Brother is a P.O.W.

Flying as a staff sgt., the brother of Helen Kenney, of 747 Hunterdon Street, Newark, was taken a prisoner of war when his flying fortress was shot down over Germany. And that's one of the reasons Helen has been so eager to put her best efforts into her job of inspecting vital radio tubes for the armed forces made at the RCA plant in Harrison.

"Like the work," says Miss Kenney, "especially because the equipment we're making is going to the front where it will help bring my brother back home soon."

Wants "Hero In Every Seat"
 In Capitol Bond Drive

Returns from the first night's sale in the Fourth War Loan at the Capitol theater showed a fifty percent increase over the last drive, according to manager David Beehler.

The drive was opened in the theater last week with Mayor Williams as principal speaker and ceremonies conducted by the color guard of the American Legion under commander William Konrad and the ladies' auxiliary under
 Mrs. William Kant.

A total of $3,600 in bonds was pledged and $900 cash paid into Uncle Sam's coffers on the opening night, bringing the theater's total to $32,000 to date.

The theater's plan is to sell a bond for each of the 1,190 seats in the house, each bond to be purchased in honor of a Belleville man in uniform. Its slogan: "A hero in every seat."

Leading the list of purchasers last week was John Blagos, proprietor of Blair's confectionery at Washington avenue and Joralemon street. He bought 22 bonds for "22 of my boys."

Beehler stated that the Capitol staff is buying bonds one hundred percent. The theater, which is an official issuing agency, plans another rally soon with the Legion furnishing the color.

Then Vic Pasquariello went on a spree for eight points all on difficult shots from under the basket for a 10-2 lead. A few seconds before the end of the quarter Ed Farrell put in another two points for Lyndhurst.
Understudies Win
Charlie Ferrara led the Belleville Jayvees to a 37-33 victory over the Lyndhurst juniors in a game which was highlighted when Ferrara J.V. proudly dribbled down the court and made a basket for Lyndhurst before realizing his mistake.
A last quarter spurt by the local fresh, led by guard Skip Clancy, put the first game on ice 21-14.

Bellevillites Meet Relatives In March Through Italy

Sgts. Guardabascio, Abato Visit Their Grandmothers - Over The Holidays

The itinerary of the Fifth Army through the mountains of Sicily and Italy was evidently charted with the idea of giving as many Yankis as possible an opportunity to renew acquaintances with relatives whom they never expected to see.

Two more Bellevillites were added this week to the list of those who were fortunate enough to meet relatives and to spend a brief time with them before going on to the more strenuous matter of settling Mr. Hitler's hash.

They are T/Sgt. Anthony Guardabascio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Guardabascio of 61 Magnolia street, and T/Sgt. Nathan J. Abato, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Abato, formerly of Silver Lake but now living on Ampere parkway, Bloomfield.

Guardabascio hitch-hiked from the front lines to the town where his mother's relatives live and made it in three hours. He found his grandmother, uncles, aunts and cousins galore. "Uncle Pete spent 25 months in Germany in the coal mines" and is now "working as a boss under the English fixing roads . . . at sixty liras a day."

The finger of war has touched them there: "Uncle Joe has . . . one son who is a prisoner in England . . . One of his daughters was married three days before her husband left for the Army. He is in Albania or somewhere."

"Like A God" "I was treated like a god by everyone. When I walked down the street everyone would poke their heads out of the windows and stop and stare at me. As far as I know I was the only American around."

"Even in church they would walk around in front of me and take a look. It seems as though all the older men around were in America at one time or other and almost everyone had relatives there."

"I ate like a king. They just forced everything down me. It seems as though they never drink water, always wine. Everyone cooks like mom and I guess they all learned from the same persons."

"On Christmas I went to mass where Pop and Mom were married . . . (Later) they all fed me so much that I had to push the food away because I couldn't stand the sight of it. I really ate, too, but they always seemed to eat more."

"The room where Nick was born is now being occupied by a mule, and there is an oven right next to it . . . I was so happy the past three days I could have cried. It all seemed like a dream."

Abato just knocked on the door of his grandmother's house and burst in without introduction. But his grandmother wasn't the only one he saw in his mother's native village.

"The relatives, wow!" he wrote, "at least 200 second, third and fourth cousins and great and near-great uncles and aunts followed me down the street like a parade."

Italy "Not Bad" His opinion of his ancestral land was simply that "it isn't bad. But I wouldn't call it anything more than picturesque. The way the people live here - b-r-r-r! The most beautiful land in the world is the one that this letter is going to. I'm thoroughly convinced of that now."

His knowledge of Italian has come in handy at times, but at other times it has made things difficult for him. A sympathetic youth, Abato has become the receptacle for sob-stories from every Italian who can get his ear.

His sympathies got the better of him recently when he met Michael, a small boy whose parents had been killed in an air raid. He "adopted" the youngster and set him up in the shoeshine business.

"He eats whatever I have left over at mealtimes and works like a little Trojan, doing odd jobs besides shining shoes. I never knew a kid could have so many troubles."

Guardabascio, who graduated from Belleville school in 1939, joined the CCC a couple of weeks later, stayed in it more than two years, and enlisted in the Army air corps two years ago.

Within three months he was in England and spent all of 1943 in North Africa. He moved across the Mediterranean just before Christmas.

Abato, who is 22, was in the National Guard in peacetime and enlisted in the Army four years ago. He trained in the signal corps at Fort Lewis, Wash., and has been overseas since July, serving in North Africa, Sicily and Italy.

Mrs. R. C. Whitfield Meets With Representatives For Febuary Event

Mrs. R. Clifford Whitfield of Rossmore place conducted a preliminary meeting of women representatives of Belleville's Protestant churches Friday afternoon to make arrangements for World of Prayer services on Friday afternoon, February 25, the first Friday of Lent.

Mrs. Whitfield is perennial local chairman of this event which is sponsored by the United Council of Church women.

Meeting at her home were Mrs. Ernest Johnson, a member of Bethany Lutheran Church; Mrs. O. Bell Close, wife of the pastor, and Mrs. R. C. Gardiner of Peewsmith Presbyterian Church; Mrs. Alexander Ross and Mrs. G. H. Johnson of Montgomery Presbyterian Church.

Also present were Mrs. W. G. Price and Mrs. Henry Sturges of Belleville Reformed Church; Mrs. H. C. Winkelman of Grace Baptist Church; Mrs. Edward Nelson and Mrs. Frederick Idenden of Christ Episcopal Church. Wesley Methodist Church will be the scene of the afternoon service on February 25 and a choir of two members from each church will be used for the musical part of the service.

An evening service will be held, for the benefit of women in industry, in Bethany Lutheran Church at 8. Women leaders will be selected for various parts of the program.

St. Mary's Sea Scouts Invite Boys Over 14 To Join

An open invitation to boys over 14 to join the SSS Columbus, Sea Scout ship of St. Mary's Catholic church, was issued this week by ship authorities. Meetings are held every Friday evening at 7:30 in the church hall in Nutley.

Members of the ship bowled against a team of the Nutley Knights of Columbus last Friday. Plans are underway for a dance to be held April 28. Part of St. Mary's parish lies in Belleville.

The Boy Scout troop of the parish spent last weekend on a camping trip at Lincoln Park. Most of the excursion was devoted to sleighing and ice skating.

Terrace Room Show Featured At Newark Stage Door Canteen

The popularity of the Newark Stage Door Canteen is growing constantly among local servicemen, according to officials of the Theatre Wing, which sponsors it. Many Belleville men and women in uniform visit the free show and dance every night at its headquarters at Washington and Linden streets. Stars of stage, screen and radio are performers there every night.

Tonight's show will feature the entire cast from Frank Dailey's Terrace Room, starring Shep Fields and his orchestra. Dancing music will also be provided by Wally Shaw's band.

Gusti's Alpine Village orchestra will play waltz tempos tomorrow night after the show put on by the Curtis-Wright company while Saturday's dancing will be to the music of the Camp Kilmer soldier aggregation.

Perpetual entertainers at the novochord are Sue Rogers and Henry Arrands. Tomorrow evening the noted artist Laura Winters will be on hand to sketch servicemen.

Roads Lead to Victory

Community Service Bureau Aids One-Fifth Of Town

Mrs. Reiner's Annual Report Cites Numerous Examples Of Local Assistance

More than 20 percent of the families in the town have come at one time or another during the past 14 years to the Community Service Bureau for assistance, according to the annual report of Mrs. Julia O. Reiner, executive secretary.

CSB workers held more than 1,900 interviews last year, the report states. The majority of the document is given over to individual examples of how the CSB has helped families. The report follows:

Fourteen years ago this month the Community Service Bureau came into existence — the result of several years of planning and a firm belief on the part of the founders that it was valid and worth while to provide a way to strengthen family life.

That belief in the worth of the individual has prevailed through the years, and now, at the end of this year we note that 1,500 families have come to us for counsel and help with the various things which were troubling them.

One thousand five hundred families represent more than 6,000 men, women and children — more than twenty percent of the present population of our town, whose troubles we have shared and to whom we have given encouragement, assistance and counsel.

War Conditions

This year of war has been a year of dislocation and readjustment affecting every family and individual in the country. In this year of war we have known intimately people who suffered acutely from these dislocations, people who for particular reasons found no comfort in national trends, but who felt, rather, the pinch of increased living costs.

We came to know those who, from causes not primarily economic, were grappling with loneliness, ill health, or feelings of personal failure, heartaches over the behavior of children or a marriage that seemed to be crumbling.

It is sometimes said that our work is elusive and intangible but our main purpose of building family morale and helping people to surmount those difficulties which enmesh them is a concrete fact. So I want to get behind the bare figures: 202 families including 550 children whose troubles we have helped to solve this year.

The most recurrent problem which brought people to us was caused by family separation — new separations which are part of the present war picture. When "John Jones" was inducted into the Army his wife went home to mother, disposing of her household goods and taking her two small boys with her.

Her return to the family fold caused considerable discomfort and overcrowding for all concerned, and as time went on the children became more and more unruly. If mother said "no," there was always another adult — grandmother, aunt or uncle who would say yes.

Mrs. "Jones" finally became acutely aware of her inability to manage her children and came to us for help. We recognized with her the many disadvantages in the confused and crowded home situation and encouraged her to begin looking for a modest home of her own.

The search was lengthy and when she finally found an apartment within her means the only thing she had to start house-keeping was a sewing machine. Through special gifts and donations we were able to help her with the essential furnishings.

Now the children are settling down and with the regular arrival of the Army allotment check, she has been able to pay her own bills and has been able to relax with obviously beneficial effects for her and the children.

Child Care

Mothers considering work sought guidance in the wisest care of their children. Mrs. A. felt particularly concerned when she first came to us.

"I want to find a place to leave my baby for a few hours each day while I'm working. They told me you might know. Oh, I've been everywhere, and now there are only two days left before Jim goes. He's been called up for the Army."

She told us how they knew all along it would happen — they have tried to plan for this time ever since their marriage three years ago. As soon as they knew that Jim was definitely going, she found a part-time job but they had no idea it would be so hard to arrange for the baby.

There were no relatives and she couldn't leave five-months-old Mickey with just anybody. She felt she had to work. They had estimated carefully how far the allotment would stretch and she would be short $6 a week.

As an alternative we suggested that Mrs. A. might care for another child in her own home and that is the way it finally worked out. Mrs. A., who had no particular business training, whose husband is strong and ambitious and well able to care for his family when this emergency is over, is at home giving her baby Mickey and another child the benefit of her capable attention.

Good care for children whose mothers must leave them to go to work has been a recurring problem of grave concern. So far there are no established facilities to provide group care for young children, and we have done what we can on an individual basis to help those mothers who consult us find substitute care with reliable women, who are opening the homes and their hearts to help some of these children.

Home Supervision

One of the problems we help with is lack of home supervision. I am thinking of 12 year old Tommy whose mother had left him to his own resources while she worked and now he is so unruly that her request to us was to send him to a military school.

He is a bright boy but school was too tame for him and he had been a persistent truant. He had gotten in with a rough crowd of older boys, he had been able to earn money of his own and spend it as he pleased.

Now that his mother is keenly aware of the results of her continued absence from home, she has given up her work and is trying with the help of her case worker to understand what she can do to help her boy.

Always our emphasis is on strengthening the values of the home so that children will have normal opportunities for growth and development, but we are also concerned with the needs and welfare of children where the home ties are broken beyond repair and we are called upon to find foster homes for such children.

Deserted By Mother

Danny was a dark haired trusting child of five when we first knew him. His mother had disappeared and his father was so bewildered by this turn of fate that he collapsed and an aunt asked us to help make a plan for the child. Relatives were concerned; could not give him a home, but would pay his board.

Danny went first to a temporary home while we got to know him and the search started for the kind of home we wanted for him. The quest was difficult but we finally found a warm hearted understanding couple who are doing a wonderful job with this boy.

The foster mother writes "we are very happy to have Dan although we know he isn't ours for keeps." There is still hope that Danny's father will recover and be able to have his own son with him again.

So these are a few samples of the varied troubles brought to us in the past year. Troubles calling for the most expert, sympathetic and untiring care of our case workers who have held 1,900 interviews helping troubled people find their way back to directing their own lives.

As we look into the future and attempt to visualize the tremendous problems after the war, the disorganization of industry and employment, the broken families and fatherless children, the many further adjustments to be required — we cannot escape the conviction that it is important to maintain our helping services for those who need them now and to be ready for the future.

Pin-up picture for the man who "can't afford" to buy an extra war bond...

YOU'VE HEARD people say: "I can't afford to buy an extra War Bond." Perhaps you've said it yourself... without realizing what a ridiculous thing it is to say to men who are dying.

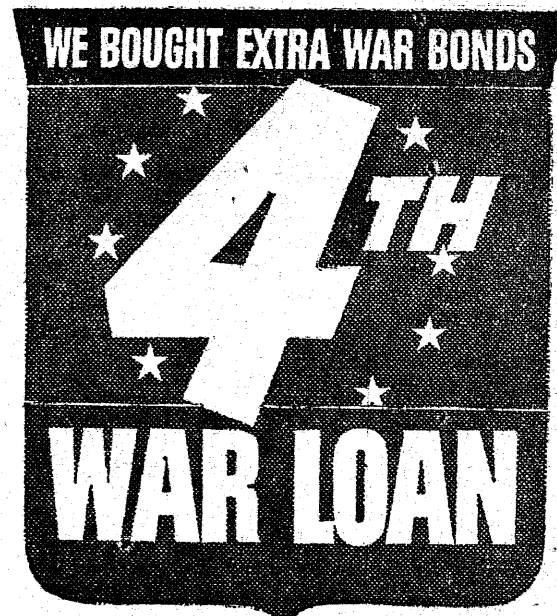

Yet it is ridiculous, when you think about it. Because today, with national income at an all-time record high... with people making more money than ever before... with less and less of things to spend money for... practically every one of us has extra dollars in his pocket.

The very least that you can do is to buy an extra $100 War Bond...

above and beyond the Bonds you are now buying or had planned to buy. In fact, if you take stock of your resources and check your expenditures, you will probably find that you can buy an extra $200... or $300... or even $500 worth of War Bonds.

Sounds like more than you "can afford"? Well, young soldiers can't afford to die, either... yet they do it when called upon. So is it too much to ask of us that we invest more of our money in War Bonds... the best investment in the world today? Is that too much to ask?

Hop Set For April 1

The sophomore class will be holding a hop on April 1, one week after the spring vacation. There will be an outside band and at least 400 people are expected to attend the affair.

Blankets will be given to students next week in order that they may purchase tickets early and so that an estimate of the attendance can be made.

Tickets will be on sale in the near future.

Great efforts are being made by the sophomore class to make the dance a success. The help of every Sophomore homeroom is expected by payment of all dues.

Newark University Registration Opens Spring Terms

On Monday, registration at the University of Newark will open the spring terms of the college of arts and sciences, of the school of business administration and of the school of law.

Commenting upon the trend in applications for admission, the deans and the registrar reported that these were well in excess of anticipations.

This condition they attribute to the fact that young men still under draft age, but recently graduated from high school, are reluctant to leave their homes, preferring to remain with their families while attending college locally. This has proven especially advantageous for the young men while awaiting their call to the armed forces.

Furthermore, they have discovered that a number of young men and women who, in ordinary times might leave home for a campus college, now upon graduation from high school are securing employment in essential industries of this area and are continuing their higher education in the evening sessions which now offer regular degree courses in all division of the university.

Koussevitzky Reveals Program For Boston Symphony

The Boston symphony orchestra under the direction of Dr. Serge Koussevitzky to be heard at the Mosque theater Thursday evening, February 10, as the first of the Griffith music foundation series of 1944 concerts will present the following program:

Concerto Grosso for String Orchestra in B minor—Händel
"A Lincoln Portrait"—Copland; Will Geer—Narrator.
Symphony No. 2 in D major, Op. 3—Brahms
Op. 78—Brahms
The Copland work is an interesting bit of musical Americana, which was suggested to the composer by Andrew Kostelanetz. It received its world premiere in Cincinnati May 14, 1942, with Kostelanetz conducting and Will Geer, well known actor, speaking the lines.

The Griffith music foundation, in cooperation with radio station WAAT, will present a series of four Sunday afternoon lecture-recitals preliminary to the concert, in order to familiarize concert goers with the various numbers on the program.

The next of these musical appreciation broadcasts will be heard next Sunday at which time the world famous pianist and lecturer, Madame Olga Samaroff Stokowski, will tell something of the Brahms Symphony. Madame Stokowski will use recordings by way of illustration.

Baubles For Buddies Drive Rated Tremendous Success

An auxiliary collection of used costume jewelry under the chairmanship of Mrs. Alvah A. Buckley of Tiona avenue closed last week when messengers from the Army air base headquarters at Newark airport removed 350 pounds of "baubles" from The Time office, headquarters for the collection.

This amount, almost as large as the total collection made by Mrs. Buckley from householders and industries here last summer and fall, was the product of the school children in Belleville's grammar schools.

The original drive was started, in conjunction with similar efforts throughout the nation, to provide gay articles of jewelry with which the armed forces might barter in Pacific islands for much needed services by the natives of those localities.

The school collections were turned in in fine shape—washed and cleaned with alcohol and

Mrs. Buckley received word from several members of the Armed forces that the jewelry found its mark and as late as Christmas requests were coming from some men to their families that jewelry be included in their

Locals Lead at Half

Belleville found the range in the second half for eight points but Hillside held their own with five, all scored by Szarko. With 30 seconds left, Byrnes, Belleville forward, scored on a lay-up to give his team a slight 10-7 lead at the intermission.

An exciting third quarter saw the score tied up three times by Hillside until Joe Fortunato of the visitors sank a foul shot to give his team a 17-16 lead. Belleville's six points in this period were made by Pasquariello with four and John De Munter with two.

At the outset of the fourth quarter, Belleville forged ahead with a 14 point rally. Hillside was left behind with four points, all of which were made by Charley Richkus, football star. Byrnes and Kennedy spurred the rally with six points each. Both put in four points on set shots and each sank a lay-up. Pasquariello chipped in with a lay-up for good measure.

JV's, Frosh, Complete Sweep
Led by Frank Takash, up-and-coming Bellboy forward, the junior varsity tipped a scrappy Hillside team by a 31-22 count. It was a see-saw battle up to the fourth quarter, when the Zebras outscored Hillside 11-4.

Jim DiRuggiere paced the freshmen to their fifth win in seven starts. Although the frosh had a bad first half, they came from behind to beat the Eagles of the intermediate league to the tune of 30-25.

DR. E. W. SEIBERT TO LEAVE B.H.S.

Guidance Director, Here Since 1939, Accepts College Position

Dr. Earl W. Seibert, guidance director at Belleville High, will spend his last day here tomorrow. Dr. Seibert has accepted a position at Green Mountain junior college at Poughkeepsie, N.Y., where he will teach in addition to his other duties.

Since 1939, Dr. Seibert has assisted many students in adjusting themselves to their surroundings. During that time, he has met many personalities. When asked whether any type of people particularly annoyed him, Dr. Seibert replied that he had learned, through experience, to become tolerant.

However, he did say that, "My pet peeve is people who seem to have the martyr complex; who feel that the world must be told how much they, as individuals, are sacrificing to improve the general order of things."

Dr. Seibert, who hails from Elizabethtown, Pa., received his doctor's degree at Columbia university. Before coming to Belleville, he taught at Hershey High school in Pennsylvania for eight years.

At the close of his interview Dr. Seibert stated that he was sorry to leave. He said, "There is no doubt that my experiences in and I shall miss my contacts with students and teachers."

In return, we wish all miss Dr. Seibert. He has stood up under our queries and solved our petty problems. In fact he has been a great help to all of us.

STUDY HALL CHATTER

A typical "hen party" was given by Mary Murphy last week in celebration of her 17th birthday. You can imagine the fun.... Another party was given by Ceal Hanley last Thursday night.

Special praise should go to the public speaking students who visited every homeroom to open the Fourth War Loan drive. They did an excellent job in arousing the students' feelings.... One act has got Betty Schmutz stumped. She can't understand why she poured coffee on her pancakes. We wonder?

Joe Henry is now convalescing in the hospital after a serious sickness.... Art Clark passed his examination for the Air Corps; will go sometime next summer.... Who is "Moaley" of 807?

Home on furlough and all looking swell are Richie Matzus, "Zeke" Henderson, Bob Cory, former football players on BHS's team. These boys are now serving Uncle Sam in the Navy.

The Juniors are giving a dance Friday, February 4. Music will be supplied by Dan Milo's orchestra and dancing will be from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. This dance is to help support the Junior Prom. Everybody should go—if you are looking for a good time.

Those identical Air Corps bracelets that June Turner and Ruth Ruden are wearing are

STUDENT GROUPS FORM FOR WORK

Junior Achievement Gives Opportunity to Run Small Business

Ever since last September, a group of students has been working on an important project. Although valid in both thought and process, its actions have escaped the attention of the majority of students. This project is Junior Achievement.

It has the job of organizing and running a real money-making business and one that interests every high school student. The group do just that is given credit for the Junior Achievement at Belleville high by Dr. E. W. Seibert, Junior Achievement has served as a source of experience to those who belong to any one of the five companies from Belleville high. A list of these groups are organized as follows:

Groups Choose Officers
The Bell Chemical company has elected: President Nan Gross, secretary Betty Armstrong, treasurer Irma Ianelli, manager Alvin Outcalt, assistant sales manager Robert R. Rame.

They have experimented on a number of things, but as yet have not made anything. They have a small contract, but the week the members are making house-to-house canvass to find out what the public desires the way of chemical goods and this way they hope to start production soon.

The Belleville Junior Contractors are their officers: president William Hartley, vice president Lawrence E. Keenan Jr., secretary Marian Casky, treasurer Betty L'ou Turner, sales manager Lillian Tobia, temporary manager William officers of the Woodware company are president Gross, secretary Marilyn Gross, treasurer Muriel Alger, manager Lionel Ehrenworth, assistant manager Eric Willette.

The company has been busy with wooden cradles and sell them to Bamberger's department store. Right now they are producing other novelties, but are undecided as to what plans.

ask a Junior Achievement about his company, more than likely get an answer that they are working and working hard to look forward to this organization.
