Of Two Million

For New Hospital

Government Agency Loans Half of Construction Costs of Atom Bomb Proof Building; Plan Fund Drive

The 300-bed hospital for which people contributed generously two years ago moved a step nearer reality Wednesday when the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, in Washington, authorized a loan of $2,000,000 for its construction. The estimated cost has been set at $4,000,000 towards which more than a million dollars has been pledged. In the interim the name has been changed from Lutheran Memorial to Clara Maass Memorial Hospital to honor the nurse who paid with her life for yellow fever experiment in Cuba in 1901.

The RFC loan was granted on condition that the structure be as near bomb-proof as possible and contain facilities to permit it to continue to function in specially designed shelters in the event of an atom-bomb attack. It is the first such bomb-proof hospital provided for the metropolitan area.

Plan Dinner For Veteran Westinghouse Employees

Deciding on the menu for the 10th annual Bloomfield branch dinner of the Westinghouse Veterans' Association to be held at the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark, January 31, are (left to right) Raymond Bryant, 149 Flord Street, Tom Masterson, Verona, and Myrtle, of Bloomfield. All are employees of the Lamp Division, Bloomfield. More than 300 employees with from 10 to 40 years' Westinghouse service are expected to attend the affair at which J. M. Inauguration then Washington on inauguration day is not exactly a rest cure and no one came here to sleep.

James E. Noonan, USN, of 154 Academy Street, who is undergoing recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Annapolis, Md., participated in the Presidential Inaugural Parade 1929 Washington, D.C. on Tuesday. He was among 247 sailors who passed in review before the new President. The men were chosen from more than 1,000 recruits on the basis of their outstanding military bearing, drill efficiency and merit.

You would have thought that the crowd was gathered in Washington to nominate the next President, but the crowd was gathered in Washington to nominate the next President of New Jersey, instead of inaugurating a President of the United States. All over the Shovelton, New Jersey politics gathered in groups. Like conspirators, they were present in clusters in the streets, under awnings, in back rooms, in the back of the car, even under the tables. And all they talked about was picking Governor Louis F. Freeland as the next Governor.

There is no doubt that Disraeli was going to be re-elected for all that New Jersey did for Eisenhower. Senator H. Alexander was going to be a bridge over the water, a speech, he said. (A Disraeli) was called to pieces of high importance and I know whereof I speak. Smith did not elude me when I talked to the Governor, he pretended to have no knowledge of what was coming.

There were no less than nine hundred, cluttering the salons and corridors of the Sheraton during the reception of the Governor. The distinction of autos was the distinction of autos. Disraeli's own hand-drawn carriage, pulled by a team of four horses, was the highlight of the parade. State Senator Malcolm S. Forbes, of Somerset; State Senator Samuel L. Hedden, of Hudson, and David Quinn, Jr. of Morris, Congressman Clifford Case, of Union, State Treasurer Walter J. Murphy, Jr. of Passaic, Charles E. Redman, congressman-elect from Essex County, and Senator Joseph P. Kamp, of Essex County, were among the guests.

Motor Service Typical Day Is Reported to Red Cross

Mrs. Ryer, Chairman Lists Calls of January 12; Tells of Need For Additional Drivers

In reporting at a Board of Directors' meeting on the activities of the Motor Service, Belleville Chapter, American Red Cross; Mrs. Howard Ryer, Chairman, illustrated the work for volunteer group by taking as a typical day, January 12.

The first three assignments were all at the same time, 8:30 A.M. The first involved taking a man with one leg to Kessler Institute in West Orange for a 9 o'clock appointment, involving the filing of an artificial limb. The second involved the transportation of a child to the Bloomfield Class for Retarded Children, and the third involved taking another child to the Montclair Class for Retarded Children.

The fourth assignment at 10:10 A.M. involved taking a polio patient to the Crippled Children's Hospital for a 10:30 appointment. It was necessary to pick up this child by noon, so that she could have lunch at home and attend school in the afternoon.

The fifth assignment, scheduled for 11:30 A.M. involved taking a polio patient to the N.J. Orange Orthopedic Hospital to be there at 11:30 for treatment.

The sixth assignment was a local one to pick up some Red Cross records on Stevens Road. This was just a "sparetime" job, according to Mrs. Ryer.

At 1:30 P.M. the afternoon rush began with the task of driving an arthritis patient to Dr. Paelli in Newark for 2:00 P.M. At 1:45 P.M. a group of our volunteer Gray Ladies were taken to the Walter Kidde plant where they acted as "baby sitters" and "nursery attendants" during the Open House program at the plant.

At 2:00 P.M. three children were picked up at School No. 8 and taken to a Speech Defect Clinic being conducted at Montclair State Teachers' College. At 3:15 P.M. it was necessary to take a Home Service worker to a Belleville home to discuss a "solider" problem with a distraught mother who had called frantically a short time before, in the hope the Red Cross could help.

At 6:30 P.M. another group of Gray Ladies were taken to the Kidde plant for "baby sitting" and "nursery attendant" service.

This schedule involves only the initial phase of each trip. In every instance these same people were picked up and brought back to their Belleville homes.

As Mrs. Ryer pointed out, "we are fortunate here in Belleville in having two Red Cross stations where both the personal gifts of individuals in our community who are members of the Red Cross Board of Directors. Very often we have both cars going on a very tight schedule, but it is only people who we have sufficient volunteer drivers on duty. We do need more drivers, people who can give us a full day, or even a morning or an afternoon, once a week. At present we have five regular volunteer drivers. They are: Mrs. S. A. Edwards of 45 Linden Avenue; Mrs. Harry Findley of 889 Hornblower Avenue; Mrs. Howard Ryer of 42 Tappan Avenue; Mrs. Clifford MacDonald of 331 Stenham Street; and Mrs. Leonard Reilly of 27 Linden Avenue.

In addition, we have four alternate drivers who are on call, in that we call on them to fill in when sickness or other emergencies prevent scheduled drivers from working on the Board, according to Mademoiselle.

As a College Board member, she will represent her campus and report to Mademoiselle on college life and the college scene. She will complete three assignments that will help her explore her interests and abilities in writing, editing, fashion, advertising or art in competition for one of twenty Guest Editorships to be awarded by the magazine at the end of May.

FORBES CLUB FORMED HERE

"Forbes For Governor" Club Seeks Signatures To Place State Senator On Ballot

To advance the gubernatorial aspirations of Malcolm Forbes, Somerset State Senator, a group of Belleville residents have formed a "Forbes for Governor Club" in the community. Members of the organizing committee are: Mrs. Evan Thomas, Wm. G. Kelly, Mrs. G. A. Trimmer, Miss Carolyn Pohl, Douglas Wadsworth and Charles Rossi. Membership in the organization is growing rapidly and many signatures, required to place Senator Forbes' name on the primary ballot, have been secured as the result of the circulation of petitions.

Members of the club, some of whom served with Senator Forbes during the Eisenhower campaign, speak highly of his abilities as a legislator. As an example, they referred to a recent telecast on which he expressed his outspoken opposition to the atomic system, which he claims must be taken out of the secrecy of the "back room" and into the floor of the house of legislation. He is also a constant advocate of greater aid to education.

Senator Forbes, who is married and the father of three sons, is a veteran of World War II, saw action in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany, and was awarded the Bronze Star by Gen. Bolling after the Battle of Aachen. Last year he was voted as "New Jersey Young Man of the Year" by the State Junior Chamber of Commerce. He founded the "Nation's Heritage Magazine" and was presented by General Eisenhower with a gold medal "for outstanding achievement in bringing a better understanding of the American way of life."

J. J. Tully Cashes With Elmer Hyde On Budget Paring

Parks and Property Director Hyde Refuses To Alter His Budget As Suggested By Finance Director

Hot words were exchanged by Mayor James J. Tully and Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde, Friday afternoon, at a special budget conference of the town commissioners. The clash resulted from a suggestion by Mayor Tully that Commissioner Hyde trim his parks and public property budget by $10,000, allowing a $7,000 increase in that department. As each of the other Commissioners were told that their budgets would have to be trimmed, each in turn said he would try, but Commissioner Hyde angrily stated that he had submitted his budget and intended to stand by it.

Mayor Tully had recommended a cut of $48,000 in the Public Safety Department, a $9,000 cut in the Public Works Department, a $10,000 cut in the Parks and Public Property and a $2,500 cut in the Public Affairs Department. He pointed out that if these cuts could be made the town might maintain its 6.26 tax rate for 1953. Commissioner Hyde pointed out that the only place his budget could be lopped is in appropriations made for relief and for emergency claims of St. Mary's Hospital. Both items are highly problematical, and no matter what is done in the budget, it could be ample or completely inadequate.

Commissioner Sullivan said he could see how he could eliminate some extra services provided for in his budget and cut $23,775, but even in his fondest dreams I cannot see where any $15,000 could come from. It was suggested that, at least $10,000 additional could be gained by eliminating the uniform allowance requested by the police and firemen, and perhaps cutting their raise to 4% instead of the $500 requested. Commissioner Sullivan said that before he would agree to any such cut, he would have to have a conference with Mayor Tully and go over every item in his budget, penny for penny, to see if something cannot be worked out.

Commissioner Hyde, on the other hand, refused to discuss any cuts in his budget, and Mayor Tully started to pick it apart, item by item, and asked, "How come you gave Doug Wadsworth down for $250, when you know as well as I do that in a short time he plans to open his new funeral parlor on Union Avenue?"

This led Mr. Hyde to suggest that Mayor Tully should examine his own department and find where he has five men doing one man's work. Mayor Tully said name them. Mr. Hyde started, "Well, there are three men in the meter reader, Eugene Barnett, meter reader, and three other men whose names I do not recall."

Mayor Tully answered, "Mr. Ward has been ill for a long time and has not been working, and the reason Mr. Hyde doesn't know the name of three other meter readers is because they exist only in Mr. Hyde's imagination."

Mayor Tully accused Hyde with not only being uncooperative but with being the poorest excuse for a commissioner, that he could imagine. At this point the argument was broken off. Mr. Tully announced that he will call another budget conference in the near future in an effort to get a stabilized tax rate. After the meeting he told the members of the press that he needs only two other commissioners to vote with him to set Commissioner Hyde's budget at whatever figure he sees fit.

The Meeting Place

Edgar Jean Bracco

For any one with a good sense of smell, the chore of going to the bakery on a Sunday morning, is an experience not easily forgotten. You step into the warm interior of the store, and immediately you are struck at the wave of odors that greets you.

As soon as you identify one of these as newly-baked raisin bread, you get a whiff of something else, and you try to identify it among all the other odors, that keep coming at you from the ovens in the back.

Then you stand there, peering into the glassed-in counters, trying to decide what to buy. First a dozen hard rolls, still hot, with the little purple seeds on top. Then some crumb buns, those covered with powdered sugar, with the large, lumpy, tasty crumbs. Of course, you need a few cheese buns, several jelly doughnuts, a neatly-baked, freshly-sliced loaf of rye.

As an afterthought you ask the clerk to throw in a pumpernickel. As you waddle out loaded with your purchases, you wonder what the calorie-conscious members of the family will say to all this. However, as you make your way home, you are glad to see the quiet morning streets.

things to look at that one grows dizzy. And so many of the items are attractive, to the point where I sometimes feel like filling several order blanks and mailing them in. The only thing that holds me back is that Sears, Roebuck has an odd policy. They like to have money to buy and never pay. And many of them keep out of jail, too.

HERE, in literal fact, is the most advanced V-8 engine ever placed in a standard-production American automobile.

It is the first such V-8 to reach an 8.5 to 1 compression ratio, and the first with a dynamic flow muffler that cuts power loss to zero.

It is the first V-8 to utilize vertical valves together with a 12-volt electrical system instead of the usual 6. It is also the first designed with new "T" type intake manifold to replace the "X" type conventionally used in V-8s.

It is, quite simply, the first V-8 Fireball Engine—the engine that brings electrifying performance to the greatest Buicks—in fifty great years—the engine that powers the 1953 Buick Roadmaster with 188 hp., and the 1953 Buick Super with up to 170.

Family Service Gives Facts On Juvenile Delinquency

Since 1949; Local Organization Stands Ready To Aid Families With Problems of Such Nature Reports Increase of 19% In Juvenile Crime

For parents concerned over reports of a renewed upsurge in juvenile delinquency throughout the nation, Family Service of Belleville this week offered some pertinent facts on the subject.

It is a sobering fact, the agency said, that juvenile crime has been on the increase. A post-war drop in delinquency figures was reversed in 1949 and the rise has shown as yet no sign of abating. A survey of 179 juvenile courts found a general increase of 19% between 1948 and 1951 in the number of cases handled, according to Dr. Martha Eliot, chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau.

Although only one in four young offenders picked up by police are actually sent to court, between 50,000 and 100,000 children are being held in jail each year. About 1,000,000 children annually are getting into trouble with the law. The number has not climbed to 1,600,000 annually by 1950, since by that year the number of youngsters between 10 and 14 will likely increase 45% as a reflection of increased births during the war and after.

Delinquency Causes
The youthful offenses are generally the product of inner family tensions plus the pressure of outside forces. Miss Evelyn B. Abelson, Executive Secretary of Family Service of Belleville, asserted. Such outer pressures affecting youth in these times may include: family living costs; the draft and uncertainties as to education and future; movement of families into communities where wages are high but housing bad; or increased employment of mothers without adequate child care.

Parents who react with alarm to accounts of youthful stealing or the destruction of "teen-age" gangs ask themselves what they can do to protect their own children from being similarly involved. BUTTERFLY HOBBY AT SCHOOL NO. 9

Science Project Results In Butterfly Catching With Nets of Window Curtains

With the cooperation of Miss Doris Rosenblum, teacher at School No. 9, an interesting revelation has been made about a group of boys who have become enthusiastic about catching butterflies with window curtains. Mrs. Margaret De John's entire fifth grade not only used nets, but made them.

It all evolved from a science project Mrs. De John found in the 'September 1952 issue of "The Science Teacher," giving precise directions for making nets from coat-hangers and lightweight window curtains. The captured specimens were stretched properly on corrugated cardboard and mounted within a glass frame. Enthusiasm ran so high that it inspired the teachers' suggestions that the group become members of the National Audubon Society, there was a 100 per cent response. Since then there has been continuing growth in Nature Study interest, spurred by the materials received from the society located at 1000 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

FEDERAL LEATHER GIVES WARRANTY ON ITS PRODUCT

Guarantees Against Fading, Scratching, Scuffs, Abrasions And All Cleaning Chemicals

The first consumer warranty ever offered by a manufacturer of upholstery is being offered by the Federal Leather Company of Belleville. The warranty backs Federal's leather-grained upholstery material, "Feditron". The warranty is being announced to the furniture trade through a fold-out which Federal is sending to furniture buyers, manufacturers and upholsterers.

Mr. John W. F. Young, Executive Secretary of Federal Leather, reports that the warranty is to be distributed in a manner that will eliminate all detail on the part of the manufacturer or retailer. A card to be filled in by the purchaser will be sewed on every piece of furniture upholstered in "Feditron". The purchaser simply removes the card and mails it direct to The Federal Leather Company. Upon receipt of the card, the company will send a warranty directly to the consumer.

Mr. Young states: "Federal Leather has always been proud to stand behind its products. However, it is expected that this tangible evidence of good faith on the part of a manufacturer of furniture upholstery will be a strong selling aid for furniture dealers."

EIGHTH GRADERS FOR SCIENCE CLUB AT SCHOOL NO. 7

Baker Science Packet Provides Experiments For Each Meeting; Member Finds Weather Balloon

Many eighth graders at Passaic Avenue School, asked their teacher, Miss Marie Trost, to have a science club where they could work on problems of interest to the group.

After much discussion they decided that it would be systematic to follow a planned program. The Baker Science Packet seemed to fit their needs. It is a packet composed of 144 simple experiments written up on large index cards and arranged in ten groups. The set was compiled by Dr. Louis Baker, head of the Science Department of the State Teachers College in Paterson.

The first few meetings "concentrated on elements of which the earth is composed. Trost was able to secure samples of ten common ones, which she showed the group.

A very interesting contribution to the science club was found by Ronnie Cipriani one morning. He saw what he thought was an old rag on his back fence. Upon investigation it was found to be a weather bureau balloon with a small light

At Winter's Edge

The wind has laid its harp aside
That strummed untiring through the day,
The sunbeams have burned out that wave
Thin laces in the shadows' play.

The apple pickers long have gone
And left the branches barren quite
And frost may have its rampant will
To paint the orchard bitter white.

The narrow sickle of the moon
Does not invite the watchful hound
To wound the twilight with its high
And lonely all-forsaken sound.

No wheel nor footstep on the road:
Beyond the rays of cottage light
I lean with eager breathlessness
To hear the silence of the night.

What Do The Russians Really Think Of It?

Russia has been shaken by a new plot, a diabolical scheme in which American Capitalists have recruited Jewish doctors to kill off the Communist chieftains of the Kremlin by putting poison in their prescriptions or by deliberate misdiagnosis. It would take the Russian masses to swallow such nonsense. To us it appears to be evidence of an inferiority complex within the Kremlin and a tremendous internal insecurity within the Soviet Union. If Mother Russia was the land of milk and honey that the Communists would have us believe, why would it be necessary to resort to all the blood-letting which, periodically, has been the rule in Russia and in the satellite lands?

Any student of Kremlin strategy can only be convinced that this latest "plot" hides some of the machinations of the few who are trying, while Stalin is still alive, to make sure that they will grab the levers of command when he is dead. By pinning an anti-Semitic label to this plot, they may be hoping to eliminate all Jewish pretenders from the very limited circle of possible successors.

It is hard to understand Slavic mental processes, but if you were a Russian, even a thought-controlled Ivan, wouldn't you be inquisitive as to how Jewish doctors, acting as American agents, would be able to penetrate the heavily guarded walls of the Kremlin to poison the pills of the top drawer of Politburo bureaucracy? Wouldn't you be convinced that Americans must be supermen if they were able to do that for years and years, as is the charge in this plot?

Begin in mind that the murders attributed to the nine Kremlin physicians, six of them described as Jewish, concern events which took place four and seven years ago. It was in 1948 that Andrei A. Zhdanov, high in the Politburo, died, as described at the time from Moscow, a natural death, and it was in 1945 that Alexander S. Scherbakov expired. No foul play was then reported from the source of all Soviet reporting, the Kremlin.

But now, long afterward, it is discovered that these Soviet officials succumbed because of intentional misdiagnosis and deliberate medical mistreatment. And the plot went forward, apparently, but the others, military and naval leaders, escaped the "medical terrorism."

What does it all mean—to Russia and to the rest of the world?

The first need is to scrape the propaganda from Moscow's planted fulminations. One can't be positive what is under the propaganda but it is possible to isolate the propaganda and then see what remains.

From the propaganda stand-point it is obvious that Moscow can use this "plot" and the "confessions" of the "plotters" and the "sensational trial" which will probably ensue shortly.

To scare the Russian people into such a state of fear as to what the "western imperialist brutes" are going to do next that they will more docilely still accept any privation, any submission, any discipline which the dictatorship says is needed to shield them from a war-eager world intent upon killing leaders.

To whip up throughout Russia and the satellite countries and anywhere Communist thinking can gain acceptance a hatred of America which can be conveniently used for any purpose as needed.

To try to take the attention of important neutralist opinion in Western Europe, India, and elsewhere from the Korean war which Russia is carrying on against the West and focus it on an alleged plot of "western warmongers" against the peaceful men of the Kremlin fighting for their lives.

To wrap up all of Communism's free world enemies into one concentratable propaganda package and label it a "Jewish plot," as Hitler did in fastening his dictatorship upon the German people.

The Moscow press may have lifted the lid to expose the motives, this week, when it pointed a finger of blame at the Soviet Security Police for having allowed this plot to exist for so many years. Who is the chief of the Security Police? Beria. Who is Beria? Beria is the chief rival of Molotov and Malenkov for Stalin's succession. He would plant a knife in Molotov's back for a dime. So if this plot is to be charged off against bad policing, what becomes of Beria's prestige and his hopes? What price a plot?

Independence Day For Harry.

General Eisenhower's Presidential railroad car pulled into Independence, Mo., yesterday, and a dapper fellow got out, a man who had just stepped out of the biggest job in the world, a man who had just unshouldered a burden greater than anybody's except that of Atlas.

It is too bad for Harry Truman that he had such a misguided sense of loyalty to the worthless cronies around him. He might have been known in history for the many remarkable and world-shaking decisions he took—among them his decision to use the Atom-bomb against Hiroshima and Nagasaki—but the chances are he, like Harding, would be known for the weaknesses of his friends, for the deep-freezers of "General" Harry Vaughan and the milk coats of White House secretaries, the five per centers and the unscrupulous tax officials.

It is too bad that he left behind him a time-bomb on his last day in office, his order transferring offshore oil from the states to the Navy. That confiscation was an intemperate, ill-advised reprisal against states which let him down in his effort to win an election, last November, for the Democratic party. It is too bad, because Congress is almost certain to correct his action and President Eisenhower is pledged to support the coastal states in their fight.

It remained for Winston Churchill to have spoken a true eulogy of a President: "He has headed a great period in American history. He has taken great and valiant decisions." Alas, the man was petty and did not fit the greatness of the President.

To all of us who watched and heard him, last week, on TV, Harry Truman never appeared to better advantage than in the manner of his leave-taking. When, suddenly called to assume the burdens of the presidency, Mr. Truman humbly asked for divine help and the support of all citizens. In that hour he rose to the full stature of his great office and he did once more in this farewell.

Very winningly Mr. Truman told of the great decisions of his first four months—to go on with the San Francisco conference to launch the United Nations; to meet with Churchill and Stalin after VE Day; to drop the atomic bomb; what to do following VJ Day about bringing the troops home and re-converting to a peacetime economy.

Mr. Truman said his purpose was to make citizens aware of the burden his successor must carry and to enlist their understanding and help for him. This certainly was a fine and helpful thing to do. If in the process he had won better understanding of his own performance the by-product will have hurt no one. But as he spoke, he had the offshore oil bombshell up his sleeve.

Indeed there was much of value in Mr. Truman's further review of his stewardship. Particularly useful was his recalling the reasons that went into the decision to oppose aggression in Korea. His comparison of the free people's failure to unite and stand against international outlaws in the thirties in Finland, in Manchuria, and Ethiopia, in Austria, the Sudeten, the demilitarized Rhineland with the great steps taken in the last six years was oversimplified and omitted some failures of the latter period.

Critics—and impartial historians will also paint less rosy pictures of American prosperity and social justice. Yet both in foreign and domestic affairs progress has been made, and posterity will not deny Harry Truman a fair share of credit. His unexpected, pride-fueling triumph in the 1948 election was one of the worst things that ever happened to Mr. Truman. It cut down the President to the size of the Man. Pettiness and politics in smaller things too often obscured his courage and magnanimity in larger things. That is the final picture we carry of Harry Truman as he becomes the "Sage of Independence."

One Man's Opinion

Twenty Years of Past Diplomacy Saw Half of The Face of the World Changed, and The Fault Was Chiefly Ours.

BY RALPH E. HEINZEN

We have turned a new page this week in our relations with the world. The pages we turned down were pages which recorded the bankruptcy of twenty years of diplomacy, too often the consequence of makeshift policy, of sorely mistaken judgment, of misunderstanding and of incompetence, spiced with Communist baring into the highest offices which dictated policy as typified by the Hiss affair and the parallel, but still nebulous, scandal of our mistakes in the Far East, either deliberate or stupid, which cost us China and brought war to Korea.

In 20 years of Roosevelt-Truman rule, the United States has been plunged into a World War and into the war in Korea. Within that span, we have given diplomatic recognition to the Communist dictatorship of Stalin; we have broken, then partially restored, relations with Generalissimo Franco in Spain on the grounds that he was a dictator. We have seen Japan disappear as the "policeman of the Far East" and a Kremlin-inspired Red China rise to challenge us in Asia. We have seen an iron curtain fall around Catholic Bohemia and Poland; around the Slav states of the Balkans and midway across the vast land of the USSR, we have seen our faltering policies, our mistaken judgment, our military weakness allow the greatest aggressor since Napoleon to become the master of half of the white and yellow people of this world.

There could be no greater boon to world peace than the "palace revolution" which saw one set of diplomats move, bag and baggage, out of the State Department this week and a new set move in. The new set brought plenty of new brooms.

Awaiting the immediate attention of John Foster Dulles, new Secretary of State, were many problems which, to Acheson and Truman, proved insoluble but clearly the great fault lay with the old policies with the Kremlin and in a first instance, the settlement of the Korean war, the focal point of our dispute with the Russians over the right of all free men to live without fear.

"Liberation" Policy

Dulles takes over the direction of American foreign policy, at a time when American growing military might makes the job both easier and harder, easier because the United States now can negotiate from strength instead of weakness and harder because as "free" Soviet satellites, the new allies will be more difficult to get our allies to carry out plans for integration and co-operation.

The Dulles goal is "liberation" of enslaved peoples, or pushing back the iron curtain, undoubtedly breaking up the Moscow-Peking axis. But he still has to sell out how he can accomplish this reversal of the Soviet title-how the Red ways of Communist aggression (which the Truman administration has sought to stem by containment) can be rolled back without war.

Through The Curtain

The answer is presumably greatly intensified psychological warfare plus an extensive cold war Office of Strategic Service operation. With Mr. Dulles handling foreign policy, his brother Allan Dulles, directing the Central Intelligence Agency, and Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, who has been running the CIA and had a turn in Moscow as ambassador, now 2 men in the State Department, the machinery for accomplishing Mr. Dulles's purpose has at least been set up.

I had one run-in with Allan Dulles when he was head of the American intelligence service in Geneva, Switzerland, and I was aware of what was left of the United Press European staff, at Vichy, then behind the German

French-German understanding.

Behind The Parge

An added reason for going to Europe is to seek wider and better touch with the possible meaning and purpose of the further Russian purge of Jews. The operation began in Prague, spread to Moscow, where a group of Jewish doctors was seized with familiar "anti-Zionist" charges, moved to Berlin, where the few remaining Jews, whether in public office or private life, were finding escape to the West their only hope, and to Budapest.

But as always at moments like this, when the future course of action must wait upon constitutional processes, much serious thinking came to the fore. Both outgoing and incoming administrations in Washington, shown by formal speeches and informal comment their preoccupation with the overriding question of the times: What is the wisest, most promising approach to the problem of existence in the same world with the two ill of the time, indigestible lump of Soviet Russia?

Interpreting Swan Songs

President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson, in their last official utterances devoted their comments largely to the overriding question of the times: What is the wisest, most promising approach to the problem of existence in the same world with the two ill of the time, indigestible lump of Soviet Russia?

Acheson made the assumption of inevitable continuity the theme of his farewell, cautioning State Department reporters: "Do not think the right one who their successors will find themselves perforce pursuing."

General Eisenhower and Mr. Dulles exposed their thinking with their decision to make European trip and by subordinate appointments than by speeches, and by references to past mistakes.

Out of all this emerges in probably clearer form than ever before the stream of thought at the Department of State and which of course must be resolved or reconciled before American foreign policy can become a coherent and operating whole.

Turning The Tables

During the campaign, Mr. Dulles sniffs off at somewhat imprecisely, of the need for a "mere dynamic" approach to the "problem" insofar as he defined his meaning, his thought was that the United States should undertake an aggressive recommitment to "force of liberation" which may, or might, operate behind the iron curtain.

In more private circumstances, Mr. Dulles has long made it clear that he thinks the United States should apply to Russia in full measure the same tactics of attempted subversion which Moscow has directed at this country. He once suggested that he would like to help keep the Russians at home by giving them some homework.

This is certainly the mood in which the new leadership of the State Department will take office. But it occasions anxiety among men whose professional careers have been devoted to the Russian problem. This anxiety, and the differing views upon which it is based, came out in a formal speech delivered this week to the Pennsylvania Bar Association by Mr. Kennan.

Communist Fears

The diplomat delivered a tightly reasoned, sober analysis of Russia and what makes it behave the way it does, with his own prescription for treatment. To him, the trouble between the United States and Russia derives almost wholly from the "preconceived hostility" which was part of the gospel of the original Russian revolutionaries and has since become a principle of state maintenance of their own power in Russia.

In searching for the answer, Mr. Kennan favored a somewhat the attitude the United States maintained during the first 17 years of Soviet Russia. This was "to ignore it and to have as little as possible to do with it."

This suggested a return to the American attitude of the Hughes-Kellogg-Stimson period. It called for the United States to use the other way to Mr. Dulles' "more dynamic" approach.

Inconsistent Strategy

The Kennan reason, worth most careful consideration from such an authority, is that for the United States to undertake the "liberation" of Russian satellites by subversion and sabotage would be both extremely dangerous and unproductive.

He said of such an approach: "It is not consistent with our international obligations. It is not consistent with common membership with other countries in the United Nations. It is not consistent with the maintenance of formal diplomatic relations with another country. It is replete with possibilities for misunderstanding and bitterness. To the extent it might be successful, it would involve us in heavy responsibilities. Finally, the prospects for success would be very small indeed, since the problem of civil disobedience is not a great problem to the modern police dictatorship."

Drawing of Public Service Gas Plant at Harrison, N. J., one of the country's most efficient gas manufacturing plants.

GAS SERVICE SINCE 1847

Since 1847, when gas first flowed under the streets of Newark, this company and its predecessors have been continually engaged in supplying gas, the most convenient of all fuels. Since its beginning—with only eight miles of main in Newark—the gas operation of this company has grown to serve a large part of New Jersey and to be one of the more important ones of the industry. We are now serving more than 1,000,000 customers through more than 6,000 miles of main and involving an investment of a great many millions of dollars. The growth of this great gas property reflects the development and expansion of the State of New Jersey. It likewise reflects the far-seeing plans of management to be ready as the steadily increasing demands for gas arise.

TV AWARD MADE TO BELLEVILLE HIGH AT ASSEMBLY

Evelyn Hannon Wins Set For School On "Rate The Record"; Receives $50 Record Library

An entertaining assembly program was presented for the students at Belleville High School last Friday, when Paul Brenner of Television Center WATV, Newark, awarded the 21-inch RCA Victor Television Set, which was won by Evelyn Hannon for her school, to Hugh D. Kittle, principal.

Mr. Brenner was accompanied by Norris Sturman of Kitch, the New Jersey Distributors for RCA and the people who made the prize available. Paul Brenner congratulated Belleville High School for the splendid showing made on the "Rate the Record" television show by Evelyn Hannon. Evelyn won for herself a $50 RCA Victor Record Library besides the television set for the school at the first Grand Finals program of December 11.

At the conclusion of the presentation a musical program was presented for the students by the Valente Combo, composed of Harry Valente, Jack Haft, Jerry Marra, and Ralph Yannece. Their opening number was "Poodle" followed by "Miami Beach Kumbaya," "Disc Jockey Jump," "Don't Blame Me," "Talk of the Town," "Air Mail Special," and "It's in the Mood For Love."

Belleville Students Win Awards From N.Y. University

Hugh D. Kittle, Principal of Belleville High School received a letter from Dr. F. H. McCloskey, Associate Dean, Washington Square College of Arts and Sciences, New York University, informing him that two former graduates have been awarded honors. Dr. McCloskey states, "These honors are a distinct tribute to the accomplishments of your faculty." Robert Selter has been presented with the Mu Sigma Award, and Catherine Anderson the Evening Alumni Award.

Mrs. John Degen, Raymond Smith, and Michael Rosamilia of the Guidance Department in Belleville High School were guests of the Walter Kidde Company last week at the Open House.

Evelyn Hannon, senior at Belleville High School, is presented with a $50 album of records by Paul Brenner of WATV, at an assembly program at the school, after her excellent performance on the WATV television program "Rate the Record." She also won a 21 inch television set for the school.

Teacher's Workshop Reports On Co-curricular Activities

Dr. Austin of Columbia University Curriculum Service Center Is Studying Report; Recommend 5 Point Program Including Publication of Handbook

After months of research and study the Belleville Teachers' Workshop on Co-curricular Activities issued a thirty-two page mimeographed report this week and distributed it to all high school teachers.

The report carries five recommendations to the high school faculty: (1) That the school should conduct an accurate survey of the activity interests of students to be followed by a teacher-interest survey, (2) that Belleville High School should have a coordinator of activities, (3) that an activities record card be kept in the cumulative folder in the guidance office for all students and that the sponsoring teachers establish the validity of students' participation in activities, (4) that an activity period should be established in the school day with equitable distribution of club sponsorship among all teachers, and (5) that a student handbook should be prepared on Belleville High School for all students.

No Rigid Dividing Line
The report states, "There is no rigid dividing line, educationally, between the regular classroom activities and those activities sometimes called extra-curriculum, co-curriculum, or extra-class. Under competent guidance, pupils should share responsibility for selecting, organizing, and evaluating the activities and their outcomes. In all activities development of democratic leadership and fellowship abilities should be a major objective. Extensive opportunities should be provided for the development of such skills."

In the co-curricular activities workshop were Herman Knapp, chairman; Michael Rosamilia, vice-chairman; Miss Thelma Wedman, secretary; Miss Ida Thompson, Miss Marie Pettito, Henry Miller, Miss Helen Hollberg, Mrs. Viola Poyner, and Seymour Grossman, with Dr. Frank M. Durkee, General Supervisor, as advisor.

Dr. David Austin of the Columbia University Curriculum Service Center is studying the workshop report, and he will spend Monday in the high school to prepare to attend the faculty meeting. Dr. Austin is one of the Columbia consultants recommended by Superintendent Evan H. Thomas and employed by the Board of Education. This year Belleville Schools will utilize twenty-one consultant days from Columbia University specialists.

Audio-Visual Aids Program Coordinates Equipment

School System Of Belleville Is Centralizing Film and Lanternslide Library For Easier Distribution To All Schools; Make Inventory

The Belleville Public School System has embarked on a program of audio-visual aids that should be effective in promoting pupil growth.

Specifically, the following steps have been taken: The $6,000 film and lanternslide library, arranged from the topic Caring of Pets to an explanation of How to Use the Bank, has been centralized for distribution to all schools. Through the efforts of Clifford R. Kreimer, teacher at the James Shawnee School, and the workshop committee, all teachers have been supplied with a catalog of the complete film list in subject-matter categories with proper grade designations.

An inventory of the school system's audio-visual aids discloses that the collection of equipment includes 11 sound movie projectors, 11 filmstrip machines, 8 opaque projectors, lanternslide machines, 6 sound recorders of various types, phonographs, portable screens, P.M. radios, and microphone sets. All of the schools are developing a system of student operator clubs that aid the teacher in her use of the equipment by having trained students set up, operate, and properly maintain the machines essential to the program.

The administration has plans that will insure the protection of the valuable audio-visual library. Equipment is being sought that will enable the central agency to inspect, clean, condition, and repair the celluloid materials that contribute so much to the learning process.

SELF-EXPRESSION IS KEYNOTE OF SCHOOL MAGAZINE

December Issue of "Bellwood Crier" Describes Student Council, Audio-Visual Aids

Students and teachers of School 10 have just issued the December number of their school magazine, "Bellwood Crier." Most of its articles were written by pupils in their classrooms. The students who worked on the magazine included Frances Bonadio, editor-in-chief; Jo Ann Phillips, assistant editor; Mary Minasian, literary editor; Carita Pendergast, art editor; Maria Giglianti, news editor; Barbara Meagher, girls' page editor; Alexander Cacciatelli, boys' page editor; Nancy Curtis, Caroline Collins, and Jack Weinstein, proofreaders, and Rachel Manzella, business manager.

On the news staff were Shirley Meagher, kindergarten; Adrienne Hargreaves, grade 1A; Robert Rudy, grade 1B; Richard Grainger, grade 2; Anita Miele, grade 3; Eric Hatch and George Fitzpatrick, grade 4; Michael Finn and Charles Nash, grade 5; Marilyn Anderson, grade 6; Gayle Merwin, grade 7; and Marguerite Corbo, grade 8. On the art staff were Marilyn Racioppi and Arlene Intini. Miss Florence Bault was the typist, and Principal Henry Minasian, the advisor.

Among many news items, the "Bellwood Crier" tells about the formation of an audio-visual aids club to train boys to operate the movie projector, delineascope, micro-projector, still-slide projector, and the radio-photograph. It also describes the development of a student council to provide wider participation by students in the whole school program and to give them valuable citizenship training.

The contents of the magazine are primarily poems, stories, and classroom news, affording the students an excellent educational project in written self-expression.

Three Boys Selected For Regional All-State Band

Three Belleville High School students have been selected to play in the central regional group of the All-State Band. John Riordan will play the tuba, Ronald Reilly, clarinet, and Jack Eraft will play the string bass. These three students are part of the group of 120 finalists out of 1000 boys and girls who were in the tryouts.

After a series of appearances with the central regional band, the final all-state band will be formed from the best musicians in the central, northern and southern regional bands.
