Jr. Red Cross Enrollment

The American Junior Red Cross annual enrollment for service will take place between Sunday and November 15. Mrs. William H. Williams, chairman of Junior Red Cross activities announced this week. The goal is to enroll every school 100 percent in this, the 25th anniversary year of service to the community and the nation.

In Belleville approximately 7,500 school students are a part of the more than 14 million young people who go to make up this great organization. Since this country's entry into the war the Junior Red Cross has made more than three million articles for the armed forces, including some twenty items, such as ping-pong tables, ash trays, lamps, afghans and many others.

They participated in the Victory book campaign and in the "War on Waste", the Junior Red Cross salvage program.

The annual enrollment is not a fund-raising one, but simply the enrollment of members who carry out the many services performed. After joining, Junior Red Cross members choose their own activities from a nationally approved list, raise their own funds and purchase the necessary supplies to make the many articles they turn out.

Rootree Branch Meeting

The Rootree branch of the International Sunshine society will hold a business meeting on November 4 when plans for a card party to be held later in the month will be made.

Young Pianist Highlights Symphony's First Concert

The Nutley Symphony society held its first concert of the sixth season Tuesday night before a well-filled house. The orchestra was conducted by Mr. Cambrourakis, who interpreted with feeling all selections, while the orchestra followed with well versed reading.

The soloist was Walter Hendt, young American pianist and conductor, who is a graduate of the Curtis Institute of Music and a pupil of Fritz Reiner. He is studying with Serge Koussevitzky and conducted the Berkshire Music center in the summers of 1941 and 1942.

Interested in contemporary music, he chose as his offering Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 2. Hendt showed the essential understanding of Rachmaninoff and played with a warmth and surety of touch which made him well liked by the audience. He is notably good for his diminutive size and even the maximum attention. The crescendos he attacks with vigor and power and the diminuendos with a lightness and delicacy of feeling, which carry the audience with him by the definite contrast.

Orchestra Too Loud

Although Hendt's playing was excellent, Cambrourakis did not keep the orchestra down enough in places, so that the piano was often times subdued to the orchestra, when it should have been otherwise. Particularly in the Allegro passages was this noticeable. The first violins, directly behind Hendt overpowered him at times so that the piano could hardly be heard, but the fault was with the orchestra and not with Hendt. As an encore Hendt played two short preludes by Shostakovich.

Evon Crossley, Nutley lawyer, narrated the score for "Peter and the Wolf" by Prokofiev, a slight piece in which the orchestra and Crossley cooperated to produce this symphonic fairy tale, which sometimes reminds one of Uncle Sam. Crossley's diction and tone were both excellent and were enjoyed by the numerous young people attending.

The orchestra, which began with Mozart's "Magic Flute Overture" and included Jannefetti's "Berceuse and Prelude," with the solo passages well intoned by Carl Schaefer, concert master, ended with Copland's "Outdoor Overture." These pieces were well chosen as the correct medium for the size and talent of the orchestra, and Cambrourakis showed his understanding of the orchestral possibilities, by his direction, although at times, he overestimated its power and forced it to a pitch of which it was not capable.

Before the broadcast, Mrs. Willette was interviewed by Professor McDougal of Trenton State Teachers college. Mrs. Willette stated that it was the desire, to bring to the minds of people the seriousness of the services rendered by those holding public jobs that prompted her to give each department of the civilian defense councils a part in the play. The whole plot points to the work being done by volunteers and auxiliary groups.

Mrs. Willette also read a poem composed by her, which is dedicated to Negro soldiers for their loyal attitude under trying conditions.

PUBLIC SERVICE

DeWitt Avenue Servicemen Fighting On Many Fronts

Neighborhood Honors 29 Youth Sunday At Flag-Raising; Two On Guadalcanal; One Among The Heroes At Pearl Harbor

It's an all-out war for that block of De Witt avenue between Belleville and Van Houten place. That's why a service flag with twenty-six stars will wave over the street next Sunday and afterward.

Except for a few who have been deferred and a few who will be eligible in the 18-20 draft, that part of De Witt avenue has no more sons to send into the armed services. The rest of the block's eligible young men are fighting, and youngsters and oldsters are the only ones left.

The banner is the gift of the block residents including those with no sons in service. A special invitation to witness the services next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 has been extended to all the relatives of the servicemen. The honored guests will include the members of the town commission and clergy.

The honor roll of the boys in service includes: Captain George L. Bickell, Alfred T. Boulard, John F. and Joseph A. Breen, Joseph B. Clark, Edward R. Daniels, James J. Dunne, Frank J. Fleming, Joseph G. Fleming, Edward A. Flynn, John J. Kant, Nelson S. Kapp, James A. Kennedy, Midshipman James J. Kennedy Jr., Vincent DeP. Kennedy, William H. Kennedy, Edward W. Larrange, William J. Liebman, John J. Maguire, Chester J. Michaels, Andrew F. Monaghan, John Monaghan, James D. Salmon, William J. Salmon, James T. Smith, John Steeb, Lieut. William T. Sullivan, Lieut. Frederick J. Frost, and Lieut. W. A. Whitcomb 3rd.

Capt. Bickell was one of the many heroes on the day of the Jap assault at Pearl Harbor. He managed to get his plane off the ground but before he could gain sufficient altitude he was shot down into the waters on the bay. He swam ashore, jumped into another plane and returned to the battle. Capt. Bickell is a son-in-law of Dr. Edward A. Flynn and Mrs. Flynn. From the same household, Joseph B. Clark, a nephew of Mrs. Flynn, is serving on the submarine Trout in enemy waters. He was recently cited for bravery under fire.

At least three other boys from this block are fighting the Japs in the Southwest Pacific. William J. Salmon and William J. Liebman are with the marines at Guadalcanal. James F. Salmon, another marine, is in New Guinea. William J. Salmon, who was aboard the transport U. S. S. George F. Elliott before it was torpedoed, describing his arrival to his parents, said, "I'm at Guadalcanal island enjoying everything the South Pacific has to offer. We engaged the enemy and won probably know the outcome of the battle." In a similar message to his parents, Liebman said he was enjoying the country, the people and the fight. John J. Kant was a naval gunner on a merchant ship that was torpedoed in the Atlantic several months ago. Other boys from the block are serving overseas, some in England and Ireland.

Through the overseas branch of the Office of War Information messages from relatives were broadcast by show wave to Midshipman Kennedy, William J. Salmon, Liebman and Clark. Lieut. Col. Chester Mueller of the army and Lieut. Robert B. Caspar of the navy will speak.

The resolution which was sponsored by Mrs. John P. O'Brien Jr., and was approved by the club president, Mrs. John DeNike, states as follows:

"In order to further the best interests of the women of Essex county, and to give to them all of those rights to which they are entitled under the constitution of these United States, and because the County of Essex is refusing to women equal rights with men."

The resolution which was sponsored by Mrs. John P. O'Brien Jr., and was approved by the club president, Mrs. John DeNike, states as follows:

"Be it resolved, that this organization go on record as favoring the placing of women on that footing of equality with men to which they are entitled by allowing them to serve upon both the petit and grand juries of this county."

way Pvt. James Carlon of the U. S. marines describes his reaction to experiences he had while seeing action in the Southwest Pacific.

While he did not say so in the letter, it is believed by his friends that Carlon, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Carlon of 5 Union avenue, was in the Solomon Islands. In the letter he speaks of meeting another local youth, William Salmon, also in marines, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Salmon of 36 DeWitt avenue. Salmon is known to be on Guadalcanal.

Stating that he had met Salmon last July, Carlon commented: "We almost had tears in our eyes."

Almost everyone knows where he was, Carlon wrote, but the navy has given them instructions that they can not mention where they are in the South Pacific yet. He is now at the U. S. naval hospital in San Diego, Calif., recuperating from an injury.

Discussing the sight of men kneeling down to pray, he added: "Prayers do the trick. And boys who were up in those islands where I came from really need all they can get. Please keep praying for them. I may sound a bit odd but I know what I'm writing about now."

DEVIL DOG WRITES OF MEN PRAYING

James Carlon Also Tells Of Meeting Bill Salmon, Another Marine

"I saw boys who were as tough as they come break down and say more prayers than they probably said in their whole life," was the way Pvt. James Carlon of the U. S. marines describes his reaction to experiences he had while seeing action in the Southwest Pacific.

While he did not say so in the letter, it is believed by his friends that Carlon, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Carlon of 5 Union avenue, was in the Solomon Islands. In the letter he speaks of meeting another local youth, William Salmon, also in marines, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Salmon of 36 DeWitt avenue. Salmon is known to be on Guadalcanal.

Stating that he had met Salmon last July, Carlon commented: "We almost had tears in our eyes."

Almost everyone knows where he was, Carlon wrote, but the navy has given them instructions that they can not mention where they are in the South Pacific yet. He is now at the U. S. naval hospital in San Diego, Calif., recuperating from an injury.

Discussing the sight of men kneeling down to pray, he added: "Prayers do the trick. And boys who were up in those islands where I came from really need all they can get. Please keep praying for them. I may sound a bit odd but I know what I'm writing about now."

Carlon has been a lifelong resident of town. He is a member of the Petrean club and well known in St. Peter's circles.

"For Home And Country"

The Community and War Chest Campaign for Belleville, now under way, is absolutely different from any previous Welfare Drive in this section. It has a direct bearing on the greatest crusade in history, for to the regular Community Chest is added the United War Chest, which will finance the U.S.O., Navy Relief, and Prisoners' Relief. The U.S.O. has over 1,000 social centers for the boys around camps here and abroad. Prisoners' Relief helps feed and take care of our people who are behind barbed wires in enemy countries.

The needs of our own Community Service Bureau have increased, the day-time care of the children of working mothers places additional responsibilities upon social agencies. Character building agencies are more needed than ever, for crime waves among youth always come with wars.

Why not double your last year's subscription to the Belleville Community and War Chest, for the need is double.

NON-FICTION GAINS, MAGAZINE AIDE TELLS CLUB GROUP

Bernard O'Donnell Says It's Now Written More Interestingly And Concisely

The literature department of the Woman's club met Monday with Bernard O'Donnell of Harper's Magazine as the main speaker. O'Donnell has travelled in all of the 48 states lecturing to various women's clubs. He stated that there will be a great place for women in publishing, now and after the war. There are twice as many women in publishing now than there were a year ago, he said.

O'Donnell stated that trends in publishing have now turned to detective stories, comics, and serious reading. Non-fiction is fast gaining a foothold during the war because it is being written in a more interesting style and more clearly and concisely than it ever was before, while fiction reading has been cut in half.

Civilians and soldiers alike turn more frequently towards religious reading, he said. Such a trend is always apparent during war, but it differs in this war from the last, when spiritualism and other supernatural trends held sway, O'Donnell explained.

Best After The War
Good creative writing does not come out of the war because people are too closely involved to see facts objectively. So far, Mr. O'Donnell says, lots of poetry is being written by the soldiers but none of it is very good. During the last war, nurses wrote the most poetry. The best literature will be written after the war, according to O'Donnell.

Publishing has become extremely difficult because of transportation facilities, and the fact that many manuscripts must go through army and navy censorship, he said. Publishing has always been a hazardous business at best, now it is doubly so and manuscripts must be chosen with an eye to commercial possibilities as well as literary ones.

O'Donnell exhibited original manuscripts of modern writers, and Mrs. Oscar Joseph, a woman's club member, read "The Murder of Lidice" by Edna St. Vincent Millay.

It must be tiring to ride a broomstick year after endless year, or to howl when one feels happy, but apparently the spirits are not quitting this year. gressman is in the hardest fight of his career to retain his seat in congress. In addition to the campaign attack which has been waged by Bigelow, Newark building superintendent and architect, the congressman has various labor groups aligned against him.

Hope To Lure G. O. P. Votes
Because of the 52-vote margin by which he won the Republican congressional nomination from Mayor Williams in the primaries, Democrats predict that Bigelow will be the winner with the aid of votes they count on receiving from Republicans who will oppose Hartley because of his foreign policy record.

His 60-year-old opponent has held the building superintendency for the past 20 years. He is a veteran of the world war and has served Newark, the Essex County Park commission and the state as an architect on various projects.

Hartley's appearances throughout the district have been much more numerous in the general election campaign than they were during the primary. Pledged support by the Clean Government Republican organization, which opposed him during the September primary, the representative has sought to rebuild his fences in Kearny where he lost the town by more than 700 votes to Williams in the primary.

Based on the showing which he made here in the September primaries, Hawkes' supporters believe that he will carry the town by a big margin over Senator William H. Smathers. In the primary Hawkes trailed Wilson, the Clean Government choice, by only 190 votes.

In past campaigns, Hartley has led the Republican candidates in town, piling up some of his biggest votes in the district here in Belleville.

American Tradition

We think a lot of them, we Americans, as the world is coming to find out.

We think of neighborliness as an American tradition, and that is one reason why we like the idea of a Community Chest, it's neighborly.

This year we are going to give more than last year, because this year there are five million American men who will not be around to contribute. They are too busy making their contribution to American tradition elsewhere! We are going to throw in something extra for them.

FUEL OIL

Applications from their dealers, they should apply to the ration board at 460 Washington street.

The teachers who will serve as fuel oil aides here in Nutley will meet tomorrow afternoon at 4 p. m. in School No. 8 to receive instructions from John Ryan, representing the OPA, on how to fill out the forms.

The registration of all dealers for fuel oil and kerosene which is scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday has been postponed again by OPA order because of the necessary forms have not been received in the state from Washington. No date has been set yet for the registration.

Copies of the fuel oil calculation tables which will be used by board in establishing the amounts which are to be rationed applicants have been received. A 63-page booklet contains specific calculation tables for groups in the same temperature zone, and for groups of counties and sub-counties in each state.

New Jersey, for example, is divided into three districts with Essex, Morris, Passaic, Sussex, and Warren counties in the lowest temperature group; Hudson, Hunterdon, Mercer, Middlesex, Somerset, and Union counties in the next higher temperature classification; and Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Cape May, Cumberland, Gloucester, Monmouth, Ocean and Salem counties in the highest temperature category.

The calculation tables, OPA explained, were compiled on the basis of exact scientific data covering average temperatures in the state for many years, and on fuel consumption records kept by fuel companies over a long period, showing the maximum and minimum ranges of fuel oil rations which may be allotted for all floor areas from 100 to 4,000 square feet.

You Figure It Out

The tables are divided into five columns. The first column lists the area in square feet from 100 to 4,000, at intervals of ten. The second, third, and fourth columns show the maximum, minimum, and minimum rations allowed for central heating for the respective floor areas. Column five lists floor areas in square feet to be heated by space heaters (portable heaters and room stoves, etc.) and runs from 83 square feet to 3,333, showing the same ration range as the first column.

One hundred square feet heated by a central heater requires the same quantity of oil as a space heater used to heat 83 square feet.

To show the difference in fuel consumption for a centrally heated six-room house of 1,500 square feet, OPA cited the following figures taken from the calculation tables:

1. In the low-temperature group of counties, the maximum basic ration is 1607 gallons, and the minimum is 1233.

2. In the middle temperature group the maximum is 1473 gallons and the minimum is 1130 gallons.

3. In the higher temperature group the maximum is 1339 gallons, and the minimum is 1027 gallons.

OPA also illustrated the use of the calculation tables by showing how three different applicants would fare in securing fuel oil rations. The three examples are based on houses of the same size, 2,000 square feet, located in the low temperature counties, with four members in the family, one of whom is under four years old, and which heats hot water for 12 months. House number one used less than normal fuel oil last year; house number two used a normal quantity; and house number three used more than normal due to faulty furnace adjustment and lack of insulation.

House No. 1 which last year used less than normal consumption, 2454 gallons, for heating and hot water will be allotted 2024 gallons this year.

House No. 2, which last year used a normal quantity, 3,000 gallons, will be allotted 2,272 gallons.

House No. 3, which last year used more than a normal quantity, 4,000 gallons, will be given 2523 gallons this year.

CHEST DRIVE

The principals who are heading the house-to-house canvass in the campaign gave optimistic reports to Manager Kittle this week, claiming greater enthusiasm on the part of the public and an apparent willingness to give more than they did last year.

In the School No. 1 district, Miss Alice McDevitt, principal, reported that each volunteer worker was canvassing about 15 families. Enthusiased canvassers, she said, were most pleased about the organization of the drive.

"There's been a wonderful reception by the citizens for our workers," commented Henry Minasian, principal of Schools No. 2 and 10. "Some were surprised that the workers were not paid, but it was quickly explained to them that no one gets paid except the executive secretary."

In the School No. 3 area, which topped all other districts in returns for the first week, Principal William F. Richards, declared: "Increases in contributions have been universal. In some cases they were double what the same people gave last year."

She's Glad To Help

"I have no sons in this war, but I'm glad I can help some other mother's son a little. Last year we gave $2. This year we are giving $5. We wish that we could give more," was the comment of one subscriber there, Richards reported.

Robert N. Haynes, School No. 4 principal, said his workers sent in reports that residents are eager to discuss the merits of the drive and that some families had their contributions ready when volunteers called on them. In the School No. 7 region, Mrs. Catherine C. Hardwick, principal, told Kittle that 68 new subscribers had been secured in the drive.

Money From Salvage Sale First Chest Contribution

The first contribution to the Community - War Chest campaign was made by Joseph Juras of Little street, who is head of the Globe Store Equipment company of 458 Broad street, Newark.

Through the sale of four and one-half tons of outmoded and damaged store equipment during the salvage drive, Juras received $75 which he promptly turned over to the campaign. Included in the equipment which he gave to the scrap pile were 80 weighing scales, 15 slicing machines and an equal number of cash registers.

Campaign Manager Hugh D. Kittle received a check for $45 from an unexpected source this week accompanied by a letter from James T. Metz, manager of the life, accident and group departments of The Travelers Insurance company at the Rockefeller Center branch office in New York. It represented the balance in the treasury on deposit with the bank of the now defunct Belleville Citizens' league.

With a membership of 45 or 50, the group was active around 1930. Metz wrote that he had decided to turn the money over to the campaign after conferring with two local residents, Harry Brumbach and Norman Cooper.

The first two days of campaigning and that it was typical of the response shown daily there. One high school student in the first week covered twice the number of homes usually assigned to an individual.

Miss Viola S. Broadbent, principal at School No. 8, said that some who are required to give where they are employed, after volunteers had talked to them about the necessity for the success of the local campaign, were agreeable to contributing something in town.

The response in the No. 9 district where Thomas Gryczka is the school principal has been very good, he reported. Fifteen new subscribers were gained in the first day that workers were out in the neighborhood.

Americans who are now spending $227,000,000 a day on the war have provided, through their government, over $13,000,000,000 for new war plants and are working more than 5 hours a week longer in their factories and are being paid on the average of 85 cents an hour.

Open Letter From Leader

We are aiming to triple last year's house-to-house total of slightly over $3,000. All indications point toward the success of this goal. If it is achieved, it will be due first of all to the excellent organizing ability of Belleville's eight elementary school principals. Coupled with their enthusiasm is the voluntary assistance of nearly 1,000 townspeople—including parents, teachers and school students.

The town is being covered so thoroughly because it is divided according to districts whose captains are well acquainted with their own territory.

We all realize the absolute necessity for achieving our goal. At this early stage of the drive—with 10 days yet to go—I wish to publicly thank all these principals and their workers. The way they have begun makes us optimistic about our final report. With every resident cooperating by anticipating the visits of the callers and being ready to give all that they can, the workers' otherwise thankless efforts will not be in vain. Our goal will be successful.

HAROLD DUFFORD,
Chairman, House-to-House Division.

Who Gets What?

Although it has been published several times, there have been numerous inquiries made by residents about how the Community - War Chest funds will be divided. At the outset of the drive, based upon achieving the quota of $35,000, the finance committee allocated funds to the various participating organizations. If the quota is not made, the money will be distributed proportionately.

Here is how it is proposed to divide the money if $35,000 is secured:

U. S. O.	$12,500
Community Service bureau	10,000
Boy Scouts	2,725
Girl Scouts	1,350
Visiting Nurses' association	1,000
Navy Relief society ..	1,000
Silver Lake Community House	700
Administration, publicity	1,350
Total	$30,625

In addition, there have been requests from numerous other war relief agencies. The finance committee lumped all of these and decided that the remainder of the $35,000, if raised, would be divided proportionately among them. Organizations which would benefit include the Greek, Russian, Chinese and YMCA war relief funds, the Queen Wilhelmina fund and the YMCA Prisoners' fund.

Sutherland, enthused over the collection of scrap from the first town-wide drive, which has far exceeded the original estimates of about 100 tons collected, is hopeful that the elementary school pupils will turn up between another 50 to 100 tons.

The high school students will not take part in this program because of their participation in the community - war chest campaign and other activities which are being outlined for them under the victory corps program which has been planned in cooperation with the U. S. department of education for high schools throughout the country.

Photographers Can Enter Red Cross Picture Contest

A contest open to amateur or professional photographers, either civilians or members of the armed forces, has been announced by the National Red Cross through its local branch. Its purpose is to secure worthwhile pictures of Red Cross activities.

The Photographic Society of America has arranged to donate prizes of more than $5,000 in war bonds. The contest will continue until the end of December and entrants may mail any number of prints to the contest director at 598 Madison avenue, New York City.

Pictures are to be mailed flat with the entrant's name and address and a brief description of the subject printed on the back. They are asked to keep records of the names of individuals in the pictures who can be identified; also to retain the negatives on file. The Red Cross plans to purchase at $5 a print any usable pictures which have not taken prizes. No picture may be larger than 10 inches in the longest dimension and, while there is no minimum restriction, it is understood that 5x7 inch pictures are preferred.

The chapter has forwarded to the Belleville Camera club information regarding various Red Cross activities such as the visit on November 20 of the mobile unit for the collection of blood. Any civilian who wishes to photograph any other incident which depicts a Red Cross unit in action is invited to submit his work. The contest is not open to salaried employees of the organization.

Voted To Avoid War Till We Were Prepared

My opponents in this campaign have resurrected the foreign policy issues on which I was judged by my constituents in the 1940 election, as a flimsy pretext to repeat the canard that I voted to keep America weak and unprepared. I refer to my votes against the repeal of the arms embargo, arming our merchantmen, seizure of Axis ships and extension of the belligerent zones.

These identical matters were the dominant issues of the campaign two years ago, and from them stem the same false accusations that are again being directed at me by the elements who would purge me from Congress.

The voters of the 10th Congressional District, however, left no room for doubt as to where they stood. They re-elected me by the largest majority I have ever received in my 18 years in office, a majority of 19,000 votes more than my opponent received.

They knew that I was not voting against measures to arm and fortify America—a thing I have never done—and they knew, too, that my votes were on matters of foreign policy, which were acts of intervention which I declared would eventually involve us in the war.

Do not overlook the fact that all these votes were cast while we were at peace, in years when the pronounced policy of this country was supposed to be one of neutrality.

Furthermore, they were cast with the expressed approval of the citizens of my district. I asked the advice of my constituents by sending, at my own expense, a questionnaire to every voter in my district.

To my question, "Do you favor our declaring war?" they voted NO, by 48,222 to 1,860. To the question whether the U. S. should remain neutral or should intervene by "methods short of war," they cast a resounding vote against intervention, 32,749 to 15,688. When asked whether we should continue selling planes from our Air Force and ships from our Navy to Great Britain my constituents voted NO, 31,159 to 17,296, and they rejected the idea of extending credit if allied cash gave out, by a vote of 31,165 to 17,352.

I had the full concurrence of my constituents in those days when I tried my best to prevent our involvement in war until we were prepared to fight. And at the same time they approved my course in fighting for every appropriation for national defense the Army, Navy and Air Forces asked for.

THE REAL HARTLEY

Fred A. Hartley, Jr.

'Bund' Lie Blasted "I Don't Even Know a Nazi"

The campaign to smear me with the taint of Hitler is based on two years of malicious misrepresentation to the effect that on July 14, 1940, I attended a gathering of pro-Nazi subversive elements. My every act in Congress for several years past has since been linked to that event, which has been variously described in the press as a meeting, an outing or a picnic of the infamous German-American Bund, a gathering of Axis agitators, an outing of Nazi adherents or followers, and the like. Such characterizations are outright lies; there is not a single word of truth in any of them.

I never in my life, publicly or privately, attended any meeting or gathering anywhere of the Bund or any other fifth-column organization or group. To my knowledge, I do not even know a single member of the Bund or of any other subversive outfit.

The outing at Springfield, July 14th, 1940, was the annual family picnic of the Federation of German-American Societies, which was founded nearly 80 years ago during the Civil War. No swastikas had ever been flown at any of their annual picnics or meetings, and no official program, containing pro-Nazi sentiments as is alleged, was issued by either the Federation or its committee in charge of the picnic. I had been attending the picnics annually for 12 years, and on this occasion spent about 20 minutes in the grove, long enough to deliver a patriotic address from the bandstand.

This event happened four months before I was re-elected in 1940 by the largest majority of my career. It was the dominant issue in that campaign, and the people passed judgment on it at that time.

Hartley's Stand On Selective Service

The elements who are trying to purge me from the Congress have labored desperately to make out a case against me, based on only one of the several phases of our peacetime foreign policy on which I consulted with my constituents in the now-famous poll of May, 1940. That related to conscription of our man power.

My stand then, and my vote in the House on Selective Service four months later, was squarely in line with the official, fixed policy of both the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Both of those great national veterans' organizations had adopted similar resolutions expressing the identical thought.

The wording of the American Legion resolution on the subject was:

"We favor a policy of universal military training . . . We are strongly opposed to compulsory military service in time of peace."

We were at peace. The great cry was to prepare ourselves against attack. But we were not being asked to provide a vast reservoir of man power—the very notion of the ten-million-men army now talked about would have been regarded as fantastic. Our military leaders in all their appearances before Congressional committees asked only for 750,000 men. We already had 423,000 in the Regular Army and National Guard, and every enlistment quota set by the military had been met by the volunteer system.

The British Prime Minister did not want our men. Winston Churchill cried, "Give us the tools, we will finish the job." President Roosevelt repeatedly addressed himself directly to the mothers and fathers of America over the radio with the assurance that their boys would not be called upon to fight on foreign soil. If these world leaders could be so mistaken, how could I be expected to anticipate present conditions more than two years in advance?

These are somber, sober days. Sacrifice and sorrow are reaching into all our homes. In this grim atmosphere of war my opponents in daily attacks try to make it appear that I tried to weaken our national defense under similar conditions. The facts are all to the contrary.

Selective Service is a proper method of raising an army in wartime when sacrifice is demanded of all of us. I am thoroughly in favor of it as a war measure. But I did not think this pick-out-of-the-hat lottery, for men of 21 to 35 years, was best for the country at peace more than two years ago. I believed we might have avoided the serious disturbance to the economic structure occasioned by the losses to business, industry, the professions, skilled trades and technical fields. Especially since the military chiefs advised us that voluntary enlistments were satisfactory. I declared publicly that if the voluntary system lagged, I would vote at once for conscription.

I've always strongly favored the universal military training of our youth in peacetime, which is a vastly different thing than compulsory military selective service.

ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM SET

Committee Abandons Usual Parade; To Hold Exercises In High School

Although the customary parade has been eliminated, Belleville will pay tribute to its dead of the last world war at exercises which will be held in the high school on Armistice night, Wednesday, November 11.

The decision to abandon the parade was reached at the meeting of representatives of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars with Mayor Williams this week.

Headling the list of speakers who will be heard at the program scheduled to start at 8 p. m. will be Common Pleas Judge Richard Hartshorne and Mayor Williams. Details of the program which is being arranged by the committee headed by George H. Weston will be announced next week.

All of the Gold Star Mothers of the last war and of the present conflict are being invited to attend. Since the committee does not have a complete list of these names, the women are requested to let the chairman or a member of the committee know their names and if they will attend.

Services On Sunday Night

COP ASKS LEAVE FOR WAR JOB

Board Studies Granting It To Chris Dotterweich, Expert Toolmaker

The board of commissioners, at the request of Mayor Williams, is considering the application of Christopher Dotterweich for leave of absence from his police duties to take a position as a toolmaker in a war plant.

An expert toolmaker, the patrolman, who is a veteran of the first world war, wrote in his letter requesting the leave that he could be of great service to his country in the trade in which he had been trained and had worked before becoming a member of the police department. The letter was addressed to Williams as the acting director of public safety.

The mayor said that it had been Chief Spatz's opinion that the application should not be approved, explaining that the police had taken an attitude similar to that which police heads throughout the state have assumed because of the men that they are losing to the service.

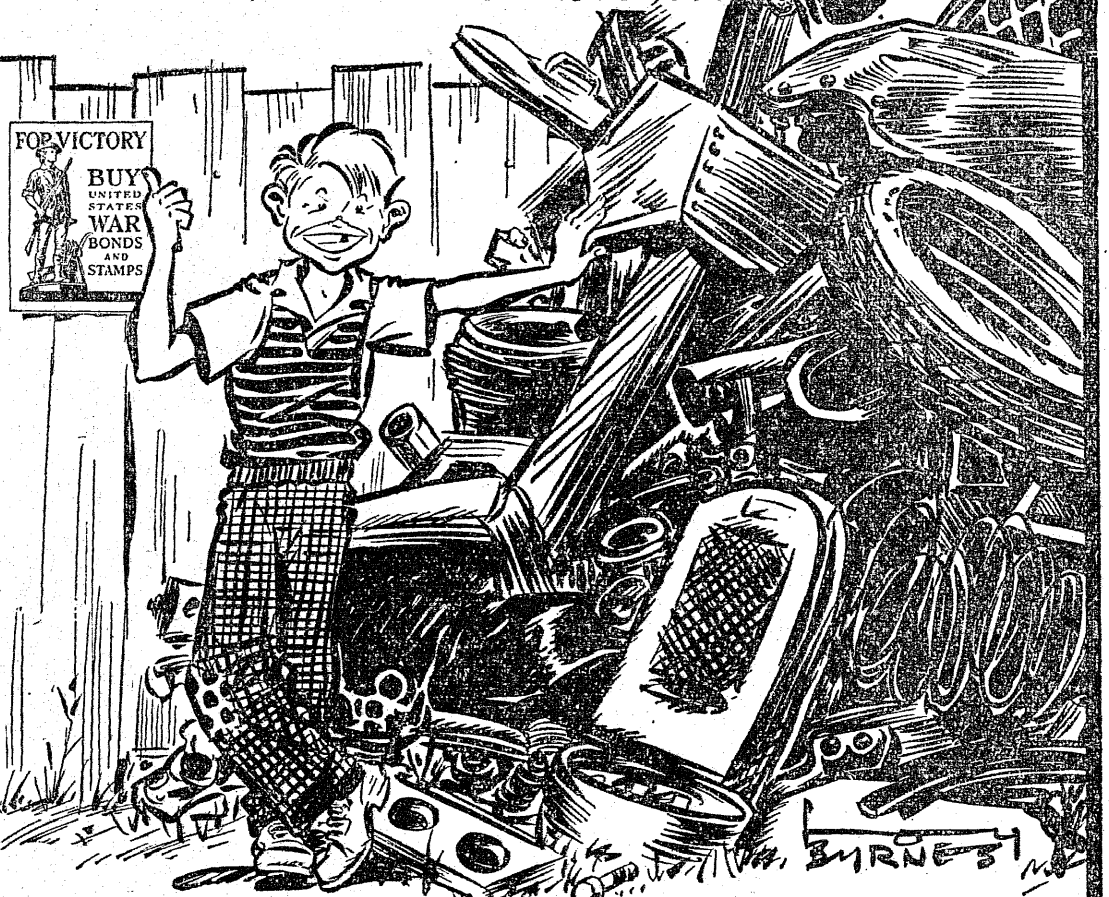

Williams said Dotterweich had tried to get into the service but was not accepted. He said there was merit to the man's argument in that toolmakers are badly needed in industry.

Commissioners Waters, Noll and King all expressed themselves as opposed to granting the application at first thought. Waters said there are other employees, including some in his department, who would want to be granted the same right.

No decision was made on the matter, Dotterweich, who was a champion amateur and profession-serve America's trucks, trailers, buses, taxis-including federal, state, and municipal owned units—as an efficient wartime reservoir of transportation. Thus all commercial motor vehicles after November 15, must possess certificates of war necessity. Without the latter, it will be impossible to buy gasoline, oil, tires, and automotive replacement parts. If you are a commercial vehicle operator, and have received your ODT application blank, fill it out completely, promptly, and send it in. If you have not been mailed a blank, get in touch with your nearest ODT district office. In New Jersey apply at the ODT offices in Atlantic City, Newark and Trenton.

Toothpaste Tubes Available For Soldiers' Presents

A wartime adage "which came first—the toothpaste or the tube?" plagued many a Garden State when the war production board ruled "no tube-no paste." Part of the nation wide conservation and salvage drive, it helped however to make most of us acutely scrap-conscious. With Christmas a'coming, WPB has relaxed its firm resolution. Yes, you can buy a tube of toothpaste or shaving cream without surrendering an old tube. But the purchase must be for members of the armed forces and form part of gift kits mailed directly to your soldier or sailor friend by the dealer.

WPB Requisitions Old Steel Rails

Remember when you went driving in pre-Pearl Harbor days and cursed out the pavement ruts around abandoned trolley car tracks. Well at the rate which the special projects section of the bureau of conservation is locating and removing such obsolete trackage in New Jersey, soon they'll be as rare in the land as Indian mounds and German American Bundists. Last week the special projects section of the Regional WPB announced it has requisitioned and would soon have torn up, some 500 tons of street car rail located in Long Island. As a result enough scrap steel will soon be available to provide for the construction of 8000—500 pound aerial bombs, or 20,000—50 calibre machine guns. (Not only will Uncle Sam obtain a sizable stockpile of good scrap steel, but those road ruts will disappear because the street surface will be repaved with suitable materials.)

New York Uncovers "Rubber Mine"

Up in Amsterdam, N. Y., there's a rubber mine in production. For five years before the war, a company that used to manufacture toy rubber footballs had dumped into a ravine behind its plant, "useless" rubber fabric clippings left after shaping the toy bladders. Seventy-five percent of those rejected clippings were composed of good grade rubber. So when the salvage drive began, the company started to mine the rubber dump heap. The bonanza has so far yielded 105 tons of scrap rubber, with an estimated 300 tons eventually.

War Contracts Listed

Attention manufacturers seeking possible war contracts: A series of industry operation charts, enabling businessmen in four important light manufacturing industries to tell at a glance what war items they can make and bid on, has been issued by the Regional WPB's production service department. The charts cover the needle working, woodworking, plastic, and leather and canvas goods fields. They list in simple graphic form the manufacturing operations necessary to the production of more than 300 items which the army, navy and other war procurement agencies are buying regularly. Typical items illustrated include wooden parts for gliders and trainers, and plastic components for shells. The charts are on display in WPB offices in Newark, Trenton and Camden.

Fuel Oil Heating Hints

Home owners who will burn fuel oil in their furnaces this winter: Here are important heating hints from OPA engineers to help you get along on your rationed supply of fuel.

Clean your chimney and flues; seal the airleaks in the furnace and boiler; have the oil burner given a combustion checkup by your service man; check the water in the radiators, and change it only if it is thick with rust; make sure the radiators are heating well in the room where the thermostat is located; clean the dirt out from between the radiator tubes and keep draperies or any objects that help prevent the free flow of heat from the radiators; insulate your unfinished attic floor; storm proof all windows and doors, and tack weather stripping around badly fitting windows; close off rooms you don't absolutely need or use; place newspapers underneath the floor carpets on the ground floor; and close dampers when the fireplace (if you have one) is not in use.

Meeting To Instruct Tire Dealers

Educational meetings with tire dealers, recappers and other tire sellers will be held in several cities next month. Purpose is to give dealers a thorough understanding of the price regulations covering new and used tires and tubes, recapped tires, and recapping services. The meetings will be addressed by several ranking Washington officials of the rubber price branch of the OPA. First regional meeting will be on November 2, in New York City, when Newark dealers will be present. Syracuse on November 4, Rochester and Buffalo November 5. Subsequent sessions are scheduled for Albany and Binghamton in New York and in Trenton.

Tens of thousands of Garden State girls who kissed silk stockings goodbye without regret, murmured a little when they were told by stores that nylon hosiery was unavailable. Now the OPA has stepped in and fixed new price ceilings on nylon hosiery with the result that large quantities of such stockings, despite reports of shortages, should soon be released. According to OPA officials, it is known that many retailers and wholesalers have been withholding nylon hosiery from sale, with a view to releasing it for the holiday trade. The new price schedule however insures a fair price to the consumer on this merchandise, while at the same time allowing the retailer and wholesaler reasonable profits.

Worst headaches for engineers laying war-oil pipelines are river crossings. The two-foot pipe from East Texas fields to Illinois has already tunneled beneath six rivers on its way to the main for 22 magnesium incendiary bombs, enough rubber for a pair of rubber boots for the army.

A standard nonportable typewriter contains enough aluminum crossing at the Mississippi.

Washington Snapshots

By James Preston

As 1942 swings into the last quarter the broad over-all strategy of the united nations appears to have been accomplished. U. S. has mobilized and equipped an army of four and a quarter million men to which three and a quarter million more will be added in 1943. This force will be supplemented by a navy of over a million men with two ships being built for every one lost.

Foreign dispatches indicate that the Russians will hold and that Hitler faces another inactive winter on that front. Mediterranean operations have reached a stalemate with allied air strength bolstered. Unless the Japs establish and hold the initiative in the Solomons, 1942 will end with the Nippons short of their goal. The Chinese have developed some surprising initiative action. The Jap toe-hold on the Aleutians has been reduced and the Americans and British have kept all sea lanes open. Against this world background U. S. is preparing for offensive action in 1943.

Here at home, the world military situation is reflected in moves to back up economic stabilization with a more definite Selective Service policy which will be coupled closely with a voluntary program of what can best be described as selective civilian war manpower. How far the voluntary manpower plans can go is problematical. Both industry and labor hope to keep it on a voluntary basis, but many here are of the opinion that it—like the draft—must be compulsory.

Already tested in Baltimore, the voluntary plan is being put into operation in other parts of the country as quickly as possible. The four main parts of the plan are: 1. No war plant may employ a worker from another without obtaining his release from his employer; 2. War production managers will employ local labor wherever possible; 3. Where local labor is unavailable war production managers will recruit outside labor only through the U. S. employment service; 4. Employers will assist war manpower commission officials in transferring workers from non-essential to essential jobs. While appeals may be taken by workers to a management-labor committee, the plan, in effect, freezes the workers to their jobs.

The executive order stabilizing wages is giving WLB many a headache. Members predict that before long cases will be pouring in on the board at the rate of 5,000 to 10,000 a week. To handle this deluge the board is setting up regional offices, but even with this set-up officials are apprehensive.

Members of congress declare the War Labor Board continues to follow a policy of inconsistency in its decisions. For several months congressmen have complained that the board's failure to establish definite labor policies has created confusion and discord between management and labor in many cases. Had clear-cut policies been laid down and then enforced through subsequent decisions, much of the chaos that exists in labor relations today, they contend, would have been eliminated.

"Wait! On second thought you ought to make a good son-in-law!"

This Week of War

Acting at the suggestion of the President and the request of the war department, the house passed and sent to the senate legislation to reduce the minimum draft age from 20 to 18. The bill provides that those who are in high school or college may finish the present school year, but after next July educational deferments would be forbidden. The bill would also make mandatory the policy of calling all single men in a state before calling married men, and then calling all childless married men before men with children.

Secretary of War Stimson announced there are approximately 4,250,000 men in the army at present and this total will be increased to 7,500,000 by the end of 1943—distributed as follows: 3,300,000 in ground forces, 2,200,000 in the air force, 1,000,000 in training and 1,000,000 in supply services. Stimson said 18 and 19-year-olds are more responsive to leadership, are not as easily fatigued and make better soldiers than older men. He said there is danger at present that the army might get too old. In March of this year the average age of divisions being activated was 26 years and 2 months, but in August the figure had risen to 28 years and 2 months.

If the draft age is lowered to 18, a 7,500,000-man army can be built up in 1943 without calling married men with children, Selective Service Director Hershey reported. Induction of married men with wives only will begin immediately to fill the army's call for 1,100,000 by January 1, he said.

The War Front

Secretary Stimson announced that ground units of the army are now aiding the marines in the defense of Guadalcanal in the Solomons, and army air and ground troops are now stationed in New Zealand, New Caledonia, the New Hebrides and Fiji Islands. "The Japanese are continuing to bomb our airfield and shore positions on Guadalcanal island and it is believed that enemy troops and equipment are being disposed for a strong assault against our airfield," the navy reported October 18. During the early morning of October 17, about 14 enemy bombers, escorted by eight fighters, attacked the Guadalcanal airfield and shore positions the communicate said, but U. S. fighters and anti-aircraft batteries shot down all the bombers and two of the fighters. These latest raids brought the toll of Japanese aircraft since the Solomons fighting began last August to 307 of all types destroyed.

"Although large numbers of Japanese troops are known to be on Guadalcanal island there has been, as yet, no full scale land fighting," the navy said. "Our losses in the current fighting, to date, (October 18) have been minor, but in a battle of this nature losses must be expected. All information on the fighting in the Solomons which is not of value to the enemy is being announced as soon as possible after being received." Gen MacArthur's headquarters reported October 19 that allied bombers attacking Japanese shipping concentrations off Buin in the northern Solomons scored probable hits on three enemy cruisers, a large seaplane tender, seven flying boats and several cargo vessels. In the Aleutians, U. S. ground forces took a third island in the Andreanof group, and army medium bombers bombed two more enemy destroyers near Kiska.

Farm Prices And Production

President Roosevelt, in a radio address, said "we are learning to ration materials; and we must now learn to ration man power. Perhaps the most difficult phase of the man power problem is the scarcity of farm labor. Every farmer in the land must realize fully that his production is part of war production, and that he is regarded by the nation as essential to victory." Agriculture Secretary Wickard, as chairman of the WPB food requirements committee, reduced production goals for such crops as cantaloupes, cucumbers, watermelons, and celery, and said "first consideration" would be given to winter vegetables which require the least labor in relation to their nutritional value. Wickard also called for at 10 percent increase in 1943 spring hog production over the 1942 record crop, asking for about 68 million head as compared to the 1942 crop of 62 million head. He estimated 1943 requirements of dressed pork for the U. S. armed forces and lend-lease will exceed 1942 requirements by more than one billion pounds.

The department of agriculture reported farm wage rates on October 1 were 220 percent of the 1910-14 period and the highest since 1920. The average rate per day without board, $2.76, was up 31 cents since July and up 72 cents since the previous October. The department said its total September purchases of dairy products, fish, fruit and other commodities amounted to $115 million, compared with the August total of $83 million. The department is now buying 17 key food-stuffs every week and 11 others every two weeks.

Rationing

The office of price administration ruled that after next January 31, all motorists holding A mileage rationing books must have their tires inspected every four months and those receiving books allowing them supplemental mileage must have their tires inspected every two months. Original inspections of tires on all passenger cars must be made between December 1 and January 31, while commercial vehicle tires—which must be inspected every two months or every 5,000 miles, whichever comes first—may be checked any time after November 15.

day for gasoline rationing in the states where rationing is not already in effect, while motorists in the present rationing area must file a tire inspection certificate with their local rationing boards by November 22. Car owners in the latter area must list the serial numbers of all their tires, and if there are more than five per car, the owner will be denied gasoline ration books until he has disposed of the extra tires. Henderson said the government already has started to purchase from car owners all new or used tires in excess of five per automobile. The Defense Supplies corporation, which has advanced $150,000,000 for the program, has designated 160 warehouses throughout the country as delivery points, and the 23,000 offices of the Railway Express agency will collect the tires and bring them to the warehouses.

The OPA said war ration sugar stamp No. 9 will be good for the purchase of three pounds of sugar between November 1 and December 15. The sugar allotments for institutional and industrial users for November and December were set at 60 and 70 percent, respectively, of the sugar base established by them.

Maximum Prices

A specific price ceiling for women's rayon hose will be issued soon, the OPA said, and in the meantime, buyers should carefully compare prices with those of last March to make certain they are not being overcharged. "There is no excuse for any increase in prices of rayon hosiery," the Office said. The OPA placed dried eggs under price control at the highest levels at which distributors did business during the September 28-October 2 base period. The office also set up a method for retail dealers to determine their ceiling prices for fresh grapefruit.

Stabilization of Wages

Director Byrnes of the office of economic stabilization said the war labor board will regulate all salaries under $3,000 and those up to $5,000 which are covered in wage agreements. He said the Treasury Department is preparing regulations for salaries of more than $3,000 other than those handled by the board as part of wage regulations. The WLB ruled individual wage adjustments may now be made by employers without prior board approval providing they are "incident to the application of the terms of an estab-

TOWN SOON GETS STIRRUP PUMPS

Purchase Method Debated; Will Buy For Less Than $3.80

This town, recognized by Washington's office of civilian defense as one of the enemy targets along the Eastern seaboard, may shortly receive a supply of stirrup pumps for civilian protection against fires started by incendiary bombs.

Arrangements have been made through price ceilings fixed by the OPA for the town to buy the pumps in a price range from $3 to $3.80, far below the figure charged for other stirrup pumps bought in the open market.

Mayor Joseph M. Kelly, St. Peter's pastor and defense council supply chairman, are now debating the method which should be used in purchasing and distribution of the pumps.

Three Distribution Plans

The OGD has suggested three plans, one of which may be used by the town. The defense council can purchase the pumps for its allotment for distribution free to members of the defense corps, or the council can arrange with local retailers to sell the pumps only to persons obtaining certificates or permission from the defense office, thus assuring that the pumps will reach those who need them the most. The third alternative is for the retailers to sell them directly to the first purchasers who appear. Retail outlets would be selected by the manufacturers or distributors.

Arrangements have been completed by the OGD for the manufacture of 2,258,000 stirrup pumps which would supplement the $65,000,000 worth of fire fighting and other equipment which has been loaned by the OGD to municipalities in target areas. Belleville has received 600 helmets for air raid wardens and is scheduled to get several auxiliary pumping units for use of the fire department, extinguishers and other equipment. The

YOUTH PLEDGED AT BUCKNELL U.

Chas. E. Schlecker Jr. One Of 150 Freshmen; Other College Activities

Charles E. Schlecker Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Schlecker of Baldwin place, has been pledged to the Lambda Chi Alpha, social fraternity at Bucknell university, where he is a freshman.

He is one of 150 Bucknell men who were pledged to the 11 social fraternities on the campus at the conclusion of the annual rushing week program.

A graduate of Belleville high school and Seton Hall Preparatory school, Schlecker is seeking a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering.

William Frank Entekin, Jr., formerly of this town, has made the dean's list at Duke university, a privilege which allows unlimited cuts and special study privileges. To be on the dean's list one must hold a "B" average and gains full rate class standing.

Miss Ruth Dettelbach of Hancock avenue is another top flight student. She has made the dean's list at Mills college in New York, and is on the honor roll. Her sister, Phyllis, left Sunday for a week at Tampa, Fla. where she will be maid of honor at the wedding of her friend Miss Adeline Hazlett. Miss Hazlett is marrying Lieut. Thomas Vanover formerly of Belleville. He is with the air corps.

Charles A. Porter of 44 Linden avenue has enrolled in advanced organic chemistry laboratory and differential equations classes in the graduate courses at the Newark College of Engineering. Porter graduated from the college recently with the degree of B. S. in chemical engineering.

Credits obtained in these courses may be applied toward requirements for the Stevens Institute of Technology.

At Berkley Tea

The Berkley school in East Orange opened its social activities for the coming year with an informal tea at the Hotel Suburban recently. This tea is an annual event and gives the girls a chance to become acquainted with their instructors and fellow classmates. Eileen Atkinson, Lucille Di Sturco, Betty Lou Dunn, Jane Harvey, and Winifred Smith were Belleville girls who attended the tea.

The Berkeley school has drawn several girls from Belleville High as students this year. They are Eileen Atkinson, Lucille Di Sturco, Betty Lou Dunn and Jane Harvey. Winifred Smith, who has been attending St. Elizabeth's, has also enrolled at Berkeley.

Walter F. Johnson, the son of Mrs. Frances Johnson of Union avenue, has pledged Sigma Pi, national social fraternity, at Franklin and Marshall college. Johnson is a graduate of Belleville high school.

Peddie seems to be the first choice of prep schools for many Belleville parents. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer S. Hyde of Rossmore place have two sons enrolled there, Arthur and James. Lawrence G. Van Horn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Van Horn of Little street, is also a member of the student body, as is William L. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Allen Jr. of DeWitt avenue.

College Chest Drive Leader

Miss Jacqueline Snedeker, daughter of Mrs. Anne Snedeker of 572 Washington Avenue, is a major in the United War Chest Relief Drive being conducted by students on the New Jersey College for Women campus in conjunction with the local New Brunswick campaign.

Funds raised will be divided among 10 agencies, United China, Russian, British, Polish and Greek War relief funds, Queen Wilhelmina fund, United Service Organizations, Service Men centers, Navy relief and Prisoners' relief fund.

One 25c stamp will pay for film for an aerial photograph. Aerial photographs help record damage done the enemy, and bring back invaluable information to guide future action.

Don't Turn Down The Kids

Residents who ransacked their cellars and attics in September for odds and ends of junk for the all-out drive sponsored by the salvage committee are undoubtedly wondering where the school youngsters will find more junk in the campaign which they will start on Monday.

One point should be made clear and should be remembered by every householder. Salvage is not a one-shot proposition. It is a continuous, relentless campaign to get all of the scrap materials which can be salvaged to be processed and turned over to war plants where they will be turned into weapons for the allies.

Every month, even every week, there are articles which are being discarded in every home. They should be laid aside to be turned in during the next salvage campaign. Every tin can should be prepared and saved for the bi-monthly collection. Waste fats should be taken to the butcher. There may be little inconveniences, but aren't they unimportant when it is realized what the collection of these items means to this nation at war?

Hundreds gave in the last scrap drive, but there were hundreds more who did not because someone did not ring their doorbell and ask for the junk. Next week, several thousand elementary school pupils will visit every home in Belleville. They will haul away anything that they get.

It will be remembered that the real enthusiasts in the September drive were the youngsters. They accounted for many of the tons which went into the huge piles about town. They will tackle their job next week with even greater enthusiasm and it is the duty of every resident to cooperate with them.

Collecting scrap is one of the few ways in which our children can participate in this war effort. They take childish pride in what they are doing, just as they do about buying war bonds and stamps. They know that the scrap they collect will be made into guns and other weapons which will help knock out the Axis nations.

This youthful spirit must not be lost, but it will be if the grown-ups fail to help. There is not a house in Belleville which still does not have something which can go into the scrap pile. Don't turn a child away next week without giving him something.

A Most Important Election

The general election next Tuesday is being completely overshadowed by many events which claim greater importance in the minds of thousands of people. It is worrying political leaders, and it should worry the voters for when they stay away from the polls is when the organizations directed by professional political bosses have their field day.

An organization, as we have said many times before, will go out to vote—rain, snow or blow. It is the independent, free-thinking voter who stays home and then grumbles after the ballots have been counted.

Most important to New Jersey voters will be the selection of a United States senator. The citizens in this region will elect a congressman, members of the board of freeholders, a county supervisor and representatives to the state assembly.

The election is of importance for men and women will be chosen who will represent us in three branches of government—federal, state and county. There is no time when there has been a greater need for experienced, honest public office holders with the business and practical knowledge to govern us. Millions are being spent each day in the battle to win the war. Millions more will be spent, and on Tuesday the people will be chosen who will do that spending. The war means that our federal government will spend more money, and that our state and county governments must curtail their expenses and activities wherever possible in reducing the amount of money which is being used for non-essential projects and positions.

We have already been burdened with heavier income taxes. New levies are coming which will have to be met by all, either directly or indirectly. If we are to be able to meet these obligations, it is vitally necessary that all unnecessary, purposely conceived jobs and projects be abandoned.

The voters cannot afford to stay at home. There is no time when their vote has been more important to their own welfare and that of the nation. There are many candidates with splendid qualifications to perform the job well; men who have the background, the experience, the ability and the honesty to meet the tremendous task which faces them in every branch of government. Every citizen eligible to vote Tuesday should study the qualifications of the men seeking the various offices and then be sure to vote.

Preparing For Something Bigger

It may sound a bit early to start crowing about the high school football team for they still may stumble along the path in their effort to go through the season without a defeat. To date, they have compiled one of the best, if not the best, records of any local high school eleven.

Young people love a winner and it has been discouraging in some past seasons to see the attitude of the high school students when the team was on the short end of the score more often than not. It was reflected in the general spirit and attitude of the entire student body.

One thing which is difficult to realize is that perhaps next year this time some of the youths who are battling to help the high school win its football games may be fighting a greater battle in a bigger and more important game.

Somehow, we think the lessons that they learn on the football field will help. In the game, if they fumble and lose the ball to the other team, they know that they must fight just that much harder to regain what they have lost and go on to win. A game is never won by a discouraged team which lacks fight and spirit. This holds true in a war. In the battle we are now waging, we may lose the ball, but we believe that our fighting men are possessed of the American spirit which will make them fight back just that much harder to get what they have lost.

35 Cups To A Pound Maybe?

This has been a bad week for the coffee drinkers. The OPA's Mr. Henderson handed them the sad news that beginning on November 28, there will be coffee rationing with it being doled out at the rate of about one cup a day per person.

It's a personal opinion that Mr. Henderson is letting the coffee lovers down easily. It is to be rationed at the rate of a pound to a person which must last for five weeks. The figure experts at OPA estimate that there are between 35 and 45 cups to a pound.

We don't mingle with the best of coffee brewers, but we'll wager a second cup of the precious stuff that there's going to be an awful lot of us who will be coffee-less before the first five-week period is up.

A full-blooded coffee hound doesn't go just for the color, he insists that the drink have some strength to it. He won't get any 35 cups out of a pound. We never thought we'd see the day when we would brew the coffee grounds over a second time, but we may be close to it.

By limiting us to one cup of coffee a day, it means that we'll have to turn to some other beverage. Tea is not as plentiful as it once was and may be the next item which will be rationed. Those in the milk business will be pounding away to get more milk drinkers—and don't be at all surprised if the wine companies start telling us that their products are the best thing to top off the dinner.

Will You Please Cooperate With Those Sleeping?

The 24-hour operation of defense plants to speed war implements to the armed forces means that many people must sleep during the daylight hours. Hundreds of Belleville residents are in this class.

Recently, since many workers have changed shifts, there have been many complaints registered at town hall, and particularly at the police department, about the noise caused in some neighborhoods, making it almost impossible for these defense workers to sleep.

No man can do a good day's or a good night's work unless he secures his proper rest. Unconsciously perhaps, you and your children are hindering the gigantic effort. Won't you please cooperate by keeping the volume of your radio and television set down and telling your children to play in the back yard or in the homes where you know that they are trying to sleep?

U. S. Says You've Got Enough Tin For Cans

Essex municipalities each have been given a quota of tin cans to be collected each month. Belleville's quota is 26.4 tons. This figure is based on the government statistics that each family in this area uses 32.6 tin cans per month, weighing an average of four ounces each, or approximately eight pounds per month, per family.

With an estimated 7,221 families, Belleville's collections to date have averaged about five tons per month. Other communities have likewise been falling far short of their quotas. Newark's quota is 408 tons, Nutley, 20.5; Bloomfield, 41.6; Irvington, 58; East Orange, 74; Montclair, 37.3.

LETTERS

Arthur Mayer Favors Mertz As Clark Successor

From Arthur E. Mayer
240 Greylock Parkway

To the Editor of The Times:

As must come to all men, death came to Commissioner William D. Clark. Beloved by his fellow townsmen, they mourn his loss. But, life goes on, and the board of commissioners are contemplating filling the vacancy.

I am certain that the thought of who should be the logical successor has been entertained by many of our citizens. In point of his performance in the recent election, his ability and character, it is the candid opinion of the writer, that that man is Raymond E. Mertz, a life-time resident of Belleville.

Writer Says Primary Election Gave Several Lessons

From J. Alden De Ronde
195 Holmes street

To the Editor of The Times:

There were lessons to be learned from the results of the recent primary elections in our state, lessons from which we may all profit if we care to—aspirants to office and voting public.

First in importance, I think, is that seemingly overwhelming support by newspapers, labor unions or "organization" power does not necessarily mean the election of the candidate so supported.

Don't, in other words, be discouraged by appearances. Second, too much has been made of pre-Pearl Harbor opinions.

Many substantial, loyal citizens, now conscientiously support the war effort, even though, just as conscientiously, they expressed isolationist or other ideas previously.

Third, a thinking electorate would prefer a candidate who builds a case up for himself—if possible—rather than devoting his entire efforts to criticizing his opponent.

Fourth, candidates who have served as local officials should, when seeking promotion, remember the enemies caused by indiscretions of the past and the power of those enemies to tip the scales against them.

We had one such example where defeat by a small margin was caused by votes resulting from such a condition.

Writer Says District Won't Regret Reelecting Hartley

From Henry D. Riepe
84 Wilber Street

To the Editor of The Times:

I have read with interest the articles which have appeared in the newspapers on the candidacy of Fred A. Hartley Jr., of Kearny who is seeking re-election as Congressman from this district.

I have known Fred Hartley for years and his father before him. I have always known Mr. Hartley to be a man well able to represent the people of his district at all times. He is a fearless man who stands ready to use his own judgment and to take his time and think a subject over deeply before he passes on it.

I firmly believe that everything Congressman Hartley has done in congress in the past and every bill which he has voted for or against, he has done so because in his mind it was the best thing to do for his constituents. That is the kind of a man that we want to send back to Washington, and I believe that we could do our government more harm at this time by sending inexperienced men to congress who by the time they learn the workings of congress would find to their embarrassment that the war was over and their war platforms of no use whatsoever.

Don't Want "Yes" Men
In picking out men like Congressman Hartley Jr. to represent us, we can do no better as we do not want congress filled with a large group of "yes" men, but men who will stand on their own feet and use their own good judgment, which in Hartley's case is a proven fact of good judgment or we Republican voters have erred in reelecting him to congress.

I have been a Republican county committeeman from the largest district in Belleville, and I believe the largest district in Essex county, having in the past over 900 votes. I have never yet regretted voting for or supporting the reelection of Congressman Hartley in all of his campaigns.

I object to the fact that statements were made in a local paper recently that Republican leaders are bolting Hartley for the democratic candidate. I do not believe it. The Republican county committee members are the ones who get out the votes. They are the ones who go around day after day, night after night knocking at doors and persuading the American voter to come to the polls and vote for their candidate.

They are not the type who would take a run out on our candidate and I fully believe and expect that on election day each and every one of them will pitch in wholeheartedly for the reelection for Congressman Hartley.

Stayed in Capitol

The mere fact that Mr. Hartley won over Mayor Williams by such a small majority in the primaries was because, as usual, the congressman put his personal ambition in the background and stayed in the capitol where he was needed on urgent matters causing him to do very little campaigning in his congressional district.

Had Fred Hartley had the time to put in personal appearances I feel sure that he would have won by his usual large majority over Mayor Williams.

All of the charges that I have heard and read about Congressman Hartley have been made by

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

by Meador Wright

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville Times.

With the senatorial contest all but ended it is possible to reach a conclusion regarding the type of campaign each candidate has conducted. Here the verdict undoubtedly goes to Albert W. Hawkes. The Montclair Republican appears to have out-generated his Democratic opponent, William H. Smathers, on almost every count. First he tacitly accepted Smathers' every act of battle, which was to be the latter's record. He did this by a critical examination of the record, itself. This examination brought up some surprising facts. Smathers had missed so many roll calls that he stood indicted for neglect of official duty. The best excuse he could find—Hawkes' research men gave him such accurate data that a denial was impossible—was that Senator Barbour had likewise missed roll calls, and that he (Smathers) had been devoting his time to "his constituents."

These were lame excuses and gave the press—almost solidly against him—an opportunity to pile ridicule upon ridicule. Not since the Dwight W. Morrow campaign, in fact, has a candidate enjoyed such a universally good press as Hawkes. If he is defeated in spite of this favorable praise grave reflection will be cast on the potency of the press to accomplish very much in a political campaign.

Hawkes also seems to have avoided any major mistakes in establishing his own record. At any rate, Smathers has been able to bring out surprisingly little against him. A more forthright series of speeches on the Wendell Willkie model would have produced more enthusiasm, but in adopting such tactics, Hawkes might have made a blunder that the watchful Smathers would have pounced upon immediately. Caution seems to win political battles even if it loses military ones. This is unfortunate but nevertheless true.

As to the outcome, Smathers has two major assets. He has the Hague machine and labor support. The dependability of the Hague machine is proved. What the labor chiefs can produce remains to be seen. Obviously, they are trying desperately to produce, as they know that labor's reputation for potency in a state campaign will be adversely affected if Hawkes wins. My own belief is that they cannot produce enough. A third factor that may be important is the vote of small South Jersey machines. Smathers has played to these selfish groups for years and they may be expected to return favors. None is very large, but collectively they could swing a close election.

Many observers predict the Democrats and other opponents of Hartley who have to knock the Republicans at every election and who this year through the want of some one better have picked on Congressman Hartley because they know that their candidate has very little chance if any of even duplicating Mayor Williams' vote.

I wish to urge at this time that each and every Republican voter, county committeeman and woman get out and work for and vote for the re-election of Congressman Hartley. You can rest assured that he will represent you to the best of his ability.

Don't Litter The Streets

From Mrs. A. G.

To the Editor of The Times:

Being a new resident of Belleville, I have been more than surprised at the paper and rubbish which litter our streets, especially in the Valley section where I make my home. Couldn't you please ask a little cooperation of home owners and renters (also factory owners and workers, who are in my estimation the worst offenders) to keep the streets raked and swept and have receptacles placed where they can put their lunch papers and other litter.

I think by asking for a little civic pride of each resident to keep Belleville streets cleaner we could accomplish some results.

Urges Naming of Mertz

From S. S.

To the Editor of The Times:

Last May the voters went to the polls to elect five representatives to the run town affairs until 1946. The vote tabulations were: Waters, 5384; Williams, 4914; Clark, 4811; King, 4700; and Clark, 4617; Mertz, 4310.

Recently, divine providence called Commissioner Clark to his last resting place. Commissioner Clark served ably and well during his long term of office and his place should be filled by a man of the people's choice. That man appears to be Raymond Mertz as indicated by the ballot last May. His integrity and high character together with his business ability make him the outstanding citizen for the job.

In a recent survey by Princeton University it has been found that our political representatives have not been heeding the public's wishes regarding better local government. Thus Belleville has a golden opportunity of demonstrating to our neighboring communities and to the state that we do want better government.

Telephone or write the commissioners immediately to vote unanimously for Raymond Mertz.

Election Enthusiasm Lagged During Last War, Too

All But 58 Of Voters Went To Polls In Campaign Before War; Closing Taverns Was Big Issue In 1918 Election

Based on the number of voters who stayed away from the polls in the September primary election, political observers feel that a light vote will be cast at next Tuesday's general election.

The story was similar during the last war, even though the local organizations, particularly the Democrats, attempted to whip up public enthusiasm through torchlight parades and big mass meetings.

While less of the town's registered voters, who numbered slightly more than 2,000, voted during the war year elections than previously, they made a better percentage showing than is expected next week.

What is probably the greatest vote turn out in the town's history, and one that is unlikely to be equalled, took place in the 1916 election when Woodrow Wilson and Charles Evans Hughes were the candidates for the presidency. Out of the town's 2,058 registered voters, 2,000 went to the polls. There were only three wards in town then, while today Belleville is divided into four districts.

Hughes Overwhelming Choice
Hughes swept the town with all of the other candidates, including those for governor, sheriff and congress riding along to local majorities on his coat tails. While Wilson was elected president, Hughes was favored by the local voters 1,101 to 758.

It remained for the Democrats to stage the biggest rally of the campaign with the late Mayor John Waters, the Democratic chieftain, heading the affair. A meeting lasting three hours was held at St. Peter's Parochial hall with H. Otto Wittmann, the candidate for governor, heading the list of speakers. The candidates were met at the Newark line by the Columbia and Camden and tooted up Washington avenue to the William street hall between a pathway of torch lights. Frank Neary, who was then the town assessor, was in charge of the fireworks display, an added attraction of the rally.

The 1917 election was a quiet one with the principal battle being waged between Charles C. Pilgrim, Republican candidate for state senator and his Democratic opponent, Michael J. Quigley. With approximately 1,300 voters going to the polls, Pilgrim carried the town by 523 votes to 424. The big G. O. P. vote-getter was John H. Scott, the candidate for county clerk. Many Democrats crossed party lines for Scott who had a large personal following locally. He received 782 votes to 435 for the Democrat, Leroy Headley.

Big Battle on Saloons

In 1918, a week before the Armistice was signed, the candidates in the general election were completely overshadowed by a town issue—a vote on local option which would have closed the saloons and prohibited the sale of liquor. The campaign to close the taverns waged hotly for more than two months with the dry advocates pouring considerable more money into advertising and propaganda than did the wets.

The propaganda verged on this vicious side in some of the statements made. In a full-page advertisement which appeared in The Belleville Times several weeks before the election, which was sponsored by a number of local firms and individuals, including some who are still prominent, the dries had this to say: "We Have The Hun On The Run The Wine Cellars of Belgium and France Made Them Beasts. Our Boys Are Clean—That's Why They Win."

Wilson's Magic Rings Around the camps and jail sentences for sellers kept them clean.

Thirty-four (licensed) liquor places in Belleville pay about $17,500 in liquor licenses. Without seeing saloonkeepers' books, license $500; rent, $300; bartender, $520; light and heat, $180—a low estimate and they have to earn their living besides.

Thirty-four saloons, at $1,500 each. Total overhead expenses, $51,000. Allowing profits at half expenses, we see $755,000 paid by families of Belleville to keep the saloons going—or Belleville spent $755,000 in booze to get $17,500 in taxes. What Belleville spends indirectly is another story. If 13,500 inhabitants each paid their share of $17,500 it would be $1.30 a year or about 2½ cents a week.

Do Not Insult the Intelligence of Belleville

By Saying

The Saloons Pay The Taxes

If you believe that the traffic in alcohol does more harm than good help stop it. Vote dry! Vote yes!

For a Christmas Present

In an advertisement paid by the mothers who have boys in the army and navy, the dries urged the townspeople to vote to "give us a dry town as a Christmas gift." They further implored: "Ask it for the home's sake, that our boys may come back to a town as clean as a camp."

Even the church became entangled in the battle for votes. An advertisement run by the dries on the eve of the election was captioned: "Saloons Slander the Catholic Church." It further said: "Friends of the saloon are urging Catholics to vote 'wet' claiming that if Belleville shuts her saloons, no wine can be obtained for sacramental purposes." Charging that it was absolutely false, the dries quoted a section of the local option law which provided for the sale of wine for communion purposes.

The Belleville Taxpayers' league, which was heading the campaign by the wets to keep the saloons open said in an advertisement: "In every camp where Spanish influenza has broken

Buy your stamps a dime at a time,
Or a quarter, or even a dollar,
Whichever you do won't hurt this rhyme,
Hitler's the one who'll holler.

BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS
U. S. Treasury Department.

out, the government has shipped car loads of whiskey."

The Wets Won Out

This claim had the dries hopping mad and they quoted, long and loud from army officers that no whiskey had been used. They demanded that the association take back the statement, but the wets did not give their answer until election day when the dries were snowed under 923 to 443.

The only ward the dries carried was the third where they polled 215 votes to 190 against keeping taverns open. The wets piled up their biggest majority in the first ward where they had 443 votes to 160 for the dries.

In the party fight, the Democrats carried the town by a 100-vote margin over the Republican slate of candidates.

State Has Had Fewer Auto Deaths This Year

The state had 92 fewer traffic deaths during the first nine months of the year, Motor Vehicle Commissioner Arthur W. Magee announced this week. The decrease was 14 per cent.

Total fatalities for the period were 573 as compared with 665 during the corresponding months of last year.

Increases were reported in nine counties, namely, Camden, Cape May, Essex, Hudson, Mercer, Passaic, Sussex, Union and Warren.

September casualties amounted to 57 in comparison with 84 in the same month last year. In this September's toll were eight war workers including two shipyard employees, an airplane engine mechanic, a foundry worker and four others. This brings the total war worker traffic casualties for the first nine months to 101.

Musicians, Radio Operators Want By WAAC Recruiters

The Northern New Jersey Women's Army Auxiliary corps officers, Lieut. Jean E. Melin and Lieut. Jean D. Rob have been authorized by the war department to enlist women radio operators, radio technicians, and bandswomen. The latter will be used to form an all-women's military band.

All candidates will receive basic training at the WAAC training center, Fort Des Moines, Iowa.

Women radio operators and technicians will be used in strategic positions in the radio field and those who qualify in the musical field will be known as musician technicians. Women between the ages of 21 and 45 who can play the following instruments should contact either of the lieutenants at the Newark post office between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. any week day. The musical positions include: Bass sousaphone, trombones, French horns, cornets, baritone or euphonium, clarinets, piccolo, saxophones, snare drums, bass drums and cymbals.

OPA Rent Office Handling Over 3,000 Appeal Cases

H. Russell Phillips, OPA area rent director, announced this week that approximately 3,000 petitions for rent adjustment that had piled up during the heavy registration of dwelling units, hotels and rooming houses, were being disposed of rapidly.

"We have made such progress that I fully expect that by the end of October all of the petitions will have been handled and orders drawn," he added. "After that I feel sure that no landlord should wait more than 10 days, or at the most 15 days, for a determination on any petition on which an adjustment in rent is sought."

"While I have publicly expressed my thanks to the landlords more than once, I would be indebted to the newspapers if they would again acquaint the landlords with my feelings concerning their petitions presented to this office. We are doing our best to keep right up to the minute on everything that is brought to our attention, but it is the patriotic spirit of the people of New Jersey which I am happy to note, for it must have prompted in many cases their tolerance in waiting for final action on their petitions."

"Landlords are also requested not to overlook the fact now that the peak of the renting season has passed that they must advise us of any changes in tenancy on forms which can be obtained at our office."

A new synthetic textile filament has been perfected which weighs only one-eighth of the finest silk filament. It has a diameter approximately one ten-thousandth of an inch and 20,000 miles of it weigh only one pound.

Food Speeds War Efficiency

To combat the loss of 80 million working days which Paul V. McNutt, Chief of the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services, states occur each year because workers do not keep fit, many large industrial companies are launching all-out campaigns against malnutrition. These programs for improving the health and efficiency of industrial workers are one of the most effective phases of the National Nutrition Program. Among the most successful of these is that of the Servel Company of Evansville, Indiana. With the company devoted to 100 per cent war production, every hour of man labor saved means a contribution to national defense. One innovation used is a "Victory Lunch" in the cafeterias and lunchrooms of the company. Another is the sale of milk from "snack wagons." The lunch features milk, meat, a vegetable, a salad, whole-wheat or enriched bread and butter. The "snack wagons" feature a mid-meal milk service. According to the nutrition authorities of the National Dairy Council, both of these food practices are important in improving the health and developing the maximum efficiency of war workers. To encourage better food habits, each purchaser of either the "Victory Lunch" or a mid-meal bottle of milk is entitled to participate in a weekly prize drawing. Prizes in each drawing consist of $5.00 in war stamps and $3.00 in coupon books. Milk consumption in the Servel plant is now five times as great as it was when the program began. Time lost from illness has decreased by 16 per cent in the first four months.

daughter, Barbara, have returned to their home in Houston, Texas. They have been guests of Mrs. D. MacDonald of Washington avenue for two months. Three 10c stamps will pay for two pairs of socks. In action, every man must be completely re-equipped from the skin out every seven days. A former automobile company received the "E" award for cutting assembly time of a Bofors anti-aircraft cannon from 450 hours to 14 hours.

List Restricted Areas For Hunting Season

The New Jersey Fish and Game commission today announced that no hunting with firearms or trespassing will be allowed on or near any government reservation, including arsenals, forts, camps, landing fields, airports, aircraft stations, factories, foundries or plants, storage yards or warehouses used for the manufacture or storage of munitions or implements of war or anything of any kind, nature or description, for the use of the armed forces of the United States. In preparation for the opening of the official hunting seasons, zones are or will be designated and posted, the commission announced. They will include A zones, which are prohibited zones, and B zones, which are restricted zones. A copy of the public proclamation No. 2 by the headquarters of the Eastern defense command and first army, Governors Island, N. Y., referring to this matter, may be found at offices of every local selective service board, post office, court house and every town hall within the military areas. The official wildfowl season in New Jersey opened on October 15 and continues until December 23. The woodcock season opens from November 1 to November 15. The annual upland game season on rabbit, pheasant, quail (except in Passaic, Bergen, Essex, Hudson, and Union counties) gray squirrels, ruffed grouse and partridge, opens on November 10 and continues until December 15.
