

Organizer And President For Ten Years, Recently Retired From Eastwood-Nealey Post

Suggesting that the Belleville Foundation, which he helped found and which has been operating under his leadership for ten years, needs new blood and should elect a new president this fall, Harry C. Specht told members of the Belleville Rotary Club of the Foundation's accomplishments, aims and even its failures in its ten years of existence, at a meeting last week. Mr. Specht, recently retired as vice-president of Belleville's oldest industrial plant, the Eastwood-Nealey Corporation, and is spending considerable time in his garden at his Upper Montclair home.

Mr. Specht told how that Foundation came into being as an attempt on the part of Belleville leaders to bring about closer cooperation between the industrial plants of the town and its churches and church leaders. Some of the suggestions of the early meetings were found to be impractical. But the Foundation Board of Trustees still gives the town's businessmen equal voice with that of the factories and business interests.

Supported by Industry

The Foundation is entirely supported by industrial corporations, gifts which in ten years have amounted to close to $400,000, of which $100,000 has been expended. Income from the balance amounts to about $15,000 a year and in a few years it is hoped that repayments of loans to students will enable the Foundation to operate on current incomes instead of spending some of the capital each year. Current expenditures amount to about $20,000 per year.

Early projects of the Foundation included the publication of a number of booklets including "Belleville Today," "Open Door to Belleville" which was used to welcome boys home from World War II service, "Belleville Tomorrow," the inauguration of a survey of recreation in Belleville by the National Recreation Association, which was eventually paid for out of town funds; the moving of the old bell from the Christ Church on Main Street to the steps of the present church; a combined musical festival in 1943 and a concert by the combined choruses of all Belleville's churches; the establishment of the Student Loan Fund; the Belleville Dental Clinic and Junior Achievement.

Camp Re-L. Best Investment

As for Camp Re-L., one of the Foundations most successful investments, Mr. Specht recalled how hard it was to sell the camp idea in the beginning. At first the Foundation proposed that the Belleville and Bloomfield Rotary Clubs join in operating the camp. Objections in Bloomfield resulted in a shift to a Nutley-Belleville Rotary setup which was equally unsuccessful, and finally the inter-club cooperation between the Lions and the Rotary right here in Belleville. Now that the camp is being operated successfully there is a chance that service clubs in Bloomfield will join the project to make the camp self-supporting and eliminate the necessity for concentrated financial drives by the two local service clubs, such as the recent Camp Re-L. Show and last year's car drawing.

Notable failures in the part of the Foundation, Mr. Specht recalled were its efforts to get a hospital for Belleville. In 1934 when the chances of getting the hospital were brightest, opposition developed among Bloomfield members of the Mountaineer Hospital

Cities Succeeds And Fails At Foundation Projects In Talk At Rotary Club Meeting

Board of Trustees, and right here in Belleville under the leadership of Bill Williams. Actually although plans for the Lutheran Hospital have been more or less abandoned, the Belleville Foundation's committee is still working hard on a plan for a bigger and better hospital for the town.

Still for Planning Board

Another failure due to local political expediency was the study and report on a planning board for Belleville, submitted to the Board of Commissioners of the town more than two years ago. At the present time Belleville is one of two communities of its size in the entire state without a planning board. In the preliminary survey it was discovered that more than 1,500 people had volunteered to give of their time in helping to set up and maintain a career plan for the future development of the town of Belleville.

Mr. Specht refuses to believe that the Planning Board proposal is a complete failure and urged members of the Rotary Club to press for action on the part of the Board of Commissioners.

The Social Outcast

The other day I was coming home from a walk and I ran into old Bill Merritt. As usual, he was willing to talk, so we leaned up against a tree, and for almost two hours we talked the time away. I say we—actually, when you're with Bill, you do the talking.

He has what is called an "ear." He listens well, and although you never get much out of him in return, you know when you're through that you've had a sympathetic listener.

Well, after the rag had been thoroughly chewed, we parted. He said good-bye in that polite, slightly formal way of his "Good day to you, sir." I watched him walk off slowly, a thin, gentle, somewhat beat old man whose age might be anything.

As I turned in the direction of home I saw heading down on me the iron-faced Mrs. Snead. You know her. And if you don't know the particular Mrs. Snead I mean, I'm sure you have one of your own in your neighborhood. As I got closer, I spotted up my steps, hoping to meet her with no more than a hello. But this wasn't my day.

"Good afternoon," she stated. The way she says hello sounds like a judge handing down a sentence. For you are talking to William Merritt."

"That's right," I knew she knew the Bill, and some perverse grin inside me made me add "He's a nice fellow to talk to."

Mrs. Snead sniffed as if she had opened a bad egg. "Most people don't have much use for him."

I then bowed me a little, but I had my pride to consider. "I'm not most people," she snuffed again, and took off with a loud outraged "Humph!" I could almost see her feathers ruffling in indignation as she charged down the street, clucking to herself.

I started homeward slowly, thinking about Bill. I know why Mrs. Snead and the busybody of her kind don't like him. Bill is not a church-goer, and he makes no bones about it. He'll never question your right to go if you want to, but like any man of principle, he'll thank you not to stick your nose into his privacy and question his right not to go.

I never spoke to him about it, of course. Only once did he bring it up himself, just after he'd been righteously snubbed by one of Mrs. Snead's stooges.

"I don't do nothing against churches," it's just that I figure to catch his own. I prefer to do my worshipping alone. I try to do right by people and to live right, that's my religion."

And a good one it is. There are a lot of devout church-goers I'd like to see adopt some of Bill's attitude toward the people around them. They seem to feel that having spent a while in their own particular piece of worship, they can violate with impunity the codes of decent behavior. They're the part-time religionists.

I'll take Bill. He's full time. I remember things to forget. You may recall that last winter we had some years ago, Harry Bamister slipped on the ice and sprained his back. Mrs. Bamister, with the three kids, and Harry bedridden, had her hands full. As the frost was on together, I decided what we could do to help. The meeting lasted all evening. It was late when we all arrived and stepped out into the crisp winter night.

We had decided much. As we reached Harry's house, there was Bill, shoveling the deep snow from the sidewalk. He hadn't needed his shovel, but he had one had selected his advice. Yet, while we had been inside generalizing about the meeting, no one had noticed him. He was in his own quiet way, without fuss or publicity, had simply taken his shovel and gone to work.

There was the time Tom Norstead's car broke down right in front of my house. I was on the porch, and being a nosy sort of character, I craned my neck to see what was going on. Well, what was going on was a lot of purple swearing by Tom because the car wouldn't start. Then, from around the corner, as if he had known he was needed, came Bill.

"Trouble, Tom?" he asked. "That's one way of putting it," Tom growled. "The seven-over car busted down right smack in the middle of the seven-over street. I'll be damned, if I can get it to budge."

Without a word Bill went to the back of the car, and when Bill's push had given the car enough momentum, Tom jammed it into gear. It coughed, roared to life and sped away. Bill watched it go, then nodded to himself, as if to say, "That's all she needs!"

I remember the day we picked up a car for him. But it was the policeman who came wanted to shoot it, but Bill picked it up in his arms and turned his back to the drawn pistol, the capture saying "without words, 'If you shoot the dog you'll have to shoot through me.'"

He nursed it back to vigor, and now you rarely see Bill without that ugly, shaggy, but wonderfully human dog beside him.

I remember the summer night Jack Russo was being operated on. Mrs. Russo had to stay home with the kids. The neighbors stayed by her for a while and then, one by one, they had to leave. Bill sat on the bottom step of the porch while Mrs. Russo was in the rocket. That was how I felt then.

The next morning early I went by to see if there was something I could do and—Yes, you guessed it. Mrs. Russo was still there, and on the bottom step sat Bill. He had stayed with her all night. Why not, he told me later. "Time like that a person needs company." And to cap it, it was Bill who called the hospital later that morning and he was the one to give Mrs. Russo the news that Jack had come through fine.

Yes, I remember many things about Bill Merritt. He's the man on whom Mrs. Snead frowns because he doesn't go to church. Of the two, one is kind, helpful, understanding—a person who would literally give you his last dollar if you needed it—one who wouldn't hurt you because he believes that humor's a greater creature of nobility made to be respected.

Two Popular Entertainers, Singer And Comedian, Give Pupils Joyous Time Here

The James G. Shawger School's upper grade students were entertained Tuesday by two former pupils, Vincent Riccio, now a popular radio and night club singer known professionally as Jack Carroll, and Domenick "Chang Lee" Roberto, a comedian and vocalist, who just returned to the United States from Korea where he entertained American soldiers.

"Chang Lee" acquired his Chinese nickname about 15 years ago when as a sixth grade pupil he played the part of a Chinese man in one of Miss Pozzo's assembly programs.

No Broadway actor ever received a better reception than these two entertainers. Squalls of delight and spontaneous applause rang through the assembly hall as Jack Carroll sang "Black Magic," "When You're Smiling," and other favorites. "Chang Lee" with his snappy repertoire of jokes, stories, and songs will be remembered for many years by teachers and pupils alike.

Enchanted Path
A shaft of sunlight penetrates a wood and makes a magic pathway, slanting down tapered tree-tops to the seedling ferns.
A hawk takes on a rarer golden hue, and the gray of lichen deepens into jade. The spiders loom their lace with jeweled threads.
And sequins glitter on the staid monk's hood.
Slim, silver columns shine where birches stand.

The Hour of Eisenhower
Few moments in our political history produced more drama than the first press conference of candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower, facing not only the hard-boiled corps of Washington correspondents but the plaudits of catamorphans and the grueling test of television. To all the millions who were watching Tuesday morning on their TV sets, Eisenhower passed his test with flying colors.

Nothing that Eisenhower said in that contact with the political writers will hurt his cause. Much of what he said makes much good sense that the contrast of the dignified yet amiable, ingenious yet honest soldier with the sorry spectacle of a President pleading the cause of unconstitutional powers can only have awning many more votes to Eisenhower. In the comparison, Harry Truman, with a pro-labor chip on his shoulder turning at "big money," suffered badly.

Out in Albemarle, today, Eisenhower will have further opportunity to make clear a position which really needs no clarification. Eisenhower, the candidate is the same admirable American as Eisenhower the Supreme Commander. There never has been anything wrong with his Americanism.

There are still many questions left unanswered, but many of them are loaded questions. Such, for example as: "Do you favor a compulsory federal FEPC?" or "Are you in favor of price supports for farmers?" Millions of votes hang on the answers. Those questions are unfair, and to our way of thinking none of the other avowed candidates, except those from the deep South, has given any clean-cut answers.

This is Eisenhower's hour. Taft has had his hour, almost unopposed because no one could call the campaigns of Governors Warren and Stassen serious opposition. We should understand that ahead of the General, be many political pitfalls, for which his soldierly training have not prepared him as would, for example, an apprentice in the Pendegast machine.

The impression that millions must have gained from that first press conference on Tuesday is that of a soldier who is trying the best to tell America of the dangers of playing politics while Joe Stalin is roving around with a lighted torch. He might have played patty-cake with the political reporters, or he might have tried to bluff when he didn't know the answers. Instead, he admitted frankly that problems of financing the free world's rearmament are independent of his task of shaping an army out of unvarnished defense contributions of a dozen nations.

It is our contention that only an Eisenhower could say with any authority whatsoever that while "powder keg" wars, of the Balkan variety, always are possible, there need be no fear of a deliberate move into war by Soviet Russia and her Chinese and Polish satellites. Such a move, he contends, could be made only if the aggressor could be certain, firstly, of winning instantly by a crushing lasso, or, secondly, winning a global war by superior manpower, potential and production. Russia has neither assurance, he said, hence, in Ike's opinion, no World War III. And on that score, I like Ike.

His valdacity was a warning to the nation that we should be highly alert, highly mobile, and that the basis of our foreign policy should be the enlightened self-interests of the United States above all other considerations. Those were not phrases from a speech written by some ghost. They were the off-the-cuff answers of the man who, among us all, was closest to the center of the fire. They make sense, and, again, I like Ike.

His humble yet keenly intelligent attitude towards the loaded questions of some of the political writers who are not above prejudice about answer once and for all the question: "Should a lifelong professional soldier seek the highest political office?"

Our answer to that is yes, when the man is Eisenhower and when the occupant of the White House is Harry Truman. R. E. H.

A Living Constitution
The Supreme Court, in putting a clear stamp of unconstitutionality on President Truman's seizure of the steel industry, denied the theory of "inherent powers" and thus raised a legal barrier against executive action without specific authority. In the opinion of The Times-News, that denial of residual powers beyond the wording of the Constitution is the major consequence of this supreme test of powers.

It is necessary to remember that the Constitution is more than ink on paper. It is a living guardian of liberty, a growing governor of national life. It lives in the hearts of the people. It grows by formal and informal amendment to keep abreast of the nation's development. So, for example, it has grown to cover freedom for slaves and votes for women.

There are advantages in a written constitution. But Americans would do well to avoid any assumption that a fine outline of governmental machinery is in itself sufficient. Even with a noble Bill of Rights added it is not enough. Several dictatorships have constitutions that virtually duplicate that of the United States. Those constitutions have been put on the shelf and allowed to wither, largely because their peoples have not understood the reasons for their provisions, have not kept their liberties alive in their hearts or developed the teamwork essential to continued growth.

With the steelworkers taking strike action even before the ink of the Supreme Court's ruling was dry, the next step of this vital crisis concerns only President Truman. The court ruling, in a few words, meant that the President used an extralegal method when a legal method was available. That legal method, the application of the Taft-Hartley law with its 80-day strike injunction, is still available.

Ever since the Taft-Hartley Law has been on the Statute books of the land, Harry Truman has refused to use it. He is a horrible example of a partisan president. The law, in his mind, is a "Republican" law and he, a good Democrat, is not going to give the Republican party the moral satisfaction of using the law. This is no time for trivial partisan politics, this is no time for small minds to risk the security of the free world.

There is no choice. The Taft-Hartley Law is the only legal step if Harry Truman refuses to use it. He is disrupting the rearmament of the anti-Communist nations and there is but one Constitutional alternative; impeachment. R. E. H.

ONE MAN'S OPINION . . .
There's A Grave Danger That Italy, Escaping The Scylla of Communism May, Once Again, Be Back Into The Charybdis of Fascism.
By RALPH E. HEINZEN
The lesson of the Italian provincial and municipal elections is, alas, that there is a trend of opinion away from the center, towards the totalitarian fringes. The survey that comes from an analysis of the voting statistics is that from the dregs of Fascism is arising a Neo-Fascism at the extremely opposite end of Italy's uneasy political sea-saw from the still-powerful Communists and Syndicalists.

This was but a town and province election. Next year Italy will hold a general election, with the control of the national government involved. These May elections are only a preliminary round but the trend of voting is significant. If ever Italy needed guidance it is now. The latter campaign which Congressman Peter W. Rodino organized for the last general election was never more necessary.

The Center parties still hold a majority of the Italian provincial and municipal councils but there has been a swing of 1,000,000 votes away from the centrist Christian Democrats, despite the fact that the Vatican City newspaper, "Osservatore Romano," and the Catholic hierarchy came out strongly for De Gasperi's party in this election. And while a third of those defecting votes went back to the Communists, the other two-thirds went to the Neo-Fascist and Monarchist coalition.

The setting, unhappily, is much like that in 1922 when Mussolini ordered the "March on Rome," except that today Italian voters have had experience first hand with both Fascism and Communism and should have voted in full knowledge of what they were doing.

Same Blind Backing
This Neo-Fascist center around the M. S. I. (Movimento Sociale Italiano) which is headed by a 46-year-old Roman Prince and while a third of those defecting votes went back to the Communists, the other two-thirds went to the Neo-Fascist and Monarchist coalition.

Having known both Benito Mussolini and Joseph Goebbels as newspapermen in the early days of my apprenticeship abroad as a foreign and war correspondent, I have a feeling that I have seen the same film before.

My first meeting with Mussolini was at the round of conferences which followed the Versailles peace conference, and I recall seeing him at both the Cannes and the Geneva conferences in 1919 and 1920. He was then the political editor of the powerful "Popolo d'Italia" published at Milan, and in his editorial columns was already attacking the League of Nations and the "plutocracy of Versailles," by which he referred to France and Great Britain.

The Early Mussolini
In those days, Mussolini had none of the stature or grandeur which came with prosperity and with the education that went with the title of Duke. He was a shop-worn Socialist who was trying to "cure" his heart. We war reporters, who were interested only in the editorial page, not the news page.

In those distant and happy days the American press was represented abroad by an excellent staff of big time foreign correspondents and among them were Floyd Gibbons, Henry Wales, the late Jimmy James, Wiley Jay, Lincoln Ayres, Lincoln Steffens, Larry Hills, Wythe Williams. I was a debutant just out of the army, going through my apprenticeship in such glorious company. One day, a foreign correspondent never moves more than a foot away from a transatlantic telephone, but in those early days we used to gather in the evening in the best cafe we could find in the city of the conference and in a "hot session" talked over happenings of the day. Many a brilliant lead for some called article was born in those cafes.

Benito "Bug-Eyes"
I remember that the shop-worn Italian editor used to frequent the 1921, Mussolini and 35 followers were elected to Parliament. By November, 1921, at the Congress of Bologna, he was ready and a Fascist political party was born. By October, 1922, he already was King and because he was not sure of his fellows, Mussolini kept the "Fascist" and "seven portfolios" for himself.

Good and Bad
There can be no denial that Mussolini's Fascist regime did have its good points, just as it had its bad. The destruction of the Mafia was one of its excellent accomplishments. It was the draining of the Pontine marshes, Good roads and good housing were built. It was a contribution, but it was the other side; the sorry side, the mob action and the political murders, such as the killing of Matteotti, which stamp the regime as one of oppression.

Then, too, Mussolini's dream of Empire by aggression brought Italy nothing but death and desolation at the end. I can remember his first bungling effort at carving out a new colonial empire for Rome. In 1924, however, he sent an expedition out against the Greek island of Corfu. Britain and France compelled him to pull back.

Nearer to home, he helped Ahmed Zog grab power in Albania and that Adriatic state became the stepping stone to the big step from which Mussolini could not pull back was the rape of Ethiopia. It was at the end of Easter week, 1935, when Mussolini and Pierre Laval talked over the British and French foreign secretaries. Italy's millions of surplus population, there never was anything that I could see to confirm that Laval gave Benito the green light on Ethiopia at that meeting, but there are many diplomats who believe that he did.

War in Ethiopia
At any rate, Mussolini attacked the land of the Negro in October, 1935. He was costly to see as a result of the long economic crisis in this country and the weakness of the League of Nations and Communist political unrest, the democratic powers were bound to collapse and did not have the will to fight. He suffered from the same material aberration as Hitler.

As a war correspondent, I was with the Abyssinian armies in Addis Ababa and I saw the Negro army on its last march with wooden spears against the Duke's soldiers.

What's New in New Jersey
New deepwater facilities
...help Industry in New Jersey
There are many new developments in New Jersey today . . . and among the important advantages offered to industry are the plans to improve deepwater shipping facilities in the state known as the Crossroads of the East.
New Jersey is famed for the outstanding shipping and docking facilities available to industry at the Port of New York, Port Newark and the Port of Camden.
Now, new construction of docking and loading improvements are planned for shippers on the Jersey side of the Hudson River. And along the Delaware River, a project is outlined to provide a 40-foot channel from Camden to the Trenton area to facilitate deepwater shipping to and from the new U. S. Steel plant and other industries.
There is a lot more news about New Jersey — new research plants, new highways, new markets, new opportunities for plant sites — which is of particular interest to industry. Do you want to know what's new in New Jersey?

LIFE at BHS As Our Teen-Agers See It

by Rita Carisimo-Audrey Maize

"Best of luck and success..." oops we forgot that's not singing "Monads". As usual this time of year, everyone is running around with a yearbook in one hand, a pen in the other, and verses running through their heads. As you probably have found out, if you want to keep your "Monads" you had better keep it out of sight, especially if you are in Mrs. Degen's English class and broke, since she threatens to charge a redemption fee.

N. H. S. Tapping

"Leadership, Scholarship, Character, and Service" - these summarize the qualities essential to become a member of the National Honor Society. At the annual tapping assembly last Thursday, talks on each of these qualities were given by Rabbi Schwartz, Father Francis, Reverend Hubach, and Reverend Goldston, respectively. Following these inspirational talks, the five new members tapped last year - Marilyn Hubach, Audrey Arnold, Audrey Maize, Barbara Van Houten, and Helen Horowitz - tapped 18 seniors and eight juniors. The seniors include: Joan Bauer, Gail Campbell, Rita Carisimo, Charles Crane, Alice Mendler, Terry Inaugural, Gail Howe, Rose Marie Falcone, David

Results

The results of the Student Council election find the following people in office. President, Charles Maguire; Vice, Mary D'Onofrio; Secretary, Jean Dufford; and Treasurer, Marie De Falco. They are sure to do a good job, but you students should be sure to back them up.

Big Doings

All of the seniors are in a whirl waiting for the Annual Senior Diner Dance which will take place at 7 o'clock on June 11th, the Rye Beach trip which is on Friday the 13th (anyone superstitious?), and finally graduation on Wednesday, June 18th, at 6:30, rain or shine (we hope shine).

They really "did us proud" last weekend when they not only came in first in the National races at Washington, D. C., but broke two records as well. Congratulations to each member of the crew from everyone in BHS.

Crew

At a meeting of the newly formed Jr. Red Cross Inter-school Council last week, Joan Cavanaugh was elected president of the Council for the coming year. Lois Woodman was elected secretary and Anita Hettling was chosen vice-president. Joan a junior at BHS has been very active in Jr. Red Cross work, as have Lois a freshman, and Anita, who will enter BHS in the fall.

Coming Soon

Watch for the last edition of the Spotlight for this school year. We have advance information that this issue will really bring the year to a close with a bang.

Talking of closing the school year, it is time also to bring our work on this column to an end as well. We hope you have enjoyed reading our column as much as we have enjoyed keeping you informed of the activities at BHS. We wish the columnists for next year success and hope they have as much fun as we did.

Hail The Champs

Belleville's investment in a new eight-oared shell for the Belleville High School varsity-eight, paid off handsomely on Saturday when the boys coached by William N. Bennett, Jr., won the National Schoolboy championship at Washington, D. C. While other titles were decided at the same time as in other sports, there is one top event, and in rowing it is the eight-oared shell championship which is prized above all others.

The victory was a fitting climax for the Belleville crew, which had lost only two races this year, one to the Columbia Varsity Lightweight and the other to the famous Kent School crew.

Coach William N. Bennett, Jr., whose enthusiasm for rowing led to the inauguration of the sport at Belleville and Nutley High Schools, seven years ago, was rewarded for his patience and had his coaching methods vindicated with Saturday's victory in the Schoolboy Regatta. Critics have said that Bennett's insistence that every boy have time on the river every day and that there be no squad cuts, would produce quantity but not quality. The championship plus the record of former local crewmen, now rowing at college, prove that Coach Bennett can produce both. Coach Bennett devotes about three hours each afternoon as coach on a voluntary basis. The fact that he owns his own machine shop, makes it possible for him to take the time to do so.

Unfavorable Return

The weatherman was not very co-operative as the amateur oarsmen attempted to return rowing on a club basis to the Passaic River on Sunday. The more than three inches of rainfall over the weekend, eliminated one of the expected drawbacks, but created others. It limited the crowd more or less to the relatives of the participants and the swollen river was full of floating pieces of wood and trees, brought down from the uplands. The expected low water of a low tide did not materialize, and the rain-swollen stream aided the oarsmen in their downstream course.

The eight-oared shell race, which should have been the feature did not come off because the New York A. C. encountered difficulty in getting its boat here, having been barred from the Turnpike because of its length. Efforts to borrow the Nutley shell for the event were balked by Bill Bennett, coach of the Belleville and Nutley high crews, and the N. Y. A. C. did not consider the Nereid shells suitable for competition. Other than these few drawbacks, the return of boating to the Passaic after 51 years of absence was successful.

The event was under the auspices of the New York Rowing Association. Several accounts of the races in daily papers listed the Nereid Club as a co-sponsor. The Nereid Club was host but except for providing two members of the committee was not responsible for either the conduct of the races or the selection of the site. And Nereid's entries, although they included boys who also represent Belleville and Nutley High schools, were with the exception of Bill Bennett in the singles, not representative of the schools. In fact the starting Nereid shell were manned by boys from both schools.

These facts are mentioned just to get the record straight. High School rowing is one thing. Club rowing is something different. Sunday's events were primarily for the club rowers.

Altogether 13 events were held with the New York A. C., as expected, taking first in the quarter-mile dash, senior four-shell, novice single gig, senior double-shell, junior single gig, intermediate single shell and the senior single shell events. Joe Angyl, star of the NYAC squad started the program with a victory in the quarter-mile dash and followed with wins in two other boats. He teamed with Ed Lynch in an easy double shell victory and stroked the senior four-shell boat to a victory over the Undine Barge Club of Philadelphia. Ed Lynch also was in three winning boats.

Nereid won the Junior Quad shell event with Charlie Crane and Ronnie Worthington of Belleville and Watts and Dawson of Nutley, beating a New York A. C. boat by a wide margin. The most exciting race was the Junior Four Shell with Cox, won by Nereid with W. Miesleski and R. Malukowski who row doubles for Nutley High, plus Adams, Abizida, and Demgard, of the combined high school squads. These youngsters not only had to detour around a floating log but came from behind to nose out a crew representing Fairmount Rowing Association. Another good race was the Senior Four with coxswain, won by the NYAC over the Columbia Rowing Club, represented by four Columbia University freshmen. Another Columbia Rowing Club entry composed of three varsity, four JV and one 150-pounder, were unable to race for the James H. Hughes Memorial trophy, because of lack of opposition on the part of the NYAC. The two crews will fight it out over the weekend in a race at Randall's Island.

Belbays Tossers Crush Orange In Season's Closer

Batter Three Pitchers for Ten Runs In Opening Inning; Topple West Orange in Tenth; Bow to Blair

By Charlie Maguire
Belleville High's baseball team closed out its season this week with three games, two of which went into the victory column and one on the wrong side. Monday's concluding game, won from Orange 14 to 2 put the team at an even 500 for the season with seven victories, seven defeats and one tie. For a green team it was commendable but not an exceptional record. Besides beating Orange, the Belbays also downed West Orange 6 to 5 in 10 innings and lost to Blair Academy 9 to 4.

Orange High used three pitchers in the first inning of Monday's game and the last of the trio managed to retire the side after the Belbays had scored ten times. The first seven Belleville batters clubbed out hits to send starter Charlie Vickers to the showers.

Seven Straight Hits

Sam Graziano opened with a single, Doug Pusey doubled, Nick Petty singled, Paul Weinstein doubled, Pete Spira and Fred Kraft singled and Jerry Skidmore doubled. Harry Rabinowitz succeeded Vickers for the Tigers and after he walked Pete Benz and Jack McKinnon, Doug Pusey clubbed his second two-bagger of the inning and Paul Weinstein singled again. Rabinowitz also went to the showers while Richard came in from center field to finish the inning and the game.

Orange got its two runs in the half of the first but Belleville kept on scoring. In the third they got three on Graziano's walk, a hit by Pusey, and a steal of home. Weinstein reached first on an error and Doug and Pusey scored on Kraft's triple. A walk and two more singles produced another run in the fourth inning.

Jack McKinnon hurled four-hit ball over the seven inning route and after his first frame shaky start, finished the game in good order.

Had No Hitter Going

Against West Orange, Charlie Terrier pitched no-hit ball for six innings, but in the seventh when he walked three batters in a row without getting anyone out, Jack McKinnon relieved him. Jack struck out the first batter but Bob Schubert connected for a hit which produced two runs to tie up the game at five runs for each team. The Belbays broke up the tie in the tenth inning when Mack Bennett opened with a triple and Pete Spira hit a triple and Pete Spira hit it. It was the third time this season that Spira delivered in the clutch.

The trip to Blairtown was not entirely wasted, for although the Blair Academy boys blasted Torgue's crew, Belleville's team won the game and won the game 9 to 4. The Belleville boys concluded the day with a swim in the Academy's pool. A tremendous triple to right field by Matt Madera was the game's longest blow.

Panzer Grad

Charles F. Kline, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Kline of 335 Maier Street, was among 45 who received degrees in Physical Education from Panzer College of Physical Education and Hygiene, of East Orange, on Thursday. Mr. Kline, who played football for Belleville High School before his graduation in 1946, spent a year in Japan as a member of the U. S. Armed Forces before he entered Panzer. There he played varsity football before the sport was abandoned, was basketball manager for two years, a member of the golf and soccer teams for three years and was president of the Official's Club, while members officiated various sports events for junior high, junior varsity and club competition in this area. Mr. and Mrs. Kline were hosts at an open house for Charles' classmates after the graduation exercises.

Belleville Youngsters Win Junior Roller Derby Crown

Only Two Games Played In Town-Wide Softball Loop; Four In Industrial Circuit

Rain and foul weather curtailed activities in the various Recreation Department sponsored baseball and softball leagues last week. A few games were played, but not enough to affect the standings to any great degree. In the Town-Wide Softball League the Red Cirkles handed Freddie Farmers losses their first defeat of the season 11 to 8 while the West End trounced the Belleville Tailors 20 to 4. Monday the West End won the Belle Mead.

In the Industrial League Wallace & Tiernan defeated Fada 10 to 2 by scoring seven runs in an extra inning. Maaswaldstein scored a 21 to 4 victory over Resistors. Hanlon & Goodman edged Wilber 8 to 12 to 10 and Walter Kidd defeated Squire-Schilling 3 to 1.

Catch Large Sea Bass

After the youngsters and women showed the way in previous weeks John Seaholtz, Sr., of 20 Campbell Avenue caught his first bass of the year on Friday while trolling from his boat the Sea Wad, out of Leonards, of Sandy Hook. The fish was a 28 1/2 pounder.

Aggravators Outskate Lancers In Teaneck Armory Finals Of Newest Skating Sport

The Belleville Aggravators, composed of youngsters from 12 to 15 years of age were crowned Class C Junior Roller Derby Champs in a competition which ended last week at the Teaneck Armory. The Junior Roller Derby movement started in November at the Paterson Armory and with the help of the promoters of the adult sport, spread as the competition moved from city to city. The youngsters played on the adult track before the start of the regular performances. The Aggravators defeated the Lancers of New York City for the championship.

Belleville's representative team grew out of contacts made at the Riviera Park Roller Skating rink but members of the team were soon afterwards rolled off the adult track because their speed was considered dangerous to other skaters.

Sandy Lusz Promoted Team

Sandy Lusz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Lusz of 92 Revere Avenue, Nutley, captain of the girls' team, originally proposed the formation of a team here and enlisted the support of Mary Rose and Rachel Manzella, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Manzella of 15 Snailwood Avenue. He trio set about enlisting other interested boys and girls and soon were head over heels in competition. When it was decided that each team should be responsible to an adult who acts

Although they did not play last week the Cubs of the National Division of the Little League had their division with a perfect record of three victories in no defeats. The Aces and Dodgers are now tied with two and one each. The Dodgers beat the Aces in last week, while the Aces bowed to the Dodgers 5 to 2. In the National Division the Dodgers edged the Clippers 3 to 1 and the Dodgers blanked the Giants 4 to 0. The Yankees and the Bombers, rained out last week will be played on Saturday morning.

The Yankees-Dodgers contest was loosely played and was definitely a bad game. D. Wells of the Yankees had two triples, Gaffney of the same team had three for four and Ryan had two for three. For the Yankees, Ed Luzzo, Carlo Lucio and Godefski each had two safeties.

Fresh Crews In Final High School Shell Race

The annual race between the Freshman crews of Belleville and Nutley High Schools, the only competition between the schools permitted by Coach William N. Bennett, will be held on the Passaic River course Saturday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock. There will be only one event, a one mile race. The freshmen crews have had the undivided attention of the coaches all week and they will wear varsity suits and compete in varsity boats in the final event on the High School crew program of the spring.

Both teams played fast and well when the Giants and the Dodgers met. The Dodgers finally got a winning drive going in the last of the fifth when two hits, a walk, a hit, a walk and an error in that order, netted four runs. Boniface of the Dodgers all-

The Dodger - Bomber battle was the first extra inning game this year. It went one extra frame before the Dodgers won 8 to 6. The game was decided in the eighth when with two on Reardon, the Bomber catcher tried to pick off a runner at third and threw the ball into left field. Mastrandrea, who started at third for the Dodgers, hit the ball into the right field and struck out the side each time to get credit for the victory.

PALSY DRIVE TO BE EXTENDED 15 DAYS

Because Of Late Start, The Additional Time Is Needed To Cover All Areas Of Town

The Belleville division of the Suburban Essex Cerebral Palsy drive which was scheduled to end this Saturday has been extended for another 15 days. It was announced yesterday by John J. Gibbons, Belleville chairman.

Gibbons said, "We got off to a late start this year and as a result we just got our committees operating in the various sections of our town. In addition we have still a good deal to cover in our house-to-house campaign and the additional time will be needed to get this completed. We have set a goal of getting 10 scholarships for care for 10 children at the Treatment Center at $500 each.

"One thing we are learning in our fund drive is that the citizens of Belleville are beginning to recognize the ailment of Cerebral Palsy. However, there is still much to be done to make every-mbody understand the condition of CP, and how it can be treated.

"At the present time we are treating about 100 cases a week at the Treatment Center, which is operated by the Cerebral Palsy League of Essex County at the Summer Avenue School in Newark. The Center is one of the most modern and best equipped in the nation, but it is still insufficient for the needs of the county for there are more than 1200 Cerebral Palsy cases in the Essex County area.

"We have trained teachers and therapists to give these Cerebral Palsied children the necessary physical as well as mental education to enable them to grow like other children.

There is still much more that we can do, but we need money to operate. If we are able to reach our quota this year, we will be able to expand our facilities at the Treatment Center and give aid to a portion of the other 1100 Cerebral Palsy cases in the county that have been unable to receive the much needed treatment," Gibbons concluded.

Cenacle Retreat League Holds Meeting And Elects Officers

The Second Annual Meeting of the Cenacle Retreat League of New Jersey was held at the Cenacle, River Road, New Brunswick, May 26. Reports of the year's activities were given by the Committee Chairmen.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: president, Miss Adeline C. Maus of East Orange; first vice president and membership chairman, Mrs. Michael Loprete of South Orange; second vice president and publicity chairman, Miss Helen C. Barrett of Belleville; corresponding secretary, Miss Anne Conway of Newark; recording secretary, Mrs. George Wrasman of Rahway; and treasurer, Mrs. Charles English of South Orange.

A check for $3,000, proceeds of the recent Card Party held at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, was presented to Rev. Mother McGarry.

Cub Pack 350 Will Meet

Cub Pack 350 of Foxsmith Memorial Church will hold its last meeting of the year, Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church. A talk and exhibition on "Bird Life" will be given by a member of the Newark Museum staff.
