

Parade Tops Send-Off Today For Draftees Going Into Service

The largest contingent yet of the town's young men headed to enter the service of their country will march down Washington avenue shortly after 9 this morning. Their departure will be amidst the farewells of relatives, friends and many of the general public who will be on the curbline to witness Belleville's first demonstration honoring departing draftees.

After brief ceremonies at the high school, the soldiers-to-be will march down the avenue behind an escort of police headed by Police Chief George Spatz, Mayor Williams and other town officials, the members of the draft board and a color guard from the George A. Younginger Post V. F. W.

His will be the first of a series of going away ceremonies for those entering the armed forces under selective service which is being arranged and planned by the draft board. Various community organizations and civic groups will be invited to take charge and participate in the brief exercises to be held at the high school. When the next group departs, the American Legion post will direct the program.

All draftees have been instructed to meet at the high school at 8:30 a. m., Draft Clerk Edward Reed said yesterday. The front half of the main floor auditorium will be reserved for the men, their relatives and friends. The general public is invited, and they will fill out the auditorium with a number of the school students.

The high school band will open the ceremony with a patriotic number followed by the entrance of the V. F. W. color guard which will be the signal for the playing and singing of the national anthem.

Roll Call By Chairman

Draft Chairman John P. Dailey will then call the roll of those scheduled to leave after which he will give the men instructions. A brief speech will be made by Mayor Williams after which Frank A. Siegler, group leader, and the assistant leaders, William J. Brady, Stanley Joseph Guskis, Edward J. Manning, Francis W. Smith, Anthony C. Stefanello and William Joseph Vallada, will be introduced. The men will then be divided into groups which will be in charge of the leaders until they arrive at Fort Dix.

The parade from the school down Washington avenue to the town hall at Belleville avenue will start between 9 and 9:15 a. m. The five town commissioners have been invited to march with Chairman Dailey and Herbert V. Hardman and John Gannon, who comprise the local draft board. The high school band will follow the police department escort in the line-up.

The men are scheduled to leave from the town hall by public service bus at 9:30 a. m. for the Pennsylvania station, Newark, where they will board the train which will take them to Dix.

Cancel Pre-Induction Exams

Notices sent to men last week to report for pre-induction examination in Newark tomorrow was cancelled over the weekend by the board, acting on orders from national and state headquarters.

A return to the former system in which draftees were given their final examination on the day on which they were inducted has been announced. Draft Clerk Reed said that it is expected that the next group, which he anticipates will be larger than that leaving today, will go about April 1.

The pre-induction plan, which provided three weeks' leeway to settle personal affairs between examination and swearing in, was adopted last September when immediate induction was criticized because of the hardships it worked on candidates. Not knowing whether they would be accepted or rejected, most were in a quandary what to do about personal matters.

The war department has announced that a repetition of this fault will be eliminated through a provision that will permit inductees to obtain short furloughs immediately after swearing in if they can prove that it would cause "undue hardship" to start service at once.

Want State To Relax Rule On Issuing Arm Bands

The defense council is awaiting today a reply to its request of the state defense council that its regulation that no arm bands be issued before civilian volunteers complete training be relaxed. It urged local control over the issuance of arm bands to those in training.

Police Chief Spatz told the council at its Monday night meeting that members of the police reserve were clamoring for arm bands. He also pointed out that in giving the men practical training some means of identification would be necessary.

GOP WOMEN WILL HEAR ABC HEAD

Alfred E. Driscoll To Talk Next Thursday On His Duties, Powers

State Alcoholic Beverage Commissioner Alfred E. Driscoll will speak before the Belleville Women's Republican club next Thursday, March 12, at 3 p. m., at the Woman's club, 51 Rossmore place. The public is invited. Driscoll was scheduled to speak at the club's November meeting, but his address was postponed. His subject will be "The Duties and Power of the Alcoholic Beverage Commissioner."

Assemblywoman Olive C. Sanford will discuss some of the current bills which have been brought before the legislature. These will include the proposed $100,000 for a constitutional convention and the Lowe bill to authorize chairmen of township committees to perform marriages. A short business meeting will be held at 1:30. The speakers will be introduced by Mrs. John F. O'Brien Jr., legislative chairman.

RESIDENTS LIKE NEW BUS LINE

Noll Says He's Received Many Calls On No. 100 Route In Valley

A long campaign for bus service for the valley section which would help residents to get to the town's business center and to Newark ended this week when the first Public Service No. 100 line bus jogged over a route through the section shortly after 6:45 Monday morning.

The bus will operate on a 15-minute headway during morning and evening rush hours and a 40-minute headway otherwise. The first bus will leave the northern terminal at the Nutley-Belleville line in Main street at 6:45 a. m. The run to the Pennsylvania railroad station in Newark, its southern terminal, takes 30 minutes. The last bus at night will leave from Main street at 12 midnight. A complete time schedule and the route of the bus is contained in an advertisement on Page 2.

Says People Like It

Commissioner Noll, director of local transportation, who cooperated with Public Service in bringing about the establishment of the line said yesterday that he had already received a number of calls from residents and representatives of industrial firms in the valley area telling him how much the new service meant to them. It is a help to residents not only in getting to the Washington avenue business section, he said, but as a direct route to Newark. Workers at plants there who do not drive or have recently given up their cars have already found the bus a great help to them, the commissioner said.

Starting from Penn station, the bus travels north on McCarter highway to Ogden street, to Harvey street, to Broadway, to Herbert place, Chester avenue and Riverside avenue where it joins Main street at the Belleville line. The bus then winds its way through Mill street, Washington avenue, Rutgers street, Stephens street, Little street, Ralph street, Greylock avenue to Main street at the Nutley line.

The fare on the line is five cents in Belleville and five cents in Newark.

Candidate Arthur Mayer Holds Card Party Next Thursday

They Won In State Show

Outstanding H.S. Art Work Recognized In State Show

Seven Students Receive Medals For Their Paintings And Drawings; Bob Valentino's Oil Is Judged Best of Show Runner-up; Works On Exhibit

The high school art department topped a series of annual successes in state competition this week when seven students were judged medal winners in the state exhibition of high school art sponsored by L. Bamberger & company.

The works of the students, with 1,000 others by ambitious scholastic artists throughout the state, are now on display at the Newark department store which will close its exhibition on Saturday.

P. Webster Diehl, high school art instructor, supervised the students in the preparation of their paintings, drawings and designs, some of which will go on to be entered in the national competition which will be held later in the spring.

Outstanding among the youthful local exhibitors are Bob Valentino, whose oil painting was selected by the judges as first in its division and runner-up for the best of show award. Two gold medals or first prize awards went to Naida Willette, for her pen and ink drawings while second and third prizes were awarded to Walter Garvey for his works in advertising and industrial design. William Mackey was the first prize winner in industrial design and Frank Lakin received a bronze medal for third prize in textile design.

Diehl was a member of the 13-man committee which had charge of the exhibition. Prize winners in the state contest will be entered in the national high school art exhibition sponsored by the Carnegie institute at Pittsburgh.

Only Few Rejected
Out of more than 3,000 pictures which were entered in the contest, an estimated 2,000 were eliminated before serious judging was started. The local high school submitted 42 entries and 33 were retained. Belleville stood high in receiving seven medals out of the 51 which were awarded to students from schools in all parts of the state.

The subject of Valentino's oil painting is Bob Fogarty of Kearney, a former local resident, who attended high school here last year. The jury of awards selecting the best of show entry had to take a vote before it could decide between Valentino's entry and a five-inch piece of sculpture by Benny Bambaruk of Union high school. Bambaruk received the Richard Wel Jr. $100 award.

Reginald Marsh, recognized as the country's outstanding painter of the common man, on viewing the exhibition, commented, "There is the work of at least a dozen geniuses here."

"It is truly amazing—almost unbelievable that such fine work could be turned out by high school students," was the analysis of Russell Patterson, originator of the Patterson girl.

Miss Willette's two first prize winners were a pencil drawing, "Bessie," and a pen drawing, "M'Lissa."

Patrolman Dotterweich's Wife Passes After Long Illness

Mrs. Myrtle Shaw Dotterweich, wife of Patrolman Christopher A. Dotterweich, died early last evening at her home, 57 Prospect place, following a two-year illness.

Born in Belleville, the daughter of the late William and Mary Shaw, Mrs. Dotterweich attended local schools and up until recent years had taken an active interest in local affairs. She was married to Patrolman Dotterweich 19 years ago.

No time has been set yet for the services which will be held from the Irvine funeral home in Washington avenue. Rev. Edgar M. Compton, pastor of Wesley Methodist church, will officiate at the services.

Surviving Mrs. Dotterweich besides her husband are a son, Christopher, Jr., and five sisters, Miss Mabel Shaw and Mrs. Edward Hollweg of this town, Mrs. Nell Mullanthy of Bayonne, Mrs. Charles Gross of Irvington and Mrs. Alan King of Newark.

HARMONY VITAL, RENT COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN SAYS

If Cooperation Is Lacking, U. S. Will Step In, de Hagara Warns

The fair rents committee appealed this week to landlords and tenants alike for voluntary cooperation in straightening out rent problems. The seven-man group, named recently by Mayor Williams to cope with the condition, reviewed its first cases on Tuesday night at town hall.

Of the eight cases heard, rent adjustments were advocated in four while action was deferred on the other four. Although the committee has no power and its recommendations are only advisory, Chairman Paul de Hagara pointed out yesterday that should tenants and landlords fail to display co-operative attitude toward the board's efforts it would undoubtedly result in government control over the condition.

The rent committee chairman, who is an attorney, emphasized that with the adoption of price fixing legislation, the office of price administration has been empowered to set rent ceilings in areas affected by the war boom. OPA this week named certain sections where the top rate on rentals has already been fixed by the government. These are regions where the climb in rentals has been many times that which landlords sought or received before the defense production era.

OPA Could Move In

If the government should designate Belleville as a defense rental area, it would mean that the town would be given 60 days notice to reduce rents to the levels set by the government. If state or local action should not prompt it, de Hagara explained, OPA, through powers granted in the price fixing bill, could move in and take control.

The price administration office may fix maximum rentals and act to enforce their observance. Court injunction and the repeal of licenses for rental properties faces those landlords who violate OPA regulations. Those convicted of charging excessive rents face a maximum fine of $5,000 or jail sentence or both.

Hearings have been scheduled by the committee to receive complaints on the first and third Tuesdays of the month in the town hall at 7:30 p. m.

In a case heard this week in which two complaints were made against a landlord who sought to raise rents from $25 to $31, the board recommended $28.50 monthly in each case. In two other cases involving another landlord, he proposed to raise the monthly rent of tenants paying $42.50 to $47.50. A monthly charge of $45 was suggested by the board.

Other members of the committee working with de Hagara are Rev. Benedetto Pascale, pastor of Silver Lake Baptist church, vice-chairman; Miss Frances Williamson, secretary; Raymond C. Jenkins, Mrs. Rose Reilly, Miss Theresa Salmon and Rev. H. C. Van Pelt.

"Snow White, Rose Red" Play Tomorrow and Monday

The drama department of the Woman's club through the courtesy of the board of education, will present the Newark Junior league in "Snow White and Rose Red" to the school children tomorrow at School No. 8 and on Monday at School No. 5.

All schools from kindergarten up to and including the eighth grade will be dismissed at 3 and the play will begin at 3:30 and last until 4:30.

The following members of the drama department will have charge of arrangements and admission at School No. 8 on Friday: Mrs. William Chapman, Miss Florence Kelly, Mrs. Luther Van Loe, Mrs. Joseph Ryan, Mrs. Louis A. Noll, Jr., Mrs. W. D. Clark, Jr. and the chairman, Mrs. Dwight Streeter. On Monday at School No. 5 Mrs. Ralph Allaire, Mrs. Arthur Ackerman, Mrs. James Lynch, Mrs. Elmer Hyde, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Streeter will take charge.

Card Party and Politics Don't Mix, Hyde Tells Throng

A bridge party is no place to talk political issues, Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde told more than 300 of his friends who attended a card party at the Elks' club Tuesday night.

The affair, which was arranged by a group of Hyde's campaign workers headed by Mrs. Louis Frick, was the first official act of his campaign for election to the board of commissioners.

The candidate, who finished sixth in the 1938 race, told those attending that while there are many issues to be discussed, he did not believe that a bridge was the place to talk about them. He was introduced by William Wakefield who termed Hyde "as our friend and civic-spirited citizen whom we know will be elected."

Hartley Bill Passed Giving Servicemen Free Mail Right

Legislation Passes Both Houses; Awaits F. D.'s Signature; Congressman Campaigned For Passage A Year; Free Mail Use Will Help Morale, He Says

SCongressman Fred A. Hartley, representative from the tenth congressional district, appeared this week to have won a year-long campaign in congress to secure free mail privileges for all men in the armed service of the country.

Awaiting the signature of President Roosevelt is a measure which would grant the franking privilege to any member of the military or naval forces, including the coast guard.

It would permit all men in service to send letters home from any station in the United States, its territories and possessions or from any foreign war front. The bill, sponsored by Congressman Hartley, is a section of the War Powers Bill which was passed by both houses of Congress on Saturday.

The Congressman's campaign for the free mailing privilege started on March 3, 1941, when he introduced the first bill on the subject. Shelves after its introduction, the 10th congressional district representative finally succeeded in having the bill revived and made a part of the WPB legislation.

In his effort, the congressman was supported in hearings before the post office and post roads committee of the house, by the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American War Veterans and other patriotic groups.

Will Help Morale

Jubilant over the House's action, Hartley said in Washington yesterday:

"The passage of this bill will mean that the six, seven, eight, or nine million men who will eventually constitute our armed forces, will have free use of the mails. It will be a great help for the morale of our men in uniform and also for those at home."

As sponsor of the legislation in the house or representatives, Hartley said that he was confident that President Roosevelt would sign the bill and that it would become a law within a week.

The free mailing privilege provision of the War Powers Bill states as follows:

"Any first-class letter mail matter admissible to the mails as ordinary mail matter which is sent by a member of the military or naval forces of the United States (including the United States Coast Guard) while on active duty or in the active military service of the United States."

BUDGET HEARING DRAWS NO ONE

Commissioners Lop 3 More Points Off Rate Minus The Spectators

Not one of the town's many thousands of taxpayers turned up at Friday's public hearing on the municipal budget to tell the board of commissioners that the 1942 expense sheet is good, bad or indifferent.

Only two town employees, both in the hall because of work to do, sat in the audience during the five-minute session in which Mayor Williams announced that another three points more had been shaved off of the tax rate bringing it down to a probable $4.50 figure, which is 12 points lower than 1941.

Final adoption was delayed pending approval by state officials of several changes made in budgetary figures. Although $3,000 was added to Commissioner Clark's public safety budget for fire hose, that amount was offset and the rate drop made possible by reducing the reserve for uncollected taxes $8,297.89 and increasing the interests and costs item in anticipated revenue by $4,000.

In a brief statement, Williams pointed to the rising increase in state and county taxes which Belleville is required to pay and continued reduction in funds which the state is giving to the public schools.

Using the 1939 tax rate as a base, he pointed out that the town tax rate had dropped 41 points, while the school rate had risen five points and the county rate had increased 12 points.

New Books Are Added At Free Public Library

New books which have recently been added to the rental collection at the library are:

Wild is the River, Bromfield; Dragon Seed, Buck; Hills beyond Manhattan, D'Agostino; Young Ames, Edmonds; Girl without Credit, Greig; Lonely Parade, Hurst; Walls of Jericho, McCord; Arms and the Girl, Marshall.

Belleville families will get their sugar on a rationing plan within the next month was the prediction made yesterday. Preliminary instructions have already been received by the local rationing board and plans have been drafted for the use of all of the town's public schools in the registration of families so that they will be eligible for their sugar allotments.

More detailed instructions are expected to be received by board officials tonight at a meeting to be held in the Hall of Records in Newark. Principal speakers will be State Rationing Administrator Robert W. Johnson and Mrs. Irma Nowell, deputy state rationing administrator.

Local officials roughly estimate that 10,000 rationing books will be needed to cover the total number of individual families in Belleville. This is based on population figures and school estimates as to the probable number of families in town.

The state rationing board has requested that all county and municipal school superintendents complete their estimates today of the number of persons whom they expect will register for sugar rationing.

Prior to the registration of the civilian population, all retailers, confectioners, restaurants, dining car operators and other institutions using more than the normal family quota of sugar will be enrolled during a two-day period.

Teachers To Handle It

The signing up of individuals at the ten public schools is expected to take place during a four-day period with registration offices open during the late afternoon and evening. It is understood that an appeal will be made to the teachers to volunteer to act as registrars as they have during the days of registration.

A sample of the form which heads of families must fill out on registration has already been received by the local board. In addition to giving information about the members of an individual household and their relationship to the registrant, each person must give some vital statistic details. It is anticipated that rationing books will be issued to each family at the time of registration. While no date has as yet been set for the signing up, it is expected that it will be late this month.

Housewives who did not feel so gloom about the prospect of rationing when they learned that each person in a family would be allowed 12 ounces of sugar, had to change their thoughts somewhat this week when the war production board in Washington announced that individual allotments had been cut to eight ounces.

Unexpected shortages and the packaging problem have necessitated the change. It was said that large amounts of sugar have already been packaged in one pound lots. Because of the waste of material and labor in breaking up the packages, it is probable that rationing will be on a two-week basis with individuals receiving a pound instead of a half pound.

No Retreaded Tires

Those on the eligible list for having tires retreaded received a setback for this month when it was learned that no passenger car retreads would be allotted for Belleville during March. Tread trucks and bus retreads have been allotted, Ruel E. Daniels, ration board secretary, said.

The board started the rationing of new cars on Monday. Belleville's quota for the three-month period ending May 31 is 29 new automobiles. Applications will now be accepted. The list of eligibles are similar to the regulations which were established for listing those eligible for new and retreaded tires. Among those added to the group are farm veterinarians and traveling salesmen engaged in selling farm equipment provided that they can meet the stiff requirements of the rationing regulations.

Six new cars, orders for which were placed prior to January 1, were released to owners at the board's order before the new "freezing" order went into effect on Monday. The Guarino Marble Works of 740 Washington avenue and Frank E. McCourt of 278 Union avenue were granted applications last week. Those issued this week were to F. Theodore Mastoth of 201 Joramelon street, the Newark Leather Finishing company, Christian P. Hansen of 230 New street and Albert Hagenbush of 65 Bremond street. The board acted on the latter applications at its meeting in its offices at School Schmutz presided in the absence of the board chairman, Edward T. (Continued on Page 6)

MRS. NOLL SPEAKS AT ROTARY CLUB

Members Hear First Aid Chairman and See Demonstration; 200 Complete Course

Mrs. Louis A. Noll, Jr., first aid chairman, was guest of the Rotary club at its noon meeting yesterday at Forest Hill field club. Accompanied by James Leonard, first aid instructor, Mrs. Noll gave an informative talk and conducted practical demonstrations in first aid instruction.

Mrs. Noll has announced the completion this week of the standard first aid course by 200 students who will receive Red Cross certificates. Tomorrow evening a ten-hour course for members of various units of civilian defense will be started in the old gymnasium of the high school at 8. On Tuesday in the new gymnasium of the school a 20-hour course for male air wardens only will get under way.

Mrs. Noll has called attention to the distinction between these two courses. No Red Cross certificates will be awarded for the ten hour course although it meets the requirements of the State Office of civilian defense. Those who take this course will be given credit later, however, if they wish to add another ten hours instruction and gain an official Red Cross First Aid certificate.

Air Wardens Want Course

The majority of air raid wardens have requested that the 20 hour course be made available for them. Likewise the standard course was undertaken several weeks ago by 255 members of the police reserves, fire reserves, rescue and repair squads as well as some air raid wardens because the majority requested it.

New classes in advanced first aid instruction will be started in about two weeks time. Those now completing the standard course are asked to signify their desire for the advanced instruction.

Table Decoration Hints For School No. 10 P.T.A.

The March meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of School No. 10 will be held next Thursday, March 12, at 3:30 at the school. The meeting will follow refreshments and will be addressed by Miss Elsie Cone of New York who will demonstrate and lecture on the combined use of china and silver for decorative purposes in table use and elsewhere throughout the home.

Mrs. Henry Mische, hospital-ity chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Samuel Figuerelli and Mrs. Anthony Troina, mothers of second grade pupils, and Miss Mae Davis, teacher. Miss Carolyn Miller, also a teacher, will be in charge of the young children who accompany their mothers.

Apartment Project Sought For Old Jackson Property

75-Year-Old Main Street House Owned By Town Declared Hazard For Families There; Mayor Favors Interesting Builder To Buy It

A 75-year-old Main street property, generally known as the Jackson estate, is presenting a problem for the board of commissioners. Now owned by the town, four relief families are housed there.

Mayor Williams bluntly told his board colleagues last week that it is a hazard and unsafe from the fire or health standpoint for the people now living there. Both Fire Chief Reid and Health Officer Berry have inspected the building, Williams said.

With 54,000 square feet of property area, the mayor said that he felt that it would be suitable land for some builder interested in small apartment development. He said that as yet no builder has made an offer.

In answer to a query as to the possibility of remodeling the property known as 255 Main street, Williams said that builders were not interested and that estimates of the cost of putting the structure "in decent shape" ranged from $3,500 to $4,800. The heating plant is antiquated, he said, and a constant hazard is presented by the families who use oil heaters to keep warm.

Where To Put Them
The family residing on the third floor of the house was moved out, the mayor said, because of the hazard. Where to put the families if the town should sell the property is a difficult problem for the relief office, he said. There are no reasonably priced places to rent vacant in town, the mayor continued.

The property, which is the second house north of the Bart Laboratories building has a frontage on Main street of 114 feet. It is 502 feet deep and spreads out on the rear line to a width of 180 feet.

Williams said that he would be opposed to the erection of the defense type of apartments there,

GEOMETRY PROVES VALUE FINALLY

High School Graduate, Now In Navy, Writes Teacher About It

William Chapman, high school mathematics teacher and freshman football coach, thinks today that he's been well repaid for the hours he's spent drilling plane geometry into high school students. One of his former pupils, George Schemm, now in the navy aboard the U.S.S. Wyoming, wrote him this week telling what the teacher's efforts now meant to him.

"How is school coming along? Or isn't the school still running since I left? I want to thank you for teaching me plane geometry theories that I have remembered so well—have helped me greatly. It so happened, that because of my knowledge of geometry I got a chance to hold a very fine job. I can't tell you what it is but I have made a good impression. Everything is going along swell with me. I promise to bring you back a Jay's scalp before this war's over. Wait until they see what a fella from Belleville can do. Then the war will be in the bag (a dated one at that)."

"There isn't much that I could write about because we are not permitted to say much about anything. I wanted to let you know how everything was here. I also wanted you to know that your teaching is spelling doom for a few enemies. I can't tell you in what way but I'm sure it will make you feel good to know you have done something to win this war (at least indirectly)."

"Please give my regards to Mr. Blair and a few of the fellows. The only reason I learned geometry was because I had the best teacher that could be had."

MYSTERY THRILLER PLAY FOR SENIORS

George M. Cohan's "Seven Keys To Baldpate" To Be Given March 26-27

An old-time mystery thriller, which had had theatre audiences on the edge of their seats over the years, will be revived by the high school seniors on March 26 and 27 when they will present George M. Cohan's "Seven Keys To Baldpate."

Presentation of the play is one of the chief ways in which the class has for raising funds to defray some of its graduation expenses and purchase the gift which it will present to the school.

Miss Eleanor Rush, school dramatic instructor, is directing the cast assisted by Lois Lunsford, student director.

"Seven Keys To Baldpate" is one of the most successful melodramatic farces ever produced. It was dramatized by Cohan, one of the most famous of Broadway actors, from the novel by Carl Derr Biggers.

Elijah Jeffers
Services were held yesterday afternoon at 2 p.m. for Elijah Jeffers of 46 Belleville avenue, who passed away on Sunday at the home of his son, Elmer, at 18 William street after a six-week illness.

Mr. Jeffers was born in Greenwood 84 years ago and had spent most of his life in Johnstown, Pa., where he was employed as a steel worker for more than 47 years. He had lived in town for the past 15 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Julia Elfine Jeffers; seven sons, Edward, Elmer and Lawrence, of this town; Walter of Lorraine, O. Robert of East Paterson; Joseph of Newark and Warren of Johnstown; five daughters, Mrs. Cora Zinzi, Mrs. Florence Weimer, Mrs. Viola Bisano, Mrs. Mary McDonald, Mrs. Rose Purcell, all of Johnstown.

Interment was in Christ church cemetery.

Amanda J. McCluskey

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 p.m. for Mrs. Amanda J. McCluskey, 63, of 31 Stephens street who died Tuesday in St. Michael's hospital, Newark.

Mrs. McCluskey, who was born in New York, had resided in Belleville for 25 years. She was a member of Lady Trinity Lodge, 65, I.O.O.F. and the Ladies guild of Christ Episcopal church.

Rev. Peter R. Deckenbach will officiate at the services. She is survived by her husband, Arthur J. McCluskey; a son, Arthur A. of this town; Miss Catherine J., also of Belleville and Mrs. William Gauer of White Plains, N. Y., and two grandchildren.

Mrs. Norman Lauterette of Elena place entertained Tuesday evening at bridge Mrs. Claude Freed, Mrs. Charles Young of this town and Mrs. John Savage of Bloomfield.

DEFENSE SCOUT CONCLAVE TOPIC

Girls Of Brownie Troop 25 Spend Day In New York; Troop 13 Has Party

National and local defense activities comprised the main topic of discussion at the all day session of Girl Scout leaders and council members of North Jersey recently at the Newark Y.W.C.A.

Mrs. May T. Holden, Mrs. Frank Ackerman and Mrs. Stanley Gibson of the local scout council attended.

It was pointed out that civilian defense requirements could be met by scouts of any age by perfecting themselves in such practical things as learning the care of children, nutrition planning, cooking, first aid methods; by doing messenger service, practicing home safety, keeping physically fit, mending books, making sewing kits for soldiers and collecting articles to be conserved for defense work.

Members of Brownie Troop 25, accompanied by their leaders, Miss Angele Pucillo and Mrs. Holden, spent February 21 in New York city where they visited the Girl Scout Shop, St. Patrick's cathedral, attended the morning performance at Radio City Music Hall and the Brooklyn menagerie at Prospect Park. Several of the girls' mothers also accompanied them.

Members of Girl Scout Troop 13 honored George Washington's birthday at the home of one of their leaders, Mrs. Theodore Card of Malone avenue. Patriotic decorations including, a prize-filled Uncle Sam hat as centerpiece, were used. Twenty girls, Mrs. Arthur Price and Mrs. Holden attended.

The Ladies' Pinchhole club will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Hood of Union avenue. Her guests will be Mrs. Robert Andrews, Mrs. Loretta Dow, Mrs. John Comeskey, Mrs. Charles Hood, Mrs. William Hood, Mrs. Leroy Hilton, Mrs. Edward A. Rochau and Mrs. Rudolph E. Zoeller Jr.

Vary Your Meatless-Meals

Plan Menus with Food-Contrasts in Texture, Taste, and Color

MEATLESS meals can easily become monotonous if the same fish, eggs or cheese dishes are served too often. In planning dinners for the Lenten season strive for variety in foods. See that there are contrasts in type, flavor, texture, temperature and color. Include both acid and sweet foods at each meal.

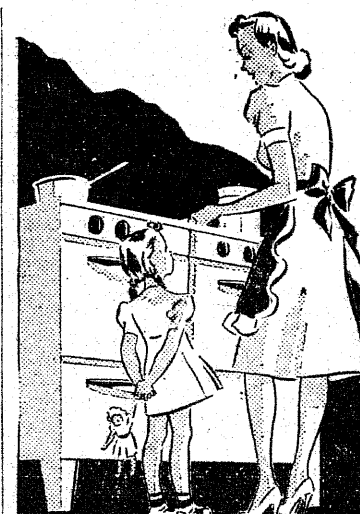

It is economical to bake a dessert at the same time you cook an oven casserole dish—of course, both dishes must have the same temperature requirements. If your gas range has no temperature control, use an oven thermometer.

1 can corn
1 pint oysters
3 tbsp. butter
2 tsp. flour
1 tsp. salt

Heat corn. Drain oysters and add enough water to liquid to make ¾ cup. Melt butter, add flour, salt and pepper. Mix well. Add milk and oyster liquid and cook until thickened, stirring to keep smooth. Arrange corn, oysters and white sauce in alternate layers and sprinkle remaining crumbs on top (about ¼ cup). Bake in 400 degree oven 20 minutes.

Salmon Pot-Pie
4 tbsp. butter
1 tsp. minced onion
1 tsp. fat
6 tbsp. flour
1 can pink salmon
milk and liquid
1½ cups milk
Melt butter; add onion. Cook 2 min., then stir in flour; add 1 cup salmon juice and water and 1½ cups milk. Cook, stirring until thick and smooth. Add seasonings, celery, peas, potatoes and salmon broken into large pieces. Pour into a casserole and top with biscuit dough rolled thin and cut in fancy shapes. Bake in 400 degree oven until biscuits are brown, about 25 minutes.

Dust light bulbs often. Do not use blackened bulbs in reading lamps.

Minced Clam Stew
4 tbsp. butter
1 pint minced clams
1 cup milk
Melt butter, add minced clams and cook 3 minutes. Add liquid from clams and milk and seasonings. Heat just to boiling point and serve.

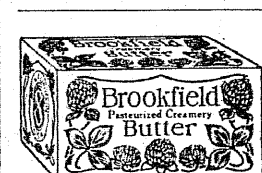

OVEN MEAL
Spanish Limas
1 onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
2 cups tomatoes
2 cups fat
1 cup Worcestershire (No. 2 can)
1 cup grated American cheese
Brown onion and pepper in fat. Add tomatoes and simmer 10 minutes. Add beans and seasonings. Place in greased casserole with cheese and bake 40 minutes at 375 degrees.

Deep Dish Apple Pie
5 apples
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. flour
1½ tsp. butter
¼ tsp. nutmeg
½ recipe Main Pastry

Line a deep dish with pastry. Sprinkle flour and ¼ cup sugar on bottom of crust. Pare the apples and cut in thin slices. Put apples in pastry-lined dish and cover with remaining sugar, dot with butter and sprinkle nutmeg over all. Bake with Limas at 375° for 40 min.

Radler-Murray Nuptials Took Place On Saturday

Miss Doris Amelia Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira H. Murray of 352 Washington avenue, and William G. Radler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Radler of 74 Dewitt avenue, were married Saturday afternoon in Fawcett church by Dr. O. Bell Close. A reception was held at the bride's home.

Miss Murray was given in marriage by her father and had as her attendants her sister, Mrs. Robert Southward of Springfield, Miss Bette Hiles of Great Meadows and Miss Kathleen Connell of this town. Lawrence Buckley of Belleville was Mr. Radler's best man and Robert Southward and Stanley Radler, ushers.

The bride wore a princess gown of white moire taffeta with short train covered by a finger-veil veil of tulle. Her flower coronet was made of lilies of the valley and other small white flowers and she carried a cascade bouquet of white spring blossoms. Identical in style was the deep blue moire taffeta gown worn by Mrs. Southward, as matron of honor. A coronet and bouquet of pale pink spring flowers accompanied it. The bridesmaids pale blue gowns were worn with coronets and bouquets of deep pink flowers. After a short honeymoon the couple will live for several weeks at 352 Washington avenue and then take up residence at their new home, 48 Bennington road, Crestmont estates, Livingston. Mrs. Radler was graduated from the local high school and Y. W. C. A. Secretarial School in Newark. She was employed by the Century Indemnity Insurance company in that city. Mr. Radler also is a graduate of Belleville high school and of the Newark School of Fine and Applied Arts, is employed by the Westinghouse corporation in Newark.

PROTECT THOSE EYES

THIS IS NO TIME to neglect precious eyes... no time to sacrifice good eyesight in order to save pennies on lighting. Now, more than ever, it is important to protect eyes... by having the RIGHT LIGHT in your home.

This is a time when eyes are hard at work—providing the vision required for knitting, sewing, study—things which contribute to our National Defense. It is a time which requires correct lighting.

Use fresh Mazda bulbs of the right size, so as to convert electric current into the best possible home lighting. (Old blackened light bulbs rob you of light, waste electricity. Replace them). Home lighting should be efficient lighting!

Competent Instructors Aided Says First Aid Leader

From Mrs. Louis A. Noll, Jr., First Aid Chairman, American Red Cross
To the Editor of The Belleville Times:
It is satisfaction to learn through the editorial in the Belleville Times last week that the first aid division of the American Red Cross is exercising its responsibilities efficiently. I have received several letters as well as verbal comments complimenting me, and it is for that reason that I wish to mention those through whose co-operation the progress has been made.
Organized training is an antidote for fear and panic in civilian life as well as in the armed forces. In order to do this training well it was necessary to have competent directors. I solicited the help of authorized Red Cross instructors. The growing interest meant a growing responsibility and in the face of the ever-changing conditions I found the instructors especially glad to be of service and more than willing to give several nights each week toward the development of our program. Through their efforts the Belleville chapter has made a definite contribution for the protection of the people in our community.

Says People Are Grateful

The various groups, by their great individual interest and enthusiasm, are partly responsible for what has been accomplished. The people of Belleville have indicated that they are grateful for the contribution of time and effort the instructors have made and, as first aid chairman, I am particularly grateful for the assistance they have given in this field of service.

Those who have been trained or are in training have a mutual obligation to one and another to turn what knowledge they have received to good account in the event of a serious emergency, which is apparent to anyone who thinks seriously about the hazards of the present time and of the days that are ahead.

Whatever may be done by these trained first aiders to care for the injured, to forestall further injury and prevent the unnecessary loss of human life is directly in line with national defense and with the general purposes of the American Red Cross.

Instructors are Drs. Martin Meehan, Joseph D'Angel, Samuel Goldberg and Donald Brown; the Misses Kathryn Conklin, Doris Soleau and Filomena Pomponio; and Fred James, Paul Baxter, Gottfried Johnson, Andrew Lukowiak, Albert Hollihan, Frank Struck, A. B. Vieth and Armand Richley.

Railroads Looks Same As They Did 31 Years Ago

From Lillian M. Jones
161 Holmes street
To the Editor of The News:
A copy of the old Belleville Times dated October 28, 1910, came to hand the other day. It carried the enclosed editorial.
Thirty-one years later the appearance of our railroad stations is little better, if any, than at that writing. Justifiably of other wise, strange, passing through the town by rail judges the place by the appearance of its stations.
Five dollars' worth of seed and two or three days' work would do wonders for our stations. Presumably, the condition exists persists) because its everybody's business, therefore, nobody's. Meanwhile our pleasant town goes on misrepresenting itself any number of times a day year by year.
(The Times' editorial to which Miss Jones refers is reprinted below.)
If there is one thing more than another that has retarded the growth of Belleville it is the lack of local pride among its residents. While other places about us have been getting together for the purpose of boosting by word and deed their municipalities we have been cliquing and knocking. The results in each case are manifest. We have but to walk or ride about to see them. In other places we find, for instance, the localities of the railroad stations made attractive by flowers and shrubbery, lots cleared of tin cans and rubbish and streets free of waste paper, but here—well, conditions are different.
It seems like a joke to talk of beautifying Erie Railroad property, but it could be done by organized and systematic effort. The town of Nutley affords an example in this line. There an organization of women has accomplished much by persistent work toward beautifying the town. Not only have the women greatly improved conditions about the depot, but they have wrought wonders all over the town by offering prizes to private parties for well kept premises; they have encouraged efforts toward improvements of the kind that make a town attractive. If done in Nutley why not here?

Joins Noll In Labelling Stadium 'White Elephant'

From Mrs. Lloyd R. Reeves
84 Belmont street
To the Editor of The Times:
No truer words were ever spoken than those by Commissioner Noll in his statement which you printed in the Times last week. Namely: "If part of the $500,000 which was dumped into the turf bog had been used for recreation centers with gymnasia, we wouldn't have the white elephant on our hands."
If just part of that sum had been spent on recreation centers Belleville would now have something to be proud of instead of not just one white elephant but a whole herd of them.

Why cry over spilled milk? But when we look over the vast area connected with the stadium and at the grounds surrounding each school, then find our children playing in the middle of the street, one can hardly refrain from weeping.
Spring and Summer will soon be here. War time and more daylight hours for play. But where? Why don't the people of Belleville insist that this spilled milk be gathered up in a leak proof container and every drop used to a good advantage?

Daily traffic trend in typical New Jersey Long Distance Central Office

UNDER PRESSURE of war action, New Jersey's use of long distance telephone service has become the greatest ever known. The calling reaches three high peaks each day with deep valleys in between them. In the peak periods all lines are heavily laden, and the traffic is naturally heaviest on the circuits to military and war production centers.

For best service under these conditions and to make the most effective all-round use of the wire network, we suggest that you make only your "must" calls in the peak periods and your other calls in the valley periods when more lines are available.

Call, when you can, before 10 a.m.; between 11:30 and 2 at mid-day; 4:30 and 7 p.m.; and after 8:30 at night.

Public Send-off For Draftees

Some months ago we editorially urged that the draft board hold send-off ceremonies for those young men departing for service in the army. At that time, we contended that not only would it tend to be a morale builder for the men but it would impress more strongly on the public the fact that this country had a job to do and its young blood was ready to do it.

Today, the draft board will hold its first departure ceremony for draftees at the high school to be followed by a short parade down Washington avenue. It's war time now and each day those of the public who are still complacent are being jarred out of it by quickly changing events. Therefore, today's ceremony isn't just a reminder that we have a war on our hands, but it is a chance for the public to participate in the going away tribute to which these young men are entitled.

As they march down Washington avenue, all of us can silently pray that they will return as hail and healthy as they will depart. In their ranks are young men whom the town has watched with the belief they would some day become the community leaders. War has intervened, but we know that they will approach this job with the same spirit that they have participated in activities and work at home.

Today's group will be the largest to leave Belleville to date. Even greater numbers will follow them. We hope that ceremonies such as the one being held today can be held for each departure.

Hartley's Bill Helps The Service

For a year Congressman Fred A. Hartley has led the effort to have Congress pass legislation which would grant the men in the service the privilege to send home letters without any mailing charge. The passage of the Hartley measure this week in both Houses made it virtually certain that the president will make it a law by affixing his signature to the bill.

The law is important to the millions of young men who are trying to stretch $21 a month to make all ends meet. While concessions are made for them in some places, there are others where they have to pay just like the rest of us. The money they save on stamps will very likely come in most handy elsewhere.

Granting those in the armed forces the right to mail letters, regardless of where they may be, free of charge won't break the government, and as the congressman has said it will serve as a good morale builder. The government does little enough for these men, and where red tape can be cut to grant them some privileges, it should be done.

There will be plenty of men in the service who will be giving the congressman a silent word of thanks for his efforts. The only thing that bothers us is that it was a year ago that he first introduced the bill, and it took a year of campaigning and committee hearings before he could get congress to vote on it. What a lot of pennies could have been saved the boys if this bill had been passed at the time Hartley first proposed it.

What Was Over Los Angeles?

That story late last week about something supposedly flying over Los Angeles in the early morning hours was sure a wow. Secretaries Knox and Stimson certainly did not go into any huddle before they sprang their explanation on the press.

False alarm said Knox. Fifteen or 16 commercial planes flew over Los Angeles in formation, Stimson told the press. Well, who's telling the truth, asks the public? If it was a false alarm, how come the anti-aircraft batteries showered half of California with hunks of their shrapnel? If there were planes flying overhead, how come those listening devices did not pick up the whir of their motors long before they were near Los Angeles? And if they did get there, how come they got away before fast army pursuit planes caught up with them?

It sure is a humdinger and we haven't seen the answer to it yet—and there probably won't be any. Just another example of how the boys can get themselves tangled up trying to tell the public something without telling them anything.

Maybe, it was one of those ghost flights that we've read about in adventure books.

Recognition For The Art Department

Annually, the accomplishments of Belleville high school art students are one of the educational highlights to which the board of education and school officials can point with pride. Local students have carved a place for themselves not only in scholastic art circles in New Jersey but in the nation for some of the work which they have done.

This year is no exception. In fact, the honors which have come to the art department exceed some of those of the past. Seven medals were awarded to local students for paintings which are now on display in the state show. An understanding of the quality of work can be better realized by the fact that of the 3,000 entries submitted,

2,000 were rejected. Belleville entered 42 pictures and only four were rejected.

While each of the students, as their work shows, possess natural ability for the work in which they have brought honor to themselves and to their school, they probably would not have reached their present success were it not for the teaching and the co-operation of P. Webster Diehl, school art instructor. It is he who has brought out the hidden talent in each one of these young people. As a further tribute to him, it must be pointed out that annually with different students he has been able to keep Belleville's name high up among the schools in New Jersey for skill in art.

All Aren't Dying On Battlefield

We are shocked and saddened each day as we read of men wounded and dying on battlefields or drowning or burning to death at sea. It's war and we dread the thought that thousands will be killed and many more times that number injured.

But, can this be more shocking than the knowledge that last year 40,000 persons were killed in accidents involving various types of vehicles and that nearly 1,500,000 were injured? Aren't those horrifying figures, too? It is even more tragic when we realize that most of them were because of carelessness or a momentary lack of thought.

According to insurance figures it was the worst year of accidents since automobiles were first seen on the highway. How shameful when a nation needs every bit of manpower that it has available. There were several million additional accidents in which only cars were damaged. An estimated 1,000 cars per week were demolished that were beyond repair. What waste at a time when we need every bit of mechanical equipment and facilities that are at our command.

Records show that exceeding the speed limit was responsible for almost 42 percent of the fatalities. In no other year has speed been as great a factor in the number of accidents. Two out of every three persons killed met death as the result of some reckless or illegal action on the part of the driver.

Debunking the idea that it is always the automobile which is in poor mechanical condition that causes the accidents, statistics show that of all of the cars involved in accidents 90 percent were apparently in good running condition at the time of the crash. Of all fatal accidents, 82 percent occurred on dry roads and 87 percent happened in clear weather.

Probing for a reason, experts reached the conclusion that drivers were simply more careless and reckless than ever before. Today, we know that we must conserve wherever we can, and one of the most important places is in the use of automobiles. The more carefully we drive, the less gas and oil we will use, the less wear and tear on the car itself and on tires. It is both wise and economical to drive safely. We may have to lose men fighting for this country, but let's not waste lives in accidents which could be avoided.

Broken Glass In The Streets

It may be that we are just noticing it more than we did before, but there seems to be lots of broken glass and nails spread around some of our streets. With all of us trying to make automobile tires last twice as long as they are supposed to, this is a bad condition.

A little cooperation will help a lot. If you are guilty of breaking glass, pick it up or sweep it out of the street. Even if you aren't, and you don't want your tires ruined, push it some place where it won't do any damage.

The road maintenance department of a number of towns in this area could get busy and do some patching up of holes in streets. There is no better way to cut up tires than to suddenly strike a jagged hole in the road.

Odds and Ends From Other Pens

A Noble Roman

A noble Roman has gone to his last resting place. Pompton Lakes is not alone in its grief over the passing of Albert Payson Terhune, for the world of old time newspaper workers, of dog lovers, of millions of readers will miss him, too. The valiant fighter for what he believed to be right will fight no more.

A talented member of a talented family, "Bert" Terhune, as his local friends knew him, has left behind a rich legacy of inspiration to youth as well as to oldsters, and tales of adventure. Few there are, or could be, to take his place.

His fondness for dogs was never better shown than in his daily articles appearing in several hundred newspapers throughout the United States. His outspoken feelings about those who mistreat their canine pets has inspired far greater consideration on the part of their human owners.

Sportsman though he was, he had a distinct love for the beautiful, and his home at "Sunnybank" is a veritable storehouse of interesting things, each with a story. He was never happier, in spite of his extensive travels, than when he was there in the companionship of his adored wife, where he could be free to roam with his dogs in the woods and fields each morning before he settled down to his arduous work. It was not uncommon for him to labor far into the night, and rarely did he rest until 11 or 12 hours had been used up. Yet he was always quick to be kind.

He had lived within one year of his allotted time and, like his revered father, "retired" when he was 64. But there was scarcely a day that went by that he did not do some work. He had to keep busy to be happy.

His townspeople have not waited to send flowers to his bier, but have given his name to the library at the high school, and the Albert Payson Terhune library, or the man for which it was named, will never be forgotten as long as Pompton Lakes lives.

Good night, noble Roman. Rest in peace.

—Pompton Lakes Bulletin

The Spirit Emphatically Is Not Lacking

"Many people are saying that the boys being drafted for this war haven't the spirit and enthusiasm displayed by those drafted in 1917," former Governor Harold G. Hoffman declared in a speech last week, "and yet the stories of heroism coming back from the Philippines match any from the first world war."

The former governor did not admit that the spirit is poor; instead believing that the boys will fight as well or better than their fathers and grandfathers in previous wars, but he did feel that they will fight with the additional burden of disillusionment over the results of the first world war, of a more realistic appreciation of the horrors of war, and of the results of the "debunking" of history and heroes during the last generation or two.

We must reverse much of our thinking of recent years. Perhaps the last war had such few results because we let it end too soon and then failed to do our part in enforcing the peace. We know how bad war is, but that is all the more reason we want to fight to keep it from our actual shores. Some of the bunk has been taken out of history, but there is so much glorious fact left in American history that youth will fight and die for this country as it always has in the past. Heroism in the Philippines, in the air over Burma, and on the high seas, proves it. Voluntary enlistments of 90,000 in the armed forces during January, twice the amount of any month of the first world war, emphasize a lively spirit of patriotism. Morale is good in our army camps, in our home towns, and in Washington if you compare that capital city with the city of intrigue and corruption during the civil war or with the lack of planning and preparation in the early days of the first world war.

So far the progress of the war has been all against us, but emphatically we are not lacking in spirit and our production of trained men and materials is gaining increased momentum.

No More Pinball

First upon bingo and now upon the pinball machine the stern hand of the law has fallen with devastating effect. The constitution and righteousness must prevail, even if practically everywhere the numbers racket and horse race handbooks continue to flourish with remarkable impunity.

The pinball ban has inconvenienced merchants who depended on the revenue from the machines to pay their rent. Their consolation is that they can now go back to running a legitimate business.

The loss of income should be temporary. The bagatelle machine is a mechanical thief. It snared money which is now made available for the purchase of merchandise—especially in candy stores.

The pinball machines took up store space which can be used for an extra telephone booth, with profit to the merchant, and convenience to the neighborhood. The collapse of the pinball industry should release large numbers of mechanics for war work.

There are, on the side of juvenile morals, other beneficial aspects to the pinball ban. But public authority would be more consistent and respectable if it enforced all forms of gambling, including those which must be paying plenty for protection against interference.

The Common Good

There is only one way to win this war on the economic front and that is for every person to face the dark hours which, as sure as night follows day, are ahead of us. The government recognized this need for democratic parity two years ago when the selective service draft was inaugurated and for the most part the men have accepted the "no special privilege" theory. Isolated exceptions have arisen, of course. That could hardly be otherwise in such a huge proposition.

But among civilians there is far too little willingness to make democracy a real force. Hoarding goes on unabated and wangling for exceptions to this or that ruling is rampant. If drastic food control laws are put through—and they almost certainly will be—and a prosperous family can meet them with a cellar stocked full of food of every sort while a family with smaller means has not been able to buy a lot of food ahead (or has been too honest and decent to do so) must make shift with the permitted rations, then democracy has a pretty hollow ring and the hope for a great, united nation opposing a common enemy is a myth.

Hoarding is particularly unpleasant because it means, quite literally, that the rich are taking the food from the mouths of the poor. You can't have a couple of hundred families in a town the size of Ridgewood, for instance, laying up great stocks of foods which are most likely to be short, without seriously impairing the amounts which will be available for the rest. Multiply this by thousands of towns throughout the country and you have the situation of a privileged group meeting the stringent days ahead with comfortable full stomachs while the rest of the country tightens its belt—not a situation to enhance morale.

They tell us that this is a war in which every man, woman and child has a part. If this is so let us face it in genuine unity, an honest willingness to share and share alike in the good as well as the bad things which being a citizen of the United States entails.

It Wasn't First Lady's Beliefs

Mrs. Roosevelt, in her letter resigning as assistant director of civilian defense, told Dean Landis she felt if she retained her post she "would only make it possible for those who wish to attack me, because of my beliefs, to attack an agency which I consider can prove its usefulness so completely to the people that it should be free of attack in order to render its maximum service."

The country appreciates what the first lady has done in this office, and it cannot be that anyone really wished to attack her for any reason, her "beliefs" notwithstanding. Indeed, we doubt if many know what Mrs. Roosevelt's beliefs are, in any such definite form as to make attack upon her because of them, or any of them, seem at all necessary.

It is some of the things Mrs. Roosevelt has said and done that have caused a flurry. It is too bad she was led into the idea that it was a good thing to appoint the screen star Melvyn Douglas to the post of director of the arts council of the OCD information division, and her dancer friend Mayris Chaney as director of OCD's children's activities section of the physical fitness division.

Perhaps her reasons were good, and her choices good also, but her action came at a time when it just did not seem to fit. The nerves of congress and the public have been worn somewhat ragged by events, and there seemed to be a kind of levity in this action that did not suit the mood.

Surely no one had any idea of attacking the first lady because of anything she believes. Her beliefs are her own, and, whatever they are, she has a perfect right to them.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

by Meador Wright

The following letter has been received from Motor Vehicle Commissioner Magee, addressed to the writer:

Dear Sir: My attention has just been called to an article written under your name in the February 19th issue of The Belleville News in which you make some sarcastic references to my recent appearance before the appropriations committee of the legislature.

I appreciate the futility of entering into a controversy with a newspaper writer and have no desire to do so, but I do insist that when a writer undertakes to hold up a public official to public scorn, he be sure of his facts.

I do not know the source of your information which seems to be that I forecast a 10 percent reduction in motor vehicle revenues for the year 1942 in my recent appearance before the appropriations committee. For your information I made no such statement.

The facts are that the committee sought to get from me my opinion of what department revenues would be and the extent of the reduction, if any. I stated that their guess was as good as mine and that perhaps in another four or five weeks, after the beginning of registration issuances, I would be in a position to give a fairly reliable estimate.

When pressed for an estimate, I persisted in my refusal to quote a figure but did volunteer the statement that Commissioner Carroll Mealey of the New York Department of Motor Vehicles had just previously predicted a 10 percent reduction in New York state. At no time did I predict a 10 percent reduction for New Jersey.

I believe, under the circumstances, that I am entitled to a public retraction and trust that your journalistic ethics will compel you to do this in an early issue.

ARTHUR W. MAGEE.

The facts of Mr. Magee's appearance before the appropriations committee are as he states them in the above letter, and this was substantially the way the writer interpreted them in this column. There, Mr. Magee and members of the committee were criticised equally for the inclusion of $23,300 in the motor vehicle department budget for additional clerical help above that of last year. Whether the estimate of a 10 percent reduction in motor vehicle revenues was from Commissioner Magee or Commissioner Mealey is of minor import. Obviously, some reduction is anticipated and this alone would make an increase in clerical help inadvisable. Mr. Magee might not have been justified reducing his budget for help much below that of last year until the extent of the revenue reductions could be accurately plotted. But the least that could be done in view of critical conditions of the nation and of New Jersey finances was to have kept the budget at last year's level.

The writer has no quarrel with Mr. Magee's administrative record, and certainly none with him personally, but in times like these even "business as usual" can be malfeasance of the first order. Let Mr. Magee and the appropriations committee hand back to the taxpayers of New Jersey that $23,300 and this column will retract all the "sarcastic scorn" it has been accused of. Until that is done we intend to be just as harsh as we know how to be. Let the gentlemen in question come before the public with clean hands if they expect gentle treatment. As far as we are concerned, they deserved more than they got.

CSB Information Bureau Prepared To Help All

The information bureau, established by the Community Service bureau last June to offer information to selective service registrants has been used not only by men registered for service and their families, but also by many others with personal questions.

The bureau is prepared to give direction and advice in the event of special war time disaster and, at any time, to serve individuals who may wish to consult it about their situations or know of resources available to them.

The Community Service bureau, according to Mrs. Julia O. Reiner, executive secretary, has always taken responsibility for referring individuals who come to them to the proper sources of help if the agency could not assist directly. "The fact," she says, "that we give such a service is not generally known as well as it might be; and we believe that this is the time to call it to public attention when so many people are required to make readjustments due to the war."

People come to the office in person and telephone. Questions range from inquiries of people about to move into the community on rents and housing facilities to how a family may reduce their living expenses due to the fact that a member has entered the service or is engaged in a distant defense industry necessitating expensive travel or living away from home altogether. The most frequently recurring question comes from mothers employed in or about to enter defense industries. They seek information and suggestions in making suitable plans for the care of their children during the hours they are at work.

According to Mrs. Reiner, the bureau is ready to act as an information and referral center available for consultation on personal problems to anyone in the community.
