

LANDLORDS SLOW IN FILING RENT FORMS WITH OPA

Only 1,000 Out of 3,500
Returned; Need More
Volunteers

Landlords here are far behind in returning their rent registration forms with the official deadline set for tomorrow afternoon at 4 p. m. It was announced last night by OPA rent division representatives that only 1,000 property owners who rent have brought in their forms.

Based on OPA statistics, there are only 3,500 landlords. However, only 3,000 of this number have obtained the forms which all landlords are required by law to fill out and return to the OPA.

They were reminded by the OPA that no tenant is required to pay his rent unless the landlord is able to produce a stamped certificate showing that he has registered the dwelling or apartment unit with the OPA.

The temporary OPA rent office is located in School No. 8, which is in Union Avenue between Holmes street and Belleville Avenue. The office hours are from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. daily. The office will not be open on Saturday. While there has been no official announcement, it is understood that an extension of the final filing date of rent forms is likely to be announced during the next 24 hours. Landlords may be permitted to make their returns during the first three days of next week.

Need More Help

Paul de Hagara, chairman of the local fair rents committee, who also has charge of the volunteers who have offered to assist in the registration, and John McCaw, representing the OPA office, made an appeal for more local citizens to give their assistance today and although there have been some who have given their help, the amount of work that must be done has been far in excess of the number of people who have been available to handle it. With the work of the office expected to be heavy during the next 48 hours, any person who is available to offer their services for the two days or for a part of it.

Those who are willing to work should report to School No. 8 and ask for McCaw. Any person who is able to speak a foreign language, especially Italian, because of the inability of a number of foreign-born property owners to express themselves in English.

NEW STREET MAN AMONG MISSING

Edward McGinty, 29, Placed On Casualty List; Young
Kant Turns Up

NEW STREET.....
Sadness was turned to joy in one Belleville home this week, while another was saddened.

Forty-eight hours after the navy department had informed them that their son, John J. Kant, Jr., 20-year-old seaman, second class, was missing, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kant, Sr. of 40 DeWitt Avenue received a telephone call from him at Norfolk, Va. that he was safe.

That was on Thursday night and the next day he was home on a furlough. Young Kant was on a merchant vessel which was torpedoed. After 17 days at sea in a lifeboat, he was among the survivors picked up and brought safely to port.

Yesterday the navy department listed another Belleville resident, Edgar H. McGinty of 50 New Street as missing in its latest casualty list. McGinty, who is 29, is the son of Mrs. Nellie M. Laskey of 50 New Street. McGinty was listed as a water tender second class.

The navy informed his mother that he was transferred from one ship to another one on February 28 and that the next day his new ship was sunk. She has not heard from him since that time.

Mrs. Laskey obtained her information from Washington after two of the letters which she had sent to her son were returned marked "whereabouts unknown." McGinty had been in the navy for 10 years.

Wearing A New Dress, Loitering Law Rises To Plague Town Hall Once More

Measure Forgotten Two Years
After Dr. Close, Scout Leader, Protested

Buried unthought of and unnoticed in the dark vaults of the town hall for nearly two years has been a "dead" ordinance, kicked under the table and killed by the commissioners in November, 1940.

Its ghost, dressed in a new title, but with the same old figure and intentions, was brought back to haunt the same commissioners next Tuesday night, that is—unless he's kicked under the table once more. The last time when his old man was there Mayor Williams said he was willing to "lay the matter on the table for two weeks or under the table for four years." Maybe the ghostly one should have "stood in the vault" or in Counsel Keenan's satchel.

In case you're wondering what this ghost is—and in two paragraphs you've had enough hints, it's the loitering ordinance—the one that Public Safety Director Clark wants pushed through so that the police will have some weapon to shoo the boys off the street corners.

It seems that under present circumstances, loitering practices are an annoyance to some folks and embarrassing to the cops.

RELEASE SOUGHT ON FIRE TRUCK

Town Fearful That Aerial May Be Seized By Government
Before Delivery

The town is endeavoring to bring about quick action on the delivery of its $15,000 aerial ladder truck for the fire department. More than a year ago, an order was placed for the purchase of the aerial and a 500-gallon pump from the Seagraves company, manufacturers of fire-fighting equipment.

In May, the pump, which is now stationed at the headquarters at Division and Washington avenues, was delivered, but there has been a great deal of delay on the aerial delivery.

During visits to Washington, Mayor Williams has made inquiries at the OPA concerning the probable date of delivery. It is known that the aerial truck has been completed but the town fears that it may be seized by the army or navy or the OGD for some other use before its delivery to Belleville. It is understood that the OPA informed Mayor Williams that most fire equipment, regardless of the section for which it may have been originally ordered, is being diverted to West coast cities, Gulf states or England and for army and navy use.

Williams and Fire Chief Alce Reid went to New York yesterday afternoon to confer with one of the high officials in the eastern division of OPA hoping to persuade them to release the equipment to Belleville as early as possible. The fact that Belleville has a number of large war-producing plants is expected to be a factor in securing quick delivery.

An ordinance adopted on July 22, 1941, the board of commissioners provided funds for the purchase of the two pieces of apparatus and Public Safety Director Clark placed the orders immediately with the Seagraves company. It was expected that delivery would be made within six or seven months but priority regulations and the war interfered.

WORKERS STRIKE AT TWO PLANTS

Kidde Walkout Goes To WLB; Jergens Dispute Also Headed There

Strikes were called in two local plants with employees at one quickly returning to work, while pickets were still parading before the other yesterday afternoon.

Shipments out of the Walter Kidde plants here and in Bloomfield were temporarily halted on Monday when truck drivers, checkers and platform workers walked out in protest against what they claimed was the dismissal of several of their fellow workers because they had joined Local 478, Teamsters & Chauffeurs, A. F. of L. Denying the charge a company spokesman declared that the concern had a collective bargaining agreement with United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers, CIO.

The workers returned pending the settlement of the dispute by the New Jersey Labor board, which will hear cases against two discharged employees, and the wage labor board.

It appeared likely yesterday that a second labor dispute at the Andrew Jergens company would also go to the WLB for mediation. Seeking recognition of Local 20389, Artificial Leather & Rubber Workers, A. F. of L., a union spokesman estimated 100 employees struck there Tuesday.

William Bald, president of the union, said the Jergens employees would return to work as soon as the WLB takes control of the situation. Bald claimed that 79 out of 100 employees favor the A. F. of L. as their bargaining agent.

There was one application for conscription care and another for camp placement. The remaining nine applications had to do with adult and family problems. Four families consulted about employment and financial problems, two asked help in planning for aged relatives and one had a housing problem.

"You have heard me say publicly what I have often said privately, 'Belleville is unusually fortunate in its board of commissioners.' Perhaps no other citizen has pelted you with fewer stones and more flowers. You know that I am your friend. The fact that you do so many things well increases my surprise at your proposing to enact such an ordinance as the one purporting to prevent 'assemblies' upon publicly owned property.

"My opposition to the measure is, in part, as follows:

"1. No self respecting community in the United States would obey it.

"2. If honestly and successfully enforced, it would increase the very evils, which you claim in the title, you would prevent.

"3. It violates every known law of applied psychology.

"4. No sociologist of repute could be found who would give the measure his approval.

"5. In my judgment the

RECORD DRIVE ENDS SUNDAY

Post Behind In Effort To Collect 5,000 Old,
Broken Discs

Still trying to make their quota of 5,000 old or broken records, the American Legion post executives announced yesterday that the drive would close on Sunday night. While still well below the number which is sought, it was reported that collection of old discs at the headquarters, 356 Washington Avenue, had been much better this week.

The post is cooperating in the nation-wide appeal being made by the Legion in cooperation with outstanding entertainers and musicians to collect old records which will be melted down and made into new recordings to be shipped to the armed forces serving in all parts of the world.

More than 37,000,000 records are sought in the campaign. It is planned to make a wide range of records, ranging from popular numbers to symphonic and operatic selections.

If any person who is willing to donate old or broken records is unable to get to the headquarters in Washington Avenue, a call to Commander-elect Alonzo A. Hartley will bring a Legion member to the doorstep to pick them up.

Convention Delegates

Commander Edward Cantwell has named William I. Labaugh, Henry Denison and Arthur A. MacCreedy as delegates and William Miller, Edward Ackerman and himself as alternates to the state convention to be held in Jersey Park on September 12 and 13. One of the important matters to be put before the convention will be a proposal to change the organization's constitution so that veterans of the present world war may join the organization. At Monday night's meeting Charles Guldner was accepted as a member. Plans are being made for his post to present its gift to the town, a new inhalator, at one of the commission meetings in the near future.

One Soldier Whose Former Work Came In Handy

Spence Field Officers Put Sergeant Benno Seidler, Former Bowling Alley Builder, To Work Erecting
One For Post; In Service Since April

Uncle Sam's job of converting men from Mr. Average Fellow into useful soldiers in his army isn't always the easiest job. Finding the right niche for a man to fit into, which may in some way parallel what he did in civilian life, is a task that goes on thousands of times daily at replacement centers throughout the nation.

Many times, despite best efforts of army officials to fit him into something that is similar to what he has done and where he will be more useful, a man ends up far afield from his former occupation.

But, Sgt. Benno E. Seidler of 47 Center street is one soldier that army officials did not have any trouble classifying when he arrived at Spence field, Moultrie, Ga., after his induction into the service in April.

Had 10 Years' Experience

At the time he was assigned there, plans were under way for the construction of a new four-lane bowling alley and Sgt. Seidler was immediately put to work on it. The field's officers had good reason for their decision, the 34-year-old soldier, who is single, was employed for the past 10 years as an installer of bowling alleys. During that time he was employed by two of the nation's best known alley manufacturers, the American Bowling and Billiard corporation of New York and the Brunswick Balke Callender company, also of New York.

RATIONING OFFICE NOW OPEN TWO NIGHTS WEEKLY

Tuesday And Friday Night Hours Established; Will Benefit Workers

The war price and rationing board office at 476 Washington Avenue will be open two evenings each week for the convenience of those unable to get there during its daytime hours. Chiefly to accommodate those workers who are seeking supplementary gasoline, the members of this panel announced this week that the office would be open on Tuesday and Friday nights from 7:30 to 9 p. m.

During the day, the office is open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. With the issuance of supplementary applications greatly speeded up, the staff has been kept busy every day issuing books to those who have received notification in the mail from the board that their request for additional gasoline has been granted.

Virtually all of the 8,000 supplementary gasoline applications which have been acted upon, it was reported yesterday, Notices to pick up their coupon books have been sent to motorists in the two towns.

Working full-time with the volunteer and regular staff this week was George McLaren, member of the gasoline panel, who broke up his vacation at his summer residence in Connecticut and returned when he learned that the board was swamped with gasoline applications.

To those who have grumbled about the board's decisions, in some cases, the gas panel members again emphasized this week that it is guided not by its own personal thoughts in the matter but by regulations which have been established by OPA headquarters in Washington and Trenton.

While not heard as frequently as elsewhere, there are reports floating about Belleville to the effect that there is some gasoline chiseling being practiced. Those holding S books granted for trucks, in instances where they seem to have an abundance of coupons, are giving a few extra coupons, worth five gallons each, to friends or are selling them. While none could be found, the stories also circulated that persons were seen who boasted that they had been able to purchase one of the counterfeit books which are said to be an almost perfect duplicate of the coupon books issued by the government.

DRAFT LARGEST GROUP AUG. 11

Some Married Men Included
Since New Ruling Doesn't Affect This Call

Growing larger each month in numbers, the Belleville draft board will call up for military service the greatest number of men ever in the town down to a single call next week. Last month's quota was the largest since the start of conscription, but the list released this week surpassed it.

The men are scheduled to report for physical examination at the Newark armory on Tuesday. Those who wish, if they are accepted for service, may take an immediate two-week furlough to settle their personal affairs.

Although new regulations have been established by selective service for classifying men, they do not affect this draft call. Some married men are included in the quota although the latest ruling states no married men, unless they were wed when induction was imminent, shall be called until all single men, including those engaged in defense work are drafted for service.

es bubbling up within the Essex organization, it may eventually turn out that the group believes that it may be best to leave Hartly alone for this time at least. However, even Hartley backers believe that Williams will be the Clean Government choice and are preparing for a big primary campaign.

If Hartley is to have opposition, it can be expected to turn up within the next week or 10 days, for regardless of who the candidate is and despite the fact that Hartley has been noted for and sharply criticized for his stand on numerous international questions, he is a good campaigner and in the 14 years that he has built up a strong organization, has built up a strong organization. The man who opposes him will need an early start. In the last two general elections, he has topped the Republican ticket in this area. In 1936, when all other Republicans hereabouts were snowed under in a Democratic landslide, including Clean Government's assembly slate in Essex, Hartley managed to weather the storm.

The territory included in the 10th congressional district takes in Harrison, East Newark and Kearny in Hudson county and Belleville, Nutley, Bloomfield, Glen Ridge and a number of wards in Newark in Essex county.

What are you doing about the threatened fuel shortage?

On Sunday, President Roosevelt urged those who have convertible oil units, to put in coal grates, and to get in their coal also, before the fall rush.

The Petroleum Coordinator, Harold Ickes, states that those who have not made the change to coal, if the unit is convertible, may find themselves debarred from getting fuel oil when winter comes.

If you need money either to finance your fuel unit conversion, or to fill your bin with coal, call on us. Don't delay until cold weather suggests action to everyone at once.

Gross Mismanagement In Handling Synthetic Rubber, Hartley Charge

Claims Standard Oil Is Freezing Others Out Of The Program

In the address which Congressman Fred A. Hartley made Tuesday night over a nation-wide hookup on "Is the Rubber Shortage Synthetic?" he spoke as follows:

What I have to say tonight may help you to continue to drive your car, and to maintain necessary household delivery service, and with your assistance may help prevent a possible breakdown in the nation's war effort.

This talk concerns one of the nation's most vital problems, that of synthetic rubber.

Like most other citizens I waited patiently for those in charge of the synthetic rubber program to develop an adequate supply of this vital product.

The months of delay in getting the program under way and the many conflicting statements of high government officials on this subject aroused my suspicion that there was grave delinquency that warranted investigation.

I therefore called upon the majority and minority leaders of the house to appoint a fact-finding committee to get a true picture of the situation and to propose a solution. A committee of 10 members of the house, five Democrats and five Republicans were appointed, with Representative Wm. J. Fitzgerald, of Connecticut, as chairman, and myself as vice-chairman.

I am not speaking for the committee this evening; rather, I am reporting my own personal observations, based on facts brought to light since our investigation began.

I want to make this perfectly clear: I am not interested in promoting any particular method of developing synthetic rubber.

Nation Geared To Auto It makes no difference to me whether it is obtained as a by-product of alcohol or petroleum or any of the several methods that have been proposed. My one purpose is to make certain that we get as great a supply of rubber as we need, and as quickly as possible. Our entire national economy is geared to the automobile beyond that of any other nation. America works on wheels. This problem is not only one of transportation, for there is no other method by which the business, the economic and social structure of America could be more quickly overturned than by taking away from this nation the tires essential to the operation of its automobiles.

Our chemical engineers and scientists have created several formulas for the manufacture of synthetic rubber. The only problem here was to select the best method or methods, having in mind quality, cost, speed, and use of strategic materials.

It is my considered opinion that the bottleneck in this program is the result of gross incompetence on the part of those directly charged with the management of the program. I also charge that selfish, powerful, private interests are retarding this vital project.

Nominally, Mr. Donald Nelson, chairman of the war production board, is responsible for this program. But Mr. Nelson has delegated his authority to Mr. Jesse Jones as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and he in turn, delegated it to the Rubber Reserve Company, a subsidiary of the R.F.C. It is my duty to expose anything and anybody who for any reason whatever is impeding our efforts to get an adequate supply of rubber. Mr. Crossland is the person actually handling this program; he is the individual who determines policy, selects processes, fixes prices and determines commissions. Who is he? Mr. Crossland and what is his background? Certainly we have a right to assume that one charged with such responsibility as he has should have years of technical and scientific training and association in the industries involved, and at least some executive experience. According to Mr. Crossland's testimony before our committee and from reliable information which I have since received, Mr. Crossland is 35 years of age. After two years in high school, he went to work as a bank runner in Chicago. From November, 1927, until February, 1932, a period of less than five years, Mr. Crossland was employed by the Chicago Clearing House association.

In 1932 Mr. Crossland got a job in the Chicago agency of the R.F.C., being transferred to Washington in 1940. Shortly after the Rubber Reserve company was created, Mr. Crossland was made assistant to the president of that agency. He told us that he became executive vice-president four or five months ago, and as far as I could learn, this is the first important executive position he has ever held.

Just imagine, ladies and gentlemen, this is the individual who is in charge of the highly technical, highly scientific, six hundred and fifty million dollar synthetic rubber program of the United States at war.

When Mr. Crossland told our committee that the war production board had set up $77,000 tons as the amount of synthetic rubber the Rubber Reserve company should undertake to develop, I asked him, "Will that meet the essential requirements of the war effort, and the essential civilian driving as well?" Mr. Crossland replied, "I don't know that." That took place on July 29, and I think you will agree that it is high time Mr. Crossland, who is directly in charge of the complete program, should have some idea of the civilian and military requirements of the country.

Our hearings also developed the fact that it took Mr. Crossland three and a half months to learn that there would be a sufficient surplus of alcohol on hand to process synthetic rubber through that process, information he could have obtained at any time by a call at the alcohol division of the war production board. I must also charge the alcohol division with having been in a coma too, for they also failed to take the initiative by advising Mr. Crossland.

Congressman Butler, of New York, testified that he made six trips in vain to the office of Mr. Crossland and his aids in behalf of a chemical engineer from his district who had developed a synthetic rubber process from hardwood, a process, incidentally, which has been used successfully in Europe for 20 years. When asked about this process, Mr. Crossland blandly said he did not even remember talking to Mr. Butler, nor did he remember the process proposed.

Competitors Judged It Much has been written and said concerning the Houdry rubber process. Mr. Eugene J. Houdry is one of the world's greatest chemical engineers, among his inventions is that of the catalytic cracking process by which we obtain one hundred octane aviation gas, there now being produced one billion gallons of such gas in the United States. Mr. Houdry has also developed a synthetic rubber process. He has stated that his process is quicker, less costly and will require far less strategic materials. When I asked Mr. Crossland his opinion of the Houdry process, he replied that he did not think it had been sufficiently developed. I asked him if he had investigated the Houdry process himself. He replied that he had not, but that a technical man from the Reserve company, a Mr. Savage, had spent three hours at the Houdry plant. Incidentally, I believe it is interesting at this point to note that Mr. Crossland's technical advisers are supplied him by the various oil companies competing with those companies backing the Houdry process. Furthermore, I think it is significant that none of the technical staff of the oil companies backing the Houdry process, are members of this committee. The fact is that the only appraisal of the Houdry process upon which Mr. Crossland has relied for his information, has been made by competitors of the Houdry process. Contrary to Mr. Crossland's opinion that this process is not fully developed, our committee only this morning was advised that the Houdry process has been approved and found operative by the engineers of four large oil companies who filed proposals with the Rubber Reserve company for each to build a fifty thousand butadiene plant using the Houdry process.

There are many other instances that can be cited to further prove gross incompetence and mismanagement, but time will not permit me to further develop this point.

Hits Standard Oil You may wonder at the coolness of the reception that Mr. Houdry, Congressman Butler, and others, have received at the hand of the Rubber Reserve company, but it is not difficult to understand when you learn that lurking in the background of this entire picture is the powerful shadow of what is known as the Standard Oil company of New Jersey family. Apparently so powerful has been their influence that as far as the Rubber Reserve company is concerned, the synthetic rubber program has been frozen to the exclusion of all other processes.

I specifically charge that the synthetic rubber program under the direction of the Rubber Reserve company, has been seriously delayed for the following reasons: 1. Incompetence and mismanagement in the government agencies concerned. 2. Failure of the various agencies to work in cooperation and harmony with each other. 3. The struggle by the various selfish interests to control the synthetic rubber industry not alone for the duration, but after the present world war. 4. Favoritism toward a select group of companies to the exclusion of all others.

You may rightfully ask what my solution is to this program. I propose that we obtain an unbiased appraisal of all the various processes for the manufacture of synthetic rubber by thoroughly competent scientists who have no axe to grind and no interests to serve other than the broad national interests.

I suggest asking the president of the National Academy of Scientists, Dr. Frank Jewett, to conduct a scientific and technical study, which I am certain can be done in a reasonable length of time, and dispel all the contradictions, confusion, and chaos, by advising those in charge of the synthetic rubber program which is the best process from the standpoint of speed, quality, cost, and use of strategic materials.

The time so spent will save months later on and may well be the means of preventing the entire rubber program from collapsing under its present mismanagement.

Ladies and gentlemen, I am thoroughly convinced that if this advice is followed, that we will be able to manufacture all the synthetic rubber required for military purposes and all essential civilian driving.

If you agree with me, I urge you to write to your congressman and your Senators immediately, calling on them to demand this action by the government.

Can Somebody Here Build One For ARP?

In the lower picture, Manchec is shown explaining one of the miniature sets to two of Nutley's women deputy, chief air raid wardens, Mrs. Oswald Dale Jr. (center) and Mrs. Charles McCarthy. English-born Mrs. Dale is one of the few in this country who have had any raid experience. Before coming to Nutley she was in the English ARP and worked during some of England's heaviest bombings.

Would Use Nutley Plan To Train ARP'S Here

Miniature Replicas Of Blasted City For Individual Training Of Wardens Built By Store Executive Recommended By OCD Throughout Country

Envy of local defense officials—and of many other municipalities—is the idea conceived by a Nutley air raid warden leader to train ARP people in what to do during a raid. So highly is the plan thought of that the office of civilian defense in Washington is planning to spread the story of it throughout the country with the recommendation that other councils adopt it.

It is a series of realistic miniature towns with each depicting a different type of raid attack or state of emergency, and is the brainchild of Arthur Manchec, Nutley's deputy chief air raid warden and executive vice-president of L. Bamberger & company, and John W. Seine of Red Bank, a Bamberger display artist. Biggest unanswered question since Pearl Harbor has been the ability of air raid wardens to observe and report efficiently the effects of enemy attacks on their posts. While England needed no practice systems for its wardens because bombs were dropping on doorsteps even before the ARP became organized, the problem in warden in an actual raid could not quickly survey the situation and without delay report it. Instantly and accurately to control headquarters so that aid could be dispatched to the damaged area. On the word of the warden, rescue, repair, fire, first aid and police crews are dispatched. An error in judgment may mean death or serious injury to persons in a bomb-shattered house or building. However, in the vast amount of regulations and training programs which have been set up since war broke out, defense experts have not uncovered any plan whereby the individual thinking and ability of wardens could be accurately tested so that mistakes could be corrected.

Many believe that Manchec has hit upon an idea which will greatly overcome this condition and also give the opportunity for individual instead of mass training.

Are Quite Realistic

The Nutley man has built five miniature stage sets, each showing the possible results of an air raid. Realistic in every detail, tufts of cardboard smoke rise from gutted roofs of miniature cardboard houses and public buildings, while a toy policeman halts traffic at a cardboard street intersection where a truck has collided with an automobile.

JUNK needed for War

"What's it good for?"
"Guns, tanks, and maybe part of a plane"

In the attics and cellars of homes, in garages, tool sheds, and on farms, is a lot of Junk which is doing no good where it is, but which is needed at once to help smash the Japs and Nazis.

Scrap iron and steel, for example. Old radiators, lengths of pipe, refrigerators, garbage pails, broken garden tools...

It may be rusty, old "scrap" to you, but it is actually refined steel, with most impurities removed--and can be quickly melted with new metal in the form of pig iron to produce highest quality steel for our war machines.

Even in peacetime our Nation relied on scrap to provide about 50% of the raw material for steel. Now production of steel has gone up, up, UP, until today America is turning out as much steel as all the rest of the world combined.

But unless at least 6,000,000 additional tons of scrap steel is uncovered promptly, the full rate of production cannot be attained or increased; the necessary tanks, guns, and ships cannot be produced.

The rubber situation is also critical. In spite of the recent rubber drive, there is a continuing need for large quantities of scrap rubber. Also for other waste materials and metals like brass, copper, zinc, lead, and tin.

America needs your active assistance in rounding up these materials. The Junk which you collect is bought by industry from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.

Will you help?

First--collect all your waste material and pile it up.

Then--sell it to a Junk dealer, give it to a charity, take it yourself to the nearest collection point, or get in touch with your Local Salvage Committee.

If you live on a farm, consult your County War Board or your farm implement dealer.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

By such an ordinance, an old American privilege and enjoyment would be barred to the Belleville public. The sessions around the cracker barrel, in front of the neighborhood store or on the park bench are tradition in every community, and in town there are such places which have been handed down from one generation to another as gathering spots to talk over the doings of the day, settle the world's problems and give everybody a general going over.

Justifiably, we believe that many landlords have a legitimate protest to make over the OPA's rent registry and the regulations which it imposes upon them. First, some government officials in statements which they have made have indicted every landlord as a Shylocking fleecer attempting to squeeze the last dollar and a few extra ones out of every tenant. This is an unfair criticism, for many are the landlords who through the depression years, at the risk of their own investment, endeavored to give the tenant every opportunity to keep a roof over his head by keeping the rent at a low figure or by being willing to wait months for his money.

Generally speaking, we are in an area of small homes where the majority of the landlords own one and probably not more than two houses. There are instances in which landlords have taken advantage of the scarcity of houses in the past year to raise rents and gain a greater profit for themselves. But, why should every property owner be indicted for the practices of a minority group? Are all husbands arrested because one man or several of them beat their wives? No. There are agencies which investigate such complaints. There are laws governing them and there are courts in which the defendants have redress and the guilty ones may be punished. We all do not suffer for the sins of one or a few—but that is what the OPA rent regulation has invoked upon every landlord in this region.

Steadily, in many quarters, the belief is rising that a fusion movement is well-rooted in New Jersey, and that in the coming months it will flourish forth into a potent power in state elections.

For some years, certain forces in the Republican party have persistently endeavored to pierce the political armor of Mayor Frank Hague, the demagogue that is the difference between victory and defeat for the Democrats in every important election. Charges of poll book frauds, "bought" votes, political sculduggery of the worst kind and a constant association with all that is contrary to good government have left the public comparatively cold and have rolled off of Mayor Hague and his political confederates as would water off of a duck's back. Despite their most united efforts, with the aid of a great number of the press, the Republicans have been unable to overwhelm Hague in elections where the power of the two was put to a test.

In the past year, the Hague-hating Republicans have gained a weighty and important ally—Governor Charles Edison. Almost single-handedly, Edison has fought Hague and all that he stands for on important issues. Hague versus Edison has not met a test in an election as yet—and that in the final analysis is the real measure by which the two must be judged. It would be unfair to the governor to say that the test will come this November, for he is apparently not thrusting himself to the forefront in the campaign now beginning, but it is inevitable that the test will come.

Among Democrats aligned with Edison is considerable discussion of jumping party lines and voting for Republicans whom they feel would be friendly to Edison and to those associated with his wing of the Republican party.

One of Hague's great powers is in the

The commissioners may reply that it is not their intention to enforce the ordinance to its fullest extent, but it would be there on the books ready to be used at any time that a public official would want to invoke it. Its language is pretty clear. "No person (that means you, the fellow next door and us, too) or persons shall loiter or assemble in or about any street or public place or at the corner of any streets, or in or about the front of any building; or shall loiter in or upon any street or public place in any parked automobile or other vehicle . . ." That is the wording of the ordinance. It leaves out one.

There is not one bit of difference, except for the title, between the ordinance now proposed and one introduced nearly two years ago by the same commissioners and then dropped as if it were a hot potato when there was opposition from some of the public. The present one's title merely states that it is to prevent loitering while its predecessor listed a multitude of sins which it sought to outlaw.

We do not say that the commissioners—or more specifically, the police department—does not have a problem in some instances. But, there must be some other wording which can be used in approaching the condition which will not be so broad in its scope as the one now under consideration. There is no point in placing an ordinance on the books unless it is enforced. There are too many there now that are merely cluttering up space.

speaking the increases here have been as great as in other areas.

The average small landlord has a justifiable grievance, we believe. Through the depression years he struggled to keep his property and in spite of heavy taxes, he attempted to be fair with his tenants by keeping the rent at a low level. It is only in the past year or so that many people who are tenants have had their heads above water financially speaking. The landlord has been their friend, not the big, bad wolf that some officials would have the public believe. It may have been only in the past year that he has been able to see his way clear, to do exterior and interior repainting, even making improvements which had to be foregone during the depression period. For these and also in consideration of the cooperation he gave the tenant during the past years and for increases in material costs which have come with the war, he may have asked his tenant for more money. The tenant has been willing. Now, along comes the government telling him that if he has raised the rent since March 1, it must be returned to the level then charged. A figure which may mean that he will have little or no return on his investment.

This story is one that we have heard many times in the past week, and one which must be repeated in many instances. The OPA may be performing a good and needed job in many respects, but this is one instance it appears where it failed to get really down to earth in many sections where its sweeping regulation will enforce an undue hardship.

patronage that he has been able to control. Name-calling, threats to call out the state militia, court suits and a dozen other weapons have not toppled him, but the loss of patronage might.

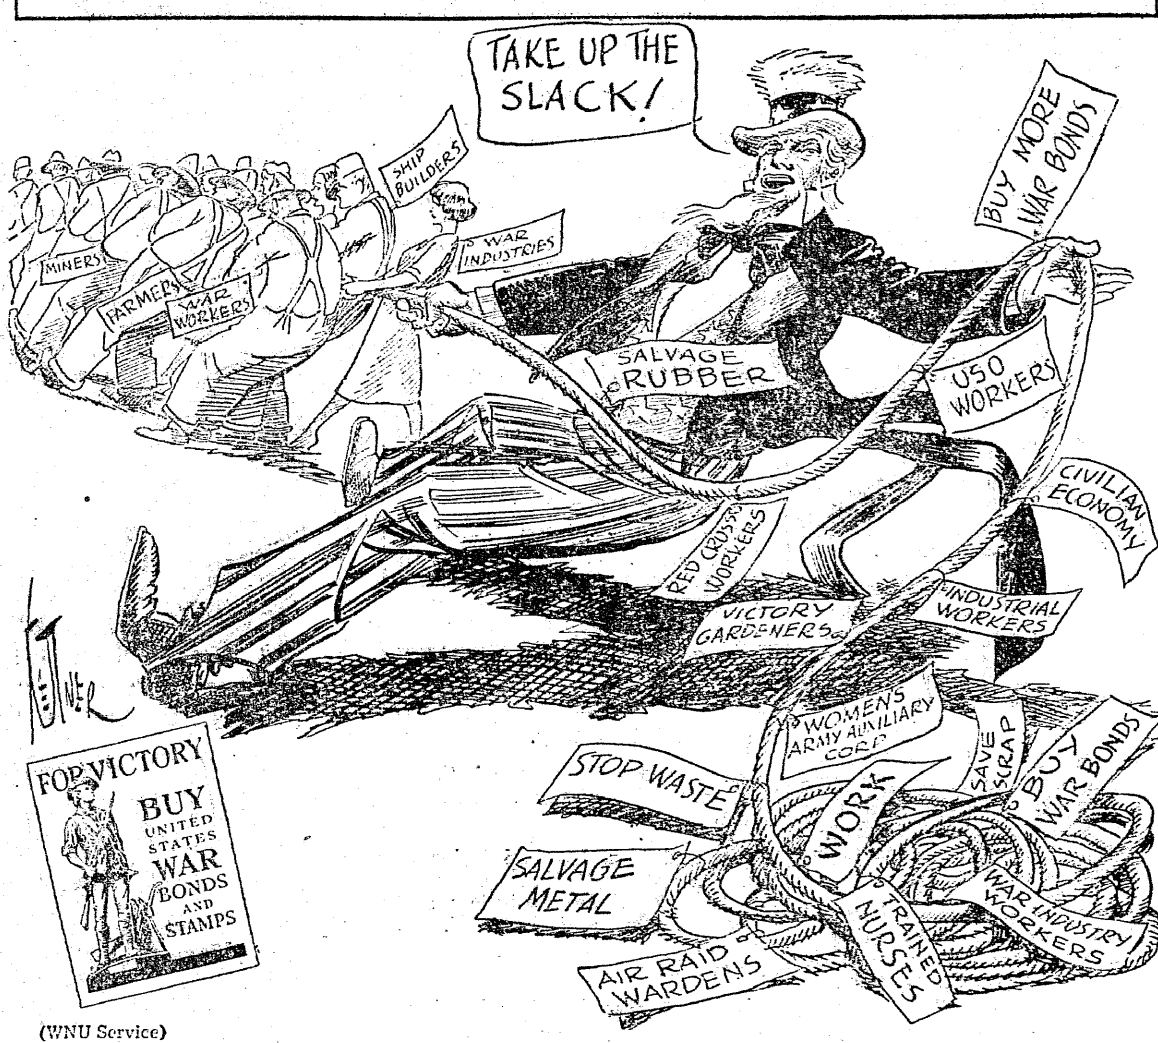

Edison has already choked off Hague by appointing anti-Hague men or Republicans to important state posts. Every step in his direction is one more down the ladder for the Jersey City mayor and his fellow travellers.

While political crystal gazing is one of the most unpredictable of pastimes, the party chieftains are already peering more than a year ahead to the day when a new governor will step into the state house. Continuation and growth of the "freeze-out" on Mayor Hague can only come with the election of a man who is of the calibre and a crusader for the principles that have been enshrined by Edison.

In the campaign of Governor Edison many Republicans profess to see the only way in which Hague is virtually to be whittled down to being mayor of Jersey City—or even less than that—and not the dominant power in state elections.

Selection of a man who would continue where Edison leaves off is a moot point. He would be elected, many political seers believe, only by the combined efforts of Edison-believing Democrats and a strong Republican force. No mistake should be made. Hague is far from being politically dead or even seriously on the way out, and his determination to beat down Edison and all those who have stood with him will be as venomous as the most stirring fight that he ever made against the G.O.P.

Many bridges must be crossed before the gubernatorial election but it is not too remote a possibility that a so-called fusion effort may be the key to the defeat of Hague.

Says Commissioners Seek To Take Away Rights
As Americans; Claims Same Proposal Was Beaten
In 1940; Commissioners Are Violators

From Frederic W. James
1 Essex street,
To the Editor of The Times:

This is an open letter to the people and Commissioners of Belleville.

In November, 1940, the board of commissioners brought forth "An ordinance to prevent vice, drunkenness and immorality." So carelessly was this proposal drawn and with such callous disregard for the rights of decent citizens, that strong protests were made against it and it never became law.

Now, 20 months later, the same commissioners again propose the same law. Word for word its text is identical with the proposal of 1940, and word for word the objections that were made against it then are sound objections to-day. Consider how many of our citizens have studied the text of this law, or have found that they become criminals liable to fine and imprisonment if they do any of these things:

Wait on the corner for a bus, sit on their front porch, sleep in a front bedroom, gaze from their front windows, assemble in any public place, go to church or to school, watch or take part in a parade, speak to a friend in the street, look at a merchant's window display, wait in a store for attention, wait outside for a shopper, call Tommy to come in to dinner, cry help! fire! or stop thief!

These things which are now to be forbidden are neither criminal nor immoral; they are our American way of life. I do not believe they are properly subject to municipal law. They are our rights by prescription, by usage from immemorial time, or won by struggle and suffering. We should be traitors to our nation's freedom if we surrendered them without a protest to a home-grown Gestapo. We never gave our authorities power to forbid our going to church or sleeping in our front bedrooms; they have no right to usurp such power or to pass such a law. And they know it.

In plain simple truth loitering, which the dictionary tells me means "delaying, passing time idly," is neither immoral nor criminal, and the law can make it either. Even the little busy bee loiters when her day's work is done. I myself have loitered to watch them. Near my home lives a decent, hard-working tailor. In the early morning I see him taking his brief stroll around the block. All day long he can be seen diligently sewing by his window or waiting on his customers, and in the cool of the evening he is often seen sitting outside his stove with his devoted wife. Is this hard-working, law-abiding citizen to be turned overnight into a criminal because the writers of the statute have made the loiterers in front of a building at even?

Does Mr. Clark think this man should work 24 hours a day instead of 14, or run around the block instead of walking, or drag his sewing out onto the street at night? Are none of us to be allowed to smell the morning dew on the clover, or rest on our porches after a hard day's work?

Are Commissioners Loiterers?

And who are our Commissioners to talk about loitering? The last time I spoke with our mayor, he and Mr. Waters were both loitering in front of a building, close to the corner of two streets, and making comments about—a heap of aluminum. The last time I saw Mr. Clark, he too was loitering in or upon a street or public place, in front of a building or fire-house, making comments to certain firemen who presumably were legally there. When last seen by me, Mr. King also was loitering in the front of a building which houses the Joseph King association. He was making remarks to two persons unknown to me. It was only a couple of weeks ago that I last saw Mr. Noll. He to was loitering, but as he was behind a house instead of in front of it he seems to be free of criminal intent.

And to return to our good mayor, I understand he is expert at making offensive remarks in public places such as commission meetings. Is he also to be fined $50, or $200 when he takes a second crack? Why, the very meetings over which he presides with grace and dignity are now to become unlawful. Read the new law and see.

For the disorderly acts complained of, for which a remedy is sought, I have no use or sympathy. But this law is not a remedy; it merely makes equal criminals of us all. A gang can make just as much disturbance in a vacant lot next door as they can in front of my house. One can insult a woman just as easily in a park as in front of the tallest building in town. So why talk about the fronts of buildings?

If the proposed law forbade unreasonable noise, disturbance of the peace, and the disturbance of the roadway by horse-drawn carriages or conveyances, messengers by on a highway or public place, there could be no complaint against its terms. We would all be for it, except perhaps the cowboys. And so again, as two years ago, I appeal to the common sense of the people of Belleville to protect themselves against a law that would make them criminals for sitting on their front steps, and that would jail a tired mother for resting for a moment on a park bench.

A Clean Government candidate to oppose Representative Fred A. Hartley in the 10th district is not yet in sight, and there are reports that none will be picked for some time.

A dummy ticket for the 10th, 11th and 12th districts has been filed and substitutions are permitted up to August 29, according to Clean Government leaders. How this would permit soldiers to vote is not clear. It would do little good to permit soldiers to vote when they could have no knowledge of whom they were voting for. The midnight deadline Thursday will be hectic for filing, but most of the ticket will be known at that time. At this writing (Wednesday afternoon) the final C.G. ticket is a dead secret.

Most of the present assembly candidates will be endorsed for reelection. So will Freeholders Grey and Burnett and Supervisor Reed. There is some question about Mrs. Elizabeth A. Harris, although Supervisor Reed is trying to persuade the Clean Government headquarters committee to endorse her for reelection. Robert Kean will be the candidate for reelection in the 12th Congressional district, but candidates for the 10th and 11th districts are uncertain. The poll of public sentiment being conducted by Crosby, Inc. of New York, committee headed by John J. O'Connor puts George E. Stringfellow at the head of candidates being mentioned in the 11th district. But the Edison vice-president has announced he will not run. Reed's speeches lead to direct attacks on Vanderbilt the two men soon reach a permanent parting of the ways. But I doubt that it will go this far. Much depends upon how badly Clee wants to be the Republican candidate for governor next year. To make progress in this, Clee must have Vanderbilt's support. If he thinks he can get that support by persuasion and through past association, Clee might elect to fight all the way through. But, as I said before, such a course seems both futile and unlikely.

former all-American football star at Cornell, as the most likely Clean Government choice.

Karl J. Olson, treasurer of Upsala college, has been trying to line up support for some time, but it has not been enough. Sundrom had the lead. Henry T. Stetson, Orange lawyer who lives in Llewellyn Park, has been highly recommended to Vanderbilt and his associates and looms as a possible dark horse.

The support the Freiday program for Democratic unity has had from other potent Democratic leaders in Essex is varied. Generally, the New York City Hall group is with him. Commissioners Brady and Keenan are decidedly friendly. So is Mayor Murphy to a certain degree. The position of Joseph M. Byrne has not been indicated. Each of these Democratic commissioners is interested in the Freiday plan, but

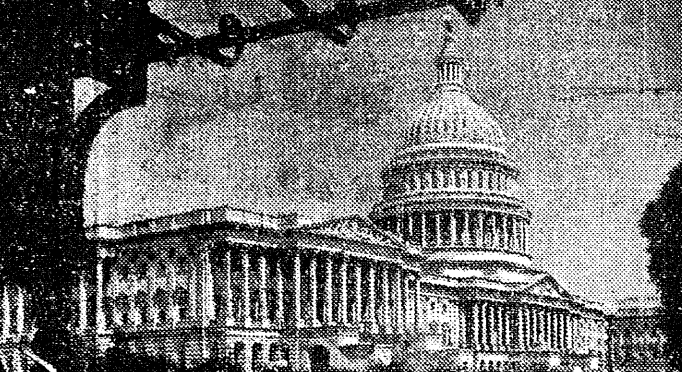

Sharp Republican Contest

Despite general apathy—caused in part by the public interest in the war—the Republican Senatorial primary promises to be something of a dramatic observation generally. It begins as a fight between Albert W. Hawkes and Gill Robb Wilson, although the strength of neither has yet been demonstrated. One thing seems certain: Arthur T. Vanderbilt plans to throw everything he has behind Wilson. Probably 90 percent of the local general assembly with a Clean Government will follow him. Most of the remainder will be with Hawkes, as will a majority of leaders generally hostile or lukewarm to Vanderbilt. A few will go along with Joseph A. Bower.

Dr. Lester H. Clec's wholehearted endorsement of Hawkes has attracted considerable speculation about the effects of a break between Vanderbilt and Clec. For the first time since the two men engineered the startling Clean Government primary victory in 1934, Vanderbilt and Clec are fighting on opposite sides of the same issue. It is not very easy, however, in my judgment to overestimate the importance of this divergence. So far, the break is only theoretical, although it could develop considerably during the course of a campaign.

Clee has promised to make speeches—both over the radio and otherwise—for Hawkes' Show.

WITH the war effort of 28 United Nations centered upon it, Washington is probably the busiest city in the world. It is fast outgrowing its physical limits—and its telephone facilities.

Long distance calls in and out of the capitol city have doubled within a year and are still increasing as the war effort moves toward its peak.

Materials for further telephone expansion now go for weapons of war.

To help meet this situation, we ask you to avoid unnecessary calls to Washington. If you must call, please be brief and call when the lines are less busy: before 10 A. M.; 12 to 2 P. M.; 5 to 7 P. M. and after 9 P. M.

Your cooperation will do much to help relieve the congestion on telephone lines and speed the drive for Victory.

BUY UNITED STATES WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

Guns—Planes—Tanks QUICK!

5 Reasons Why

- 1 By investing in War Bonds you help provide the planes, the tanks, the guns and the ships we must have to survive and conquer.
- 2 You prove that you are a patriotic American.
- 3 You aid the morale of our fighting men, by showing them that the entire Nation is behind them.
- 4 You prove to our enemies that we are a United People.
- 5 You protect your own financial future, as every $18.75 you invest in a War Bond brings you back $25 in 10 years. You make the world's safest investment, by buying a share in the world's most powerful country.

"LISTEN, Bud—glad to see you getting along. Sure, I know you've had to tighten your belt—for a long time you took it on the chin, and now you're getting good pay.

"That's O.K. with us soldiers. You've got your part to play, just as we have ours. You've got to make the stuff—and we've got to deliver it.

"But just a second . . . maybe it's none of our business, but, say, are you throwing your money around?

"Here's something straight from the shoulder. You see, we soldiers want to feel that we're not fighting alone—that you're behind us—every one of you, man, woman and youngster.

"How? Listen . . .

"How many WAR BONDS are you buying? Are you in on the Payroll Savings Plan? If you're not, you'll get in—won't you? This is your war—isn't it? We're fighting for you, aren't we?

"So look . . .

"When they come around to you, at your job, and ask you to put aside TEN PERCENT of your earnings every payday—a dime from every dollar—you'll do it, won't you—for us?

"You'll get a WAR BOND every time you've saved $18.75—and that Bond will build up, year by year, to $25 in ten years.

"So you're helping us and protecting yourself at the same time by your savings. Can't beat that, can you?

"We've got to have guns and planes, and tanks, and ships and bullets—and you've got to pay for them—from your own, voluntary WAR BOND savings.

"Invest a dime from every dollar in us—and keep it up, week after week, month after month. Then count on us to blast hell out of the Japs, the Huns, and their whole bloodthirsty gang.

"O.K., Bud—now let's go!"

VIKING WORKERS BIG BOND BUYERS

98.5 Of Workers
Enrolled In Two-Week
Volunteer Drive

Doubly doing their part to help the nation's all-out war effort are the employees of the Viking Tool & Machine corporation. In addition to 100 percent work on materials essential to manufacturers turning out war weapons to beat the axis, the Viking workers have opened their pocketbooks by buying war bonds and stamps.

In the two-week drive, the company enrolled 98.5 percent of its 300 employees in the payroll allotment plan. Two weeks ago about 25 percent of the personnel had voluntarily subscribed to the plan. Money taken out each week totaled two and one-half percent of the plant payroll. This week, Clarence Lommerin, secretary and treasurer, reported that amounts voluntarily contributed, amounted to 9.86 percent of the payroll.

The employees in the office, the press room and machine shop on the first floor and in plant No. 2 have subscribed 100 percent to the plan. In the second floor tool room and machine shop, 99 percent are enrolled and in the night shift of the machine shop 90 percent are in the bond buying ranks. The office force is contributing 23 percent of its weekly payroll.

The company has applied to the treasury department for its certificate of merit for having enrolled more than 90 percent of its workers and expects to shortly fly the Minute Man flag which is already seen at other places in town.
