

Eisenhower Is Our Choice And Here Are 10 Reasons Why

The election of a President of the United States is now only ten days away. We have seen and heard everything that anyone has to say about the issues. In fact, we have seen and heard much that would have been better left unsaid and unsaid, such as Harry Truman's Pendergast-type of gutter politics.

It is time to take stock of a situation, and, having taken stock, we come to the conclusion: The Times-News is 100 per cent for General Eisenhower for the Presidency.

Elsewhere, along the line, we may pick and choose, but there is such a drastic need for certain definite qualities of leadership for the next four years in a world already engaged in a struggle of two continents for power that we have come to the conclusion, wit and charm notwithstanding, that Governor Adlai Stevenson lacks the experience in world affairs, the wisdom and the background to lead us as General Eisenhower can do.

Since this is an election of qualities, not personalities, we put ten questions to ourselves and we came up with the same answer every time. Try them on yourself for size.

1. Under whose leadership—that of General Eisenhower or of Governor Stevenson—and under which party will we more likely be sure that America will act to secure its own freedom and discharge its role as leader of the free world with resolution and daring?

Our answer to that one, overwhelmingly, is: Eisenhower.

2. Which President and which party will likely act more wisely and more and more effectively to maintain our defensive strength in this period of great world peril without spending the nation into bankruptcy, without undermining the national economy, and, at the same time and equally importantly, without weakening our security by unwise military economies or other measures unequal to the danger?

On a basis of professional experience, our answer is: Eisenhower.

3. Which President and which party could be expected to do better in rooting out corruption and the corrupt in the federal government and creating a climate of integrity which will raise up a standard for every citizen and public official in the nation?

In view of the horse-meat scandal in Illinois, where the same old gang is still entrenched in office, our answer is: Eisenhower.

4. Which President and which party more likely will support policies which will promote stable prosperity, serve the best interests of a healthy competitive enterprise, and guard against any post-defense depression?

On a basis of experience with inflation, expansion of our national debt and uncurbed budgets of the New Deal and the Fair Deal, our answer is: Eisenhower.

5. Will one of the two possible Presidents and one of the two parties do a better job than the other in exposing subversives in government and in guarding against Communist infiltration?

Stevenson publicly stood up for Hiss without intimate knowledge of his Communist connections. He cannot be trusted to root out other Communists equally adept at hiding their red ties. Our answer is: Eisenhower.

6. Should there be a change of parties and of national leadership for the sake of change because of the 20-year tenure of one party and what weight should be given to this consideration?

Our answer is: It's time for a change; Eisenhower.

7. Which President and which party are more likely to act in the national interest—in the interest of the whole of the people rather than as a spokesman of any one large group?

Past experience has convinced us that the Democratic party, for political motives, has carried favor with organized labor (an instance was Harry Truman's illegal action in the recent steel strike) and with racial minorities. Our choice is: the Republican party; Eisenhower.

8. On the record of past performance and on the basis of the experience and stated views of the two nominees, which President and which party would be more likely to guide foreign policy with care and skill and vision?

As Commander-in-Chief of SHAEP, Eisenhower had to deal with the Churchills and the Roosevelts of 27 nations. On a basis of his accomplishments and that experience, our answer is: Eisenhower.

9. Which President and which party can be expected to do more to unite the American people behind what is most essential in the present world struggle and help invest the nation with faith and poise and stamina?

Harry Truman has done more than any one man, except for Joseph Stalin, to split the American people. Standard-bearer for the Democratic party, he set to "explode" Eisenhower's prestige. He is the top Democrat and by his Pendergast methods he has proven himself a divider, not a unifier. Our answer is: Eisenhower.

10. Which man can inspire among our allies abroad the greatest confidence which is necessary to hold NATO together?

Stevenson is more of an unknown quantity to the Europeans and the peoples of Asia than any candidate we ever have had for the past 20 years. There are but two names which held together our post-war mutual defense alliances. One was Douglas MacArthur, the other is: Eisenhower.

One way to elect a president is blindly to follow party lines. Another is to think things out for yourself. Those ten questions are merely suggestions. Ask yourself any ten other questions, then vote intelligently on issues and qualifications, not on party symbols, wit and humor or personalities. If ever America needed an intelligent election, it is this time.

The Traverses live at 129 Belmont Street.

THREE GET JAIL SENTENCES ON BAD CHECK COUNT

Check Stolen In Maryland Cashed After Three Tries In Belleville Food Stores

Three men arrested last week in an attempt to cash a forged check in three Belleville super-markets, were sentenced to penitentiary terms by Magistrate Edward J. Abramson, Tuesday night in a special court session. The three had been held in the local jail since their arrest last Wednesday, while their records were checked with the FBI. All had records of previous arrests.

Harbert L. Manvel, 33, who gave his address as Jersey Shore, Pa., attempted to cash a $62 check at both the A. & P. Market and the Universal Market, without success. At the latter place a clerk became suspicious and called police. Detective Haight answered the call and drove on to the Food Fair where he arrested Manvel a minute after he successfully cashed the check. Also arrested was Claude Odin Sawyer, 46 of Washington, D.C., and Alexander J. Campbell of Newark. The check had been stolen at Waterford, Md., on October 10.

Magistrate Abramson sentenced Manvel to three months in the county penitentiary and the other two men to 60 days each.

Barge Captain Ties Up To Bridge And Halts Traffic

"Any Port in a Storm" was more than just a saying to the skipper of the tug, the Mary Kennedy, Monday morning when this section had its first snow fall. The tugboat pulled up under the Belleville Turnpike drawbridge and came to a stop, preventing the bridge from closing and stalling the traffic on both sides of the river for almost an hour.

Gerald D'Andrea of 654 Elm Street, Kearny, operator of the bridge said he opened the draw at 8:11 for a tug pushing a gasoline barge. When the tug got under the bridge it stopped. When D'Andrea called to the skipper, he said he couldn't see on account of the snow, and tied up to the bridge supports. Finally the tug and the barge backed up. A few cars were let through then the tug skipper blew again and the bridge was opened to let him through. Belleville police helped relieve traffic on this side of the bridge by rerouting northbound cars to the Avondale bridge in Nutley, and southbound traffic to Newark.

LIONS HEAR ABOUT PRISONER PAROLE

Homer C. Zink, Chairman Of State Parole Board Speaks At Luncheon Meeting Today

Homer C. Zink of Belleville, chairman of the State Parole Board, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Belleville Lions Club at the For Hills Restaurant, this noon. Mr. Zink will talk on the duties of the parole board.

Mr. Zink in his talk will tell the Lions that the State Parole Board is required by law to hear every prisoner as he becomes eligible, but is not required to parole anyone. It is a fact, which is little understood, that parole, when honestly and intelligently exercised, actually protects society rather than endangering it. Parolees are under supervision from the date of release from prison until the end of the maximum sentence imposed. Thus a prisoner on parole finishes his term outside the prison walls instead of within them.

Of interest to taxpayers is the fact that the cost of supervising a prisoner on parole is a fraction of the cost of housing, clothing and maintaining him in an institution. In addition, the families of most inmates receive State assistance while the prisoners are incarcerated.

Competent authorities are united in agreeing that parole does work. Only about 15 or 20 per cent are returned to prison for new offenses. Mr. Zink maintains that while the State Parole Board gives proper thought to the future of prisoners in considering parole, it thinks first, of the safe-

Instead of Seasonal Slump, October May Be Fourth Best Month of Record Breaking Year; Nine Month Total Half Million Over 1951

Greco this month has issued permits for 15 one family dwellings and two large alterations with a total valuations in labor and materials of $197,500 and other permits for small work of nearly $11,000. At the present rate the month of October instead of slackening off will exceed all but three or four months of this year. Belleville Women Welcome Gen. Eisenhower to Newark

Belleville was well represented in Newark on Friday when General Dwight Eisenhower spoke at the Mosque Theatre. Among those attending were these women snapped in the lobby by C. B. Vansickle: Mrs. Mary Robinson, Mrs. Joseph Rue, Mrs. Harry White, Mrs. Ruel Trommel, Mrs. Ruth Hardy, Mrs. Ruth Warner, Mrs. Ruth Fredericks and Mrs. Edgar Seymour.

Governor Warren

There are 300,000 people on the Federal payroll, most of whom no doubt are doing an honest job, but they are doing jobs which should be administered on a local level so that the people can know what is going on, and if they don't like it can change it.

"I am sure you that my friend Dwight Eisenhower holds the same opinion as to what function belongs to the state, counties and municipalities. He too, is of the opinion that decentralization is necessary."

Governor Warren spoke from notes and stuck close to the script about halfway through his talk. He spoke not as an orator, but as a visitor in someone's living room. He said in part:

"This has been a weird campaign by an administration to retain its power. It has made a campaign of paradoxes—boasting on the one hand and apology on the other; a claim of propriety on the one hand and disclaimer on the other; pride of authorship on the one hand and frustration on the other; change and fear of change.

"They take credit for all the normal progress the nation has made, but refuse to accept responsibility for any of the governmental failures or lost opportunities of recent years.

"They assert a fidelity to the people of government in the interest of all the people, but they brush off as of little interest to anyone the extravagance, corruption and mismanagement that has occurred during their tenure in Federal office.

"They take full credit for the high levels of employment and wages, but disclaim any responsibility for the high taxes and high prices that are sapping the economic life of our nation.

"They boast of our expanding economy, but ignore the skyrocketing national debt that our children must assume and pay.

"They take full credit for the winning of World War II and for the bipartisan advances made in world cooperation, but they refuse to accept any responsibility for the loss of traditional friendships with nations aggregating seven hundred million souls.

"They take full credit for challenging aggression in Korea, but disclaim accountability for the costly and deadly stalemate we are now in.

"They claim the credit for our friendly relations with countries with which we are not at war, but disclaim responsibility for conditions where we are engaged in either cold war or hot war.

"They demand the full cooperation of Republicans in executing their foreign policy, but withhold the confidence essential to the making of a bipartisan foreign policy.

"They call for unbounded confidence in the future of America, but cry out at all progress which they feel is not retained in office.

"Paradoxes heap on paradoxes, and the strangest paradox of all in 1948 most of the Democratic leaders of the country begged General Eisenhower to be their standard bearer. The administration itself selected him. In December, 1950, to breathe life into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, today they call him 'a man on horseback,' and a designing politician guilty of 'street gutter campaigning.'

New High School Faculty Members

"I say to you that the character and qualities of leadership of a man who has reached the age of 62, as General Eisenhower did a few days ago, do not change this year."

"The people of this country need have no fear of the Republican Party or our great candidate Dwight Eisenhower. No party has a just claim to all progress in this country. Most of the things that we now enjoy were instituted by the Republicans. I tell you that a Republican administration can do more in eight years than the Democrats have done in 20, 18 of them, when they not only hid the greatest but control of both houses of Congress as well."

"The greatest problem today is Peace. Everything else depends upon the ending of the war. And the man who can do most to end this awful world peace is Dwight Eisenhower. He is the man who has had the most experience in the field of battle, and the most success in the field of diplomacy. No man in history has ever been assigned a greater task than the defeat of the German armies in Africa and then in Europe. And no man was given a greater task than when in 1950 he was called back into public life to administer the North Atlantic Treaty."

"There is no man better fitted for the role than General Eisenhower and if he can bring about a peace he is worth anything the people ever do for him. Then we can tackle the other problems which beset our nation. Two weeks from now we have the opportunity to fill the office of President with the man most capable of solving our problems."

SUBSCRIPTION DRIVE AT SCHOOL TO END MONDAY

Students Sell Magazines To Raise High School Funds; Prizes For Highest Sales

Under the sponsorship of the Belleville High School Student Council and the guidance of Ralph Corwell, the magazine subscription drive to obtain funds for the school had its kickoff program last Thursday and will continue until Monday. Conducted by the student body and the Crowell Publishing Co., a percentage of the subscription price will go to the school.

The money will be utilized for paying off the new public address system, supporting noon dancing, subsidizing the school newspaper, professional assembly program expenses, price of tickets for senior cheerleaders and twirlers to attend the annual football banquet, and expense of sending a group to attend the annual student council conference at Rutgers University.

The student making the most sales will be awarded a clock radio, second prize will be an Elgin watch; and third prize will be $15. In cash. On the last day of the campaign there will be a drawing for an 18-pound turkey for those with more than $10. worth of subscriptions to their credit. Those who have sold more than $20 worth will participate in a drawing for $25, and those students with more than $50 worth of subscriptions will be presented with a copy of the high school yearbook, the Monad, gratis.

A meeting of a steering committee on the Belleville Civilian Defense was held at the Town Hall last week to consider the purchase of additional equipment for the communications division, to hear a talk by Fire Chief William Dunaway on courses in civilian defense training now offered by the state, and a recommendation that pistol teams be organized among members of the auxiliary police department. The group also learned of a new plan whereby the Federal Government has set up a matching fund program by local units can get the government to pay half the cost of certain equipment for Civil Defense use.

Public Safety Director Harry J. Sullivan, and Peter Torre, Civil Defense Director, suggested that more details be obtained by all parties concerned and reports be made at a future meeting. Present besides Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Torre were Chief Dunaway, Chief Spatz, Deputy Director Hugh Walsh and Marion Malcolm, secretary of the Civil Defense organization.

Life at BHS
As We See It

Peggy Kelly and Evelyn Hannon

After tying East Orange, crushing Bloomfield and Nutley, and trampling West Side, our triumphant football team marches toward Irvington.

On Thursday, October 16, the freshmen and the remaining members of the student body witnessed an assembly for our annual magazine drive. The drive is put on to raise funds on which the Student Council can operate. Thereby creating entertainment and additional activities for you, the student body. Therefore all should help in making it a success.

Instead of the usual pep assembly to end the week, the Italian troubadours added a little color and diversion to our week. The group was composed of two dancers, a vocalist, and an accordion player who played and entertained us with some native melodies.

Take your shoes off Lucy!!! and you too Zeke!!! and come to the Senior Halloween Sock Dance. It will be held on November 1 in the boys gym. The Downbeats who played at the last dance will provide the music. Cider and donuts will be sold in the hall. Since this is the second big social event of the year an enormous crowd is expected.

The new Executive members of the student council were elected last week. Each class, as usual, will be represented on the committee. The members are:

Seniors: Jeanne Lewis, Marilyn Tauscher, Marie Prieto, Fred Kraft, Fred Cox and Keith McEligot.

Freshmen: Joy Valante, Jean Bojczak, Norman Fost, Anthony Nigro, John Bartell, and John Ryder.

Have you noticed that a certain Joe has gained weight over the summer??? Hey, some action!!!

Arthur Murray has nothing on our own Miss Thomson who is teaching a class of boys how to dance. The instruction is given every morning during homeroom period. Angela and Marie Santiago are her able assistants.

P. S. Remember, Freshmen and Sophomores, this year as last year we are having Parents' Night. It will be held on Monday, October 27, at the high school from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. This year refreshments are guaranteed!!!

The Dregs of Demagoguery

An old blabber mouth, spouting insanities with the firm conviction that a vote is a vote, no matter the price, Harry Truman set a new low even for Pendergastism when he raised the issue of religious and racial intolerance against General Eisenhower.

When the nation's press and most of the clean-thinking members of his own party expressed their shock at his action, Harry, ever the quibbler, tried to lie out of it. He says now that he didn't say it—the oldest subterfuge in any politician's book.

What Harry admits to having said is that General Eisenhower "is willing to accept the very practices that identified the so-called 'master race.'"

First off, most of us heard General Eisenhower, on television, say specifically that the McCarran law is a bad law and must be rewritten.

Secondly, Senator McCarran, chairman of the powerful Senate Committee on the Judiciary, who fathered the bill is a Democrat, not Republican.

Thirdly, look at the voting records in the books of Congress. Voting to override the Truman veto were the following Democrats: in fact the General Staff of the Democratic Party; Senator George of Georgia, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee who was one of the party's top candidates for the Presidential nomination; Senator Tom Connolly, of Texas, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee; Senator Johnson of Colorado and Senator Johnston of South Carolina, chairmen of the committees on Interstate and Foreign Commerce and on Civil Service; Senator Ellender of Louisiana, chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture; Senator McKellar of Tennessee, chairman of the Committee on Appropriations; Senator Maybank of South Carolina, chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, and Senator Saylor of Arizona, chairman of the Committee on Rules.

There you have the names of nine top-ranking Democrats, chairmen of the vital committees which run the affairs of the nation. They all voted to override the Truman veto. Blinded by the pite in his eye, Harry Truman can see no wrong by any Democrat. He can see only the wrongs of the Tafts and the Jenners and the McCartys. If a Republican Senator who voted to override the Truman veto on the McCarran bill is guilty of religious and racial prejudice and intolerance, why isn't a Democratic Senator who did the same thing.

But did anyone ever hear Harry Truman say that Governor Stevenson "is willing to accept the very practices that identified the so-called 'master race' "? Yet Stevenson is the candidate of the same party which enrolls McCarran, Connolly, George, Johnson and Johnston, Ellender, McKellar, Maybank and Hayden. So, as a matter of fact, is Harry Truman aligned with those same Democrats under the same banner. Does his accusation of religious and racial prejudice therefore apply, by association, also, to himself?

The truth is that Harry Truman is carried away by his own brilliance. He thinks he is the world's greatest orator. He thinks that only he can "give 'em hell." He talks with his foot in his mouth, and this time he had both feet in between his molars. He sort of swallowed himself in his impassioned oratory. He is a faker, a fraud, a gutter politician, a bankrupt haberdasher.

Indeed! Either Stevenson knows all about Senator McCarran in which case he is quibbling to save a fellow Democrat, or he is ignorant. And if Governor Stevenson is ignorant of McCarran and the McCarran bill then, despite his wit and his witticisms, he is not intelligent enough to be elected to the highest office in the land. How unhappy he must be to be playing second fiddle to an itinerant piano player in this campaign!

Alas for Governor Stevenson, he did not shine too brilliantly in all this. Asked what he thought about Senator McCarran, that fellow Democrat who was responsible for the legislation which gave Harry his tantrums, the Illinois Governor replied: "I just don't enough to answer that. I am acquainted with his views to some extent, but perhaps not as well as I should be."

R.E.H.

And Of Such Are Majorities Made!

It is a sad commentary on Democracy that millions of voters will cast their ballots on November 4 with no more intelligent reasoning than that advanced this week by left-wing Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, a New York negro, who spoke before a meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and told his audience that Southern negroes were "scared to death" that General Dwight D. Eisenhower would be elected President. The General, the left-winger said, is a "militarist."

Something that Powell did not tell his listeners is that the record shows that World War II was declared by Franklin D. Roosevelt, who never wore a uniform or carried a gun in his life. Or that World War I was declared by a Princeton college professor, a pronounced pacifist. Or that the Civil War was declared by Abraham Lincoln who touched a gun only to shoot squirrels.

Our three greatest wars, all touched off by civilians, and two out of the three were Democrats. As a soldier, General Eisenhower knows all the horrors of war. No man abhors war more than he.

R.E.H.

PROCLAMATION

Believing that the greatest single desire in the hearts and minds of all people everywhere is the desire for a peaceful world, and believing that such a world cannot become a reality by the efforts of man alone, but must be accomplished through the aid of God, I do hereby proclaim the period from 12:00 noon to 12:02 P. M., Friday, October 24, 1952, as a PERIOD OF PRAYER FOR WORLD PEACE.

I urge every person to offer a prayer for peace, according to the procedure of his own Church and the dictates of his own conscience.

With the aid of God, it is my hope that the universal desire for world peace will soon become a reality.

One Man's Opinion

The Lesson of the Peiping and Moscow Conferences is a Warning: Japan is Objective No. 1 in a Campaign of Isolating Us

BY RALPH E. HEINZEN

The 19th Soviet Communist Party Congress has ended and out of the mass of propaganda and vituperation which made up most of the speeches comes an extremely clear warning that there is a new Communist plan for Asia, a plan to "win" Japan and to drive us off the Asiatic mainland in Korea. The most important of all the disclosures came on the very last day when Joseph Stalin, speaking to the closing session, pledged the support of the Soviet Union to Communist parties in other lands "in their struggle for liberation and for the preservation of peace."

In that speech, Stalin tore off his mask. He cast aside all pretense of avoiding immigration in the affairs of other countries. He threw the military and the moral might of Red Russia behind the Communist movements everywhere and while that includes these United States, it is aimed particularly at Japan, Indochina and Burma in the East, France and Italy in the West. On every front we must be prepared to meet new Soviet pressures just as we have had to meet them in Korea and Indochina.

Almost in secret, the Peiping Peace Conference sat at the same time that the Soviet Communist Congress was in session. Strangely enough, their final decisions were exactly the same: the principal immediate objective is Japan. The secondary objective is to split America from her allies of the anti-Communist front. By isolating us, Stalin, taking a page out of Hitler's 1939 book of military strategy, hopes to devour one by one those border nations which he made dupes of his "peace" overtures, just as Hitler frightened Poland, Czechoslovakia, France, Holland and Belgium into separate and deadly indecision.

Eye on France, Italy
A hint of Stalin's trend of thought is contained in his speech at that closing session. In that talk, he announced that he had received pledges of the French and Italian Communist leaders, Maurice Thorez and Palmiro Togliatti, that the peoples of France and Italy would not wage war against the Soviet Union.

There is no reason to believe that either Thorez or Togliatti can deliver on their promises. Thorez, a deserter from the Armies in the debacle of 1939 and in my line of duty I was assigned to the GHQ of General Maurice Gamelin. I saw a half-hearted nation go into a war which involved the freedom of forty million Frenchmen and I saw a half-hearted army real back and flee in a disorderly retreat at the first serious blow by Von Reichenau's tanks in May, 1940.

Why France Lost
France was beaten because France was isolated. True, Britain was her ally but there were but two British divisions in France, in May, 1940, under Lord Gort, nine months after the start of the war. The United States, which had made all sorts of promises through Ambassador William J. Bullitt, did not keep them. That diplomacy-by-inuendo, incidentally, convinced the French government that, in the last hour, we would jump into the war. When it came to holding off the German armies, France was alone. The end came when Mussolini jumped into the fun, stabbing France in the back as her armies were in full retreat.

Herriot must have lost that lesson in the pages of French history. If France tries to stand by herself, isolated, with a very powerful Communist fifth column within her gates, she is doomed. Thorez, not Herriot, will be dictating policy. We have spent nearly a hundred million dollars to help bolster French security. We have invested other millions of dollars in base ports and airfields in France. Those we stand to lose if France chooses the path of isolation.

In Stalin's Own Words
In view of Stalin's warning in that final speech at the Communist Congress, that Soviet Russia will help other Communist parties "in their struggle for liberation and for the preservation of peace," it is time for swift and drastic action. Herriot must be beaten, back. France must be saved for the NATO forces. Only swift and severe action by Washington will do, and yet there has not been any move from our State Department since the Stalin speech and since the Herriot attack on NATO.

Just in case you missed Stalin's speech, it is good to preserve on the record his exact words as relayed to the world by Radio-Moscow last week-end. From those Russian sources, here is the text of his pledge:

"Our party and our country have always needed and will need the trust, sympathy, and support of fraternal peoples abroad."

"Our party cannot remain indebted to 'fraternal parties' in its turn, must render them support and also their

War Done Him Dirt

Joe DeBacco, who operates the bicycle shop at 828 Washington Avenue, was done dirt by World War II, on two occasions. Joe as a representative of the Belleville Bicycle Club, and its club champion for the years 1939, 1940 and 1941, represented the club at the final tryouts for the United States Olympic team in 1940 and made the squad which was scheduled to go to the games at Tokyo. Joe did it the hard way by a point system in both the 62 mile road race and the quarter mile track events. But then Japan got involved in Manchuria and called the games off at the last minute. A year later Joe was in the Army and while undergoing training at Camp Campbell, Kentucky, he was hit in the eye by a recoil spring from a tommy gun which accidentally flew out of the gun. The accident cost Joe the sight of his right eye and ended his days as a bike rider.

Joe still rides, and fairly well, but cannot compete in the big time because of partial blindness which causes him to spill when someone passes him on the right.

But this does not mean that Joe cannot be the guiding light in bicycle affairs in town. Since he opened his bicycle shop two-and-one-half years ago, the Alpine Wheelmen have been meeting in his store once a week. Right now there is a movement afoot in the club to let the Alpine Club go back to Newark and to reorganize the Belleville Bicycle Club.

Under the sponsorship of this club the proposed Tour of Belleville, patterned after the famous race in Somerville, will be held next spring, if permission of town officials can be obtained to reroute traffic off certain streets for the duration of the 50 mile peddling contest. Under present plans Joe DeBacco will put up the principal trophy for the event, as well as a trophy for the Belleville Bicycle Club champion.

The tour of Somerville has grown so in years that last year it was estimated that 30,000 fans lined the streets of the town, while a large field of riders competed for the $4,000 in prizes. Next year's event will have an automobile as the prize for the rider to first negotiate the 50 miles.

If the Belleville event can be held within a week of the Somerville event, Belleville can attract almost the same field, including a full team coming over from Japan.

Joe's brother Angelo, also a former Belleville Bicycle Club Champion (1936 and 1937) later became a professional and won at least six six-day races, including the last one to be held in New York, in 1948, when he teamed with George. Angelo still has his feet in the stirrups, and occasionally rides for the fun of it in club races, although he can no longer compete in amateur events, because in the bike game, "once a pro, always a pro."

If Joe DeBacco has his way a generation of bike riders will be raised in Belleville. He sells hundreds of bicycles each year and right now is ready for his annual Christmas rush. And although most of the bikes he sells in a year are American made, he specializes in the light-weight or racing type of bicycle, American, English and Italian. Joe finds that while one of the American companies makes an excellent racing wheel, most of the rabid fans prefer the lighter-weight products of English and Italian firms.

Joe's stock of Italian bikes run the full mill from the large racing bikes to midweight bikes for "kids no bigger than grasshoppers." These bikes are designed to eliminate the tri-cycle stage of riding altogether. Besides sales, Joe seems to fix every kind of a wheeled toy or vehicle that is made.

Although the war dealt him a double blow, Joe has been able to surmount his trouble and is rearing his son to be a bicycle enthusiast, at three years of age. Joe is working toward a goal of an amateur bicycle track in Belleville where town youngsters can get a real thrill out of their bikes, whether they be racing wheels or the more fashionable balloon tire jobs. When one considers that next to walking, youngsters of both sexes, get fun and valuable exercise out of peddling tricycles, toy cars and bicycles from the time they are tiny tots until they are quite grown up. On the basis of his reasoning there certainly is an opportunity for improvement of local facilities.

Seafoss Lauded by Coach

Another former Belleville High glider-making good at college is Charley Seafoss, 230 pound varsity guard with the University of Delaware. A clipping from a Delaware paper of last week has this to say about the Belleville youth.

"Every cloud has a silver lining—even in football—and the Delaware coaching staff thinks it. It has found one after viewing films of Delaware's 24 to 20 loss to the West Chester Teachers. The bright spot in the Delaware defeat was the Blue Hens' defensive right guard, Charley Seafoss. Speaking of West Chester's powerful ground game, Line Coach Mike Lude said: 'If there was one spot in our line where West Chester's backs had difficulty in running, it was the area protected by Seafoss. His performance in the first three games of this season is the direct result of his outstanding effort and cooperation at practices. He is a conscientious worker.'

"This is the first year of varsity football at Delaware for Seafoss who, at 230 pounds, is the heaviest man on the Blue Hen squad. He is only a second term sophomore and continued improvement should make him one of the all-time greats of Delaware teams. Already he has proved to be one of the outstanding linemen of the 1952 campaign. Seafoss is from Belleville, N. J., where he was a three-year varsity lineman in High School."

Bellboys Come From Behind To Tumble West Side 13 To 6

March 52 Yards in Final Stanza To Score Tie-Breaking Touchdown; Go To Irvington For Saturday's Contest

By CHARLIE MAGUIRE

After being held even for the first three quarters the Bellboys finally broke loose with eight minutes remaining to sink a spirited West Side team 13 to 6 before 2500 at the Municipal Stadium last Saturday. The victory kept Belleville's unbeaten record in tact at three wins and one tie. For West Side it was their second loss in three games. The small crowd saw one of the best games played so far this season. In the first and most of the second periods both teams played on even terms with each club stressing the defense. Midway in the second period real trouble developed for Belleville when West Side drove for the 90 yard line. On the next play, West Side hit for the first score of the afternoon when Ralph Gaeta passed to George Cole on the goal line. The extra point try by 14 year old Herb Schlesinger was low and wide to the left.

Seconds later the Bellboys came roaring back on the first play from scrimmage as fullback Ron Worthington passed from the Belleville 40 to Mike Phipps on the West Side 25. Band leader Mike dashed the remaining yardage to knot the score at 6 to 6. Dom Compomoni, back for the point was wide to the right.

The third quarter saw the ball at mid-field with neither team able to make progress. With the game quickly drawing to a close the Bellboys finally came to life and proceeded to show the crowd some real football. After taking over on their own 48 the march began as Worthington, Cafone, Dunlevy, and Co. put together four runs, a pass, two off-tackle runs and a quarterback sneak to push 52 yards to score. The T.D. came as Reco Cafone went around the right corner on the 10-yard line. Pomponio's kick split the uprights as the crowd roared. The Bellboys ruined their own scoring chance and my 19-6 prediction, when their attack stalled on the two-yard line after Reco Cafone ran back a West Side pass 30 yards. Irvington plays host to Belleville Saturday. It should be a tussle. The Campers have suffered one loss this year and that was to Montclair. They also played tie with Essex Orange. Anyway we'll pick the Belleville Boys 26 to 13.

CYO PLANS COURT LOOPS FOR ALL

Meeting Will Be Held Next Week In Newark, Suburban. Play Begins November 16

The Essex County CYO will again sponsor basketball leagues in seven divisions. The league was announced last week by Joseph Smith, who directs the Essex court activity. Smith announced also that two coaches' meetings have been arranged for October 27 and 30 at the Mt. Pleasant Social Service Center in Newark. The deadline for rosters was set for October 30. Suburban teams will begin play on November 16.

The CYO basketball loops are open to CYO members in junior, intermediate, grammar school, and senior classifications. (There is no intermediate class for girls, however.) There will be Newark and suburban divisions and each will play two halves before sectional, county, and Archdiocese championships are determined in a series of play-offs next March.

Fifteen players will be permitted on each roster. All but the senior boys' loop allow for two players from outside the parish represented. The senior girls' circuit is the only one in which high school or college varsity players may take part. Five changes will be allowed at half time.

Smith stated that all coaches must attend either of the two meetings before the season gets under way. At the meetings, rules will be explained, schedules distributed, and duties and responsibilities made clear. Last season there were 116 teams in the 18 CYO leagues, which played a total of 624 tilts. The largest number of entries is needed in the intermediate and grammar school boys' leagues, which drew 26 teams each last year.

An Automotive Bowling League made up of representatives of various agencies and suppliers has been organized and has been operating for four weeks. Herdman Motors, far from week 12 and has yet to lose a game. Sam Miller, Herdman's manager, rolled a 200-game-in-the-third-week and the next week from Hirsch followed up with a 208. Dick Toz of Riverside Body and Fender won rolled a 224. Hirsch's high score bracket is Bill Magee of Belleville Motors with 210. In the team standings Herdman is followed by the Belleville Motors Mechanics with 9 and 3, Belleville Motors with 8 and 3, and Agent Motors of North Arlington with six and six. Riverside Body and Fender, Works of Belleville with one and five and Foley Chevrolet of Newark with one and five. The league was organized at the instigation of the Belleville Motors

Bill Dunlevy Could Have Had Some Help on This Play

Bill Dunlevy (in white shirt) gained ten yards down to the 20 yard mark, in Belleville's march to its first touchdown against West Side, Saturday. On this play Dunlevy could have stood a little downfield blocking. Six West Side players are on their feet in this picture, four of them in position to bring Dunlevy to earth.

Eagles And Rangers Win In PAL Soccer League

Sunday afternoon the Belleville P.A.L. Soccer League opened the season at Belleville Park with two games played before a large crowd. It was a very colorful spectacle with all four teams wearing new uniforms. Commissioner Harry J. Sullivan kicked off the first game which was played between the Eagles and the Rangers. The Eagles triumphed by a score of 3 to 0. Steinbrink, J. Brady and D. Rioridan scored the goals for the winners.

The second game saw the P.A.L. Rangers take out a close victory over the P.A.L. Cardinals by a score of 1 to 0. After a scoreless first half the Rangers got the only score of the game on a well placed kick by J. Cleff.

Sunday afternoon at Belleville Park there will be another double header starting at 1:30 p.m. with the Eagles meeting the Cardinals and the Blackhawks playing the Rangers.

The PAL is also sponsoring a juvenile soccer team to be entered in the Hudson County Soccer League. Coaches Joe and John Hughes attended a meeting Wednesday evening in Kearny to form plans for the league and draw up the schedule. Play probably will start Sunday.

ED LITIG'S ROLLER BOYS GIVE SHOW AT EAST PATERSON

Are Scheduled To Ride For PAL At Lincoln Park On Halloween; Stars Present

Ed Littig and his gang of roller riders put on an exhibition recently for the benefit of the East Paterson Bicycle Club in the American Legion Hall at East Paterson.

Ruggie McNamara the Iron Man of six day fame and George DeBacco another veteran of Vandervalk won the roller race acted as master of ceremonies and gave short talks to the boys.

The first race between Ray Frate and Clark Alby was a three mile event with a sprint at the end of each mile. Frate took the first sprint and Alby the next two by a narrow margin. A mile race between Ed Littig and Charlie Loran resulted in a dead heat and was run at the end of a half mile, with Littig the winner.

Barney Vandervalk of Paterson and Angelo Costenbaker of Belleville rode a one mile event which was won by then champion Logan and Angelo DeBacco rode a pursuit race that was won by Loran after going 25 laps.

The big event was a half mile sprint between McNamara and DeBacco won by DeBacco after a fast finish with both riders short of breath at the end.

The last race was a one mile between Vandervalk and Alby which Vandervalk won by a sprint all the way.

The gang is scheduled for an exhibition on Halloween at P.A.L. affair in the Lincoln Park School.

Ed Littig's rollers, clock and Ed Littig himself were on display at the Lincoln Park School. Littig's TV program on last week. Mr. Albe Omitted Name Of Mrs. Charles Smith; Esther DePuy Visits Verner Forgie

M. C. Albe's article on the old Passaic Row, last week, attracted considerable comment. Mr. Albe himself has this to say: "In last week's article I mentioned those who are still living and who had been identified with Passaic Row, but I omitted Mrs. Charles Smith (nee May Holmes) who was the daughter of Postmaster William

Holmes, and who assisted him in running the post office. Mrs. Smith is living with her daughter in Nutley. All of her seven children are living and she had ten grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Mrs. Esther DePuy Alexander of 69 Montclair Avenue, Nutley, wrote to Mr. Albe: "You don't know how much we have been enjoying your articles on the good old days in Belleville. This week's has been of particular interest and we wish to thank you for the nice eulogy on our father, Chester DePuy.

"In talking over old times last evening, my sister Laura recalled that she had had your mother for a teacher in School No. 1. You speak of Verner Forgie getting an offer from the Dodgers. My husband and I spent an evening with him just about a month ago in Clearwater and he never said a word about it! It must be old age creeping on — he couldn't wait to take us over to the shuffle board games. I personally think he's going to turn down that baseball offer in favor of a good fast game of shuffle board. You should have known him at the hours the post-office people keep these days. In the 'good old days', he says he was on the job at 6 a.m."

Cub Pack 301 Makes Tour Of Belleville Post Office

As a fitting climax to their September theme, "The Mail Goes Through", Cub Scout Pack 301 of Wesley Methodist Church made a tour of the Belleville Post Office on last week. Their guide was Frank Orrei, who showed the Cubs, Den Mothers, a Den Chief, one committeeman and Cubmaster Edward Anderson the inner circles and workings of the local "post" express. They were shown what happens to a piece of mail from the time it is picked out of the mail box until it reaches its destination. They saw how the mail is sorted, cancelled and put into the various types of sacks for distribution.

Mr. Orrei autographed some strips of paper put through the cancellation machine for the Cubs. Since there were no samples of merchandise free on this trip, the Den Mothers bought a few of the commemorative stamps put on sale on Saturday. Attending were T. Edward Anderson, cubmaster; William Fisher, committeeman; Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Theodore Wohlrich, Mrs. George Labadie

Early Autumn

Autumn is coming again to the country. I felt it when I took Toby for a walk along the quiet lanes. The trees were not flaming yet. There were few leaves on the ground. And off to either side of me I still heard the sound of crickets, probably the most definitely summery sound there is.

But it was there, more so than when I first noticed it several weeks ago. There was a smell in the air—a combination of woodsmoke, leaves, water, and early morning chill.

On the road I met Jake Snyder, the town junkman. He had his ragged jacket buttoned up around his ears. His nose stuck out like a red lantern on a cold winter night.

"Cold, Jake?" I asked while Toby sniffed and frisked about his legs.

"Gittin' on for winter," he said.

"Plenty more hot weather comin' in," I said.

"They always say that when they know summer's gone." He stomped by me in a hurry.

I looked after him. Jake loved heat, and had an almost pathological loathing of cold. One day, I predicted, he will be found squatting in a huge bonfire, smiling, happy at last because he's warm, like Sam McGee from Tennessee. I whistled for Toby and started off down the hill toward town. The air, here on high ground, was nippy, and down below, in the valley, I saw the mist rising in the early morning sun. From several farmhouses I saw the smoke curling up from the chimneys into the clear blue sky.

And then—truly to make a man's senses reel—I got the whiff of coffee! Did you ever get a sniff of it in the early morning when you're outdoors and have not had breakfast yet? I closed my eyes and paused in the quiet country road, just inhaling the sweet aroma that ever set the blood tingling in a nostril. Toby came up to see what was wrong. Then a small wind came up and the coffee was gone. But its effect stayed with me—my mouth was watering and inside me several miles of intestines were sounding off hungrily.

On the way to town I passed Al Buford's farm. Al was on the front steps of the ramshackle house, tinkering with a horse collar.

"Morning, Al," I called.

He looked up and waved. "Comin' in. Coffee's on the stove."

It was hard to say no. "Thanks, but I'm in a hurry. Couple of things to pick up in town." It wasn't quite true. My time was my own. But I knew Al and his wife Bertha. Just you step into their poor sagging house and sit at their swaying table and feel the untidy chairs under you—just you step in and the house is yours. Out comes food, and food, and more food, until you're sure somebody told them you'd been wandering hungry in the woods for a week.

Now there's nothing wrong with that! But I knew that the Bufords have six children and probably the most unproductive farm in the county. I knew that, each bite would mean a further lightening for them.

Bertha came out on the porch, her hands wrapped in her apron. I smiled and refused her offer to step in for a cup. I called for Toby and started off. As I went I looked back. She had not moved—a short, now rather dumpy woman who had once been attractive. I remembered her before her marriage—round and neat and full of life and hope and happiness and laughter. Now she never laughs. She has never blamed Al, saying always that the breaks went against him. But she never laughs anymore.

I reached town and turned into Main Street and walked its length along the business district—four blocks, with stores on either side, and crooked little streets running off Main. At the far end, where the main thoroughfare of our town turns into the highway, I turned and came back.

There it was in front of me—

Tarzan Stands Guard Over Companion Killed by Car

Persons in the vicinity of Joralemon Street and Franklin Avenue, a week ago Monday, marveled over the antics of Tarzan, owned by William Griffing, Jr., of 29 Jefferson Street, and opined that such loyalty could be found in few human beings. Tarzan was running with a black dog early last week when the black dog was hit and killed by a car in Joralemon Street. Tarzan got a grip on the dead dog's legs and dragged it to the sidewalk, where it set up guard for three or four hours until Fred Reiger of the Bergen County Kennels came and took both away. The dog warden is not a sentimentalist, but a practical man, and came up with the reason for the devotion. The dead animal was Tarzan's girl friend.

Bremerton — a tiny cluster of people, unimportant except to the people who called it home. It was getting warmer now with the sun higher, but the few early risers kept their hands in their pockets. I watched the minor bustle of a town coming awake. Here the grocer was rolling down his awning, the butcher read his paper in the sun, at the hay and feed store I heard the stomp of hungry horses from the back.

Mrs. Snead, the town busybody, passed me with her shopping basket on her arm. "Out so early?" She asked, her false teeth gleaming at me.

"Yes, I—"

"Someone sick?" She leaned forward expectantly.

"I am." Her interest was beautiful to behold—and hard to keep from ribbing. "I've got a bad case of autumnitis."

She drew back a bit. "What is that?"

"A severe affliction which occurs this time of year. The patient wants to walk in the sun, to look at trees and mountains, to stroll steaks over open fires, to smell hay, to—"

"Well!" She stomped away, her hat bobbing angrily. I felt a little ashamed of myself. But I laughed just the same.

I would let nothing spoil this for me—the first real day of Autumn. I started back up the hill toward the house. I whistled for Toby and he came bounding up, his tongue lolling, his mouth opened in what I'm sure was a smile. We trudged up the hill together, and as I walked, I had the feeling that I had passed a good morning.
