

PARKING METERS UP FOR VOTE DECEMBER 30

Board To Decide on Bill To Install Them In Business Block

The town commission will vote on an ordinance at its next meeting Tuesday, December 30, providing for the installation of parking meters which it is hoped will help ease the traffic and parking congestion in the heart of the Washington avenue business center, between Rutgers street and Belleville avenue.

The ordinance, introduced last week by Public Safety Director Clark, is the result of long-time survey and debate over the question of providing better parking facilities and eliminating long-time parking of automobiles on Washington avenue. Merchants in the block between Belleville avenue and Rutgers street are understood to favor the plan although merchants in some other sections of Washington avenue have at various times expressed the belief that meters are not the solution to the plan.

Try Them Elsewhere

Meters will be installed on both sides of Washington avenue only in the block between Belleville avenue and Rutgers street. If they eliminate some of the problem in that block, it is likely that they will be tried elsewhere.

The ordinance provides that meters be installed which would permit the motorist to park for either 12 or 60-minute periods. The fee for parking for 12 minutes would be one cent and for an hour five cents. This type of meter has worked well elsewhere and also does not overtax the driver who is stopping for only a few minutes.

NO TIME LIMIT ON NEW DRIVE

Red Cross Shapes Plans For $10,000 War Relief Campaign

The Red Cross chapter's campaign for $10,000 in the $50,000,000 nation-wide war relief drive to provide funds which may be used in an emergency for men in service with the army, navy or marines took shape this week under the direction of Robert G. Sutherland who has been named the campaign chairman by Frank Chambers, head of the local chapter.

No time limit will be set for the campaign, the chapter believing that the $10,000 mark may not be the end of demands that will be made on citizens during the war. At a meeting of the executive committee held during the week, it was decided to use the block canvassing system with workers canvassing under the direction of nineteen section captains. The districting for elections will be used by the Red Cross.

Differing from roll call drives, the merchants and other groups will not be handled by separate committees. They will be asked for contributions by the block workers. Chapter Chairman Chambers will head the committee which will appeal to the manufacturers. Arthur Ackerman has been placed in charge of town employees, including the police and firemen. Superintendent of Schools Wayne R. Farmer will handle the school employees while Frank Bangert has been asked to take charge of the civic groups and other organizations.

Added this week to the committee which will direct the drive were Miss Doris Soleau, Earl Seibert and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baxter.

Message From Davis

In his message which has been sent to all chapter chairmen, Norman H. Davis, national Red Cross chairman wrote that besides aid for the armed forces, the money will be used to develop such additional Red Cross services as may be necessary for civilian defense and morale in this country.

"It is not possible to foresee all of the emergencies, both home and abroad, which will inevitably develop as the war continues," Davis wrote, "but the American Red Cross will, in its discretion, utilize these funds to deal adequately with such situations as fall within the scope of its activities, in a manner consistent with the principles and traditions of the Red Cross."

Any person who wishes to make his donation immediately to the chapter's war relief drive may forward it to Russell K. Rose, the treasurer, at his home, 30 Rossmore place.

Moving Horse Cars News In Town 63 Years Ago

Copy of Belleville Gazette Dated December 21, 1878
Told Story: Was a Four-Page Paper; Copy of It Owned By Late Annie E. Dennison

What was news in Belleville a few days before Christmas 63 years ago?

Well, residents were of the opinion that the horse cars should be moved from Main street along the river, which was then the main thoroughfare, up to Washington avenue, and the town should be moved up there also.

The story is told in a yellowed, frayed copy of the second issue of The Belleville Gazette dated December 21, 1878.

The copy of the little paper was owned and treasured for many years by Miss Annie E. Dennison, Belleville's leading and best known historical authority, who passed away at her home at 476 Joralemon street on November 11. A collector of mementos of bygone Belleville, the copy of the Gazette was one of Miss Dennison's most treasured. It now belongs to her sister, Miss Bertha Dennison, who cautions all who enjoy seeing it, to be careful of ripping its worn pages.

The Gazette was much smaller than the present News. It was a four-page paper by five inch paper. The front and back pages were crammed with small advertisements from the town's leading merchants while the two inside pages were devoted to an editorial, general news, a column about drama, which dealt chiefly with New York plays and musical events, and a few items about Franklin (now Nutley) and people known here from other nearby towns.

The paper was handset and the type used was smaller than that which now appears in the legal notices seen in present day newspapers.

The December 21, 1878, issue carried a Christmas editorial which had been borrowed from the pen of another. Its news about town was carried in short, one-sentence stories. In an almost Winchellian tone, the Gazette commented, "Presenters are in order. Mr. William Holmes has received two—a boy and a girl."

Reminding parents of their obligation on Christmas, the paper remarked, "Fail not to hang up the stockings for the children, even though they can not be well filled, it will make their hearts glad."

It differed little from the pleadings made today in its appeal to all residents. "Do not buy elsewhere during the holidays, or in fact, any other time," said the Gazette. "You can do just as well here and give our tradesmen a chance as well."

J. C. Crisp, the Gazette noted, had a fine assortment of nuts and fruits for the holidays. "Do not fail to go there," the Gazette suggested.

Orders and notices for the Gazette were to be left at Moore's store since the newspaper had no office.

Leading advertisers in the before Christmas issue included A. H. Osborne, a druggist on Main street; W. H. King, dealer in oysters; J. Mooney, dealer in books, music and stationery; Belleville Steam Feed Mill, which was operated by Walter and Sidney Scott; J. H. Stephens, card and job printer; and the Belleville and New York Express for which J. Stanford was the agent.

Can't Satisfy All

"It is impossible to provide a formula for the distribution of state highway funds which would satisfy all of the 21 counties, but the county and municipal road aid bills, which have passed the assembly and now await passage by the senate, offer an equitable solution to this problem. The boards of freeholders and the municipal governing bodies, duly elected representatives of the people in each of the 21 counties, will have to answer to the electorate if they receive these monies from the state and do not apply them to tax reduction or reconditioning or maintenance of their roads and bridges. Furthermore, it should be understood that these bills provide for the distribution of such funds for one year only, namely, 1942. Legislative approval would have to be obtained to follow the same procedure in future years."

There are only about 1,600 miles of state-owned highways in New Jersey, as compared with over 6,000 county-owned highways. Practically all of the state roads are of modern construction as are most of the state bridges. On the other hand, financial conditions have made it necessary for counties to keep their roads and bridges in merely passable condition for many years. A large majority of county bridges were built in the horse and buggy days. If it becomes necessary for the army to use county roads and bridges, it will be necessary first, in many instances, to reinforce these old structures. As a defense measure, alone, passage of these two road aid bills is vitally important to New Jersey.

"One bill provides for the distribution of three million dollars to the counties based on 60 per cent of the Motor Vehicle Registration and 40 percent of the mileage of county roads. The second bill, which would allot two million dollars to municipalities is based on assessed valuations."

"If the county and municipal governing bodies of this state cannot be trusted to spend these funds prudently, then the entire democratic system of government is wrong. Opposition to both of these bills, in my opinion, arises from a total lack of knowledge about the bills and a total mistrust in the home rule plan of government. It further is apparent that opposition to these bills is a serious threat of the state's defense plans."

DEFENSE COUNCIL PUSHES EFFORT ON ARP PATROL

Responsibility of Those Taking Job Listed; Leaders Met
Last Night

Organization of the air raid warden patrol is being pushed by the defense council for upon that group rest many of the vital duties important to a smooth-running civilian defense program. Last night Edward Cantwell and Luther Van Pelt, who have charge of the formation of the unit, met with volunteers at the town hall in the first preliminary gathering for instructions.

The position of air raid warden is one which may be filled by either a man or woman. Women will be counted on heavily for work during the daytime when many men who may volunteer for service would be working out of town.

All applicants for the work must be of average intelligence and must be of good health. In addition to these basic requirements, every applicant must be a person of fine character, integrity beyond question and must have the respect and confidence of their fellow citizens.

Many Responsibilities

The duties and responsibilities of a warden in event of a raid would be many. The post carries with it all the hazards of exposure to gun fire and bomb explosions. At time of an attack, a warden might be called upon to risk his or her life to assure the safety of the people residing in the district in which they would be in charge.

Cantwell and Van Pelt will serve as the chief wardens for the town, which for their purposes has been divided into five sections. There will be five section wardens under them and in each area as many wardens as they believe will be necessary properly to care for the population in certain areas.

Wardens must be thoroughly familiar with the section in which they are working and with its residents. They must be able to give first aid in an emergency and also be able to instruct residents thoroughly in the various things which they should know in event of a raid.

New thoughts and rules are coming through to the defense council headquarters at town hall. Yesterday afternoon Mayor Williams attended another meeting of the conference of mayors, headed by Mayor Vincent J. Murphy of Newark. Among the important situations being considered by the mayors at this time are uniform blackout and air raid regulations for motorists who are driving their cars to follow. Murphy sent to all mayors in this area last week a proposed proclamation which he believed might be suitable for all communities.

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Cesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

(And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

And all went to be taxed, every one in his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem (because he was of the house and lineage of David).

To be taxed with Mary, his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her first born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

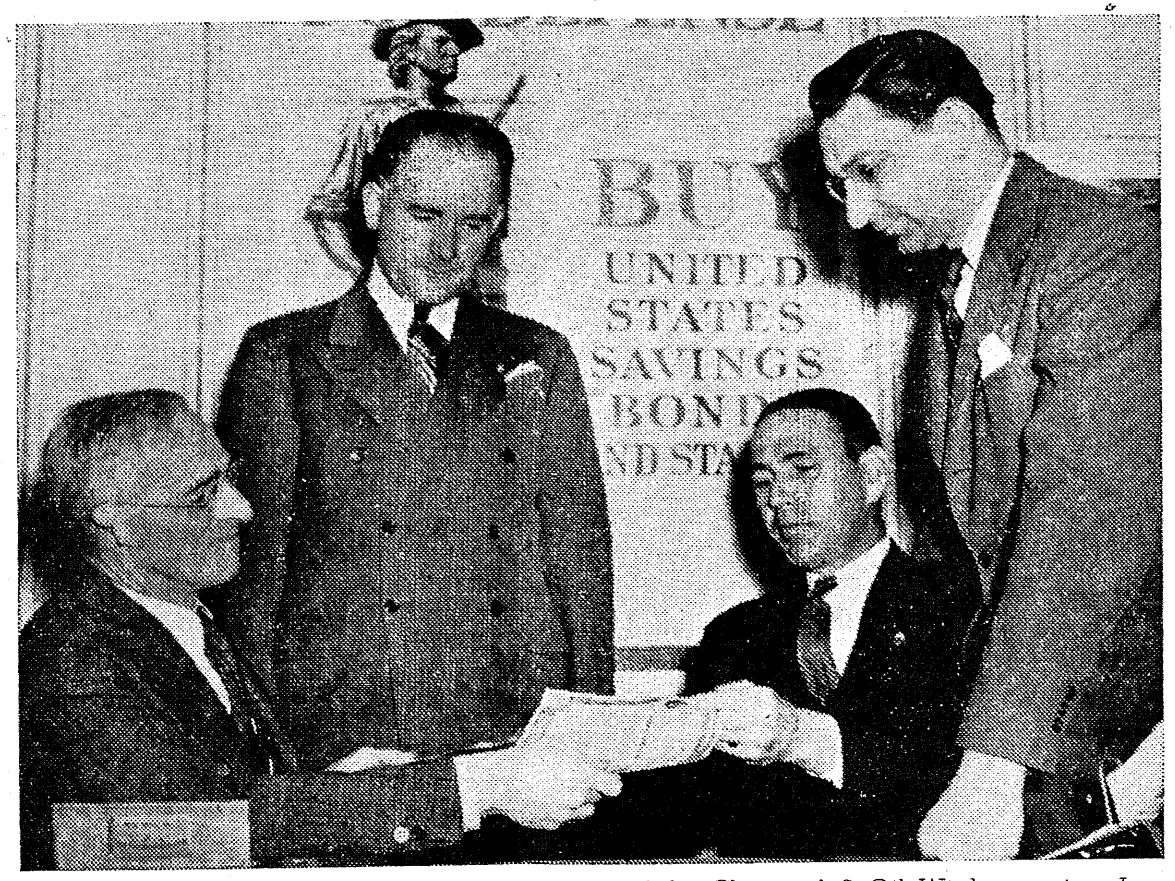

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for, behold, I bring to you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

Labor Buys Bonds to Help Defense

HELPING NATIONAL DEFENSE are the members of the Chemical & Oil Workers union, Local 22026, employed in L. Sonneborn & Sons, Hoyer Products and Isolantite plants, by using funds from their treasury to buy defense savings bonds. Earl Mays, local union president, is shown purchasing the first of the bonds from Philip Dettelbach, (left) chairman of the local defense savings bonds committee, while Patrick Reilly, organizer, and John Volosin, union business agent and secretary and treasurer, look on. This week's sale was the first of regular purchases which the union plans to make.

Library Staff To Take First Aid Course

The members of the free public library staff aim to be ready to do their part if there's a local emergency or disaster. It was announced this week that all of them would take one of the Red Cross first aid courses. Because of the arrangement of time schedules it will be necessary to close the library one afternoon a week for several hours.

The library was closed yesterday from 12:30 to 3:15. It will be closed next Monday and January 7 for the same period and every Wednesday thereafter until further notice.

Has Driven 1,050,000 Miles

George VanHouten of 422 Washington avenue reports that he has driven 1,050,000 miles in the past 18 years. VanHouten, who is 39, started driving in 1923 in 1939. He made a trip from the west coast in five days and four hours and spent one summer commuting between Richmond, Va. and Barnegat Bay. He is a salesman, married and the father of two children.

MERCHANTS LOOK FOR LATE RUSH

Mailmen Burdened Down
With Loads; Post Office
Is Open Tonight

With Christmas two days away, local merchants looked for the real rush, knowing from past experiences that many people do their last minute shopping within town. However, stores along Washington avenue have been crowded during the past week and some merchants are already reporting that business is the best that they have had in quite a few years.

Heavily burdened mailmen trekked the streets until late Saturday afternoon and well after dark last night delivering Christmas cards and packages, and from the long lines that wended in and out of the post office until 8 p.m. last night, it appears as if the men in blue were destined for at least another two days' long work. The post office will be open again tonight until 8 to help the last minute card and package senders. However, no guarantee of delivery will be given by the department except for letters to be delivered locally or in the near vicinity.

Fewer Outdoor Displays

As yet, not as many outdoor Christmas tree decorations have appeared on houses as in past years and some observed that people may be heeding the government's request that both residents and store and other business owners cut down on their outside lights or leave them off entirely.

Christmas tree dealers were reporting a good business with the trees bringing the best prices that they have in years. In addition, many were buying holly wreaths, mistletoe and other yuletide decorations.

While the town hall is decorated with lighted holly wreaths, there is no other plan for a community-wide Christmas celebration.

All of the local churches will hold special Christmas day services with a number of them scheduling services to be held tomorrow late in the evening or at midnight. Most of the Sunday school classes will hold parties during the coming week.

The public and parochial schools are shutting down for the holidays today and will not re-open until Monday, January 5.

A large crowd attended last night's community Christmas festival at the high school, which was sponsored by a committee headed by Mrs. Lloyd C. Nunn of the Woman's club. It was the third year that it had been presented.

Matthew Ryan, tenor, was soloist with the Belleville Glee club, the high school glee club, church choirs and junior choirs being heard in the various groups of Christmas carols which were offered.

Parents Withdraw Petition On Mrs. Reed For Principal

School No. 10 parents who had started a petition urging the board of education to name Mrs. Leona E. Reed, a teacher there, the school principal, last week withdrew their petition and decided not to present it to the board of education. It was understood that the petition was withdrawn at the request of Mrs. Reed.

The move for her appointment was started after Fred W. Evans, who had been principal of Schools No. 10 and 2 had resigned to take the position of supervising principal in Jamesburg. The board of education has not as yet announced the appointment of a successor to Evans.

WON'T PUBLISH DRAFTEES' NAMES

Draft Board Gets Orders
From Trenton Not to Give Information

The names of the boys who are heading off for service with the army won't appear in the paper any more. A form of censorship hit Belleville this week when the draft board received an order from state selective service headquarters informing it that lists of men called in the draft, the number of men in any call or other miscellaneous information should not be made public.

Therefore, The News will no longer publish the names of those leaving in contingents for camp nor will it give figures on quotas to be called by the local board. Only such information pertaining to the draft as the board wishes to give out will be published.

It was explained that the new ruling is not to keep the public uninformed on what is going on but to keep information away from the enemy on how many men are being called up for service. It is held "impossible" for enemy interests to station agents in each municipality to count the number of men leaving in the draft but it would be easy through clipping services or other means to compile a list of those leaving in the draft from newspapers.

Car Conservation Urged By Buick Factory Official

The many ways in which the average motorist can render important defense service through conservation of his car and the fuel with which it operates were emphasized this week by C. W. Jacobs, parts and service manager of the Buick Motor division, in a discussion circularized to more than a million Buick owners throughout the country.

"With curtailment of consumer production in all lines and the need to conserve for national defense almost every conceivable type of material from metals to matches, it becomes very important and necessary that we conserve the cars we own, the fuels and lubricants that run them, and the tires on which they run," Jacobs said.

Pointing out that the need for saving gasoline is regarded as a major defense issue, the executive observed that by maintaining normal rather than high speeds, fuel economies as high as 50 percent can be effected. At the same time, tires wear out two and one-half times as fast at 60 miles per hour as they do at 40 and tire life is five times as great at 40 miles an hour as at 80.

He said that a Buick engine in good condition has an average lubricating oil consumption of one quart in 300 miles. But oil, like gasoline, is consumed in proportion to speed. Moderate driving conserves oil as well as fuel, and minimizes the wear on all parts of the automobile, he said.

In the care of tires, Jacobs recommended that all tires, including the spare, be inflated to the correct pressures and checked at least once a week to see that these pressures are maintained. It is preferable to check pressures when the tires are cold, before they have been run more than a mile or so.

GIRL COURTS SET FOR DEFENSE JOB

Every Troop Is Training
Them For Part; Holding Christmas Parties

The Girl Scout organization is ready to do its part in the civilian defense program, the leaders' association declared this week. In every troop programs are being conducted to instruct every girl for some part, it was said. Girls are knitting and sewing for the Red Cross, helping at home so their mothers may be relieved of household duties so that they may take Red Cross first aid courses and are learning how to cook and being taught the value of various foods.

The organization has been so set up that within a short time any number or all of the girls could be assembled at one point. It has been worked out through a system of key leaders in certain sections of town. The part the Girl Scouts may play in defense was the principal subject at the leaders' association meeting Wednesday night at the Elks' club. Eleven leaders and two council members attended. An overnight trip to the cabin in the South Mountain reservation was also planned to be held some time in January. Christmas gifts were exchanged at the close of the meeting.

Troop 11 held an investiture service at Montgomery Presbyterian church last week with Doris Petzel, Nellie and Angelina DelMarino, Palma LeGros, Phyllis and Nancy Reed, Ruth Wagner, Antoinette Bottino and Lillian Tortorello being invested.

It was followed by a Christmas party with Joan Carnie, Hilda Nawker and Phyllis Reed being in charge of food, Dorothy Brown, Ruth Wagner and Phoebe Minard, games; and Jane Figurelli, Antoinette Bottino and Angelina Lelmarino, clean-up.

Troop 12 held its Christmas party at the Reformed church with each patrol presenting a skit and Alice MacKenzie and Jean Constantino doing dance numbers. After Christmas carols were sung by the entire troop, gifts were exchanged and the afternoon was topped off by the serving of hot chocolate, candy and cake.

To Sing Carols

Troop 19 of the senior Girl Scouts will hold its party at the Reformed church on December 30 with Captain Edna Baum in charge. Tomorrow night the girls in Troops 9 and 19 will go about town from 7 p.m. until midnight singing Christmas carols.

Two groups from Troop 13 will go Christmas caroling tonight and tomorrow evening.

The troop is also planning a twelfth night party to welcome back its leader, Mrs. Arthur Price, who has been absent since November. Betty Bowman is in charge of the party committee.

Troop 8 held its Christmas party at the Grace Baptist church on Thursday. There was a Christmas tree and all of the usual decorations. The girls made all of the refreshments for the party, including the cookies which were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Guldner and daughter Ruth of Union avenue will attend a family dinner party at the home of Mrs. Guldner's mother, Mrs. George Lehmann of Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Keeshan Jr. of Belleville avenue will entertain for Mr. Keeshan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Keeshan and daughter Dorothy.

BELLBOYS ROUT HARRISON FIVE IN FIRST GAME

Third Period Deule Gives Blue and Gold Quintet 60-35 Victory

The high school's Blue and Gold basket tossers shoved off on their 17-game schedule with a rousing victory over Harrison's quintet last Friday night for the most impressive triumph that a Belleville court five has registered in several years. Going all out in the second half, Coach Herman "Jitty" Wische's boys romped off with a 65-30 win.

It was the first chance that Wische, the team's new mentor, had to see how his boys would look under scholastic fire. Both he and other observers were impressed with the showing the boys made last week in a warm-up engagement against the alumni when they turned back the older boys 41-35 at the high school gym.

"Bub" McManus with 17 points and George McGinness with 13 set the pace for the high-scoring Bellboys. It took the Blue and Gold courtsters a few minutes to become accustomed to Harrison's small gym and the new-fangled baskets but once they got the firing range, the boys were unbeatable and left the Harrisonites trailing way behind. The home quintet got the jump and was off to a six-point lead before the locals were warmed up, but they soon started to click and in a short time had caught up and passed the Harrison lads to lead 12-6 at the end of the first quarter.

Third Period Rout

At halftime the lead had been stretched to 17-11, but the roof really caved in on the Hudson boys in the third period when all of the Bellboy basket hawks went to town to roll up a total of 28 points to lead 45-19 at quarter time. They did not slow up much in the final quarter either, rimming the basket for a total of 20 points to end the game with the score at 65-30.

The boys will have a test now until January 6 when they will play their first home tilt against the Kearny five. On January 9, will return the visit by going to Kearny and on January 16, Bloomfield, on January 20 and Hillside three days later. They travel to Paterson Central on January 27, then to Teaneck on January 30.

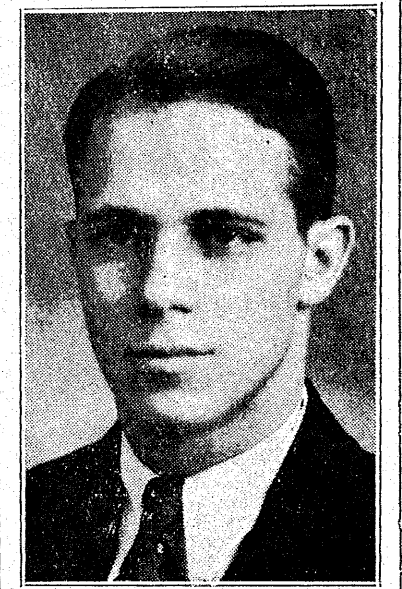

February will be opened with a game here with West Orange on the 3rd and then a visit to Orange on February 6 followed by two games at home, Irvington on February 10 and Lyndhurst on February 13. On February 17 they will go to Union Hill and then meet Phillipsburg here on February 20, Harrison on February 24 and finish the season up away from home against Lyndhurst on February 17.

ROGERS IS MADE 2ND LIEUTENANT

Youth Will Be Awarded Gold Wings In Marine Corps Today

John F. Rogers, United States marine corps, son of Mrs. Frances V. Rogers of 150 Birchwood drive, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the United States marine corps and awarded the gold wings of a naval aviation pilot upon completion of his advance flight training at the naval air base at Jacksonville, Fla., last week.

Rogers attended St. Benedict's Preparatory school, Newark, and Notre Dame. He enlisted in the marine corps December 16, 1940, at Brooklyn and underwent elimination flight training there, being appointed an aviation cadet March 1 this year.

In the past, graduates of the school here have been granted a 15-day furlough, but doubt has been expressed here by officials that such leaves will now be granted.

These graduates are usually assigned directly to active duty with the aircraft squadrons of the marine corps. Due to the important part these squadrons are playing in the Pacific warfare their forces are being increased.

Pilots who undergo training here are assigned to either naval or marine corps squadrons. Selected from throughout the country officers from this school have already proved their worth in action.

URGES WOMEN TO DO PART

Mrs. DeNike, Woman's Club Head, Makes Plea In Annual Christmas Message

In her Christmas message to members, Mrs. John E. DeNike, president of the Woman's club, urged all members to aid in the defense program in any way in which they were able and listed some of the activities in which they could be most helpful.

The good work which the club has been performing must be continued, she emphasized and it must bend its efforts toward continuing to do its part to provide a cultural and recreational program in the community.

"If we want a just and lasting peace," she said, "it is up to the women to keep alive the expressions of tolerance, beauty and peace that will keep democracy from dying."

Club members have been active this year in most of the town's welfare organizations. Fifty-six members have worked on the Red Cross program, 30 on the Community Chest, four are on the Girl Scout council, two are trustees of the Community Service bureau, 12 have served on the nutrition committee and 12 have worked on the dental and day nursery surveys conducted by the Community Service bureau. One represents Belleville on the Essex county extension service committee and one is on the board of education. Two members are presidents of other women's clubs and one is president of a large fraternal organization. Two are on the executive board of the Red Cross chapter and there are two presidents, one vice-president and two program chairmen in P.T.A. groups, who are also club members.

The president urged that this teamwork be continued and stated the support of all club members will be needed, more than ever before if people are to maintain the cultural standards that they now enjoy.

Will Distribute Questionnaires To Defense Volunteers

Arrangements were completed over the weekend by Everett B. Smith, defense council chairman, Philip Dettelbach, chairman of the public relations division, and Mayor Williams for the printing and distribution of a questionnaire which seeks to obtain information important to the local program.

It is planned to distribute the questionnaire first to those residents who have volunteered for services in the various activities with a plan being worked out later for possible general distribution.

RED CROSS WANTS BLOOD DONORS

Want To Build Human Blood Reservoir For Army, Navy Use

The likelihood of war casualties in the army and navy was brought home to Belleville this week when the local Red Cross chapter was urged by national headquarters to play its part in the blood donor program. The purpose is to establish an immense reservoir of human blood plasma to be distributed to the army bases in the Caribbean, Hawaii, Iceland and the Philippines army hospitals at home and upon the navy's fighting ships at sea. At least 250,000 voluntary blood donors are needed to meet this national defense call.

The program is separate and distinct from the efforts of the national defense council to enroll persons willing to contribute blood when needed for transfusions at home in case of civilian injuries. Volunteers will not be "typed." The blood they furnish will be sent to a central depot in New York where the liquid part will be segregated from the red corpuscles, bottled in convenient sized flasks and shipped to the immediate point of need to be used at once or at any time within six months to a year.

The plasma resulting from this process saves lives quickly when used in the treatment of hemorrhage and shock resulting from wounds.

Have Mobile Unit

The local chapter has begun preparations to take part in the program by appointing a committee, which will make an appeal for volunteer blood donors, and co-operate with the New York Red Cross chapter, which has provided a mobile unit for the service of chapters within a radius of 100 miles. It will be the duty of the local chapter to provide the volunteer donors and find a place where these donors can present themselves at stated times for blood letting. These days, at intervals of approximately one month, will depend upon the schedule established for the New York chapter mobile unit. This unit, staffed by physicians and nurses, and equipped with the necessary furniture and instruments, will visit Belleville on pre-arranged dates and take full charge of transfusions provided by the local chapter.

Enrollment of donors to the national blood bank in town will begin immediately, but no appointment for the call of the mobile unit will be made until approximately 100 persons have sent in their names. Volunteers, or prospective volunteers, can get further information by registering with Miss Esther Adams of 84 Rossmore place.

Local Realtors Among Officers Of Real Estate Board

William Schumacher of Bloomfield will be the president for 1942 of the board of realtors of Bloomfield, Glen Ridge, Nutley and Belleville. He was elected at the annual meeting of the board which was held last week in Bloomfield. He succeeds George T. Bowes of Nutley, who was elevated to the position of state secretary at the convention of the New Jersey Association of Real Estate Boards which was held recently at Atlantic City.

Other officers chosen by the board of realtors are: Harvey Harris of Bloomfield, vice-president; Arthur E. Mayer of Belleville, secretary; and Andrew E. Blossom of Nutley, treasurer. William Abramson of Belleville, Max Swift of Bloomfield and Bowes were named on the executive committee. The new officers will begin their duties on January 1.

The board voted to contribute $50 to the American Red Cross emergency war relief fund and also decided to purchase a $500 defense bond.

The committee in charge of multiple listing will meet next Thursday to complete the draft of a new agreement for property listings. The committee will present its proposal for the consideration of the full membership at the January meeting.

He Made Great Sacrifices

We approach Christmas day with mingled feelings. It is a time for joyousness, but we know that it is also the beginning of an era that may be the most trying of our lives. For many it will be one of loneliness and even sadness because of those who will be missing from the family circle this time.

We say "peace on earth, goodwill toward men" and it sounds empty. But, the meaning will never be empty. The simple story of the birth of the son of God is the most beautiful that has ever been or ever will be told to us. A more lowly birth than in manger there could not be, but from it we rose to heights greater than any other man. His life is a story of hardship, of sacrifice and hard work. No man has made greater sacrifices for his fellowmen.

Today, we are being asked to make sacrifices—small in comparison to those which He made for us.

Today, we are being asked to make sacrifices because of a great war—not of our making—but of war-hungry men. We are pledged to preserve this nation, its democracy and its principles. Every one of us must make sacrifices—none so great as He made. But, once again listening to or reading the Christmas story it should give us strength and courage for the long battle ahead. We are not the first to make sacrifices, for He made the greatest of all—the supreme sacrifice for us.

Better Jobs In War Industries

Employers in many businesses are becoming concerned over their employees being lured to those war industries which are paying big wages. The appeal of weekly fat pay checks is too much for most workers to turn their backs on—and who can blame them with the rise in living costs. For a time there was a belief expressed by many that the wages being earned by workers in these industries was all right, but it could not last long. However, the entry of this country into the war made a difference and there has come a general feeling that it will be a long war.

Locally, the police and firemen were the first to receive wage increases on the basis of their contention that the increased cost of living forced them to ask for more money. Last week, the board of education voted increases of $100 or $50 to some of its employees. While this may seem like quite an amount to some, it is not really great in view of the general rise in prices that has taken place.

The National Education association is alert to the situation and this week issued a statement in which it urged school officials everywhere to "help avert a serious threat to the schools" represented in the skyrocketing costs of living which have commenced to force qualified teachers into other lines of work, cutting the quality of educational opportunity to the danger point.

The association makes a plea "that we not weaken our long-time defense of democracy as we did in the war of 1917-18 when vacated classrooms were filled largely by unqualified people because inflated living costs compelled low-salaried teachers to accept better wages in business and industry."

Teachers are not leaving their school jobs, or thinking about it, because they wish to, the association claims, but because they must. While teachers' salaries have remained static, the association writes, those of employees in other industries have risen steadily.

Those being turned out by colleges who aspire to teaching jobs are finding jobs at more lucrative salaries in other fields. Necessity rather than choice has forced them to accept these positions. It is not alone the educational field but other businesses which must give thought to this condition. War has greatly increased the arms manufacturing industry and the demands of it for workers. By necessity, other businesses will suffer, but they will be virtually forced to give some concessions to their employees or lose them to work which provides a greater return.

A Congressman, of Whom to Be Proud

Rutherfordians, Bergen county residents and citizens of Northern New Jersey residing in the Ninth Congressional district have every reason to be proud of the action of Congressman Frank C. Osmer Jr., who this week began service in the United States Army as a private, stationed at Fort Meade, Md., for training and in service for the duration of the war.

Congressman Osmer kept his word. He told us all, the day the United States was attacked, that day he would join the ranks of our fighting men to defend our democracy and the American way of life.

Osmer, 31 years old, was in 1938 the youngest member of Congress. He was a consistent supporter of isolationist measures during the days that world events were leading up to our entrance into the war. But he asked no favors nor looked for no soft spot in joining up to fight. Frank Osmer is in there as a buck private. He is a fine man to have on our side. He is a man of his word... and his action proves him... a true American.

Up to the Individual

Now that the organization of defense units is well under way, the major work in any emergency will devolve upon individual residents, not only those who have volunteered for defense duty, but upon all citizens. All the defense units can do in the event of an air attack or a similar emergency is to give direction to the efforts of individuals, as no organization, however near to being perfect, can solve each problem as it arises.

In the lands under axis domination a different state of affairs prevails. The Germans, in organizing a totalitarian state, place all duties in an emergency on all citizens, but place all responsibility and authority in the hands of leaders. It is not the German citizen's duty to think for himself in meeting an emergency; he must obey orders and follow a pattern established for him by the leaders. In Italy and in Japan, as well, the principle of orders from above prevails.

American citizens, as participants in a democratic government, are supposed to think for themselves. The vital principle of a democracy is that the individual has the rights, the privileges and the duties; and just as the government of a democracy is as good as the people want it to be, so the defense precautions will be as effective as the individual's part in them. Air raid wardens, auxiliary policemen and firemen and members of other defense units will be expected to direct emergency activities, but everyone will have to participate when the emergency reaches his sphere of action.

The man who fails to take positive action in an emergency, the woman who "loses her head," the youth who becomes panic-stricken; all will be contributing to distress in time of danger, and to the defeat of this nation's war effort. Coolness under stress and good, sound sense will go far toward minimizing any difficulties faced by the citizens of any community.

Congressional Wisdom

There is neither logic nor wisdom in the Congressional compromise on the new draft bill.

Mechanization and speed of movement in modern warfare create a need primarily for very young men. Congress has raised the maximum age for combat service to 44, bringing into the draft men of limited usefulness, but it has refused to lower the minimum to 18 to include the group most desirable by military standards. This is illogical.

The action of Congress was unwise because it carries the assumption that legislators know the nation's military needs better than the men responsible for the nation's defense.

Congress should not surrender its powers because there is a war going on, but it should confine its right to reject or modify administration

Girl Mariners Will Hold Christmas Party Saturday

The Belleville Girl Mariners will hold a Christmas party Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. Each member will be accompanied by a child. Decorations, a Christmas tree and gifts for the children will be featured. Alvin Brant, Mrs. Mae Holden and Mrs. Carl Hunterfund, former skipper, will be guests as well as Carol Hunterfund, mascot.

Mrs. Caroline Stroba of Beech avenue began her duties as new skipper for the Mariners last Wednesday night. Magazines and proposals to those fields in which it is competent.

On the question of the number and ages of men required for military service, Congress is in no position to dispute the soundness of the administration's recommendations. It assumes that the administration is wrong, which is a very dangerous assumption indeed.

The fallibility of congressional judgment in military matters has already been demonstrated. There was, for example, the refusal of Congress to permit the fortification of Guam. So Guam was a pushover when Japan got ready to grab it.

Beware of Rumors

Rumors are a part of the fear which all of us feel at being thrust into war. There is little authentic information available, sometimes because it simply hasn't been sent in and other times because it is unwise to release it for strategic reasons. We can think about nothing but the war and our thought must have something to feed on. There always seems to be somebody, unfortunately, on hand to supply this food. We must remember that this may often come from the enemy. At other times it comes from innocent men and women who are lending themselves to the enemy cause.

The fear which is created by this unfortunate gossip is not a bad thing at times. A little bit of it, perhaps, is necessary for a successful war effort. It puts us on our toes, and we find a release in war work. Too much of it, however, is a drain on our nervous systems and may disrupt our efforts. It is hard to think straight when we are paralyzed with fear.

Some blame has been laid to the press and radio for gossip-mongering, and some of this blame is justified. Certainly there should be a limit to the "it is rumored" and "it is stated at an authoritative source" items which are being constantly handed to the American people. We want free speech, but unless the news agencies exercise a little better control than they have for the last few days the people themselves will insist on the regulation.

Some blame must be ascribed to careless listening and reading, however. We must learn to distinguish between genuine news and idle talk. It is usually possible to tell which is which with a little effort. We must not take too much stock in street talk. Our government will give us the real thing, as soon as it can, and we must learn to be patient.

Apartment House Dwellers

A large percentage of our home owners were once our apartment house dwellers. They came to the apartment for a trial period, as it were; grew fond of the town; then became taxpayers.

Because a certain percentage of apartment dwellers do become taxpayers, Englewood city officials have encouraged the building only of better type apartment houses.

Nevertheless, we always hear something of the complaint against certain apartment house dwellers for lack of community participation; difficulty encountered in collection of personal taxes; non-interest in aiding community projects; non-attendance at churches; and, as decried in a letter to "The Englewood Press" last week, failure of some to contribute to the support of local agencies and institutions, such as the Red Cross.

The writer of that letter was undoubtedly overly harsh in some things he wrote. After all is said and done, charity does begin at home, and in these days even a dollar looms large in many families. But also undoubtedly, many who refused to give did so out of sheer indifference. We would like to see such indifference broken down, for the good of the individual families as much as for the good of our community.

Leon Carson Musical Silhouettes—A Commentary On Music

CCCCXVIII

YULETIDE:

"Love came down at Christmas,
Love all lovely, Love divine,
Love was born at Christmas
Stars and angels gave the sign."
—Rosetti.

This is the season for the singing of "Noel." The carol is music's most human contribution to the Christmastide. Its simplicity makes it strong and helpful to mankind. Many throughout the world will sing carols; many cannot because of suffering, economic hardships and other almost unbearable burdens native to humanity. May the ministry of song again prove sufficiently strong to make bright many a sombre spot.

The Christmastide brings to us the spirit of hope eternal: it is man's part to work out its ultimate realization. Let us take fresh inspiration from this spirit and, putting shoulder to shoulder, march on through the coming year to a still higher level of personal attainment and worth.

Musical People: Occasionally we hear of what some progressive centres are doing with the music problem. It is heartening to realize how cities like San Francisco, California, now in a war zone, and Baltimore, Md. consider it their obligation to sponsor the cause of music, with direct aid from the public purse.

For instance, let us glance at San Francisco.

Municipal support of concert-giving will cost the taxpayers of San Francisco $85,000 during the current fiscal year, which is a shade more than a tenth of one per cent of the total city budget. Five groups divide this sum between them. The San Francisco Orchestra will receive $41,000, the Golden Gate Park Band $20,000, the Municipal Band $17,000, and the Municipal Chorus $5,000, while the summer concert series recently closed at the Sigmund Stern Grove received $2,000.

Then Again Baltimore:

Baltimore, Cradle of Municipal Music, is beaming like a proud parent over the twenty-fifth Birthday of its favorite child, the Baltimore Symphony orchestra. This offspring, a model child from the very start began walking the day it was born and has marched with mighty strides into its Silver Anniversary, displaying all the vigor of sturdy youth.

Baltimore's present Municipal Department of Music is the gradual outgrowth of a resolution adopted by Baltimore's Board of Estimates back in 1914, at which time $8,000 was appropriated for the establishment of a municipal band designed to tour the city's various neighborhoods. From this humble beginning grew the Municipal Department of Music which is now listed in the annual tax budget under the general heading of Recreation and Education. The current total appropriation for municipal music—symphony orchestra, bands, soloists, et al., is $89,000 which, over the intervening 27 years, represents an average annual increase of $3,000.

There is a certain deadly, but wholly delightful, monotony about the history of the Baltimore Symphony orchestra. One immediately observes a sort of streamlined improvement on the Horatio Alger rags-to-riches pattern: this orchestra started life as a huge success — and went on from there!

World War primo was halfway through its second year when the Baltimore orchestra let out its first lusty yawn. There was a cocky sound about the crowing and justly so because this was the first orchestra in America to be established and maintained solely out of a municipal tax budget, a unique distinction to which it still lays proud claim.

It has been proven through the pages of history that music is a much needed and appreciated asset in war time. In the dark days of financial distress that ushered in the last

Music At Camp:

The War Department issues a bulletin as of November 15: "Tests to determine the musical preferences of the average soldier will be made soon by the Army. His reactions to recorded musical programs will indicate whether he prefers Brahms or Boogie-Woogie."

Laurence Torley Talks About Dogs

The pure-bred dog's importance as a means to better health throughout America has been brought into bold relief by the physicians examining the result of those who must take the general dog picture before the simple that ad-

At least two great phases of organized pure-bred dog activities provide ample opportunity for health-giving, outdoor exercise: the field trials and the obedience tests held under the American Kennel club's rules in all parts of the United States. It is impossible to train dogs adequately for either of these activities without spending a few hours of every day in the open.

The walking, climbing, and occasional running and jumping involved in these training sessions come close to supplying all the exercise a man or a woman needs to preserve health. And to a lesser extent, the conditioning of pure-bred dogs for bench shows is beneficial to owner as well as to dog.

May Prove Harmful

The average American has gotten into the habit of forgetting sports and outdoor life of all kinds once he has left the guidance of school and college athletic directors. In some cases, when he achieves a certain measure of economic security, he attempts to return to some of the violent forms of exercise that he could do easily when in his teens, and early twenties. Usually the result is more harmful than beneficial.

The training of dogs is easy exercise. It is no great strain on the heart, and it tends to bring muscles back to their former resiliency.
