POLIO CASES DROP FROM 1950 LEVEL BUT ABOVE NORMAL

Belleville Has Had Two Cases, One in May and Other in July; National Total Is Higher

The Essex County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis reports that records for Essex County, are substantially below 1949 and 1950, but while the figure has been light so far, the same trend was cause for alarm, just three years ago, when 104 cases in the state was considered severe. This supports the contention of medical authorities, that polio is on the increase and that we cannot expect to go back to the incidence levels considered normal prior to 1948.

Belleville which had one case in May and another in July is one of nine municipalities which have had 29 cases on record as of August 31. Last year the 29th case for the county was reported by July 29, Newark has accounted for nine cases; Orange four, East Orange, Irvington and Bloomfield three each; Cedar Grove and Belleville two each and the other cases in Maplewood and Montclair.

Statewide there were 150 cases as of August 25, 128 fewer than in 1950. In the country as a whole there were 11,892 cases as of August 25, which is 54 more than last year.

Seven Year Olds Make Mess Of New House Nearing Finish

Parents Agree to Reimburse Owner-Builder For $750 Worth of Damage Wrought to House At 22 Center Street in Saturday Spree

Too often stories of vandalism in Belleville are left hanging in the air with those responsible unapprehended. But on Saturday police headquarters received a call that children were destroying a new house, under construction at 22 Center Street. Patrolmen Robert Russomano and Joseph Sullivan and Detective James Mallack responded and caught a gang of seven year old youngsters in the house.

Building For Year
Steve Rappa of 51 Dover street, Newark, has been building the house himself and had just finished the decorating in preparation for an early occupancy. He has been at the job more than a year and has had no end of troubles. But Saturday's vandalism just capped things for him.

The children had gotten into the cellar where they found paint cans and brushes. They smeared paint over the wall paper, woodwork and floors of all six rooms, including the tile walls or the bathroom. Paint was spilled on the cellar floor. A kitchen window was broken. And newly laid bricks on the back porch were loosened and dislodged.

Parents Agree to Pay
It was estimated by Mr. Rappa that the damage was from $500 to $750. Police called upon the parents of the children and had them sit down at a round table discussion with Mr. Rappa and themselves, and the fathers of the boys agreed to share the costs of the damages. But to Mr. Rappa it all means just another delay.

TAXING RATIO DUE TO BE HIGHER IN ESSEX COUNTY

William Tully Hears Inquiry Committee Report May Agree On Higher Local Assessments

William Tully, Acting Director of Finance, was informed this week that the Committee for the Equalization of Assessments, in Essex County which was formed by an agreement of the 21 suburban towns with Newark is nearing the completion of its report which may require an upward revision of tax assessments here for 1952. Indications point to a higher ratio between assessments and true value of property than Belleville has used in the past.

Newark's Complaint
The Committee was formed by an agreement of the 22 Town Assessors when Newark agreed to drop an appeal to the State Division of Taxation on grounds that Newark paid more than its share of county taxes because it used a higher ratio than did the suburban towns in setting its list of rates. Once the Committee reports, it is expected that Belleville and the 21 other towns will use the same common ratio.

The question of what the ratio between actual assessment and true value should be was discussed at length this week by the Committee for Equalization of Assessments in Essex County. No conclusions were reached and it was agreed to meet again next month.

The committee, appointed by the Essex County Tax Assessors' Association to make certain that all communities in the county assess their real property in the same way starting with 1952, will endeavor to agree on the formulas for equalization at its September meeting.

Towns Must Approve
Once the ratios are set, a meeting of representatives of each of the county's 22 municipalities will be held to pass upon the recommendations. Agreement must be reached before October 1, the date as of which local assessors begin to assess property for the following year.

The committee this week examined a compilation of all 1950 sales of real estate in the county, comparing each sales price with the assessment for local tax purposes. The compilation, made with the assistance of local assessors and special clerical help, given figures for 7,940 sales of dwellings, 83 apartment houses, 401 commercial buildings, 78 industrial, 1,300 vacant lots and six specialty buildings.

Private Louis Talignani, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Talignani of 58 Smith Street, arrived at Fort Dix recently to begin his basic infantry training. He has been assigned to Company F, 60th Infantry Regiment, for six weeks of physical conditioning, instruction in general military subjects, training in small arms and combat skills.

Bob Reynolds of 12 Overlook Avenue returned recently from a two-week tour of duty with the 15th Division, National Guard, at Pine Camp. He traveled by jeep.

Belleville P A L Tossers Victors In Playoff Tilts

Bob Mallack Whitewashes Irvington;
Jim McConnell Finishes Strong in Championship Game; Spirit Fine

Hail the Champs! The efforts of the Belleville Police Athletic League senior baseball team was crowned with success in the State P.A.L. Baseball League over the week end, when Belleville won the league's playoff crown, after finishing second in the regular season standings. To win the championship, Belleville had to beat Irvington 4 to 0 on Saturday and then come back on Sunday to beat the Summit team on its own field by a 5 to 2 count.

Bob Mallack applied the white-wash in the first game, winning a pitcher's battle when Belleville finally scored in the seventh. Bob gave up only two four hits in the fray and only one error was committed behind him.

Score Seventh

Belleville after being limited to three hits in the first six frames landed on Keating for seven more in the last two innings. In the seventh, successive singles by Westlake, Smith and Wilkerson, gave Belleville all the runs it needed. Three more were added in the eighth when Petti, Moreno and Hansen singled, while Weinstein sacrificed. At this point Westlake came through with a single to drive in the final two runs.

In the second game on Saturday, Summit defeated Newark 6 to 2 in ten innings. With the game tied at two-all in the ninth, Summit, first up in the tenth tallied four times, to win the right to meet Belleville.

Jim McConnell Wins

Jim McConnell was the master of the situation in the championship struggle. In fact after Summit scored two runs in the first inning on a single, triple and another single, before a man was put out, McConnell was near invincible. He gave up only six other scattered hits. He was in trouble in the fourth when Summit loaded the bases with two out, but Moreno pulled a sensational shoestring catch of "Barker's" low liner to end the inning. Belleville went ahead in the fourth inning when it scored four runs on five safeties. McConnell started things with a double down the third base line. Graziano, Petti and Hansen flied with singles. Hansen flied to right and DelTufo finished the scoring with a single to the game field. Hansen scored in the sixth when he was safe on an error, stole second and scored on single by Del Tufo.

Great Spirit

The spirit shown by the Belleville boys has been high all season, but never as great as over the week end. Buster Wilkerson and Roger Hansen were vacationing at Lavalette, for a week before leaving for college, but when they learned of the play-offs, packed and came home. Bob Smith had to report to Rutgers early Sunday night, but stayed until the last man was hit out. Mike Del Tufo, whose hitting was timely in the championship game, begged off practice with the Muhlenberg freshman football team in order to play and left immediately after the game in order to be back to college by 10 p.m.

Have Evidence That We Not Just a Fish Story

When Michael Rossi, Harry Trento and Pat Cicalea, members of the Rossi Anglers Club of Silver Lake, left Belleville recently they intended to indulge in another day's fishing. However as is often the case when out drinking worms or in this case squid, the unexpected can and does happen. Harry Trento got what he thought was another bite. It sure was! He struck and hooked, of all things a seven inch SEA-HORSE. The members of the group were perfectly sober or they wouldn't have believed it themselves. The sea-horse was hooked at the Belbar Basin and as proof that it actually happened, is now on exhibit in Rossi's Tavern, 154 Belmont avenue.

GARY MOTORS HAS DRIVERS' SCHOOL

Joseph A. Beha, Qualified High School Instructor, in Charge
Of New Instruction Center

Gary Motors, local Kaiser-Frazer agency, of 640 Washington Avenue, has inaugurated a new driving school under the direction of Joseph A. Beha, former Belleville High School instructor. The driving school has been in operation for three weeks. It is equipped with dual control training cars. The idea has met with immediate success and a waiting list of prospective drivers has developed already.

Mr. Beha, who is certified to teach driver's education in high schools, is giving the school his personal direction, thus assuring all students of correct technical instruction and mental attitude in car operation. He has had wide practical experience in training of drivers, having been an instructor for several commercial driving schools in this vicinity.

The high rate of casualties on the highways of the state draws attention to the necessity for more efficient training of new drivers. Persons contemplating taking lessons should bear in mind that training in schools is much more satisfactory than the hit and miss methods of relatives and friends. The time is not far off when lessons under qualified teachers will be a requirement for passing driver's license tests. The state has taken a step in that direction under a new bill which provides for stiff tests and examinations for all driving instructors.

Jim Kelly has been shifted from

Viking Tool and Federal Leather Playoff Rivals

The Viking Tool and the Federal Leather softball teams, one-two in the final standings of the Recreation sponsored Industrial Softball League, met last night in the first of a two-out-of-three series for the playoff championship. The second game will be played Friday night at Passaic River Park. If a third game is necessary it will be played Monday night.

Viking won its qualifying game by beating Continental Can 6 to 0 on Friday.

Mountie Scrimmage Shows Up Flaws in Bellboy Cast

Ronnie Worthington Is Moved Back To Fullback; Depth Revealed in Most Positions Except End
and Center; Two More Scrimmages Are Booked

With just one practice scrimmage against another school under the squad's belt, Eddie Berlinski, Jitty Wische and Ray Smith know a lot more about Belleville's potential grid strength than they did at the beginning of the season. Teams which have been lulled into believing that Montclair is not going to be tough this year are in for a big surprise. On the other hand although Montclair had far the better of Saturday's workout, the extra practice sessions possible because of a Monday opening of school, showed up in the conditioning of the teams.

Worthington At Fullback

One experiment proved to be just that. Prior to the Montclair scrimmage Ronnie Worthington had been moved from fullback to center. It soon became apparent that the team had more life with Worthington at fullback. This left the center spot open and required the moving of Gerald Skidmore from end to the pivot spot.

That scrimmage and an intra-squad session Tuesday showed up another thing. Besides Pete Spera, the team has another excellent T-formation quarterback in the person of Vince Vitelli, who can run, block and pass.

Bill Dunleavy Doing Well

With Tom Galante sidelined for at least a month, it is good news to the coaches that Bill Dunleavy gives promise of being the surprise back of the year. Bill is running hard and blocking well and if he continues, may be the team's star.

In the line it has been established that Charlie Antrim and Bob Haight are definitely the starting tackles. There was thought of using Antrim at guard, and Al Riggins at tackle. But things have been reversed and Riggins is sure of one of the guard spots. Three boys are battling for the other, Don Miller, Ralph Chimento and Ralph Vara. Vara has come out of nowhere to have a little better of the battle.

Jim Kelly has been shifted from end to tackle. Two sophomores, who will get plenty of game action are Frank Scarpelli and Dom Pomponio, both of whom weigh more than 200 pounds.

With the shifting of Skidmore and Kelly into the inner works the quantity and quality of the end material has been somewhat thinned. Right now Ron Thompson and Fred Westby, both of whom played plenty last year and Vince Nardiello seem to have first fall.

Central and Demarest Next

The squad will scrimmage Newark Central this afternoon and will tangle with Demarest of Hoboken on Saturday. Both will run plenty of single-wing at the Belleville defenders in preparation for next week's opener at East Orange. There is a possibility of another scrimmage on Tuesday, but it depends largely upon the results of the Central and Demarest games.

Reserved seat tickets for Belleville's home football games are now on sale at 21 places in town. A complete list of the places at which tickets can be had will be published next week, as well as final word on the team's chances against East Orange.

How to get the best service on your Party Line

Always space calls, instead of making one right after another. That way people can call you, and others on your line can make and receive their calls!

Be sure to release the line promptly when someone needs it in an emergency. You'll find that others will gladly do the same for you!

Courteous folks hang up g-e-n-t-l-y when the line is in use. It's a small courtesy but one that pays big dividends in neighborly cooperation!

The First Dry Leaves

You see them as early as September. The crinkled russet shreds; Indecent vagabonds, As if ashamed of themselves, Untidying the smooth green lawn. Last year's, you think, they must be No, they are this year's.

Charles Wharton Stork

The Bear Was Not As Dangerous As Its Growl

The San Francisco conference not only made peace with Japan. It also laid low an old bogey—"What will Russia think?"

During World War II, we made the major mistake of believing in Communist Russia's professions of her good intentions. That mistaken belief led us down the fool's road of Yalta. At Yalta we sacrificed the Far East to the Kremlin in a "sneak attack" by Moscow's diplomats.

Yalta was not an accident, as far as Russia is concerned. It was one phase in a concerted Communist imperialist drive. We agreed to the sacrifices of Yalta, we are told, because our defense chiefs were convinced that we could not knock off Japan without Russia's help by pinning down the Army of Manchukuo. We know now that it was a major mistake, perhaps the greatest diplomatic and military blunder of this century.

After the defeat of Germany and Japan, that same mentality persisted in the highest places in Washington. Nothing was done, on an international scale, until the question was answered: "What will Russia think?" Appeasement of Moscow was the order of the day. On that regime, the bear grew fat. One aggression followed another and only a swift awakening to reality in time to preserve Iran, Greece and Turkey prevented the bear from gobbling up everything he wanted.

To please Russia, our State Department foisted the Far Eastern Advisory Council on MacArthur in Tokyo. In Truman's sacking of MacArthur there was an equal dose of appeasement of London and of Moscow.

Gradually, as we came to our senses in the high places, fear of annoying Russia gave way to a calm realization that if you wanted to stop Russian aggression you had to meet force with force. That led to the re-arming of Europe; that led to a "hard" policy within the UN. That led to San Francisco.

Had that same awakening occurred before the first San Francisco conference, in 1946, at which the charter of the United Nations was written, Russia never would have been allowed to plant the veto in that document. I attended that 13 weeks' conference as a diplomatic reporter for United Press. I watched Molotov hammer the veto into the text. I watched our own Secretary of State Edward Stettinius crush any incipient movement of hostility to Molotov's veto. That was the height of the "be-good-to-Russia" era. I doubt if Stettinius ever so much as shaved in the morning, or sang in his tub without first asking himself: "What will Russia think?"

The second San Francisco conference changed all that. We looked the bear in the eye, tweaked his nose, twisted his tail—and nothing happened. Suddenly we felt a cold load lifted. America and 48 other nations which sat in at San Francisco last weekend, when Gromyko walked out into the hall once again, realized that the bear's growl was worse than his bite.

There has been a historical precedent to all this. The bear threw his weight around Eastern Europe almost a century ago, dipping his paws into the internal affairs of the Balkans, the Baltic states and the fringe states as he is doing now. France and England tried to appease the Czars, then, suddenly, stopped asking: "What will Russia think?"

In 1854, they went to war in the Crimea, calling Russia's bluff on its own field. Yalta, incidentally, was one of the first Russian towns to fall. The war ended swiftly by Russian capitulation. The Crimean affair taught the diplomats of the Gladstone era that Russia was human, like the others. They learned that you could slap a bear and make him back up. The terrorizing of the West was ended.

Now, a century later, San Francisco has taught us the same lesson over again. This time we can ask the question: "What will Russia think?" Will Russia sit down and heal her wounded feelings as she did after Crimea? Will the Red Russians of 1951 react as Russians have reacted always, under Catherine as under the Czars, by hibernating as all bears do, waiting for the next period of our disunity and weakness to come out again.

The answer cannot be far off. Korea may provide it. If the bear intends to hibernate, we may see the Red Chinese cease their caterwaulings at Kaesong and get back to the business of negotiating a cease fire, or we may see the Russian Far East Air Force join the battle in the skies while Russia's vast submarine fleet would seek to drive us out of Korean and Chinese waters. Or will Russia be satisfied to write off the Korean adventure entirely and allow it to simmer out, dwindling to an undeclared but de facto truce?

R.E.H.

The Sing-Song Whiners of Kaesong

There is little doubt that with the admission of Monday's inadvertent straffing of Kaesong the "cease-fire" talks are nearing an end. Stalemated since three weeks, they can end only in a brusque resumption of war. In fact, operations are in progress this very moment on the mountainous Eastern front. General James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army Commander, estimated that the Chinese and North Koreans lost 25,000 men in the past two weeks, including 1,000 captured. That is war on a real scale.

All the previous Sino-Communist accusations of "flagrant violations," "hostile acts" and imaginary incidents in the Kaesong area serve but one purpose—to befuddle the Chinese and Korean peoples. Red China knows that her prestige was damaged by the Russian diplomatic defeat at San Francisco when the Moscow allies not only failed to prevent the Japanese treaty being signed but also failed to have Red China admitted to the conference.

To cover its confusion, China is raising a typical Communist stink at Kaesong. Since all but one of the charges are so blatantly untrue, they must be dreamed up for their propaganda value. It is obvious that no one outside of the Communist world ever will take them seriously. It is obvious, too, that Moscow will not be impressed by them to the point of overlooking Red China's military defeats on the 38th Parallel front. Consequently, their propaganda appeal can be limited only to the Chinese and the North Korean peoples. That is why the timing of an American pilot's mistake is so regrettable.

Since wars are won on the battlefields and not in the press or the ether, by firepower and not by short-wave, we can only be more impressed by the whine of flying bullets than by the whine of a propagandist.

ONE MAN'S OPINION . . .

Three Western Powers Move This Week To Soften Italy's Peace Treaty Without Giving Russia a Chance To Use Veto

By RALPH E. HEINZEN

The treaty of peace with Japan being signed, sealed and delivered to the archives, the three foreign ministers of the United States, France and Great Britain turned, this week, to reviewing the status of West Germany and Austria, and, belatedly, in this One Man's Opinion, to a revision of the treaty of peace with Italy.

Italy deserved the same kind of an objective, friendly, non-punitive peace treaty as that which was signed in San Francisco last weekend. The original treaty was signed when tempers still were hot, when the Kremlin, having lost its chance to plant its Red flag in Italy, used all the pressure it could bear to gain a "hard" peace for Italy. It is Russia, too, which has prevented the admission of Italy to membership in the UN by the use of its veto and unless we and the other western powers agree to seat Red China in the Security Council, and admit Red Bulgaria, Red Rumania and Red Hungary to the UN there is no hope for Rome being seated.

We proved at San Francisco that Russia's opposition cannot prevent us taking any diplomatic action which we really want to take. The revision of the peace treaty with Italy may prove extremely difficult if we follow diplomatic procedure and invite Russia as one of the major negotiators to sit in on its revision. Moscow knows that in attempting to "soften" the terms of the Italian treaty, we are in reality seeking to remove the clauses restricting Italy's armament. It is no secret to Moscow that the purpose of that is to arm Italy as a North Atlantic Pact partner against Communism.

On two specific issues, the Italian treaty is, in our opinion, outmoded by events:

1. The stringent limitations it puts on Italy's military strength, military training and the development of the Italian navy and air force make of that country the weakest link in the chain of fortified nations which General Dwight D. Eisenhower is building across Europe;

2. The treaty provisions regarding Trieste which time has proven are unworkable and satisfy neither Italy nor Yugoslavia.

Russia Showed Way

There is an argument in favor of proceeding without Russia to strengthen Italy, because Russia created a precedent in allowing her satellites, Rumania, Hungary and Bulgaria, to remain beyond treaty limitations and we were helpless to do more than protest. In Washington this week there appeared to be unanimous agreement that Italy should be relieved of the military restrictive clauses. Since, technically, it would be impossible to revise the Italian treaty without Soviet consent, the trend of thinking seems to be to wards a Big Three assertion that since Moscow has torn up the arms limitations clauses in the treaties of its satellites, the West considers the comparable clauses of the Italian treaty caducous.

French Initiative

Even before coming to America for the San Francisco signing ceremony and for this week's Big Three talks in Washington, France took a definite move towards softening the Italian treaty. The French Foreign Office sent notice, pointed towards just such action, to London and Washington and in the notes spoke of the Italian treaty as "unjust and discriminatory" which considered alongside the easy Japanese treaty appears offensive and unjustified.

In this "One Man's Opinion," France's initiative was magnanimous. I was alongside the French government in its retreat from Paris to Tours and then to Bordeaux when Mussolini's Italy stabbed a staggering France in the back. No description can better describe Mussolini's action in declaring war on a reeling France, virtually knocked out by the swift attack which began at Sedan on May 10, 1940. Mussolini waited until France was all but prostrate before declaring war on June 10, a month after Hitler struck.

Stab in Back

I remember picking up the news of Mussolini's knife-in-the-back declaration of war from a radio in the car in which I was following the French government in its flight from Paris. That was the day Premier Paul Reynaud and his cabinet had been waiting for an answer to a cablegram sent the night before to F. D. Roosevelt, asking the President if France could expect any immediate help from America and how much. No reply came from Roosevelt for several days and when it did come, a non-committal response, it was too late; Mussolini's action, which the entire French press and radio called his "betrayal," had crushed the French will to resist.

Now, France has forgiven and forgotten! A few friends of Italy long have sought a revision of the treaty, among the most ardent of her defenders being our representative in Congress, Peter W. Rodino, but it has remained for France to take the first practical step. Rome must never forget Paris' generosity.

SOLD ONLY BY YOUR FRIENDLY INDEPENDENT GROCER

ANOTHER REASON WHY...

YOU CAN BE SURE..IF IT'S Westinghouse

DADDY NEEDS SAFE SHOES. Today's safety shoes combine good looks, comfort, and sturdy protection. Many of our plants have shoe stores right on the premises where employees can be fitted in their choice of several styles of safety shoe. It's one step in our program to prevent foot and toe accidents.

WHICH IS BEST? Equipment used in Westinghouse plants is studied constantly to make sure that it is the best to be had from the standpoint of safety. Here a committee studies strength and safety factors of various kinds of chain for swinging loads under overhead cranes.

Westinghouse Employees are three times safer at work than at home

'Way back when industry first concerned itself about practicing safety, George Westinghouse said, "A properly designed product can not be unsafe." He would have been pleased to know that today Westinghouse is among the safest of all places to work.

Westinghouse employees were three times safer at work than at home last year, National Safety Council figures say.

To put it another way, we had 24% fewer injuries per million man hours than the electrical industry as a whole. And we had 65% less injuries per million man hours than industry in general.

Like good products, good safety records are made by good people, well-trained and working with the right kind of equipment. Safe employees and safe products go hand in hand. They are another reason why you can be sure...if it's Westinghouse.

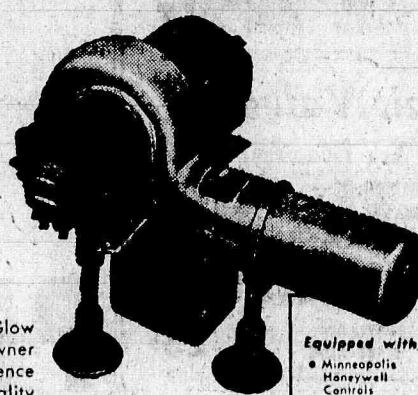

LOOK OUT! Wherever there is the slightest danger of flying fragments, face protection is required in Westinghouse plants. This light, easy-to-wear plastic face shield does not interfere with visibility, but it prevents accidents by protecting the face and eyes of the wearer.

STRAIGHT UP! W. R. Blewett, (standing) Manufacturing Staff Assistant, demonstrates proper lifting method to employee at the Electronics and X-Ray Division, Baltimore. The carved figure is flexible, but as long as it squats to pick up the load, and lifts it straight up, its back stays ramrod straight. Improper lifting causes the back to bend.
