

Dimout Enforcement Begun By ARP; Must Draw House Shades

The air raid organization will immediately start instructing storekeepers and householders in the latest dimout regulations which have been ordered by the army. Although they were announced a month ago by Maj. Gen. Terry, commanding second corps area, there has been a delay in putting them into effect because of the time needed to instruct those who will help to see that the orders are carried out.

Members of the ARP committee headed by Chief Air Raid Warden Edward Cantwell and his deputy, Ronald Brunner, had the new regulations explained to them by Bruce Jensen, lighting expert, attached to the Newark area defense office.

The ruling which will affect the greatest number of residents is that pertaining to the lighting of homes. Stripped of its old language, Jensen said the ARP means that wherever a light is visible from any point on the outside of the building, the window shades must be drawn to the sill so that the lighting fixture can no longer be seen. The lighting fixture, in this case, means not only the bulb but also the enclosing shade.

Post wardens will be assigned to inform the householders of the part which they will play in carrying out the new regulations. They will make frequent checks of their neighborhood to see that all are complying with the orders.

Passive Defense

Declaring that dimming out lights is a form of passive defense, Jensen discussed the oft-quoted criticism of homeowners that they personally contributed so little light that the regulations seemed silly. He said that the average person points to the street lights and insists that they should be further dimmed.

He pointed out that there are only 150,000 street lights in the state, but there are more than 2,000,000 homes. There is no comparison between the two, Jensen insisted, pointing out that street lights are staggered along the road way, lights are clustered together. He said that the army was interested in the over-all sky glow and that where this was made up of residential lights, street lights, traffic lights and industrial lights, the total amount, if too great, must be reduced.

Since traffic, street and war plant lights are all necessary, the only possible way that the sky glow could be reduced would be by dimming the amount of residential lights.

Jensen said that the dimming of street lights presents three problems. First, materials have been "frozen" by the WPB and it would take a long time to secure what is needed. Approval of the street light shading plan must be secured from the army engineers, and third, the element of safety by dimming lights too greatly enters the picture.

The lighting expert explained that the army now views the conception of a silhouette of a problem not only from its first sight against the skyline but also because the sky glow showed as a beacon light for possible enemy raiders. While it might be possible that enemy raiders would fly by instrument, if their flight was interrupted and their formations broken, dropped in areas showing the greatest amount of light since this would indicate to them that there was something of value beneath.

Jensen said that bus and street lights would not be handled locally but were to be governed directly by the state office of civilian defense.

To Visit All Stores

The ARP committee directed by Cantwell and Brunner will visit all of the storekeepers and explain to them what must be done. Lights inside of the store must be completely shielded and windows must be covered with fine mesh curtains or some similar material which will prevent the light from showing outside of the store front.

Shortly, a lighting expert from the Newark area office will visit here and measure the amount of light which shows outside of all store fronts. In cases where the lights are not met, the experts will be asked to make immediate improvements. Those which are approved will be (Continued on Page 2)

RECORD-BREAKING CHRISTMAS RUSH NOW ON AT P. O.

Avalanche Of Holiday Mail Reported; Cooperation By Public Good

With a record-breaking Christmas in sight, it looks as though Christmas week is here already at the post office. The staff has been working at break-neck speed handling the thousands of greeting cards and yuletide packages which have been pouring in and out of the office during the past week.

Superintendent William Price reported yesterday that the cooperation of the public is in response to the department's request that cards and packages be mailed as early as possible. For the past 10 days, mails have been very heavy, it was said. From early morning until evening, the office has been jammed with customers and twice daily carriers are leaving burdened down with packages and letters.

No breakdown of the figures on the amount of mail that is being handled during the Christmas rush will be available until after it is over.

Local Ones Early, Too

Residents are once again reminded that they should get cards and packages into the mail as early as possible to assure delivery before Christmas, even if they are being sent to local relatives and friends. Postmaster John F. Sinnott, head of the Newark office, of which Belleville is a branch, warned two weeks ago that the public must mail early if they want their greetings and gifts to reach their destinations before December 25.

A cut in the regular postal staff during the past year, plus the inability of the department to hire the customary number of temporary workers for the Christmas rush has slowed down the rapidity with which the avalanche of mail can be handled. In addition, war industries and the servicemen's mail has greatly swelled the work of the post office in recent months.

Those sending packages are again reminded to carefully read the bulletins which have been prepared by the department and are on display in the post office. Packages should be carefully wrapped and plainly addressed with the address of the sender also noted.

Times To Publish Tuesday Morning

Because of the Christmas holiday next week, The Times will be published on Tuesday morning instead of its regular Thursday publication day.

Church notices, news of servicemen and organizations should reach the office at 328 Washington avenue not later than Saturday if possible.

Display advertising copy will be accepted until Monday morning. The deadline for the acceptance of classified advertisements will be 4 p.m. on Monday.

This date will also apply for the following week when the paper will be issued on Tuesday, December 29th.

NEED FOR WOMEN AS NURSE'S AIDES IN HOSPITALS

Red Cross Again Appeals For Volunteers; Seven Graduated This Week

With the plight of the hospitals in this vicinity becoming increasingly worse because of their inability to secure help to cope with the number of patients who are overflowing the institutions' facilities, the Red Cross chapter yesterday renewed its appeal for women to volunteer as nurses' aides.

The plea for women to enroll was made by Mrs. Kel Bamford, chairman of the nurses' aide committee, and followed two days after the first seven local women were graduated in a class of 370 nurse's aides at Newark.

At exercises held in the Mutual Life Insurance company auditorium in Newark, diplomas were presented to 370 women by the Red Cross who had completed 80 hours of training. They are now ready for service in any one of the hospitals in the Newark area. Local women who were capped after completing training were Mrs. Charlotte Goody, Mrs. Virginia Winfield, Miss Hazel Lundstrom, Mrs. Marjorie Roby, Mrs. Mina Thorn and Miss Agnes Wol-ski.

Attending the ceremonies besides Mrs. Bamford were the other members of the committee in charge of enrolling the nurse's aides, Miss Ella Hasenjaeger, director of nurses at the Essex County Isolation hospital, and Mrs. Louis A. Noll, who is chairman of the Red Cross first aid committee.

Wanted For Day Training

"There is a crying need for more recruits," Mrs. Bamford said yesterday. "We need patriotic women who are able and willing to devote time during the day to take the training and then work in the hospitals. There is no greater way that they can be of service to the country. The sick and wounded in the hospitals are going to be unable to do that job unless they get immediate help from somewhere."

Women are needed who can be immediately enrolled in day courses. There are evening classes now being held but no additional ones will be organized for the next six months, it was said. Six more local women are on the waiting list for classes which are scheduled to start shortly after January 1. Enrolled in courses now being conducted are Miss Frieda Abramson, Miss Margaret Caragher, Miss Ann R. Glennon, Miss Helen M. Koster and Miss Marie Peck.

There is an acute nursing shortage because of the number of nurses who have been drafted for war service by the army and navy. The American Red Cross is making a nationwide appeal for 100,000 women to volunteer as nurse's aides.

Deadline Is Set By OPA For All Big Fuel Oil Users To Change Over To Coal

If No No. 1 Book Then You're Out Of Luck

It appears, for the present at least, that those who failed to obtain War Ration Book One will be out of luck when it comes to obtaining War Ration Book Two.

The OPA has announced that the No. 2 stamp book will be distributed some time in January to be used in conjunction with the rationing of new commodities under a point system which has been devised. The regulations contain the proviso that books will be issued only to those who hold War Ration Book One, which was originally issued for sugar and is now also used for getting coffee.

Tuesday was the final day for obtaining Book No. 1. The board is empowered to issue these books only for new-born babies. To get a book, one of the parents must present a birth certificate to the ration board.

The rationing board is now ready to issue January and February allotments to industrial and institutional users, the OPA announced, will receive 60 percent of the normal base, while industrial users will get 70 percent, the same amount issued during the last period.

All coffee retailers and wholesalers were reminded that reports of sales and inventory must be filed with the ration board before December 31. They may obtain the report Form R-1202, which must be filled out, at the ration office, 476 Washington avenue.

CHURCH TO UNVEIL SERVICE MEMORIAL

Holy Family Church, Nutley, To Dedicate Monument, Honor Roll, Flag

Tribute will be paid to more than 300 who are serving in the armed forces at Holy Family church in Brookline avenue, Nutley, on Sunday when a memorial monument, an honor roll and a service flag will be blessed and dedicated.

Honor will be paid to those youths of the parish, which includes both Belleville and Nutley residents. A huge service flag will be blessed at the noon mass. In the center of the flag is a number of blue stars which have been shaped to form a cross. The flag will be blessed by Rev. Anthony Di Luca, church pastor, and the sermon will be delivered by Rev. Francis Blake, church curate.

Immediately following, the monument and the two honor rolls which have been erected on each side of it will be blessed and dedicated. They have been erected in the front yard of the rectory which is adjacent to the church. The monument, which has a base of granite, is surmounted by a large eagle which has its wings spread in a V-shape. Following the unveiling of the monument and the blessing by Father Di Luca, the junior drum and bugle corps will play the national anthem while the American flag is being raised on a flag pole which has been erected immediately behind the monument.

Following the brief exercises, there will be a talk in the parish hall by one of the officers who is attached to the Newark armory selective service induction station.

First Of Kind

The tribute to the servicemen is believed to be the first of its kind which has been erected in this area. Funds were raised through donations by parishioners and the members of a sponsoring committee. The committee, which has directed the project, is headed by Dr. Robert J. Citrino, Samuel Verniero is the vice chairman, Mrs. Sylvia DeFuria, treasurer, and Miss Mary Fulcoli, secretary.

Members of the own commission and the draft board, both in Nutley and Belleville, have been invited to attend the ceremonies.

Those who are sponsors include: Dr. Citrino, James Piro, Harry DiGiovanni, Gastano Greco, Corino, Thomas Apicella, William D'Emilio, Louis Leonizzi, John McKinley, Louis Viola, Michael DeTuro, Frank Stabile, Nazario Cofone, William Sheper, Elvira and Cleo Lugano, Mildred Costa, Mary Leonardo, Benes DeCava, Mary Lento, Anna Cocciola, Margaret Fitzpatrick, Linda DeMuro, Elisabeth Viola, Mildred DeFuria, Mae Lardieri, Teresa Pannese, Rosa Sammarro.

Has Two Sons

Wed shortly after his graduation, he has two sons, Bobby, eight, and Emile, six. His wife and children who were with him in the Philippines were evacuated at the request of the government shortly before war with Japan was declared. They now reside in Long Beach, Cal. where Mrs. Julian is employed as a government meteorologist.

Mrs. Julian earned his captain's bars while at Fort Hancock and was promoted to his present rank while stationed at Corregidor. He left Fort Hancock for duty in the Philippines nearly three years ago. Since that time he has been assigned to teach the Filipinos the art of modern warfare under Gen. Douglas MacArthur. It is understood that he was stationed at Corregidor for most of the time before the attack by the Japs and apparently at the time that he was taken a prisoner.

A thorough investigation into the failure to convert from using oil to coal for heating purposes by consumers of large amounts of fuel oil will be made here shortly by a special representative of the OPA who is a heating expert.

This affects those oil users who filed Form 1102 in obtaining their oil coupons, the class which includes those that are not private dwellings. Hebert C. Schmutz, chairman of the war price and rationing board, said last night that he expected that the expert from the OPA would come here for his survey of the Belleville and Nutley area some time during the next week.

Although some users of a large amount of fuel oil have announced that they have taken steps to convert to coal, but have been unable to obtain materials, it is understood that a large number have as yet failed to make any move. The big drain on fuel oil is by the industrial users, some of whom use thousands of gallons per day. The OPA is bent on forcing as many of these places to convert as is possible.

One of the groups which is already feeling the fuel oil pinch is the churches, most of which use oil burners to heat their buildings. It was reported from a number of sources during the week that the churches would be forced to greatly curtail their activities unless some relief could be obtained shortly.

Although the situation was one of the topics discussed at Tuesday afternoon's monthly session of the Belleville Ministers' association, the clergymen preferred not to comment at this time. They explained that the matter is under consideration by the rationing board and that any comment or announcement of major revision of plans and activities within their parishes would be withheld for the present.

It was understood that the Montgomery Presbyterian and the Christ Episcopal churches were the most seriously affected by the rationing curtailment. The possibility existed that among the activities which would be eliminated at Montgomery for the present were Sunday school sessions unless a solution could be found, it was reported. A number of activities have been eliminated or rescheduled so that a number of groups meet at one time when buildings can be adequately heated.

The Belleville Reformed church at Main and Rutgers street is one of the few which has not been affected since it is heated by coal. The churches come under the same classification as other industrial users, including apartment houses, stores and factories.

Allowed Two-Thirds

Ration Chairman Schmutz explained yesterday that all industrial users were allowed only two-thirds of the amount of oil which they had used last year. He said that coupons were issued to them to purchase oil for only the first and second periods of the winter. The second period was scheduled to end on January 19, but now has been extended to January 26.

OPA regulations, Schmutz said, the industrial users are required to convert, or at least make some step in that direction by January 26, or present a sworn statement to the ration board from a heating expert that it is impossible to convert to coal and state the reasons why such an attempt would be impracticable.

Schmutz said that all fuel oil users who had been granted their coupons under Form 1102 had been advised to take immediate steps to convert. Among the big local users which are affected, and which Schmutz says he understands have made moves to switch to coal, are the Walter Kiddle and Wallace & Tiernan plants. He said that orders have been placed by both companies for parts for the work.

One of the problems which affects many plants is that they have utilized the space, formerly used for storing coal, for other purposes, Schmutz said.

Will Grant Extensions

If the users can show that they have made plans or started conversion work, Schmutz said that the board would grant them an extension of time and issue coupons so that they can purchase oil to heat buildings until converting heating equipment has been completed.

volunteers. An intensive 80-hour training course is given. On graduation, they must promise to serve at least 150 hours per year without pay. Many of the women serve many more than the minimum number of hours.

Train In Hospitals

The first half of the training course consists of 35 hours of class work with a qualified nurse as instructor. The second half of the course will be at one of the Newark hospitals where the volunteer will spend 45 hours in supervised practice. Among the hospitals used are St. Barnabas, St. James, St. Michael's, City Hospital, Newark Memorial, Community, Beth Israel, Presbyterian and Columbus.

Most of the work performed by a nurse's aide is in the hospital ward although they may later be assigned to other branches of hospital work.

Those wishing to volunteer may register at the Red Cross headquarters in the Woman's club in Rossmore place or by calling Mrs. Bamford at BE. 2-3198-J.

"We have a community responsibility in Belleville to see that our civilian services are not only adequately maintained, but that we are prepared for any eventuality," Mrs. Bamford said. "We can only do this if a large group of competent and hard working women will volunteer to assist our graduate nurses. By learning how to perform simple routine duties in hospitals and clinics, these nurse's aides can release the graduate nurse for more technical work which only she can perform. In addition, they will have the satisfaction of knowing that they are playing a vital part in our war effort."

dogs is that no attempt ever be made by the former owner or owners to see the animal. At the end of the war, it is understood that the dogs will be returned to their rightful owners.

The Robbins registered Pal with Dogs for Defense in New York early in the fall. Last week they were notified through the Red Cross that he had been accepted for service and would be called to duty immediately. Either male or female dogs are accepted for service. They must be over one year old and under five. They must be at least 21 inches in height.

The Robbins know it's a far-reaching hope but they wonder if Pal and another member of the family might not meet in the army some day. They have an 18-year old son, now studying at Casey Jones School of Aeronautics, who expects to enter the army shortly.

given a certificate of compliance which should be placed in the store window. At any time, Jensen explained, representatives of the army may visit town. They are empowered to inspect any store, demand the certificate to learn how much light has been permitted to glow from the building and still be within the regulations and then make a check to see if the law is being followed.

The local council will have no jurisdiction over war plans. They will be controlled by the army and navy departments. Heavy penalties are provided for violations with fines up to $5,000. Those found guilty may be excluded from the Eastern defense area on the order of the army.

OIL RATIONING

A number of written appeals have already been filed with the board by users of large amounts of oil, he said. Schmutz suggested that all others who wish to appeal write immediately to the board. These cases will be turned over to the OPA hearing expert when he arrives in town, the chairman said and he will personally investigate to ascertain whether the claims made are legitimate and if the heating unit can be converted. The board will be guided by his recommendation, Schmutz concluded.

PRAISE GIVEN FIRST AIDERS

National Representative Commends Local Instructors For Voluntary Work

Eugene Martin, special representative from the North Atlantic area, American Red Cross, recently spent a week in Belleville conducting a refresher course for first aid instructors previous to the renewal of their authorization cards by the local chapter of which Mrs. Louis A. Noll is first aid chairman. In a conference with her, Martin highly praised the instructors, who are all volunteers, for their work and the service they have given the Red Cross. He expressed the belief that the efficiency of the staff as a whole was particularly due to the fact that they had worked so strenuously since the beginning of the war.

Mrs. Noll voiced her desire to thank the instructors for their devoted service and to urge them to continue their efforts. "These instructors," said Mrs. Noll, "have shared in the most important of human endeavors—the relief of suffering; and through their efforts the local chapter of the Red Cross has been able to make a definite contribution to civilian defense in Belleville."

1943 re-appointments have been issued the following instructors: Dr. Joseph C. D'Angelo, Dr. Martin Meehan, Dr. Samuel Goldberg and Virginia Baxter, Elsie Burns, Kathryn Conklin, Ramona Gray, Margaret Leahy, Mrs. Noll, Filomena Pomponio, Doris Soleau, Phoebe Spencer and Frances Williamson. Male instructors are Gottfried Johnson, Paul P. Baxter, N. E. Buntington, Hugo D'Allessandro, John Hayes, Albert Hollahan, Gilbert Hawley, Frederick James, James Leonard, Andrew Lukowiak, Albert Mandell, Armand Ritchey, Daniel Spillane, John Sullivan, Songston Owen Sullivan, Frank Struck, William Ross and L. B. McCloskey.

News Of Men In Service

Three youths were recently enlisted in the marines and are at Parris Island, S. C. for recruit training. They are Joseph Carragher of 45 Franklin street, Edward Effenberger of 312 Cortlandt street and Charles E. Bimbel, Jr.

Edward Effenberger

Joseph Carragher

son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Gimbel of 502 Mt. Prospect avenue. Gimbel reported for training on December 9.

Danford J. Delfuto of DeWitt avenue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie A. Delfuto, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant. He is now stationed at the San Angelo army air field in Texas.

Charles Joseph Kehoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Kehoe of 133 William street, is spending a five-day furlough at home. He enlisted in September and was in training at Sampson, N. Y. He is a second class seaman and was graduated from Belleville High school. After his furlough, Charles will attend school at the Great Lakes naval training station. His brother, Leo Jr., has been in the army since September and is now stationed at Fort Devens, Mass.

Barnett is Armorer

Bernie Barnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Barnett of 11 Baldwin place, was recently graduated from the air force's technical school at Briggs field, El Paso, Tex., as an aircraft armorer. He is now taking a special course of instruction there.

Barnett, who was one of the town's best known baseball athletes, was the property of the New York Yankees at the time that he was inducted into service on July 3. He was then playing with the Yankees' farm club at Binghamton, N. Y. It was his third season in the Yankee chain, having first pitched for the Portsmouth, O. club. He first gained local fame as a pitcher for the Senators, a semi-pro club, which was organized here for a number of years. A graduate of the high school he had been employed by the Federal Trust company and by his father, who is in the plumbing business.

Home From Florida

Frank Donnelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Donnelly of Belleville avenue came home on a furlough Sunday morning. Frank is stationed at the U. S. naval air station in Jacksonville, Fla. His brother, Henry Joseph Donnelly, recently enlisted in the army and is now stationed at Camp Maxey, Tex. with the infantry.

Pompey Molinaro, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Pompey Molinaro of 462 Belleville avenue, enlisted in the signal corps on December 5. He was graduated from Belleville high school, attended Drake's Business college and was chief control clerk in the employ of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company of Newark before enlisting. Molinaro has a reputation as a successful golfer.

Have Two in Army

Mr. and Mrs. Donato Pugliese of 223 Belleville avenue are the parents of two soldiers. Pvt. Michael Pugliese who is attending the air forces mechanic school at Gulfport Field, Tex. and Pvt. Gerard Pugliese on duty in the Pacific area. The latter went into the army in July and has been overseas one month. He is also an airplane mechanic. Formerly connected with the Centerless Products company of Newark he was graduated from Belleville High school. Pvt. Michael Pugliese attended Dickinson high school in Jersey City where the family then lived.

At Sampson, N. Y. Station

Joseph DeJesie, who celebrated his 18th birthday Sunday, joined the navy in November and is stationed at the naval training station at Sampson, N. Y. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis DeJesie of 109 Ralph street. He attended Belleville schools and was employed by the Belleville Metal Stamping company. Three uncles, also of Ralph street, William, Joseph and Michael Spencer are in the army at Fort Lee and Fort Belvoir, Va. and Camp Gruber, Okla.

To Enter Radio School

Joseph Falcone, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Falcone of Cleveland street, was home on a furlough from last Wednesday until today. Joseph has finished his basic training at the Great Lakes naval training station and will go to radio school upon his return. He attended Belleville schools and was formerly employed at Westinghouse in Bloomfield. Sgt. Robert C. Bogart of 76 Floyd street has been promoted to staff sergeant in the 112th field artillery at Fort Sill, Okla. Sgt. Bogart is the son of Mrs. Grace Bogart.

Lauro Bennie Giubilo

Lauro Bennie Giubilo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Giubilo of Franklin street, who enlisted in the navy in June, recently finished training as a machinist's mate at Wentworth institute in Boston. Before enlisting, he was employed in New York and was graduated from the boys' vocational school in Bloomsfield as a machinist.

His brother, Pvt. Benny J. Giubilo of Franklin street who was inducted into the army on October 6, has graduated from Fort Knox, Ky. as a radio operator. He was graduated from Belleville High school and is now stationed at Camp Pickett, Va.

friend, Fritz Reynolds, of Verona avenue, Newark, came home on leaves from Sunday until December 24. Both boys enlisted in the navy together a year ago and have not yet been separated. They are stationed at present in the naval training station at Jacksonville, Fla.

Robert formerly worked in the Tobacco Machine Supply company in town and Fritz was a machinist. Both were graduated from Belleville High school.

Robert Thornhill of 90 Stephens street left for the army on Tuesday. He formerly worked for Crucible Steel in Harrison and was the guest of honor at a farewell party Monday night given by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Weathersby.

Made a Corporal

Pfc. Peter A. Calabrese, 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael H. Calabrese of 16 Bloomfield avenue, has been promoted to the rank of corporal, the headquarters of the army air forces west coast training center at Santa Ana, Cal. has announced.

Cpl. Calabrese, who joined the service last January, is attached to the headquarters squadron of the AAFWCTC, which administers and coordinates the training of navigators, bombardiers, gunners and pilots in all arm flying schools in the far west.

THOMPSON AMONG COLGATE GRADS

Youth Graduated Sunday In Speed-Up Program; Will Report To Army

Paul B. Thompson received a bachelor of arts degree from Colgate university Sunday when the institution held its 122nd commencement exercises. The 180 seniors completed their college work nearly six months ahead of schedule under the accelerated program adopted by Colgate immediately after Pearl Harbor.

Paul B. Thompson

The commencement had been scheduled for next Sunday, but was pushed ahead one week because more than 30 members of the class had been ordered to report for active duty with the armed forces by that date. Of the 180 seniors, 137 are enlisted in the army, navy or marines, and 24 others will take jobs related to the war effort. Thompson will join the army as a member of the enlisted reserve corps.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey B. Thompson, of 185 Hornblower avenue, and a 1939 graduate of Belleville high school. A political science major at Colgate, he has held president's scholarships for two years, and this year was listed in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Thompson has been a member of the student senate, the Pan-Hellenic council and the outing club. He served on the business board of the Maroon, student newspaper, for two years, and was manager as a senior. He is also a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalistic fraternity.

Last year Thompson was one of 10 honor juniors selected to form the Washington study group, spending the entire first semester in Washington, D. C., studying public administration and political control first hand.

Big-Time College Football Next Fall Hinges On Stars' Entry Into Servicemen's Ranks

Larkin Gets Big Chance Tonight Against Negro Beau Jack For Lightweight Supremacy

The draft and transportation may take its toll in the major collegiate football ranks before another grid season rolls around, but the majority of the big schools are figuring that there will be pigskin pyrotechnics in 1943. While no one can foretell what will happen by that time, it is certain that many of this year's stars will be on the firing line by next fall.

It still remains questionable whether the programs under which college youths were permitted to enter the army and naval reserve and then not enter the service until they had completed their education will be continued under the revised manpower program. If such is the case, many of the colleges will not lose stars upon whom they had counted for at least one more year of grid service.

The Boys Will Be Younger

It is certain that high schools hereabouts will be playing next year—and that is as it should be. For students and adults alike, football is a recreation that should not be completely sacrificed during war time. There may be curtailments because of transportation difficulties, but it appears as though football will stay.

Younger players will be seen on many of the teams. With the entry of 18 and 19 year olds into the service, many of the bigger high schools will lose youths who have annually made up the bulk of their teams. It is true that some coaches who annually seem to be loaded with big men refuse to look at some of the so-called youngsters because they lack the weight and are still in the growing stage.

In the 'teen years, a year or so can make a great difference in a boy. So, with the 18 and 19's being subjected to service, it means that a younger crop of boys will get a chance to show their stuff on the gridirons. This should not be a blow to just a few schools, but put all on the same par except in rare cases. It can similarly be argued that some schools will not be at all affected since most if not all of their boys graduate from school before they have reached their 18th birthday.

If Tippy Weathers The Storm

Fight fans will be interested in tomorrow night's festivities at Madison Square Garden where Tippy Larkin knocks once more at the door of the hall of fame when he tackles the much-publicized Negro slugger, young Beau Jack, in what New York is billing as the battle for the lightweight crown of the world. While the N.B.A. is disputing this fact, it's a fact that the winner will still have to be recognized as one-two with anybody else in the country who thinks that he's the cream of the lightweight crop.

It's the second time up for Larkin as a bidder for the lightweight crown. A little less than three years ago, Tippy climbed through the ropes to battle Lew Jenkins, then king of the division. The Garfield Gunner, who is managed by Angelo Pucci, had hardly shaken his bathrobe from his shoulders when Jenkins came up with one from the floor and the birdies and the bees were buzzing a merry tune in Larkin's noggin.

Everybody but Pucci counted Larkin out for good, but about six months later Pucci started him on the comeback trail fighting in Newark and other clubs in the vicinity. Along the way, Tippy shot himself accidentally in the arm, but it appeared to help rather than hinder the Jersey favorite.

Beau Jack registered a technical k.o. in seven rounds in his most recent start against Allie Stolz, the boy Larkin has been trying to get in the ring during the past two years without success.

Discovered by a bunch of sporting writers and other celebrities who staked him, Beau Jack's rise has been sensational. It's just one man's prediction but if Larkin can weather the first five or six rounds we're of the opinion that Tippy will box his way to a win over the Negro puncher, Jack's an early starter who attempts to wear down and befuddle his man with bull-like rushes. Larkin can take it, and we think that he's got enough boxing sense to keep the Beau from hurting him badly and belt his way to a victory.

Snapshots

By James Preston

The new members of the Czar family, Manpower McNutt and Foodpower Wickard, are going ahead with programs that will soon affect every U. S. citizen in a number of ways.

Our armed forces now situated on or less than sixty-five points on the world map are going to be fed, equipped and properly taken care of even though we have to do without a great many things we are used to having.

The new manpower program under the guidance of Paul V. McNutt, chief of the War Manpower Commission, will soon whittle down from his present ratio of nine to one, a new deal which will put one man in the armed services for every five men in the civilian labor force.

Principal points in the manpower schedule which will have a great deal to do with the Foodpower job include:

(1) Allocation of manpower to armed forces, war industries, agriculture and other essential civilian activities;

(2) Efficient use of labor for war industries;

(3) Mobilization of the nation's labor reserve;

(4) Transfer of workers from less essential activities to activities essential to the support of the support of the war;

(5) Provision of labor needed for essential agriculture.

Claude R. Wickard, new food czar cannot promise "any complete solution" to the growing shortage of farm labor, he pledged that the government would do everything in its power to alleviate this situation and give the farmers a much help as possible.

From now on until the Axis is written off, the volume of hand writing is going to be greatly reduced in this country. Sharp reductions in the volume of wooden pencils, fountain pens, and mechanical pencils, to be produced next year, was ordered recently by the War Production Board. Mechanical pencil producers will have to cut their output down to forty-seven per cent of 1941 production.

The much discussed shovel in the hands of many public project workers will soon be a thing of the past. February 1, 1943 will see the end of all Works Progress Administration activities.

The prompt liquidation of this great public burden will be a pleasant relief to the millions of tax payers who have been supporting this government activity for several years and who also are occupied with the necessary burden of the expense of this war.

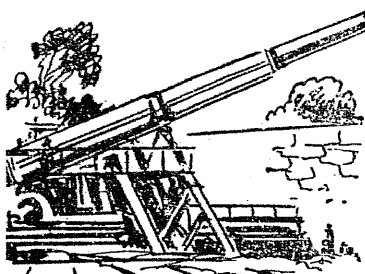

While our armed forces were moving in on the new African front, the Axis armistice commission was pillaging civilian stock piles of goods required by the natives and by the invaders. Consequently lead-lease is sending five million dollars worth of sugar, powdered and evaporated milk, green tea, cheese, newsprint, kerosene, drugs and copper sulphate to North Africa.

Navy lookouts and gunners are now using special goggles with rotating lenses, which control the amount of light admitted. The goggles eliminate ultra-violet (sunburn) rays as well as reflected glare.

The sixteen-inch coast gun is the most powerful of all American guns and costs about $2,000,000 each. It will throw a shell weighing up to a ton many miles. The Coast Guard also has an eight-inch mobile railway gun which will hurl a heavy projectile about 18 miles.

For defense of our homes, the Coast Guard needs many of these powerful weapons. You can do your part to help pay for them by investing at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds and Stamps every payday. U. S. Treasury Department

DEC. BAD MONTH FOR CARS—MAGEE

Motor Vehicle Head Urges Careful Check Of All Autos

State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Magee wants to keep down the number of auto accidents during the holiday season, and also cautions motorists that December is one of the worst months for accidents because of freezing ice and snow.

Pointing out that spare parts are difficult to get, Magee commented that a skidding accident may put a car out of commission for the duration.

Magee has listed seven points on which all motorists should check as a means of preventing accidents during the treacherous road and weather conditions that may come during this month and the others ahead this winter. They are as follows:

1. Unequalized brakes frequently cause skids on snow or ice. Check and equalize your brakes.
2. The best tire treads will slip on snow or ice. Tire chains help prevent skids. Put them on when packed snow or ice conditions prevail.
3. Weak windshield wipers, and defrosters lead to accidents. Check and repair wipers and defrosters if needed.
4. Faulty headlights cause accidents. Have lights checked for focus and direction.

5. High speeds are doubly dangerous. Drive at reduced speeds. Approach icy curves slowly. Avoid the necessity for sudden stops.

6. "Crowding" other vehicles is gross carelessness. Maintain adequate headway between your car and the car in front. Allow plenty of elbow room between your car and the cars on each side. Don't pass on curves or hills. It's foolhardy on snow or ice.

7. Sudden stops cause skids. Chains will help on snow and ice. They provide forward traction and reduce stops 40 to 50 percent over new tires. This does not mean chains permit normal speeds and normal braking. They help a lot, but drivers should not dissipate the extra margin of safety.

DON'T SEND CARDS AT 1-2-CENT RATE

P. O. Says Two-Cent Stamps Should Be Used On Greeting Cards

The post office is campaigning more than ever this year to have people send Christmas cards as first-class mail, making every effort to discourage the use of one and one-half cent stamps on greeting card envelopes, which is rated as third class mail.

First class mail matter may be sealed, contain writing, will be forwarded, will be returned and will be given preference in mail delivery. Christmas greetings mailed at the third class rate, cannot be sealed, will not be returned and must not contain writing. It is handled by the post office as ordinary circular mail.

Postmaster John F. Sinnott, Jr. of the Newark post office also sought this week to discourage the use of small or odd-sized greeting cards and envelopes since the practice is costly to the postal service. He suggested that not under any circumstances should cards or envelopes be smaller than two and three-quarter inches, stating that a size somewhat larger would be preferable.

Sold As Scrap Paper

Large numbers of Christmas greetings, Sinnott said, mailed in unsealed envelopes at the third class rate of postage, one and one-half cents each, are disposed of as waste paper every year because they are undeliverable as addressed, due to removal of the addressee, or other cause.

Such greetings are not entitled to the free forwarding privilege accorded those mailed in sealed envelopes prepared at the letter rate of postage. Consequently, the postmaster explained, the senders in many cases never know that the greetings were not received by the addressee. This would not occur if the greetings were mailed at the letter rate of postage, Sinnott said.

This Week of War

An estimated 660,000 essential war workers in the Detroit area have been held at their jobs by an agreement announced by Montague A. Clark, Michigan director of the war manpower commission. The agreement—intended to prevent labor piling and dislocations caused by shifting of workers to higher-paying jobs—list 34 categories in which employees may not leave their jobs without specific governmental authorization.

President Roosevelt's executive order setting up the new war manpower commission under the chairmanship of Paul V. McNutt had provided that, when the effective prosecution of the war required it, all war workers be hired, rehired and recruited through the U. S. employment service, and had prohibited employers from retaining workers more urgently needed in a more essential occupation. McNutt said the new program embraces the allocation of manpower to the armed forces, war industries, agriculture, and other essential civilian activities, the efficient use of labor for war industries, the mobilization of the country's labor reserves, the transfer of workers from less essential activities to more essential activities, and the providing of labor needed for essential agriculture.

He announced the establishment of a bureau of selective service—to include the selective service system and to be headed by Selective Service Director Hershey—within the new WMC, and said that by the end of 1943 one out of every five men in the civilian labor force, instead of one out of every nine, as now, would be in the armed services.

The WMC and the selective service system are helping the country's war plants draw up manning table forms to enable the employer to plan for his future labor needs and give the government information upon which to base the orderly withdrawal of workers who must be released to the armed services. Secretary of Labor Perkins reported 3,200,000 women employed as factory wage earners in mid-October, as compared with 2,700,000 in October 1941, and said that in the same period total factory wage workers increased from 11,400,000 to 12,700,000. Under Secretary of War Patterson said the average work week should be raised in all wage and non-war industries from the present average to 42.8 hours to an overall average of 48 hours.

Agriculture

An executive order of December 7 gave full control over the nation's food program to Secretary of Agriculture Wickard. Wickard is to control all phases of the food program—requirements, production, distribution, priorities and allocations, purchase and procurement. To permit effective use of these controls, the order provided for the procurement from WPB of farm machinery, supplies and equipment necessary to carry out the program, the power to order civilian rationing of foods through OPA, the determination of policies and procedures for the feeding of people in foreign countries, the issuance of directives relating to the importation of food, and the issuance of priority schedules for domestic transportation of food.

The functions, personnel, and property of certain agricultural bureaus and divisions concerned primarily with the production of food will be consolidated into a food production administration, with Herbert W. Parisius, associate director of the office of agricultural war relations, as director, and the functions, personnel, and property of certain agricultural bureaus concerned primarily with the distribution of food will be consolidated into a food distribution administration, with Roy Hendrickson, present AMA administrator, as director.

Secretary Wickard said prospects are good for meeting 1943 food requirements, but in order to meet those requirements the U. S. must use fully and economically its production facilities and distribution system and exert economy in the consumption of foods. Some foods may be scarce, he said, but "no one will need to go hungry." The executive order will enable the agriculture department to set up a national "assembly line" in the production and distribution of food vitally needed to win the war and the peace.

Lend-lease deliveries of American foodstuffs for shipment to other United Nations, as reported by the department, increased 93,000,000 pounds during October, bringing the monthly deliveries to 645,000,000 pounds and the total since the program was started to nearly 8,000,000,000 pounds. The AMA delivery report showed in-products, meats, grains, and other products.

The War Front

President Roosevelt told congress that American forces overseas will number more than 1,000,000 by the end of this month, and said "the Axis powers have, temporarily at least, lost the initiative." The OWI reported that from December 7, 1941, to December 7, 1942, the U. S. armed forces suffered 58,307 casualties; 37,678 in the army and 22,629 in the navy. Major General A. A. Vandergift, marine commander, stated that in the 4-month campaign on Guadalcanal 7,000 Japanese troops have been killed and 450 Japanese planes destroyed, with enemy losses exceeding U. S. losses by 10 to 1. During the first year of war (December 7 to December 7), U. S. communiques have announced the sinking in the Pacific and Far East of 306 Japanese ships and 85 U. S. ships.

The navy announced the 22,000-ton U. S. liner President Coolidge, transporting approximately 4,000 army troops, struck a mine in the South Pacific and sank with a loss of only four men, and also reported the loss through enemy action of the USS Alchiba, an auxiliary cargo ship.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced the complete occupation of the Gona area in New Guinea, with Allied forces advancing against the remaining Japanese forces in the Buna-Sananda area. According to communiques, at least 95 Japanese have been killed and 4 captured in attempts to escape from their surrounded positions. On December 6 and 7 U. S. planes destroyed 21 Japanese aircraft, 18 of them in the Buna-Gona area.

Lt. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commanding general of the army air forces, said that in the air struggle over Tunisia American planes and personnel are for the first time in this war going up against first-class air power, engaging the best planes the Germans possess. If the U. S. can continue to destroy the enemy plane for plane, we will come out ahead, he stated, as U. S. production is at least twice that of the Axis.

Production

WPB Chairman Nelson described October arms output as "disappointing," as it was up only 3 percent over September, the smallest monthly increase this year. He gave the October box score for major categories of war production: airplanes were down 5 percent, mainly due to special factors affecting deliveries; merchant vessels were down 10 percent but still ahead of schedule; ordnance was up 3 percent; Army and Navy vessels were up 4 percent; other munitions were up 9 percent; and machine tools were up 8.3 percent—a new high for machine tool production.

Because of the conflicting essentiality of many phases of the war production program, said President Roosevelt, the final decision as to what is most needed remains with the army and navy.

HILARITY OUT. DRISCOLL SAYS

ABC Head Praises Board For 3 R. M. Closing On New Year's Eve

Present day world events call for sobriety rather than undue hilarity, State Alcoholic Beverage Control Commissioner Alfred E. Driscoll wrote the town commissioners this week in commending them for their plan to have all taverns and other liquor dispensaries close at 3 a. m. on New Year's eve, instead of 5 a. m. as provided under the local ordinance.

"It is important that we face the new year with sober heads and steady hands," Driscoll wrote, "to the end that throughout 1943 we may be prepared to out-think, out-work and out-fight our enemies. Whether the citizens of the United States have a happy new year is almost entirely dependent upon their collective accomplishments during the early days of 1943."

Half Have Replied

About half of the town's taverns have replied to the excise board's request that they voluntarily shut down their places on New Year's eve at 3 a. m. All have replied favorably to the plan which was suggested to them in a letter sent by Mayor Williams, who is chairman of the excise board.

At a meeting a week ago, Williams suggested to his fellow commissioners, who are members of the excise body that the taverns be asked to voluntarily close at 3 a. m. instead of 5 a. m. as legally provided for New Year's eve in the town ordinance. The board unanimously supported the plan.

The request by the mayor was mailed to all taverns, package stores and clubs which hold local liquor licenses. A postal card was enclosed so that the taverns could reply whether they would comply with the request or not.

In commending the town board for its action, Driscoll said that he hoped "that other communities will follow your example and materially restrict their peace-time year-end closing hours."

Directing his remarks at the taverns, Driscoll added:

No Loss of Work Hours

"I am calling upon all licensees to make a contribution to the war effort by going to it that those who visit their premises during the holiday season leave at a reasonable hour and, as required by the regulations of this department, in condition to effectively carry on the duties assigned to them at the appropriate time. There must be no loss of work hours as the result of over-indulgence. A million fighting men overseas can hardly be expected to look with favor on 'life as usual' over here."

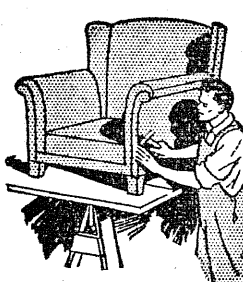

"I can imagine no better contribution to the cause than for all of us to curtail our celebrations and accelerate our work. There will be time enough for celebration after we have won the victory."

Williams told the liquor dealers in his letter that the board's action had been prompted by the operation of defense plants on New Year's eve and that it was the commissioners' belief that very little reduction in sales would be incurred.

While admitting that no legal necessity exists for the closing of any places before 5 a. m., the mayor said he believed "agreeing to the request of the board of commissioners will be a patriotic action on your part and from advice I have already received from operators of a few taverns, I am led to believe operators and their employees will approve the recommendation."

Petreans Will Play Hosts To St. Peter's Youngsters

St. Peter's school youngsters will be entertained at a party next Tuesday morning by the Petrean club when the school closes for the Christmas holidays.

Movies rather than foodstuffs, because of shortages, will be the feature this year. Rev. Joseph M. Kelly and the church sisters have cooperated with the committee arranging the affair.

The Christmas party for Petreans will be held Tuesday night. Arrangements are in charge of the entertainment committee headed by Ann Lukowiak. Other members are Anne Boylan, co-chairman; Helen Hurley, Jane Lukowiak, Ruth Calkin, Mae Watson, Grace McGuire, Grace Monaghan, Richard Lukowiak, John McCann, Greta Kinnedy, Emma Goldacker, Joseph Connolly and Edward Lenox.

Miss Virginia Mermel, conscription chairman, reports that all Christmas gifts for sixty youths who are club members and in the service have been mailed.

W. & T. CHEMIST PASSES AT 43

Dr. Franz C. Schmuckles, Wound Therapy Specialist, Died Friday Night

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 p.m. for Dr. Franz C. Schmuckles, assistant director of research chemistry for Wallace & Tiernan company, in the Home for Services in Montclair. Cremation followed at the Roschil cemetery in Linden.

Dr. Schmuckles, who was 43, died at his home, 83 High street, Montclair, on Friday night. Born in Prague, Czechoslovakia, Dr. Schmuckles studied there and received his Ph. D. in chemistry from Carl-Ferdinand university in 1922. He came to this country in 1925 and became a citizen in 1931. Before joining the Wallace & Tiernan firm in 1927, he was associated with the Doran chemical company of Newark and the Davis Emergency Equipment company of Newark. He had resided in Montclair for more than 15 years.

Dr. Schmuckles was best known for his discovery of azochloramid, a germ-killing substance, used to sterilize wounds and burns.

through a slow, controlled release of chlorine. Prior to his death, at the suggestion of the surgeon general's office in Washington, he had been working on a modification of this compound. Large quantities of it are used in treating wounded by the army and navy.

Discovered Sulfa-Film

He was credited with a number of discoveries in the chemistry research field and had been recently working with the committee on wound therapy of the army and navy. Among his discoveries was a drug known as sulfa-film, which is also used in treating burns. During the recent Coconut Grove fire in Boston, a large shipment of this drug was shipped there to treat the burned.

During the past few years, Dr. Schmuckles, in addition to his regular work, had been performing research work in the field of cancer therapy and hormone products.

The Wallace & Tiernan official was a member of the American Chemical society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society of Bacteriologists, the New York Academy of Science, Chemists' Club of New York, Chemical Society of London, Swiss Chemical society and the British Society of Chemical Industry. Dr. Schmuckles was also a member of the Essex Fells Country club.

Surviving him besides his wife, Mrs. Margaret Schmuckles, are his mother, Mrs. Malva Schmuckles; a sister, Mrs. Leo Schumacker, both of Piedmont, Cal.; and two brothers, William and Norton Schmuckles, who formerly conducted businesses in the Philippines.

Found Dead In Home

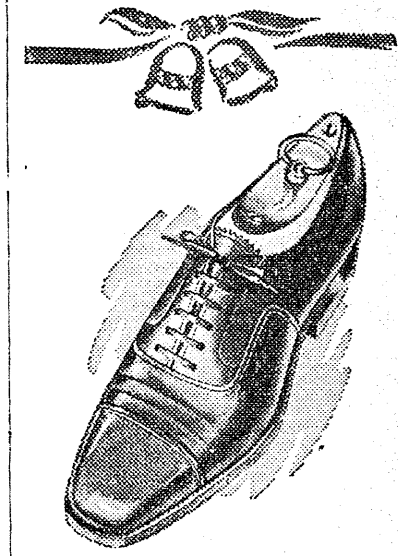

Henry Spinning 48, of 452 Stephen street, was found dead in his home Monday by the police. The police were called when Mrs. Mary E. Ridgway, a case worker for the welfare department, got no answer when she called on Spinning.

Dr. Martin Meehan said Spinning had been dead three or four days. According to the overseer of the poor, John Hewitt, Spinning was a world war veteran, and has served with the 59th Pioneer infantry. He leaves his father, Lewis Spinning of Summit, and a brother, Walter, of Chicago.

Louise Iacangelo

A funeral was held Wednesday at 8 a. m. with a mass in St. Anthony's church, at 9 a. m. for Louise Iacangelo, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Iacangelo of Naples street, Louise, who died Saturday, has one sister, Lena, and four brothers, Joseph, Jerry, Samuel and Michael.

MAKE DRESSINGS DURING EVENING

Group To Meet First Three Mondays At Recreation House

An evening session for making surgical dressings and rolling bandages will be held in the Recreation house on the first three Mondays of each month under the direction of the production department of the Red Cross chapter. This announcement was made at the monthly executive board meeting of the chapter Monday at the headquarters in the Woman's club.

Anyone willing to volunteer services for the Monday evening work may register by calling Miss Esther P. Adams at Be 2-2111. Helpers are also needed for the daytime production work Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Recreation house and St. Peter's hall.

The production committee received sufficient large-eyed needles in response to appeals made by this newspaper to send off more kits for soldiers this week. Since the quota will undoubtedly be 200 kits a month for the duration of the war the appeal will have to be a continuous one. As well as needles playing cards in good condition and 1941 and 1942 copies of the Reader's Digest or other interesting pocket-size magazines will be needed.

Go To Overseas Men
These kits, which are handed to each soldier as he boards ship for overseas duty, are interestingly packed for utmost practicality. A writing pad and pencil forms the bottom and the small magazine the top of the compact contents of the bag which is much deeper than the articles require. It is a sturdy bag of khaki twill which measures 11 by 26 inches and is a handy utility or laundry bag for the soldier after it is emptied. It is folded down over the small articles which include envelopes, razor blades, soap, chewing gum and a sewing kit complete with thread, needles, pins and buttons.

The Red Cross motor corps, captained by Mrs. John Cort, will hereafter meet monthly at headquarters on the fourth Monday evening. The chapter will also sponsor a visit of the mobile unit for blood collection to the Walter Kille company's plant on Main street on February 1. Numerous employees have registered to donate their blood.

Among the activities of the Junior Red Cross of which Mrs. William H. Williams is chairman, have been jacking Christmas boxes for soldiers at Camp Kilmer at New Brunswick and for the veterans at Lyons Hospital, Millington. Cigarettes, playing cards, candy, nuts, books, razor blades, shaving cream and tooth paste are included. These young people also collected and packaged gifts of toys and handcraft materials for children in Essex County hospital for contagious diseases at Soho.

5,387 members are enrolled in the Junior Red Cross and their donations make possible the overhead of preparing these articles. Competitive feminine teams have been organized in the high school. One named the Waves is headed by Miss Mary Elizabeth Salkeld; the other, the Waves has Miss Lois Kittle as chairman. Both girls are seniors. Each aggregation is composed of four seniors and two members of each of the other classes. They have completed packing of Christmas boxes for children in England and France and are at work knitting scarves for Afghans and compiling scrapbooks for soldiers and crippled children.

Ethel Nash To Be Bride At Sunday Afternoon Ceremony

Miss Ethel Nash, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herman Nash of Newark, will be married at noon on Sunday in the Newark Athletic club to Dr. Robert Gynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham S. Gynn of 12 Overlook avenue. Dr. Joachim Prinz of Temple B'nai Abraham will officiate at the marriage and a reception will follow.

Miss Lois Nash, the bride's sister, will be her only attendant and Joseph Gynn, a pre-medical student at the University of New Hampshire, will be his brother's best man.

The bride attended Dearborn Morgan School in Orange and was graduated from the Prospect-Hill Country Day school and Goucher college, Baltimore. Dr. Gynn is a graduate of the University of New Hampshire where he was president of Mask and Dagger. He received his medical degree from St. Louis University School of Medicine. He spent a year at Bethesda General hospital, St. Louis, and is now entering Beth Israel hospital, Newark. He has been commissioned a first lieutenant in the United States medical reserve.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Vizza were guests of honor Saturday evening of the Happy Couples club whose members celebrated their second anniversary with a dinner at Vittorio's, Castle, Newark. CHRISTMAS FETE AT WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. Elmer S. Hyde In Charge Of Program; Children To Sing Carols

The Woman's club will hold a Christmas party at the club-house on Monday at 2 p.m. with Mrs. Elmer S. Hyde in charge of the program.

The first part will consist of a group of members from the music department, Mrs. John J. Hewitt, Mrs. Lloyd C. Nunn, Mrs. Winfield H. Stone, and Mrs. Henry S. Gassner, singing Christmas carols. Mrs. Oscar Joseph, a member of the literature department, will give a Christmas reading. A silver collection will be taken for procuring play equipment for the day nursery which is being sponsored by the defense council. A donation from the club treasury will also be given to the Community Service bureau to help with their Christmas plans.

At 3:30 p.m. the program will be given over to children of club members who will sing carols, accompanied by Mrs. Willard Y. Strange. There will be a Christmas tree for the children which will later be sent to the nursery school. Refreshments will be served by the hospitality chairman, Mrs. Norman Lauterette, and her committee. The club extends an invitation to all members to attend the party.

The social service department will hold a Christmas party at the nursery school on Wednesday at 2 p.m. Mrs. Leslie Woodruff is chairman of the group. The annual music festival sponsored by the music department with Mrs. Lloyd C. Nunn as chairman will be postponed until next year because of the war.

Mrs. R. Clifford Whitfield, chairman of the nominations, will hold a meeting of the nominating committee at her home, 85 Rossmore place, on Monday at 1 p.m. Mrs. William H. Jacobson, Mrs. Elmer S. Hyde, Mrs. William P. Adams, Mrs. Frank Akerman, Mrs. William Chapman, Mrs. Charles Gowie, Mrs. Dwight N. Streeter, Mrs. John Gibson, Mrs. James M. Lynch, Mrs. Arthur S. Akerman, Mrs. Byron Klotz, Mrs. Elmer Bagnall, and Mrs. Charles Stewart comprise the committee.

Urge Defense Council Not To Use Sunday Mornings

The Belleville Ministers' association has sent a request to the defense council that no more demonstrations or important meetings of defense council units be held on Sunday morning. The practice was discussed by the clergymen at their meeting Tuesday afternoon in the high school cafeteria. The inspection of the fire reserves held on Sunday morning, December 6, was singled out as one example by the association, pointing out that a number of men who regularly attend church were unable to do so because of the inspection and drill held that morning. It was suggested that defense council activities could be arranged for hours other than Sunday morning.

Howell-Moore Marriage Took Place In Bloomfield

The marriage of Miss Barbara Moore, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Percy Moore of Bloomfield, to Edward Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Howell of 703 Belleville avenue, took place on Sunday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. J. Buttingham, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Bloomfield, at his home. A reception, tendered by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Lillian Seibert of Bloomfield, followed at Schumb's restaurant in Bloomfield. Mrs. Howell is a graduate of Bloomfield high school and was formerly employed in a real estate office in that town. Mr. Howell, who is a graduate of the local high school, expects to enter the navy shortly as a first class seaman. He has been employed as a welder at a shipyard in Greenport.

PARTY FEATURES SCOUT MEETING

Final Session Of Year Held By Girls' Leaders; Troop Has Birthday

The Girl Scout council held its last meeting of the 1942 season on Thursday at the Service Bureau at 400 Washington avenue. Refreshments were served. Tables were decorated with Christmas bells and holly, and the cakes were frosted in Christmas colors. Quiz games were played after the meeting. Guests present were Mrs. Elmer Hyde, commissioner; Mrs. George Gerard, secretary; Mrs. LeRoy Long, treasurer; Miss Mary Stanier, Mrs. William P. Adams, Mrs. Joseph King, Mrs. Bernard Cavalieri, Mrs. Stanley Gibson, Mrs. Frank Akerman, Mrs. Bertrand Whidden, Mrs. Elwood Russell, Mrs. Frank Chambers, Mrs. Mae Holden.

The scout bureau has been decorated for Christmas with a life-sized Santa painted on the walls, green garlands and tall candy canes suspended from them.

Girl Scout Troop 3 celebrated its 15th birthday last Wednesday in Wesley Methodist church.

This troop was the first to come under the direction of Mrs. Holden and was organized in December, 1927. The tables were arranged in the form of a V and a cake with yellow roses and 15 candles was placed at the head table. The troop received a letter from national headquarters commending the anniversary. Three new members, Dorothy Westlake, Dolores DeCarlus and Joan Stanley, were invested at the celebration. The troop has met continuously for the past 15 years and always in Wesley church.

Wooden fence posts treated with chromated zinc chloride last three to ten times longer than if untreated.

To Have Christmas Party

A Christmas party for members of the juvenile and junior clubs of the Junior Bacon-Peck studios will be held Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5, under the direction of Adell Sutherland, assistant at the studios. Mrs. Sutherland will hold a Christmas party in Mountain Lakes for her students there next Wednesday afternoon.

The Woman's Desk

by PEGGY PATTERSON

"What good is Christmas any way, with all the men away?" "How can we have a Christmas spirit, feel happy and give gifts when everyone is fighting?" That is the attitude among many, and yet now more than ever we must make the Christmas spirit prevail. Christmas without a man to take your places, or to plan for, is certainly a dreary affair but instead of shutting yourself away from others and brooding about such an unfortunate state, one should endeavor to spend that excess energy on others who have nothing, and are manless also. Christmas is always a family affair, anyway, so why not spend more time preparing for the dinner and the decorations trying to make the relatives happy, and less time on bawling your unhappy frame of mind.

If the Christmas tree is trimmed and ingenuity is spent on preparing food and decorating the house, one will not have time to wonder if furloughs are forthcoming.

If you can find a service man or two who are stationed far away from their homes or who will have only Christmas day, invite them for dinner. But don't invite a carload! It is too hard to mix friends with a group of outsiders. Each sits on either side of the fireplace, both trying to find mutual ground, and then seldom do. It is much easier to introduce one or two boys to a large family gathering and make them at home. All families have some idiosyncrasies and it is easier to overlook them when you only have a few outsiders than when you have a contingent of them.

Present For Everyone
Do have at least a small tree and a present for every guest, even though it is a small one. It is just the feeling of being considered and the fun of unwrapping a present that gives it true value.

If you do happen to live in a neighborhood where there are many transitory workers who have left their homes and can't go back for the holidays, try to find one or two with whom you are congenial and invite them to spend the time with you. Many defense workers are cooped up in one room and would definitely appreciate going somewhere for a family dinner rather than going out to eat. If you know of any such men or women, perhaps one of your neighbors, or if you have met any of them as acquaintances, or if you fancy one or two of the persons with whom you work, do sound them out on the idea of spending the day with you. They should bite at the chance. You would like most and how you

Music Foundation Again
Plans Music Auditions
The Griffith Music Foundation will cooperate with music educators of New Jersey for the second successive year in conducting music auditions during March and April, for all residents of the state to whom music is either a career or an avocation.

The auditions are designed to stimulate musical interest in laymen as well as to provide teachers and students of music with a periodic check-up of their work. They are arranged in the following classes: junior, intermediate, senior, artist—according to achievement rather than to age. Awards will be made in these categories—proficiency in singing or the playing of any instrument; original work in composition; general knowledge (determined by a written examination); special achievements including collections, scrapbooks, and work in choruses, instrumental ensembles, or in any group which makes a unique contribution to music in the community.

So, You're Going To Get Tires?

There seems to be a general misconception in the minds of many automobile and commercial vehicle operators concerning the obtainance of tires in the months to come. Because of the institution of national mileage rationing, they have taken it for granted that once their tires are worn out, all that must be done is to apply to the rationing board and permission will be granted for new, retreaded or recapped tires.

Unfortunately, the picture is not so rosy. The rubber situation will become much worse than it is currently before it is much better. This is borne out by statistics and predictions made in the Baruch rubber report and the latest information which has come out of Washington.

Improvement in the condition hinges on obtaining synthetic rubber in adequate amount and that can only be accomplished through the erection of new manufacturing plants. There have already been serious delays in the assigning of priorities and the allocating of materials for this construction work. Estimates made several months ago on the future outlook for the country have been altered considerably by these delays.

This means one thing to every motorist—he must make his tires last longer or face the inevitable fact that by the end of next year, or even before that date, he won't be able to use his car.

The majority of drivers still refuse to believe that this will happen. They drive at speeds far in excess of 35 miles per hour, round curves at excessive speeds, come to sudden stops for traffic lights and intersections rather than slowing down gradually, attempt to "jump the gun" when the light turns green, fail to keep tires properly inflated and have not had their wheels carefully checked for proper alignment.

The clearest picture that has been given thus far of the muddled rubber situation was the Baruch report issued in August. It presented the condition as it was at that time, the needs for the future and the increase in synthetic rubber production which would be required to meet all essential demands. Perhaps a few of the statistics contained in that report and the latest available from Washington will give motorists who still believe that they have rubber to burn a clearer picture of the actual conditions.

The nation's crude rubber stock at the end of October was estimated to be 465,232 tons. Between now and January 1, 1944, imports will probably total 53,000 tons, but this figure may be considerably lower, based on the merchant shipping available and the toll which enemy sea raiders may take. This makes a total of 518,232 tons available for use during the next year. But—and this is a vitally important point—the estimated military and other essential demands between now and January 1, 1944, with no allowance for tires for passenger automobiles is nearly 840,000 tons. Theoretically, this means that the deficit between the need and the amount of natural rubber in stockpiles must be made up through the manufacture of nearly 377,000 tons of synthetic rubber during the next 12 months.

Latest predictions from Washington indicate that not more than 50,000 tons of synthetic rubber will be manufactured during the first half of next year. However, it is hoped that production will increase in leaps and bounds during the last half of 1943. Still, this is far from 377,000 tons.

Military demands must be filled. The flow of supplies to the armed forces can not wait. It means that if rubber is not available from one source, it will have to come from another—the meagre amounts which are being set aside for essential civilian use.

This is the factual picture, probably as accurate as any that can be given currently. It simply means that every motorist must ask himself one question—will his tires last for another year and a half? Then, be guided and be careful.

Plight Facing The Hospitals

One of the most pressing community problems which is facing this area is that of the hospitals. Every institution is taxed to over capacity, and from present indications there is little prospect of elimination of the condition in the near future.

Hospitals have been caught in the upswing of business which has resulted from the war. People who had previously lacked the funds are now having long delayed operations. Most rushed of all branches of hospital service is the maternity division which constantly has Dr. Stork and his assistants panting for breath to keep pace with the customers.

The army and navy has taken a heavy toll in hospital staffs. Every hospital has lost many well-known and veteran physicians to both branches of the service. Likewise, internes who have been great aids to the house staffs in the past are entering the armed forces, and hospitals either have no internes at all or are working with a greatly reduced number. With the government calling more than 3,000 nurses a month for service, the turnover and depletion in hospitals has been a tremendous problem which is a difficult one with which to cope. Other technical groups in the employ of each institution have been attracted to more lucrative positions or have entered the service, and most places have been unable to keep a normal working corps among the non-professional workers vital to any well-operated hospital.

The public may not readily realize these problems, and many are unable to understand why they do not receive, or at least not as rapidly, the service to which they were accustomed before the war.

The problem demands the proper understanding of the condition which faces every hospital. It calls for complete cooperation of the patients, relatives and friends. Hospital directors frankly admit that unless it is forthcoming, they are fearful that many institutions will fail considerably in the task which daily confronts them.

The hospital remains as one of the home front beacons which must not be dimmed for a moment. For the service which they have rendered in the past and that which they are rendering today, it demands the understanding and constant aid and cooperation of all.

High School Program

Some are asking what the high school is doing in the war effort. Belleville's name hasn't been screamed forth at an amazed public in big headlines telling that the school has added a class for girls in firing anti-aircraft guns or that French, German and Latin has been tossed out of the curriculum to make room for Japanese so that all of the boys will become skilled as interpreters in handling yellow-skinned prisoners.

Showmanship means little if anything in the war, and the same holds true in preparing young boys and girls for the part they will play in the battle at hand. It requires hard, tedious work, dealing in basic fundamentals which are so vital to the success of any well-balanced successful program. That is what is done day after day in the army and navy in training millions of men, and that is what is being done at the high school.

In military circles it has been discovered that while many young men have had a smattering of a number of things they were not well-schooled in the fundamentals which are important in making a good soldier or sailor. That is what the services require, and the schools have been given the job of doing it. They aren't asked to teach them how to shoot, fly an aeroplane or how to run a submarine. That will come later.

This program could not be accomplished without the complete cooperation of faculty members, who in addition to gearing much of their regular teaching program to the war tempo, are giving additional after-school hours aid boys and girls who are enthusiastic in their desire to help win the war.

Six-Year Old Boy Is First Sled Accident Casualty

The town's first sledding accident of the winter was recorded last Wednesday night following the slight snowfall. Six-year old Patsy Gross of 64 Franklin street is recuperating from head injuries suffered when he was knocked from his sled by an auto driven by William Uzzoli, of 450 Mt. Prospect avenue, Newark. The boy was taken to Columbus hospital, Newark, for treatment.

The accident occurred on Franklin street.

Issues a Challenge

From J. Alden DeRonde

Belleville

To the Editor of The Belleville Times
Some of my friends have asked me what the two members of Belleville's board of commissioners who have so stubbornly opposed the appointment of Mr. Mertz shouldn't be challenged to give reasons for their lack of respect toward the expressed desire of our citizens.

They have done considerable talking about matters of no interest to anyone, and now perhaps they might condescend to talk frankly and openly to the people who pay them about a matter which "is" of considerable interest.

I challenge the two gentlemen to account for their "public be damned" attitude.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville Times.

by Meador W.

Albert W. Hawkes is the political man of the year in New Jersey. When 1941 drew to a close political analysts predicting first that he wouldn't even dare to run conceded him almost no chance in case he did. Dr. Lester H. Clee was considered to have the best chance of winning the Republican nomination and William H. Smathers more than an even chance of being reelected.

During the early months of 1942 Republican prospects looked better. Then came the great American naval victories of the Coral Sea and Midway. Immediately Democratic stock went up. Republican control of the House of Representatives appeared impossible.

It was during this period that Dr. Clee made his fatal decision not to seek the Republican nomination. After weeks of delay interspersed with several conferences with Hawkes he made his announcement that he wouldn't run and urged the nomination of the Montclair industrialist.

The statement came like a bombshell to the Clean Government camp. After conferences with subordinate Clean Government leaders and an unsatisfactory interview with Hawkes, Vanderbilt made his decision: he wouldn't support the man from Montclair. When State Republican Chairman Alexander Smith declined to accept proffered backing, Vanderbilt joined Lloyd Marsh of Passaic and other state leaders in an endorsement of Gill Robb Wilson of Trenton.

But Essex voters generally declined to follow Vanderbilt's cue. Hawkes had many friends in Essex and Wilson was unknown. A campaign committee raised a considerable war chest and Hawkes' campaign manager, the skillful Al Levitt, proceeded to spend it with unusual astuteness. About this time, also, Republican chances throughout the nation began to look better.

While this was going on the Wilson camp was not idle. Perfecting a brand of oratory that has seldom been matched in New Jersey campaigns, Wilson took to the hustings. Wherever he spoke, audiences came away impressed. But his campaign failed to attract the masses. His candidacy had great potentialities, but they were not to be realized in the few short weeks available. When the Republican primary votes were counted Hawkes had a 3,000 majority in a very tight vote. It was small but enough. The impossible had happened.

Eyes then turned to the general election. Smathers was recognized as a rather weak candidate, but few grasped at the time just how weak he really was. Always considered a political accident, his candidacy had suffered a bad turn early in the summer when he unwise sponsored Hague's candidate for Federal Judge, Thomas F. Meaney.

Seen in retrospect, it becomes certain that Smathers threw away any chance he had of being reelected when he secured the Meaney nomination and confirmation. It was the effort put forth in the unsuccessful fight to prevent Meaney's confirmation that accounted for many of the 89,000 majority that Hawkes got over

"Is the universe, including man, evolved by atomic force?" is the lesson-sermon subject for Sunday, in all Christian Science churches and societies.
The golden text is: "Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world."
Among the lesson-sermon citations is the following from the Bible: "Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness."
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "The true theory of the universe, including man, is not in material history but in spiritual development. Inspired thought, relinquishes a material, sensual, and mortal theory of the universe, and adopts the spiritual and immortal."

FIREMAN CYPHERS DIES AT 43

Services Held Friday Night For Department Member; Was Born Here

Funeral services were held on Friday night for Fireman Edward L. Cyphers at his home, 183 Birchwood drive. He died at his home last Wednesday following a four-month illness.

Born in town 43 years ago, he was the son of the late Dr. E. O. Cyphers. A graduate of the local high school, he had been employed by the Prudential Insurance Company before he was appointed to the fire department in February, 1935.

Stationed at the William street firehouse, he was the man who generally drove the town ambulance.

Rev. Peter R. Deckenbach, rector of Christ Episcopal church, officiated at the services. Burial took place on Saturday morning in Christ church cemetery.

Fireman Cyphers was a member of Belleville Lodge No. 1123, F. and A.M. and the Craftsmen's club. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Alice B. Cyphers; his wife, Mrs. Millicent Barrett Cyphers; a daughter, Doris; and a sister, Mrs. Richard Garraway, all of town.

WAR Needs the Wires This Christmas

Long Distance telephone lines are loaded with urgent messages. Extra lines cannot be added because copper and other materials are needed to produce weapons and supplies for our fighting forces.

This Christmas, please do not make Long Distance calls to war-busy centers and the more distant points in the South, Far West, and Canada, unless they are necessary. War needs the wires you used to use for Christmas calls.

FEES ARE SET FOR TIRE CHECK BY STATE OPA

Periodic Check 25 Cents
Each Car; 50 Cents For Dismounted Tires

With official OPA tire inspectors appointed and ready to function, James Kerney, Jr., state OPA director, has issued a bulletin of instructions to guide car-owners in compliance with periodic tire inspections required by mileage rationing regulations.

Service stations, tire dealers, automobile dealers, and garages make up the bulk of the inspection stations appointed. A letter of appointment containing a manual of instructions was sent each appointee, and each station will soon receive an official insignia of identification from OPA to display on the premises. Each will also be assigned an official number which must be entered together with the inspector's signature on the tire inspection record when it is presented by a car-owner who applies for tire inspection.

The following instructions were outlined by OPA:

1. Mileage rationing regulations require all motor vehicle owners to submit their tires for periodic inspections. The first inspection must take place before January 31, 1943. Thereafter, A and D gasoline ration book holders must have tires inspected every four months; B and C and supplemental D book holders every two months; and commercial vehicles every two months or every 5,000 miles, whichever comes first.

2. All passenger vehicle owners must present their Tire Inspection records when reporting for inspection. The following schedule of fees has been set by OPA for inspection stations:

a. For periodic inspections where no tires are removed from the wheel or rim a fee of not over 25 cents a vehicle.

b. For dismounting tires: Passenger car tires, each, 50c
Small truck tires, 75c
Large truck tires, $1.00.
Additional charge for removing inside dual truck tires, large, 50c.

To Make Check

In charge of inspection stations in each of the three OPA districts of the state are district tire examiners who will make periodic inspections of all tire inspection stations in accordance with OPA regulations. These require the disqualification of any tire inspector found guilty of three wrong decisions regarding tire replacement, recapping, or repairing recommendations.

The state OPA food rationing division reminded consumers that sugar stamp number ten in war ration book one is now valid for the purchase of three pounds of sugar; it remains valid until January 31, 1943.

Institutional and industrial users of sugar may apply to local rationing boards now for January and February allotments. Institutional users will receive 60 percent of the normal allotment base, while industrial users will receive 70 percent, the same proportion allotted during the last period.

Coffee retailers and wholesalers were advised that reports of sales and inventory must be filed with local rationing boards before December 31. Retailers and wholesalers may now procure the report form (R-1202) at all rationing boards.

Tips On Saving Fuel

OPA state headquarters also released this week a number of suggestions regarding conservation of fuel and tips on how to make the most of your fuel oil ration. The suggestions were compiled by heating and fuel oil engineers, as follows:

1. Good insulation is essential. Loose mineral wool blown into spaces between outer and inner walls, or batts of wool between rafters on the floor of an un-

Public Schools Aim To Help Pupils Grow Into Occupations—Not Choose One

What does Johnny want to be when he grows up? Few are the parents who have not asked themselves this question about their children. A doctor, lawyer, railroad engineer, a policeman, a farmer or a plumber? Finding out what Johnny wants to be, whether he possesses the natural aptitude to grasp the sort of work he has chosen for his life occupation and helping him down that road is one of the most difficult tasks which confronts a school teacher.

Fully cognizant of the immensity of the problem, for both teachers and pupils, Earl W. Seibert, schools guidance director, prepared last year what could be termed a guide to guidance for use in the local school system.

He has revised it for this year and a digest of it was written by the local director in the November issue of The School Review, a monthly publication which is circulated nationally by the department of education of the University of Chicago, among educators and teachers.

In the pattern he has prepared to aid in helping local young boys and girls to get started on the right track, Seibert seeks to break down an old and long-accepted philosophy in guidance circles. "Telling a growing child to 'Choose an Occupation,'" the director remarks that it is "probably an unusual topic for school pupils as the emphasis is ordinarily on 'Choosing an Occupation.'" However, much more is required in planning for your occupational future than to be asked, "What do you want to be?" and then to give your answer.

A Life-Long Process

Playing down the original emphasis which was placed on the importance of choosing an occupation, Seibert comments: "Many factors have been at work to show the inadequacy of that early philosophy of guidance. Guidance workers have come to realize that occupational adjustment is a continuous, life-long process and that it is a matter of growing into an occupation."

The guide which the director has prepared for local use is principally used in the eighth grade of the elementary schools, although it also is an aid in the senior grade of the high school.

Seibert lists a number of stumbling blocks which are presented to a young boy or girl in grade school in choosing an occupation. In pointing them out, he includes lack of knowledge and understanding of the world at work, lack of understanding of the levels and abilities required in the various occupations, lack of knowledge about the world of work, lack of understanding of the individual's own aptitudes, abilities, work habits and personality characteristics, lack of opportunities for work experience to provide first-hand acquaintance with the realities of the work-a-day world, changes in the occupational picture between the time of one's choice of occupation and the time of one's preparation for starting work, changes in the individual between the time of his choice and the time of entrance into work, family influence in the choice of an occupation and over-emphasis on the professions as occupational guides.

Difficult, Not Impossible

"Since it is very difficult for a grade school pupil to choose an occupation," Seibert comments, "it is fortunate that such a choice is not absolutely necessary. On the other hand, just because it is difficult is no reason for us to throw up our hands, say that it is impossible to do anything about it, and decide to 'wait and see what happens.'"

It is important that youngsters learn something about the world of work, differentiate between what they think that they want to do and what they are capable of doing. A finished attic will effect fuel savings.

2. Double all doors and windows leading outdoors (storm windows and doors). Tests indicate that this results in as much as a 24.2 percent saving in fuel oil.

3. Pull down the window shades on the shady side of the house during the day, and all shades at night. This acts very much the way a double window does—it creates a layer of air which acts as insulation. Leave the shades up on the sunny side of the house; this allows the sun to add its warmth to that of your furnace.

4. Felt stripping carefully placed around windows and doors can effect up to 10 percent savings in fuel oil.

5. The thermostat should be located four or five feet from the floor, in a wall which is not in the direct rays of the sun, or near a radiator, or in a draft. Set the thermostat so that your average house temperature is 65 degrees. Check the thermostat to see that it is in perfect working order. The difference between 70 degrees and 65 degrees can mean a 15 percent saving in fuel.

6. Periodic inspections of your oil burner will eliminate faults that waste oil.

7. Set your aquastat on your hot water control low enough so you do not have to mix hot with cold water when using. Insulate your hot water storage tank. Replace leaky hot water faucet washers.

OPA invited householders to send for a copy of an official booklet, "How to Keep Warm and Save Fuel in Wartime," which contains valuable suggestions for saving fuel. They were advised that such requests be made by mail and addressed to the Information Division, OPA, 20 Washington place, Newark.

READ THE TIMES CLASSIFIED

the formula for occupational success. He concludes with a summation and advice to students starting to work on how they should grow into the occupation. It follows:

"When you secure your beginning job remember that most of the jobs of this nature are on a tryout basis. The employer wants to find out by experience what you can do and where you will best fit into the organization. Learn all you can about your job, about the other jobs in the department, about the organization, about your superiors, and make yourself generally useful. Prepare yourself for the job next above yours. The reason for this is not to take the job away from that person or make him feel you want to do so; it is rather to prepare yourself for a better job so that you are ready for it when the opportunity comes. In this way you will be moved from level to level (if you seem to have the qualifications) until you reach the level of your greatest usefulness to the firm. This is what is meant by 'coming up through the ranks.'"

Training, Experience Help

"You will be aided in this movement from level to level by a wise combination of training and experience. The machinist who studies engineering while he is working as a machinist is preparing himself for work on that level. The bookkeeper who studies accounting is preparing to move in that direction. This is 'promotion within the company,' 'gaining seniority,' etc. As you improve your abilities and skills and develop your personality to fit the situation you will find yourself 'growing into' the business. You may not necessarily come out at the top but you owe it to yourself and to the organization for which you work to do all you can to reach the highest level of work attainable for one of your abilities and personality equipment. You will find that this process will unfold more of your aptitudes, abilities, and personality characteristics than it is possible to learn from a series of tests during school days.

"If your beginning job does not provide the opportunity to grow into the business, you may be with the wrong firm, you may not be doing your work properly, or your personality may be interfering with your progress. You may need to look for a new job, develop some skills, improve your personality—or do all of them."

Less than half of the boys who enter engineering schools complete the course, Seibert claimed. Only a small percentage of the girls who say they want to be nurses, teachers or secretaries ever reach their goal, he said.

There are several major occupational groups, Seibert states, which he breaks down as follows: Professional and managerial occupations, clerical and sales, service, agricultural, fishery, forestry and kindred work, skilled semi-skilled and unskilled occupations. The guidance director discusses each of the occupations in detail, stating the type of work performed and the qualifications which are needed.

His guide carries the pupil through all of the steps leading up to, an occupation, what to do after a job has been secured and

Too Many For Professions
"When it is realized that one-third of school pupils usually select one of the professions as their choice of occupation and that another one-third select clerical occupations, one can see the need for study and consideration. Boys and girls should give some consideration to actual situations in the world of work when they think about their own occupational plans," Seibert states.

Boys and girls who are asked what they can learn to do, usually reply "Anything, if I work hard," Seibert says.

"What they mean," he explains, "is that they are willing to try anything and will work as hard as they can to perform the task before them. This is commendable to be sure, but working hard at a task and securing certain required results are not always the same. Not everyone can be successful in every kind of work."
