

Scout Leaders Open Campaign To Choke Delinquency Growth

An increasing youth delinquency problem faces communities in the industrial East, Robert E. Smith, assistant scout executive of the Robert Treat council, told local leaders this week in opening a campaign to promote greater adult interest in the Boy Scout movement. Fathers, and in many cases mothers, working long hours in war plants have left thousands of growing youngsters to shift for themselves and make them easy victims for the pitfalls of delinquency, Smith told a group of neighborhood scout commissioners and others meeting at the scout headquarters building Sunday afternoon. One of the possible tragedies of war-time, it presents the greatest challenge to the youth movement in America, Smith said.

Robert E. Smith

The increase in delinquency which gives signs of breaking out in this country has already reached the serious stages in war-time England where it has been found, Smith said, that children of parents spending long hours working in factories and other essential industries are being left too many hours without proper guidance and direction. The condition has reached such a state there that it has prompted national leaders to call back to their former duties youth directors who have entered the military service.

Can Be Prevented Through movements such as the Boy Scouts the spread of such a condition can be stamped out in this country, Smith said. In the interest of war-time morale and the good development of future citizens, it is important that this be done and it can be accomplished only through the voluntary cooperation and work of adults, particularly those who are parents of growing boys and girls. "Proper guidance and training of our young people is one of the most important tasks to be performed on the home front," Smith said.

The first step locally in the enlargement of the Boy Scout program and increase in adult leadership has been the expansion of the neighborhood commissioner group. At a meeting of a number of men called by Smith at Wednesday night, who will act as neighborhood commissioners were named.

They include Albert Rachel of Joramcon street, Joseph Connolly of Van Houten place, Russell Kindt of New street, Sidney Summerfield of Little street, Frank Chambers of Perry street, Robert G. Sutherin of Perry street, John Charlton of Bell street, Lindsey Graves of Cortlandt street, Arthur Bloemke of Cedar terrace, A. A. Herdick of Overlook avenue and John Ellsworth of Hornblower avenue.

One For Each Troop The neighborhood commissioner acts as liaison man between the Boy Scout troop and the Robert Treat council headquarters. One has been assigned to each troop in town. Each man is required to attend at least one meeting of the troop every month and also to attend regularly the monthly meetings called by the district commissioner. It is the duty of the neighborhood leader to aid the scoutmaster and the troop members in every way possible, to impart to them the latest information and recommendations from the council headquarters and to provide the council chiefs with periodic reports on the detailed activities of each troop.

The greatest need at present in the local organization are men to serve on the troop committees and assistant leaders to aid the scoutmasters. The war has taken from the scout body many of the older boys who had formerly served as assistants. The program can not function unless it secures adult cooperation, Smith said. Urging parents to take an interest in the activities which attract their boys, he said that youngsters will respond willingly and with enthusiasm to adult leadership of the right kind. Young boys must be prepared morally and mentally for the part which they may play in the war and for the post-war period of reconstruction which will follow.

The Real Story of Christmas

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. (And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.) And all went to be taxed, every one in his own city. And Joseph also went up from Galilee out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem (because he was of the house and lineage of David). To be taxed with Mary, his espoused wife, being great with child. And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her first born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn. And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for, behold, I bring to you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men. And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord has made known to us. And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger. And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning the child. And all they that had heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds. But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart. And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

Special Programs To Mark Christmas In The Churches

Most Will Have Services On Eve Or Christmas Day; Some Curtail Events Because Of Fuel Shortage; Chimes At Reformed Church

With the emphasis on attending church during the holiday season being urged nationally, local churches have arranged programs for Christmas. Special music with soloists has been planned with services to be held on the eve and Christmas morning.

Some of the activities annually held during the holiday season, such as children's Christmas parties, have been eliminated by some of the churches which have been forced to drastically curtail their programs because of the shortage of fuel oil.

Although outdoor lighting has been barred for this year, a merry touch has been added to the yuletide joyousness at the Belleville Reformed church at Rutgers and Main streets.

Chimes have been installed in the 165-foot tower of the church by Harold Gullina and will peal forth carols on Christmas morning and also next Sunday. The chimes were first heard at 11 a. m. service last Sunday morning.

245th Christmas The Christmas morning service at the Reformed church, the town's oldest, will mark the 245th observance of Christmas at the church. At the service, which will start at 10 a. m., Dr. John A. Struyk, the pastor, will preach on "Scenes in the Stable." Ralph Sewell, the organist and choir director, has chosen a number of appropriate hymns for the program including "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Holy Night, Peaceful Night," and "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Miss Verna Holly will be heard in a solo, "Jesu Bambino," by Pietro A. Yon, while the choir will sing "Mary's Lullaby" by E. V. Nolte and "Behold I Bring You Good Tidings" by E. A. Clark.

The church has been decorated by Mrs. Frank Wadsworth, Mrs. Douglas F. Wadsworth and Mr. and Mrs. William Martin. On Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p. m., a Christmas party will be held for

FRANK CHAMBERS QUILTS AS HEAD OF RED CROSS

Yeast Executive Succeeded By B. Thomas Aitken, People's Bank President

Frank L. Chambers of Perry street, vice-president of the National Grain Yeast corporation, resigned last night as the chairman of the local chapter of the American Red Cross. He had served as the organization's head since it was re-organized in 1939. He was succeeded by B. Thomas Aitken, a Montclair resident, who is president of the People's Bank and Trust company, and who had been the chapter vice-chairman. Aitken was the unanimous choice of the executive committee.

In submitting his resignation, Chambers was present at the committee meeting in the headquarters at the Woman's club in Rossmore place stated that he had been forced to resign because of the pressure of business.

Conflict Unnecessary Aitken told the executive group in accepting the chairmanship that it would be his endeavor to have the Red Cross function as a perfect working organization in an emergency. He said that he trusted that there would be no conflict with any other organization in town expressing the personal belief that there was no reason why perfect harmony at all times should not exist between the Red Cross and other affiliated groups active in emergency work.

Since Chambers had assumed the chairmanship of the Red Cross chapter in 1939, it has grown in numbers and the scope of its work. The membership on the executive board increased from nine to 32. The activity in the various groups has increased tremendously, especially since the outbreak of war a year ago. Divisions which had shown the greatest increase were the first aid section under the leadership of Mrs. Louis A. Noll, the production committee led by Mrs. Harvey B. Thompson and the motor corps which is now headed by Mrs. John J. Cert.

Aitken said that he wished time to study the present membership of the executive board to consider the man or woman whom he felt would be most capable and whom he would recommend for election to the executive group.

TOWN WORKERS GET BONUSES

350 School, Town Employees Get Pre-Christmas Checks; Some Get Half

Santa Claus is paying a pre-Christmas visit to an estimated 350 municipal workers, teachers and other school employees. Five per cent bonus checks will be presented to the teachers with their regular checks today, while it is understood that the town employees will get half of the five per cent bonus payment voted to them by the town commission two weeks ago.

The salary bonus voted the school employees early in November by the board of education will amount to approximately $26,000. The employees will receive five per cent of their year's salary but not less than $100 if the percentage figure should be lower than that.

A few of the school employees, including janitors and maintenance men were given their bonuses when they were paid last week, but the majority will get their money today. This will be the second $100 that most of the teachers have received in recent months. A $100 pay raise was voted to many of them by the board in September.

When the board of commissioners approved Mayor Williams' bonus plan for the town employees two weeks ago it provided that employees receive a minimum bonus of $120 but not more than $150. Following the five per cent provision, the board agreed that those receiving $3,000 or more annually should not get more than $150. It is estimated that $16,875 will be added to the $306,836 municipal payroll. It is understood that the balance of the bonus will be paid to town workers after the adoption of the new budget early next year.

First Aid Instructors Forming Mobile Unit

A mobile unit for the first aid division of the Red Cross chapter is being formed under the direction of Mrs. Louis A. Noll, first aid leader. The members will include those who are serving as Red Cross first aid instructors.

The car of each instructor will be equipped with a kit, blanket and splints so that each will be ready to function at the scene of an emergency. Nine have already signed their intention of equipping their cars, it was announced at last night's executive meeting of the Red Cross.

Chain Stores Will Be Open Next Saturday

The chain food stores will be open on Saturday. A movement was afoot several weeks ago to have the stores remain closed from Christmas eve until Monday morning, however, it is understood that the chain stores of the chains objected to the plan.

BOY SCOUTS

Scouting Helps Them

It has been found by both the army and navy, Smith said, that boys who possessed a Boy Scout background advanced more rapidly in service than did those who did not.

The entire Boy Scout program has been geared for war. Already many boys are acting in the communications section of the defense council as messengers. Always a part of the organization's program, greater emphasis has been placed on instruction in first aid and semaphore signalling and the international Morse code.

Each troop has been presented with a citary plaque on which they will place seals when they have performed outstanding work in salvage, messenger duties, the purchase of war bonds and stamps, first aid and other civilian defense and home front activities.

Based on a recent survey made by Smith, one out of every three boys in Belleville is a member of the Boy Scout movement. In town, there are 10 scout troops, one cub pack made up of boys under 12 years of age and a Scout ship. The neighborhood commissioners are mapping out a program to promote an increased membership in the organization.

Smith recently took over his duties as assistant executive serving the local district of Robert Treat council, which has its headquarters in Newark and also embraces Irvington. He has been affiliated with the council for several years. A native Newarker where he was one of the outstanding scouts, he served in executive positions in the scout movement in Connecticut and Rhode Island before returning to Newark as a professional.

In assuming charge of the local organization, he succeeded Joseph O'Farrell who was recently drafted into the army.

SCHOOLS HOLD YULE PROGRAMS

Operettas, Plays And Carol Singing Feature Holiday Closing

The schools are winding up their pre-Christmas activities with a number of programs, featuring plays and carol singing before the closing of school at noon tomorrow for the holidays.

Closing day parties have been somewhat curtailed because of the shortage of candies and other delicacies which have made up the customary Christmas affairs. However, even though prices are much higher than in most years, most of the schools have their share of Christmas trees with classrooms decorated with various yuletide messages and trimmings.

At School No. 1 the Christmas program will be given tomorrow by the boys and girls and the Glee Club of the seventh and eighth grades. The students will give a play depicting the story of Silent Night, and that will be followed by group carol singing. Solo parts will be sung by Allan MacAllister, Francis Kovats, Charles Gilbert, Vivian Burton, Vernon Dutcher, Kenneth Nygaard, and Patsy Viondi. The narrator for the program will be George Mayes.

Tableau And Play

Greylock School No. 5 presents a program tomorrow given jointly by the upper and lower grades. The primary grades will present a program including a Christmas play, a puppet play, "One Eye, Two Eyes, Three Eyes", and a tableau "First Christmas". The chorus will sing a carol and readings of poems entitled "Christmas Packages" and a selection "Wishing the Whole World Merry Christmas" will be given.

In the upper grades, a combined glee club of 60 voices will sing Christmas selections under the direction of Mrs. Ruth M. Ball and Miss Helen McNair. The fifth and sixth grade glee clubs will sing a recessional, "Angels From the Realms of Glory" and the seventh and eighth grades will offer "Fairest Lord Jesus". A tableau "In Bethlehem Town" will be presented and the combined glee clubs will sing two numbers. Audrey Todd and James Charleston will sing incidental duets.

To integrate the sale of war savings stamps, a Christmas tree will be set up on the platform and as the choir sings, a representative of each class will go to the tree and place a ball on it with the amount of stamps they have purchased to the present, written on it. There will also be a chart entitled "How We Say Merry Christmas to Our Soldiers" showing the amount of each grade.

The total amount of stamps purchased for all grades was $3,380.75. The eighth grade purchased $235.45 worth of stamps while the kindergarten alone purchased $463.40. After the tree ceremony there will be a recessional. Bill McNeil is program narrator.

Toys Come To Life

A program presenting the lighter and more serious side of Christmas was given at School No. 8 yesterday afternoon. Patterned after a toy shop window, the second grade children gave an operetta with some magic wand waving by Santa Claus bringing the toys to life the feature.

There were bouncing balls, dancing Indians, a singing clown, jack-in-the-box and Mother Goose and her nursery folk. The rhythm band played two numbers, "Jingle Bells" and "Santa Land". The eighth grade girls' glee club and the boys' choir presented a tableau representing "The Adoration of the Magi." It was accompanied by the singing of a number of traditional Christmas carols.

Production of the operetta was in charge of Miss Agnes Cullin and Mrs. Elsie Sandford of the faculty while Mrs. Ruth Hahn directed the tableau. The music was directed by Miss Margaret Buncie music supervisor.

The School No. 3 Music club will give a Christmas entertainment Wednesday morning around the Christmas tree on the second floor. Carols will be sung by the club with a solo by Joan McFadden and a trumpet selection by Richard Cherin.

The club will present a dramatization of the "Story of Silent Night". Parts will be taken by June Platner, Ruth Rudge, Sally Browne, Elma Klienkecht, George Irwin, Theodore Clemens and Alberta Bradden.

MAKES CRITICISM OF TOWN AUDIT

Sidney A. Browne Believes That Auditor's Recommendations Should Be Followed

If the town hires an auditor to review its financial records, and he makes recommendations, they should be followed is the belief of Sidney A. Browne. The Van Houten place resident penned a letter to Mayor Williams this week in which he declared that he believed a comparison of the audit for 1941 with that of 1940 showed that the town is in a steadily improving financial condition, but emphasized that he felt that the recommendations of the auditor should not be disregarded.

The text of Browne's letter to the mayor is as follows: "I have been reviewing the summaries of the audit reports for both the years of 1940 and 1941 and I believe that the figures shown therein proves our town to be steadily improving in its financial condition. I note particularly that our surplus for the year of 1941 has increased, although our assets have decreased, therefore making the percentage of surplus much higher than that of last year. "I trust that with this surplus as it is, it may be an aid to maintain our present tax rate for the new year and possibly even reduce same.

Were Repeated

"In reviewing the recommendations made by the auditor I find that the 14 of the 24 recommendations made have been repeated from last year's audit and 5 out of the 14 have been repeated from previous years! In further reviewing your explanations in answering the recommendations suggested I do not believe that in some cases where you state 'standard recommendations' really answers or solves the problem suggested by the recommendation.

"I personally feel that if the town goes to the expense of hiring an auditor, and the same auditor from time to time makes the same recommendations, that some action should be taken by you, as finance director, or as mayor, to see that these recommendations are fully carried out if for no other reason than to aid the auditor in making his audit. I feel that if the auditor, who I understand is a registered municipal accountant, makes these recommendations they should not be disregarded in any way, as he no doubt is familiar with accounting systems of municipalities throughout the state and would not make such recommendations if it were not to the best interest of the taxpayers of Belleville.

"I realize that many of these recommendations are only trivial but some of them have the possibilities of becoming more than just trivial. You must have realized this when you made the statement on commenting on the summary of the audit report of 1940 in which you state, 'All of these recommendations are receiving careful attention, many are in process of adoption and it is highly improbable that any which might be termed criticism will be open for repetition in 1941.' "May I at this time wish your department continued success in improving the financial condition of Belleville, and may this letter be taken in the spirit in which it was written."

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra W. Zetterstrom of 208 High street, Nutley, announced the engagement of their daughter, Christine Zetterstrom, to Tech. Sgt. Henry S. Mr. Zetterstrom was graduated from Belleville High school and is now employed as a bookkeeper at the People's National bank. Sgt. Kaiser has been in the army a year and is now stationed at Camp Pickett, Va.

Let Your Turkey Help Gobble The Axis

Housewives are reminded to look at the Christmas turkey this year as more than a holiday fowl, but as another means of helping to put the skids under the Axis by saving the grease for the manufacture of ammunition. Grease from the gobbler and all other waste fats are needed to make glycerine, an essential ingredient in explosives and gunpowder.

Salvage leaders say the housewives of the nation must give 30,000,000 pounds of glycerine from kitchen fats to offset possible shortages from other sources. American wives and mothers can help reach that goal by saving surplus pan drippings plus cooked and uncooked fats after obtaining all cooking value from it. Strain the grease into a clean metal container, keep in a cool place and when you have a pound or more sell it to your butcher. You will help our boys on the fighting front if you see that your kitchen waste is used to lay waste to the enemy.

Miriam Braun Is Participant In Georgian Court Program

Candlelight Ceremony Opens Yule Week At Lakewood School; Stephen Petro Jr. Member Of Committee Planning Newark Tech Ball

Miss Miriam T. Braun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Braun of 431 Washington avenue, was among the 150 students of Georgian Court college at Lakewood to take part in the candlelight service of the college last Thursday night. With undergraduates dressed in cap and gown, it took place in the chapel with special prayers for peace offered as a prelude to the annual yuletide Christmas sing on the campus. Following the recitation of the prayer the students formed a procession leading through the formal gardens. Other activities preceding the Christmas holidays include a banquet, play and a party with distribution of baskets and dolls which have been dressed by the students to the needy.

Stephen Petro, Jr., of 245 Adelaide street, a senior at Newark College of Engineering, has been appointed a member of the committee in charge of the senior ball. It will be held at the Hotel Douglas, Newark, on January 16. Under the accelerated program of the school, Petro will be graduated in January with a B. S. degree in civil engineering. He is an active member of the student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers and of Alpha Kappa Pi fraternity. Petro attended Belleville high where he took an active part in athletics.

Is Society Treasurer

Thomas W. Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Owens of Little street, has been elected treasurer of the American Chemical society at Newark College of Engineering. A junior, Owens has been a member of the basketball team for the past two years. He was graduated from Belleville high school in June, 1939.

Miss Jacqueline Snedecker of Washington avenue is one of 40 juniors at New Jersey College for Women who served as ushers for the twilight yule log ceremony in Voorhees chapel Friday. The candlelight ceremony is followed by outdoor caroling around the traditional pine tree on college hall campus, unlighted this year in accordance with dimout regulations. A Christmas dinner and formal dances complete the round of festivities. Miss Snedecker is a junior at the college and majors in home economics.

TIN CANS

derstood Mayor Williams was planning to issue a plea to the to find out on December 31 how the various parts of town are responding to the campaign and how many householders are failing to contribute any cans at all. Representatives of the committee will ride on each of the trucks which will pick up the cans to learn just what is being done by residents in the various sections. Subsequently, a report showing the collections from the various areas will be released.

In their efforts to make the next collection bigger than any previous haul, the salvagers are planning to distribute posters and stickers to hundreds of stores throughout town reminding residents of tin can day. Boy Scouts from Troop 350 at Pewsfield Presbyterian church in charge of Scoutmaster Harold Peterson will distribute the reminders to the storekeepers and request that the notices be displayed prominently. Bloomer said last night that holiday buying and meals should help to swell the total number of tin cans.

"It is natural that in almost every home in town," Bloomer said, "that there should be more tin cans used during the coming week. Why should householders let these cans go to the waste when we have factories that are crying for more materials? It has been made clear time and again to the public that turning in old tin cans is vitally important. They know the need for them. It is simply that they can't be bothered to take the time to do the work. It seems that this is the least that our boys on the battlefield can expect of the folks at home."

Re-Emphasize Instructions

The tin can section leader stressed that some residents still are not acquainted with the regulations for preparing cans for salvage. Both the top and bottom of the can should be removed. The label should be soaked off and the can should be washed. It should then be flattened. A good idea is to place the top and bottom inside of the can before flattening.

Residents are also asked not to put any other scrap out for collection on the day that tin cans are to be picked up. Even though there have been repeated warnings, some people still persist in doing this. Other scrap metal can not be mixed with tin.

WHITE CHRISTMAS

Johnny asked Santa for an electric train, a bicycle, or one of the many wind-up toys or mechanical gadgets which once crowded store counters and shelves, it seemed likely that he would draw an I. O. U. slip from St. Nick until after the duration. While some stores had a few of these items left over from last year, they reported that they were quickly sold out after the start of the Christmas rush. Every variety of toys was bringing higher prices than they did in the past.

Open extra hours over the weekend, including Sunday, the post office staff was taxed to its utmost in the effort to get all Christmas mail to its destination by Thursday morning. The zero weather over the weekend slowed down the dispatch of mail by truck and carrier. Although there had been repeated warnings urging people to mail early, the office was swamped with the last minute rush of the late comers with cards and packages and there seemed little hope that the force would be out of its dilemma before late Thursday night.

Local stores which have not yet experienced the rush of business that had been anticipated, look for a rush during the next three days. The real letdown came over the weekend, starting on Friday afternoon when word was first flashed that the government had frozen the sale of gasoline to all passenger vehicles. Absence of women from stores was immediately noted during the late afternoon hours and it was equally noticeable in many quarters on Saturday.

Coupled with this, owners of many stores, heated by fuel oil and coal, found their places of business at freezing temperatures yesterday morning and spent the better part of the day attempting to get the temperature up.

Buses Were Jammed
The freezing of gasoline sales plus the rush to department stores for the last shopping visit and the handshaking ceremony with Santa Claus for the youngsters helped to overflow the buses all day Saturday. Many war workers, because of the condition, were forced to wait more than an hour to get them to their places of work.

Because of crowded transportation conditions and a plea by the government for civilians to forego their customary holiday travel so that men in the service, free on short furloughs, would be able to get from camps to home and return, many people have foregone their customary trips for family reunions at holiday time. Even though everything is Using done to speed servicemen on their way, there appeared to be a notable absence of a great number of them from town as Friday drew near. A number who had believed that they would be home for the Christmas feast were forced to take their furloughs early or were held off until after the holidays for their visit with the family.

The schools will close tomorrow noon and will not reopen again until Monday, January 4. Special programs marked this week in all of the schools. While some of the churches were planning events for the youngsters during the holiday week, others were withholding announcements or eliminating parties and programs entirely because of the shortage of fuel oil. Almost all churches in town which are heated with fuel oil have been cut considerably in the amount of fuel which they have been granted for the winter months. All have filed appeals but have not as yet been granted more oil.

Janney

Janney closed the bedroom door and locked it. Alone at last! He threw back his head and heaved a deep sigh. Then he pecked out of the corner of his eye at the mirror to see whether she really did look like Hedy LaMarr. Quite a lot, she decided.

And now to business. She drew forth from the bottom of her top bureau drawer the sheet of pink writing paper and the envelope that she had been saving for this day. She sat down at the table by the window and dipped the pen into the bottle of green ink that her sister Rose was such a pig about. She wrote, with beautiful arabesques, "Dear Mr. Morgenstau," and held her head back to admire this effort of the best pupil in penmanship class.

"Here are my stamps for a bond. $18.75. I started last Christmas when I got $3.00. Not counting 50 cents, I have earned all the rest, working one or more days a week at a local grocery store, and I'm quite proud to say I worked hard to get it."

Janney stared out of the window at Peterson's house and beyond at the big yard where the kids were playing football. She held her pen elegantly in air.

"Sitting here looking out the window, I see a peaceful little town, and I wonder how the world can be in such a turmoil and the people of this world can have such hate for their fellow men. So I'm proud to send these stamps because I know I'm helping to make the whole world peaceful again like our little town."

She signed her name with an important flourish, not forgetting a conspicuous "Miss" in front of the "Janney." After she had sealed the letter she went on staring out of the window. It really was awfully peaceful. Overhead she heard a plane go humming by through the sunny afternoon air.

Then the voice of her best friend, Betty, called from outside—"Janey!" In an instant Janney was on her feet and tearing downstairs and out. She was not Hedy LaMarr nor a deep philosopher any more, but exactly twelve years old.

Grown-ups and children alike should all help the "breadwinner" of the family to budget for War Bonds. Let's all join a payroll savings plan and "top that 10% by New Year's."

Serve on Meatless Tuesday

A complete broiler meal of liver, carrots and potato cakes can be cooked quickly and easily.

HEART (a variety meat), cheese dishes, and fish are excellent meat substitutes for they are rich in protein and also contain valuable vitamins and minerals.

Here are dishes planned for meatless Tuesdays. The broiler meal may be cooked in twenty minutes and is an excellent meal to serve to a swing shift worker who comes home hungry at midnight.

Broiler Menu
Sauerbrat Juice
Broiled Calf's Heart
Broiled Tomatoes with Butter Crumb Topping
Green Peas
Pears
Broiled Calf's Heart

Remove veins and arteries from a calf's heart; wash and cut across in thin slices. Broil 15 to 20 minutes. (7 to 10 minutes on each side.) The flavor and tenderness are greatly improved if thin slices of salt pork or strips of bacon are placed over the sliced heart.

Broiled Tomatoes with Butter Crumb Topping
4 tomatoes
2 tsp. melted butter
8 tbsp. bread crumbs
Prepare tomatoes; cut in halves; brush with melted butter and sprinkle with seasoned crumbs. Broil with calf's heart.

Cheese Souffle with Asparagus
Make a medium white sauce with:
2 tbsp. butter 1/2 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. flour 1/2 tsp. pepper
1/2 cup hot milk
Melt butter; add flour and seasonings; remove from heat and mix thoroughly. Add milk gradually and stir until smooth. Return to heat and continue stirring until sauce becomes thickened.

Asparagus Tips
1/2 cup sliced cheese 4 eggs
When sauce is thick and smooth, add cheese. Stir until this is melted. Add beaten egg yolks. Cook; then remove from heat and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Line casserole with asparagus and cover with souffle mixture. Bake at 325 degrees F. for 30 minutes.

Halibut Steak a la Rabbit
6 halibut steaks 1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 lb. cheese 1/2 tsp. pepper
2 eggs 1 lemon
1/2 cup evaporated milk
Boil halibut steaks in salted water until tender about 10 minutes or broil until tender. While fish is cooking, melt cheese in double boiler and add milk gradually, stirring until smooth. Add salt and pepper. Serve cheese.

Roast meat a long time at low temperature to reduce shrinkage.

MUSIC TEACHERS' NAMES SOUGHT

Public Schools Would Use Them in Advising Pupils Interested in Music

The music department of the high school, under the direction of Mrs. Alice Wagner, is making a plea for names of all private music teachers in town. All the public schools receive queries for the names of private instrumental and vocal teachers but are unable to supply them because they do not know of many.

More than half the music students in the high school receive free training in bass viol, cello, oboe, french horn, trombone and kettle drums but would like to go on with private teachers. The schools wish to have musically inclined students study a greater variety of instruments and the students can be urged to do this only by taking private lessons.

School music supervisors feel that it would be unfair of them to recommend only the teachers with whom they themselves are familiar. By drawing up a list of all available teachers in the town and their qualifications, the music directors believe that they would be giving the student a wider choice and would be affording private teachers a greater chance for pupils. A list of private teachers posted in all the public schools would help both the parents and the teachers in their selection of instrumental and vocal teachers.

The high school music department is asking that the names of all private teachers be sent to the department. In writing, it is suggested that the teacher include any degrees held, outstanding musical achievements and where music was studied. Teachers are also asked to mention names of any pupils who have gained a degree of success, and where they are now playing.

While there is no nourishment in water, it is vital for at least five reasons: lubricating human joints, diluting blood and lymph to promote circulation, regulation of body temperature through evaporation, and assisting in digestion and excretion.

Washington Snapshots

By James Preston

To make more industrial facilities available for war production, WPB plans to cut down civilian industry to a minimum through conservation of materials and manpower.

Officials of WPB recommend that virtually every civilian industry in the United States give serious consideration to the problems involved in concentration and work on plans which they may discuss with war production board authorities.

The proposed concentration of industry will result in (1) creation of geographical sales zones for those manufacturers permitted to continue civilian production; (2) standardization and simplification of all civilian products that will continue to be manufactured; (3) production of "victory" models and "comparison" models of those products that are "concentrated"; (4) elimination or curtailment of cross-hauling and other transportation facilities; (5) discontinuance of many brand names, labels, and trade marks for the duration. Plans are being worked out, however, to permit manufacturers to keep trade names alive through advertising.

The smaller war plants division (SWPD), which is responsible for getting business for the smaller war plants and assisting them with engineering aid, is primarily a financial institution. The division has six operating branches: (1) the agencies contact branch; (2) the facilities branch; (3) the plant service branch; (4) the field control branch; (5) the coordination branch, and (6) the interview branch.

Congress is preparing to give industry a Christmas present. Before the holiday season begins, legislation to eliminate, curtail, or coordinate the hundreds of questionnaires, reports, and forms which various federal agencies require manufacturers to fill out and submit has been passed by the senate and favorable action is expected in the house before the end of the week. Members of the congress who sponsored the bill declare it should save manufacturers millions of dollars a year in the "paper work" they have had to do for the government. Both the National Association of Manufacturers and the state groups of the National Industrial Council have strongly supported the measure in its amended form.

Organized labor is obtaining additional representation at WPB through the appointment of labor union leaders as assistant directors of a number of key industry divisions. These appointments are being made in accordance with the demands of President Green of AFL and President Murray of CIO, that labor be given more recognition and a greater voice in WPB operation.

The OPA has promulgated rules under which employers may seek price adjustments based on wage or salary increases requiring WLB approval. In a statement for employers seeking price adjustments, OPA emphasized that, in line with the present adjustment policy, price increases will be granted only when they are essential to prosecution of the war or "to a standard of living consistent with prosecution of the war."

Traditional Customs Will Hold For Christmas Day

Gas Rationing, Rail Shortages Will Prevent Some Family Gatherings, But Many Families Will Join In The Yuletide Merriment

Little of the tradition that has annually marked family Christmas gatherings will be missing this year, although in many families there will be those absent who are serving in the armed forces. Gasoline rationing and the curtailment of rail and other forms of transportation has prevented some families from holding their annual get-togethers, but with busy war workers having a holiday, most homes will echo with the customary mealtime yuletide merriment.

Shortages and the rise in prices may explain the absence of the turkey from some tables, but except for that the table will look pretty much the same with the pumpkin and mince pies, cranberries and all the other

THOUSANDS OF POLISH CHILDREN, many of whom have lost their parents, are the wards of the new, powerful Polish Army which is now being organized in the Middle East. The Army takes care of their schooling and has organized the "Junaks," a group like the boy scouts. Don't Make Long Distance Calls Christmas, Company Plea

The American custom of extending season's greetings by long distance telephone on Christmas and Christmas eve must be sharply curtailed this year, if the long lines are to be kept open for prompt transmission of war calls.

The New Jersey Bell Telephone company urges telephone users to forego adding to the burden of overloaded long distance lines the usual Christmas calls which, however pleasant, are not really important and may impede military and other calls vital to the war. Long distance calling will be difficult at best, on December 24 and 25, involving long delays in getting through to many sections of the country, particularly the south, far west and Canada. Those who feel they must make holiday calls are urged to avail themselves of better service which the company can furnish earlier in Christmas week, or after Christmas.

Last year during the two-day December 24-25 period the eight principal toll centers in New Jersey handled approximately 85,000 long distance calls, and delays of over 10 minutes and up to several hours were encountered frequently. The number would have been greater except for public response to the company's appeal to telephone users to stay off the long lines as much as possible at Christmas.

This year, the company estimates, unless making long distance calls, will also visit her for Christmas weekend.

Guests at the home of Mrs. Harry Brumbach of Little street will be her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brumbach of Bernardsville, and her sister, Mrs. Charles Vassardakis of Ridgewood, and another son, Lynn, a student at Bucknell University.

Two midshipmen, studying at Columbia university will spend Christmas as the guests of Miss Ruth Dettlebach of Hancox avenue. They are Midshipman Dresser of Iowa and Midshipman Dye of West Virginia. Both Ruth and her sister, Phyllis, will attend the captain's ball to be held Saturday night at the Waldorf Astoria.

Long Island will be the scene of family gatherings for several local residents. Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Ferguson of Oak street will visit Mr. Ferguson's mother, Mrs. Anna Ferguson in Huntington. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin W. Keshan of Laverne street and their daughter, Dorothy, and her son Alvin, will spend Christmas in Long Beach, L. I. visiting Mr. Keshan's mother, Mrs. Ada Keshan's mother.

tance calls on Christmas and Christmas eve is put on a basis of necessity instead of pleasure. These eight toll centers might be called upon to handle up to 115,000 long distance calls—with the result that delays would be long and many calls might not get through at all.

URGENT NOTICE!

TO: All telephone users
SUBJECT: Long Distance Christmas Calls to Friends and Relatives
REQUEST: Please cross these calls off your list this year, except those absolutely necessary.

LONG DISTANCE telephone lines just can't take the usual holiday calls this year in addition to the tremendous load of war messages now being handled every day.

Unless unnecessary holiday calls are given up, there will be serious traffic jams on long distance lines and switchboards, delaying many important messages and preventing some from getting through at all. Even with every available operator on duty and every line in use, there will be unavoidable delays in service.

If you must call persons in war-busy centers or in the South, Far West and Canada, please do it before or after Christmas. And call by number—it saves time getting connections.

WHEN YOU THINK OF Conservation THINK OF EYES

America is conservation minded. Therefore we think this is a good time to call attention to that precious asset—your EYES. Good eyesight is important in this war because your work, directly or indirectly, contributes to victory. Everything counts in total war!

So protect good eyes—with GOOD LIGHT. Make this protection effective by maintaining good light in your home where you read, write or do other close work.

An excellent help in maintaining good lighting is to keep reading lamps CLEAN. Lamp shades should be dusted frequently. Reflectors and light bulbs should be washed (and thoroughly dried) at regular intervals. Clean lighting equipment gives more light—helps conserve eyesight.

PUBLIC SERVICE

The Prince Of Peace And Today

"Peace on earth, good will toward men." These words cry out with greater meaning, pleading and hopefulness to all today than ever before. In a world ablaze with conflict on every continent, they seem futile. But faith—the greatest healer of all—the faith that has guided us through long centuries of hardship, will ultimately bring us to that most cherished of all goals—peace and goodwill throughout the world.

The price for peace that all men may be free, will be great. Yet, not as great as that which the Prince of Peace paid. He taught that man, no matter how lowly, had the right of freedom to worship his Creator. This treasured gift was one, He said, which was the birthright of every man, and with this blessing was given the right to work freely, to have a family and to be master in his own house.

For teaching the world these principles, He gave his life. Power-mad dictators then; as today, vainly sought to stamp out this doctrine of freedom. For this greatest glory of all, He died as men on battlefields all over the world are dying today.

This is a solemn Christmas, one in which we may soberly reflect on its true meaning as people of a nation that has been at war for a year. We have a priceless heritage to preserve. One which barbaric forces throughout the world are battling ferociously to destroy. It is a heritage which we acquired through sacrifice and it is one which we will keep only through sacrifice.

As we again hear those few meaningful words "Peace on earth, good will toward men" repeated on this Christmas morn each and everyone of us should firmly resolve that we will make the everyday sacrifices—great and small—that the greatest gift of all which He gave with His blessing may once more shine in all of its glory and magnificence throughout the world.

Women Can Perform Real Service

For the woman who really wants to play an important part in the civilian defense front in this war, there's a real job to be performed. The Red Cross is appealing nationally for women between 18 and 50 to enroll as nurse's aides in hospitals. There is no section where there is a greater need than in Newark and vicinity.

Locally, the Red Cross chapter has renewed the plea which it made six weeks ago for women to enroll in the special classes which are being organized. The lack of sufficient trained personnel in every hospital is acute. There is an immediate need for women who can be given instruction in routine hospital duties so that an over-worked personnel can be freed to perform the technical duties which others can not do. Hundreds of women have already been taught, and now working as nurse's aides are bathing and feeding patients, making beds, taking pulses and temperatures, assisting with records and attending to hundreds of details which save valuable minutes for nurses and doctors.

For the woman who is seriously bent on doing her part in the war, we can think of no better way in which to serve the country. It may not be work in which glory will be reaped, but every nurse's aide has the knowledge that she is playing a part in the greatest service of all—helping the sick and wounded.

Fortunately, the hospitals have not been called upon to cope with a widespread epidemic of flu such as in the last war, an air raid or a flood disaster. If such should strike us, the directors of hospitals know that they could not meet the need. Every woman who can now give the time is needed immediately to be trained so that this possibility will be forestalled.

In town, there must be many women who have as yet done little to aid the war effort. If they are between 18 and 50, in good health and have a high school education or its equivalent, they can perform a great service for their country by enrolling now in the nurse's aide class.

What Feeding The World Means

Two statements out of Washington during the past week make it seem apparent that there will be a continued dwindling of foodstuffs on store shelves and that, even under rationing, there will be sufficient for essential needs and no more.

Feeding a nation in war-time is a tremendous problem, but this country is also confronted with the task of providing food for a great part of the rest of the world. A full realization of what is actually taking place in food production and why there is a scarcity of certain commodities is given in the statement of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard who explained that in 1943 at least a quarter of our entire food production will go either to our allies or to our own fighting men.

From another quarter comes the information that approximately one-half of the estimated 1943 pack of popular canned fruits, vegetables and juices will be reserved to assure the armed forces, lend-lease and other specified government agencies an adequate supply of canned foods in 1943 and 1944. A better understanding of what this means to the average consumer is given in the breakdown which shows that the cut in the 1943 pack for civilian use will provide a maximum of about 33 pounds of canned fruits per capita in 1944 when most of the 1943 pack will be consumed. This compares with an average annual per capita consumption of canned foods of about 46 pounds in the pre-war period from 1935 to 1939.

Only by careful management, says Secretary Wickard, will this nation be able to meet the needs of the nation, the armed forces and our allies. As he puts it, "if we slip up anywhere along the line, we will be in serious trouble."

The allies are learning that the old adage that the shortest and quickest way to a man's heart is by his stomach is holding true. Newspaper reports from North Africa show that one of the main reasons that the occupation of it was accomplished with so little bloodshed and with the cooperation of the vast number of the people there was that they were hungry and knew that with the Americans in control, they would get more to eat.

As the war progresses, this will undoubtedly prove true time and again for the greatest unrest which has been created in the countries which Hitler now has under his domination has been because of the scarcity of food. It will take more of our food to win these starving people over and keep them on our side once we have entered their territory.

The clear fact that the food supply on store shelves will be cut demands that every housewife practice careful buying and conservation so that there will be essential foods for all. A nation at war can not afford to go hungry for it is then that hard-working people need more foods.

Be Sure To Shovel Walks

An enforceable ordinance for the removal of snow from sidewalks may not be practicable because of the many ramifications it presents in dealing with those who simply refuse to remove snow, but there is a greater argument today for voluntary cooperation than ever before.

With gasoline rationing in serious stages, thousands more are walking. Many of them must make buses, trains or even walk the entire distance to work. It makes an even greater hardship for these people if they must tread along unshoveled sidewalks or those which are coated with ice. We believe that it is only fair to ask that all property owners give to others the same treatment that they would want themselves.

Snow should be shoveled from walks soon after the storm has ended so that it does not have time to freeze, making it more difficult to remove. While it may be a hypothetical case, it is entirely possible that some important work in a war plant would be seriously delayed because of an injury suffered by a worker slipping on an unshoveled strip of sidewalk.

There are many little extras which all are being asked to do today and shoveling walks is one which should be done.

Montclair Trust Co. Official Talks Before Economics Class

Royal F. Earle, assistant secretary of the Montclair Trust company and member of public relations committee of the A. I. B., Essex county chapter, addressed the economics class at the high school last Thursday morning.

The subjects were "Money and Credit" and "The Federal Reserve System." He covered a complete outline of the origin of money, using the bartering system as a basis which finally led to a medium of exchange that would be acceptable to all. Also how the federal reserve system operates to the benefit of its member banks.

The Woman's Desk by PEGGY PATTERSON

Down through the years, it has been the women who have done most of the shopping whether it was clothes, shoes, something for the house or food for the family table. Now, as never before, they must do careful and conservative buying.

This is particularly true in the food line for many of the commodities to which they have long been accustomed are no longer to be found on store shelves. Others, such as many canned fruits, citrus fruit juices and a number of vegetables may still be obtained in most stores, but the quantities are limited.

Of course, this does not handicap some persevering buyers who will make a tour of every market in town to get all of the scarce groceries which they can possibly obtain.

This is just the sort of hoarding practice which the government seeks to discourage and prevent. The one who grabs everything in sight may be the temporary gainer, while others may suffer, but in the long run all will pay the penalty for the greediness of a few.

Will Be Staple Foods

We have the assurance of the government that staple commodities which are vital to maintaining good health among the peoples of a nation at war will be kept on the market and that at no time will there be any scarcity. Naturally, and we will call them luxuries, there will be many articles which will have disappeared from store shelves long, if they have not already. But, these cannot be regarded as indispensable items for the table, and housewives should not expect that in war-time they will get such articles.

Many families have grown away from the idea of using dried products, such as lima beans, peas, lentils and other similar products with the popularity of canned and frozen foods and fresh vegetables. The dried foods will now be as handy at meal-time as a staple product that will provide wholesome food for every member of the family.

Every housewife should endeavor to buy not only wisely from the point of view of her pocket-book, but with an eye to the foods which will provide the greatest amount of nutrition for the family. Almost every woman's magazine which maintains a food corner has been devoting considerable space to discussion of the foods which have the most in nutrition and the way in which to cook them so that the greatest amount of natural values can be retained. For those women who are further interested in this approach to the cooking problem, classes are continually being formed here and elsewhere to help housewives.

Thumbing Files Of The Past

One Year Ago

Christmas tree dealers reported best business in years as did local merchants. The post office was overcrowded and was remaining open until 8 p. m. to help late mailers.

The Congregation A. A. A. in keeping with its annual custom of dedicating a service to the young people of town who returned home for Christmas from universities and colleges held a homecoming service for them.

The high school's blue and gold basket tossers started the season off with a rousing victory of 60-35 over the Harrison team. Wishe, the team's new coach, had his first chance to see how the team looked in the first of a 17-game schedule.

SEEK RECOVERY OF LIQUOR STOCK

Mrs. Miller Asks ABC to Return $10,000 Worth Seized in Home

An attempt is being made by Mrs. Sarah Miller, proprietor of the Washington Wine & Liquor store at 477 Washington avenue, to recover $10,000 worth of liquor which was seized at her home, 134 Floyd street, on November 19 by agents of the state department of alcoholic beverage control.

Formal application was made at a hearing held in Newark Thursday before Harry Castelbaum, taking testimony for the ABC. The liquor stock was seized by the ABC because it was stored in the basement of the Miller home and not on the licensed premises as required by law. It is the contention of the state department that the liquor is subject to forfeiture for this reason. In addition, it is also alleged by the ABC that a quantity of illicit liquor was also discovered by the agents.

The discovery that the liquor was stored away from the licensed premises was said to have been made by an ATU agent during a check which was being made of the Miller firm's federal floor tax liquor inventory. He made the request to the ABC that a search be made at Mrs. Miller's home in an effort to find the liquor.

Records Didn't Jibe

At Thursday's hearing before the ABC, the ATU agent testified that the store's sales records showed that sales in October were six times greater than in September, while receipts for October were only twice as much as those for September. The agent stated that Harry Miller, the license holder's husband, had told him that all taxable stocks were on the store premises and listed in the November 1 floor tax inventory as provided under federal law.

The agent said that Miller was unable to give a satisfactory explanation of the unusually large sales shown by the store prior to the inventory deadline. Questioning of a store employee, the agent testified, revealed that a quantity of liquor had been delivered to the Miller residence.

A claim that there was no safe place for the liquor at the store was made by Miller in his testimony. He said that his son, Nathan, now in the army, who had been associated with him and his wife in the business, had suggested to him that the $10,000 worth of liquor be listed in the store records as sold so that it would make the off-the-premises storage legal. Miller explained that he was reluctant to include the liquor stored at the house in the floor tax inventory for fear that it would get his son in trouble.

Given Him By Friend

In attempting to explain the presence of the illicit liquor in the Floyd street cellar, Miller said that it had been in a barrel which bore a regulation tax stamp but that it had leaked so he had poured what remained in 11 one gallon jugs. He claimed that a friend, who has since died, had given the liquor to him during prohibition for a party.

Thomas F. Callahan, bookkeeper for the store, testified that most of the liquor had been moved to the house in September and October. Harold Simandl, attorney for Mrs. Miller, stated that in a report filed with the government on December 1, all of the liquid had been declared, which amounted to over $3,000 in taxes.

New Telephone Directory Gives Wartime Instructions

The new telephone directory for Essex county carries on the front cover wartime instructions to avoid unnecessary use of the service and not to telephone during an air raid alarm or for some time after the all-clear.

War-engendered activity in the county is reflected in approximately 5,000 more listings in the new issue than appeared in the last telephone book, issued last May. The larger number of listings, the New Jersey Bell Telephone company reports, is the net result of adding approximately 15,000 and dropping 10,000.

More than 207,000 copies of the new book currently are being distributed.
