the scientist.

The work private medicine has done in the past has given us of the present longer, fuller, happier lives. The work medicine is doing today will give our descendants of the future even finer, healthier lives. The doctors' labor for us all.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

by Meador Wright

While outwardly the political picture seems relatively calm, actually more decisions are being made this month than in any other. Leaders usually work weeks and sometimes months ahead of the political rank-and-file. Sometimes the hands of these leaders are forced by a popular uprising. In this case the order of priority is reversed. But such happenings are exception. As rule party members do little more than ratify decisions their leaders have already reached. Republican leaders at the present time have two major decisions to make. One concerns a set-up for the State Highway Department, the other a candidate for the United States Senate.

The best bet just now is that the new highway department will be a bi-partisan commission of four to be named by the Governor. This in effect is a compromise. The Republican road hogs in the Senate would like a commission named by a joint session of the legislature. This plan would aim frankly at keeping the highway department under control of the Republican party, where it has been for the past six years. Those at the other extreme would retain the present plan and let Governor Edison name a successor to Donald Sterner.

Arthur T. Vanderbilt and other Essex leaders have favored the latter plan, and have blocked repeated efforts of the Republican stalwarts to pass ripper legislation that would take the appointment power away from the Governor. But the Republican sweep in the recent election has deprived the Essex group of complete veto powers. Rather than let the South Jersey road bloc run away with their program, Essex leaders are inclined to accept a four man non-salaried board that would be named by the Governor. It is felt that such a board would effectually break the present unsavory connection between the department and the Senate, and yet not turn the highway department over to the Democratic party. This is the Essex line. Whether they can get their plan through remains to be seen.

Senatorial Campaign

The initial stage of the United States Senatorial campaign is in full swing. Petitions appropriating the designation of "Clean Government" in Essex were filed with County Clerk Gates Monday. This gives the Republican organization here a trading point with prospective candidates. The general belief now is that Dr. Lester H. Clee and Representative Robert W. Kean will be the principal contenders for Clean Government support in Essex. But Essex is only 20 percent of the state when it comes to a Senatorial candidate. Other powerful groups must be reckoned with. Albert W. Hawkes of Montclair is considered an active candidate, as is Harold G. Hoffman. S. Bayard Colgate of Orange is a possible dark horse. In the same category, but not quite so dark, is Reeve Schley of Far Hills. Some kind of decision in Essex is likely to be reached this month, but the situation is too obscure now to warrant a prediction as to who the candidates will be, or who will support whom.

Leaders are still discussing the election returns. William O'Connor of the Star-Ledger presented a new angle when he dug up figures showing that the assembly votes this year were almost identical with those cast in 1939, both in Newark and the Suburbs. John Borg of the Bergen Evening Rec-
