WORKMAN KILLED BY MACHINE AT FEDERAL LEATHER

Gerhard Korteing Sucked Between Rollers; Head And Shoulders Are Crushed

Gerhard Korteing, 26, of 103 Madison Avenue, Clifton, a second shift worker at the Federal Leather Company plant, 687 Main Street, was crushed to death about 8 o'clock Tuesday night when his hand was caught between rollers of a coating machine and he was pulled in to his chest. His head and shoulders were crushed by the rollers, which are five inches apart.

Raul Hernandez, 26, of 19 Clinton Avenue, Newark, heard about the accident and went to the scene. He saw Korteing being sucked into the machine. He grasped Korteing about the waist and yelled for another worker to shut off the power. Hernandez, however, had to release his grip as he too was zid the room of the paint odor.

No one knows exactly what happened, since there were only three workers near the press at the time, and two of them did not see the accident happen, the police are not sure of the story. Since the rollers are five inches apart there was no chance of his getting the man's fingers.

SWISS YOUTH'S EXPERIENCES
Ten Weeks Spent In Town And United States Seems Like A Fabulous Dream

After a quiet and quick flight I arrived safe at my home in Switzerland. This summer's visit to the United States of America has been a wonderful experience for me, and back home again I feel as if I just woke up from a long and fabulous dream. I can summarize in a fast shout letter some of my impressions of my 10 week's dream.

Spoken on principle, there is no important difference between Europe and America, as we originally belong to the same family. But studying the way of living of the people and the nature of America and Europe, there are of course a lot of differences of which I am now becoming more and more aware.

There is no doubt about it, the United States has the highest standard of living in today's world. It is of course another question if you are the happiest people in the world. There is also no doubt for me, that America is the strongest nation today. Saying strong, I mean especially the huge industrial power of the United States of America. As I see it, there are three main factors for your progress and advance over all other nations of the world: First of all, your free enterprise economy backed by your political democracy and the initiative of the individual are important facts. Then, it seems to me, that most Americans are born with a fundamental technical understanding and these millions of people with their technical knowledge contribute their part to the progress. And last but not least, your country with its enormous size has such a big market, that most of your goods are produced by large quantities in mass production and with high productivity. This huge size of your market is by the way one of the main differences between your Swiss and your American economy. It is another and likewise important fact in this respect, that

Letter Tells Of His Impressions Of Our Country
Switzerland's only natural resource is the water power of the rivers.

America's progress and advance in today's world can best be illustrated and expressed in the words of a writer: "The Americans are a queer people, they can't rest."

What about the American type? If an average European citizen speaks of an American, he usually thinks of one of the two following types of persons: either a "business man" who does not need explaining this expression to you—or a person with the strangest and craziest ideas, who is going to realize them.

After having spent 10 weeks in your country, I could neither say that this idea of the American type was irrevocable right, nor that it was all wrong. It is an undiscussable fact for me, that Americans are much more generous than we are. They are very friendly in an average and there is one more thing I should like to mention especially as a Swiss. I have heard a great deal of sense of humor and the famous words, "Take it easy."

Another observation which struck me especially as a Swiss, was the fact that many of the questions I have been asked by hundreds of Americans. I should like to answer these three questions at the end of my letter to the Belleville Times to all of you, as I think that most

A good banker does not talk. He listens and what he hears he keeps confidential.

But suppose the Peoples National Bank and Trust Company as an institution could talk. It would certainly say that it values most that sort of popularity due to the reputation it has of always being fair and considerate; of having the welfare of the depositors at heart as well as that of the borrowers.

If it is good business for you to borrow, it is good business for us to lend. Nine out of ten applications are granted; and where, in the tenth instance, good banking does not permit the loan, we often can suggest another solution of the financial problem.

May we help you?

DOCTORS, DENTISTS WHO ESCAPED ARMY GIVEN I-A STATUS

Draft Board Reclassifies Practitioners Who Have Not Seen Service Recently

Faced with a great shortage of doctors and dentists in the armed services, the selective service officials of Draft Board 15 wrote this week to all the practicing doctors and dentists in Nutley to advise them that the status of many practitioners, here as across the country, must urgently be changed to I-A which will make them subject for early conscription.

The Nutley Sun learned from members of Draft Board 15 that for the time being there will be no change in the draft status of doctors and dentists over 50 years of age or those who saw active military service during World War II.

In the first change of classification in more than three years, only those doctors and dentists who have not seen military service and are between 21 and 50 years of age are being changed to I-A status. It is expected that all of them will be called up, gradually, because of the pressing need in army camps and field hospitals for medical personnel.

It also learned that for doctors and dentists who have not yet been in military service, the Draft Board will not receive applications based on financial hardship or on family status. The reclassified doctors and dentists can, however, however, by volunteering for active duty.

school to show that of 420 pupils, 359 came from Nutley, Belleville and Newark, 37 from The Oranges and only 23 from Bloomfield and Montclair. On the basis of those figures, he anticipates that a vocational school for Belleville and Nutley could enroll 250 to 300 pupils.

"Vocational schools should be situated where they are needed and that, generally, is in the areas of the highest industrial concentration", Loftus said yesterday. He said that in both Belleville and Nutley there is a demand for supervisory personnel with sufficient basic education in the highly specialized technical industries and laboratories located here.

The Other Half

"Fewer than half of the high school graduates, today, go on to college. Of those who end their education at the 12th year, vocational training would be of great help in finding productive occupation. Yet most high schools shape their curriculum for those students who intend to continue their studies in universities. We must think of the other half who will have to look for jobs in a highly competitive industrial field. "It is all too true that, too often in the past, vocational high schools have been classed as factories or even as reform schools. Too often, boys are sent there who cannot make good grades in the other high schools. That is wrong, and vocational schools should prepare our foremen and factory technicians of the future. Here in Essex County we are 20 years behind the times in the field of vocational education".

blood, we must intensify our recruitment activities within the town. The potential blood donors are here. We must reach them—interest them in our Blood Program—and enlist their aid as active donors.

I have been developing an organizational plan of recruitment which should prove effective and as soon as it can be worked out in a little more detail, it will be presented for Red Cross approval and adoption. I feel sure that with the cooperation of every 'red-blooded' citizen in Belleville we can provide the blood needed to safeguard the health of our townspeople and also meet the quotas we have been assigned in our Defense Blood Program.

"Fight Within Party"

Angered by the state committee's neglect of Essex County, Egan characterized the party's state leadership as "patriotic." Egan pointed out to Stevenson that fighter fights are being made in the 10th and 11th Districts to hold Congressional seats captured from the Republicans four years ago.

Egan's telegram recalled that both Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman made major speeches in Newark in 1932 and 1948, each rally attracting upwards of 100,000 persons. He told Stevenson that Truman came with 10,000 of carrying Essex County and that the Illinoisan stood a good chance of adding Essex if he visited this pivotal county.

In the meantime, the two Democratic Congressmen were honored by the Italian government which awarded them the Star of Solidarity in a reception at the Essex House Tuesday night. The award was created by Italy to honor citizens of other countries who have rendered outstanding service in bringing about goodwill and better understanding between the Italian people and those of other nations. Both representatives served with the U. S. Armed Forces in Italy during World War II.

Matturi, who has refused to resign his unexpired job as chairman of the Newark Housing Authority while running for Congress, must face a hearing on October 13 by the U. S. Civil Service Commission on a charge of violating the Hatch Act by running for office while holding down a job, even an unpaid job, in a government-supported agency.

The Hatch act was designed to bar employees of agencies which use Federal funds from engaging in politics. The Commission will investigate outside charges that Matturi comes under the act.

Matturi says he does not receive a salary for his work on the housing authority, and this is not violating the Hatch act by running for Congress.

When told the hearing date had been tentatively set, Matturi said: "This is part of a well-laid political scheme to embarrass me." He said he was told in August the hearing would be held in a few weeks.

"Since the matter has been delayed this long," Matturi said, "I can't see any harm in putting off the hearing until after the election, only two weeks after the date set by the Civil Service agency."

No criminal offense is involved in the case. If Matturi is found in violation of the Hatch act, a Commission spokesman said, the government may withhold twice his annual salary in the form of Federal aid to the local Housing Authority.

"Since twice zero is zero," Charles O. Barnes, acting local chief enforcement officer for the Civil Service, said, "it would be the weight of public opinion that would force Matturi out of his present job and not the financial loss, if he is found guilty."

Rodino, who was a battlefield commission in North Africa, resigned his unexpired job as chairman of the Newark Housing Authority while running for Congress, must face a hearing on October 13 by the U. S. Civil Service Commission on a charge of violating the Hatch Act by running for office while holding down a job, even FATHER & SON!

Now, it's a fact that any lad believes there's no man like his dad. The father who will have most fun is no who'll have it with his son and there will be no doubt about the way his youngster will turn out. When there is such companionship, no boy is much inclined to slip.

There's not much fun in trying to clean your rug and carpets all by yourself. Let us take that job off your hands. You'll like our workmanship. And, right now we're running a terrific sale on All Wilton... 100% wool rugs and carpets at only $9.95 a square yard. All colors and widths. Maudie Miller Co., 143 Franklin Avenue, Nutley. served with the First Armored Division in Italy, and later as executive officer of the Allied Military Mission to the Italian government. While serving there, he organized with the aid of his wife and friends in the United States a package brigade, when channeled American citizens' aid in the form of food and clothing packages through the medium of American Relief for Italy, CARE and similar organizations to the most needy among the Italian people.

Shortly upon his return to the U. S., when Italy found herself on the verge of a highly critical general election, Rodino created a "Freedom Brigade" among American citizens which undertook a letter writing campaign, setting forth to the recipients of these letters in Italy the imminent dangers which a Red election victory would have, not only for the rest of the free world, but for Italy.

Among those present at the decorating ceremony, was Mayor Ralph Villani, of Newark, who paid homage to the two Congressmen as "two of Newark's hometown boys," and surprised the audience by stating unequivocally: "There is absolutely no reason in the world why these two men should not continue to represent the people of Newark and of their respective districts in Congress after next election day."

Mayor Villani is nominally a Republican, and a special political significance was attached to the spontaneous remark.

DICK GOODENOUGH IS MODERATOR OF YOUTH FELLOWSHIP

Election Marked By Parades,
Banners, Balloons, Campaign
Speeches; Dr. Morse Installs

At the Sunday evening meeting of the Junior Westminster Youth Fellowship at the Westminster Presbyterian Church last week, Richard Goodenough was elected Moderator for the coming year. Other officers elected were: Thomas Jones, vice moderator; Marjorie Gilchrist, secretary; and William H. Bannister, treasurer. The election was marked by keen competition. Banners, balloons, campaign speeches and parades featured the event.

At the close the entire group marched into the Wilbur sanctuaries under a pledge of silence, and the new officers were officially installed at a candlelight ceremony headed by Dr. James K. Morse, minister.

The Executive Committee is meeting this week to complete the arrangements for the high school dance and future meetings. All boys and girls in 10th, 9th or 8th grades are invited to attend Sunday evening from 6:30 to 9:30.

expression of this faith by words and deed, seeking to work with those of like purpose and inviting others to join with us in building today for a Christian world."

The Executive Committee is meeting this week to complete plans for a game night, square dance and future meetings. All boys and girls in fifth, 7th or 8th grades are invited. Attend Sunday evening from 6.30 to 7.30.

Fall Farewell

Like falling leaves, the small brown birds of fall drop from the trees and move across the lawn and suddenly and all at once whirl upward, a blowing cloud of brown, maple-leaf color flashing as they fly, (a russet throat, a yellow under-wing) and moving on the wind they leave, off-blown in a fall-colored cloud and fall is gone. Louise Owen.

When Bureaucracy Throws Its Weight

State inspectors of the Motor Vehicle Division are setting up road blocks to catch motorists who have failed to have their cars inspected for the new period which began September 1. In one day, last Sunday, 633 car owners were given summons for that heinous crime.

As a consequence of the summons, the 633 motorists must take a day off from their work and go to Trenton where they must hang their heads and show their penitence as well as produce a good reason why their registrations should not be revoked.

To us, such hard-heartedness on the part of our state officials in charge smells of Nazism and Fascism at its worst. Hitler and Mussolini dreamed up just that kind of punishment for their victims. In our opinion the punishment does not fit the crime which, in most cases, is not a consequence of criminal intent to evade an inspection but carelessness. Thus William J. Dearden, Acting Director of Motor Vehicles, in Trenton, no careless habits? R.E.H.

Solvent Security

The Presidential election is now barely one month away. Except for the flurry over the exposure of the co-existence of the Nixon and the Stevenson "slush funds", the campaign has developed but three major issues: The need for cleaning out corruption from the national government; the Taft-Hartley law and security with solvency.

There can be little doubt that a change in administration can best assure the sweeping out of corruption from the halls of government.

There can be little doubt, either, that the hue and cry for repeal of the Taft-Hartley law is nothing but political demagoguery. The law itself has never been proven, in practice, to be harmful to the rights of either labor or management. Any faults can easily be corrected by revision; such as both Senator Taft and General Eisenhower have suggested.

Nor can there be any doubt that the gravest issue of this campaign is security with solvency. Savings must be made by drastic cuts in national expenditure, but those savings must not leave our security threatened. The Times-News considers that, in such a complicated task a general's uniform is more of an advantage than a disadvantage as so many who feared that the military would take over from the civil, had intended.

At Baltimore, this week, General Eisenhower dug into a subject on which he speaks with firsthand knowledge and authority—efficient defense. Three-fourths of the national budget is devoted to this purpose. The general's basic reasoning is that better defense can be bought for less money. He contends that a jaded, ingrown administration cannot supply either the ideas or the energy to end feast-and-famine, start-and-stop planning and set up an imaginative, farsighted defense program.

One welcome feature of the speech was its recognition that the United States is operating in a "twilight zone" between war and peace. This is far better than the implied promise in current partisan talk that holds out all the advantages of a "peace economy." Everyone wants peace and an economy geared to peace, but the assumption that this desire can be realized by simply waving a wand is unsafe. So, too, is the assumption that the whole affair is the fault of the Kremlin and nothing can be done about it.

General Eisenhower cited concrete measures to cut defense spending while maintaining defense power. His first proposal is for a nonpartisan civilian commission to survey the major problems, such as choice of weapons, procurement economies, and management of manpower. The general pointed out that the larger savings are likely to come in correcting wasteful policies rather than in cutting corners on vital defenses.

For instance, as General Eisenhower remarked, rushing the North African air bases, through failure to start when the need was seen, has meant getting two bases for the cost of five. The large waste in faulty planning is basically the reason for the many little wastes due to hasty construction. Mistakes in continuing too long with obsolete conventional weapons, or in shifting too soon to improved atomic marvels, can be very costly.

The greatest savings of all are possible in the proper direction of the political policies which must be supported by military measures. Here the general proposes a revamping and reinvigorating of the National Security Council. Everyone knows that it has largely failed to function as intended. One reason is that it is composed at present of Cabinet members already burdened with the management of executive departments. The Eisenhower idea is to bring in the highest caliber civilians and rotate them to insure fresh ideas.

It is interesting that the two basic answers General Eisenhower offers for America's major military problem both hinge on larger civilian influence. This program should ease the anxieties of those who have feared the nation might be handed over to the militarists. More than that, it seems to us to offer a broad-gauged and imaginative but very practical hope for winning "security with solvency."

"People Who Live In Glass Houses..."

People who live in glass houses should never throw stones.

If ever a rock has boomeranged, it is the rock which Democratic National Chairman Richard M. Nixon, "The Stevenson fund", because it was much larger, because the Illinois Governor is a rich man in his own right and because Chairman Mitchell failed to mention it in throwing rocks at the Californian, is, in our opinion, sufficient grounds to discredit him.

In the opinion of the Times-News, Governor Stevenson is discredited as a candidate for the Presidency, just as, in an opinion we expressed last week, Senator Nixon is discredited as a running-mate for Dwight Eisenhower. It is obvious that there is no difference between the Stevenson methods of passing around the slush fund in the Illinois capital and the corruption in Washington.

Stevenson talks about "reducing the financial sacrifice of a number of men whom I induced to leave private employment to work for the State of Illinois". One of them, Bill Flanagan, a Chicago newspaperman, had his financial sacrifice "reduced" to the tune of $7,900!

The Times-News sees no difference between such "reductions" and the milk-coats, deep freezers and five-per cent payments collected by the worthy in Washington. How could Governor Stevenson ever be expected to wipe out in Washington the same kind of official graft which he not only tolerated but inspired and now defends in his own capital?

After the horse-meat scandal, the Stevenson gift list can leave no doubt. He is not the man to clean up the mess in Washington.

The principle of public servants accepting money or milk coats or deep freezers from private sources is completely wrong. There is no evidence that either Senator Nixon or Governor Stevenson took personal profit from the "slush funds". The most unhappy aspect of the whole affair is that neither, apparently, sees any wrong in it. Something is definitely wrong with our political thinking when two candidates for our highest offices not only condone but glory in the use of "slush funds" to compensate for deficiencies in official income.

We draw the same conclusion—we drew last week, the same conclusion which The New York Times drew in its Sunday editorial this past weekend and which, because it confirms what we expressed editorially last week as our own conclusion, we reprint in toto:

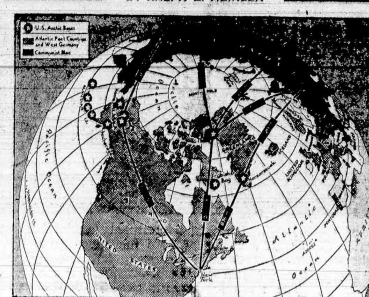

"We, the people, are at fault for permitting the conditions to arise that have led to this unsatisfactory situation. On the whole, we do not pay enough to those of our public servants—local, state and national—whom we have a right to expect to devote all of their time to the public business. To be a member of the United States Congress, for example, is nowadays a full-time job. Yet most members of Congress say they 'have to rely on outside sources of income to make ends meet' which means that they must be relatively wealthy or that they must carry on some kind of independent business or professional activity... $15,000 salary for the most important legislative office in the world is absurdly low pay by current standards of American business."

"We do not say that increasing pay will necessarily make for better legislators or administrators. But it will mean that they can be free of financial worry and therefore free of the necessity either of accepting presents or of diverting their time and attention to jobs that have nothing to do with public service—whether the jobs involve the practice of law on the side or making speeches to special interest groups for a fee. If the ethical standards of public life are to be raised, one way to start is to lessen the more obvious temptations to public servants."

One Man's Opinion

Thule, U. S. Air Force is Sitting on Kremlin's Doorstep and Russia Must Fortify Own Franz Joseph Land

BY RALPH E. HEINZEN

In any future war, if the present Kremlin-inspired "cold war" heats into a red-hot conflagration, Russia will be under attack across the North Pole. Conversely, the defense of America will rest on a polar perimeter extending from the Aleutian Islands across Greenland to Iceland. That is why Thule is vitally important to Belleville, as it is to every American community, for in our Arctic defenses Thule is the key stone—only 2752 miles from Moscow across the Arctic ocean.

In announcing the existence of a big new United States air base in Thule, the U. S. Government merely lifted one corner of the veil of secrecy covering its new polar strategy. Of far more importance is the Arctic network of intermediate bases, weather stations and radar-control installations from which we would get the best possible protection in event of war. Nothing is being said of that network and the need for secrecy is obvious, because Russia, caught napping, must now counter Thule with air installations on her own Franz Joseph Land, a chain of islands that reach to within 1,450 miles of Thule.

To many, Thule was unknown until a few days ago, yet Thule was on the maps of the Greeks and the Romans before Christ was born. Even in contemporary times, it was a dateline for despatches of several of Admiral Robert Peary's expeditions to approach the North Pole. In fact, it was from Thule that he pushed forward to Cape Columbia whence, in a four-month journey, he finally reached the Pole in 1909. Thule is exactly 961 miles from the Pole, now a four-hour airplane ride in contrast to Peary's superhuman four-month effort on foot.

Greeks Discovered Thule. Butting up his Emperor, Caesar Augustus, the great Virgil wrote: "The servant utters Thule." "Farthest Thule is subject to thee." There is nothing anywhere in Virgil's writings, however, to prove that Augustus's great Roman fleet, which did circumnavigate the British Isles, ever circumnavigated Greenland to reach Thule.

Virgil may merely have been guilty of a little poetic justice, taking a leaf out of the book of Pytheas, the Greek navigator and a contemporary of Alexander the Great who wrote the name ploring and claiming Greenland, found Thule, a village of pure Eskimos whose civilization had not progressed from the Ice or the Stone Age. It was only about the time that Admiral Peary made the centuries-old Eskimo community his polar expedition base that a modern Danish town of Thule was established by Knud Rasmussen.

Now, finally, the Air Age meets up with the Stone Age and the Ice Age in Thule. It is no longer a "distant, mysterious or mythical region." We have to correct our knowledge of geography and it is interesting to learn from our sailors who are home from Operation "Blue Jay" that Greenland is not exactly one huge glacier but that even farther to the north of Thule there is a vast area of rolling hills and plains covered in summer with grasses and wild flowers, with butterflies flitting about.

Winds Favor Us. Thule will be our all-weather key defense and offense base. All the construction is permanent in nature, built to overcome the weather. For once, the odds are in our favor. Military authorities say that the prevailing west-east polar winds would favor our bombers, heavily loaded, in any attack on Russia, while Russian bombers attempting to use the polar path from Franz Joseph Land would have to buck strong Arctic headwinds.

The Thule base, with its two-mile long runway, towering hangars, fuel tanks and their secret installations is backed up to the south by a net of airfields in northern Maine, Newfoundland, Labrador, Southern Greenland and on Frobisher Bay in South Baffin Island.

From Thule it is 2,752 miles to Moscow, 3,199 miles to Omsk, and 3,628 to Irkutsk, 4,115 miles to Vladivostok, 2,745 miles to Wap-saw and 3,367 miles to St. Petersburg. From Thule to Moscow it is only about 160 miles farther than from Thule to Washington, D. C.

The world of a strategic air force such as the United States has been racing to build is based on one central fact: The industrial areas of the world of sufficient productivity to be significant in a full-scale war lie above 30 degrees north latitude. They are Japan, Central Siberia, the Ural Mountains, Moscow, the Don Basin, Western Europe, the British Isles, Northeastern United States and a great part of the industrial area of our Midwest.

The Ladies Aid Society will meet at Belleville Reformed Church this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. On Sunday at 10:50 a World Wide Communion Service will take place. The entire family should attend. Among the children who will receive the ritual of baptism Sunday will be Donna Adele Dunkinson, granddaughter of the minister, Rev. John A. Struyk.

Work Starts On Third Tube To End Lincoln Tunnel Jams

Morning And Evening Rush-Hour Congestion Will End With Switch Tube

Work was started yesterday at the New York end of the Lincoln Tunnel on a third tube, to cost $200,000,000 and to be ready in 1957, which will increase the tunnel capacity by 50 per cent and greatly speed up traffic during the rush hours. The Port Authority announced at the same time that it is already at work on a wholly new 2-tube tunnel under the Hudson, between the Holland and Lincoln tunnels, to cost $299,000,000.

When the third tube of the Lincoln tunnel is completed it will be a "switch tube" bringing the tunnel capacity to four lanes in the direction of peak traffic, mornings and evenings. Its building cost is more than the cost of building the first two tubes, completed in 1937 and 1945.

Howard S. Cullman, Port Authority chairman, said at the groundbreaking ceremony yesterday that there will be no change

CYO AWARD TO JAMES J. MCMAHON

Chairman Of March Of Dimes Awarded Pro Juvenile Medal For "Service To Youth"

The Pro Juvenile Medal was awarded to James J. McMahon, Essex County chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, by Bishop James A. McNulty, administrator of the Archdiocese of Newark at the fourth annual convention of the Senior Catholic Youth Council Sunday at the Jersey City CYO Center. The award is given annually to a Catholic layman for "distinguisher service to youth."

McMahon, who has headed the local chapter of the March of Dimes since its inception, has been Commissioner of Montclair from 1932 to 1940, chairman of the board of the Passaic Valley Sewage Commission from 1935 to 1944 and chairman of the Essex County Democratic Committee from 1938 to 1945. In addition to his work with the police foundation, for which he received the award, McMahon has organized and for Essex County CYO in presenting marriage forums, and has served as chairman of the Cathedral Builders' Association, which works for the completion of the Archdiocesan cathedral in Newark.

In accepting the medal, McMahon cited the late Archbishop Walsh's "active, enthusiastic support" as the reason for the success of the CYO. He sketched the founding of the organization and called upon the 500 delegates to bring to office and factories the truth concerning the Catholic Church, which he said is often misrepresented and wrongly attacked.

The youthful representatives of 70 parishes in Essex, Hudson, Bergen and Union Counties, unanimously adopted a resolution calling for the creation of a Federal Fair Employment Practices Commission, for aid to the Civilian Defense Services, and for a lay vote in the presidential elections next month.

Blue Noses

At Belleville High School, between 1945 and 1948, White picked up letters for two years of varsity football and basketball and a year of JV play in both sports. His home at that time was at 184 Garden Avenue. Though the base is not what the Defense Department is ready to call a completed operation it is able to assume at least part of its operational role. Big cargo carriers wing down the long flat approaches and occasional jets drop by at the farthest north base on unannounced missions. Except for the two wives of the Danish and American chiefs, there are no women in the area and the Belleville boys readily agreed that all social activity centered around a hut called Guffey's Tavern, open around the clock to serve both the day and night crew seven days a week. The men gathered there and organized swing bands, hobby clubs, card groups and discussed their softball strategy. During the summer months the boys participated in the 21-team softball league whose games were sometimes called in the cause of fog but never because of darkness. Heating Food Lockers Eating is one of the most popular pastimes at our most northern base and the menu is in direct contrast to the permacorn (a sweet, blood, kidney and ground beef mixture) devoured by Perry and his crew a generation ago. Today's Polar crews are well fed with only choicest cuts of meat. In winter northern Greenland gets so cold that the government was faced with the problem of maintaining a cold storage temperature of 10 degrees and finally had to resort to heating the food lockers. Though the Navy played a great part in the transportation of both men and supplies to the Arctic area the project was actually the work of the Air Force, and of civilian construction crews, recruited from the Great Lakes and other colder areas of the United States. Value of Base The average man sitting snugly by his warm fire at the evenings chill, might wonder just what the value of an air base in a desolate place like Greenland would be. But a close look at the adjoining map should explain just how necessary such a polar base is. The shortest air route to the United States from Russia is directly over the North Pole and Thule, and for that reason "Operation Blue Jay" has been termed a global defense effort. Operation "Blue Jay" ran into a long list of what proved to be enormous obstacles. The Belleville youth said: "Winter ice in Baffin Bay and in the North Star Bay was heavier than it had been in the memory of any living Eskimo. For days after arriving the ships were ice locked. Then until housing could be set up the construction men commuted dangerously between the foggy shores and the ice jammed barracks ships. Dynamiting Soil The terrain, a permafrost of frozen soil, is some 1,500 feet deep in summer the soil thaws to a depth of five or six feet, but freezes in the cold months to form a mass which had to be dynamited and drilled like granite. Heated buildings were prone to melt down their foundations eventually in a circumstance as this. Hangers had to be built with heavily insulated floors beneath which the cold air could circulate in winter and the warm air could be kept out in summer. At Belleville High School, Between 1945 and 1948, White picked up letters for two years of varsity football and basketball and a year of JV play in both sports. His home at that time was at 184 Garden Avenue. Though the base is not what the Defense Department is ready to call a completed operation it is able to assume at least part of its operational role. Big cargo carriers wing down the long flat approaches and occasional jets drop by at the farthest north base on unannounced missions. Except for the two wives of the Danish and American chiefs, there are no women in the area and the Belleville boys readily agreed that all social activity centered around a hut called Guffey's Tavern, open around the clock to serve both the day and night crew seven days a week. The men gathered there and organized swing bands, hobby clubs, card groups and discussed their softball strategy. During the summer months the boys participated in the 21-team softball league whose games were sometimes called in the cause of fog but never because of darkness. Heating Food Lockers Eating is one of the most popular pastimes at our most northern base and the menu is in direct contrast to the permacorn (a sweet, blood, kidney and ground beef mixture) devoured by Perry and his crew a generation ago. Today's Polar crews are well fed with only choicest cuts of meat. In winter northern Greenland gets so cold that the government was faced with the problem of maintaining a cold storage temperature of 10 degrees and finally had to resort to heating the food lockers. Though the Navy played a great part in the transportation of both men and supplies to the Arctic area the project was actually the work of the Air Force, and of civilian construction crews, recruited from the Great Lakes and other colder areas of the United States. Value of Base The average man sitting snugly by his warm fire at the evenings chill, might wonder just what the value of an air base in a desolate place like Greenland would be. But a close look at the adjoining map should explain just how necessary such a polar base is. The shortest air route to the United States from Russia is directly over the North Pole and Thule, and for that reason "Operation Blue Jay" has been termed a global defense effort. Operation "Blue Jay" ran into a long list of what proved to be enormous obstacles. The Belleville youth said: "Winter ice in Baffin Bay and in the North Star Bay was heavier than it had been in the memory of any living Eskimo. For days after arriving the ships were ice locked. Then until housing could be set up the construction men commuted dangerously between the foggy shores and the ice jammed barracks ships. Dynamiting Soil The terrain, a permafrost of frozen soil, is some 1,500 feet deep in summer the soil thaws to a depth of five or six feet, but freezes in the cold months to form a mass which had to be dynamited and drilled like granite. insulate the floors from the ground and buildings were wheeled down by strips of concrete along the lower edge of the outer walls to secure them in gales of 125 miles an hour or more. These were all problems that neither the civilian nor the service construction workers had ever coped with and the solving of them was as difficult as the actual labor. Until the operations began 18 months ago there was nothing at Thule except rocks, ice floes and a gravel airstrip, built jointly by Danish and American authorities for use as a weather station. Navy's Achievement Now, according to those who have visited the new base, there is not only a 10,000-foot airfield big enough for jets, but a thriving settlement of 5,000 military personnel and civilian workers on 480 acres of snug barbed wire, a thousand foot dock, a huge radio tower, bright orange fuel tanks, heated hangers and many other installations all only a dozen miles from the 10,000-foot ice mountain of the Greenland Icecap. Bombers can take off now from a fully equipped base only 2,750 miles from Moscow and a jet can circle the Russian industrial center only five hours after zooming off the frozen arctic runway.

Former Student Thanks High School Teachers

The faculty of Belleville High School is in receipt of a congratulatory letter from Marilyn Hubach, class of 1952: "To the faculty of Belleville High School: I wish this did not have to be a letter, for I would much rather talk to you personally. Unfortunately that is not possible since I start school the same day you do. This is simply a note of thanks to all of you for helping to make my four years of high school such profitable and pleasant ones. Many times we don't realize the time you spend correcting papers and planning lessons after having a hard school day for the day. Yet I and many others deeply appreciate the hours you spend on us. May I wish you a very pleasant and successful year. I shall certainly miss not coming back this fall. Again—man thanks. Most sincerely, Marilyn Hubach, Class of 1952."

As We See It

Peggy Kelly and Evelyn Hannon

Merry Christmas, seniors! You think this is an odd opening? Well, after all there are only 77 shopping days left until Christmas, and only 56 days left in which to sell those cards. Say, do you want to buy a box of Christmas cards? If so see Peggy Kelly or Evelyn Hannon in home rooms 306 and 304, respectively.

We hear we have some models in the school, although you fellows don't know it. Four of Belleville High's own girls drove up to Levy's Department Store in Clifton and did some shoe modeling. These girls with the daintiest little toes were Nestle Gargano, Marilyn Everett, Carol Crisp, and Evelyn Hannon. The girls were paid seventy-five cents an hour and received a bonus of the pair of shoes which they modeled.

Our future "Ladies in White" held a meeting Monday, September 22, and elected their officers who are Alice Adamaki, president; Mable Macchi, vice president; Doris Dashed, corresponding secretary; Joyce McChane, secretary; and Grace Orth, treasurer.

We see Mr. Kittle is sporting a new blue suit. Business must be good! If he leave that word out, will you? You all know what we mean. No further comment will be made at this point.

Our first pep assembly went over with a bang—like a firecracker that fizzles out. While the cheerleaders and the band really put their heart in it, the students sat back quietly and did not participate. Come on lets get behind the team. How can they have spirit if the students do not?

The varsity squad clad in their uniforms put on a show of their own. They went through their maneuvers on stage and screen while the girls cheered. Mr. Jinski, Mr. Wische, and Mr. Smith explained.

We were all pleased to see that the maneuvers worked on stage, screen, and field. For we all know, Belleville defeated East Orange by one touchdown even though the official score was 13-13. See what the story on that Mr. B???

Nice routine! Worky! Here's a rat on the back for Roland Worthington and the rest of the Belleville team who fought so hard to win. It was a swell game. The boys really gave their all.

To create harmony between East Orange and Belleville Mr. Mattick and the East Orange band director had the two bands stand up together and play the "Star Spangled Banner" before the game.

At half time the band did its usual splendid show as the twirlers spun their batons to the bright strains of music. Stand-outs of the evening were Judy Gabriel, Belleville's major, and her two captains Mary Lou Salandra and Connie Mann.

Mr. Smith, senior counselor, and Mr. Sifkin, guidance director, went over information they had compiled on college with the seniors on Wednesday morning. Blank college applications were passed out among the group of college aspirants to be used as practice blanks.

Where is that Chemistry book? Have you seen a lost chemistry book floating around the halls. The owner is looking for it. Our latest reports for it was last seen in a certain senior's desk.

We hear Mr. Calneha's was a way with dogs. It shows them the way out of Belleville High School.

Attention! Biondes—natural blondes—Mr. Correll has some interesting information. It is a story to end all stories about the peroxide elements.

Word has come from our crystal ball that there will be a terrific assembly tomorrow. Since it is the eve of the Bloomfield game we expect to see things really hummer. Our arch opponents will probably, as is the usual procedure, have snies in the audience so lets watch it up gang!!!

As soon as the game is over we will all celebrate Belleville's first victory at the Bloomfield Victory Dance. Taps in music and entertainment will be there, so why don't you come???? It is to be a dancin' rave.

Our thanks and appreciation go out to Phyllis De Meo who types this column for us every week.

More thank-yous are in order for Mr. Kittle for giving us Sunday off. You are a real sport!!! To put the people in the mood so that the seniors can sell their cards and since we began with Merry Christmas cards, find it only fitting to end with a Happy New Year!!!!

Applications are available at high schools, colleges, and Navy Recruiting Stations. Samuel Sifkin, Guidance Director of Belleville High School, who is active as the Navy's local civilian representative, will be pleased to provide specific information about the program, including the time and place of the competitive examination. Our thanks and appreciation go out to Phyllis De Meo who types this column for us every week.

COMPETITIVE TESTS FOR NAVY SCHOOLS OPEN TO SENIORS

Successful Candidates Will Get Four Years Of College At Navy's Expense; With Pay

The Navy announced recently that the seventh nationwide competitive examination for its college training program is being scheduled for December 13, and will be open to high school seniors or graduates who are at least 17 years of age and meet the requirements. Successful candidates will be given a four-year college education at government expense and will be commissioned as officers of the Navy or Marine Corps upon graduation.

The program is open to male citizens of the United States between the ages of 17 and 21, and really put their heart in it, the students sat back quietly and did not participate. Come on lets get behind the team. How can they have spirit if the students do not?

The students selected by these competitive examinations will be assigned to the 52 Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps units which are located at various universities and colleges in the United States. If accepted by the college, they will be appointed Midshipmen, U.S.N.R., and will have their tuition, books, and other expenses paid by the government. In addition they will receive pay at the rate of $50.00 a month for the four-year period.

Upon graduation they may be commissioned as officers in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps, or they may continue their education at the college. If they are not commissioned, they may be required to serve in the Navy or Marine Corps for three years. At the end of their second year of active service they may be given a commission in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps, or when active duty requirements have been fulfilled they may be transferred to the Reserve and, depending upon the needs of the Service, return to civilian life.

Mr. Smith, senior counselor, and Mr. Sifkin, guidance director, went over information they had compiled on college with the seniors on Wednesday morning. Blank college applications were passed out among the group of college aspirants to be used as practice blanks.

1100 High School Students Receive Tuberculosis Test

Belleville-Nutley Tuberculosis League Will Supply X-Ray and Technicians to Check on All Who Have Positive Reaction to Patches

The 1100 students of Belleville High School have been given the Volmer Patch Test for the detection of possible tuberculosis. On Monday, September 22, an adhesive patch with three squares, two impregnated with tuberculin, and one control square were placed upon the student's left arm. On Wednesday, the patches were removed and Friday the results were tabulated as positive or negative. All students who have a positive reaction are given an x-ray of the lungs to check on the results of the patch test. Tuberculosis is a preventable disease, if discovered, and the patient given proper care in the early stages.

The high school physical education staff assisted Dr. D. C. Mataduso, Dr. Donald Brown, the school nurses, and Mrs. Ernest Whynall from the Belleville-Nutley Tuberculosis League, in administering the test. The Belleville-Nutley Tuberculosis League will supply the high school with an x-ray machine and the technicians to operate it. This check-up will be given to all students with a positive reaction, and those who failed to take a satisfactory patch test.

The Social Studies department at Belleville High School is moving ahead with its plans for a straw ballot assembly and straw vote to take place a few days before the national presidential election. There will be an assembly program on October 27 to present student speakers for candidates on the national, state, and congressional district level. The information they provide will be supplemented by student Democratic and Republican speakers who will set up booths to distribute material they will have obtained by contacting the campaign headquarters of the various candidates. The Art Department will lend its talent to producing campaign posters.

Speakers for Dwight Eisenhower, Adlai Stevenson, Richard Nixon, and John Sparkman will be recruited through the United States History IV classes, while speakers for H. Alexander Smith, Archibald Alexander, Peter Rodino, and Alexander Maffei will be United States History III students.

The regular voting procedure will be approximated in that, to be eligible to vote, each student must have registered beforehand. Voting will be by machines and will take place during lunch and study periods on October 28.

The high school library has been enriched with over 375 new fiction, short story, biography, and subject books. These books have been recommended by subject teachers and heads of departments. Mrs. Poynter also suggested a list of fictional and special books that she felt were needed.

The co-mittee which compiled it includes, Kathryn Conklin, Mary Gilroy, Doris Melville, Elsie Sanderson, Elizabeth Rodella, Edna Williamson and Dorothy Belsler.

Freshmen Commence Studies At Upsala After Orientation. Monday, September 22, marked the start of introductory three day tours of the school library for all freshmen English classes of Belleville High School.

The expeditions are being conducted for the purpose of familiarizing new pupils with the library, its contents, and management. The groups are learning how to use the card catalog from a series of lectures by Mrs. Viola Poynter, school librarian. On the third day of their visits these students browse through the library inspecting new books.

It is important that new students learn to use the library early in the year. This introduction to the library should acquaint the pupils with the materials in the room and the regulations for their use.

SENIORS RECEIVE BULLETIN ABOUT COLLEGE ENTRANCE

Points Out That Belleville Foundation Maintains Fund To Loan Without Interest

On Thursday, Belleville High School seniors who plan to continue their education were given a bulletin issued by the guidance director, and instructed to read the bulletin thoroughly and then take it home for their parents to read. One of the steps in the bulletin referred to the Belleville Foundation Student Loan Fund. Students may borrow from this fund, if they are approved and repay the loan on an installment basis after graduation from an institution of higher learning. There is no interest charge on the money borrowed. This fund enables worthy students to continue with their education. Parents may receive application forms and further information from the high school office.

The rest of the bulletin listed important instructions for those students who expect to continue with their education. It reads: Become acquainted with the books on the colleges in The United States. Most of these books are kept in the guidance office. They include: "The College Blue Book," Lovejoy's "Guide to Colleges," How to Choose That College, and several others. In addition there are some books in the school library.

Take home the catalogs of the colleges or schools you wish to consider. There are over 600 catalogs available in the guidance office on colleges, technical schools, nursing schools, and secretarial schools.

Send for application forms and catalogs immediately. It is safer to apply to more than one college.

If possible, maintain at least a "B" average.

If possible, make it your business to visit some of the colleges you would consider entering.

Inquire in the guidance office about scholarship awards. The Belleville Foundation Student Loan Fund is also available.

Take home no interest charges on money borrowed. The money is obtained from the office.

Talk with people who have attended the colleges you have selected.

Attend group guidance meetings when college officials visit Belleville High School. There will be notices over the public address system announcing these visits.

Raymond Smith, senior counselor, will be in the guidance office to answer questions.

FRESHMAN LIBRARY TOURS IN PROGRESS

Will Familiarize Students With Management And Its Contents; Has 375 New Books

Four Belleville bogan their studies last week as freshmen at Upsala College, after participating in various indoctrination lectures and psychological tests. They are: Miss Irene D. Blose of 27 Center Street, Donald Jacobelli of 214 Franklin Street, Robert G. Kiss of 222 New Street, and John Smith of 100 William Street.

The high school assembly committee under the chairmanship of Louis Zuckerman has formed a schedule of educational and entertaining assembly programs for the coming school year. Many of the programs will be conducted entirely by the students, others will be prepared by professional talent. Each department of the school is going to present at least one program.

This was the first year that a freshman orientation assembly was presented so the new students could learn the cheers, rules and regulations of the school, the members of the student council, and the guidance set-up of the school.

One of the special assembly programs will be an election assembly for the purpose of having the students familiarize themselves with the current presidential campaign. In the last presidential election the student's vote predicted the final results 100 percent correct.

COMMITTEE PLANS YEAR'S ASSEMBLIES

Special Program Will Be On National Election; Students Will Participate In Many

The high school assembly committee under the chairmanship of Louis Zuckerman has formed a schedule of educational and entertaining assembly programs for the coming school year. Many of the programs will be conducted entirely by the students, others will be prepared by professional talent. Each department of the school is going to present at least one program.

This was the first year that a freshman orientation assembly was presented so the new students could learn the cheers, rules and regulations of the school, the members of the student council, and the guidance set-up of the school.

One of the special assembly programs will be an election assembly for the purpose of having the students familiarize themselves with the current presidential campaign. In the last presidential election the student's vote predicted the final results 100 percent correct.

Edgar Jean Bracco

The question and answer column a short while ago seems to have caused a mild bit of interest. While I can't say that trucks loaded with mail have been roaring up to the newspaper office, there have been a few letters. And that is good. A column is more than the columnist. It is also its readers. Without readers a column is like a beautiful sunset with no one to look at it.

One young man in town sends me a note full of youthful wrath. He says: "What do you think of parents who want their son to be in by 10:30 every night? I'm sixteen, in high school, and big enough to take care of myself. But there's another reason. At your age—and I'm not forgetting that I once was that age—it's very easy to step off the baseline. I assume that you are an honorable, clean, decent person, as are most other people. But among good people like you there sometimes comes the one rotten apple that spoils the whole barrel."

The world has too many rotten apples. I've seen some people like you, out for an innocent good time, get wrong by some guy who thought it would be smart for the whole group to sneak into a movie, just for laughs. Then he thinks it's even smarter to swipe a spare tire from a car to pick up some extra change for a big time movie. Then, finding it easy and exciting, all of you go on to two tires, then three. And from there to the whole car is a simple matter. You get picked up, (as they always do) and you're marked for life by a police record.

I've seen this happen time and again to good people who got into such a mess not because they were thieves but because they would appear like weak sissies if they backed out. And these things happen at night. Think about all this and you'll see—if you're as smart as your letter leads me to believe—that I'm right, and more important, that your parents are right.

The shortest letter, but the one with the best possibility of starting a stream of hot air, is from a young lady. Her entire letter follows: "What is there to do in a small town like this?"

And that's it. I know she's a she because of her name. I've assumed that she's young from the question itself—and whatever answer there is to it is particularly close to me. If you've read this column in the past, Miss, you will remember that occasionally I've mentioned the wisdom of learning to extract pleasure and interest from the small commonplace things around us. I don't offer this a panacea to all of mankind's assorted ills, boredom, and dullness. Each man must create his own paradise within himself.

What can be done in a small town—or anywhere else, for that matter—depends on who you are. There are people living in hotels right on Times Square who find nothing to do. There are people living back in wildernesses with only themselves for company whose lives are full and rich. Living in a small town is much like living anywhere else. There are people around you, and it is up to you whether you find them dull or interesting.

Actually, there is much to do in a small town if you know how to look for and find diversity. Through whatever church you attend, you can meet new friends. All churches have social gatherings of one kind or another. There you can meet different people, which starts a chain reaction—one person introduces you to another who introduces you to another who...

If you dig deeply enough, you will find that your town has clubs or groups devoted to the furtherance of almost any hobby you can name. If you have a hobby, search for one of these groups, and you will find others who are interested in the same thing you are.

And there is your local library. It is almost painful to me to see the astounding number of young people today to whom a library is only a place to enter when one needs information from an encyclopedia. Today's young people seem to have lost the feeling for books.

Oh yes, they read. Comic books will pardon the airing of a personal prejudice, but my emotional thermometer rises when I see people in their late teens and early twenties carrying up to a comic book when there are so many really good books to be read. (And most of them are just as exciting as the manufactured idiocy of their precious comic books.)

These are only a few of the things to be done in a small town. Anyone with a wide outlook, with the ability to see beyond the end of his or her nose, can discover many more. Remember, if you're bored.

"FREE PARKING IN REAR"

SAVE $80,000,000 on the Parkway

TO: NEW JERSEY $80,000,000

VOTE "YES" FOR THE PARKWAY REFERENDUM

A YES vote for the self-supporting Garden State Parkway means dollars and "sense" savings for you—and construction of the entire Parkway without one cent of additional taxes—

SAVINGS—You save an estimated $80,000,000 by permitting the New Jersey Highway Authority to issue $285,000,000 in 2% revenue bonds instead of paying 3% or more. Your vote simply puts state credit behind the revenue bonds to save millions in lower interest rates and to construct the entire Parkway quickly from the New York State-Bergen County line south to Cape May.

FOR TOP SAVINGS

NO TAXES—Users pay for the Parkway on a pay-as-you-ride basis. Expert consultants say the Parkway—the safest yet to be engineered—is sure to pay for itself with the traffic it will absorb. This means NO EXTRA TAXES. From any way you look at it—a YES vote means just plain $55 and "sense" logic to save $80,000,000 and AVOID ADDITIONAL TAXES.
