WAR HOUSING NOW BEING PLANNED BY GREYLOCK GARDEN

Negotiating With FHA For One-Family Frame Dwellings For Volkening Tract On Avenue

A war housing project consisting of inexpensive one-family dwellings is being negotiated by Greylock Gardens, Inc., with the Federal Housing Administration, for construction on the Volkening property on Washington avenue. This was the proposed site of the garden-type apartments voted down by the board of commissioners two weeks ago, after pressure from residents in the area.

Greylock Gardens Inc. still retains an option on the property and has received an extension of priorities since the FHA is anxious, a spokesman said this week, to provide additional housing for war workers in this area. Belleville industries, as part of the Newark area, have received a grant of 30 days from the War Production Board, to set a voluntary mobilization plan in motion to prevent the area from being classed as critical.

CONSIDER NEWARK WATER CONTRACT

Covering 15 Year Period, It Provides $5 Raise Over Old Million Gallon Rate

The City of Newark, now demanding a contract covering Belleville's purchase of a share of its water supply, has submitted a 15 year contract at a price of $90 per million gallons. Belleville's supply has been purchased without contract for the past ten years, but because of increased consumption by industries not only in Belleville but in the entire area, Newark is demanding a return to the contract arrangement. Mayor Williams stated Tuesday night that he has been in frequent conference with Newark authorities and has succeeded in reaching a verbal agreement wherein Newark will reduce the contract price to $85 per million gallons.

The current price is $80 and was originally arrived at, the Mayor stated, several years ago, when Newark was asking $110. The $5 jump will represent an increase of about $5,000 in the yearly cost, the Mayor estimated. However, war-time production in local industries has already added about $10,000 to the estimated $50,000 paid for the local supply. Belleville is buying Pequannock water, although through their agreement with the City of Newark which also uses a portion of the Wanakee system, this is also available to Belleville in an emergency. Because it was felt by the board of commissioners that a better price could not be obtained either now or for several years to come, it was agreed to negotiate with Newark on the $85 rate. In the meantime, the contract has been referred to Town Attorney Lawrence Keenan for legal checking.

First National, Peoples Banks Withholding Tax Depositories

The First National Bank and the Peoples Bank of Belleville now have the official withholding tax receipt forms and are able to receive all deposits of withheld taxes. All employers must, under the new tax law, deposit their withheld taxes at least once a month, and taxes for any one month must be deposited before the 10th of the following month. Employers do not open a separate account. They merely deposit the amounts withheld and receive an official receipt. No deposit form is required, and deposits may be made in cash or by check. Checks should be made payable to the individual bank. After the deposits are made, it is the bank's job to see that the taxes are forwarded to the Treasury department. On October 31, when employers must make their first quarterly returns for taxes withheld during the third quarter of 1943, they will just attach their tax receipts to the return in lieu of a payment in cash.

Not Hookey But Measles Was Chief Attendance Toll Taker

Not hookey but a series of handicappers such as measles, chicken pox and mumps took their toll in the schools, adding up to the worst attendance record in 13 years, according to Supervising Principal Wayne R. Farmer. Reporting the percentage at 93.34, Farmer at the board of education meeting on Monday night, listed the afflictions visited on the kids during the past year, which rated the German measles epidemic high ranking culprit. Whooping cough cases were slight however, and only one case of scarlet fever was reported.

TROLLEY RAILS WILL GO TO WAR

Reclaimed By Metal Reserves Corp., Removal Will Leave "Service Stripes" On Avenue

The rock blasting crew that has been noisily engaged on Washington avenue since last Friday in clearing both sides of the trolley rails in preparation for their removal, is working as part of a nation-wide reclamation project to provide needed metal for war production.

Work is under the direct supervision of the Metal Reserves Corporation, a federally sponsored organization which lets contracts in definite areas and then sees to the disposal of the material to war plants in accordance with allocation recommendations made by the War Production Board. Financed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Metal Reserves arranges for the salvage of such things as trolley rails, railroad tracks, metal tanks and bridges which have outlived their usefulness.

Working at a decided clip, the Washington avenue crews which started at the southern town line, should have finished one set of tracks by the first of the week. James H. Driscoll, senior civil engineer in the state highway department, who is supervising the rail removal on state highways in nine counties, estimates that the rail removing equipment will arrive in town from Maplewood by the first of the week. It pulls the rail free from the concrete base, after which, concrete will be poured into the gaps to within one and one-half inches of the surface. A bituminous top will be overlaid, leaving the state highway with a pair of "service stripes," he declared.

Relaid By Public Service
The rails which were relaid from the sides to the center of the street by Public Service around 1925, are being removed here by the Victory Rail Remover Corporation of Philadelphia, Pa., a concern which is operating in Essex, Union and several South Jersey counties. Standard Bithulitic Corporation held the original contract over a year ago, when the project was started, but has since transferred it to Victory Rails. It is understood however, that Standard Bithulitic will provide the bituminous surface while Victory rails will pour the concrete.

"Back To Soil" Move Has Swept Town As Amateurs Get Astonishing Results

The "back to the soil" movement, which has swept over Belleville in a contagious wave this summer is now awing many of its new recruits with the profusion of vegetables they have succeeded in growing. Although, they are a few community projects the majority of Victory gardeners have staked out their own back yards or lots adjoining their property, for their first real "farming" effort. Typical of the town-wide planting, grubbing and hoping is that which goes on in the formal farming project of the Michael Antonelli of 16 Continental avenue. The lot next to their house, nor-

SCHOOL BOARD FILLS STAFF VACANCIES

Appoints Six New Teachers; Votes Wische $200 For Basketball Last Year

Vacancies in the teaching staffs of the local schools were filled at the board of education meeting on Monday night with the appointment of six new teachers and the reappointment of those whose contracts had not been returned at the time of the June meeting. School clerks were also reappointed for the coming year.

New appointees are Miss Dorothy Hooper of Nutley, Miss Margaret Dean of Verona and Miss Phyllis Alliston of Newark, all of whom will teach in the upper grades of the elementary schools at a salary of $1200 for the year. Miss Dorothy Guldner of Nutley, formerly a Belleville resident, will teach in the primary grades at the same salary. Other new appointments are Leo McHale, physical education instructor at $1800 who has been instructing in Belvidere, and Dr. Nevart Najarian of Boston, Mass., at $1600 as instructor in the sight conservation class.

Coach Herman Wische was voted an additional $200 by the board for taking on the coaching of basketball during the past year. Attendance Officer Charles Speed was given an increase of $100, making his salary for the coming year $1600, and Mrs. Lydia Baker a part time clerk was raised from a 50 cents an hour rate of pay to 60 cents for work in the superintendent's office.

Review Contracts
Increases of $100 were voted with the reappointments of James B. Zurlo, Raymond Robinson, Ira Scheid, Erwin Tschelub and Earl Seibert. These are members of the staff whose contracts had not been received at the last meeting.

School clerks in the high school who were reappointed for the coming year are Miss Dorothy Cox, $1900; Miss Adele Booth, $1400; Miss Frances Horworth, and Miss Beatrice Cory, $1150. These appointments are for 12 months and retroactive to July 1. Elementary school clerks reappointed on a 10-month basis effective September 1 are Miss Frances Engleman, $850; Miss Florence Blauvelt and Miss Hermanie Wehrle, $800 and Mrs. Lydia Baker, part time, $400. Leaves of absence for the year were granted to Miss Dorothy Demmon and Miss Edna Craig and the resignations of Miss Jean Kruger and W. A. Kiebler were accepted.

John Mallack formerly a janitor in the school system who has been released from active army duty, was reappointed as janitor beginning August 1. The new acting principal in the high school, appointed to take the place of Hugh D. Kittle now in the Navy, Bert Powers Johnson, was named general treasurer of the high school activities fund.

Canning Demonstration At Fewsmith Church Today

The canning demonstration at Fewsmith Church today at 1:30 under the auspices of the nutrition committee of the defense council may be the final one here. Women from all parts of Belleville are urged to attend. By Mrs. Thomas Jackrell, canning chairman. Mrs. Rose Murphy, assistant Essex County home extension agent, will demonstrate all methods including the pressure cooker.

In spite of frequent notices that instructors will assist any group which reports for canning at the Municipal Stadium there have been no registrations for such canning bees. Mrs. Jackrell has pointed out that, while pressure cookers have not yet been received, stoves have been installed and women who take fruits or vegetables there with jars and rubbers will be assisted in canning by the hot water bath method. This is perfectly satisfactory, but any woman who is in doubt of her own ability should play safe by enlisting the aid of those women who are qualified to instruct. 30 Belleville women were so trained by the Extension service.

With many Victory gardens reported successful and the need for canning no less urgent than it was this spring every woman who can do so should attend the Fewsmith demonstration today and sign up when she has the materials for canning bees. Fewsmith Church is located on the corner of Union avenue and Little street.

MUTUAL AID PLAN FOR DEFENSE

Council Receives OCD Outline Of Area And Regional Assistance In Raid Emergency

The emergency control plan devised by the State Office of Civilian Defense was discussed at the Monday night meeting of the defense council. In the air for some time, it is the first directive received by the local council, explaining the mutual assistance plan set up for supplying equipment and aid in the event of an air raid emergency.

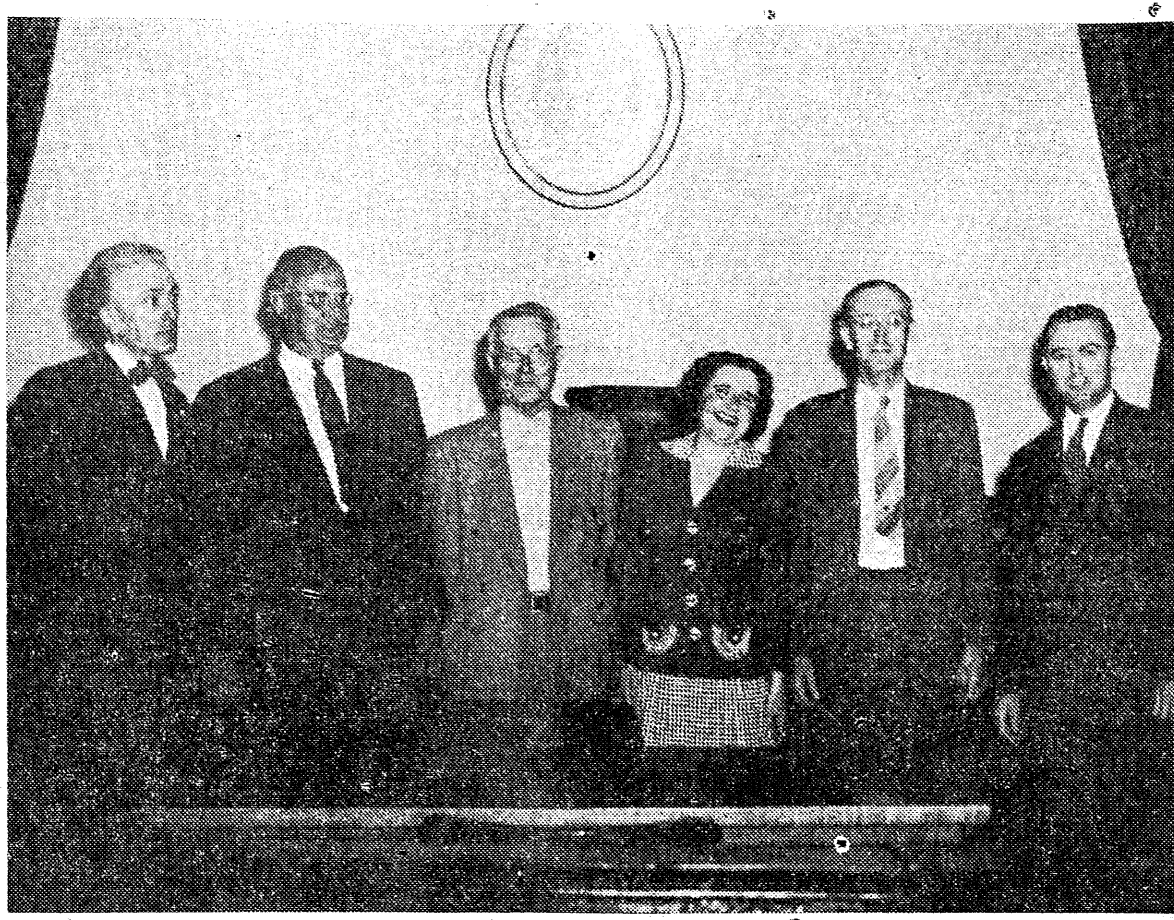

According to Defense Co-ordinator Harry Sullivan, Belleville is part of the Newark area or master control office. In case local equipment and workers are insufficient to handle an emergency, the Newark office would be notified which would send in the apparatus needed from nearby towns. It would continue the shift of apparatus in the area as it is needed, until it works out to the fringe of the emergency area.

Regional controls are also set up, with Belleville's regional control situated in Morristown. Morristown equipment and that in its immediate vicinity would be called in the event that all available apparatus in the Newark area is taxed beyond its capacity. Those services which would be shifted would be chiefly the police and fire, emergency medical and heavy rescue or public works equipment.

The plan is now being studied by Mayor Williams, Police Chief Spatz and Fire Chief Reid.

Mertz Silent On New Seat, Citizens Group To Continue

King Ready To Do A Job; Williams Pleased Mertz Unanimously Approved

Raymond E. Mertz of 10 Van Ryeper place newly appointed commissioner of Public Safety to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Commissioner Clark last October, said, in accepting the post that he was pleased to be a member of the board and thanked the commissioners, the citizens committee and the public for their efforts on his behalf. Silent during the 10 month long deadlock to fill the vacancy, Mertz would make no further statement yesterday. A real estate broker, he was sixth man in the last election. As Public Affairs director, he will have charge of the Shade Tree commission and the building, health and welfare departments. Agitation for his appointment was instituted by the Citizens' committee headed by H. F. Brumbach of 100 Little street. It was through their counsel, Edward McGlynn, Newark attorney, that petitions were presented to the town clerk, Mrs. Florence Morey, two weeks ago, to have his name placed on the ballot in the November general elections. Rejected by Mrs. Morey on advice of Town Attorney Keenan, the committee was proceeding with action to obtain a writ of mandamus in the Supreme court, for a vote in the November election. Pleasured with the outcome of affairs on Tuesday night, Brumbach said yesterday that the committee had supported Mertz as the logical candidate since he was sixth man in the last election. "We are pleased to see the attitudes of Mayor Williams and Commissioner Waters," Brumbach stated, "and to see Commissioner King get the public safety directorship, for it looks as if there will now be harmony on the board."

To Be Permanent

He stated that at the committee's meeting next week, steps will be taken to form a permanent organization that will be representative of all sections of town. It is hoped that the general membership will be around 100 with an elected nucleus of 10 to head up activities. "We feel that we have a job to perform in town," Brumbach stated, "and we feel that we can function for its improvement."

Commissioner King who has been a member of the board since 1930, has been public affair director during that time. He said (Continued on Page Four)

Well-Known Athlete Transferred From Italy, Writes For Football Equipment

Now definitely established as a German prisoner of war, 1st Lt. Edward T. Berlinski, well-known athlete and formerly assistant to football coach William Foley at Bloomfield high, is keeping in training for a personal "tackle" on Hitler should the occasion arise. His wife, the former Miss Dorothy Belanske of 95 Carpenter street, said this week that Ed has asked for some football and basketball shoes, in one of his recent letters. Censor for his outfit, he is uncommunicative about much of anything else. The former Bloomfield high grid star merely relates that he is in good health and wouldn't mind getting back home. Reported in May as a prisoner of the Italians, after news had arrived that he was missing in action in Tunisia since April 11, the family traced him through the Roman Catholic Apostolic delegate in Rome. It was discovered then, that he was "safe and well," and in a "transit camp" for prisoners of war. It was deduced from this information that Ed was probably captured at the Kassarine pass, and shipped into Italy, enroute to a German prison camp. In service since January, 1942, he trained at Fort Knox, Ky., and was sent to Ireland in May, in an (Continued on Page Four)

Climax to a week of speculation, rumors and conference based on Mayor Williams' press announcement that he would endorse Raymond E. Mertz as Public Safety Commissioner resulted in a boomerang Tuesday night when Commissioner Waters joined Commissioners King and Noll in a two way move that voted Mertz the Department of Public Affairs and King the Public Safety post.

The Mayor's "surprise" announcement last Thursday came on the heels of various recommendations to Mertz earlier in the week on the administration of the police and fire departments. It followed the ruling by Town Attorney Keenan that the petition of the Citizens committee to place Mertz on the board as fifth commissioner were inconsistent with the Walsh act and Keenan's verdict that a court ruling must be sought.

Williams had sided with Waters since the death of Commissioner Clark last October, in opposing the nomination of Mertz to the board. Mertz, sixth man in the last election, was proposed by King in November, who was supported by Noll. Reason for Waters' opposition to Mertz was said to be that time was said to be that the whole board would discuss the successor after a period of 30 days. A 10 month deadlock, has resulted in which Williams and Waters have counter-proposed the name of Michael J. Flynn.

At the pre-commission meeting on Tuesday night the Mayor introduced a resolution naming Mertz to the board as Public Safety director. In the absence of concurrence, it was held over for the opportunity meeting when Noll inquired if the assignment to the safety post had been deleted. On finding that it hadn't Noll presented his own resolution naming Mertz to the board only. The Mayor's amendment naming him as safety director was left unseconded. Noll's original resolution was seconded by Waters, who, through this action left the Williams camp empty.

Reason for his move, Noll explained, was to give Mertz an opportunity to vote on the departmental allocations. Again seconded by Waters, the vote was unanimous. Noll then called for a 20 minute recess to bring Mertz to the meeting, who was greeted at the entrance to town hall by Noll and Waters and escorted to the council chambers where he was sworn in by Town Clerk Mrs. Florence Morey.

Observing Waters' earlier statement that older board members would be entitled to a change of departments if they wish, Noll then nominated King as public safety director. Seconded by Waters, for the third time, the vote was again unanimous. It was followed by King's nomination of Mertz for the public affairs directorship which was seconded by Noll and passed unanimously.

MUSIC GROUP MAKES PLAN

Sponsored By Belleville Foundation, It Aims At Large Program For Next Year

Encouraged by the enthusiasm and response shown in their first town-wide concert, the music group of the Belleville foundation has already laid plans for a program next year, which will include the varied musics and talents of Belleville's music lovers.

To be divided into senior and junior activities, the first senior program will be given during the Christmas season. It will be composed of the senior choirs of all the churches, which will take part in the holiday festival.

A costume program is planned for January, in which a wide variety of folk dances, probably with scenery, will be given. It is hoped that this will include a representation of many foreign countries, as well as Negro spirituals and specialty numbers.

February will bring another music festival to be given by the junior choirs of all the churches and which will be participated in by the high school choruses. It is expected that the next two months will have grammar and high school programs, to wind up the music season, which usually concludes in May.

Another ambition of the group is the formation of an industrial band, probably of 200 pieces. Some industries already have music groups and it is expected that work on forming this unit will be started in the fall. It may form the nucleus of the Belleville symphony orchestra, which, because of war conditions, will have to wait until after the duration. At Feldman's Dept. Store, at 115 Washington Ave., Belleville, if the holder of Sales Check No. 1197 dated July 24th, 1943, will phone or call - they will receive valuable information. —Adv

Public Glad Vacancy Is Filled

In the midst of the aftermath of speculations and inferences on the probable lineup of the board of commissioners now that this alignment breaking appointment of Raymond Mertz has been made is a general feeling of satisfaction that the vacancy has at last been filled.

The 10 month old vacancy is one that should never have been permitted to occur, in spite of lack of enforcement provisions in the Walsh act. The five departments are so arranged that each needs a head, and no one commissioner should have the responsibility of running two at the same time. Credit for breaking the deadlock goes to the Citizens committee which forced the issue through their counsel. He prevented what incidentally, might have prevented a like condition from arising again in any other municipality in the state.

However, the move to appoint the candidate was foreshadowed by a recent commission meeting in which old alignments showed a strain. The eventual announcement in favor of Mertz may have been a move to beat a former partner to the punch or it may have been merely an ill advised method of breaking the deadlock which was becoming increasingly unreasonable. Rumor has two or three other answers.

In any event, the final outcome has brought about at least a temporary harmony on the board. The new commissioner, popular with the townspeople, has a reputation for fair and honest dealing. He will it is understood, be an independent factor in voting according to his own convictions, without the aid of alignments. Joe King, a veteran board member should also make an able Public Safety head, for he is familiar enough with town operation after his years of service as director of public affairs.

The new appointment is in response to the people of Belleville who have through the deadlock, been stirred to a keener interest in town affairs. It is hoped that they will continue that interest in town government and become more acutely aware of the services being performed for them by the commissioners.

Mayor, In WHN Broadcast, Also Explained Value Of Attracting Industries To Town

The plans of Belleville industries for the post war era and the town program which has lured new industries to locate here were discussed by Mayor Williams in a broadcast over WHN on Monday evening, over the State and Nation Forum sponsored by the State Good-Will Commission.

The Mayor explained to commission members, Harold J. Adonis, that several local industries are in the forefront with new products to be produced after the war. He told of the plans being formulated by Martin F. Tiernan of Wallace and Tiernan and Harry Specht of Eastwood-Nealley to have some local industries manufacture certain products for others. He cited the post war program prepared for public works if needed, and stated that the town is in a financial position to weather a reasonable post war production conversion period.

In explaining the program launched to make Belleville an attractive home for industries, the Mayor stated the reason was the heavy debt burden and operating costs carried by the town which would be "too heavy for many years for the taxpayers unless new resources were created."

Five thousand dollars was placed in the annual budget for advertising he said, which has brought good results. Industries seeking a new home were attracted, he stated, by the established debt reduction program that has decreased the public debt 50 percent in 10 years while "making many public improvements, in schools, police, fire and recreation."

Other factors attractive to industrialists were cited, including the cash reserves which were built up from a 1930 operating deficit of $200,000 to a current cash surplus which on January 1 of this year totaled over $500,000.

The Mayor also stated that no special inducements were offered to any prospect, since he declared, "tax concessions to a manufacturer are unfair to that manufacturer's competitor whether in Belleville or elsewhere."

The services accorded prospective industrialists were enumerated, including those of the town engineering department, and a number of surveys such as labor market, transportation, water analysis, home availability and site layouts.

Example of the benefits to the town was cited by the Mayor in Walter Kidde company which is paying taxes on land, building and equipment amounting to $83,000 he said, in comparison to the former land taxes of $3,000. This, he stated, would pay the total costs of operating the fire department and Public library or it would pay the interest on the entire public school debt and on one million dollars of municipal bonds, for one year.

CONTESTS LIVE REC PROGRAM

Softball League Gets Off To Start With Bridge Street In Lead Position

Contests are under way in all the playgrounds under the supervision of the recreation department, Edward J. Lister, recreation superintendent has announced this week, preparatory to determining participants in a town-wide playoff to be held during the closing week of the summer season.

About 500 watched the team representing the quartermaster detachment from Fort Dix trounce the local Knights of Columbus Thursday night at the Bridge street playground with a score of 9 to 6. At the same playground a group of boys from 12 to 15 years of age under the direction of Miss Jeanne Frazier, playground supervisor, constructed a fort in the sandbox located on the playground and presented an attractive display with soldiers placed around the fort.

The Stephen street playground under the supervision of Mrs. Ruth Brohal Hahn held a picnic last week attended by 76 children. The Recreation softball league is now in full swing with the Bridge street team in the lead with 3 games won and no losses to date.

Winners of the preliminary jack's contest held last week at playground No. 1, where Mrs. Olive Muir conducts the morning and early afternoon session and Miss Helen Coyle the afternoon and evening play periods, were George Moyes, Joan Lukowiak, Helen Murray, Marion Parker, Frank Kovats, Lois Anderson and Pat McHugh. The playground is conducted in the grounds of School No. 1 at Cortlandt and Rutgers streets. There will be semi-finals and a final jack's contest there.

Finishing ahead in checkers last week were Francis Bean, Donald Holly, Evelyn Adelhelm, Thomas Mundy, Frank Kovats, Carol Heller and Joan Kraus. A costume parade was staged in the playground last Tuesday afternoon when Katherine Klein and Catherine Goldecker shared honors as most beautiful entrants. Joan Parker's was judged the most original costume and Billy Klein's the funniest.

Youngsters attending the morning children's hour with Mrs. Muir are Frederick Ahr, Franklin Amormann Jr., Carol and Pat Heller, Cloudestar and Joyce Davies, Peggy and Carol Gibbons, Maureen Hoag, Ruth Cassidy, Joan Danback, Junior Danback, Harry Lou Murray, Mary Calabrese, Elizabeth Jami, Warren Jones, Doris Lukowiak, Joan and Robert Krause, Ann Phillips, Dot and Joan Parker, Carol and Dolly Kingsley, Helen Mello, Adeline Begominito, Ida May Bartholomew, June Miller, Ralph Estell, Roberta Van and Phillie Myers.

Ranging from 4 to 7 these tots have a daily program which includes swinging, playing games and constructing a paper item which they may take home. Pinwheels, boats and ducks have been some of their play time souvenirs. A shower is provided at 2:30 for all children who are present.

Older girls are working on a flag drill and learning dances from Mrs. Muir in the afternoon period until 3. Music is provided by recordings. Miss Coyle's program which includes older boys, who have free time in the late afternoons and evenings, maintains a checkers contest and participates in an interplayground softball league. Miss Coyle is inaugurating horseshoe pitching teams.

yesterday that he feels he will be competent in handling the police and fire departments to the satisfaction of the public. In the real estate and insurance business in town, he is a former county treasurer and leader in Republican circles.

Saying that he had been under the impression that both King and Noll were satisfied with their departments and did not wish a change, Williams issued a statement yesterday however, in which he said, "I am pleased that Mr. Mertz was unanimously approved to fill the board vacancy."

Waters had little to say except—"We dumped Williams' appointment—that's all."

TROLLEY RAILS

Another concern, Ward Brothers of Haverstow, holds the contracts for Bergen and Passaic counties. It is understood that Public Service has been paid for the rails per lineal foot by the Metal Reserves corporation.

Driscoll said yesterday that the state highway department, at the inauguration of the program, surveyed all of the municipalities in the state for salvageable steel rails estimated at that time that 60,000 tons were available. Driscoll is working under J. A. Williams, district engineer, located in Trenton. State supervision as well as county supervision on their own roads, has been instigated to insure road beds consistent with those that are being torn up.

PATRIOTIC KIDS ROLL UP RECORD

Cash Over $160,000 Into War Bonds And Stamps During School Year

Patriotic school kids must have dumped their allowances and then some, into systematic purchases of war bonds and stamps throughout the school year, for Super-Vising Principal Wayne R. Palmer announced at the board of education meeting on Monday night that they have run up a total of $160,253.25 plus $4,173.50 from St. Peter's parochial school.

That impressive amount represents thousands of "cokes," sodas, candy and trinkets sacrificed to the battle they waged to hasten victory. Spurred by realistic results in jeeps and in each school, a campaign to purchase the army "poodle jumpers" during the Second War Loan, the kids have made an exceptional showing. And except for the period of the Second War Loan when all students were permitted to purchase stamps and bonds for families and friends, the bulk of the total represents student purchases only.

The high school kids with their larger allowances, are responsible for nearly a third of the total sum, or $50,695.05. Nearly $10,000 in Axis smashing bonds and stamps was bought during June alone however, when the high school took $1,784; the elementary schools $7,703.20 and St. Peter's $235.55.

armored tank division. He left England right after Casablanca, for North Africa in the second infantry force. His family has recently received a commendation for his action during the voyage, when as a military police officer, he showed initiative in straightening out problems of "traffic and guard" which called for immediate action. Just what those problems were, his father-in-law, Alexander Belanski of the Carpenter street address, has been speculating about, and regrets that he'll have to wait until after the war to get the information.

The coincidence of his and his wife's family names, for Ed's father is also an Alexander, isn't it the fact that his father-in-law, recalls travelling all over this area, to see Ed's prowess on the gridiron when he played for Bloomfield high. Not knowing Ed and little suspecting he would be his future son-in-law, Belanski told of the youth's record this week.

As a senior in 1933, he carried the ball in 127 plays, gained 1,960 yards in 10 games, made 26 touchdowns, 13 points after touchdown and averaged 15 yards per play. This all came out to slightly less than 200 yards a game. The game with Belleville that year saw him gain 27 yards on a pass play and 80 with an interception for four touchdowns.

Just as proficient in baseball and basketball however, Ed was the first man in 10 years at North Carolina state, to win varsity letters in the three major sports. When he came back to Bill Foley at Bloomfield high, as assistant, he played quarterback for the Newark Bears, and helped that team to win the American Association championship.

His two years in the ROTC at North Carolina state placed him as a lieutenant in the infantry reserve, from which he was called for active duty.

WAR HOUSING

which the garden-type apartments fall. The ordinance was voted down three to one after residents who jammed the council chambers, registered their protest.

Rent $37.50 Monthly

The one-family houses now proposed will have a value of between $4500 and $5000 and must be rented for a specified period, to war workers. The rent will be approximately $37.50 monthly as compared to the $43 and $57.50 apartments rentals. They will be one and one-half story bungalows of frame construction, with a full cellar and unfinished attic. Lots will be 50 feet by 100 feet. Garages are not required under FHA specifications.

Although the Residence B zone allows two-family dwellings, the one-family houses were chosen to cause this comes under an emergency housing project. Priorities call for 108 units which could easily be built on the plot which extends from Washington avenue to Union avenue and from Greylock parkway to the high tension wires on the north.

The 400 feet fronting on Washington avenue with a depth of 150 feet will be reserved for future business buildings since it is now in business zone. It is understood that the street originally proposed for the garden apartments, north of Greylock parkway, and running between Washington avenue and Union avenue, will be cut through and a turn around street will probably be placed in back of the roller rink to separate the houses from the rink's accompanying noise.

Because the type of loan for garden apartments and a war housing project vary, Greylock Garden officials are now conferring with the FHA on a new financial set-up. Providing utilities for 108 houses, sewer and water and electrical connections, amounts to much more material than would be necessary for the garden apartment and for this reason, it is not yet determined how many houses will be built as the first part of the project.

An "Old Timer" Comes Back for Wartime Service

IT'S THE "DESKSTAND TELEPHONE"—retired from active duty in many places when hand set telephones came into popularity.

Fortunately, many of these older instruments were stored for possible emergency use—and today, tested and reconditioned to give clear, dependable reception, they are helping to meet wartime needs for service

New telephones for civilian use haven't been made in many months—the materials they would use are going into special combat equipment for our armed forces.

With hand sets available only when customers have their service disconnected, the "deskstands" are proving of great help in making existing facilities go as far as possible.

YOUR VICTORY GARDEN

Harvesting In Storage;
Make a Compost Pile.

By Dr. Charles H. Connors,
N. J. College of Agriculture

Last week you were told how to prepare onions for storage. It was recommended that when the tops of the onions begin to bend over they were reaching maturity and that the tops should be broken over with the back of a rake or a broom. While this checks the growth somewhat it permits the bulbs to mature. Also that as soon as the tops become yellow, which takes place a week or two after they have been broken over, the bulbs could be pulled and ripened off.

After the tops have turned yellow the bulbs should be pulled and left lying on the ground, usually directly in the rows but spread out. They are left that way in the sun for a day or two so as to continue the drying and curing process that started when the tops were broken over.

After a day or two in the sun, or when the tops seem fairly well dried or "ripened off," cut the tops with a pair of scissors or a very sharp knife. A good way to handle them is to take the neck of each bulb between the thumb and forefinger, both against the bulb, and make the cut just above the first inch of the top attached to the bulb. Place aside those bulbs that have thick necks. These are called "scallions" by old English gardeners and should be used first as they will not save well.

The bulbs should then be placed in slatted crates, loosely woven bags or any slatted container such as a peach basket, to permit good air circulation. These containers are then placed in an open shed or garage. Free air circulation is necessary to allow the escape of the moisture from surface drying and from curing. When cold weather approaches, the containers should be moved to their final storage place which should be fairly dry, dark and cool, but where the temperature will not approach freezing, as onions are easily injured by frost. The onions should be stored apart from any other vegetables that may absorb the odor.

Of course the onions we harvest now are those raised from sets which mature earlier than onions from seed. These onions will keep in storage only until December. Onions raised from seeds which will mature later in the season are harvested in the same way as we have just described but they come to maturity much later and thus can be stored for a longer period.

Garden Maintenance

The chief tasks in the garden now are keeping the weeds down and watching for insects. Weeding should be done by hand, using a hoe, rake or scuff hoe working to maintain the dust mulch so that rains that fall can enter the soil readily. This operation should be shallow in order to avoid injury to the roots. The garden should be gone over once a week and as soon after a rain as it is possible to do so without puddling the soil. This will kill the weeds as well as aerate the soil.

Vigilance is the keyword with respect to insect control. If you use dust, it is always ready and quickly applied. Morning or late afternoon, when the air is still, is the best time to apply dust as then the material applied hovers around the plants and is not blown away. Watch now especially for the squash bug and squash vine borer.

To keep your corn free from ear worm use a specially prepared oil with an insecticide in it. Apply this with a pressure oiler or other instrument that has a dosage regulator, or even a medicine dropper. About one-quarter of a teaspoonful or 20 drops injected in the ear five to seven days after the silks appear will be an effective control.

You will need all the decayed
