

So What?

Edwin Stout of 143 Academy Street celebrated his 22nd birthday on Friday, February 29th, opening some 330 birthday greeting cards mailed to him by friends and members of Belleville Lodge of Masons, Mr. Stout, as you have probably figured, was 88 years of age that day. He was twice master of Belleville Lodge and up until 10 years ago, when he retired, was employed by the Erie Railroad. He was in the general office at Cleveland at the time of his retirement, and then came back to his "home town" Belleville.

Where is Claude DeHart? Who is Claude DeHart? These are a couple of questions the Nutley Historical Society is trying to find out. Our neighbors are celebrating their 60th year of independence from the town of Belleville as the Village of Franklin and Claude DeHart in an issue of the Belleville Press of 1881, made a comparison on the records of Franklin. The newspaper story says Claude was 12 years old at the time he was still alive Claude would be 64.

Belleville police have more than a passing interest in the proceedings in the murder trial of three youths, now in progress in Newark. The trial is an aftermath of the killing of special officer James Law, in front of a Newark Supermarket, Ralph Rosania, the alleged assassin, was arrested by Belleville police on a warrant by the Newark police, on suspicion of murder, who was working in a new house under construction in Joralemon Street. Tuesday when the confession of Joseph Grillo, who charged with firing the fatal shot, was introduced into evidence, it was revealed the Grillo had been Newark police that he net $500 of the loot the next day in a crap game in Belleville.

Thomas Aitken, president of the Peoples Aitken Bank and Trust Company, Belleville, who is the American Red Cross, returned to his duties at the bank on Monday after his two-day trip to America. In January he took a trip to Hawaii. On such trips Mr. Aitken makes it a point to make up his Rotary meeting in the foreign port, if a Rotary club exists there. When he visited Honolulu he met the Hawaiian king, King Kahanu-moku, famous Olympic swimming champ and Honolulu Rotarian.

Captain Edward K. Fischle of Belleville, utilities officer at headquarters of the Belleville Water District at Kearny Shipyards, is an army officer who has the honor of controlling the mine when he operates. For under his jurisdiction oil consumption at the plant has been reduced to more than five thousand gallons per month, to cut the fuel bill by $435 per month. He has installed a new plan to save on electric power consumption, through rewiring and repainting to provide more light where needed but none at all in unoccupied portions of the area. Previously the plant had been lit on an "all or nothing" basis.

"Any saving we make in power for the plant," said Captain Fischle, "states, and since I'm a taxpayer—that's me!"

The Saturday Evening Post's story this week, "Did They Really Solve the Lindbergh Case?" required that the Bremen had been part of the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the Hunderston County murder of the "Kidnapper." The Post story infers that the state might have tried Mrs. Hauptmann, rather than have sent away the jury.

Rotary Club Will Sponsor Visit Of European Student

The Belleville Rotary Club has voted to sponsor an eight week visit of a foreign student, in Belleville, during the summer. The club has decided to ask a boy from Sweden to come here. The student pays his own board passage, but the club will provide him with a room and board. The student will be a guest of the club for one week, and the club will provide him with a room and board.

MATTURRI TO RUN AGAINST RODINO IN 10TH DISTRICT

Reappearance Of Elwood Russell On Clean Gov. Ticket Only Surprise In Primaries

The deadline for filing petitions for the April 15 Primary election, passed at midnight last night without any surprise happenings. Congressman Peter W. Rodino, Jr., of Newark, the Democratic incumbent was his party's choice to seek re-election in the 10th District, and Alex J. Maturri, also a Newark lawyer, was Clean Government's choice to oppose him. There was no surprise in either filing.

Revival of Russell

The closest thing to a surprise came in Clean Government's announcement that Elwood Russell, of Belleville, and Damon Douglas, of Orange, will have the organization's support in their candidacies for nomination as the County of Freeholders. Russell had to give up a seat in the Assembly last year by the organization's long-voting ruling and has been angling for another political job ever since. Nutley turned out in the snow, last Saturday, to sign petitions for General Dwight D. Eisenhower at "E-Day" booths on the town streets and about 1,400 Nutley names are on the preference petitions that went to Trenton this week to insure the General's name appearing on the Primary ticket. At the same time, Stassen petitions were circulated privately and it is surprising that the same names, in many instances, appeared on both petitions.

Stassen Leader

Lawrence Bernard, of 87 Linden place, Belleville, who charged moved from Nutley after having lived here 32 years, was designated by the Stassen State forces to manage the ex-Governor's campaign in Nutley and Belleville. An employee of George LaMonte & Sons, he went through the army and into the army for 5 years of wartime service, including 3 1/2 years in the European theater. Henry N. Weeks, of Linden Ave., will be a founder of the Veterans Club which will be held in the town hall on Tuesday night at the American Legion home, 33 South Main avenue, in East Orange. The club will be a veterans affairs and service club in Essex County, plan a county-wide reunion of the veterans in the town of Belleville. A local chapter will be set up here within the county organization.

Russell's reappearance on the Clean Government slate followed reports that Elwood Russell, of Belleville, who had been a member of the Orange and Nutley chapters of the American Red Cross, returned to his duties at the bank on Monday after his two-day trip to America. In January he took a trip to Hawaii. On such trips Mr. Aitken makes it a point to make up his Rotary meeting in the foreign port, if a Rotary club exists there. When he visited Honolulu he met the Hawaiian king, King Kahanu-moku, famous Olympic swimming champ and Honolulu Rotarian.

Battle In 11th

There was a two-way contest here in the 10th District with Maturri opposing Rep. Rodino, but in the 11th District, Republican forces will be split because of the insistence of Miss Grace M. Freeman that she will run for Congress. The announcement that Becker's announcement that the organization's candidate will be Thomas Moloney, former Orange

Committee Studies Ways And Means Of Aiding Rev. Close

Home Of Former Pastor Of Fewsmith Memorial Church Destroyed By Lightning

A committee of elders of Fewsmith Memorial Church has been appointed to study ways and means of aiding Rev. and Mrs. O. Bell Close, whose home, at 1000 West Beach, was completely destroyed by the bolt of lightning struck on Saturday's storm, which set the building on fire, and then by a gas explosion which occurred after the firemen had left the scene. The six room home was built years ago by members of the church who volunteered their labor, while Rev. Close was pastor of their church. Upon Rev. Close's retirement in 1946 he and Mrs. Close took up year-round residence at the home.

All Belongings Lost

In addition to their home, all their belongings, plus a manuscript for a book, which Rev. Close has spent three years in writing, were destroyed by the fire. The fire broke out in the living room of the house, which was a two-story house. Since their personal disaster Rev. and Mrs. Close have moved into the home of their son-in-law.

"Voice" of Belleville Red Cross Repays Assistance With Staff Help

Francis C. Crabtree Makes Himself Useful Three Days Per Week At Headquarters

A meeting with Francis C. Crabtree is bound to re-affirm your faith in humanity and to bolster your enthusiasm for the Red Cross, for the "voice" of the Belleville Chapter of the American Red Cross is an example of courage, appreciation and unselfish service. Known to the staff as Crabby, he is a sturdy but a crafty individual, (though he can distinguish only shadows, he has an insight on life that few of us develop.

Francis C. Crabtree, partially blind Red Cross Staff Aide at his desk in Headquarters, is example of unselfishness.

The refrigerant, sulfur dioxide, engulfed both men, and knocked them out. But the full force of the blast went into Crabby's eye. The Belleville fire and police departments administered first aid and rushed both to the hospital, where the neighbor spent two weeks before he was released, and Crabby a great deal longer. To him there was a complete loss of vision.

Board Discusses Method Of Buying School Property

Appraisals By Owners and Board Will Become Basis for Negotiation; To Name Appraisers On Monday

Members of the Belleville Board of Education took the first steps toward acquiring some five acres of land in the vicinity of the Passaic Avenue School for the site of a new secondary school Monday night in the Board rooms when it acquired two of the four owners of property involved as to the procedure which the Board will follow. The other property owners will be acquainted with the procedure by mail.

It was agreed that in order to arrive at a fair basis for negotiation, whereby the Board would pay a fair market price for the property, each property owner will be invited to call in an appraiser, at his own expense, while the Board will have its own appraisal of the property. The two appraisals will then become the basis for negotiation.

FRANK A. SPOTTS IS NEW SECRETARY OF ATHLETIC COUNCIL

Board members agreed to study the advisability of having one or a committee of three appraisers to the figures. As a result another special meeting of the Board will be held Monday night to name the appraisers. A considerable discussion was held on the advisability of having two local and one outside, or two outside and one local appraisers on the committee, and that feature will be the first step toward the Board of Education.

Not Represented

David Rappaport of Bloomfield, attorney for Triona and Cavalese, owners of four lots on Division Avenue, informed the Board that he could not be present because of a previous appointment. He was also informed that the Board of Education will receive the Board's plan of procedure by mail.

Frank A. Spotts

Noirman D. Laurette was elected chairman and Frank A. Spotts was recommended as secretary and treasurer of the General Athletic Council at an organization meeting of the new Council, Monday night in the office of Supervising Principal Evan H. Thomas. Crabby gives the directions. His many years of employment in the City had given him an excellent knowledge of its streets, subways and buses.

On his second trip, Mrs. Crabtree went along, and her son, who was the route director. However, with his niece in school and his wife required to work to support them both, the frequent trips to New York meant a day lost for one or the other. A neighbor mentioned the Red Cross Motor Service as a possible solution. Sure enough, when Crabby called and explained his situation, transportation was granted immediately.

Motor Corps Helps
Since May of 1951 the Belleville Red Cross Motor Service has taken Mr. Crabtree to the Institute in New York and to his local doctor in East Orange for all necessary treatments. The kindness of the Red Cross workers and their willingness to help made Crabby want to do something in return. It was then that he hit upon the idea of serving as a staff aide at the headquarters.

With only slight vision, this meant quite an undertaking for him. On most days he walks back and forth from home to work and the Trackless Trolley Bus down Belleville Avenue to Washington Avenue and then walks to headquarters.

There he is the "voice of the Red Cross"—and a pleasant voice. It is as anyone who has occasion to call the headquarters can attest. He records incoming calls, messages accurately and in such detail that it is seldom necessary to ask for additional data.

Made Church Survey

As he is so close to tackling things on his own account. For instance, recently he made a canvass of all the churches in Belleville and compiled a complete record of church services, church groups and church activities. This information has been mimeographed and made available to the soldiers in training with the Anti Aircraft Artillery in Belleville Park. As each new group moves in, the church information is handed out so that each soldier can attend the church of his faith without further inquiry as to the time, location, name of church leader, and other details which might arise.

Crabby is as loud in the praise of the volunteers of the Belleville Red Cross as he is in the praise of the volunteers of the Belleville Red Cross. He has been a wonderful help in continuing my treatment regularly.

Mr. Crabtree was born in Nutley and attended Nutley Schools. He married a Belleville girl and came here to live in 1920. He likes Belleville and Belleville people, especially the Belleville girl who is his wife. "She took my accident like a soldier and has been the most wonderful wife a man could have."

Operation May Restores Sight
Doctors feel that an operation will eventually restore Mr. Crabtree's sight completely, but treatment must continue for a long time. His friends know that Crabby can take his rightful place in the world of business once an operation is performed and is successful.

The manner in which Mr. Crabtree has faced his situation and his activity in behalf of the Red Cross should give us all pause to think of how much we are doing to help others less fortunate. If you have any doubts, call Belleville 2-4610 on Monday, Wednesday or Friday and after talking to Crabby, you too will find time to give of yourself to help make Belleville a better community in which to live.

WHY DOES THE FIRST $1,000. COME THE HARDEST?

Perhaps because you are establishing a habit. You may find it takes real grit to put money in the bank, when there are so many other places to put it.

But, after you have saved that first thousand, you begin to realize the advantage of getting interest instead of paying it. You have a sense of security, with something between you and financial trouble . . . and you have formed a habit that can put you on the high road to prosperity.

Varsity Club Banquet

The postmen have a slogan, neither snow, nor rain, nor hail, etc. and it did all of those things Tuesday night along with a little thunder and lightning, but none of these things kept members of the Belleville Varsity Club and their friends from paying tribute to the Belleville High School basketball team, winners of twelve games and losers of four during the regular season campaign. The affair at Parrillo's was attended by about 150 people.

It was the fifth banquet for the court team and was arranged by Harold Robert, Ed O'Neil and Bob Harvey. Vic Pomponio, a club member supplied the flowers which decorated the head table and which were presented to Mrs. Herman Wische during the evening.

President Arthur Bloemere presided and called upon Rev. Thomas Ellis of Grace Baptist Church for the invocation. He then introduced Commissioner, Harry J. Sullivan, the toastmaster. He in turn introduced, for a bow, Assistant Coaches Herman Knuppel, Raymond Smith, Hugh D. Kittle, Harold Dufford, Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde, Eugene Kelly and Walter Loesner.

Harry Sullivan suggested in his introduction of Walter Bakum, West Side Coach, that he be a good fellow and reveal his strategy for Friday night. Mr. Bakum replied that someone had misinformed Belleville as to the date, the game is scheduled for Saturday. "Of course if you take my advice and show up on Saturday, we will win by forfeit. That's my strategy," he replied.

Vic Vincent Parrillo, prominent basketball referee, said he felt at home in Belleville for it was in the Belleville County Park in 1926 that he had his first job as a playground leader. He also pointed out that he was a childhood friend of Jitty Wishe, and that he was the toughest guy he ever played gentile to officiate at the Latin American Olympic Games. Against. He then painted a word picture of his trip to Ar. He concluded with a statement that the South Americans are coming along fast in all sports and that soon the United States will have to look to his honors.

Coach Wishe, in his 15th year at Belleville High, pointed out that this is his eleventh year as head coach. He said fate had been good to Belleville, but his hearers know that Wishe has been equally as good. He pointed out that the boys are fine sports and have earned an excellent reputation wherever they played.

As he introduced members of the team and said nice things about each, he was presented with a small trophy. Introduced in turn were Thomas "Barringer" Mack, Hyland "Dean" Hatcher, Paul "Berg" Weinstein, Lou Tyska, manager and the team's only casualty, out with a broken leg; Pete Benz, Gordon Galter, George Polka, Fred "Biddie" Engel, Nick Petti, Pat Caruso, Charlie "Mugs" McGuire, the squad's most improved player; Barry Muller and Bob "Butch" Kittle. Bill Chapman presented a gift to Coach Wishe and Ralph Casale had a little gift for "Lefty" Kintzing, unofficial assistant coach.

Defending A Title

Belleville High School's basketball team has an excellent chance of making the semi-finals of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association basketball tournament, if its seeding in The Essex County Tournament runs true to form. The Bellos open their defense of the North Jersey Section I title on Friday night at Seton Hall gymnasium at 8 o'clock against "Water" Bakum's West Side team. Both Seton Hall, winner of the county tournament and Montclair seeded No. 1 will be out of the Group IV competition.

In the bracketing Belleville gets a real break. If it gets past West Side it will play the winner of the Central-Orange game, possibly on Tuesday night, with the winner stacked against the winner in the Bloomfield-West Orange, Irvington-Nutley division on Friday or Saturday for the section I crown.

Coach Jitty Wishe's boys were out at their best in either of their tournament games at Seton Hall during February, mainly because Dean Hatcher was ill, that important week. Whether or not the well Seton Hall floor handicaps the locals in their zone setup, will be demonstrated tomorrow night against the Rough Riders.

In an early season game Belleville trounced West Side soundly, but since then Harry Shiel, a transfer student and a swell player, has joined Bakum's team. The game should be close, close enough to provide some doubt as to whether it will be Belleville or West Side which plays the second game.

Local fans should find plenty of seats available at Seton Hall gym, if other state tournaments are any example. Somehow the glamor that is attached to the county tournament seems to be missing from this state affair. Personally it is because the tickets are sold only at the door.

In view of the fact that out of the state association's budget of more than $20,000 the state basketball tournament makes a profit of only $9,000, it seems logical that any efforts to revamp the financial setup of the association should start with the tournament. As things now stand the state association has entirely exhausted its surplus and is operating hand-to-mouth pending a new setup.

We still think Belleville has a good team — good enough to represent the county in the big games at Elizabeth on March 21 and 22. And unless they draw Bayonne for the semi-final, should not have trouble reaching the final night. The road ahead is rocky. The first stepping stone is tomorrow night. Come on Hatcher, Engel, Benz, Weinstein, Moss and Caruso! We're counting upon you!

CYO Sportsmanship Awards For Eighteen Quinets

Ballots have been sent out to all basketball referees and team managers in the Essex County CYO leagues, in preparation for the annual sportsmanship award ceremony, which will be held on March 16.

Belleville is represented in the CYO league by several teams. E. C. Peter's and St. Anthony's have been named for the award.

The sportsmanship award consists of a plaque, given to the team that has been consistently shown respect for referees and the rules of fair play, and a courteous attitude to their team mates.

Belleville's standing in the team in its league does not enter into the decision of the referees and managers.

Besides the plaque, which will be given at the annual June Assembly, certificates will be awarded to the players on the honored teams. Results of the voting will probably be announced when the final finals take place. They are scheduled for March 16.

Activities In Belleville Schools

Elementary Schools Plan Play Days for Their Girls

Hostesses Will Invite Eight Girls From 3 Other Schools And Arrange Day's Program

The girls of each elementary school in Belleville under the direction of Miss Margaret Leahy, supervisor of elementary school physical education, will participate in a play day sometime during this school year. The girls of one school invite eight girls from three other schools in town. The students selected, make up teams, and devise an appropriate theme for the play day according to the season of the year. The home group provides hostesses, chairman of refreshment committee, chairman of athletics, officials and students who arrange the schedules for the activities of the day. Every girl in the hostess group has something to do. They prepare the invitations for the play day, and the girls from the visiting schools write acceptance and after the play day, thank you notes.

At the play day, each participant wears a pinny to show which team she represents, and a variety of games are played, followed by light refreshments.

These intramural play days are excellent preparations for the girls as they go to high school and compete in interschool play days. The greatest achievement of the play day in Belleville is the breaking down of the barriers of sectionalism that sometimes arise in a town that is spread over a large area.

Mary Gerard At Marietta.

Miss Mary E. Gerard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil W. Gerard of 149 Cedar Hill Avenue, has been nominated for this semester as a freshman at Marietta College, Marietta, Ohio. She is a graduate of Belleville High School.

Teen of the Week

Dave Gruman is one of the outstanding students in the Senior Class and has been extremely active in school functions since his freshman year. He was elected to the Freshman Senate and, as a result of his excellent work, was re-elected to succeeding senates.

When the setup of the Student Council was altered to include an executive committee, Dave was elected as one of the original members of the committee. Dave, who plays the role of "Keith" in the Senior Play, is also business manager of the "Monitor." Last fall he worked at the concession at the stadium and was also one of the driving forces behind the magazine campaign.

"THE WHISKBROOM" IS NAME OF NEW SCHOOL PAPER

Paper Revived After 13 Years; To Be Published Quarterly All Grades Make Contributions

After being dormant for thirteen years, the school paper of School No. 9 has been revived with an attractive cardboard cover and fourteen pages of news events and interesting happenings around the school.

It is hoped that the newspaper will give the parents a better understanding of the accomplishments of their children during the year. It should also aid the lower grade students in understanding the activities of the upper grades, while older pupils learn more about the accomplishments of their classmates.

MATH DEPARTMENT HEAD RECOGNIZED

Vocation Forum Held In School Auditorium; Progress In Functional Education

Mr. John K. Heffernan, head of the Belleville High School Mathematics Department, has received a letter of congratulation from Dr. John R. Mayor, Chairman, Department of Education, The University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin, on the fine contribution of a very worthwhile program in the mathematics department.

The letter from Dr. Mayor was in reference to the vocational forum on the openings in the engineering profession for the graduating members of the high school senior class. The forum was conducted in the auditorium, with Mr. Evan Thomas, Superintendent of Schools, acting as moderator for the four engineers who supplied all the information requested by the students.

A summary of the program will appear in the March issue of "The Mathematician Teacher." Dr. Mayor emphasized the progress in functional education evidenced by a program of this type and closed his remarks by saying, "I wish that a similar program could be held in many other high schools in the country."

DEMOCRACY IN SCHOOL AMAZES GERMAN STUDENT

Welcomed By Classmates In True American Spirit; Eager To Learn English Language

The newest member of the eighth grade at School No. 10 is Ingeborg Janita who arrived in this country from Germany on February 4th of this year. Inge, as she is called, has come to the United States with her mother and she both are living with an uncle at 121 Fairway Avenue.

Inge, who has had some previous training in English, is very anxious to learn the language and that she can become better acquainted with her classmates. On the day after her arrival, two of her classmates, Annaliese Jettling and Elsie Schneider visited her at home to give her a friendly welcome to our town. On the following day, Inge visited the eighth grade at No. 10 and enjoyed with them a musical assembly given by Mr. Samuel Peck and students from the High School. The school's German classmate Elsie Schneider, who speaks German was, "Why do the students raise their hands?"

When it was explained that a student raised his hands when he wished to speak, Inge was amazed that students do not have to "speak only when they are spoken to." Another source of surprise to Inge is the freedom of movement that students have in classrooms here. When she was asked what things about our country seem different from Germany, her reply was "Everything."

SHAWGER SCHOOL STRESSES FREEDOM OF RELIGION HERE

Students Learn Meaning Of "One World" And Friendship For People Of Other Lands

In the upper grades of the James G. Shawger School, a filmstrip, "Freedom of Worship" was shown. The filmstrip utilizes color cartoons to illustrate the freedom of religion that Americans enjoy in religious beliefs. A round table discussion followed the showing of the film.

A study and discussion of her science from all nations and their contributions to our "One World" were conducted in the seventh and eighth grades. Group discussions on contributions of writers of each of three leading faiths to the field of children's literature was planned for the upper grades. The children in the seventh and eighth grades also made a study of people in other lands as an appropriate reading unit followed by a discussion of "Good Neighbors."

A special emphasis was placed on stressing desirable qualities possessed by fine people everywhere regardless of race or creed, and each day real instances of people noticed of friendliness and respect for others were listed on the bulletin.

In the lower grades a study of traditional customs was undertaken to develop understanding of other countries. The students enjoyed coloring paper dolls with foreign dress and tried to develop knowledge that America belongs to all the people.

The Great Blizzard of '88
I remember, I remember,
The storm of '88,
It filled the roads with snow thru which
No plough could penetrate;
The wind, it blew a blinding gale;
The cold, it was intense;
The snow was heaped up in great drifts
Above the highest fence.
All the traffic was suspended,
The horse cars could not run;
The trains were stalled along the way;
Mail service—there was none,
Some fought a passage thru the storm,
Some perished in the cold;
Some stopped in taverns 'long the way,
Where warming drinks were sold.
They did not ring the old school bell;
The doors were closed up tight;
While we boys frolicked in the snow,
From early morn 'till night.
We had a whole week off from school;
Did we have fun? You bet;
The memory of that glorious time
We never can forget.
Reviewing all the bygone years
That memory can recall;
The one of 1888
Stands out above them all.
Not a one of us old timers
Will e'er forget the date;
There never was a blizzard like
The one of '88.

A Fight On Their Hands.
Clean Government has a fight on its hands.
In the May Primary, Clean Government's favored candidate, General Eisenhower, is going to be opposed in the preference poll by both Taft and Stassen. In November, not only is Congressman Peter W. Rodino, the Democratic incumbent, going to be a hard man to beat in the 10th District, but Archibald Alexander, the retired Undersecretary of the Army, is certain to give a terrific battle for the seat in the U. S. Senate now held by H. Alexander Smith. That battle of the Alexanders will rival in cruelty the Hellenic campaigns of their namesake.
And how does Clean Government go about winning those battles?
Against Rodino, the GOP will throw another Alexander—a Newark lawyer, Alex J. Matturi—evidently convinced that only by splitting the Italian vote of the 10th District can it regain the seat which it lost when Fred Hartley retired.
And to top it off, Clean Government received Elwood P. Russell.

No Secret Agreement
To the Editor, Times-News:
Dear Sir:
The Walsh Act, under which Belleville's type of government operates, provides for five commissioners to conduct the city's business. The state statute further provides that there be regular commission meetings which are open to the public and press so that all matters of discussion are "an open book." As a matter of fact, the law required that proceedings of these meetings be published at least once a month. The entire act points to the end that all transactions and discussions having to do with city business be a matter of open record.
Last week's front page story, whereby Commissioner Harry J. Sullivan, Director of Public Safety, publicly admits that when the new board took office in May of 1950 they agreed to settle disputes among themselves, is a direct violation of the principles of commission form of government. These laws were written to prevent secret or so-called private caucus meetings at which time "deals" are worked out in advance of the public meeting. In all probability in May of 1950 an agreement was made that the majority vote would prevail and the minority vote would not tell the side of the story at public hearings.
I know of no other municipality that has had the brazenness to admit, as did Commissioner Sullivan, to such a scheme publicly. One of the previous things about American government is the fact that the minority has a public voice. It can keep a majority honest. Courageous minorities that do not fear to speak often keep a majority honest. Commissioners from going through with a proposal that would be detrimental to the citizenry if the objections are voiced.
Each of the five commissioners are men of strong individual opinions that certainly must differ at some time. When, on the surface, all five acted unanimously

Russell had served his three terms in the State Legislature and by its own ruling against longevity of service, Clean Government had to put him out to pasture. Not an Alexander, but unhappy out of harness, Russell served in any and all minor roles at party headquarters, making himself generally useful where he would be often seen and never forgotten.

Out of the blue sky, Mark Anton of West Orange announced that he did not choose to run for re-election to the Board of Freeholders. It was a surprise and needed swift action. Russell was in sight, he was available, he was picked and will carry Clean Government's support in the Primary for the Freehold role.
Good county government always has been demanding of a quality Board of Freeholders. Essex has been fortunate to have had excellent Freeholders; the Primary choice always has been good. It should have continued so.

Proper Procedure
Taxpayers of Belleville are assured that the Board of Education has their interest at heart in its negotiations for the site of a new secondary school on property lying between Joramelon Street and Division Avenue, adjacent to School No. 7. The plan outlined to the property owners at a special meeting on Monday night assures both the owners and the people of Belleville that a fair price will eventually be arrived at.

As outlined the Board recommends that each of the four property owning groups engage its own appraiser to set a fair market price for the property. The Board plans appraisal of all four plots by a committee of appraisers, at least one of whom will be from out of town and not influenced by any possibility of politics or prejudices. Two separate appraisals will then become the basis for negotiation. Although the Board has given its attorney the power to negotiate, he in turn has suggested that at least the preliminary negotiations be conducted at special meetings of the Board of Education, with all members in attendance, conferring with the property owners and their legal representatives.

In the event that after all of these efforts are made and no agreement can be reached, the Board still has recourse to condemnation. In that event a third set of appraisers will be appointed by the court.

The site is ideal. It is on high ground. Test borings indicate that a building erected there will not be subject to settling. Now the principal problem is to obtain the property at a fair market price.

The actual purchase will have to be approved by voters at a special school election. If the taxpayers are convinced that the price is fair, that the method used in acquiring options is not subject to criticism, then no opposition should develop. As things look now, the Board has put the taxpayer's interest at the top of the list. It has adopted the proper procedure.

and harmoniously at all times, I suspected some sort of deal was on. When children are too quiet in the nursery, the chances are they are in mischief.
I want Belleville's dirty linen washed in public. That is the only way to get it clean and, moreover, clean. It is not ungenerously to "protect" as from knowing what is going on. In fact, it is downright dishonest to do so.
More courage to Commissioner Hyde for his declaration of emancipation with which he broke an illicit agreement with the other commissioners. Let him cast the light of day on all city business, not only when it is good, but more important, when it is bad. I offer the suggestion to him that he does not attend any secret meetings in the future, that he keeps away from caucus meetings that develop behind the point of arranging for an orderly presentation of the business for the ensuing public commission meeting. Then, at the public meeting, he will not punches and let the public and the press get to the bottom of the story. If he is right, an aroused public opinion will halt any improper actions and the detriment of the taxpayers and the citizens in general of Belleville.
If I am on his side, Commissioner Hyde may well evolve to be the leader of Belleville's government, although he is but one voice in five.
Yours truly,
Ben Rabin

War On State Socialism
To the Editor, The Times-News:
A leading investment advisory service has flatly forecast that our economy will be socialized within ten years. The facts support this conclusion.
Right now Washington has virtual power to dictate the price of every business transaction whether it be in banking, electric power, insurance, mail, housing or transportation. Some industries are already socialized in everything but name, copper for instance, and the plague is spreading. Where will it strike next?
Those of us a few months ago who said that price controls would not stop inflation were smeared and castigated. And

ONE MAN'S OPINION . . .

Playing Her Great National Pastime of Party Politics, France Endangers Our Whole Western Defense Chain

By RALPH E. HEINZEN

A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, and in the chain of defense which General Eisenhower is trying to stretch across free Europe, France is the weakest link.

The new French cabinet crisis, which has once again exposed France to the difficulties of multiple-party government, merely points up the weakness of a nation torn by partisan dissension, tottering on the rim of an economic chasm, insolvent and economically and morally bankrupt. Even Italy, despite its tremendous losses of men and material in the war, has come back better than France. In both countries, Soviet Russia still has strength and it would be foolish to deny that if France falls, our entire defense system in Western Europe falls.

Important, therefore, is the timely warning by Senator Tom Connolly, the most powerful foreign policy leader in Congress, that France must "do her duty" towards the Western defense bloc if she expects any more American aid.

Since our own defense against Communism depends upon the success of the Eisenhower mission, France's weakness is a threat to the venture into which we have poured, already, more than 20 billion dollars.

If France's troubles were economic only, a solution might be attained by a new transfusion of dollars. But France's troubles stem from her inborn preoccupation with domestic politics. France seldom has been able to bury her partisan politics except in the darkest hours of the two world wars when she found new strength in national union coalitions.

This is such a midnight hour in the affairs of the free world and, yet, France is playing her great national pastime of party politics. The opposition of the Socialists and the DeGaullists to any centrist effort to raise taxes and throw away the red ink dooms France to continued weakness—and the powerful French Communist party has been able to sit quietly by and wait.

I Saw France Fall
In a quarter of a century of covering French politics, the full period between the two world wars, I saw more than 20 French cabinets fall. Some fell for good sound reasons, but nine out of ten fell because the French Parliament was back at the old national pastime.

We have nothing comparable in this country under our two-party system, but in France there may be 20 or more parties taking part in any national election. It is obvious that no single party, as here, can be a majority party, so government is possible only by coalition of parties.

French partisan politics runs a wide gamut from the Royalists of the Action Francaise at the extreme right to a small band bent upon upsetting the Republic and restoring the Bourbons, to the Communists, the third largest French party in number of electors.

Wide Division
In between are such groups as the Socialists, the Radical-Socialists who are neither radical nor socialist but have sprung from the terrible fight 50 years ago for the separation of the church and state, the various centrist and liberal factions and, finally, the new force, the DeGaullists.

The Communists are definitely out of any French government coalition because Paris knows well that they would withdraw our support of the Socialists and prefer to remain in opposition, although from time to time they do consent to join a cabinet. They are advancing their policy of resistance to military budgets, particularly for financing the war in Indochina, although they never have offered any alternative.

The Radical-Socialists are the unhappy group which has had to carry the burden of government ever since World War I. That was the party which furnished Herriot, Daladier, Sarraut and the many Premiers who tumbled in and out of power for a double decade.

Intent On Disruption
The DeGaullists are a non-operative party. They, too, want to stay in the opposition until they can win enough electoral strength to grab and hold power. Their policies have shifted with

It will take a strong government to force higher taxes on a nation divided in its partisan leaders but willing to be led if the leader can convince France that there is a real ultimate goal with victory ahead. Such a government, willing and able to settle France's debt to the European Payments Union without touching the gold reserves of the Bank of France, is the hope, but in this "One Man's Opinion," France will choose, instead, to try out time after time, more politically ambitious but incapable non-politics whose fall from power will be even more swift than their rise to fame.
France is not yet ready to make the sacrifices that must be made. We're in the third quarter of the great game of party politics.

Compares Building Practices Of Australia And American

Eric Hulme of 122 Bell Street Declares Nature Of Wood Causes Difference In Work

With Belleville faced with a building boom this year, it is interesting to compare building practices here with those of Australia, and Eric Hulme of 122 Bell Street, who has worked as a carpenter in both lands supplies the principal difference through his description of the work. Here the proper procedure is for wood to be dried by kiln or exposure to air for a long period before it is used in construction. In Australia, according to Mr. Hulme, the dry wood is so hard and unworkable, that it must be worked by the carpenter while still wet, and allowed to dry after it has been incorporated in the construction.

Eric Hulme, resides with his wife, Kathleen, and son Donald, age 11, at 122 Bell Street. He came to this country from Australia in 1925, where he lived since the age of 3. Locating first in Newark, Mr. Hulme came here in 1927. Since that time he has made three return trips to his native land. Two he made in 1937, and one in 1948, at which time he was present for that country's 150th anniversary celebration.

Land Of Bicycles
Mr. Hulme says that Australia is a land of bicycles. Almost universally, such is the method of transportation. On the outside of schools, factories, and shops, are great large racks built to hold these conveyances when not in use. There is small wonder for this condition, since gasoline sells at 25 cents a gallon, and must all be imported from this country. Likewise automobiles are very expensive and are not so numerous as here. In Australia, from the parts sent from here, in order to eliminate the import tax.

Traffic bears little as it does in England, and is heavy during rush hours. Since that time he has made three return trips to his native land. Two he made in 1937, and one in 1948, at which time he was present for that country's 150th anniversary celebration.

Water Is Big Problem
The water situation is a Numb-ber 1 problem in Australia. At the year of each home is a 2000 gallon tank, placed to catch water during the rainy season. This is a stretch of about 4 months. The other 8 are hot and dry, with temperatures ranging between 105 and 110 degrees. He tells of its being mid-summer in Australia when we are having Christmas Day; that people always go camping on that day. He is a great lover of the out-of-doors and enjoys doing the same here during our summer.

Mr. Hulme related how the leaves on the trees are green all the year round; that they stay put, and let the bark of the tree do the disappearing act. When he first came to this land, he exclaimed to a friend, "What! dead trees, can't you grow trees in this country?"

People Friendly
He says that the people of Australia are very friendly. They are almost all English, and are very unprejudiced. Everything is run by the centralized government located in Canberra. Wages are geared to the cost of living index.

The principal cities are Sydney, Brisbane, Melbourne, and Perth. There are many small towns linked together by the Trans-Continental railway which extends the length from east to west. The train coaches are made up of separate compartments, each designed for ten persons, five to a side. A traveler is obliged to change at every state boundary as there is a different gauge there are "Flying Ambulances" throughout Australia, ready to go anywhere at any time in case of emergency even Mr. Hulme.

Sharks Infest Beaches
The waters surrounding the many beaches are shark infested. Shark proof fences have been built around each for protection. A guard sits on top of a high pole to cover on the lookout. If a shark is spied he rings a bell of warning. These posts are sometimes 25 feet long and many persons have been bitten while still wet, and allowed to flow in from the sea.

Mr. Hulme tells that boys begin compulsory military training at the age of 14. The schools have more men than women teachers. After reaching 84 a student is ready for work.

Many eucalyptus trees grow in Australia. They are the source of the oil that is imported to this country. The leaves are the only food that the grey ten inch Koalas eat. Without them the grey bears the Koalas in this land would have to import the little fellows but Koalas are too choosy about their menu.

Mr. Hulme has many interesting comments in his description of the natives in the north west for hunting in the kangaroos. The inhabitants in this section are lazy. They live from the land with its wilderness, and never go to the coastal areas. The exports are hardwood, kangaroo skins, some of which come to Newark, rabbit skins, of which more than 25 percent are sent to the United States, and sharkfins for belts and pocketbooks.

Asked if he were ever returning to Australia, Mr. Hulme says, "No, it's much too long a trip."

Women's American ORT Plans Celebration At Anniversary
There will be a Membership Tea on March 12 at the home of Mrs. Eugene Ogar of 38 Crescent Terrace, marking the Silver Anniversary of Women's American ORT.

According to Mr. Hulme, the exports are hardwood, kangaroo skins, some of which come to Newark, rabbit skins, of which more than 25 percent are sent to the United States, and sharkfins for belts and pocketbooks.

Asked if he were ever returning to Australia, Mr. Hulme says, "No, it's much too long a trip."

As Chairman of the Gray Ladies, Belleville Chapter, American Red Cross, Mrs. William Frisch issued an appeal today for more volunteers to serve in the Gray Lady unit, of the Overbrook Council.

Women in the age group from 21 to 59, in good health are eligible. Application blanks can be filled out at Red Cross Headquarters, and a personal interview arranged with Mrs. Frisch or Mrs. Oscar McEnroe, Chairman of the Service Group. A training period for new volunteers has been tentatively scheduled for March 10, 12, 17 and 19, from 9:15 to 11:30 a.m. After completion of the training course, and a 36 hour probationary period, to allow the volunteer to become fully acclimated, the pin and certificate of merit are presented the novice.

The volunteers serve 2 to 3 hours, once or twice a week. The work in the hospitals includes the teaching of crafts, knitting, patchwork, ceramics, the arrangement of programs of music, record-playing, games, and the conduct of walks and other forms of recreation. The volunteers provide their own uniforms which are a relatively inexpensive cotton garment costing about $7.00.

As Mrs. Frisch points out, being a Gray Lady has its compensations in the smiles, the hearty laughs, the light of interest in the eyes of the patients. Happy, active patients recover much more quickly, and the volunteers learn to their best to see that every one is happy and occupied.

Call Red Cross Headquarters now—Belleville 2-4610 and enroll as a Gray Lady trainee.

BRING FAMILY HOME AFTER PURDUE GRADUATION

Emanuel Thomas Rudy Brings Home Mechanical Engineering Degree, Wife And Two Sons

Emanuel Thomas Rudy, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Rudy of 38 Convent Avenue, has been graduated from Purdue University with a mechanical engineering degree. He is a member of Phi Tau Sigma engineering fraternity. He was born in Belleville and graduated from Belleville High School in 1939. The next year he took a national competitive examination for appointment to the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, Long Island, and was one of 19 successful candidates. After his graduation he received a commission of Ensign and served on the Destroyer McCall. At the age of 23 he was promoted to Lieutenant Junior Grade.

Lieutenant Rudy fought in almost every Pacific naval engagement and received two decorations for heroic conduct. One was the result of his ship known as the Mighty Mac shipping into Guam, while the Japs were in command there and rescuing Navy Radioman George Rogers, who had eluded the Japs for three years on the island. He won the Navy Medal and commendation ribbon for heroism in aiding in the rescue of 109 survivors of a flaming escort carrier. The citation was awarded by Admiral T. C. Kinkaid. He was promoted to full Lieutenant after this discharge from the Navy after 32 months of service.

Lieutenant Rudy married Miss Rosemary Kelly, of Newark. They have two sons, Mark, 5 years old, and David, 7 months old. Since his graduation the family has returned from Indiana and hopes to settle in the vicinity of Belleville.

Call out the Reserves with a touch of your toe!

Most cars lead a double life. A good part of the time, they're running errands, taking children to school, taking women to stores, taking men to work, taking family and friends to clubs and social functions. It doesn't call for a very great output of horsepower for duties like these. But there are times when you want a car that can do vastly more, and these are the times when you'll want what this year's ROADMASTER has to offer.

Beneath its proud hood, there's a Fireball 8 Engine—a valve-in-head that can let loose 170 lively horsepower when needed. And—alongside this engine—there's also an Airpower carburetor which thriflily feeds fuel and air through two smaller-than-usual barrels for normal driving—which means that you now use less gas at 40 than you'd formerly use at 30. But there are two barrels in reserve—waiting for you to call them into action—and they let loose a soaring rush of power that sinks your shoulders back into the seat cushion, swoops you past a truck—out of a tight spot—up a hill—sets your speedometer needle to registering added miles more than twice as fast as your watch can tick off the seconds.

This is an experience you certainly should know firsthand. You should also know how Buick's Power Steering® provides a helping hand in slow-motion maneuvers—lets you keep the "feel" of the car in straightaway driving. And just for good measure, this '52 ROADMASTER also has the biggest brakes of any postwar Buick—the greatest trunk space since spare tires moved off the front fenders—a warning light that glows when the parking brake is set—and to top it all, the smartest interior fabrics that Buick has ever offered.

When are you coming in to look this distinguished performer over? We urge you to make it soon.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Optional at extra cost on ROADMASTER only.

Sure is true for '52

The Meeting Place

Edgar Jean Bracco

The other night, Tom and Betty, a young couple we know, came to visit us. Ordinarily Betty is a live wire, full of talk and laughter, but this time she was quiet, and Tom had to do the talking for both of them. It took some time, but the story finally came out.

As she told it she sometimes became slightly unbalanced, and I was inclined to believe that at times she was exaggerating a bit. Therefore, if some of it sounds far-fetched, remember it came from a woman on the border of justified hysteria. No woman will blame her.

The day before, she had had what is sometimes called "a harrowing experience." Tom had told her that his boss and Mrs. Boss were coming for dinner. Betty naturally wanted the house to sparkle, so as soon as Tom had left she had set to work.

Before digging in, she lifted her eyes to Heaven in a fervent prayer that today, of all days, Junior would behave. She looked in on him. He was still in his little bed, fast asleep. Strange, she thought. So sweet. So angelic. Impossible to believe that when he's awake he is possessed of a satanic imagination that . . .

Well, she turned to her work, hoping—but not really expecting—that he'd sleep clear through to-morrow morning. She started the washing machine, then turned to the living room. The steady beat of the washer was a comforting sound, and she even hummed a little as she dusted. Suddenly she heard a sound. Popping her head into Junior's room, she saw he was gone. Into the kitchen she dashed, hoping against hope. She found him standing near the washer, smiling innocently. Everything seemed in order, but she couldn't believe that he was simply standing there. There's nothing destructive in that.

Then something caught her eye. The top of the washer was off and she got a glimpse of chartruese suds. Chartruese. She noticed that her dimpled darling was clutching in his chubby fist an empty box of chartruese dye, the one that had disappeared months ago. The little anarchist had been saving it ever since he had swiped it, watching for his chance to use it.

Well, being a woman of strong character, Betty didn't let that one throw her. As she prepared Junior's breakfast she philosophized that chartruese sheets, pillow cases, handkerchiefs and towels might not be so bad at that, but, she thought, what will Tom say to chartruese shorts?

No sooner had Junior destroyed his breakfast—with food prices as they are she knew it was only a matter of time before his appetite would drive them to the poorhouse—no sooner was he through than he asked for a cheese sandwich. Asked? Betty laughed. "I gotta have a cheese sandwich" was the way he put it. "But you, just had breakfast, honey," she said.

His lower lip pushed out and his eyes took on the look of a shark sitting up a sandbar. "Cheese sandwich, cheese sandwich, cheese sandwich," he cried. "Yes sir! Right away, sir!" She knew this when he took off like that he would keep going, his voice growing louder and louder, until the power and monotony of its roaring would set every dog in the neighborhood howling. She was ashamed of the impulse she had—to slip him an all-burger sandwich. After all, he's only a child. If his own mother can't be patient with him, who can? She made him a nice fat Velveeta sandwich and returned to work, regretting that in winner children can't play outside.

For a while everything was quiet. In the kitchen Junior sat, chomping on his sandwich and talking to himself. About ten minutes later his very silence bothered her. A strong cheesy odor also bothered her. Tip-toeing to the kitchen she peered in.

"Oh no!" She flopped weakly into a chair. He had eaten the bread and had neatly laid the cheese on the radiator. It was dripping down the sides and splattering dizzily on the floor. Betty, to keep from blubbering like the village idiot, took a deep breath. She'd clean it later. Now she had to finish the living room. But she'd keep an eye on the little hoodlum for a while.

The doorbell rang. It was a nice young man who insisted that her house would be colorless if she didn't buy one of his vacuum cleaners. It took her twenty minutes to convince him that, what with price today, she'd do with-out a little color in favor of old. Then she rushed back in, afraid of what her dear little viper had done in those twenty minutes. She didn't have to see. She smelled.

He had taken an onion, peeled it carefully, and then had rubbed it diligently along the living and dining room walls until it was all gone and the house stank as if it had been painted in onion juice. She had only one agonized thought before she lunged at him. Open windows will get rid of the odor of fish, broccoli, cabbages, cigar smoke. But onion juice clings. And clings. And clings.

With a hysterical sob she picked up the psychology book—the one that says it's imperative to be patient with a child and never spank him—and used it to give him the padding of his life.
