

Red Cross Chapter Opens War Relief Drive For Funds

The Red Cross chapter is opening a campaign to raise $10,000 as its share of the $50,000,000 war relief fund drive which has been launched by the national organization to care for the men in the service.

Robert G. Sutherland has been appointed the campaign chairman with Paul Jones and William F. Holder as the vice-chairmen. Other committee members are Mrs. George Kaden, Miss Doris Scharfberg, Miss Vivian Kilpatrick, Otto T. Breunlich, Wayne R. Parmer and Arthur Ackerman.

Chapter head Frank Chambers announced at the executive committee meeting Monday night at the Woman's club that Mrs. Paul P. Baxter and Sutherland and Holder had been named to the executive committee group. Mrs. Baxter has been made secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Betty Sheehan.

Mrs. Harvey B. Thompson, chairman of the production committee, has issued an appeal for more workers. About 300 women have registered for knitting and sewing, but about 40 are to be found working steadily.

Mrs. Thompson reported Monday night that two cases of knitted articles, made under the supervision of Miss Esther Adams, have been shipped out this month. In addition, the committee made and filled 50 utility bags for distribution to the men in the army and navy stationed in insular possessions. These bags contain stationery, pencils, playing cards, sewing kit and shaving accessories.

Mrs. Thompson also reported that a group of women from the Belwood park section are taking sewing instructions and have taken the assignment of making 40 snow suits. The group meets each Friday. Any other organization, card club or group of women who would like to cooperate are asked to visit Mrs. Thompson at the Woman's club on Tuesdays between 10 and 4 and arrangements will be made.

The Junior Red Cross representatives of all schools held a Christmas party Monday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. William H. Williams, chairman of the group, assisted by Miss Eileen Lynch, vice-chairman.

Mrs. Williams complimented the teachers and pupils for their whole-hearted cooperation in putting over the recent drive. Each school reported a 100 per cent enrollment of pupils in the Junior Red Cross and a total of $253 was collected, of which $170 remains in the service fund here and $83 goes to national headquarters.

Reports were given by representatives of the nine grammar schools and by Jeanne Holly representing the high school. Mrs. Williams reported that 500 Christmas gift boxes had been prepared and sent to the Harbor-side warehouse at Jersey City for shipment to evacuated children in England and other bomb-stricken countries. Christmas menus covers have been made for the men on ships of the navy, and Christmas favors have been made for the men at the United States veterans hospital at Lyons.

Toys have been gathered for the children who are patients at the Essex County Isolation hospital. Clothing was collected and presented to the welfare department for distribution.

Representatives present were Evelyn McAllister, Betty Seibel, Dorothy Brown, Nancy Reed, Patricia Plumer, Mary Dailey, Jean Constantine, Josephine Albertine, Barbara Lanning, Edith Pruitt, Barbara Meyer, Anna Gorino, Grace Smilie, Mary Ann Yaskell, Marie Paul, Leonard Rich, the grade schools; and Ruth Nees, Antoinette Orsulik, William Kistemacher, Jeanne Holly, Peggy Holzhauser, Elizabeth Doell, Jean Roberts and Raymond Botto, high school.

Two complete uniforms have been donated for the chapter motor corps. One was given by William W. Stewart of Tappan avenue while the other was contributed by an unnamed donor.

The chapter also responded to the request of Norman Lauterette, co-chairman of the defense council's transportation and evacuation committee, for 20 stretchers. Chairman Chambers said that he could obtain the poles and canvas. The side hemming of the canvas would be done by the production committee sewers, Chambers said.

Eastern Tool Employees Choose Their Union

The employees of the Eastern Tool and Manufacturing company with plants here and in Bloomfield have chosen the Independent Tool Plating and Wire Forming Workers' Union, incorporated as their sole bargaining agents with the company. The election was held recently by the National Labor Relations board under the direction of Mrs. Anetta B. Keating, examiner.

Of the 240 ballots which were cast, 205 were in favor of the union and 35 were opposed. A contract is now being prepared which will be presented to company executives, according to a union spokesman.

Where First Aid Classes Will Be Held

Six new first aid classes have been scheduled to start during the next week by the Red Cross chapter and below is the list showing where and when they will be held and the instructor which has been released by Mrs. Louis A. Noll Jr., chairman of the chapter committee.

Friday, high school, A. J. Vietti, 8 p.m.
Saturday, firehouse, Doris Soleau, 10 a.m. (All young women who registered for this course must be present Saturday morning if they intend to continue.)

Monday, firehouse, Albert Hollahan, 1 p.m.
Tuesday, Godfrey Johnson, 8 p.m.
Tuesday, School No. 7, Fred James, 8 p.m.
Wednesday, firehouse, Albert Hollahan, 1 p.m.

Friday, December 26, School No. 7, Fred James, 8 p.m.

New classes will be formed immediately after the first of the year so that all school districts will be completely covered.

500 IN TRAINING FOR FIRST AID

More Enrolling Every Day;
225 Have Received
Their Certificates

The Red Cross chapter has been quick to respond to the demand to train first aid workers, and being the only organization that has been authorized by the government to instruct, its committee immediately set about organizing classes and enrolling applicants.

Six new classes are being started with an estimated 500 already in training and several hundred more expected to be in classes during the next week or 10 days. Mrs. Louis A. Noll Jr., chairman of the chapter's first aid committee said last night that more than 225 have been already trained.

Those enrolling in the course must study for 20 hours to receive their first aid certificate. People interested may continue to enroll through Mrs. Noll whose telephone number is Belleville 2-2277. She admitted that more instructors could be used in view of the increased demand for the formation of classes. To be eligible to teach classes, one must be certified through the national headquarters in Washington and have taken the standard advanced and instructors' first aid courses which extend over a three-month period.

The Red Cross has been authorized also to train all of those who have volunteered to the defense council to work as first aid workers.

ANTICIPATE RISE IN SCHOOL RATE

Finance Chairman Tells Board
More Must Be Raised
Through Taxes

An early warning that there would be a probable rise in amount to be raised through taxation for school purposes was given on Monday night when James Lynch, finance committee chairman of the board of education, told members what the estimated rise in the 1942-43 budget would be.

Lynch said that a limited study of the budget has already been made and that it is estimated that the total amount necessary to meet next year's expenses will be $691,260, which is approximately $20,000 greater than the figure for the present year.

However, because of the loss in state revenue, Lynch said the amount to be raised through taxation would probably be greater. He put the figure at $523,000, which is about $57,000 ahead of the 1941-42 figure of $466,000.

He said that in view of the present emergency the board must be rather cautious about cutting because of the many demands which may possibly be made upon the schools. The finance committee will meet again this week, Lynch said.

Mayor Says He'll Quit In Dispute Over Land

Tells Attorney Cavanaugh There's 'Pre-Election Politics' In Carpenter Street Case; Says Ex-Town Employee Gave Lawyer Information

Charges of "pre-election politics" and a threat by Mayor Williams "to resign the job in 60 minutes" flared at Tuesday night's town commission conference. Center of the spirited discussion which started the conversation toward the political claims was Harold J. Cavanaugh, Tappan avenue attorney, who said that he represented the Robert McCluskey estate which holds title to 680 feet of lots fronting on Carpenter street on which the town contemplates starting foreclosure proceedings.

Cavanaugh appeared before the board asking for a price of $65 for a deed to each of the 17 lots involved in the tract and for which Town Attorney Lawrence E. Keenan has offered a total of $250. If the town agreed to Cavanaugh's price, it would pay more than $1,100.

Cavanaugh opened the argument by claiming that the identical price ($65) had been paid for lots on Fairway avenue. He said that the clients whom he represented had been forced to bear more than a proportionate share of assessments levied in 1928 because the adjacent side of the street is county-owned and could not be assessed. The attorney reminded the board that some years ago he had represented a client in a similar case and that through circuit court action had forced the town to pay a portion of the assessment levy because of county land on the opposite side of the street.

No Assessment Levied

No assessment has been levied for sanitary sewers on portions of Fairway, Continental and Berkeley avenues, Cavanaugh claimed. He was asked by Mayor Williams if he was sure of that statement and Cavanaugh replied that he "must check up definitely."

"Did you investigate the town records?" Williams queried. "I had somebody's opinion," replied the attorney.

"I'm fully aware of that," countered the mayor. Under further questioning by Williams, Cavanaugh admitted that if he received $65 per lot for his clients he would not be interested in obtaining further information about the sanitary assessments.

"I just want that point made clear for the members of the board," Williams said. Cavanaugh referred to the De-Noia property on Fairway avenue and said that he understood that the board had paid $65 for deeds to that property. Williams stated that the board had foreclosed and that each foreclosure had cost $65 but no additional money had been paid for deeds.

"There are two ways of operating," Williams said.

WILLIAMS RAPS McCLAVE BILLS ON SPENDING

Mayor Says Public Officials
Don't Favor Plan To Spend Five Million

Mayor Williams struck out Tuesday night at two assembly bills sponsored by House Speaker McClave of Bergen county which if passed would distribute $5,000,000 in highway funds to county and municipal governments.

The town commission supported Williams in his stand and backed his plan to submit Belleville's opinion to Governor Edison, both houses of the legislature and officials of the New Jersey State League of Municipalities and the municipal finance officers' association.

Of the 27 mayors and "dozens of other public officials" he has met in the last week, Williams said, he hasn't met one who was in favor of it and said that his opinion got started in Trenton that municipal officials were in favor of the proposed measures.

Williams' complete letter to the town commissioners which he asked them to endorse follows: "Whereas municipal officials are charged with supporting the bill of Assemblyman McClave of Bergen county whereby $5,000,000 of surplus state highway funds would be distributed to counties ($3,000,000) and municipalities ($2,000,000), said $5,000,000 to be distributed with no guidance or restrictions as to its use, I respectfully urge the board of commissioners of the Town of Belleville to study the lack of sound public policy involved in the McClave bill, already passed by the Assembly of the New Jersey legislature, and I further urge this board of commissioners to be recorded against such irresponsible financial action, and to appeal to the senate of the legislature and to Governor Edison to insist that definite tax relief proviso be made mandatory to force counties and municipalities to use any contributions received by them for debt reduction—or for paying the costs of civil defense supplies and equipment—or in lieu of about recommendations, and preferably so, that the actual net surplus, less than $1,000,000, be retained in the state treasury for many developments which will inevitably develop in the near future.

"The state of New Jersey included in its 1940 and 1941 budgets $2,500,000 as anticipated revenues from race track receipts, and today this account shows a 99 percent deficit. In the date years, $8,000,000 was anticipated from inheritance tax receipts with approximately an equal $2,000,000 deficit. The total deficit, based on political and unsound reasoning exceeds $4,000,000 and reflects a lack of official sincerity. Notwithstanding this tremendous budget deficit, the politically minded advocates of the spending infer many public officials are among the group of municipal officials who urge the distribution of $5,000,000 of surplus highway funds without any restrictions whatsoever for local uses of said funds.

"I am confident each and all of you desire to be recorded as opposed to a positive political presumption that a net surplus of $5,000,000 exists, and I further believe you agree with me that we as municipal officials are (Continued on Page Four)

More Than 1,200 Answer Call Of Defense Council For Help To Make Census Of The Town

$15,850 IN RAISES VOTED TEACHERS

Some Under Tenure Get
$100; Two-Year Employees
Are Given $50

Christmas arrived early for a number of public school teachers on Monday night when the board of Education announced that raises totalling $15,850 are being given to a number of employees which would be retroactive to September.

Board President Robert C. Schmutz told of the board's decision after the regular meeting. He said that increases of $100 had been voted to teachers under tenure who were recommended for raises and who in the opinion of board members were deserving of them. Annual increases of $50 will be given to all teachers who have served two years and who have been recommended for the jump, Schmutz explained.

He said that he did not know how many of the 204 on the teaching and administrative staffs had been voted increases and that he did not know how many in the under tenure group would receive more money.

Some of those employed as clerks, custodians and maintenance men also received increases ranging up to $75, Schmutz said.

Prompt Seal Sale Response Is Urged By Berry

Belleville Christmas seal receipts on Wednesday totalled $1,243. Eugene T. Berry, community chairman of the drive, is issuing an appeal for prompt responses in view of the oncoming emergency war relief appeal of the Red Cross.

He says that the services of the tuberculosis nurse, maintained locally by means of the seal sale, must be regarded as defense activity and should get a "high priority rating" in public support. "Tuberculosis," he says, "is a real fifth columnist. We need to fight it otherwise it will weaken our defense effort by taking lives and incapacitating much needed man power right here in the home town."

Boy Scouts Mobilizing For Emergency Units

Appeal Made To Older Youths To Re-Join Troops
And Work As Instructors; May Attend
First Class Tonight At Firehouse

The Boy Scouts mobilized this week to train themselves so that they will be of value to the local defense council in numerous ways. No. 1 among the plans of the scout leaders is the formation of emergency service units.

An urgent appeal has been made by both W. Douglas Clark Jr., district commissioner, and Hugh D. Kittle, district chairman and high school principal, for older youths who have left scouting to re-join and volunteer to serve as emergency service corps instructors.

To be eligible to instruct, they must have passed the standard first aid and emergency courses, must be a registered Boy Scout or Sea Scout, have passed a medical examination and be at least 18 years old.

First Class Tonight

Clark said yesterday that there were at least 80 boys, according to district records, who could be re-registered for service. The first class for emergency work instructions will be organized tonight at a meeting of the Sea Scouts in the fire headquarters at Washington and Division avenues. All former scouts are urged to attend this meeting and register for the course.

After they have had several lessons, it is planned to send the emergency service instructors out among the town's 10 troops so that they can instruct the various groups in the type of duty they may be called upon to perform. Godfrey Johnson will be the instructor of the class which starts tonight.

All troops have been given directions to begin immediately instruction and brush-up work on Morse, semaphore and heliograph signalling.

An official list of minimum equipment required for each emergency troop has been forwarded to all troops. It includes fire, fire, camp and cooking, communications and first aid equipment.

Industries Can Submit Bids For Army Supply Work

Local manufacturers interested in submitting bids to the division of contract distribution service, Newark, at 176 Sussex avenue for items requested by the armed services may obtain detailed information from the local defense council headquarters at town hall. This announcement has been made at the request of the defense council.

P. O. Open Extra Hours Saturday, Sunday

The post office is giving residents every opportunity to get their Christmas packages and cards mailed during the next few days. Postmaster John F. Sinnott Jr. of Newark announced yesterday that the local office would be open on Saturday until 6 p.m., the same as on weekdays. On Sunday, it will be open from 1 to 6 p.m. and on Monday and Tuesday, mail will be received until 8 p.m.

MANY ENROLLING FOR WAR DUTY

More Than 20 From Petrean
Club Seek To Enlist
In Various Branches

From all parts of town are coming reports of young men joining the various branches of the armed forces. Some have already made application for service while others are waiting until after the holidays. Among young people's groups, a heavy toll has already been taken in the ranks of the St. Peter's Petrean club where an estimated more than 20 members have already volunteered at some recruiting station for service.

The army, navy, marines, coast guard and even the merchant marine has been selected as the favorites of some of the young men. Most of them have endeavored to enlist during the past few days and will not know until the end of this week or the beginning of next if they have been accepted.

The drain on the male membership of the Petrean club has been so great that preliminary plans for the club show have been scrapped and it has been decided to give a production with an all-girl cast.

Club members this week received word from two members in service. Bill McCabe has been made an acting sergeant at Camp Croft, S. C., while John McCarthy is now stationed at San Francisco.

Another bowling party is being arranged for club members to be held on Sunday afternoon, January 11.

The town's men and women quickly responded to the defense council's plea for volunteers to work in the various branches of civilian defense protection setup that is now being worked out. It was estimated at council headquarters that town hall yesterday afternoon that more than 1,200 had already offered the services to the committee which have been organized under the general chairman and supervision of Police Judge Everett B. Smith.

This has been organized week and it is expected that tomorrow night when the defense group meets in town hall at 7:30 the 15 chairman will have completed their organization details so that they will be prepared to immediately move ahead with their programs.

This includes the formation of police reserve, fire auxiliary, raid warden and first aid unit in addition to the various other workers who will be required in the numerous divisional heads. The police reserve unit is being no time in organizing under the direction of Police Chief George Spatz. The first drill has been called for tonight at high school at 7:30 with members of both the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars aiding in handling group.

Split Into Five Districts

Edward Cantwell and Lut Van Pelt, who are co-chairmen of the air raid warden unit, thus become the town's chief raid wardens, have divided town into five districts for purposes of their organization.

The instruction of first workers is already progressing under the direction of the American Red Cross chapter.

Speaking of the test alarm held Friday night, J. Smith said last night "the test was successful only to the point of showing that the system is inadequate."

He said that the council planned to purchase six whistles or sirens, but that present only one could be obtained and that it would be placed atop an industrial plant that is centrally located. All the warning sirens would have been put at places where steam kept up 24 hours a day throughout the year. Smith said it planned to use five whistles.

The town also received word from the state defense council that all air marking signs should be obliterated immediately. Engineer Matthew J. Shee was instructed to ascertain there are any in Belleville.

Early this week a bulletin sent to all industrial plants urging them to obtain materials to prepare for possible blackouts. Smith last night urged all citizens to do the same, stating that further instructions would be sent to them at a later date.

The public relations committee headed by Philip Dettelbach Wayne R. Parmer is now preparing a questionnaire which will take the form of a census. It has not been decided whether an attempt will be made to check on each member of a family or not.

Three Brothers In Service

The three Dobson brothers of Quinton street are ready to do their bit for Uncle Sam. All of them are enlisted in some branch of the service.

Augustus L. Dobson, who is 17 and the youngest of the trio, recently enlisted in the navy and is stationed in Virginia. His brother, George M. Dobson is in the navy stationed at Fort Dix, while another brother, Corporal William Dobson, is at Fort Monmouth.

AMERICAN RED CROSS PROCLAMATION

Red Cross Service is needed on many foreign and home fronts.

Volunteer solicitors are calling on Belleville citizens for contributions to the War Emergency Fund of the Red Cross.

Belleville Citizens have established a splendid record on all patriotic calls.

I appeal to our people to respond to the call of The Red Cross.

ARE THESE STAIRS RIGHT-SIDE UP,

OR UPSIDE DOWN

If you look hard enough, you can have these stairs either way.

However faulty your sight, real stairs will never look upside-down. But faulty sight can make them hazardous. Many accidents result from defective vision: on stairs, at machines, on the highway, etc.

Faulty vision makes work more difficult; robs recreation of enjoyment. Live well: see well. Be sure your sight is right. Have it examined—now.

offered and if not accepted, counsel be instructed to start foreclosure proceedings."

Referring to the property owners, the mayor remarked, "the people are clever, they've kept up the payments on the house and the good part of the property." He added that he was not interested in their votes.

"I came here with a proposition," Cavanaugh stated, "at a certain price. I didn't mention anything about votes or anything else."

"Your statement is that if we pay $65, the matter will be dropped," countered the mayor. "There's no threat," said the attorney. "That's what I've asked."

"It's rather ungracious that the personal element should be brought in not by you—but by your informant," the mayor told Cavanaugh.

"My figure is not arbitrary," Cavanaugh said. "The mayor has said $250, but I don't think that's fair."

"If the board sets precedent on this," Williams returned, "then you gentlemen can take the whole department out of my hands. I repeat what I said, I reiterated, 'you'll have the job in 60 minutes. I won't be subjected to personal abuse such as I have this week.' He said that the entire case had been sidewalk gossip along Washington avenue."

Cavanaugh requested that the case be held in abeyance until he had had a further chance to study town records, which the mayor said would be available to him. The attorney said that he had been called into the case on short notice.

"Don't rely on hearsay," was Williams' parting shot to the lawyer. "And don't rely on an ex-employee's statements. We'll gladly give the facts to you."

Yesterday the mayor declined to elaborate on the "ex-employee" angle. In reply to Cavanaugh's statement that no assessments had been levied for sanitary sewers in Fairway, Continental and Berkeley avenues, Williams said that final details for its advertisement now being prepared.

He said that Town Engineer Matthew J. Sheehan had only recently completed his part of the work.

The mayor pointed to the acquisition of the Lloyd estate properties which he termed "a fine job" by Attorney Keenan to bear out his statement that the town did not pay high prices for the acquisition of deeds. Keenan reported to the board that he had obtained Lloyd properties at 26-28 Prospect street for $50, at 73-79 New street for $50 and at 42-50 Hornblower avenue and 42-54 Lloyd place all for $50.

The mayor added that a year ago 17 lots of the Bert Henry estate had been deeded to the town at no cost and that he believed the house at 417 Joralemon street owned by the same estate had been turned over to the town for $50 for the deed.

opposed to continuing a state deficit of over $4,000,000 which can and should be liquidated by the use of said surplus highway funds. The state budget actions and the fiscal chicanery proposed in the McClave bill, already passed by the assembly, is precluded in municipal budget and financial operations, yet we see transient Trenton representatives of taxpayers creating laws for control of municipal finance who do not hesitate to prostitute economics, sound public finance policies and even decent politics.

"Substantial burdens of new federal taxes await taxpayers for the following several years. New costs face taxpayers for local defense needs. Many New Jersey municipalities, Belleville among them, struggled for years to avoid municipal bankruptcy.

Partially clearing off the mountain of inherited debts of free-spending days, correcting by local initiative and state laws many ill financial procedures, and attaining an enviable financial position, the citizens of the Town of Belleville rightfully expect us to urge our assemblymen and senators to institute fundamentally sound fiscal actions. I deem it our duty to demand such elected legislators support our governor, state comptroller and other officials, who in their expressed opposition to unsound financial steps, recognize that appropriations of synthetic revenues are misrepresentations by legislative members.

"Approval by the board of commissioners of the Town of Belleville of my statements and recommendations may well stir other municipal officials to action, and impress on assemblymen and senators, that the legislature, for inspiration for her municipal children, must exhibit an example of constructive, conservative and politically free fiscal legislation."

George L. Sammis Completes Preliminary Naval Training

Having successfully completed the preliminary course of training for naval recruits, George Lightbody Sammis of 375 Union avenue was graduated Saturday from the U. S. Naval Training Station at Newport, R. I. and is now prepared to pursue advanced instruction leading to the rating of petty officer.

Accepted at the sub-station in Newark, the new bluejacket was sworn in for the naval service at the U. S. navy recruiting station in New York.

Enlisting in the naval reserves for the four-year or the duration of the national emergency, Sammis was aware of the fact that under the educational system sponsored by the navy, both the naval reservist as well as the regular navy man who enlisted for the full six-year period, have equal opportunity to avail themselves of the extensive trade school facilities under the navy's management to learn a skilled trade.

In line with the navy's policy to train all men who are qualified from the enlisted ranks in specialized trades, the trade schools have been increased in number and enlarged to capacity.

A graduate of the Belleville high school where he won a varsity letter as a member of the football team, Sammis will seek the rating of storekeeper while in the naval service.

Four months from the date of his enlistment, he will automatically receive a promotion to second class seaman, which carries with it a seventy-five percent increase in base pay.

Christmas Play Sunday Night At Grace Baptist Church

A new Christmas play, "No Room In The Hotel" by Dorothy Clarke Wilson, will be presented at the Grace Baptist church next Sunday evening at 8. The production is a modern story. The entire action takes place in the lobby of a small town American hotel.

The part of the hard-boiled newspaper reporter is played by Harry Hageman. Mrs. Ernest Miller and Harry Tice will portray the two foreign characters and Miss Allene Schenck, the desk clerk.

The poetess will be enacted by Miss Edna Hogan while her sister, Ruth, will impersonate the wife of Senator Fairweather, taken by Frank Sheeley.

The bellboy will be played by Milo Salter. Mrs. Harry Tice impersonates the soft-hearted scrub woman. The traveling man, who was once in the hotel business, is portrayed by Rev. Marshall Whitehead.

Mrs. W. D. Clark Jr. is directing the play which will be preceded by a candlelighting service, directed by the pastor, Rev. Whitehead.

A special feature will be the Edward G. Piller Jr., young men from this town, who will sing a group of spirituals. The singers are: Thomas Edwards, Harold and Milo Salter, Elmer Brown, John Plunkett, Raymond Epps and William Barnett.

Louise Geiger of Jerome avenue entertained the Trojans Thursday evening at cards. Present were Joseph Piller Sr., Joseph Piller Jr., Eugene Peck of this town; David Shaley of Newark; and Elwood Thalheimer of Roseland.

Rabies Scare Is Unnecessary

The outbreak of rabies among dogs here should not be taken lightly. Two cases were reported by the local health department last week in which persons were bitten. In neighboring Nutley two more cases were listed. To be bitten by or even come in contact with a rabid animal may possibly prove fatal unless immediate and proper treatment is given.

Rabies is frequently discovered among stray dogs, but such was not true in the cases reported last week. Both dogs were licensed and both had owners who were negligent of their duty as a dog owner—to either keep their dog tied or if wishing to permit the animal to roam as it pleases—muzzled.

It is an old story with us, but we think that it is well worth repeating. We love dogs just as much as the most ardent canine lover, but we think that animals have their place and that owners must certainly have a definite responsibility to see that they are not a nuisance to other people—or worse than that—harmful to their lives. Those owners who permit their dogs to run as they please have little regard for their animals and less for other people. Every owner must look out for his dog, and if he is not willing to do that, he should not have a dog.

It has been stated again and again that if dogs are to run at large they must be muzzled. It must be confessed, however, that there has been almost total violation of this law. One of the weak points of all dog regulations is that once passed, there is rarely any effort really to enforce them in most municipalities simply because they do not have the manpower with which to do it. A police department the size of Belleville's can not be expected to spend all of its time corralling unmuzzled dogs. There are too many other important things to be done. Neither can the one-man health department do the job. But it does seem that dog owners should be reasonably intelligent enough to know that they should look after their animals without somebody standing by with a club and a summons in their hand ready to enforce the law.

Last week's rabies cases were the result of out and out carelessness, indifference and a lack of responsibility. It's our only hope that as the result of contact with other dogs that more animals do not become rabid.

It's true that we have a dog catcher, but he's not on 24-hour duty within the town. Perhaps, since human lives are involved and since some residents do not seem to feel that they should look after their dog, the town should make them indirectly pay some penalty by hiring a full-time dog catcher that would almost police the streets.

Remember Pearl Harbor

Every great war has its famous expressions and sayings which become forever etched in the minds of men and the pages of history. Already destined to be the memorable phrase of this war is "Remember Pearl Harbor" for it carries with it the unforgettable tragic story of the deceitful, underhanded, knife-in-the-back blow dealt to the country's army and naval forces by the "so sorry" Japanese enemy.

"Remember Pearl Harbor" is forever figuratively before the eyes of every man in the army, navy and marines. It should be as much of an unforgettable challenge to every man, woman and child in the United States. For many, it undoubtedly is. All of us can't be in the fighting forces. All of us can't be defense workers. But all of us, from the lowest salaried person, or the child with the smallest allowance or income gained from chores, can be a part of our great national effort to repay many fold for lives of our American soldiers and sailors that were taken in the dastardly and unwarned attack on Hawaii.

We can all buy defense stamps and bonds. They start in 10-cent denominations. The contributions of every one of us, regardless of how small, make up a living part of the great battle which this nation has been called upon to wage. How can parents more vividly make their children understand what this nation means, what it faces and what it is to be a patriotic citizen than to start them buying defense stamps and bonds?

There is no obligation that is so great as that to the government upon which we now depend to protect us. Our dollars are needed and with "Remember Pearl Harbor" as an indelible slogan our duty is to buy defense bonds.

Does The Public Always Understand?

In our first days in this business, we had an employer who kept reminding us that we should never take public ability to understand or comprehend something for granted. It was his philosophy that if you wanted to get something across, it had to be driven home and then re-driven.

We never felt more sure that he was right than during the past week. And what we have to say should be a word sufficient to the defense council and all others about what they tell the public, the simple way in which it should be told and the repeated emphasis that should be placed on important instructions.

Our surprise was great last Thursday when we had any number of people remark to us that there would be a blackout on the following evening, Friday night. Where did they read it? In this newspaper. Having scanned every bit of copy before it went into type, we were prepared to stake our life on the fact that there was not one sentence in the paper which said that there would be a blackout.

Still, we heard stories of people planning to black out their homes. Merchants mumbled about having to turn out exterior and store front lights on the best shopping night of the week and others were just generally curious.

Now, of course there wasn't any blackout. There was no intention of holding one. Belleville is not prepared for it even if the defense council or anybody else wanted to hold such a test. Now what did happen and what was said in the paper? In big black type—not once but several times—it said

Do Not Become Hysterical

From the highest officials in the land right on down the line, we are being told repeatedly to remain calm and not become hysterical, come what may. This is important, and if every person will train toward that end, the situation will be much easier. It is true that we are situated in the heart of the country's industrial area and that if bombing by the enemy does come to the eastern seaboard, the chances are likely that we will suffer.

But, is hysteria going to help it any? No. We are told by experts that the likelihood of this region being subjected to constant and largescale bombings of the type to which London and other English cities have been subjected is quite remote. The principal reason being that the distance between enemy bases and our eastern seaboard is far greater than the distance between their home ports and English cities.

This is a great time for the rumor-mongers, the exaggerators and the people with the "reliable, inside" information. As President Roosevelt has said, don't believe them. Their actions are the worst type that can be foisted on a public which is naturally jittery and unconsciously on the alert for anything and everything.

Be calm. Don't believe in rumors. Follow the instructions that are given by those who are in charge of defense in the nation, state and municipality. Everything is being done in the interest of your life and welfare. Do not make hasty decisions. Do not become panicky. Go on living and working as you have, and be ready to do your part if called upon.

Let's Not Have "Too Little and Too Late"

If there is one lesson the democracies should have learned by now, it is that you cannot win a war by fighting with "too little and too late." That is why we criticize the request of the Ridgewood defense council for a meager $10,000 for defense in the Ridgewood 1942 budget. Of this, $4,800 would be spent for needs now predictable, and $5,200 would be held in reserve for use only if emergencies required.

A municipal government does not operate like the national government. Congress can appropriate moneys at any time, but a town like Ridgewood can appropriate money only once a year. If an emergency arises, and a contingent fund has not been put into the budget for it, our hands might be tied.

Who is to say that Ridgewood will not be called on in 1942 to acquire much additional fire and police equipment? We have far from enough fire hose now. Who is to say we shall not have to do much rescue and repair work? Who is to say we shall not have to feed, clothe, house and care for scores of people, beyond the capacity of any private agencies?

If we may have to do these things—and they are hideously real probabilities—let us at least have the elementary foresight to provide the funds for them. Let us earmark a large sum for defense in the 1942 budget. Then, if the money is needed, it is there; but if it is not needed, it will not be spent, but be carried over toward the 1943 budget.

It would not be excessive for Ridgewood to have $25,000 earmarked in the next budget. We Americans are paying a heavy price now because we lacked foresight. Let us show we have learned our lesson.

Bicycle Regulation

In two recent articles it was pointed out that careless bicycle riders are a real menace to pedestrians as well as to motorists, yet no effective method of control has been taken by city officials, due to what they term lack of power. A few schools have, of course, made a real effort to teach youngsters bicycle rules as well as cycling etiquette, but what is needed is a full, city-wide program.

A thorough study of the problem convinces us that there are three remedies possible:

1. An ordinance to require licenses for all bicycles, thus providing a means of identification. Not only would this help place the blame for careless cycling but it would also tend to decrease the all-too-numerous bicycle thefts. Other communities have found the plan extremely successful.

2. Some sort of "Bicycle Court," at which offenders could appear, plead their case, and be convicted or released as the judge rules.

3. Better education of parents as to the rules and regulations governing bicycles, so that they will not advise differently from the schools and police.

The ordinance is, of course, a matter for the city council, but the other two suggestions might well be considered by the parent-teacher associations, who are certainly the most logical group to take such constructive action.

A Symbol of Our Solidarity

The world is in a terrible mess but the Old Farmer's Almanac comes out just the same. It is a link with the past, with all that we hold dear, and serves to steady us in these trying days. When a publication comes out continuously for 150 years, it is a symbol of the solidarity of our country. The Old Farmer's Almanac is old—there is no denying that—but there is a liberal sprinkling of streamlined ideas among the pages of features that we have come to look upon like old friends.

The first number of the Farmer's Almanac, that for 1793, was issued the latter part of 1792. Washington's first administration was drawing to a close. Four years before, the Constitution had been ratified by the requisite number of states. Originally the Almanac was strictly a farmer's calendar. Later on, though such matters were not neglected, little moral and prudential observations were inserted. It has carried only four portraits in its long history—Robert Thomas, Carroll Swan, Calvin Coolidge and Benjamin Franklin. Poetry, anecdotes and pleasantries have long been among the contents, along with a fund of valuable information. Astrology, however, has never appeared in the pages nor has the man of the signs, or the moon's man. The sentence, "It is by our works we would be judged; these we hope will sustain us in the humble though proud station we have so long held," has appeared in the forewords to every issue since 1836.

The Old Farmer's Almanac is a publication of which New England may well be proud. Congratulations to it on its sesquicentennial. It is serving a most useful purpose today, just as it always has.

Winter Driving

The National Safety council is calling upon motorists in the northern climes to change the tempo of their motoring when Winter comes. This organization recognizes that nearly every driver has an average speed at which he operates his car, especially in suburban areas.

Persons at the steering wheel are prone to hold to this average even when weather conditions are adverse. The council is eager to convince them that accidents may be avoided and lives saved if they will suit their speed to the kind of weather that prevails.

For the last three years the council has engaged in research to determine the reaction of a car in good mechanical condition when the brakes are applied. At twenty miles an hour a car can be stopped in 21 feet on dry concrete, or in 26 feet if the road is wet. On packed snow, without chains, a car cannot be stopped at the same speed in less than 69 feet. With chains, the distance is 40 feet.

When ice is encountered, a car cannot be stopped in less than 169 feet. If it has chains on the rear wheels, the stopping distance is 88 feet, and if the ice has been sanded a full stop may be made in 86 feet. At higher speeds—and few drive at 20 miles an hour—the hazards increase proportionately.

Highway officials attempt to make roadways as safe as possible after heavy snows, or when a sleet storm has covered the paved surface with ice, but they cannot assure dry surfaces at all times. There is no mystery about Winter driving hazards. They can be foreseen and avoided, if the operators of cars will remember the warnings that the safety experts have issued.

Italian American Loyalty

Following hard upon the fine action taken by Passaic's Humbert Italian American Political club, after a stirring statement made by Mr. Dominick De Muro, the club orator, it is heartening to read the following editorial statement in the columns of "Il Progresso Italo-Americano," New York City's Italian-language newspaper:

"The first dispatches on the losses suffered by the United States in the unprovoked and perfidious Japanese attacks on the Hawaiian islands and other sections of the Pacific, far from causing dismay and perplexity, have stirred up the defensive spirit and the patriotism of the American people.

"The United States has never lost a war and it will also win this one against contemporary military barbarism."

While the newspaper did not mention expressly Italy's role in the war—a degree of reticence we can appreciate since it was not known definitely until yesterday's declaration that Mussolini would drive his people into war against the United States—in effect it did, since it praised President Roosevelt's pledge that the Far Eastern war would not halt the shipment of arms to Great Britain and her allies in Europe.

Such expressions of the undoubted loyalty of our American people of Italian origin are most welcome at this time.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

by Meador Wright

While it is being done without fanfare, New Jersey is being organized thoroughly by friends of Dr. Lester H. Clee in his quest for the senatorship. Use is being made of the organization that won the gubernatorial nomination for Clee four years ago. The same people who were active then are active now. Unless his opponents wake up quickly, Clee is going to be so firmly entrenched that it is going to be very difficult to head him off.

Much will depend upon Clee's grasp of national affairs and his ability to discuss them intelligently. But the perplexing dilemma of war or peace has been resolved at last. Like everyone else, Clee knows the ground upon which he must stand. Smathers' record is vulnerable and no one is better fitted than Clee to wrap the Atlantic senator's past around him for everyone to see. The Newark minister will make a good candidate in the general election, and this will be a powerful factor in gathering him support within the Republican party.

Clee Should Quit Pulpit

The great milestone around Clee's neck now as when he ran for governor four years ago is his status as a minister. If he is capable of learning from past mistakes, he will resign his ministry as soon as he is sure he intends to make the race. If he doesn't, thousands will vote against him purely on the conviction that a clergyman's place is not in public office. I am told that Clee does plan to resign his Newark charge, and that the Essex Clean Government organization is just about ready to stump for him. Arthur T. Vanderbilt has given no nod as yet, but other influential Republicans who generally reflect Vanderbilt's viewpoint are quietly working for Clee. Among these are Superintendent of Elections Anthony P. Miele and Surrogate Eugene Hoffmann. Others like Russell C. Gates of Montclair are much less enthusiastic, but Clee's resignation from the ministry would make his stock go up with them considerably.

1941 Was Vanderbilt Year

The year 1942 will dawn with Vanderbilt's grip on the Republican party in Essex much stronger. A year ago his position was not so good. His candidate for governor had been defeated in the general election. In the presidential field he had gone all out for Thomas E. Dewey, who flopped badly at the last minute. Half of the assembly delegation in Trenton were rebellious or potentially rebellious. So difficult

The Woman's Desk

by PEGGY PATTERSON

Every citizen of us, women particularly, should derive profound strength from the evidences of hemispherical and national solidarity which have unfolded before us during the past 10 days. Even closer home—and a concrete evidence of our good fortune—is the announcement of the New Jersey Defense Council which describes our air raid warning system as one of the first in existence in this country and one of the most efficient. It has been established for two years and constant perfection of the communications between watchers at their outlook posts and the nerve centers of message transmitting have made it possible for every remote corner of the state to be warned in case of emergency.

As a further buffer for preventing undue strain on the nerves of humans who must adjust themselves to a constant alert, this state-wide system provides for a thorough check on messages so that unnecessary alarms will not be spread and an actual alarm will not be given in any community until it has been positively ascertained that danger from the air is at hand.

Since these major items, which would be the source of our deepest discomfort at present if they were not favorable to us are in such encouraging order it seems more and more incumbent upon us as individuals to see that we leave no stone unturned to complete the cycle of our protection so that needless injury and loss of life may be avoided in case of actual aerial attack.

No individual can help but thrill to the knowledge that the great nations to the north and south of us and the chains of tiny islands threading both seas are our friends. Women especially must feel this keenly and even more pertinently do they appreciate the knowledge that our own immediate shores are guarded constantly by watchful eyes. What reaction is more natural than a surge of gratitude to the providential causes and to the foresighted men who have helped to place us on the highroad to defending ourselves? To these and the men who serve in our military outposts, the coordinators of our civil defense and the volunteer civilians who make it possible for us to still continue our daily lives in the accustomed security of our homes we women are united in an ardent desire to express our gratitude. This much we know instinctively.

Musen't Neglect Homes

How best shall we put our resolve into immediate action? The heart warming appearance of numerous women at all registration posts for civilian defense duty is one answer. But there is another which we hope will not be neglected simply because it must be dimmed by the seclusion of our own homes. It is a program for the individual homemaker which, we think, divides itself quite logically into two phases. The first is a matter-of-fact preparation for each home to serve its family for air raid shelter. There is probably no one who has not mentally outlined the most protected spot in her home, considered what furniture should be shifted there to make it safer and livable and decided on method of blacking out the windows.

But deciding these things is not enough. How many of us have actually purchased suitable material for window covering, placed a sturdy table where it might be useful, put a few empty pails near the kitchen water supply so that they might be filled at a moment's notice for reserve. How many of us who have a good supply of bed linen and blankets have made sure that they are immediately available? How many of us have taken down garden hose and placed it conveniently to an outlet for the all-important spraying of incendiary bombs which has been repeatedly described to us?

Are these things too much trouble, do they spoil the appearance of things or do we think they might unnecessarily alarm the children? Well, think again! There is only one successful method of combatting alarm and that is with previously discussed, realistic preparation. We are living in communities where air raid patrolling, erection of shelters and the many other attributes to a feeling of security are not yet accomplished facts. Are we going to exist with bated breath until all these things are done or are we going to prove our self-sufficiency by bridging the gap with our individual preparations?

There are other precautions which the housewife can take. If invalids or aged people are members of her household she will do well to have warm outdoor clothing and blankets convenient to the exit for that other possibility—evacuation. And if the family car is her charge during the daytime she should not neglect it either. A car runs best on a full tank of gasoline, properly inflated tires and the correct oil supply. This is no time to impair its efficiency.

Don't Just Think

As you read and listen to the programs being adopted in larger cities numerous small precautions will suggest themselves to you. Our plea is simply that you adopt those which appear most necessary to your particular family and put them into practice. Don't just think about them, but buy the few essentials such as extra water containers, a first aid kit, a dependable flash light or two and some blackout cloth. Let the family get used to them. It's surely not hard to get used to the friendly materials of self-preservation, and the unpleasantness of the whole scheme should
