

Congress Leaders Act On Rep. Hartley's Plea For Gas Investigation

Congressional leaders responded yesterday to Congressman Fred A. Hartley's demands for an immediate investigation of the gasoline and rubber crisis, charging confusion and delinquency on the part of the government.

A 10-man committee, representing sections of the industrial East most seriously affected by the fuel and rubber curtailment, was named yesterday by Democratic Majority Leader John W. McCormack and Joseph W. Martin, Republican minority leader.

Initial hearings are scheduled to start on Monday in an attempt to bring about an early relief from the gasoline, fuel oil and rubber shortages and to obtain a true picture of the situation which is now hidden in a muddle of conflicting reports and statements by government leaders and rubber and gasoline experts.

The representative from this district, one of the East's most important industrial and war producing regions, was one of the 10 named to the joint party committee to conduct the investigation. He was also appointed vice-chairman of the group.

Other representatives chosen by Martin and McCormack were Phil Holmes and Thomas J. Lane of Massachusetts, Elmer Vene of this state, William J. Fitzgerald and Joseph E. Talbot of Connecticut, Margaret C. Smith of Maine and Aime J. Forand and John E. Fogarty of Rhode Island and William T. Pfeiffer of New York.

Hartley last week wrote leaders of both parties protesting against the many conflicting stories from government sources in which he declared that it was plainly indicated serious confusion existed. Governmental delinquency was shown according to Hartley by the failure of officials to make proper investigation into the Houdry process and the Dow chemical thiol process for producing synthetic rubber, and the Kearny congressman complained against the failure of official authorities to inquire sufficiently into the use of concrete pipe lines for fuel which would need only five percent of steel necessary for steel mains.

Others Should Share Burden
As regards gasoline rationing, Congressman Hartley contended that if the objective here is to conserve rubber, then the entire nation and not merely the seventeen Eastern seaboard states now being rationed, should share the burden.

Hartley's letter to Congressional leaders said:

"It is my considered opinion that the people of the seventeen Eastern seaboard states, if not the people of the entire nation, are becoming gravely concerned over the obvious delinquency on the part of those responsible, to find a solution to the problems concerning the gasoline supply, and the impending fuel oil shortage. This apprehension is growing daily because of the many conflicting stories emanating from Washington which indicate serious confusion.

"If the gasoline rationing program is being used as an indirect method of saving rubber, certainly the Eastern states should not be called upon to make this sacrifice alone. Every state should bear its share of the burden. However, in recent weeks rather startling statements have been made — and by responsible persons — asserting that an adequate synthetic rubber supply could be assured in a comparatively short time with the proper cooperation of the administration. I refer particularly to the Houdry process of procuring butadiene from petroleum, and the Dow chemical thiol synthetic process. The rubber problem is too vital to the American people to dismiss the proposal of any responsible person without thorough investigation.

Stadium Turf So Uneven They Can't Keep In Step

The ground is so uneven at the municipal stadium that they can't keep in step during marching drills, and as if that weren't enough the mosquitoes are more than friendly, the police reserves told the board of education in their application for the use of Clearman field one night each week.

School Board President Herbert C. Schmutz at Monday night's meeting remarked that the stadium was available for use and said that he did not see why Clearman field should be used. He explained that it had been recessed and that it was being saved so that it would be in good condition for the football team in the fall.

It was then that the reserves' allegations of conditions at the stadium were explained. Walter R. Gibby, chairman of the building and grounds committee, moved that the defense unit members be permitted to use the sides of the field and be instructed to keep off of the playing field. The board concurred.

DRAFT CLASSIFYING IS CLARIFIED

Local Board Interprets Ruling To Mean Babies Since Dec. 8 Aren't Dependents

The draft board received from state headquarters yesterday regulations which clarified their work in classifying and re-classifying registrants for induction into the service. The new orders not only stated in detail the order in which registrants should be called for service but it thoroughly defined the meaning of a dependent in the eyes of selective service.

Since the dependency clause states that "such status must have been acquired prior to December 8, 1941, and at a time when the registrant's selection was not imminent," the board has interpreted it to mean that it not only applies to marriages since then but also to children who have been born to a married couple since then or which may be born in future months.

While putting the new classification regulations into operation, the board is not in any way to neglect its quota calls, the order states. Boards are to make every possible effort to insure that the calls made upon them are met on schedule during the period in which the amended dependent policy is being placed into effect.

"Local boards," the ruling states, "are authorized to vary from the general order of selection of registrants with dependents when it is necessary to fill the call, provided the registrants who are selected have been classified as available for military service under former regulations."

WILL HUNT NAZI SEA RAIDERS

Jack T. Knox, Beech Street To Fly a Month for Civilian Patrol

During the next 30 days a local resident will be doing something that every Belleville would like to play a part in — hunting down Nazi sea raiders.

Jack T. Knox, field engineer and expeditor for the Worthington Pump company, of 8 Beech street will be on a 30-day leave from his work to fly as a volunteer pilot with the government directed civilian air patrol in a search along the eastern seaboard to spot Nazi submarines and other possible axis craft.

Knox, who has been flying for 10 years, holds a private pilot's license and has more than 900 hours of flying time to his credit. During his month's full-time duty with the CAP, he will fly his own Ryan monoplane. For several months he has been flying twice weekly in four or five-hour trips off shore in this area for the CAP. He expects to leave for duty about August 10.

The Beech street man served with the marine corps for five years, starting in 1920. He was in the paymaster's department. He has resided in Belleville for three years.

Service in the civilian air patrol, he pointed out, is purely voluntary on the part of private pilots. Any other local pilots interested in entering the volunteer corps may obtain information from the CAP executive officer at Newark airport, Miss Nanette Spears. Courses are given to applicants in navigation, meteorology and preliminary flight training.

CSB Disclaims Sponsorship Of Child Nursery Project

Claims It Has Only Aided Effort Being Done By Defense Council Sub-Committee; Is Part Of Four-Point Child Care Program

The Community Service bureau emphasized this week that it is not the sponsor of the child nursery project, but that its effort was only a contributing factor to the establishment of the program.

Members of the CSB did conduct a survey which showed the need for the care of children of defense workers. The information was turned over to the sub-committee for child care of the defense council, which is the actual sponsor of the project. The only function of the CSB once the school is established will be to interview applicants and recommend the placement of the most needed cases in the nursery school.

The establishment of the nursery is not the sole objective of the defense council's child care group which is headed by Mrs. Helen M. Lunsford. A four-point program has been outlined which the committee hopes to eventually put into operation. It calls for:

1. Counseling or advisory service to mothers concerning the day care of their children.

2. Establishment of day care centers or nurseries.

3. Out of school programs for the children of working mothers who are older than nursery age; such as giving them hot lunch at school instead of having them go home to an empty house and cold icebox—and after school supervision in play for them until their mothers reach home.

4. Foster day care for children in private families if any of the children need it by reason of not fitting into the plan outlined above.

Other members of the committee working with Mrs. Lunsford are:

Mrs. John Denike, Woman's club; Miss Angelle Chapman, health department; Mrs. Madeline Matthews, Colored Women's Welfare council; Miss Filomena Pomponio, Belleville Nursery school director (under WPA); Miss Minnie Ackerman, Welfare federation; Mrs. May T. Holden, Girl Scouts; Mrs. Mary E. Ridgeway, welfare department; Mrs. Martha S. Herkins, Silver Lake Community house; John S. Charlton, Boy Scouts; Mrs. Julia O. Reiner, Community Service bureau; Mrs. L. R. Reeves, Parent-Teacher council; Earl W. Seibert, guidance director and psychologist for the schools; Rev. Willard Borchers, ministerial association; Frank L. Chambers, Red Cross chairman and representative of the Manufacturers' association.

The nursery school, which is scheduled to be opened in School No. 1, will start some time after September 1. The staff and the equipment which has been at the part-time WPA nursery in the Veterans' hall in Belleville avenue, will move to the new quarters. Miss Filomena Pomponio will head the nursery staff which will include an assistant teacher, trained nurse, cook and a janitor.

Ban Put On Swimming In All Local Streams

A pointed warning was issued by Health Officer Eugene T. Berry yesterday that there should be no bathing in the Passaic or Second and Third rivers. All are dangerously polluted, the health officer said, and the possibility of bathers being infected with some disease, particularly typhoid fever, is highly possible.

"It is not just the swimmers who I am thinking of," Berry said. "It is those with whom they may also come in contact. This is no time for epidemics. We are at war and not only should our people be healthy but we can't afford to have them kept out of valuable work."

Girl Scouts Sell Stamps At Woolworth Booth

During the summer months the Girl Scouts are doing their part to help the war effort by selling war bonds and stamps. Each day several of the girls may be found on duty during the afternoon at the F. W. Woolworth store in Washington avenue and Rutgers street where they are conducting the bond and stamp booth which was opened by the company.

They are on duty daily from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. and all day on Saturdays. On the latter day, they pass through the aisles and in the front of the store offering for sale to the customers victory buttonnieres made up of war stamps and selling for from 25 cents to $1.

Last Saturday one of the girls sold $75, it was reported by the store manager, V. P. Nauss.

Among the Girl Scouts who have participated in the selling of stamps and bonds are: Joan Carnie, Betty Ann Thompson, Joan Garvie, Shirley Sandford, Jane Tanis, Jeanette Friday, Doris Koehler, Evelyn Walling, Betty Jewell, Jeannette Guerin, Dorothy Gray, Jane Figuerelli, Gene Griffin, Marie Christiano, Audrey Todd, Jane Cory, Annabelle Ursi, and Doris Allaire and Doris Russell.

SCHOOL STAMP SALES HIGH

Board To Award Minute Man Flags For Purchasing $26,804 In Stamps

For having established a record of one dollar a month for almost every pupil toward the purchase of war bonds and stamps, the public school youngsters will be rewarded by the board of education. When they return to school, they will find the familiar blue and white Minute Man flags waving from the front of the school buildings.

In recognition of the fact that the students purchased between January and June $26,804.75 worth in stamps and bonds, the school board on Monday night voted to buy Minute Man banners to be hung at the entrances of each of the school buildings.

All board members were high in their praise of the record which had been made by the youngsters. Board President Herbert C. Schmutz also announced that the school employees had been presented with a certificate from the U.S. treasury department for better than 90 per cent enrollment in the voluntary payroll deduction plan. Ruel E. Daniels, board business manager, said that a Minute Man flag would arrive shortly which would be flown from one of the buildings honoring the employees. The treasury department certificate will be hung in the board of education offices.

SUPPLEMENTAL GAS JOB IS TACKLED BY FUEL PANEL

More Than 1,500 Applications Received; Many Incorrect; Trucks Get Books

With supplemental gasoline rationing the chief current problem of the newly formed joint Belleville-Nutley war price and rationing board, the gasoline panel meeting for the first time last night made plans to speed up the issuance of supplementary rationing books to deserving motorists.

The panel members, Herbert C. Schmutz, George McCallum of this town and Charles V. Scanlan of Nutley met at the ration office, 476 Washington avenue, to draft plans, assign new work and study the latest bulletins from the state OPA headquarters on policy to be adopted in a varied number of cases.

No time was lost by the panel earlier this week in issuing supplemental and service books to all owners of trucks so that they could continue transportation and delivery of goods this week without any delay. All truck owners in Nutley and Belleville who have made application for gasoline have been issued their books, the board announced yesterday.

It was estimated that more than 1,500 supplemental applications have been received from motorists who hold "A" books. A large number of them have not been correctly filled out and will have to be returned to the motorists, it was stated. Other members of the joint ration board are assisting the members of the fuel panel in their tremendous task.

Gas For Summer Commuters

The board received a ruling from the OPA headquarters yesterday pertaining to the issuance of supplemental gasoline for commuters from summer residences. It said in part:

"Commuters from summer homes should be allowed supplemental gasoline rations only to reach the nearest alternative point of commuting other than passenger car provided the car club requirement provision of the supplemental application is fulfilled to the satisfaction of the local board. In the event that the mileage from the summer home to the beginning point of the alternative method of travel is greater than the regular commuting mileage of the individual at his permanent residence, the supplemental ration should be issued on the basis of the individual's regular commuting mileage at his permanent home."

MIELE ANSWERS NUTLEY PROTEST

Says Decision On Ration Board Location, Chairman, Etc. Made By State OPA

Anthony P. Miele, county rationing authority, this week replied to the questions put to him last week by several Nutley members of the two-town board in which they voiced the opinion that matters were "all Belleville" to date.

Acting on the request of William Schonefisch, who was chairman of the disbanded Nutley board, and is a member of the new board, who declared that an explanation and an apology was due the people of Nutley, Board Chairman Ruel E. Daniels had written to Miele.

Daniels stated that Schonefisch wished the explanation so that it could be released in the Nutley paper telling the people how the name Belleville War Price and Rationing board was arrived at, why the chairman came from Belleville, why the office is located here and a clarification of the position of Mrs. Elsie Van Horn of Nutley, who was named as an alternate on the food panel.

Daniels released the letter to the press last night at the request of Schonefisch after the latter had read Miele's reply.

Aren't Satisfactory

"The answers are far from satisfactory to me and I believe to the Nutley people," was the Nutley man's only comment.

In his letter to Daniels, Miele said:

"Your letter of July 16th relative to the consolidation of the Belleville and Nutley local rationing boards into the consolidated Belleville war price and rationing board was received and the contents thereof carefully noted.

"I am sorry that some of the Nutley members were disturbed because they were unable to release to the press during the past few weeks news they thought valuable to the citizens of Nutley. All of the local boards were in the very same position, as well as this office, as we were requested by Mr. Kerney (James J. Kerney, state OPA director) not to release anything for publication until the program was completed, and then the information would be released by the state director to the press all over the state.

"As to the four questions proposed: 1. Why the rationing board was located in Belleville? This was done to give (Continued on Page 6)

Tire Dealers Must File Inventories By Saturday

The ration board reminded dealers holding new and used tires and tubes for sale that they must file their quarterly inventory report with the local office at 476 Washington avenue not later than Saturday noon. The original filing date was July 15 but the time was extended 10 days by the OPA.

Form R-17 on which the information must be filed may be obtained at the board office.

The order applies to tire dealers, automobile dealers, finance companies and used tire dealers. Included in the inventory should be all new or used unmounted tires and tubes, unmounted retreads and recapped tires and truck and bicycle tires.

ASKED TO MAIL GAS APPEALS

Ration Office Swamped But Handles The Heavy Work Well

The ration board officials and staff pleaded last night with motorists filing forms for supplemental gasoline to mail in their forms and not come personally to the ration office at 476 Washington avenue asking questions. Swamped in a maze of work, the staff despite volunteer system finds that it is impossible to handle those cases and individuals who need immediate attention and aid those passenger car autoists who want more gasoline.

"There's nothing difficult about the supplementary gas forms," Ruel E. Daniels, board chairman, said, "if the people will just take the time to sit down and read them."

If people do not want to mail in their forms, they should leave them in the mail slot at the office, but they should not bother the office staff.

Board members, staff and volunteers were congratulating themselves last night on the speedy manner in which they were able to handle the gasoline dealers from Nutley and Belleville who came in droves at 9 a. m., opening time, yesterday morning. While reports were coming from other sections of the county that dealers and truck operators were standing in long lines awaiting their turn, the local office had issued inventory coupon books to every dealer in the two towns who applied by noon hour. By Tuesday night, all truck owners who had made application obtained their gasoline requirements.

Have Volunteers

In addition to the regular office force of Lloyd Kenny, executive secretary, and three girl workers, George Bauman, Nutley representative, Daniels and three volunteers, John Heffernan, William Chapman and Stephen Weir were on duty all day handling truck, supplementary and gas station applications. The latter three have been on duty all week.

The miscellaneous panel, which will deal with bicycles and typewriters, will meet at the ration board office tonight at 7:30 p. m. New hours for the office will be announced next week, Daniels said.

Retailers Must File Ceiling Price Reports

Retailers were given another warning today that a report showing their ceiling prices on all cost of living commodities must be placed on file with the local board not later than July 31.

Merchants have been very slow in filing reports, it was said. Only six have been received from Belleville and 35 from Nutley. They should be mailed to or left at the office, 476 Washington avenue.

Reports To Mississippi Field For Flight Training

Robert Maxwell Wertz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus E. Wertz of 229 Overlook avenue, has recently reported to the army flying school at Greenville, Miss., for further flight training.

After he completes his training there Cadet Wertz will go to another field in the Southeast army air forces training center. When he has successfully completed the final phase of his training, Wertz will receive his wings and be commissioned as a second lieutenant in the air force.

Woman Is Overcome

Mrs. Vessie Ross, 43, of 37 Washington avenue was overcome by fumes Tuesday night in her apartment. She was taken to St. Mary's hospital, Passaic, where she was kept overnight. The fumes came from the Bart building at 33 Washington avenue, according to police. It serves as an annex for the Bart concern which has its main plant at 227 Main street.

All local landlords must secure rent registration forms under the federal rent law at School No. 8 in Union avenue today, it was announced yesterday by the OPA branch office in Newark. The office will continue to be open several days from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. but it is recommended that all landlords who are able go to the headquarters today to obtain the forms.

The forms must be returned to the OPA between August 3 and 7, it was announced. The local fair rents advisory committee, headed by Paul deHagara, will act as an advisory group and as an information center.

It was pointed out yesterday by deHagara that landlords must file separate forms for each dwelling unit which they rent to a tenant. Services for a tenant which were in effect on March 1, the "freezing" date for all rentals, must be listed, deHagara said.

"Landlords should carefully analyze the forms," H. Russell Phillips, rent director for the OPA, said yesterday. "They should answer all questions so as to avoid penalties of treble damages later on. They should not fold the forms."

"The area rent office of the office of price administration," Phillips said, "is most eager to cooperate with both landlord and tenant and is asking that the public be patient during this time of heavy pressure under which they are working."

Registration of all premises rented or offered for rent for living and dwelling purposes will be made on forms in triplicate, one copy to be retained by the OPA, another ultimately to be returned to the landlord by the area rent office, and the other sent to the tenant after proper check has been returned to the point designated for filing such documents.

Phillips cautions landlords to be certain that each question is answered correctly and truthfully and warns them not to fix their maximum rents at a higher level than the March 1, 1942 figure because of alleged major capital improvements, unless the landlord is positive such improvements qualify him to fix the rent on such basis. When in doubt as to whether or not an improvement is a capital one Phillips advises that the maximum rent be left at the March 1 figure until the last order petitions the area rent director for a determination provided by the maximum rent regulation.

Educational meetings are held with tenant groups, landlords, banks and real estate boards, to instruct and advise them of the full effect and operations of the regulation, and the procedure to be followed by them to receive all of the benefits to which they are entitled under the regulation.

Need Volunteers
To aid in the tremendous job of volunteers totalling 3,700 will be needed during the registration period when the forms are to be received after the period of distribution. Volunteers will have to be drawn from all walks of life, and those willing to give their time and service to the government for patriotic causes will do so realizing that the success of this program will depend in great measure upon their activities.

Distribution of the forms will begin today. Nothing can be done about fixing a date for registration of landlords until distribution is finished.

"We cannot have all we want if our soldiers and sailors are to have all they need."

Math and Home Economics Teachers Hired To Teach In High School

Seven new teachers were appointed to the school system by the board of education at its meeting Monday night. They will start work when the new term opens in September. The recommendation for the appointments was made by Charles Gebhardt, chairman of the teachers' committee.

Two teachers were named to the high school staff. James G. Keen and Miss Yvonne Ashley will both receive $1,800 annually. Keen, who will teach mathematics, is a graduate of the central high school at Wanamie, Pa. He received his A.B. and master degrees at Pennsylvania State Teachers college. For the past four years he has been mathematics instructor at Glen-Nor high school, Glen Olden, Pa.

Miss Ashley, who will replace Miss Bertha Huff who resigned as home economics instructor and was recently married, attended high school in Buffalo, N. Y. and was graduated from the state teachers' college there. She received her masters' degree from Columbia teachers college; this year. From 1939 to 1941 she was home economics instructor in South Dayton high school, Dayton, O.

All other appointments were for the grammar school grades. Miss Jean Radick, who has taught in the system for the past year, was re-named at $1,200. Other appointments were Miss Marie Ward, Miss Margaret R. O'Neill and Miss Louise Bergman, all at $1,200 annually; and Miss Florence Mae Lodge, $1,350.

Miss Ward served as registrar at Seton Hall college from 1938 to 1941. She is a graduate of Good Counsel high school in Newark and of the College of St. Elizabeth. A graduate of Newark State Teachers College, Miss Lodge has taught social science in the seventh and eighth grades for the past three years at Mountain Lakes. Miss O'Neill was graduated from Newark State Teachers college in 1938 and Miss Bergman, who is from Elizabeth, from Montclair State Teachers college in May.

On the recommendation of the teachers' committee, leaves of absence for a year were granted to Mrs. Mary A. Giannella, Mrs. Harriet Becker and Miss Edith Di Leo.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cross of New street were among the guests Saturday at a picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Renner of Hillsdale.

Frying Pan Now Important In Campaign For Salvage

Local Committee Wants Housewives To Save Waste Fats And Give Them To Butcher; Will Help To Make Glycerine

"Everything's Fine," Writes Soldier From Ireland

"Everything's fine," Pvt. William Petrie, now stationed somewhere in Ireland, land, cabled his mother, Mrs. E. W. Petrie of 242 Belleville avenue, last week. "Having a swell time," Petrie said in acknowledging receipt of the family's V-mail letter.

LEGION WANTS OLD RECORDS

Will Be Re-Made Into New Ones For Men In The Service

The American Legion assisted by the auxiliary is starting a campaign for the salvage of old phonograph records to make new ones for the service men. The Legion is supporting a nationwide campaign conducted by Records for our Fighting Men, incorporated, a non-profit organization formed by some of America's leading musical artists to provide record libraries and phonograph players to the armed forces here and overseas.

Alonso Hartly will be chairman of the local committee, with headquarters at 358 Washington avenue, open late afternoons and early evenings until the end of the drive on August 2. A large box will also be placed outside of the store for the deposit of old records at other hours. The quota for Belleville is 4,525 records. These records will be shipped as scrap and processed into new ones for shipment to all fighting men.

Some well-known names in the musical world, Kay Kyser, Kate Smith, Fritz Reiner, Sigmund Spaeth, and Gene Autry, will be among those working with the organization. The Legionnaires will also call at any local home and collect records if an addressed card is sent to Belleville Post 105, scrap record drive, 356 Washington avenue. All records are acceptable.

Recover Body From River

Police recovered a body identified as that of John Cotcher, 50, of 289 Barbara street, Newark, from the Passaic river at Main and William streets on Friday. The body was noticed by a passer-by and it was recovered by Lieut. Ken Smith and Patrolman James Lee. Through a social security card, the police made identification.

Four At Kiamasha

Enjoying the fourth week of Kamp Kiamasha, the Newark Y.M.C.A. camp for boys at Newton, are four Belleville boys, Bill Poyner of 173 Mt. Prospect avenue, Bill Enders of 126 Cedar Hill avenue, Bill Comer of 71 Tappan avenue, and Ernie Ritchie, a junior leader, of 29 Calkoid place.

The salvage committee will assist the government in its program of collecting household fats and oils through butcher shops. The fats are needed to extract glycerine for explosives and the government has adopted the slogan "Out of the Frying Pan Into the Firing Line" to rally the nation's cooks and housewives to save all cooking fats from now on. There is an estimated 500,000,000 pound fats deficiency.

It is hoped these salvaged fats will provide sufficient materials to manufacture glycerine explosives without limiting household uses.

"Fully half of our normal imports of fats and oils have been cut off by loss of the Philippines, the Dutch East Indies and Malaya," stated R. G. Sutherland, local salvage chairman.

"The housewife is being called on to make up the deficiency by saving waste fats and taking them to her butcher, who has been designated as a fat collection station. The butcher will pay for the fats returned. He in turn will sell them to the renderer, who will process them and send them back into industry to serve a useful war purpose," he explained.

The price paid by the butcher for fats may vary between four and five cents because of different ceiling prices of the office of price administration established for different renders by the maximum general price regulations. A fixed price is expected to be established soon.

Denise Kelly of 16 Belmont street has been designated by the salvage committee to take charge of the household fats campaign. At present, Kelly is arranging a town wide survey of all butcher shops to make certain all butchers are acquainted with the program.

Kelly listed four "do" and four "don't" rules that the housewives should follow to aid in the efficiency of this campaign.

Things to Do

1. Save all waste cooking fats, such as pan drippings from roast ham, beef, lamb and poultry; broiler drippings from steaks, chops, veal and bacon; deep fats, whether lard or vegetable shortening, from fried potatoes, fish, doughnuts, etc. (Note that no solid fat trimmings are requested).
2. Pour fats through a strainer into a spotlessly clean wide-mouthed metal container, preferably a shortening tin can, or coffee can. Avoid using narrow-necked containers and cans with jagged edges.
3. Keep in a refrigerator or a cool dark place until at least a pound is collected. (Can should be covered to prevent objectionable odors).
4. Take the pound or more of fat to the butcher, who will pay for it and start it on its way to the firing line through the renderer.

Things Not To Do

1. Don't put fats in a glass container or paper bags or cardboard container if you have anything else available.
2. Don't let the fats stand so long they become rancid as this reduces the glycerine content.
3. Don't take less than a pound to the butcher.
4. Don't take the fats to the butcher on week end days, but try to take it during the first of the week to relieve the butcher during his week end rush.

BOY SCOUTS WILL HELP THE OPA

Will Distribute Leaflets On Price Control To All Residents

Local Boy Scouts have been asked by the office of price administration to distribute price control leaflets to every home in town. It will be done here under the direction of the service corps supervised by Robert Weiss.

The booklet to be given out is entitled "What You Should Know About War-Time Price Control." Because the government is requesting that scouts be trained for messenger service during blackouts and air raids, a number of boys are taking the messenger training course being given weekly on Thursday nights at the Division avenue firehouse under the direction of Assistant District Commissioner Gottfried Johnson. At the last two sessions, Assistant Executive Joseph W. O'Farrell has lectured. The class tonight will be devoted to "Knowing the Community and Chemical Fire Fighting."

LATE REGISTRANTS MAY OBTAIN GAS BOOKS TOMORROW

Mileage Allowed In Various Types Of Books Explained

Car owners who failed to register for an "A" gasoline ration book on July 9, 10, and 11 when official distribution of the books was made, may do so starting tomorrow at war price and rationing boards. This was announced today by James Kerney Jr., State Director of the office of price administration.

Applicants will follow the same procedure that was used during official registration; they will fill out a simple application form and will then be given a basic "A" ration book and a sticker to be placed on the rear window of the car. Any car owner who must use his car for more than 150 miles of occupational driving a month will be permitted to fill out an application for a supplemental ration book.

OPA headquarters also issued detailed instructions and an official description of gasoline rationing procedure for the guidance of motorists and other consumers of gasoline in the use of ration books under permanent gasoline rationing which went into effect yesterday.

It was emphasized that no one can purchase gasoline, whether for delivery into the tank of a car or into a container for non-highway purposes, without presenting a coupon book from which the dealer is required to remove a coupon for each gallon of gasoline sold. Consumers were warned not to remove coupons in advance. The dealer, it was explained, is required to tear the coupons out of the ration book.

The mileage allowed by the various types of ration books was described by rationing officials as follows:

1. Basic ration book "A" which all passenger car drivers will use contains 48 coupons each good for the purchase of four gallons, providing 192 gallons for a full year. On the basis of 15 miles to a gallon, this provides fuel for 2,880 miles. Rationing officials pointed out that 1,080 of these miles are for necessary household driving, and that the balance should be budgeted to cover emergencies and pleasure driving.

The coupons are arranged in six pages of eight coupons each, with each page of coupons good for a specified two-month period. The first page of eight coupons, all of which bear the numeral "1," is valid from July 22 to September 21, after which any number of coupons left on the first page cannot be used to purchase gasoline. On September 22 the second page of coupons which bear the number "2" become valid for the purchase of gasoline for a two-month period which expires on November 21.

Passenger cars which use the basic book only will display an "A" sticker on the rear window.

2. Passenger car owners who use their cars for more than 150 miles of occupational driving a month will have both an "A" and a "B" book, and are required to display both an "A" and a "B" sticker on the rear window. The "B" book contains 16 coupons. The period during which the "B" book is valid will vary with the number of miles a month the driver must use his car for occupational purposes. For example, a motorist who drives 230 occupational miles a month will have a "B" book good for 12 months. This means that he is given 16 additional coupons representing 64 gallons to add to the 192 gallons represented by his "A" book. In terms of mileage estimated at 15 miles to the gallon he has 2,880 miles from his "A" book and 960 miles from his "B" book, a total of 3,840 miles for the year. His occupational mileage, 230 miles a month, comes to 2,760 miles for the year. The difference is the 1,080 miles of his "A" book which are allowed for necessary household driving. "B" books are never issued for less than three months so that no more than four will be issued to one person during a year.

Books Are "Tailored"
3. Passenger vehicles in 14 categories of an "essential mileage" list which includes doctors, clergymen, government officials, war workers, and certain others essential to the war effort will use "C" books and will display "C" stickers on the rear window. These books allow monthly mileage above 470 miles a month. They are issued for periods which never exceed three months and are "tailored" by the removal of coupons to meet the specific driving needs of the individual. "C" drivers must procure new books every three months. In this way seasonal variations in the driver's mileage requirements are taken into consideration. He may receive coupons for 1,000 miles of driving for his first three months, but may need to do only 580 miles of driving during the next three months.

4. Certain passenger cars, namely those which belong to a fleet operated by a company, individual or organization, will have either a "B" or a "C" book tailored for specific requirements. These cars are not allowed any mileage for household or pleasure driving.

5. Motorcycles will use a "D" book. These books are similar in usage to the "A" book except that each coupon is good for the purchase of only 1/2 gallon of gasoline to compensate for the difference in gasoline consumption.

6. Trucks and buses will use "S1" and "S2" books, depending on the number of miles they must cover within a four-month period. "S1" books have 96 coupons which provide 384 gallons; and "S2" books provide 384 coupons good for 1,536 gallons. However, if the vehicle's requirements are less than the mileage provided by these books, the removal of coupons by the local rationing boards "tailor" them to fit. The four-month periods allow for meeting seasonal variations, as in the case of the "C" books.

7. Non-highway users of gasoline such as industrial users, farmers who use gasoline to run farm implements, printers who use gasoline to clean or run presses, will use "E" and "R" ration books depending upon their requirements during a six-month period.

The "E" book contains 48 coupons, while the "R" book has 96. A non-highway user may get both an "E" and an "R," or more than one of both books, if his requirements warrant it. He will receive his supply of coupons books at the local ration board every six months.

The glee clubs expect to arrange their winter concert for the benefit of the army and navy relief fund.

You'll Enjoy New Jersey Peaches
Can or Preserve This Luscious Fruit for a Winter Delicacy

NEW JERSEY peaches are in season. The quality is high and the price is low. Plan to use peaches in tempting desserts. Can and preserve as many as possible. Make peach jelly, jam, conserve and chutney. Learn to use sugar substitutes both in canning peaches and in the preparation of desserts.

The new oven-method of canning is as easy as baking a cake. Sterilize jars and tops by placing in an oven of 250 degrees for ten minutes. Place peaches in wire basket and lower into boiling water for one minute. Dip in cold water. This makes it easy to remove pits and skin. Cut peaches "ato suitable pieces. Pack into quart jars. Fill with boiling syrup (see chart). Then process (bake) in oven set at 275 degrees for sixty minutes.

SYRUP TABLE FOR CANNING PEACHES

Kind	Cup Measure	Water	Syrup
Thin, Sugar	1	2 cups	Not Very Sweet
Thick, Sugar	1	1 cup	Very Sweet
Honey or
Corn Syrup	1/2 Honey or	2 1/2 cups	Good with Peaches
and Sugar	1/2 Sugar
Molasses	3 cups Sugar
Canning Syrup	1 cup Molasses	5 cups	Excellent

Prepare syrup by heating sugar and water to boiling point. Honey, corn syrup and molasses used as sugar substitute should be boiled three to 10 minutes; the syrups always being added to boiling water. Strain if necessary.

For canning peaches, one to three-quarter cup of syrup is used per quart.

The average oven will process 8 or 12 quarts at one time, placed one inch apart on a shallow pan. Process with tops screwed loosely on jars to allow air to escape. Remove jars from oven, seal tightly, cool and label. Here are recipes for peach jam, marmalade, etc.

THIS WEEK OF WAR

War Production Chairman Nelson, speaking in Detroit, said the U. S. will hit the "real" peak of its war production program by next March. Nelson said "Our ability to produce is much greater than anyone dreamed. The armament objectives as announced by President Roosevelt last winter — and which seemed too vast at the time — will be readily realized. . . Our productive capacity is apparently limited only by the raw materials available."

"The engineering genius of American production, when turned from peace to war, has proved a reservoir no one could gauge," Nelson said. "When American men and machines stopped competing with each other and turned all their competitive energy and abilities against Hitler and Hirohito, it knocked all previous calculations of our productive powers into a cocked hat. . . The real problem now is not one of production. It is the problem of a better distribution of the materials from which war production springs."

Chairman Nelson said "At all costs — we must not get into the frame of mind that this is either an easy or a short job. If people build on false hopes of an easy victory or a short war, then they are certain to feel let down when the bad days come, as come they will. . ."

Production and Sub-contracting

Nelson announced a "realignment" of the board to permit him to devote his time to essential allocation policies between the needs of the armed forces and the civilian economy. He said essential civilian needs, such as those for the communications and transportation systems, must be met. The civilian economy, though "thin," must be kept healthy, he said. William L. Batt and James S. Knowlson were named vice chairmen.

Lou E. Holland, formerly president of the Double Rotary Sprinkler corporation of Kansas City, Mo., was appointed WPB deputy chairman in charge of the smaller war plants corporation. Chairman Nelson said the Corporation should attempt to confine the manufacture of relatively simple war items to smaller factories, increase the farming out of manufacture of bits and pieces by large corporations which hold prime contracts, and encourage conversion of additional small plants to essential civilian production. The WPB estimated, however, that 24,000 small manufacturers whose annual sales three years ago amounted to $4 billion, will be forced to close before October 1 because of inability to convert to war or essential civilian production.

The WPB said expenditures for war purposes by U. S. government agencies in June were at the average daily rate of $158 million, 51 per cent higher than in May. Congressional war appropriations to date total more than $225 billion, the board said, but the U. S. actually has spent less than $40 billion. The WPB bureau of finance obtained $62 million in the form of loans or advances on payments for war materials for almost 400 manufacturers in June. During the past six weeks, the army signal corps has given final acceptance each day to more than $2 million worth of radio and communications equipment, and awarded contracts for $1 billion worth of additional apparatus.

Labor Supply The War Front

Recent Far Eastern events indicate "the turning point in air operations has been reached and the Japanese are now more on the defensive whereas the American air forces are on the offensive."

Aug. 6 Deadline For Filing County Committee Petitions

Town Clerk Florence R. Morey announced yesterday that those seeking election to either the Republican or Democratic county committees must file their nominating petitions with her 40 days prior to the primary election on September 15, or on August 6. Persons may also register or transfer for voting in that election up until August 6.

sive," U. S. army air forces headquarters in China reported. U. S. submarines within two days sank or destroyed five Japanese destroyers in the Aleutians, the navy said. The war department said American troops are now stationed at Port Moresby, Allied base in New Guinea. The department also announced that U. S. crews, manning American-made medium tanks, blocked out a number of German tanks in the Battle of Lyba in mid-June without any losses of their own personnel. Gen. MacArthur reported more allied raids on numerous enemy bases in the Southwest Pacific.

The navy announced the torpedoing by Axis submarines of 16 additional United Nations merchant vessels.

War Information

Director Elmer Davis of the Office of War Information issued OWI Regulation Number One, stating "The Federal Government will issue as promptly as possible all news and background information essential to a clear understanding of this Nation's war effort. . . The impact of the war on all phases of American life will be reported. So will the cooperative efforts of the United Nations. Only information which would give aid and comfort to the enemy will be withheld." Davis established three major branches under himself and OWI Associate Director M. S. Eisenhower, with an assistant director for each branch. Gardner Cowles Jr., president of the Des Moines Register and Tribune and President of Look Magazine, was placed in charge of domestic information operations; Robert Sherwood, in charge of overseas information operations; and Archibald MacLeish, policy development.

The Armed Forces

The army specialist corps, with

190,000 applications for membership, will enlist more than 11,000 men during the rest of this year, the War Department said. WAAC Director Hobby reported two of the first eight WAAC companies will consist of Negro women, commanded by Negro women, who will attend the first WAAC officer candidate school. President Roosevelt signed a bill authorizing $8,500 million in new naval warship construction with emphasis on aircraft carriers. The marine corps said it is now promoting competent noncommissioned officers in the field to meet needs for additional officers.

Three Stores Get Final Warning On Dimout
Two Washington avenue merchants and one from the Silver Lake section were given final warnings by the defense council this week to comply with army dimout regulations or face prosecution. It was reported to the council by air raid warden representatives that several visits had been made to each violator and that they had failed to remedy the condition.

It was pointed out at the council session that stores are not required to dim their windows and other lights until one hour after sundown. For example, if sundown is at 8:25, stores do not have to dimout until 9:25.

'Moon Is Down' Next Show For Mosque
Having taken off to a flying start with Canada Lee in "Native Son", the Mosque theatre operators in Newark believe they are now securely established as one of the leading low-priced legitimate theatres in New Jersey.

For their second attraction at the Mosque, Bobette and Russell Mack, the man and his wife who operate the theatre, have chosen John Steinbeck's drama, "The Moon Is Down", with Conrad Nagel in the leading role. This play will begin a week's engagement on Tuesday, playing through Sunday evening with matinees on Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday.

"The Moon Is Down", which is laid in an occupied country and expresses in glowing terms the belief that free men can never be conquered, is Steinbeck's first play since his "Of Mice and Men" won the New York Critics' Prize in 1937.

Playing the leading role, that of Col. Lanser, Conrad Nagel returns to the local stage after an absence of several seasons spent in radio work. Many members of the cast also appeared in the original Broadway production.

Q. Is the landlord required to do anything else in the case of a change in tenancy?
A. Yes, he is to list in form 125 report of change in tenancy and send it to the area rent office within five days after renting to a new tenant.

Q. What information will the landlord be required to give in the statement?
A. Information requested falls into five short sections, alphabetically identified A. B. C. D. and E, asking A-mailing address of landlords; B-mailing address of tenants; C-maximum legal rent; D-1 equipment, D-2 services, E-to be filled in by landlord, in explanation of the maximum legal rent under certain circumstances.

Q. What rent will the landlord be asked to report?
A. Under section "C" he is to report the following — rent charged on the maximum rent date.

Q. What if the premises were not rented on that date?
A. If not rented on the maximum rent date but rented during the two months prior to the maximum rent date, the landlord is to put in the rent last charged during that two months period.

Q. What if the place wasn't rented during that two months either?
A. If the place was not rented during that two months, or on the maximum rent date, but was rented before the regulation became effective, the landlord must put in the rent charged on the first date rented after the maximum rent date. In cases such as this the landlord must check one of three reasons explaining why the accommodations were not rented until the period between the maximum rent date and July 1. The reasons are — owner occupied or vacant, newly constructed without priority rating, newly constructed with priority rating. If for this last reason, the landlord must report the rent approved by the agency granting the priority.

Q. Does this mean a landlord has to fill out three separate forms?
A. No. The copies are made by carbons.

Q. Who must fill out this registration statement?
A. The landlord or his agent.

Q. What housing accommodations must be registered in this registration?
A. Houses, apartments, flats, tenements, and all similar dwelling units.

Q. Must a landlord make out a separate registration statement for each dwelling unit he rents, or is offering for rent?
A. Yes, a statement must be made for each unit, rented or not rented.

Q. Are there any circumstances by which a tenant would have to submit a registration statement?
A. Yes. The tenant is told on the reverse side of his copy of the statement that if he sublets all or any part of the dwelling unit he must also submit a registration statement.

Q. Exactly what does this mean?
A. It means that for the registration of housing accommodations other than hotels and rooming houses, that if a tenant rents to one or two paying tenants not members of his family, he must register. If he rents to three or more, then he is to wait for the registration of rooming and boarding houses.

Q. Would the same hold true of a person who owned the home he lived in and rented to one or two paying tenants?
A. Yes, he would have to register. And if he rented to more than two, he will have to register later.

Q. What compromises a dwelling unit?
A. A dwelling unit is a room, or group of rooms, for which a single rent is paid.

Q. What about rooming and boarding houses?
A. These are not to be registered at this time. Registration of this type living quarter is to be made at a later date.

Q. What is done with the triple registration statement?
The original, distinguished by blue ink, remains on file in the area rent office. The second copy is the landlord's and is printed in red ink. The third copy is the tenant's and is printed in green ink.

Q. What happens to the landlord's and tenant's copies?
A. When the registration statement is received in the area rent office, it is carefully inspected. If this inspection shows the statement to be in order, the copies are stamped with the date of receipt and mailed out to the landlord and the tenant.

Q. What does the tenant do with his copy?
A. The tenant is to check the information in the statement carefully. If he agrees with the information the landlord has reported on the living quarters, the tenant merely keeps the statement for reference.

Q. And if the tenant disagrees with some of the information reported?
A. He is to list the points on which he disagrees on the space provided on the reverse side of his statement, and return the statement to the Area Rent Office within 15 days.

Q. What does the landlord do with his copy of the statement?
A. He is to keep it as his record of correct registration. In future rentings, that is, when the present tenant moves out and a new one moves in, the landlord must show the new tenant the registration statement. He must also have the new tenant sign the statement in a space provided on the reverse side, as evidence that the tenant has seen the statement.

Q. Is the landlord required to do anything else in the case of a change in tenancy?
A. Yes, he is to list in form 125 report of change in tenancy and send it to the area rent office within five days after renting to a new tenant.

Q. What information will the landlord be required to give in the statement?
A. Information requested falls into five short sections, alphabetically identified A. B. C. D. and E, asking A-mailing address of landlords; B-mailing address of tenants; C-maximum legal rent; D-1 equipment, D-2 services, E-to be filled in by landlord, in explanation of the maximum legal rent under certain circumstances.

MUST CUT DOWN ON 'PHONE USE

All Calls Must Be As Brief As Possible Says Company

An appeal to cut down unnecessary telephoning and to make all calls as brief as possible is being addressed this week to telephone users throughout the state by the New Jersey Bell Telephone company, W. A. Vanstory, manager of the local office, announced yesterday.

A similar plea is being made by telephone companies in other parts of the country. Its purpose is to conserve for increasing war needs the telephone facilities of the country, which are reaching the point of congestion and cannot be expanded while essential metals are needed for munitions.

Long distance lines are now in many instances loaded to capacity or close to it despite addition of 1,000,000 circuit miles to the nationwide network within the last year, the company reports. Local exchange facilities are becoming seriously burdened in many communities although the service capacities of practically all of them were increased within the last two years.

The peak of the war's activities, and of telephone calling, is still ahead, the company is telling its customers, and with further telephone expansion out for the duration, the present telephone facilities must be made to serve throughout the war emergency as effectively as possible.

Use "Off Peak" Periods

Under these circumstances, it is asking telephone users to avoid unnecessary calls, to be as brief as possible when they do call, and if long distance calls are necessary to place them if possible in the "off peak" periods of traffic, between noon and 2 p.m., from 5 to 7 p.m. and after 9 p.m. at night.

In New Jersey, 863,000 telephones are now in service, an increase of 100,000 in two years, and the present daily average of over 3,700,000 telephone calls in the state is half a million more calls a day than two years ago. Calls handled at the major toll centers in the state have increased 15 percent in a year, on top of an increase of nearly 20 percent the previous year. Many local central offices are now operating close to service capacity, and in a number of communities line facilities are no longer available to connect more telephones.

MINUTE MAN FLIES HIGH.—This is the new Minute Man War Bond Flag, designed by the Treasury Department for firms and organizations which attain more than 90 percent participation in War Savings Bonds purchases by their employees or members through a systematic purchase plan. The Minute Man is emblazoned in white on a blue background, surrounded by thirteen stars, representing the Nation's thirteen founding States. When companies, labor unions, and other organizations top the 90 percent figure, they will receive a special Minute Man Certificate of Award signed by Secretary Morgenthau, the State Administrator, and the State Chairman of the War Savings Staff, the Treasury Department announced. This certificate entitles the recipient to fly the flag, which is being manufactured in various sizes and is sold by licensed suppliers at a nominal price.

to the switchboards. Hence the company's appeal to avoid unnecessary calls and to keep both local and long distance conversations brief so as to lighten the load on the lines and permit as many people as possible to make necessary calls.

Gloria Swanson At Maplewood In Comedy, 'Reflected Glory'

Gloria Swanson, the screen comedienne, will star in George Kelly's light comedy, "Reflected Glory," at the Maplewood theatre, Maplewood for one week beginning Monday. The occasion will mark the film star's first stage appearance in many years.

"Reflected Glory" tells the story of Muriel Flood, first actress of the stage, a glamorous romantic star who can never stop acting even away from the footlights. An emotional actress whose life has been a series of stage moods, she longs passionately, between successes, for the courage to get away from it all, for a home and babies, for love.

"Reflected Glory," by the author of "The Torch Bearers," "The Show-Off," and "Craig's Wife," won success for Tallulah Bankhead a few seasons ago.

Leon Ames, who was featured in "The Male Animal" and recently in "Guest in the House" on Broadway, plays opposite her. Harold J. Kennedy, who also directed, Myrtle Tannehill, Brent Sargent, Wendell Corey and Eulabelle Moore are also in the cast. Settings are by Paul Morrison.

"Reflected Glory" will be given nightly at 8:45 through Saturday, August 1, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday at 2:45.

"Sammie" Dog

The "Sammie" dog is mistaken repeatedly for a breed known as the Spitz, which is much smaller than the pure-bred Samoyede. The coat of the Samoyede is a strong attribute to distinguish it from a Spitz dog. "Sammies" are clothed in a more luxurious stand-off silky coat.

Safeway Buggies Give Up Rubber Handles and Bumpers

More than 8,000 pounds of rubber scrap were collected in New York and New Jersey Safeway stores during the last ten days. This collection was included in the 143,000 pounds of additional rubber added to the nation's stockpile last weekend through a second intensive drive by all Safeway stores.

Following what was believed to be a complete check during the first regular salvage campaign, company employees were urged on to a further secondary effort, with the result that the additional huge supply was collected.

Rubber handles and bumpers from shopping buggies, chair pads and mats, door stops, and a multitude of other tiny gadgets were responsible for the resulting pile.

"We feel sure that we have collected every available piece," stated a Safeway official. "All of our organization entered into the drive with keenest rivalry. If you forgot some item, your fellow workers didn't hesitate to check up on you. If all business organizations have been as searching for rubber material, the final results of the drive should prove very heartening."

Board Paves Way To Buy Textbooks For $6,500

There will be no shortage of books when the schools open for their new term in September. The board of education members approved the expenditure of approximately $6,500 for textbooks on Monday night. The books will be purchased after study by members of the textbook and supply committee.

Of the total amount to be expended, approximately $5,000 will be for grammar school books.

Board President Herbert C. Schmutz remarked on the excellent condition of books which have been in use in the schools for the past eight or nine years. "The excellent condition," he commented, "reflects on the students and teachers."

PUTTING HIS "EGGS" IN THE RIGHT BASKET...

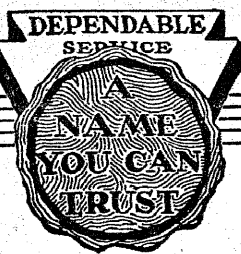

This is no one man's war. We are all in it up to our necks.

The boys in the air and in tanks; behind the guns; on and under the sea—they are all doing a job gloriously. Are we?

We can fight, too, by buying United States War Bonds often and regularly.

Your country needs ready money—to buy war equipment on a vast scale—to blast the Axis—to achieve VICTORY!

In cooperation with our government and as a stimulus to the sale of War Bonds and Stamps, all Public Service stores are now selling them. We hope this will prove a convenience for you—But in any event, Buy War Bonds and Stamps anywhere you can.

The Purchaser Decides

Many people are not, quite understandably, familiar with funeral costs. Employing a method which permits of maximum flexibility, William V. Irvine leaves this major decision to the discretion of the purchaser.

NURSERY SCHOOL GETS APPROVAL

School Board Makes Sure There'll Be No Expense To It

The use of a room in School No. 1 for the new WPA sponsored day nursery school scheduled to open early in September was granted Monday night by the board of education with the understanding that it would be without expense to the school board and that its use would be permitted until such time as the board has need for it.

Herbert C. Schmutz, board chairman, stated that at the conference he and Superintendent of Schools Wayne R. Farmer had with Mayor Williams, representatives of the day nursery committee, the Community Service bureau and the WPA, it was specifically understood that any local expense for equipment or alteration would be borne by the defense council.

The nursery will be located in the room now used by the public health nurse who will be transferred to the music room on the second floor. Classes which have used the latter space will be held in the auditorium. It is understood that the nursery room will be renovated so that cooking facilities may be installed. Although the town will provide funds for any work, Ruel E. Daniels, business manager of the board of education, will have supervision.

Janitor Questions

Two questions were raised by the board which will be forwarded to the defense council. The school janitors quit work at 5 p.m. Present scheduled plans for the nursery call for it to be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. It was also pointed out that during the cold months the fires in the school buildings are banked at 3 p.m. and shut down when the janitors go home. It was also stated that the room selected for the nursery is one of the most difficult in the school to heat.

Mrs. Homer Zink, member of the board, asked if it was the intention to close the present WPA nursery school which has been conducted at the Veterans' hall in Belleville avenue.

Although he did not know definitely, Schmutz said that he understood it was the feeling of those in charge of the nursery movement that the school should not be located near a tavern.

Mrs. Julia O. Reiner, executive secretary of the Community Service bureau, prime mover for the nursery school, said yesterday that the one which has been held in the Veterans' hall would be abandoned and that the WPA staff which has been in charge there would be transferred to School No. 1.

The nursery is for pre-school children from two to five years of age whose mothers are employed in war work.

Mrs. Teresa E. Davis, wife of Charles R. Davis of 580 Washington avenue, died Friday at her home after a long illness. Mrs. Davis has lived in Belleville 18 years. She moved here from Arlington. She belonged to the Eastern Star, the Kearny chapter, O.E.S.

She leaves her husband, and one daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Gleason of Haddon Heights. Funeral services were Monday afternoon at the Stanton Funeral Home at 2 o'clock.

lives on wheels. This problem is not only one of transportation, for there is no other method by which the business, the economics, the social structure of America could be more quickly and more completely overturned than by taking away from the people of this nation their oil and gas and tires essential to the operation of their automobiles.

The Truman committee recently reported that foreign rubber cartels have prevented us from laying in an adequate stock pile of reserve rubber prior to entry into this war. Let us make certain that no such sinister influence can operate against our best interests in this crisis.

"I am also greatly disturbed concerning the prospect of a serious fuel oil shortage in the Eastern seaboard states. I would feel that I had failed in my responsibility if I did not explore every possible means to save our people from having to suffer from the lack of an adequate fuel oil supply during the coming winter months.

Can Use Concrete Pipe

"I recognize the vital need of steel in our direct war effort. However, I am advised by competent authority that concrete pipe of which there is an unlimited supply, can do an efficient job of conveying oil to the Eastern Seaboard and requires less than five percent of the steel used in a steel pipe line. I am further advised that while the pressure would have to be reduced, that pumps for this purpose at the lower pressure rate are far more available than those required to maintain the high pressure rate used in conveying oil through steel pipe.

"I believe that all of us who represent the seventeen states on the eastern seaboard have a particular obligation to our people to thoroughly investigate these vital problems, and recognizing the splendid leadership that you and the Honorable John W. McCormack have given to both political parties in the House, and in view of the further fact that both of you represent Districts on the eastern seaboard, I am respectfully suggesting that you jointly call a conference of all the representatives of the seventeen states on the eastern seaboard for the purpose of thoroughly investigating these problems to the end that we may be able to provide much needed relief for our people."

Hold Services This Afternoon For Mrs. Wilhelmina Alcroft

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 1:45 for Mrs. Wilhelmina Shaw Alcroft at the Irvine Funeral home, 276 Washington avenue. Mrs. Alcroft, the widow of Peter Alcroft, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Theodore Clark of Uddilla Forks, N. Y., on Monday after a four-month illness.

NUMBER 8 ★ How to cut down on waste by eliminating baste ★ A list of foods that are really low priced ★ An illustrated story worth reading

Haste in shopping makes waste in food and in time too

It has always been our family duty to waste as little food as possible—to-day it is our patriotic duty. And certainly the most effective way to do this is to plan menus and shopping lists together—a week at a time. For this gives you the opportunity to fit one day's leftovers into the next day's menu—to vary meals—to keep meals well-rounded nutritionally—to stick to the budget—and to plan definite times for shopping, thus cutting down on your shopping trips.

But streamlined shopping schedules take careful planning. And at all times the perishability of different meats and vegetables must be kept in mind.

For meats, you might select shoulder lamb chops, enough ham loaf for two nights, and Swiss steak. In the refrigerator, most meats will keep about a week; cured meats like ham and bacon will keep longer; ground meats, poultry, and fresh fish should be cooked the same day or day after buying.

For vegetables, you might choose corn, string beans, carrots, tomatoes, cucumbers, green onions, lettuce, and celery. That's not counting the potatoes and onions you'll have on hand already. As soon as you get home, wash the vegetables quickly, dry, and store them in a covered container in the refrigerator. Use green and leafy vegetables that day or the next. Carrots and corn will keep longer. Here are three menus the Safeway Homemakers' Bureau suggests you might have planned before buying

The Public Service Coordinated Transport company was again granted the contract to transport students from the Silver Lake and Soho sections to the high school by the board of education Monday night.

Last spring the service was suspended for more than a month because of the damage done to buses by some of the students. It was resumed on the promise by the pupils that they would conduct themselves properly.

ARTHUR W. CLARK, Secretary

Our Neighbor Has Some Thoughts

Our neighbor, while the perspiration was dripping off of his chin in big dewdrops Sunday afternoon, confided to us that he was working on a scheme to sandbag some of the 100-degree heat which has been pouring down upon us for the past week or so. He feels that it's a shame that a lot of good heat should go to waste on folks who try to forget that the thermometer has gone haywire by drowning themselves in anything from lemonade to down endeavoring to cool off a bit.

We're not worried much about our neighbor's inventive genius being likely to uncover something sensational for about this time every year he comes up with the same idea and then forgets all about it when the first sign of frost comes 'round about the end of September.

However, the neighbor is a little bit more concerned about the heat matter this year because he does not know what he's going to do when winter comes. He happens to be one of many who for some years now has gone into the house on a cold night and found the thermometer down around 45. With a flick of his finger he has flipped the oil burner gauge and let it do the rest. He hasn't had to shovel any coal, bank or build a fire or empty out the ashes on cold mornings. While some of us have been getting up at the crack of dawn on winter mornings to get steam up, he has lolled in bed until the last bell, knowing the oil burner would do its stuff.

But he's beginning to frown a bit. From all sides he is hearing warnings and getting stories that he won't be getting any fuel for the coming winter or, at least, there will be some days when the house will go heatless. He's reading stories suggesting that he convert over to a coal type furnace, but unfortunately his is one of the burners that won't permit that.

What the neighbor is unable to get through his head is that while the United States has more natural oil deposits than the rest of the world put together, we are really at the end of our rope when it comes to getting it to the consumer. For a nation that is supposed to be far-sighted and to have the best leaders in the world he thinks that we've really fallen down when it comes to transporting fuel to where it will be able to keep his house warm, let alone keep his car running.

The neighbor admits that it is a pretty tough job for tankers to get through today with the Nazis concentrating most of their long-range U-boats along the Eastern seaboard and with the rest of them plying the ocean to England and other allied ports. But, what he can't understand, is why the possibility of such a situation was not realized in the early days of the war or even before that.

He thinks that it is a sign of some serious kind of economic weakness that the country did not take precautions long ago to assure that there was sufficient tank car capacity and pipe lines to assure that all parts of the country would be well supplied with oil at all times. It especially bothers him when friends from Texas write about oil bubbling over the tops of the wells. He's a lot warmer around the collar about it than he is likely to be next winter when Old Man Weather really goes to work.

Street Lights Still Glow Brightly

Little has been heard from the army or civilian defense officials during the past few weeks about dimouts, but from general appearances most merchants and other business people using exterior and store window lights have cooperated well with the government's request. Naturally, there will always be a few who will attempt to evade the law in any possible way, believing that the added advantage of light they may obtain will bring an extra nickel's worth of business inside the door. Actually, it acts in a reverse way for most of the public understands by now what is expected of each businessman and they do not have a high opinion of one who fails to fall in line with the rest.

The dimout was ordered by the army because of the glow which showed off the metropolitan shoreline, making an ideal background for Nazi submarines to take potshots at passing allied vessels during the night. An effective dimming out of lights would help the situation, they argued.

Despite the effort that has been made to cut down greatly on all exterior lighting, it's our opinion that the biggest cause of the glow is still permitted to exist. Nothing has been done in this area about shading or partially dimming out street lights. They still continue to throw their glow up into the sky and in sections where they reflect against modern store fronts, such as on Washington avenue near the town hall, the confusion is even worse.

We think that the powerful street lights contributed largely to the glow which may have been easily seen at sea. While store windows and comparatively low illuminating strength exterior lights have been forced to black out, the street lamps have been permitted to glow as they did previously. We think the effort would be much more effective if the utilities were brought into line on this point.

War Workers Doubly Doing Part

There are only a few of the town's many manufacturing plants that are not engaged in some part of the war effort. The speed with which local manufacturers have moved into the all-out production line during the past six months is far beyond that believed by most citizens. Naturally, the extent or the nature of this manufacturing cannot be revealed, but it can be stated that products vital to many branches of this nation's and the allied countries' fight are being made right here in Belleville.

In every civic effort that has been featured here for a number of years, the manufacturers and their workers have played a leading part. They have contributed freely to making so many of the efforts, particularly those of a financial nature to aid welfare drives, a success.

Now, these workers are being spurred on to strive harder than ever to turn out materials for war. They are working long hours with few if any days off to rest from their work. But, this is not the end of the request which is being made upon them. They are being asked to contribute a certain share of their weekly earnings toward the purchase of war bonds. In keeping with the high standards they have established for cooperation in the past, they have again responded. Each week some Belleville plant is falling into or near the line of those throughout the nation who report more than 90 percent of their employees enrolled in the voluntary payroll deduction plan with weekly portions of their wages being put toward the purchase of war bonds.

They are doubly determined to "Keep 'em flying" and "Keep 'em rolling." So should the rest of us fall into the line of march. Many may have intended to start regular purchase of war stamps but have failed to do it. Now is the time to start. The country needs your help and it is offering to you the best and safest possible financial return for your investment.

Plenty Will Continue To Suffer

The inauguration of the coupon system is no cure-all for gasoline rationing. It may take some of the burden and abuse off of the gasoline station operator who has been a target of many motorists since cutting down on gas was first started, but many motorists will suffer.

Pleasure driving may be curbed such as it has not been under the plan which has just ended for in many instances just as great a number of pleasure-bound cars have been seen on the roads over weekends as was the case last year when there was no rationing. We have no argument with this decrease, but the present rationing plans are already working an undeserved hardship on hundreds of workers who must use their cars in their daily work. They do not come under one of the 13 favored classifications for "C" books, and the maximum of gasoline for 470 miles per month which they will receive is not sufficient to meet their requirements. However, their automobile is indispensable to them in earning a livelihood and it may in turn be needed if the business with which they are associated is to continue operation.

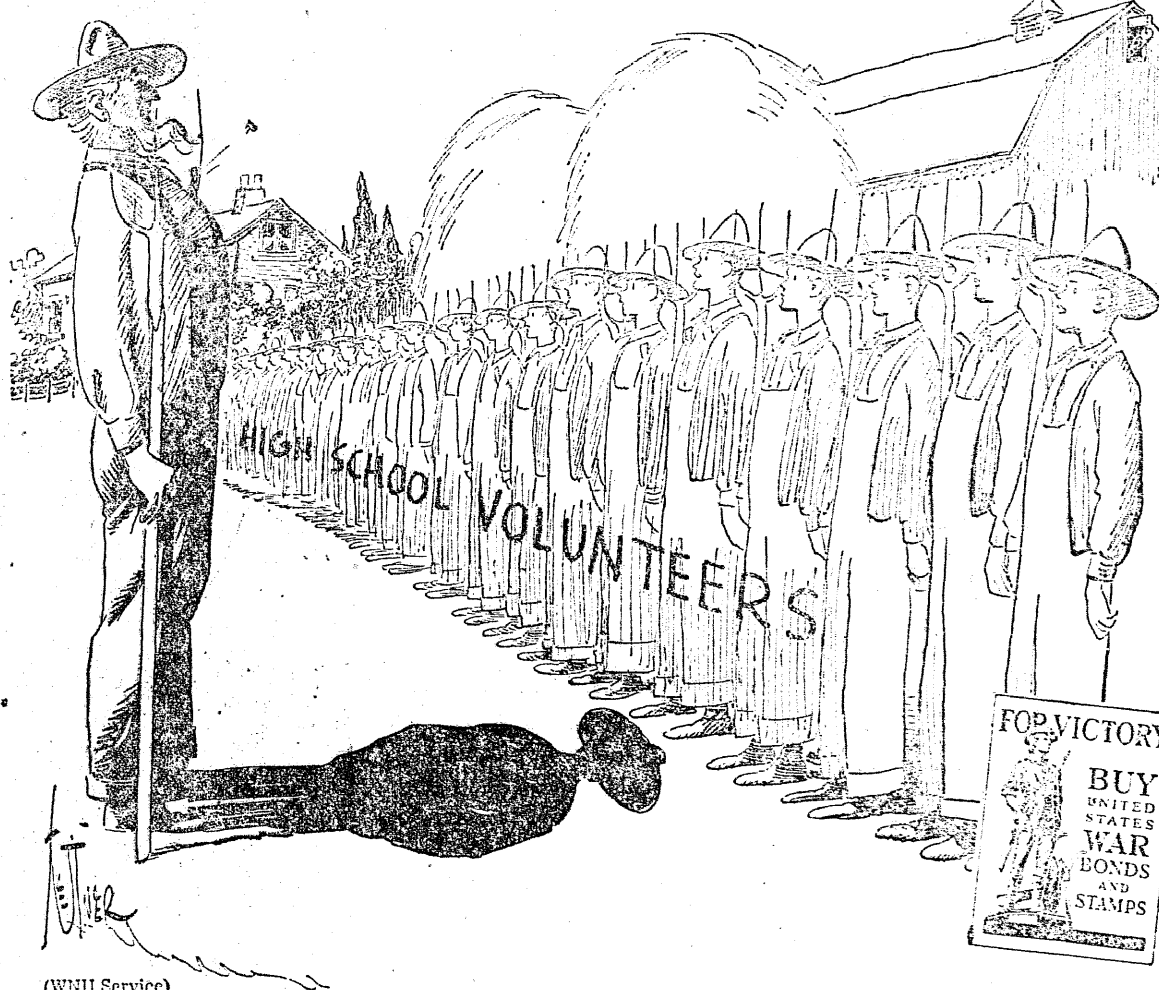

It is these people who will suffer most.

It would not be so bad if all of us were firmly convinced that it is absolutely impossible to relieve the gasoline shortage condition in the Eastern states. But, we have read so many conflicting stories and claims that we are now suspicious of every statement that comes out of Washington.

Hand in hand with the gasoline stories are those dealing with rubber. For every claim that there isn't sufficient rubber in the country to make a rubber ball, there is another expert telling the world that there is sufficient rubber, synthetic and natural, to supply all of the country's war needs and also the civilian motorists.

As one official of the gasoline dealers' association has stated, the Eastern states have been made the "goats." Perhaps, it is time that congress, as has been suggested by Representative Hartley, did some probing into the various reports that have been echced about the country concerning gasoline and rubber. The public has the right to know the true story—and only one story. At a time like this, discontent and grumbling should not be prompted through confusion.

(WNU Service)

If War Should Come To You--?

(This is the second in a series of articles intended to better acquaint the public with the civilian defense council, its purpose and activities and its personnel. Subsequent articles will deal with every branch of the organization.—Ed. Note.)

Seven months after Pearl Harbor the defense council finds that it is once again faced with the task of awakening an apathetic public to the realities of war on the home front. The modernized style of warfare under the Hitler regime has reversed the order of past wars, yet the public is not aware of it or at least refuses to become fearful of the possible consequences.

Under the new method the populace is dealt with first and the armed forces afterward. The war of fear, anguish, civilian killings and acts of sabotage with which Hitler had calculated to terrorize the world into submission to his will has met with stubborn resistance from the democracies and their people.

Nevertheless, while the effectiveness of this type of fighting may not take its toll, we may be subjected to it and it is against this possibility that this nation knows it must guard. In a pattern very similar to that which he has modeled for other of his enemies, Hitler has sought to open his onslaught against the United States through boring from within, through surprise attack. Repeatedly in recent weeks the FBI has uncovered plans and arrested those possessing plans and weapons to destroy industries and utilities, to kill many on the working front and to destroy morale and arouse fear at home.

He Will Be More Pleased

The officials of civilian defense, working in cooperation with the military branches of the government, know how Hitler will strike, and the more apathetic the public is to the likelihood of such an attack, the more pleased is the German war lord and his hirelings.

Two things stand out as demonstrative of the still unconcerned attitude of the great mass of people, not only in Belleville, but all over:

Their failure to observe regulations established by the government during practice air raids, regarding them as "fun" and "a lark."

Poor response to the appeals of civilian defense leaders for more volunteers to join some one of the emergency services which are badly in need of more help if they are to be prepared to meet the need should trouble come.

The latter problem is the most serious confronting most units for the recent daylight test proved that the town is still far from prepared to face any trouble during the daytime. Although women have volunteered their services for many branches of work, they have not enrolled in the ranks where they are most needed at present. This is not entirely their fault. Early in the formation of the civilian defense organization, some of the men leaders were opposed to the recognition of women as being capable of a job such as that of air raid wardens. Yet, it is now seen that they are necessary, and England has shown that they can do the work under the most terrifying conditions.

Making It A Unified Group

Combined with his job of securing more volunteers, Defense Coordinator Harry J. Sullivan has an even greater task of moulding the various individual units into a strong, cohesive organization that will work together and not overlap in duties or authority.

No volunteer movement could be started without some petty jealousies being bound to creep in. The defense movement has been no different. But, jealousies must be forgotten in the important job of making the organization a smooth working one. Few are the people who do not like uniforms, and the fact that certain branches of the defense organization have obtained them one way or another has led to criticism and complaint from those who have received little more than an arm band.

Ironing out these problems are some of the most pressing confronting Sullivan now. His biggest task is to whip the organization into a state of readiness to go through a series of "incident" tests to test each unit's efficiency and practical demonstration of the training which they have received.

The state defense council is pressing for a date when one of these "incident" tests can be held so that their inspectors may come here to observe how well the local organization is functioning. The OCD believes that by this time most towns should have workers trained to the point where they would know what to do if something did happen. Ferreting out the places where there is more work to be done is the job of the state council, and it is through "incident" tests that they believe it will be possible to turn up the weak spots.

More active leaders who can devote considerable time to civilian defense work are needed, for while Sullivan is the paid coordinator it would be impossible for him to perform all of the duties which confront him. He must have assistance. While many of those now serving in top places are willing workers even they themselves admit that their private jobs frequently interfere with their work. They need help — and in town there are many men who have yet to lend a hand who are capable of filling this need.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville Times.

by Meador Wright

The Clean Government organization is moving straight toward full support of Gill Robb Wilson for senator. It is doing this despite strong pressure from the many friends of Albert W. Hawkes of Montclair for a hands-off policy in Hawkes' home county of Essex. The climax of pressure for Hawkes came Tuesday afternoon when Dr. Lester H. Clee gave him his unqualified support in an eloquent statement outlining Hawkes' many achievements. Said Clee: "This fall the people of New Jersey will elect a United States senator and it is my personal opinion that Albert W. Hawkes, candidate for that office, possesses those qualities that are so vitally needed today. . . . I believe in Mr. Hawkes because of what he stands for. He recognizes that each group in our society must have its fair share of the fruits of cooperative effort. He believes that the future of representative democracy and the welfare of the American people depend in a very large degree upon the interest that each individual gives in the affairs of government and in those who are chosen for public office. In every respect Mr. Hawkes is a true American and is preeminently qualified to serve New Jersey in the senate."

Clean Government leaders—including Arthur T. Vanderbilt—reportedly tried to dissuade Clee from making his endorsement, but to no avail. Once it was in print, speculation began both as to the present and ultimate outcome of Clee's divergence from the Clean Government position. Some appeared to see in it the beginning of a complete break between Clee and Vanderbilt. Those with this viewpoint predicted an Essex primary fight next year between forces led by Clee and Vanderbilt respectively.

My own feeling is that this viewpoint exaggerates the importance of Clee's statement. A break between Clee and Vanderbilt some day is hardly improbable, and it might come next year if the Short Hills lawyer should try to block Clee's still burning ambition to be elected governor. But then such a break would follow the logic of events rather than stem from the fact that Clee is supporting one man this year for senator while Vanderbilt backs another. Two factors of potential importance do stand out today, however: (1) A strong personal enmity is developing between Hawkes and Vanderbilt; (2) Clee has endeared himself to Hawkes to the same degree that Vanderbilt has earned his opposition. Generally, enmity in politics is rather transient, but Hawkes is probably the type that will forget very slowly. A permanent alliance between him and Clee—whether he is nominated and elected to the senate or not—might be of considerable importance. But of this the future must tell.

There are no new developments in the congressional situation either in the 10th or 11th districts. Fred A. Hartley's opponent is still not revealed and no man apparently has been decided upon to succeed Albert L. Vreeland. The latter, incidentally, has definitely decided not to seek reelection this year. He will re-enter the race as a major when his present term is up.

New discussion has arisen in regard to Freeholder Elizabeth A. Harris of Glen Ridge as a candidate for reelection. A number of suburban leaders have advocated that she not be on the freeholder slate this year. Mrs. Harris' strongest backer has been County Supervisor Ernest A. Reed. So far Vanderbilt has remained neutral, although he has told the "Citizens' Committee" that he will accept their eventual verdict.

Fair Enough!

IT'S LIKE PUTTING MONEY IN THE BANK!

5 REASONS WHY

- ① By investing in War Bonds you help provide the planes, the tanks, the guns and the ships we must have to survive and conquer.
- ② You prove that you are a patriotic American.
- ③ You aid the morale of our fighting men, by showing them that the entire Nation is behind them.
- ④ You prove to our enemies that we are a United People.
- ⑤ You protect your own financial future, as every $18.75 you invest in a War Bond brings you back $25 in 10 years. You make the world's safest investment, by buying a share in the world's most powerful country.

"Listen, mister... I'm making pretty good wages these days, and so are about fifty million others. And we all think pretty much the same about the way we can help America win the war.

"Save 10% in War Bonds every payday? That's no sacrifice—it's a cinch! Like putting money in the bank.

"Take my wife, for instance. She says it's money we just wouldn't save, otherwise—dough that we just chuck away—with nothing to show for it later.

"But this is the real payoff—

"The money we save in War Bonds is going to produce the planes, the tanks, the ships and the guns to make the Japs wish they'd never even seen Pearl Harbor! It's going to produce the bombs and the bullets to make their honorable 'harakiri' seem like a picnic.

"Do you think we people on the home front want to be left out? Don't you know that the workers, the stenos, the farmers, dentists—every last man and woman of us wants to come through with his share?

"So when they came around in our plant and actually offered to help us save for the War Bonds, you can bet we all said 'yes!'

"Every week they save 10% out of our pay—a dime in every dollar—and when it adds up to $18.75, we get a War Bond—worth $25 in ten years. Yes, sir! A War Bond in our own name, or the Missus, or both!

"Honest, now, do you think we're patting ourselves on the back? Do you think we're asking for praise just because we do our part to hamstring Hirohito and Hitler—and lay away a pile of dough in the bargain?

"How about you? Are you in on this plan? If not, better get in. Better save your 10% every payday. Better do your share to wallop the tar out of the Japs and Huns.

"Say 'sure!' when they come to you...

"It's like money in the bank!"
