

Vote on Restoration of Police, Tuesday

Mayor To Be "Explicit" On Conditions That Led To Grand Jury Probe

The resolution by Public Affairs Director Mertz proposing to take the police department from Mayor Williams and restore it to Public Safety Director King, laid over at the last commission meeting is scheduled to be introduced for a vote on Tuesday night. At the last meeting, the Mayor stated that he would be "very explicit" when the resolution is introduced, about conditions in the department that have jeopardized his personal character.

He referred to the Grand Jury presentation as an indictment of King, whom he brought into court on the charge that King and members of his police department were damaging his character with rumors of the Mayor's alleged association with proposed gambling elements in town.

The complete presentation, made the day before the Mayor introduced his resolution to take the department from the Public Safety director states:

"The Grand Jury for the first half, September term 1944 has thoroughly investigated the indirect accusation that Mayor Williams of Belleville was receptive and friendly to certain members of the gambling element.

"Much of the testimony is contradictory and many statements are in direct conflict with one another.

Need Confidence

"The Grand Jury however is unanimously satisfied that the charges are baseless and not founded upon truth or fact. More prompt and effective action by the police and greater cooperation and mutual confidence between the commissioners would have eliminated the embarrassment and unwarranted gossip that subsequently followed." It was signed by James F. McTague of East Orange, foreman of the jury.

At the last meeting, the Mayor declared that King told other members of the board "things you men couldn't substantiate," whereupon King asked him how he knew they couldn't be substantiated, since the Grand Jury probe was secret.

Restoring the department to King would block the Mayor's pending amendments for "improvements" which are said to include replacing Recorder Clerk Fred Handlon with a member of the unified force and competitive examinations for promotions in both the police and fire departments.

It is expected that Mertz, King and Public Parks Director Waters will provide the majority to pass the resolution restoring the department to the Public Safety Director. Mertz and Parks and Public Property Director Noll voted with the Mayor when he took the department over last October.

KIDDE DISTRIBUTES BACK PAY

500 Vets Participate In $600,000 Going to 3,000 Workers in Company Plants

Over 500 veterans, scattered throughout the world, are sharing in a $600,000 back pay just distributed at the Walter Kidde Co., incorporated, of Belleville and Bloomfield.

This back pay, going to some 3,000 workers, retroactive to May, 1943, results from the War Labor Board approval of an evaluation program negotiated with the company by the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers Local 420 — C.I.O. This extensive program evaluated jointly 360 different job classifications, and then assigned each worker involved to his proper classification.

The Labor Board approved new wage bands, running from 60 to 75 cents for unskilled workers, and $1.20 to $1.45 for toolmakers. This represented a five cent increase in the former top rate at the company, an increase which was reflected in varying degrees in the "in-between" classifications.

Local 420's proud record of uninterrupted production was maintained throughout the almost two years of negotiating the program, and seeing it through the Labor Board.

The negotiating committee included Nick Pitocco, chairman; Tony Mercadante, Francis Maloney, Pat Clancy, Frank Corrigan, Lou Fox, Rex Grosso, Phil Maglio, and Anthony Bruno, assisted by Harry Kehler and Steve Rubicz, business agents.

Former Governor Will Attend Dinner in Honor of Mayor Williams

Former Governor Charles A. Edison will be a guest at the testimonial dinner to be given for Mayor Williams, revenue and finance director at the Newark Athletic club on Thursday evening, May 4.

The dinner is being planned in recognition of the Mayor's fifteen years in office. He has been finance director since 1930 and mayor since 1934. It will be remembered that former Gov. Tickets which are limited to 330 are nearly sold out, Arnold said yesterday. Those wishing to attend are asked to call John E. Hudson, ticket chairman, at Be. 2-2398 as soon as possible to obtain them. Entertainment will be provided through the entertainment bureau of radio station WOR.

Five Prisoners of War Are Liberated by Allies

Three Taken At Battle Of Bulge Heard From; All Expect To Return Home

Best news that the families of five prisoners of war in Germany have had in some time came this week with word that they have been liberated in the Allied sweep across Germany and expect to be returned to the States.

They are Pfc. Arthur Schultz, Pfc. Edmund Kelly and Pfc. Joseph Camarero, all interned at Bad Orb, Pfc. Domenick Alberti and possibly Pfc. James Wilkinson interned at Stalag 11B.

Schultz, Kelly and Wilkinson are three of the six local soldiers taken at the Battle of the Belgium Bulge last December while Alberti was not taken prisoner until January. Recent newspaper accounts have stated that all Bad Orb prisoners were moved with the exception of the privates who remained, which probably accounts for the fact that no word has yet been received from Sgt. Henry Pfister. However, it is known that Pfc. William Davis, who has not been heard from either, is a prisoner at Stalag 4B.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schultz of 80 Beech street received a letter

GIRL SCOUTS doing their share in the local clothing drive which is part of a nation-wide campaign to collect 75,000 tons of clothing to be sent to the 125,000,000 destitute people of liberated countries in Europe. Shown above are members of Troop 7 of Fewsmith Presbyterian church, Marilyn Scheie, Joan Grant and Dorothy Rankin who have helped put their troop in second place in the drive with a total of 900 pounds so far. The Girl Scouts have already collected over 4,200 pounds at headquarters at 400 Washington avenue. The drive ends April 30.

Need Immediate Donations of Usable Wearing Apparel

Last Minute Deluge Will Swamp Volunteers; Girl Scouts Collect 4,200 Lbs. Of 15,000 Lbs. Turned In

An urgent appeal for immediate contributions to the clothes drive for the peoples of liberated Europe was made yesterday by the chairman, the Rev. Peter R. Beckenbach. He announced that a total of 15,000 pounds of used and wearable clothing has been collected, toward Belleville's quota of 150,000 pounds.

Immediate donations are requested since the job of processing and packing the clothes must be done by the end of the month and a last minute deluge of contributions will handicap the volunteers who are doing the work.

Of the 15,000 pounds thus far collected, the Girl Scouts have contributed over 4,200 pounds in their own drive. Troops leading the drive are Troop 2 at the Recreation house with Mrs. Morris Bennett, leader, with 1,662 pounds and Troop 7 of Fewsmith church, Mrs. Lies Scheie leader, with 900 pounds.

All Girls Scouts are taking the clothes to headquarters at 400 Washington avenue with the exception of St. Peter's troops 1 and 4 which are taking them to the

An appeal to organizations for help in the sorting of clothes at municipal stadium has been made by James Lampman, chairman of processing and shipping. Many more volunteers are needed if the work is to be completed. Organizations that can offer volunteers for one night a week are asked to call him at Be. 2-1889-J.

Twenty-nine trucks for the house-to-house canvass on Sunday, April 26 are also requested. Firms or individuals wishing to lend a truck for the collection on that date are asked to call Ronald G. Brunner at the Defense council office, Be. 2-2100.

Mrs. Richard Garraway of Birchwood drive is chairman of the Girl Scout collection, and members of the leaders club assisting are Mrs. Lundy, Mrs. Wilcox and Mrs. Sidney Birks. Mrs. Bennett, president of the leaders club, is also assisting.

In addition to the depots already designated at all the churches, schools, firehouses and town garage, is the depot recently named at the home of Mrs. Berdi Jefferson, 159 Main street.

Wind-up of the drive will be held on Sunday, April 29 from 9 to 2 when volunteers with trucks, to make a house-to-house canvass. In case of rain, Charles Nutt, collection chairman has announced that the house canvass will be held on the following Sunday, May 6.

Two loads have been taken from the William street firehouse, one from Christ Episcopal church and schools No. 2, 3, 5 and 10 are having their collections picked up today.

All kinds of used but wearable apparel are needed, for men, women and children. In addition, blankets and quilts are also requested.

The Nutley Symphony Orchestra under its conductor Nicos Cambourakis, will give its third and final concert of the season on Tuesday evening at 8:30 at the high school.

Raymond Young, Newark pianist, will be soloist in a Schumann, "Concerto in A minor." A Mozart "Fantasie" arranged for small orchestra by Ernest Ernsdorf of Nutley the "Scottish" symphony of Mendelssohn and the 1812 Overture of Tchaikovsky will complete the program.

Belleville subscribers who are desirous of acquainting themselves with the music before the concert are invited to attend a record session during which the Mendelssohn and Schumann compositions will be played, on Saturday evening from 7 to 8:15, at 87 Preston street.

Pfc. Joseph Marino recovers from wounds in England. A War department notice to Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Marino of 31 Carner avenue early this week assured them that their son, Pfc. Joseph Marino, was improving in an English hospital from wounds received in Germany, March 20.

Pfc. Marino had been overseas only three weeks when shell fire injured his right shoulder and hand. He became a paratrooper six months ago after serving in the Air Forces at Dayton, O. base for two years.

Killed In Action

Sgt. Frank Rankin Jr.

DIDN'T KNOW HIS BABY WAS BORN

Sgt. Frank Rankin Met His Death When Daughter Was Nine Days Old

Killed in action over France on March 6, the day he expected his baby to be born, Sgt. Frank Rankin Jr. had not learned at the time of his death that he was the father of a baby girl, Gail Catherine, born nine days earlier.

Although his wife, the former Miss Ann Apito of Bloomfield, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rankin of 18 Hornblower avenue with whom she makes her home, had attempted to send him a message through the Red Cross, they had been unsuccessful since it was not an emergency. He had written that he and his friends were betting on whether it would be a boy or a girl and that he was hoping for an heir for the family.

The family received word from the War Department that the 24 year old sergeant was missing on March 26, when they also received his last letter written the day before he met his death. They later learned, on April 11, that he had been killed. An engineer gunner on a A-20 light bomber, he was attached to the Ninth Air Force stationed in France. Sgt. Rankin was first stationed in England when he went overseas last September.

Had Oak Leaf Cluster

He had received an oak leaf cluster to the Air Medal for meritorious service in the battle of the Belgium bulge. A graduate of Belleville High School in 1939, Sgt. Rankin was employed by the Tube Reducing corporation in Wallington before he entered the service on March 8, 1943. He was married on February 14, 1942.

Sgt. Rankin who enjoyed bowling and baseball as his chief sports, is the second member of the Emanon's band to be killed in action. Another member, Sergeant Thomas Peacock was killed in action in September, 1943.

The serviceman is also survived by a younger brother, Robert, 22, a private first class aboard an aircraft repair ship in the South Pacific. He has been in service 27 months and has been abroad since January. Plans are being made by the family for memorial services at a later date. Sgt. Rankin was a member of Montgomery Presbyterian Church.

TWO JAILED FOR GAS COUPON THEFT

Youth And Gas Station Operator Confess, May Implicate Others

Two men are being held in the local jail without bail on charges of dealing in stolen and counterfeit gasoline ration coupons pending further investigation by Deputy Police Chief Elmer Leighton which are expected to lead to other arrests.

The man are Al La Rossa, 26, attendant at Terry's service station, 23 Franklin street and George Caruso, 16, of 16 Norfolk street, Newark. Caruso was picked up Tuesday by Sgt. Ernest Slater and Cranceman William Dacey on a charge of stealing a bicyc from St. Peter's school on the same day.

Quizzed by Leighton and Detective Irving Holly, he confessed to stealing others and admitted stealing sheets of gasoline ration coupons from parked trucks in various parts of the state. His confession implicated La Rossa who was found to have a large quantity of counterfeit gas coupons in his possession.

The two also confessed to the robbery of gas coupons from the gasoline station at 26 Franklin street. Caruso said he committed the robbery after La Rossa had told him the stamps were there.

DEMONSTRATION OF FAULTY BRAKES

Police Stage Event Tomorrow In Drive To Check Accidents

A brake test and public demonstration of how faulty brakes cause accidents will be given by members of the police force tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 on Main street, north of Leroy street.

The demonstration and brake checking campaign here, is part of a nation-wide program to cut down traffic accidents and to prolong the life of automobiles.

Police Chief George Spatz said yesterday that two patrol cars will be used for the demonstration, one with perfect brakes and the other with brakes loosened enough to be dangerous. Starting and stopping lines have been painted on Main street to show how far both cars will travel after being given a signal to halt. A car travels an average of fifteen feet, the Chief said, before the driver reacts to braking it in an emergency.

The police are not stopping cars to test them, the chief said yesterday. They are equipped with block testers however, and will be glad to test brakes upon request during the drive which continues throughout this month. A block of wood an inch thick is placed on the floor board under the foot pedal. If the pedal strikes the block before the brakes begin to grip, the brakes are inadequate and need attention.

The tin can collection was down 4,000 pounds in March, however, with 8,450 pounds as against 13,725 in February and 4,000 in January. Other items collected to make up the total include non-ferrous metal, rags, rubber and storage batteries.

Waste paper leads the list with a gain of 30,000 pounds during March for a month's total of 131,390 pounds. Scrap iron and steel collections are also up, with 8,100 pounds turned in last month compared with 1,260 in February and 1,400 in January.

It's Swell To Meet a Pal— Even Tho He's An M. P.

Sgt. Joseph Prendergast Didn't Mind The Rude Awakening By Sgt. Eugene Reilly

Waking to find an M.P. standing over his cot and bellowing "Where's that guy Prendergast?" was a shock to 1st Sgt. Joseph Prendergast but when he blinked and found the M.P. was none other than his life-time pal, Sgt. Eugene Reilly—that was one for the books.

The meeting, even though it was in the middle of the night and only of an hour's duration was "the best thing that's happened to me since I've been overseas," Joe wrote to his wife, the former Miss Edith Bergamini of town, last week. Joe has been overseas a year—currently in Germany—and seeing Gene was the first occasion for meeting any one he knew, in all that time because he had been switched from the outfit he trained with, before going abroad.

The boys who went through Belleville High together and were inseparable companions in civilian life, had corresponded since they went overseas, with little hope of seeing each other until chance gave Gene an opportunity to interrupt his pal's night's sleep.

In Ninth Army

Joseph is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Prendergast of 33 Belleville avenue. A member of the 35th infantry division attached to the Ninth army, he is seeing plenty of action around Essen and Hanover. Twenty-seven years old, he entered the service in June, 1942, training at Fort Meade Md. and Camp McCoy, Wis., before going to France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Holland with the Third Army. There he was transferred to the Ninth and subsequently marched into Germany. He has a brother, Edward, 24, chief machinist mate who has been in the Navy seven years and was stationed at Pearl Harbor for two years before war was declared. He is now on a destroyer in the South Pacific and when last heard from, had returned from the Iwo Jima invasion.

Gene, the son of Mrs. Rosa Reilly of 463 Washington avenue, is doing everything from capturing AWOL carrier pigeons to

The proposed salary guide for teachers in the Belleville school system will be explained and discussed at a public hearing called for the tax payers, on Monday evening, April 30. The meeting which will be held in the auditorium of School No. 8, has been called by the board of education since adoption of the guide will mean an increase in the school budget over a period of years, which may be expected to reflect in the tax rate.

Salvage Reaches 75 Tons In March; Highest for the Year

Salvage collections have steadily increased since the first of the year, with 75 tons turned in during March. Ronald G. Brunner, Defense council coordinator, said yesterday.

While the rise is almost entirely due to the emphasis on waste paper salvage, a comparison shows that there were 40 tons of all types of salvage collected in January and 60 tons in February.

Waste paper leads the list with a gain of 30,000 pounds during March for a month's total of 131,390 pounds. Scrap iron and steel collections are also up, with 8,100 pounds turned in last month compared with 1,260 in February and 1,400 in January.

The tin can collection was down 4,000 pounds in March, however, with 8,450 pounds as against 13,725 in February and 4,000 in January. Other items collected to make up the total include non-ferrous metal, rags, rubber and storage batteries.

Philip Dettelbach was chairman of the citizens committee which compiled the guide with Elsbree as consultant. Other members were Ralph Allaire, Rev. Peter R. Deekenbach, James R. Lampman, Frank McFadden, Burt Johnson, general supervisor of education, and Miss Kathryn Conklin. Miss Rose Simons and Edw. Tschell, teachers.

Full text of the proposed guide is published in this issue on the editorial page, second section.

Police Charge Carolan With Two Traffic Violations

James B. Carolan of 5 Union terrace was taken in custody by the Belleville Police at his home on Tuesday night, charged with leaving the scene of the accident and careless driving.

Carolan is accused by police of hitting a traffic light standard on the northeast corner of Washington and Belleville avenues on Tuesday night. A former member of the fire department, he was appointed by Mayor Williams on June 7, 1943 and served until December 1, 1943.

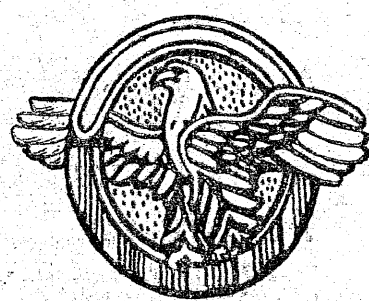

It is also alleged that Carolan was involved in a serious accident in Bergen county in November, 1943, following which he was confined to the hospital for several weeks.

When they first arrived on the Continent early in August, they were assigned to help in the battle of Brest. They formed a tight cordon around the city as American forces closed in and kept Germans from infiltrating American lines. They cared for prisoners taken and escorted them to enclosure. When the city fell, this job was their biggest one for awhile.

Moved French

Their next big job was taking charge of the movement of the French government in exile when it returned to France, landing at a northern port and moving on to Paris.

Since then the battalion has maintained order, directed traffic and patrolled most of the Communications Zone base section in which they are stationed.

Twenty-seven years old and a sergeant, Gene entered the service in August 1942 and trained at Camp Blanding, Fla., Battle Creek and Fort Custer, Michigan, before going overseas last May. He is a graduate of Belleville High school and was employed by National Grain Yeast company in civilian life.

Lady Luck Dogged this Trail—

Running a gauntlet of fire from German 88's, mortars, snipers, and airplanes, Pvt. Xavier R. Carleo of 750 Washington avenue was one of sixteen ammunition bearers of Company M, 334th Infantry on the Rhine, who experienced a "rugged" four and a half hours.

The doughboys had just finished flushing hidden Nazi from the dark cellars of small rubble-strewn Rhineland town when ordered to get a day's supply of ammunition from a dump 1800 yards away. They were accompanied by two members of a mine clearing detail from Headquarters company, Third Battalion, 334th Infantry.

Starting down the narrow, tree-lined road, the detail had gone less than 200 yards when ferries opened up with 88's and 120mm mortar fire. They returned to the chateau from which they had started for momentary shelter from the flying shrapnel.

Persistence Did It

As soon as the shelling ceased, the doughboys again started on their mission. They had reached the courtyard in the center of town when Jerry caught a second sight of the ammunition detail. A barrage smashed through the walls of every house in the vicinity. This time the men protected themselves in the cellar of a nearby house.

After a brief group discussion, they decided to get through to the ammunition dump at all costs. They ran for the cover of a grove of spruce trees. When they reached the edge of the wood, a sniper fired his burp gun at them. Using the protection of trees, they zigzagged past the snipers to the ammunition dump. Here they took cover in previously dug foxholes.

In a short while the road had been cleared. Ammunition was loaded in a jeep, and back to the chateau. The detail then retraced its steps, and headed back for the woods. They had gone about 200 yards into the woods when they heard the whine of diving planes. Two ME 109's came in strafing. The doughboys crawled deep under the cover of low brush. Just as they arrived in town, they were again caught in a barrage of 88 and mortar fire. After ten minutes, the men decided to double time the remaining 500 yards to the chateau.

Miss Sturges has been a member of the Cadet Nurse corps for fifteen months and is now stationed at St. Barnabas' hospital, Newark. She graduated from Belleville High school in 1943.

Reilly, now in Germany with an engineer regiment in Patton's Third Army, was graduated from Belleville High school in 1942 and attended Stevens Institute of Technology before enlisting in June, 1943. He went overseas in March, 1944 and spent some time in England, arrived in France soon after D-Day and was in Luxembourg before going into Germany.

Are You Buying War Bonds?

Island "X" . . .

... AND JERSEY CITY

More than 48,000 telephones were in use aboard the ships taking part in landing operations against a Jap-held island in the Pacific recently—nearly as many telephones as there are in Jersey City.

This was just one naval operation. When you multiply its needs by those of other naval units on both sides of the globe, and add the tremendous requirements of the Army—you realize why telephone manufacturers are building almost entirely for war needs. You realize, too, why so little new equipment is available here at home for new telephone connections, except for essential uses.

Wounded

Cpl. Milton Dickerman

Cpl. Milton Dickerman of 16 May street, reported wounded in action in Germany on March 19, is recuperating in a hospital in France, according to a recent letter received by his wife, the former Miss Shirley Helling of town.

A member of the 37th tank battalion, he was wounded when his tank received a direct hit. He holds the Bronze Star for heroism in saving eight members of a tank crew who were trapped when their tank caught on fire while in action in France.

The corporal is 27 years old and was in the shoe business with his father in New York City before entering the service in May, 1942. He went overseas eight months later and has been in England, France and Germany. He was married in July, 1943.

Christen W & T Hospital Plane

WAR BONDS

A committee of four from the Labor-Management group of Wallace and Tiernan company, incorporated, christened a hospital ambulance plane "Reporting Sir," the name of the company's servicemen's bulletin, at the Douglas Aircraft plant in Oklahoma City, Okla., yesterday. The plane and five ambulances are sponsored by the W & T employees by going over their quota in the Sixth War Loan drive.

The committee shown above is composed of Miss Grace Vitillo, treasurer; Elwood P. Russell, representing management; Miss Helen Gerstenmeier, secretary; and Thomas A. Grant, representing labor. They were also invited by the Douglas Aircraft corporation to take part in ceremonies opening the plant's Seventh War Loan drive. The ceremonies took place at 11 o'clock yesterday morning for the day shift and at 7:30 p.m. for the night shift.

Commissioned

F. O. Eugene Matus

Flight Officer Eugene Matus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julien E. Matus of 27 Linden avenue, has been commissioned a second lieutenant and received the wings of an aerial navigator of the Army Air forces in the 29th graduating class at the San Marcos Army Air field, San Marcos, Texas. Twenty years old, he graduated from Belleville High school in 1941 and was employed by the Crucible Steel company in Harrison before entering the service on March 8, 1943. He trained in Miami, Fla., Seymour Johnson Field, Miss., where he graduated as an aircraft mechanic; Keesler Field, Miss., Birmingham Southern college, Moultrie, Ga., Maxwell Field, Ala. and Panama City, before receiving his wings in Texas. He is now at Amarillo Field in Texas for further training.

Pasquariello, Short Stop, May Have Full Season

Bellboy Ace Held Out of Next Navy Quota; Takash to Miss Opener Tomorrow

The Bellboys will open the season tomorrow against Boys Vocational of Bloomfield at Clearman Field, smug in the knowledge that Vic Pasquariello slated to leave for the Navy within the next ten days, will not now be called until the next quota. He has a possibility of 70 days grace and if he is not called for 50 days, he will have time to complete the season.

However, Frank Takash, regular second baseman, will not be in the opener. Stricken with scarlet fever, he will be out of play for six weeks, which means a loss for the infield and in hitting power. In two exhibition games against suburban schools, however, the Bellboys took both Glen Ridge and West Orange. They beat Glen Ridge, runner-up last year in the state championship and with most of their veterans back, by a score of 4-1, showing Belleville's excellent material.

After the first inning in which there were a few errors with the opponents scoring, the Bellboys quieted down. Adolph Marshall was the pitcher who got this bad luck. He worked the first three innings Lou Vitelli the fourth and fifth and Herman Lubertazzi, the sixth and last in the six inning game. Takash and Harry Roessler shared the hitting honors with two each.

Shut Out West Orange
The Bellboys shut out a tough West Orange nine with a score of 2-0. West Orange got three hits in the regulation nine inning play. Once again Vitelli turned in a good performance. In his four innings he allowed but one hit while Lubertazzi gave up two in four innings and Marshall none in one inning. In this game the power hits were made mainly by Passamanti, Greco and Costello. Pasquariello made a beautiful stop in deep short but was unable to get the man out at first base.

BELLBOY BITS—In tribute to the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Bellboys called of their Saturday exhibition game. Jack Natale played well at second base against West Orange while Takash was ill. Pasquariello spiked himself while trying to field a ball. Pat Raccioppi made a bare-handed catch in the game against Glen Ridge. Pasquariello and Roessler control the inner and outer parts of the diamond, respectively. Frank Mara, last year's first baseman, umpired both practice games. Les Del Tufo, Jerry Raccioppi and Roy Hunt did the base coaching for Belleville.

Air Forces Hurler

Bill Farmer

Bill Farmer, son of Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. Wayne R. Farmer of 20 Tiona avenue is the top choice for number one twirler on the 1945 Lincoln AAF Wings baseball club at Lincoln Army Air Field, Neb.

The former Dartmouth '42 hurler pitched three years for the Big Green compiling 12 wins and losing 8. During his sophomore year season at Dartmouth, Farmer played first base and batted in fourth spot. However, he has shown his best efforts as a moundsman.

Upon graduation in the spring of 1942, Farmer reported to Petersburg in the strong Class C Virginia league. Joining the club in mid-season, the youthful hurler copped 11 victories and lost 5, four of his wins were by the shutout route.

Out of baseball since 1942, Farmer has displayed the same style in spring drills that carried him to wins in previous campaigns. The Wings are leaning heavily upon the Eastern athlete to aid them in maintaining their outstanding record in service league competition.

Farmer enlisted in June, 1942 and did his stretch with the Virginia league before he was activated the following December. He was taking his advance training as a bombardier at Midland, Texas, when he was in an accident which smashed his knee, three weeks before he was to get his wings. The injury washed him out of active combat and he is now doing personnel work at the Lincoln field.

He married the former Miss Anna Jane Bender of Millersville, Pa., in March, 1943, and the couple with their five month old son, Wayne William, is living in Lincoln.

Red Cross Radio Messages are Restricted to Emergencies

Home Service Secretary Gives Explanation of Help Available

This is the first of a series of articles on what Red Cross Home Service can and cannot do for families of servicemen and women. It is of value to clip and save for future reference.

During the past months, several inquiries have been received by the Belleville chapter regarding what Red Cross can and cannot do concerning communications and emergency messages for service men and women outside the continental United States. Mrs. Muriel Taggart, Home Service secretary, has reported.

In the early stages of the war, it was possible for the Red Cross to send announcements via Army radio to servicemen overseas. However, with its acceleration, emergency messages were given priority and now consume all available wireless time. Some of the most frequent questions asked and the answers given are these; she said.

Q: My son is overseas and his wife just had a baby. Can Red Cross send him an announcement?

A: Red Cross can notify your son only if there are complications such as serious illness or death. Otherwise, the usual channels of civilian communication will have to be used.

Q: Last night there was a death in our immediate family. Can Red Cross notify my daughter in the WAC overseas?

A: Yes. Through Army radio, the emergency message will be relayed overseas and your daughter will be tactfully notified by the Red Cross field director in her area, or by her chaplain. However, there are occasions when regular V-mail will be received overseas before our emergency message due to possible transportation difficulties of the field director in reaching your daughter, the movement of troops or other unforeseen circumstances. So that your daughter won't worry about additional facts, tell us the cause of death and other supplemental information about the welfare of the other members of your family.

Q: What messages does the Red Cross consider as emergency messages?

A: Home Service considers as emergencies those messages regarding death, serious illness, birth (when there are no commercial facilities available or when there are complications such as illness or death), and urgent personal and family problems in which time is a vital factor.

Q: How are these emergency messages forwarded overseas?

A: Home Service wires Red Cross National headquarters in Washington requesting that if possible the message be sent overseas. From there, the request is forwarded to the War Department in the Pentagon building.

where the message is coded. When Army or Navy radio time is available (depending upon military or naval needs), Red Cross is allotted time. Some days messages are radioed momentarily, at other times depending upon circumstances. These coded messages are sent overseas by the Army Signal Corps or Navy communications where they are received, decoded, and forwarded to the Red Cross field director.

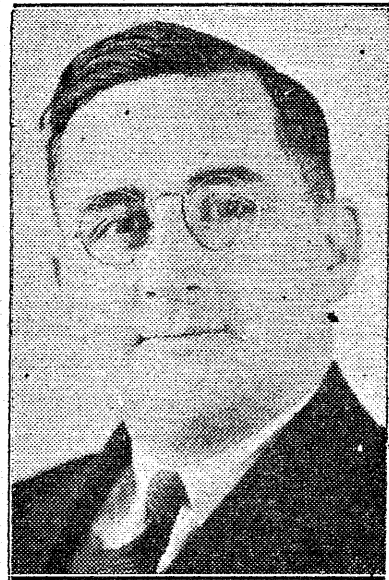

Q: I haven't heard from my son in three months and I'm worried about him. Is there some way you can learn if he's all right?

A: We can learn why you are not hearing from your son by writing via regular V-mail to the field director who may be able to get in touch with him and send back a reply. A delay of from three to six months in receiving mail from overseas, however, is not unusual. Your son may have been transferred to another base and for his own safety is not allowed to send mail until he reaches his destination. In such instances six months may elapse. After certain duties or periods of combat your son may be too tired to write or may not have the time or facilities for writing. He may feel that he has no "news" that can be sent and thus postpones writing. Ships or planes carrying mail may be lost. A service man assigned to a ship can receive and post mail only when the ship is in port. Field directors giving vital services requested by the servicemen themselves cannot give preference to non-emergency request and Army and Navy radio cannot be used to transmit non-emergency inquiries and messages.

Q: My baby was born two months ago and we have used all available means to notify my husband overseas of the birth. The messages don't seem to be getting through. Is there something you can do?

A: Yes. We can ask National headquarters in Washington to send an emergency message via Army radio to the Red Cross field director in your husband's area. He will deliver the message. However, the increase in the number of troops, the rapid movement of them, and the distances involved create serious difficulties in locating servicemen. Troops in some areas are constantly on the move. They may be as far as 200 miles from the field director's headquarters. Often there is no means of transportation for the field director unless he can "thumb a ride." In view of all these conditions it is not possible sometimes to deliver messages promptly. In combat areas the communication difficulties make it impossible for Red Cross to guarantee the delivery of a message. There are times when the location of forces stationed in a certain theater of operation is a military secret in order to safeguard your husband. In addition to our emergency message, keep writing to your husband at his last known address.

STAMP EXHIBIT AT LIBRARY

Belleville Club Members Loan Collections For Representative Display

Now on display at the Free Public library is an exhibit arranged by members of the Belleville Stamp club. Shown in six large frames, the handwork of member Lewis Bobel, are selected stamps characteristic of the collecting interests of the various exhibitors.

They have also been chosen with a view to their attractiveness to the non-collector, and for their educational value to the school child. In addition, there is an exhibit of philatelic accessories which has been planned and assembled by L. E. Padelford, a member from Arlington.

The material already mounted, and the names of its exhibitors are: British Empire world map with a stamp from each colony and dominion; Gladys Reyle; trial essays of U. S. stamps; George Redlin; philatelic oddities, Lewis Bobel; U. S. special issues, Don O'Brien; U. S. commemoratives in blocks, E. W. Meyer; first-day sendings of the recent U. S. flag stamps, Clifford George; commemorative stamps of the Pan American Union, Rev. M. J. Whitehead; 19th century European stamps, Gabriel Arakelian; air mail stamps, George Snow; stamps of Lichtenstein, specialized, William Webb. It is expected that several other members will also add material.

The Belleville Stamp club meets at the Grace Baptist church on the second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month. All collectors in the area are cordially welcomed at any meeting.

The President

The world is stunned. More than the loss of any other human being, the sudden passing of President Roosevelt, in this hour of mounting triumph, comes, as a staggering personal shock to millions of suffering humanity all over the earth who looked to him to build a peace of justice and righteousness on the ashes of the world's holocaust. Not since Lincoln was assassinated on the eve of Reconstruction has America suffered such a grievous loss, such a national calamity.

He was a casualty of the war. The gay, buoyant spirit, the abounding health, the indomitable will to victory, all were crushed under the awful burdens of the Presidency at the time of war. Never since Lincoln has a President carried on his shoulders the colossal responsibilities that were his. At last, as American armies close in for the final blow to the foe he hated, his gallant spirit succumbed.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was one of America's greatest. More than any other American, save possibly Washington and Lincoln, he left his mark on the lives of his countrymen; and the effect of his acts and doctrines will be felt for generations to come. The central figure in the most tumultuous storms this nation has witnessed since the Civil War, he commanded even from his enemies the utmost respect for his Americanism, his humanitarianism and his courage. Were it not for his foresighted leadership, American armies would not be riding in triumph today on the road to Berlin, and the American fleet would not be knocking at the gates of Japan. The ironic ruthlessness of death was never more mocking than in its denial to this man the crowning triumph of seeing our final victory.

A great man has passed from among us; but even in this hour of national disaster we must not forget the stern duty that faces us all. There is a new President. Around Mr. Truman we must rally our forces of steadfastness and loyalty. To him must go our unquestioning support as he grimly faces what is probably the most gigantic task that ever confronted a human being. President Truman is our new leader, and the prayers of unnumbered millions all over this earth will go up in supplication that in the fateful days ahead he shall be guided by God's wisdom and courage.

Though a great leader has died, America marches unswervingly toward its goal—victory, and a world dedicated to peace.

It Can Be Done

There is a striking parallel between the conditions facing the United Nations as they met this month at San Francisco and the circumstances under which 158 years ago next month delegates met at Philadelphia for the convention which produced the American Constitution. Those who have misgivings about the success of the San Francisco conference would do well to read once more the story of our own Constitution's birth.

One historian gives this summing up of the newly-born nation in May, 1787:

"The American people had experienced a long and destructive war; they were just beginning to emerge from a severe economic depression following a war-time boom; their normal peace-time commerce with Great Britain and the West Indies was disorganized. Economic 'heresy' was abroad in the land, in at least one instance taking the form of armed insurrection. Political agitation was rampant. There was hostility to government and a marked aversion to taxation, whether with representation or without. In the minds of many, life, liberty and property were far from safe. Each state was an imperium in imperio; public credit was demoralized and private credit lacking in confidence; the national currency was practically worthless; the prestige of the government was practically non-existent at home and abroad; the public will seemed to be paralyzed."

Moreover, the convention was convoked, not to draw up a new Constitution, but merely to tinker with the existing Articles of Confederation. Beyond that it had no authority, as the separate states were even more suspicious of each other than are the nations of today. When the delegates disregarded their instructions and went ahead with the formulation of an entirely new Constitution, they faced as their greatest problem the discovery of a formula that would provide an acceptable distribution of powers between states and the central national authority—the eternal problem of sovereignty.

Again, just as today the smaller nations are clamant for their rights, so in 1787 the smaller American states fought against domination by the larger. New Jersey was leader of a small-state plan to offset the Virginians' championship of large-state supremacy. Hamilton disgustedly commented, "It is a contest for power, not for liberty." But the larger states, although they had power enough to shelve the small-state plan, also had sufficient statesmanship to meet the small states' objections, and, by adopting the device of equal state representation in the Senate, partly resolved the small states' misgivings.

Surely the task at San Francisco is no more difficult than that which confronted the men at Philadelphia. Mr. Stettinius says the only job before the nations at San Francisco is "to prepare a charter of a world organization to preserve the peace in the future which can be submitted to the member nations for adoption." In the light of our own experience this problem does not seem insuperable, especially since the peoples of the world are longing for peace with a fervor that far surpasses the desire for American unity in the summer of 1787.

Boon For Brides

That bugbear of the bride, how to time the cooking of a dinner so that all the dishes will be done at the same time, has at last been banished—and, of course, by a man.

A West Orange man, W. L. Maxson, stimulated doubtless by proximity to the former home of Edison, is the inventor of this new development in culinary art, which is expected to save more marriages than all the meddling mothers-in-law can endanger. Maxson has invented a system by which all the dishes for a dinner will be cooked their varying lengths except for the last five minutes, and deep frozen. Steak (when that comes back) string beans and other vegetables, too, if you want them, will be on a plate, ready to eat for that brief final cooking. All the bride will have to do is put the plate in a small, special oven, go into the living room and listen interestedly while her husband tells of his triumphs at the office, and then serve him his dinner. The rest of the evening will be like a honeymoon.

Mr. Maxson is now quite understandably serving the army and navy with these pre-cooked meals. After the war airlines and other conveyances will have them. This, too, will be no mean boon to mankind, because anything that will improve the food on air-planes and railroad diners will win huzzas.

But it is among the brides that Maxson will win his enduring fame. Just as Dr. Hall, by his books on the care of infants, is probably the scientist best known among young mothers, so the name of Maxson will be enshrined in the hearts of brides. Savarin and Escoffier make the mouths of gourmets water, but women forever will acclaim Maxson as the man who took arithmetic out of cooking.

The Dark Depths

Man has been called "a fragment of God", but that godliness is only a fragment of man is revealed in all its hideous truth by the photographs of American prisoners of war liberated by our armies in Germany. There is evil in man, too—a great force of evil, which apparently it took Fascism to make plain to us once again.

Theologians used to preach of evil, but this dire doctrine became less fashionable. The last decade, however, has shown us not far beneath his thin veneer of civilization man is a ravening beast, capable of iniquities that are the very embodiment of evil.

It is not enough to say that evil is a trait of the enemy alone. Evil is in man himself—a terrible, dark force, present and menacing, even when it is latent. And while we condemn the Nazis and the Japanese, let us not imagine that this horrid thing is not a part of our own natures. Every human being is capable of cruelties, either big or little; in Germany unfortunately it has been brought to the surface, glorified, organized and made an instrument of state. That is why the Beast of Evil has prowled over Europe for a decade.

When the war is over we may well take stock of ourselves anew. The churches, the sociologists, the statesmen, all might ponder on this shocking truth that the Nazis have paraded before us. Let us not be smug about the stature of man. Let us not again look with satisfaction on the state of civilization. Mechanical gadgets do not measure man's progress up from the slime. Wealth is not a yardstick of man's growth. When, in a generation, a great civilized people like the Germans can plunge from their position in society into the state they are in today, the world has no good reason for feeling complacent about the progress of man.

Text of Salary Guide Recommendations

The recommendations of the salary study committee as set forth in its written report are reproduced herewith, with the exception of tabulated figures which are summarized.—Ed. note.

The present policies of the board of education are not altogether clear regarding the minimum and maximum salaries intended for teachers. One might infer perhaps from an examination of the salaries now paid that successful high school teachers might look forward to an ultimate salary of $3,200 and elementary teachers to $3,000.

The interpretation of teachers, however, of the salary policies now in force varies widely and shows much confusion on their part. It is easy to understand why boards of education in New Jersey have been hesitant during the past decade about establishing hard and fast salary schedules for their employees. Not only have the times been most uncertain but the litigation bearing on teachers' salaries has caused boards of education to be exceedingly cautious about adopting and announcing wage policies. This situation has been disturbing to the board of education as well as to the teachers in Belleville.

The desirability therefore of reaching a mutual understanding regarding salary arrangements seems clear to the salary committee and in order to avoid controversy over whether or not "salary schedules" are contracts, it is the judgment of the committee that the board of education should avoid use of the word schedule and specify clearly when adopting a plan that it is not to be considered as a contract between the employee and the board of education and further to specify that whatever arrangement is adopted, amended, revised or abrogated by the board of education at any time.

No Satisfactory Alternative

While admittedly such qualifying statements provide no guarantee to teachers as to the future policies of the board of education there is no satisfactory alternative. Most teachers are interested in knowing what the plans of the board of education are in respect to salaries. Barring unforeseen crises and financial depressions beyond the control of the board of education, there would be a moral obligation if a guide were adopted to "live up" to the levels established. But in the event of economic distress on the part of the citizens of Belleville and reduced income from state and other sources, it is not unreasonable to assume that increases in teachers' salaries along with other wages, should be halted.

It is therefore, the responsibility of the board of education to provide for modifications in the guide to meet such conditions. Similarly, it is the committee's opinion that if the present inflationary trend should continue, some upgrading of salaries or additional temporary compensation may be necessary over and beyond anything included in the recommended salary guide.

In other words, as much assurance should be provided teachers with regard to future salary policies as can be given without obligating the taxpayers beyond what is deemed prudent. If the present policy of inviting citizens and teachers to study the salary problem jointly were followed when future problems are encountered, a minimum of dissatisfaction and misunderstanding will arise.

The Salary Plan

The salary plan recommended for classroom teachers:

- 1—For those with less than three years study beyond high school, $1,200 to $2,200 in twelve steps.
- 2—For those with three years study beyond high school, $1,300 to 2,600 in fifteen steps.
- 3—For those holding a Bachelor's degree, $1,400 to $3,000 in eighteen steps.
- 4—For those holding a Master's degree, $1,500 to $3,400 in 21 steps.
- 5—For those with one year's study beyond a Master's degree, $1,600 to $3,800 in 24 steps.

The guide is based on the principle that teachers should be paid according to their qualifications rather than according to the teaching positions which they hold. An elementary teacher as well as a high school teacher with a master's degree could, under the proposed guide, move gradually from her present salary to a maximum salary of $3,400. Similarly, teachers with two years of approved training beyond the bachelor's degree could earn a maximum salary of $3,800 regardless of the teaching positions they occupy.

The incentives for professional study are not limited to the maximum salaries established. When ment could be applied to all the cases involved, it would be desirable to remove those existing differences which are unwarranted and start anew. But the committee is agreed that this is not practical and that to attempt it is to increase the cost of operating the proposed guide to the point where the town would be unwilling, if not unable, to bear the tax burden.

Operation Of Guide

Total teaching experience or experience in Belleville alone for example, if used as a measure of qualifications would suggest that scores of teachers be immediately elevated to the new maximum salaries since many of them have been in the employ of the board of education for fifteen or twenty years. A compromise would be to adjust these salaries over a five or ten year period. The committee is unanimous in its belief that while this would remove inequalities, it is not feasible from a financial point of view. Hence it is proposed:

- 1—To put teachers at the step on the guide, in the classification indicated by their training, which is next above their present salary, provided the increase called for is not less than $75.
- 2—To encourage the administration to bring in new teachers at or near the minimum salary for the qualifications held, but to permit sufficient flexibility in appointing new teachers to enable the board of education to attract competent and well qualified candidates.
- 3—That an appraisal of all academic and professional credits earned by teachers in normal schools, colleges and universities and other training institutions up to the time of the adoption of this guide, be made by a committee to be appointed by the superintendent of schools with the approval of the board of education; and that the qualifications as determined by this committee be made the basis for classification of the personnel on the salary guide.
- 4—That eligibility for promotion to a higher classification shall depend upon approved study only.
- 5—That the board of education upon the recommendation of the superintendent of schools, will withhold increments from teachers whose work is judged to be unsatisfactory.

Estimated Cost

The committee has given careful consideration to the cost implications of their proposals and has prepared a careful estimate of the annual salary budgets required to care for 189 teachers during the period from 1945-46 to 1963-64. It was necessary to make certain assumptions with regard to the size of the staff, age of retirement, the beginning salary paid to new entrants, and the number of teachers who will move from (Continued on Page 4 Second Section) lower to a higher salary classification. The estimates will have more meaning to the reader if the assumptions are fully understood. In brief, the latter are as follows:

Text of Salary Guide

1—That the size of the present teaching staff (189 teachers) will remain constant throughout the period covered, 1945-46 to 1963-64.

2—That teachers will retire at the end of the school year during which their 66th birthday falls.

3—That new entrants replacing teachers who retire will be brought in at $1,600 or the third step of the bachelor's degree level.

4—That an average of seven teachers per year over and beyond those retiring would for one reason or another, be separated from the school system and would be replaced at an annual saving of $500 per teacher.

5—That approximately one-fourth of the teaching staff would remain in their present classification and that the remaining teachers would move to a higher classification once every six years and be eligible to go to a higher maximum.

6—That present members of the teaching staff would be transferred to that point on the proposed salary scale which is next above their present salary assuming the increment involved was not less than $75. In the case of the latter the teacher would be advanced one additional step.

The salary budget for 1944-45 is $376,375. By 1950-51 it is estimated at $459,925; 1955-56, $501,850; 1963-64, $492,225.)

Peak Load In 1959-60

As the reader will observe, the increases necessitated to meet the requirements of the new guide continue during the first fifteen years and the peak load falls in the school year 1959-60 after which a steady decline in cost is anticipated. The estimated increase in the salary budget for the peak year over the present budget is $65 percent.

This percentage increase is without question a large one. It is, however, due almost entirely to one fact and that is the exceptionally low average level of salaries which now prevails in Belleville. Part II of this report contains detailed tables showing the median salaries paid to elementary and high school teachers in several New Jersey cities. The unfavorable position of Belleville is one of the most striking facts in these tables.

An illustration of how Belleville stands in relation to other communities will perhaps be illuminating at this point. The median salary of high school teachers in Belleville at the present time is $2,375. In East Orange in 1942-43 it was $3,088, in Montclair it was $3,750, in Passaic it was $3,824, in Kearny, $2,729. Similarly, in the elementary school the median salary of Belleville teachers now is $1,800 whereas the comparable figure for East Orange in 1942-43 was $2,654; for Montclair, $2,684; for Passaic, $2,636; and for Kearny, $2,622. In short, there is considerable disparity in the salary levels of teachers in Belleville and those obtaining in competing communities. In several instances the differences will not be overcome by the scales proposed. To improve the position of the Belleville teachers, therefore, and bring them into line involves a substantial increase in the salary budget. Fortunately, the proposed plan allows a long period of time in which to correct the present unsatisfactory salary situation.

Compare With Present

Another way of testing the reasonableness of the guide as far as the cost factor is concerned is to compare it with the present practices and policies of the board of education. While the latter are not clearly stated anywhere and have been variously interpreted, it should be helpful to venture one or two assumptions and project the cost of these premises in order to make a comparison with the estimated costs of the committee's proposals. If the board of education were to elevate by $100 increments (a policy pursued during recent years) teachers in the high school to a maximum of $3,200 and elementary teachers to a maximum of $3,000 (which is only $100 above the highest salary now paid to some elementary teachers) the cost of meeting these scales would be:

(In 1950-51 the guide would call for a $650 increase; 1955-56, decrease of $50; 1960-61, increase of $4,450 and 1963-64, $13,025.)

The differences in the estimated budgets for the two schedules are not great for any single year. During the peak year, 1959-60, the difference is less than $4,000 and in some years the present arrangements, if continued, would cost slightly more than the proposed scales. This is because under the committee's plan all teachers will be eligible for the same maximum salaries, the upper salary levels being reserved for those whose qualifications are high. The cumulative difference in the two plans amounts to $39,525 the proposed guide being the more generous.
