

PRIMARY TUESDAY HAS NO INTEREST FOR VOTERS HERE

Hartley, Smith Challenged
In Only Contests; Fights
Absent In Demo; Rights

Little interest is stirring the breasts of Belleville's voters as they contemplate the primary election which will take only a small portion of them to the polls Tuesday.

The local apathy is explained by politicians by the fact that there is practically no contest for any position on either the Republican or Democratic ticket. Everything has been arranged by the machines.

Incumbent Fred A. Hartley Jr. is expected to have little trouble winning the congressional nomination on the GOP ticket from John J. Davis.

The only serious threat to Hartley in his race for Congress in his past seven tries was in 1942 when he squeezed by the challenge of Mayor Williams by a mere 22 votes out of more than 28,000 cast.

H. Alexander Smith, the "regular organization Republican," is Polls will be open

Tuesday from 7 a. m. to also expected to win the senatorial nomination from Andrew O. Wittreich.

The Republicans have two slates battling for spots as delegates-at-large to the national convention; but there again one seven-man team is considered far out in front.

The teamates are Governor Edge, Senator Hawkes, Lloyd B. Marsh, Florence Baker, Edna B. Conklin, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and Republican boss Arthur T. Vanderbilt.

Lined against them are Lloyd L. Schroeder, Albert B. Colby, Anna G. Holl, Lorena T. Whittemore, Arthur T. Armitage, Jacob De Lazier and William G. Wellhofer. Randolph Burwell is running independently.

These are the only Republican candidates. Among the other candidates is Mayor Williams who will be a district delegate to the convention. On the Democratic side there is not a single position with competition.

To be chosen locally are the members of the Republican and Democratic party committees. The local candidates (no contests, there is a male and a female from each district) are:

Commended

Cpl. Ted Close

A resolution commending Cpl. Ted Close of 19 Tiona avenue "on his outstanding feats and heroism" was passed unanimously by the Commission Tuesday night.

Close, who returned to Belleville last week after serving on the Anzio beachhead as an ambulance driver with the American Field Service, was wounded in action and is home to recuperate. He expects to return to service.

The resolution, introduced by Commissioner Noll who employed Close in the Recreation Department, declared that the youth had been "cited by the British Eighth Army for extraordinary action in the evacuation of wounded men in an Italian engagement."

He has also been commended as a volunteer with the American Field Service for "creating better understanding among the troops of several nations by promoting American sports in Africa."

He is the son of Rev. Dr. O. Bell Close, pastor of Fewsmin Memorial Presbyterian church, and Mrs. Close.

NEW YOUTH CENTER OPENS TUESDAY

B-Hive Gains Student Support
For Recreation Project
In High School Gym

Active student support for The B-Hive, Belleville's new youth center which will operate twice weekly in the boy's high school gymnasium, was cited yesterday by its president, Donald Rochlin.

He pointed out that membership tickets were scooped up this week almost as fast as they could be printed. The opening is scheduled for Tuesday night.

The dance sessions, at which ice cream and soda will be on sale, will be operated all year round. Tickets are sold on the basis of six months' membership; those purchased now will be usable until September 1.

The present schedule calls for a 7:30 to 10 session on Tuesday and 7:45 to 11 on Friday night. The summer dances may be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, according to Rochlin, if it is found that weekend trips cause the attendance to fall off on Friday night.

Student operators of the center beside Rochlin are Miss Bernice Dinkoff, secretary, John Van Volkom, vice-president and Walter Speyer, business manager. A student executive committee of 30 will divide into groups to handle production details such as operation of the record player, sale of refreshments and supervision of conduct.

Efforts were begun two months ago when Rochlin and his committee approached the board of education for permission to use the gymnasium for such a center. The board granted this request and also will permit the use of the school record player.

Records will be supplemented by the appearance of the high school Bandettes who will be on hand for the opening dance.

Last House Opposite Town Hall Demolished For Store Site

The last residential remnant of the "Block Across from Town Hall" was removed this week. The old house at 151 Washington avenue was torn down to make way for further commercial development.

The remainder of the block was developed before the war with various modern stores erected primarily at the instigation of Mayor Williams on land largely owned by himself.

Into the block have gone such stores as Sears Roebuck, Woolworth's, Great Atlantic & Pacific supermarket, Reed's drugstore and several shoe and clothing stores.

For several months No. 151 has borne a sign "This house given away free if you tear it down." The realtor is Isaac Vanieswki of Englewood. Questioned yesterday as to when a new structure might be erected there, he replied:

"When will the war end?"

TOWN TO PROCEED ON SECOND RIVER WALL BUILDING

Will Accept Bids May 23
For Retaining Wall; Award
Storm Sewer Contract

Construction of the flood control walls along the Second river at the old Mill street bridge is expected to get under way within two or three months.

The Commission voted unanimously to accept bids at its May 23 meeting for the work and Tuesday night passed a resolution in favor of postwar continuation of the wall from the Bloomfield line to the Passaic river in conformity with the county's master plan.

The latter step was taken at the insistence of the National Grain Yeast corporation, through whose property the river flows and part of whose land is being taken over by the town for the project.

Town Attorney Keenan pointed out to the Commission, however, that the resolution is "not legally binding." He characterized it as "a good-will gesture" toward the company.

Retaining walls will be erected on the north and south banks of the river for a distance of 15 feet on each side of the bridge.

Low Sewer Bidder
Petrozello Brothers of South Orange Tuesday night were awarded the contract to install storm sewers on Ogden road for $2,477. This was the lowest of the three bids submitted.

Included in the figure are 435 feet of 15-inch sewer pipe, 66 feet of 12-inch sewer, four catch basins and three manholes. Higher bids were placed by Thomas Gallo of Irvington and Mario Silvestri of Belleville.

The Commission also authorized signing of a 15-year contract with the Newark water department to supply water to Belleville at a rate of $85 a million gallons.

The matter has been a subject of controversy between Mayor Williams and Newark Commissioner Byrne for nearly a year after Byrne tried to raise the price to $90 a million gallons.

Up to last year Belleville had paid $80 and the mayor balked when the raise was ordered. After many months of negotiations during which the town's water bills remained unpaid, the $85 compromise was agreed upon.

The debt on the water supply since that time will be settled at the new figure.

Assessments Approved
Assessments against residents of Brighton and Pleasant avenues for the recently installed sidewalks and curbs were approved after householders failed to protest Tuesday night at the public hearing.

The areas affected are Brighton avenue 400 feet north from Newark avenue and Pleasant avenue from Belleville avenue to the northerly terminus.

The assessments are payable in five annual installments at six percent interest yearly.

NATIVES OF INDIES LOYAL TO DUTCH

Ex-Mayor Of Batavia Tells
Rotary Indonesians Will Aid
On Road To Tokyo

"Allied forces on the way to Tokyo will find the natives of the Netherlands East Indies on their side," according to Roelaf A. Schotman, former mayor of Batavia, NEL.

Schotman told Belleville Rotary yesterday that, "although the Japs promised them co-operation in Greater Asia, the natives have found only suppression instead of freedom, slavery instead of liberty."

After the war, he declared, the Dutch rule will again be welcomed by the natives, who outnumber the whites 70,000,000 to 200,000 in an area that is more than 3,000 miles across.

The policy of the Dutch, however, is toward complete independence for the Indonesians. The islands, which are among the richest lands in the world, have been ruled by the Hollanders for 350 years.

It has been the Dutch policy to allow the native chiefs to hold the majority of the ruling positions while the whites "merely supervise."

Referring to the rapid way in which the Japanese overran the islands two years ago, he pointed out that the Indies have always been peace-loving and had made little provision for the military.

"A defenseless country like the Netherlands East Indies can be defended from a ruthless enemy only by means of an international police force and we must be willing to pay for it like we do for our domestic police," he declared.

The relative smallness of the catch in modern days was pointed out by the fact that it requires but four days to fly from the Indies to Holland.

"Is there any distance on the earth now?" he asked, adding that the world must be thought of as a whole. It must, as the human body must, be healthy in all parts, otherwise all other parts will be affected."

COMMISSIONERS TO STUDY MOSQUITOES

Will Investigate Complaints
Of Arthur St. Residents;
Inspect Site Today

Mosquito-breeding grounds in the midst of a residential area between Charles and Center streets were protested to the Commission Tuesday night and met with promises of immediate investigation.

The commissioners will go today at 5:30 in company with the town engineer and a builder and the residents of the neighborhood to inspect the situation first hand and confer on a course of action.

A handful of neighbors from the area appeared at the Commission meeting Tuesday night to protest against the permanent pools of water which lay there and breed mosquitos during the summer.

Their spokesman, Stephen F. Martin of 36 Charles street, presented a petition to the commissioners asking their immediate cooperation in doing away with that he termed a "health menace."

The ground in the territory, he pointed out, does not absorb the water after a rain and the pools remain. The condition is aggravated by lack of proper drainage.

One man declared that the water was so bad on his property that he continually had a pump operating in his basement.

Town Engineer Welsh declared that drainage to a sewer can be effected only through Arthur street but that course "would have to go through private property."

Builder Cooperates
Martin declared that Timothy Barrett, a builder who recently bought lots along the necessary course of the drain, is willing to deed 12 feet to the town to permit installation of the drainage system.

Continuation of the situation, he averred, will "definitely lessen" the assessed valuation of the properties in the neighborhood with a resultant loss of tax revenue.

Mayor Williams pointed out that this "would be a new venture for the town," meaning the agreement to drain private land, but that he is "not afraid of the precedent."

On Commissioner Waters' recommendation, therefore, the entire board will visit the scene this afternoon to determine at first hand what can be done.

Red Cross Final Drive Report Shows Surplus Of $3,000

Cash collections amounting to $37,742 and additional pledges totalling $6,650 were listed yesterday by treasurer Albert P. Luscombe as the final result of the 1944 Red Cross War Fund.

The grand total of $44,392 exceeded the quota by $3,000 but he pointed out the final figure and success of the drive depends on the cooperation of the pledgers in making good their promises.

Industry led the divisions with $21,582 contributed to the fund. Other sections of the campaign showed results as follows:

House to house	$9,591
Special gifts	1,660
Schools	1,284
Organizations	997
Capitol theater	933
Retailers	839
Booths at banks	408
Town employees	400
Skating party	142

The drive which exceeded its quota of 200 million by more than $11 million. This, he declared, is the largest amount ever contributed to a philanthropic purpose.

Convicted Of Picking Up
Paper Salvage Bundles
From Street Curbs

Swift Belleville justice cost Frank Basso of 227 Sandford avenue, Kearny, $10 and the fruits of a morning's work.

Basso was stopped by Police Lt. Kenneth Smith Wednesday morning for collecting bundles of salvage paper put on the curbs for the town collector, Joseph Resciniti of 26 Clinton street.

Basso had no license. Smith brought him to police headquarters, where he was released after a hearing the same night. He pleaded guilty then and, after paying his fine, was warned by Recorder Smith to stay away from Belleville.

The Kearny man, who pleaded guilty to the charge, had no license to operate here. The paper he had collected in his route through the Valley was turned over to Resciniti.

Mrs. Katie Cezzo of 173 Heckel street was fined $5 at the same time for failing to compel her daughter to attend school. The complaint was drawn by Attendance Officer Schwegas.

Joseph T. Vizzone of 445 North Fifth street, Newark, was handed a $50 fine for driving on Franklin street with a tire missing from one wheel of his car. The complaint was signed by Patrolman Monaghan.

It was pointed out that the Children's fund has distributed during the past year shoes and thousands of packages of hard candies for war orphans and hospitalized children in Russia; educational films for children in Ireland; school supplies for Polish refugees who were resettled in Kenya colony, British East Africa; toys and games for children returning to the United States on the exchange ship, Gripsbold and the shipment of 100,000 gift boxes for boys and girls in many lands.

Mrs. Williams received $13.10 early this month from girls of the 7B class of the Passaic avenue school who gave a Red Cross benefit dance. One hundred students attended the affair for which pupils donated refreshments and records for music.

George MacDonald, North Atlantic area representative, will visit the Junior Red Cross chapter on May 23.

Cooper, Not Scully
An incorrect identification was made in last week's issue of The Times when "Mrs. George D. Scully" was mentioned as head of the Red Cross motor corps in a picture which showed presentation of a check to the chapter by the Capitol theatre manager, Mrs. George D. Cooper is motor corps captain.

Response to The Times' new servicemen's Furlough Register was encouraging but nobody got writer's cramps during the first week. Seven Bellevillites in uniform turned their names in and were duly recorded on the book.

The purpose of the Furlough Register is to list every Belleville man and woman who comes to town on a leave or furlough so that their inevitable first question ("Who's in town?") can be answered easily and quickly.

Gets Dornier

S/Sgt. James J. Doherty
AN EIGHTH AAF BOMBER STATION, England — S/Sgt. James J. Doherty, 19-year old tail gunner on the Eighth Air Force Flying Fortress "Punched Fowl," shot down his first enemy aircraft, a German Dornier 217 rocket-firing bomber, while the American heavies were attacking warplane factories at Augsburg, Germany.

The AAF formation was met by fierce enemy fighter opposition but the Luftwaffe's attempt to stop the oncoming Ports was in vain.

"I first sighted this rocket firing Dornier attacking the group next to us," recalled the youthful gunner. "He kept making passes at them, and then he came at us from the tail. He fired rockets that fell short, then attacked, blazing away with 20mm cannon fire."

When the Nazi rocket came within 700 yards of "Punched Fowl," Doherty opened fire. "He caught on fire almost immediately," said the gunner. "Dropped down a few hundred feet and then blew up. Pieces of metal flew in every direction. I had to get him, and I did."

Semper Sinatra! Student Interviews The Voic

By Gerry McKenna

For a guy who started out to be an engineer this one certainly surprised the world — and himself. Attired in a light blue victory jacket and navy blue pants, he appeared slightly nervous when interviewed. But his shyness didn't tend to distract from his sparkling personality and amiable character.

When the "swoon-king" was questioned about "the groaner" he didn't hesitate for a moment in stating that he thought Bing Crosby the best co-worker he's ever had the opportunity to work with. One of his greatest ambitions is to make an independent picture with "The Master" (as he refers to Bing) and split the profits. Giving us a hint to the future he said that if we listened we'd probably hear a swap, with Bing on Frank's program and vice-versa.

Oh yes! He does have weaknesses, and in order they are 1. Symphony music, 2. Spaghetti, 3. Big Nancy, 4. Little Nancy, and 5. Junior. There's a subject he can sit and discuss for hours and that's symphony music. Although he can't read a note, Frank is crazy about the greater hits of music. It was hard to choose his favorite opera but "La Boheme" finally won out, followed closely by Wagner and Rimski. He hopes to have an extensive library of his own someday, and at the present time he's getting off to a good start.

In working to further the youth of America in talent he is working on a nation-wide contest. It won't come into effect for another year but when it does it will be a great opportunity. The prize will be a scholarship to a music conservatory, yearly, and will be called the "Sinatra Award for Better Music." The award will be made by Frank and will enable some student in composition, directing, singing or any other field that would bring out the talent of American youth.

Likes Bob Hope In Frank's opinion, Bob Hope is the greatest personality on the radio today. If it were in his power to go on the Southwest Pacific tour that Bob is going on some time soon, Sinatra would jump at the chance. But his studio has other plans for him for the present. Frank hopes he can make a tour to the Southwest Pacific in the near future, because he wants to really get to know the boys.

Of all things that peeve him, it's when commentators or newspapermen start "knocking" the swooners or swoonkings. In his own way he interprets swooning as a sort of hero worship. He appreciates their little squeals because he realizes that these are the majority of fans that made him what he is today.

Of course, he himself denounces screeching. This interferes with the frequency on the radio and fans "somewhere on the high seas" complained about the noise so now before every radio program he gives a serious little talk to the bobby-sox club which helps a great deal in calming them down.

As a preview for his next picture which has the probable title of "Anchors Aweigh," Frankie gives these hints. He dances, romances, is a singer, co-stars with Gene Kelly, Kathryn Grayson and Gloria DeHaven and to top it all he plays a SAILOR on a 30-day leave. (What a show!)

This boy is at his best at golf, swimming, tennis, basketball, but when you mention football he just laughs. He went out for football in high school and as he walked out on the field the coach just looked bewildered and asked, "are you kidding?"

The next five years you'll be hearing from Frank on Saturday and Wednesday nights, because he has a five-year contract with each.

Junior Prom Time!

In the spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of the Junior Prom. We all know what that means: a rush for committees, thoughts of gowns for the girls and boys worrying about what kind of flowers and where to go after the great affair.

Well, the main thing is that there is to be a prom, and we can consider ourselves fortunate. With all the work on the part of the various committees and the teachers, the prom this year promises to be the best yet, but it all depends on you the students. Do you want this prom to be the greatest one to come to B. H. S.? We are sure you do! So come on you fellows, start on the ticket buying and if you haven't asked her yet—well, you'd better get busy as it won't be long now! Oh, yes—girls—don't forget those bashful boys, we know they all want to go—how about making it easier for them to ask you? Let's get together and see if we can't make this Prom the greatest and best one ever.

Paper's Loss

B.H.S. owe many thanks to one of our new teachers, Mr. Heck. If it hadn't been for him our paper would not have had such the fine start. Or maybe we would have had a school paper.

Mr. Heck was very well-liked by the staff. He was always willing to give his time to help any one of us write an article, no matter how unimportant it was.

He taught many of us just how to write, and brought out talents that students never thought they had. Yes, we students on this paper have much to thank him for.

Mr. Heck gave his all for this paper and because of him — it was a success. We could always depend on him to make sure the paper went to press on time.

Now that Mr. Heck is gone, we hope that he will always think of our school as an appreciative one. We all hope that he enjoyed his stay here as much as we enjoyed him. And, Mr. Heck, we of the staff will especially miss your kind assistance and consideration.

Wisteria Time In BHS

It's "Wisteria Time" at Belleville High. Juniors are busy preparing for the big event of the year, the Junior Prom. When? Why everyone knows it's Friday, May 26, from 8:30 to midnight.

While gliding across the floor to the melodious strains of music by Larry Tobia and his Roseville club orchestra, you will not be able to keep yourself from going completely out-of-this-world, as the sweet scent of the mysterious surroundings reach your nostrils.

National Honor Society Inaugurated Here

A chapter of the National Honor Society has been granted to our school by the National Association following an application by a selected committee. It will be organized this spring with almost 3000 other chapters in accredited high schools all over the United States. Membership to this organization is limited to students of the Junior and Senior classes. However, no student may apply to anyone for membership. Those chosen will not be known until the actual initiation ceremony takes place.

The qualities that are stressed most are SCHOLARSHIP, SERVICE, participation in school, athletic and community functions is important. LEADERSHIP, holding school offices and positions of responsibility mean a good deal. CHARACTER, friendliness, neatness and self-control are helpful.

Once the National Honor Society is organized, it will carry on some very definite constructive activity for the good of our school and student body. They must at all times foster leadership, service, cooperation, high scholastic standards and, above all, good character.

The manner in which students will be selected follows a very definite plan. First of all, students will be nominated by the entire faculty. Then a committee will sift out those whose grades are not high enough. A final choice is left up to the entire faculty in selecting the remaining nominees.

On May 19, a special assembly will take place whereby students will be notified of their membership by a special tapping ceremony. No honor could be greater than to be selected as a member of this organization.

Students of Belleville High are considered lucky indeed to have the National Honor Society installed in their school. It places our school on a higher level and offers its students an excellent opportunity to afford an outlet for our achievement.

BHS Is Proud Of Its Graduates

Belleville High may well be proud of the graduates it turns out. Take, for instance, the case of three former students, namely Marjorie Ebel, Florence Hefferman and Eileen Schurr. It seems that the Berkeley Secretarial School, which usually holds its graduations in June, decided to honor five of its students by allowing them to graduate a month ahead of schedule. And whom do you suppose the first three were? None other but our aforementioned damsels. Nice work girls—Belleville High is proud of you.

We Have With Us Today

Our wonderful music teacher is responsible for the successful Spring Concert of this year. Through her tireless efforts and the cooperation of the students, the concert was made possible. She received dozens of letters and telephone calls from admiring mothers and fathers and alumni of BHS. All in all, Mrs. Wagner was very, very pleased.

As for hobbies, Mrs. Wagner likes to play chess and try her hand at cooking foreign dishes. Have you ever wondered about who selects the celebrities that appear before the BHS audiences? Well, it's the program committee of which she is chairman. This committee was organized in November for the purpose of introducing well-known talented people to our student audiences. The members of the committee submit their own ideas to Mrs. Wagner and then the job of contacting the celebrity by mail is hers. A difficult assignment if three ever was one.

Mrs. Wagner showed your reporter a few letters received from the performers' agents. Did you ever realize that performances given in assemblies cost as much as $100 or $200? Henry Scott and Dr. Franz Polgar received usually about $350 at one evening performance. And Eve LaGalinné, the famous Broadway actress requires $400 at one performance. So you see, the tidy sum of $100 does not mean much to such performers.

Our music teacher attended the Fredonia School of Music where she majored in conducting and minored in the organization and administration of public school music. Her greatest ambition in school days was to have her own orchestra.

Mrs. Wagner has a very full day as head of the music department. Her day begins as about 8 a.m. and ends at about 6 p.m. when the janitors close the building.

Since there isn't any instrumental teacher in BHS Mrs. Wagner takes over the job. She teaches cello, bass viol, French horn etc. Why, did you know that 60% of the students in the orchestra learned how to play instruments while attending BHS? What would the orchestra do without Mrs. Wagner?

Does Mrs. Wagner think the Highlights is a grand paper? I'll say. She said that the paper has the best staff she ever did see and that the school should be very proud of the work done by it. Also, she stated that the Highlights cooperated wonderfully with the music department in preparation for the spring concert. BHS is certainly proud and lucky to have such an enthusiastic music teacher in Mrs. Wagner.

Over The WOMAN'S DESK

Fortunate are American women that they have in great numbers the striking figures for which they are celebrated in other countries—for our designers, who have taken the spotlight since war has closed European markets to us, seem determined to assume that their feminine compatriots are entirely perfect specimens.

The creations of these designers continue to roll off the production line either draped in such form fitting lines that a woman whose figure is not perfectly balanced could not help but look ridiculous or, cut on such stark, unrelieved lines that only a woman with definite figure allure could avoid looking completely washed out.

This is not an agitation for concentration on costuming at a time when such matters are properly relegated to the background; but it is a protest against the heralding of these designers as surpassers of all fashion experts we have previously known.

True, they are now entirely concerned with the American woman and spend their time in this country soaking up its atmosphere; but their creations lack the imagination which is essential if one design is to carry over in a dozen variations.

Most frocks today need the help of their wearers to bring out their distinctive points; this indicates that something is wrong with them for they should serve exactly the opposite purpose.

Clothes should make the woman and women, when the war is done should commence to bring their designers in line by demanding that more attention be given to individual differences.

Clothes Typed

Designers now specialize in "type" clothes and too many women are tempted into putting themselves into the type clothes they admire instead of trying to ferret out the clothes that most suit them.

The same women are agreed that old fashioned women very nothing short of mad to lace themselves into the hour glass corset or sport an ugly bustle.

Now if a designer, whose taste is most attracted to the sun worshiped theories of California, turns out modes with the revealing lines and sunshine colors that are most adaptable to life in the locale, there is no limit to the variations of the originals which will be outstandingly ugly on thousands of city women who do not have such easy access to beaches for sunning and exercising and who will look ghastly in the colors and gauches in the swift lines of these garments.

The city designer, on the other hand, devoted to sharply-tailored suits will hand out crisp, carved garments that accentuate the beauty of the svelte secretary but make boxy and awkward the older homemaker whose settled figure needs softening clothes.

Mere Backgrounds

Then there is the designer who thinks all gowns should be mere backgrounds for lovely jewels; very nice perhaps for her original clientele but not so nice when it is accepted in cheaper material and loaded down with imitation jewelry of a questionable variety.

And yet these patterns will be so bereft that some jewelry or other accessory is absolutely essential.

Designers will say perhaps that women can find the right type clothes if they look hard enough; and that's partly true. But it is becoming more impossible to find

DR. SHAFER SPEAKS ON LASTING PEACE

Wesley And First Baptist Men
Are Invited To Hear Authority
At Nutley Church

Dr. Luman J. Shafer, co-secretary with Dr. Walter Van Kirk of the Commission of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America to Study the Bases of a Just and Durable Peace, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Men's association of the Franklin Reformed church, Nutley, next Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

His subject will be "How to Win a Just and Lasting Peace." He has a comprehensive knowledge of the great problems in the Far East and is personally acquainted with the outstanding leaders in China, of whom he has interviewed 25 men, including Chiang Kai-Shek.

In 1940 he visited both Japan and China as the representative of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed church, which board he has served as secretary for over a decade, and gained first hand knowledge of the situation in that part of the world. Dr. Shafer speaks with authority and conviction on what is essential to a just and lasting peace.

A graduate of Rutgers university and the New Brunswick Theological seminary, he went to Japan in 1912 and served as principal of Formis seminary, the first school for girls in that country.

In 1923 he undertook its reconstruction after the great earthquake, and was a leader in the reconstruction of Yokohama, where the school was located. Today he is interested in the reconstruction of the world on sure and lasting foundations of peace and understanding.

The members of the Men's associations of the Wesley Methodist and First Baptist churches have been invited and will attend in a body, and a cordial invitation has also been extended to the members of the Men's associations of the churches of Nutley.

Operatic Debut

Charles F. Mohr

Charles F. Mohr, baritone, church and concert soloist and featured singer of radio programs on station WAAT, made his opera debut Friday evening in Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor."

Mohr sang the role of Sir Arthur Bucklaw in the Paterson Musical Arts society's presentation of the opera in East Side high school auditorium in that city.

He lives at 206 Hornblower avenue, Belleville, with his wife and seven months-old son, Barry. Mohr, who is with the East Newark division of Federal Telephone and Radio company, appears Saturday mornings at 7:15 on WAAT and in the Sunday evening program known as "Above the Clouds" from 10:05 to 10:45 over the same station.

Early instructors, confused by low tones in his voice range, trained the singer as a baritone and caused him to build up a sizable repertoire of baritone roles, arias and duets.

He is now being instructed by Mme. Anna Tripputi of Newark who has discovered that he is actually a tenor.

Mrs. Mohr is the former Miss Edna Maurer, daughter of Mrs. Fred Stamer of 27 Oak street.

Ball Results Show Lack Of Foresight

...the high school baseball team has been on a single game and there are many already using that fact to prove a number of things. Many there are who, in the fashion of sports publics everywhere, are crying for Frank Spotts' coaching scalp. Others, equally shallow, are trying to draw the conclusion that the handful of defeats and justification to the contention that baseball lacks interest, that Belleville is not baseball-minded, that the recent two-year ban on the sport has been vindicated.

Actually it was the two-year hiatus which put winning teams out of the question for some period of time to come. No one who has never cooked can possibly make a perfect cake on the first try and no one can mold a winning baseball team out of a bunch of rookies. The Belleville nine is a scrappy little team that has shown some great promise during many of its games. But it is obvious that the boys are green, that they show the effects of lack of practice — not this year, but lack of practice over a period of years. They are trying hard and deserve great credit for sticking it out regardless of the won-lost record. For their contribution to the future of baseball in Belleville high will eventually prove greater than that of many teams which have been able to compile enviable records. They will be the ones who will be remembered for having revived the sport here.

Spotts also will deserve credit; for he has been willing to risk his reputation on the resurrection. The showing which his team has made is not discreditable. Mere victories are nothing but sop for the crowd. It is the spirit of sportsmanship and teamwork which is most important and those are qualities with which he has been able to imbue the squad.

Since 1938 this newspaper has been clamoring for extension of athletics to the elementary schools and our words have fallen on deaf ears. Like everyone else in the town, the school board wants winning teams in the high school; yet the board has never been willing to take the time or make the effort to insure such winning teams. It has been our contention for six years that victorious teams will never be a habit in the high school as long as we wait until our youth gets into the high school to start to learn the rudiments of the game, be it football, basketball, baseball or any of the numerous other sports which should be included in the Bellboy curriculum but which are nothing but fond hopes in the minds of sports enthusiasts here.

Not in many, many years has Belleville been a contender even for the county football title. Several times the basketballers have gotten into the state tournament and the achievement is always greeted with wonderment. The baseball team has not had a decent record in many years. And the root cause of it all is that the board of education has never seen fit really to sponsor athletics. The attitude has rather been one of indulgence: most schools have sports so we will too — but not too much. Until that philosophy is overcome, mediocre and poor teams will be the rule and victories will remain a stunning surprise.

Actually it is not the responsibility of the town recreation department or the PBA or any other interested agency to sponsor grammar school athletics: it is the responsibility solely of the board of education and, if that body fails in its duty toward the town, it is not someone else's duty to cover up for it. Nor for the superintendent of schools whose immediate responsibility it is to outline and force through a well-rounded program, academically and athletically. Nor for the citizens of the town whose school system is no better and no worse than they permit it to be.

PTAs Should Be Fostered Even In Wartime

The Hardy Parent-Teacher associations which have managed to weather the storms of war for the past two or three years and are still alive and kicking today have one great responsibility before they cease their activities for the summer. They must now plan for bigger and more important things next year. And those schools which are not at the moment have active operating PTAs should be laying plans for resumption of business with the opening of the school in the fall. Now is the time to begin planning, not some time after Labor Day.

Since Pearl Harbor the Belleville PTA council has gone into hibernation and the several school associations themselves have largely deteriorated into small-time social clubs which meet once a month, listen passively to a quite harmless speaker, stow away some cake and coffee and go home to forget about the PTA until the little mascot arrives the following month. Their concrete contributions to the advancement of the schooling at their particular institutions have been practically nil.

Principal reasons for the lack of interest in PTA work are two: 1) the misconception that all civilian endeavor must cease until the peace comes and 2) the enforcement of the board of education's ruling against night meetings in the school — a measure designed to conserve heat and light power during war.

The former is advisedly termed a "misconception" for never more than in wartime is clear-headed guidance of children needed, never is it quite so necessary to take every precaution to guard against lowering of educational, moral and social standards. If the PTAs are worth their weight in salt they will remain on the job; they will not give in too easily to the general spirit of war weariness in which "I'm much too busy to bother." We are all busy these days and it is the true patriot who will do the extras without permitting the necessities to suffer. In wartime even more than in peacetime, close cooperation between teachers and parents is needed to guide our youth along practical and clear-headed thinking.

The other contributing factor to the slow demise of PTAs here is more concrete and more easily rectified. The wartime measure taken by the school board is easily understood and should not necessarily be judged as opposition by the board to the PTA movement. It is true, however, that the enforced shifting of meeting times to the afternoon has cut attendance considerably. Perhaps the opening of one school one night a month (at which time each PTA in town could meet in a different classroom) would be the answer. It is a suggestion worthy of consideration.

As far as the two schools without PTAs are concerned, we fail to see at this juncture that the opinions or the orders of the principals of those schools have much to do with the formation of an association. Provided, that is, that the parents in those school districts want a PTA. Certainly the principal cannot forbid his or her teachers to attend and even less can the parents be forbidden to meet and organize for that purpose.

The value of Parent-Teacher associations has long been accepted. Mrs. Hilda Koch, the famous refugee from Hitler's Germany, told the PTA of Greylock school recently that organizations such as theirs were providing one of the outstanding examples of democracy that we have. The more recent report of the Citizens' Committee survey of the schools strongly recommended formation and fostering of PTAs in every school. In the face of these and many other similar assertions, how can Miss Broadbent and Mr. Shawger long hold out?

Voters Are Still Waiting For Enlightenment

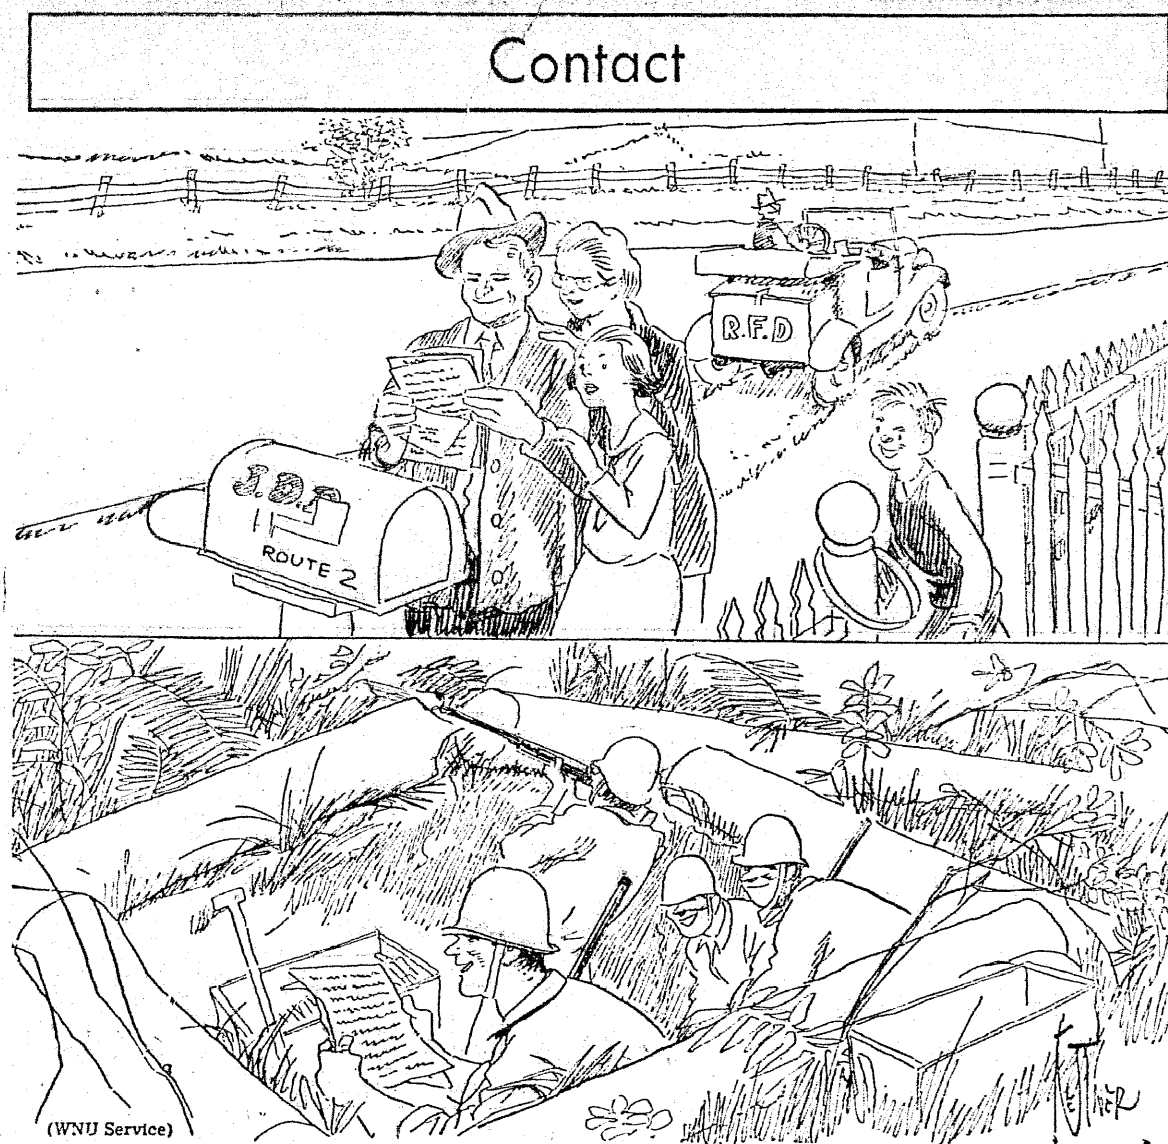

Four long weeks have passed since Mayor Williams made his charges against Commissioner King and Deputy Chief Leighton, four weeks in which the citizens of the town have waited more or less patiently for clarification and proof so that they might judge the relative merits of the case. The proofs have not been forthcoming nor has either side amplified its stand, except to throw up a barrage of persiflage which has served merely to cloud the issue. Gentlemen, Belleville is still waiting for enlightenment.

The mayor's original statement is the only official word on the case to come forth to date. In it he charged that Commissioner King had "suppressed" a statement (signed by Captain Leighton) which reported, according to the mayor himself, that the mayor was linked in the machinations of several Newark gamblers in their efforts to open a gambling house here. He rightly feels that the document, if true, would be damaging to his reputation. He claims that the whole deal is an attempted frame-up to blacken his personal and political reputation.

Commissioner King on the other hand admitted that he had the statement, that Captain Leighton signed it, that it was locked in his safe, that he discussed it with Commissioners Waters, Mertz and Noll. He has as yet offered no further explanations nor has he clarified his stand on the subject matter beyond the declaration that he "did not believe it" to be true.

Now the questions that people have been asking for four weeks are: Was the mayor playing ball with the gamblers? If he was, why was he the one to have the temerity to bring the matter to a head and why was he permitted to remain in office? If he was not, was there a real frame-up behind it? Is Commissioner King compelled to make police records public? If so, why has he failed to do so? If he is not, why did he discuss it with the other commissioners? These are but a few of the questions which the voters want answered.

The Whys And Wherefores Of Municipal Planning

This is the second instalment of the condensation of the booklet published by The Architectural Forum entitled "Planning With You." Last week's section dealt with arguments for the necessity of planning the future of the community in which we live and with the normal growth and expansion which towns have undergone since the middle ages.—Editor.

We Need To Stop Decay

What happened to the American City as it progressed from a tiny settlement to a community of 10,000 or 100,000 was that it grew by adding rings, just as a tree does. At first, shops and houses were so few they formed one solid little core. Then, as the business district grew, houses were forced farther out. At the business and then industrial centers expanded, began to decay and those who could afford to, again moved—still farther from the center.

When rapid transit came in, this movement became a stampede and the ring of worn out buildings around the solid core of valuable business property grew larger and more and more decrepit.

Today, except for war centers, most cities have practically stopped growing. Existing streets and sewers often are more than adequate to serve present and future needs.

Most of our towns must turn in toward the center again. There is room, if the blighted sections can be torn down and rebuilt, for all the things a modern city needs—decent housing, parks, schools with land around them, and other amenities.

Rebuilding inside our towns can give them new life. Dropping property values can be stabilized. Slums can be eliminated. City costs can be reduced.

Why Cities Decay

One reason our cities and towns decay is because people build the wrong thing in the wrong place.

Most of these people are just as good citizens as the rest of us. They are simply trying to make money by building something on a piece of ground which they own. Unfortunately, one mistake can start a neighborhood downhill.

For example, as new residential districts developed in towns, shops and filling stations grew up with them. People nearest the shops moved away.

Other things cause decay too. Someone puts up a new, large office building where it is not needed. Tenants move out of older but still good buildings leaving them vacant.

A few people profit temporarily through these expansions, but in the end everybody loses. Our cities and towns have decayed so badly that many of them are bankrupt or soon may be.

This process is terribly wasteful. It destroys property values. It breeds slums. Blight has gotten in its deadly work on sections of London long before the blitz came.

These conditions have long been recognized and some effort has been made to control them. Many communities have long had planning boards and almost all have zoning regulations and other legal restrictions.

All of these efforts have been right in principle and have prevented a bad situation from getting worse. They have fallen short because they have told people what they cannot build, but have done little to encourage the right kind of development.

Repairing Decay

How can we fix decay? The way a dentist does — by cleaning out the infected area and guarding it against further trouble.

Our cities show many examples: Chicago has filled in its lakefront and created a handsome, accessible residential neighborhood and splendid waterfront park.

New York has taken many tax-delinquent properties and turned them into playgrounds. San Francisco has turned an old exposition grounds into a fine park.

Hartford has rejuvenated decayed residential districts with insurance company office buildings set in their own beautifully landscaped parks.

Many attempts have been made by our cities to eliminate blight, but they are small and scattered. A planless program is no solution; it merely creates a new set Commencement Committee Meets Last week the committee in charge of the Senior commencement exercises held a meeting in the guidance room. Those present were Mr. Howard Fox, Mr. Murray Wilcox, Miss Alma Gray, Miss Elsie Sanford of the faculty, and students Phyllis Di-Sturco, Buddy Speyer, and Albert Knight. Mr. Johnson presided over the informal discussion.

Subjects relating to graduation and commencement exercises were raised and discussed. The features most prominently talked about were the types of decorations, the arrangements of the seats, and the distribution of diplomas, caps and gowns. It was also decided that a competition would be held for those students wishing to participate in commencement speeches.

A bulletin will be posted in each senior home room at the beginning of next week telling the dates of all senior events during the month of June.

Another meeting of this committee was held on Friday to further the topic.

Tomatoes, Peppers, Egg Plant, Lima Beans

Red maples bloomed late, an indication of the cool, late season that we have had. This with the rains has delayed the preparation of the soil and planting. Tomatoes, peppers and eggplants will not do well in cool weather and are susceptible to frost injury. It is advisable to delay planting until the soil is well warmed up, which is normally about May 15. Again we can turn to nature for a cue. When the first leaves of the Norway maple, a common street tree, are well developed, it will be safe to plant these vegetables.

Well grown, stocky plants that have been hardened off should be purchased. These plants are usually grown in a greenhouse or hot bed and are used to warm temperatures. To set them out in the ground in that condition would be a shock.

Consequently, they should be gradually exposed to cool conditions for about two weeks before they are planted in the open.

This is done by reducing the temperature in the greenhouse or by placing the flats in a cold frame. If the plants are grown in a dwelling, they should be set outdoors during the daytime.

Plant Tomatoes

Tomatoes may be grown staked or unstaked. They may be trained to a single stake. In this case the plants should be set two feet apart in rows that are 2½ to 3 feet apart.

The stakes may be set either before or after planting, although before planting is less liable to result in damage to the roots.

The stakes for this purpose should be five to six feet long, and should be set about a foot in the ground. The stem of the plant should be four to six inches from the stake.

Another method of staking is the "teepee," in which three or four stakes, five to six feet long are fastened together at the top and then spread out so that the bottoms, thrust into the ground a few inches, are two feet apart. A tomato plant is set at each stake.

Do Not Cramp

In setting tomatoes, open up a hole, six or eight inches deep and large enough so that the roots can be put in without cramping. Now draw in enough soil to cover the roots and fill the hole about half full with fine soil.

Into the hole pour gently about one teacupful of water, or better still, a cup of starter solution (one teacupful of 5-10-5 Victory Garden fertilizer to 12 quarts of water). Let stand overnight. Stir and apply.

Then draw in loose soil to fill the hole. Do not pack this. This method of planting gives the best results so follow it carefully.

If the tomato plants have very long stems, a good plan is to remove the lower leaves, dig the hole for the roots a short distance away from the stake and open up a channel in which the stem is laid and cover it with three inches of soil, bending the stem slightly so that the leaves are above the ground.

Roots will form along the covered stem. By this method of planting, the distance from the ground to the first fruit cluster will not be so great.

Peppers, Eggplants

At the same time as tomatoes are set out, its two relatives—pepper and eggplant—may be planted.

Peppers should be set two feet apart in the row with the rows 2½ feet apart. Do not set too many plants. Three or four will usually yield enough fruits for table requirements of the average family.

Eggplants should be spaced four feet by four feet. Only two or three plants will be needed for a family.

Lima Beans

The lima bean is a warm weather crop, and the seeds should not be planted until almost time to set out tomatoes. Last year, because of the cool, wet spring many lima bean plantings failed to germinate.

The bush limas should be sown in furrows about one inch deep. The seeds are placed eye down. Some persons sow the seeds singly about four inches apart and later thin the plants to stand eight to 10 inches apart.

Others make a little wider furrow and plant two seeds side by side at intervals of eight to 10 inches, later removing the extra plants.

Firm the soil well about the lima bean seeds but leave the top of the covering loose so that the seedlings can come out of the ground.

Pole limas require a little longer time to mature but they will continue to bear until frost. Set the poles about two feet apart in the row and plant four or five seeds about each pole. When the seedlings are about six inches high, remove all but two of them.

Keep after the flea-beetle and it is wise to use poison bran bait or put paper collars around your plants now to protect them against cutworms.

NEXT WEEK: Training Staked Tomatoes.

RUTAN PLACE

A festive layer cake will always be the headliner at home gatherings which include refreshments.

Have an informal gathering of relatives and friends Sunday afternoon to honor Mother—she's especially missing those boys in service. Hot coffee, or iced as the weather indicates, will go well with cake.

If you have to spare butter try the chocolate cake which requires only four tablespoons; if your ration points are plenty the orange cream cake will give an opulent note of spring.

Easy Chocolate Cake
1 cup sugar
1½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
3 tablespoons cocoa
½ teaspoon salt
1 level teaspoon soda
1 cup sour milk (or buttermilk)
1 egg and 1 egg yolk
2 teaspoons vanilla
4 tablespoons melted butter

Sift and mix all dry ingredients together thoroughly; add ½ cup milk, then the other half, the beaten egg and egg yolk and finally the melted butter. Bake 25 minutes in two 9 inch layer tins in 350 degree oven.

Frost with Seven Minute icing made by placing remaining egg white in top of double boiler with ¾ cup sugar, three tablespoons cold water and a pinch of cream of tartar.

Place over boiling water and beat with rotary beater seven minutes. Spread between layers and on top and sides. Decorate with chocolate bits if desired.

Orange Cream Layer Cake
1 cup sugar
1½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
3 tablespoons cocoa
½ teaspoon salt
1 level teaspoon soda
1 cup sour milk (or buttermilk)
1 egg and 1 egg yolk
2 teaspoons vanilla
4 tablespoons melted butter
