PROCLAMATION

S, the year 1952 witnessed the worst nationwide epidemic of infantile paralysis in all recorded history wherein more than 55,000 unfortunate children and adults were stricken, and S, this was the fifth consecutive year of unprece-in the highest polio incidence, demonstrating that no city or town in our great nation can be secure against polio, and

5, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis assures help for all victims of this disease needing assistance and has never failed in channelling emergency equipment, personnel and monies to those areas stricken by polio's cruel force, and

6, the monies collected by the March of Dimes of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis have been exhausted in caring for those stricken in earlier years and those felled last year during the longest and worst polio epidemic period ever the only hope for continuing epidemic service, intensive programs of patient care and scientific research is through unstinting support of the March of Dimes, and the 1953 March of Dimes is being conducted throughout January in the town of Belleville.

MORE, I, James J. Tully, mayor of the town of Belleville, do hereby proclaim the weeks heretofore indicated be dedicated to our mutual fight against polio, and do call upon every resident of this town to support this critical fight through generous contributions to the March of Dimes.

Committee Lays Plans For Jamboree Sale-Work Drive

Boy Scouts will Sell Products Manufactured in Town; Offer Services on Hourly Basis for Spring Cleaning; Hope to Send Two Troops to Jamboree

A committee which is trying to find ways and means to send at least 32 Belleville Boy Scouts to the National Jamboree in California, this summer, met Wednesday afternoon at the A. & P. Laundry in Cortlandt Street to develop plans laid at a preliminary meeting several weeks ago. The complete plans will be announced at a meeting of Scout Masters and Troop Committees to be held on January 20th, at a place still to be decided upon. The drive will take place during February, Scout Month.

The committee has turned thumbs-down on a fund raising drive which would provide outright gifts to the boys, and is recommending that troops and boys work together to send representatives to the jamboree, with funds raised by the sale of products of Belleville manufacture and the sale of services.

Factories Solicited—Harry Berger, chairman of the committee, and manager of the A&P Laundry and Sewing Division here, has already made overtures to every factory in town, asking what products they manufacture, which might be sold on a house to house and bench to bench basis. Many plants have already agreed to allow Boy Scouts to make a one day canvass of their plants. At least four businessmen have offered their store windows for the displays of the merchandise. In the case of some troops the leaders and the boys prefer to do cleanup work around homes, at an hourly rate, rather than make a sales campaign.

Sales Brochure—While Scout Commissioner Douglas Wadsworth is making plans for the meeting of the Scouters on the 20th, Stu Grant, advertising manager of Walter Kidde Company, Inc., and Thomas Quigley of Wallace and Tietman, will prepare a sales brochure, telling of the sales plan, and illustrated with pictures of the articles. Samples of the articles will be displayed in each of the proffered store windows. Among the items volunteered to date are paint brush sets from Hanlon & Goodman fire extinguishers and Soda Kings from Walter Kidde, subscriptions to The Belleville Times-News; beautifully lithographed scarves produced by Sweeney Lithograph and lamp bulbs made by Westinghouse. Among other products expected are soaps and cosmetics produced by The Andrew Jergens Company; ties made by the Spring Neckwear Company; and kitchen gadgets made by Eastern Tool Company.

Committee Members—Serving on the committee with Mr. Berger are Mr. Grant, Mr. Quigley, Mr. Wadsworth, Gerald Shaw of Eastwood Veneer, Sam Pierson of the Belleville Times; George Symonds of the Belleville-Nutley Bunk; Wayne Farmer, former superintendent of schools; and George French, Scout Executive for Belleville.

So far 21 boys have registered for the all-expense trip to the Jamboree. The committee plans to make it at least a troop of 25 but sees the possibility that two troops may eventually go. It costs each boy $33. The trip includes side trips to points of interest, several National parks and ten days of fabulous camping on a California ranch.

Everyman's Bible Class Has Christian Peace As Theme

Attendance was good and a general feeling of optimism prevailed at the Everyman's Bible Class' first meeting of the new year. The theme of the meeting was that it is generally accepted that the world wants peace and that America will exercise all possible efforts toward this end in 1953. A lasting peace is only obtained through true Christian understanding and practices.

Everyman's Bible Class which meets at the Masonic Temple each Sunday morning from 9:29 to 10:30, desires to help spread this Christian feeling and help in creating a lasting peace, in their small humble way by extending a warm welcome to any man of the community, to join in an hour of Christian fellowship.

"the only REAL GIFT is a portion of thyself"

RALPH WALDO EMERSON

There is more to the business of being a thrift and home financing institution than shows in the figures of the balance sheet. Our greatest asset is the knowledge that we are helping folks in this community give a "portion of themselves" to their families and loved ones: a portion of their earnings in a savings account, complemented by better-than-average, twice-yearly dividends... a portion of their earnings being paid on a home loan that will lead them surely and steadily to debt-free home ownership and security unmatchable.

While the figures in this financial statement reflect the conservative management and complete safety of the association... they also give visible proof of the first aim of our business... to enable people to save profitably, to own homes practically, to live comfortably and to provide for their future and that of their family by "giving a portion of themselves."

The Gate Of The Year.
An Ode To Janus, The God Of The Gates

And I said to the man
Who stood at the gate
Of the year:
Give me a light
That I may tread safely
Into the Unknown.
And he replied:
Go Out
Into the Darkness
And put thine hand
Into the hand of God.
That shall be
To thee
Better than light,
And safer than a known way.

Hold That Line!

The shaping of the annual Belleville budget is a simple problem in mathematics. There is so much income on the books, based on a known factor of ratables. There is a desirable tax-rate beyond which the taxpayers are hopeful they need not go. The rest is simply a problem of addition and subtraction until there is a balance of figures between income and expenditures.

Right now, after the Board of Education and the Town Commission have gone over their budgets with an eye to cutting superfluous costs, there is still an urgent need for drastic economies. The increase in ratables for 1953 will not exceed one and a quarter million dollars. That will add about $90,000 to the town's tax income. It will bring the town's total income to a little more than $8,000,000. That sum must finance the public schools, town and county budgets.

As matters stand today, the school budget is $63,000 larger than last year. The town budget is still $153,000 larger than last year, even after a first trimming. There still is no news of the county's needs but they will be no smaller than last year. In other words, there will be $90,000 more to spend in 1953, but the combined increases in the school and town budgets are $216,000.

If Belleville is to hold the line on its $6.26 tax rate of 1952, that $216,000 must be backed down to $90,000. Nothing else will do. There must be economies; there must be no increase in the tax rate.

A quick study of the various town departmental budgets shows that the bulge is in the Public Safety department—$101,000 more than last year. Mayor Tully's Revenue and Finance department budget is up only $776. Commissioner Patrick Waters' Public Works department budget is $19,420 higher. The Public Affairs budget of Commissioner Joseph King is up $13,360 and the Parks and Playgrounds budget of Commissioner Elmer Hyde is $17,503 higher this year.

Since drastic economies must be made, they must come from all spending departments. The greatest cut must come where the increase is greatest—in Commissioner Harry Sullivan's Public Safety department. Sullivan has made provisions in his budget for an across-the-board pay increase of $500, plus a clothing allowance of $100, for each policeman and fireman. He has provided credits also for three new policemen. Those pay raises and the hiring of three new police account for $88,000 of Sullivan's $101,000 bulge.

The suggestion was made by the other Commissioners that Sullivan hold the pay raises to $300 and refrain from adding three new police. That could cut his increase in half. There still would have to be many more surgical operations on departmental budgets. It can be done and it must be done.

If the school and town budgets were adopted as they stand today, they would add 39 tax points to the town's tax rate. No one denies the need of moderate wage increases for all worthy town employees, and that goes double for the police and firemen who are below the Essex County average, but The Times-News is convinced that it expresses the imperative demand of all Belleville taxpayers—Hold that Line! Keep the 1933 tax rate at 6.26, or lower if possible! Use up the increased revenue from increased ratables, but go no farther! The trend, naturally, is for tax cuts. The trend locally must be the same.

As Director of Revenue and Finance, Mayor Tully has taken a positive stand in opposition to any increase in the tax rate. Alas, the Finance Director has no power of veto. He still will need a majority on the Commission to force such a balanced budget. The pressure of public opinion in support of the Mayor can do much to bring about an efficient budget. Taxpayers interested in holding the tax line must furnish that pressure.

Good Work, Congressman Rodino

It is regrettable that the Chelf Committee, the House Judiciary sub-committee charged with a probe into affairs of the Justice Department, of which our own Congressman Peter W. Rodino was a member, has just struck pay dirt at a time that the 82nd Congress ends and a new Congress begins. With the swearing in of the new Congress, last weekend, all of the old committees and sub-committees die. New committees, shaped to fit the new Republican majority, are to be created. The important probe of the Justice Department under the aegis of now Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark must continue, particularly the inquiry into the 1946 Kansas City vote fraud.

Congressman Rodino is to be congratulated for his excellent work on the sub-committee which did a thorough, responsible job in investigating the conduct of the Justice Department. Developing the most explosive implications of the Chelf committee's report, summarized last week, Congressman Rodino echoed the opinion of Chairman Frank L. Chelf, Kentucky Democrat, that Justice Clark must publicly explain his role in the Kansas City fraud.

The Chelf report cast a new light by declaring its confidence in former Assistant Attorney General T. Lamar Caudle's basic truthfulness and honesty although granting that he was at the same time "weak" and "naive." It was Mr. Caudle who told the committee of Mr. Clark's extraordinary interest in the Kansas City case, particularly after ballots impounded as evidence had been burglarized from the county court house. Missouri Congressman Claude I. Bakewell later quoted J. Edgar Hoover to the effect that Mr. Clark removed all the Kansas City fraud case files from the FBI offices to his own.

Less sensational, perhaps, but of wider and more enduring significance is the vivid picture the report gave, also through excerpts from Mr. Caudle's testimony, of the persistent and multitudinous pressures brought to bear all along the line in behalf of tax cases slated for prosecution. Not the least among the sources were senators and representatives on Capitol Hill although Mr. Caudle does not infer that such interferences were necessarily improper. Taxpayers, in trouble, says the report, tend at one to hunt for somebody in Washington "with influence" rather than to iron out their difficulties with local tax officials.

The incoming Republican Congress can be trusted to follow through on the matter of Justice Clark's handling of the vote frauds affair while attorney general. It would do well, also, to consider the problem of pressures on public officials as well as those officials' vulnerability to them. R.E.H.

33rd or 34th President?

Programs for the January 20 inauguration will list Dwight D. Eisenhower as the 34th President of the United States instead of the 33d. This is on the theory that Grover Cleveland should be counted as two separate Presidents, since the terms which he served were not consecutive. To us, "Ike," will be our 33d President and, we are convinced, one of our greatest!

It is hard to follow the line of reasoning of those who contend Mr. Cleveland should be counted twice. Even on the theory that the human body changes completely in seven years it would not be true that the Mr. Cleveland who took office in 1893 was a different Mr. Cleveland from the one who left the office in 1899.

Of course, legalists may have some concept of a presidency as distinct from a President. Yet it is peculiar that Republicans should want to count Mr. Cleveland twice. Thereby they give the Democrats 14 Chief Executives (if you go back to Jefferson) instead of 13. And with the advent of General Eisenhower the Republicans will have achieved 13 without counting Andrew Johnson (a Democrat elected on the Republican ticket) or the Whigs and Federalists who preceded them.

If it is the office rather than the man that is counted, one may even argue that the presidency was a broken office after Franklin D. Roosevelt broke the no-third-term tradition and that hence he should be counted twice. But we do not think Republicans will take this theory.

There may be a statistical or legal nicety about calling General Eisenhower the 34th President. But when you ask the average man how many Presidents the United States has had, do you suppose he is thinking about statistical abstractions or human beings?

One Man's Opinion

McCarran Act May Need Rewriting, As Eisenhower Has Suggested, But American Communists' Penetration of UN Shows Need of Controls of fifth Column.

By RALPH E. HEINZEN

A million foreign sailors come into American ports every year. Many of them jump ship and hide out here until they are established, without the formality of passport or visa. Many of our worst criminals, today, are ship jumpers, the Anastasians, of Murder, Inc., among them.

A million foreign emigrants are waiting in 39 countries to come to this country to live. They intend to come under the quota system, with the benefits of passport and visa. Most of them hold promise of becoming good citizens; planted among them are Communists, former Nazis and Fascists, the sowers of troubled seed.

The McCarran-Walter Immigration and Nationality Act, a bulky measure of 160 sections and more than 40 subdivisions, was Congress' answer to the positive need of control. No bill since the Taft-Hartley Act has provoked more bitterness. Since the bitterness comes chiefly from Communists and their sympathizers in this country and from the countries abroad whose political systems have little in common with ours, there may be no more reason to condemn the legislation than there was to condemn the Taft-Hartley law on the basis of some of the exaggerated, politically-inspired and class-biased opposition which it provoked.

Since the McCarran Act was passed by Congress over President Truman's veto last June 27, it parallels in that way the Taft-Hartley Act which Harry Truman also vetoed and which he has refused, as President, to use even though it is a law of the land by the action of Congress in overriding his veto. It has increased the bitterness which Harry Truman could brook no criticism or opposition. The McCarran Act may not be as bad as the Missourians would have us believe when he said it was the worst piece of legislation he ever had seen. And Senator McCarran is a Democrat!

Favorable Sentiment

Congressional sentiment favoring repeal of the omnibus bill at the new session appears to be growing. The report of the President's special Commission on Immigration and Naturalization, headed by Philip B. Soltzberger, former United States Solicitor General, published this week, is frankly hostile to the Act.

Certain statements by General Eisenhower have been interpreted to mean that he favors modifications of the measure. Speaking in Newark in October, Eisenhower said that the new immigration law should "strike an intelligent, unbiased balance between the high needs of America and the miserable hopes of the unhappy and oppressed."

While any amendments to the McCarran Act undoubtedly will meet with vigorous opposition in Congress and in the country, it is bound to revive old debate on the subject of United States immigration policy. In general, one of the lower obstacles to any changes. Senator Phil McCarran (D) of Nevada, himself, will be out of the picture. He will be replaced as chairman of the Judiciary Committee by Senator William Langer (R), of North Dakota, who in the past has teamed up with opponents of the measure.

Solid, Sensible Act

Supporters of the McCarran Act hold that it is solid, sensible, long-needed legislation. They say it effectively serves the purpose of blocking the infiltration of Communists from abroad and keeping them from breeding within by dint of fictitious naturalization laws and other provisions, including those covering denaturalization.

They emphasize, too, that the bill eliminates "Oriental exclusions" from the immigration law; that it gives preference to prospective immigrants with high educational qualifications or technical skills as well as to wives and children of American citizens; and that it finally brings various immigration laws under one roof, repealing 48 statutes or parts of them and amending 10 others in the process.

Improved Sections

Critics of the measure frankly admit that many sections of the new law are improvements on the old Immigration Act of 1924. But they have been ungenerous in their criticism of the McCarran Act. Retention of the old national origins quota has been called unfair, discriminatory and detrimental to this country's interests abroad. They have argued out further against changed denaturalization procedures, and they have leveled the charge that the law "discriminates against naturalized citizens who, it is alleged, are reduced to a second-class status."

The philosophy which underlies the new act is one of tight restriction, with initiative for decision actually coming from within the United States to a large extent. There is no one who can get out of the "quarantined masses."

At the present quota philosophy, the immigrants are considered the "undesirable" of the people of the United States, the idea being that those who are most assimilable should be encouraged to come in. And that, despite statistics from abroad, the "undesirables" of the United States have the right to and must determine their own fate. It is not a matter of "who" but "what" it is that they have the right to choose their neighbors.

A basic change provides that the first 50 per cent of the other standards for determining and 1947—the lowest and highest years since 1924—comes to 1,618,000. This is more than the total number of immigrants entering the United States during the past 18 years.

Opponents of the act argue that the 1924 act, upon which its quotas are based, was designed to keep out Jewish elements from southern and eastern Europe, and that perpetuation of this attitude today runs counter to the interests of the United States, which is anxious to give all possible aid and assistance to anti-Communist refugees pouring from behind the Iron Curtain.

The old quota, like the new one, encouraged immigration from Britain, Germany and Ireland, because persons of these respective national stocks were not numerous in the United States prior to 1920. Following is a table of the new quotas under the McCarran Act:

British and North Irish	85,761
German	25,814
Irish	17,758
Poles	5,488
Italians	5,443
Swedes	3,245
Dutch	3,130
French	3,083
Czechs	2,859
Norwegians	2,364
Swiss	1,939
Austrians	1,408
Belgians	1,297
Yugoslavs	1,171
Hungarians	868
Oriental	2,000
Others	6,511

Total . . . 154,367
At least one compromise bill, the Humphrey-Lehman measure, has suggested the pooling of the unused portions of the larger quotas and their redistribution without regard to race or national origin among several preference classes. From Britain, for instance, with a quota of 85,761 during last year, only 21,679 came to the United States as immigrants. From Ireland, with a quota of 17,758, only 4,033 immigrated. From Sweden came 1,481, less than half of the 3,245.

At United States consulates abroad, where consular officials under the McCarran Act will have unprecedented authority for granting or refusing immigration visas, registration of persons anxious to come to the United States has risen to close to 1,000,000 in 39 countries, with two-thirds of them coming from southern and southeastern Europe.

One of the more interesting immigration act centers about the racial provisions. The act has been interpreted for finally wiping out the last traces of the Oriental exclusion acts. A limited number of Japanese, Koreans, Indonesians, and Burmese will now be admitted. Also, and importantly, all Orientals now resident in the United States who are now ineligible for naturalization will be allowed to become American citizens. This means a great gain for first-generation Japanese living in the United States. About 65,000 of them will be able, if they wish, to realize what to many has been a fond dream.

Total immigration of the Oriental group is limited to 2,000 each year. This number, the act states, must include any immigrant "who is attributable by as much as one-half of his ancestry to a people or peoples indigenous to the Asia-Pacific triangle." This provision has been classed as discriminatory as it further limits the Asiatic immigration.

There is also a Negro aspect to the new act. It charges immigration from colonies and other dependent states to the governing country. Negroes from the West Indies, who until this time have had relatively free access to the United States, will now be sharply restricted. The act states that no more than 100 persons may enter from each colony. This will effectively cut Negro immigration from the West Indies by about 80 per cent.

These, then, are some of the criticisms of the act. The criticism, of course, does not take into account the vast body of opinion favoring naturalization laws embodied in the new act which is exemplary, and in many ways an improvement over outmoded processes. Congress and the people of the United States, however, will be hearing from its critics for a good long while to come.

...on New Jersey in 1952

New Jersey, the Crossroads of the East, continued to grow importantly during 1952. This growth can be measured in increased population . . . in the advent of new factories and new branch plants and new shopping centers . . . in the installation of new research facilities for industry . . . in the completion of improved highway facilities, such as the New Jersey Turnpike . . . in the development of new, greater industrial terminals . . . and in many other important activities throughout the state.

What can we expect for the future? We do not pretend to be a necromancer, but the growth of New Jersey in terms of industry, commerce, residential recreational areas has been established on a definite pattern. The advantages which are offered to the residents and the business men at the Crossroads of the East are so important and so specifically on the up-grade that progress is indicated without question.

Public Service Electric and Gas Company continues to play its part as a citizen of this great state, firmly convinced that New Jersey is a good place to live, work and play.

RED CROSS TELLS THE STORY OF BLOOD DONATIONS

Blood Sent to Laboratories, Processed into Plasma And Shipped To Korea, Posts, Etc.

This is the story of the donation of a pint of blood and the trip to its destination: The donor arrives at the High School Gym, checks in at desk for registration and the completion of his medical history. His temperature and hemoglobin are recorded. The attending physician checks the donor's heart, blood pressure, pulse, and other pertinent physical data. The donor is now ready to give that pint of blood.

The donor gives the blood—usually ten to fifteen minutes are required. Now to try patience for that snack of coffee and bun. This takes another fifteen minutes, and the donor is "back on the road". In all it takes about an hour of the donor's time.

But the blood, in its defense bottle, goes into a refrigerated truck and then into the bloodmobile truck outside the Gym. When the bloodmobile returns to the Red Cross Defense Blood Center at Plainfield, another truck is waiting to remove the blood to the Squibb's laboratories in New Brunswick, where it is processed into plasma. This operation requires several weeks to complete and the supervision of nearly 100 trained technicians.

The minute the first drop of blood reached the bottle at the Blood Donor Assembly, it belonged to the Defense Department. All the Red Cross does is recruit donors, process the volunteer staff at the assembly, collect the blood, and deliver it for processing into plasma. Once the laboratory has made up the plasma, its distribution from that point is at the direction of the Defense Department. Much of it goes to Korea. Some goes to Navy ships on the high seas, some to military posts, some to service hospitals, as required.

Pietro Fazio

Funeral services for Pietro Fazio, contractor, of 33 Magnolia Street, were held Saturday from the Porter Funeral Home, 243 Franklin Street, Bloomfield, to Silver Lake Baptist Church, where a high requiem mass was offered. Rev. Benedetto Pascale officiated. Burial was in Bloomfield Cemetery.

Mr. Fazio died December 31 in Columbus Hospital, Newark. He would have been 80 years of age the day following his death. Born in Italy, Mr. Fazio came to this country in 1930. A short time later he went into the contracting business, specializing in road, landscaping and concrete work. He retired in 1946 and the business is now carried on by his son, Peter Jr.

Mr. Fazio belonged to the Harmony Lodge I. O. O. F. of Belleville and Garibaldi Lodge 145 F. & A. M. of Newark. Besides his son, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Julia Amarilla Fazio; another son, D. Thomas of Belleville; five daughters, Mrs. Clara Long of Belleville, Mrs. Mary Fischer of Trenton, Mrs. Rose De Martino of Westfield, Mrs. Grace Venezia of West Caldwell, and Miss Ann Fazio at home; 12 grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Luigi Genarelli

Services were conducted Friday for Luigi Genarelli of 9 Florence Avenue in the Silver Lake Baptist Church. Rev. Benedetto Pascale, pastor, officiated. Burial was in Glendale Cemetery.

Mr. Genarelli died December 29 in St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, after a short illness. He was 85. A native of Italy, he came to the U. S. in 1909 and lived in Belleville for the past 30 years. He was a retired tailor.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Christina Clement Genarelli; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Paladino of Bloomfield; three sons, John, at home, Joseph of Greenville, S. C., and Angelo of Florida; eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Credit Where Credit Belongs

Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde has gone a long way towards making the Municipal Stadium a place to be proud of. Improvements, installed with the co-operation of his fellow commissioners, include a sidewalk from Greylock Parkway, a water line from the same street, which will eventually provide sprinkling facilities for the acres of grass in the stadium grounds; a regrading and replanting of some of the property and the completion of the running track. These things in themselves improve the value of the town's investment, but until the Stadium is used to its fullest capacity, there is a lot of money tied up in something not paying dividends.

When Raymond Ward resigned as recreation director, Commissioner Hyde took his time selecting a replacement, but when he made up his mind he really had a good one. The work that Bob Cook has inaugurated will eventually lead to a full use of the vast areas under the concrete stadium, areas which can be devoted to year round recreation purposes.

Some time ago a rifle range was installed in a portion of the stadium, but to all intents and purposes, except for a few who used it might just as well not have existed. It is one of the finest rifle ranges we have seen, and it should and will get a great deal more use, plus publicity under Bob.

Even before Bob was put on the payroll, he and his weight-lifting class took over a storeroom full of junk, which they cleaned up and repaired to make a meeting place for the class. More improvements are needed, but they will come in time. So far the entire weight-lifting class has cost the Recreation Department $35 in capital and the room is shared with the newly formed Belleville Bicycle Club.

There are other rooms, and even equipment, which might be put to good use in the future, but the new Recreation Director is proceeding in a sensible order of firmly establishing one activity and one room before starting another.

It won't be long before the Stadium is being used every day for some recreation activity, and in the fall and winter, even more than in the summer. Not enough is transpiring yet to warrant a public open house, but within a year, we venture to say that the Recreation Department will be so proud of its installations at the Stadium that an open house would be a grand public relations vehicle.

It wasn't easy for Commissioner Hyde, and the fight is not over yet. He had to sell the Board of Commissioners the advisability of hiring a watchman to protect the structure from vandalism in the early evening hours, and even late at night. A real appropriation is required to replace rotted seat boards and the repainting of all the wood work, plus a thorough caulking job on the cracks and expansion joints. Most of all, a repair job is needed on the front wall, where the concrete is chipping away. These will come in time and no one will begrudge them, once it is proven that the money being spent in the upkeep of the Stadium is paying dividends in real recreation projects.

Retrospect and Prospect

Belleville High School enjoyed its most successful sports year in history in 1952, starting off with a North Jersey Section II, Group IV basketball crown, the National Schoobly Eight placed third, won at Washington D. C., and played in the state among all schools in the Saylor rating of football teams. The record was certainly one to be proud of. However, other than High School sports there was very little sports activity of noteworthy scope. Belleville did have two Little League teams which played in the semi-finals of the sectional tournament, a pleasant surprise, since rival teams were much bigger and were comprised of the 12 year olds.

We have no crystal ball to foretell Belleville's success in sports for 1953, but we have a Happy New Year wish for the various coaches. For Jitty Wische we wish him success in both the Essex County and State basketball tournaments. If we must have our choice, let's make it the county tournament, where the Bellboys still have a chance of retiring the famous "Steeplechase Trophy" valued at about $3,000.

Since High School baseball teams depend upon the strength and experience of the pitching staff, we wish Eddie Berlinski luck with his ball team.

For Bill Bennett we wish the near impossible. It was a senior team which carried Belleville's colors to the national rowing title, so Bill has considerable rebuilding to do in the varsity boat. But Bill has so many events he can enter, let's wish him at least a fighting chance with the eight, and perhaps a championship with his four, pair and singles. It's not asking too much!

Football next year is a big question. The good team loses too many good players, even though it is still strong in the very important quarterback slot. Gone will be a great center, a pair of exceptional guards, and a good fullback. This quartet alone will be tough to replace. Nevertheless, we expect the Bellboys to have a respectable record against its rival, and to be one of the best coached clubs in the county and state.

Bloomfield Court Team Has 10 Point Edge On Bellboys

Wische's Forces Now at .500 Stage In Regular and Practice Scrimmage Results; Play Three Games Next Week

If Belleville High's basketball team goes anywhere this year it will be the result of long and tough hours spent with Coach Herman Wische. With Belleville's defeat at the hands of Bloomfield on Tuesday night by a 48 to 38 score, the Bellboys now stand with a 50-50 record for both season play and practice engagements. Although this is not entirely unexpected, it is, to say the least, unusual for Belleville, in recent years. The Bellboys waded past two out of county foes in the first two games at home, but bowed in both away from home appearances, against Orange and against Bloomfield.

During and just before the holidays the team engaged in six practice scrimmages, and found at least three of the teams playing better ball at this stage of the season. Central, with an almost veteran team and Montclair, with the tallest team in these parts, each wound up with about a 10 point edge on the Bellboys. And North Arlington literally ran away from the locals in running up a 20 point win. North Arlington's fast break was really fast and left the Bellboys standing still.

Throttle Weinstein, Tuesday against Bloomfield the Bloomfield defense closed in around Paul Weinstein, so Coach Wische had his players working off Gordon Galtore, who finished the game with 19 points, a 20 point tip and tick game for three periods, but in the fourth both Weinstein and Galtore combined on fouls and Bloomfield went on a ten-point scoring spree and coasted to victory. Bloomfield's Herb Miller put his team in front near the end of the third period with a set shot, and Bloomfield clung onto the lead the rest of the way.

Galtore was the game's high scorer, while Miller, Bob Nordover and Joe Rosania of Bloomfield hit in the double figures.

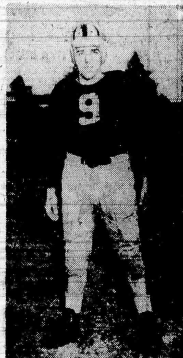

Things were no better in the Jayvee game, which Bloomfield won 53 to 42. Grosso and Veith had eight points each for Belleville, while Miller with 17 and McCabe with 13 paced the victorious Bengals.

Belleville is on the road again tonight, playing at Hillsdale and gets back to the local gym on Tuesday to entertain Nutley. Hillsdale can be plenty tough, especially at the Union County court. Nutley is having the same type of rugged season that marked its wild campaign. Next Thursday the Bellboys go to Clifton to play another Passaic county team. Inasmuch as Garfield was rated as a better team than Clifton, there is good chance that Belleville's fortunes may soon take a turn for the better.

Barbell Club Schedules Four Nights of Instruction

The Belleville Barbell Club has started this week with a nightly program at its new gymnasium at the Municipal Stadium. Young men, interested in heavy lifting may lift under the guidance of Bob Cook, Superintendent of Recreation, on Monday and Thursday evenings, while those who are more interested in body-building may train under Phil Sammarco on Tuesday and Friday evenings. The gym will be open for qualified lifters on Wednesday evenings. All in all the gym is open to lifters and body builders Monday through Friday from 8:30 P.M. to 9:30 P.M. For information on joining this Recreation Department Barbell Club either one of the instructors at the gym or phone the "Rec" House, PL 9-3142.

Pass Snatcher

PFC Thomas Corino of 1 St. Mary's Place, and former Belleville High School gridders, played a lot of football in Japan during the last season. Playing with the Camp Drew Golden Bears in the Central Command Conference, he was fifth high scorer in the conference with 49 points on eight touchdowns and one point after touchdown. As left end he averaged five pass completions per game with an average gain per yard of 18.93 yards and a total yardage for the season of 567. He was a tower of strength in the defense and blocked exceptionally well. At the completion of the season he was selected as an end on the All-Conference second team.

State Ski Trails Pamphlet Published This Week

For ski enthusiasts, the state has printed a new brochure entitled "Ski Trails of New Jersey," now ready for free distribution by the State Promotion Section of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Information on ski resort centers located in the north Jersey counties of Warren, Somerset, Morris, and Sussex is featured, including specific data on a number of towns which will be available through the winter when the snow has been packed on the ground, lengths of slopes and approximate drop of main ski slopes, available accommodations, and approximate rates.

Best Shot at Newark Police Academy

Patrolman James C. Pindar of the Belleville Police Department is congratulated by Public Safety Director John B. Keenan of Newark, at the graduation exercises of the Newark Police Academy. Patrolman Pindar had the highest average for marksmanship in the class. Other Belleville policemen who attended the course in Newark were Charles Hood and George Lister.

SPIRITED RACES IN BICYCLE CONTEST

Fast Times Made on Rollers; Road Tour Scheduled For 1:30 Tomorrow Afternoon

The Belleville Bicycle Club launched its New Year Point Tournament on Saturday, at the Municipal Stadium, with one of the most hotly contested series of roller races since the Club began. The races on the rollers were turned a distance of one-fifth of a mile and the boys really enjoyed the progress of the riders who have been training for several weeks under the guidance and encouragement of the Club staff. Undoubtedly some of the lads, who were new to the Club in Saturday's races, will improve rapidly and make this whole month long tournament a red hot contest. It is still not too late for new entries in the New Year Point Tournament which will run three more roller races and one tour during this month.

Intermediate Light Weight: 1st Robert Woodman, 2nd Fred Bullock, 3rd Robert Kwick. It has been remarkable to note the progress of the riders who have been training for several weeks under the guidance and encouragement of the Club staff. Undoubtedly some of the lads, who were new to the Club in Saturday's races, will improve rapidly and make this whole month long tournament a red hot contest. It is still not too late for new entries in the New Year Point Tournament which will run three more roller races and one tour during this month.

Points, such as those listed above and four points will be given to each cyclist who completes the bike tour. At the end of the month the points will be totaled and the winners of the first three places in each class will be presented with prizes.

The races will be run off tomorrow, starting from the Municipal Stadium at 1:30 P.M. This will be fairly short tour, well supervised by seasoned cyclists. There will be a truck to bring up the rear of the cycle column in case of breakdown or fatigue. Although four tournament points will be awarded to all who complete the tour, the purpose is to acquaint the boys with safe riding on the road. Participants will be well briefed on safe riding and conduct on the road. Bob Cook, Superintendent of the Recreation Department, wishes to again call attention to the fact that anyone may participate in the tour even though he does not care to compete in the New Year Point Tournament.

The staff of the Belleville Bicycle Club, Alf Gaultier, Joe DeBacco, Bill Murphy, Ed Lillis, Charlie Logan, Jack Foley, Joe Gantaine and Bob Cook is well pleased with the spirit of competition and the growth of the Club. Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde, director of the Recreation Department has given his approval of establishing a special area at the Belleville Stadium for bicycle activities. The Bike Club has been sharing space with the Baseball Club, but both activities have outgrown this arrangement. Plans are to have a new room in readiness, by the end of the New Years Point Tournament.

Essex School Head Sees Overcrowding Dangers Education

Dr. Frank B. Stover Warns Expanding Classes To Include "Just One More" Is Worst Possible Solution

Depreciating a growing tendency to add "just one more" pupil to the acceptable classroom median, because of the growing demands on the existing school plants, Frank B. Stover, Superintendent of Schools of Essex County, in a survey of schools in Newark and the other Essex-suburban towns pronounced for a limitation of class sizes to 25, with a "desirable upper limit" of 30. Many public schools in the county, he reported, now have expanded classroom sizes to 50 pupils which he considers bad for education.

An inquiry by The Nutley Sun of the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Elrud Priestley, as to the average size of classes in public schools here brought the response that the Board of Education had ordered the Superintendent to direct all inquiries to the District Clerk, Everett Zabarskie. The District Clerk informed The Nutley Sun he did not have the statistics. One Board member said he knew there were classes here larger in size than the preferred average set by Dr. Stover and mentioned classrooms at Spring Garden school which have 36 pupils.

Dr. Stover found Newark's schools worse than those of the suburban towns. Two-thirds of the Newark elementary schools had classes with 30 to 50 pupils. In the suburban elementary schools only 24 per cent fell into that category. In the suburban schools, however, the County Superintendent found overcrowding the classroom average was 27, while in Suburban Essex it was 25. Dr. Stover found, was very satisfactory. The overcrowding, he pointed out, is in the lower grades. The Stover survey was undertaken at the request of several Boards of Education which sought advice on expanding classes as an alternative to costly new school building as an answer to the swift expansion of public school enrollment due to the rapid growth in population in suburban Essex.

Explaining the reasons for the survey, Dr. Stover wrote:

"Recently charges have been made that local school districts could save considerable expense in these years of school expansion by adopting a policy of increased class size. It has been asserted:

- (1) That class sizes are too low, with "teacher-pupil" around 23 and
- (2) That one or more additional pupils could be safely added to each class, with a resultant tremendous saving.
- (3) That no objective evidence exists to show that smaller class size results in greater benefits to pupils.

"It seemed desirable, therefore, to examine the class size situation as it currently exists in Essex County."

Dr. Stover rejected "teacher-pupil ratio" as a fair basis of evaluation because the term "teacher" includes not only teachers but principals, supervisors, special teachers and guidance workers. He used pupil enrollment in instructional units as the basis of his survey.

Pointing out that the army and most colleges have rejected the old-style lecture hall methods in favor of small classes, Dr. Stover showed a wide divergence of opinion among prominent educational groups. The National Educational Association and the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools recommend 30 pupils as a maximum but limit any teacher's daily assignment to 125 pupils in five periods.

The N. J. Department of Education, he reports, favors a maximum of 25 and his report conforms to that standard. In his conclusion, Dr. Stover recommended:

"Frankly, we cannot set aside the considered and practical judgment of school administrators, schools of education, and classroom teachers who have found through years of experience what parents themselves must realize; that any teacher can do a much more thorough job of individual instruction with a smaller class than with a larger class. Some amount of professional judgment must be reserved in deciding class size because of the kind of class, the kind of teacher, and the kind of community setting involved in making that final judgment in law, engineering, or medicine, expecting that training and experience in that specialty will be of value to us.

Room For One More

"There is no magic number at which class size may be finally and decisively set. It is quite possible that just one more" pupil is generally possible without raising the educational program of a classroom. However, if just one more is added of several times, eventually the activities and method of the classroom will undergo change.

"It is not possible to conduct school activities without a consideration of the number of pupils involved. Therefore, some limit should be placed on class size. The activities and method of the classroom will be related to the kinds of things the public would like to have the schools do in a particular community. Board of education must constantly consider such problems. There is usually no opportunity to transfer any excess to another neighboring community because every Essex town faces exactly the same school congestion as population continues to expand.

"On the basis of my analysis, I would recommend that a class enrollment of approximately 25, with a desirable upper limit of 30, and with lower limits in classes for the mentally retarded or physically handicapped, should be the goal for Essex County school districts."

The section of the Stover survey applying to Suburban Essex schools follows:

Elementary, Kindergarten-8.
Total number of classes: 1903
1212 classes, or more than 60%, had enrollments between 25 to 30. One out of every 19 classes had 35 or more enrolled.
400 classes or 24%, had enrollments of 30 to 40.
More than one-fourth of all classes with enrollments under 25 were Kindergarten, first grade, or handicapped classes.
The median size of elementary class enrollment was between 27 and 28 pupils. The largest number of classes was between 25 and 29.

Junior High Schools.
Total number of classes: 9040.
1949 classes, or 69% of all classes, had enrollments between 25 and 50 or more.

50% of all classes with enrollments under 25 were in fine arts, industrial arts, home economics, or foreign languages.

34% of all classes with enrollments under 25 were in industrial arts or home economics.

The median size of junior high classes was between 27 and 28 pupils.

High School.
Total number of classes: 4571.
50% of classes had enrollments between 25 and 50.

7% of all classes had enrollments over 40, most of these in physical education; 60 classes had 50 or more.

Approximately 63% of all classes under 25 were in fine arts, industrial arts, home economics, vocational, business, or foreign languages.

The median enrollment for all classes was 25 students.

The Meeting Place

Edgar Jean Bracco

Christmas in the country is a wonderful thing. Christmas here, anywhere, of course, is wonderful, being Christmas but the country it takes on the old-fashioned flavor which seems to have been lost these days in so many places by so many people. We went up on the afternoon of Christmas eve, and reached the farm shortly after twilight. It was like the homecoming of a tired traveler to pull off the dark road bordered by the spectral trees, and drive into the lane that leads to the house.

Bright yellow windows were the welcoming beacons. As soon as they heard the car, those with the ease to door with the great ease. They helped us unload the joyful packages and while the dogs in a farmhouse without several dogs is too quiet to be a truly happy place, it was a relief to relax. But who can really relax. But who can really relax. But who can really relax.

The men, as men will, were in the living room, mutilating the eternal verities, threatening each other over politics, replaying the World Series, comparing methods of tying flies and casting flies. In fact, they were busier than the women, only, thank goodness, the business of the women was manifested tangibly. In cakes I could smell, cookies I could see, sauce I could taste.

Shortly after supper I looked out of a window and saw that a light snow had begun to fall. The children, who were ready for bed, caught wind of it and set up a mighty pean of joy. I slipped quietly out of the house and walked along the silent lane. Softly, the snow fell around me. Silence was almost a holy thing, so that I even resented the muffled sound of my footfalls. When I was a distance away from the house I paused.

All around me was peace. The farmhouse now was only a dark blur on a darker background. Beyond it the barn and outbuildings were almost indistinguishable from the snow-heavy sky. The trees were covered, and my own footprints, as I watched, slowly disappeared beneath the continuing fall.

I leaned against the rough bark of an old gnarled tree. Far down the valley I saw the light of a house. Then a sound reached me. It was the peal of a bell in some church steeple in town. To me, up here, it was a curiously distant sound, and yet, in all the surrounding emptiness, it was a comfort. I kept my company somehow.

I realized after a time that I should have been cold, but for some reason I was warm and snug, with my hat pulled low and the fur collar of my machine high around my neck. I thought about that for a while and then it came to me. I was warm in a manner more than physical. I was warmed by that rare occurrence—an inward warmth, a thing of the spirit. I have known moments of ecstasy in my lifetime, when the excited blood in my veins set up a kind of frenzied heat.

This was different. It was a quiet feeling of well-being, a peace at peace with the world and the world with me. Back at the farmhouse were the people I loved. With the end of night would come a day of festivity, a day of happiness and kindness. And here, on the snow-covered hilltop, I was alone. That, to me, was peace.

The silence around me was like the poem Mac Leish speaks of, "palpable and mute," and I realized that, as always, I was making far too many words about it.

I started back down the hill toward the house, thinking that words are small guideposts to understanding. Feeling is a thing of the soul, and words, even handled skillfully, can often do no more than vaguely indicate direction.

I put away the words as I reached the house. Inside, all was sound and activity. Even the dogs, in whom excitement is contagious, were setting up a great barking clamor, not knowing what all the bustle was about but engaging nevertheless in a bewildered happiness.

Before going in I paused for one last look at the silent night. Thank God, I thought, for things like quiet evenings and snow-laden trees, for silent fields beneath the blessed whiteness, for silent itself. And most of all, I thought, thank God for the power to appreciate them.
