"Buddy Poppies" Made By Disabled Veterans Carry Only Copyrighted Label

In nearly every state, during the past several months, disabled veterans have been busily engaged in making Buddy Poppies that will be sold throughout the country prior to Memorial Day. In Belleville, Commander A. M. Resciniti of V. F. W. Post No. 275 announced that the sale of Buddy Poppies will take place from now until Memorial Day.

According to Commander Resciniti, the Buddy Poppy carries a copyright label on which are printed the words "Made by Disabled Veterans". The public is warned to avoid purchase of poppies that will not be identified with the government registered trademark of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Ever since 1922, when the V.F.W. conducted the first nationwide sale of Buddy Poppies, the Veterans Administration has permitted disabled veterans under government care to assemble the materials that are needed to create the official V.F.W. Buddy Poppy.

Occupational Therapy
Veterans Administration officials have always regarded the making of Buddy Poppies by disabled veterans as a valuable form of occupational therapy treatment. The experience is regarded as a morale booster for convalescent patients, who benefit from the psychological reaction of proving useful to themselves, and to the cause which the V.F.W. Buddy Poppy represents.

Aside from the fact that the disabled veterans are paid by the V.F.W. for their labors, the opportunity to earn the wages they are paid definitely stimulates their recovery, according to VA rehabilitation experts.

in the survey at $1,311 and $1,546 respectively.

On a per capita basis, every Belleville man, woman and child had a "spendable income" of $1,564, representing greatly increased earnings over the 1949 per capita income of $1,468. The average Belleville family income was also higher than it ever has been, $5,542 as compared to $5,335 in 1949, the record year in previous surveys.

Retail Sales Higher

The town's increased earnings brought increased spending with retail dealers here, reflected in total annual retail sales here in 1950 of $20,034,000, a business gain of nearly six million dollars over 1949 when total retail sales here reached $14,433,000. It was on a basis of combined earnings and spending that Belleville was given its "quality of market" index rating of 100, eight points higher than last year.

The Sales Management survey, based on income tax returns and on final data of the 1950 U. S. Census of business and population as well as bank statements and commercial reports, placed Belleville twelfth in Essex County, which showed the second greatest concentrations of income of any county in the nation. South Orange, with an average family income of $12,632, topped Essex County and stood out as the fourth richest town in the country, excelled only by three towns. Millburn families had an average income of $10,465; Maplewood, $9,648; Montclair, $9,367, and West Orange, $8,192. Nutley's average family income of $7,837 exceeded those of Bloomfield, $7,279, Newark, $6,554 and Belleville, $5,542.

Compared to Cities
Belleville families enjoyed incomes comparable to the average families of any great city in the country. The survey showed the following averages: New York City, $5,922; Chicago, $6,004; Los Angeles, $5,822; Pittsburgh, $6,399; Philadelphia, $6,174; Boston, $6,154; Miami, $5,192; Palm Beach, Fla., $7,760, and Dallas, $5,537. In President Truman's home town of Independence, Mo., the average family income was $4,278.

Suburban Essex had the second largest average family incomes in the nation, exceeded only by Westchester County, N. Y.

Scarsdale topped the entire nation as its "richest town", with family incomes averaging $14,079, while other Westchester towns reported by the survey showed: Bronxville, $13,375; Larchmont, $13,134 and Rye, $12,342.

In the Michigan industrial belt, Grosse Pointe, the Detroit suburb, was richest with an average income of $11,712. Beverly Hills, the home of many Hollywood stars, topped Belleville with an average of $10,809.

For effective buying income per family, Essex County is the third richest in the nation, being topped only by Westchester and Nassau counties in the New York Metropolitan area. On a county level, Essex average family income is $6,901, while Westchester's average is $9,982 and Everyone knows that Pontiac is famous for dependability. If you want personal confirmation, talk to a few owners who have driven Pontiacs over the years. You'll be surprised how many say: "Pontiac is the most dependable car in America!"

That's an important reason why the 1951 Pontiac is in such tremendous demand. True, it's the most beautiful thing on wheels—a joy to drive and ride in. But Pontiac dependability is convincing a lot of people to make Pontiac their first choice.

Long, trouble-free operation is a big reason why dollar for dollar, you can't beat a Pontiac! Come in and get the facts and figures that prove it.

Completed Cathedral Plans Television Of Services

Belleville Pastor Named To Priests Executive Committee By Archbishop

Msgr. Joseph P. Kelly of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church has been named a member of the Priests Executive Committee for the completion of the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart in Newark by Most Rev. Thomas Joseph Walsh, Archbishop of Newark, who has ordered work resumed on the structure to have it completed in time for the centennial celebration of the Archdiocese in August, 1958.

Foundations Started in 1898

Paul C. Reilly, of West Orange, has received the contract to prepare working blueprints for the final phase of construction which began more than a half century ago when foundations were begun in 1898. The general plans of the original architect, Jeremiah O'Rourke, and his successor, Isaac E. Dimars, will be followed by Mr. Reilly, who was a partner of the late Mr. Dimars.

Since work on the cathedral was interrupted shortly after its exterior was completed in 1928, at a cost of more than $3,250,000, radio and television, radiant heating and many other scientific developments have become a part of everyday life. So, in his blueprints, Reilly will include a radiant heating system for the terrazzo floors and both radio and television outlets, special lighting to allow for TV broadcasting of services, as well as a sound amplification system, all within a Gothic structure which embodies the pure lines of builders of the Middle Ages.

Graduates of Rome

The contract for Reilly's services was signed several days ago. Another contract for design of the furnishings went to Prof. Gonippo Raggi and his two sons, Louis L. and G. Ernest Raggi. Professor Raggi is an honor graduate of the St. Luke's Academy of Design in Rome.

The special lighting, heating and sound equipment, Reilly said, will not clash in any respect with the traditional austerity of ecclesiastical design. To prevent drafts in the capacious interior of the main church, a series of conventional heating units will supplement the radiant system. Erected on a landscaped full-block site bounded by Park Avenue, Sixth Avenue, Ridge Street and Clifton Avenue, the cathedral is 365 feet long, 165 feet wide and has area of 45,000 square feet. The exterior is of Vermont granite. The interior will be of Indiana limestone.

Unusual Towers

The central spire rising 260 feet was built with one of the most intricate complements of buttresses in the world. Two diagonal towers rising 232 feet—28 feet higher than those of Notre Dame Cathedral—are a departure from ecclesiastical architecture in which the spires are squared with the base.

Six thousand persons will be accommodated in pews and cathedral chairs. The plans provide for eight chapels, contrasted to four in the St. Louis Cathedral, one of the more recent American cathedrals.

Financing of the project here was a prodigious task of five generations under four Bishops and Archbishop Walsh.

which found the weather ideal for swimming in the brackish water around the anchored ship.

The operation of the ship by the veterans' post has been one of almost continued grief since it was obtained from the Navy after World War II. The first trouble came about when they anchored it in the Passaic and charged admission to go aboard. Then the Essex County Park Commission refused them permission to have people cross the park to pay admission. Later the landing ship was towed to a special berth at the foot of Tenth Street. Even there the post's troubles were not over. Vandals got aboard and stole valuable items of the ship's equipment. This led to the wedding shut of most of the hatches.

The curriculum material will be the cooperative series prepared by the various denominations and will feature the general topic, "The Church". Individual study texts will include: "Our Friendly Church", "Everyone Needs a Church", "We Need Churches" and "One Church for One World". The program will include out door recreation, handwork, worship and study.

efforts on behalf of the community and pointed out that history was being made as the second brother took over the mayoralty reins.

Mr. Abrams called Mayor Waters the "champion of the little man" and said that the Mayor can go down in history as one of Belleville's greatest Mayors.

A resolution offered by Commissioner Harry J. Sullivan and concurred in by Commissioners Joseph King and Elmer Hyde said in part, that in his 25 years as a commissioner Patrick A. Waters had acquired a great degree of governmental intelligence and experience, tempered by a kindly heart. It resolved that his colleagues, individually and collectively and on behalf of their constituents, "proudly hail this auspicious occasion as the apex of his career and the culmination of a brilliant and distinguished record of service in behalf of his fellow men and we trust that God will grant him many more years in office and will always bless his works."

In turn Mayor Waters thanked his well wishers and advised the employees of the Revenue and Finance Department, which he took over with the majority, that they should have no fear of him, as long as they faithfully perform the tasks assigned to them.

He recalled his childhood in Belleville, his graduation from St. Peter's School and how at 13 he was taken to the Eastwood-Nealey Wire Works where his mother was successful in getting him a job. In August he will have completed 61 years there, the last 26 as superintendent of wire weaving.

The Commission meeting was opened by Rev. Peter R. Deeken, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church, who asked the invocation. Mrs. Florence Morey, town clerk, administered the oath of office. Following a short business session, Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph P. Kelly of St. Peter's R. C. Church pronounced the benediction.

Mayor Tully left Idlewild Airport Monday afternoon. A large delegation of Belleville people were at the airport to see him off. His wife, Marie, and his three daughters, Kathleen, 4; Marie, 3, and Barbara, 1, accompanied him on his plane trip. The family will live at Wrightsville Beach, N. C.

UNITED DEFENSE SEEKS INCLUSION IN COMMUNITY CHEST

Evan H. Thomas, President, Reveals Needs For USO and Clothing For Korea Work

A national goal of $18,624,854 to meet the 1952 needs of services to the armed forces and civilians in defense-impact communities, and to help send clothing to Korea will be sought by the United Defense Fund, according to Evan H. Thomas, president of the Belleville Community Chest.

Local Community Chests throughout the country will be asked to raise $16,511,854 of the national goal through inclusion of their share in the Red Feather campaign next fall, Mr. Thomas said. The remaining $2,113,000 will be raised in New York City, which has no Community Chest.

USO to Get Bulk

The bulk of the funds will go to the United Service Organizations (USO), which now has 163 operations in this country and overseas, but has been requested by the Defense Department to provide 125 more. Among other recipients of funds will be: American Social Hygiene Association, National Recreation Association, for its defense program, United Community Defense Services, and Clothing for Korea.

USO operations today are located in critical sectors of the United States as well as on Guam and Okinawa and in Alaska, Hawaii, the Canal Zone, Germany and the Mediterranean area. Services to provide the famous USO "home away from home" are being conducted at present through clubs, lounges and area morale programs.

First Camp Show Ready

In addition, the first USO Camp Shows unit to go abroad since the new USO came into being in March, 1951, is now en route to the Pacific and will be giving shows for GIs abroad by June 1. Under the leadership of Jack Powell, drum wizard of the stage and screen, six top-flight performers comprise the cast. Several of these have played for servicemen before, in Europe or the Pacific.

The work in defense-impact communities will provide certain immediate services to incoming defense workers, advisory services on health and welfare, and guide them to help communities organize their own resources to help themselves. This will be in addition to regular peace-time services, and will aid congested towns and cities, moving people, those in rural areas displaced by new war plants and others affected by the national defense program.

Part of the funds collected through this fall's united Red Feather campaign will be used to process clothing to be sent to ragged millions in Korea, Mr. Thomas declared.

Young Visitor Got Lost

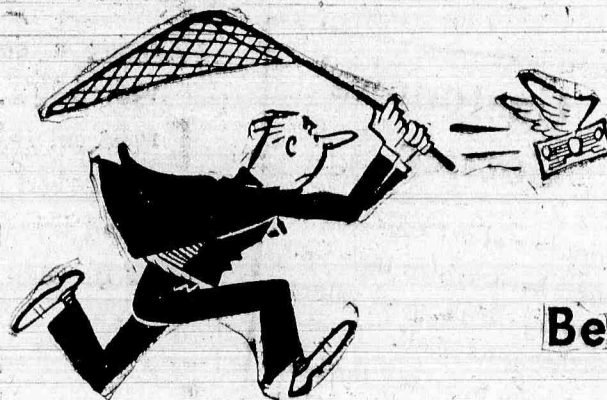

Usually when a child is lost the frantic parents call the Police Department, but on Tuesday the police received a call from Mrs. A. F. Sarrocco of 90 Beech Street that she had a small child at her house and that the child was apparently lost. Sergeant Jerry Eilore found out that the child was Kathryn Thetford, 5, of Eatontown, who was visiting relatives at 83 Bremond Street.

Isabelle Carocci To Sing

Miss Isabelle Carocci, East Orange soprano, will appear as a soloist Sunday afternoon in East Orange High School. She will be accompanied by the East Orange Mandolin Orchestra, which is under the direction of Elia Ciricillo of Belleville. Miss Carocci is the pupil of Miss Josephine Rossi of Belleville.

High School Musical Groups Give Concert

A program by the music department of Belleville High School entitled "Les Preludes" will be presented at the school auditorium tomorrow night. Samuel Peck and Herbert Mattick will be in charge. The A Capella choir, chorus, band, orchestra, dance groups, boys ensemble and a number of soloists will take part.

40 PERCENT MORE FAMILY SERVICE AID THIS YEAR

Lack Of Foster Homes and Day Nurseries Most Serious Problem Facing Agency

Miss Marie F. Gunn, executive secretary of Family Service, has announced that new clientele utilizing the services of the agency has increased 40 per cent in the first quarter of 1951 in comparison with the same period of 1950. There has also been an increase of 70 per cent in case work interviews. During the month of April, the agency worked with 82 different Belleville families.

Clients Get Help
Clients are receiving professional case work service in the area of marital problems, adult emotional maladjustments and parent-child relationships. Miss Gunn pointed out that the lack of adequate foster boarding homes, known to the agency, and the lack of a day nursery in Belleville are now two of the most serious factors facing the agency in helping to work through planning for some of the families.

It is anticipated that after the completion of their summer Camp Program, the agency will make a definite drive to learn of town residents who will be able to assist them in their boarding home program.
Family Service, who's offices are at 334 Washington Avenue, is a member agency of the Belleville Community Chest.

County Drive Chairman Tells
Of Need For $141,227
Campaign

The additional cost of home and custodial care for the 1,200 children of Essex County who were born with Cerebral Palsy is conservatively estimated to total the staggering sum of $3,000,000 annually, according to a statement issued today by Mayor William J. Jernick of Nutley, general chairman of the 1951 campaign of the Essex County division of the Cerebral Palsy League of New Jersey.

The figures were cited to show the tremendous economic waste resulting from cerebral palsy, Mayor Jernick explained, adding that in addition to the millions spent on children, untold millions are spent for cerebral palsied adults who have not received sufficient rehabilitation.

However, Mayor Jernick pointed out that if the League's quota of $141,227 is reached, a good many of the children will be able to receive treatment at the Newark Treatment Center, maintained by the League for the children of Essex County.

"Inasmuch as medical science has proved that, with proper diagnosis, care, treatment and education, a majority of the cerebral palsied can be helped to become self-sustaining, useful members of society, failure to remedy existing conditions is little less than a national disgrace," said Mayor Jernick.

"In view of the nation's need for peak productivity, the manpower demands are greater today than ever. Hundreds of thousands of cerebral palsied adults all over the country could become qualified to perform many essential tasks, and thus contribute to community, and national production and prosperity."

"Thoughtful Americans will ponder these possibilities and will assume their just share in helping to correct this needlessly wasteful and extravagant situation. A contribution to your local cerebral palsy unit will help a great humanitarian cause."

One Birch, One Maple

Trees make good neighbors
 To hold the lashing storm away
 Or turn the great snow swift and grey
 Or cool a man at his labors;
 And those that live in trees:
 The birds for song, and the hunting birds,
 Or the mason bees.
 To measure a man in his prime,
 To let him stand where once he stood
 A puzzled boy at the edge of the wood,
 To measure how straight a growth will climb.
 One birch will do, one maple,
 One old lone tree at the river's bend
 Like a man in the world's own million of men
 To point to, saying "friend".
 —Charles Mallam.

Reaches "Success" in Alger Story

A Horatio Alger story reached its "success stage" Tuesday night when Patrick A. Waters took over the duties of Mayor of the Town of Belleville, after 25 years' service to the town in the roll of commissioner. There is little doubt that Mr. Waters has realized an ambition to follow in the footsteps of an illustrious brother, John H. Waters, who was Mayor of Belleville from 1914 until he died in office in 1925.
 Mayor Waters recalled on Tuesday night that he was 13 years old and a graduate of the eighth grade at St. Peter's School when his mother took him by the hand and had him apply for a job at the Eastwood Nealley Company, where in August he will complete 61 years of employment. For 26 of those years he has been wire weaver superintendent.

It wasn't until the death of his brother that Mayor Waters took to politics in a big way and in his first Commission campaign he ran out of the money for the first and only time in his career. He became commissioner by appointment upon the retirement of Mayor John DeGraw, when the remaining four commissioners voted him to fill the vacancy. In the six campaigns since, Mayor Waters has always run near the top in vote-getting appeal. In fact in the 1942 campaign he received the highest number, but with the same unselfish attitude which has marked his 25 years as commissioner he stepped aside in favor of Mayor William H. Williams.
 That a man of Mayor Waters stature can rise above educational handicaps and become successful in the fields of manufacturing and municipal affairs is proof that Horatio Alger had a better slant on the American way of life than many of our contemporary authors who see only the cynical side and sell our ways short.

A Treaty That Is Morally Extinct

It is obvious that the West needs every ally it can get to bar the way to Communist aggression.
 Italy, which came over to our side before the end of the fighting in Europe, stands ready to help us padlock the defenses of Western Europe. Alas, a peace treaty imposed upon Italy forbids her to arm beyond 170,000 men. That is an awful small armed force from a nation of 39,000,000 people. Italy is ready to mobilize against Communism; she can furnish upwards of 3,000,000 men already battle-trained. Only the limitations of a treaty prevent her giving that help.
 Congressman Peter W. Rodino, who won his captaincy in the American Army while fighting in Italy, has urged the softening of the Italian treaty. This week Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza asked the big powers to consider a complete revision of the treaty.
 The West needs Italy as it needs Germany to help buttress itself against the red hordes. The treaty is morally extinct and its continuance can only be punitive. This is not the time to punish Italy; this is the time to ask her to help us defend herself and other peoples who want to stay free men in a democratic manner.

Drive Carefully, Come Back Safely

Memorial Day, traditional beginning of the Summer vacation season, may also swell the lists of killed and injured in traffic accidents unless motorists and pedestrians exercise more than usual care.
 Since the holiday falls on Wednesday, the peak of traffic will be on the return trip home that night. But the holiday toll need not be inevitable. If motorists and pedestrians decide now to include safety and courtesy in their holiday planning, accidents can be prevented.

For Belleville holiday motorists the three main points of congestion are on routes leading to and from seashore points in parts of Middlesex and Monmouth Counties, in the northern lake regions in the Singac and Ledgewood areas and in the Camden district on roads to and from southern New Jersey resorts. The peak travel hours to be avoided are: from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays to the resorts, 5 to 8 p. m. on Sundays and holidays and from 7 to 9 a. m. on Mondays returning from resort areas. Alternate routes to avoid congestion have been well marked.

Motorists planning trips over weekends or holidays should not make their driving an endurance contest. Too many miles and too much speed bring driver fatigue. That run-down feeling can mean a collision with another vehicle or a run-down pedestrian. Summer motoring can be pleasant and safe if every motorist will co-operate.

A Socialistic Mockingbird Comes Home to Roost

If the prospect of another war was not so horrible, it would be amusing to watch London's contortions when it reads the Iranian government's note of this week rejecting the British request for arbitration in an effort to forestall the nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The Iranian government, the reply says, has the same sovereign right to nationalize industries within her own borders as Britain has.

Touche, as they say in Paris.

It will be interesting to see what the Attlee government, which has nationalized about everything in England from sugarbills to steel, will answer to that.

Russia Completes Her Last Five-Year Plan

The Kremlin boasted over Radio Moscow several evenings ago that Russia's fourth and last five-year plan has been completed well ahead of schedule. Her productive capacity has been boosted more than 70 per cent as compared with 1940, the Kremlin said. Very great progress has been made in the field of basic raw commodities, including steel, coal and oil, it added.

This, if true, would firmly establish Russia as the world's second industrial power after the United States. However, going by the best available evidence, she is a poor second. In 1950 Russia produced just under 23,000,000 tons of steel; we produced nearly 97,000,000. Russian coal output was 288,500,000 tons; ours was 556,000,000. Russia produced less than 42,000,000 tons of oil; we accounted for 298,000,000. Finally Russian electric output was about 85,000,000 kilowatt hours, while ours was 388,000,000 kwh.

Our actual superiority in production is not quite so marked as the bare statistics indicate, for the reason that the Kremlin can use a much greater percentage of its goods and services for military purposes than can we. Her people largely live on a subsistence level, and by government fiat their living standards can be lowered instantly. If the Politburo so desires, everything can be devoted to guns and nothing at all to butter. Soviet industrial expansion had been achieved at the expense of consumer goods. In some cases the output fell below prewar. For example, only 192,000,000 pairs of shoes were turned out last year, compared with 230,000,000 in 1940.

Even after making full allowance for such factors as these, we still have a tremendous edge over the Soviet Union in the production potential which is the telling factor in any extended war. If the productive power of Western Europe is added, the edge becomes much greater still. When it comes to getting out goods and services of any kind, the United States and her potential allies are enormously stronger than the U. S. S. R. and her satellites.

Those who have a knowledge of the supposed facts are unanimously certain that our superiority is comparably great in still another vitally important field of production — the A-bomb. Our stockpiles of this weapon are far larger than Russia's.

It is for these reasons, many believe, that Russia has so far stopped her aggressions short of all-out war. The men of the Kremlin are not fools, nor are they suicidally inclined. It can be powerfully argued that if Russia does strike, it will be because her masters believe that the next war can be brought to a relatively quick conclusion, with Communism victorious. Otherwise, the argument runs, Russian strategy for an indefinite future time will be to attempt to keep this country busy spending manpower and resources in a series of "little wars," on the Korean model. That is exactly what General Douglas MacArthur said and a calm study of the Kremlin's boast would seem to bear him out.

ONE MAN'S OPINION . . .

A Showdown With Red China Is Rapidly Coming to a Head, With State Department Finally Convinced Mao Is Stalin's Puppet.

By RALPH E. HEINZEN

The State Department, with customary obliqueness and late as usual, came to the conclusion this week that Mao Tse-tung, leader of the Chinese Communist regime, is a puppet of Moscow.

Everybody, you and I, MacArthur and the newsboy on the corner knew it, but until John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser to the Department of State, and Dean Rush, Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, made speeches at the China Institute dinner in New York this week, the State Department went along with its outmoded theory that Mao was a slant-eyed Tito and that Chinese Communists were not Marxists, merely Democrats with a yen for agrarian reform.

So at the same hour that Mao's second Spring offensive drags to a costly halt in Korea, the State Department shifts gears. Our official readjustment of theory about China paves the way for much more vigorous action against Communist China. Thus, sooner than anyone thought, MacArthur may be vindicated. All he ever proposed was much more vigorous action against Communist China.

A first consequence has been a hardening of American opposition to the admission of Red China to the United Nations which may soon bring a complete change of policy of Britain towards Mao, whom it was far too fast to recognize. At the same time we informed Russia this week that we will not consent to allow Red China a voice in framing the peace treaty for Japan. The picture in Asia is changing; the issue with Communist China is approaching a decisive phase.

New American Policy

The two speeches stated the American policy view of events in the Far East in terms of the proposition that:

1. Mao Tse-tung, leader of the Chinese Communist regime, is a puppet of Moscow;
2. The actions of the Mao regime are dictated by Moscow and arise from considerations of Russian interest, not from considerations of Chinese interest;
3. The people of China are being victimized by their present leaders;
4. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek more nearly reflects the urge of China for integrity and independence than does Mao;
5. The United States stands ready to help all true Chinese who seek to throw off the "creature of the Moscow polithuro" and seek to revive the territorial integrity and independence of China.

These propositions express a positive philosophy about the present regime in China and also project a positive course of action. Plainly the period of indecision and of "letting the dust settle" over China policy is at an end.

Mistaken Judgment

Previously the State Department was just as ready to try to drive a vertical wedge between the Mao regime and Moscow as it was to try to drive a horizontal wedge between the Chinese people and the regime. That is to say: Until these speeches were delivered the State Department had talked and acted on the theory that Mao some day might turn out to be more Chinese than Communist.

Openly and officially, that possibility has been thrown away. Mao is branded a puppet of Moscow. The Chinese people are told that Mao is selling out China to Russian imperialism. Under this new approach to the China problem, the only wedge that can be driven is the horizontal wedge between the people and their present Communist regime.

End in Sight

As a consequence of the opening of Mr. Acheson's eyes to the reality which he chose to ignore too long, the end of the war in Korea—which President Truman still stubbornly refers to as a "policing action"—is in sight. No army can stand the terrible losses that the Red Chinese army has taken in these two abortive offensives.

Mao still has 60 divisions to throw into the battle, but surely he must know by now that waves of human attackers cannot break through a wall of steel hurled by the most modern weapons with which we have now endowed our troops in Korea. A third Spring offensive is not outside the bounds of possibility, but the danger of a breakthrough is lessening with each defeat.

Feared Air Reprisals

It is important that even though Mao has an air force of some 600 Russian-gift planes, he did not throw it into the battle during his offensive. A reason may be that he knows that if he uses air power, he will open himself to retaliatory air attack, chiefly bombardment of the key centers deep in China and Manchuria.

The end of the war is in sight because, finally, the UN and our British allies see Mao in his true light, just as our State Department begins to see him. Only India has a long common and undefended frontier with China and depends for her own security upon the good graces of the Chinese Stalin.

A grand offensive of the free world against Mao and Chinese Communism is shaping. For too long we alone subscribed to military action to curb Mao's aggression. Now a general economic offensive is organizing. A diplomatic offensive is a logical third phase and when it comes, Britain and the other dupes who rushed to recognize Mao's regime must correct that mistake. Only a few short weeks ago the British Labour Government screamed its demand for MacArthur's sacking when he said that we should take an offensive against Red China. Today Britain is willing to help mount an economic offensive. The common front is taking shape.

Second River - Mill Street Once Had Another Beauty

Where Cherry Blossoms Now Attract Thousands, At One Time Bloomed Factories

The Second River and Mill Street are more than the southernmost boundaries of Belleville where it joins the Woodside section of Newark, but were important avenues of manufacture and commerce long before Belleville was even a part of Bloomfield. When Robert Treat and his followers bought Newark from the Leni Lenape Indians in 1666, Belleville was part of that municipality. From the beginning, Belleville was a manufacturing place, with mills lining the length of the Second River clear to the Bloomfield line where the fall of water tapers off over a long stretch of flat land.

The steep course of the Second River was ideal for turning the wheels of industry and the nearby Passaic River was the best avenue for the transportation of manufactured goods to the New York and other seaport markets. Mill Street, which followed the river almost as it does now, eventually connected with the road through Wardensession, now known as the Watsessing section of Bloomfield and thence to the Oranges.

Along any such historic course one could rightly expect to find relics of the past. Actually few of them remain except in the memory of old-timers, who can remember taking home jars and pails of pure spring water from the old spring not far from the Hendricks Copper Mill.

The ruins pictured stood near where the footbridge now crosses Mill Street extension and the Second River. The spring was a short distance to the west. A stream of water pouring out of an eight-inch pipe into the river comes from the spring which was covered over during the grading for the park during the '30s. The man in the picture was the night watchman of the Hendricks Mill, who stopped off every morning for a pail of water to take home. Both of the postcard pictures are from the collection of Thomas H. Ward of 156 Mill Street.

Of the ancient things, parts of the old Hendricks mill are all that remain. And even most of the old mill site has been incorporated into the grounds and buildings of the Andrew Jergens plant.

But years ago Mill Street was a busy thoroughfare. The Hendricks family, owners of the mill, lived in New York, except during the summer months when they took up residence in two large houses along Mill Street, now both part of Branch Brook Park and the Hendricks Field golf course. In fact, one of the houses served for a time as the clubhouse for the Forest Hill Field Club, before it sold out to the county and located a little to the northwest up next to Davey's Woods.

Oldtimers well remember that when the Hendricks came to live in Belleville they brought with them a huge staff of servants and rode up and down Mill Street in a high carriage behind a tandem team, driven by a liveried driver with a high hat and long whip.

It was also the route taken most weekends by various bicycle clubs, some coming from New York and points East. Groups of young men and women, sometimes as many as 100 at a time, took the old road, which was anything but smooth, in the course of their "century rides," trips of 50 miles away from the starting point and back.

Belleville's ancient hotel, built in 1683, and which was torn down many years ago, stood near the intersection of Mill Street and the river road, now Main Street. It was the natural stopping point for the Passaic River boats and near the ferry which connected Belleville with its Hudson county neighbor, Arlington.

At one time Mill Street was spanned by the branches of massive trees along about a mile of its length near the Hendricks houses, making a cool avenue on a hot Summer's afternoon. Very few of these trees remain, despite the efforts of the Essex County Park Commission to retain the beauty of the property.

Mill Street has a different beauty than of old. The Second River, walled in, still races through the town, perhaps faster than ever, but now is no more than a raceway. There are no waterwheels, no power ponds, no

Where once this jungle and ruins of an ancient paint factory once dominated the scene and where the fenced in "spring" once furnished clear cool water for individuals and firms supplying spring water, now bloom the famous Branch Brook Park Japanese cherry blossoms. Both of these scenes from Belleville of the 1890s are now part of the park extension along the course of the Second River.

fish and perhaps a lot fewer mosquitoes.

For two weeks in the Spring, thanks to the County Park Commission and the efforts of the WPA during the depression, that portion of Mill Street which meanders through the park is visited by thousands of people from many communities and many states. The beauty of the blossoms is said to exceed those of the famous trees along the banks of the Potomac in Washington.

The first act of the new commissioners was to pass a resolution granting a $450 raise to themselves.

Michael Tortoriello, former sergeant in the Air Corps, was named grand marshal of the Memorial Day parade.

The Belleville Teachers' Association elected Harold Dufford, a member of the high school faculty, as president of the group. Dufford succeeded Miss Margaret Leahy.

Frederick Handlon, Belleville court clerk and president of the Belleville Lions club, was elected deputy district governor of the Lions at a dinner held in the Montclair Athletic Club. He was an unanimous choice for the position.

Ten Years Ago

Converting the Turf Bog field into a tent city, more than 300 Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts and Cubs were expected to take part in the local district's annual camporee. An ambitious program for the three-day outdoor rendezvous had been planned by a committee with W. Douglas Clark Jr. and Hugh D. Kittle as the general chairman.

Mayor Williams remained loyal to Belleville when he made the first purchase at the opening of the new F. W. Woolworth five-and-ten cent store in Washington Avenue. He bought a 10-cent bottle of Jergens Lotion, product of the Andrew Jergens Company, which was at that time completing erection of a million dollar plant here.

Dr. Edward A. Flynn, physician with offices at 161 Washington Avenue, announced that he had abandoned plans for erecting a building at the corner of Washington Avenue and Rutgers Street because the size of the lot would not permit adequate parking facilities.

Fifteen Years Ago

Thirty thieves robbed the tavern of Anthony Caso in Jeraldo Street, Silver Lake section, that year. Caso told police that the robbers drank nearly a half-barrel of beer before leaving the place with 12 bottles of whisky and gin valued at $30. Four empty glasses were found on the bar when Caso opened the saloon in the morning.

Michael Picci of 34 Columbus Avenue suffered painful injuries when bitten on the nose by a dog. He told police that he was leaning over a fence, talking to a neighbor, when bitten.

John J. Hewitt, overseer of the poor, announced that all able-bodied men receiving relief from the town for themselves and their families would be required to work out the value of the food checks and other values received.

Twenty Years Ago

Something went wrong with the burglar alarm at the First National Bank and it rang from 5 p.m. one day, when the vault was closed, until 12:30 a.m. the following day, when the automatic control, considerably worn, broke. John P. Dailey, cashier, discovered that a pin holding the ventilating device of the vault had slipped breaking the circuit. An interior alarm stopped after a quarter of an hour, but if the outside bell had not stopped of its own accord nothing could have been done until the vault had been opened the next day. The alarm was supposed to shut off automatically after fifteen minutes.

Two goats and seventeen dogs in Belleville were attacked in one day by a mad dog which was shot on the town's dumps while police were searching for him. John Di Modica of Frederick Street, who noticed the strange antics of the dog, got down his shotgun and killed the animal. In the meantime frantic dog owners in the Soho section were telephoning police headquarters and asking that the rabies-crazed dog be put to death. In response to the first call from a Wallace Street resident Reserven Scott and Christiano were detailed. The maddened animal, however, eluded his pursuers, and before reaching the dumps in the Silver Lake section bit goats and dogs alike.

The first annual Ladies' night of Fewsmithe Church Men's Club was held in Fewsmithe Presbyterian Church, Union Avenue and Little Street. Three hundred attended.

"Pat" Fort, popular Nash dealer in town, was elected President of the Merchants Association. William J. Horgan, first vice-president; W. Brand Smith, second vice-president; Russell K. Rose, secretary; Henry Charrier, assistant secretary and Joseph Kaden, treasurer. All members of the board of directors attended.

Held Newarior For Grand Jury On Lewdness Charge

Thomas Cole, Jr., 29, of 887 Summer Avenue, Newark, was held for Grand Jury action by Magistrate Everett Smith, in police court, Thursday morning on a charge of lewdness. Cole was arrested early last week by Nutley police after two young boys had told a policeman there that he had tried to entice them into his car. Acting on a hunch that it was the same man who had approached two Belleville boys in the same manner, Detective James Mallack went to Nutley and obtained an admission from Cole that he was the man sought.

ANOTHER REASON WHY...

YOU CAN BE SURE..IF IT'S Westinghouse

113 YEARS WITH WESTINGHOUSE. Motor tender Henry Zona retired in 1942 after 20 years with Westinghouse at East Pittsburgh. But look what he left behind! With him here are his six Westinghouse sons, and his daughter Mary, who left a job in a variety store ten months ago to run an automatic mica building machine at the Irwin plant. Tony, with 14 years of service, makes Micarta tubing at Trafford. Albert, with 18 years, is inspector of trolley and bus electrical equipment. Mike, with 10 years, is a painter. Nick, with 22 years, runs an automatic screw machine. Joseph, with 10 years, is a mica inspector at Irwin. Angelo, with 11 years, is a sheet metal shearer. Carl is not in the picture, but he put in 7 years as a Westinghouse radial drill press operator before the Army sent him over to Austria.

Where do Westinghouse employees want their sons to work?

All you have to do is run through Westinghouse payroll records, and the answer to that question is pretty clear. They want their sons to work at Westinghouse.

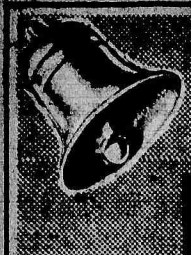

And not long ago, an independent firm made a study in a region where there were five big employers, including Westinghouse. The question: "If a friend moved here, which company would be the best place for him to work?" Seven out of eight Westinghouse employees answered "Westinghouse."

Westinghouse employees must get a lot of satisfaction out of their work—another reason why you can be sure... if it's Westinghouse.

DIPLOMA AWARD TURNS INTO FAMILY AFFAIR IN NEWARK. When Kenneth Politi completed his tool and die makers apprenticeship, the awarding of his diploma by G. H. Grossnickle, manager of our Meter Division, turned into a family affair. Present were his father, Andrew, a 28-year Westinghouse employee; his wife, Alicia, a clerk in our engineering department; and his brother, Vincent, also an apprentice.

PEALS

By PIERSON

AMONG FRIENDS

Two of the first persons to welcome us to Belleville were Jitty Wische and Eddie Berlinski of Belleville High School. Both greeted us joyously, for we have known Jitty since his playing days at South Side and was Eddie's unofficial but nevertheless active publicity agent during his entire career at Bloomfield High and later at North Carolina State. We hold both in high regard, as gentlemen and in our profound belief that they are two of the better coaches in Essex County. There isn't a single coach in the state that we'd accept in trade, for either one, if such a thing were possible.

We told them that when we want any dope about Belleville's teams we will go straight to the horse's mouth. We don't want to repeat some kid's opinion or the word of a prejudiced fan. And we don't consider ourselves experts in their field that our first or second guessing could be even nearly right and they wrong. That doesn't mean that we won't entertain and sometime voice our private opinions, about players, and situations.

Many people remember us for our many years of association with sports in Bloomfield, for our 10 years with the Suburban Baseball League as its president, and for some sports programs we have published.

We were very successful in wishing Bloomfield High into some 15 state championships during our years of writing for the Independent Press there, and now we intend to root just as enthusiastically and to wish with just as much punch for the same kind of state titles to roost right here in the near future. From all signs the wishing is not far from being realized.

One thing we do want to get into the record! Our ties with Bloomfield sports have been completely severed—it will not be a case of Bloomfield first and Belleville second. It will be Belleville first and no one second. We have been a very close personal friend of Bloomfield's Wild Bill Foley for more of his 37 years than we care to admit, and last night as general chairman helped pay tribute to him upon the completion of his active coaching career. Even Belleville fans will have to admit he was a great guy. But with him out of the Bloomfield picture my ties are cut.

We like the things that are being done at Belleville High School—a sports program which this Spring is reaching about 80 per cent of the male enrollment. We like the diversity of activity, the crew, the golf, the tennis, the cross country, the baseball, and in their own seasons, the football, basketball and bowling. We like to hear Jitty, Eddie and Hugh Kittle say that Belleville will soon join its neighbors in track and soccer competition. There can be very little more in the way of athletic opportunity that any school can offer its young men.

One has had to have lived outside of Belleville to understand the change in acceptance of Belleville as an opponent that has come about in recent years. At one time we contacted most of the athletic men in the county on the possibility of organizing a big school conference. It was surprising the number of schools which pulled the "Malik" as far as Belleville's admittance was concerned. Today at least two of those diehards are out of the sports picture themselves, and Belleville rates "aces in spades" for sportsmanship. There was more than one coach in on the post mortem of the Essex County Basketball Tournament in February, who said that Belleville's team and Belleville fans were the best sports of all the schools entered in the test. That's a reputation to be proud of! It is a reputation that every fan in Belleville should guard jealously. It is the kind of reputation to which we wish to make our contribution.

While the high school's activities are the backbone of the sports picture in communities like of Belleville, there are other groups and individuals who deserve their place on these pages. To these amateur teams and to these individuals we wish to extend an invitation to contribute to these columns. It is their newspaper. We are but the agents. If they have anything that another fan might be interested in, an unusually large catch of fish, a bigger fish, a deer during hunting season, a hole-in-one, a snappy motorboat, yes, even a better hotrod—the door is open—the telephone at our elbow—and we are at their service.

Try us!

Walter Smith, who starred for Belleville High back in 1935 and then went on to St. Benedict's Prep on his way to the University of Virginia, has been named playing manager of the Charlottesville, Va., team in the Valley Baseball League operating there. Walt Smith coaches Lane High School teams in Charlottesville. After his release from the Army in 1941 he served as assistant coach at Staunton Military Academy, and before taking on the Lane High School job coached at Orange (Virginia) High School.

Bellboys Bow to Kent Varsity By Half Boat

Belleville High's junior eight and senior four and Jack McNish in the senior singles, plus Nutley High's varsity eight and junior four and junior singles Bill Pfahler, are all set for the National Schoolboy Rowing Championships at Philadelphia on Friday and Saturday.

The Belleville-Nutley teams both made good showings last week when they raced against the Kent School teams at Kent, Conn. The Nutley team raced Kent's junior varsity in the first event which Kent won by a boat and one-quarter length. The Nutley crew was even for the first quarter mile but fell behind by three-quarters of a length at the half-way mark. Kent finished the mile course in 5:19 while Nutley was clocked at 5:26. Rowing for Nutley were: Coxswain Jay Dallanegra; stroke, Walter Hatch; Jim McCall, Al Scully, Allen Kammerer, Bill Smith, Robert Dawson, Bob Watts and Bill Hansen.

Belleville's varsity put up a great race against Kent, losing out by one half a length when Kent picked up its stroke in the last quarter to a 42 count. Belleville jumped off to a length-lead at the half-way mark but lost half of that at the three-quarter point. Kent went ahead near the finish, but had the race lasted just a little longer Belleville might have won, for in the battle toward the finish line was picking up a man a stroke.

On the other hand perhaps it was a good thing the race ended when it did for Frank Thompson snagged his oar on a floating barrel, just as the Belleville shell went over the finish line and the oar snapped.

Belleville High's lineup was: Coxswain Jimmie Kent, stroke Harry Breckenridge, Pete Salerno, Norman Gross, John Willis, Roland Worthing, Gerald Bilensky, Jack McNish and Frank Thompson. Kent lined up with Coxswain Alex Jenkins, Stroke Bob Bower, Ken Huggins, Jim Young, Alan Dann, Jim Hinkle, Rusty Johnson, Camp Wilson and Charles Orr.

Eliminations Friday

With a large entry list in several of the divisions eliminations will get under way at 2:30 o'clock on Friday afternoon. Nutley High's Junior Four shell will be paired with Lafayette H. S., Lower Merion H. S. and LaSalle H. S. of Philadelphia. The senior eight will compete against North East High and LaSalle High of Philly and Ecorse of Michigan. Two winners will qualify for Saturday's finals.

Belleville High's senior four shell will be pitted against North East High School of Philadelphia; St. Joseph's H. S. of Buffalo, St. Joseph's Prep of Philly, West Catholic of Philly and Lower Merion H. S. Three will qualify in this event. Belleville's junior eight will be matched with Lower Merion, Washington and Lee of Virginia and St. Joseph's of Buffalo. Two will qualify.

In Finals

On Saturday in the finals of the senior singles Jack McNish of Belleville will meet representatives of East Haven, Newton, Germantown and another Philadelphia high school.

Bill Pfahler of Nutley in the junior singles will meet Technical H. S., Germantown H. S. and La Salle H. S., all of Philly. And Nutley's senior doubles will be opposed by Washington and Lee of Virginia, and Roxbury, Pa. H. S. Altogether Coach Bennett will take 39 boys to the championships. They will leave by bus on Friday morning and will stay at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel, Friday night. The boats will be dispatched by truck about an hour before the bus leaves.

Only Three Local Boys Collect Hits Off Sal Monaco's Deliveries

A combination of wildness on the part of Bob Dilworth and some inopportune errors on the part of his teammates more or less handed Montclair High an 11 to 0 decision, Thursday. Eddie Berlinski's Belleville High nine had little chance of winning against Sal Monaco's three hit pitching, but there was little need for such a high score. The defeat was Belleville's fourth in ten games and it was Montclair's 11th in 13.

The Mounties settled the issue in the first inning by pushing across four runs on one hit, a triple by Dave Mott. A pair of walks and a pair of errors, contributed to the other runs. One more in the fifth and three in the sixth came about on four more walks and a pair of singles. Mott, whose three bagger blasted things open in the first, also homered in the eighth to account for the final three runs. Only Travers, DelTufo and Hansen were able to solve Monaco's deliveries for safe hits.

Closest Game This Week Was Wilbur Driver's Win From Eastwood

IRVINGTON'S LATE BARRAGE SINKS BELLEVILLE 11-3

Berlinski's Charges Flirt With Fate On Eve Of Tournament Selection

Belleville High's baseball team has flirted with fate in its past two games, on the eve of the selection of the teams for the Greater Newark Baseball Tournament. After bowing to Montclair late last week Ed Berlinski's charges went down under a barrage of late inning runs on Tuesday when they bowed to Irvington 11 to 3, at the Municipal Stadium.

Belleville reached Joe Feldman for six hits and three tallies, one of them a home run by Tom Nisvoccia in the fifth with Dan Cuomo aboard. Cuomo had three of the Bellboy hits.

Bob Dilworth started on the mound and lasted until the sixth when two walks, a wild pitch and three singles gave Irvington four runs and the game. A five run outburst in the seventh featured Joe Acardi's base clearing triple for the Camptoviers.

It's healthier to have this automatically controlled heating that filters, humidi-fies, warms and evenly circulates the air
Gone are the days when you had to breathe the harsh, dry, dust-laden air pushed up into your rooms during winter months by an antique furnace. Now, all winter, your family can enjoy air that has the touch of springtime in it . . . clean, warm air supplied by the gas-fired Bryant Winter Air Conditioner.
Drawn through filters of spun glass, air is cleansed of dust and dirt particles. Passing over the humidifier, air picks up the moisture that makes it easier to breathe and a more comfortable atmosphere in which to live. Warmed in passageways of the heat exchanger, air then is gently circulated through ducts to reach every room in the house.
To make certain you get the most for your heating dollar, make sure you get the Bryant Winter Air Conditioner.
It's a great heating plant, whether for a new home or replacement of an old furnace . . . the automatic equipment that can make you forget you ever tended furnace!

SET IT . . . FORGET IT! Simply set the thermostat and your Bryant will hold that temperature until you change the setting.

TRAPS THE DIRT! All air is passed through this filter of glass fibers.

Attention, Miss and Mr. Belleville! Let's have that fan orchestra! Why all this? The Student Council Election returns have just been published, and here they are—being published for the first time!

The officers for 1951-52 will be:

President, George Ploa. Vice-President, Keith McEligott. Secretary, Judy Gabriel.

Treasurer, Lynn Dickinson. Congratulations to all of you, and also to each of the winners-up for their effort and example in democratic electioneering.

Miss Maffeo, Mr. Chiara, Mr. Grossman—and, of course, the sophomore class—can now stick a feather in their seafaring caps as a result of the now famed Horn Hop. Friday night's event was very well attended and its success was carried out with the aid of many sailor-capped and -panted dancers.

The Don Bello repertoire was very well selected. The rumbas were especially danceable—more musical than was carried out with the arrival of many sailor-capped and -panted dancers.

One Miss Marie Minoe seen in the feminine spot of seduction shaking like a leaf—more so when she tried out for the position which is now hers, you guessed it—DRUM MAJORETTE.

Congratulations, also, to you, Mr. Campbell and Theresa Inaugurate the twirling captains of the football season of 1951.

While speaking of this baton-twirling occupation, you might add that the tryouts for next year's twirling squad was held yesterday, but we don't know yet the results of the pulchritudinous trappings. We'll let you in on it as soon as we hear.

On Television Another B.H.S. undergrad has made his TV debut along with two B.H.S. graduates. Were you in last Tuesday night to see Ted M. Maturer Hour?

He thought the Buddy Blair quartet was excellent. "Bonne chance" to Red Murphy, Rosemary Bojczak, Ed Bergamini, and Ralph Petruzzi.

Some news from the Junior Prom: We haven't heard from them since their very successful Square Dance in January.

Wednesday two candidates from the school in Belleville congress are at No. 8 School to speak to their own behalf for campus. Joseph L. Padua of 193 Fairway Avenue, Fred A. Delala of 105 Heckel Street, and Nelson Taylor of 29 Dow Street.

Andrew R. Montecello of 114 Franklin Avenue will receive a Master of Arts degree.

Among the seniors at Upsala College graduating June 4 are Charles Manuel Cueto, who will receive a Bachelor of Arts degree, and Frank W. Benis, Jr., William P. France, and Arthur West Hyde, who will be awarded Bachelor of Business Administration degrees.

Woman Knocked Down By Car Backing Off Walk

Mrs. Amelia Raaser, 52 of 146 Little Street, was treated at St. Mary's Hospital, Saturday, for shock, after she had been knocked down by a car at the corner of Washington and Overlook Avenues. The car, driven by Joseph J. Luglio, 28, of 76 Bremond Street, backed into her about 15 feet south of the crosswalk.

Mr. Luglio told the police that he had stopped for the traffic light but he was beyond the crosswalk, so he released his hand brake and let the car roll a few feet backward. When the car stopped he casually looked out the window on the driver's side and saw a woman lying in the street near the rear of the car. He got out and attempted to help the woman to her feet, but she said she had been injured and didn't want to take any chances.

The ambulance, with Firemen Nutole and Thakheimer arrived and took her to the hospital. There she was treated by Dr. Darancis and was returned to her home in the ambulance.

Looking Back at SPORTS

Five Years Ago
The thundering bats of the Belleville Cardinals, silent for five years, boomed once more as the local club auspiciously opened its 10th season by unleashing a 16-hit attack to down the Newark Bisons by the score of 17 to 6. Big gun for the Cardinal onslaught, in which all the starting players hit safely, was "Chick" Craven with three singles.
The Independent Union of Northern Jersey Softball team proved to be too big a bite for the Wallace & Tiernan Company team. Wally Tiernan's pitching combined with the clouting of outfielder John Martine, downed the Watco aggregation to the tune of 8 to 2.

Ten Years Ago
After being blanked for three innings by Red Smith of the Corner A. C., the Trojan A. C. unleashed a hit barrage that piled up a total of nine runs before the tilt was called in the sixth inning to give the Trojans a 9-5 victory at Riviera Park.

Ill-luck struck the high school's win-seeking track squad on the eve of its big meet with Kearny High's stellar array of cinder path experts at the Hudson County school's stadium. Three of the local squad had been stricken with measles and were lost for the big event.

The travelling Pittsburgh Miners had a tough time of it when, after an 80-mile jaunt to play the Great Meadows Club, they found that they were stacking up against a troupe of professional and semi-professional players, most of them from the Newark vicinity. Net result—the Miners were shut out 11-0.

Fifteen Years Ago
The Belleville Nite Owls defeated the Wrubel Association to register their seventh straight victory of the season. Catralano pitched superbly, but was yanked in the sixth inning when the Wrubels had three men on base with no outs. Di Rienzo then went into the ball game and pitching to the next three men struck out two of them and the third lifted a pop fly for the third out. The final score was 6 to 5.
The Belleville Senators easily defeated the Daniel Ruder Association, Newark, 13-4. Barnett pitched a fine game for the Senators, allowing eight scattered hits and fanning nine. Borysewski started at bat for the Senators, getting three hits and driving six runs across the plate.

Twenty Years Ago
The Belleville Moose ball club lost a tough 10-inning 5-4 battle to the Harrison Hudsons at Recreation Field in Harrison. "Swede" Forsberg, Harrison Hudson mound ace, won his own game in the 10th with a timely hit that drove in the winning run.
The Belleville High baseball nine was nosed out 6-5 at Clearman Field by the Golden Tornadoes of the Orange High School. "Mac" Lamb, Bellboy twirler, allowed the Orangemen but six hits, but they used them to expert advantage in fashioning as many runs. The Blue and Gold out-hit the visitors, getting nine bingles, but a rather large number of runners left on base proved their undoing.
