

LT. BRINKERHOFF WEDS IN KNOXVILLE

Former Belleville Resident
Now In Infantry, Will Reside
At Fort Benning, Ga.

The marriage Saturday afternoon of Miss Ann Gibson of Knoxville, Tenn., and Lt. Robert E. Brinkerhoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brinkerhoff of Verona, took place in First Baptist church, Knoxville. The Brinkerhoffs resided at 102 Tappan avenue for 25 years and moved to Verona a year ago. Miss Gibson is the daughter of Mrs. Crawford L. Gibson and the late Mr. Gibson. The couple were married by Dr. Fred Brown and a reception at the Cherokee Country club, Knoxville, followed the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Owen J. Jones of West Virginia, and attended by Mrs. Woods Huff of Washington, D. C., and the Misses Henrietta Hickman of Nashville, Barnell

Gibson of Knoxville, and Ruth Brinkerhoff of Verona, sister of the groom. Lt. Joseph Callahan of Fort Jackson, S. C., was Lt. Brinkerhoff's best man.

Miss Gibson was graduated from the University of Tennessee and is a member of the Knoxville Junior league. Lt. Brinkerhoff, who was born here, was graduated from Belleville high school and the University of Tennessee. He has been in the army one year and is serving with the infantry. He has been stationed at Fort Jackson and at Fort Sill, Okla. He will shortly be located at Fort Benning, Ga., where the couple will live after a brief honeymoon.

Howbrigg-Philippi

The marriage of Miss Irma Louise Philippi of Meriden, Conn., and Robert Linsan Howbrigg son of Mrs. Edith B. Howbrigg of that place took place Saturday, August 22. The Howbriggs are former residents of Belleville. The couple were married in Center Congregational church by Rev. Clayton D. Boothby. They have built a home in Meriden.

He's Kids' Hero Too

PROOF THEIR ELDERS have no monopoly on enthusiasm for General MacArthur is demonstrated by Dawson Bloom, 14, 15 Dow street, who files a plaque of the famous soldier while Joan Dacey, 11, 72 DeWitt avenue, looks on. Both are members of the Bridge street playground handicraft class, where MacArthur plaques have been one of the most popular projects this summer.

Playgrounds Will Wind Up Activities Tomorrow

Summer playground activities will be wound up tomorrow at the three play centers. The Recreation house which has had more of a program than the others, will make awards to the winners of various tournaments, in closing ceremonies.

The Bridge street ground is finishing up work in woodcraft and has scheduled its first ping pong tournament for today and a jacks tournament for tomorrow. There has been a checkers tournament and one or two others at the new Stephens street center, but existing facilities have not allowed for much more than supervised play.

Although there were four play spots in operation last year, the one at School No. 1 was not reopened, and it is understood that the equipment at Edison field which is in need of repair and has been idle this summer, will be moved to another location next year. It has also been stated that the recreation camp on Hill street may be filled in during the fall and early spring so that it may be used next year as general recreation and picnic ground.

Those working under Director Edward Lister this year have been Miss Mary Vuono a Panzer college student who has been stationed at the Recreation house; Jerry Bonavita, Bloomfield physical ed. instructor at Bridge street and Joseph Groesch, a Montclair State teachers college student at Stephens street.

Recreation house awards tomorrow will include those for the costume parade which was held last Friday, the doll contest and the horseshoe and jacks tournaments. Winners in the costume contest are June Slater who as the Statue of Liberty, had the most original outfit; Mario Granetti, whose rumba costume was considered the prettiest and Bobby Daniels who, in a girl's outfit, was considered the funniest.

Dorothy Jocker was judged owner of the prettiest doll when the contest was on in July and Elsie Voegler exhibited the oddest.

Senior winner of the horseshoe pitching contest at the Recreation house was Joseph Pagani, and Fred Arena won among the junior group. Winning team in the jacks tourney was Phyllis White and Jennie Gorone. The awards will be the highlight of a party which will include games, refreshments and additional awards for good behavior.

Gorman's Cardinals Would Form Social Club

Gorman's Cardinals, youthful softball aggregation of which Francis Bean of Belleville avenue is manager, concluded a contest Friday in which the winner of a $5 gold piece was Joseph McBride. Proceeds were used for new sweaters for the ball team. The boys would like to form a social club as a cold weather venture and will be glad to hear from other boys 13 to 15 years of age who would like to join. Francis may be reached at his home, 56 Belleville avenue.

Promoted To Corporal

Pvt. Anthony A. Stefanelli, who has been in the army since March and is on overseas duty, was recently promoted to corporal. Formerly a plumber at 85 Franklin street where he had been in business or 15 years, Cpl. Stefanelli was born in Belleville and attended Belleville schools. He is a member of Company A, 60 B Quartermaster division.

Silver Lake Honor Roll

PART OF THE DOUBLE ceremony held on Sunday was the unveiling of the honor roll on Honiss street, a project sponsored by the Silver Lake Social and Athletic club. On the same afternoon, a service flag and shrine were dedicated at St. Anthony's church, in honor of the Silver Lake men in service.

The Americas
The name America includes both the continents, North and South America, but in popular use the word without the prefix North and South is often understood to refer only to North America unless the context implies both continents.

Town's First Honor Rolls Unveiled In Silver Lake

Huge Crowd Attends Dedication of Shrine and Flag at St. Anthony's Church and Outdoor Roll at Honiss Street

Belleville's first honor rolls for men in service were dedicated in Silver Lake Sunday afternoon before a street-filling crowd under the joint sponsorship of St. Anthony's church and the Silver Lake Social and Athletic club.

Services at the church included the unfurling of a huge red bordered flag with a blue star in its center, and the number, 167 underneath. However, a shrine dedicated to the Mother of Sorrows has also been erected within the church, where there is a scroll, bearing the names of all of the

"Friendly" Handshake

Rivals for the Republican nomination to Congress in the 10th district, in the September primaries, and violent battles in the press, Congressman Hartley and Mayor Williams, stood on the same platform at the unveiling of the Silver Lake roll of honor for men in service on Sunday. Interested spectators speculating on the possibility of fireworks were disappointed, however, when the two rivals jovially shook hands and exchanged "friendly" words of greeting.

Silver Lake boys in service. The American and Papal flags are unfurled there, and vigil lights will be kept before the shrine for the duration.

Ceremonies at the church included the blessing of the shrine and flag by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Ernest Monteleone, pastor of Our Lady of Sorrows church in Jersey City. Introduced by the Rev. Titian Menegus, pastor, the Monsignor gave a short address and was followed by the Rev. William Purlong of the Seton Hall college faculty. A soldier and sailor each bearing an American flag to represent those in service, stood at attention during the military benediction. Taps, played by a drummer and two buglers of St. Lucy's Fife and Drum corps of Newark, concluded the ceremony.

Following the church services, a parade formed for the march to Honiss street where a huge billboard also bearing the names of the Silver Lake boys in service was unveiled. Sponsored by the Silver Lake Social and Athletic club of which James Constatine is president, the ceremonies were conducted by Anthony Cottone, in the role of toastmaster. After delivering the unveiling address, Cottone introduced the speakers. Included were Congressman Fred A. Hartley, Mayor Williams, Defense Coordinator Harry Sullivan, Zone Warden Michael Richardella, Assistant Zone Warden Michael Canegro, Thomas D'Avella and Michael Lepore.

Defense Council Chairman Everett B. Smith and Commissioner Noll also attended. The ceremony was concluded with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner by Miss Josephine Rossi.

SHARP DECLINE IN RELIEF ROLLS

Expenditure Is Nearly Halved For First Eight Months Of This Year

A sharp decline in the town's relief rolls, which is in line with the trend throughout the state, has been announced by Relief Director John J. Hewitt. Relief costs for the first eight months of this year have been almost halved in comparison with the costs for the town in the first eight months of 1941.

Although warm weather is said to bring a seasonal decline in the number of applications for relief, it is understood that most of the reduction can be traced to increased employment opportunities because of defense work. This, however, is an indirect benefit to the reliefers, Hewitt pointed out, for the majority are unskilled, and are merely through their general aptitude taking the places of workers who have stepped up the ladder into semi-skilled jobs.

A level has been reached now, Hewitt said this week, which will probably remain static for the duration of the war, and is made up of unemployables who are divided into a number of classes. Because of the drop in the monthly number of cases handled, the staff in the stadium office has been cut to six, which includes the janitor. Three workers have been dropped since February. The work of the municipal welfare department is concerned with the provision of food, clothing and shelter on a prescribed scale based on the number in the family unit. In addition, the department provides hospital supplementation and surplus commodities to those in the social security categories. They are those receiving old age assistance, the blind, and the home life division of the state board of children's guardians.

Believing that work of any sort is better than just the handing out of relief checks, Hewitt employs many on town projects, and in this way they work out the money they received at the rate of 50 cents an hour.

Figures show that there was a 36 per cent decrease in the relief load in 1941. The state, however, reimburses the town with 45 per cent of the outlay, after it has approved expenditures.

Speaking of misunderstanding of the welfare department's role, Hewitt explained that "eligibility is the nucleus of relief, the core around which the entire relief structure functions." He went on to say that "for those who come within its scope, public assistance makes available all the food, shelter, fuel, clothing and medical care that the individual or family may be entitled to, according to the standards set by the state."

"To those who fall outside the eligibility requirements and who feel that some assistance is their due, as a matter of right rather than of proven need, considerable misunderstanding results. Even some of our fellow townspeople find acceptance of standards difficult when they are concerned with some neighbors' need and are inclined to believe that a particular situation should have a different basis for approval."

MISS ROSENBLUM WEDS ARMY MAN

Marriage To Pfc. Bernard Kirshner Took Place Tuesday Evening

Miss Doris Rosenblum, daughter of Mrs. Gregory Rosenblum of Bremond street and the late Mr. Rosenblum, and Pfc. Bernard N. Kirshner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kirshner of Brooklyn were married Tuesday evening at the Kirshner residence by Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin of Congregation A.A.A. dinner for the immediate families was also held at the bridegroom's home.

Miss Rosenblum was gowned in delft blue velvet. Her street length frock and matching veiled hat were trimmed with velvet. She wore an orchid corsage. Miss Miriam Rosenblum, her sister's only attendant, wore a similar costume in wine velvet with a corsage of gardenias. Harold Kirshner was his brother's best man.

What's Your Favorite Fruit?

We haven't taken a Gallup poll, but we know there would be heavy voting for the peach, and when it comes to canned fruit, the peach is 'way up front. What fruit looks more luscious, served in its own golden syrup and what tastes better? Canning does not destroy its delicious flavor... While New Jersey peaches are in season, preserve them whatever way you like them best. Apply for extra sugar rations for canning and ask our Home Economics Department to give you directions for oven canning. We have a peach recipe folder that you will find useful. Be sure to ask for a copy.

CONGRESS RIVALS

"Our army is only 15 percent mobilized. There are 223,000 men in the regular army and 200,000 in the National Guard. We haven't one complete mechanized division."
"Those were Mr. Hartley's words to his constituents in May, 1940, when the Hitler war machine was well on its way to domination of Europe as a prelude to world conquest."
Voted Against Conscription
"Less than four months later, Congressman Hartley, now playing the Dr. Jekyll role, voted against the conscription bill to provide a citizen army of millions of Americans trained to defend their homes and their country. General Marshall, the U. S. Army chief of staff, begged Congress to pass that legislation, told them that the men were needed desperately because of the danger of a Hitler victory.

"Yet Mr. Hartley, who in May of that year pretended to be alarmed by our lack of defense, then said he was concerned over the state of our navy and the fact that we had less than 500,000 in our army, had no qualms in voting against the selective service act. And a year later, he also voted against the bill to extend the service of draftees.
"In the face of this deplorable exhibition, Mr. Hartley has the effrontery to tell the voters of the 10 district that he voted for every preparedness bill that came up.
"In that famous statement he also deplored the pitiful weakness of our air force. He said we had only 52 planes capable of measuring up to Europe's best. What does his record show in this connection? My examination of the Congressional record reveals that Mr. Hartley himself was one of the small group of willful representatives who tried to sabotage the air force appropriation on June 22, 1939, by eliminating 1,283 planes and $37,000,000 from the bill.

"Mr. Hartley's statement further included the observation with which I am in full agreement, that the essential need for adequate national defense is 'energetic cooperation by legislative, executive and industrial leadership.' I have already shown how Mr. Hartley cooperated—but with Hitler.
"It is not only Mr. Hartley's votes on national defense measures that are shocking, but his record as regards the entire legislative program to fix American foreign policy. I insist that that program, which was supported by Republicans and Democrats alike, because it was an expression of genuine American support of the fight for freedom being waged all over the world by democratic peoples, was in essence part of our defense activity.
"The fight against Hitler was our fight from the very beginning because we were Hitler's ultimate objective. He knew that in order to dominate the world he must first annihilate us.
"But Mr. Hartley didn't believe that Hitler meant us any harm. Mr. Hartley apparently was one of those persons who believed that Hitler was simply trying to bring peace to Europe. It was this line of reasoning that Mr. Hartley followed in his votes against repeal of the arms embargo, revision of the neutrality law, and the lend-lease bill. Mr. Hartley voted against all of those measures which were designed to help nations fighting Hitlerism. And Mr. Hartley further voted against arming our merchant ships, and only three weeks before Pearl Harbor, he opposed lifting the ban against belligerent ports, which was necessary for delivery of lend-lease material to our future allies.
"Is this the kind of representation that the voters of the 10th district want in Congress? Dares they entrust the future of their country to a man so lacking in sound judgment, so indifferent to their national peril?
"I ask the voters of the district to judge the probable soundness of Mr. Hartley's judgment in the future on the evidence of his judgment in the past. On that test I am confident that I shall be nominated and Mr. Hartley thoroughly repudiated."

"Tangled Kitten"
Again the Congressman pictured Williams as tangled up as a kitten in a ball of yarn, after the mayor had criticized him for voting for what he called the "Smith anti-labor spy bill." No such bill ever came before the House. "What he meant," said Hartley, "was the Smith amendment to prohibit strikes in war industries, a vote I will defend anywhere. If we must compel the production of munitions by legislation in order to provide our fighting men in the jungles of the Solomon Islands with the tools of war, then I feel Congress should have the courage to do the job—Mayor Williams to the contrary notwithstanding."
"But charity compels the observation that he was just mixed up a little. Like he was when he showed he didn't know the difference between a Congressional roll call and a quorum call, or between the nation's foreign policy and our defense armament program, between a Bill and an amendment to a bill, between 1940 and 1942, between a country at peace and a nation at war with a deadly enemy, between an orderly debate in a neutral Congress before Pearl Harbor and an all-out offensive against treacherous foes.
"All these things and many more the mayor has mixed up in his campaign, and the stew he has concocted with them convicts him of either grossly stupid ignorance of national affairs, or worse, a scoundrelly malicious intent to snare the votes of unwary citizens by deliberately falsifying the record.
"It would seem, too, that the mayor's verbal gyrations have become too dazzling for his Clean Government managers to keep up with any longer, for newspaper men inform me that Williams is not allowed to issue any further press statements from his own headquarters. They are now sent direct to the editors from the Clean Government county offices at 744 Broad street, Newark, and Williams sees them for the first time in the newspapers.

Voted For Lend-Lease
"Possibly Boss Vanderbilt found it irritating to read the mayor's ridiculous claims that I opposed lend-lease, when the record clearly shows that I voted in the affirmative to enact it into law, and further that I voted to appropriate billions of dollars for lend-lease expenditures.
"Or the silliest of all of his mouthings, that I voted against 'the military airplane appropriation bill,' and thus tried to deprive the army of 1,283 planes. In the first place there never was any such bill. There was an amendment to a bill to provide 5,500 planes for the army. During the debate the House Military Appropriations committee recommended that the number be reduced to 4,217, because the planes to be devoted were obsolete by the time they were built, and besides there would not be enough pilots in the service to fly them. This subsequently proved to be the case. I agreed with the committee—as did also my Essex colleagues Kean and Vreeland and the entire New Jersey Republican delegation in Congress—but the amendment failed to pass. Within an hour of that vote the bill itself came before us on final passage and I voted in the affirmative to provide the army with the entire 5,500 planes.
"Thus the mayor goes down his tangled route, talking through his hat either from ignorance or with evil intent to deceive. From the outset he has repeatedly tried to create the inference that I have been in some degree a Nazi sympathizer, accusing me time and again of consorting with Nazi agitators, doing their bidding, obstructing America's defense program, and more of the same stripe of drivel.
"But this week he evidently became conscious-stricken. Or maybe the Clean Government people, realizing that Williams has gone completely overboard with that kind of nonsense, hauled him up on the carpet. In any event, a day or so ago, the mayor finally paid me the great compliment. 'I do not question Hartley's patriotism,' he said. Decent of him, wasn't it?
"Which reminds me that this is a most suitable point at which to pose a few simple questions to Mayor Williams. Almost all of the things which the mayor says I did wrongly in Washington occurred prior to my last election in November, 1940. He has criticized, for example, only four votes on major national policy since then. That being so, why did the mayor support me without qualification or reservation for re-election in 1940? The very same false charges which he has resurrected were the basis of the campaign against me then, waged by the same elements with whom he is associated today. He knew the whole story then, and now; he knew the actual truth then, as he knows it now also.
"Why then did he exhort the good people of the 10th district in the press and from the public platform to return me to Congress? Why did he throw the full strength of his own political machine into my campaign, and help re-elect me with the greatest majority I have ever received? And finally, is it that he never once uttered a single word of criticism of my conduct until a few weeks ago, when his own lust for political glory coincided with Boss Vanderbilt's desire to purge me?"

Stanley J. Walker, U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Walker Sr. of Newark. The couple were married at the bride's home by Judge Everett B. Smith. A reception for the immediate families followed.
Miss Gassner, powned in a navy blue costume with white accessories and a corsage of gardenias, was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry S. Gassner Jr. of Arlington. Harry Baxter of Newark was Mr. Walker's best man. The couple had a short honeymoon trip and Mr. Walker returned Saturday to Newport, R. I., where he is in training. He enlisted in the navy in July.
Miss Gassner was graduated from the local high school and worked for the Prudential Insurance company. She is now employed by the Eastern Aircraft company of Bloomfield and will reside temporarily with her parents.

Recipe Column
There's an extra bit of juicy goodness to Meat Muffins whose ingredients resemble meat loaf.
The method however is quick and they are excellent to work in with any meal which requires the use of the oven for other dishes.
Meat Muffins
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 eggs
3/4 cup cracker crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
3/4 cup tomato catsup
Combine the ingredients and pack into greased muffin tins. An onion ring or red pepper star may be put in the bottom of each compartment. A half inch space from the top should be left. Bake in a 350 degree oven for forty-five minutes. Turn out on a platter so that the decoration on the bottom shows. They are nice with Julienne potatoes. Grated green pepper may be added to the mixture if desired or 1/4 cup horse radish.

The Army Won't Stop 'Jidge' Riccio's Starlit Wagon

Movie And Washington, Hollywood And West Coast Appearances In Three-Month Ride To Fame

Although the star-lit wagon he was riding at such a rollicking clip hit a snag last week when Vinc (Jidge) Riccio left with the last contingent for Fort Dix, it probably will pick up its pace again when he gets acclimated to army life.

That's because Jidge (familiar vocalist Jack Carroll with Les Brown's orchestra via the ether) who has been warbling since he was a mite in knee pants, couldn't keep from singing if he tried. Born and raised in Silver Lake, the 21-year-old six footer who had worked nights at the Westinghouse plant in Kearny until his orchestral engagement three months ago, has always been a familiar vocalist at neighborhood gatherings. While at the Kearny plant, he and some of his singing pals made their own recordings.

But the last three months have been a different story—a story of Washington and Hollywood and west coast engagements, with a picture, "Red, Hot and Sweet," starring Lucille Ball and Victor Mature, thrown in. Jidge or rather Jack, was slated to star as vocalist in another Hollywood production in February but the army intervened.

During his Hollywood stay, Jack met celebrities Clark Gable, Cary Grant, Rita Hayworth and Shirley Temple. He was also a visitor at the starlet's home but biggest event to him, he said, was his surprised luck in meeting Chris Serritella, Louis Rinaldi and Joseph Uguro at the Gilbert Hotel. The admittedly homesick Jidge discovered that Chris was in Hollywood, looking for work, while Louis and Joe, both army recruits, were stationed at Indio.

Jidge got a glimpse of army life out there, for he helped entertain the men in khaki stationed at various camps on the coast. He flew home from Denver for his induction, and in time to celebrate his 21st birthday last week. His parents, the Thomas Riccios of 57 Magnolia street had open house and over 100 friends came and went during the afternoon and evening, to extend their best wishes. Jidge said before he left that with all his concentrated traveling, he still thinks the Silver Lake people are "the best people on earth."

Army life will give him an opportunity to experience sleeping at night again, something he hasn't done in nearly two years. Jidge has expressed the hope that he will have an opportunity to do some singing in the army. When his companions in khaki discover what he has been up to in the last three months, Jidge will just have to climb aboard that wagon again, and this time, there's no telling where it will take him.

SAFEWAY Homemakers' Guide

★ 3 menus for Labor Day home-picnics ★ A long list of money-saving foods ★ How one wife made one husband a lot happier

Spending Labor Day at home?

Here are some grand home picnic menu ideas that come from the Saway Homemakers' Bureau

PICNIC AT HOME

You might set up a kitchen cafeteria, letting everyone serve himself and carry his food on a tray to your favorite outdoor eating spot.

Choice of Steaming-hot Wieners Grilled Hamburgers on
Toasted Buttered Buns
Lettuce, Sliced Tomatoes and Onions, Mayonnaise, Chili Sauce, and Mustard for Sandwiches or Salad
Freshly-cooked String Beans with Diced Bacon
Apple Pie and Ice Cream
Coffee, Milk, or Punch

PICNIC IN THE PARK

If you boast no back yard, perhaps there's a nearby park where you can take your dinner.

Casserole of Spaghetti, Ham, and Cheese
Take hot or re-heat on spot
Plenty of Potato Chips
Salad Bowl of Mixed Vegetables
Bottle of French Dressing
(Toss salad with dressing just before serving)
Assorted Bread or Rolls—Butter
Dill Pickles
Watermelon
Cup Cakes
Thermos of Coffee, Milk, or Lemonade

GARDEN BARBECUE

If you've a barbecue pit, portable or permanent, you've an ideal setting for informal outdoor fun.

*Barbecued Broilers
Barbecued Corn on the Cob
Shredded Cabbage, Carrot, and Apple Slaw with Sour Cream Dressing
Hot Buttered French Bread
Fresh Peach Shortcake with Pour Cream
Iced Tea or Coffee

*Barbecued Broilers
Chicken delish!

Have meat man cut broilers in halves (allowing one half per serving). Let fire burn down to coals but have grill piping-hot before cooking chicken. Then sear quickly on both sides to seal in juices. Next, let broil about 20 minutes on both sides, or until tender. Baste frequently with melted butter, oil, or melted shortening to supply the necessary fat for flavor and tenderness. Use pastry brush or long stick with clean cloth wrapped around end for basting. Turn chicken with tongs or long-handled fork. Serve as is or with barbecue sauce.

"Don't throw that away!"

That's the name of the feature article in the September 4th issue of Family Circle Magazine. It's all about thrifty cooking. Family Circle comes out every Thursday, free at Safeway.

What's Happened To Summer Recreation?

The usual nine weeks of supervised play concludes this Friday at the recreation committee's three play centers. For some reason, neither the attendance nor the program has been anything to brag about. Commissioner Noll, whose department includes playground supervision, has pointed out that qualified instructors have been unusually hard to get. There are four instead of the usual eight. This year there has been no correlated program of scheduled tournaments and games. Even the softball among the small fry has been negligible. That is understandable in one case, where the new Stephens street location is still unclear except in the swing area. There, in addition, no facilities are provided for the children—not even drinking water—and shade trees are scarce. In another case some of the equipment has been made or donated by the instructor, and the general impression is that equipment other than swings and a merry-go-round or so, is scarce.

This is surprising in view of the interest-provoking and education program that could be maintained. Only highlight is the woodworking class at Bridge street where some creditable products have been made. But up until today when a ping-pong tourney is to get under way, there has been no activity there all summer.

There are hundreds of youngsters who would enjoy and profit by a well-run program. No wonder they don't turn out when there is so little for them to do—they can have more fun in their own neighbor's back yard. Furthermore, it seems a waste of facilities when the play centers are not located in the school playgrounds. Instead of scattering swings and cross bars on various lots that should be kept up if they are to have maximum use, the recreation committee could, with a well-rounded program, operate more efficiently and at less cost if the school grounds, toilet facilities and drinking fountains were available. The schools were built and supported by the taxpayers. Their children should be entitled to the comfort they could provide during the summer months.

More Community Life

The world-embroiling fracas which is only recently awakening socially-minded Americans to its vast implications and importance, is whether we like it or not, changing much of our taken-for-granted social pattern. By easy stages we are gradually retrogressing to the kind of isolated community-living most familiar to our forefathers who, if they wanted to, "go visiting" at any distance, had to take a month off to do it by the horse and wagon method. Even if we had the horse and wagon, we wouldn't have the time. Nor is railroad travel the answer to our "get away" urge, for pleasure trekking is distinctly frowned upon in these days when all available equipment is needed for the transportation of troops and supplies.

News of additional fuel rationing in the East in order to insure a minimum degree of comfort this winter will make people fall back more and more upon their own resources and participate in community life. Surprising to us, however, has been the almost total slump in organizational activity in town this summer. We had surmised that because of a more general stay-at-home program due to the average state of tires and gas ration coupons, that many groups which formed war committees at the close of their usual year, would start them functioning.

Summer is the crucial season on the battle front. The scattered theatres of war have been more active this summer than since this global fight began. Soldiers can't take vacations. We on the home front shouldn't. Only apparent continued activities have been those of the defense council and the block mother project recently completed. Although we realize that it is hard for women's organizations particularly, to do constructive war work without overlapping or repetition because there is no clearing house for discovering who is doing what, it seems to us that with so much worthwhile war work to be done, too much time has been lost.

Praiseworthy Response

The surprise response to the salvage committee's second appeal for tin cans shows the thoroughness with which the people of Belleville and in this case, the housewives, can react to a patriotic appeal. The first five-ton load was considered a fair amount but when it was doubled to 10 tons this time, it certainly exceeded all expectations. The load when taken to the detinning plant this week, was declared by the plant officials to be the biggest single contribution yet received.

In addition, the condition of the cans was said to have improved and practically all were correctly de-labeled, washed and flattened in the prescribed manner. We'll wager that committee heads who now know that a worthwhile cause will receive generous support, will not be caught unprepared for the next collection day scheduled for Thursday, October 29.

Story of Community Agencies You Can Help

Community Service Bureau

Last week two little girls stopped in at the office of the Community Service Bureau to thank the case worker for their vacation at camp. They had gained a little weight and looked tanned and healthy. But the real change was in the excited chattering about camp and the sparkle in their eyes as they told of learning how to swim. "Not far," said Alice, the elder of the sisters, "but we can stay up in the water."

The case worker had first known the children last winter when their mother came in to ask for help in arranging dental care. She was a worn, tired woman quick to flare up at her five children, discouraged by their father's inability to earn enough to give the family what they needed, Joe, the oldest boy, had quit school in hopes of getting work to help support the family but he was too young and untrained to find anything steady.

Mrs. Yardley found it helpful to talk to the case worker. Little by little she poured out her resentment and bewilderment. Finally she was able to realize that something really constructive could be done for the family. She stopped nagging at Mr. Yardley and urged him to come in and talk to the worker. He was encouraged to take advantage of one of the training projects, where he could learn a trade at night.

Gets Steady Job

Early in the spring Mrs. Yardley proudly announced that he had a steady job. Moreover, Mr. Yardley himself took Joe in hand. "He never bothered with the kids before," said Mrs. Yardley. With his father as an example Joe was able to see that vocational school would fit him for some worthwhile work. He is planning to enter this fall.

Mrs. Yardley still comes to see the case worker although not as frequently. "It helps me think things out to talk to you," she says. She was worried about the two girls who were too quiet and shy. Camp has been just a beginning for them. They have gained a little confidence in themselves but they are still not as strong and healthy as they should be. "Perhaps they should have their tonsils out as the nurse said, and I hope I can have Jeanie's eyes examined. Maybe that's why she has trouble with school," said Mrs. Yardley.

It takes time to work out all these things. It is the kind of year-round job which the Community Service Bureau is attempting to do for a great many Belleville families.

Mrs. John Sarcone of Watching avenue has had as guests for five weeks her nieces and nephew, Mrs. Angelina Achilles, Miss Ida Asara and James Asara of Detroit, Mich. On Friday Mrs. Achilles, celebrated her twenty-seventh birthday. The guests included Mrs. Anthony Pascheria, Mrs. Rose Amato, Mrs. Gene Abata, Mrs. Mary Maglio, Mrs. Jack Cirincione and her children Jack and Evelyn. The Michigan guests left on Saturday.

Mrs. A. A. Dalzell and son Arnold of Tiona avenue are home from a two weeks vacation in Cape Cod.

Talks On Trees

By DR. E. PORTER FELT
Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories
Stamford, Conn.

Heart rots are common in trees and frequently are indicated by the mushroom growths, termed conks, pushing out of wounds or the dead areas left by fallen branches.

An unusually beautiful specimen of the sulfur or chicken mushroom was found on the trunk of a maple recently. It was some eighteen inches wide and had produced a series of five or six overlapping shells or conks, the outer margin being a delicate yellow, the visible remainder delicately tinted with pinkish or red.

Another growth on maple, related to the bear's head fungus, was whitish or yellowish, fifteen inches long, twelve inches wide, about eight inches deep and consisted of a series of 15 overlapping lobes or shelves. This fungus sometimes forms masses two feet long.

The sulfur mushroom develops from a brown cubical rot of the heartwood of living hard woods and conifers, occasionally killing living sapwood. It also occurs on chestnut poles in the northeast. It is not destructive as the false tinder fungus which attacks a great variety of hardwoods. This latter produces the hoof-shaped conks usually issuing from knots or wounds. Some are black, watery, and clinker-like, especially on sweet and yellow birch. One conk of the fungus usually indicates rotted heartwood fifteen feet or more in length. The sulfur mushroom develops to some extent in sapwood.

Trees and branches badly invaded by heart rot are most likely to break in storms. The best prevention of heart rots is protecting all freshly cut surfaces with a wound dressing.

Florence Evangelista Leaves Tuesday For Army Duty

William Hollers And Family Weekend At Point Pleasant Home; Alfred Stefanelli Visited Lawrence Iannelli Over Weekend; Miss Helen Koehne Returns From Three-Week Vacation

With the departure of their daughter, Florence, for Fort Monmouth on Tuesday, where she will be on duty as a nurse, the Salvatore Evangelistas of 141 Little street can chalk up two of their family as members of the service. Son Louis, now a staff sergeant, whom they hadn't heard from since he called from Hartford, Conn., to wish his father a happy birthday the first of the month, is on overseas duty. News of his arrival at an undisclosed city came this week, just seven months after his enlistment. The Charles McAllisters of the above address entertained for Florence, formerly a nurse at Mountsides hospital, Montclair, with a barbecue on Sunday evening. The guests were from Nutley, Newark, Woodbridge, Montclair, Newton and town.

Mr. and Mrs. William Holler of Stephens street spent the weekend at their home in Point Pleasant. With them were their sons, Eugene and Edward, another son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Holler, also of Belleville, and their grandchildren, Carol and Patricia, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Heller Jr. Miss Joan Tupper of Fairway avenue was also the weekend guest of the Hollers. The William Hollers Jr. will be at Point Pleasant this week with their daughters.

Alfred Stefanelli, a member of the engineer battalion at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., was the guest this weekend of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Iannelli of Franklin street.

Miss Helen Koehne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Koehne of Cedarhill avenue, is at home after a three weeks' vacation at Camp Dennis, Stillwater.

Mrs. Joseph Daniels of 97

Harrison street returned early this week from Chicago where she spent two weeks. Her son, Alexander Daniels, is stationed at the navy pier there. He enlisted in the navy in February and is freeman third class. Daniels attended Belleville high school and Bloomfield vocational school.

On Furlough

Robert Brown, seaman second class and gunner on a United States coastal patrol ship, spent a three-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brown of 567 Washington avenue last week. Brown, who is 20, was graduated from the local high school in 1941 and enlisted in the navy three months ago.

Miss Connie Serritella, daughter of Mrs. Angela Serritella, of 140 Heckel street, had as dinner guests on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Parrillo and their daughter.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville Times.

by Meador Wright

The outstanding feature of the Republican senatorial contest is the surprising strength shown by Albert W. Hawkes. When Hawkes announced his candidacy several weeks ago and it became evident that Arthur T. Vanderbilt and other Republican leaders did not intend to support him, political realists were almost unanimous in their conviction that he could not be nominated. Announcement of support by Dr. Lester H. Clee did little to allay this belief. It was pointed out that it is next to impossible for one man to transfer a political following to another who had no part in the development of that following.

With leaders with powerful organizations back of them supporting Gill Robb Wilson—especially Vanderbilt, Lloyd Marsh and Robert Hendrickson—these realists felt certain that Hawkes would be easily beaten. Many of his friends busied themselves with thinking up ways of letting him know that his cause appeared almost hopeless without hurting his feelings too much. But when the Montclair man started on the hustings the situation began to improve. In his quiet way, Hawkes began to make friends, even if his arguments did not influence too many. As far as a program went, Hawkes did not have much to offer. He was no theorist, nor no messiah. Many of his views and opinions appeared dated. Nor was he able to get them over very well. His friendliest critics felt that either he didn't have a very good product to sell or else that he was selling it rather poorly. Nor did it appear that he had an organization or could get one that would make up for his personal deficiencies.

Honest And Sincere

But as sometimes happens, both in politics and business, the by-products proved to be more valuable than the main article. The by-products in this case proved to be the character and essential democracy of the man himself. Hawkes didn't know anything new to tell a troubled world how to get rid of its troubles. But he did convince those who met him and heard his simple talks that he was an honest man and a sincere one. And what is even more valuable in politics, he was able to get over to the common men and women that he was one of them, and that if elected to the Senate he wouldn't change one dot or title. Like Abraham Lincoln whom he loves so well to quote, Hawkes appeared to be stumbling through a series of political failures to the very brink of political success. His enemies, as he remarked in East Orange recently, were busy damning him with faint praise. But considerable evidence was accumulating that they had mis-judged the appeal he would make to the rank-and-file voter. The nomination was far from being his—the odds in fact were probably still in favor of Wilson—but more and more leaders—especially in Essex—had a suspicion that the politically astute Vanderbilt rather than the untutored Hawkes had made the major mistake. They weren't sure, but certainly the Montclair industrialist was giving the Short Hills lawyer something to think about.

Actually, the elimination of the greatest boon Hawkes has received. Getting rid of this troublesome ticket saved Clean Government from the necessity of making a hard political fight. Not wanting to make such a fight, Clean Government was thankful to Justice Coie for the decision. But at the same time the Coie ruling fitted into Hawkes' campaigning technique perfectly. He never wanted a knock-down, drag-out fight in the first place. Not being a politician, he didn't see why it was necessary to attack someone else to get elected himself. Some of his advisers were all for making Vanderbilt the main target of the campaign. But instinctively, Hawkes demurred. He spoke of Lloyd Marsh as a "boss" but he was always careful to style Vanderbilt as a "leader". Actually this was exceedingly smart politics. Scores of men usually associated with Vanderbilt are now supporting Hawkes. To have attacked Vanderbilt would have tended to alienate them without bringing any compensating gains. Vanderbilt's enemies are certain to support Hawkes as the best way of getting even with the Short Hills lawyer. And every time he gets the support of a friend, it means a double vote in his favor.

From the above the reader would be likely to assume that Wilson doesn't count much personally, that the campaign is essentially between Hawkes and Vanderbilt. That is hardly the case. Wilson is a good campaigner and has a message that is very much in tune with these hectic times. It may be possible during the remaining days of the campaign for him to get his message over, but right now the odds appear in favor of Hawkes.

The Clean Government campaign against Fred A. Hartley in the 10th District is developing very differently from that against Hawkes, but the odds here too seem to be in Hartley's favor. It is a little too early to make predictions, but it can be said that more people expect Hartley to win than do Mayor Williams.

Wartime use of PARTY LINE Telephones

USING party line service with full consideration for neighbors on the line is more important today than ever. All telephone facilities are now serving close to capacity and war needs for materials prevent enlarging the system.

A large part of each day's tremendous volume of calling is to and from party line telephones, for more than half of the telephones in New Jersey homes are on party lines. These lines serve two, four or more families, and their use for unnecessary calls or unduly long conversations can delay necessary service for many persons.

Being a good party line neighbor is a matter of following accepted practices that make the service most satisfactory and effective for everybody on the line.

These practices are: answer promptly; talk briefly; avoid unnecessary calls or a series of calls; and replace the receiver carefully after calling, to keep the line from being temporarily out of service.

Selichos Service Planned By Congregation A.A.A.

The time-honored Selichos Service, which is part of the High Holiday preparation of the Jewish people will be held in the Synagogue of Congregation Ahavas Achim according to an announcement by Edward J. Abramson, president, this Saturday night, at 12:30 a.m. Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin, of the Congregation will officiate.
The Selichos ceremonial originated many centuries ago. It consists of the chanting of a group of individual poems, essays, and prayers, written by the great
Rabbis and sages of former years.
Some of the Selichos can be traced back to the seventh century.

The word "Selichos" is derived from the Hebrew source "Selicha" which means "forgiveness." In the ritual, the individual Jew is exhorted to repent and to prepare himself for the searchings of the Yomin Noraim, the High Holydays. He is thus reminded of Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur, and of their deep significance.

Rabbi Dobin has prepared a special English rendition of the Selichos which will be used in addition to the traditional Hebrew version.

The Case AGAINST HARTLEY

Compiled from His Record of Votes on Foreign Issues as a Member of Congress

Explanation of These 8 Measures!

No. 1. Repeal of Mandatory Arms Embargo — On June 30, 1939, the House of Representatives adopted the Vorys (Rep., Ohio) amendment providing for a mandatory embargo on the export of arms and ammunition to belligerent states. This made it impossible to ship necessary supplies to England after her declaration of war on Germany. The effort to continue the embargo was defeated by a vote of 243 to 181 on November 2, 1939. It is this latter roll call which is given here and for which Hartley's vote was cast to continue the embargo, thus attempt- ing to block shipment of vital war materials to Britain.

No. 2. Neutrality Revision — On November 3, 1939, the House, by a vote of 244 to 171, modified the neutrality law suffi- ciently to open the door to more specific aid to the Allied Nations. Even at this late date, Hartley and 170 other Congress- men voted to retain a law which was completely unrealistic.

No. 3. Military Airplane Appropriation — On June 22, 1939, an amendment to an army appropriation bill, cutting 1,283 planes and $37,000,000 out of the bill, was defeated by a 217-150 vote. The amendment was offered only two months before the fall of Poland, at a time when Lindbergh and others were claiming that Germany had such air superiority as to make resistance futile. Hartley and 149 others voted against these 1,283 planes, a terrible mistake for ANY member of Congress.

No. 4. The Conscription Bill — By September 9, 1940, the voluntary enlistment system had broken down. The issue of conscription was the issue of both defense and democracy. It is no more democratic, and no more possible, to put military service on a voluntary basis than it is to make taxation volun- tary. The Conscription Bill passed the House with a vote of 263 to 145, with Hartley casting his vote AGAINST this vital measure for NATIONAL DEFENSE.

No. 5. The Lend-Lease Bill — By 1941 it was clear that if the war were to continue, the United States would have to become in fact the arsenal of democracy. Liberal credit would have to be extended to the nations engaged in the fight against Hitler. On February 6, 1941, the Lend-Lease Bill was passed by a vote of 260 to 165, the most important vote in recent years. It amounted to a declaration that our resources would back England and her Allies when their own resources were ex- hausted. Again Hartley voted AGAINST this vital piece of legislation which would provide direct aid to the British. (Hartley reversed his next vote, however, to approve the first Lend-Lease Appropriation Bill on March 19, 1941).

No. 6. Extension of the Draft — On August 12, 1941, the House voted 203 to 202 to extend the period of service of draftees for eighteen months. This willingness to disband the U. S. Army, less than four months before Pearl Harbor, shows the complete lack of understanding among half of our Repre- sentatives, of the nature of this war and the consequences to our own people of Fascist world control. Hartley again voted AGAINST this national defense bill.

No. 7. Ban on Arming Ships — The arming of ships had become necessary if we were to deliver lend-lease material to Britain. The bill repealing the ban was passed on Octobr 17, 1941 with a vote of 259 to 138. This bill was passed in spite of Hartley's vote AGAINST this measure, aimed to protect our un-armed merchant ships at sea.

No. 8. Lift Belligerent Port and Combat-Zone Bans — This modification had become necessary in the delivery of lend-lease material to nations fighting fascism, especially Great Britain. Only THREE WEEKS before Pearl Harbor, it passed by the narrow margin of 212 to 194 votes on November 13, 1941. And again Hartley voted AGAINST this bill to provide direct aid to those nations who were to be our Allies within three short weeks.

MISTAKES!

Unpardonable and Unforgettable!

Records of Congress show that Hartley voted "WRONG" on these 8 vital bills . . . Mistakes which would have completely crippled our nation on the eve of a terrible war.

100 Friends Gather To Bid Peter Iaciello Farewell

Mrs. Carmela Carsillo Entertains; Nephew of William Morrisons Enlists In The Navy; Daughter to Jack Harris; Mrs. John Serritella In Asbury Park

Something to remember was his farewell party given for Peter Iaciello on Saturday evening, August 22nd, when his parents, the Thomas Iaciellos of Brighton avenue, entertained 100 guests in his honor. Reason was Peter's leaving for the army on August 25th, and the garden party given at the Brighton avenue address gave everyone opportunity to wish him well. Peter is the second of the Iaciellos to join the army. Another son, Anthony, who is stationed at Drew Field, Fla., left in September, 1941.

Mrs. Carmela Carsillo of Belmont avenue had as dinner guests on Sunday, August 23rd, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Marinaccio, son-in-law and daughter; Miss Violet Carbone, niece of Mrs. Carsillo, all of Atlantic Highlands, and Miss Josephine Carsillo of Asbury Park. It was a family farewell dinner for the son, Robert, who left the following Tuesday for induction in the army.

Charles DeVine, of Bloomfield, formerly of this town, volunteered in the navy and is now stationed in Newport, R. I. He is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison of Franklin street, and left two weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harris of Franklin street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Amelia Ann, born at the Columbus hospital, Newark.

Mrs. John J. Serritella and her daughter, Theodora, and Mrs. Ralph Giordano spent last week in Asbury Park. Mr. Serritella and Mr. Giordano joined them for the weekend when they all returned together.

Several weeks ago it was stated that Mr. and Mrs. Michael LePonde of Newark, former residents of this town, were receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Joan Anita. This should have read Mr. and Mrs. Michael DeMeo.

Farewell Party

A party was held Sunday evening, August 23rd, for Lester Robert Lockhart at his home, 36 Clinton street, who left the next morning for service in the navy. The Ramblers, a roller skating club of which he was a member, presented him with a ring. He is the son of Mrs. Sophie Lockhart.

Howard M. Byles, Jr. of Union avenue is a student at the second summer session of Franklin Marshall college, Lancaster, Pa. He is a senior at that institution where summer classes have been conducted in line with the accelerated educational program of the country. A graduate of the local high school, Byles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Byles.

Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes of Philadelphia returned to her home a week ago Friday after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Verdon of Fairview place. Mrs. Hayes was formerly a resident of Belleville.

Kamen Chairman of Reunion For 78th Veterans Division

Past President of the 78th Division Veterans association, Jerry Kamen of 139 New street is general chairman of the reunion committee making plans for the affair to be held at the 312th Infantry Memorial Home, 620 High street, Newark, on September 12 and 13.

The original 78th was the first organization formed at Fort Dix and was composed of men from the states of New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Eastern Pennsylvania. It saw active service at St. Mihiel, The Limy Section and The Muese Argonne.

Saturday September 12 a professional show will be given, followed by a performance staged by men who performed in their A.E.F. shows. Sunday noon, September 13, following the business meeting, there will be election of officers and a memorial service. A real old fashioned out-door dinner will be served, but the real highlight of the two day gathering will be the opportunity for the men to gather and speak of the organization back in the army, to boast of sons in service and to talk over their present day obligations.

Advance reservations may be made by writing the national secretary, Raymond Taylor, Box No. 482, Closter.
