

New Dimout Rulings Hit Everybody; Will Be Near-Blackout

Defense council officials received last night from State Defense Council Director Leonard Dreyfuss detailed and stringent dimout orders which should be put into effect immediately.

The new order applies to all exterior lights, including street and traffic lights; all other open air areas such as parking lots, playgrounds and amusement parks, lights in display windows, store fronts and lobbies and house lights. It also provides that all cars moving seaward, which would be easterly, shall extinguish their bright lights.

Defense Coordinator Harry Sullivan stated last night that he had just received a copy of the Dreyfuss order and that he was studying it.

"There are some points in the orders which must still be clarified," Sullivan said, "and I will take it up with regional defense headquarters immediately. Just as soon as the few points have been cleared, orders will be issued to defense volunteers who are affected and to all business people and others who come under the regulations."

After a cursory examination of the order, Sullivan commented

BLACKOUT TEST CONFLICTS GET COUNCIL AIRING

Chairman Reports on Confusion and Lack of Coordination Among Units

Although last week's blackout was reported to have been nearly perfect, defense officials were agreed that there was still much work to be done to bring about coordination and eliminate confusion and the conflict of regulations among the various units.

This summarizes the thoughts expressed at Monday night's meeting of the council at town hall when reports were heard from the various committee heads on how their groups functioned during the test. It was estimated that approximately 1,350 defense volunteers reported to their stations for duty.

Based on reports from his subordinates, ARP Chief Edward P. Cantwell stated that the blackout was "99 percent successful." But, with the commendation of Res-

Draft Board Office Needs Volunteers

Volunteer workers are urgently needed by the draft board which is currently swamped with the mailing and sorting of hundreds of occupational questionnaires in addition to its routine business.

There are several women volunteers who are working daily or several times weekly at the draft office. However, in addition to the regular office force and these women, more help is needed to handle the great amount of work with which the board has been burdened.

It is not essential that women be able to type. Much of the work that they may be called upon to do could be done in longhand. Any women of high school grade who are interested may call at the draft office in person or contact the clerk, Miss Sadie Slusser, by telephone.

ODT ORDER HITS NO. 92 LINE

Residents' Chances For Return Of Daytime Service Seem Slim

An order of the Office of Defense Transportation in Washington taking war-time control of all inter-city bus operation apparently shattered the hopes of residents of the West Belleville section for the return of daytime service on the No. 92 bus line operated by Public Service.

A few short hours after the ODT had issued its drastic order, a group of residents bearing petitions with 575 signers, appeared before the town board to request that the service be resumed.

While the commissioners were sympathetic, a Public Service representative at the meeting said that there was little that the company could do because of the orders which it had received from the ODT.

Operation on the No. 92 line between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. was suspended on May 14. Public Service had previously stopped the service but Commissioner Noll, who has charge of transportation locally, requested the company to give it a 10-day trial operation to see if use of the line would not improve because of the curtailed use of automobiles. Public Service claimed that their records for the period showed that the number of passengers carried was no better than for previous times.

Spokesman for the residents was Mrs. Anna Thompson of 32 Perry street. She said that if service was not resumed it would be impossible for people in that section to reach stores, the theatre, doctor's offices, churches, banks or the town hall during daytime hours without walking. If service on the No. 92 line could not be resumed, she said, the residents would like to have the No. 28 P. S. line, now running from Joralemon street into Union avenue, re-routed down Joralemon street into Washington

SCHOOLS' COAL PRICES HIGHER THAN ELSEWHERE

Rice Coal Low Bid $6.07 Ton; East Orange Gets It For $5.21

If the board of education tonight awards the bid for furnishing rice coal, type most used in heating school buildings, to the lowest bidder among the four bidders who sought the business, it will be paying considerably more than six other school districts in this vicinity.

Bids for coal were received and opened by the school board at a special meeting held Monday night. Based on the low quotations submitted in the three types of coal on which bids were sought, buckwheat, stove and rice, the local system's coal bill for the coming year will be boosted $518 over last year.

With an estimated 900 tons of rice coal needed to heat the schools, the low offer of $6.07 per ton submitted by J. Frank Post of Newark, would raise the bill $351, Smith Bros. Coal company of town furnished rice coal to the system at $5.68 per ton last year.

While Belleville is faced with paying $6.07 for rice coal, it was learned that the East Orange board of education under similar specifications will buy it for $5.21 per ton; Nutley, $5.70; Irvington, $5.30; Essex County Vocational schools, $5.71; Kearny, $5.68; and Bloomfield, $5.91. It was pointed out that the local, low bidder would have no further to haul his coal than the successful bidders in any of the other communities.

How Others Ran

The Post concern was also low on the buckwheat quotation, offering to furnish it for $6.94. Last year the Smith company supplied the schools for $6.48 per ton. The Smith Brothers were low on the stove coal price, offering it at $9.95 per ton, compared with their price of $9.45 last year.

Other stove coal prices per ton were: Post, $10.35; Newark Coal company, $10.64; Ricca Brothers, $10.95. Rice bidders, other than Post's $6.07, were: Ricca, $7.10; Newark Coal, $6.14; and Smith, $6.58. Post offered buckwheat at $6.94 and the others: Ricca, $7.55; Newark Coal, $7.36; and Smith, $7.68.

It was the third time this spring that the school board had considered bids from coal dealers. Twice before the bids were thrown out on the grounds that they were considered to be too high. Ruel E. Daniels, business manager for the board of education, said that he had notified many dealers in the vicinity in the hope that they would bid on the contract. He said that the board could not afford to delay the awarding of the contract much longer.

In addition to 900 tons of rice coal, the board annually purchases to heat its buildings, 150 tons of stove coal and 200 tons of buckwheat. It is used in heating the elementary buildings since the high school building is heated by oil. Daniels said that he did not anticipate any difficulty in obtaining oil for the building.

Army Puts It Frankly At Kidde War Rally

Air Corps Colonel Tells 2,000 Workers They've Got Job To Do; Kidde-Manufactured Life Raft Saves Naval Ensign's Life In Midway Battle

With a final battle cry from a roared, fiery-worded high army official to "beat that bunch of b—ds and beat them well" ringing in their ears, more than 2,000 Walter Kidde company employees went back to their work yesterday determined to better the high production records which they have already set for the manufacture of war materials.

Col. R. M. (Casey) Jones of the Army air force was the speaker who put a final touch on the war production rally arranged by the labor-management committee of the Kidde company and held in the parking area in front of the main building overlooking the Passaic river in Main street here on Tuesday afternoon.

While the shirt-sleeved workers and 1,500 more of their families, friends, army and navy officers and other officials sat in the sweltering sun, they heard Col. Jones declare that "we're up against the lowest bunch of whelps that ever tried to destroy humanity."

"I look upon the Walter Kidde company in a rather peculiar fashion," Col. Jones commented. "While others build apparatus to destroy, you occupy a unique position in this war work. You build to save and protect."

The army air corps officer's talk concluded an hour-long program in which employees heard both army and navy officials praise them for their work and efforts. Held forth to the workers by several of the speakers as an heroic inspiration to do better work was the feat of Ensign George H. Gay of the navy whose epic feat was heralded in a communique issued by the navy on Tuesday morning.

A naval aviator, Ensign Gay's plane was shot down in the battle of Midway Island late last week. While his plane companions were all killed, he struggled free and by the use of a life raft which floated out of the plane, was able to keep afloat for 20 hours until picked up by a rescue plane. Meanwhile, he had a ring-side seat to one of the greatest naval battles ever waged, and naval communicators state that he witnessed the sinking of at least one giant Japanese aircraft carrier and several other ships.

The inflationary mechanism, in fact all of the metal parts, which went into the life raft used by Ensign Gay, were manufactured at the Kidde plant here, company officials said and this was confirmed by the navy officers.

"Aren't you proud that our valves held, that the raft functioned and that because they did Ensign Gay survived and is able to tell us this great story?" queried Walter Kidde, president of the company in his brief address.

"Remember this incident when you go back to work and remember that all of us in this company re-dedicate ourselves to one single cause—winning the war."

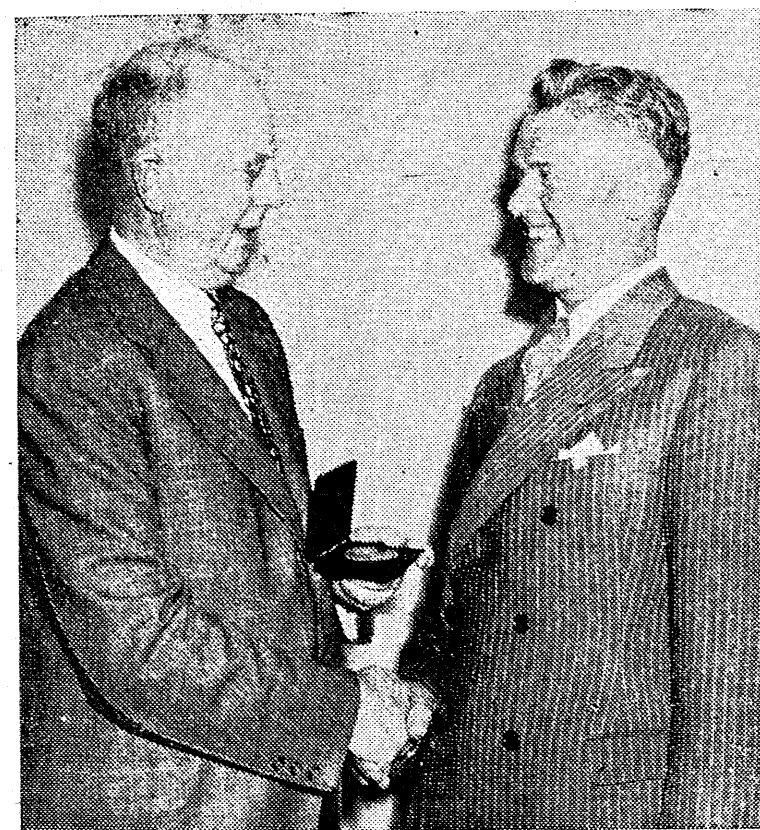

Kidde commented that a spirit of friendship had always existed with labor and that the company had a non-strike record. He said that he trusted that there never would be any.

The company head read a telegram from Governor Charles E.

Rewarded For Saving Life

Highest Award of Phone Industry Goes To Weber

Theodore N. Vail Medal Presented Forest Street Man For Saving Boy's Life; Red Cross, National Safety Council Also Honor Him

Arthur W. Weber, an installer for the New Jersey Bell Telephone company and a resident of 193 Forest street, was highly honored yesterday by the telephone industry, the American Red Cross and the National Safety Council for saving the life of a five-year-old boy at Lake Hopatcong last July.

He was presented the telephone industry's Theodore N. Vail memorial medal in bronze and a check for $100, the national Red Cross certificate of merit and the president's medal of the National Safety Council at a luncheon held at the Newark Athletic club.

The outstanding act of public service by Weber which led to yesterday's honors involved his prompt and effective application, for fully an hour, of artificial respiration to the little boy, who had been taken from the lake after approximately 10 minutes submersion and who for the first half hour showed no signs of life. Like most telephone men, Weber learned first aid as part of his telephone training.

Only Medal Winner

Although many New Jersey telephone men and women performed noteworthy acts of service during 1941, Weber was the only one to win a Vail Medal, the industry's highest award, which was presented by G. W. McRae, vice-president and general manager for the telephone company.

The Red Cross certificate of merit was presented by Dr. S. Z. Hawkes Jr. of the local Red Cross chapter, and the president's medal of the National Safety Council by D. A. Patton of the Newark safety council.

Weber was at his summer cottage on Raccoon Island July 5 last year when a man ran up the road shouting for a doctor and pointing toward the dock. When Weber reached the dock the parents of the child explained they had searched for upwards of 10 minutes before the father found the youngster face downward on the bottom of the lake at the end of the dock, and brought him out.

Weber went to work immediately applying artificial respiration, directing others to obtain blankets and hot water appliances and to send for a doctor. At the end of half an hour the child, still unconscious, gave first signs of breathing, and at the end of the hour was breathing in short gasps. By that time a doctor and members of a first aid squad had

And With License Time Coming Soon, Too

Yesterday morning shortly after 11, the telephone rang in Ralph and Betty's at 174 Washington avenue. Co-owner Ralph Goldacker answered.

"Is this Belleville 2-4991?" a male voice asked.

"Yes," replied Ralph. "Do you ever listen to the C program?" (giving the name of a breakfast food)

"No, I'm too busy. I don't have time to listen to the radio much."

"Well," replied the voice on the other end of the wire, "that's too bad, for if you had been listening to the C program you would have won $100. But, we'll send you a consolation prize."

Stating that flagrant violations of the federal regulations pertaining to gasoline rationing have been discovered, the local ration board announced yesterday that before the weekend it would call in all holders of 'X' cards to determine their right to have them. The statement followed the examination of the 340-odd cards which are in the board's files at its School No. 8 office on Tuesday night.

Notices were sent to more than 200 'X' card holders yesterday directing them to appear at the ration board's office for questioning, according to Ruel E. Daniels, board secretary. Others are being notified by telephone.

Members of the rationing board will sit today from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. to hear the stories of the 'X' card people and to quiz them for proof that they are entitled to such a classification. Other board members will sit tomorrow from 1 to 5 p. m. and on Saturday from 9 a. m. to 12 noon.

Failure to appear at the board's order during one of the

'X' Card Holders' Names Being Published Today

Names of all those in town holding 'X' cards for gasoline, entitling them to unlimited amounts of fuel, are being published today on page 3 of the second section. The complete list was obtained from the files of the local rationing board office.

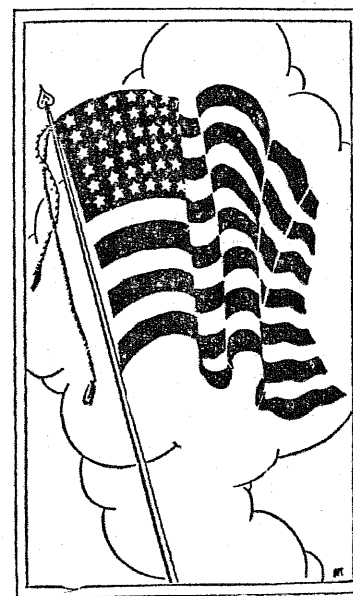

Publication of the names of holders of 'X' cards is done under OPA authorization. The regulation permitting this states: "Records in local rationing boards relating to the issuance of gasoline ration cards shall be made available for public inspection when such inspection does not interfere with the official business of the boards."

three days named, or failure to surrender an 'X' card or any other ration card on the board's order, under OPA regulations is sufficient to ban that person from securing any further gasoline ration card or book under further rationing acts, according to regulations recently announced.

WAR PRODUCTS THAT SAVE LIVES. As a feature of Tuesday's labor-management war production rally at the Walter Kidde Co. plant, several employees took part in a demonstration of Kidde products, all of which are used by the U. S. navy, in the Passaic river.

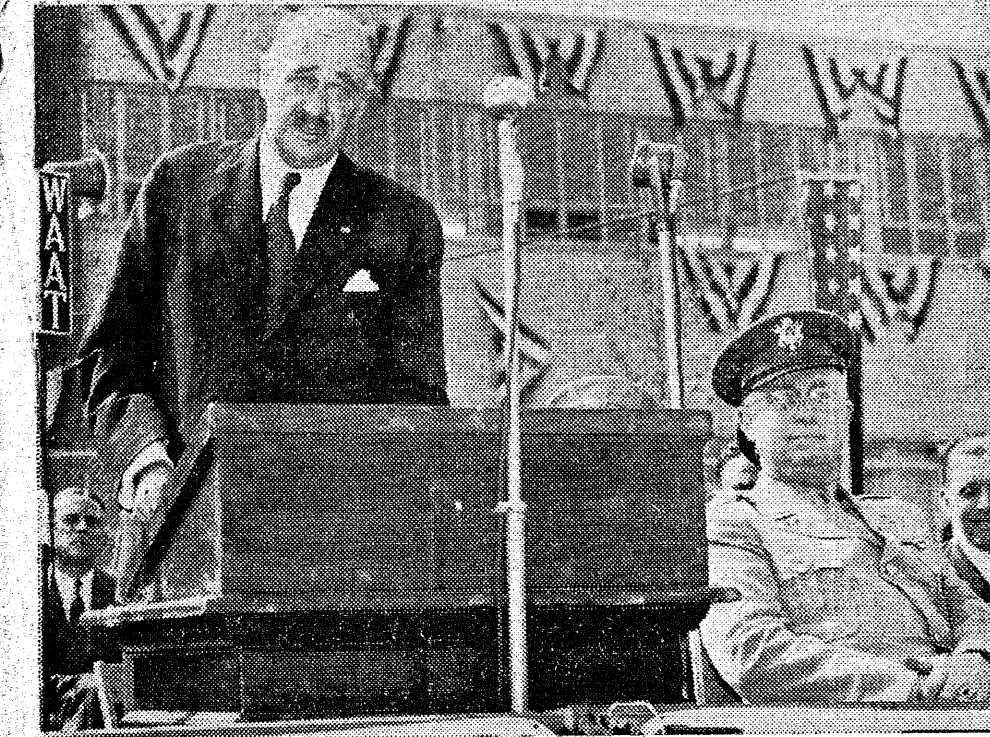

All of the inflationary mechanism in the life raft, life belt and life vest shown is manufactured at the local Kidde plant. The young man clinging to the raft in the center of the picture is wearing a life belt similar to that used by men on battleships, destroyers and submarines, while the youth at the right is wearing the self-inflating life vest worn by all naval aviators.

In the front of the boat can be seen the tank which contains the compressed air which immediately inflates the rubber raft as soon as the pressure valve is released.

Highlighters Of War Rally

FLAG-Bedecked building where Kidde products are made was background for ceremonies attended by 3,500. Mayor Williams is shown making opening address.

Phelps-Jenkins Wedding

Miss Ruth Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jenkins of 545 Washington avenue, and William H. Phelps, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Phelps of 179 Floyd street, were married on May 30 at the Phelps home.

Miss Jenkins' organ and lace bridal gown was simply made in princess style. A crown of orange blossoms held her short tulle veil and she carried a small bouquet of white satin ribbon. Her sister, Mrs. Joseph Nagel, attended her, attired in a pink costume of tulle and lace. She carried American Beauty roses.

The bride's youngest sister, Dorothy Jenkins, dressed in aquamarine organza, carried her train. Francis Phelps of Newark was her brother's best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Phelps will reside in Belleville. They are both employed by the Bendix Aviation corporation at Bendix.

Two Local Students Receive Awards At Newark U.

Two students of the University of Newark from Belleville received awards last night at the class day exercises at the university. They were Anthony Robert Carbone of 12 Belmont avenue, who received the Theodore Paton Harris Scholarship; and Harry Leo Fitzpatrick of 31 Walnut street, awarded the William Matgules prize.

Carbone was graduated from Atlantic Highlands high school and has just been elected president of the student board of control at the university. Fitzpatrick prepared for college at St. Benedict's Preparatory school.

A Correction

The Times, in error last week, referred to Charles Spencer as grandfather of Spencer A. Jones, Jr. who recently enlisted in the army. The late Charles Granville Jones, architect, was the young man's grandparent. Mr. Jones was a resident of this town for fifty years and architect of the town hall, Wesley Methodist church, public library, Masonic temple, the First National and People's banks, six of Belleville's schools and other public buildings and dwellings.

SWIM SIGN UP FINAL DATE NEAR

Belleville Youngsters To Get
Lessons At Friendly
House Pool

Registration for the annual learn-to-swim campaign conducted by the Montclair Y. M. C. A. and several cooperating agencies will close next Monday.

Entry blanks which were distributed through the schools this past week must be filled out and returned to the schools on or before Monday. Children registering for the course will then be instructed at what instruction centers and at what periods they will take their lessons.

Belleville children are to be instructed at the Friendly House pool, 23 Frederick street, excepting negro children who will all receive their instruction at the Washington Street branch Y. M. C. A. pool in Montclair.

There will be six half-hour lessons, one a day, between June 22 and 27. At the end of the course, tests will be given to determine the number of children learning to swim and their ability in the water.

Last year Belleville had the largest entry of any community in the campaign, 694. Of these, 229 had learned to swim at least 25 feet when the campaign tests were given the last day of the drive.

The campaign is conducted each year throughout the state with the dual purpose of helping reduce the toll of death by drowning and providing the children with sufficient knowledge of swimming to enable them to derive physical and recreational benefits therefrom. There is no charge for the children.

Children's Program Sunday At Grace Baptist Church

Children's day will be observed at 10:30 a.m. Sunday morning in the Grace Baptist church.

The beginners and primary departments will entertain with recitations and song while the members of the cradle roll department will show, under the direction of their superintendent, Mrs. Marshall Whitehead, what they have learned.

The intermediate group assisted by the junior and primary departments are to present a pageant, "The Jerusalem Children's Song."

The junior choir will sing several selections and Phyllis Seever will play a violin solo.

The program has been arranged by Mrs. Lorena Clark, chairman of dramatic and religious pageantry. She is being assisted by Miss Edna Hogan, superintendent of the primary department, and William Akers, choir director.

Mrs. Jacobsen Re-elected Sisterhood President

Mrs. Benjamin A. Jacobsen was re-elected president of the Sisterhood of Congregation A. A. A. Tuesday evening when election of officers was held for the coming year. Others who will serve are Mrs. Samuel Zirn, first vice-president; Mrs. Abraham Glynn, second vice-president; Mrs. Martin Cabot, secretary; Mrs. John Orinsky, recording secretary, and Mrs. Morris Cohen, financial secretary.

The organization held its annual donor supper last night in the Continental auditorium, Newark, when Mrs. Glynn was in charge as general chairman. Mrs. Herman Kessler supervised the production of a short comedy which followed with other entertainment.

Would Insure 'Borrowed' Defense Unit Autos

A study will be made to learn if it would be possible for the town to secure a blanket insurance policy which would provide protection for property damage, liability and collision for the cars and trucks which are used by the defense council for ambulances.

The question was raised at Monday night's meeting of the defense council by Norman Lauterette, chairman of the transportation division. He pointed out that the committee has secured the use of a number of vehicles, particularly station wagons, which are privately or company owned. In an emergency, they would be manned by drivers other than the owners.

Giving some of the manufacturing firms as an example, Lauterette said that the present policies which they hold on their equipment would not provide protection should there be an accident while the car was being operated by a civilian defense volunteer.

Harry Sullivan, council coordinator, promised to investigate. He reminded the group that the present ruling on civilian defense units states that no liability will be assumed by the O.C.D. the state defense council or the local council for injury or damages suffered while on duty or in training.

Lauterette countered that he did not believe that the ruling specifically applied to equipment.

"Bonfires, brush fires, burning fields, etc., specifically come under the same regulations concerning other lighting. Where brush, rubbish, fields, etc., are burned, it shall be so arranged that these fires will be extinguished completely by one hour after sundown.

"Pursuant to authority contained in the proclamation of Headquarters Eastern defense command, dated May 16, 1942, the agencies designated to enforce the provisions of these regulations are as follows:

"(a) State and local authorities are charged with the enforcement of such of these regulations as pertain to private and war plants operating under war department supervision.

"(b) The military authorities are charged with the enforcement of such of these regulations as pertain to military establishments and war plants operating under the supervision of the war department.

"These regulations supercede all previous regulations concerning the control of artificial lighting issued by this headquarters.

"Dated June 1, 1942. Signed by T. A. Terry, Major General, U. S. Army, Commanding.

Have No Alternative The letter which Dreyfuss sent to all defense council chairmen states as follows:

"The defense forces of the state have no alternative but to comply with these regulations or the army. We ask that you read them carefully and that the key men in your council study them so that there will be uniform compliance throughout the area affected. In times past, some communities have made their own interpretations of the rules and have been more drastic than necessary. If the army's regulations are lived up to nothing more stringent need be imposed upon your citizens.

"We find there is no difficulty when all communities act alike and inasmuch as these are the army's definite commands, they must be carried out to the letter."

KIDDE RALLY (Continued from Page 1) ison who regretted that he was unable to attend because of the Hudson county tax board hearing being held in Trenton.

"There is not a thinking person who does not realize, the governor wired, the fact that the triumph of Hitlerism means chaos for centuries to come." In conclusion, the governor commented, "No one can remain on the sidelines. This is your fight - a fight you wage in the priceless uniform of American citizenship."

The program, which started shortly after 3:30 p.m., was opened with the singing of "America," which was played by bands from Bloomfield and Belleville high schools. V. J. Hill, executive vice-president of the Kidde company, opened the exercises and introduced Mayor Williams, who was the first speaker.

The mayor complimented the Kidde organization, and reminded the workers of the fight for production which those on the home front must make for those who are on the battlefield.

U.S.O., Navy Relief Benefit J. J. Kelly of the production department, who is head of the plant's union chapter, presented the company with a service flag bearing the numerals 227 designating the number of Kidde employees in the armed forces. He also presented a check for $2,100, representing contributions from employees, to the U.S.O. It was accepted by Lieut. John Marcus of the army. Hill later announced that the company was matching this amount with an equal sum which would be presented to the Naval Relief society. Lieut. William Gemmell accepted the check for the relief society.

"We are in a people's war," Steven McLeish, district manager of the U.E.M. Workers of America, said. "We are the soldiers of production. Our differences must be submerged for the job ahead of us in defeating fascism and nazism."

Admitting that the army was behind the navy in presenting emblems to companies doing outstanding work in production, Maj. Sedley Thornbury of the Armed forces, stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., presented to a Kidde employee the insignia which is symbolic of the armored branch of the service. He picked out Miss Muriel Fahner, an employee in the personnel department, to wear the pin on behalf of all Kidde employees.

ELECTION BILLS GET TOWN O. K.

No Protest From Board As
$50 Fees Are Again
Submitted

The town commissioners have cooled off considerably in their attitude toward the members of the Essex County board of elections for bills they submitted for services during the municipal election on May 12.

To a man, the board members two weeks ago, were opposed to paying the four members of the board of elections and its clerk, $50 each. Hermanns, $50 fees each and $45 for car expense. It was pointed out that the board members and the clerk also collected $100 each in Irvington, $75 in Orange and $50 in West Orange for elections held the same day.

While the other towns voted to pay the bills, Town Clerk Florence R. Morey was instructed to write the board of elections seeking a re-adjustment. In reply to Mrs. Morey's letter, Hermanns stated:

"Agreeable with telephone conversation of today, we feel that the bills, which we are returning herewith, are in all respects justified and we shall be glad if you will see that they are re-submitted."

When Mrs. Morey read the bills at Tuesday's meeting, there was no comment from any member of the board. One board member said after the meeting that he did not believe that there was anything which the commission could do about it legally if the election officials insisted that they should be paid.

Final Card Party

The final spring card party of the Roofree Branch, International Sunshine society, will be held on Wednesday evening, June 17, at the Woman's club at 8:30. Mrs. Anna Fleming will be in charge.

Two Girls Lead Largest H. S. Graduating Class

Leonora Groner and Shirley Fritsch Top Students Scholastically; 308 Will Receive Diplomas At Ceremonies Wednesday At 6:30 At Clearman Field

Two girls, Leonora Groner and Shirley Fritsch, lead the graduating class of the high school, which will receive diplomas at twilight outdoor exercises to be held next Wednesday night at 6:30 p.m. at Clearman field in Union avenue.

The class of 308 seniors, the largest in school history, is the 45th to be graduated. Miss Groner is the class valedictorian or top ranking student, while Miss Fritsch is the salutatorian.

Other honor students, who attained an average of 90 or better in their scholastic grades for the four years are Ida Takash, Lynne Henrietta Rader, Joseph Maselli, Hugh D. Kittle Jr., Rae Kellenbence, Jean Dailey and Jeanne DeNikie.

In event of rain or bad weather next Wednesday night, the exercises will be held on the first clear night which follows. The public is welcome to attend the program. A crowd of 5,000 is expected to attend.

Outing Tomorrow

School officially ended for the seniors on Friday with this week being devoted to graduation rehearsals. Last night, the members of the class attended a dinner-dance held in the high school. Tomorrow morning they will go to Rye Beach for the outing which is held by all graduating classes. The students, accompanied by faculty advisors, will go by train from the Division avenue station of the Erie railroad to Jersey City where they will board a boat which will take them to Rye Beach.

Wednesday night's program will open with the members of the class, dressed in caps and gowns, marching on to the field to the strains of the professional orchestra directed by Mrs. Alice Wagner. It will be followed by the flag salute, oath of allegiance and the recitation of the student's creed by the seniors. Rev. O. Bell Close, pastor of First Presbyterian church, will deliver the invocation.

Miss Fritsch will make her salutatory address after which Robert Kimble, senior president, will present a $200 defense bond, a present from the class, to the school to start a fund for the purchase of an organ. It is hoped that succeeding classes will also contribute money to the fund. The gift will be accepted by Superintendent of Schools Wayne R. Parker.

Mantle Ceremony

The traditional mantle ceremony will follow in which Hugh D. Kittle Jr. will represent the senior class and George Ferro, junior president, will accept it on behalf of his class.

The commencement address by Patrick J. Lynch will follow a group of selections by the senior mixed choir. A clarinet trio composed of Don Peterson, Richard Sannito and Robert Lowenberg will also be heard.

Principal Hugh D. Kittle will present the class for graduation to Herbert C. Schmutz, president of the board of education, who will award the diplomas. The valedictory address by Miss Groner will follow with the singing

Bus Operating Through Parkway

The Essex County Park commission should bury its opposition to the continued operation of the No. 37 West Belleville-Silver Lake crosstown bus line through that portion of Mill street which runs through the parkway in the Branch Brook park extension.

This bus service is more urgently needed now than ever before. With the curtailed operation of automobiles, people are depending more than ever on the buses and nothing should be done to take that service away from them at this time.

Many who work in manufacturing plants in the Silver Lake and Bloomfield areas depend on the No. 37 line to get them to and from work quickly. Those who reside in Silver Lake, and for whom previously a bus trip to the center of Belleville was an all-day excursion, are now able to get there within a short time. For years the Lake section has needed the service which is now being operated. While a part of Belleville, its residents have been virtually separated from it because of a lack of transportation facilities.

We fail to see why those who ride the bus should not enjoy the beauties of the parkway.

The word "bus" apparently makes the park commission shudder. But, the bus in question is actually an over-sized automobile and we cannot understand how it detracts from or constitutes a hazard to the parkway greater than the many hundreds of automobiles which daily traverse the road. At this time, all of us must change some of the customs and practices which we have adhered to strictly in the past. We must cooperate—and we think that the park commission will.

Still Much To Be Desired

Test blackouts not alone prove how thorough a job the public is doing, but give defense leaders an opportunity to observe how well the volunteer units are functioning.

Reports on the part played by 1,350 residents here in last week's test indicate that there is still much to be desired and achieved before we can say that Belleville has a smooth-running, coordinated organization ready to go into operation at a moment's notice without any hitches.

It is only through tests that the flaws and the hitches in civilian defense operation will be ironed out, and the more that are arranged for defense units, the sooner they will become accustomed to their work and will perform their jobs well.

While individually, many of the units may be well organized and advanced in the training for the job they may be called upon to do, the conflicts which arose last week showed that their coordination and cooperation must still be achieved.

The blame for this condition, which has also arisen in other communities, is not solely the fault or responsibility of those in charge locally. The defense council is operating under state regulations established in November of last year. Rules and duties set forth for the various subdivisions of the defense council followed the pattern which was then presented by the state and the office of civilian defense in Washington.

It has been proven that the duties and responsibilities of some of the emergency divisions conflict and overlap. Until there is clarification and new rulings put into effect by the state body, conflicts are bound to arise.

Don't Yell At Your Gasoline Dealer

Do not be too harsh on your gasoline dealer because he will give you only three gallons of gasoline when you want six. It is not his fault. Remember, he is the fellow who is in the middle on rationing and the one who stands to lose most heavily. While you may lose the use of your automobile, or it may at least be sharply curtailed, he stands to lose his business.

The gasoline companies have cut down appreciably on the amount of gasoline which they will deliver monthly to dealers, and they have established a rigid schedule of deliveries which will not be altered. When your dealer gives you less gasoline than you may want, he is merely attempting to make the amount which he has on hand stretch as far as he possibly can among his customers. So, don't try to grab it all, and don't bark too loudly at your dealer. He is trying to please as many people as he possibly can.

Don't Kill Their Ambition

Next week the high school will graduate what is said to be its largest class in history. No group of young people are stepping out into a more maddening and swiftly changing world than those who are departing from high schools and colleges today.

The war has altered the lives and plans of many of these young people. If the conflict continues, many of the young men, and even girls, too, may be serving in some branch of the armed forces. Others will find places in the home front's forces of industry.

Plans and hopes of parents, and even the young people themselves, for future education may have been disrupted. A year ago, they were headed for some college to study to be teachers, engineers or physicians. The war has pushed this aside.

While the present conflict may have temporarily halted the ambitions of many of these young people, we think that it is most important that their fresh ambition, their desire to get ahead should not be permitted to die. Postponed though their hopes may be, it must be thoroughly and firmly impressed upon them that even a war should not completely destroy their efforts to get ahead.

One of the tragic sins of war is that the greatest weapon is youth. It is the young—and not the old—who are needed on the battle lines, and our only hope is that the mad conflict in which we are now engaged will end as quickly as possible for we need our youth to lead the effort to avoid in the future the pitfalls which have brought us into the war today.

Be Sure To Display The Flag

Our flag stands for liberty and freedom—that for which we are battling today to maintain not only in our own country but to return to many parts of the world where it does not exist today. Sunday will be Flag day, commemorating the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the country's flag by the Continental Congress on June 14, 1777.

We have been asked to display the flag as much as possible for now it has become the symbol of our fighting forces, our strength and our principles. If you have not regularly displayed Old Glory do so on Sunday in tribute to this great nation.

While we may treat the flag with reverence, we have not worshipped it with the same zeal and public display which some of our war adversaries have demonstrated in using their flags as a trademark of their fighting. We should, and there's no better place for it than in front of every home.

Effect Of Hoffman Departure

The war department announcement that Harold G. Hoffman, UCC director and former governor, had been called to active duty as a major with the army air corps will echo and re-echo through the halls of New Jersey politics during the next few weeks.

Even in the days when Hoffman's position in state politics has been most shaky and uncertain, he has remained one of the most important and influential figures in the Republican party. He has persistently stood as a big obstacle in the path of Clean Government's sweep toward complete domination of the state.

His departure from the state political scene and the length of time that he is absent may have a great effect on future G. O. P. political events. By personal magnetism, as much as by the patronage he has been able to control, Hoffman has held together in the years since he stepped out of the governor's office, a strong political organization. Although it may not have been a controlling majority, it has been of sufficient strength to influence elections in certain parts of the state. Hoffman's power has predominated more in the central and southern parts of Jersey than it has in the northern part.

With the Republican chieftains bent on upsetting the Democratic U. S. senatorial appellation in November, it will be interesting to watch the attitude of the vote bloc which has generally followed Hoffman in the past. It is doubtful if any of his trusted lieutenants can hold the supporters in line. Will they be wholeheartedly Republican regardless of the candidate, or will they wait for their favorite political warrior to return from the wars?

Odds and Ends From Other Pens

We Fight For This

That system which we call private enterprise—under which every man is free to go as far as his ability, energy and ambition can take him, no matter how humble his origin or modest his bank account—made this country. Men labored, took risks. Men dreamed and acted upon the dream. Out of the labor and risk and the dream came our institutions, our industries, our wealth.

Today this system is the main source of our strength in the greatest war history has known. The axis fights for far more than economic advantage. They fight to destroy, for all time, all that we associate with such words as freedom, democracy, decency, our ways of life.

It has been the privilege of all to damn private enterprise. It has been done wisely. Some have thought socialism, fascism or some other system was better. Some have denounced it for political reasons. Today the chips are down. Today we fight for national existence. We fight for our lives, our principles. And to what do we turn?

We turn to private enterprise. We turn to the motor-makers, the steel makers, the engine builders. We turn to the utility industry. We turn to the banks, to the producers of coal, oil, the mines, the lumber camps, the railroads. We turn to those enterprises which have done so much to make America. They are the ones which today are feeding our armed forces with those supplies so necessary to insure victory. Proof is in the record of accomplishments.

Yes, indeed, private enterprise and freedom stand or fall together.

—Irvington Herald

Milk, The Ideal Health Drink, For Which Ration Cards Are Not Required

In these days of rationing and acute shortages of commodities generally used every day in the American household, the opportunity for a "drink more milk" campaign which would stimulate sales of fluid milk and at the same time help build strong American bodies, is at hand.

Perhaps not again in our lifetime will there be such a golden opportunity to combine patriotic efforts, promotion of good health and stimulate sales of fluid milk.

Already the war has sharply curtailed and in many cases almost completely shut off importation of commodities which are extremely used in every American home and in every restaurant, hotel and soda bar in preparing beverages. The federal government has added fresh warning during the past few days that additional normal beverages must be curtailed.

Here then, it seems to the Milk Producers' News, is the time for a nation-wide campaign to point out to Americans everywhere that dairy farmers of this section are producing a wholesome, health-building beverage which requires no added ingredients such as sugar—now carefully rationed and growing scarcer day by day.

Because of the shortage of sugar, beverages sold over the counter as well as through grocery stores, are becoming more and more difficult to obtain. Already signs frequently have appeared in various parts of the country informing customers: "Sorry, all out of —."

Isn't this then, an ideal opportunity to spread the slogan "Drink cool, refreshing, health-providing milk" and wouldn't there be a tremendous increase in consumption of fluid milk if men, women and children everywhere formed the habit of asking for "a glass of milk, please?"

Health authorities have long proclaimed, after most exhaustive studies, that milk offers food values unexcelled in any other food. Physicians prescribe it for those who are run down, in need of a build-up or as a preventative for many ailments. It has none of the harmful ingredients which medical men so frequently claim may come from over-indulgence in some beverages.

Yes, milk is one drink for which no quota has been set. For which there is no need for ration cards nor coupons to be punched. Milk is a product of the dairy farms of the various American milksheds, now steadily increasing production of milk at the earnest request of the Federal government which has labeled milk as a vital need, not only for manufacturing lease-lend products and to supply our armed forces, but to help maintain health of the men and women on the home front so that they may be physically able to do their appointed tasks.

Six Months In A Hard School

It is six months this morning since the Axis answered our questions for us. Pearl Harbor was a disaster, but the answer to those questions was a gift we now know how to value.

The questions were, how much we were in danger from the Axis powers and what we ought to do about it; to what extent the freedom of other nations was our responsibility; whether, even though not physically attacked, we could remain free if freedom perished everywhere else. The debate ended on Dec. 7. We were attacked. We had to defend ourselves. To defend ourselves effectively we had to counter-attack; in counter-attacking we needed the help of other endangered nations; and the strategic necessities made it plain that neither freedom nor victory could be geographically divided.

No more than the United States in Lincoln's time can the earth in our time exist half-free and half-slave. This is true in war. We think that it will be found true in peace. No policy of political and economic isolation is possible from now on, either for us or for any other country. Languages, literatures and cultures can—thank God!—keep their wonderful diversity. But no nation can be free any longer unless all other nations are free, or in process of becoming free, which means that no nation can live to itself alone.

The conclusion to which the remorseless logic of events leads us is that no nation henceforth must be subject to the will of any one other nation, but that each nation must be, in some measure, subject to restraint by a world-wide society of free nations. Absolute sovereignty, which includes the right to make aggressive warfare, has to end. It has to end because if it is permitted to continue there will be no end to war—and a very definite end to the civilization we know.

This is a hard doctrine for an independent-minded nation like ours. Yet we think it is one which the American people, who twice in one generation have sent their sons to fight overseas, are coming to accept. We cannot cling to a right which we intend to deny to Germany, Italy and Japan, enforcing that denial by total war, by imposed disarmament and by as long a period of policing as is necessary.

The "war to end war" long had a bitter flavor on our tongues. It was none the less a noble and practicable aspiration. We failed 23 years ago because we did not carry the purposes of the First World War over into the peace, because, specifically, we refused the mild commitments of membership in the League of Nations. Our people have seen the fruits of that error. Unless we are deceived as to the calm, methodical, yet determined fashion in which they are facing this crisis they do not propose to make that mistake again.

Pressure On Congress

Congress proved yesterday that it was responsive to public opinion—in election years.

Forced to a record vote, the senate approved the house bill to raise the minimum pay of our soldiers and sailors to $50 a month.

But in the house, where elaborate precautions were taken to prevent a record vote, a bill that would put the families of our fighting men on starvation allowances for the duration was slipped across by the economy wrecking crew.

The lesson is obvious. Since PM started its campaign for more pay for soldiers nearly a year ago, congress has been under pressure from the general public to approve the increases. So when Senator Robert M. La Follette, Wisconsin Progressive, compelled a showdown vote, the senators quickly stopped trying to chisel. For that, congratulations.

To get a better allowances bill, the people will have to turn the heat on congress. It isn't too late. The bill passed yesterday has to be ratified by the senate. Write your congressman now and tell him you don't want our soldiers' families starved.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

by Meador Wright

It is considered almost a foregone conclusion that Governor Edison is going to dismiss the Hudson county tax board. It is not even a disputed fact that this board has been entirely subservient to Frank Hague for years. Since it never sought to do anything except obey its master's voice, there was no need to pay much attention to such things as testimony and complaints. Consequently, lapses in customary procedure are sure to be found.

The main question is what will come after the dismissals? Edison will then name a new tax board, but this new board must be confirmed by the senate. Will the senate continue to respect "senatorial courtesy" and thus give Hudson's O'Mara the opportunity to block the new appointments? Will Hague be able to tie up the work of a new board by litigation?

From now on there can be no question about Edison's attitude towards Hague. He means to fight him to the bitter end. There will be no armistice for elections or anything else. Eventually, this must mean something very like a coalition between Edison Democrats and Republicans. Heretofore, Democrats have tried to stay clear of the Hague-Edison fight, hoping against hope either that Edison would grow tired of the unequal struggle or that his term would expire in the meantime. But during the next twelve months many of these leaders will have to take a definite position. Except in Essex most of these decisions will be in favor of Hague. But here the choice is not so easy. Public sentiment among Essex Democrats is definitely in favor of Edison.

Need Leader

All that is needed is a leader to mould this sentiment into a working faction. Just what Edison has in mind for this job is not clear. There have been several conferences between him and Village Trustee William Doyle of South Orange. Doyle is chief adjuster for the Western Electric company of Kearny. In that capacity he must have had extensive negotiations with the Hague regime in Hudson. How these contacts would fit in with leadership of an outright anti-Hague faction in Essex is not clear.

There is also some evidence that William A. Wachenfeld means to play the Edison game here. The Orange lawyer has never been too fond of Hague, although he has gone along with him for years as have most other Democrats. But it is possible that he might now cut loose from the Hague fold and appeal boldly to public sentiment here at home. Wachenfeld has had his eye recently on being the "compromise" candidate for governor next year.

But his main appeal for this post is his supposed popularity in his home county of Essex. If it could be shown that he had been playing Hague's game here, this popularity would disappear, and with it his availability as a candidate. So Wachenfeld might elect to follow Edison and leave relations with Hague to the future. There is also some talk of Col. William H. Kelly as a successor to James J. McMahon who is definitely in the Hague camp. Whoever the leader of the anti-Hague movement may be, the days of neutrality for many Essex Democrats are over. There is bound to be some fireworks between now and November.

FIRST AID SETUP CALLED FARCE

Worker Criticizes Town Officials, Defense Council; No One Knows What To Do

From Russell F. Hopkins
129 Rutgers Street

To the Editor of The Times:

All the makings for a "pink tea," but no tea was served. That is what impression one gets at any of the first aid stations during the blackout. No, not just the past week's test but also the previous one held in Belleville.

It has gone on long enough, this farcical attempt to make fools out of grown men and women who have given of their time and effort in the vain hope of doing their bit for their nation and fellow citizens.

Belleville is in a vital defense area, one close to the open sea with many important plants engaged in war work, an area that stands a far greater chance of bombings than many of its sister towns. Yet, the town officials and the defense board seem to treat this war as something far away

TRAFFIC SIGNAL DIMOUT IMPRESSES

Dunleavy Plan Is Praised By McEnroe; Will Seek State Approval

For several months, Deputy Fire Chief William Dunleavy has been experimenting with the dimming out of traffic lights so that they could be operated during blackouts and thus eliminate possible accidents. However, he has not been able to actually try out his experiment during a blackout because of the orders of the state defense council that all traffic lights should be extinguished. On Thursday night, through the efforts of Defense Coordinator Harry Sullivan, William J. McEnroe, representative of the state defense council for this region, visited here and witnessed the demonstration of Dunleavy's dim-out feature as tried at the draft-fic signals at Washington and Belleville avenues. McEnroe was much impressed by the experiment and said that he would immediately report it to the state defense council headquarters in an effort to secure permission for its use here. Traffic experts have been studying for some months the problem of keeping lights on during blackouts. In New York and some other cities lights have been shielded and small slits cut in them to permit a small crack of light to pass through. Experts admit that this is not a good solution to the problem. McEnroe intimated that Dunleavy's plan might meet with such favor by state experts that it would be used elsewhere. In answer to what could be done with isolated lights, such as are found on state highways, Dunleavy explained that a resistor attachment could be put on the lighting mechanism and a switch thrown by an air raid warning to put it in operation when a blackout might come could be installed.
