Undercover Work On Dial Phones

DR. WORTMAN TO PRACTICE SURGERY IN NUTLEY OFFICE

After Long Training, He Is Opening Offices This Week At 349 Franklin Avenue, Nutley

Dr. Harry C. Wortman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Wortman of 271 De Witt Avenue recently completed several years of surgical training ending with a year's service as chief resident surgeon at Mountsinclair Hospital, Montclair, and expects to open offices this week in the Lee Building, 349 Franklin Avenue, Nutley for the practice of general surgery.

After completing his medical studies at Duke University in 1942, Dr. Wortman interned at St. Barnabas Hospital, Newark. He then served three years as a flight surgeon with the 20th Air Force and in 1945, was demobilized with the rank of major.

Dr. Wortman, after his return to civilian life, practiced industrial surgery for one year in Newark before taking a graduation course in surgery at Bellevue Medical Center, New York. This was followed by three years' residence in surgery at Halloran Veterans Hospital, Staten Island.

In Schenectady Hospital
After the closing of Halloran Hospital last year, Dr. Wortman went on detached service from the administration as assistant chief resident in surgery at Ellis Hospital in Schenectady, N.Y. He assumed his post as chief resident surgeon at Mountsinclair Hospital July 1, 1951.

The Nutley surgeon who resides at 17 Warren Street, is married to the former Marilyn Manches, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Manches of 181 Satterthwaite Avenue. They have two sons, Jeffrey and Stephen.

Relieved Mother Returns As Son Recovers From Knifing

Sailor Was On Critical List After Assault By An Unknown Person At Dance In England

By Betty Steiner

A mother's heart enjoys a modicum of relief in the knowledge that her 24-year-old sailor son has set foot on the road to recovery after hovering close to death for seven days.

This describes Mrs. Jennie Iacangelo who returned last weekend from England where she visited Seaman Samuel Iacangelo, now resting comfortably after suffering severe internal stab wounds from an unidentified assailant.

The story is one of pain, anguish, bewilderment and gratitude — commencing when Iacangelo, a member of the crew of the USS Missouri, received a 3-day liberty pass in England. As one of his leisure activities, he attended a dance in Weymouth, participating in the revelry of any serviceman relieved of duty temporarily.

He was floored, moaning of pain in the stomach. The English girl who bent over him loosened his clothing and gasped to discover a gash in his abdomen so large and deep that his intestines were spilling out. He was rushed immediately to a local hospital where his punctured intestines received 13 stitches.

Makes Telephone Calls
The story now reverts to a distraught mother in Belleville who, upon receipt of the ailing news, made two telephone calls, one to her boy's commanding officer and one to the hospital. His critical condition elicited the statement from physicians that her presiding angel's son's side might aid his recovery.

With this as her objective, Mrs. Iacangelo contacted Representative Rodino in an effort to arrange transportation to England immediately by dispensing with the usual delaying procedure necessary in leaving the country. His authoritative actions resulted in her being flown to Weymouth within 24 hours after her appeal to Rodino. Her sister from Belmont accompanied her.

The harassed mother discovered her son so critically ill that a priest was in attendance for three days, performing last rites. Two only words he was able to utter, "The boys told me you were coming but I didn't believe it."

Maintains Vigil
With constant attendance at his bedside and with the aid of penicillin shots administered every few hours, Iacangelo's condition gradually improved until he was taken off the critical list.

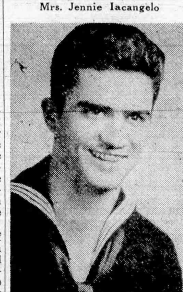

At this point, a relieved mother was treated to several sightseeing trips by an English girl who had visited Iacangelo at the hospital. She toured Weymouth, viewed the English Channel, and visited other points of scenic interest.

It was only when her son was transferred to a U. S. hospital in London that she made arrangements for her return trip to the United States. She arrived Saturday to be greeted by enthusiastic relatives and friends, eager to hear all.

Most eager of all was her husband.

POLIO CHAPTER READY TO AID LOCAL PATIENTS

Parents Of Polio Victims Urged To Contact Chapter For Financial Assistance

Parents were urged today to get in touch with the Essex County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis at 24 Commerce Street, Newark, as soon as a case of polio has been diagnosed in the family by a physician.

James J. Tully, Chairman of the Foundation's Belleville March of Dimes, said the Chapter stands ready to provide financial assistance for patient care where needed, and he emphasized that "no polio patient need go without adequate care for lack of funds."

"Half the funds contributed during the annual March of Dimes campaign, these funds are used to supplement National funds for providing patient care in out-of-pocket cases. The other 50 per cent of March of Dimes receipts is sent to National Headquarters for use in medical education and emergency aid to Chapters whose own funds have been exhausted by patient care requirements."

Mr. Tully also disclosed that March of Dimes funds are being expended at an unprecedented rate by the 2000 local Chapters of the National Foundation in

JOAN EVANS DIES IN N. C. ACCIDENT

Mother Suffers Back Injury Two Others Hurt When Car Overturns On Route 1

Joan Evans 14, of 56 Frederick Street, who expected to enter the Sophomore class at Belleville High School in September, was killed outright on Saturday and three other occupants of the car in which she was riding, were severely injured, when the car overturned near Rocking ham, N. C. The Belleville girl died instantly of a crushed skull. Her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Evans, 40, a widow, suffered a chipped vertebra. Michael Masera, 12, received a crushed left shoulder and his sister, Phyllis, 16, suffered a compound skull fracture. All are in the Hamlet Hospital at Rockingham. Mrs. Minnie Masera of 354 Bloomfield Avenue, Bloomfield, driver of the car and mother of the two children, suffered shock but was otherwise unhurt. Phyllis still is in serious condition at the hospital.

Hit Soft Shoulder

Mrs. Masera told a North Carolina State Highway Patrolman that she saw the blinking lights of a railroad intersection as they were driving north on Route 1, parallel to the Seaboard Airline Railroad. It was raining at the time and one of the children screamed that the train was going to hit the car. Mrs. Masera apparently recovered consciousness, started to slide, hit a soft shoulder, turned completely over and landed on its wheels. The crossing was on a sidetrack and the railroad highway do not cross near the scene of the accident.

Vacationed In Florida

Mrs. Masera, her two children and Joan Evans, left July 21 to visit Joan's grandfather, George R. Post of Jacksonville, Fla. Mrs. Masera and her son, Michael, scheduled to go at the same time, delayed their departure and went by train, while Allan was taken just before departure time. Allan stayed with his grandfather when the others started for home.

Born In Germany

Joan was born in Pethau, Germany and came to the United States when one year old. She had lived in Belleville since. Her father died in 1945 and Mrs. Evans had been the only support of her family since. She was employed at the Prince Matchabell plant in Bloomfield.

Joan was buried in Jacksonville, Florida on Tuesday. According to Mrs. Oakwald Masera, Mrs. Evans' sister, Mrs. Evans will join her father in Florida upon her release from the hospital.

Hating Of Test Borings Annoys Board President

Commissioner Hyde Stops Work After Two Of Five Holes Are Drilled At Proposed School Site

President Eugene Kelly of the Board of Education on Tuesday charged Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde with breaking faith with the Board of Education, by halting the test borings on the town-owned property adjacent to Municipal Stadium, sought as an alternate site for the proposed secondary school. Faced with the possibility of having to pay $150,000 to purchase a large parcel of ground lying between Joramelon Street and Division Avenue, the Board of Education at the last meeting of the Board of Commissioners, sought and received permission to take the test borings.

At that time Commissioner Hyde said he was only too happy to go along with the school people in an effort to save the taxpayers more than $100,000.

Monday an engineering crew staked out the spots where it wanted to take the borings and drove two tests. Tuesday when the men and equipment showed up on the job, Allan Lukowski, an employee of the Parks and Public Property department advised the men that Commissioner Hyde said the borings could not be made. This was checked back by Superintendent of Schools Evan H. Thomas, and he received the same answer from Mr. Lukowski. "The boss says he does not want any tests made in the woods."

Favorable Results

Preliminary results of the initial borings indicate that instead of a worthless site, the mud-bogs were often described, the first hole showed hard clay and stone at 35 feet, while the second on the edge of the wooded area showed solid ground at 25 feet. Five borings are needed to verify the initial findings.

A forty-foot wide right-of-way, owned by the Newark Water department, cuts across the front of the property, near Division Avenue. While the right of way can become part of a lawn, it would be impractical to build over it. Also, it is doubted that bonds for such construction could be obtained.

A triangular plot between Division Avenue and the right-of-way, extending to Passaic Avenue, is just as useless for building purposes as the right-of-way. This leaves only one plot suitable for the actual building, and that is in the vicinity of the wooded area, near the stadium fence.

Visit to New York Police
At 9:30 Mr. Atkinson, president of the People's National Bank and Trust Company of Belleville drove me to New York. He first intended to visit the police commissioner of New York City, Mr. George P. Monaghan, who went to college with Mr. Atkinson.

Mr. Gruelich speaks German very well and in the evenings we used to talk in my native language. He also tried to go into French for some words. At this interesting department, such as the Radio and Police Communication department and the bureau of investigation.

Having found a parking place after a good half an hour's drive, near the Federal Reserve Bank, we had lunch. Mr. Atkinson asked me to try a club sandwich and I had to confirm it was one of the best sandwiches I have ever eaten.

Second Hyde Reversal

This is the second time that Mr. Hyde has held up the test borings. The first time, several months ago, he let it be known that he was reserving the tract for recreation purposes. He reversed himself at the meeting on July 22, and has apparently reversed himself again. He has informed some people that he would like to reserve the wooded section as a picnic grove.

The situation was brought to the attention of Mayor James J. Tully by Mr. Kelly and on advice of Town Attorney Lawrence Keenan, the Mayor has written to the President of the Board of Education instructing him to proceed with the borings. In the letter, Mayor Tully pointed out that the permission was an action of the entire Board of Commissioners and that Commissioner Hyde exceeded his authority in ordering the engineers off the site.

Mayor Tully says that the transfer of title of all town owned property is a board matter and not up to any one commissioner.

Further, any action involving $150,000 or even $100,000 of taxpayers' money is again an action for all five members of the Board of Commissioners to decide upon, and not one member.

Hyde's Stand

Commissioner Elmer Hyde declares that his position is based upon the minutes of the Commission meeting which gave the Board of Education permission to take soundings on property described as Block No. 415, Lot 143 and Map 61, of the tax maps of the town of Belleville. When the engineers went into another section of the property is when he advised Mr. Jakowick that the tests should stop. The permission granted by the Commissioners particularly described the area and did not provide for promiscuous borings throughout the neighborhood.

"I am not opposed to the use of the property by the Board of Education for the proposed school building, but feel that the Board should be more specific in its requests to the Board of Commissioners, so that all aspects can be studied before action is taken."

A Tour of Belleville

A tour of Belleville is being planned by the Alpine Wheelmen for late in September with the cooperation of the Belleville Recreation Department and with all receipts from admissions being dedicated to the Eddie Heimrich Fund. According to the plan outlined by Alf Goulet to Commissioner Hyde, the Alpine would invite the same riders who competed at the famous tour of Somerville, to come here. The race would get under way in front of the stadium, leave the field by way of the road to Passaic Avenue, thence to Greylock, to Nelson, to Division and back to Passaic, so that all 50 miles of the ride would be visible to those sitting in the stadium. The race would end in front of the concrete stand, just as it began.

While the mad whirl is going on outside of the stadium proper, a full card of events including stock-bike races for youngsters and personal appearances of the greats of the cycling world would take place inside the field, so that there would be a minimum of dull moments.

Actually, the course might have to be altered to some degree to make up the exactly 50 miles required, but the exact route east of the stadium is not too important. Such a tour would not interfere with main street traffic and would give the riders plenty of hills to climb as well as some level and down hill roadhead.

Complete details will be announced as soon as they are worked out.

Charles Yocum, Belleville man speaking at the annual clinic of the Texas Council, sends word home that there are 1792 high school coaches attending this largest of all coaching clinics. Mr. Yocum is speaking on methods of taping ankles and knees to prevent injuries.

Little League Does Well

It was in no disgrace that the Belleville National Division representatives bowed out of the Little League Competition in the sectional finals, Monday night at Newton. The team lost by a 2 to 1 score, trying all the way for the victory and the right to advance to the Trenton stage of the play. Steve Dojczak gave up three hits to Newton, but unfortunately they were coupled with a walk in the first inning to allow both Newton runs, and from there on out only two other Newton batters got on base. A double by Cullen produced Belleville's run and Cullen gave his all in trying to score from second on a single by Tangredi with the tying run, but he was cut down at the plate.

The Stant brothers of the Bell Made Milk Bar treated the players to ice cream on Saturday and on Monday furnished ice cream for the players to take with them on their trip.

Belleville Little League Eliminated From Tourney

Newton Jumps On Bojczak For Two Runs And Ball Game In First: Nationals Eliminate Americans

Belleville's National Division All Stars defeated their American Division rivals 3 to 1 on Thursday night for the right to enter the sectional finals against Newton on Monday and then bowed out of the tourney in the final 2 to 0. Belleville league officials and parents of the boys are well satisfied that they got as far in the tournament as they did for Belleville operated two leagues of equal strength and did not channel its season's effort to producing a championship all-star array.

In Thursday's game each team was anxious to go all the way and despite the advice of League President Warren Knight that each team save its ace pitcher for the final against whom it might be, the team managers agreed to fight it out all the way and Cullen of the Nationals faced Dojczak of the Americans.

Cullen with two-ninners to his credit was not to be denied. He allowed the Americans to score only two safeties, struck out twelve and walked five. Both teams played good ball. The Nationals scored in the first on two hits and a fielder's choice. The Americans came back in the fourth when Garano walked and on two passed balls went to third and scored on an error. In the sixth the Nationals sewed it up with two hits and a walk to late that went through the right fielder's legs was the deciding blow.

The Newton game was originally scheduled to be played on Saturday afternoon, and although the Belleville managers called Newton and were told it was not raining there, the trip was made for nothing. The trip was made on Monday evening. Bojczak, second best of the National League's pitching staff, started and was in trouble right off the bat. He gave up a walk and three straight base hits, enough to produce two runs. After that Newton went hitless, but Belleville could get back only on one of the runs.

Valente reached first on an error and scored on Jack Cullen's double. Niederer walked and Tangredi singled into center field. Cullen tried for the tying run, but a beautiful throw by Daling nipped him at the plate. In the game Eustice got a hit but one hit doesn't make a rally unless it's a homer. So Belleville was eliminated from the tournament.

Last night the Vailsburg All-Stars played an exhibition game against a Belleville All Star team. Tonight the leagues resume their regular season play, interrupted for the duration of the tournament.

PAL JUNIORS TAKE SECOND PLACE IN NEW JERSEY LOOP

Senior Nine Splits With Newark And Summit; 330 Members See Giants Lose

The Belleville PAL Cardinals took sole possession of second place in the New Jersey State PAL League, one game behind Cartered the leader, by defeating Newark 5 to 2 and Rahway 6 to 4. Last Thursday afternoon at West Side Park in Newark, Vines Conley and John Bartel combined to pitch a one-hitter against Newark. Conley went 5 innings allowing only 1 hit and Bartel two innings of hitless ball. Joe Long drove in three runs for the first place in the league. He was the big gun in the attack for three times at bat.

In the Rahway PAL game, played at Municipal Stadium in Belleville last Friday, Bartel pitched all the way for Belleville giving up only 4 hits in the 6 to 4 victory. He struck out 11 of the opposition. This morning at Municipal Stadium in Belleville the PAL Cardinals meet the Cartered PAL team in a battle for first place in the league. Belleville will throw its ace hurler, John Bartel against the league leaders, while Cartered will use Joe Smith who pitched an 11 inning no hit no run game against Belleville three weeks ago.

The Belleville Senior PAL team split in two games played during the past week bowing to Summit 4 to 0 and Rahway 3 to 1. Belleville went ahead in the Stadium by a score of 3 to 2, and winning over Summit at Memorial Field in Summit Monday evening 4 to 0.

In the Newark game Newark scored first with one run in the 4th inning on a triple and a single. Belleville went ahead in the 5th inning scoring 2 runs when Del Tufo started the inning with a triple. Petti walked and advanced to second on a fielder's choice. Joe Daniels drove in both runs with a two out single. In the last inning with darkness settling over the field, Newark came up with the winning 2 runs on an error by Kraft with the bases loaded. Joe Daniels pitched all the way for Belleville allowing 7 scattered hits and Renner pitched 4 hit ball for the Newarkers.

The Belleville PAL Seniors traveled to Memorial Field in Summit Monday evening to register a 4 to 0 win over the Summit PAL. Bob Mallack pitched his no hit streak to 13 innings. last Thursday afternoon the Belleville PAL took 330 of its Junior Members to the Polo Grounds to watch the New York Giants go down to defeat by a score of 11 to 8. The slugfest was thoroughly enjoyed by the children and there was nary a mishap. Next Thursday 100 PAL members travel to Elberta Field to see the game between the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants. After last week's announcement that 100 children could register for this game the PAL office was besieged and the registration was completed in 20 minutes.

The Belleville PAL has obtained summer employment for 10 of its Senior Members to date. There are still quite a few PAL members who would like to work during the summer vacation, so if there are any businessmen who are short-handed they can fill their vacancies by calling Police Headquarters.

GROWING PAINS

WHO COULD FORESEE New Jersey's growth? Yes, the highway system is having growing pains—but new roads built and under construction (such as the Turnpike and the Garden State Parkway) are catching up with the terrific increase in traffic. However, it takes time. And like automobiles...

AS WE SEE IT

Not just because our lives depend on what he does is he our friend. It's more because his pleasant smile makes known to him a thing we're unsure of. He never fails to understand the value of a helping hand. And that is why we're eager to pay tribute to the "man in blue".

HOMES HAVE MULTIPLIED, TOO.

175,000 new homes and apartment units have been built in New Jersey just since 1945. And nearly all these homes wanted telephone service. Voice highways, too, require time to plan and build.

GP's Life In Korea Is Series Of Makeshifts

Housing Not Waldorf Suite; Contend with Muddy Roads, Flat Tires And Black Market

The following are a series of vignettes of life in Korea as lived by our American soldiers stationed near the battlefield. They were gathered by Mrs. Anna Dugan, who formerly was employed by the Belleville Motor Vehicle Agency, from varied references her soldier husband included in his letters to her over a period of about ten weeks.

A love for the American way of life is responsible for M/Sgt. Henry C. Dugan's attempt to turn the barest facilities of a Pusan base at which he is stationed into a place that is hardly comparable to the comforts of home, yet, in comparison to the living quarters of other American soldiers, it is like a suite at the Waldorf.

Housing Transformation

Permission was granted Sgt. Dugan to transform an old dilapidated Japanese officers' barracks into livable quarters. Plaster boards were superimposed on the interior. Scarlet red drapes added a final touch to the ultimate splendor! Sgt. Dugan superficially explains that the total effect is hardly the dream of an interior decorator.

A large five-gallon can is used to cart water used for washing. Two empty Haig and Haig bottles hold their drinking water and two vegetable cans serve as a wash basin. Packing crates and odd pieces of lumber are utilized as tables and beds.

Risk Ambush

The KMAG Motor Pool, of which Sgt. Dugan is in charge, is located about five miles behind the front lines. However, the front would be more to Dugan's liking, for there they know where the enemy is situated; whereas in his area, there is always the risk of being ambushed while working on a vehicle or going after a temporarily disabled jeep.

The GI's ride to the vehicles with rifles tucked under their arms, cocked for instant action. Since the Reds offer rewards for the capture or killing of any KMAG personnel, American soldiers are obliged to sleep with their carbines nailed to the wall besides their cots where it can be reached instantly.

The KMAG personnel are responsible for maintaining headquarters vehicles in good condition. Flats are repaired at the rate of over 20 a day because of the horrible condition of the roads which are not unlike cow-paths. When it rains the roads get so muddy that many times they are impassable. The gas tanks fill up with water to add to the complications.

Black Market Flourishes

The GI's became quite disheartened by some of the activities of the South Korean allies who steal all sorts of items from the Army to sell on the black market. Such items as tires, tools, gasoline, tops of jeeps, and even the jeeps themselves, are regularly among the missing. This is when the GI's feel they are fighting a losing battle.

Extreme care has to be exercised in driving in that area, for Koreans think nothing of pulling out of a lane and into the path of oncoming traffic. In addition, pedestrians will run across the street in front of cars as if their belief that they possess an evil spirit that goes around with them, and, if they can move faster than the spirit, it will be killed. They will then have good luck ever after.

Natives Eat Grass

Spring brings out swarms of noor natives who flock to the hillsides to gather various types of grass and weeds with which to supplement their extremely meager diet of three bowls of rice a day. Their cooking is done on stoves fashioned from paint cans.

Their homes are comprised of tiny one room huts. Beds are suspended from the rafters. Koreans are obliged to sleep on the bare ground. They are a hungry, dirty lot, sitting around picking rice from their bodies. The smell throughout the countryside is practically unbearable to an American, especially when the snow and ice has melted and spring turns hill and vale green with budding plants.

Many of the children have been left homeless, wandering around shifting for themselves as best as they can. Some work at shining shoes, washing clothes, cleaning rooms and making beds for the GI's, and some just resort to stealing whatever they can.

Befriend Orphan

One of these homeless waifs acts as orderly for the men of the KMAG Motor Pool. He is only 12 but has been on his own since he was 7. He was deserted by his parents who were unable to care for him and feed him. His winsome ways appealed to an American soldier who took him south to Pusan with him, and he has been living among the Americans for the past five years. He is very intelligent and works diligently to please the GI's.

In spite of all the disheartening circumstances encountered by the Americans, the thought that perhaps in the not too distant future they will be able to return to our way of life and all that it has to offer, makes their job somewhat easier for them.

the pictures, the strength of the teams and a lot of other details, all things I did not do. The most amusing scene I noticed was the seventh inning stretch. I could not get a real explanation for it as it seemed to be one of the habits in life, nobody knows why, it's just done.

Move Safe In Factory

Someone went to a lot of trouble over the week end at the plant of the Crowning Machine Corp., 86 Academy Street. A five hundred pound safe was hauled from one end of the building to the other, and left unopened and unmarked.

The safe, which contained $15,000 and valuable instruments, according to James Crowning, who found a window and door open when he arrived at the plant Monday morning to open for business.

Sees

At two o'clock we were escorted by Mr. Walton of the Federal Reserve Bank. He led us through the main office of the bank, including the accounting department with its hundreds of IBM machines, the safe keeping department. In the latter office were introduced to the system of finding and checking counterfeit, which sometimes are very good imitations. At the end of our tour we went down to the fifth basement level where the gold stock of the world, thousands of bars of gold with a total value of about five billion dollars are kept here, 80 feet below sea level.

This storage is built direct on rocks, as the gold has an immense weight. One single bar, which is about 10 inches long, weighs 28 pounds and is worth $14,000. What an awful feeling to walk through a room with millions of gold bars stored in cells around the walls.

In the afternoon I arrived at my new sponsor's home, Mr. and Mrs. Nutt in Belleville. The same evening I attended a meeting of the DeWitt Savings & Loan Association with Mr. Nutt.

The next morning I ordered my first visit to an American College, Upsala College in East Orange. Mr. Davis, assistant director, showed me around and introducing me to the dean, Mr. Nilson, who kindly gave me an invitation to the class I could enter in any class room. I met Mr. Pearson, teaching business administration and attended an hour of his class room. These rooms in Upsala College reminded me in a certain way at the Swiss University of St. Gall, as very small and built in the style of the Swiss style.

I expected to find one or two tall buildings and was very surprised by the small buildings of this college. At first I looked to me rather as a number of family houses, but when I entered the building, I found a very modern building. I was very surprised by the small buildings of this college. down to the beach as we intended to go fishing early in the morning. So it happened that I slept to the first time a night in a trailer at the shore. Thursday morning we went out to the sea in a thirty foot boat with two engines. About two hours after our departure, I lost my first bluefish, only a few feet west of the boat. And was I disappointed! It was not really a malicious joy I felt, watching how the trained fishermen lost some more later on, but I was at least not unhappy about this failure. An hour later, I got sick. That steadily going up and down of the boat was too much for my stomach. Although I did not feel very bad, I was really glad to go on land again in the evening. It was a good experience for me, but I will not think that sea-sickness ever will be a hobby of mine.

We had dinner in the trailer of Mr. Tung near Bay Head. I could hardly believe that a trailer could be so comfortable. You can live in such a trailer, at the same time having the possibility to move to any other place.

As the baseball game is not played in Europe, I for myself did not know anything about it, except the name, before I came to the United States. The most popular sport all over Europe is Soccer (European Football) and in certain countries, Ice Hockey in winter.

Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Nutt and I had dinner at the home of Mr. Boss in Summit. He owns one of the liveliest houses I have seen and I could hardly believe that Mr. Boss has bought this place only two years ago and it was a stable for horses at that time. Rather late in the evening Mr. Liss, Mr. Tung and I went

Someday when the grey quails
 Are voices calling slow,
 And the day is like a painting
 I saw once, long ago,
 I shall leave this paved street
 To hike through country roads
 Where the air is tangent, bittersweet,
 The hay is tawny loads
 Where clouds through plum branches
 Are white and ragged wreaths
 And the only sound of rushing
 Is the traffic of the leaves
 Where all the hills are gnome-green,
 Chestnut colored, rust—
 The spotted cows are slow trains
 Moving through the dust.
 Someday when the grey quails
 Are voices calling low
 And the day is a pastoral
 Summer soft and slow.

Governor Stevenson Gets Off To A Bad Start

A great effort is being made to convince the nation that Governor Adlai Stevenson is not the captive of the White House. With insistence, Springfield contends that Stevenson will have a lot to say about a possible Truman whistle-stop tour of the country during the campaign. An effort is made to portray the Illinoisian as an uncommitted independent. That's his story and he is going to stick by it.

Shorn of all nonsense, the fact remains that Stevenson cannot be elected without Truman, without the C. I. O. and without the party's leftwing Americans for Democratic Action. And it is only on the basis of his ability to convince the public that he truly will usher in a real change in the Federal administration that Stevenson can hope to win the vast independent vote.

It is our contention, therefore, that the Governor's many pronouncements and jibes of the past week have hurt him more than they have helped him. His efforts to castigate General Eisenhower for surrounding himself with men as Ohio's Senator Bricker makes us wonder whether he is as intelligent as he has been portrayed. Except for the fact that he is a Republican and was one of the warmest supporters of the Taft candidacy, there is nothing that can be said by any Democrat against Senator Bricker. His record as Governor of Ohio and as Senator is clean. He is a middle-of-the-road Republican. Stevenson would do well to surround himself with such men, instead of the

And then there is the undisputed fact that the first Democratic group to plump for his nomination was the controversial Americans for Democratic Action. This is the leftwing faction, for which Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., a poor imitation of his Dad, was the frantic spokesman at Chicago. With young Roosevelt in the group are Senators Blair Moody, Lehman and Humphrey and young Governor Mennen Williams, of Michigan, heir of the baby powder fortune. That is a gang that we want to see quarantined at the White House.

Yet Stevenson's selection of Wyatt as his campaign manager assures that the new Dealers, the Fair Dealers and the other party radicals will have spokesmen in the favored inner circle. If FDR Jr. had had his way, six state delegations would have been thrown out of the convention hall. If he had had his way, every Southern state would have had to sign the pledge to accept the "hard" text of a civil rights plank which he tried to write into the platform. If we had a three or four or five party system, you would find that gang under the red flag of Radicalism or Socialism or Communism.

Before Stevenson casts slurs at Senator Bricker, let him bisect the political structure of FDR Jr. Let him clear with the Southern conservatives such liberal crackpots as Michigan's Moody and Williams. And while he's at it, let him take the mush out of Senator Sparkman's mouth. The ADA contends that the Democratic party is committed to the strict enforcement of the FEPC through its civil rights plank.

Yet, yesterday, the Richmond News Leader quoted Sparkman, in an interview, as saying: "The Democratic platform has left it up to the legislative bodies' how best to assure that no person will be denied employment unfairly. All I ask a person to do is to read and study the platform. You can't find FEPC mentioned in it, nor is there the word 'compulsion'."

The Alabama was asked what kind of FEPC he favored. "That's a kind of a long story. There might be a half dozen ways of approaching the problem". Apparently, in the Stevenson campaign, the right hand doesn't know what the left hand is doing.

Don't Be Half A Citizen

How many persons over 21 years of age in Essex County do you think are ineligible to vote for President next November because they have failed to register: 1 in 10, 1 in 100 or 1 in 1,000?

The answer is 4 in every 10, or 39.3 per cent of the total number of those who could vote.

There still are seven weeks before the voting registers close for the November elections. If you are one of the "four-in-every-ten", register now. Don't be half a citizen. Be glad you are an American and have the privilege of voting.

ONE MAN'S OPINION . . .

We Want Japan to Help Contain Communism in Asia But in Honolulu Talks, Britain Fights To Keep Tokyo From Trade or Military Role
 By Ralph E. Heinzen

Germany provided the keystone of the Western Powers anti-Communist front in Europe, and her arch-enemy, France, was won around to give her consent. In the Pacific, whose defense is under study this week by experts of the United States, New Zealand and Australia at a conference in Honolulu, Japan holds the key, but, thus far, Japan has shown no willingness to play a role and neither Australia nor New Zealand has any liking for Japan as an ally. Pacific cooperation, therefore, is limited in scope as we and our allies try to find a way for bringing India, Indonesia, Burma and Japan into a treaty organization.

The diplomats attending the Pacific security conference are trying to shut their eyes to Japan, but the fact remains that, as before the war, Japan is the strongest of all the Asiatic nations. It would be as impossible to construct a solid anti-Communist front across the Pacific without Japan as it would have been to have built the containing wall across Europe without Germany.

Japan has no choice. With her fast growing population, she needs overseas markets. She can find them behind the Iron Curtain in Red China, Manchuria and Russian Siberia, or she can find them in Southeast Asia. The present Japanese regime prefers the latter. It would be as impossible to construct a solid anti-Communist front across the Pacific without Japan as it would have been to have built the containing wall across Europe without Germany.

Casey and New Zealand External Affairs Minister Thomas Clifton Webb she is ably represented. In addition, high on the agenda this week was the question of inviting London to name an observer. Before Japan could be persuaded to enter such a defensive alliance covering the whole of the Pacific, she has many claims to be met. The first claim is her economic freedom in her former markets. A second claim is for a re-phrasing of the laws of Australia and New Zealand barring the immigration of Asians.

Apprehension over a possible rebirth of Japanese militarism may hinder the formation of the anti-Communist wall across the Pacific.

The Institute of Pacific Relations of Hawaii, in a report on Pacific security released this week, noted "It is quite clear that the Pacific dominions and the Philippines do not completely share American official views on the peaceful nature of Japan. This is important to note because it demonstrates that the Pacific world is a divided one."

The Philippines still remembers the brutal Japanese occupation of its islands and New Zealand and Australia recall the Japanese threat in World War II. Concern over the rise of a militaristic Japan caused the Anzac countries to suggest an "Anzac" security treaty with the United States in early 1951 when John Foster Dulles visited those countries.

The ANZUS treaty was signed in September, 1951, at the time of the Japanese Peace Treaty conference in San Francisco. Despite the Japanese question, Australian and New Zealand delegates have shown in the Honolulu talks a desire to see a broader Pacific defense setup than this tripartite pact. The word ANZUS comes from the initials of the parties participating.

ANZUS and NATO have the same aim but there the similarity ends. Both are regional defense arrangements designed to strengthen the free world and increase the prospects of peace. But further comparison is superficial and the two are not comparable to what is being done in Europe to weave German defenses into those of Western Europe.

This therefore will be only the beginning, and a very small beginning, of a program to bring the security of the whole Pacific area under a single authority. Whereas NATO includes almost all the free countries of the North Atlantic area and Europe, ANZUS involves only three Pacific powers, Canada, Japan, the Philippines, Indonesia, Siam, and the three Indo-Chinese states and not parties to the pact. Nor are the Pacific interests, and India.

Also, there will be nothing comparable in ANZUS to the NATO command in Europe that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower organized and Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway now commands.

There will be a secretariat and there will be a council of foreign ministers. But neither of these will bear much resemblance to the sizable similar bits of permanent machinery operating under NATO. ANZUS will be nineteenth paper work and consultation. In NATO, the effort is to make the relationship the opposite — nine-tenths military cooperation and one-tenth treaty machinery.

The reasons ANZUS cannot resemble NATO except superficially are generally obvious. There is the great dissimilarity of political structures in the Pacific countries, as well as their general immaturity and weakness. There is neither the social nor the cultural sameness among Pacific powers that bind the Atlantic nations together. There is the psychological his 128 in the midget group, (as you know Mike is one of our stellar Little League Pitchers) A pat on the back to Pat Caron for coming in second in the Midget class with 110 points. The rest of the contestants really deserve a vote of thanks for coming out and participating in the various groups and representing Clearman Field.

A new game has taken Clearman by storm and that is Chess. A number of young men and some few Einsteins in the near future. With the cool breeze coming in, football and basketball games are now taking over. COME ON OVER and enjoy that refreshing shower after one of the games.

Playground No. 3
 This week at the playground was full of anticipation for the Olympics on Tuesday. The Olympics were lots of fun and the children really enjoyed the standing broad jump, chinning and all the rest of the days events. Some of the children who took part in the games are as follows: Alex and Joseph Petrillo, Richard Fazio, Maria and Joseph Vico, Barbara Monsav and Raymond Hatcher.

We all had a wonderful day at Clearman Field and will remember it as one of the nicest events of the year.

Playground No. 5
 Since the handicraft man is becoming a regular Friday visitor to No. 5 playground, the girls are making more and more holders. This is one thing they get a lot of enjoyment from, as they are making them are Annette, Grace and Bessie Ann Greco, Kathleen Del Guercio, Judy Del Guercio and Denise Del Guercio. Joan Fazio, Margaret Ringi, Darleen Ringi, Eleanor Pellegrino, George Pellegrino and Toni Hendrickson. It seems that we are having quite a group of new boys participating in the horsehoe race for camp. The new boys are: John Greene, Joe Caffrey, Bob Bergemini, Tommy Greco, and Mike Hendrickson.

The bicycle parade came and we had five winners, they were: Frank Carrager, Vivien Edwards, Ray Burden, Ron Milio and Pat

Travers. There were very nice prizes for the winners. The playground Olympics were held Tuesday and No. 1 did alright. Softball is still strong and the team of Bob Gashlin, and Roy Race and others beat No. 1 school Monday night by score 10-0. Roy Jones, Stanley Munford and Richie Rokwell have been playing for No. 1 and are heavy hitters.

Memorial Field
 The brief respite from record shattering heat has brought out unprecedented numbers of children to utilize the facilities of Memorial Field. There is usually a waiting line of tiny tots for the horse-rings which have been named such names as "Champion" and "Silver". Some of the older children had to be "graduated" from the rings as they were suspected that "Skipty" Squatelli and Mike Richarda slip over the horses after the playground closed.

The growing appeal of horse-shoe pitching is shown by an increased rivalry among the dedicated children and the growing activity among the boys and girls of high school age. Ranking high among the ring makers are Peter Rossi, Tom Savy, Peter Alexander, Buddy Muscarello, Don Gregory, and Billy D'Ambo.

Next week it is expected that more horsehoes will be made available so that more games will be going on simultaneously. Late afternoon showers are still the feature on warmer days. The delightful squeals of the youngsters are ample satisfaction to acting fire captain MacGonigle for the work he did on the sprinkler.

Brook Brook Playground
 Our big event of the week was the Playground Olympics and we now think are making them are practicing paid off. Kay Ridvart won first place in the Girls Midget Division and Bobby Suckey placed fourth in the Midget Boys Division.

We are looking forward to the next two big events, the Doll Show and the Treasure Hunt.

Municipal Stadium
 Our big job this week was preparing the "Eisenhower" for the big championship series. Our practice included everything from "bunting practice" to "batting practice". We were working hard and hope that it will pay off in the "big series". Danneli, Bartell, Cullen, Tangredi, Lukowick, D'Angelo and many others really put their "noses to the grindstone" in these sessions. In the Farm League the Red Devils defeated the local Bums 4-1 as Richard Kusony pitched a two hitter. In the other game the Belleville Hawks defeated the Cobras.

Recreation House Playground
 Our big event of the week was the Playground Olympics and we are really proud of our showing in this championship series. Tom Joyce and George Gaber won first and second places in the Junior Division. Donald Thompson came in third in the Intermediate group. Our girls also came off with some of the honors as Elaine Galis won second honors in the midget girls division.

Industrial Softball League
 The League is fast drawing to a close. The regular schedule and on Thursday August 7th, however a few games out games were really made. At present time Wallace & Tiernan is leading the league with a 10-1 record with one game to play. Federal Leather is right behind them with a 9-1 record. They have two games to play. Viking Foot, last year's champs, are in third place with a 9-2 record and Pittsburgh is in fourth place with a record of 7-2. It looks like these four teams are set for the playoffs. If there is a tie for first place a playoff game will be played to determine who wins the trophy.

Proprietors Aid Sister Kenny Fund Appeal For Polio Victims

Among the many allies in various fields who volunteer to aid the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation in its annual fund appeal, probably the most helpful are the neighborhood shops and business establishments where the Sister Kenny campaign is now making their appearance. The coins and bills collected in the Kenny campaign will make it possible for many little polio victims to walk again after receiving the proven Kenny treatment at the New York Center at 71 Park Avenue or the Eastern Area Sister Kenny Institute in the Jersey City Medical Center.
